7 Die When Car Hits Truck At Groom

Comedian Ernie Kovacs Dies As Auto Hits Pole

WEST LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UPI) — Cigar-chewing comedian Ernie Kovacs died early Saturday when his speeding car skidded on a rain slick street and crashed into a utility pole.

The 42-year-old star, returning home from a baby shower for the Milton Berles, was killed instantly at 1:30 a.m. PST.

Police said his compact white station wagon jumped the curb, flew into the air and struck the steel pole broadside.

Minutes earlier his wife, singer-comedienne Edie Adams, had left the gay party at the home of producer-director Billy Wilder in another car. They had been celebrating the adoption by Berle and his wife, Ruth, of a three-week-old boy last New Year's eve.

Among a score of guests attending the party were Lucille Ball and her new husband, Gary Morton, the Dean Martins, Kirk Douglas, French star Yves Montand, actor Martin Gabel and other Hollywood notables.

There were no eyewitnesses, but a few minutes after the accident a motorist saw the wreckage and called police.

It took ambulance attendants and a tow truck operator, who had to lift the car away from the pole, more than a half-hour to extricate the body.

The car had been slammed into the shape of a boomerang.

When it was removed there remained only shattered glass on the west pavement, blood and Kovacs' trademark, a long black cigar.

The Los Angeles coroner's office reported Kovacs' body was almost unmarked and suffered no broken bones. His death resulted from an apparent basal skull fracture.

An enormously popular man, the big, good-natured star was one of the most beloved men in the movie colony.

Kovacs, who married Miss Adams nine years ago in Mexico, would have been 43 Jan. 23. They were the parents of a 2-year-old daughter, Mia. Kovacs was the father of two other daughters, Betty and Kit, by a previous marriage.

Burglars Cause $1,200 Damage in Pampa Store

Pampa police Saturday were investigating three break-ins, one in which the burglars were more interested in vandalism than loot.

Officers said at 10:45 p.m. Friday night, a bread truck driver, delivering pastries to the Miller Grocery, 3200 Alcock, stopped officers driving by and told them the rear door to the grocery had been tampered with.

Upon investigation officers found the door had been smashed and vandals had completely ransacked the store.

Denny Roan, police captain said every display shelf in the store had been raked off and their contents strewn over the floor. Package meat in the display cases had been broken open and scattered around the store.

Co-owners of the grocery, Claude and Paul Miller, told police damage to the store and contents would total near $1,200. The only merchandise missing, officers said, were several packages of cigarettes.

Bill Watson, owner of the Pampa Roller Skating Rink, 123 N. Ward, reported to police Friday night that the rear window of the rink had been broken and the building entered sometime between 2 and 7 p.m. Friday. Watson said the cash register and drawer had been looted of $25 in small change.

Bill Smith, 2808 Rosewood, driver of a Goldsmith Dairy truck, reported to police Saturday morning his truck was broken into sometime Friday and 120 half-pints of chocolate milk and two one-half gallons of milk were taken.

Smith said the truck was parked at 2101 N. Hobart St. when the theft took place.

Police said they recovered several of the chocolate milk cartons which had been dropped from a car in various sections of the city.

Reds Showing No Signs Of Berlin Letup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States informed its principal allies Saturday that the Soviet Union still shows no signs of easing or dropping its harsh Berlin demands.

The State Department said, however, that it intends to continue the Moscow talks in an attempt to find some tension-easing arrangement which would lessen the danger of war by miscalculation.

Foy D. Kohler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, met for almost an hour with the representatives here of Britain, France, and West Germany. He gave them a summary of the Berlin talk in Moscow Friday between U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Some of the Allied diplomats said it appeared to them that the Russians were more rigid than in their demands that the Big Three get out of West Berlin and permit it to become a demilitarized free city surrounded by Communist territory.

SEVEN DIED IN THIS WRECKAGE—Shown here is the wreckage of a station wagon which crashed into the rear end of a parked truck, killing seven persons and injuring two, at Groom yesterday. Patrolman Bob Loving of the Panhandle Highway Patrol unit, and two Groom residents are seen searching for scattered belongings of the victims.

2 Others Near Death In Tragic Traffic Mishap

GROOM, Tex. (UPI)—Seven persons were killed and two others critically injured Saturday when a station wagon whose driver probably was asleep hit a parked truck on U.S. Highway 66 on the outskirts of Groom.

Every person in the station wagon was either killed or injured. The truck driver, Richard D. Campbell, 36, was drinking coffee in a restaurant across the street.

Except for the driver of the station wagon, Clayton Aldridge, 20, of Kennett, Mo., all of the victims and injured were members of two related Kennett families, Aldridge was a friend.

The victims were Alvin Thomas Bell, 47, Jack M. Bell, 19, Alvin Bell's son; Judy Bell, 11, Alvin Bell's daughter; Mrs. Bobbie Gill, 25, Alvin Bell's daughter, two of Mrs. Gill's children—Van, 9, and Tommy, 3.

The injured were Mrs. Alvin Ruby Bell, 45, and Jackie Gill, about 2, another child of Mrs. Bobbie Gill. Mrs. Bell had a fractured skull, brain damage and scalp lacerations. Jackie had skull injuries and hemorrhaging internally.

Both were reported still in critical condition in Groom Hospital late Saturday night.

Highway patrol officers at Panhandle who investigated the accident said the semi-trailer was parked along the right side of the highway headed west when the accident occurred.

The station wagon was wedged under the back of the truck as far back as its steering wheel.

"When we turned on the light and looked in the car, it was the kind of thing that gives you nightmares," Sheriff Kenneth Black said.

"The only sound was the crying of a child. It came from beneath a pile of clothing, seats and bodies.

"There were dolls scattered all over inside the car and the front seat was pushed against the dashboard.

"It took us four or five minutes to find out where the crying was coming from."

"We at first thought there were only two adults in the front seat, but when we pried the seat back, we found two children pinned on the floor."

The children on the floor were Vim and Tommy Gill, Mrs. Bell and Jackie Gill were in the back seat and were removed soon after the accident was discovered.

"He (Aldridge) drove straight into the back of the truck," Sheriff Black said. "There were no skid marks."

Officers said the accident happened at approximately 6:15 a.m. There were no witnesses.

According to patrolmen the passengers in the car were a mother and father, their three children, three grandchildren and a friend who was driving. The mother and a grandchild were the survivors.

Major Issues Pressure Shifts To State Senate

AUSTIN (UPI) — The pressure generated by the major issues of the Texas Legislature's third special session will be on the Senate when work resumes Monday.

Senators must soon tackle bills the house has passed to preserve dormant bank accounts and to regulate the small loan industry.

The House was scheduled to begin debate Monday on a bill to revise the farm-to-market road maintenance program.

Also ready for house action is a bill to reorganize the State Board of Water Engineers to make it a major state agency like the State Highway Commission.

The Senate Banking Committee has shown a hostile attitude to the abandoned bank accounts bill. The measure is Gov. Price Daniel's major reason for calling the special session.

It passed the House 88-55 last week, but while representatives were voting for the bill, the banking committee was tearing the measure apart. The committee has under study Daniel's recommendations and a substitute plan by Sen. Galloway Calhoun of Tyler.

The fight to regulate small loans and outlaw loan sharks was shifted to the Senate by a 119-20 vote in the House. During the regular session of the legislature last year, loan legislation died in the Senate.

Farm road maintenance may develop into a big problem for the house.

A "country boy" subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee drastically revised Daniel's maintenance program, cutting his demands 40 per cent because they would reduce the amount of money spent for new farm road construction.

Senators passed Daniel's program, and state highway commissioner Herbert Petry and a number of organizations interested in the state's road program have urged the House to reject the agriculture committee's bill and go along with the Senate.

Supplemental appropriations Daniel recommended when he opened the special session are still languishing in committee.

The governor wants to spend $300,000 for tourist advertising, $10,000 for more juvenile parole officers and $156,500 to repair the San Jacinto Monument.

The House Appropriations Committee took a field trip to the monument Friday to investigate the condition of the shrine.

Lawmakers are also having a problem finding the money to pay the costs of the special session.

4 Pampa Youths Are Picked For All-State Band

Four members of the Pampa Harvester High School band were selected Saturday to participate in the all-state band concert to be held in Dallas, Feb. 3.

According to Bill Tregge, band director, six band members who were selected in the regional tryouts in Borger last December were in Lubbock yesterday for the area try-outs.

Those receiving a place on the state band and the instrument they play are, Mike Palmer, trumpet; Dale Coffin, bass clarinet, and Linda Meech, oboe. The fourth student selected is Louise Richardson, clarinetist, who was chosen as one of the few outstanding band members at the regional meet in Borger. She was selected at that time for the state band.

