Lionism Pictured As Great Force For Peace And Understanding

Lionism was pictured as one of the greatest forces working for peace and understanding in the world by Per Gustav Stahl, International president, as he addressed an audience of some 250 persons at the 35th anniversary celebration of the Pampa Lions Club last night in Coronado Inn.

Through its 650,000 members in more than 16,000 clubs, Stahl, from Sweden, said the Lions are spreading goodwill and giving aid in some 180 countries.

The international president said that in the ten months he has been in office he has traveled over the world and has seen the results of more than 170,000 separate activities being carried on by individual Lions Clubs.

Last night's banquet and program was presided over by Wynne Veale, president of the Pampa Noon Lions Club. Delegations of Lions from Hereford, Miami, McLean, Lefors, Panhandle, Perryton, Pleasant Valley, Amarillo and the Pampa Evening Lions Clubs were in attendance.

President Stahl was introduced by Dist. Gov. Bill Didlake of Borger. Didlake was presented by Ralph Thomas, International Counselor of Pampa.

Lion Tamer Max Presnell led the banquet audience in the singing of "America." E. E. Shultz, first vice president of the Pampa Lions, led the pledge of allegiance, and Norman Henry, past president, gave the invocation. In a procession of distinguished guests, introductions were made by E. O. Wedgeworth, program chairman.

Special guests last night included Pampa High School's foreign exchange students, Chris Jansson of Sweden and Kathy Papatanasopoulos from Greece.

President Stahl particularly urged Lions to continue programs of working with foreign exchange students, an activity which he said could do much to have these students return to their native countries as goodwill ambassadors from the United States.

At the close of last night's program, the international president was presented with a cowboy shirt and leather jacket to go with the cowboy boots and hat he had received at a similar banquet in Abilene Saturday night.

Laotian Rebels Start Offensive

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Powerful Communist rebel forces battled Royal Laotian army troops near the northwestern provincial capital of Nam Tha with both sides suffering heavy losses, it was reported today.

The Laotian Defense Ministry said the Reds launched "a new large-scale action" against the city on Saturday and at least 1,000 troops from each side were still engaged in the fiercest fighting near Nam Tha in the past 60 days. Heavy casualties were reported by both sides.

Informed sources said it was too early to determine whether the enemy was attempting to capture Nam Tha or merely reoccupy the territory which it had let slip to the Royal Laotian army during the past two months of relative quiet.

The sources confirmed that Viet Minh or pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels had driven Royal Laotian troops away from most of a mile-high hill just southeast of Nam Tha.

The Laotian government claimed for the first time Monday that an officer of the Communist North Vietnamese army had been captured.

A military communique said Lt. Nguyen Van Quy, identified as a

North Vietnamese company commander, was among the 15 enemy wounded "left on the field" Sunday following a battle in the Nhiph River Valley in central Laos.

The communique said 10 others were killed.

Cost Of Living In Another Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Living cost crept to the second consecutive monthly record in March and another increase is likely for April, the government reported today.

The Labor Department blamed the March rise of 0.2 per cent chiefly on mark-ups in the cost of medical care and spring clothing styles for women and girls.

The rise amounted to two cents per $10 of spending for goods and services. It lifted the consumer price index to a new high of 105. This meant it took $18.50 to buy goods and services which would have cost $10 in 1957-59.

The report meant that about 67,000 workers whose wages are linked to the index would get pay boosts.

Arnold Chase, the department's price chief, said the 1.1 per cent rise in the index since March, 1961, "would be within the range of reasonable price stability."

He said the fact that the wholesale price index in March was a shade lower than in March, 1961, shows that there are no general inflationary forces at work in the economy.

Chase anticipated further rises (See LIVING COST, Page 4)

Two To Three Dozen Shots Are Anticipated

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States appeared about ready to resume atmospheric nuclear tests with a series of two to three dozen shots in the Pacific.

Barring a last-minute revision in the timetable, the first test may be only hours away. Officials have said the series tentatively is scheduled to start Wednesday.

Hundreds of ships and planes and 12,000 men of Joint Task Force Eight were standing by to begin the tests, which will continue for two or three months.

Nuclear warheads for all types of U.S. intercontinental and submarine-launched ballistic missiles will be tested. The explosive forces unleashed will range from a half megaton to about five megatons. One megaton is equal to the force of one million tons of TNT.

Plans call for the detonation of warheads of the Atlas, Titan and Minuteman intercontinental missiles. A Polaris missile with a live nuclear warhead also will be fired from an atomic-powered submarine.

It was reported that the Atlas, Titan and Minuteman warheads would be boosted high over the Pacific by other rockets and then detonated.

Informed sources said that an Air Force proposal to launch an Atlas with a nuclear warhead from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., into the Pacific test area was rejected.

The Atlas warhead will yield three megatons, the Titan four megatons and the Minuteman about a half megaton. The Polaris warhead also is about a half megaton.

The government has made it clear that it has no intention of exploding any super bombs like the 58-megaton device set off by Russia in its test series last fall. The Russians set off more than 48 explosions.

One or more of the U.S. tests is expected to be conducted several hundred miles above the Pacific near British-owned Christmas Island, 1,200 miles south of Hawaii, or Johnston Island, 800 miles southwest of Hawaii.

The high altitude testing will be part of a major effort to solve problems of missile defense. Scientists want to know whether such explosions would blind radar warning nets or disable communications systems.

Pampa Youth Appointed To West Point

Ronald G. Caldwell, Pampa High School senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Caldwell, 2120 N. Wells St., was appointed today to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

The announcement was made from Washington by Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa.

Caldwell, who will be graduated from Pampa High School in May, ranks tenth in his class of 217 with a four-year grade average of 92.8. He is a member of the Spanish Club, National Honor Society and was president of his Junior home room last year.

Two other Panhandle youths received West Point appointments today. They were David W. Britain, 3rd, and Donald J. Kievit, Jr., both of Amarillo.

Young Caldwell is employed after school at Moses variety store, where his father is manager.

Soviet Union 'Sputnik' Is Orbiting Over US

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today successfully launched an unmanned earth satellite on an orbit which will take it over the major cities of the United States, the official Soviet news agency Tass announced.

Tass identified the vehicle as Cosmos III, third in a series of satellites intended to study weather and communications and the effects of radiation on man during prolonged space flights.

The announcement followed by one day the launching by the United States of a rocket aimed at the moon.

Moscow Radio flashed the report at 11:35 a.m. (3:35 a.m. EST), minutes after broadcasting a four-line statement on the firing of the U.S. Ranger-4 moon rocket from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Monday.

Tass said Cosmos III was orbiting close to the calculated plan.

The announcement did not disclose if it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Hdw. Adv.

US Rocket Heads For Moon

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — America's new Ranger-4 probe whizzed through space today on a collision course with the moon—a "tremendous guidance success" that will ease the sting of a malfunction which added the spacecraft's electronic "brain."

The 730-pound package of scientific instruments, launched aboard a 10-story Atlas-Agena rocket here Monday, was expected to crash onto the hidden "farside" of the moon at 8:55 a.m. EST Thursday. As a machine for scientific exploration, Ranger-4 was virtually a multi-million-dollar bust. The trouble that left the command center of its complex brain senseless at the start of the flight apparently ruined plans to get close-up television pictures of the moon or to safely land a package of instruments on the visible lunar surface.

But scoring a direct hit on the moon after nearly four years and 11 tries will represent "a tremendous guidance success," said scientists of Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL), which built Ranger-4.

The feat involves firing the Ranger-4 as a sort of "bullet" at seven miles per second from earth, and aiming it at a point 230,000 miles away to intercept the moon—a target traveling at 18 miles per second—some 65 hours later.

Russia has hit the moon once, with Lunik-2 launched Sept. 12, 1959. Lunik-2, however, was able to relay scientific information en route, whereas Ranger-4 early today was unable either to send out data or to respond to commands from earth stations.

But the phenomenal accuracy indicated the United States has the guidance ability to make the most of four remaining Ranger moonshots. Previously, the closest a U.S. probe came to the moon was 22,862 miles—accomplished by Ranger-3 launched last Jan. 26.

Information from the Ranger shots is expected to prove vital to plans for manned flights to the moon later this decade.

The moon always keeps one face to the earth, and Ranger scientists had hoped to land their gold and chrome-plated probe on this side so it could radio back information. The moon's body itself will block out radio transmissions from any part of Ranger-4 that should survive a landing on the "far side."

As early today, Ranger-4 was on a course that would carry it about 900 miles ahead of the leading edge of the moon early Thursday. The lunar gravitational field is expected to draw the probe on a curving plunge to the "farside" surface.

Reds Threaten Tests Of New Nuclear Arms

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union threatened today to test "new types" of nuclear weapons if the United States goes through with its planned tests in the Pacific.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko made the threat in a report to the Supreme Soviet on the results to date of the Geneva disarmament talks.

He spoke shortly after the two houses of the Soviet Parliament—the Soviet of the Union and the Soviet of Nationalities—had unanimously re-elected Nikita Khrushchev premier of the Soviet Union—to no one's surprise.

Gromyko said that should the West resume testing, the Soviet Union "will be confronted with the need to reply to such actions by holding tests of new types of its nuclear weapons."

But he spoke as preparations neared completion for resumption of American atmospheric tests in the Pacific which are expected this week since the Soviet Union has not agreed to a test ban treaty with inspection safeguards.

