87th Congress Tackles Heavy Problems

85 Persons Die As Icy Blasts Hit 40 States

By United Press International
Arctic cold covered all but 10 of the nation's states today, dealing death and chilling 9 of every 10 Americans.

At least 85 persons have died of weather-related causes since the polar onslaught began last weekend. Illinois had 18 such deaths, Wisconsin 17, Michigan 9, Texas 8, Iowa and Colorado 6 each, Montana, Massachusetts and New Hampshire 3 each; Ohio, Missouri and Kansas 2 each; and Alabama, North Carolina, Louisiana, Minnesota, New York and Oklahoma 1 each.

The only areas to escape below freezing temperatures were coastal sections of Washington and Oregon, much of California, southern sections of Nevada and Arizona, Florida and eastern parts of Georgia and the Carolinas. The Chicago Weather Bureau said the cold was caused by an immense high pressure center with its core over the northern Rockies and its vastness extending to the Arctic Ocean. Its effect was felt as far east as the Atlantic and its clockwise winds contributed to record high temperatures along the Pacific Coast by drag.

All Of Texas In Grip Of Bitter Cold Wave

By United Press International
The bitterest cold wave in more than a decade held Texas in its icy grip today and threatened the multi-million dollar citrus crop in the semi-tropical Rio Grande Valley.

The biting cold sent the temperature to 14 degrees below zero in the Panhandle and was blamed for causing a steel grain storage tank with 650,000 bushels of wheat in it at Amarillo to "shatter like a piece of glass."

Sub-freezing temperatures gripped the entire state. The weatherman said the worst was yet to come. A snow blanket ranging from one inch in the northwest to six inches at Texarkana lay across the northern half of the state. More was expected by the weekend.

The temperature dipped to five below at Amarillo. The cold at Amarillo was blamed for a rupture at a 70-foot high grain storage tank at the Producers Grain Corp.

"With the steel contracting there was no place for the wheat to go," said Robert L. Simmons, elevator superintendent. A bystander at the scene said the tank "just shattered like a piece of glass."

J. Frank Triplett, general manager, said the wheat spilled out but could be salvaged. The tank was valued at $195,000.

More light snow was forecast for North Texas tonight and early Thursday and the five-day forecasts called for snow, sleet and freezing rain again Sunday and Monday in the Panhandle, North Central and Northeastern Texas.

No respite from the cold was expected before Thursday. The Weather Bureau said a slow warming trend was expected Thursday.

Temperatures early today ranged from the minus 14 degrees at Dalhart to 26 degrees at Brownsville. Amarillo had a minus 3 degrees, Texarkana 1, Lubbock 3, Alpine 6, Wichita Falls 5, Dallas, Midland and Abilene 8, Fort Worth 9, San Angelo and Brownwood 11, El Paso 13, Austin and Waco 14, Beaumont 16, Houston 18, Victoria and San Antonio 19, Galveston, Presidio and Corpus Christi 20, and Laredo 22.

Another execution is scheduled tonight in the electric chair. Odessa Negro Roosevelt Wiley is scheduled to be electrocuted for the fatal stabbing of a San Angelo creamery route man.

While he was being strapped in, Forgy caused guards to stop their work momentarily when he said, "Wait a minute." Everyone paused for a few seconds and then Forgy, apparently more composed, said, "God bless everybody. Thank you."

Shortly after the picture was completed Sinatra and the dancer became steady dates. Last year the 44-year-old singer and Miss Prowse, 25, broke up.

It was only in the past month that Sinatra and Juliet made up their differences. After announcing they were engaged the singer said he would let his fiancée name the wedding day.

Donald and his union's executive board.

But Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg's assertion Tuesday that a walkout in the basic steel industry would "make no sense at all" in 1962 seemed sure to draw the attention of the union leaders.

McDonald was reported to be shaping a subdued, flexible approach to the steel negotiations in an effort to minimize public quarrels with company spokesmen.

Under this strategy, McDonald has passed up the chance to reply to an attack on the union's call for shorter hours made by Roger Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel.

One source said the union was not wedded to its proposal for a 32-hour week to alleviate high unemployment among its members.

But the union will seek other methods to reduce the impact of layoffs—including higher separation pay, retraining rights, more supplemental jobless benefits and seniority rights in transfers to new plants.

Goldberg, who was a chief negotiator for the union during the 1959 steel strike that lasted 116 days, said he did not believe a walkout was in the cards this year.

The labor secretary told a news conference that both sides suffered during the recent recession from loss of jobs and business. The industry also has problems of meeting foreign competition and competition from rival metals at home.

Legislation to preserve abandoned bank accounts, the main reason Daniel called the third special session, became the sole responsibility of the Senate. The House passed a compromise bill, 88-55, Tuesday.

But an anonymous letter to lawmakers Tuesday questioning the motives of three members of the House Banking Committee on small loan regulation indicated the fight over that bill may overshadow the long and bitter controversy over abandoned bank accounts.

The House's revised farm road bill earmarked 30 per cent of the bond assumption surplus fund for maintenance and provided that no less than $25 million a year may be spent on new construction. Daniel recommended 50 per cent for maintenance and $23 million for new construction.

Except for four Republican years, Rayburn had been the man in the big rostrum chair since Sept. 16, 1940. And no one had been a member of the House or leader of its Democratic party longer than he.

Rayburn set a lot of records. At the time of his death, he had been a House member 48 years, 8 months and 12 days. He was speaker for more than 17 years, more than doubling the previous record tenure established by Henry Clay.

Rayburn's records may some day be surpassed. Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., already has more than 47 years of House service.

Some tangible things Rayburn left behind seem sure to stand. A huge new House office building on Capitol Hill to be named for him will serve generations of congressmen. And the federal regulatory agencies he had a major part in creating will continue to affect the everyday lives of millions of Americans.

Katanga Objects To UN New Move

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—The Katanga government charged Tuesday night that the United Nations was trying to impose a new form of African "colonialism" on the Congo.

Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba said that during a recent visit to France and Belgium he had learned of a plan to put the Congo under trusteeship of its African neighbors for 25 years.

He said that under the plan these nations would run the Congo until 1987, supplying both civil servants and budgetary funds.

"This plan would never be acceptable to Katanga," Kimba said. "It is a pretext to reimpose the most odious form of colonialism and international tutelage and would never solve the Congo problem."

O, America, land of my birth, beautiful for spacious skies and amber waves of grain, come back to the pathway of reason and the old-fashioned way. Stop twisting long enough to heed the ancient and awesome admonition engraved on the sun dial: "It is later than you think."

"The twist," explained Dr. James Cyriax sympathetically, lapsed in the pots and pans department. Sweet melody fled from our midst, violins succumbed to the drums. All the dancers seemed to have been overtaken simultaneously by epileptic seizures.

"Hey, hey, it's the twist," shouted Mata Hari. "Get with it." Before you can get with it you have to ascertain what it is you are supposed to get with, so this correspondent took two discreet steps backward to observe and learn from Mata Hari. It was a fearsome sight. Her eyes were half closed and her feet seemed rooted to the floor. Her arms were aloft, hands waving. There was a slight movement of the twist but this was entirely ordinate to the violent agitation of the hips. She was moving them in a fast, flat arc that seemed to impose an intolerable work load on tendons and ligaments.

"Get with it," she commanded and your correspondent, like the Light Brigade, went gallantly into the valley of death.

There was a sharp stab of pain in the right knee. Then the lower spinal column flashed an urgent SOS to the brain to cease and desist. Your correspondent slunk to the sidelines.

"The twist," explained Dr. James Cyriax sympathetically, involves radiating the trunk on the pelvis or the pelvis on the trunk while the spinal joints are bent backward or forward. These joints are not very strong since they contain cartilage liable to damage and consequent displacement. The doctors will reap a rich harvest so long as this dance continues to be practiced.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Kennedy administration's plea for a no-strike settlement of mid-year steel negotiations confronted the high command of the United Steelworkers union today as they started a two-day meeting.

The subject of bargaining this year was not even on the agenda for the two-day meeting of Steelworkers' president David J. McDonald and his union's executive board.

