MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18. (AP)—Stock prices nosed downward today throughout the abbreviated session. Acute pressure was absent, but week-end evening up and the lack of important bidding in a number of the recently active groups induced a general sag in the list.

Refining of 8 of a point was registered in the Associated Press average of 80 stocks, at 57.3. The industrial, rails and utilities used in the compilation declined about equally.

Beside the power and carrier issues, motors, steels and mines appeared rather friendless during the whole session.

AUSTIN, Jan. 18. (AP)—A geological survey of principal mineral resources in every Texas county will start soon under a Work Press grant of $375,190.

Approximately six months remained for completion of the survey, in which 92 geologists not on relief rolls would be employed.

Dr. Sellards foresaw in wage restrictions a possibility the full number of geologists could not be obtained. Salaries would range from $125 to $250 without subsistence.

It is a real pleasure to me to look these records over and to find that there has been a very substantial improvement over the years of 1934 and 1935, and I hope that the same kind of percentage improvement can be made in 1936.

"I have just received a copy of 'Our President's Message,' dated January 2, 1936, writes Inspector Fred Hickman of the Texas Highway patrol in a letter addressed to General Charles E. Borland, Panhandle Safety Army, Panhandle Refining company, at Wichita Falls.

"The efforts of your organization to improve your employees in the handling of first aid problems is, in my estimation, the best way to improve their personal safety. One cannot easily forget the dangers that are called to their attention in studying the method of caring for a fellow-workman that has been injured by his own or another's carelessness.

"One of our big problems today is to guard against the driver that does not regard the following good practice that is pointed out in your bulletin of January 2, 1936:

"If you drink--don't drive; If you drive--don't drink."

"I want to join your president in hoping that your new year will be a safe one."

"I have just been handed the accident record for the year 1935, and the results of the safety campaign from June 1 to November 30 by Adjutant St. Clair.

'Boondoggling' Is 'Grand Word', Says Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt, came to his home here tonight with a word of praise for the "usefulness" of federal works projects and hearty endorsement of the "grand word" boondoggling.

He spoke at a state meeting of the National Emergency council at Newark where he stopped over for a couple of hours on his way here to participate tomorrow in the dedication of the Theodore Roosevelt memorial in the American Museum of Natural History.

"If we can boondoggle our way out of the depression," he told the enthusiastic federal and state workers of New Jersey, "that work is going to be enshrined in the hearts of Americans for many years to come. The overwhelming majority of things we are doing are not only useful but, strangely enough, the liberties of government still exist. . . . As you all know we are carrying out the principle of home rule."

He interrupted the eight home stay to speak over the telephone and radio tonight to the workers organizing the presidential birthday balls to be observed for funds to fight infantile paralysis.

Supreme Court Meets in Secret

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Supreme Court presumably scrutinized a variety of new deal litigation at its secret conference today, stirring speculation that it had completed a final draft of its Tennessee valley act opinion.

The TVA ruling may determine whether the government can sell surplus electricity in competition with private utilities. A brief session for announcement of decisions will be held Monday before the court takes a two week recess.

At the regular Saturday conference the justices discuss cases that have been argued, vote on decisions, and check over drafts of opinions before they are sent to the printer.

Those expecting the TVA ruling Monday pointed to the speed with which the court has disposed of three other major cases. Two were decided 28 days after oral argument and the third in 34 days.

Arguments on TVA were completed December 19. Thirty-two days will have elapsed by Monday.

Locomotives and cars from all over the United States are sent for repairs to the army's railroad shops at Fort Benning, Ga.

WORLD AWAITS NEW EVIDENCE OF GOVERNOR

'HASN'T GOT A THING' SAYS ATTORNEY WILENTZ

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18. (AP)—The critics of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, openly skeptical of his "new evidence" in the Lindbergh case, watchfully waited tonight for him to show what he's got.

"It's up to the governor to produce," was the sentiment of those who sided with the Attorney-General David T. Wilentz in the belief that the chief executive "hasn't got a thing."

The attorney general, who not only says no new evidence has been produced but also that the governor lacked legal right to grant the 30-day reprieve which he extended to Bruno Richard Hauptmann two days ago, conferred during the day with Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police.

The two men, major actors in effecting the conviction of Hauptmann, gave careful study to the fiery statement which Governor Hoffman made yesterday—a statement in which he defied his foes to impeach him and expressed doubt as to Hauptmann having been the only person involved in the Lindbergh kidnap-murder.

After their conference it was learned they had agreed that "no good purposes would be served by controversy with the governor on his theories or points of view."

This attitude was quite general among the governor's political foes. The talk of asking his impeachment was quieted. In keeping with the uncertainty many legislators felt as to just how strong the governor's position in the case might be.

The next legislative session, on Monday night, was awaited eagerly, however.

The canny ones among his opponents were hesitant about voicing strong criticism, fearing that the governor might have something with which to strike back and confound them.

The fate of Hauptmann, whatever side issues may develop, rests upon the ability of his counsel or the governor to produce new evidence of such importance as to warrant either a new trial, commutation of sentence, or, conceivably, a pardon.

FIRST FIRE OF YEAR

Pampa's first fire of 1936 was recorded at 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon when the department received a call to 525 West Foster avenue. Upon arrival, the firemen discovered that a car had been ablaze but that the fire had been extinguished before they arrived. 1935 was another record year in fire losses, they being the second smallest in the city's history.

Buick's Safety Legion Launched To Teach Safety

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 18.—The Buick Safety Legion, with an expected membership of more than 200,000 Buick owners throughout the United States and an objective of 500,000 by the middle of the year, was launched by the Buick Motor company last week.

The project, plans for which were announced today by Harlow H. Curtrice, president of the company, will be part of a major safety campaign to be carried on by the company among more than 2,500,000 Buick owners in the United States throughout the year.

"The campaign will be one of safety education," Mr. Curtrice said, "and will be carried on through the medium of the Buick Magazine, a company publication circulating currently to approximately 40,000 Buick owners and reaching through reader circulation several times that number." The January 15 issue of the magazine marked the beginning of the campaign.

Purposes of the Safety Legion are to promote a safe and courteous driving among Buick owners and to encourage them by their own example and by their influence in their local communities, to become leaders in a movement to reduce accidents on the highways.

All owners of Buick cars are eligible for membership in the Legion, the requirement being the signing of a membership card pledging courtesy and care in the operation of a motor vehicle and careful observance of local and state traffic laws.

All members of the legion will be entitled to display on their cars a membership emblem which will be supplied without cost by the Buick Motor company. This consists of a metal medallion or disk, which can be attached to the license plates of the car.

"The starting point of a safety program is the man behind the wheel," commented President Curtrice. "A great majority of automobile accidents, in fact practically all of them, can be prevented by intelligent care and courtesy on the part of the driver."

"I know that careful drivers are sometimes the victims of reckless ones—and that pedestrians are often at fault. You cannot always count on the other fellow stopping at a red light, or signalling when he is about to turn, or staying on the right side of the road in the open country. But knowing all this, one can anticipate the other fellow in many cases and keep out of trouble regardless of what he does.