President Kennedy has said the new U. S. tests would be carried out in the absence of such an agreement.

Gromyko told the afternoon joint session of the Supreme Soviet that the West at the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference was placing "ever-new obstacles" in the path of any agreement.

Gromyko, referring to the United States proposals at Geneva, said the Western aim was "not in favor of destroying the weapons but, in effect, in favor of continuing the arms race."

The NATO powers, he said, merely want to "establish something for X-raying Soviet territory, and the American proposals at Geneva showed that this was their position."

He said the U. S. position on the question of the need to ban the use of outer space for weapons purposes was "a swipe against intercontinental and global missiles in order to deprive the Soviet Union of its most powerful means of defense and retaliation in the aggressor."

Now Some Awards For A Few Really Deserving Congressmen

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The recent "Oscar" awards for distinguished achievements in motion pictures will be followed next month by the "Emmy Award for distinguished achievements in television.

This seems like an appropriate time, then, for me to sandwich in some awards that I would like to make for distinguished achievements in Congress.

Up to now, the names of the winners have been kept in the locked vaults at Ft. Knox. Most likely, the winners would have preferred that they remain there.

Well, modesty will get you nowhere, gentlemen, so on with the ceremony!

The first award, for the most ill-timed proposal by a member of Congress whose name begins with "M", goes to—May I have the envelope, please?—Rep. Gordon L. McDonough.

On Feb. 16, McDonough sent a letter to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration urging that the Project Mercury program be shifted from Florida to California.

Oddly enough, California happens to be McDonough's home state.

He said the weather postponements at Cape Canaveral had "placed the United States in an embarrassing position in the scientific community of the world, and should the shot, when it does occur, be a failure, this embarrassment would be compounded."

Four days later Glenn went into orbit.

The next award, for the most personalized income tax relief bill, charity-begins-at-home division, goes to Rep. Hugh L. Carey of New York.

Carey proposed that the dependence deduction be put on a step-basis ranging from $600 for pre-school dependents to $1,400 for those in college.

According to the congressional directory, Carey has 11 children.

The award for the most personalized transportation bill, home-away-from-home division, goes to another New Yorker, Rep. William Fitts Ryan.

He introduced legislation calling for cab drivers to "light their lights as the taxis do in New York City." He explained that visiting New Yorkers trying to flag a cab in the capital were unable to tell whether it already was occupied.

My final award, for the neatest trick of the year, is a conditional one which I am holding in abeyance until it actually is performed.

At such time, it will go to Rep. Jack Westland of Washington who received a letter from a constituent demanding that he "get behind our government and pull.

Texas Politics

By WILLIAM CLAYTON
 United Press International
 Rep. Tom James, candidate for attorney general, today demanded an apology from Waggoner Carr and said his opponent has demonstrated he "lacks the personal integrity" to be chief legal officer of Texas by refusing to take a lie detector test.

The personality feuding spilled over into the race for governor as well, John Connally and Atty. Gen. Will Wilson scored new attacks on Gov. Price Daniel.

Rom Reavley chipped in with James to keep the campaign gleaming with attacks on Carr, former speaker of the Texas House.

"Mr. Carr owes men, my family and supporters a public apology for his misstatement that I lied when I said he asked me to call off the (vice) investigation at Beaumont and Port Arthur," James said.

"His refusal to take the lie detector test is a confession of his guilt. I believe that an attorney general who does only that which does not hurt him politically is going to accomplish nothing during his term."

Carr said Monday that James "lies in his teeth" when he accused Carr of asking him to call off the Beaumont vice probe being conducted by the House General Investigating Committee. Carr was speaker at that time.

"At no time did I tell him or any other member of the committee to do anything other than his duty," Carr said. "Chairman Menton Murray... has stated so publicly. All other members of his committee concurred."

James countered that none of the other committee members was present when Carr asked him to stop the investigation. James said Carr made the request because it would hurt them both politically.

James was vice chairman of the committee and actually spearheaded the investigation with committee counsel David Witt.

"Not one single member of the investigating committee said I lied," James said. "They merely said that Mr. Carr had not made the request to them. If Mr. Carr were telling the truth, he could have no objection to submitting his statement to a lie detector test."

He said the first state to train economists and engineers who are familiar with languages and customs of Latin America will forge ahead in the race of economic competition.

Yarborough proposed more Spanish education in elementary schools, college scholarships for Texas students who master the languages and are interested in a career in foreign trade and scholarships for graduate college students to work in Latin American universities.

"The prize," Yarborough said,

"would be new plants for Texas and the new jobs needed to upgrade the personal income of Texans."

Connally accused Daniel in an 18-station telecast Monday of twisting a Connally campaign promise to reduce the cost of state government. Connally said he would try as governor to cut the cost of administering the Texas government by 10 per cent, but said Daniel tried to make people think Connally was planning to cut all state budgets by 10 per cent.

Connally said Daniel "has been the greatest spender in the history of Texas" and said Daniel does not want to reduce state spending. Connally will campaign in Rio Grande Valley areas Wednesday.

Wilson accused Daniel of claiming credit for water projects "started by former Gov. Allen Shivers." Wilson called the tactic Daniel's "old tricks" and said the governor's emphasis on his law enforcement programs is "political eyewash."

"Daniel has had nearly six years in which to do something about revising the penal code—with no results," Wilson said.

Daniel was in a five-city coastal tour today, stressing the accomplishments of his tenure as governor. He said the state needs experience in the governor's office now because voters will elect a new attorney general, lieutenant governor and speaker of the House within a year.

"We are making major progress in many new and vital programs which were inaugurated during this administration, including the vast improvements in public schools and higher education, the water planning and development program, and the industrial and tourist attraction program."

Daniel will stump the coast also Wednesday.

Republicans Jack Cox and Roy Whitenburg both concentrated on Houston votes today, following a gridiron dinner Monday night that drew many candidates and newsmen to Houston.

Marshall Formby, went to Fort Worth today on the start of a week-long tour of North and East Texas.

James renewed a charge in a Dallas news conference Monday that Carr tried to talk him out of Beaumont area vice hearings, challenging Carr to a lie detector test. Carr called James' statements lies and said "James" lying has hit an all-time low in the annals of Texas politics."

Reavley said Carr was a "do-nothing" speaker of the House and is receiving campaign support from loan sharks. Reavley charged that Carr's "behind-the-scenes manipulation actively prevented" legislation to solve law enforcement and loan shark problems. Reavley campaigned today on the coast.

Carr turned to a Fort Worth-Waco tour today, citing the editorial support of 21 newspapers in Texas.

Les Procter took his campaign to Gonzales today for a Rotary Club speech. He told voters,

"there are no strings attached to me and I can represent all the people fairly." He accused opponents of representing special interests.

In the race for lieutenant governor, Sen. Crawford Martin stressed the need for a chemical test for drunken drivers, before Wichita Falls and Abilene audiences, following his Monday appearance in Houston. James Turman spoke to audiences on a Houston - to - Temple tour. Sen. Preston Smith claimed more endorsements by newspapers than any other candidate. Republican Bill Hayes stumped Houston, stressing industrial programs. Sen. Bob Baker toured the coast speaking on conservation topics.

In the race for congressman-at-large, Russell Van Keuren said the nation is "ignoring communism in Cuba." Judge Woodrow Bean said in Houston that if elected he will do all he can to eliminate the job of congressman-at-large, to save money, saying the position is a waste of political effectiveness and federal revenue. Manley Head told a Houston audience, "to live a free man is a responsibility, to die a free man is an obligation."

Joe Pool told a Baird audience water is still Texas' top problem. Warren G. Moore pressed his platform plan of higher income tax deductions.

Keith Wheatley, Stamford oilman running for the Railroad Commission, said a trip to California gave him added insight into the Texas oil problems since the West Coast state has production, production and importation problems similar to those in Texas.

Liz Walks Out On Burton After Bitter Quarrel

ROME (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor walked out angrily on Richard Burton Monday night and returned to Rome to end a weekend idyll at an isolated seaside bungalow, friends of the couple said today.

They said the couple, who had been staying at a pink bungalow near the resort of Porto Santo Stefano since Saturday, had argued bitterly.

Miss Taylor, who has the week off from work on the film "Cleopatra," left Porto Santo Stefano late Monday night and drove 100 miles to her Roman villa. Burton stayed on until this morning, when he too packed up and came back to Rome.

The 30-year-old actress originally had been scheduled to work today. At one point a studio spokesman said she actually was on the set. He said later the schedule had been changed because of good weather and a number of outdoor scenes that do not involve the stars were being shot.

Friends indicated that the quarrel dealt with Burton's possible divorce from his wife, Sybil. They gave no details except to say Miss Taylor was "extremely angry."

Burton's friends said Monday the 36-year-old Welshman had sent his secretary to London to "sound out" his wife of 13 years about a divorce.

A spokesman for Burton said later that James Benton, the secretary, had simply gone to Paris for the weekend.

SINATRA GETS KEYS
TOKYO (UPI)—American singer Frank Sinatra was given the keys to the city of Tokyo Monday for donating about $25,000 to the city's children's homes and orphanages. Sinatra turned over to Gov. Ryotaro Azuma the proceeds of three of his sell-out performances in Japan.

Mayor Released From Hospital

Mayor E. C. Sidwell, convalescing from an attack of pneumonia, was released from Highland General Hospital this morning.

The mayor had been confined to the hospital for eight days after having been stricken ill while on a trip to Berger.

