Communists Ring Berlin With Explosives

Jets Fired On By Congo Marauders

LEO OLDVILLE (UPI) — Marauding Congolese soldiers in Northern Katanga Saturday fired at two U.N. Indian jets sent to confirm reports they had slain a second group of Roman Catholic missionaries at Sola and ravaged the nearby native villages.

The reports of unbridled savagery almost overshadowed a major political development: disgraced former Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga flew here Saturday from Stanleyville and placed himself under protection of the United Nations to await his punishment.

A U.N. spokesman said the Indian Canberra jets were on a reconnaissance flight in the Kongo-Sola area when the hostile troops opened fire. When fired at, the planes were sweeping low over a column of troops marching toward Kongo along the road from Kilubi. The jets were not hit and did not return the fire.

It appeared certain that any missionaries still in Sola had been murdered along with any students at the mission school there. There had been seven priests and eight nuns there, and Roman Catholic sources expressed hope they may have fled before the marauders arrived.

They had been alerted by the New Year's day massacre of 19 Catholic priests at Kongo when the 15 European missionaries and one lay brother were beaten with bicycle chains before they were shot, and their bodies dismembered and dumped into a river.

A U.N. spokesman said the absence of any sign of life at Sola raised fears the missionaries there and an unknown number of girl students had been massacred.

The U.N. planes found the town of Kilubi, just south of Sola, in flames Saturday. Surrounding small settlements were burned out.

A spokesman said the jets, exploring the area shortly after dawn, found that their observations were hampered by poor weather conditions. They found the Kongo airfield unusable because of obstacles on the runway. Houses on both sides of the river were in flames, the pilots said.

"The firing at the Canberras is concrete evidence of hostile troops in the area," the spokesman said. He said "plans are being worked out to deal with the troops" but gave no details for security reasons.

Sola is 95 miles north of Kongo and about 200 miles north of Albertville. The troops involved were generally believed to be renegade soldiers once loyal to Gizenga and, before him, to Patrice Lumumba.

Amarilloan Safe In East Africa

LISBON (UPI) — A correspondent of the Portuguese state television network reported Saturday night that American oil engineer A. W. Doshier of Amarillo is safe in the African colony of Mozambique after missing on a plane flight since Wednesday.

The television network announced in a newscast Saturday night that its correspondent in Mozambique had reported reception of a message from the missing plane at the town of Rio Belo, saying "we are well."

RECEIVES AWARD — Jerald Simms, left, was named recipient of the Pampa Jaycees' distinguished service award for outstanding community service at the civic group's annual "Bosses' Night" banquet Friday night. Bosses Are Honored At Jaycees' Banquet

Jerald Simms received the distinguished service award for outstanding community service at the annual "Bosses' Night" banquet sponsored by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, Friday night in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

The annual award is made to reward efforts of individuals interested in community progress. Simms and his wife were escorted to the speaker's stand by Melvin Jayroe, recipient of last year's award.

The presentation was made by E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. Before presenting the award, Wedgeworth recited the church and civic activities of Simms over the past several years. Simms is a former Jaycee member, charter member of the Optimist Club, member of the Toastmasters Club, acted as chairman of the Gray County United Fund Board, member of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors, leader of a Boy Scout troop, Sunday school teacher and presently county chairman of the March of Dimes Campaign. He is a vice president of the Pampa First National Bank.

The Jaycees, their bosses and guests, expressed satisfaction at the selection of Simms by giving a standing ovation. He was also presented a framed certificate signed by the president and vice president of the National Junior Chamber of Commerce, honoring Simms for outstanding community service.

L. Douglas Halley acted as emcee for the event and introduced Gene Hollar, past Jaycee president who presented the outstanding boss of the year award to J. Gordon Lyons, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. The award, Hollar said is presented to the boss of a Jaycee member whom club members feel has contributed most to help the civic club during the past year.

Continuance Of Textbook Hearings Urged By Press

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The Texas Press Association adopted by voice vote Saturday a resolution urging the state legislature to continue public hearings on the selection of school textbooks.

"A committee of the House of Representatives has been investigating textbook selections during the current special session but will cease to exist Feb. 1 unless it is extended," the resolution said.

Walker Charges People Deceived

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Former Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker charged Saturday that the American people have been "deceived and misrepresented" by their national leaders since the beginning of World War II.

"We have had two decades of retreat from victory by the greatest nation the world has ever known," the controversial resigned Army officer told the Texas Press Association Convention Saturday.

Walker, who has embarked on a national speaking campaign for his conservative program, said he had no "plans for the future." But he would not state whether this meant he would not be a candidate for public office in 1962.

Walker resigned from the Army rather than retire, as he could have, so he could speak more freely. Resignation meant that he gave up his right to a $10,000 pension and allowances.

He resigned after a controversy over the material he used to indoctrinate his troops in West Germany. Some of the material was from the John Birch Society.

Cold Freezes Out Bucket Brigade; Snow Is Forecast

Saturday's continued cold weather forced postponement of the city civic organizations' "Bucket Brigade" drive for the March of Dimes until next Saturday, according to Mark Buzzard, MOD city chairman.

Weather forecasters said little relief was in sight for the Pampa area during the next few days.

Temperatures have mostly hovered around the freezing point for several days in the Panhandle area. Low in Pampa last night was 18. High today is expected to reach near 40.

Astronaut Ready For Orbital Flight In Space

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., carrying a three-day supply of food and water and a pilot's map, will ride a space capsule he named "Friendship-7" on America's first manned orbital flight around earth within a few days—possibly Wednesday.

The slender, 40-year-old space pilot who announced weeks ago that he was "ready and anxious" for the flight is scheduled to circle the globe three times at altitudes ranging from 100 to 150 miles.

Glenn, a Marine lieutenant colonel and veteran of two wars, will become the first American to catch the spectacular views of earth and space that Russia's No. 1 "Cosmonaut," Yuri Gagarin, found "difficult to render... in words."

For nearly five hours, Glenn and "Friendship-7" will soar through space at a speed of 17,500 miles per hour, crossing alternately through the daylight and nighttime of earth. To the astronaut, it will seem that three quick days and nights have passed.

Glenn will follow in the space trails of Gagarin, who orbited earth once last April 12, and Soviet spaceman Gherman Titov, who made 17 circuits last August. U. S. astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom made brief "sub-orbital" flights of about 15 minutes each in 1961.

If all goes well, red-haired Glenn will cover 81,000 miles through the three orbits, ranging as far north as the southern tier of the United States and as far south as Africa's Cape of Good Hope, before making a parachute landing inside his capsule in the Atlantic. However, he will not pass over Russia.

Glenn, five feet 10 inches tall, will be placed in a special protective couch on what amounts to the floor at the blunt end of the bell-shaped Mercury capsule.

Sometime between 7:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. EST, a converted Atlas war rocket will thunder into life to send Glenn and "Friendship-7" toward orbit, pushing them to an altitude of more than 100 miles above Bermuda in less than four minutes.

On board the capsule will be three quarts of water and about 3,000 calories of food — beef and mixed vegetables. In a way, the small bottles and tubes are reminders that something could go wrong on the hazardous flight despite the elaborate, months-long preparations.

Should reverse rockets designed to slow the capsule at the end of the journey fail to fire, Glenn conceivably could spend several days in orbit until gravity and a comparatively small amount of fuel would cover 81,000 miles

Bulgarian Spy Plane Crashes Near U.S. Base

TARANTO, Italy (UPI)—A Bulgarian jet spy plane equipped with an aerial reconnaissance camera and armed with machine-guns crashed Saturday near a secret U. S. missile base 30 miles north of here.

The single jet Soviet-built MIG plane bearing the Red star marking of its Communist government crashed about six miles from Gioia Del Colle, where the United States maintains a medium-range ballistic missile base. The pilot of the plane survived. He was taken from the wreckage and rushed to a nearby hospital suffering from a head wound, a broken arm and shock, federal police said. They identified him as Myloca Podgoros of the Bulgarian Air Force.

The Italian news agency ANSA said the plane flew low over the Gioia Del Colle area and suddenly lost altitude. One wing hit a tree and snapped off before the plane hit the ground. The other wing was smashed off by the crash.

There was no immediate identification whether the plane was deliberately spying on the American missile base or whether it might have been checking up on Communist Albania only 100 miles across the Adriatic Sea from Italy.

Albania has split ideologically from the Moscow bloc of Communist countries. It lies between Bulgaria and the Adriatic.

If the pilot had flown to Italy to seek political asylum the Italian authorities say no clue. To reach southern Italy from Bulgaria he would have had to fly across either Yugoslavia and Albania or Greece and Albania.

In any case, radar screens could follow the progress of the flight unless he skimmed at wave level across the Adriatic.

Italian police immediately cordoned off the area around the wreckage of the plane. The pilot was taken to a hospital at Acquafredda, about 20 miles south of the port of Bari.

Foreign Ministers Seek Red Aim In 'Using' Cuba

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (UPI)—The foreign ministers of the hemisphere gather Monday to consider how far the Kremlin is using the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba to penetrate Latin America and what shall be done about it.

The Soviets presumably would like to break up the inter-American system now three-quarters of a century old by driving wedges between the wide differences of opinion which exist among the 20 republics on what should be done about Cuba.

For that reason there have been unparalleled exchanges of secret talks and negotiations between the foreign ministers of America during the past week. It would appear that a common stand has been forged which will bring unanimous or almost a unanimous vote.

The conference probably will end up with a stiff anti-Communist declaration signed by all and probably complemented by an inter-American agreement to take concrete measures against Red infiltration of the continent, especially from the Cuban beachhead.

Argentina is plugging for a motion to call on the United States to hasten and increase President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program to improve living standards as the best bulwark against Communism.

Brazil and Mexico appear to be ready to try for a status of "peaceful co-existence" with Cuba retaining its Marxist government but forbidden to export it.

Death Zone Set Up By Mined Area

BERLIN (UPI) — A land mine blew up Saturday on the border of West Berlin and East Germany and police said the explosion confirmed suspicions that the Communists have ringed the city with a 75-mile-long "death zone" of explosives.

The Communists are known to have mined border areas between East and West Germany some time ago. They also have cut off West Berlin from East Berlin with their concrete-and-barbed-wire wall.

But until the explosion today there had been no real proof of persistent reports that West Berlin's 75-mile-long border with the East German province of Brandenburg had been mined also.

West Berlin police said a man who appeared to be a Communist border guard tripped off the mine inside East Germany Saturday morning. A West Berlin policeman witnessed the incident from a vantage point in Berlin's French sector.

Border guards carried the victim from the scene, 100 yards behind the triple barbed wire barricade that rings the perimeter of West Berlin on its border with Brandenburg, police said.

Meantime, the East Germans called on West Berlin authorities to demand valid smallpox vaccination certificates from all persons traveling by air to the city from areas of known smallpox infection.

The note from East German Health Minister Max Seifritz to West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said East German authorities would demand such certificates from anyone crossing East German territory to West Berlin.

The Communist East German news agency AD said the note was sent to Brandt. Brandt is on vacation and acting Mayor Franz Amrehn said he had not seen the note.

Editor Charges Foreign Aid Is Much In Misuse

DALLAS (UPI) — George W. Healy, vice president and editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, said today U.S. foreign aid was being misused in many countries because the federal government gave it away and had no idea what it was going to be used for.

Healy, speaking before a meeting of the Dallas Forum, said the giving of foreign aid without requiring evidence of expenditure was an "un-American procedure."

"We should know exactly where our money goes," Healy said. "In the case of foreign aid, this has not been true."

"We end up buying limousines for potentates in countries where Congress meant to help peasants," he said. "And any potentate we can buy with a limousine, can be bought by the Russians with rubles."

The current crisis in Laos was brought about because "three princes couldn't decide which one would get to handle the American foreign aid," he said.

As a result, U.S. economic aid to Laos meant about 100 families in the country got to live like industrialists, while the rest of the nation continued to live as it had for hundreds of years.

Healy asked Forum members to have their congressmen demand an accounting of foreign aid expenditures, so people would know where the money goes.

Texas Taxpayers To Foot $3.9-Billion Budget Bill

ABILENE (UPI) — The West Texas Chamber of Commerce estimated yesterday that Texas taxpayers will have to finance $3,940,500,000 of the $92.5 billion budget that President Kennedy proposed today for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The estimate was based on the West Texas chamber's calculations that Texas taxpayers pay 4.26 per cent of all federal taxes.

"The $92.5 billion expenditure total proposed by President Kennedy for the coming fiscal year is only a few billion dollars short of the spending totals at the height of World War II, 1944 and 1945, when defense spending alone was $84 billion a year," a statement by the WTCC said.

