

Love Blooms Again As Dick And June Drop Divorce Proceedings

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—June Allyson and Dick Powell formally announced their reconciliation today and have instructed their attorneys to cancel divorce proceedings started a year ago.

The actress received a $2.5 million settlement from Powell last year before filing suit charging the actor-producer with "extreme cruelty."

Powell returned to the family home last summer, but Miss Allyson insisted they had not been reconciled.

"We're back together again for good," the blonde Mrs. Powell said today, displaying her diamond engagement and wedding rings. "And I couldn't be happier about it."

Powell nodded agreement, adding that the couple will build a new home.

"I've purchased some property down at Newport Beach on Lido Isle," he said. "Our boat is docked down there, and as soon as we can build the house we will make it our permanent home.

"With luck we hope to have the new place ready by September."

At the time divorce plans were announced the couple issued a statement saying they would continue to work together in Powell's Four-Star Productions. Miss Allyson was starring in a weekly television series when the break came.

When the interlocutory divorce decree was granted by Superior Judge Allen T. Lynch in Santa Monica, the couple had been married 15 years.

The petite blonde actress, 37, was awarded custody of their children, Pamela, 12, and Rickie, 10.

"Everything is straightened out now," June said.

"Richard is a wonderfully kind and considerate man. And I think we both are lucky people to have discovered we really belong together. Our lawyers will get together next week to cancel all the divorce plans, which means we're starting the new year out right."

Powell kissed his wife and headed to his studio.

"Will you be home for dinner, Darling?" June asked.

"Wouldn't miss it for the world," said Powell.

"Virtue does not allow inconsistency, nor does nature permit variation; and laws are imposed upon us by fear of punishment, not by our sense of justice."

Daniel Will Ask Strong Banking Law

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Price Daniel opened a 30-day special session of the Texas Legislature today with a vigorous new attack on the state's banks.

Daniel told lawmakers they must enact legislation to let the state claim abandoned bank accounts because many banks are consuming those accounts with service charges.

AUSTIN (UPI)—Sen. Charles Herring of Austin was chosen today by the state Senate to be president pro tempore for the third special session.

His selection came at a closed caucus before the session convened at 10 a.m. Election was to be made official later today.

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Price Daniel was prepared to open a 30-day special session of the Texas Legislature today with a strong demand for legislation to force banks to turn abandoned accounts over to the state treasury.

The session—marked by deep political undertones—convened at 10 a.m. Daniel was expected to be asked to address a joint meeting of the House and Senate.

A group of lawmakers, who claim the session is unwarranted, were expected to defy the governor with resolutions calling for immediate adjournment.

The first legislative business will be selection of a new president pro tem of the Senate. The new president will preside over the Senate since Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey has resigned to accept a place on the Railroad Commission.

Selection will be made in closed caucus at 9 a.m. Sen. Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, as president pro tem, has served as acting lieutenant governor since Ramsey's resignation.

Because the lieutenant governor's chair is vacant and a number of senators have announced as candidates for the post, the Senate tradition of naming presidents pro tem on a seniority basis may be forsaken.

Most lawmakers polled by United Press International said they would reject resolutions urging

Jet Pilot Found In Tree, Rescued

PICAYUNE, Miss. (UPI)—A pilot who bailed out of his stricken U2 high-altitude jet plane Tuesday night was rescued today from a marshland cypress tree where he hung by his parachute straps for more than 10 hours.

A Coast Guard helicopter found the pilot, Capt. Charles B. Stratton, 32, dangling in the tree in a swampy area near the Pearl River. His plane, the same type Francis Gary Powers was flying when he was shot down over Russia, apparently exploded and crashed on the Louisiana-Mississippi border near here.

Kennedy Shifts Plan About That Visit To Mexico; He Will Go

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President Kennedy has reinstated a plan to visit Mexico, thereby indicating the Mexican government may have shifted its hands off position toward Soviet-aligned Cuba.

It was announced here and in Mexico City Tuesday night that Kennedy had accepted an invitation from Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos, but without setting a date. The announcement said in part:

"President Kennedy has accepted this invitation with pleasure and looks forward to meeting personally with the president of our good neighbor to the south with which the United States has always enjoyed friendly relations. No date for this meeting has been set. It is expected that a date which is convenient to both presidents will be fixed later."

There was speculation the shift in Kennedy's attitude toward going to Mexico may have reflected a change in the attitude of Lopez Mateos toward the meeting later this month of the Organization of American States (OAS) in Uruguay.

Kennedy at one time had agreed informally to go to Mexico during the last week of this month. A formal announcement had not been made, however. Then, in Washington last month at another OAS meeting, Mexico voted with Cuba in opposing the January OAS session in Punta Del Este, Uruguay, which was voted to consider Cuba's entrance into the Soviet bloc.

Within the last two weeks, the plan for a January visit by Kennedy was quietly shelved.

With the Punta Del Este meeting due to start Jan. 22, there was a change in diplomatic weather over the Rio Grande and Tuesday night's announcement resulted.

Reservations are now being made at the Chamber of Commerce office in City Hall. People from outside Pampa are invited and urged to attend. Reservations will be accepted until noon Friday.

Gold Rush Era Prospector Will Speak In Pampa

Tales of adventure and current facts about Alaska will be the keynote of an address by Harold Elde before members of the Knife and Fork Club, at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 9, in the High School cafeteria.

A veteran of the Gold Rush Days, who knew Jack London, Tex Rickard and Klondike Kate, Elde will relate his experiences as a prospector and Eskimo trader. He knows the thrill of "striking it rich" after long weary months of hardship and near starvation.

This intrepid adventurer was born in northern Norway where he had become seasoned to cold and snow before going to Alaska. At the age of 15 years he already was a sailor on a sealing schooner. Later he joined an expedition to Spitsbergen Island where he took part in building Longyear City, the northern-most habitation in the world. After a year in the wastes of Greenland, Elde arrived in America at the age of 18. Hearing of the riches in the North, he set out for Alaska in quest of wealth.

Because of his 25 years of exploration in the wastelands of our territory to the North, Elde is the best informed man on Alaska today and is doing his part in promoting its present development.

Tickets for the Knife and Fork Club dinner meeting will be on sale at Malone's Pharmacy until 1 p.m. Monday.

Two More File For County Job

Two more Gray County men filed today for places on the May Democratic Primary ballot as county commissioners in Precinct 2.

G. L. (Nat) Lunsford, currently serving as Precinct 2, county commissioner issued the following statement:

"I am asking for a third term based upon my past record of improvements.

"I believe my experience in the past 7 years that I have served the people of Gray County as commissioner will help me understand their needs."

Also filing for commissioner in Precinct 2, was Clyde Organ, a Top O' Texas farmer for 30 years.

In announcing his candidacy, Organ said, "I believe I can spend the time serving the county in a way that will improve it."

Your Votes Can Help Friendliest Employees

Interest continues to mount as Pampa and Top O' Texas area residents cast their ballots in the current campaign to select the city's "Friendliest, Most Courteous" employees.

Everyone is asked to help make the decision. It's a six-week voting campaign, without obligation on the balloting.

The woman employee and the man employee receiving the highest number of votes will each receive $50 cash and a framed certificate, to be presented by the Pampa Daily News.

Voters, however, are urged to get started now, clipping and marking the ballots like the one which appears on page one of today's issue.

Border Checks Will Continue, Russia Asserts

BERLIN (UPI)—The Soviets have rejected an American protest against Communist police interference with U.S. traffic across the East-West border, the official East German newspaper Neues Deutschland said today.

The newspaper said Col. A. V. Solovjev, commandant of the Russian garrison in Berlin, told the U.S. commandant, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, that the Army's civilian employees must submit to border checks by Communist police.

Neues Deutschland attributed the information to informed sources.

The American protest was delivered Dec. 23 after Watson was not permitted to enter East Berlin when his civilian aides refused to produce their identity papers at the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint.

Watson's protest demanded assurances that official Western Allied traffic across the border would be unimpeded.

Neues Deutschland said Watson and his aides considered it beneath their dignity to submit to border controls. It said Russians entering West Berlin were willing to identify themselves and go through the formalities.

Watson's protest said that East German police do not have the right to check or control official American traffic.

A similar protest was sent by Walter C. Dowling, U.S. ambassador to West Germany, to Mikhail Perukhin, Russian ambassador to East Germany.

In retaliation for the Communist police action, the Americans barred Col. Solovjev and his political adviser from entering the American sector.

Neues Deutschland said Watson's aides were asked to identify themselves just as they would on any state border. It said East German officials did not demand the right to travel to Washington without being controlled.

The newspaper did not question Watson's right to enter East Berlin. But it said diplomats apparently meaning Watson's civilian aides, would have to show identity cards.

CHAPLINS 'EXPECTING'
CRANS-SUR-SIERRE, Switzerland (UPI)—Comedian Charlie Chaplin, 72, and his 36-year-old wife, Oona, are expecting their eighth child next summer, it was learned today.

Police Hunt Clues In Bludgeon Death

(UPI)—Police said today they had no clues in the bludgeoning slaying of a pretty society matron who was found in a partially filled bathtub at her blood-spattered $100,000 home.

Mrs. Doris G. Bowman, 32, wife of a prominent Los Angeles doctor, was struck seven or eight times Tuesday on the left side of the skull with a blunt instrument, police said.

Her body was dragged from the kitchen, where the beating apparently occurred, to the bathroom and was dumped in the tub.