"On the other hand, it is all too common for otherwise courteous people to become quarrelsome and aggressive on the highway. Such a motorist 'insists on his rights,' crowds ahead when someone tries to pass, insists upon putting the other fellow in his place when he violates some rule of the road."

"To create some measure of organized thinking on these subjects is one of the purposes of the Legion, whose members will be pledged to thoughtful driving. As a first step, the Safety Legion will encourage courtesy and thoughtfulness as between drivers of Buick cars. Beyond this, I believe Buick owners

Monument to our greatest Chief Justice in front of the National Capitol.

JOHN MARSHALL was the fourth Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, but in the judicial annals of our land he undoubtedly stands first. At a time when the Republic was young and hesitant, in its early decades of self-government, his clear-cut decisions fortified the Constitution as the basis of our national life.

He was appointed to the highest judicial office in 1801, when the Supreme Court seemed to be one of the government agencies which was failing of its purpose. In thirty-four years of devoted work, his decisions, which have never been surpassed for clarity, brilliance and courage, gave form and substance to the Constitution and helped establish the Supreme Court as the bulwark of the American form of democratic government.

Marshall was born in 1755 of pioneer stock, the eldest of fifteen children in a family where money was scarce. His schooling was consequently irregular, though he managed to take law courses at the College of William and Mary. Endowed with an exceptionally fine legal mind, he soon achieved leadership in the Bar of Virginia.

He was called to fill many public offices, including that of Secretary of State under President John Adams, before he was designated to the Supreme Court. He died at the age of eighty, in 1835. The glory of his contribution to American history has not dimmed since.

Within a few days after his death, plans for a suitable memorial in front of the Capitol in Washington were begun, but they were not carried out until half a century later. The sum of $3,000 which lay forgotten in a Memorial Fund during the intervening years had grown to $20,000. Congress matched it with a similar amount and the unveiling of the impressive monument shown in the sketch took place on May 10, 1884.

U. S. OFFICER KIDNAPED BY OWN PRISONER

Jumps From Machine — Death Sentence Faces Youth

DALLAS, Jan. 18. (AP)—Federal and state officers watched snow-swept Oklahoma and Texas highways tonight for a youthful fugitive who unwittingly swapped a possible short prison term for the threat of a death sentence by abducting a United States secret service operative.

Leonard W. Johnson, 26, charged in a counterfeiting case at Texas Park yesterday, seized Operative William C. Morgan's pistol while enroute to the county jail at Paris, Texas, forced him to accompany him on a wild, 13-hour ride, and fled from government agents jumped from the machine at Bokchito, Okla., early today.

Reports that the fugitive had side-swiped an officer's automobile in Denton county, Texas, shifted the hunt back across the state line tonight.

Federal officers said the case was an exact parallel with the kidnaping of two Paris, Texas, officers last year, which resulted in the death sentence being imposed on Arthur Gooch, Oklahoma outlaw, under the Lindbergh kidnaping law.

Gooch, who also carried his prisoners across the state line into Oklahoma, has appealed the death penalty to the United States supreme court.

Operative Morgan told his chief here, F. V. Sorels, of being held prisoner 13 hours after Johnson had wrested his pistol from him on the outskirts of Paris. He was forced to drive to Queen City, Texas, where Johnson picked up his wife and two children, Morgan said.

Mrs. Johnson and the children were left at a Paris hotel later after she had refused to go further. Morgan's chance to escape came at Kockitro when they stopped at a filling station for gasoline, he said.

He made a move as if to get his wallet, jumped from the machine and start shouting. Johnson, bewildered momentarily, fled at top speed towards Hugo, Oklahoma.

Morgan said Johnson took the wheel once and drove at a 70-mile-an-hour clip with one hand while

FLIGHTS

Pampa is one of the outstanding aviation centers in the southwest and it could be even more popular if hangar accommodations were available. Department of commerce inspectors who visit here can hardly believe that Pampa, without a regulation airport, has such air activities. They report that Pampa is more air-minded than most cities twice its size.

There are 14 ships stationed at the local airport and 30 of them are licensed to fly. The other three are in workshops. Pampa boasts five licensed pilots in Art Pavey, Dee Graham, Monte Keenan, Frank Shaw, and George Christopher. Several others are ready to be licensed.

No fewer than 12 local men are taking solo work and will soon be ready to be licensed as pilots. Six others require only a few more hours of instruction before they also will make their solos. A number of beginners are receiving training from the licensed pilots.

A Sikorski amphibian two-motor plane flew low over Pampa yesterday morning. The giant ship had pontoons on the wings and retractable landing gears. The motors were set in the front of the wings close to the body of the ship.

A few facts about Pampa and flying information in this section as released by the department of commerce, bureau of air commerce, Washington, D. C.:

Pampa is located on the Amarillo-Kansas City section on one of the trunk line airways provided between Los Angeles and New York by the department of commerce. The airway section on which Pampa is situated is fully lighted, radio equipped, and provided with Department of Commerce intermediate landing fields.

Radio directional guidance is furnished airmen flying in this vicinity by the department of commerce radio range beacon at Canadian. This beacon transmits a beam composed of code signals. An airman flying on one side of the beam hears a — (A) in his headphones and on the other side, he will hear a — (N). These signals notify him promptly after the hour when the center line of the beam. When he is flying exactly on his course the A and N merge into a continuous signal broken at intervals by the identifying signal of the radio range beacon.

Pampa is also served by the department of commerce radio weather broadcast station KCAG at Amarillo. Once each hour, exactly on the hour, this station broadcasts reports on weather conditions between Amarillo and Tulsa; at five minute intervals the hour weather conditions between Amarillo and Albuquerque are given; and at 15 minutes after the hour, weather conditions between Fort Worth and Amarillo are broadcast.

The department of commerce maintains a lighted intermediate landing field at Pampa and another one at Canadian. These fields were established to furnish landing facilities to aircraft needing to land before reaching their destination, and are similar to over 200 others on federal airways in different sections of the country. These fields are established approximately 50 miles apart in conjunction with regular airports along the airways.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 18. (AP)—With a late momentary flash of buying ardor, wheat today reached a new top point on the present movement of prices, but gains were only held in a slight degree.

Wheat closed steady, identical with yesterday's finish to 3/4 cent higher, May $1.00 1/4, corn 3/4-1/2 advanced, May 60 3/4, oats 3/4-1/2 up, and provisions varying from 50 decline to 12 cents gain.

Corn and oats were strengthened by predictions of a cold wave.

CAMPAIGN OF IMMUNIZATION AGAINST DIPHTHERIA BEGUN

Dr. R. A. Webb, county health officer, yesterday appealed to parents to have their children immunized against diphtheria.

He called attention to the fact that there were 1,661 cases of diphtheria in Texas in the last three months, and that the aggregate cost of them was $16,661. Some of these were in Gray county.