"In the 1963 budget, however, national security programs total $52.7 billion and all other expenditures $39.8 billion.

"Domestic nondefense expenditures, exclusive of interest, amount to $28.1 billion. This represents an increase of $1.5 billion over present estimates for the current year and $5 billion over domestic nondefense spending in the last fiscal year, when such spending was already accelerated as an anti-recession measure."

There Are Three Ways To View Federal Budget

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are two ways of looking at a federal budget. (Three if you use rose-colored glasses).

One way is to consider the budget's fiscal contents, and the other is to contemplate its physical aspects.

I have been analyzing President Kennedy's new budget from the latter standpoint, which seems to me the more reliable method.

(This is because the physical qualities of the budget—its size, weight, etc.—remain constant during the year whereas its fiscal contents are likely to fluctuate rather wildly once congress starts toying with the figures.)

For instance, the new budget outlines expenditures of $92.5 billion and revenues of $93 billion, leaving a $500 million surplus. (That surplus is what I meant by looking at the budget through rose-colored glasses.)

These figures are predicated on the assumption that Congress will follow the President's recommendations as regards appropriations and taxes. Offhand, I can't imagine a more shaky assumption.

I have found that a more accurate picture of the government's financial position can be obtained by taking the budget and dropping it on your feet.

If it is heavy enough to fracture the metacarpal bone, this usually means that the government will operate at a deficit.

The budget this year comes in two volumes, one weighing five pounds and the other two pounds, give or take a few ounces or a few billion dollars.

If I tried dropping them on my foot, I fear they would fracture not only the metacarpus but the ankle as well. So I didn't carry my budget analysis that far.

Just a cursory analysis convinced me, however, that this budget will be difficult to keep in balance. I tried balancing the larger volume on the end of a broomstick and darn near strained a ligament.

In addition to adopting the two-volume format, the Kennedy administration has changed the color of the budget. All of the previous budgets I ever saw were bound in a neutral shade.

The cover of this one was done in deep azure, a hue that could possibly be described as "taxpayer blue."

Kennedy Is Star At $100-A-Plate Democratic Dinner

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy marked his first anniversary in the White House Saturday with a quiet working day but capped the occasion by starring at a $100-a-plate Democratic Party dinner in the evening.

A throng of about 6,000 party faithful—including former President Harry S. Truman—turned out for the fund raising dinner. There was no prepared text issued for Kennedy's speech.

But in advance, Democrats were almost as jubilant as they were a year ago when the President was inaugurated. They whooped it up for both Kennedy and his wife who was making one of her rare political appearances.

Truman, in his prepared speech, hailed Kennedy as a "wise, brilliant and vigorous President." In the pre-convention maneuvering of 1960, he had sought to block Kennedy's nomination by terming him too young and inexperienced for the job.

Favorable agricultural credit conditions for 1962 were forecast by an official of the Canadian Production Credit Association, in a report of 1961 activities of the agricultural credit organization, released this week.

"Conditions look good for another year," declared Erbin L. Crowell of Canadian, general manager of the Canadian Production Credit Association.

Ample funds will be available through the association for the qualified farmer and rancher, Crowell pointed out. He stressed the importance of efficient management to increase the profit margin of the average agricultural operation.

Dependable sources of credit will be increasingly important to agricultural operators, Crowell said, to provide operating funds and to build capital structure.

The Canadian association reported an active year in 1961. Loan volume totalled $6,660,757 for the year, with an end-of-year volume of $3,124,418. Number of loans totalled 321. The association has loaned nearly $72,000,000 to area farmers and ranchers in its 28 years of existence.

"Ample credit will be available to qualified borrowers," Crowell said, pointing out that the $6.6 million in loans made by the association represents new money put into circulation, giving a substantial boost to the economy of the six-county area.

The 38 Texas PCAs receive loan funds through the sale of debentures sold each month on the nation's commercial money market. The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston serves as discount agency for the Texas associations.

Owned and operated in its entirety by its farmer and rancher stockholders, the Canadian PCA serves Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Roberts, Hemphill, Gray and Wheeler counties.

Central office is in Canadian and field offices are operated in Pampa, Wheeler and Perryton.

"We have but one reason for being in business," Crowell said, "and that is to provide a dependable source of low-cost credit for farmers and ranchers in our area."

of Hugh Sanders, music instructor, sang several numbers. Members of the quartet were Bill Mangum, Kelley Robinson, Wayne Pursley and James Shelton.

Halley introduced the Jayces and their bosses and special guests including ten past club presidents, Mayor E. C. Sidwell, and City Manager John Koontz.

Bennie Shackelford, Jaycee president, presented eight "spoke" awards to club members who have completed necessary requirements for first year membership. Receiving the awards were: Ken Castanien, Duggan Smith, Dell Bryant, Robert Gable, Tom Snow, L. Douglas Halley, Bob Blakeney and Paul McCauley.

The banquet, a hats-off gesture to business leaders of the community, was closed by the reciting of the Jayces Creed.

McNamara Says We Can Destroy Russia Even If It Hits U.S. First

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said yesterday that U.S. strategic retaliatory forces "are fully capable of destroying the Soviet target system, even after absorbing an initial nuclear surprise attack."

McNamara made the statement before the Senate Armed Services Committee as it began an exhaustive study of the new $48.3 billion military budget. The secretary said the Pentagon's main aim was "to increase combat power."

He outlined plans for about 1,054 intercontinental ballistic missiles — about 1,000 more than are now on the firing line. He also detailed plans to step up construction of missile-firing polaris submarines.

McNamara said President Kennedy's defense budget for the year beginning July 1 assumed the Berlin crisis will have been resolved by that date. Otherwise, he said, adjustments will be needed.

"What the Soviet Union seems to be seeking is a virtual surrender of West Berlin as well as attempting to dictate the future shape of the world," McNamara said.

"It should be clear to all Americans that we cannot enhance our own safety by a retreat in Berlin. The slippery road to appeasement can only lead to our isolation and ultimately to disaster."

McNamara, joined by Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified behind closed doors. His remarks were made public in a condensed 11-page version.

SMOKE "ANGELS"—Two angel-like firemen in Chicago appear to be watching protectively from a cloud as two of their colleagues direct a hose from a "snorkel" or platform on a boom. The "heavenly onlookers" were also in a snorkel battling a fire in a building.

Far East Seen As Real Market For Farm Goods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman returned from an around-the-world trip a few weeks ago convinced that the real market for U.S. farm products is in the Far East.

"And it will be our real market for a long time to come," he said. "The teeming masses of the Far East present a huge potential market."

The Far East, as described by the Agriculture Department in an economic analysis of Far Eastern agriculture, is that geographic area beginning with Afghanistan and Pakistan in the West and including Japan in the East. It is bounded on the north by the Soviet Union and stretches south to include the insular countries of Ceylon and Indonesia.

Freeman contrasted the potential of the Far East with the actuality of U.S. trade with the Common Market countries of Europe.

He said it is conceivable that the Common Market countries could, in 10 years, produce all the farm products they need. That would knock a terrific hole in the U.S. export trade. Freeman was of the opinion that the Far East eventually would be a bigger customer than Western Europe. And would be much longer than for 10 years.

The opinion of Freeman — who is no economist — parallels the economic analysis of Far Eastern

"I am very pleased with Barcenate. I first started using it to lose weight. I used 6 or 7 bottles and lost between 25 and 30 pounds. Now I take it for its tonic effect."

"It has helped me very much. I used to suffer with acid indigestion and heartburn almost all the time, but since taking Barcenate, I never have it any more, thanks to Barcenate. It is wonderful!"

Answer Woman Gets Some Silly Questions

CHICAGO (UPI) — If you can't find the answer in the encyclopedia, ask Virginia Stenberg.

As library research director of Encyclopedia Britannica, she takes up where the encyclopedia leaves off. Her staff of 60, dispersed through some of the country's most famous libraries, hunts the answers to questions submitted by some 102,000 readers a year.

People ask the darndest things. A seventh grade boy who wrote in during the 1960 Presidential Campaign asking for a report on John F. Kennedy, added the postscript, "Please put in some jokes about Nixon."

If Miss Stenberg can't tell for sure who stands to win a Presidential election, she has a good idea.

"Take the 1960 campaign," she said. "We answered thousands of questions about both candidates, and the queries about President Kennedy ran well ahead of those on former Vice President Richard Nixon."

Over the years, most of the questions sent in are of a serious nature. The greatest number deal with history, some of it extensively covered by the encyclopedia like the history of England once requested by a high school sophomore. He complained he couldn't understand the one in Britannica — "it was too involved."

Then, there are the questions like: How do you housebreak a duck? What is good for book worms? Has the law of supply and demand been repealed? How many people in the United States live above the 10th floor? How many dog and cat cemeteries are there in South Africa? Do you have any information on Jesus as a yogi?

These are not automatically delegated to the "Howler" file "because you never know... you might come up with a good answer to them," Miss Stenberg said.

She learned her lesson on that score years ago "when some wise guy" or so she thought, wrote and asked for a description of the love call of the mosquito.

"As it turned out," she said, "there was a serious scientific study of the subject, complete with musical notes to play the love call on the piano."

A button-nosed blonde who majored in history at Smith College, Miss Stenberg was afraid she'd Outbreak Of Flu Above Expected Levels In U.S.

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Federal Communicable Disease Center reported today that influenza outbreaks "currently span the United States in an arc extending from the West Coast to Miami."

CDC said deaths from influenza and pneumonia in 108 major U.S. cities were "above expected levels for the second consecutive week." It said the weekly average of 563 deaths for the last four weeks was 1 per cent above "expected levels" but less than the 17 per cent increase during the 1960 epidemic.

The list of affected states continued to grow with addition of Kansas and Kentucky. Additional outbreaks were reported in Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Missouri, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida.

A few small outbreaks were reported in portions of New York and Massachusetts.

Students Clamor For Education In U.S. Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of students clamoring for admission to U.S. colleges has increased steadily over the past five years. Education officials say that is only the beginning.

"From 1959 through 1970 fall enrollment is expected to increase by about 78 per cent," the U.S. Office of Education said in a recent publication. It painted this picture:

Since 1955 there has been a 35 per cent enrollment increase.

One important aspect was the number of first-time students enrolling. And the number in the college age bracket — 18-21 — has been mounting even faster.

The so-called "war baby crop" is a big factor in the increase in first-time enrollees. These students were born during and right after World War II. They are now coming of college age.

Enrollment figures have been on the rise since 1953, when 2,250,701 students registered. Last year — 1961 — marked the tenth consecutive increase with enrollment totalling 3,891,000.

Regionally, the largest total enrollment has been in the Midwest — Delaware, the District of Columbia, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. The lowest totals were recorded in the Rocky Mountain area.

In 1959, the latest year for which there are accurate figures, the two states with the highest enrollment were California, 408,465, and New York, 338,716. California had a 6 per cent increase over the previous year. New York showed a 4 per cent rise.

The Far West had the highest relative gain in total enrollment from 1955 to 1959 — a 27 per cent increase. This includes California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho, Utah and Montana.

There has been a 44 per cent rise in women enrollees since 1955, the Office of Education said. In contrast, there was a 30 per cent rise in men enrollees.

Many institutions are enforcing stricter entrance requirements to screen out less able students. The University of Maryland inaugurated such a program last summer.

READY FOR MARCH — Final arrangements for the Mother's March on Polio were made Friday in the Chamber of Commerce office under direction of Mrs. R. A. Mack, march chairman, and Jerry Simms, county MOD chairman. Seventeen captains received final instruction for the March which will begin at 5 p.m. and conclude at 8 p.m. Monday. Some 300 mothers are expected to join in the city-wide fund raising campaign. Shown here receiving their contribution envelopes from Mrs. Mack are, seated left to right, Mrs. Edwin Southard, Mrs. Joy Thomas and Mrs. Shelle H. Downs. "Chapman Report" Filmed screen version of "The Chapman Report," based on the love lives of four women. The film is now in the cutting room.

Wrestler Is Real Actor
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Former champion wrestler Mike Mazurki, now an actor, plays a musician gangster in "The Duke and the Bum" segment of "The Roaring 20s" TV series on ABC.

He says he likes acting better than wrestling because "it's easier on the back."
Realism
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Director Sammy Fuller has ordered actors not to shave during filming of "The Marauders." He says he wants a realistic brigade of bearded and battle-weary soldiers in the war picture.

Phony Scents
NEW YORK (UPI) — Some people are making dollars out of phony scents, the Better Business Bureau of metropolitan New York has found.
"There isn't a reason in the world for anyone to be taken," Hugh R. Jackson, BBB president, said, "if they remember that they get what they pay for and that in the buying of perfumes — as with everything else — they can't get something for nothing."