Others who participated in the tryouts today were Richard Rath, Anna Jo Watson and Pat Stewart.

The concert featuring 100 band students from various schools throughout the state will be held in the Dallas Music Hall at the state fair grounds.

Pampa youngsters participating will leave on Feb. 1. They will spend two days in Dallas rehearsing for the concert.

Mothers' March On Polio Set Monday, Jan. 22

Pampa's annual Mothers' March on Polio will be held during the three hours from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 22, it was announced Saturday night by Mark Buzzard, March of Dimes city campaign chairman.

Mrs. R. A. Mack, chairman of this year's Mothers' March urges all residents to turn on their porchlights during the three hours and to contribute to the March of Dimes when a mother knocks on the door.

The mothers will have identification badges and will carry canisters in which to place contributions. Mrs. Mack said no one will be missed. Plans call for a solicitor to ask for contributions on each block.

Captains for the Mothers' March are: Shelly Downs, Libby Shotwell, Mrs. John Pharr, Mrs. Victor Jamieson, Mrs. A. M. Taylor, Mrs. H. M. Gibson, Mrs. J. L. Vernon Stuckey, Mrs. G. B. Hogan, Mrs. J. S. Conway, Mrs. J. L. Thomas, Mrs. Boyd Murie and Mrs. Lottie Morgan.

Mrs. Glenn Nichols, Mrs. Edwin Southard, Mrs. R. R. Jordan, Mrs. John McKinley, Mrs. Bob Rasmussen, Mrs. W. T. Fain, Mrs. Edwin Flood, Mrs. Ray Taylor and Mrs. Lydia Gilchrist.

These mothers have been assigned major districts in the city where they will solicit funds.

In other March of Dimes activities, the annual civic club "bucket brigade" will be held Saturday Jan. 20, when local civic organizations will solicit contributions to the MOD at various street corners throughout the city.

Nine organizations are expected to work in the special drive, which will be conducted from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday.

Each club participating will provide four men at each intersection at all times.

Other similar drives are being conducted throughout the county, according to Jerry Simms, Gray County March of Dimes chairman.

Driver Charged In Child's Death

A manslaughter charge has been filed in Liberal, Kan., against 26-year-old Daniel Watson, driver of the city truck involved in a collision at Liberal Jan. 3 that caused the death of 16-month-old Arby Lynn Gee of Pampa.

Watson is accused of culpable negligence in turning his truck in front of the oncoming car of the Arby M. Gee family of Pampa.

The infant died in the resulting crash. The father, Arby Marlin Gee, 24, and the mother, Linda, 19, still are hospitalized in Liberal from injuries suffered in the accident. A son, 3-year-old Doyle, is in an Amarillo hospital with head injuries received in the accident.

Watson and two other city employees on the sanitation truck were uninjured.

DALLAS (UPI) — The Texas economy bulled its way upward by 3 or 4 per cent in 1960 despite a sagging petroleum industry and damage caused by Hurricane Carla, the Dallas Times Herald reported in its Sunday edition.

The newspaper's six-section 18th Texas business review and forecast said the state's highly diversified economy climbed to a new record high last year for the 16th consecutive year since the end of World War II.

The estimate for 1962 is for continued business gains and economic growth exceeding that experienced last year.

State Politics Moving Into Hot Contest Division

AUSTIN (UPI) — Hotly contested races for Texas' three top offices are already underway and the pace is expected to increase as more candidates file before the Feb. 5 deadline.

Former House Speaker Waggoner Carr of Lubbock became the third candidate to join the field for the Democratic nomination for attorney general in the major announcement this week.

Another candidate for that post, Les Procter of Austin, is expected to get into the race this week as he winds up duties as Travis County district attorney.

Former secretary of state Tom Reavley of Austin and State Rep. Tom James of Dallas are already in the attorney general contest.

The winner will succeed Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, one of two men already announced for the Democratic nomination for governor. The winner is former Navy Secretary John Connally.

Waiting in the wings are several other well-known politicians who may seek the state's highest post. U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough said in Washington this week he is considering running for governor. Marshall Formby of Plainview held some pre-campaign rallies last month.

In addition, Gov. Price Daniel contends he has not yet made up his mind whether to seek an unprecedented fourth term. If Daniel does not run, Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler has said he is interested in making the campaign.

Houston liberal Don Yarborough, an unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in 1960, is attempting to line up support as a gubernatorial candidate. But he would not likely run against Ralph Yarborough, who is no relation.

Three state senators are already in the race for lieutenant governor, which is expected to wind up with at least five Democratic candidates.

Already entered are Sens. Robert Baker of Houston, Preston Smith of Lubbock, and Jarrard Secrest of Temple.

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro plans to announce this week, and House Speaker James Turman expects to enter the race for the state's second highest post.

Announcements of the political intentions of both Daniel and Turman hinge on the end of the current special session of the legislature Feb. 1. Other lawmakers in Austin for the special session have announced for re-election or, in some cases, elevation from the House to the Senate.

$7-Million Waste Charged In Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government report charged Saturday that the Defense Department wasted $7 million in one year sending people overseas on commercial airliners while its own Military Air Transport Service (MATS) made flights with 200,000 empty seats.

Auditors also found that military brass shipped golf clubs, sporting rifles and even dog food by airliners as much as a month before they left for new duty stations overseas.

Man Sought For Theft Of Truck

Police late Saturday night were seeking a man observed by two city employees as he stole a pickup truck at 12:30 a.m. Saturday in front of the Thunderbird Cafe, 200 W. Brown.

Police said they received a report from Delbert Powell, 620 N. Zimmer, at 12:35 a.m. Saturday, that his pickup truck had been stolen while he was in the cafe for a cup of coffee. Delbert said he had left the keys in the truck.

When officers arrived at the cafe, two city employees who had stopped there told officers they noticed a man about 35 years old get in the truck and drive away.

Police later received a call at 9:10 a.m. Saturday that a pickup fitting the description of the Powell vehicle was parked in a lot at the Bourland Supply Co., 1108 S. Barnes. Police said the driver apparently had driven into the lot and abandoned the truck.

When officers arrived at the cafe, two city employees who had stopped there told officers they noticed a man about 35 years old get in the truck and drive away.

Nothing Is Too Good For Our Men In Capital

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Just before the beginning of a new congressional session, I like to make a tour of the U.S. Capitol, its wonders to behold.

On this year's tour I beheld so many expensive improvements the wonder is that there was enough money in the Treasury to pay for them.

Leaving the new Senate Office Building, I proceeded in a south-westerly direction aboard one of the $75,000 subway cars that went into service two years ago.

When the $4.3 million subway system was opened, Senate Chaplain Frederick Brown Harris christened the cars as "swift chariots of democracy." Sure enough, they did make the passengers feel a bit like Ben Hur. The cars were so rough and noisy that one of them recently was outfitted with rubber wheels to see if it would give the senators a more comfortable ride.

The wheels, I understand, flatten out overnight, but fortunately will resume a rounded shape after a few trips. So perhaps the $20,000 experiment will prove successful.

At any rate, the rubberized chariot took me in relative silence to the Capitol terminal, where two new elevators have been installed since Congress adjourned last fall.

During the construction, a temporary wall toppled over on a number of persons, including Chaplain Harris. I don't know what his remarks were on that occasion.

Via escalator and elevator I ascended to the ground floor, whose corridors have been brightened by new indirect lighting. This makes it easier to see the 100-year-old paintings on the walls and ceilings.

That can be either good or bad, depending on your taste in art. From this point, I made my way into the new $24 million east front of the Capitol, which is now being furnished in what some observers have described as "Oriental splendor."

Personally, I think that description is an exaggeration. "Occidental splendor" would be more accurate.

The furniture is mostly the low slung variety that modern designers created to induce curvature of the spine. It backs in the sheen of hardwood paneling, marble and fine leathers.

At either end of the area is a restaurant, one for senators and the other for House members. Everything in them is new, too, except most of the diners and some of the food.

In short, our lawmakers have improved their surroundings to an extent that very few Oriental potentates could afford, even with U.S. foreign aid.

Frozen Foods Up

NEW YORK (UPI)— Convenience foods are playing an increasingly important role in the average American's diet.

Per capita consumption of fresh vegetables dropped to 99 pounds this year from 115 pounds in 1950, Business Week reports. The average intake of frozen fruit alone has jumped from 4.3 pounds in 1950 to 9 pounds in 1961.