"Diphtheria is deadly but preventable," he said. "Diphtheria toxin is not harmful in any way, has no reaction, and prevents diphtheria. The cost is very little and the results are permanent."

Children of 6 months of age to 12 years should be given the toxoid, the doctor said. In families of the unemployed, the county health officer will provide the toxoid if the family has been in the county six months.

Parent-Teacher associations are being asked to cooperate in making the campaign effective.

"The God above gave us our children and also gave us intelligence to care for them, and He certainly expects us to use it," Dr. Webb stated. "But the facts are that proper precautions are not being taken—diseases all over this county point to neglect. . . . Every child under 12 years can be made forever free of diphtheria. I am asking parents to assist me in carrying out this program. See your doctor."

League Council Likely to Shun Oil Sanctions

GENEVA, Jan. 18. (AP)—Officials of the League of Nations predicted tonight that the greatly advertised proposed oil boycott against Italy would not see the light of day at a meeting of the council beginning Monday.

Great Britain, they pointed out, seems opposed to any British initiative toward imposing new sanctions. Premier Pierre Laval of France has always regarded the oil sanction with disfavor.

Soviet Russia is occupied with its appeal to the league against Uruguay's action in breaking off diplomatic relations with her. Other powers, it was said, are likely to follow the lead of the big ones.

Two impressions prevail at Geneva toward Monday's session.

The first is that existing economic sanctions are slowly but surely hindering Premier Mussolini's capacity to wage war.

The second opinion heard—a new and quiet one—is that after all it could not be wise to permit Ethiopian armies to defeat the armies of Italy in any disastrous manner.

Behind this opinion is the idea that such a victory for the Negus might excite all the races of Africa to revolt against European powers with colonies there.

Kipling May Be Buried in Abbey

LONDON, Jan. 18. (AP)—Rudyard Kipling, Great Britain's poet and story teller who died early today, may be buried in Westminster Abbey among the nation's greatest sons.

Kipling's own wishes for his burial place, friends said, probably will be the only deciding factor. Throughout his life he shunned national honors, refusing knighthoods several times.

The British museum disclosed that Kipling, shortly before his death, gave "it the manuscript of 'Kim,'" probably the greatest as well as one of the most popular of his longer works.

The body will be cremated, the family has announced. It was taken to a chapel from the hospital bed where he underwent an emergency operation Monday for a perforated stomach ulcer.

Kipling, who was 70, had lived in seclusion for many years in the village of Burwash, Sussex.

'ID RATHER HAVE A BUICK BUT'

What do you mean, BUT!

WHAT keeps you from driving a Buick—not next year—but now—today?

Is it the money?

Time payments on a Buick are but two or three dollars a week more than on the lowest-priced cars—less than that, when you figure the "extras" a smaller car usually calls for.

Is it the upkeep?

Buick is a big comfortable car that gives small-car gas mileage, small-car mileage on oil. You'll keep a Buick at least a year longer than you'll keep a lesser car—and probably spend less on it for service and repair in the meantime!

Could it be habit?

Maybe you get used to buying in the low-priced field—you get the idea a big car costs too much to run—you resign yourself to small-car comfort, ability, performance—and plain human nature keeps you from inquiring further!

Maybe a Buick is a bit beyond your reach. But let's not admit it until we've got the actual figures!

We'll gamble our time against yours to show you just what a Buick will cost—to buy—to run—to keep in good condition. We've surprised many a small-car owner with our thrifty figures, thrilled them with a demonstration.

Let us show you our arithmetic—and what a Buick can do out on the road. It won't cost a penny—and it may make you a lot happier—with a Buick!

IT COSTS LESS NOW TO BUY ON TIME!

The new GMAC 6% TIME PAYMENT PLAN not only makes it easier to figure the cost of buying on time, but saves money that you can use to get a better car. For example, a Buick Special business coupe listed at the factory (safety glass included, standard and special accessory groups extra) at only . . . $765*

Dusting The Covers Of Texas History For THE TEXAS CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF 1936

AUSTIN, Jan. 18.—Fame of the Republic of Texas spread rapidly after the fall of Mexican dominion, and it was not many years after independence was declared that agents from many foreign countries entered upon private schemes to colonize the new republic with men of their own race.

After being in Texas only a short time, Ikin became involved in some land deals, and in an effort to attract English settlers to Texas, he wrote a small travel book, or emigrant guide, which he loftily entitled, "Texas: Its History, Topography, Agriculture, Commerce, and General Statistics, to Which is Added a Copy of the Treaty of Commerce between the Republic of Texas and Great Britain. Designed for the Use of the British Merchant, and as a Guide to Emigrants."

This volume was published in London by Sherwood, Gilbert and Piper, Paternoster Row, in 1841, and bore on its frontispiece a sketch of the Alamo.

Despite the fact that he had been in Texas only a brief while, Ikin accumulated a vast amount of data on the history of the new republic, its physical characteristics and its opportunities for the immigrant settler. His account is enlivened with bits of poetry, with anecdotes, with tales of Indian encounters.

In the later chapters of his little volume are to be found remarkably accurate discussions of the agricultural products grown in Texas, and detailed information on methods of growing crops. Mineral resources of Texas were being exploited even in the colonization times, according to his records, and prospects for development were alluring.

It was but natural that Ikin should furnish his readers with a brief history of Texas. His introduction and prefatory note, however, are of some significance. The first reads:

"The peculiar advantages of position, and the large productive capabilities with which it is endowed the second Anglo-American republic, are, since the recognition of that republic by Great Britain, becoming matters of so much interest, that it is presumed any correct information respecting the country cannot fail to be acceptable. Such information has, however, been already most ably and amply furnished by Mr. Kennedy, in his recently published volumes on the Rise, Progress, and Prospects of Texas; after the appearance and favorable reception of which, the present little work might well be deemed one of supererogation, or perhaps impertinence, could it not plead the limited scope of its object, which aims at no more than to present a concise and cursory, but, at the same time, practical account of Texas, for the information of those, who, for want of time, or from other circumstances, may as yet have been prevented perusing the more extensive and standard work.

The material for the following pages were chiefly obtained in Texas, where the writer has extensively traveled, anxious to obtain correct information, and mixing with every class of society. The exaggerated statements, so often complained of in descriptions of new countries, it has been his especial endeavor to avoid; though he would observe that, in describing a really fine country—as Texas is generally admitted to be—the truest statements are liable to be thought overcharged. Should such a view of the outline of Texian history, topography, agriculture, commerce, and general statistics, as he has sought to furnish, produce in the reader the wish to obtain a more intimate and extended acquaintance with the subject, he will find full satisfaction in the interesting pages of Mr. Kennedy."

A note which prefaced his history of Texas, relates to a question which no doubt occasioned much discussion in the early days of the republic, namely whether the citizens of the republic were "Texans" or "Texians." Ikin declared:

"Contrary to the best British authorities, the orthography which designates the people of Texas—Texians, instead of Texans, has been preferred in the following account, not with any reference to the more correct derivation, nor to euphony, but simply because the people and government of Texas, who are supposed to be the best judges in such a question, have irrevocably sanctioned the former spelling, by the wording of their public acts and treaties."