The photo background reproduces a poll tax receipt, which may be purchased in the county tax collector-assessor's office in the Court House. All poll taxes must be paid by January 31, to establish voting eligibility. Beginning the week of Jan. 14, a booth will be placed in the 100 block of N. Cuyler St. for the payment of poll taxes. Dallas Man Dies Calmly In State Electric Chair

HUNTSVILLE (UPI)—Charles Lewis Forgy, 22, a young Dallas man accused of raping a 23-year-old Dallas woman, was executed in the Texas State Prison electric chair just after midnight Tuesday.

Forgy, repentant on the day before his scheduled death, told a reporter Monday, "If I hadn't done it, I would not have been brought here. I'm sorry all this happened."

He was accused of attacking the girl after handing her a note which said he had a pistol. The note said if she screamed, "I'll kill you. I have a gun. Do as you are told and no one gets shot."

Forgy appealed his conviction in Dallas County to the State Court of Criminal Appeals but was turned down. He was sentenced to death last Nov. 6 by Dist. Judge J. Frank Wilson of Dallas.

Forgy was led into the death chamber this morning at 12:01. He received the first charge of electricity at 12:03 a.m. and was pronounced dead at 12:06 a.m.

While he was being strapped in, Forgy caused guards to stop their work momentarily when he said, "Wait a minute." Everyone paused for a few seconds and then Forgy, apparently more composed, said, "God bless everybody. Thank you."

House Debates Farm Road Bill; Loan Fight Seen

AUSTIN (UPI)—Farm road legislation occupied state representatives today and they were ready for a real "countryboy" time in the House.

The House was prepared for debate on a farm road maintenance bill that falls short of Gov. Price Daniel's recommended program. The House Agriculture Committee cut the governor's plan 40 per cent.

In the background, a House fight was pending over a bill to regulate small loans and eliminate loan sharks.

Legislation to preserve abandoned bank accounts, the main reason Daniel called the third special session, became the sole responsibility of the Senate. The House passed a compromise bill, 88-55, Tuesday.

Twist Making Us Nation Of Walking Wounded

By HARRY FERGUSON

LONDON (UPI)—This correspondent, just back from the United States, has embarked upon a crusade. The twist must go.

No nation can survive it. America is on the road to becoming a country of walking wounded. Slipped disks and wrenched knees will supplant the common cold as the most universal ailment. This crusade was born out of bitterness and pain. Both will be redoubled when the doctor's bill arrives.

Well, it was at a New Year's Eve party in the United States. A lovely lady, with a strong aroma of champagne running interference for her, suddenly walked up to this correspondent and said "Let's dance." The music was a sedate two-step variation of "Tea For Two" and her suggestion seemed both harmless and hospitable.

How was one to know that behind her smiling mask there lurked a swivel-hipped Mata Hari coldly plotting to cripple the mate population of the United States, a wily Delilah determined to trim the hair of every Samson in the joint?

We had circled the floor only once for "Tea For Two" when the music stopped. When it resumed, it sounded as though all the department store shelves had ed-lapsed in the pots and pans department. Sweet melody fled from our midst, violins succumbed to the drums. All the dancers seemed to have been overtaken simultaneously by epileptic seizures.

"Hey, hey, it's the twist," shouted Mata Hari. "Get with it." Eight Named To School Tax Group

Eight members were appointed to the school tax advisory board Tuesday following certification of a list of the names by the Pampa school board Monday.

The new board includes Joe Miller, Elmer Fisher, Lee Miller, Charles Cook, R. M. Samples, Weldon Steward, Robert E. Imel and L. L. Stovall.

From this group, an equalization board will be selected sometime in March, according to Jack Edmondson, superintendent of schools.

Yarborough Says Sure He Can Win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Yarborough, Texas' senior senator, will announce within a month whether he will run for governor. He said Monday he knows he could win.

Yarborough told a news conference he is near a decision on resigning from the Senate to run against former Navy Secretary John Connally and several others for governor of Texas.

He said the decision depends on where he could do the most good for the state.

"We have not had a progressive administration in Texas for 30 years—not since Jimmie Allred was governor," Yarborough said. But he said his cold war GI education bill and Padre Island National Park legislation were persuasive arguments to stay in the Senate until their future is decided.

"If I run I'm going to win," Yarborough said. "I've got more support for this race than for any race I've ever run in my life." He said he based this on a sampling of voter sentiment.

Eisenhower's Double Shaky Over His Role

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be portrayed in a new movie by an actor who looks so much like Ike he could stampede a Democratic convention.

His speaking voice also closely resembles that of Eisenhower's — enough to make moviegoers rub their eyes when they see him on the screen.

Ike's double is Henry Grace, who will portray the former President in Darryl Zanuck's "The Longest Day."

Grace, who is 15 years younger than our 34th President, will play Ike in a D-Day sequence of the Normandy invasion. He is somewhat unnerved by the prospect and with good reason, Grace has never acted before in his life, nor has he ever met Ike.

"It's bad enough making your acting debut at my age," he said at 20th Century-Fox, "but playing Ike is a real challenge. I won't say I'm scared, but I don't feel at ease either."

Though he's no actor, Grace has been affiliated with movies since 1933 as a set decorator at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios. For the past eight years he has been supervising decorator in charge of all MGM movies and television series.

He has been nominated four times by the Motion Picture Academy and won the Oscar for set decoration for "Gigi." Grace's costume will consist of a general's uniform with four stars. During World War II he became a captain.

"I voted for Ike both times," Grace said with a grin reminiscent of the general's. "But I'm an independent cuss. I voted for Kennedy in the last election."

Since Ike's election in 1952 Grace has been mistaken for him all over southern California.

"People are accustomed to me at MGM, but strangers are always doing double takes when they spot me in a store, or on the streets. I've had women rush up and try to kiss me," he said.

"I happened to be in Palm Springs the first time Gen. Eisenhower visited there, I had to stay in my hotel room to keep from getting mobbed by wellwishers. I was also a little worried about the FBI taking me for an impersonator."

"When Dore Schary was head of the studio he had me decorate his home for a big party for Adlai Stevenson, and while I was out there getting the job done he invited me to the festivities. But a friend thought I better skip it. The shock might have been too much for Mr. Stevenson."

Grace is taking a week's vacation from MGM to make his acting debut for Zanuck in Europe. The producer is paying him a fat salary for his trouble in addition to round-trip airline tickets.

"This will probably be the only acting job I ever accept," Grace concluded, "unless somebody wants another look alike for Ike."

Clovis Plant Will Attract Texas Cattle

CLOVIS, N.M. (SpI) — Ground was broken here Jan. 4 on a new $2 1/4 million meat packing plant being constructed by Swift & Company.

The new plant is the first of two major industries obtained during 1961 by Clovis.

Work will begin in February on a three-quarter million dollar milk processing plant being constructed by Safeway Stores, Inc., of Oakland, Calif., for its Lucerne milk division.

The new Swift plant primarily will serve the Southwest and the West Coast and will be a carcass handling plant. Approximately 1,200 cattle per week will be slaughtered at the outset on a one-shift basis and quarters and halves of beefs will be shipped from the plant with little processing taking place.

The Safeway plant will serve the West Texas and New Mexico areas.

The new Swift plant will draw cattle from this cattle-rich area which is adjacent to the bountiful feed-grain areas of West Texas. Experts have forecast the area will become the greatest cattle feeding region in the United States within the next decade.

The two new plants are being built under terms of New Mexico's Industrial Revenue Bond Act.

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—President Victor Paz Estenssoro has shifted his cabinet to the left for unexplained reasons, it was reported today.

Foreign Minister Jose Fellman Velarde, who presumably will represent Bolivia at this month's foreign ministers' conference in Uruguay, heads the list of five new members of the 13-member cabinet.

Most of the other new members, like Fellman, are regarded as leftists. They are Interior Minister Jose A. Arce Murillo, Education Minister Mario Guzman Galzarza, Public Works Minister Fernando Ayala Requena and Mines Minister Simon Cuentas.

Guzman, the new education minister, is a former Bolivian delegate to the Organization of American States.

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Hugo Marinas, an anti-Castro Cuban refugee who says he was hounded out of Bolivia by the Communists, told newsmen here yesterday he was lucky to get away alive.

Marinas said Communist and Castroite strength in Bolivia is "growing daily." He said he was attacked physically by the Reds several times before the Peruvian Embassy granted him asylum Dec. 26.