U.S. Sold $5-Billion Farm Produce Abroad

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The United States sold some $4.9 billion worth of farm commodities to 125 countries in fiscal 1961. Six of these countries took 50 per cent of the total farm exports. Japan displaced the United Kingdom as the No. 1 outlet for U.S. agricultural products. The U.K. dropped to No. 2, and India jumped from No. 6 to No. 4.

Canada retained third place and the Netherlands fifth, while West Germany dropped to sixth place. Although West German takings fell 14 per cent and The Netherlands purchases dropped 4 per cent, U.S. exports to all six countries in the European Economic Community (common market) declined only 2 per cent. The other countries in the common market are Belgium, Luxembourg, France and Italy. The exports for the common market countries account for about half of U.S. shipments to Europe, which took 46 per cent of the total.

Exports to Asia mounted sharply to a record, thereby raising its share of the total from 27 per cent to 31 per cent. One-third of the increase can be attributed to larger exports to Japan. Shipments under the food for peace and surplus disposal programs contributed heavily to the other two-thirds.

Exports to Africa grew, doubling their share in the U.S. total. Those to Oceania regained the loss incurred in 1959-60.

The Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) said a strong economic upsurge in 1960 and 1961, combined with record gold and dollar holdings, set the stage for expanded imports by Japan. In the Western Hemisphere, the sharp decline in exports to Cuba more than offset the increase in combined exports to other countries. As a result, the hemisphere's share in our exports fell from 20 to 18 per cent.

Kennedy Taking Risk On UN Bond Buying

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Kennedy is taking a big but unavoidable risk in asking Congress to approve the purchase of $100 million in United Nations bonds.

His risk is big for two reasons. First, because Kennedy has tied his foreign policy tightly to the United Nations. Second, because a refusal by Congress to okay the bond purchase would compel Kennedy to loosen the tie to the United Nations or to untie altogether.

The voice in Congress will be in effect and in fact a vote of U.S. confidence or lack of confidence in the United Nations. It will come at an unhappy time for the United Nations and for Kennedy's foreign policy. Neither is winning much or any applause from the people of the United States.

What hit the United Nations? The hardest blow to U.N. prestige is that it has failed to live up to or even near to the high hopes of its founders. Moreover, the original membership has been diluted and debased in some respects by the acceptance of new nations many of which are not capable of governing themselves, to say nothing of being fit to share equally with many other nations the privileges and responsibilities of U. N. membership. Especially unfit for the responsibilities. And the United Nations has been kidnapped by the Soviet union for use as an instrument in the cold war. The Manchester Guardian summed it up pretty well this month, like this:

"For years the Russians had used the platform of the United Nations to prosecute the cold war. Now a large number of new countries (are) putting their campaign to accelerate the independence of colonial territories ahead of the main purpose of the charter which was to provide (for the world) peace and security."

There is suspicion and doubt of the U.N. operation in the Congo. In the United States there is distrust of Kennedy's policy of tying the United States to the United Nations in that area of Africa.

U.S. taxpayers are understandably demanding to be shown that they should bail out the United Nations for the cost of policies with which many of them disagree. And, further, they know that the United Nations is approaching bankruptcy because the Soviet Union and others refuse to pay their U. N. bills. Among the other non-payers are France, Belgium, South Africa and Nationalist China. Such will be the background of

JFK's Membership Club Application Quickly Withdrawn

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Kennedy's membership application has been withdrawn from a Washington club that is so exclusive it once supposedly demanded to know the admittance qualifications of President Woodrow Wilson.

The action on Kennedy's application was taken 24 hours after the Cosmos Club, a private organization of the intellectual and social elite in Washington, had rejected a membership bid for a Negro — Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Carl T. Rowan.

Kennedy's name had been proposed by J. Kenneth Galbraith, U.S. ambassador to India, who is now home on leave. When Galbraith learned that Rowan's application had been rejected by the club's membership board, he announced his intention to resign from the U. N. confidence vote in the U. S. Congress.

Democratic presidents have had over the years dependable Southern support for their foreign policies. But the legislatures of South Carolina and Mississippi this week resolved the Congress should reject the bond proposal. Kennedy may argue that without the bond loan the United Nations is likely to go out of business.

From his opponents on that issue will come a roaring chorus: So what!

some people think this is the year's best-looking grille...

some people think this is the best-looking rear...

Mercury Slides When JFK Shows Up On The Hill

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — I'll leave it to my more analytical colleagues to ascertain from President Kennedy's recent State of the Union message just what the state of the union is.

Being a person of limited range and thin blood, I was more concerned about the state of the weather.

Through meteorological coincidence, it seems that each time Kennedy makes an appearance on Capitol Hill, the bottom drops out of the thermometer.

Few who survived the experience are likely to forget the blizzard that preceded his inauguration in the Capitol plaza last January.

It was Jack Kennedy who took the oath of office, but the weatherman must have thought we were inaugurating Jack Frost.

The mercury did another disappearing act a few days later when Kennedy returned to the Capitol to address a joint session of Congress. And the same thing happened Thursday when he ascended the hill for his 1962 State of the Union speech.

Those of us who couldn't get our cars started in the near zero temperature are thankful that these occasions usually are limited to one per year.

Not even the most partisan of Republicans could rationally blame the cold wave on the President. But some of the outside chill seemed to have penetrated into the House chamber, at least in the area where the GOP lawmakers were seated.

I noted that they responded to a number of Kennedy's legislative proposals by sitting on their hands. Presumably they had forgotten to wear gloves and were trying to keep their pinkies warm.

On the Democratic side, the air was more balmy. Congressmen in that area kept their corpuscles moving by beating their palms together.

At one point I was startled to see Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., trying to hold hands with Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M. A second look disclosed that Kerr was playfully attempting to keep Anderson from applauding the President's medical care proposal.

Most listeners admired the style of Kennedy's speech even if they didn't agree with all of its contents. As far as I could tell by checking the written text, he only made one bobble.

That came on a line reading that the right to vote "should no longer be arbitrarily denied through such iniquitous local de-

Cylindrical Cells Tame Prison's Real 'Bad Boys'

GALLATIN, Mo. (UPI) — Temperamental prisoners in this community's 73-year-old jail are held in a rotating cylinder which contains eight pie-shaped cells and which must be turned by hand to let them out.

Sheriff S. L. Houghton said the facilities, which were compared in recent newspaper editorials with the rack, the screw and other devices of the Dark Ages, work wonders on the infrequent occasions when he has to make use of them.

"We had some boys down here from Kansas City recently," he said. "They thought they were pretty tough customers and they wanted to show it, but 48 hours in there cured them and after that we got along just fine."

Houghton explained that the cylindrical unit turns, by hand, on a central pier, with the cells moving on a track. To remove a man from a cell, its door must be lined up with a second door, opening into the jail's bull pen.

Houghton said the operation takes about one minute. "It's pretty heavy turning," he said, "but one man can do it."

Houghton, now in his second term as sheriff, said that never during his tenure has there been any trouble with the mechanism or any delay in getting a man out.

Incarceration in the cylinder does not amount to solitary confinement, because walls are made of steel slats, with spaces between them. Inmates can talk with each other, with jailers and with other prisoners held in the bull pen.

"The worst features," the sheriff said, "are the lack of light and the lack of sanitation facilities. Some light enters between the slats but the cells have no lights of their own and no windows. There are no toilets and the men have to be released to use toilets in the main part of the jail."

The rotating cells also are hard to heat in winter, he said. Houghton agrees with those who believe Davies County should build a new jail, a proposal opposed by some residents who value the rotating jail as a landmark and a curiosity.

Until a new jail is built, the sheriff said, "there are times when there is no choice but to use the cells (in the rotating jail). The rest of the jail has no place in which troublesome prisoners can be held."

Texas February Draft Call Down

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Selective Service Headquarters announced today a February draft quota of 296 men, down from January's 440.

Next month's call is the Texas share of a national draft of 8,000 men, all for the Army. Local boards in Texas were also told to send 1,760 men for pre-induction physical and mental examinations, compared to 4,000 in January.

The February quota will be

Estimated Tax Returns Due

DALLAS (SpI) —Deadline for paying the final installment on estimated federal income tax returns for 1961 is Monday, Ellis Campbell, Jr., Director of Internal Revenue Service, reminded taxpayers today.

"If you have previously filed an estimated return and events occurring in the last quarter of 1961 indicate that your income will be substantially more or less than your original estimate, you should file an amended declaration on January 15," he said.

This declaration, he added, should be marked "amended" and file with the District Director of Internal Revenue in Dallas. A blank amended declaration is printed on the back of the notice of payment due which the taxpayer received by mail.