Top Track Stars Due At Indoor Cinder Meet

Young, Clark In Special Events

LUBBOCK (UPI) — The Southwest's greatest track names will be on hand when the indoor season makes its debut in West Texas Jan. 27 at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Baylor, University of Texas, TCU, SMU, Houston, Abilene Christian, Texas A&M and Texas Tech will compete in the university-open division. To date, there have been 140 entries in these divisions.

Some 86 high school entries have been received in this class, ranging from Dumas in the north to El Paso in west, Rogers to the south and Henderson to the east.

Two special races will be run. Earl Young, the Olympian from ACC, former schoolboy standout Ted Nelson, now at A&M, Glynn Fields of Baylor, Charles Barnhill of Texas and Norman Donelson of Tech will meet in 500-yard dash.

Ralph Alspaugh of Texas, Bill Kemp of Baylor, Don Mason of Texas Tech and R. E. Merritt of Texas A&M will run in the 300-yard dash.

With top names like these and pole vaulters Dexter Elkins of SMU, former North Texas star and a member of the 1960 Olympics team David Clark, and Texas' Steve Guynes, a crowd of 7,500 is expected for the meet.

New Mexico's schoolboy broad jump champion, Billy Thompson of Carlsbad has entered and could set the pace with the collegians. He has leaped 23-5.

Four of the top hurdlers in the Southwest will be meeting, headed by Texas' Ray Cunningham, who has turned in a 13.9 for the 120-yard high already this season. He'll have top competition from Bobby Bernard of TCU, Bob Swafford of Tech and his own teammate, Bob Sewell.

There are 24 entrants in the 60-yard dash, headed by Alspaugh, Kemp, Dennis Richardson and Jerry Miller of ACC, Curtis Roberts and Ed Williams of A&M, Herman Robinson of Howard County Junior College, SMU freshman Bill Foster.

Other top field event entrants besides the pole vaulters are broad jumpers Jerry Dyess of ACC and Tommy Minter of Baylor, shot putters Danny Roberts of A&M and Bob Young of Texas, and high jumpers Jackie Upton of TCU and Eddie Curtis of Baylor.

Power-hitter Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex., recovered from a slow start Saturday to take a one-stroke lead in the second round of the Sea Island women's invitational golf tournament with a 36-hole total of 150.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., who was in third place when she teed off, matched Miss Wright's 39-36-75 card Saturday to move into second at 151—two strokes ahead of Marilyn Smith of Jupiter, Fla.

Mrs. Smith, sharing first place with Miss Wright as the round began, took a brief lead at the end of 27 holes with a 37 on the front nine. But she slipped badly on the first three holes of the back nine and carded a 41 for a 78 and a 36-hole score of 153.

Betsy Rawls, a perennial money winner, lost a chance to share the lead with the Dallas golfer when she missed a 12-foot, downhill breaking putt on the last hole. The lowest round so far in the opening tournament of the 1962 Ladies Professional Golf Association tour came Saturday from Beth Stone of Muscogee, Okla., who carded 37-37-74 to share fifth place with Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif.

Both were two strokes behind the tournament's youngest competitor, 18-year-old Sandra Haynie of Ft. Worth, Tex., who shot a 77 Saturday for a 154 total.

Roberts, president of a Chicago management consulting firm, displayed a strong finishing and shot even par golf for 17 holes to win over the retired infantry captain from Largo, Fla. Haynie held the lead twice during the first nine holes and was even up through the 13th.

Then Roberts won No. 14 with a par 4, got No. 15 with a par 3, and went on to take No. 17 with a birdie three to close out the match.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frankie Ryff, former lightweight boxing contender who was seriously injured when he fell eight floors in a construction accident Friday was described as being in "poor" condition at Roosevelt Hospital Saturday.

Ryff, 29, fell down an elevator shaft in a building under construction in midtown Manhattan. Police said some plumbing gave way where Ryff was working as a maintenance man.

The New York lightweight retired from boxing in September 1959 after a first-round technical knockout by Battling Torres. However, he had been working out at night and only hours before his accident had been given the green light for a comeback by his boxing manager.

MIAMI — Miami's boys and girls split a couple of cage contests in games played Friday night.

In the boys game, Miami won 53-31. Mark Arrington had 21 and Joe Wayne Holland 11 for the winners while Garland Lancaster had 15 and Ray Corcoran 7 for the losers.

Mobeattie's girls won, 87-71. Anna Gudzel had a whopping 51 points for the winners while Mary Gudzel had 20 and Mary Trout 12.

For the losers, Donna Byrum had 37 and Marilyn Murphy 14.

Campbell Leading Play In Crosby Golf Tourney

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Blond Joe Campbell, bundled in heavy red sweaters and a stocking cap, bulled his way around Cypress Point in even par 72 Saturday and piled up a big four-stroke lead over the field after 54 holes of the Bing Crosby national pro-amateur golf tournament.

While Friday's closest followers, Jack Cupit and Ken Venturi, fired and fell back, Campbell from Chattanooga, Tenn., posted a 210 total on rounds of 67-71-72.

Tied at 214 were Venturi, who had a 73; and young Phil Rodgers, who had a par 72. Two strokes away, at 216, are Tommy Jackson, Bernard Hunt of England, and Doug Sanders of Cedartown, Ga.

Cupit, 1961 rookie of the year on the pro golf tour from Longview, Tex., flared to a big 78 Saturday and was tied with five others at 217.

Baseball star Albie Pearson got some help from pro Bob McCallister Saturday and the twosome lengthened its lead over the field in the pro-amateur division. McCallister shot an individual score of 69. Albie helped seven strokes and they posted a best-ball of 62—and for the 54 holes had 185.

That's nine shots ahead of runner-up team of Stan Leonard, Vancouver, B. C. and Dr. Bud Taylor, the Walker Cup star from Pomona, Calif. This team had a 64 Saturday.

Defending champion Bob Roberg had a 75 for a 222 score. Arnold Palmer had a par 72 for 219. And Masters champion Gary Player, the leading money-winner of 1961, had another big 75 for 228.

The cut field will play the final 18 holes over the Pebble Beach course Sunday.

Ridan Scores Easy Victory At Hibiscus

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) — Unbeaten Ridan romped Saturday to win his eighth consecutive victory, the $31,150 Hibiscus Stakes, and boost his earnings to more than $300,000.

The husky sophomore colt, owned by Mrs. Moody Jolley, galloped under the wire a length and one-half ahead of Joseph Roebing's Rainy Lake. Five lengths further back, Mighty Fennec came with a rush to capture third by three-quarters of a length over Su Ka Wa.

Jockey Bill Hartack, riding Ridan despite injuring his eye Friday, rapped the long-striding colt about three times at the head of the stretch to remind his mount he was supposed to win. Ridan turned on a little more steam and was going away smoothly at the finish under hand urging by Hartack.

In whipping the field of ten 2-year-olds, Ridan ran six furlongs in 1:09 and one-fifth, only two-fifths of a second over the track record. He carried 122 pounds.

Ridan was the heavy odds-on favorite of the crowd of 20,156 and paid $2.50, $2.20 and 2.10 for a $2 bet across the board. Rainy Lake returned $2.50 and 2.80. Mighty Fennec, a 60-1 win chance, paid $5.30 for show.

Ridan added $20,247.50 to his bankroll, which now surpasses $304,000—a good return on an $311,000 investment which the colt cost trainer Moody Jolley, who brought Ridan for his wife.

Mildenberger Wins Over American In German Bout

DORTMUND, Germany (UPI) — Karl Mildenberger of Germany, although outweighted by 22 pounds, scored a narrow decision over Pete Rademacher of Columbus, Ga., Saturday night in their 10-round heavyweight bout.

Mildenberger weighed 189½ pounds; Rademacher, former olympic champion who was knocked out by Floyd Patterson when he made his professional debut, scaled 211¼ pounds.

Rademacher was floored twice—for a three-count in the seventh round and a nine-count in the eighth round—but still was on his feet and trying to land a haymaker at the finish.

NAMED TOP PUTTER

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Golf Writers Association of America Thursday named PGA champion Jerry Barber as pro golf's best putter of 1961. Barber's accuracy, achieved mostly during his PGA title triumph last summer, brought him 13 of the 17 votes cast.

Webb To Build Regular City

HOUSTON (UPI) — Del Webb, a "sore-arm" baseball player who went on to become half-owner of the New York Yankees, teamed with Humble Oil & Refining Co. this past week for his first Texas development—a $400-million city to be built on 15,000 acres near Galveston Bay.

Webb has successful retirement cities in Florida, California and Arizona. His Phoenix contracting firm is currently engaged in $100 million worth of missile site work for the government.

Humble, owner of the land south of Houston where Webb's latest project will go up, is the marketing firm of Standard Oil of New Jersey. Humble will retain a majority interest in the development firm.

But the whole thing carries the earmarks of Webb.

Regional shopping centers, golf courses and parks will be interspersed throughout residential areas of the project. There will be a marina on the bay.

Industrial sites are included in the vast project and the developers are expecting most of the firms that move in to be space-orientated. On 1,700 acres adjoining the Humble property, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has its manned space flight center under construction.

It was good enough to put him one stroke over Jim Stamps, of Dalton, Ga., who shot a 66 Saturday for a three-round 205.

Stamps, who was 13 under par on the last two rounds, had five straight birdies in Saturday's round.

Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., who led after 36 holes, had a 27 Saturday to set him back at 207, a 54-hole total shared by Ed Rubis of Chocopee Falls, Mass., who shot a 70 Saturday.

Problem Is Dire In Land Space

AUSTIN (UPI) — Thomas L. Kimball, executive secretary of the National Wildlife Federation, pointed Saturday to a new space problem—not in the sky but on the surface of the earth.

Kimball, of Washington, D. C., told the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas, there are 3.3 billion acres of surface land in the United States, and every year a million acres are converted from agriculture to pavement and masonry.

"In the future," Kimball said, "conservation will be practiced in the back yards of homes. In fact, this is already happening in some parts of the east."

Two-thirds of the land is in private ownership, Kimball said, while the other third belongs to the federal and state governments.

Wise use of the land and natural resources, he said, depends on the interest and action of government as well as private citizens.

He observed that a land of milk and honey two thousand years ago is now destitute because of misuse.

SCOT is a Texas representative of the National Wildlife Federation. There are 7,000 clubs and two million members.

Black Bear 'The Champ' In Bouts

CAMDEN, Ark. (UPI)—Bozo, a 400-pound Canadian black bear, remained undefeated Saturday after whipping four Camden football players in wrestling matches for the March of Dimes campaign.

Rev. Ralph Hale, March of Dimes chairman, said only one youth, tackle Tommy Walker, lasted three minutes. The others were clouted out of the ring in shorter time by the powerful paws.

The other three, all all-state players, were tackle Dan Lewis, center Stewart Watson and back Bill Deal.

ONLY IN GYM

WEST JORDAN, Utah (NEA)—Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer, who is usually quiet and noncommittal about everything until he starts to fight in the ring—had a vehement word or two to say about Ray Robinson.

Asked if he would fight the Sugar Man, former champion who insisted on taking most of the money in their first two matches, Gene said: "For money—not positively no! Why should I let him make even 10 cents with my help?"

"If Robinson wants to fight, I'll be glad to meet him—in a gymnasium, with no gate.

"And no rules or gloves."

Smokey Harper Is Named New Trainer For Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Charles E. (Smokey) Harper, veteran of 35 years including seven years at Texas A&M, was returned to duty as head athletic trainer at the school Saturday as new athletic director and head coach Hank Foldberg completed his staff.

Harper, who came to A&M with Paul (Bear) Bryant in 1954 from Kentucky, was assigned other duties in the athletic department last spring by then head coach Jim Myers, who said that health reasons were responsible for Harper's transfer.

Aside from five assistant coaches he brought with him from Wichita, Foldberg's athletic staff remains the same as the one under Myers.

Barlow Irvin retains the title as assistant athletic director; Paul Dial as business manager of athletics; Mrs. Mary Ruth Wilson as ticket manager; S. M. Meek as equipment manager; A. E. Denton as student counselor and Tommy Blake as sports information director.

Foldberg retained aides Elmer Smith and Bobby Drake Keith from the Myers staff and brought along assistants Leonard Brown, Craig Randall, Dick Johnson, Joel Wahlberg and Neil Schmidt.

Coaches for other sports at Texas A&M remain the same.

Pirates Sign Up Two Moundsmen

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced the signing of two young right-handed pitchers and named a former Buc catcher as playing manager of their class C farm club at Kingston, N.C., in the Carolina League.

The pitchers signed were Tom Parsons, 22, of Lakeville, Conn., and Tom Sisk, 19, of Long Beach, Calif.