BUSH BREAKS FALL

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Maestre, 8, a patient in the pediatric ward of Mary Immaculate Hospital, accidentally tumbled from a sixth-story window at the hospital Sunday — but survived with only minor bruises when he landed in a bush.

Comeback in Comics NEW YORK (UPI) — The comic book publishing business has scored an enormous comeback from the setback it received in the Congressional juvenile delinquency investigations of 1953 and 1954. Two thirds of the publishers disappeared in a shake-out. But in 1961, sales jumped to about 300 million copies, up 50 million from 1960.

Many Major Issues Face 1962 Congress Session.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 87th Congress began its 1962 session today faced with an election-year list of new and old problems, most of them tough.

Anxious for a shorter than usual session so they can return home to campaign, House and Senate members hope to dispose of their legislative business by mid-summer.

The major issues:

Trade — Protectionists are predicting that the President will get little, if any, of the broad authority he wants to cut American tariff duties in exchange for similar concessions from Western Europe. Outcome uncertain.

Medical Care — Democratic leaders fear they may be unable to enact even a skeletonized version of Kennedy's plan to provide hospitalization and nursing home care for the elderly under Social Security. Prospects doubtful.

Education — Federal aid to colleges for classroom construction and students scholarships is likely. Aid for public elementary and high schools seems dead. But Congress probably will subsidize educational television stations.

Tax Revision — Approval probable for billion-dollar tax incentive for business to modernize plants and equipment. Other revisions may include imposition of withholding taxes on dividends and interest and tighter curbs on deductions for business expense accounts.

Postal Rates — Congress is likely to add a penny to the cost of mailing first class and air mail letters, raising the average family's cost of living about one-half cent a day. But Kennedy will have trouble getting any increase in postal rates for advertising circulars and won't get all the revenue he wants from publishers.

Federal Pay-Upward revision in pay scales almost certain. Any boost in postal revenues to reduce postal deficit will be partly offset by higher postal workers' pay.

Welfare — Enactment likely for some version of Kennedy's government-backed retraining program for workers whose jobs have been eliminated by automation. Revision in welfare program for the needy also likely.

United Nations — Strong opposition developing to administration proposal that United States buy $100 million worth of U.N. bonds to save the world organization from threat of bankruptcy caused by refusal of other nations to pay U.N. military assessments.

Housing — Kennedy has only 50-50 chance, if that, of getting new cabinet-level department of housing and urban affairs.

Major accomplishments of Congress' first session last year included:

Minimum Wages — Coverage for retail and service workers, provided for first time and $1 an hour minimum for previously covered workers gradually raised to $1.25.

Depressed Areas — Loans and grants for areas hit by long term business slumps and unemployment.

Housing — Multi-billion dollar bill—most liberal in many years—enacted.

Highways — Truck and tire taxes increased to keep funds flowing for completion of interstate superhighway system.

Peace Corps — New program established to send skilled volunteers overseas to teach, work and live with natives of underdeveloped countries.

Arms Control — Set up new agency to prepare plans for disarmament negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Social Security — Liberalized benefits for a quarter of those now on the rolls; allowed men to retire at age 62 instead of 65; increased payroll taxes.

Korean Ex-Army Chief Sentenced

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—Lt. Gen. Chang Do Young, former South Korean army chief of staff, was sentenced to death today as the result of a power struggle stemming from the overthrow of Premier John Chang's government last year.

Chang Do Young was charged on 12 counts in a sensational trial that began last Oct. 27. He was accused of "obstructing" the coup d'etat, being "opportunistic" and misusing his position as chairman of the junta during the early days of the revolt to build up his own power.

ABILENE (UPI)—The note to 13-year-old James Waddle's parents was propped on the dining room table.

"I didn't want to live or go to school," it said. "I wanted to see how it was in heaven. Bury me in Mississippi. Please don't cry. Love, Kimmy."

Police said they had received a telephone call at 3 p.m. a car matching the Looper auto had damaged another auto at the intersection of Francis and Gray Sts. No charges have been filed on that report.

5-Year-Old Cop Handcuffs Prisoner To His Baby Bed

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I'm a cop, come with me," Tony Blount said with a wave of his pistol to Max Smith.

Smith, 39, a truck driver, followed orders. He had to stoop a little when the handcuffs were put on, though.

He had to lie on the floor altogether when the handcuffs were attached to Tony's baby bed.

But the worst part came when Tony, aged 5, admitted to Smith, a family friend, that he did not know where the handcuff key was. Neither did his mother, Mrs. Marcellus Blount.

Mrs. Blount called her husband, a part-time guard at a discount house, but she could not locate him. Blount kept the key for the handcuffs which he used on the job.

Police were unable to unlock the handcuffs. So Smith, who had gone to the Blount home for a little visit, tried to make himself as comfortable as possible beside Tony's crib while Tony kept waving his toy pistol, happy with his first "arrest."

Smith said Tony cornered him just as he entered the house, and he did not even have time to remove his hat and coat. After the handcuffs, he couldn't.

Police freed a rung from the crib, which made things easier for Smith until Blount returned with the key.

C. Of C. Chairman Calls On Texans To 'Be Counted'

HOUSTON (UPI)—Arthur H. Motley, publisher and chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, called on members of the Texas Manufacturers Association Tuesday night to "stand up and be counted."

"Stop being a spectator," Motley said. "Stop being a checkbook citizen. President Kennedy's right. We have become soft.

"Silence is not always golden. It is sometimes yellow. Think about it the next time you are asked to stand up and be counted. It takes courage to stand on your own two feet."

Motley spoke at the annual banquet of TMA, urging his listeners to participate actively in politics.

Police Checking Socialite Wife's Shooting Story

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Detectives tried to sort out conflicting stories today about how financier Jay Gould's great-granddaughter shot her fourth husband in the stomach, seriously wounding him.

They had to figure out why socially prominent Silvia Gould Portner shot her husband, Robert, and whether she did it in the kitchen after letting the dog out or whether she crept up on him as he sat drinking ginger beer in the aquarium room.

Mrs. Portner, 43, said she shot her 47-year-old husband because "I got tired of his beating me." She told police that a couple of hours before the shooting Tuesday morning, he hit her and kicked her out of bed in their three-story home.

But Portner, vice president of an export firm, said he only "got a little angry" when his wife fell over a table and damaged it. So, he said, he went down to the first floor to sleep on a couch.

He said he awoke later, got a bottle of ginger beer and sat down in his overstuffed chair in the aquarium room.

He said his wife approached him with a .38-caliber police special in her hand, announced "You are not going to bother me any more," and shot him.

Portner said he was surprised. He said he managed to pick up a telephone and tell the operator he had been shot.

He was in fair condition, Doctors said the bullet passed through his body.

JOHN McHANEY ... Lions Speaker

Lions To Mark Farm-Ranch Day

John G. McHaney, extension economist from College Station, will be guest speaker Thursday at the annual Farmer-Rancher Day program of the Pampa Lions club at a noon day meeting in the basement of First Methodist church.

McHaney, who will speak on "Interdependence of Business and Agriculture," served as a junior agricultural economist for the United States Department of Agriculture from 1938 to 1941. Later he became assistant county supervisor in Collin county for the Farm Security Administration.

In 1946 he was appointed county agricultural agent-at-large with headquarters at College Station working in the field of farm management. In March, 1953 his title was changed to assistant economist and to extension economist January 1, 1955.

Over 100 farmers and ranchers of this area are expected as guests of individual farmers and ranchers.

McHaney will be introduced by Bill Dunn, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Lions Club.

Nixon Jabs At Extreme Groups

WHITTIER, Calif. (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon observed his 49th birthday Tuesday by leveling political jabs against extremist groups which he labeled noisy "crooks and crackpots."

During a Chamber of Commerce banquet, the former vice president said political factions of both the right and left had far greater influence "than their number because they are so active and so noisy."

He indirectly answered charges lodged Monday by Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Brown said that Nixon failed to join the fight against the "ultra right wing."

"Both major parties need responsible leadership that will avoid extremes at the far left and far right," said Nixon, a GOP candidate for California governor.

Eight states bound—Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

Over 100 farmers and ranchers of this area are expected as guests of individual farmers and ranchers.

McHaney will be introduced by Bill Dunn, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Lions Club.

Motor Trend Magazine makes it official: 1962 car of the year!