Police said it was undetermined whether the pretty blonde died as the result of a blow or drowning.

The woman apparently was not sexually molested, officers said.

Katanga Accord Is Parley Topic

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—Members of Katanga's national assembly prepared to meet here today to discuss the accord reached by President Moise Tshombe and central government Premier Cyrille Adoula.

The accord called for the secessionist government here to send representatives to the Congo capital at Leopoldville to reopen negotiations on a unified Congo, it was hammered out at Kitona under United Nations and U. S. auspices.

Pampa Will Get Direct Distance Telephone Dialing This Summer

Direct distance dialing of long distance calls will come to Pampa telephone customers early next summer, it was announced today by George Newberry, telephone company manager. At the same time a similar service will go into effect in Borger, and in three of the four telephone exchanges in Amarillo, according to Newberry.

The phone company manager said he expects to be able to announce a definite date for the changeover sometime in the near future. He also said that he was unable to estimate the cost of converting the equipment here to the new dialing system but estimated "it will run into a considerable amount of money."

According to Newberry, the simultaneous changeover of the three Panhandle cities will be the largest dial cutover in Texas west of Fort Worth. He said Fort Worth was changed to the new system last year. At least one other West Texas city, Hereford, has direct distance dialing. It was converted in 1957.

When the new service is inaugurated in the three Panhandle cities, customers will be able to dial their own long distance calls to some 50 million telephones in over 4,500 cities across the country. Newberry said that all the telephone user will have to do on a long distance call is to dial "1," then the three-digit area code for the area of the country where the called telephone is located, then the number of the telephone he is calling.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Fowler, chief operator, said there will not be any telephone operators discharged or furloughed as a result of DDD. Mrs. Fowler said operators services will be required on person-to-person calls, collect calls, credit card calls, and calls from coin and rural telephones. Operators will also handle calls to points which cannot be dialed by the customer.

Italian provincial furniture, custom-tailored to a young homemaker's wishes, teams well with family antiques in this setting. The room has beige walls and carpeting, rust-toned antique satin draperies that repeat the color of fabric on one chair. Furniture is cushioned in urethane foam. Back of the sofa is an antique burl walnut table. Louis Philippe tier table has brass galleries and marble tops.

Custom Furniture Now Scaled To Low Budget

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
More sophisticated tastes and generally fatter home furnishings budgets of young homemakers are spurring manufacturers to greater efforts to capture this market. Those of us in the not-so-young bracket benefit from these efforts, too, if furniture replacements or additions are on the docket.
Not so long ago the young homemaker either clung to early American maple or went avant-garde with canvas slings and wrought iron. Then the simple Scandinavian styling claimed our attention and won hearty support because it is so well suited to modern homes and informal living patterns. Now another tune is being heard.
In recent interviews with interior designers, store salesmen and furniture showroom managers, I was assured that today's young homemaker demands more elegance in her living room, more mixing of design periods, more blending of old and new. I gather that by "elegance" is meant more decorated styles, plushy comfort and rich, patterned and textured fabrics.

I doubt that the trend has spiraled quite so magnificently as one top salesman believes as he made the point that young homemakers are truly quality conscious.
"Instead of paying $600 for a sofa they know will fall apart in three or four years," he said, "they want to pay $1,200 for one that will last awhile." Such affluent young homemakers are not acquaintances of mine. It seemed too dull of me to mention that I had heard about a beautiful but poorly engineered $10,000 sofa that really did fall apart.
Back to the more solid ground of $100 chairs and $200-$400 sofas (and that's still thinking big to me): one new development is a custom service in a new series by a large manufacturer with national distribution.
In this series of sofas and chairs, five basic styles are presented: Italian and French provincial, modern, traditional and early American.

After deciding on the basic style, the homemaker has a choice of sofa length: 60, 72, 84 or 96 inches. In chairs she chooses high or low back. Upholstery fabrics are divided into three price groups and there is a wide selection in each. Wood finishes also vary.
Mindful that too wide a selection can sometimes be more confusing than helpful, the manufacturer supplies a guide of recommended fabrics for each style group. Appropriate wood finishes also are recommended.
Urethane foam is used extensively for cushioning and padding for comfort, economy and the smooth, trim lines it gives to furniture. However, traditional or early American styles may be ordered with the urethane foam wrapped with acetate fiber to give cushions a puffy appearance.

ASK THE DESIGNER by gaile dugas

Dear Gaile: Will you please tell me what manufacturers think they are doing to us? I started out to buy a winter coat the other day and was horrified to find that nearly all of them featured a one-inch hem! What is this, anyway? Coats always used to have three-inch hems. I'm tall and since coats are short now, I nearly always have to have my coats let down. And I don't like this tacky way of doing things. By the way, I buy good clothes.—J. C.
Dear J. C.: I have just had the same experience. Just recently, I bought a coat I like very much. The hem must be let down and there's so little fabric to work with that my seamstress is forced to face the hem. So I took up the matter with Henry Freidricks, who has been cutting beautiful coats for a good many years. He says:
"To my knowledge, most of the better makers use a 2 1/2 or 2-inch hem. We do. We consider it essential for we know that the customer may want alterations sooner or later. We also like to allow for possible slight shrinkage of the fabric in the finishing and pressing. We always run tests of the fabric before we go into production. And we work out all possible error in the samples before we ever cut a line."
To this, I add my own advice: Let the store know that you're not pleased about a one-inch hem. Don't stop with the saleslady; ask to see the buyer or the assistant buyer and register your complaint strongly. Show her the hem in question. This is the surest way to bring about a change in the future.
Dear Gaile: My husband and I are invited to a cocktail dinner dance and as we so very seldom attend anything of this sort, I would like to ask you some questions. What kind of dress would be appropriate and what kind of shoes and accessories should be worn? Would either a dark sheath or full-skirted bicade be suitable? My wardrobe is quite limited and I would like to get something that could be worn elsewhere. I enjoy reading your column and would appreciate an answer.—L. J. B.

Dear L. J. B.: For advice on this one, I went to Guy Douzier, the dynamic young designer for Christian Dior—New York. He says:
"Rather than a short black chiffon, I like the look of green chiffon. I've done one cut with a low hip belt, bowed at the front and worn with white gloves and gray satin shoes. Since you want a dress to wear for future occasions, what about a forward-looking soufflé silk print? We've done one in green, purple and mauve. This is a modern abstract print. We show with it a gray satin shoe with open back and squared toe."
Since you will be dancing, a full-skirted dress would be a far better choice than a sheath.
Please send your fashion problems to Gaile Dugas in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Dear Abby... Something Is Wrong With His Hearing

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We would like your opinion on a subject that has caused a lot of discussion around our office. One of the men who works here claims that in the 29 years he has been married he has never had a fight with his wife. He says she has never argued with him, questioned him or disagreed with him. Furthermore, he claims he has never heard her raise her voice. IS THIS POSSIBLE? CAN'T BELIEVE IT!

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is a very mature eleven-year-old. About a week ago she started wearing an identification bracelet a boy at school gave her. In her crowd it means she is "going steady."

This afternoon I got a phone call from the boy's mother. (I have never met her.) She said she was terribly upset to learn that her son had given my daughter his I.D. bracelet and she wanted my daughter to return it. She said the bracelet was a "good" one, and a birthday gift, and she didn't want anything to happen to it. I told her that my daughter did not STEAL it, it was given to her and, furthermore, I did not run my daughter's life and I hung up on her. Did I do right?

DEAR ABBY: My grandfather, who has been ill for quite some time, is expected to die at any moment. Is it necessary to have my grandmother's relatives to the funeral? If they do attend, is it necessary to have them sit in the pews reserved for relatives?

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about a subject that has caused a lot of discussion around our office. One of the men who works here claims that in the 29 years he has been married he has never had a fight with his wife. He says she has never argued with him, questioned him or disagreed with him. Furthermore, he claims he has never heard her raise her voice. IS THIS POSSIBLE? CAN'T BELIEVE IT!

al is not a "party" that one attends by invitation only. Your grandmother's relatives have a right to attend, and to sit in the pews reserved for relatives.
CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVED AND LOST": Your letter reminds me of an old Chinese story: "One tear met another tear floating down the river. The first tear said, 'I am the tear of a woman who lost her lover.' The other tear said, 'I am the tear of the woman who got him.'"

Give Your Next Party Originality By Designing Your Own Place Mats

Give your next party a touch of originality by designing and making your own place mats.
Size of the mat should be determined by the size of the table and the number of guests you plan to serve at one time. A rectangular mat, 20 inches by 13 1/2 inches, is a fairly large mat; a smaller one of the same proportion would be 18 inches by 12 inches.
The shape may be rectangular, triangular, square, round, oval, free form or any other shape which will accommodate the place setting of dishes, silverware and glassware. And the mat colors should be closely related to the dishes with which they'll be used.
For a flexible mat, use Marvalon drawer lining. For unusual shapes it's best to cut newspaper patterns first until just the right shape and size are accomplished. You'll probably want to "set" the table with the newspaper mats to see how they'll fit before making the finished mats.
For a heavier, more durable mat, cut a piece of cardboard (suit box) 20 inches by 13 1/2 inches and a piece of Marvalon adhesive covering 22 inches by 15 1/2 inches. Remove the backing sheet, and place the covering, adhesive side up, on a flat surface. Place the cardboard in the middle, smooth the covering to it, and miter the corners.