Parsons was bothered with a sore pitching arm in 1961 and posted a 4-3 record with Columbus of the International League.

Sisk divided his season with Asheville, N.C., in the class A Sally League, where his record was 12-3, and Columbus, where he won two of three decisions.

Named at Kingston was Harding Peterson, 22, whose big league career was cut short by a serious arm injury while he was with Pittsburgh in 1955.

Peterson, of Fords, N.J., became a player manager at Wilkes, N.C., in 1959 and played and managed at Burlington, Iowa, in 1960 and 1961.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (UPI)—Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach and Sandra Spuzich of Indianapolis sailed into the finals of the 30th annual Doherty Women's amateur Golf Tournament Saturday with easy semi-final victories.

Miss Preuss, runner up in the tournament last year to three-time winner Marlene Streit of Toronto—upset Friday—faltered only briefly in her match with Mrs. Robert Lyle of Montreal and won, 6 and 5.

Miss Spuzich, 24-year-old brunette, defeated Mrs. Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, wife of the Touring pro, 5 and 3.

The finalists meet Sunday in a rugged 36-hole showdown match over the Coral Ridge Country Club Course, either of the young golfers has won a major individual championship.

Lee Seventh Wins Contest

Robert E. Lee's seventh grade cagers carded a 45-23 victory over Austin Berger Friday for their fifth straight win. They have yet to lose.

The halftime score was 21-5. Leading the Lee scoring was Jack Thompson, 14 and Doc Corbett and Smithson Goodlett with 18 points.

Last week, Lee won 38-12 over Pampa Junior High.

Michigan State Tops Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Sophomores Pete Gent and Fred Thomant scored 43 points between them Saturday to spark Michigan State to an 80-74 televised basketball victory over archrival Michigan.

Gent had 22 points while Thomant, a 6-8 center making his first start of the season, pumped in 21.

Harvesters Run Into Rugged Sandstorm, 72-68

Harlem Stars Will Bring Crazy Cage Play Here

Pampa's All-Stars, who have been cruising through the cage season so far in fine fashion with a 9-2 record, might find the going "a little bit rough" when they host the famed Harlem Stars Monday night at 8 in the Harvester fieldhouse.

The boys from Harlem, who specialize in crazy and unpredictable antics on the hardwoods wherever they go, will once again parade their diversified talents against the local cagers in an effort to prove their advance billing. The local all-stars have met the pro's twice before, with the Harlem five gaining both decisions, as might well be expected.

The cage group, which makes a point of winning despite their antics on the court, will face a home town aggregate composed of Merl Terrell, Gib Winton, Sam Condo, Roy Pool, James Lee, Roy Kieval and Terry Culley. Kieval and Culley, coaches of the Shocker and Harvester basketball teams, respectively, will be newcomers to the team this year after seeing some action for the local stars last year.

Howard "Babe" Rand is rated the best all around player in the Harlem organization. The 6-2 giant has enormous hands and an amazing reach and occasionally stops action in a game to seek an impish game of hide and seek with the ball.

Taylor (Loud Mouth) Billingsley, 6-0 forward for the Stars, is one of the greatest drivers and jump shot artists in the game today. He has been termed to "move with the speed of a tornado, the accuracy of a Swiss watch and the strength and stamina of a panther."

Young Blood Curtis, 6-3, was the most talked about high school player on the East Coast. Curtis was offered some 16 scholarships to major colleges and universities throughout the United States and Canada, but chose to join the Harlem crew instead.

Maurice Harris, 6-8 center and corner man was voted the most valuable player on the team last year. He is a Texas boy, hailing from San Antonio.

Rounding out the quintet is big Ed Wallace, 6-5 from Ft. Worth, Tex. Wallace, who is the team's leading rebounder, made All-American two years in high school and then played alongside "Wilt the Stilt" Chamberlain for awhile at Kansas.

The Stars begin their season in October in Canada and will hit between thirty - six or forty states and then into Mexico, Australia, Japan and some parts of Europe.

Their antics are many and their routine endless. Tickets are on sale at Richard Drugs. Prices include $1.25 for adults, 75 cents for students and 50 cents for children under 12.

Feller Should Be Top Fame Choice

NEW YORK (NEA) — Another election for the baseball Hall of Fame and any member of the electorate who doesn't put a big X in front of Robert William Andrew Feller either did not see the low farm boy or should be disenfranchised.

I never saw Cy Young, Christy Mathewson or Eddie Plank, but that doesn't mean I didn't see numerous guys who could really pitch — Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Warren Spahn and Lefty Grove, among them. And without hesitation I say that Bob Feller was by far the most spectacular, if not the very best, pitcher these tired old eyes ever saw.

It doesn't seem five years since Feller hung up his tack at 37 "because I lost the urge and there was nothing else to prove." Rapid Robert still was as good as he wanted to be, could have pitched another three years or more.

Feller would have rewritten the record books had he not lost what figured to be his four most productive years because of World War II. He won 26 games in his first campaign out of the Navy in 1946 and broke Rube Waddell's 42-year-old seasonal major league strike-out record with 248.

Feller bagged 24, 27 and 25 games in the three years before attending the gunnery school in Norfolk and the War College at Newport, so 100 easily could be tacked onto the fireballer's 266 lifetime victories. That would put him where he belongs — in the first four of the top modern pitchers, the others being Johnson, Mathewson and Alexander. While he was denied the right to rewrite the records, they still required a lot of editing when he had finished.

Feller was in the Hall of Fame with his first blazing pitch as a fuzzy-cheeked kid of 17. The pitch was delivered July 6, 1936, to start the three middle innings of an exhibition game between the Indians and the St. Louis Cardinals at old League Park in Cleveland. Steve O'Neill, the one-time catcher managing the Tribe, handed the youngster the ball and told him to "show Dizzy Dean what a fast ball is really like." He did, striking out eight Red Birds in the three innings.

Feller literally stopped the show. Experienced players stood in awe watching him just warm up.

Feller was as great a man off the field as he was on it. He requested that he not be assigned to any Navy baseball team during the war.

"I didn't come here to play baseball," he said. He saw action both in the North Atlantic and with Task Force 58 in the South Pacific.

Pampa Drops Fifth Loop Contest Before Amarillo

By DICK RABE
News Sports Editor

AMARILLO — The weather forecast was for cold clearing weather Friday night, but a vicious sandstorm from Amarillo High School altered that by swooping down on the Pampa Harvesters in the Amarillo armory, 72-68.

At the end of the first quarter, it appeared as if the Harvesters might be on their way toward breaking their losing streak, holding a 15-13 lead. The lead was short-lived, however, as the Amarillo contingent poured it on in the last three quarters to race to their second victory of the campaign against three losses.

Pampa went down to their fifth loop loss. They have won one.

Amarillo's heralded offense, spearheaded by Jim Hill, Chester Dunavin and Leon Pope, led the winners from the floor. Hill bucketed 26 points to capture scoring honors while Dunavin found the range with 20 points. Pope had 18 to help in the potent attack. Dunavin was tied for district scoring honors with an average of 20.8 points per contest going into the skirmish and thus maintained his 20-point average.

Pope proved to be a real dead-eye from the charity line, popping in 10 out of 13 from the free throw line. For the night, the Sandies poured in 20 out of 25 from the free throw line for a red-hot .800 batting average.

On the Harvester side of the ledger, Wayne Kreis and Randy Matson led the way with 17 and 16 points respectively. Kreis garnered his total by virtue of eight field goals and one free throw. Matson, on the other hand, could only manage five two-pointers, but hit six straight from the charwhich hurt the locals sorely, with Matson bowing out in the waning minutes of the game.

The Shocker also went down to defeat for the second time in loop play, dropping a 59-49 decision. They have won four.

Donnie Ayers had 18 and Rickey Stewart 11 to lead the locals.

Other district results found Berger bopping Lubbock, 63-60, Monterey dumping Plainview, 59-40 and Palo Duro running past Tascosa, 58-37.

Lucas Says Players Have To Set Example

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Jerry Lucas fully expected that the first time he blew a shot this year, some guy would yell, "Whatta ya tryin' to do? Throw it?"

College basketball is the most sensitive area in sports, since fixing scandals again were revealed last spring. Lucas is a sensitive young man whose reactions are significant because, in his senior year at Ohio State, he's regarded as the greatest college basketball player who ever lived.

Lucas was sitting in a Kansas City hotel room last March with Kay Kessler, the Columbus writer, and a couple of other Buckeye followers, playing bridge, when one of them said, "Hear about the guys caught shaving points?"

It was the first Jerry heard of it, and he recalls, "I had played against most of them and knew them. They were nice guys."

Since then he has become a spokesman for the college basketball-is-a-fine-sport clique.

"All of us who play it," he said after a standing ovation at the Los Angeles Arena during the big tournament, "carry an obligation to prove it, to set the highest standards of conduct and live by them, to restore public confidence."

Lucas has thought deeply about the moral aspects of college athletics.

"The trouble," he pin-pointed, "starts with recruiting. I know, because many schools were after me. They're only interested in you as a basketball player. They don't care about you as a student."

They don't even bother to investigate what you're like as a person, what your capabilities are.

"Maybe they get the wrong boys into college."

Lucas doesn't believe that transplanting games into high pressure metropolitan arenas breaks down the moral climate.

"If they want to reach you," he shrugged, "they can get at you on campuses as well as in the big cities."

Watching Lucas move fluidly, not wasting movement, controlling every phase of play with detached calm, you're amazed that anything about basketball can perturb him. He acts bored. He's deadpan. His eyes are deepset in the gaunt face that's standard for basketball, and fixed in a steady stare.

When a college cutie gave him the Most-Valuable-Player Award for the Los Angeles Classic, the local guys said it was the first time they'd seen him smile in three years.

When Lucas came into the dressing room after the tournament finale in which he scored 36 points, Coach Fred Taylor tapped his arm and chided, "What're you gonna do, pump it up again?"

Lucas' smile was even broader. There's a standing argument on the Ohio State team that Jerry doesn't shoot enough. This game he had thrown the ball up 26 times.

Reluctance to gun for the basket in an era when 45 is a bad night for Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors is integral to Lucas' phlegmatism. He's been going around for a couple of years trying to convince people that basketball isn't the beginning and end for him, that he abhors a professional career because "that's not the life for me."

Only one statistic generates any enthusiasm. Rebounding.

"I'd rather do that," he lights up, "than eat."

High School Stars Most Wanted Men

NEW YORK (NEA) — The top man on the FBI's Most Wanted Criminal list isn't half as sought after as the football debuts who comprise the annual All-America High School squad.

These prize beauties are subject to kidnapping, hi-jacking and whatnot from now until May. And in many cases the head coach isn't positive he has his tiger until the youngster matriculates in mid-September.

You noticed where Paul Dietzel used practically every known means of transportation hustling from Louisiana State to the United States Military Academy in a blinding snowstorm and signed at midnight. Real cloak and dagger stuff. The reason for Dietzel's rush is the rush. It's the recruiting season and Paul hastened to get his bird dogs on the trail.

The rules are considerably stricter than they used to be but wily foragers find ways to circumvent them. That's where the expression, "Rules are made to be broken," comes from.

Sub-freshman weekends are on at seats of higher learning throughout the country. Any metropolitan airport takes on the aspects of a tourist convention in the first few weeks of the year with junketing athletes crossing and crisscrossing each other's paths and comparing notes for all the world like American travelers tackle.

abroad. A college seeking 30 or 40 will entertain 80.

Stickouts such as Rick Kestner, a 6-2, 212-pound end who caught 17 touchdown passes for Bellry, Ky., High, have from 50 to 75 offers, probably will visit 10 campuses before deciding for what school they will help run up the score. George Rice, a 6-3, 245-pound tackle of Istrouma High of Baton Rouge, probably will come in at 265 pounds by the time professional alumni have finished lugging him around and feting him.

Eighty-four super schoolboy stars from 37 states and the District of Columbia comprise the 11th annual All-America High School squad picked by a board of coaches and sports writers for Scholastic Magazines.

Herman L. Masin, sports director of the publications, explains that 84 was the least the board could get down to after carefully surveying more than 1,400 preparatory school teams.

Leading the state parade in selections with six is the great football milieu of Ohio, followed closely by Pennsylvania and Michigan with five each, then California with four.

Up For Grabs: A Heliograph And Sundry Antique Photos

LONDON (NEA) — Anybody looking for 36,000 original Victorian photographs, including the first photo ever taken? They are free for the asking to any city in America which will provide them with a suitable home.

The offer comes from German-born Helmut Gernsheim, who started the collection. But interested Americans will have to act quickly, Gernsheim warned, because the West German cities of Munich and Cologne have made bids for the collection.