From the very first we knew we had a winner. Happy owners, car enthusiasts raved about the 1962 Buick Special with the history-making Fireball V-6 engine. Now the editors of Motor Trend—one of the country's top car magazines—have made it official. After road-testing and evaluating all U.S. cars, they've named the V-6 Special "Car of the Year!" Here's how they put it:

"Motor Trend's CAR OF THE YEAR AWARD to the 1962 Buick for pure progress in design, original engineering excellence, and the power concept for the future expressed in America's only V-6 automobile engine."

Why are the car experts so hot on this exclusive Buick engine? Only a V-6 can combine the extra vigor and smoothness of V-design with the gas savings of a straight six. This 135 H.P. V-6 weighs up to 140 pounds less than other sixes of comparable power. It sips regular gas ever so sparingly.

But why go on? Ask your Buick dealer to let you drive a V-6 Buick Special. There are five beautiful models, including a fabulous new convertible. Drop in soon and see how easy it is to make the "Car of the Year" your very own.

Save Money By Being Set For Moving Men

Preparation for a local move of a few miles should be as well planned as a long distance move to save time and money. Professional movers can load fragile bric-a-brac rapidly as furniture if it's packed in suitable container...

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
No one in her right mind would elect to move in midwinter but "circumstances beyond control" may dictate it — especially a local move. Perhaps, the new home you thought would be ready in October is finished at last. Or, the slow winter real estate market may allow you to strike a more favorable bargain for the larger home you want.
A local move seems deceptively simple. When we were going to move about five miles from one home to another, I blithely figured we could save expenses by doing most of the household transportation ourselves. We would leave just "the major items" for professional moving men. What an innocent idea!
Yes, it is conceivable that you could do all the moving yourself if you had enough able-bodied helpers. But I don't advise it. In the first place, you have the weather to contend with; if the roads are icy, maneuvering a rented-hauler can be tricky. Safe to guess, too, that at least one helper will develop a bad cold and have to be excused.

Professional moving companies consider a local move about 30 miles or less. Their charges are based on time and mileage and will vary considerably. For example, I got quotations that ranged from $28 an hour for four men and a van to $14 an hour for

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR MISS VAN BUREN: Sixty years ago, when I was a young man, I read in the newspaper that a husband had charged his wife with "stealing" because she picked his pockets. The judge said she was not guilty because she had a right to pick his pockets. When a judge hands down a verdict on some case which has never before been settled in court, his verdict establishes a precedent and becomes "law."
Abby, you said in your column that a wife has no business picking her husband's pockets. I am sure if you had known of this law you wouldn't have given that answer. Respectfully,

G. G.
DEAR G. G.: I am not qualified to give legal advice. But it is possible for one to be LEGALLY right and MORALLY wrong. I still say it is morally wrong for a woman to pick her husband's pockets.

DEAR ABBY: My husband drives a truck for a living and is gone for a week at a time. I got pretty lonesome and started thinking about accepting a date with a certain man who told me he didn't love his wife and had had a secret yearning for me for years. I made the date with him and was all set to go. Then I read the letter in your column signed HIGH AND DRY. That changed my mind. Abby, I will never get that lonesome again. Thanks for opening my eyes before it was too late. I wouldn't risk losing my husband and children for anything.

DEAR ABBY: It's not always the woman who gets deceived, I fell for a pretty little red-haired doll who told me she wasn't married. Ten months and $3,000 later I found out she was married. Please print this for all the men who get blamed for being the rats.

No Short-Cut To Skin Beauty: Must Work At It

ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's no short cut to a fresh, dewy complexion. Every woman who dreams of keeping her skin youthful and glowing must work at it.

It used to be quite a chore—chiefly because the creams and lotions we felt it necessary to leave on overnight were greasy and heavy. We looked a sight at bedtime, and ruined the pillow slips in the bargain.

Skin care is simpler today. For the most part, creams and lotions are light and non-sticky. So there is no excuse for any woman to neglect her complexion.

To remove your make-up properly, a good cleansing treatment is essential. Washing your face alone won't get it all off. Your favorite cleansing cream, or a new fluid designed to reach deep beneath the skin surface to remove soil, will take off make-up effectively.

Soap and water, of course, are still all important. No matter how dry your skin is, it should be washed thoroughly at least once a day. If it's oily, more frequent washing is necessary.

For protection at night, either a non-greasy cream or a fluid lotion that will soften your complexion while you sleep is a wise investment.

Either should be applied with firm upward strokes, starting at the base of the throat and working upward.

One manufacturer offers a trio of fluid preparations to help your skin retain the moisture needed for a youthful look. It's comprised of a liquid cleansing treatment, a nonstick night treatment, and light - as - air fluid complexion make-up that is claimed to minimize the fading often caused by smothered, clogged pores.

Your diet, too, plays an important role in the condition of your skin, so eat enough but eat sensibly.

A woman with a lovely complexion has covered the first long lap on the journey to beauty. And now that the grease and mess have been taken out of skin care, it should be simple for every woman to accomplish the first step toward good looks.

Barcenrate is a wonderful tonic and energy builder taken as directed." Barcenrate may be obtained at any Texas drug counter. Sold in Texas for 20 years.

MAN AT THE TOP

Scandal Cited In Basketball Tourney

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—Agents for the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation today continued their roundup of 10 men accused of offering bribes to Atlantic Coast Conference players to "fix" basketball games.

The agents fanned out over the nation Tuesday to arrest implicated gamblers after the Wake County grand jury returned 10 indictments numbering more than 80 bribery counts. Two men were arrested in St. Louis and another pair in Pittsburgh, District Solicitor Lester V. Chalmers said.

Among the games cited in the indictments were the 1959 Dixie Classic between North Carolina State and Dayton and an ACC tournament game between N.C. State and South Carolina the same year.

It was the first time since the current investigations were launched last March 17 that tournament basketball was fingered.

Indicted were Pete J. Martino, Biloxi, Miss.; Dave Louis Goldberg and Steve Lekomotrose, both of St. Louis, Mo.; (Moe) Hayneson and Frank Cardone, of Pittsburgh; and Joe Israel, Paul Walker, Joseph Hacken, Aaron Wagner and Joe Green, all of New York.

There were no former or present college basketball players named in the indictments, Chalmers said.

The indictments said Wagman, Green, Lekomotrose, Hacken and Goldberg offered $1,000 to Don Gallagher, a former N.C. State star, to shave points in the 1959 Dixie Classic game with Dayton. Dayton topped the Wolfpack, 36-32.

A University of South Carolina player, Mike Callahan, was listed as having been approached and offered $1,000 to shave points in the March 5, 1959, game against N.C. State in the ACC tournament. North Carolina State won, 73-72.

MARTIN-TURNER INSURANCE Fire, Auto, Comprehensive Liability and Bonds. 107 N. Frost — Ph. 4-8428

The latest break in the bribe probe started last week when Paul Walker, a 30-year-old New York trucking company official, was arrested in New York.

After being returned to North Carolina, Walker was placed in Wake County jail in lieu of a $25,000 bond.

Gallagher, of Binghamton, N.Y., but now an Army lieutenant in Berlin, was named as the person approached to shave points in seven games in addition to the Dixie Classic.

Miami Splits In Boys, Girls Tilts

Miami's A and B team cage units split Tuesday night in their games while the girls went down to defeat in their contest.

In the boys A game, Miami won 57-52. Mark Arifstign had 25 while Jim Flowers had 16 to lead the attack.

In the B tilt, Miami lost 59-74. Jim Flowers was high for the winners with 18 points.

In the girls game, Miami lost 41-38. Marilyn Murphy had 14 and Donna Byrum 10 for the losers.

Miami just finished winning the Canadian tournament last week.

Locals Lose In Closing Seconds

By DICK RABE Daily News Sports Editor

The temperature was hovering around the zero mark outside the Harvester fieldhouse Tuesday night, but inside the activity was hotter than the hinges of Haiti.

Pampa's Harvesters, after leading almost the entire game, had their apocryphal upset in the last few seconds of play, as they dropped a pulsating 63-61 decision to Lubbock's Westerners in a District 3-AAAA contest.

The Harvesters, who had trailed briefly with about 10 seconds to play, tied it up when reserve Gary Sikes sank a layup to tie it up at 61-61. Then the straw that broke the camel's back hit the floor.