Now you're ready for your design. You can pick up the design from the dishes, themselves, by tracing the motif through tissue paper, then making a heavier pattern. If you're a good hand at drawing, you can make your own design keyed to the theme of the season or of your party.
Then, with a pencil, trace around the patterns on the back of a contrasting piece of covering, cut it out and lay it on the mat. When a pleasing arrangement has been found, remove the backing sheet and smooth the design onto the mat. Remember to place the design on the outside edges of the mat to leave the center for dishes, silverware and glassware.
If you're feeling especially creative, you can make matching coasters for glassware out of the same covering material.
It's an easy way to add a personal touch to your table decor, and your mats are durable so that they may be used on another occasion.

Three Sewing Puzzles That Plague Sewers

Make New Neckline.

If you cannot find a braid exactly right, try the drapery department. There are many braids available there.
Open the seam down to, say, 3 or 4 inches below the waistline, press the seam edges, and then apply the braid, allowing it to overlap on the skirt so that you will not get too much fullness. Take in as little as possible in the underarms.
You will, of course, use the braid as a trimming. Try to apply the braid so that it will look as though it were part of the design.
Dear Mrs. Picken: I have so many old tender sheets and pillow cases. Have you any suggestions for use?—R. A.
Dear R. A.: There are several practical uses for soft, tender sheets. I tear a large size sheet into four pieces, hem the edges, and give to young mothers for crib sheets.
Single bed sheets have to be torn in half crosswise. Sometimes you can make two small pillow cases out of the ends, as sheet would be too long. Mothers appreciate these nice, soft, crib sheets, especially since so many are needed. As these are washed at home, they can give much wear.
Another use: if you have a new pattern, cut the garment from an old sheet. Do any fitting on this model; get length, shoulders, neckline just as you want them.
Open the seams of this model and use it as a guide for cutting your dress.
Still another use, for front and back of decorative pillows. Two thicknesses make an ideal base for padding. You can baste through, catching the sheeting and padding.

Dear Mrs. Picken: I have a dress that I like except for the neckline. I've tried separate collars, but they are just not for me.—H.F.
Dear H.F.: put your dress on, stand in front of a mirror, chalk or outline with pins a new neckline, one that you think is right for you.
Take dress off, pin shoulder seams together, also center front and center back. Cut a new neckline from your markings, allowing for a seam face or bind the new edge.
If you do not want to cut the dress, buy a 2 yard length of chiffon, fold in center, seam raw edges together each end, turn and press selvages together. Use the stole as a neck scarf.
You can wear a sweater, a bolero—or buy a gold costume necklace with many chains and cover up the neckline.
Ingenuity, scissors and a little sewing can alter many things to a point of wearability.
Dear Mrs. Picken: I have nearly new sleeveless dresses that fit perfectly everywhere but are tight through the bustline. Any suggestions?—R. MCM.
Dear R. MCM.: First suggestion: Open the seams at the underarm from the waistline up. Providing, of course, that the seam is large enough to let out the necessary amount.
If not, and the hem is wide enough, take a strip from the top of the hem in back to make an underarm insert. It will be on the crossgrain, but if the fabric is plain this will be all right.
Another way would be to buy from a trimming department a braid that you could use to go from the armhole down to mid-way of the hip. Put this in each side.

Ruth Millett Sound With Us From Cradle To Grave

It looks as though science has now fixed things so that nobody—not even a newborn babe—is going to ever have to listen to the "sound of silence."
There's a new gadget on the market that you can tuck into a baby's crib that emits a continuous tone set at 320-350 cycles that is supposed to put babies to sleep as quickly as though they were being rocked in their mothers' arms.
I'm not sure why it works (maybe the babies go to sleep to get away from the dial tone) but it ought to be a good introduction for any baby entering today's world.
Silence is what nobody seems to be able to stand any more. Once the infant outgrows his wired-for-sound sandman he can move right in front of the TV set and start listening to TV advertising jingles.
TV will keep him from ever having to endure silence and when, in his teens, he outgrows TV temporarily he can substitute record players and radio. The radio is even handier than TV for creating noise because radios can be carried anywhere—and the noise teen-agers call music can be counted on to drown out all other sounds—even the singing of birds, the chirping of crickets, the wind in the trees, the gentle tapping of rain on the roof, the pop and crackle of an open fire.

Then when the teen-ager is grown and married and settled down he can go back to the TV set for companionship—the companionship of continual noise.
So that his own child won't ever have to experience silence he can start him off with that little crib gadget that makes a continuous noise—and start the whole cycle of clamor all over again.
Isn't it wonderful! We can now have noise from the cradle to the grave.

Polar Blast Whips Crops In Florida

By United Press International
Florida's third cold wave in a week put tourists to flight and threatened crops today but Chino winds banished polar air from most other parts of the nation except the Northeast.

Sections from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic had a new veneer of snow. Fog shrouded much of the corn belt, heavy rain pelted the Pacific Northwest.

The Florida Citrus Commission held an emergency meeting Tuesday but decided against embargoing shipments of frost-nipped fruit because damage from the first two cold fronts since Christmas was light.

Fog lifted in the Northwest after closing the Spokane, Wash., airport for 60 hours. Rain moved into the area and Seattle measured .83 of an inch.

At Raton, N.M., rescuers planned another search today for a 13-year-old boy missing on a hiking trip since last Thursday. Only one of his three companions survived the ordeal on a snowy mesa.

In Atlanta, the Communicable Disease Center identified respiratory ailments which have struck in California, Oregon, Colorado, Arizona, Missouri and Florida recently as type B influenza virus.

Mrs. Ima Dumas Rites Are Set For Thursday

Interment rites for Mrs. Ima Dumas, wife of J. O. Dumas, assistant chief of police, will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday in the First Methodist Church with Dr. Hubert H. Bratcher, pastor, officiating. Mrs. Dumas died at 2:40 p.m. Tuesday in Worley Hospital, where she had been a patient for the past two months.

She was born Dec. 3, 1898 in Lampasas and on Sept. 14, 1916 was married to J. O. Dumas in Lampasas. They moved to Amarillo in 1926 and to Pampa in 1944, when Mr. Dumas became an employee of the Pampa police force. He later became assistant chief of police.

Mrs. Dumas was a past worthy matron of the Order of the Eastern Star of the Grand Chapter of Texas, Pampa Chapter No. 65 and was a member of the First Methodist Church.

In addition to her husband, of the home, 1233 Garland, she is survived by two sons, J. A. of Amarillo, Foster of Burley, Idaho; two daughters, Mrs. Paula Gulick of Fort Wayne, Ind., Mrs. Imogene Stevens of Bamberg, Germany; four brothers, R. C. Farmer of Gatesville, the Rev. J. D. Farmer of Avant, Henry Farmer of Houston, W. D. Farmer of Amarillo; five sisters, Mrs. Pearl Weeks, Mrs. H. D. Tombaugh, both of Houston, Mrs. Louella Bratton of Long Beach, Calif., Mrs. Polly Seastrand of Albuquerque, N. M., Mrs. Martha Ballard of Eldorado, Ark.; 19 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Special church music will be provided by Coy Palmer, organist. Graveside rites will be held by the Pampa Chapter 65, Order of the Eastern Star.

Palibearers will be Ralph Odell, Elmer Byars, R. D. McCabe, Rue Hestand, George Clark and R. C. Grider, who are members of the Pampa Chapter 65, O.E.S.

Honorary palibearers will be law enforcement officers of the city, county and state, who have served with Mr. Dumas in past years.

Theft And Return Of Gems Baffles New York Police

NEW YORK (UPI) — The on-again, off-again $10,000 jewel robbery from actress Shelley Winters' Central Park West apartment had detectives baffled today.

The 38-year-old blonde actress discovered the jewels missing Saturday night, but the gems were returned the next day in a plain white envelope delivered by special messenger. Back in her possession are a $5,000 diamond necklace, a $3,700 diamond pendant and three wrist watches worth $1,300.

As far as Miss Winters is concerned, the case is closed. "I got the jewelry back, and that's all I care about," she said.

immediate adjournment. However, Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger stuck to his plan to introduce the resolution in the House. Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas has a similar resolution for Senate introduction.

"This special session is a tool for political maneuvering," Ballman said. "I don't think there is any emergency."

A special House investigating committee told Daniel the abandoned property act is emergency material. The committee, after a bitter fight with the banks, reported that some $25 million is being held in dormant accounts. The committee is still waiting for an attorney general's opinion on whether it had the right to subpoena information from the banks.

President Holds Second Major Defense Meeting

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President Kennedy holds his second major defense conference within 24 hours today, this time concentrating on 1962 general strategy for American military forces overseas — and in Congress.

The Chief Executive scheduled a mid-morning meeting with the Joint Chiefs of Staff who were flying down from Washington for the one-day session. Already on hand were Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Deputy Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, special military adviser to the Chief Executive.

By early afternoon, a decision was expected from the vacation White House on whether to make public some of the results of the session here. A major theme of the meeting Tuesday night around Kennedy's dinner table and again today was a matter of not-so-simple salesmanship.

This involved presentation of the record peacetime military budget to Congress. A figure has been set at more than $50 billion, and approaching $53 billion if Kennedy includes appropriated but unexpended funds from the fiscal 1962 defense budget. What the President and his top advisers are hashing over here is how best to present to the House and Senate the complex military requirements necessitating the large outlay.