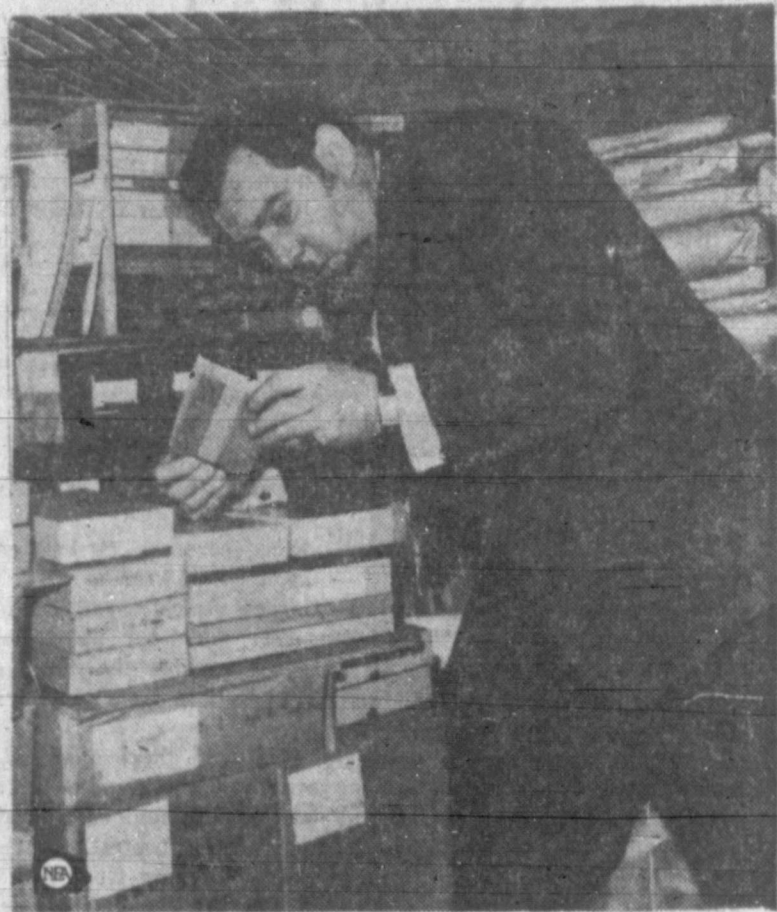

For 10 years Gernsheim, a small, dapper man with a goatee beard, has tried to interest the British in establishing a museum of photographic art, using his collection as a nucleus. But there have been no takers here.

Now, disgusted with British indifference, Gernsheim is offering his collection abroad. In addition to photographs, it includes books, letters, manuscripts and cameras. It is difficult to place a value on his collection, Gernsheim tells me, because photographs are only now beginning to appear at auction sales. He estimates its worth at $560,000.

Disposal of the collection is a matter of some urgency for Gernsheim, for it has now grown to the point where he can no longer cope with it. Indeed, Gernsheim and his wife literally are being crowded out of their London apartment by photographs.

Every nook and cranny, including even the bathroom, was crammed with items such as photograph albums, cameras or books on photography.

When Gernsheim wanted to show one of his more valuable photos he had to climb a ladder into the loft above the kitchen where negatives are filed in cardboard boxes reaching the ceiling.

Gernsheim's prize exhibit is the first photograph ever taken. This is a view of a courtyard taken by the French inventor Nicéphore Niepce in 1826. Niepce called the new process "heliography," meaning sun-writing, but could find no backers when he came to London to market his invention.

Discovery of the Niepce photograph, incidentally, represents eight years of detective work on the part of Gernsheim.

Gernsheim's collection include photos taken during the Indian mutiny and during the Crimean War. Also on hand are American Civil War photos taken by Alexander Gardner, an assistant to Brady.

His collection features such oddities as photographs taken by Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice in Wonderland," and catalogued in purple ink in Carroll's handwriting.

"What I have in mind," said Gernsheim, "is a museum of photography with its own exhibition

Job Of Fighting Fires Becoming A Real Problem

NEW YORK (UPI)—Since man first found how to light his own fire he's been looking for ways to put it out and the job gets more complicated almost year by year, firemen say.

The use of inflammable liquids around the house; the development of new materials which may resist ordinary extinguishing methods; the very growth of the population itself — more people equals more fires—has presented the fire prevention agencies with constant problems and pressures.

With all their built-in safeguards and extreme care taken in planning and execution, missile launchings present at least a potential hazard to the fire-fighters, always striving to keep a step ahead of the latest risk.

In the armed services, each branch has its own problems presented by explosives and by highly volatile fuels. The Air Force has come up with one of the latest devices — using a chemical agent developed by the Navy — designed to cope speedily with such fires as might occur around a missile site.

Not many weeks ago, the Air halls, lecture rooms and libraries for the use of students. Surely there is room for such a museum in America." Gernsheim feels that if his collection is accepted as the nucleus of such a museum both he and his wife should be invited to become its director and curator.

Now age 48, Gernsheim fled to England from Germany in 1937. He spent the war years working as a photographer in Britain, and in 1945 began assembling his collection.

Gernsheim and his wife are the authors of seventeen books on photography, including the "History of Photography," first published by the Oxford University Press in 1954.

Force sent a crew of three men to Marinette, Wis., to get training in the use of a powerful new dry chemical extinguishing agent, known as Purple K. Based on potassium bicarbonate, developed by Navy, it is planned for use in putting out fires in inflammable liquids.

At the fire school of the Angul Chemical Co., the training crew tackled fires of all sorts, large and small. They finally led up to a gasoline fire spread over 4,000 square feet; and put it out in 38 seconds. Fire prevention workers pointed out that the test augured well for use of the agent at missile sites, where low-grade kerosene, a less volatile fluid than gasoline, is widely used as fuel.

Of the 1,817,096 wells drilled in the U.S. up to the end of 1959, 1,159,166 were oil wells, 129,517 gas wells, 491,452 dry holes and 36,961 service wells.

Peg O' Pampa

ALL OF THAT pretty bustling around the Coronado Inn today will be members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority as the two local chapters, Alpha Omicron and Kappa Alpha, are hostesses for a district convention. There's to be a few ESA dignitaries here. Coyita Bowker, who is from Santa Anna and is a junior state first vice president there'll be business in the morning... a buffet luncheon at noon... and a beauty contest in the afternoon... business, buffet and beauty... how's that for a convention agenda? During the beauty contest, our own Rachel Brumley will reign as ESA state beauty queen... she was a district winner last year in Amarillo and was chosen state beauty queen in June of last year in Dallas... she'll retain her beauty crown until the state contest at a convention to be held later this year... vying on the district level, for the position that Rachel now has, are two attractive blue-eyed, blondes Kay Windle and Charlene Frazier... two two of our local gals... as well as entries from the other chapters in the district Silverton, Tulia, Borger, Canadian, Kress, Amarillo and Perryton... Bunny Schlutz will emcee the affair... there's to be a Southwest Conference Football film for husband's of members attending... but wanna bet they'll be on the front row during the beauty contest?

MEMO TO JUDGES... who must select the ESA district beauty queen today: "The ability to keep a cool head in an emergency, maintain poise in the midst of excitement, and to refuse to be stamped as true marks of leadership," quoted from R. Shannon... and may we add, lots of good luck!

DOWN AND DOWN the snow flakes fall as we write this... and there is a strong urge just to stop typing and watch them float gently down and pile up outside our window... but another word for this is procrastination... so on with the news... we heard that Uncle Billy Frost had a gay old time at his 99th birthday party given by friends in his home... his party was on the 12th... postponed from the 10th because of bad weather... friends streamed in and out of his home throughout the afternoon... wishing him "many happy returns for the day and also wishes for many, many more"... next year on his 100th, we imagine, his friends will have to hire a hall... Uncle Billy did a typically charming thing on the day before his birthday, we thought... he sent a corsage of pretty pink rosebuds to a young lady, who almost shares his birthday, Anne Francis Kadingo... who was two whole years old on the 9th!... It was a bouncing baby-boy for the Ronnie Rices of Amarillo this week... when Ronnie Dean Jr. arrived... now Tracy has a little baby brother to help take care of... and there are also some very willing grandparents here in Pampa, the Gus Rices and the Fred Vanderburgs, who are most pleased with the new arrival... Bessie Lewis was missing from the hometown scene earlier this week... but state PTA business took her to Austin... she's state chairman on Civil Defense.

When we do not find peace of mind in ourselves, it is useless to look for it elsewhere. — LaRochefoucauld.

WANT A NEW RECIPE for marital bliss?... it was first published in 1915... but the sentiments and ingredients seem just as timely today... it's a recipe for "How To Preserve A Husband"... and it goes thus: "Be careful in your selection. Do not choose too young and take only such as have been reared in a good moral atmosphere. Some insist on keeping them in a pickle, while others keep them in hot water. This only makes them sour, hard and sometimes bitter. Even poor varieties may be made sweet, tender and good by garnishing them with patience, well sweetened with smiles and flavored with kisses to taste. Then wrap them in a mantle of charity. Keep them warm with a steady fire of domestic devotion and serve with three good meals a day. When thus prepared, they will keep for years."

Guard within yourself that treasure kindness. Know how to give without hesitation, how to lose without regret, how to acquire without meanness. George Sand.

CHARMING TID-BITS... when LaJean Caldwell walked down the bridal aisle of The First Methodist Church last night on the arm of her father, Loyse, to meet her fiance Carter Williams, she had a coin in each slipper... one was a six-pence given her by the Carlton Nances... and the other was a penny, minted in the same year as her birth, 1940, which had been shined to copper brightness by her now-husband, Carter... Floy and Mark Heath got away from it all last week... for a weekend holiday in Las Vegas with Floy's brother and his wife, Mr and Mrs. O. W. Harrison of Amarillo... they stayed at the Desert Inn and took in shows at the Stardust and the Tropicana... overheard Floy telling a friend that she and Mark had chatted a few minutes in the Desert Inn lobby with Ed Sullivan... who evidently, had heard of our weather and commented on "how cold" the temperatures had been here... before leaving, he wished them both well in the new year... which seems like a nice warm-hearted "folksy" thing for Ed to do... hear that Wanda Moe Huff, a journalism major at Texas Women's University in Denton, has been appointed religious editor for the Daily Lass-O, the University's daily newspaper... she's a member of Theta Sigma Phi too.

BY NOW, Pampa Little Theater's first play, "Arsenic And Old Lace" is stored away in the annals of theater history... If hard work, interest, enthusiasm, love of real-life theater and FUN are any part of the ingredients for success, this group has it made... quite a few theater parties were held before and after attending the "first night" performances on Friday... Dr. Neeley Joe and Betty Ellis were host for a dinner party for a group of Little Theater people and guests from Amarillo... looming next on the theater horizon is the appearance of Fred Waring engaged for Monday, January 29... a date that has long been circled by patrons of Pampa Community Concert Ass'n... this should be a gala night in Pampa.

Enthusiasm is the best protection in any situation. Wholeheartedness is contagious. — David Seabury.

THIS WILL BE the week, my dear students, when ye olde report card will reveal if all the studying for exams last week "took"... and it will be a nice relief for parents this weekend to be off telephone and television guard duty... we have a wondering observation to make... on one of my recent "car pool" days we noticed how warmly the young people were dressed for school... but when school is over, where are their warm head scarves and gloves... in their pockets of course... and they're carrying their snow-shoes, if they haven't been left in a locker... and often their coats are unbuttoned and flying open in the wind... we were wondering why?... and it seems like girls are more careless about dressing warmly than boys... oh inexplicable youth!... don't forget to turn your porch light on at dusk tomorrow evening, when mothers around the city will be inarching for a contribution to the Polio Fund... your help is needed as much as ever.

Philanthropically yours, Peg.

Miss Idella Sue Lane

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lane, 728 E. Francis, announce the engagement of their daughter, Idella Sue to Harold Dean Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Thompson of Chickasha, Okla. Miss Lane is employed by Gordon, Gordon and Buzzard-Law Firm. Her fiance is manager of the Cameron Iron Works of the Pampa district. An April wedding is planned. (Photo, Call's Studio)

Caldwell-Williams

(Continued From Page 11) bustle centered with cabbage roses. Her fingertip Veil of Imported Illusion draped away from a Crown of Antique Lace medallions encrusted with seed pearls. The bride carried a white Bible, crested with her sorority emblem, Zeta Tau Alpha, which has been traditionally carried by her sorority sisters. The Bible was topped with a cluster of gardenias cascading into a shower of ribbons and gardenias.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Diane Zachry, school friend of the bride, served as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lamar Ramsey of Plainview, Miss Carmelita Hogan, Miss Gail Ratliff of Haskell, Miss Carol Bandy of Lubbock, Mrs. Ray Lynch of Eldorado, Okla., and Miss Wenonah Williams of Goodland, sister of the bridegroom.