The IRS representative said an original declaration of estimated tax for the year 1961 should be filed by tomorrow on Form 1040ES by taxpayers who first became liable for filing an estimate during the fourth quarter of 1961.

He continued: "There's one exception to these rules. If the taxpayer finds it necessary to file an amended declaration on Jan. 15, or if he becomes liable for filing a declaration for the first time by tomorrow, he need not file or pay on that date if he files his final return for 1961 and pays in full the balance Feb. 1."

BLUES COMBO — Sidney Poitier and Paul Newman play sardemen in a jazz "combo" playing at a Paris "cave" in "Paris Blues," scheduled for a three-day run at the Capri theatre starting Thursday. Joanne Woodward co-stars, with Louis Armstrong and Diahann Carroll in featured roles.

Video Spoils 'Star' System For Filmland

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Purposely or not, television has wrecked the movies' cherished star system, just as it has raised havoc with other filmland sacred cows.

Liz Says She's Rarely Happier Than Right Now

By HENRY GRIS

ROME (UPI) — Before this reporter set out from Hollywood, Calif., for an 8,000-mile flight to Hollywood-on-the-Tiber to talk to the movies' latest Cleopatra—Elizabeth Taylor — he was warned to be disappointed.

"Miss Taylor," a 20th Century Fox studio executive explained, "is not available for press interviews. And the sets of the production are closed to visitors."

But somehow I found myself on the throne room set of the much-plagued film epic "Cleopatra." And somehow Miss Taylor was there.

"I have rarely been happier," Miss Taylor said. A radiant smile, enhanced by her silver-rimmed eye makeup for her part as the Egyptian siren, bore out her statement.

"Also," Miss Taylor added, "I've rarely felt better." The dark-haired star's curves were entrancingly displayed in a glove-tight gown woven of pure gold and silver strands. She appeared vibrant and in perfect health.

"I enjoy making this picture," Miss Taylor said. "I have a wonderful director whom we all love. I have no complaints with the exception of possibly one."

She pointed to a scar on her neck, left by an operation during her skirmish with death in a London hospital last winter.

Although she has had plastic surgery, the scar still is very much in evidence and may remain visible even after more surgery scheduled for after the completion of "Cleopatra."

"I'll probably keep it," Miss Taylor said with a smile. "I've learned to love it. But it better stop itching. It itches under makeup and without. Why? My doctor tells me because the skin is contracting as the old wound is healing. It has taken a long, long time, though."

Producer Walter Wanger chimed in: "We told her to keep it."

To Wanger, dapper, veteran Hollywood moviemaker who seems to have emerged unscathed from the trials and tribulations of the "Cleopatra" venture, Miss Taylor's scar is a wound she received on the field of battle.

Negro Comic Scores By Spoofing Both Sides On Integration Issue

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A young man named Dick Gregory has become the nation's first major Negro night club comedian by finding humor on both sides of the touchy integration problem.

His secret is that he is gentle, shows taste, bears no bitterness—and needles all groups, North as well as South, Negro as well as white, and himself above all. He is proud of the fact that when he played his first big engagement—to a convention of Southerners—in Chicago, one of his audience approached him after the show, "gave me a $100 bill and said, with tears in his eyes, 'You got the answer to our problem in the South.'"

And he is equally proud that a Negro customer once told him after listening to him, "It's the greatest thing—I'm not as bitter as I used to be."

Here are some sample lines of the 29-year-old performer, who was born in St. Louis and lives in Chicago.

—"I sat at a lunch counter for nine months. When they finally integrated and I saw the menu, they didn't have what I wanted."

—"Segregation isn't all bad. Have you ever heard of a wreck where the people in the back of the bus got hurt?"

—"There's no difference between the North and the South. In the South they don't care how close I get as long as I don't get too big, and in the North they don't care how big I get as long as I don't get too close."

—"When I get drunk, I think I'm Polish. One night I got so drunk I moved out of my own neighborhood."

Gregory, who played the famed Crescendo club here has been called "the Negro Mort Sahl."

Gregory, whose humor has been compared by admirers to that of Will Rogers, was born in poverty and-reared on relief. His parents separated, and he recalls his mother would say, "We are not poor, just broke. There's a difference."

A track star at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Ill., where he majored in business administration, he became the third best half-miler in the country. He served two years in the army, and he and his wife have two daughters.

Now a successful recording star for Colpix as well, the mustachioed performer sat in the P.J.'s club and said:

"I guess I started talking about people ever since I shined shoes in St. Louis taverns. I'd just come home and talk about it, I was 5."

Other Gregorian samples not dealing with the race issue: "I'm glad the New York police have cut the working week down to 40 hours. Now, if they can just get the hoodlums to keep the same hours."

"Wouldn't it be funny if it was the interpreters who hate us and not the Russian leaders?"

"They offered me a part in a western. I turned it down because I know the first time they make a Negro western, the Indians gonna win."

Allergy Note

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Claire Bloom was forced to get first aid on the set of "The Chapman Report" because of her long scene with a little terrier.

It wasn't that she was bitten but it turned out she is allergic to dogs. She was given an injection of anti-histamine to relieve her.

U.S. Turns Down Cuba Co-Existence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States rejected Saturday a Brazilian proposal that the nations of the Western Hemisphere consider adopting a code of co-existence with Cuba.
A State Department spokesman pointed out that the members of the Organization of American States (OAS) are bound by its charter and the treaty of Rio de Janeiro to carry on "continued and positive resistance to any totalitarian ideology."

Doctors Declare 'Cigarette Cough' Can Be Very Real

CHICAGO (UPI)—There really is such a thing as "cigarette cough," three physicians reported today.
However, the Philadelphia doctors said the "similarity in cough patterns between cigar and pipe smokers suggests that tobacco smoke in general, rather than cigarette smoke alone, causes cough."
Drs. Katharine R. Boucot, Davis A. Cooper and William Laiss published their findings in the archives of Environmental Health, published by the American Medical Association.
Bronchial irritation," they said, "seems to be proportionate to the volume of smoke bathing the tracheobronchial tree. The higher proportion of inhalers among cigarette smokers is probably responsible for the impression that cigarette smoke is more irritating than that from cigars or pipes."

Preliminary results of a study of chronic cough among 6,137 men 45 years of age or older showed, they said:
The prevalence of cough among older male smokers was 31.5 per cent, compared with 13 per cent for the non-smokers.
Cough increased with increasing age to a rate of 28.6 per cent for non-smokers and 39.4 per cent for smokers.
Cough rates increased with increasing amounts and duration of smoking for all smoking categories—cigarettes, pipes and cigars.
The physicians said the probability that chronic cough is a factor in the development of emphysema, a serious lung condition affecting an estimated 10 million persons in the United States, enhanced the importance of exploring the association between smoking and coughing.

Bob Wilhelm Decisions Cline In Lighthouse Bout

Martin Wins Memorial Trophy; Friend Gets Sportsman Award

By DICK RABE
Daily News Sports Editor

Bobby Wilhelm moved up a division Saturday night by winning his lighthweight bout with Jerry Cline, Liberal, Kans., in one of the featured bouts in the finals of the District Golden Gloves competition at the Optimist Club boy's building.

Wilhelm, who is currently the middleweight title-holder in Texas and former welterweight title-holder, rounded out his fist career with a decision over his Kansas opponent. The popular Borger fighter countered with rights and lefts throughout the fight and seemed to toy with his opponent from start to finish.

Wilhelm was given a rousing ovation at the conclusion of the bout, which also concluded his ring career.

Pampa garnered seven titles in the final night of boxing, four in the high school and three in the open division.

In one of the most exciting bouts on the card, Johnny Ironmonger, Pampa, knocked out Joe Janaway, Borger, in 1:50 of the second round with a vicious left uppercut to the jaw which sent his opponent reeling to the canvas and out for the count.

Ironmonger set up the kayo with a solid punching attack which left his opponent groggy against the ropes. The Pampa boxer then tossed his protective mouthpiece into the overflow crowd and proceeded to send his opponent into dreamland.

The final bout of the evening also provided the crowd with some rousing action when Bill Beck, Liberal, Kans., and runner-up in the heavyweight division last year, decked popular Roy Treat, Pampa, in 1:29 of the first round for the count.

Beck set up the tell-tale blow with a vicious attack to the face which left the Pampa boy reeling against the ropes. Beck then smashed on continuously until Treat was unable to continue, giving the win to Beck by virtue of a knockout.

Dickie Wills was featured in another top bout on the card, Wills and Dean Henderson, Tri-City, fought on even terms for the first two rounds and then Wills lowered the boom in the final round with a rough attack which gained him the decision.