The vice president arrived from Texas Tuesday afternoon. Another plane brought McNamara, Gilpatric and Taylor from Washington. Their meeting with the President began in the early evening and continued through dinner.

'62 School Census Gets Under Way

Cooperation of parents of school children in the Pampa Independent School District was asked today by L. J. Edmondson, superintendent of schools, in the 1962 school census now underway.

Classes in the Pampa schools resumed yesterday after a 12-day vacation for the Christmas holidays.

No special activities are being planned in the near future due to the heavy sports schedule and approaching semester examinations, Edmondson said.

Accurate expense records are especially essential if a taxpayer's return is selected for audit. All records should be retained for as long as they may become material in the administration of any internal revenue law.

Another advantage, Davis declared, is that taxpayers with good records can complete and mail their federal tax returns as soon as they receive their W-2 withholding tax certificates, thus eliminating last-minute searches for such papers as the April 16 filing deadline draws near.

Gates Appointed To Health Post

Dr. Joe Gates, Pampa, was re-appointed for a two-year term as Gray County Health Officer yesterday at a meeting of the Gray County Commissioners Court.

Three members were approved for the Highland General Hospital Board. They are, Fred Nealgue and Arthur Teed, re-appointed, and Ruel Smith, new member of the board.

The salaries for employees in the county offices were approved and set up on a basis with no changes in the pay schedule used in 1961.

Routine bills were approved for payment.

J. F. Webb Rites Set

Funeral services for James Floyd Webb, 120 S. Wells, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in Central Baptist Church with the Rev. Therman O. Upshaw, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Webb, born Sept. 24, 1899 in Wolf City, died at 11:12 p.m. Tuesday in Highland General Hospital, where he had been a patient for five days.

He came to Pampa in 1943 from Commerce and had been an employe of the city for 16 years. He was a member of the Central Baptist Church.

Survivors are his wife, Elsie of the home; two sons, Bill of Borger, Joe of Albuquerque, N.M.; one daughter, Mrs. Rena Synder of El Paso; two brothers, Lake and Onas; two sisters, Mrs. Ruby Clark, Mrs. Bennie May; his mother, Mrs. G. B. Webb, all of Dallas; and six grandchildren.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Science Teacher Hired By Board

LEFORS (Sp) — W. A. Kessie, a science and secondary education major from West Texas State College, has been employed by the Lefors Public School board as a science instructor in the junior high school. He will assume this position at the beginning of the second semester the latter part of January.

Kessie, a graduate of Hartley High School, is doing practice teaching in Canyon and is a member of the Methodist Church. His wife is a teacher in the commercial department of the Canadian High School.

The Russian Hope

FIFTH OF A SERIES

One of the major problems we face in trying to understand communism in general and the Russian brand of socialism and collectivism in particular, is the almost incomprehensible fear experienced by so many when we come to talk in this area of affairs.

There can be no doubt that communism is a "radical" departure from "traditional property relationships," as Karl Marx expressed himself in the Communist Manifesto. And this radical departure has frightened many to the point of mental paralysis.

Actually, there need be no particular fear of the ideas themselves. What is terrifying is the way our own American politicians accept a great many of these communist ideas without ever bothering to learn the opposing arguments. This is the real problem.

There need be no worry about communism or socialism. Although these ideas were offered by the collectivists in the hopes that through them a better world would be created, the ideas are sophistries, predicated upon a whole series of errors.

What makes this understanding difficult is the general tendency of so many to assume that the communist or the socialist is out to "destroy mankind" or to "wreck the world" or otherwise to deliberately injure the human race. Actually, the application of communism or socialism could do just that. But this is NOT the intent of the communist or socialist.

He doesn't want to hurt anyone. He honestly believes that world-wide socialism or communism would make things better for everyone. He believes with such devotion that he will stop at nothing to bring it into reality.

Articles 11 and 12 of Chapter I of the Russian constitution set forth this fact rather well.

"Article 11. The economic life of the U.S.S.R. is determined and directed by the state national-economic plan, with the aim of increasing the public wealth, of steadily raising the material and cultural standards of the working people, of consolidating the independence of the U.S.S.R., and strengthening its defensive capacity.

"Article 12. Work in the U.S.S.R. is a duty and a matter of honor for every able-bodied citizen, in accordance with the principle: 'He who does not work, neither shall he eat.'"

"The principle applied in the U.S.S.R. is that of socialism: 'From each according to his ability, to each according to his work.'"

Here is the tragedy of Russia and the tragedy of the entire socialist-communist movement. There is a child-like faith visible in these two articles, which show that these people actually believe conditions will be better if everyone will work, if property will be collectively owned, if everything will be done according to a common plan.

How like our own schemers, zoners, planners and fulminators in the U.S.A. The same fallacy is at work. The Russians, like us Americans, want the world to be better, wealthier, happier for everyone. But they are totally unrealistic about the means. And so are we when we call on governments or unions to help us.

The nature of life being what it is, each human being DOES control his own energy. Common plans, centralized schemes, collectivized property, and so on, depend on FORCE. This is true in the U.S. and in the U.S.S.R.

It is always dreamed by the social and economic and political schemers that force will not be necessary. "Everyone will see the beauty of collectivism in time," is the sweet argument. But it is fallacious. Human beings are self-motivated and always self-seeking. Nor is this either evil or a matter for remedy. Each of us will always act in whatever way we can, in order to improve our own condition.

We have now run thru the 12 articles in Chapter I of the constitution of the Soviet Union. We will continue our analysis below, taking up Chapter II, "The State Structure."

Silly Notion

One of the silliest of notions is that businessmen build "planned obsolescence" into what they produce. This is a down-right fabrication. Businessmen who would consider such a procedure, would be quickly supplanted by their competitors.

State Structure

SIXTH OF A SERIES

Thus far we have examined the first chapter of the Russian Constitution dealing with the social structure. Chapter II is entitled: "The State Structure."

Like all other constitutions in existence, the Russian document is an instrument of power. Its purpose is to set forth a working formula whereby a group of men within the state can exercise authority and power over all others.

The similarity between the Russian Constitution and our own American document is marked and will become strikingly apparent. This is because, in both cases, a "republican" form of government prevails.

Not only are both governments republican in character, both are federated republics and both employ the democratic process upon which they fully rely.

Article 13 sets the record straight in this regard: "The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is a federal state, formed on the basis of a voluntary union of equal Soviet Socialist Republics"

The word "voluntary" may certainly be questioned. But the intention is to show that a democratic determination by the people themselves has brought them into the Soviet Union. This was as faithfully as possible we will doubtless true in some cases.

The article goes on from that point to set forth the various areas of power which are to be centralized in the Russian government.

republics, which, comparing them to the United States, occupy the same position as the so-called "sovereign state" in this nation.

Article 14 is one of the most important articles in the Russian Constitution. It corresponds, roughly, to Article I, Section 8 of the American Constitution in that both set forth the powers of their respective governments.

In our own case, Section 8 deals specifically with the powers of the Congress, for we have maintained the idea of three departments and a division of power. Elsewhere in our Constitution we can find sections which set forth the powers of the judiciary and the powers of the executive.

In the Russian Constitution, no comparable division of power is intended. The purpose of the Marxists who authored the document was to centralize as much power as possible in the hands of a ruling clique. This is made clear when we get to Chapter III.

The organization of the Russian document is slightly confusing at this point for without explaining just who is to have power, or how that power is to be obtained, Chapter II sets forth the extent of the power and leaves until later the unanswered questions. In order to follow the document as faithfully as possible we will set forth now the various areas of power which are to be centralized in the Russian government.

Your Pocketbook

PREDICT RISE IN COST OF HOME MORTGAGES

If you plan the major financial moves in your life by doing the opposite of what others are doing, you'll often get a better buy.

Often those who have made the greatest success in the securities markets have bought when others were selling, sold when others were buying.

Last year's model car or appliance often can be had at a vast discount from this year's. True, you may lose something on the trade-in. But you might save enough in cash or finance charges to make it worth-while.

The same principle is true in the housing market. When the snow clouds gather, who hunts a new abode? If you are thinking of buying, or switching houses, this might be just the time.

Those who furnish mortgage money believe the cost of such loans may rise by spring when they expect a more than seasonal upturn in demand. Already the latest survey of conventional mortgage costs — not FHA or VA loans — made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board shows rates moving up fractionally.

Whether the bankers are right or wrong is anyone's guess, but if you are in the market for a house their predictions of higher interest rates is well worth considering.

Your first step should be to speak with several local lenders — bankers, savings and loan association officers — to get their opinions of conditions in your locality. Once you have done this, only then begin your house hunt.

A just-released study by the American Bankers Association warns, however, that before you make a down payment on a house you should ascertain whether you will be able to get the mortgage you need.

From what readers write, I'm aware that many of you are eager to upgrade your housing, reaching for homes that may be too expensive for you.

From what bankers tell me, there is a slight increase in the numbers of people unable to meet their mortgage payments. Thus, bankers are more careful today than in the recent past when it comes to granting mortgage money.

The bank will require of you an application form calling for a detailed explanation of the amount, terms and conditions of the loan you seek, description of the property and such personal data as the source and size of your present income and a statement of your indebtedness. The bank analyzes your financial position to see whether you can handle the monthly expense of your home out of present income.