They were dressed identically in Burgundy satin fashioned with rounded necklines, fitted bodices with full bell-shaped skirts. Burgundy satin cabbage roses accented the side waistlines. Each wore pill-boxes of Burgundy satin encircled with matching illusion circular veils. Gold slippers complemented their costumes.

Each attendant carried a white Bible, a gift of the bride, topped with white gardenias with gold leaf accent and showered with white ribbon streamers in a cascade of white chrysanthemums.

James Caldwell, brother of the bride, served as best man. Groomsmen were Phil Phipps of Friona, cousin of the bridegroom; Herbert Munson of Las Cruces, N. M., cousin of the bride; James Tarlton of Goodland; Dale Houllette of Levelland, uncle of the bridegroom; Jack Lane of Goodland; Virgil Phipps of Friona, bridegroom's cousin.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Caldwell chose a dress of Sea Foam Green crepe with a matching green iridescent pillbox hat. Mrs. Williams, mother of the bridegroom, selected Navy lace with white accessories. The mother's corsages were fashioned from gardenias.

Guests were registered at the church by Mrs. Jerry Ritter of Borger and Miss Janice Rector of Tulia.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was appointed with a floor-length cloth of Candlelight Satin, designed with a hand-rolled, shirred hemline centered, with a towering, 17-branched epergne lighted with Tiny Tapers and arranged with white mums, white gardenias with gold leaf accent. Jade palms formed a background for the reception setting.

The all-white, tiered cake placed on gold net doilies was decorated with white roses accented with gold leaves with Sugar Angels supporting each of the tiers. A cluster of wedding bells, arranged with net, topped the cake.

Miss Carolyn McLaughlin and Mrs. Jack Rector of Tulia presided at the cake and punch service. Miss Janice Rector of Tulia provided background music during the reception. Other member of the houseparty were Miss La-Voyse Oldham of Littlefield, Mrs. Winfred Cates of Lefors, Miss Dianne Hudson of Borger, cousin of the bride.

For a brief wedding trip, the bride traveled in a red silk suit complemented with white accessories and wore a corsage of green and white cypripedium orchids, sent by the bridegroom.

Mrs. Williams was graduated from Pampa High School in 1958; attended Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, Okla. and is a student at West Texas State College in Canyon. Mr. Williams was graduated from Three Way High School in Maple and is a student at West Texas State College, where both will continue with their studies.

DAINTILY DOES IT

If hands are small, rings in small, feminine, design are best. Leave the big rings for the girls with big hands.

Not all of us can afford solid gold jewelry and precious stones. But we can pick pieces that are gold plated and set with semi-precious stones and therefore have the look of the real thing.

FOR THE FAMILY

Select clothes for wear around the house as carefully as you choose your dress-up costumes. Your family rates the consideration.

Dear Abby....

Two Wrongs Don't Make Things Right!

By ASIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and have been married for three months. My husband works nights and I don't know what to do with myself so I go out with my girl friends. When we go out we meet all sorts of boys. I met a boy who is 23 and also married. He says he loves me and now I am all mixed up about my feelings for my husband. I know I am no good for cheating on my husband, but I don't have the willpower to stop. My husband doesn't suspect anything. I am afraid I married too young. Can you help me?

a serious operation. Here is my problem:
My daughter-in-law is a registered nurse. She has not offered to go with me. I know if I asked her to she would put up a fuss to my son and tell everyone in town she was forced into it as she is very lazy and vicious. We have had experiences with her before. My other son said if she didn't have the decency to offer, he would hire a special nurse for me. What should I do?

ALL MIXED UP
DEAR MIXED UP: You need more help than I can give you in a letter. If you don't have a clergyman, find one. He will put you on the right track if you accept his guidance. In the meantime, drop those girl friends and forget that 23-year-old "boy" who is obviously as mixed up as you are.

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: Let your other son hire a special nurse for you. You wouldn't want a lazy, vicious nurse taking care of you just because it was free, would you?

DEAR ABBY: I am going into the hospital in a few weeks for

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a young married couple who deliberately go out of their way to keep from having children because they "don't want to be bothered"? They are very frank in telling their friends that they enjoy their freedom and independence. When they are asked what they intend to do in their old age, they reply, "We'll spend our money on clothes and travel." I would like to know if you think this couple is cold and selfish because my husband and I are that couple. We fail to see any point in having children. They are nothing but hard work and misery.

Make Schools Workable

In a letter written a little more than 100 years ago by English historian Thomas B. Macaulay to Thomas Jefferson's biographer, H. S. Randall, the American Constitution was described as "all sail and no anchor."

Macaulay foresaw the time when the American people would have taken up all the rich land, when the cities would be crowded and the expanding population would turn to the government for "social security."

The people would, by majority vote, give government more power, more control over the lives of the people until only a vestige of constitutional government remained, and the freedom of our forefathers' time would no longer be practiced.

Explaining further, Macaulay predicted: "Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand or your republic will be as fearfully plundered and laid to waste by barbarians in the Twentieth Century as the Roman Empire was in the Fifth, with this difference: That the Huns and vandals who ravaged the Roman Empire came from without, while your Huns and vandals will have been engendered within your own country by your own institutions." By the rule of the "majority vote," which deprives minorities of their rights; by a Supreme Court which makes rulings on constitutional matters as if what the Constitution says is no longer of primary concern; by politicians such as Sen. J. W. Fulbright who seek to condition the people more and more for a usurpation of their rights by declaring the Constitution outmoded, fit only for an agrarian society; by the increasing greed of people who have got on the public dole; by the government's encouraging slothfulness through generous welfare and other public assistance programs; by labor unions' destruction of character in its members by the constant demand for more pay for less work; we have become a socialist society.

In other words, there is substantial evidence that the Constitution has not been strong enough to protect us from the "Huns and vandals" that have been "engendered within (our) own institutions." Many people fail to succeed simply because they put rewards first and the hard work necessary to deserve a reward, second. The successful man is primarily concerned with earning. The unsuccessful is content with yearning.

An 1857 Prophecy

The controversial anthropologist, Margaret Mead, who has annoyed almost everyone at one time or another, even as she has delighted some of her closest followers who seem to be beyond annoyance, has made the news again.

Miss Mead suggests that in America, the schools should close. Why? Well, she has a weller of reasons.

For one thing, why do we believe that education in this country ought to begin at 6 or 4 or 3 years of age? It is, says Miss Mead, "wholly possible that the fundamental aptitudes for being able to handle mathematics or to play chess, with their accompanying abilities to plan and anticipate, are learned under 2."

So far as geography is concerned, Miss Mead proclaims that TV stations using weather maps are doing a better job of informing the youngster where things are geographically, than schools ever did.

What else do they learn at school? According to Miss Mead, the children learn to brush their teeth from television and learn most of what else they need to know from their mothers. As a matter of fact, the lady anthropologist does not see much reason for schools to exist when American society is "almost completely illiterate," in spite of its enormous school program.

She says schools were a convenience thought up by parents who didn't want full responsibility as "children of nonliterate parents could be taught in bunches."

But teaching children in groups, Miss Mead views as a waste of time. She says: "How much school work should be done in groups, where error is steadily compounded and children are exposed to each other's determination not to learn French and not to get the examples right?"

These caustic comments are as shrewd as the lady who made them. They are, as most of Miss Mead's writings and observations are, sharp at one end and blunt at the other.

Miss Mead is correct if she is speaking of the quality of existing governmental school instruction, which is pretty shoddy in many and many an institution. It is certainly true that most Americans, adult or under-adult, have not learned constructive reading habits.

REFLECTIONS ON LUXURY-LOVING BUREAUCRATS

(Christian Economics)

Before us are exterior and interior pictures of the new State Department building. It is elaborate, spacious, luxurious, and expensive. The large drawing rooms, reception rooms, dining rooms and kitchens are not only grand in size, but in furnishings. The main dining room is 104 feet long by 54 feet wide. There are other smaller dining rooms, including some that are private, and for the exclusive use of top-ranking officials.

Dignitaries and their wives from foreign countries are to be provided with luxurious quarters. No doubt Khrushchev, Mikoyan, Tito, Castro, Gromyko, Sukarno and other Marxists will enjoy these plush accommodations.

The cost of this building and its furnishings is nearly $53 million. It is said that the dignity of our country must be upheld, and that our entertainment must be in keeping with the wealthiest and most powerful country in the world. We have seen similar luxurious buildings and furnishings provided by and for the government of poverty-stricken countries, where misery was general throughout the land. Every time we have walked through the ornate, luxuriously furnished public buildings of many countries throughout the world and marked the vast amount of wealth spent for the enjoyment of public officials, we have thought of the simple, hard-working, uneducated, suffering people who have eked out the tax money to make them possible.

We have always thought a little less luxury for the people at the top who live by the blood and sweat of the poverty-stricken people who inhabit these countries, and a little better food, education, housing, and clothing for the common folk of these lands, would be a more fitting way to use such resources as are available. We have seen classical masterpieces of paintings and tapestries on the walls of halls, and rooms covered with exquisite oriental rugs in the embassies and public buildings of countries, many of whose people were barefooted and lived in hovels.

Nor is our country an exception to these basic facts. The elaborate buildings for the use of our State Department people, with its luxurious appointments, will be paid for by the common people of our country, whose pay envelopes contain only about three quarters of the wages they are earning. A little more for them and a little less for bureaucrats would be our idea of the way to promote human dignity and the prestige of our country.

Many of our officials live in luxury, work in luxury, travel in luxury, and enjoy fine food and beautiful things far beyond the reach of those who pay for them. While this is expected in countries ruled by tyrants, including all Communist countries, none of which practices what they preach with reference to sharing the wealth with the common people, it ought not to be true in democratic countries where the people rule and the moral law is accepted as the rule for human conduct. Government people provide luxuries for themselves at public expense because they enjoy them, and are not sensitive enough to their duty to deny themselves the luxury which they are in position to compel the common people to provide for them.

True enough, the Marxists are the worst sinners in this respect, but the rulers of all countries everywhere ought to restrain themselves to living, working and traveling conditions not unduly superior to the conditions under which the people of their countries live.

Albert Schweitzer lives humbly, travels third-class, and saves all he can to expand his facilities for ministering to needy, suffering people. For that reason he is loved and honored around the world. Luxury-loving bureaucrats and anyone who lives ostentatiously and with unnecessary extravagance might well profit by his example. Plain living, humble government in the Western countries would stand out in sharp contrast in comparison with the luxury enjoyed by Communist rulers. Marxism would make little headway against Western democratic government officials who lived as humbly, inexpensively and with the same degree of devotion to the people of their countries as shown by Grenfell, Jimmie Doolittle, Albert Schweitzer and others.

Let them operate for profit to themselves and to the educational excellence of their enrollees. This can be done. It should be done as quickly as possible.

Key Senate Chairman Byrd Still 'Undecided' On Backing New Tariff Cutting Powers, Promises Vote

WASHINGTON — The Big question mark hanging over President Kennedy's controversial request for new authority to reduce tariffs is Senator Harry S. Byrd, D. Va., veteran chairman of the Finance Committee that will write the legislation in the Senate.

Unlike the private commitment that Representative Wilbur Mills, D. Ark., chairman of the tariff-writing House Ways and Means Committee, has given the White House, Senator Byrd is still undecided that Congress should turn these sweeping powers over to the President.

"I'm still very much undecided on your tariff proposal," Senator Byrd frankly told the President during a private White House legislative conference. "I'm not convinced that it is wise for Congress to give up so much authority in this vital area."

"You have been a champion of the Reciprocal Trade program in the past. There is no more important issue before Congress," he challenged the President. "The tariff cutting authority I am requesting is needed to help this country take full advantage of the trade opportunities that will be available if we cooperate with the European Common Market."

"My first major speech in Congress was in support of the Reciprocal Trade program in 1934, and I have supported the program ever since," declared Byrd. "But frankly, I am worried that the standard of living in this country will be substantially reduced if we lower tariffs much further and permit a flood of foreign products made by cheaper labor."

"I will never permit that to happen," assured the President. "I'm committed to a rising standard of living."

After hearing this, Senator Byrd made a significant pledge, saying: "I am going to try to cooperate with you all I can, Mr. President. I assure you that there will be swift action on your proposal once the House finishes with the legislation, regardless of how I vote."

"What about your own position?" inquired the President. "I'm undecided," answered Byrd. "I'm going to pray over it."