Paul Edwards, Perryton won a popular decision over Cody West, Borger in the opening bout in the open division. Edwards sewed it up with a solid right to the jaw in the third round which gave him the decision.

Arthur Friend, Borger was awarded the Sportsman trophy and Gail Martin, Pampa won the Memorial Trophy. The trophies were awarded by Radio Station KPND and KHHH.

Trophies also were awarded to the winners and the runners-up in the high school division. Silver and gold belts were awarded to the winners and runners-up in the open class.

Anyone May Enter Crosby Golf Meet

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Pros and duffers alike ought to bring a favorite pitchin' iron to Bing Crosby's golfing clambake to swing away in memory of a general Scot, Peter Hay.

The Peter Hay Memorial hole-in-one tournament is being staged on the short nine-hole course bearing his name near the Del Monte Lodge. The week-long affair is open to everyone, even the lowly duffer, who has a contribution of $1 or more.

Hay died last spring of cancer at the age of 76, ending a pro career that started in this "golf capital of the world" in 1918. At the time of his death, he was head pro at Pebble Beach course and official starter for Bing's tournament.

The Crosby, opening Thursday, historically features changing weather that make fair and foul gear ranging from rain umbrellas to sunglasses necessary for human comfort. Addition of a golf stick could make anyone with knack and luck for a perfect shot return home with riches and glory.

"It looks like there are enough prizes for all with a club in their hands," says publicist Gwenn Graham. "There's about $10,000 worth which have been donated."

The top reward is a trip for two by air for a week's stay at a swank hotel in Hollywood Beach, Fla. Other prizes include a set of car tires, 1,000 pounds of coffee, razors, movie cameras, fishing rods and, naturally, a variety of golf equipment.

Mrs. Graham reports the $1 contributions will help establish the Peter Hay Memorial physical therapy department at the new community hospital. The $2.5 million hospital is scheduled for completion by April on nearby Carmel Hill.

In his youth, Hay was a caddy at the Royal Aberdeen Golf Club in his native Scotland. He made a sentimental journey to Aberdeen in 1959 but became ill upon his return, missing the Crosby for the first time last year.

A towering and dignified gentleman with a strong Scottish accent, Hay ruled with a firm hand at tournaments. Once, when a star pro threatened to quit because his ball kept toppling from the tee in a storm, Hay pressured him to action by bluntly advising that "there's nothing in the rules that says you have to tee up the ball."

Baylor Sheds Army Uniform For Cage Outfit in Star Cage Game

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers takes off his Army uniform to join the glamor-guys of the National Basketball Association Tuesday in the league's 12th annual All-Star game.

Baylor, who entered the Army Jan. 2 with a 38-point scoring average that was second only to Wilt Chamberlain's 48.6, will get a 48-hour pass from Fort Lewis, Wash., and fly to St. Louis to play in his fourth All-Star classic.

Despite the six-foot-five Baylor's presence in the West lineup, the East All-Stars were a slight favorite to win the game which was expected to draw a sellout crowd of nearly 15,000 at the St. Louis Arena.

The East, which will alternate Chamberlain and Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics at center, should have too much rebounding strength in this clash between basketball's greatest shooters and playmakers.

Of the 11 All-Star games that have been played, the East has won seven. The West scored its fourth victory in the series, 153-131, last year at Syracuse, N.Y.

Baylor was the only unanimous choice of the writers and broadcasters whose votes decided the five starters on each team.

Baylor will start in the forecourt with Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks, rookie Walt Bellamy of the Chicago Packers will be at center, and Oscar Robertson of

Dietzel Popular Figure On Army Campus After Leaving The Tigers

NEW YORK (NEA) — For the past three autumns a visitor to the United States Military Academy got the idea that the tremendous enthusiasm necessary for winning football did not extend much beyond the cheering section.

Paul F. Dietzel, the new head man, will change that quicker than you can say West Point.

Dietzel, the supersalesman, will sell Army football to players, the Cadet Corps, the Pentagon, the general public and to bright prospects and their parents.

Dietzel, 35, a handsome Ohioan who will have to wear an arm band to be distinguished from a plebe, is a tremendous organizer and recruiter. A keen student of the game, he learned how to coach under such distinguished professors as Col. Earl H. Blaik, Sid Gilman and Bear Bryant.

Dietzel is a dedicated football man, never wanted to be anything but a coach.

The Miami (Ohio) alum had a ton of desire when he took his first job as head man at Louisiana State seven years ago. He has even more drive now because he wanted the testing task on the Plain more than anything else. Proof of this is that he gave up a lot of fringe benefits in Baton Rouge, where he was set for years, to return to the Point.

Not the least of Dietzel's qualifications for his new command is that he knows his way around the Reservation, having served two previous terms there. Col. Red Blaik, whom Paul assisted, is the first to testify that the grown-up All-America Boy is as sound as the Chase National Bank on the field with the sincere charm of the used-car peddler off it.

Dietzel also knows the type of boy required at the Military Academy. He should, he's one of that type himself.

Paul may not be able to bring in the likes of Billy Cannon and Earl Gros, but he has the entire nation as a field of operation, and you can bet that he'll come up with a full share of Pete Dawkins and Bob Andersons. The

Spoonmore New Lubbock Coach

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Carl Spoonmore, coach of Albany's Class A state high school football champions, was named Saturday as coach of Tom S. Lubbock High School on a three-year contract.

Spoonmore, 35, will receive an annual salary of $9,200 at the Class AAAA school. He has coached five years at Albany, Class A champions in 1960 and 1961, Albany finished the 1961 season with a 29-game winning streak.

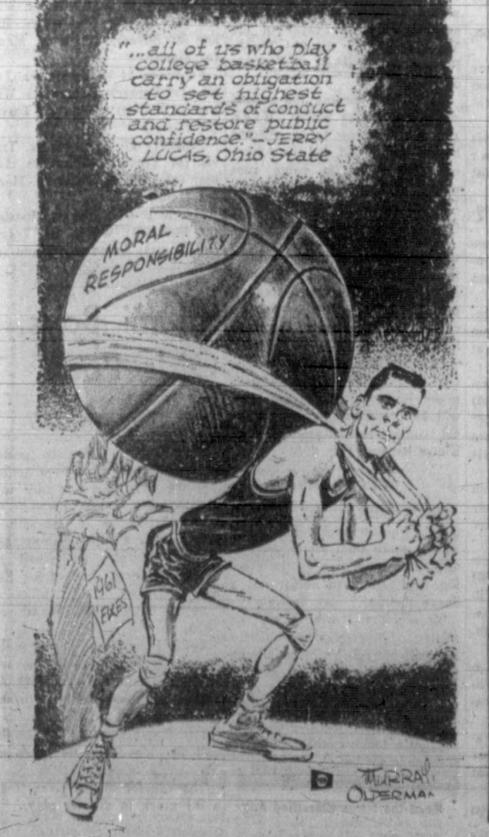

At Albany, Spoonmore had a record of 59-6. His overall record in nine years of high school coaching was 87-19. He previously coached one year at McGregor and three years at Carrizo Springs.

Spoonmore was selected by his fellow high school coaches to coach the North all-stars in the North-South all-star game to be played in Lubbock next Aug. 11 as part of the annual coaching school.

Luke Thomas, Spoonmore's line coach at Albany, will accompany Spoonmore in moving to Tom S. Lubbock High School.

Spoonmore will succeed J. O. (Buddy) Brothers, who resigned last month after four years as coach. Spoonmore was selected over 25 other candidates who applied for the job.

BURDEN OF YOUTH

Bowling Prize Money Is Bigger Each Year In Various Tournaments

CHICAGO (NEA) — Every year the money in bowling gets bigger and bigger, but there's always that proverbial insect in the unguent. The fly in the ointment is that competition gets tougher and tougher as the country's fastest-growing participation sport burgeons into a get-rich-quick scheme for the better performers.

The latest rise in bowling's bull market finds half a million dollars in prize money up for grabs on the Professional Bowlers Association 1962 winter circuit. All the top legions will compete in the 16-city tour, starting in Chicago Dec. 9-11 and winding up in Las Vegas, Nev., April 25-28.

Ray Bluth, a master strategist and one of the most acute students of the sport summed up the situation from the bowlers' standpoint.

"A few years ago an average between 200 and 205 would win money on a tour like this," he said. "Now there are so many good bowlers coming along and conditions have improved so greatly it takes at least 212 to get in the money at all."

Ray will be in there trying, of course, along with other lane leaders such as Don Carter, Dick Weber, Pat Patterson and other PBA standouts. In every one of the tournaments except three the field will be limited to 144 rollers. In Puerto Rico a select field of 14 will compete. In Albany, N.Y., and Las Vegas there will be 192 competitors.