Jim Oldham, who was a thorn in the Harvester's side all night long hit from the outside with four seconds remaining on the clock for a game-winning field goal, which sent the Harvesters down to their second loop loss on the year. They have won one.

Pampa had taken a brief lead at the outset, lost it and then came on strong in the later stages of the first quarter to take a 19-16 lead at the quarter.

The Harvesters held on to their lead in the second quarter, minus Randy Matson, the all-district potential, who was taken out midway in the period after accumulating two fouls.

In the third period, Matson fouled out two minutes deep. The Harvesters, with Sikes subbing for Matson continued to maintain their lead and held a 53-47 lead going into the final quarter.

The last period of play was about as close as a fat lady going through a narrow door until both teams found themselves deadlocked at 59-59 with 2:30 remaining on the clock.

Harvester hearts fell heavy when Jim Fullerton sank two charity tosses with 34 seconds remaining to give the visitors a 61-59 lead. Sikes came through with his two-pointer, however to knot it up again and send the crowd screaming to its feet.

The crowd had no sooner gained its composure when Oldham smuck in with his game winning field goal, giving the Westerners their first win in loop play this year.

Wayne Kreis was the high point man for the Harvesters, sinking 19. Included in his point total were seven from the charity line.

Matson had 12 before fouling out while Bob Neslage had 10 to lead the Harvesters from the floor.

In the B game, the Shockers continued their winning ways, clipping the Westerner B team, 79-63.

Donnie Ayers had 21, Charles Price 17 and Ricky Stewart 14 to aid in the Shocker attack. Kenny Hebert and Larry Clifton each chipped in 11 points to aid the locals in their offensive attack.

The Harvesters and Shockers journey northward to Borger Friday night for their next loop contests.

PHIL SIGN HURLER

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Phillies signed right-hander Eddie Keegan of Blackwood, N.J., Tuesday to a 1963 contract. Keegan, 22, was 7-5 with Buffalo of the International League and had no record in six games with Kansas City during the 1961 season.

Hopeful Liston To Name New Manager

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Sonny Liston will remove the last big obstacle to his $10-million title fight with champion Floyd Patterson by announcing early next week the name of a new manager, it was learned here authoritatively today.

This manager, not yet identified publicly, will receive the all-important approval of Cus D'Amato, Patterson's pilot. D'Amato has persistently refused to negotiate until Liston "removed certain obstacles."

George Katz, reputable Philadelphia business and boxing man, has been the big Philadelphia challenger's manager since last spring, when Sonny apparently severed any underworld connections. But D'Amato never negotiated with Katz.

Moreover, there has been some friction between Liston and Katz. Liston apparently feels that Katz never gave him enough personal attention. Because of Katz's reluctance to travel, he was not with Sonny when he was rehabilitating himself at Denver, Colo., after two Philadelphia arrests for disorderly conduct.

Due to that friction, Liston recently made attorney Morton Witkin of Philadelphia his representative in any possible fight negotiations and in some other business matters.

Katz has the title of "manager" but he has not been receiving a manager's 33.3 per cent of Liston's earnings. He has been getting an agent's 10 per cent.

Tuesday night at Philadelphia, Katz said, "I don't know what new arrangements Sonny is making, but I'll remain his manager—or at least co-manager—and I'll tell him what to do. He can afford to take on someone to squint him around and handle his public relations, since he's getting 90 per cent of his purses. But I'll still tell him what to do."

However, an authoritative Harrisburg source said today the new manager and Sonny would buy Katz out.

At Pittsburgh Tuesday night, Saxton Is Named Most Valuable

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—James Saxton, as fine a halfback as could be found on college turf in 1961, was named the Most Valuable Longhorn by his University of Texas football teammates last night.

The Palestine, Tex., senior was presented the George (Hook) McCullough Trophy at the annual Ex-Students Association banquet. Saxton also received a framed certificate marking his selection as a member of the 1961 United Press International All-America first team. Patrick Conway, UPI Bureau manager at Austin, made the presentation.

Don Talbert, Longhorn tackle, received a certificate for winning a place on the UPI All-America third team.

BRITISH BOXERS WIN

LONDON (UPI)—British boxers dominated the action against Brazilian opponents Tuesday night when welterweight Tony Mancini scored a fifth-round technical knockout over Fernando Barreto and unbeaten featherweight Howard Winstone outpointed Oriplos Dos Santos in an eight-round semi-final.

Tenn. State Leads Small Cage Teams

NEW YORK (UPI)—The defending champion Tennessee State Tigers, never lower than third this season, replaced slumping Evansville as the nation's No. 1 small college basketball team today in the United Press-International coaches ratings.

The Tigers, who won the UPI trophy as the national small college champions last season with a 24-4 record, were the top pick of 15 of the 35 coaches who make up the rating board. They were picked for places from first to sixth by every one of the coaches, five from each of the nation's seven geographical sections, and drew a total of 311 points.

Evansville of Indiana, a shaky first a week ago following two straight losses to major schools, dropped two more decisions through games of Jan. 6, and as a result dropped to third behind Tennessee State and Grambling of Louisiana, the pre-season pick of the coaches to win the national title.

Grambling, which led the ratings for three straight weeks before giving way to Evansville, was the top pick of seven coaches for a total of 265 points, while Evansville, despite losses to Ball State and Butler, was picked for the No. 1 spot by seven coaches and drew 233 points.

Westminster (Pa.) with a perfect record in the top 10 with only one loss, moving up two more notches to fourth this week on the strength of three first-place votes and 191 points. Two points farther back was Prairie View A&M (8-1) which was fourth last week, while Hofstra, (10-1), another school on the move, advanced another notch to hold down sixth place.

Wittenberg won two more games last week to run its record to 7-2 but dropped two places in the rating to seventh. Southern Illinois (9-2) remained eighth, Puget Sound (8-1) advanced from 11th to ninth and Mt. St. Mary's (Md.) (7-2) remained 10th. Dropping out of the select group was Southeast Missouri (8-4)—from ninth to 11th.

Wismar Says He's Happy With Foss

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Harry Wismar, president of the New York Titans of the American Football League, said Tuesday night that his feud with league commissioner Joe Foss has been "blown out of all proportion."

"As far as I'm concerned it's over and done with," he said. "I'm happy with the commissioner and the league setup."

Wismar spoke to a news conference between sessions of the league's annual meeting here. He added, "I don't care where they put the league office, in Chicago, Dallas, New York, San Diego, or Rangoon."

Wismar, who had a feud going with Foss since the commissioner ruled null and void a secret draft which gave New York the rights to Syracuse halfback Ernie Davis, was reported to be seeking Foss' ouster and the transfer of the league office to New York.

Moore Given Ultimatum About Title

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Archie Moore, who has been through the same thing many times before, today took in stride an ultimatum from the New York State Athletic Commission that he defend his portion of the light heavyweight championship or forfeit it.

Moore was in Los Angeles on business when the New York commission announced it wants the 46-year-old champion to sign provisionally within 20 days to defend his crown against Harold Johnson, recognized by the National Boxing Association as champion.

"I did not expect this from New York," Moore commented. "I held the New York body in higher esteem than I did the slowly going down NBA. But I suppose politics are politics."

Moore, who hasn't defended his New York, California and European portion of the title since last June, did not feel the fact that Johnson had posted a challenge and a $2,500 forfeit check meant too much.

"Of course Johnson has put up the bond as a forfeit," he said. "But there is no mention of money, no promoter has even approached me as to a date, a site for the fight and the price."

Duties Of Russians

SEVENTEENTH OF A SERIES

Article 127 of the Russian Constitution is one of those grievously stated articles, similar to a number in our own Constitution. It reads: "Citizens of the U.S.S.R. are guaranteed inviolability of the person. No person may be placed under arrest except by decision of a court or with the sanction of a procurator."

This means that no Russian may be arrested except if the government decides to arrest him. "Article 128. The inviolability of the homes of citizens and privacy of correspondence are protected by law."

This is a much more strongly worded phrase than our own corresponding amendment to the Constitution. There is some evidence that the Russian government, on occasion, lives up to the wording. There is no reason to suppose that it would not violate this provision if the "safety" of the Soviet Union were involved.

As in our own case, the Russians may be in process of learning that a written constitution is no protection against the power and the whim of men in power.