The historical background of Texas, as chronicled by Ikin, Texian consul from England, was as follows: "The history of Texas, previously to having furnished its recent chapter for the annals of the Anglo-Saxon race, presents but few and meager details of secondary interest.

Prior to 1690, the country formed a remote and merely nominal part of the conquest of Cortes, inhabited only by predatory Indian tribes, from the principal of which, the Comanches, it is said to have received its appellation of Texas—pronounced gutturally Taygh—has which, in Comanche language, is understood to signify, paradise, id est, 'happy hunting-ground'.

The French, who seem ever to have entertained a special leaning towards this territory, first aroused the attention of Spain to its neglected condition, by taking possession of it (1685) in the name of the French king, and establishing a colony in Matagorda bay. In 1689, an expedition, under Alonso de Leon, drove out these intruders; and in 1690 the Spaniards made their first permanent settlement in Texas, which was the 'mission', or monastic establishment of San Francisco. Several other missions were soon after raised, three or four of which, holding out to settlers the protection of a fort, as well as the benefit of a church, became the nuclei around which gradually grew well-built and considerable towns. "Most of these edifices, which were formed of stone, remain more or less entire, many of them possessing much architectural beauty, and imparting to the landscape a feature of the picturesque unknown to the more northern parts of America.

"The first settlers were monks, soldiers, and a small colony from the Caharies; though their present descendants show as much of the Indian mixture as in other parts of Mexico. The cultivation of small, but fruitful fields, and the tending of large herds of cattle, formed their easy occupation; in which, and in the enjoyment of their cigars, siestas, fandangos, and monte tables, for more than a century, little occurred to disturb them, save the molestations of the Indians, who, invited by the champaign character of the country, soon became expert horsemen, frequently robbed and murdered the Spanish muleteers, and sometimes even attacked the settlements.

The Texian Indians have always been represented as peculiarly savage and treacherous, addicted to cannibalism and other unnatural crimes, and possessing few of the redeeming traits of character accorded to the more northern red men. (Note: The following extract from the account of a Texian engagement with Indians, which took place some time ago, will give an idea of the character of these tribes. The writer, after an account of the atrocities which had caused the Texans to take arms against the savages—including a touching recital of the anguish of a young and beautiful mother, whose infant was snatched from her arms, tossed up, and caught, as it fell, by an Indian on his spear—proceeds to relate the bloody victory obtained over them; after which, he states that, in riding over the battle ground, they observed a crowd of Tonkhuas (Indian allies of the Texans) gathered around the fallen Comanche chief, and busily engaged in cutting off his hands and feet, and the choice pieces of flesh from his body; and with perfect indifference attaching it by strings to their saddles, with the buffalo and venison they had prepared for the expedition. The next morning," he continues, "we found the Tonkhuas broiling and eating the fat yellow flesh of the Comanches for their breakfast, reserving the feet, hands, etc., for their squaws. We drew near their camp fire, and Placedore, the chief, holding up to us a nice piece of broiled Indian, cried out in broken

Spanish, "Comanche much wano," which meant that the Comanche was very good.

"The trade of the country was entirely limited to the driving of some cattle and horses into the neighboring provinces. The soil was interdicted to foreigners, and the numerous harbours and inlets of the coast were the resort only of the daring pirates of the Gulf and Spanish main, almost the last of whom, the celebrated Lafitte maintained his headquarters on Galveston Island until 1814. "A different state of things was first prognosticated by the sagacious Humboldt, who, early in the present century, foresaw the future importance of the country, founded on its natural resources, its admirable commercial position, and, above all, its contiguity to the United States." Peru supplanted Brazil the first six months of 1935 as an important purveyor of cotton for Japan, official figures showed.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

Chapter 26 PUFF WAGAN Willett went up to his room, opened the door, and stepped on the threshold in astonishment. A girl was sitting in the chair. It was Puff Harrington. Willett was speechless for a moment, then he remembered she had asked him where he was staying in New York.

"Hello, Louise," she greeted. "Louise?" "Uh, huh. You're Louise Maranway whom I'm visiting in New York Dear Louise."

Terry shut the door behind him and looked at her thoughtfully. She lounged nonchalantly in the chair, attractive in her soft cadet blue wool sports suit, light fox collar and smart little felt hat with nose veil.

"How," he inquired, "did you get here?" "Alas, what a welcome!" she sighed. "Puff, my child, you picked a dandy to chase, Terry. It was very simple. Examine my sleeves at your leisure and look no more for mirrors."

"I waited a long time for you last night and when you didn't come I called the West house to inquire your whereabouts and was told that a Mr. Willett had called and left long ere since. So I took a chance, departed thither; and by judicious use of several pictures of Abraham Lincoln against a background of green, contrived to be let into your room."

She smiled at him. "It was so much pleasanter waiting here than in the lobby." She gestured toward a tray of White Rock glasses, cracked ice and a large square bottle.

"I even arranged it so that the party starts off right." "Oh, we're going to have a party?" "So I hope, and so I've planned. I told you I knew this town like the palm of my hand. We're going lots of places and see lots of things. Just take my hand, Lancelot."

Well, why not? Better than sitting around alone. Looked as though that cot had spun both ways. Step on the gas and catch the lights as you go along.

"She stretched out her hands and gave a deep sigh of relief." "Who cares?" she repeated. "You had a lousy time last night, didn't you?"

Willett frowned at his glass. "I'm forgetting last night." "What were you looking for, Lancelot?" "Puff, I don't think you'd understand if I told you."

"No? What makes you think so?" She clasped her hands behind her dark head and stretched herself comfortably. "Come on over and sit down, darling."

She jerked off her hat, flung herself on the divan, and gave a deep sigh of relief. "Who cares?" she repeated. "You had a lousy time last night, didn't you?"

FINGERS TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY

JANUARY 31, AT LEFORS SCHOOL

The dramatic story of "Fingers," boy crook who was reformed in a boys' club sponsored by "big brothers," will be told when the play of that title is presented at Lefors in the school auditorium, Friday night, January 31. It was announced yesterday.

The same cast of 17 boys and four adults which presented the play here twice before approximately 800 persons will appear in the drama at Lefors. The boys' club will sponsor the production and will share in the proceeds.

Principal J. H. Duncan said that "the money we will receive will be a secondary consideration; we want every parent, every teacher and every student in Lefors to see the play, because of the incident it might have on the spectators." An award of $500 will be given to the best play when it was presented for the junior high band uniform fund last Tuesday morning before about 500 parents and pupils. Principal J. A. Selby asked that the play be given especially for Junior High.

Mr. Duncan announced that the price of admission will be 10 cents for students, 15 cents for adults, and the entire family for 35 cents. "Our policy will be to derive a community benefit from seeing the play, more so than for the scouts to receive financial aid."

The cast includes 17 boys, 13 and 14 years old. Mrs. Florence Caskey is director.