Mayor Sidwell, at his home, 1901 Charles St., said today he was under orders from the family physician to "take it easy" for a couple of weeks.

Missionary Says He's Eichmann's Adviser

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—A Canadian missionary in Jerusalem disclosed today he has become Adolf Eichmann's spiritual adviser and twice has visited the former Nazi who has been condemned to death for the murder of six million Jews in World War II.

The Rev. William I. Hull, a Protestant non-denominational missionary, said today he visited Eichmann April 11 and April 20. Hull said he was "encouraged by the results of the visits" and will now visit Eichmann regularly.

Hull is from Winnipeg. He is the head of the Zion Christian Mission here.

Eichmann is in jail awaiting a Supreme Court verdict on his appeal against the death sentence. He was convicted for his part in the liquidation of Jews during World War II.

Kiwanis Club Established In Mexico

Kiwanis International has just established its first club outside the United States and Canada. Dr. Weldon B. Adair, president of the Kiwanis Club of Pampa, announced today. Adair said the Kiwanis Club of Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico, established on April 17, was the first club organized outside of English and French speaking North America in the 47 year history of the international service organization.

News of the historic event came from I. R. Wittuhn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, President of Kiwanis International. The service organization's headquarters are in Chicago at the Kiwanis International Building, 101 East Erie Street.

In accordance with Kiwanis policy, the new club of Tijuana was sponsored by, and assisted in its Kiwanis clubs: The Kiwanis Club of San Diego and the Kiwanis Club of Chula Vista, California.

Seventy-one charter members made up this first Kiwanis club in Mexico. Senor Benjamin Garcia Montiel, an official of Agua Caliente Race Course, is the president of the club.

A large delegation of Kiwanians from the San Diego area crossed the border into Tijuana for the permanent organization meeting. Formal charter presentation will take place on May 15.

Oil, Gas Well Fire Burns Near Snyder

SNYDER, Tex. (UPI)—An oil and gas well fire described as a "beautiful sight to behold" burned out of control today on the fringe of Snyder, dangerously close to a hospital and a number of homes.

The escaping gas caused a rumble that shook the ground for miles around. Flames belched up from an open hole in the ground 50-100 feet into the air.

Oil field officials feared the fire will get worse before it can be brought under control. They put in a call to the Paris office of famed firefighter Red Adair of Houston. He presently is in Algiers fighting an oil field fire.

The well, a combination oil and gas well 6,800 feet deep, is located less than one-half mile from a hospital, nursing home, doctors' residence and number of private homes.

The reason it is so dangerous is that it may burn into a pool of oil below the ground and turn the entire area into an inferno. It could possibly cause other wells to catch on fire and spread throughout the whole field.

Rain Band Moves Over The State

A 200-mile wide band of rain stretched from the upper Red River Valley to the Gulf of Mexico and moved slowly eastward across Texas today. The Weather Bureau warned of possible flash flooding along creeks and in low-lying areas.

The rain area will move very slowly, forecasters said, leaving North Central Texas tonight, but remaining over East Texas through Wednesday. More rain was forecast for both areas.

Temperatures were mild, with overnight low readings ranging from 37 degrees at Dalhart to 67 at Beaumont.

Dallas reported 2.36 inches of rain during the 24-hour period ended at 6 a. m. Wichita Falls had 1.78 inches, including 1.19 inches during the six-hour period from midnight to 6 a. m. in the cost of services, especially medical care and rent, and seasonal markups for fresh fruits and vegetables. He said this meant another small increase in the index in April was likely.

The index, which measures changes in prices of more than 300 goods and services bought by middle-income city families, rose 0.3 per cent in February after six months of virtual stability.

The department also reported that lengthening of the average factory work week last month boosted factory workers' pay. The average factory worker with three dependents took home $85 a week last month, up 59 cents from February. After allowing for higher living costs, the gain was 41 cents.

Compared to March, 1961, take-home pay of factory workers was up $5 a week, the second largest March to March increase in 10 years.

GENERAL ROLLS AGAIN—On April 14, fast freights will take to the siding along an 87-mile stretch between Kennesaw and Ringgold, Ga., to let a 107-year-old locomotive puff by, making a commemorative run as one of the highlights of the Civil War Centennial's second year. The locomotive is the famous General, kidnaped by northern commandos and then recaptured after a long distance chase. General has been restored to approximately the way she looked 100 years ago. Only a few modern safe transportation devices have been added, such as an oil burner and air brakes. Local fire departments will supply water as there are no longer any water towers along the historic route.

Laramie' Stars Control TV Show With Sort Of Low-Key Mediocrity

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—By my calculation, Bob Fuller and John Smith, the stars of NBC-TV's "Laramie," together are equal to roughly one-half of Richard Boone.

Yet these two boys have managed to retain control of one hour of the public's air time through a sort of brilliant low-key mediocrity.

The trick is keeping things low-key, so that people confuse it with taste. Keep things quiet, and you can get away with almost any subject.

Tuesday night, for instance, we were offered lust, sex — salmost incest — and shoot-em-up violence, but everything was so soft-spoken, a fellow could have missed all the fun if he wasn't watching closely.

The story concerned a dance-all girl who takes the place of mail order bride and tries to marry a foreign-born, widower anchor to regain her respectability.

Well, before you knew it, the anchor's young stepson covets her, her ex-convict boyfriend comes around and smooches her; he old man decides maybe she'd make a pretty good wife after all, and Fuller pets her — platonically, of course.

Fuller manages to get shot, a more-or-less justified act after the way he says, "ah reckon."

But he finally solves everything, lifting the ex-convict via the quick draw. That's the way to end problems. Quick draw. That, or a punch in the nose. I like Paladin better. He just recites people to death.

It takes genius to construct such mediocrity as "Laramie." Offhand, it is impossible to think of a valid reason to watch it, except to kill time. It is not impressive enough to be called terrible. It is simply nothing. You have seen and heard it all before.

"You could be reading a book, or every talking to somebody."

"But 'Laramie' is the kind of how defended by Dale Robertson, the Western star dropped by NBC, who said recently:

"We've got to give the people that they want — not what we want."

On the other hand, we have the words of the Rev. Dr. Robert J. McCracken of New York's Riverside Church, who said not long ago:

"The demand of the majority does not necessarily serve the public good. When you cater to the many, something has to go and what does go is always quality."

"You can't blame a child for preferring to see the Three Stooges rather than a drama about Abe Lincoln. But you have to do more than cater to his preference. He may not want to wash, but you don't allow him to go about dirty. He may not want to go to school or church, but you see that he gets there. His tastes and preferences have to be educated, elevated, refined. God help America if it rears the rising generation on mediocrity and trivia."

"Laramie" is in the front rank of both.

The Channel Swim: Frank Sinatra and Dorothy Lamour guest on Bob Hope's NBC-TV show April 25. CBS-TV will show a "Defenders" episode about abortion April 28 although all three regular sponsors have pulled out for that segment.

Former baseball star Jackie Robinson appears on Howard K. Smith's news show about baseball tonight on ABC-TV. NBC-TV's "Telephone Hour" was renewed for next season. Dan Blocker of "Bonanza" appears on Bob Newhart's NBC-TV program April 25.

The Bob and Ray comedy team guest on CBS-TV's "Calendar" Friday. John Smith of NBC-TV's "Laramie" is making a personal appearance tour of Japan. CBS-TV's "Mr. Ed" show heads for Japan soon to shoot three segments there.

Singer Frankie Avalon plans a television program, "Teens and Tens," aired live from bowling alleys. He'll give tips to teenagers.

SEADRIFT, Tex. — The father of Pfc. Bernis Gene Owen, in a letter to President Kennedy asking for help in freeing their son who is serving six months in an Army stockade for criticizing a general:

"I am truly sorry he is having to pay the penalty...for standing up for the rights of all American citizens...but I am proud of him."

Nine Die In Palm Beach Car Collision

BRAWLEY, Calif. (UPI)—Nine persons returning home after the Easter holiday—four of them children—were killed Sunday night and four others injured seriously in a head-on collision on U.S. 99, 10 miles west of here.

The California Highway Patrol said a station wagon carrying nine persons, apparently returning from a holiday in the Salton Sea area, was rammed by a sedan on a curve west of the desert community of Westmoreland.

Seven persons in the station wagon and two of the four passengers in the sedan died, according to officers.

Five of the victims were pronounced dead at the scene of the crash and four others died shortly after at Pioneer Memorial Hospital. Attendants at the hospital said two of the survivors were in critical condition and the two others were in fair condition.

Highway patrolmen said the sedan, estimated to have been traveling at 70 miles an hour, veered across the center line of the two lane highway and slammed into the oncoming station wagon.

Chief Deputy Coroner Richard Ramirez identified the dead as Jacob Urias, 35, Indio; his wife, Victoria, in her thirties; their children, Benjamin, 4, Rosavella, 8, Dolores, 7, and Raymundo, 18 months; Frederico Gallego Medina, 20, Jose Palomo, of Thermal and also Sacramento, and Tomas Novello Gonzalez, about 20, from the Coachella Valley.

All but Palomo and Gonzalez were in the station wagon driven by Urias. Ramirez said Medina and Gonzalez were contracted Mexican farm workers.