Every tournament will be carried on coast-to-coast television. The Puerto Rico and Chicago matches will be taped and aired Jan. 6 and 13, respectively. Starting Jan. 24, the matches will be seen live on the television screen on successive Saturdays from Albany, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Akron, Cleveland, Winston-Salem, Birmingham, Memphis, Houston, San Antonio, Oklahoma City, St. Louis, San Jose, Calif., and Las Vegas.

Only PBA members may compete on the tour. To be a PBA member a bowler must roll in at least three tournaments, sanctioned by the organization, a year. They are rated according to points scored. If there are more than the allowed number of entrants for any stop on the tour, those with the lowest PBA ratings will be dropped.

The first two days of each tournament, all the bowlers roll 24 games. The top 48 on pinfall then play six additional games and the field is cut to 16 with the highest scores. These 16 play off, head-to-head, in a blind draw, for three games.

The four bowlers with the highest pinfall then roll two games each, head-to-head in the semifinals, with the winners fighting it out in two games on total pin fall. This method insures close competition in the semifinals and finals, which will be on the air for an hour and a half.

There will be prize money for 32 bowlers each week. The winners can take home as much as $7,500 from Las Vegas to as little as $4,000 from Puerto Rico and Chicago. Everywhere else the top prize will be $5,000, which isn't a bad pickup even for guys like Carter, Weber and Bluth, whose take-home pay runs high into five figures in a bad year and six when the pins fall right.

Not bad for a sport that once had to be played almost surreptitiously and in which a box of nickel cherokees used to be a shopping prize.

NCAA Will Refer All AAU Riffs

CHICAGO (UPI) — The NCAA Convention Saturday authorized its policy-making council to refer the dispute with the AAU over control of federations in basketball, track and gymnastics to the federal government in an effort to find the best solution of "this untenable situation."

The convention by unanimous vote approved a resolution proposed by the NCAA-AAU relations committee pointing out efforts to reorganize amateur athletics administration and what it said were unavailing efforts.

The convention approved recommendations and regulations to combat the menace of gambling and bribery, the program for cooperation by the colleges in the President's physical fitness program, and nearly all changes in eligibility requirements.

Phillips, Como In Wrestling Event

Tommy Phillips and Johnny Como will battle in the main event on the weekly wrestling card at the Top O' Texas Sports Arena Monday night starting at 8 p.m.

The match will be for the best two out of three falls with no time limit. It will be a fight to the finish.

In the semi-final events, Killer Kowalski will battle Phillips and Black Jack Daniels will meet Como.

Both semi-final bouts will be one fall with a 30-minute time limit.

M. O. Fuller is the promoter.

GREEN SPAHN
HANOVER, N. H. (NEA) — Dartmouth has a Spahn just as important to the Big Green as the veteran Warren is to the Milwaukee Braves.

He is Stephen Spahn, a junior with basketball control equivalent to Warren's aim.

"Steve has the best long shot I've seen among Dartmouth players in 11 years," says Coach Doggie Julian.

A six-foot-one honor student, Spahn of Great Neck, N.Y., is the son of Moe Spahn, former City College of New York ace.

Road Maid, Chall Charge One-Two Finishers In Race

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Road Maid and Chall Charge, coupled as an entry, finished one-two Saturday in the featured Marriage Purse race at Fair Grounds, the first successful day of racing here after extreme freezing temperatures forced a three-day layoff.

As an entry of Thomas Falkner and the estate of Doss Briggs, Road Maid and Chall Charge exchanged leads during the stretch with Road Maid finally emerging with a 1/4 margin at the end of the six furlong race.

Souchak Is Leader In Golf Meet

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Battling high winds and a balky putter with equal success, burly Mike Souchak latched onto a one-stroke lead at the end of the third round of the San Diego Open Golf Tournament Saturday with a 53-hole score of 207.

The big man from Grossinger, N.Y., by way of North Carolina, used his power with the woods off the tees and fairways to sneak into the lead from a closely bunched field. There are five men within one stroke of him and 11 within three strokes.

Souchak had a three-under-par 68, best round of the day on the Stardust course dampened by night-long rains. He had earlier rounds of 67 and 72.

There is a traffic jam in second place involving five men, each with 208, including second-round leader Bob Goaly, who slipped to a two-over-par 73 Saturday. The others are Gary Player, Jay Hebert, Art Wall and Johnny Pott.

Harvesters Fall Victims Before Bulldogs, 62-60

IN LINE OF DUTY—This scene could come straight from some historical movie—but it doesn't. These are mounted policemen lined up beyond a row of trees near Rome's Olympic Stadium. Like equestrian statues, they stand guard at important soccer matches, where riots are bred from fist fights among fans. That's when the police go into action.

Sportsmen's Clubs To Hear Kimball

AUSTIN (UPI)—Thomas L. Kimball, Washington, executive director of the National Wildlife Federation, will speak Jan. 20 at the annual meeting of Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas, the organization announced Saturday.

The federal is composed of clubs such as SCOT in 49 states and the District of Columbia.

Kimball recently stressed the problems of national and state agencies to preserve outdoor areas in the face of increasing leisure time available to Americans, SCOT said.

Locals Lose Out In Last Few Seconds Of Contest

By DICK RABE
Daily News Sports Editor

BORGER—They say that lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place.

Well, maybe not but it struck down the Pampa Harvesters for the second time in a row Friday night, as the Borger Bulldogs pulled off a last-gap field goal to defeat the local cagers, 62-60, with about 15 seconds remaining on the clock.

Last Tuesday, the Harvesters lost a thriller to Lubbock's Westerner's in the last four seconds of play, 63-61.

Friday night's loss was a real heartbreaker for the local cagers, who had fought back in the last couple of minutes of play to draw even and then go ahead on Bob Neslage's field goal with 2:55 left on the scoreboard clock. Wayne Kreis then added a charity toss to give the Harvesters a 60-58 margin.

Borger came right back, however to tie it up and then sewed it up with the last - ditch field goal by Joe Castleberry in the waning seconds of play to hand the Harvesters their third loss of the year in loop play. They have won one.

The Harvesters started off on the wrong foot by trailing at the end of the first period, 18-15. It was the same story in the second quarter up until Randy Matson poured in a two - pointer with 2:45 to go in the quarter to tie it up at 28-26.

With the Harvesters still two points down at 30-28, Pampa exploded with five straight points to take a 33-30 lead at the half.

It was the same story in the third period, with the Bulldogs holding a 49-44 lead at the end of the period.

Then came the final period when Pampa made their bid, held it for a moment and then saw their victory hopes spoiled in the closing seconds of play for the second-time in as many games.

Gail Simpson lead the Bulldogs from the floor with 19 points. Wayne Kreis and Neslage led the locals in the scoring department with 16 points each. Kreis maintained his thin lead in individual scoring for the Harvesters in loop play over Matson, who tallied 13 points for his night's effort. Kreis has bucketed 73 points in four games in district while Matson has scored 67 points during the same period of time.

Neslage now has scored 40 points in the last three loop contests and seems to be improving with each game played. The Harvesters hit 14 out of 22 charity throws for a .620 average, with Kreis hitting six of the free throws.

The Shockers also had a rough time of it, losing 62-52 to the Bull Pups.

Donnie Ayres had 20 and Kenney Hebert and Ricky Stewart-11 each to lead the losers. Larry Clifton had 10 points to help the locals from the floor.

The loss was the Shockers second of the year and only their first in district play. They have won 14 on the season and three in loop play.

The Harvesters and Shockers will host Monterey Tuesday in their next cage outing.

Cook Named Texas Loop Top Player

DALLAS (UPI) — Cliff Cook, Indianapolis third baseman who was voted the American Association's most valuable player last season, Saturday was named Texas Minor League Player of the Year for 1961 by the Old Timers Professional Baseball Association of North Texas.

Cook, who became the second successive Dallas Sunset High Product in a row to be selected by the association, led the American Association in home runs with 32 and in runs batted in with 119 and was voted on the Class AAA league's all-star team.

Cook, a Cincinnati farm hand who went from high school direct to the pro ranks, has hit 180 home runs in his seven seasons as a pro. Last year, the association chose Carl Warwick as its minor league honoree.

Cook and Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers, announced earlier as major league player of the year, will be presented plaques at the old timers second annual mid-winter banquet Feb. 8.

TOUGH TWIST

NEW YORK (NEA) — Dartmouth quarterback Bill King, who is more than pretty good at turning and twisting on the playing field, came to defeat on a dance floor.