"Article 129. The U.S.S.R. affords the right of asylum to foreign citizens persecuted for defending the interests of the working people, or for scientific activities, or for struggling for national liberation."

There have been a few British subjects and an occasional national from some other land who have taken advantage of this provision and have fled to refuge behind the iron curtain.

"Article 130. — It is the duty of every citizen of the U.S.S.R. to abide by the Constitution of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, to observe the laws, to maintain labor discipline, honestly to perform public duties, and to respect the rules of socialist intercourse."

This is clearly a redundancy. The entire existence of the Russian Constitution provides for its obedience by all and sundry.

"Article 131. It is the duty of every citizen of the U.S.S.R. to safeguard and fortify public, socialist property as the sacred and inviolable foundation of the Soviet system, as the source of the wealth and might of the country, as the source of the prosperity and culture of all the working people.

"Persons committing offenses against the public, socialist property are enemies of the people." There is no corresponding rule calling for the protection of private property, which as was pointed out in an earlier editorial, still exists and functions in the Soviet Union.

"Article 132. Universal military service is law. "Military service in the Armed Forces of the U.S.S.R. is an honorable duty of the citizens of the U.S.S.R."

So thoroly is this doctrine supported that in point of fact every Russian, man or woman, is automatically geared into the government regardless of whether he serves in the armed forces or in one of the industrial armies of workers.

In a real sense the Russian is a part of the political apparatus in the same way that citizens of ancient Sparta were a part of the total scheme of things under the almost mythological ruler Lycurgus.

"Article 133. To defend the country is the sacred duty of every citizen of the U.S.S.R. Treason to the Motherland — violation of the oath of allegiance, desertion to the enemy, impairing the military power of the state, espionage — is punishable with all the severity of the law as the most heinous of crimes."

This is typical of any state. The duty of the citizen is always presumed to consist primarily of support of the political structure. Article 133 concludes Chapter X, which is the chapter dealing with the "rights" and duties of Russian citizens.

We continue below with Chapter XI, "The Electoral System."

Russian Elections

EIGHTEENTH OF A SERIES

Many persons have held that the lack of a second political party in Russia deprives the Russian people of a full opportunity of expressing themselves at the polls. Actually, this is not true, as our exploration of Chapter XI, which covers the Russian electoral procedures, reveals.

Elections in Russia are conducted much the same way elections are conducted in this country in organizations or in corporations. There is, of course, the lack of two competing political parties. But there is a far wider latitude in the manner chosen of nominating candidates than is true in this country, politically.

"Article 134. Members of all Soviets of Working People's Deputies — of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R., the Supreme Soviets of the Union Republics, the Soviets of Working People's Deputies of the Territories and Regions, the Supreme Soviets of the Autonomous Republics, the Soviets of Working People's Deputies of the Autonomous Regions, and the Area, District, city and rural (stanitsa, village, hamlet, kishlak, aul) Soviets of Working People's Deputies — are chosen by the electors on the basis of universal, equal and direct suffrage by secret ballot."

"Article 135. Elections of deputies are universal: all citizens of the U.S.S.R. who have reached the age of eighteen, irrespective of race or nationality, sex, religion, education, domicile, social origin, property status or past activities, have the right to vote in the election of deputies, with the exception of insane persons and persons who have been convicted by a court of law and whose sentences include deprivation of electoral rights. "Every citizen of the U.S.S.R. who has reached the age of twenty-three is eligible for election to the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R., irrespective of race or nationality, sex, religion, education, domicile, social origin, property status or past activities."

These two articles, Nos. 134 and 135 set forth the broad base of political activities in the Soviet Union. The widest possible employment of the franchise is envisioned, with both service in government and service to government provided for fully. This is doubtless the reason Russian leaders, continually state that theirs is a "people's democracy." Actually, as the Constitution reveals, this is a republican form of government, operating thru the democratic process. Age, insanity or crime are the only disbarments — a full political participation.

A wide use of the ballot in Russia was not guaranteed to the Russian people any more goodness or benevolence in their government than we are accustomed to in this country. "Article 136. Elections of deputies are equal: each citizen has one vote; all citizens participate in elections on an equal footing."

"Article 137. Women have the right to elect and be elected on equal terms with men. "Article 138. Citizens serving in the Armed Forces of the U.S.S.R. have the right to elect and be elected on equal terms with all other citizens."

"Article 139. Elections of deputies are direct: all Soviets of

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — I never sat around the Rue de la Paix long enough at one time to prove out the old saying that, if I did, everyone I knew would pass by, but for longer almost than I can remember I have taken the credo that exercise is a killer and milk, as is done by all other infant mammals, should be abandoned early by human infants. This pair of faiths has earned me scorn from hearty athletes and frowns from dairy associations. I've even met a shoal of doctors who looked upon me as a madman crying out his insanity in the wilderness.

Now, proving that if one waits long enough, my friends have just passed by. Two of them. A few weeks ago Dr. Paul Dudley White, who was former President Eisenhower's heart specialist, told a learned group sworn to do everything they could to improve matters for the human heart that he was not at all certain but what milk should be given up by human beings except for infants. The implication was that small creatures require milk, which is why Nature has provided it in the mothers, but that human creatures were the only ones who continued as addicts of it after growing out of infancy.

The implication further was that Dr. White was beginning to wonder if there was a relation between the high incidence of heart disease in this country and the high incidence of milk drinking at all ages. He did not, being a precise man of science, say that milk was harmful in adults. He simply wondered if, perhaps, only infants should drink it.

In addition to Dr. White now being on my somewhat layman's side, I have a buttermilk supplied by Dr. Gordon C. Ring, of Florida, a researcher in the study of cellular aging. Dr. Ring told fellow students and specialists in geriatrics that exercise would help prolong life and that it was possible that the opposite is true.

This rather cuts a wound in President Kennedy's passionate appeal to the citizens to undertake exercise and make themselves fit, which is a major crusade on his part, but I don't fully subscribe to it, although I think I am as patriotic as the next man.

The fact is that I have not made a regimen of exercise since the day I was graduated from a military school in Virginia and where I had racked up all the exercise I ever wanted for the rest of my life. I have been even more iconoclastic in the matter of milk. The last glass of milk I ever held in my small fingers was when I was 4 years old. I threw glass, milk and a few objections out at the same time and the combined acts must have been impressive. No one ever offered me milk again. Nor do I believe that such detestations cannot be passed on naturally to the next generation. My twin daughters, without one word or hint from me that milk was a mocker, staged equally dramatic revolts in union when they were 3 years old and have hated the stuff ever since. They must have inherited the distaste from their old man. There's no other explanation for it. Their children, in turn, may kick over the milk jug when they are 3 years old. If the line holds out long enough we may be a tribe giving up milk at 16 weeks of age.

It takes no vast amount of travel to discover that other countries do not have this abject addition to milk and seem, through the centuries, to turn out fit, healthy children with excellent bones and gleaming teeth. Mexican babies start early gnawing at tortillas which are loaded with lime and Mexican teeth at all ages are notoriously strong, white, useful teeth. You don't see many bowed Mexican legs, either. French babies will throw you an insulting gesture if you push milk at them and will reach for watered wine, instead. The French may be having political troubles, but their health is just great, thank you.

Only the United States is in the grip of milk addiction for all ages and if I have been a rebel it has, thus far, earned me not much more than an occasional snippy letter from a dairy association.

Doc. White and Ring — I thank you. At long, lonesome last, two friends have passed by after years of waiting while I sat for-ward, without exercise, and drank whatever came along, as long as it wasn't milk. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Instead, we will conclude with Article 142, which is the final article in Chapter XI. Seems Too Good To Pass Up

Edson In Washington

Not Such A Long Time From Now To November

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — With the session of Congress opening, the political pot has started to boil in earnest for the 1962 mid-term elections.

History is on the side of the Republicans for cutting some inroads into the Democratic House majority of nearly 90. Only in 1934, in the middle of Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term, has the party in control of the White House made a gain in its congressional majority.

In the Senate, with 21 Democratic seats and 18 Republican seats, the Democrats have another advantage of retaining their majority, which is now 28. While the Republicans make big claims for the gains they expect to make, the more realistic Democratic appraisal is that if they hold what they now have, they will be doing all right.