Reported critical were two other Urias children, Beatrice, 9, and Jacob Jr., 6. Two others injured in the Palomo auto, not yet identified but believed to be Mexican farm workers, were in fair condition.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor
The Big Plunge:
British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has ordered full speed ahead in negotiations for Great Britain's entry into the European Common Market, and the final step now is expected to be taken by the end of the year. It would add Britain's 52 million population to the 170 million people already in the common market in France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, Belgium and The Netherlands, and mark the end of Britain's historic policy of aloofness from the continent.

There still are many obstacles to overcome since membership in the Common Market requires some form of political as well as economic unity. But the British are sure these difficulties can be overcome, providing French President Charles de Gaulle does not throw up an unexpected roadblock. De Gaulle may fear that British membership might interfere with his own plans for French leadership of the Common Market.

Czechoslovak Troubles:
Look for new severe measures by the Czechoslovakian government to meet growing reports of a lack of discipline among Czechoslovak workers. The Czech trade union paper, Prace, has criticized workers for failure to observe the obligatory six-day work week and those who demand free Saturdays. Low morale among workers is estimated to have cost the state $11 million so far this year.

Crystal Ball:
For those who like a quick chance to test the accuracy of predictions, here is what Western diplomats in Moscow expect of this week's meeting of the Supreme Soviet. A foregone conclusion is Nikita Khrushchev's confirmation as premier. Then will come a foreign policy speech in which the premier will launch a bitter attack against United States nuclear tests. However, Khrushchev is expected to approach the situation in Berlin with caution.

The recall of Soviet East German commander Ivan Koniev, who gave the East Germans moral support in the erection of the Berlin Wall, and the U.S.-Soviet talks in Washington, have given continuing support to speculation that Khrushchev would like a peaceful solution of the Berlin problem. The Western observers foresee no major shakeup in the Soviet Council of Ministers.

How to Signal 'In Distress' On Thruways

In emergency, get car off on the right-hand shoulder.

At night burn car's lights, set out flares, flashers.

White cloth is distress signal, raise car hood.

Be Samaritan and alert police to need for aid.

DISTRESS SIGNALS—A system of uniform distress signals has been devised for motorists halted on limited access highways by mechanical failure or other reasons. The sketches outline safety procedures and positive distress signals for stranded drivers isolated from communication with sources of help away from the highway.

WINGED MERCURY—A batlike "Rogallo wing" is suspended above a mock-up Mercury capsule in a hanger at Langley Research Center, Va. The Rogallo wing will be used in later flights of the two-man Gemini capsule to replace the conventional parachute when the capsule returns to earth from space orbit. The inflatable, steerable wing has a spread of 45 feet. The astronauts will control their landings using skids and outriggers for stability.

Again DeGaulle Must Pass On Death Sentence

By United Press International
It is a quirk of history that President Charles de Gaulle is being called upon for the second time to pass upon a sentence of life or death for a great French national hero.

It was at 4:15 on the morning of Aug. 15, 1945, that a jury in Paris returned a verdict of death against Marshal Henri-Philippe Petain, hero of Verdun in World War I, Nazi collaborator in the Vichy French government of World War II.

Then, as he must now in the case of Gen. Raoul Salan, it fell to De Gaulle to make the final decision.

It was near the end of De Gaulle's first term as the first premier of the French Fourth Republic.

He commuted the aged Petain's sentence to life imprisonment.

Petaun lived with his disgrace for two years, finally dying at the age of 91 on his prison island of Yeu off the French Atlantic Coast.

The parallel does not end with Petaun.

Petaun served the Vichy government as chief of state. Under him as premier was Pierre Laval.

It was upon Laval that the chief blame fell for the crimes against Free France and he also received a death sentence.

De Gaulle refused to intervene and Laval died before a firing squad at Fresnes Prison on Oct. 15, 1945.

The firing squad or the guillotine also awaits Salan and his second in command in the outlawed OAS, Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, who was captured a month ago in Oran.

Jouhaud already has been tried and his sentence passed on to De Gaulle for review.

Salan, sentenced to death once in absentia, now will be tried again in person, with the verdict a seemingly foregone conclusion.

There is special tragedy in the case of Salan.

Before he turned to the OAS and its assorted atrocities against Moslem and European alike, he was entitled to wear more decorations than any other officer in France. He had served as De Gaulle's own emissary in Algeria and he had served France as a soldier at home, in Africa and in the Far East.

As the hero image fades, and as the cries of "Salan to the gallows!" begin to drown out the shouts of "Algerie Francaise," it seems that other contradictions will appear.

As Petaun before him, he will plead that he acted for the good of France.

This, and not the glory of the battlefield, is Salan's moment of truth.

From grim Sante Prison already is emerging the picture of a man anxious to disavow himself of the blood of the innocent, realizing too late that his was not the guiding hand of destiny but rather its victim.

ROCKETING COSTS—U.S. space budget for fiscal year 1963 calls for nearly $5.5 billion. This includes projects for National Aeronautics and Space Administration ($3,733 million), Department of Defense ($1,516 million), Atomic Energy Commission ($193 million), Weather Bureau ($47.2 million) and National Science Foundation ($1.7 million). The total amount is over 30 times greater than that spent in fiscal 1957 and nearly twice the 1962 budget.

LAVATORY MAY STAY

WOKINGHAM, England (UPI)—A newly married couple has been ordered by the county council to pull down their new house—except for the lavatory.

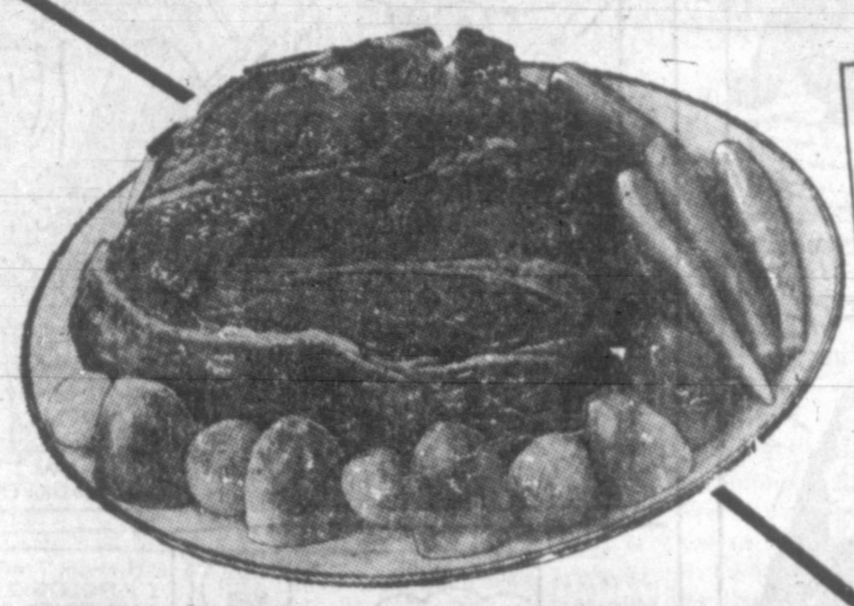

The council said the lavatory can stay because a separate permit for it was approved.

Review And Forum For Beta Chapter Meeting

Beta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met in the high school in Panhandle at 9:30 a.m. on April 14. Mrs. Clementine Morgan presided at the guest register's table which was appointed with Easter Lilies. She directed guests to the Home Making Department where coffee, rolls and fruit were served from a table appointed with miniature Easter Bonnets and an Egg Tree. Mrs. Dorothy Broadway was assisted at the coffee service by Mrs. Marjorie Ewing.

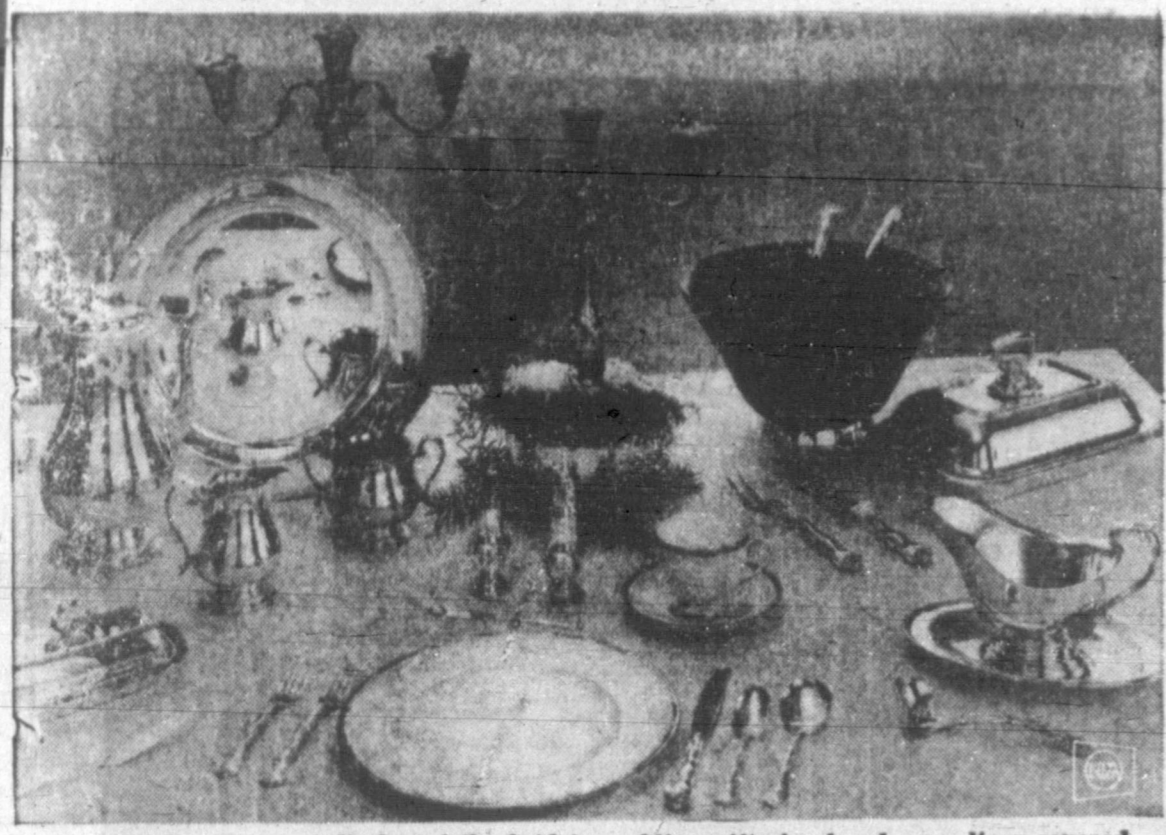

no such thing as a typical Texan, he is just too large. The Texan has these great qualities; piety and politeness." In the author's words, "God made Texas purely for his own entertainment."