HARVESTERS SWAMP AMARILLO 24 TO 9 TO WIN 23RD STRAIGHT CAGE TILT

SANDIES MAKE ONLY 3 FIELD GOALS IN ROUT

LONG-DISTANCE SHOTS FURNISH MOST OF PAMPA POINTS

The Harvesters basketball team didn't beat the Amarillo Golden Sandies cagers as much as Berger did, but they did defeat them 24 to 9, last night.

The second string played about three and one-half minutes, and at that time Bailey, Harvester forward, sank a basket.

The Harvesters made few mistakes in the first half, but in the last their passing was ragged and haphazard.

Ayer furnished the largest crowd of the season, which comfortably filled the gym. Spectacular sharp-shooting from the center of the court. In the first half, he stood near center and swished the basket three times.

It was evident that the Sandie basketball team is definitely inferior this year; the boys know it, but they enjoy playing.

The Junior high school band, wearing new blue uniforms, furnished snappy music for the occasion.

Reserves used by Coach Mitchell were Bailey and Kitchens, forwards; Dix, center; Baker, Nobilit and Keyser, guards.

Refered Frank Monroe assessed 7 fouls against the Harvesters, as follows: Green 1, Strickland 2, Ayer 2, Jones 1, Nobilit 1; and three against the Sandies as follows: McLendon 1, Cochran 1 and R. Miller 1.

Skelly Oilers in One-Sided Win

The Skelly Oilers lined up with Brochasts and Guest, forwards; Hayes, center; and Fowler and Pfaff, guards. Williams, Price and Barnes also saw service.

TOP HURDLERS OF U. S. WILL NOT ENTER BERLIN OLYMPICS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18. (AP)—America's cherished ambition to reclaim world supremacy in hurdling in the 1936 Olympic track and field sports has been dealt a double blow.

On top of the withdrawal of Percy Beard, the great Alabama high hurdler, from the ranks of candidates for your Uncle Samuel's team, comes the information that Louisiana State's Glenn Hardin, the world record-holder over the 400-meter hurdling route, faces an uphill fight even to make the trip to Berlin.

TED TWOMEY IS APPOINTED TEXAS COACH

AUSTIN, Jan. 18. (AP)—The University of Texas board of regents today approved appointment of Ted Twomey, former Notre Dame star, as football line coach.

Twomey was advised of the action immediately and ordered to report at his earliest convenience.

The appointment was approved by the board of regents in a telegraphic poll conducted by the regents' athletic committee.

Line Coach To Assist Chevigny Named By Regents

Twomey succeeds Tim Moynihan, former Notre Dame center, who served as line coach two years. Moynihan said shortly after the first of the year he would not return to Texas but would seek a head coachship and if he could not obtain one would go into business.

Glass Selects Federal Reserve Board Members

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—A board approved for the most part by the conservative Sen. Glass (D Va.) was reported to have been selected today by President Roosevelt to run the federal reserve system after February 1.

Authoritative sources said the tentative selections for the new board would retain only two of the present members—Marriner S. Eccles, slated for the chairmanship, and M. S. Szymczak of Chicago.

In choosing the new board, President Roosevelt was said to have discussed the matter at length with Senator Glass (D Va.) widely known as the father of the federal reserve system. Glass was said to have approved the selections.

The other names placed on the tentative list were: Joseph P. Broderick, a former New York superintendent of banks; Ronald Ransom, an official of the Fulton National Bank of Atlanta; John H. McKee, chief bank examiner of the reconstruction finance corporation.

William Trufant Foster, a Harvard professor whose writings and lectures have advocated huge government spending in times of depression.

A farmer, representing agriculture, whose identity was not disclosed.

a house storm over farm policies with the practiced ease of a cow-rancher in his Texas Panhandle country swaying on the hurricane deck of a morning pilot.

The strength of his story strategy, like that of his speech, is its simplicity. It quality in his life illustrated by the story told of him when he was a buck private in the army during the World War. He sat peeling potatoes when a telegram came for him. He read the message and went back to his potatoes.

"What's the news, buddy?" asked a comrade.
"Well, I've just been re-elected to congress," said Private Jones.
Two years ago Jones stood in the well of the house, defending the Bankhead compulsory cotton control measure. It was a bill to stir the doubts and fears of a good many of his fellow southerners and by Jones' later confession one of the most difficult of his life to handle on the floor. Leading it through all the parliamentary jungles, he emerged into the lobby for a breath of air as the roll call ended. News-men asked for a statement.

"Where?" said Chairman Jones.

Jones comes from a district that would make a good-sized state in most any other part of the country—a district of wheat, of cattle, of cotton. In these commodities he is an acknowledged expert.
He has a Texas drawl, not sharply pronounced, lives quietly and inexpensively, enjoys hunting more than any other sport, and frequently wears an air of being undecided about some question for the same reason a poker player's face goes blank when he draws the fourth ace.

'Stripping' Will Be Considered in Hearing, Jan. 21

AUSTIN, Jan. 18. (AP)—The status of "stripper" operations in the Panhandle gas field under a new conservation act will be considered in a federal court hearing on three suits Jan. 21 at Dallas.

Suits were brought by the American Gasoline company, Smith Brothers, Inc., and the Skelly Oil company, operators of stripping plants in the Panhandle. They sought to enjoin operation and effect of the anti-waste gas act.

The suits involved the right of the companies to strip natural gas from its gasline content and pop the residue to the air, the attorney general's department said, estimating the yield at about one-third gallon of gasoline to 1,000 cubic feet of gas.

Strippers contended they should be permitted to continue such operations during the life of interlocking injunctions granted certain gas pipe line companies. They argued the double-edged act should stand or fall in its entirety rather than in units.

Two propositions were embraced in the act. One feature vested in the railroad commission authority to prohibit natural gas production among all wells in the fields. The other specified uses to which natural gas could be put and forbade stripping operations in which the residue gas blows into the air.

C. G. Huicking of Skellytown underwent an emergency appendectomy at Pampa-Jarratt hospital yesterday morning. His condition last night was favorable.

Franklin Montgomery of Skellytown is spending the week-end with his parents here.

Worried? You'd Never Think It of Late AAA Chiefs

Little would an observer have suspected the load of care that rested on the shoulders of Chester Davis, standing, left, administrator of the late AAA, and the smiling secretary of agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, beside him, as they looked over the group of farm representatives assembled in Wallace's office. The two government officials were presiding over a conference out of which they hope a solution of the farm problem will emerge. Wallace warned the farm leaders that a great surplus of corn and cotton might be expected unless a production program was adopted immediately and his stand was backed by President Roosevelt.

Couple Marries After Separation Of Thirty Years

EL PASO, Jan. 18. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Willington H. Pyne, who married here today after a separation of 30 years, intend to make the best of the time left them and "enjoy life," they said tonight.

Mrs. Pyne, who was Mrs. Bertha Maud Morgan White, Los Angeles widow, recalled her wedding day, tonight before her husband, when Mr. Pyne carried her books home from school, helped her cut wood for the family cook stove and when they slipped away to skate on the frozen pond near their homes in Ontario, Canada.