Both Democrats and Republicans claim victory in 1961 special elections. Democrats carried Gov. Hughes to victory in New Jersey and Mayor Wagner in New York City. The GOP's principal gain in election of Sen. John Tower in Texas. Republicans also won majorities in Louisville and a few smaller southern communities. But they don't add up to anything like a trend for taking over the South.

Everything that happens in the coming congressional session will have political angles. This will be truer in 1962 than in 1961 because the newness of the Kennedy administration program will have worn off.

It is nonsense to try to predict now what the issues will be next November. What happens in the world outside of Washington can change the whole political picture. But today, these are the big issues politicians watch: — Medical Care for the Aged — The Kennedy plan to replace and expand the Kerr-Mills bill enacted during the Eisenhower administration is considered most important.

It has an appeal not only to the 17 million Americans over 65, but also to their children and other relatives who have to provide for the oldsters, often at some financial sacrifice, if there is no government aid.

— Extreme Conservative Opposition — It is sized up as mostly Republican, taking little or nothing from the Democratic vote. Its principal complaints are over foreign policies. The Democratic feeling is that as long as President Kennedy can maintain his popularity rating of over 70 per cent in the public opinion polls, the opposition is not vital.

The catch in this is that much of the ultraconservative strength is concentrated in key congressional districts where it will have considerable influence. — Civil Rights — Extremists in the NAACP criticize the Kennedy administration for not having a stronger reform program to offer Congress. The Democratic reply is that they have given more vigorous enforcement of existing civil rights legislation. And they still get the votes up north where they're counted, as in New York and New Jersey.

— Kennedy's Political Leadership — After Congress adjourns it is expected that the President will take an active part in the campaign. He was most effective in New York and New Jersey elections last fall. He recognizes his position as head of the party, works at it and loves it.

— Republican Leadership — It is still unclear. Nixon, Rockefeller, perhaps George Romney and even Sen. Everett Dirksen and GOP National Chairman William E. Miller have to be elected in their own states this fall before they have national political stature. Outside of the survivors the only one now in sight is Barry Goldwater.

The American Way

By DR. ROBERT MORRIS WHY ALL THIS DENUNCIATION OF ANTI-COMMUNISM? (EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Robert Morris, President of the University of Dallas, was formerly chief counsel of the Senate's Subcommittee on Internal Security.)

A detached spectator on the American scene is today witnessing a remarkable political phenomenon. For, while Khrushchev is detonating powerful bombs and threatening the world with destruction if it does not surrender — and incidentally succeeding in taking over one country after another and enslaving millions of human beings — we are being told that this is not the real danger. The real danger is the Anti-Communist!

The Anti-Communist posing as a patriot and joining with other similar minded people, forming study groups, today, according to the prevailing voices, constitutes the greatest danger to the country! The reason given for this extraordinary conclusion is that these people are expressing their dissent from what our planners are doing and therefore dividing us. This division, runs the sophism, helps the Communist.

There is little supporting evidence given for this conclusion. But it is being ruthlessly applied with a broad brush. All shades and degrees of Anti-Communists are lumped together and denounced with pathological venom. The fires of hell are not good enough for these Anti-Communists. Obscure individuals can become names in the news by simply denouncing the new national villain — "the super patriot." It is taking on all the aspects of a national neurosis.

When one dispassionately realizes that one billion human beings are in bondage, many experiencing the tortures of the damned because of the Communist slave masters, one would think that some of the indignation being directed against the Anti-Communists would be directed against the enslavers, but it just doesn't work that way.

Recently the Communists literally butchered 13 Italian flyers in the Congo who were ironically flying supplies to Khrushchev's men. There was indignation for 24 hours — guarded — but real. The U.N. channeled this indignation, and it imposed, because of this, more strictures, not on the Communist butchers, but on that nasty Anti-Communist, Moise Tshombe, who wants to keep the cobalt, uranium, copper and nickel of Katanga from reaching the Soviets. And so it goes.

I raise the possibility that an explanation for this curious paradox stems from the draft program of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (Chapter 7). This was approved by the Twenty-Second Party Congress in Moscow in October, 1961. Therefore, it must be implemented by every Communist agency in the world. This is the highest directive that can be given to the millions of Communist agents around the world.

Here are the quotes from the "Highest Soviet directive today: "The chief ideological and political weapon of imperialism is anti-Communism which consists system and distorting the policies and objectives of the Communist parties and Marxist-Leninist theory."

Anti-Communism is becoming the main instrument of reaction in its struggle against the democratic forces of Asia, Africa and Latin America. It is the meeting ground of imperialist ideology and the ideology of feudal, reactionary elements and the bourgeois groups of the bourgeoisie of the countries which have gained their freedom from colonial tyranny."

This is the official voice of Moscow. It is being generated by every Communist agent in the country. Could it be that they just are experiencing success beyond their greatest expectations?

The lorgnette of the "grand lady" received its inspiration from the telescope in the 1600s. Early lorgnettes were like binoculars on a stick, useful for closer views of plays or pageants. An ingenious inventor capitalized on the ladies' love of gossip. A "spy" lorgnette had mirrors and lenses to let a lady snoop on people beside and behind her — while she demurely stared ahead.

Steinberg Says Everybody's Mad At Everybody Else

By HENRY McLEMORE

I talked with John Steinbeck before he left for Europe and leisurely wandering of the Continent, and he said he would be glad to be free of New York for a while.

"I don't know why it is," he said, "but everybody in this town is mad at everybody else. You can feel the madness all around you, and before you ask me why this is, let me tell you that I don't know. All I know is that it's true."

The author will travel with his wife, his two boys, and a tutor. "The tutor is for the boys," he explained, "although I probably need him more."

The Steinbecks' first stop will be Rome. They had planned to go to Paris, but the boys vetoed this because Paris does not have meat loaf — one of their favorite dishes.

"Paris doesn't have everything," Steinbeck said. "It's impossible to get meat loaf there. Not even if you have your own home and own cook. The last time we were there we had a house, and a fine cook, but she wouldn't make meat loaf."

"When my wife told the cook how to make a meat loaf, the cook said it wouldn't work; My wife said yes it would, because she had made it."

"The cook's answer to that was that even if it could be made, it wouldn't be fit to eat. So we're skipping Paris."

Were the Steinbecks fond of Rome? "Very," John said. "For many reasons, one of them being that no matter what a man does there — good or bad — he has the consolation of knowing that it has been done a million times before over the centuries. This is very helpful at times."

Then we switched to talk of London during the early part of World War II, when we shared an apartment at 55 Piccadilly and tried to make absinthe from a recipe and ingredients sent us from New Orleans by Roark Bradford. And how we went off to air bases and the brew blew up, causing the building the only damage it suffered during the blitz.

"Did you ever get your foot locker out of the building?" John asked.

He was referring to a trunk I left when I took off in a hurry for the U.S. I had to admit that I hadn't, but that two years ago, on a trip to London, I had asked about it, and was told that it was just where I left it and I could pick it up any time.

After Rome the Steinbecks will go to Capri and after that Delphi, Greece.

To do what? "Rest and rest, and then sit down," John said.

No work? "An old pro always works," John said. "He can't help it."

A wonderful man, Steinbeck, with a love for people as big as his talent.

The Nation's Press

AN EXPENSIVE IMAGE (San Diego Union)

We would be the last in the world to speak out against employment opportunities for newspapermen.

Perhaps egotistically, we believe they are unusually qualified for a number of jobs. One is that of a press agent, or under the modern genteel definition, an image builder.

But Governor Edmund "Pat" Brown is carrying this a bit too far. He has 12 former newspapermen on his staff. And the jobs they have would horrify any reporter who has tried to balance an expense account, plant a garden or who makes $30,318 yearly.

An Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board member and the Natural Resources Agency administrator are ex-reporters.

It could be that the governor is trying to solve California's unemployment problem by giving newspapermen $100,000 worth of jobs in Sacramento. But we doubt it.

Our guess is that he is using these skilled men at what they do best — image building. He has three press secretaries — one more than former President Eisenhower had. His 12-man propaganda force outnumber the total United States Information Agency personnel in Great Britain, West Berlin, Denmark, Austria and the Netherlands.

But perhaps we shouldn't be too critical. The governor's propaganda staff has a more difficult image to build.

PROGRESS IN EDUCATION (Omaha World-Herald)

The director of the Reading Clinic at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee told a convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) that use of McGuffey's Readers could handicap children's learning because the vocabulary in McGuffey's is "too hard."