The program "Effects of Automation, A Forum" was presented by Mrs. Charlotte Shultz, Mrs. Katie Strickland and Mrs. Jan Guerin. Mrs. Shultz, as forum chairman, secured from Mrs. Strickland the comment that "the influx of automation has been slow, but it is gaining momentum. It has to be planned by the human mind, but narrows the administrator's ignorance. This automatically controlled economy is affecting the old, the very young and the unskilled person the greatest."

Mrs. Guerin added that "the woman of today is being affected physiologically, emotionally and socially. Yes, our standard and way of living is changing greatly, the trend will be toward the skilled and more interesting jobs." Mrs. Guerin concluded by saying,

"Don't be overwhelmed by the push-button economy."

Display Of Wedding Gifts In Good Taste

By KAY SHERWOOD

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. When wedding plans are made, give some thought to the delicate subject of what you'll do with the wedding gifts. A mother of a lone bride-to-be asked me what current attitudes are on the display of wedding gifts and for the answer I checked with a top-notch bridal consultant, Norma Mack.

Some customs are changing. Many mothers of this year's brides were married in wartime, small and extremely simple weddings; displays and fancy receptions weren't feasible or desirable. We can also remember the gala weddings of prewar days when gifts were displayed like so much loot with cards attached and sometimes even the wrappings.

Varietas Club Is Center Hostess

Varietas Study Club was hostess at Senior Center for the April 19 party with Mmes. R. W. Lane, Joe Weaver, W. A. Wagoner, Otis Nace and Eunice Pierson, representing the club as hostesses. Refreshments were served following an afternoon of table games.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. O. A. Wagner and H. M. Hassel. Altrusa members assisting with hostess duties were Mrs. Louise Sewell and Mrs. V. L. Hobbs. Red Cross Gray Ladies assisting with transportation were Mmes. Jess Beard, A. D. Hills, W. J. Woodard, O. F. Kreimeyer, Eunice Pierson.

Approximately 70 guests attended. Lollypop Pre-School will be hosts for the April 26 meeting in the library, according to Mrs. Sewell, Altrusa Club Senior Center Chairman.

IT'S CLEANUP TIME AGAIN

Yes, it's cleanup time, all across America, and you and your neighbors will be burning last year's grass, old papers, trash, and the piles of limbs from the trees that fell last winter.

Smokey Bear says that careless debris burning is one of the principal causes of forest fires, year after year.

So when you're ready to strike that match, won't you heed SMOKEY'S simple rules?

1. Check with your local fire warden or fire department before you burn! You may need a permit for any fire outdoors!
2. Have tools, water, and enough help to be sure your fire can't get away!
3. Don't burn on dry, windy days, when fires run fast and sparks and embers fly!
4. Never leave a fire—any fire—burning unattended!

Remember—only YOU can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

showing presents harmoniously and in good taste. Growing in favor is the trousseau tea, she says. This is given by the bride's mother for relatives and friends and is the only opportunity for them to see all the gifts.

If the reception is given at home, gifts may be displayed at the time in a separate room. When the reception is held in a public place, gifts may be shown to friends in the home a few days prior to the wedding day. In any event, displays are always at the home, never in a public reception hall.

If space allows, all gifts should be shown. In limited space, show gifts from close relatives and friends. When duplicates have been received, only one of the items need be displayed.

Do not include gift cards or wrappings in the arrangement of presents. If checks are shown—and this is a matter of choice—the amounts should be covered, although this will work a hardship on the ladies who enjoy comparing who gives what and how much.

The arrangement itself reflects the taste of the family, Miss Black believes. White or ecru linens should cover the tables and decorations (candles, flowers, etc.) used sparingly. An easy rule to remember is that a well-balanced display needs a high and a low point. Group in one place items that will be used together. Show just a few pieces from tableware sets.

For example, if the bride's parents have given her the traditional sterling silver flatware, show just one place setting. Arrange the sterling in a place setting with pieces of her china and crystal surrounded by serving pieces which will be used with them.

Other types of wedding gifts such as kitchen appliances, household items and linens can be arranged in attractive individual groupings at one end of the display table or on separate tables.

Because a wedding gift display is a concentration of highly desirable items, I would consult local police officials about safety precautions.

Dear Abby... Abby Wonders About Reader's School Life

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We had a discussion about the letter in your column from "Neighbor Lady" who noticed, while cleaning her Venetian blinds, that a high school couple stood out in front of her house for an hour looking into each other's eyes, holding hands and acting so in love right where on the sidewalk. She asked if she should tell that girl's mother because that's the way trouble starts. And you gave her one of your smart aleck answers like, "You must have the cleanest Venetian blinds in town. Now go to work on your mind."

Abby, I think you were wrong. You should have told her to tell the girl's mother. That IS the way trouble starts with those boy-crazy girls. Please retract your answer.

ANOTHER NEIGHBOR LADY: DEAR ANOTHER LADY: Sorry, but I can't retract my answer. Just what did YOU do in high school that makes you suspicious of every teen-age girl who holds hands with a boy, and in the open yet?

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for four months. I'm 44 and my wife is 48. She insists on doing her housework in her nightgown. I think she ought to put on some clothes, especially to hang the laundry on the line. She says it is old-fashioned and I say I don't care if it is. What is your opinion?

HOUSTON: DEAR HOUSTON: I say she should put on a neat housedress every morning. Sloppiness is "old-fashioned" in modern living, too.

DEAR ABBY: When a father dies, and the mother is not able to pay for the funeral, which of their children should pay for the burial? Is it the duty of the sons or the daughters?

DEEP IN DOUBT: DEAR DEEP: Each son and daughter should contribute according to his or her capabilities, for the deceased was the father of all of them.

DEAR ABBY: You are mistaken. Pizza is NOT pie. It is bread. And no one eats pizza with a knife and fork. An Italian would no more think of eating pizza with a fork than a Mexican would think of eating tacos with a fork. Thank you.

DIANE: Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DRESS DOWN—NOT UP: When applying for a job, wear a minimum of jewelry. Leave your aggressively-sized or boldly colored accessories at home. Whether or not a prospective employer realizes it, he may be distracted and unconsciously annoyed by attention-getting accessories of dress.

POLISH PORCELAIN: Quality furniture polish can be used on porcelain appliances and cabinets. It will protect them from smudges and scratches. Just dust the appliances frequently to keep them gleaming.

Casey And Mets Finally Win One

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Quit? Not on your life! Caseyengel is just getting started on the winning road again. "It's great to be a winner," gipped Casey Monday night when his down-trodden New York Mets finally broke a nightmarish nine-game losing streak and won their first game in history by beating the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-1.

By one of those baseball coincidences, it was also the first defeat of the season for the Pirates, who had tied a modern major league record by winning their first 10 in a row.

But even before his amazing feats, as Stengel calls them, overpowered the Pirates on Jay Hook's fine five-hit pitching, Casey made it plain he will stick it to the bitter end.

"I have no intention of quitting," the 71-year-old Casey insisted. "I'm gonna see this thing through and I'm not gonna live up."

Hook, a 25-year-old right-hander, picked up from the Cincinnati Reds in last October's expansion draft, was mobbed by the joyous Met players after his victory just as if he had won the final game of the World Series.

"He deserves all the credit," Stengel said. "He stuck right in here until the end and he looked like he could go on all night."

Had the Mets lost, they would have set a National League record for the most successive defeats at the outset of a season, but as it turned out they came up with their greatest run total of the young season and Hook became the first Met pitcher to go the route.

Hook, who walked only one batter and struck out two, aided his own cause with a bases-loaded single during a four-run second inning rally. Loser Tom Sturdivant also gave up two runs in the first frame.

In other National League games, the San Francisco Giants beat the Cincinnati Reds, 4-1, and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 5-2. The Houston-Philadelphia game, which was the only other one scheduled, was postponed because of wet grounds.

All American League clubs were idle.

Southpaw Billy Pierce scored his second straight victory over the Reds with a seven-hit effort for the Giants. Cincinnati catcher Hank Foiles was the "goat," committing a passed ball with the bases loaded in the first inning and throwing wildly to first with the bases full again in the second while trying to pick off Willie Mays.