Pyne, who is secretary of Texas Lodge No. 8, A. F. & M., and a member of Alzar Temple, San Antonio, blamed his early impression he had to "make a stake before marrying" for the long delayed wedding.

Mrs. Pyne's husband, a doctor, died 12 years ago. Mr. Pyne's wife died at San Antonio a year ago.

"My daughter will call Mr. Pyne Uncle Wellington" and his two daughters will call me 'Aunt Maud,'" Mrs. Pyne said.

Democrats Try To Avoid Strife In Its Own Ranks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—Political strategy in both major parties appeared tonight to be approaching a bedrock basis at least. Conflicting claims and protests had rung as usual through the week. But less spectacular, isolated conferences at the "white house" worked together of the inevitable time when words would no longer suffice.

On the democratic side, an immediate aim evidently was to keep factional strife in important states to a minimum. Conferences at the "white house" prompted new tactics in California and Georgia. Ohio and Illinois leaders arrive next week.

The New York situation also is getting attention. What eventuates here depends to an extent on how Alfred E. Smith defines his anti-"deal" position to the American Liberty league dinner here a week from tonight.

Whether the 1936 presidential nominee will hint of any determination to participate actively in the Philadelphia convention is especially awaited.

Scotland Yard Inspector Hits Crime in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—Inspector Arthur Bishop of Scotland Yard told reporters today that America's kidnappings, racketeer swindles and gang crimes "couldn't happen in England."

He avoided talk of the Lindbergh case, but defended the death penalty for violent crimes.

"Men show they have no right to live when they do certain things," the inspector declared.

The man from the famous "C. I. D." met reporters in the office of Chief Post Office Inspector Kildroy P. Aldrich. Bishop came to America to testify in the "Drake estate swindle" case in Chicago.

"I can tell you that," he smiled. "There is no kidnapping in England."

"Persistence is the secret of the 'Yard's' success," he said. "That and the cooperation of the public. But I think that persistence is the real answer. We don't leave a case until we've got the fellow who did it."

of fertility and not merely erosion control.

Administration leaders have said that the soil conservation act would be the basis for a new program calling for cash payments to farmers. They hoped to obtain authorization through amendments rather than new laws.

Wallace said he believed the people of the United States would be "gravely concerned" over efforts of manufacturers to obtain refund of processing taxes paid the treasury.

Public opinion, he added, "would not tolerate" refund of these taxes which he asserted have been passed on to the consumer by processing firms. The Supreme Court's decision in a rice miller's case has been interpreted as requiring the return of the impounded $200,000,000.

Regulation of Gas Industry Planned

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—Chairman Rayburn (D Tex.) of the house interstate commerce committee indicated today legislation to regulate the natural gas industry probably would be considered this session.

"We want to wait until the trade commission's recommendations have been printed," he said, "but there probably will be something done about it."

The commission completed recently an investigation of the industry with recommendation for state-federal supervision.

The utilities control law enacted last session originally included provisions to regulation pipe line companies, but this was dropped from the bill by the house committee to give the trade commission time to complete its inquiry.

Although some of the forward driving power was absent in business and industry last week, the economic status of the nation remained distinctly favorable when compared with the previous week and the comparable period a year ago.

A slowing down in retail trade was noted in some sections of the country, in many cases because of unsettled weather, but various surveys declared business in the aggregate much better.

Wholesalers found a greater interest among retailers in new spring lines, and a decidedly cheerful tone was sounded by one survey which stated retail stocks by the end of this month should be the lowest in six years.

The department of commerce for the week ended Wednesday reported "Retail trade in substantially all parts of the country maintained a consistent upward trend."

Local A. A. U. W. Aids Fellowship Fund for Women

DALLAS, Jan. 18.—Nearly 200 women in the United States and in Latin America have benefited through fellowships made available by the American Association of University Women since the first fellowship was awarded in 1889, according to Miss Edna Rowe of Dallas, fellowship chairman of the Texas division of A. A. U. W.

The Texas division set aside January 17 as state fellowship day, and the entire month of January is being celebrated by the thirty branches in this state as a period in which special fellowship programs are sponsored. One branch, that at Fort Worth, has arranged two radio programs for national broadcast as part of its fellowship campaign.

The A. A. U. W. a national organization of women who are graduates of a large number of recognized American colleges, was established in 1864, in recognition of the fact that if women are to be enabled to carry on research on a par with men students, women college graduates must aid in making that equality possible. The A. A. U. W. has undertaken a national crusade for the establishment of fellowships for women. Miss Rowe explained that the organization now maintains thirteen national and international fellowships, and in addition has set itself a goal of $1,000,000 as a permanent endowment fund.

The Texas division of A. A. U. W. has accepted the responsibility of raising $40,000 as its unit of the national $1,000,000, and has chosen to name its fellowship the Helen Marr Kirby fellowship, in honor of Mrs. Helen M. Kirby, for more than three decades dean of women at the University of Texas.

It is also in tribute to Mrs. Kirby that January 17 was designated in Texas as A. A. U. W. fellowship day. Miss Rowe pointed out, joining in the program to raise funds—by theatricals, bridge parties, mapselling, athletic contests, jewelry sales, fashion, teas, etc.—are the local branches in the following Texas cities: Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Belton, Brownwood, Canyon, Childress, Commerce, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Denton, El Paso, Fort Worth, Huntsville, Kingsville, Lubbock, Marshall, Mission, Nacogdoches, Pampa, Port Arthur, San Angelo, San Antonio, San Benito, San Marcos, Stephenville, Texasana, Tyler, Waco and Wichita Falls.

ALL-DAY MEETING OF BELL CLUB HELD "Sticking a chicken is an art," said Miss Ruby M. Adams to Bell Home Demonstration club women when she demonstrated killing and canning poultry at an all-day meeting with Mrs. Clyde King Wednesday. She showed how the jugular veins should be severed, their junction, and the chicken's mouth held open and neck stretched so the blood flowed freely. Sticking must be done before the bird dies, she said. The knife point must be plunged into the extreme base of the brain from the outside, under the eye, or inside through the roof of the mouth. Unless the back part of the brain is reached, the reaction will cause feathers to tighten instead of loosen, she continued.

Mrs. O. G. Smith of Kingsmill club assisted Miss Adams. A covered fish lunch was served at noon to four guests, Mrs. Theo Duncan of White Deer, Mrs. Smith, C. R. King.

VERSATILE GOWN WORN TO DINNER AND DANCE

LONDON (AP)—A simple gown with a broken cleave line and a draped scarf which can be arranged to cover a low cut back expresses the latest trend in double-date fashions. It is becoming more popular than the sleeveless gown and coatee.

This dress is cozy for dinner when the scarf is looped at the neck and hangs behind. For dancing the scarf is rearranged and draped about the waist to reveal the low-cut back.

GREAT DAYS AHEAD: Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.—1 Corinthians 2:9.