Here is how they will figure this and you should figure it the same way:

From what you earn each month, deduct all payroll expenses, income taxes, social security, premiums due on insurance, a set-aside for savings, what you spend to operate your household such as fuel and phone, what you spend for food, clothing, personal expenses including medical, car operating costs and other transportation charges, expenses for education and entertainment and personal and installment loan payments. The remainder is what you will have available for your house.

There are 24 items listed alphabetically. We will list them numerically:

1. "International relations, ratification and denunciation of treaties; all procedures governing relations with foreign states.
2. "Questions of war and peace.
3. "Admission of new republics to the U.S.S.R.
4. "Control over observance of the Russian Constitution and supervision ensuring conformity of separate republic constitutions with the basic Russian document.
5. "Settling of boundaries between Union republics.
6. "Confirmation of the formation of new autonomous republics and autonomous regions within Union republics."

(This latter phraseology may be confusing so we will explain at once: The Russian chain of command travels down from the overall Russian Constitution (which we are studying) to the separate constitutions of the separate Union republics (sovereign states) to autonomous "republics" or "regions" within each republic. These autonomous entities are within the United States. A district or a city (either one) may be set up within a Union republic with its own constitution patterned after the republic's constitution, which in turn uses the Russian Constitution as the master plan.)

LOOKING FORWARD — A big head of steam is building among senators to bring order out of the legal mess that currently surrounds wiretapping. Legislators in both parties — among them, GOP Senator Kenneth Keating of New York and Democratic Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut — plan to push legislation to make unauthorized wiretapping a felony when the Senate convenes next week. At the same time, they would allow state and federal officials to tap wires if authorized by a federal judge. Passage remains in doubt, however, because of pressures from the Central Intelligence Agency, Defense Department, and the Justice Department. The FBI, most restrained of the agencies in this field, now maintains about 80 taps. The CIA and Defense Department have double that number. . . . The report that Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg's labor-management committee sends to the President will contain only one spectacular recommendation. It will call for legislation giving authority to fact-finding boards to recommend contract settlements dealing with national emergency strikes. The committee's meetings so far have produced no accord on such basic problems as wage-price policy, taxes, and over-all labor-business legislation. . . . McChesney Martin is letting his friends in Congress know that he had a major role in President Kennedy's decision to overrule some of his economic advisers who had urged a deficit in the federal budget for fiscal 1962. Martin argued that a balanced budget is essential to assure the integrity of the dollar overseas. In exchange, Martin agreed to use his vast powers to try to keep interest rates from climbing during the coming year.

Full-Time Samos Reconnaissance of Reds Scheduled By Year's End, With Monthly Launchings

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The U. S. is going to have its own open-skies inspection system operating over the Soviet Union and Communist China before the end of the year.

Under a high-priority Air Force program now underway, a worldwide network of Samos reconnaissance satellites will be kept in orbit at all times.

The Air Force's launching schedule calls for the orbiting of these spy-in-the-sky satellites at the rate of one a month during 1962.

If this tight schedule is kept, three Samos satellites will be constantly in the skies over the Soviet Union and Red China by August 1, when nine of these reconnaissance satellites will be in orbit. When one of these fails, another Samos will be immediately launched to take its place.

Already, the U.S. has two Samos satellites orbiting the earth. These satellites, launched within the past six weeks without any official identification, are now relaying to U.S. "readout" stations excellent photographs of important Soviet missile and other military installations. However, these satellites have one intelligence drawback. They only pass over Soviet territory every third day.

The planned network of nine Samos satellites will give the U.S. complete day-to-day coverage of the two Communist nations and their satellites.

As reported in this column on December 21, Soviet officials are fully aware of these satellites and their reconnaissance mission. As in the case of the U-2 plane, they are tracking each Samos every time it traverses Russia.

Significantly, the Kremlin is keeping an ominous silence about these flights. U.S. military intelligence officials believe this Soviet policy will continue until its scientists are able to successfully intercept and down one of the Samos satellites.

In support of this space intelligence network, the Air Force is also planning to launch six Midas satellites during 1962. These satellites are equipped with infrared scanners to detect missile blast-offs and atmosphere nuclear detonations.

There are now two Midas satellites traversing Soviet territory. MAN-IN-SPACE — When Lt. Col. John Glenn is shot into orbit next week, the odds for a successful flight will be a lot less than for the two earlier space trips of his fellow Astronauts.

Air Force records show that the Atlas rocket just isn't as reliable as the Army's Redstone rocket that put Astronauts Shepard and Grissom successfully into space for their five-minute sub-orbital rides.

Since the first Atlas missile shot in June 1957, there have been 86 Atlas shots. These have been generally down the range at Cape Canaveral, Florida, where Glenn will make his takeoff. Of these 86 launchings, however, only 52 have been successes.

That Atlas ratio of five-out-of-eight is no match for the 96 per cent reliability of the Redstone. There have been six shots of Atlas missiles during the Mercury man-in-space program; four were successes and two were failures. All Redstone-Mercury firings were successful.

Not the tentative date set by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for Astronaut Glenn's orbital flight is January 13.

It's Up To You

by HOWARD KERSHNER L. H. D.

West Germany is enjoying a period of prosperity in greater degree and longer duration than has ever been known in the history of any country. It would seem therefore, that prudent men would inquire into the reasons for this remarkable development and seek to profit by them.

For a decade or more, economic growth in West Germany has been at the rate of 8 per cent a year, while our country struggles along at about 3 per cent. West Germany has no unemployment while we have a persistent and aggravating 6 per cent or more. Even though the methods of arriving at the percentage of unemployment are inaccurate and misleading, we know that the problem is real.

Some time ago, Secretary of Labor Goldberg made a tour of depressed areas in our country to discover the reasons for unemployment. He might better have spent his time in West Germany discovering the reasons for full employment and great prosperity!

In my judgment there are two main reasons for this sharp contrast. They are: (1) The decision of labor leadership in Germany shortly after the war not to seek wage increases that would result in price increases. This has kept German industries competitive and has widened its markets throughout the world. It accounts for her favorable balance of trade. It has not caused hardship to German workers, for the cost of living has remained low in proportion. Labor leadership in our country has taken the opposite tack and man-hour costs have soared. This has reduced our domestic markets with foreign goods. It is the chief reason for unemployment in our country and a serious drain on our gold reserves.

(2) The other chief reason for greater and more continued prosperity and more rapid economic growth in West Germany is the much more rapid rate of depreciation allowed on industrial equipment in that country. The result is that German industry reinvests about 50 per cent more of its production than is the case in the United States. A more realistic rate of depreciation on machinery, equipment and buildings would bring a great flow of new money into building and the installation of newer and more efficient productive facilities throughout American industry. This would be a powerful factor in promoting the expansion of employment and industrial growth.

The President's economic advisors engage in long tortured discussions of how to solve the continuing problem of unemployment and to promote economic expansion, but we hear little about the real causes of these problems and the ways in which they have been overcome in West Germany.

DALLAS (UPI)—The latest in a series of jewelry thefts that have plagued Dallas police since 1937 netted burglars a platinum bracelet and two diamond ear clips insured for a total of $900. Mrs. Sylvia Miller reported the jewelry was stolen Monday from her North Dallas home.

U. S. Too Old-Fashioned To Play World Politics

By HENRY McEMORE

The United States is out of step with the rest of the world. We are old-fashioned, not up to date.

This could well be the cause of many of our troubles and headaches.

We lend and give away money when it is fashionable to borrow or steal it.

We bend over backwards trying to make friends, while others seem to do their best to create enemies.

We are patient, while others are impatient. We turn the other cheek. Others double up their fists. We make concessions, while others grab. We mix much of our weaknesses, others boast of their strength.

We talk, others act. India's neat tidy overrunning of tiny Goa is the latest example of how America needs to change its way of behaving in order to join the main currents of the world.

India got tired of being pestered by Goa, so India stormed into Goa and took it. That was last week, and already the incident has all but been forgotten. People yelled a bit, but the noise soon died down and India has Goa. India paid no more attention to world opinion, if there be such a thing, than if there were the mooing of a sacred cow under a banyan tree.

East Germany built a concrete wall through Berlin, said the world think what it chooses, and added a few more bricks just to make sure.

China nibbles away at India without even making a pretense at being sorry.

Russia resumes nuclear bomb testing with a 50-megaton bang, says what a whopper that was boys, and tells the world to mind its own business.

This sort of thing has been going on for years now, and the United States has sat patiently and quietly by, handing our money with both hands, flirting with every country under the sun with a population of more than 150, and winding up unpopular in many parts of the world, and downright disliked in others.

There should be a change of behavior on America's part. We need a little spirited, unwarranted, illegal action to bring us up to date. What about, say, a sudden attack on Nova Scotia? We could justify it in some ridiculous way, and Halifax would be ours in a day — and with few casualties. World opinion would be outraged, of course, but only for three days at the most.

The United Nations would boil for half an hour or so, and Dean Rusk would be kept busy issuing reasons for the attack, but then all would be finished, and the U.S. would be right up there as up to date as the next country.

Let's try it!

The Nation's Press

WHAT PRICE UNITY? (California Feature Service) Once again the United Nations has moved — with force against the one Congo nation that has stood firm against communism. And once again it has done so with the supine approval of the United States.

When Secretary General U Thant recently requested authority to smash the so-called secession of Katanga, the United States sought to broaden that authority to include action against leftist Antoine Gizenga, and the unruly Congolese army. But Russia vetoed. U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson then asked, and was granted, White House permission to go along with the anti-Katanga resolution so that the Congo Foreign Minister wouldn't have to go home "empty handed."