Harvey Kuenn collected three of the Giants' seven hits and teammate Ed Bailey homered. Jim O'Toole, charged with his second loss against one victory, allowed only three hits in seven innings but dug his own grave by walking seven.

Young Joe Moeller scattered nine hits in winning his first major league game for the Dodgers. His mound opponent, Lew Burdette, suffered his third loss without a victory.

John Roseboro and Willie Davis hit homers for the Dodgers, Davis' wallop coming on a "second chance." The Dodgers had complained early that Burdette wasn't making proper contact with the pitching rubber. They squawked again in the fifth after Davis had flied out.

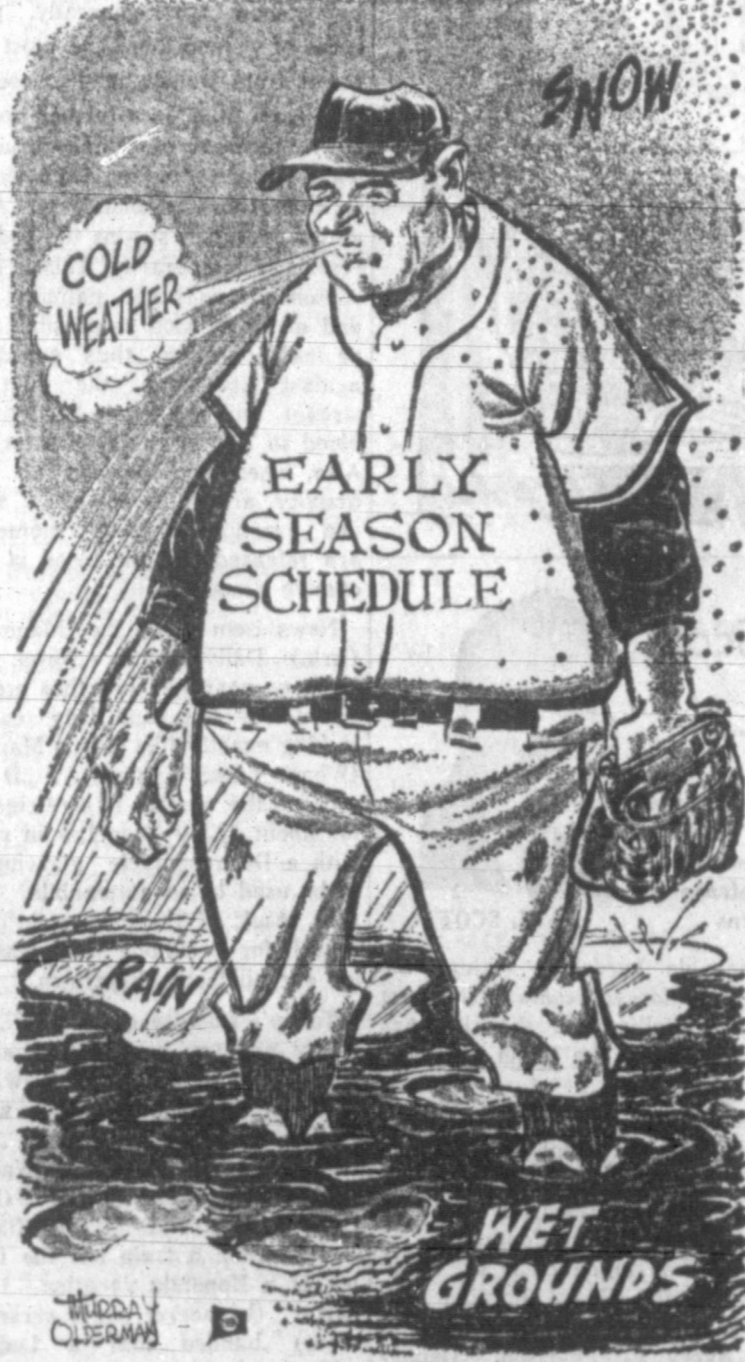

Their second complaint was heeded and Davis was recalled to bat all over again. Given another chance, he connected for a 400-foot homer.

Nichols Wins Houston Meet In Playoff, Copping $9000

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bobby Nichols, with a $9000 check from the Houston Classic in his pocket, was a happy young man today as he packed his golf clubs for a trip to San Antonio and the Texas Open.

The 26-year-old Kentucky native could look forward to an additional $7500 in prizes from equipment manufacturers because of his playoff victory in the classic Monday over Dan Sikes and Jack Nicklaus.

Nichols eagled the 19th hole at Memorial Park to beat Sikes, after the pair had tied with 71 over the 18-hole playoff. Nicklaus' 75 dropped him out of the final playoff.

The three newcomers on the PGA tour, leaders with identical 278s over the regulation 72 holes.

Harvesters Host Amarillo Today

Jerry Glover will take the hill today at 4 p.m. for the Pampa Harvesters against the Amarillo Sandies in an effort to gain revenge for an opening season loss to the team to the west.

The Harvesters, riding the crest of a three-game winning streak, will be seeking revenge for a 4-0 loss at the outset of the season at the hands of the Sandies. In their last three outings, Pampa has roared past Borger, Plainview and Tascosa in order to vault their record up to 5-4.

Glover won his last outing against Plainview and will be seeking his third victory of the year. He is 2-2.

The Harvesters downed the Rebels in their last game, 4-1 last weekend.

In the infield for the local nine will be Mike Clark at first, Larry Gregory at second, Butch Crossland at shortstop and Ricky Stewart at third base. Crossland was one of the leading men with the stick for Pampa and up among the leading hitters in the loop. Arthur had a double in three trips to share sweat honors for coach Deck Woldt's crew.

Doing the catching will be Mike Stewart while Glover will be on the hill. Glover, like Clark is one of the handiest men on the ballclub. The strong-armed right-hander alternates at first base, second base and pitcher depending on his turn in the mound in order of the day. This will be the next to the last home game for the Harvesters. Their final appearance at the Optimist park will be May 1 when they battle the Palo Duro Dons.

AFL Official Foresees Better Gridiron Play

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Football League has won its battle for survival, New York Titan President Harry Wismer said today, and a "100 percent better brand of play" promises a break-even season to be followed by "lots of black ink."

"Within two years our football will be as good as any," said Wismer. "Don't misunderstand me, it will be great this year because of better material, exciting play and even competition."

So good, he feels, that he will square off head-and-head against the long-established New York Giants of the National Football League on two dates in New York.

It is, to him, simply a matter of mathematics.

"It's easier to fight 70,000 people," Wismer chuckled, "than it is to battle 4 million."

The answer is seemingly well-planned. The Titans formerly could trace scanty crowds in New York to the fact that the Giants were on the road and beaming their games back into the city.

On a bad-weather day, it was easier for the fans to sit home and watch the televised action.

"But this year we figure that on the two dates when both of us are playing in New York, the Giants will have their usual sell-out," Wismer analyzed. "Most people can't get good seats for their games. Those are all sold in advance for the season. But they can get good seats to our games and, being shut out on television, we should get a good percentage of them."

Wismer, when it comes to finances, should know. In two seasons the Titans have cost him a staggering total of $1,200,000.

"Nobody expected us to last two years, let alone three," observed the oft-embattled Titan head who doesn't even shy from going to the mat with his own commissioner, Joe Foss, if the case warrants. "But we have and now we're in very promising shape."

Looking for a "break even year," which has to be a victory

Little Loop Age Limit Is Wrong

An item which appeared in Sunday's Pampa News concerning the age limit of little league players was erroneously printed.

The article stated that any boy who had reached the age of 8-12 could participate in the program.

Eight-year olds are not eligible for play. Any boy who will attain the age of nine before August 1 and who will not attain the age of 13 before August 1, 1962 shall be eligible to compete in little league baseball.

TWO NAMED

DALLAS (UPI)—A flashy New Mexico halfback and a rugged linebacker from Michigan are the first two players named to the America Football Classic.

The game, to be played in the Cotton Bowl May 19, will pit the North against the South.

The back is Jimmy Reynolds, a 190-pound halfback from Clovis, N. M. The lineman is John Karpinsky, a 200-pound tackle from Buchanan, Mich.

Both were named Monday to the North squad.

Our Farm Problem

The U.S. Department of Labor's official concept of what things are like down on the farm gets sillier all the time. We say "official concept," because it's the line that's put out for public consumption. The labor department knows as well as anybody that there is a shortage of workers on the farm, but it's putting out a lot of nonsensical suggestions as to how the shortage can be overcome. And it knows the suggestions are ridiculous.

Congressman O. C. Fisher, a Texas Democrat, said Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg recently suggested to him that the government might open some schools in the Southwest to train the locally unemployed how to do ranch work, "and thereby in one fell swoop solve the labor shortages that have plagued ranchers and farmers for years!"

Focus On Ideas

It is fruitless to malign and disparage people. But it is most fruitful to examine ideas and to analyze them critically so that only the best and most worthy ideas will be accepted.

Top Lobby Spenders

Washington lobbyists reported that they spent $2,770,108 in 1961 to influence congressional behavior. For what it's worth, that is about 1.25,000th of the total amount Congress appropriated in its 1961 session.

The reported lobby spending may be insignificant compared with the intangible influence of lobbyists upon national legislation, but the amount of money lobbies say they spent does not necessarily represent the true picture. This is because the vagaries of the 1946 Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act make it unclear just who has to report what.