GETTING THE WORD — On the President's major tax recommendations, Senator Byrd was even cooler than on the Administration's tariff proposal. The veteran legislator told the President that he was flatly opposed to Congress giving up its authority to set tax rates, saying: "This is one power that I doubt Congress will ever give any President."

Also, Senator Byrd said, "I'm inclined to oppose your tax credit plan for business, but you may yet win me over on that one." He said he favored the proposals to close tax loopholes.

On the controversial plan to put medical care for the aged under the social security system, Senator Byrd gave an emphatic "No!" "I plan to oppose your medical care plan because it is not tied to need," reported Senator Byrd. "I don't want any young person paying for my medical bills."

Significantly, Senator Byrd ended the conversation, saying: "Mr. President, I'm not going to embarrass you on any part of your program, although there will be a number of bills that I can't personally support. I will see that you get a vote on every major bill that comes before my committee."

FARM BELT WARNING—Farm

Down South

By THURMAN SENSING

SOUTHERNERS MUST NOT BE DUPES

The Kennedy administration's intention to manipulate Southern Congressmen and dupe the voters can be clearly seen in his decision to defer issuance of a controversial executive order on race mixing in federally-aided housing.

For some time, it has been evident that Mr. Kennedy will issue an order that would require all such housing to be open for Negro occupancy. This order would cover the sale of new homes financed by federally-insured loans and federal urban renewal projects. In other words, contractors who built houses with a federally-insured construction loan would be required to make them available to Negro buyers, even in neighborhoods that are all-white.

To be sure, such an order would disrupt the entire pattern of home building and home ownership in the United States. It would hurt the home-building industries, including labor and suppliers, and create serious social strife in communities throughout the nation. Good neighborhoods depend upon a true feeling of community. If the federal government in effect launches upon its own program of blockbusting, a tactic used by unscrupulous sharpshooters, the economic and social consequences will be grave indeed.

And the tragic truth is that the Kennedy administration is determined to begin such a blockbusting campaign with a presidential executive order. In announcing deferment of the order for the moment, an administration source told the Associated Press, "It (the order) definitely will come. The problem is one of timing. I personally would guess it will be issued before next fall's election, but it may be after."

The political strategy is Machiavellian. The delay is occasioned by the fact that if the executive order were issued before the Democratic primaries in the South this spring and summer, Southern voters might bolt the Democratic Party in tremendous numbers. Certainly, the effect on pro-administration office holders would be disastrous. Public resentment against the executive order would be such that Mr. Kennedy's loyal political lieutenants in the South, such as Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, in all likelihood would end up victims.

Therefore, though these loyal lieutenants know what is planned, the administration will hold up the order until the Southern supporters of the New Frontier are re-elected. Then the administration will turn around, issue the executive order, and pay for the harvest of votes obtained from Negro districts in Northern industrial cities.

To be sure, the Southern congressmen in the Kennedy camp will then say they are completely surprised. "We didn't think the order would be issued," they will say in feigned surprise. Then they will hasten to vote for various measures pushed by the White House. For all this to happen, it will be necessary for Southerners to be dupes, to sit with ears stopped up and eyes covered—hearing no evil, seeing no evil.

An alert electorate in the Southern states won't wait to be trampled upon by John F. Kennedy, the New Frontier socialists and their liberal fellow-travelers in Southern congressional delegations. Alert Southerners will lay down a broad line of political conduct for their own representatives. They will say to the latter, "If you support the Kennedy administration in the new session of Congress, you are in the Kennedy camp and cannot expect our votes—in fact, you won't get them."

For generations, Southerners have prided themselves on being realists in their political vision. This year, especially the time between the opening of Congress and the Democratic primaries, is a time for the most realistic appraisal of the future. The effort to keep America from going socialist requires the strenuous assistance of the South and its political representatives. The South and the nation can't afford to have any weak sisters in Washington, those who bow to the will of the White House, ADA, NAACP, etc.

In short, Southerners can't afford to be dupes or to fall for the old snake oil political remedies.

Elk Hunts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Three tightly controlled tule elk hunts are being held in California's Owens Valley under a plan to limit the herd to between 250 and 300 animals. A total of 12 selected bulls and 28 cows will be removed from the herd to provide enough range for the others. Lucky hunters are picked by lottery.

A thought for the day: American Roman Catholic Bishop Fulton J. Sheen once said: "Baloney is flattery so thick it cannot be true, and barnyard is flattery so thin we like it."

By The Way - How Do You Come Out On Those Tests?

By HENRY McLEMORE

During my lifetime I have had various favorite pastimes. Up until a few months ago nothing gave me quite so much pleasure as putting bells around birds' necks so that cats could find them.

Before that I was crazy about cattle rustling. I used to roam the Far West, stealthily changing brands. One day it would be I. W. Harper, the next day Calvert's, and the next Johnny Walker.

And before that it was my number of things. Giving the wrong directions to homing pigeons. Shopping for suits with two coats and only one pair of trousers. Training seals how not to play "My Country 'Tis of Thee" on a cornet.

Now I have a new favorite pastime, and it is the best of all. There's nothing like it for inflating a man's ego, making him feel superior to his fellow men, and causing him to go about patting himself on the back as if it were a drum.

It's a simple game to play. All one needs is a pencil with enough lead to make a check mark, and a tendency to lie.

The game — to keep you in suspense no longer — is nothing more than answering those Personality Tests which are a standard offering of so many magazines these days. You know the tests I mean. Just check "Yes" or "No" to ten or fifteen questions and find out exactly what type of person you are.

One word of warning: Never, never, under any circumstances, allow someone else to make the check marks for you. You'll be surprised to find out how others' opinions of you vary from the one you hold yourself.

I have given myself at least thirty or forty of these tests and I am always amazed and nearly tickled to death to see how well I fare.

Here are a few typical questions and my answers to them: Q. Are you a good listener? A. A good listener? You can bet your boots I am. Why, I can listen to myself talk hours on end without becoming bored, and when anyone interrupts me I don't get annoyed, but go right on just as if I hadn't noticed. Q. Are you a good mixer?

Kennedy Keeps In Close Touch With The Press

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Back stairs at the White House: Probably no Chief Executive in recent years has understood so well as President Kennedy operations of the news industry, printed broadcast. This is due not only to his brief career as a journalist shortly after World War II, but an intense avocational interest in the techniques and methods of reporters, columnists and commentators.

As a politician, he long has remained in final control of his own public relations. This is true today, even with the expert advice of Press Secretary Pierre Salinger and others around the White House who have extensive professional training.

The President keeps in close touch with virtually everything of importance printed or broadcast about him or his administration. This means that members of his staff must be constantly up-to-date not only on hard news, but opinion and critical analyses.

Policy-level members of his staff as much and sometimes more than Salinger, are highly sensitive to critiques involving the President. This particular echelon of, for example, the Theodore C. Sorensen magnificence, does not have the working understanding of the news business that Kennedy and Salinger have, and accordingly, some of the policy-makers seem to suffer unduly when something is printed or broadcast not to their liking.

Some of Kennedy's more ardent associates tend to regard news stories and news personnel in terms of being for or against the Chief Executive. Their intensity in this respect seems frequently to surpass that of Kennedy himself. This sort of loyalty may be quite admirable from the political viewpoint, but it can cause problems for the President without his being aware of it.

It has been known to work this way: A reporter of no particular political convictions writes what he considers an in-depth treatment of some aspect of the administration. The President may not find it entirely pleasing and expresses himself quite freely within the inner circle of his associates.

Then, one of the torchbearers hunts up the reporter and complains vehemently; not at Kennedy's bidding, but entirely on his own. And the once-objective newsman is pushed almost perforce into an anti position.

There is another aspect of Kennedy's relations with the press that can produce results sometimes sad, sometimes hilarious. This refers to his contact with all sorts of reporters, writers and commentators who see him privately. These contacts are not properly described as interviews because the President seldom may be quoted directly. Kennedy, on the other hand, frequently supplies background information that has not filtered down to second and third level of government. It can be pretty embarrassing for an assistant secretary in a government department to tell a friendly and/or useful journalist that the President is about to undertake a specific action, only to find in later print elsewhere that Kennedy is about to embark in the opposite direction.

Desk And Derrick Club Will Hear Talk By Amarillo Man

The Desk and Derrick Club will hold their regular monthly dinner meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the Quivera Room of Coronado Inn.

C. M. CUTBIRTH ... Dinner Speaker

C. M. Cutbirth, plant manager of the Refining Department, of Texaco Inc., Amarillo, will be the guest speaker. His subject will be "Some Aspects of Cuba and Communism."

Cutbirth served in the U.S. Navy for three and a half years during World War II and was discharged from the Navy with a rank of Lieutenant Commander. After military service he was refinery superintendent with Vengref in Venezuela and then superintendent of Texaco's Santiago de Cuba refinery for five years.

Club officers said the program should be extremely interesting to club members as well as guests.

Commission Seeking More Power Over Producers Of Natural Gas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission would have stronger policing powers over natural gas producers and interstate pipelines if Congress gives it the new authority it has just requested.

It also would have the right to investigate the gas industry from stem to stern as it relates to its price - regulation authority.

The commission, now composed of Kennedy appointees, made the proposal — among 12 affecting natural gas — in its 49th report to Congress and the White House.

It will be up to the Senate and House Commerce committees to decide whether such powers should be granted. Neither committee was ready to comment until the full implications have been studied.

But it appeared the commission had waved some red flags which could bring out opposition lobbyists in full cry. For example, it would extend its jurisdiction over interstate sales for resale to direct sales for industrial boilers. It also wants the right to suspend rates on industrial gas, plus authority to approve or reject securities issues of pipeline companies.

The commission said the recommendations were "businesslike and effective" tools aimed at closing gaps handicapping its price-regulation authority. They would, they said, be a giant stride toward cleaning up what President Kennedy once called its "incredible backlog" of rate cases.

The commissioners said that since taking office last year, they believed they had "turned the corner" on reducing the case backlog. But what they need most right now is more manpower. They said that this, coupled with administrative improvements already made or planned — such as the recently announced gas ready-made or planned — such as whatever help Congress gives should fill the bill.

NAMED TO POST — Jack S. Rolf, public relations staff member of Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, has been named associate director of the organization's Oil Information Committee program.

DALLAS (SpI) — Total attendance may go above the 10,000 mark at the annual Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference slated here Monday and Tuesday.

Texas Baptist Evangelism Director C. Wade Freeman said he expected 5,000 young people to attend a youth night service the opening session and 3,000 laymen to attend a special laymen's night service the second night, Tuesday.

In addition, thousands of pastors from throughout the state are planning to attend Texas Baptists' largest annual meeting.

The conference might be one of the most significant meetings in Texas Baptist history, said Dr. Freeman.

"It could possibly mean the beginning of a great revival that would sweep across our state, spread throughout the nation, and climax with millions of Japanese people trusting the Lord during a 1963 Japan Baptist Crusade."

Six leaders from the Japan Baptist Convention will attend the Evangelism Conference and meet with Southern and Texas Baptist leaders to outline plans for the crusade aimed at reaching every person in Japan with the Gospel.

W. H. "Dub" Jackson, missionary to Japan, will speak on "Japan Our Opportunity" at the youth night service. Dr. Baker James Cauthen, executive secretary of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, will bring a message urging young people to dedicate their lives to vocational Christian service.

Principal speaker for the laymen's night service will be Howard Butt, Jr. of Corpus Christi, vice president of H.E.B. grocery chain.

Other key speakers during the conference will include Dr. T. A. Patterson, Texas Baptist executive secretary; Dr. R. G. Lee, pastor emeritus of Bellevue Baptist Church of Memphis, Tenn., and Gregory Walcott, star of the NBC television show "87th Precinct."

British Take Their Bird Watching Real Seriously

By HARRY FERGUSON
 LONDON (UPI)—The last will and testament has been drawn. The hangman has tested the noose. There is no possibility of a stay of execution. Your correspondent is going bird watching.

All excuses have been exhausted in declining repeated invitations from a British friend who has neatly settled the life after death problem for all of us. Bird watchers will go to heaven. Everybody else will go to hell. To him and millions of other Englishmen bird watching is not a sport. It is a religion.

Perhaps you assume that British bird watchers merely take a walk and look at birds. Perish the thought. You need as much equipment and preparation as you do for a safari into Central Africa.

Waterproof boots, field glasses with a minimum magnification of at least six times, waterproof trousers and jacket, a large notebook, six pencils and a knife to keep them sharpened, a canteen, a food pouch, a tape recorder to get the songs and cries of birds, and an alarm clock to make certain you are up with the birds at 5 a.m.