Empty handed, indeed, we sent him home with blood in his hands, the blood that soon would come from men who are trying to fight our battle for freedom from communist oppression. What, in heaven's name, is the goal of a foreign policy that can sponsor such action as this?

The only measure of an excuse that has been forthcoming so far is that we want a united Congo. But why? We seem unwilling to go along with a disunited Germany. We did not demand a united Korea. Why subjugate an African ally in the holy name of unity?

It is a question the American people deserve to have answered soon.

Master Fact

When the marathon runner arrives at the Olympic Games carrying a flaming torch, it signals the start of the Olympics. The modern marathon race was revived for the 1896 Olympic Games. It commemorates the historic endurance of Pheidippides, who in 490 B.C. ran from the plain of Marathon to Athens, a distance of 22 miles and 1,470 yards, to tell of the triumph of the Greeks over the Persians.

54th YEAR WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1962 7

Kentucky Coach Unhappy Over Team's Cage Win

United Press International. Adolph Rupp, who has been coaching basketball at the University of Kentucky for 32 years, is still a tough man to please.

When the fifth-ranked Wildcats scored their ninth victory in 10 games by outclassing Virginia, 93-73, Tuesday night at Lexington, every Kentucky fan went home happy — except "the man in the brown suit."

"It was just plain sloppy, the way we won," moaned Rupp. "And those 73 points we allowed bother me. If we had played any kind of defense at all, they (Virginia) wouldn't have scored that much."

Maybe that's why the Baron ranks as college basketball's winningest coach. He started the season with an amazing 645 victories in 767 games since he arrived at Kentucky back in 1930. That's an unparalleled winning percentage of better than 84 per cent.

Yet there are many nights — like Tuesday night — when Rupp believes his boys should have done better, and he's not a bit reluctant about saying so.

Despite the Baron's criticism, Kentucky looked mighty powerful in trampling Virginia. It was the first meeting between the teams since 1928 and the Cavaliers probably will be happy if they don't see Rupp's bombers for another 34 years.

The Wildcats barged ahead by 20 points near the end of the first half, left the floor at intermission with a 44-25 lead and still maintained their pace in the second half although Rupp substituted freely. Larry Pursifull accounted for 21 points and Cotton Nash added 18 for Kentucky, but the game's high scorer was Virginia's Tony Laquintano with 22.

It was a rough night for touring teams as the collegians resumed action after a brief holiday respite.

Wake Forest spanked Minnesota, 79-70; Butler handed Princeton its third straight setback on a Midwest swing, 63-58, and Vanderbilt whipped invading Yale, 79-69.

Len Chappell's 28 points sparked Wake Forest to its victory over Minnesota. Each team bagged 28 field goals but the Deacons connected on 23 of 32 free throws while Minnesota hit on 14 of 23. Eric Magdanz scored 18 for the Gophers, who trailed at half-time, 40-36.

Substitute guard Larry Shook was the hero of Butler's win over Princeton. Shook entered the game in the second half after the Tigers had scored a 31-29 half-time lead and scored five crucial points to push Butler ahead — to stay, 59-54. Jeff Blue scored 23 for the Bulldogs, three more than Princeton's Pete Campbell.

Vanderbilt beat Yale by hitting on 15 of 16 free throws in the last five minutes. The Ivy Leaguers barged ahead, 38-34, early in the second half but John Russell, who scored 23 points, put Vandy in the van for good minutes later with a driving lay-up. Rich Kaminsky tallied 27 for Yale.

Indiana equalled a school record for most points in a game by blasting Notre Dame, 122-95. The Hoosiers, who clicked on 51 of 90 shots from the floor, were led by Jimmy Ray's 28 points. Armand Reo also had 28 for the Irish.

Pee Wee Bouts Start Thursday Night At 8

The annual elimination tournament in the Pee Wee Division of the Golden Gloves tournament will get underway Thursday and continue through Friday at the Optimist club boys building.

The two day tourney will precede the annual Pampa District Golden Gloves tournament to be held January 10, 11 and 13 at the optimist building.

There will be three fight divisions, the Pee Wee, High School and the Open class. In the Pee Wee division, which gets underway Thursday at 8 p.m., boxers will vie in the 50, 55, 60, 65, 70, 75, 80, 85, 90, 95 and 100-pound classes. Trophies will be awarded to the champion and runner-up in each of these weight divisions.

The usual one pound over the designated weight division will be allowed according to Clifford Dunham, tournament director.

All boxing coaches are urged to submit their boxing team members or individuals participating as soon as possible. Included in this information should be the weight division the boys expect to enter and also a list of the coaches that will accompany the boys.

Weight - in will take place at the Optimist Club Boy's building from 12 noon until 5 p.m. Tickets for the Pee Wee bouts will be 25 cents for children under 12, 50 cents for students and $1.00 for adults. Tickets may be purchased at the Gate Valve Shop or the Hardin - Roth Truck Terminal from Jan. 4-13.

Tickets which have not been sold or called for will go on sale at the Optimist Boys Club ticket office at 6:30 p.m. each evening prior to the fights.

Two special feature awards will be presented by local radio stations. Station KPDN will present the A. C. Sanders Memorial Trophy and Station KHHH will present the sportsmanship trophy.

Fullmer Fighter Of Year

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The ratings committee of the National Boxing Association today named Gene Fullmer "Fighter of the Year" as expected, but then challenged NBA president Dr.

Charles P. Larson by again ranking Sonny Liston as top heavyweight contender.

Fullmer, of West Jordan, Utah, recognized as world middleweight champion by the NBA, was chosen Fighter of the Year because he was the only titleholder to make three defenses in 1961 and because his third defense on Dec. 9 was so impressive he was voted "Fighter of the Month."

In retaining Liston of Philadelphia as No. 1 heavyweight contender, the ratings committee defied Larson, of Tacoma, Wash., who only last month had denounced the reinstatement of Liston at the top after seven months of inactivity, because of two embroilments with the law.

Miss Rudolph Is Top Amateur Star

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wilma Rudolph Ward of Tennessee State College, the world's fastest woman's runner, today was named winner of the 1961 James E. Sullivan Award as America's outstanding amateur athlete.

The Sullivan Award is made annually by the Amateur Athletic Union to "the amateur athlete who, by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

Among her many track and field achievements, the slender 21-year-old Negro girl from Clarksville, Tenn., won three gold medals in the 1960 Olympic Games and holds the world record for the 100-meter dash.

BASEBALL IN ASIA
TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Japan plays the Philippines and Korea meets Nationalist China today in the fourth Asian baseball tournament, Japan, the defending champion, beat Korea, 2-0, Tuesday behind the two-hit pitching of Sasaki Kichiro.

THIRD DOWN TROPHY!

the most valuable players of the AMERICAN FOOTBALL LEAGUE by team vote, merit a new award!

Pride Has No Price-Palmer

MIAMI (UPI)—Pride is a personal commodity. Arnold Palmer confessed today, which has no price.

Two years ago, this being 1962, Palmer was the hottest item in golf since invention of the steel shaft. He was the leading money winner in the game but, more important, he captured both the U.S. Open golf championship and the coveted Masters.

All he made last year was money.

"Now wait a minute," Palmer cautioned. "I won the British Open last year and that's one of the big four."

There was a time, but not any more. The British Open today is strictly for the boys from Kokomo the prestige seekers who can't make it on the big time and go abroad to knock off a flock of patsies and trade on the prestige of the past. But the truth is that The British Open today attracts only those who couldn't finish among the top 20 on the U.S. pro golf tour.

Exceptions have been Ben Hogan, who won it on his only shot; Sam Snead, who captured it the only time he tried, and Palmer, who finished second by one shot in a rain-swept fluke the first time and went right back to knock it off. Yet the ease of their accomplishments merely serve to prove that it has become a cheap, grab-bag contest in which competition is at a minimum.

Palmer, despite his rich divot digging in which he participated last year, now has come to realize that he no longer can satisfy himself with "British Open victories."

"I know that my game has gone to pot," he admitted after an exhibition round over his new Country Club of Miami course in which he could do no better than finish in a third-place tie with spanking new pro Jack Nicklaus. "I've just been doing too much other stuff. My game has had to suffer."

This was an admission that he had become like Oscar of the Waldorf working at a hamburger stand; like Eddie Arcoo exercising cheap platters, or Picasso painting murals on the walls of cheap saloons—simply because the price was right.

"I'm turning my back on all this other stuff," Palmer insisted. "Right now I'm going out to get my game in shape and I'm setting my sights on the big tournaments."

There is one he wants above all others—and a grand scheme filling out the par-busting pattern.

"If there is one tournament I want to win, I guess I'd have to say it was the PGA," frowned the handsome Pennsylvanian. "That's because I've never won it, and it's considered one of the big ones."

"But," he smiled boyishly, "I want them all—in one year."

Meaning that he still entertains the big dream, that of scoring the "big slam" nobody else ever has even thought about.

"Why not?" he asked. "If this is your business, you've got to dream of winning the Open, the PGA, the Masters and the British Open all in one year."

And Palmer finally has absorbed the idea that nobody, not even a man with his almost matchless talents, can accomplish this fairway feat without turning his back on the money vaults and playing as if he was starving.