"It was my 21st birthday," he related. "My folks were here from Richmond, Va., and coach Bob Blackman gave me permission to celebrate at a night club. But all the band played was The Twist."

"That's tougher than going 60 minutes in football."

West Rated Favorite In Pro Bowl Tilt Over East

United Press International
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The kind of game—a lot of coaches and fans dream about will be played Sunday in Memorial Coliseum when all-stars of the National Football League Eastern and Western Conferences meet in the 12th annual Pro Bowl.

The West is rated a 6½-point favorite in Las Vegas, Nev., betting marts and a 3-point favorite locally. The Westerners have a 7-4 edge in this series.

There is a somewhat new element in the game. The East squad has eight men from the New York Giants and they are still sparring from a 37-0 skunking by the Green Bay Packers in the NFL championship game Dec. 31.

Green Bay has eight men on the West squad so a nucleus for vengeance by the Giants is present.

Giants on the East squad are: Y. A. Tittle, Del Shofner, Alex Webster, Andy Robustelli, Sam Huff, Erich Barnes, Jim Patton and Jim Katcavage.

Packers on the west squad are: Bart Starr, Jim Taylor, Bill Foster, Jess Whittenton, Forrest Gregg, Henry Jordan, Max McGee, and Jim Ringo.

And each squad also has the cream of the rest of the NFL crop.

Starr, in addition to tossing to team mate McGee, will be aiming at such targets as Ray Berry of the Baltimore Colts, Jim Phillips of the Los Angeles Rams, Jim Gibbons of the Detroit Lions, and Mike Ditka, NFL rookie of the year from the Chicago Bears.

West coach Norma Van Brocklin named Starr to a starting backfield which includes Jon Arnett of the Rams, Lenny Moore of the Colts, and his team mate Taylor at Fullback.

East coach Allie Sherman will go with a starting backfield of quarterback Y. A. Tittle, his own bald eagle, "Mr. Fullback" Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns, and halfbacks Don Perkins of the Dallas Cowboys and Tommy McDonald of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Milt Plum of the Cleveland Browns, the top-rated NFL passer for the past two seasons, is the East's No. 2 quarterback.

The West has a rather well-known quarterback in reserve — Johnny Unitas of the Colts. A crowd of 60,000 is expected by the sponsoring Los Angeles if the weather is good. The game starts at 1 p.m. PST and will be televised nationally (NBC) with a local blackout.

Klosterman Is Chief Scout For Texans

DALLAS (UPI) — Don Klosterman, the man credited with much of the success of the San Diego Chargers, was named Saturday as chief talent scout for the Dallas Texans.

Klosterman, who made his pro football debut in 1952 as a quarterback with the old Dallas Texans, will head the American Football League team's player procurement program. He replaces Will Walls, who resigned a week ago.

Texas general manager Jack Steadman commented "We've hired the best man in the country as far as we're concerned."

Klosterman went on from the old Texans to several years of Canadian football before a skiing accident ended his playing career.

He served as chief scout for the Chargers and was responsible for the signing of AFL rookie-of-the-year Earl Faison, as well as Ernie Lad, the 310-pound defensive tackle of the Chargers, and numerous other young players on the San Diego roster.

Cowboys Ink Two Steers

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys added more home state flavor to their National Football League team Saturday by signing University of Texas end Bob Moses and tackle Don Talbert.

The two Cotton Bowl stars became the 22nd and 23rd rookies to sign with the Cowboys. Dallas had drafted Talbert last year as a future choice and Moses this year.

Talbert, 6-5 and 215 pounds, will be tried at defensive end. Moses, 6-3 and 200 pounds, will be used at offensive tight end. Both players also had been drafted by the Houston Oilers of the American Football League.

The Cowboys said the signings give the NFL team nine players who have played high school or college football, or both, in Texas.

Elkins Looking Up To Newer Heights

United Press International
HOUSTON (UPI) — Dexter Elkins, who barely missed the world's indoor pole vault record Friday night, let it be known Saturday he intends to keep on trying at that record, and he stands a good chance of making it.

Elkins, the Southern Methodist University senior, cleared the pole vault at 15 feet, 6½ inches for his best vault ever to win the event hands down in the first Bluebonnet invitational indoors track meet.

The world record is 15 feet, 9½ inches set by Don Bragg in 1959. Elkins tried it at 15 feet, 10½ inches three times Friday night and the last time he missed it by a light brush of his chest.

But the lithe SMU athlete said he has set no goals of how high he hopes to vault.

"I just hope that I can feel after this, my last year in college, that I put everything I had into it and did the best that I was capable of doing," he said.

Friday night's performance was Elkins' greatest vault in the Southwest Conference champion's career, exceeding his previous high of 15 feet, 4 inches set only last week in the San Antonio indoor meet.

"I checked last week and found there had been 12 vaulters to clear the 15 feet, 4 inch mark," Elkins said. "I believe there are only four or five who have cleared 15, 6½."

Bragg has cleared that 15-9½ and also 15-0½, the late Bob Gutowski has hit 15-9½ and 15-8½, Cornelius Warmerdam has cleared 15-8½, J. D. Martin of Oklahoma has also hit 15-9½ and George Davis of Oklahoma State last year posted a 15-10½. All of these but Bragg's indoor mark, however, were made outdoors.

Bragg also has a 15-7 indoors, Warmerdam 15-8½ and 15-7¼ and Martin a 15-7½ indoors.

Elkins, who was the unanimous choice as the Bluebonnet meet's outstanding athlete Friday night, follows a rather unorthodox training routine.

"I play golf, handball, tennis and swim some," he grinned. "I also play basketball and table tennis — anything but vault. I believe this training schedule has helped me."

He said he had done very little vaulting since October — before last week's meet in San Antonio — mainly because he injured an ankle then.

After graduating from high school in Dallas, Elkins went to Southern California, but returned to SMU after a year. He was granted a scholastic scholarship and did not get on a full track scholarship until he won the southwest conference pole vault as a sophomore.

Elkins is studying pre-med and social sciences at SMU. He says he plans to enter the ministry, medicine or maybe go into graduate school to work on a masters degree after he graduates in June.

In addition to Elkins' outstanding performance Friday night, two other vaulters cleared the bar at 15 feet, 4 inches. They are Fred Hansen of Rice University and John Penel of Northeast Louisiana.

Baugh Will Be Guest At Dinner

WICHITA FALLS (UPI) — Bulldog Turner, Sammy Baugh and Dick Todd will be among guests at a Football Champions Appreciation Day dinner next Saturday in Wichita Falls, it was announced Saturday.

Kern Tipton, dean of Southwest Conference football announcers, will serve as master of ceremonies and Paul Hornung, most valuable player in the National Football League, will be the main speaker.

Some 25 pro football stars are expected to attend the dinner.

Turner gained stardom at Hardin-Simmons and later was a star lineman for the Chicago Bears. He has been named coach of the New York Titans to succeed Baugh, an all-time great passer at Texas Christian University and the Washington Redskins.

Todd was a star at Texas A&M and later an outstanding halfback for the Washington Redskins.

The dinner will honor state high school football champions plus district champions in the Wichita Falls area.

South Carolina Wins Cage Tilt

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI) — Scotti Ward popped in two free throws with eight seconds to play Saturday and Ronnie Collins stole the ensuing pass-in to give South Carolina a 62-56 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball win over North Carolina State.

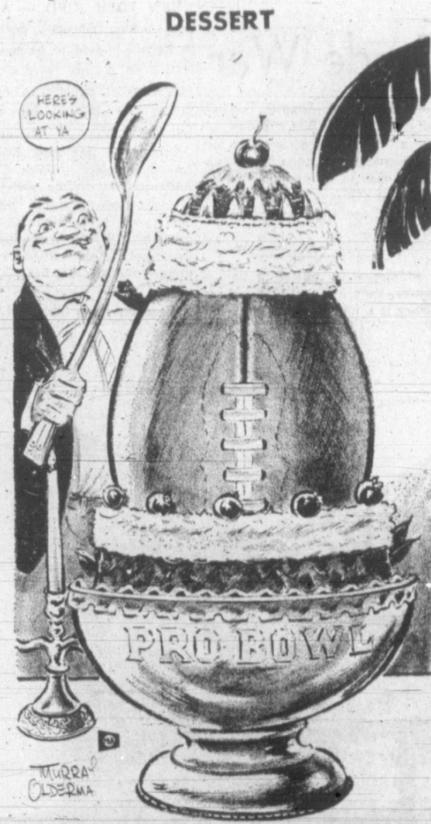

The Wolfpack's Russ Marve scored a layup with 10 seconds to play to move North Carolina State to within two points, 58-56, but Dan Wherry fouled Ward in an effort to steal the pass-in under the State basket.