The Congressional Quarterly survey for 1961, for example, showed that 312 lobby organizations reported their expenditures to influence legislation during the year. There are many others who maintain that they do not have to report under the law, although their activities are similar to those who reported. Since the law was passed, nearly 600 pressure groups have filed reports with the Clerk of the House.

In 1954, the Supreme Court ruled that the lobby law was limited to "direct communication with Members of Congress." Many groups maintain that the law therefore no longer applied to them because they do not engage in direct communication with Members and their function is not to influence legislation but to "inform" or "educate" members of their organizations and the public.

The National Association of Manufacturers, for example, has not filed a spending report since 1950. Other prominent national groups which did not file mention reports in 1961 were: American Bankers Association, Americans for Constitutional Action, Americans for Democratic Action and the American Public Power Association.

Another source of spending which is difficult to pin down is that reported — and a great deal unreported — by individual lobbyists, such as lawyers and public relations men, who may have worked on behalf of national organizations.

Among those organizations who did report 1961 lobby expenditures, the two highest were the American Medical Association, which reported spending $163,405, and the national headquarters of the AFL-CIO, which reported

The Nation's Press

From The Wall Street Journal

We trust no reader of these columns will mistake our position on foreign trade. We have said here repeatedly that this country must open wider the doors of free trade, and we have specifically encouraged the administration's efforts to lower U.S. tariff barriers.

This may require that Congress give considerable latitude to the Executive branch to carry out a defined policy, for Congress cannot negotiate every trade agreement or fix the tariff on every item of commerce.

But to recognize this is not to say that Congress should abdicate its own responsibility to define the nation's trade policies. The plea for lower tariffs ought not to be used to open another door to all kinds of other trade barriers that make tariffs look like the inventions of amateurs. Nor is this plea an excuse for launching another vague, amorphous and almost unlimited federal "relief" program.

Yet that is what is being proposed to Congress in the tariff bill introduced by Chairman Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee at the administration's behest. There are indeed some startling things hidden under that bill's attractive label.

It is not simply that this bill would carry almost to its ultimate the process of allowing the President to cut, or even abolish tariffs, without let or hindrance, although this it would do. The President could enter trade agreements at will and then "proclaim" the reduction by half of any existing tariff; if the agreement is with a Common Market nation, he could completely eliminate tariffs by the stroke of a pen.

The President is also authorized, whenever he thinks some industry needs protecting from foreign imports, "to proclaim such increase in, or imposition of, any duty or other import restriction" as he wishes. If this loose language means anything, it means that some President could raise tariffs as well as lower them, or impose brand new ones, or — and here apparently without any limit — impose quotas or any other kind of restriction on imports.

In short, this wide grant of power to the President is for protectionism as much as for free trade. With this bill Congress would not be declaring a freer trade policy but simply authorizing the trade policy to be whatever the President of the moment declared it to be. Foreign trade could escape the annoyances of tariffs only to meet the more impenetrable barriers of direct controls.

For example, if the "President determines" that they need it, individuals may be paid an adjustment allowance by the government, as well as retraining costs and moving expenses. No limit is set for the length of time this "adjustment allowance" can be paid, nor is there any clear definition of who is eligible for it.

Business firms too, "as the President may determine," would be eligible not only for technical assistance but financial assistance in the form of government guarantees, loans and special tax treatment. Nor are the states forgotten; in return for accepting some restrictions on their own employment programs, they can set up their own agencies to administer the "relief," and be paid by the federal government.

The bill states that actions of the President "in determining eligibility to apply for adjustment assistance, in certifying adjustment proposals, or in making determinations with respect to extraordinary relief, shall be final and conclusive and shall not be subject to review by any court." In short, a blank check for the President to distribute this largesse as he will.

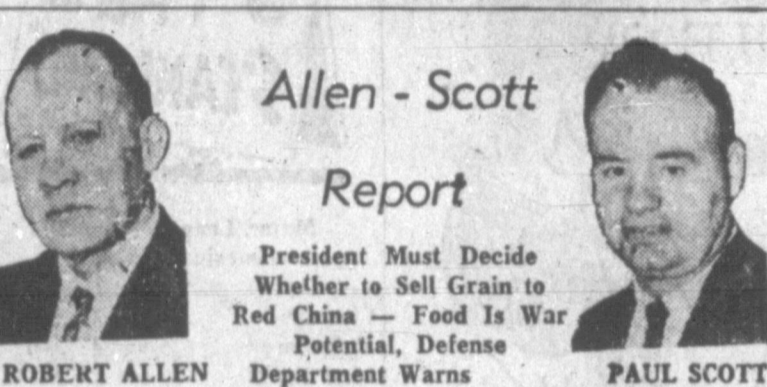

The administration is right, we think, in saying that the economic future of this country lies in the direction of freer trade with the world, and we hope Congress will meet its responsibility to see that we move in that direction. But what this bill grants is the power to any President to move in whatever direction he alone chooses. And buried in it also is a veritable Pandora's box of political woes about who gets what from the nation's treasury.

The fact that all this comes in the wrapping of free trade doesn't mean that the country ought to buy the merchandise inside the package.

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is going to face a tough new decision on Communist China that could have explosive repercussions on the coming congressional elections.

He must decide whether to let the sinking Peiping regime tap the last great reserve of surplus grain in the world — the huge wheat and corn holdings of the U.S.

The President's dilemma is clearly outlined in a highly secret State Department study that is now circulating within the Kennedy Administration.

It reveals that the Chinese Communists have indicated plans to go into the Western markets this summer to seek an additional 20 million tons of surplus wheat for the coming winter.

According to the study, Canada, Australia and Argentina told Peiping they cannot fill a grain order of that magnitude. Australia and Argentina have exhausted their grain reserves, and previous purchases by the Chinese Communists will deplete Canada's grain stocks within the next six months.

This leaves the U.S. as the only country in the world with sufficiently large grain reserves to fill the Chinese Communist's needs. U.S. reserves now total 1.3 billion bushels of wheat and 1.8 billion bushels of corn. Rice reserves total 6.5 million 100-pound bags.

Already, the Chinese Communists are putting out feelers to see if U.S. grain can be obtained. The U.S. consulate in Hong Kong has just cabled the State Department that two British businessmen, returning from trade talks in Red China, brought one feeler directly from Premier Chou En-lai. The Chinese Communist leader reportedly expressed a definite desire to buy wheat from the U.S., indicating that a formal approach to the State Department would soon be made.

In exchange for a U.S. sales accord, the British businessmen said, Chou En-lai is reported to be ready to tone down his government's violent propaganda against the U.S.

KENNEDY'S TERMS — Aides of President Kennedy say that he is definitely "leaning towards" permitting the Chinese Communists to purchase wheat if the Chinese regime makes an official statement or request of its need for the grain from the U.S.

The study points out that food shortages make it impossible for the Red Chinese leaders to muster "more than 20 combat-ready divisions" of the 300 that comprise the huge Chinese Army. This means that the effective Red Chinese forces number only 200,000.

This estimate is based on documents taken from a Chinese Communist regimental commander whose forces were ambushed by Tibetan guerrillas. These documents, which tell of almost un-

Purely psychological: Reader-studies in the field of advertising show that, generally, pictures of women draw the most interest from men, and those of men from men. In a further breakdown, pictures of female brunettes get more attention from women than those of blondes. . . Any major operation strains the body's resources temporarily. This is one reason surgeons get patients up and about as soon as possible after an operation, thus guarding against slowing of the blood stream, and making it harder for blood to clot in veins or arteries.

News item in the Magnolia (Ark.) Daily Banner - News: "It is on or near beaches that pretty Faulterly suit and long curls, looking exactly like Harpo Marx." (What's that again?) . . . Due soon on the market is a refrigerator about 13 by 15 inches in size, with a DC receptacle allowing it to be used in an automobile. It's the result of thermoelectric research for providing refrigeration for our nuclear submarines.

Today's favorite gag: JONES—"Why are you so bitter against your Uncle Hezekiah?" BROWN—"He lost all his money after we'd named the baby for him." . . . A half hour after Publisher Walter E. Williams of the Fairfield (Ia.) Daily Ledger and Mrs. Williams had boarded a train on the first leg of a Honolulu vacation, the porter (by secret pre-arrangement) handed him a Ledger with a faked front-page headline reading: "Ledger Staff Begins 30-Day Rest Period, Boss Okays Three-Hour Work Day."

Flashback: During World War I, the requests for British soldiers for autographed photos of Hollywood stars to adorn their quarters showed Deanna Durbin (born in Canada) ahead by a big margin, with Dorothy Lamour and Sonja Henie following in that order.

Thoughts while shaving: 1. The official volume of our astronauts Glenn, Shepard, Grissom, etc., due in the fall, will be titled "Go!" But it still will not be a brief title than that of another national hero's story of his New York-Paris solo flight in 1927. Charles Lindbergh titled his book "We," referring to himself and his sturdy craft. . . 2. On the subject of writing, the famed editor of the London Daily Express, Arthur Christiansen, asserts that good writing is not an easy chore. He puts it this way for preparing a manuscript: "I cut, I rewrite, I cut again. Simplicity is no simple thing." . . . 3. The use of "finalize" as a verb recently whipped up a furor when one as careful with words as President Kennedy had employed it. So now it's in the latest edition of one dictionary as a verb — but not because the President had used it.