If the gentleman's opinion is well founded, it speaks volumes on the progress which has been achieved by progressive education.

THE MASTER WORD (The Freeman)

Though little, the master word looms large in meaning. It is the "open sesame" to every portal, the great equalizer, the philosopher's stone which transmutes all base metal of humanity into gold. The stupid it will make bright, the bright brilliant, and the brilliant steady. To youth it brings hope, to the middle-age confidence, to the aged repose. It is directly responsible for all advances in medicine during the past 25 years. Not only has it been the touchstone of progress, but it is the measure of success in everyday life. And the master word is work.

Efforts Strained To Boost Japan World Commerce

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The forest of television antennas rising above Tokyo's rooftops is symbolic of Japan's booming economy which has given her the highest per capita income in Asia.

But it also is symbolic of an inner ailment which has hit many another seemingly prosperous nation.

The Japanese have been spending more abroad than they have been taking in. At the same time, there are fears that Japanese industry is over-expanded.

For 1961, her trade deficit approximated a billion dollars and her foreign exchange holdings fell to less than $1.5 billion, considered a danger level.

The result has been strenuous efforts to increase Japan's share of world markets. These efforts have placed Premier Hayato Ikeda in the role of star salesman in visits to the United States and Canada and sent Japanese trade delegations on a global search for new business.

This week the Japanese were looking hopefully toward Russia.

High up on the Tokyo conference agenda will be a proposal that Japan sell to the Soviet Union materials for a Siberian oil pipeline. In return, Japan would receive oil deliveries from the completed line.

In the minds of the Japanese negotiators will be a nervous regard for the attitude of the United States which once vetoed a Soviet offer to buy pipeline materials from U. S. firms.

The Japanese are aware that the United States is their best customer. But they also are aware that Japan's unfavorable balance of trade with Russia last year totaled an estimated $50 million. This they would like to correct.

Japanese oil men have accused the United States of attempting to sabotage the project by threats to reduce oil purchases from Japanese firms.

They claim a recent action by the U. S. Defense Department in cutting a Japanese petroleum concern from its list of jet fuel suppliers was an effort to make American displeasure known in advance of the Soviet-Japanese talks.

The United States position was that the Japanese firm was dealing heavily in Russian oil, and the Defense Department did not care to have Russian fuel in American jets.

Japanese trade with the Communist world long has been a sensitive point between Tokyo and Washington. But Tokyo knows the consequences would be disastrous if Washington slammed the economic door in Japan's face.

U.S. And Japan Settle Post-War Aid Differences

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan and the United States signed an agreement today settling the 10-year controversy over repayment of U. S. postwar economic assistance to this country.

The agreement calls for Japan to pay $400 million over 15 years at 2 1/2 per cent interest annually.

The figure is about a 25 cents on the dollar settlement of the $2 billion in economic assistance to Japan between Sept. 2, 1945, and April 28, 1952, under the Government and Relief in Occupied Areas Fund (GROA) and Economic Rehabilitation in Occupied Areas Fund (EROA).

Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer, who signed for the United States, said in his speech at the signing that "I believe the agreement represents a fair and honorable settlement of this issue."

Too Much Sake, He Whops Neighbors

TOKYO (UPI)—Awakened by cries of "robber," Yuji Harada grabbed a handy sake bottle and whacked it against the heads of two figures charging toward him in the dark.

Not until police arrived did Harada discover that he had entered the house of a neighbor and fallen asleep. The "robbers" he felled were the neighbor's wife and son. Police said he had been drinking.

Birds And Bees Throw Show Into Confusion

NEW YORK (UPI)—This is a story about the birds and the bees. But it's all right for the kids to read on.

These birds and bees did not get along at all. Not with each other and not even with the people, including TV star John Daly.

As a result things were buzzing for a while at the TV studios of Station WPIX where the birds, the bees and the people had assembled for a science education program on "animal communications."

The communications were going along in fine fashion until a black hen named Pandora opened a box of trouble by kicking over a glass-paneled beehive.

Two thousand honey bees zoomed out—live and unrehearsed—for a TV spectacular of their own.

Pandora clucked with alarm, a pigeon on the show cooed in fright and a bat tried to ignore it all.

The people acted much the same. While technicians fled in alarm, a runner was dispatched to the headquarters office of United Press International three floors away in the Daily News Building here, asking "Does anyone know anything about bees?"

Wayne Russell, a UPI teletype operator and former bee keeper, volunteered his assistance, while Stan Weinsberg, a high school teacher who was on camera, gamely stuck to the script in the show-must-go-on tradition, his eyes rolling about following the flight of nearby bees.

Russell, insisting the bees were gentle in nature, went to work gathering them up and putting them in a box. He was stung twice. Some studio employes gathered up their courage and used a vacuum cleaner to corral the rest of the bees except for a few stragglers that were bug-bombed.

Daly, who was scheduled to appear on another show at the station, escaped harm along with technicians and cameramen who decided that a hasty retreat was the better part of valor.

Two other casualties besides Russell were reported. Studio announcer Joe Bolton was stung on the left index finger.

And Pandora, the unlady-like hen, was hurt in pride for laying an egg on her TV debut.

Russians Will Release Plane

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Foreign Ministry agreed today to release the Belgian Sabena airliner that was forced down in Soviet Armenia Monday with 27 persons aboard.

Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov told Belgian Ambassador Hippolyte Cools that the plane probably would be released this afternoon.

Kuznetsov said the French-built twin-jet Caravelle and its 19 passengers and eight crew members were in good condition.

(At Tehran, the point from which the plane departed on its flight, Sabena airlines identified three of the passengers as Americans, Charles and Maria Weimer of New York and a Fred Holden, whose address was not available.)

Kuznetsov said the plane and its occupants were now at Grozny, not far from the Caspian Sea, about 124 miles northeast of Tbilisi, capital of the Georgian republic.

Let Kids Eat Snow; It's Not Radio-Active

DALLAS (UPI)—Let the kids eat the snow. There's not enough radioactive ingredients in it to worry about.

That was the word today from Dr. J. W. Bass of the city of Dallas Health Department.

Newspapers, radio stations and wire services were receiving calls from parents wondering about the possible danger from consumption of this section's rare snowfall.

"Don't worry about it," said Dr. Bass. "There isn't enough radioactivity in the snow to hurt anyone for the short period of time the snow will be here. Over a long period of time, it might be questionable, but not for a brief span."

Eskimos Afraid They'll Be Blown Off Hunt Range

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Like the Indians of the old West, some Eskimos in a remote area of Alaska are fearful of being blasted from their hunting range.

A subcommittee of the Association on American Indian Affairs Tuesday protested plans for conducting a series of underground nuclear tests in the Fort Thomas, Alaska, area.

It challenged statements by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) that the health and welfare of 700 Eskimos living in three villages in the area would not be endangered by fallout from the blasts.

"The Eskimos depend for their subsistence largely on hunting over a wide range, including the area of some square miles which will be made uninhabitable for man and animals over a period of at least some months," the subcommittee said.

The group urged the Interior Department to rescind its authorization to the AEC to use the area for so-called Project Chariot, a part of the Plowshare program to develop peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Soviets Accused Of Interference

ATHENS (UPI)—The Greek government yesterday accused the Russians of interfering in its internal affairs and formally rejected the Soviet Union's demand for an explanation of defense preparations in Greece.

The Foreign Ministry said the demand's "whole tone... constitutes unacceptable interference in Greece's internal affairs...."

"This demand is based on the assertion that Greece, within the framework of her alliances, is engaged in certain preparations of aggressive character which are arousing the anxiety of the Soviet Union and other socialist countries."

Sukarno Ready For Decision

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—A spokesman for President Sukarno said today Indonesia will decide within 10 days whether to settle its dispute over West Irian (Dutch New Guinea) by diplomacy or "other means."

The spokesman made this statement after Sukarno, angered and shaken by what he called a Dutch attempt to assassinate him, spent two hours discussing the situation with his "operational command staff."

Congo 'Commie' Loses His Rank

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Communist-leaning Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga, under parliamentary orders to return here to face charges of "secessionist activities" in his Oriental Province, has been stripped of his party rank, a former associate said today.

More people between the ages of 15 and 24 are killed by accidents than all diseases and other causes combined.