Who Owns the United States?

If only a few persons own the United States, the attitude of the millions of employees will be vastly different from the attitude they would assume if ownership of property and money were well diffused. There are so many mistaken ideas about property ownership by those who own little that it is easy to understand some of the loose thinking being done lately.

There is a popular following that taxes should be loaded on the wealthy, on business, and kept away from the working man. While we have an American principle of taxation that levies should be roughly according to ability, it should be equally well known that taxes can and often are passed right back to these people in the form of higher rents, higher prices for commodities the "poor man" must have. Any form of public extravagance is taxed against everyone in considerable degree—EVERYONE PAYS TAXES, many of them; indeed, hundreds of them.

Moreover, it is a fallacy of wide repute that 2 per cent of the people own 80 to 90 per cent of the nation's wealth. Recently during the Ford Motor company hour on the air, some facts of tremendous importance were given. They are worthy of repetition, coming from a source which, representative of American industrial integrity, is not likely to be successfully challenged. It was stated:

"Who own the homes and farms and personal property, the stores and factories, the money stock and the debts of the United States? Use 1929 or 1933 statistics, it doesn't matter. There are the same number of homes and farms and productive facilities and people, the same amount of land, whether the national wealth is 460 billion dollars, the estimate for 1929, or 320 billions, the estimate for 1933. Who gets the income of the United States? Who controls the productive and distributive process? Tonight we can deal only with ownership.

"In 1929 the largest single block of wealth, 22% of the whole, was dwellings, the homes of the people, valued at 102 billion dollars. Who owns them? Next in volume of wealth were the farms at 58 billion dollars, or 12% of the whole. Who owns those farms? Next comes personal property—clothing, household furnishings, jewelry, automobiles—amounting to 49 1/2 billion dollars, or 11 1/2% of the national wealth. All of us recognize that ownership of these is almost entirely with individuals.

"Of the 25 million houses and lots in this country, 17 million are owned by their occupants, most of the others are the small investments of the same individuals. In cities, 70% of this property is free of mortgage, and banks hold only one-fifth of such mortgages as exist. Of the 6 million farms, 3 1/2 million are owned by the men who operate them, and 600,000 of these owners rented additional land. Almost two-thirds of our crop land is owned by the farmers who harvest it. But what about the farm mortgage? In 1930 the mortgaged farms were worth 21 billion dollars and the mortgages less than 7 billion dollars. About 30% of the farm mortgage claim was held by farmers themselves, active and retired; 32% by farmers' local financial institutions and insurance companies, and 19% by government agencies. The 1932 turnover in farm ownership was 8%, only half of that being due to bankruptcy. As a source of disaster the farm mortgage seems comparatively small. The farmers' debt in 1933 was in better shape than the government or corporation debt. Again: Personal property of nearly 50 billion dollars value is almost completely owned by its users. Take the 25,000,000 automobiles for example. About 38% of them are paid for when bought; 96 1/2% of installment purchases result in full ownership. From facts like these it is impossible to create a creditor class lordling it over a debtor class.

"Add to these the 2% of the national wealth represented by a million and a half retail stores—you know that nine-tenths of the stores are little stores, the property of business or both of individuals. Add another 5% for local business buildings—offices, warehouses, repair shops, clubs—and you have accounted for over 50% of the national wealth. Add to this the wealth we own collectively, the churches, schools, colleges, libraries, museums, parks, government property, and it grows to 58%.

"Then we come to what is called corporate wealth. Take public utilities and transportation; together they account for 14% of the wealth, normally 63 billion dollars. Their ownership is distributed among 12 million people—45% of them women—so widely distributed that government has based a policy on that fact. Manufacturing constitutes 9% of the nation's wealth, or 42 1/2 billion dollars. It consists normally of 200,000 factories with their equipment. Most of the factories are small places owned by one or several persons; 145,000 factories, or 72 1/2%, produce each less than $100,000 worth of goods a year. The rest are the big industries. Conservatively computing the private individual share in these things, we have this—about 72% of the nation's wealth is held by ordinary individual owners.

"That disposes of the falsehood that while our people are working and rearing their families and minding their own business, this country was stolen from them. It has been worth while to clear up that point. If you live in long settled parts you can confirm this by personal observation in your own streets, or town or countryside. But it doesn't really change anything. The wealth of the country is not owned by a handful of people, but that does not solve our difficulty. It only brings us point blank against the fact that, divided rightly or divided wrongly, there is not enough wealth anyway—not enough, under any division, to permit every American family the standard of life we cherish. Rich as our country is, and no nation is richer, it is yet too poor—even in its prosperity it is too poor—to realize our common ideal of an opportunity and cultural margin for all. Reduce all the wealth to an exact equality, and even then our economic supply does not anywhere near equal our economic requirement. That is a bitter pill to national pride, but it is a tonic medicine if we will receive it. Our immediate pressing job is to create more and produce more and render it easily accessible; create so much more, that the very pressure and overflow of production will force adequate distribution."

A Harvard man invented a radio burglar alarm. If the man of the house is joined under the bed by an interloper he can blame the Shadow.

"Chicago police trap and gang leader, ill with palsy." The farce undoubtedly is jubilant over the double haul.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Jan. 18. (P)—Governor Allred has made a solemn New Year's resolution to abandon a promising career as a practical joker.

The decision was made a few minutes after the governor discovered he had been the victim of a practical joke engineered by Bob Barker, secretary of the senate: While Allred was at the Rose Bowl football game Barker innocently telegraphed him that Acting Governor Wilbourne Collier had called a special session of the legislature to consider passage of a general sales tax only.

The telegram was delivered to Governor Allred during the last period of the game and he admitted he "fell for it like a ton of brick." He is strongly opposed to a state sales tax.

"I had it coming to me, though," he commented. "I've certainly played enough jokes on other people but hereafter that sort of stuff is out."

To persons who expressed surprise that the governor would be deceived by Barker's innocent telegram the executive replied: "You just don't know what mental attitude we were in during that game and the excitement we had been through. You would have believed it, too, had you been on the go as we were all during the trip."

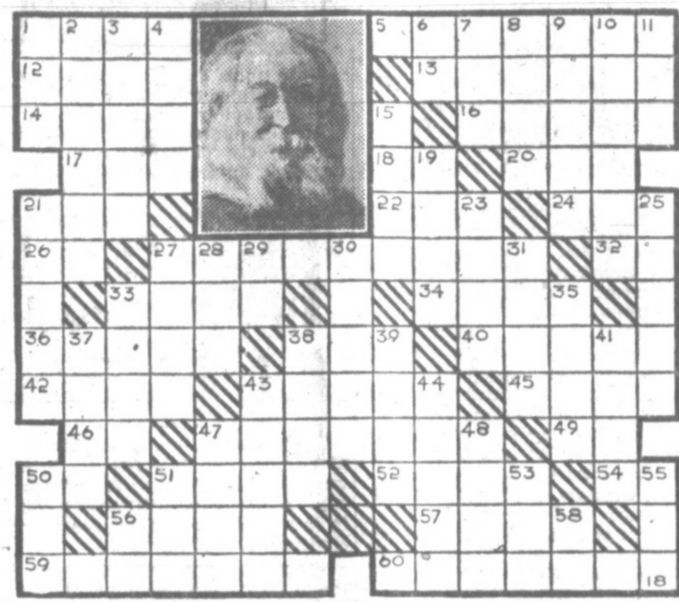

Governor Allred took the joke so seriously that he was packing his grips with one hand, eating a sandwich with the other and between bites trying frantically to get through a long distance call to his secretaries. Pat Moreland, one of his secretaries, was attempting to make airplane reservations for a rush back to Texas.