. . . A reminder of the ruckus during the political conventions of 1952 when Betty Furness was constantly on TV extolling an appliance which she stated "obsoletes" all other models. The use of "obsolete" as a verb stunned many precisionists. Well, it shouldn't have. "Obsolete" as a transitive verb had been in most dictionaries for years. It had merely lapsed into disuse till Betty (or her copy-writer) revived it.

Pegler Says: Every Prizefight Is Bit Of Disorderly Conduct

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I do not see how the National Government can take jurisdiction over the Prizefight industry to suppress it even on teevy, but I have an incurable enthusiasm for the egg and the electric fan and I would like to see the Government try it. Every prizefight is a local occurrence and is at worst disorderly conduct. By what stretch of the Constitution a fight between two unarmed men could be deemed dangerous to the nation I can't conceive even though from long experience I realize that we can never be quite sure until they try.

President Eisenhower sent the Army to Little Rock to prevent persons not named from slapping other persons equally anonymous with no showing that any person of the first category had threatened to slap any other person of the second category. General Edwin A. Walker, who was overall commander of the area, has since expressed disgust with this duty.

Eisenhower is charmingly ignorant in many matters, but he is a West Pointer and even a Yearling on the Plain knows that Federal troops commit assault on civilians at their own risk of reprisal, prosecution and judgment for damages unless there is legal authorization for such violence. There must be a declaration of martial law and the governor of the invaded state must appeal to the President to intervene by force. The local police legally could have arrested and disarmed the soldiers, but there were practical inconveniences which made capitulation seem better than valor.

The most inviting method from the standpoint of the Bureau of Prisons is to suppress prizefight films by television. This would be a good thing, not for moral reasons or any pretense of virtue, but as a means of reminding us all again that teevy and radio both are licensees under Federal authority and regulation. This status creates a presumption, justified by experience, that they are likely to commit evil against the public interest.

It may be argued that the Press is equally mischievous, but be that as it may, we got a charter from the Founding Fathers and no public authority can put us under license until further process is had. Teevy and radio came long afterward and the word "press" in the First Amendment obviously cannot apply to them. I think they both ought to be suppressed because they take too much of the advertiser's dollar and because I knew Ed Sullivan when he was writing a speakeasy column and constantly ballyhooing Cafe Society.

Just after the Jeffries - Johnson fight in Reno in 1910 Congress adopted a law forbidding interstate shipment of prizefight films. There was constitutional authority for this, but the purpose was to head off race riots. After the Dempsey Willard fight in Toledo in 1919, a promoter who was also a sport editor bethought himself to take a projector to a state line and project the movies a few feet across the line and make more movies of the fight from this image. (That is a word I promise not to use again.) And so on and so on until there would be a master movie in each state in which there might be a master movie. Nothing came of this subversive trick. However, I saw the movie years later in New York and it made me ashamed of old impressions that Willard had been a dog, as the term used go. He took a terrible beating and Dempsey was so used up from the mere exertion of clouting the floundering hulk that he was the point of collapse himself. Willard suffered no brain injury and came back to fight a more young fellows era he said into obscurity as an employee Dempsey, of all people, in liquor business in California.

Joe Louis has recently made a print with an unnecessary flourish that he fought with the kill instinct. No boxer ever fought kill although Dempsey fought in as soon as he could and McCoy was a cruel fellow who liked to lacerate his opponents. It seems unnecessary to go law prizefighting, but let's try anyway. We might find a way to suppress The Rack Pack. To see that racketeers have corrupted the Noble Game is unjust to O'Ney Madden and Boo Boo Huff mobs of the Golden Decade when mockery was in flower as the beauty and chivalry of West Street, Hollywood and the Democratic Party adorned the ring side at all of Tex Rickard's extravagant galas. It is corrupt all right, but that is just its nature.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Convulsion Treatment May Chase the 'Blues'

My wife has just had a nervous breakdown. She used to be full of pep. Took care of everything and everybody. Then she began to run down. Let things go. Didn't want to be bothered by the house or the children or herself. I took her to our doctor who knows her since she was a little girl. He said she was having the "change." He gave her all kinds of pills and shots. But nothing helped. So he sent me to a nerv specialist. And the nerve specialist says she needs convulsion treatments and asked me to sign a paper to give permission. I wouldn't sign such a paper so she took her back home. How can I fits help my wife? I am not an educated man but I don't think what the doctor advises makes sense. Do you?

A—I don't blame you for being confused, my friend. It's true that convulsion treatment doesn't make sense. But it's also true that it often works wonders in the treatment of certain kinds of "nervous breakdown," especially the kind your wife seems to be suffering from. That is to say, a deep depression.

Although these depressions often occur in middle age, they have nothing to do with the "change," as you've already found out. Men get them as well as women. But if a woman gets them, say in her early forties, they say it's because she's about to have her "change." And if she gets them after the fifties, they are apt to say it's because she's just had her "change."

The "change" has little, if anything, to do with the depression. And pills and shots of vitamins and pep-up drugs do little good, if any. Those persons who think they are benefited probably would have gotten better anyway as, most often, these attacks of the "blues" lift just like storm clouds. When they don't lift, as in the case of your wife, convulsion treatment may cause them to lift. But don't ask why. Because no one knows.

When convulsions are produced by carefully controlled electric shocks, there is very little risk and great promise for good. Your doctor asked you to sign consent to these treatments for the same reason you'd be asked to sign consent to operation. Because, every once in a while, the induced convulsion results in dislocation of a shoulder or a back injury. But 99 times out of 100 or more, the convulsion causes no damage. From your description of your wife, I am inclined to believe she would want you to sign the paper. A woman who formerly "took care of everything and everybody" can't be very happy being a burden and a problem to her husband and children.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW United Press International HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — One of the strangest aftermaths of World War II — the starting of a religion by an American GI on a South Pacific island, and his awaited return as a messiah—was the subject Monday night of ABC-TV's prize-winning "Expedition!"

The natives of the island of Tana, in the New Hebrides, belong to the "cargo cult," and the objects they still worship today are those which troop landings introduced to them, among them: jeeps, radios, guns, fountain pens, refrigerators, shaving brushes.

According to explorer David Attenborough, who led an expedition for the British Broadcasting Corp., the awaited messiah is named John Frum, a man who paid the natives a mysterious call and then disappeared.

He told them to throw away their money and kill their cattle. They did this, and quit missionary school. In strange, pathetic obedience to this self-willed "god," crosses were constructed all over the island—but not those of the Christian sort. The crosses are painted red, and sinister images of an ordinary white European man are constructed in the cruciform shape on some of them. One cross has a shaving brush on it.

Although the half-hour length of "Expedition!" caused the cameras to show only highlights, the eerie mood was captured, especially in a chat in which Attenborough asked an elderly native leader if 19 years was not a long time to wait for a messiah. The native replied that "you" have been awaiting Jesus for 2,000 years.

A native teacher told the explorer that everyone will be happy when Frum returns. Later, as natives gathered around Attenborough, who was told he resembled Frum, the leader said that on the great day, "Cargo be American... everything for every man," including cars and everything whites have now.

The belief is that Frum will come out of the sea again; since the cargo arrives in ships and planes, the natives believe it is not made by men — but by gods who send them. This is why the Tanaians fashion crude fountains and radios.

This final episode of "Expedition!" had the spellbinding effect of shocking truth, clearly stranger than fiction. It smacked of Joseph Conrad's novel of deepest Africa, "Heart of Darkness," and the evil power wielded by his European villain, Kurtz.

When the show was over, one wondered whether Frum—or whatever his name was — actually started his cult as some sort of tasteless joke and if he realized what his action had led to. Is he laughing at the whole thing? Where is he now? There is a novel for someone in the uncovering of that question. It is really a horror story. "Expedition!", which recently won a Peabody Award, was dropped from ABC-TV's schedule for next season. CBS-TV is now deciding whether to put the show on. Whoever does will render an educational service. The Channel Swim: Kathy Nolan is off ABC-TV's "The Real McCoy's" because of a contract dispute; star Walter Brennan, who had planned to cut sharply in his appearances season, now will do 22 shows from Sundays to Thursdays fall.

Good Year For Diesel Industry Is Anticipated

By JESSE ROGUE UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—While the auto shoppers flocked into the coliseum Tuesday to examine the latest exhibits of the gas turbine engine, industry sources in another, older engine field have been figuring prospects on what they expect to be a good year.

The sixth annual automobile show here, glittering with domestic and foreign productions for the automobile passenger market, is not the place for the workhorse diesel truck; it can be found at the hauling and farm machinery shows.

By comparison with European production United States output of the diesel engine is not high. Ten years ago, diesel makers produced less than 140,000 units, and 1961 output was just under 220,000, according to government statistics and to trade reports.

That 1961 output, expected to rise slightly in 1962, is under what one single European company, (F. Perkins Ltd.) puts out in a single year.

Yet, in over-the-road transportation, diesel makers point to the growth use of the diesel in the medium-weight truck field, where several manufacturers have introduced them. Latest is International Harvester; earlier this year, Dodge introduced a compact six-cylinder diesel for a medium-duty truck line. Developed overseas, Dodge has installed the units in trucks for foreign markets for some years.

The farmer, however, remains the best customer in the United States. Increased and increasing mechanization of farming and almost universal use of heavy-duty traction units on bigger farms has proven the big market for the cheap fuel diesel; about 40 percent of the annual United States output, or probably 90,000 to 95,000 units this year, goes to the farm equipment industry.