"I'm starting right now," he promised grimly. "I'm putting all this behind me, the easy living, the collaring of those beckoning dollars and the outside interests. That's in my agent's hands now. I'm going back to work with the sticks."

"It's not as far away as you might think," he bridled. "After all, I won the Vardon Trophy last year with a low tournament scoring average of 69.75 strokes per round. But it's not enough."

It isn't, either, Arnold Palmer is the man who, according to the evidence at hand, was born to replace Hogan and take the next niche in the line of the golfing immortals. He is fortunate to have realized soon enough that money isn't the total answer.

Mantle Most Courageous Star Of Year

HOUSTON (UPI)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees will be honored as the year's most courageous athlete Tuesday when he receives the Eddie Dyer award at the second annual Houston major league baseball dinner.

The award, named after the former St. Louis Cardinal manager and Houston native, will be given for the first time.

Mantle injured his knee in the 1961 World Series and had to be taped from ankle to hip before each game. He also suffered from a bone infection.

Collier Fired As Wildcat Head Coach

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Kentucky was in the market for a new head football coach today on the heels of unexpected action by the school's athletic board removing Blanton Collier from the post he held eight years.

Collier, under fire from alumni and fans after a 5-5 season this year which included a loss to arch-rival Tennessee, had three years of a five-year contract left, and when no immediate action was taken at the close of this season it was concluded that Collier would remain at Kentucky.

The decision was reached by mutual agreement Tuesday when the university offered to buy up the remainder of Collier's contract for an estimated $50,000.

Only last month the board had announced that the rest of his contract would be honored and reaffirmed its support of Collier.

Collier, who termed the action "more or less" of a surprise, said "it is my opinion that this is for the best interest of both the university and me."

"Football has been my life," the 55-year-old Kentuckian said, "and right now I feel I would like to remain with it if the opportunity presents itself. I will probably relax for a few weeks before making any decision."

There was speculation that Collier, Southeastern Conference Coach of the Year in his initial season with Kentucky, would return to the Cleveland Browns. He had left a backfield coaching job with the Browns to accept the position at his home state university when Paul (Bear) Bryant went to Texas A&M.

Collier compiled a 41-36-3 record overall and a 21-34-3 SEC record while at Kentucky.

Myers Is Hired By Cowboys As Assistant Coach

DALLAS (UPI)—The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League today hired Jim Myers, ousted Texas A&M head football coach and athletic director, as an assistant coach on the staff of coach Tom Landry.

Myers, who coached at Iowa State and stayed four years at A&M, said "I feel most fortunate that the Cowboys have given me this opportunity. I have always had a desire to get into the National Football League. I believe Coach Landry has done an outstanding job with the Cowboys and I'm looking forward to working for him."

"I am very happy that we have been able to add a coach of Jim Myers' caliber to our staff," said Cowboy vice-president and general manager Tex Schramm. "We have actually been understaffed all along and the addition of Myers should be a big help."

The new Cowboy assistant coach said he planned to move his family to Dallas as soon as possible, probably around Jan. 20.

SIGNS PRO CONTRACT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—George Pierovich, University of California fullback who starred on defense in last Saturday's East-West Shrine Game, has signed a contract with the San Francisco Forty Niners of the National Football League.

Matson, Kreis Big Guns In Pampa Cage Attack

By DICK RABE
Daily News Sports Editor

A total of 138 points were poured through the two baskets in the Palo Duro gym Tuesday night, but the Dons managed to dunk in more basketballs as they went on to post an easy 75-63 District 3-AAAA cage win in the conference opener for both teams.

The Harvesters, who went into the game riding the crest of a three-game winning streak, saw a late second quarter lead go down the drain in the waning moments of the quarter as the Palo Duro cagers put on a late spurt to take a slim 33-31 lead at the half.

The Harvesters were still in the game riding the crest of a three-game winning streak, saw a late second quarter lead go down the drain in the waning moments throw line, with Matson hitting for eight out of nine and Kreis finding the mark with five out of six attempts from the charity line.

Lloyd Balch chipped in 10 points to aid in the Harvester attack.

The Harvesters closed the gap to 54-51 in the late stages of the final period, but after that it was Katie bar the door as the Dons roared on to sew up the contest.

The Harvesters will be out to seek revenge for their Palo Duro loss when they tackle another Amarillo school, Teasco Friday night at 8 p.m. in the Harvester fieldhouse.

Army, LSU Vying For Coach Dietzel

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Army may have to throw a few more dollars in the pot if it hopes to lure Paul Dietzel from Louisiana State.

The tug-of-war for Dietzel's services reached a point today where LSU officials were reportedly ready to top a $20,000-a-year contract offered him to become Army's new head football coach.

Dietzel, with four years remaining on a five-year contract at LSU, is now receiving $18,500 annually. However, estimates of his gross income, including clinics and lecture fees and television receipts, range as high as $40,000 like Mat Dillon from the free a year.

Slagle Issues Debate Challenge To His Opponent

SHERMAN (UPI)—R. C. (Bob) Slagle today challenged Sen. Ray Roberts of McKinney to a series of debates in the seven counties of the Fourth Texas Congressional District before their special congressional runoff election is held Jan. 30.

Slagle telegraphed the challenge to Roberts and said the debates would let the people know where you stand on public issues, where I stand, my record in public office and your record in public office.

Slagle and Roberts were forced into a runoff when they failed to win a majority vote in the Dec. 23 special election to name a successor to the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

"The people are entitled to an opportunity to look at the record so they can choose their next congressman carefully and wisely," Slagle said.

He suggested that the debates start this week end and be held every Friday and Saturday until the election.

CHUCKLES

FINANCIAL PROBLEM
DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Gov. Norman A. Erbe of Iowa will confer this week with his state's secretary of agriculture about a financial problem.

The governor received a letter from an 11-year-old girl asking advice on how to earn enough money to buy a pony.

HEARTS ON FIRE
LEEDS, England (UPI)—Circus fire-eater Priscilla Birt, 34, Tuesday night announced her engagement to George Maddocks, 28, the circus fireman who checks her act for safety.

CONGRATULATIONS

To Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wood, Pampa Trailor Park, on the birth of a girl at 2:32 a.m. weighing 7 lbs. 7 1/2 oz.

To Mr. and Mrs. Gayson Evans, 705 Lefors St., on the birth of a boy at 7:59 a.m. weighing 5 lbs. 10 oz.

Books Boom

NEW YORK (UPI)—Book sales topped the billion dollar mark for the first time in 1959 and went higher in 1960. Book sales have been increasing at a steady 10 to 12 per cent every year for the past decade, the "Exchange," official publication of the New York Stock Exchange reports.

LBJ Was Busy Southwest IRS Man In 1961

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was man on the go in 1961.

Johnson logged more than 75,000 miles in overseas travel during the year—all at the request of President Kennedy. In addition, he traveled about the United States for a wide variety of political chores, civic meetings, dedications, dinners and college ceremonies.

In spite of all this traveling and time spent in Washington, Johnson also managed to spend a good deal of time at his ranch at Johnson City, Tex.

Visitors to the ranch included such dignitaries as Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan.

But an equally important visitor to Johnson was Bashir Ahmed, the Pakistani camel driver he invited to come to this country.

In addition to his constitutional duties as presiding officer of the Senate, Johnson served as chairman of three presidential committees.

Southwest IRS Office Collects Over $5-Billion

DALAS (UPI)—The Southwest regional office of the Internal Revenue Service said today collections in the five-state region totaled $5,288,474,000 during the past fiscal year, a $200 million increase over the previous year.

The total is made up of income and 200 other federal taxes collected in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. The 111-county Austin district of Texas showed both the largest increase and the largest total taxes. Collections in the district were up approximately $125 million to just more than a $1.6 billion total.

The 143-county Dallas district collections were up $12 million to near $1.4 billion. Texas as a whole showed an increase of $138 million with total collections of $3.1 billion.

Louisiana collections were up $21 million to $784.4 million; Oklahoma collections were up $20 million to $938.2 million; Arkansas collections were up $15 million to $244 million and New Mexico up $9 million to $209.6 million.

Maid Of Cotton Begins Year-Long Whirl Over U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI)— Honey-blond Penne Percy, the newly chosen 1962 Maid of Cotton, started today on a year-long whirl that will take her from her college campus to Europe and tours of Canada and the United States.

The 19-year-old Texas University sophomore flew in Monday night from Dallas, excited not only by her own selection but with the victory of her alma mater over Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl.

Miss Percy will spend a month in New York while 40 of America's top designers fit her for her wardrobe. At a news conference today, the dazzling coed from Waco, Texas, wore a full length, low cut white gown which she said was of cotton "grown in Texas" and the dress made there too.

A girl with a nice touch of humor, the Maid of Cotton said her schedule — after going first to Canada — calls for her to "sweep across the South like Sherman — only we will march away from the sea."

Miss Percy said she hoped to work in television eventually and plans to go back to college. Her father is manager of a stock brokerage firm in Waco.

Her European tour beginning May 25 will take her to Germany, Holland and Belgium. She will climax the trip by starring in an all-cotton fashion show in Deauville, France, for the international federation of cotton and allied textile industries.

'Butch' Facing Death For Nipping A Poodle

LONDON (UPI)— "Butch" the boxer, who underwent psychiatric treatment to stop him from biting other dogs, has been condemned to die for nipping a poodle and its owner.