Governor Allred had nothing but compliments for the hospitality of Californians. He said they were greatly surprised at the number of Texans who made the long trip for the game. Railroads, he said, reported it was the greatest single peace time mass movement.

The governor said the Centennial received almost priceless publicity throughout the Tournament of Roses and predicted thousands of Californians would visit Texas this year.

'A Tale of Two Cities' Is Here

Sweeping across the screen with a power seldom equalled and perhaps never surpassed, "A Tale of Two Cities," starring Ronald Colman, opens today at La Nora theater to take its place among the truly magnificent photoplays of all time.

For a breathless 90 minutes the screen fairly throbs with scenes of romance, of adventure, of spectacular magnitude that make this picture a towering giant of entertainment. It is a picture that every man, woman, and child must see.

It presents Ronald Colman as Sydney Carton in a role that eclipses any of his previous achievements—a role which appears to have been tailored to his measure, giving him a full range for his dramatic talents. Sardonicly humorous, carelessly brilliant, utterly at ease and finally rising to almost dizzy heights of sacrifice for a love that never could be realized, Colman may well count "A Tale of Two Cities" the peak of his artistic career.

The story is familiar to every reader of the works of Charles Dickens. It comes to the screen without major alterations. It tells of the joys and tragedies of a little group of people, English and French, who became embroiled in the sinister workings of the French revolution of 1789. On the printed page it was a masterpiece of literature; on the screen it becomes a moving, vivid reality in which every element of entertainment is deftly blended.

The love of Sydney Carton for Lucie Manette, played by Elizabeth Allan, is a glorious thing. Although it never is consummated, could never be consummated, and although Lucie gives her hand to Charles Darnay, played by Donald Woods, the romance between Lucie and Carton transcends the limitations of life, defies the gates of death and becomes a thing of beauty to be remembered forever by fans.

For spectacular values, it is doubtful whether any picture since the advent of sound can be compared with "A Tale of Two Cities." Swinging the focal point of interest between London and Paris, it depicts the slow fermenting of revolt among the masses of the French peasantry, shows the intimate events that touch the flame to the powder, and then crowds the screen with such stirring scenes of tumult that words are empty to describe them. Scenes of the storming of La Force prison and the Bastille, scenes of the Revolutionary Tribunal, scenes of the famous Old Bailey trial in London—these are spectacular highlights that cannot be forgotten.

Of the distinguished cast—there are 112 speaking parts in the picture, more than half created by famous players—it is difficult to select outstanding performances, for every characterization is a gem. Elizabeth Allan, who first attracted attention in "David Copperfield," gives a magnificent performance as Lucie, and Donald Woods is the perfect Charles Darnay.

Edna May Oliver as the fiery Miss Pross rises to totally unexpected dramatic heights and becomes a new personality, a powerful emotional actress. Blanche Yurka, the distinguished stage star, making her screen debut as Mme. DeFarge, leader of the wild forces of the revolution, is a sensational hit. Reginald Owen is everything Mr. Stryver might be expected to be, and Basil Rathbone contributes an excellent performance as the cruel Marquis St. Evremonte.

In Little America, a cameraman learns to be a combination electrician, snow shoveler, comedian, and baker, according to John L. Herrmann, Paramount cameraman, and Carl Petersen, radio expert, who accompanied Admiral Byrd on his Second Antarctic expedition and returned with the film for his new adventure picture for Paramount, "Little America," now playing at the Rex theater.

"Tobacco Road" Is Of Wide Appeal In This Section

AMARILLO, Jan. 18.—With popular prices in effect for the Broadway success, "Tobacco Road," which will be presented Wednesday night in municipal auditorium record reservations are being made.

"Tobacco Road" will be seen by the largest audience ever attracted to a straight stage show in Amarillo.

Miss Lois Black of the News-Globe said today every mail brings orders from many different towns.

The prices for "Tobacco Road" range from 55 cents to $2.20. The best seats are in the first parquette and boxes. These are $2.20.

Seats in the second parquette and boxes are $1.65.

The best seats in the balcony are only $1; other balcony seats are 55 cents.

"Tobacco Road" now is in its third year on Broadway and capacity audiences are seeing the play in the larger cities.

This starting stage show, booked for Amarillo by the Tri-State Fair, depicts daringly the life of a family in the back country of Georgia.

The Jeeter Lester talk of only two things, sex and religion.

The same cast that has played for the last week in Kansas City will present the play here.

Mail orders for tickets should include stamped, self-addressed envelopes to avoid a delay at the box office on the night of the show.

Because of train connections curtain time for "Tobacco Road" will be 8:45 o'clock.

Forests to Honor World War Heroes

Memorial forests will be planted in many parts of the country as living tributes to the men who lost their lives in the World War, under the community service program of the American Legion Auxiliary. Planting of these forests and related conservation work is receiving major emphasis in the Auxiliary's nation-wide program of community improvement projects this year, according to Mrs. Al Lawson, chairman of the community service committee of the Kerley-Crossman unit of the Auxiliary.

A memorial forest of 640 acres was planted by the Auxiliary in Wisconsin last year, in cooperation with the United States forest service. It is hoped to establish similar forests in a number of other states this year, as conservation and recreation as well as memorial projects.

Cotton Bids to Regain Place in Southern Styles

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—King Cotton has put in his bid to regain part, at least, of his domain in the fashion world here.

Winter resort wardrobes feature cotton in many of the smarter daytime ensembles, as well as for formal evening wear.

A tricky cotton frock in dusty pink, ornamented with rows of buttons cut from native palmetto, was one of the high spots of recent private showings.

Taffeta in Sport Frocks
Stylists assert, however, that the monarch of the south will have to continue giving place to such other favored materials as chiffons, laces and velvets, particularly for late afternoon and evening wear.

Taffeta, usually swishing in grandeur at balls, is being smartly tailored in sports frocks, some of them in the military manner.

Skirts are slightly shorter in this season's sports frocks, the silhouette slim to the knees and distinguished by flares and gores.

Shorter Evening Gowns
All daytime frocks are farther from the floor, though lengths may be governed by individual taste. Shorter evening gowns also are favored.

Top-ranking colors include imperial blue, aurora, Formosa blue, spinner's red, the sinna shades, petunia and Devon green.

Low-heeled sandals, especially in gold and silver kid, remain in favor for evening wear.