In the line of duty your correspondent paid 35 cents for a book called "Bird Watching for Beginners" by Bruce Campbell, who has written the definitive work on the subject. It was a traumatic experience, because the opening pages gave a preview of the horrors to come:

"In search of birds I have driven, flown, cycled, rowed and walked many thousands of miles. I have climbed hundreds of feet up rocks and trees and fallen down quite a few. I have swum a good many rivers at various times. I have been chased by a bull, by horses, by wild goats and often by wild men, farmers who resented my presence.

"I have been pecked and scratched by birds of all sizes from blue tits to peregrine falcons, and I have been hit tremendous buffets by a tawny owl.

"I have been up all night at lighthouses and have slept in a cave 3,000 feet high in the Grampian Mountains. I have been out in weather of all kinds and have been cold, wet or steaming-hot times without number."

That almost canceled the whole thing, but then from far away there was the faint tolling of the bells of hell summoning all non-

Rotting Dollar Standard Nears Another Change

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's standard of estimating is something called the consumer price index and the government is about to change the standard — again.

That is changing the rules in the middle of the game. Such rules changing would not be permitted even in such a disreputable game as the wrestling racket. As Westbrook Pegler used to write: "Tain't Fair!"

The consumer price index is a reckoning of what the dollar will purchase today compared to what it would purchase at a given time in the past. There was a time when the dollar was being measured by its immediate purchasing power against the purchasing power of 1939. The Senate Finance Committee clings still to 1939 as the base year from which to determine the purchasing power of the dollar today.

The year 1939 is a good one for that purpose. It reflects the dollar's purchasing power before it began to shrink under the impact of Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal spending which, in turn, was aggravated by the costs of World War II. Assign an arbitrary purchasing power of 100 cents to the 1939 dollar. Measure the 1962 dollar against that and you have an easily understood example of the degradation and rotting of the U. S. dollar over a period of 20-odd years of hot war, cold war and big spending politicians.

This comparison cannot be precise although the calculators attempt to keep it so. The best estimate is that the 1962 dollar will buy about 54 to 56 cents worth less of groceries than would the 1939 dollar. This is a shocking shrinkage. The beautiful U. S. buck of 1939 is about 20 cents away from being a two-bit dollar in the market place.

The 1939 standard also is a handy one for the early buyers of U.S. savings bonds. Those bonds first were offered on the eve of World War II, offered by the government as good investments, as a hedge against poverty in old age. The 1939 dollar standard enabled the early buyers of these bonds to calculate easily from the consumer price index figure just how badly the rotting of the U. S. dollar had skunked them since they loaned their dollars to their ever-loving government.

For example: A working stiff who put $100 in the bank or in a bond in 1939 and who left it there can estimate easily that the real value of his $100 has rotted by now to $44-to$46.

Since 1933 the government has used the 1947-49 average as the standard by which to measure the dollar's purchasing power. That made the dollar look a lot better because it did not take into account the dollar rotting between 1939 and 1947-49.

The government now will jump another decade to make the standard of dollar measurement the average purchasing power in the years 1957-59. That will make the dollar look even better, although debasing the standard of measurement cannot remedy the actual debasement of the dollar's purchasing power.

This probably will delude the voters, however. They are easily fooled.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

LEGAL CHECKUP IS GOOD IDEA

Legal trouble is easier and cheaper to prevent than to cure. Most wage earning, childbearing, home - buying, installment paying families don't see much need for a family lawyer.

Often under prodding, one may get a lawyer to write a will. But can you tell a big legal risk from a small one? Can you spot the signs of legal trouble? Check with your family lawyer when:

1. Your status changes: upon coming of age, marriage, the birth of your children, buying a house, divorce or death. For you may then need to draft or revise your will, change your insurance, or re-figure your taxes.
2. You buy or sell. Look out for flaws in the papers before you go into debt, part with money, or sign anything involving big expenditures or long term obligations.
3. You enter into other contracts. Promises, spoken or written, bind you if they call for a "consideration", something of value in return.
4. Someone threatens your rights. The law exists to defend them but with some rights you must take action yourself for them to work for you.

When you can bring your lawyer "live" facts (e.g. unsigned contracts, vexing tax returns you haven't filed), he can do much more for you, and at a smaller cost than when you bring him "cold" facts (mistakes you have made which threaten trouble).

But above all, get both live and cold facts to him at once. For time may run out in many such situations. Your lawyer may be able to do something for you today, which he cannot do tomorrow.

Tell your lawyer what you want. Tell him all the facts, good or bad, and then keep him informed all along. He is sworn to keep what you tell in confidence, and he cannot serve you well without full knowledge.

(This newfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Cutback Seen In Daily Oil Output

WASHINGTON (SpI)—A sharp cutback of 600,000 barrels daily in petroleum supply requirements, below January supply levels, is indicated for the three months beginning February 1, the Independent Petroleum Association of America said today.

Minor S. Jameson, Jr., IPAA executive vice president, said "unless some drastic surgery is performed on the industry's current operations, we are headed for surpluses which could bring about economic chaos."

Calling attention to estimates that total imports will average 2,650,000 barrels daily during the February-April period, Jameson said "unless some positive action is forthcoming to reduce and stabilize imports," independent domestic producers "will be called upon to make all of the necessary adjustments and bear the burden of present intolerable industry conditions."

He said a reduction of 250,000 barrels daily in imports, as urged by IPAA, "should and must be made." "However, in light of present conditions, even such a reduction in imports would not keep us out of trouble in the period immediately ahead," he added. "Domestic supplies still would have to be reduced."

Jameson's comments were based on information in IPAA's Supply and Demand Outlook, a factual monthly report of petroleum statistics and trends.

Westby said the public relations post was established as part of SSC's overall growth and diversification, which includes increased activity in seismic exploration.

Gas Stocks Hit Peak In 1961

Natural gas common stocks set new records in 1961 and closed the year 16.9 per cent higher than 1960, the American Gas Association reports.

Gas stocks were selling at $63.31 a share as the year ended, compared with $54.15 at the close of 1960. Stocks of the nation's sixth largest industry paid an average dividend of $2.34 a share, the biggest on record. This is equal to a yield of 3.7 per cent.

Distribution company stock prices scored wide gains, climbing to a record $57.40 a share in mid-December and closing the year at $64.95. This is a year-to-year increase of 34.7 per cent. Dividends hit a new peak of $1.94 a share, a 5.4 per cent gain over 1960 and equal to a yield of just under 3 per cent.

Transmission company stock prices reached $55.91 a share, 4.9 per cent higher than a year earlier. The dividend rate of $2.83 a share represents a return of 4.3 per cent.

He said she nagged him about leaving dirt in the bathtub.

Mid-America Makes Record Delivery

TULSA, Okla. — A record one day delivery through its eight terminals of 89,200 barrels, about 3,750,000 gallons, of LP Gas was reached January 31 by Mid-America Pipeline Co.

In the seven day period ending January 14 a record 482,000 barrels, or over 20,000,000 gallons, were delivered, according to Robert E. Thomas, Mid-America president.

"This performance during the recent cold spell demonstrates the tremendous service value of pipeline transportation of LP Gas in the upper Middle West," Thomas said.

GOP SEEKS FUNDS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Republican organization hopes to raise $500,000 to $750,000, from 50 dinners linked by closed circuit television Feb. 1. Former President Eisenhower will speak from Los Angeles to viewers at all the dinners, GOP National Chairman William F. Miller said Monday.

Has Fallout Fear Become Big Business In U. S.?

By WARD CANNEL
NEW YORK (NEA) — Are you letting civil defense pass you by? Is the thermonuclear opportunity knocking unanswered at your door? Are you failing to cash in on survival?

Well, then, look at what some others are doing with a little grisly imagination and the confusion, unknowns and frauds of U.S. fallout shelter building.

For $9.75 you can get a Fourmet Survival Kit — pate de foie gras, broiled quail eggs, octopus, champagne jelly.

You can rent 8 mm and 16 mm movies from Survival Films to ward off what they call "Shelter claustrophobia." You can buy a bicycle mechanism billed as a shelter electricity generator that also keeps you in trim condition while you wait it out.

A reading of the trade journals turns up more of the same salesmanship. An article aimed at druggists points out that the shelter-building family will need about $100 worth of supplies — and more if their attention is turned to "luxury" items for the shelter.

And, asks a home furnishings journal for dealers "how many merchants . . . have given a thought to the promotional possibilities of these shelters?" And thereupon offers a blueprint for doing so.

One of the largest radiation meter makers reports his sales are zooming (at $32.50 each). They are brought in quantity by merchandisers for use as sales premiums.

At a dinner party recently, a young architect assigned to the building of a new skyscraper hotel, told this reporter:

"We've been told to keep the lobby costs down and to use synthetic materials wherever possible. They're going to advertise this hotel for its cellar fallout shelter instead of its luxury or comfort."

But in the hectic survival marketplace today, nothing tells the story as well as the sale of packaged water supply.

Depending on where you shop, a gallon costs between 98 cents and $1.65 and they're going like . . . well, a Washington, D.C., milk company sold 25,000 in a few weeks last autumn at the ridiculously low price of $1 for six gallons.

The reason, of course, is to have a water supply on hand in the event of what retailers delicately call "an emergency." But just how much water do you need in a shelter, and how much should it cost you?

The problem is that nobody knows, according to a Consumer Reports, the magazine of a non-profit product testing organization. Even if our shelter were to survive a nuclear war, it might be four to six weeks in your area before you could get out for short, urgent trips.

Four to six weeks' water requirement is about 50 gallons per person, according to the Universal Container Corp. (which is not in the packaged water or survival business). That amount satisfies drinking, food reconstituting, sanitation and cleanliness requirements. For a family of four it would cost between $45 and $60 at today's shelter boom prices.

On the other hand, says Universal, which worked this problem out years ago in wartime, you can buy a clean 55 gallon drum for less than $10, fill it with house water and add common hypochlorite-type laundry bleach until you can taste it. The water should keep indefinitely.

How do merchants reconcile facts like these with the wares they display in their survival boutiques?

A journey through major metropolitan stores turns up a number of answers. It's a public service, you are told. Or, we've got to face facts. Or, from one big home furnishings store with a floor-wide display of shelter equipment:

"We're simply retailers. If people want it, they'll come in. If not, they won't. We're in business."

Cards Expected To Be On Table Soon In Berlin

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Word from the West German capital of Bonn suggests that both Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan believe the cards soon will be on the table in the Berlin crisis.

In the British view, at least, there is some cautious optimism that exploratory talks conducted in Moscow by U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson have shown a slight hope that a basis for negotiations can be found.

As in negotiations preceding the abortive Paris summit meeting in 1959, Macmillan has emerged as the chief go-between for Adenauer, President Charles de Gaulle of France and President Kennedy.

Paralleling events of 1959 also has been the fact that among the four, Macmillan is the most anxious for the East-West talks, and De Gaulle the most unwilling.

An added, and unfortunate factor, has been De Gaulle's growing coolness toward the Kennedy administration.

He has been highly critical of U. S. policy in the Congo and his representative at the recent conference of NATO foreign ministers, Maurice Couve de Murville, did his best to prevent NATO endorsement of the exploratory talks in Moscow.

De Gaulle's refusal to integrate French divisions returning from Algeria into NATO and his insistence upon his own nuclear program are taken as evidence of his distrust of U. S. determination to stand firm against Communist pressures in Western Europe.

As a signatory of the four-power agreement on Germany after World War II, France remains in a position to veto any agreement reached without his approval.

Adding to the uncertainty are the conditions inside the Soviet Union whose pressures might force Nikita Khrushchev to a disastrous climax in Berlin or, conceivably, could lead to a more conciliatory mood.

The pressure for drastic action might come from a necessity to prove to the Red Chinese that his policy of coexistence is not a policy of weakness.

Possibly tending toward a more conciliatory mood would be other factors. One might be a desire to ease the military strain on the Soviet economy in order to pay more attention to Africa and the under-developed nations.

Another might be that, with the establishment of the Berlin wall and the halt to the outflow of East German manpower, the East Germans might now be in a position to rebuild their economy, easing further the strain on the Soviet budget.

Arms Shipments To Portugal Hit

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The 50 members of the Afro-Asian group consulted their governments today on a draft resolution on Angola that would strike directly at U.S. arms shipments to Portugal under NATO agreements.

The resolution, expected to be put before the General Assembly Monday, would not press for sanctions or condemnation of Portugal for its Angola policy.

But it would call for an end to military aid which Portugal might use against native uprisings in its African territory.

MOTORIST'S GRIPE
PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Carl Ellick fumed when he read of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles' new "get tough" policy for car owners who fail to report a change of address immediately.

Four years ago Ellick moved and sent the bureau in Harrisburg three notarized forms. The address on his license has yet to be corrected.