The 6-year-old confirmed dog-hater got every break in the book from British authorities, including 18 months of psychiatric treatment. But Butch's string ran out when a court ordered the dog put to sleep.

"We have our duty to the public," the court chairman, Sir Arthur Howard, told Butch's tearful owner, Mrs. Constance Gamble, 42. "Most of us here own dogs and love dogs and we do not make orders for destruction lightly."

Mrs. Gamble vowed she would fight to save Butch. "He has a lovely nature," she said. "He never bothers human beings. It is just that he dislikes other dogs."

Yankee Caught Stealing Flag

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI)— A Yankee Coast Guardsman was caught Monday night stealing a Confederate flag from a pole in front of Portsmouth's City Hall.

Officer H. D. Ivey said he saw Robert C. Wells, 18, stationed at the Coast Guard station across the street from City Hall, climbing down the spotlighted pole. He captured Wells after a half-block chase.

Police said Wells, whose home address was given by police only as Massachusetts, would face larceny charges.

Woman Held For Daughter's Death

BROCKTON, Mass. (UPI)— A 54-year-old woman was charged with murder yesterday in the strangulation of her daughter whose body was found concealed in a closet on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Dorothy Howard was arrested at her home shortly before midnight. She was brought to police headquarters for questioning and was formally booked.

Mrs. Howard disappeared a short time before her daughter's body was found.

Mrs. Gloria Eldridge's body was discovered by her father, Walter L. Howard, an executive of the Simpson Springs Bottling Co., at the Howard home. A medical examiner said she had been dead for several days.

LIVING ROSY? ...YOU BET!

Of course you want that feeling of well-being for your family. And that means the family's spendable funds must bring good return all the time, not just once in a while.

Here's where you win: brand manufacturers compete constantly to make their products best in the field. They know that's the only way to hold your business and outsell other makers.

So watch those trademarks! You have the right to pick and choose among them all. Watch this newspaper too, for information about improved, or entirely new, items. And when you buy, stand by the manufacturers' brands you trust.

Uncle Sam Gives Out Millions Of Fallout Booklets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's mammoth free distribution of 25 million copies of its new fallout protection booklet began today.

A few hitches were reported and there probably were many other slips in distant parts of the country.

Officials said they expected that a large number of the nation's 30,796 second, third and fourth class postoffices had not yet received their copies.

A surprise slip occurred in Washington itself, where the main post office did not have the booklets for distribution at the opening of business hours.

Although the post offices were handling the bulk of the work, 730 state, local and territorial civil defense offices were participating in the distribution. They should have received their copies directly from Washington.

The booklet, produced at a cost of $825,000 or three cents a copy, contains the government's best information on what a citizen should do and expect in a thermonuclear attack. It is being distributed on much the same scale and in much the same manner as income tax forms.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

For the Dutch, possession of West New Guinea is an economic and military luxury which eventually the Dutch might decide they can ill afford.

But for Australia, it is a necessity that West New Guinea remain in friendly hands, the stronger the better.

Hence Australia's increasing concern over Indonesia's demand that the Dutch surrender West New Guinea, or West Irian as the Indonesians call it, forthwith, under threat of the use of force if the demands are not met.

Australia administers East New Guinea under a legacy left over from the old League of Nations after World War I and later assumed by the United Nations.

West New Guinea is a left-over from the former Dutch East Indies which in 1949 became the United States of Indonesia.

Together the two halves contain a population of about a million and a half natives lumped under the general name "Papuan" with few unifying characteristics either in language or custom. Geographically, the island is about the size of Montana and Oregon combined.

It is the last of the stepping stones leading from Malaya to Australia. In World War II, the Japanese, via New Guinea, Timor and Java, were able to threaten Australia.

Airbases in these islands, if in unfriendly hands, could seal the fate of Singapore and most of Southeast Asia and pose a serious threat to Australia and the Philippines as well.

Australia's concern with the future of West New Guinea, therefore, is the result of unpleasant experience.

When the Netherlands government granted Indonesian independence, the fate of West New Guinea was left up to negotiations which were to be carried out within a year. No agreement was reached.

In 1950, Australia declared its opposition to Indonesia's claim on the island. It softened that position somewhat to declare that it would not oppose any peaceful solution to the problem which might be reached by the Dutch and Indonesians.

In return, it received from President Sukarno and Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio unqualified promises that a peaceful solution would be sought.

Attorney General Calls For Loan Shark Action

(Editor's Note: To combat loan sharks, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson began a series of court fights against usurious lenders in 1957. Gov. Price Daniel has said he will submit small loan regulation as a topic for consideration in the special session of the legislature starting today. This is the first of two articles by the attorney general tracing the loan shark problem in Texas.)

By Atty. Gen. Will Wilson
Written for UPI

AUSTIN (UPI)—The impoverished borrower has rarely been shown mercy in Texas. The state legislature must take action to remedy the loan shark-evil.

Hillel Back, in his recent book "Buy Now, Pay Later," said, "the scourge in Texas which has reached such proportions that it is doubtful that any state has supported as many credit swindlers or debtor victims."

After a 1958 study of the small loan industry, the Texas Legislative Council estimated there were about 272 "small loan" offices and approximately 1,400 "small-small loan" offices in the state. All such companies were exceeding the maximum rate of 10 per cent interest.

These companies devised many schemes and "subterfuges in an attempt to evade the law. The most common were:

—"Open note" operator. Records of this lender never show a correct, detailed explanation of the loan transaction. There is no statement of the amount of cash advanced to the borrower, interest or any other charges.

—"Brokerage plan. The lender advertises "loans arranged," then charges large fees for procuring the loan.

—"Supplemental charge" operator. Charges such as "guarantee fee," a "co-signer's fee" or a "pledge fee" are made as a subterfuge to increase the charge on the loan.

—"Certificate plan. A loan is made for the full period, not on an installment basis. The borrower agrees to buy an investment certificate from the lender on an installment basis and to pledge the certificate as security for the loan. The loan and certificate mature at the same time. The borrower has the option of using the certificate or other funds to pay off the loan. Periodic payments on the certificate are not considered a reduction of the loan.

Loan sharks operated unchecked in Texas until 1943, when the legislature gave the attorney general and any district or county attorney, the power to enjoin usurious practices.

Armed with this inadequate weapon, the attorney general's office commended its anti-usury campaign in 1957.

During the past two years, the state has won 65 suits enjoining many more such illegal operators. Many such lenders surrendered without a fight and closed shop when their plans were struck down in courts.

Public exposure of the loan sharks prompted many to forsake their calling. But many die-hards fight on to extort the last dollar out of their victims before the final curtain is pulled down.

Wheeler Youth Named To Post

WHEELER (SPL) — Kenneth Whiteley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Whiteley of Kelton, was recently named Assistant District Attorney of Arlington County. The new assistant DA, admitted to the bar the latter part of the summer, is replacing Bob Nurnett.

Whiteley is a June graduate at SMU School of Law and has been a resident of Arlington for the past two years. He worked as an engineering writer for General Dynamics while attending night classes in law school.

He is a graduate of the Kelton High School. He and Mrs. Whiteley have twin daughters, Karen and Sharon who are first grade

General Walker Set For Talk In Amarillo Friday

Major General Edwin A. Walker will speak in the Municipal Auditorium at Amarillo on Friday, January 5th, at 8 p.m.

Since General Walker was relieved, by President Kennedy, of his command of the 24th Infantry Division in Western Germany last April 18th, he has been one of the most-discussed men in America.

Following the announcement on June 12, 1961, by the Secretary of the Army that General Walker had been admonished "for taking injudicious actions and for making derogatory public statements about prominent Americans," a wave of indignation arose across the country, resulting in the scheduling of a congressional investigation of this "muzzling of the military," led by Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, a member of the Senate Committee on Armed Services.

On Nov. 2, General Walker made a formal statement to the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, announcing his intention to resign from the Army, in which he said, in part:

"By God's grace, by action of the Congress, and by appointment to the US military Academy, it has been my privilege to be a commissioned officer in the United States Army for the past 30 years. My life, my service, my dedication to my troops, their purpose, their hopes, are a matter of record. I hope that the origin and depth of my motivation and intent are discernible and clear.

"I have been removed from command of the 24th Division. My career has been destroyed in its usefulness to my country. I cannot accept retirement with its emoluments and benefits. To do so would be a compromise with my principle.

"I take leave of military duty with a heavy heart. I must find other means of serving my country in the time of her great need, in order to pursue the dedication of a lifetime.

"To do this, I must be free from the power of little men who, in the name of my country, punish loyal service to it.

"We are at war. We are infiltrated. We are losing the war every day. Are our hands tied, yours and mine? We need a substitute for defeat. If it is not within the power of this Congress to provide it—then the people of these United States are not truly represented."

General Walker made his first speech as a civilian in Dallas on December 12 to a cheering crowd of 5,800. Since that date he has spoken in Jackson, Mississippi, to a full auditorium of 3,600. His address in Amarillo, for which there will be no admission charge, will be the first of others he will make over the country.

Western Samoa Becomes Nation

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (UPI)—Western Samoa, a country with only one town, no army, no railways and no political parties, is the world's newest independent nation.

The New Zealand flag was lowered Monday and Western Samoa's red, white and blue flag was raised — ending 46 years of New Zealand administration which began during World War I when New Zealand forces seized the onetime German territory.

Churches were packed for the independence services and church bells pealed at midnight.