HEAR! HEAR!
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (NEA) — The electronic age has caught up with the great out-of-doors.

For some time varmint hunters have been using portable phonographs and recorded crow and coyote calls to lure their prey. Fishermen have started using electronic fish finders to locate schools of fish. Now hunters are using hearing aids to help them stalk deer. Wardens are carrying tiny amplifiers to help them locate poachers.

So far, the deer have not started using hearing aids.

NCAA Cracking Down On Bribery Cage Cases At Annual Meeting

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) took a first step toward a crackdown to prevent more bribery cases of athletes, but refused for a second straight year to approve a national letter of intent for prospective athletes.

The constitutional amendment, affecting the program against gambling and bribery, passed by only one vote. It will ban college athletes from organized basketball competition outside the regular season under penalty of permanent ineligibility.

There were objections to the proposal from Puerto Rican delegates, who said it would drastically affect their program. However, the measure passed by a 137-68 margin. Because it was a constitutional amendment, it required a two-thirds majority, or 136 votes.

The proposal on the national letter of intent, under which each member would be permitted to pre-register up to 35 prospective athletes on or after June 15 annually, came up in two forms.

First it failed to pass as a constitutional amendment, falling short of the necessary two-thirds majority with a vote of 131-68. The NCAA Council, supporting the proposal, then attempted to withdraw the same measure as an amendment to the law which required only simple majority for passage.

But the convention refused to permit withdrawal and instead voted overwhelmingly, 146-45, in favor of a motion to table the proposal. A similar proposal was tabled last year, but the entire proposition had far less support in 1961, and there were indications quickly that it would be brought up again next year.

A proposal by Notre Dame to require rules committees in individual sports to hold hearings and affirm or reverse decisions on which there were dispute interpretations was rejected by a wide margin.

The Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president of Notre Dame, explained the proposal, which stemmed from Notre Dame's 17-15 win over Syracuse Nov. 18 on a field goal kicked after time had run out. The second chance was awarded because of a roughing the kicker penalty.

Caldwell, Jofre Will Battle For Bantamweight Crown On Thursday

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — The largest boxing crowd in South American history, more than 20,000, is expected at Thursday night's fight for the undisputed world bantamweight crown between unbeaten co-champions Johnny Caldwell of Ireland and Eder Jofre of Brazil.

Such a crowd in the concrete Ibirapuera Stadium here would exceed the 14,000 which attended the Pascual Perez-Ramon Arias flyweight title match at Caracas, Venezuela, on April 19, 1958.

However, Thursday's lower ticket prices will make the expected gate of $90,000 less than the $135,000 drawn by Perez and Arias. Ringside tickets are topped at $19.

Because of his punch, rangy Jofre of Sao Paulo is favored at 2-1 over the shorter but speedier invader from Belfast.

Twenty-three-year-old Caldwell, seeking his 31st consecutive professional victory and 14th knockout, is recognized as world 118-pound champion by the European Boxing Union.

Jofre, 25 and unbeaten in 44 bouts although held to three draws, is recognized as champion in most areas outside of Europe, including American National Boxing Association territory. Eder, a stunning puncher with either fist, is trying for his 12th straight knockout and the 33rd of his career.

Jofre — a descendent of Portuguese, Italian and Indian forbears — fought outside his native Brazil only four times. Nevertheless, he already is regarded by experts in many lands as a truly great champion because of his combined skill and punch.

He uses the upright stance and stalks forward aggressively in an attempt to keep his opponent always within punching range. At the same time he is adept in slipping, blocking and parrying his opponents' fists.

Caldwell, a better than average puncher, depends much upon fast footwork and in-and-out tactics. But in his training at Sao Paulo, he seemed to have holes in his defense.

Regardless of who wins Thursday, their contract calls for a return bout within 30 days—at London if Jofre wins and at Sao Paulo if Caldwell scores an upset.

Former Truman Aide Warns Of Trade War

PARIS (UPI)—A former official of the Truman administration warned Wednesday that the United States must be associated with an enlarged common market in Western Europe, otherwise a "trade war" will break out.

Former Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton told a meeting of the Atlantic Convention of North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations here that the United States "needs to export more, not the export less."

The Atlantic Convention is a conference of 98 prominent citizens of NATO countries meeting for two weeks to discuss problems facing the alliance.

"The weakness of democracies is that their action is negative because they oppose communism, whereas communism appears as a positive doctrine," Clayton said.

"It is indeed a false doctrine, but it claims to bring a cure to all problems, which makes it strong. I am afraid it is catching up the world."

Clayton said "permanent peace in the world will not be secured by merely fighting against communism. There is now in progress a world revolution, the revolution of the have-nots."

He urged that as a first step towards a real Atlantic community the United States should offer a "trade partnership" to the six European Common Market nations, open to all members of the 20-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

Powder for Fire
NEW YORK (UPI) — A fire-extinguishing powder developed in Britain is said to be more effective on blazing aircraft than are foam extinguishers, according to the British Information Services.

Parade Of Hats Highlights Meet Of Varietas Club

A parade of hats highlighted Tuesday afternoon meeting of Varietas Study Club held in the home of Mrs. Lee Harrah.

The afternoon's program on Fine Arts opened with roll call answered with "My First Hat."

Mrs. S. C. Evans discussed trends in clothes and hair styles for the coming season. She presented pictures of the fashions discussed and answered questions of members on fashion trends.

Mrs. John Gentry, guest speaker, spoke on "Millinery As a Creative Art." She presented a revue of some of the leather hats she had made and explained the techniques used in each case.

Following the talks, the group joined in a "Parade of Hats", which was conducted as a contest with Mmes. Gentry, Ralph Thomas and Otis Nace as judges. Each member modeled the hat she had brought for the occasion. Winner of the "Parade of Hats" was Mrs. C. L. McKinney, who wore a black silk creation decorated with rows of black sequins made in 1900.

Historic Pennsylvania Forms Topic For Forum

The state of Pennsylvania was the program topic discussed by Mrs. C. V. Wilkinson and Mrs. Russell Holloway at a meeting of the Twentieth Century Forum Club held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. M. McDaniel, 1801 Charles.

Mrs. Wilkinson opened her portion of the program by giving some of the Chamber of Commerce slogans, used in Pennsylvania; such as "you drive around the world in Pennsylvania"; "Pennsylvania is the workshop of the world."

"Some of the things that you will find true of Pennsylvania," Mrs. Wilkinson outlined, "are: it is the birthstate of the nation; is highly industrialized; has thriving agriculture; is a great game state; mines 99 per cent of anthracite coal; about half of the state is in forest. Pennsylvania ranges from tree-covered mountains to wooded dells and water courses in the lowlands."

"In the cities, the most modern industrial plants rub elbows with stone houses, whose gray walls have watched American scenes for 300 years," the speaker continued.

"Pennsylvania is called the Keystone State, due to its geographical location, political importance, immense natural resources and great population."

"Henry Hudson established the claim of Dutch to Pennsylvania in 1609 and the Swedes established the first permanent settlement in 1643. Pennsylvania history began on a more permanent basis in 1691 when Charles II granted a large domain to William Penn a Quaker, in payment of a debt. People of many beliefs and nationalities settled the colony."

Mrs. Wilkinson told the group that "Pennsylvania is not only colorful and the keystone state, but is the 'workshop of the world.'" If mining and manufacturing are combined, it is the leading industrial state. Its steel, coal, glass and oil pioneered much of American's modern industries. Bridges made in Pennsylvania span rivers all over the world."

"Pennsylvanian agriculture represents a greater investment than either mining or manufacturing. Farms have always been an avenue of self-expression for the farmer. It was in the Penn-Dutch area that barn buildings flowered into full bloom and this was also one of the rare areas where the houses kept pace with the barns. The Dutch built homes to accommodate a host of relatives and friends for their famous Sunday dinners."

Mrs. Holloway described some of the many historical shrines and homes of many of the founders of this country. She stated: "It is possible to journey from one end of the commonwealth to the other and find in every locality some bit of ground which has associated with it memories of the past; some event or personality connected with the history of our country."

"The presence of great men of the past," Mrs. Holloway continued, "such as, William Penn, Benjamin Franklin and a host of others is strangely pervasive. "Seven signers of the Declaration of Independence are buried in the churchyard of Christ Church in Philadelphia," she told the group.

"For nearly a century, Philadelphia stood first among American cities. It was the seat of the government during the revolution and for ten vital years afterward. It holds the most hallowed shrine in American, the red-bricked, white-trimmed Independence Hall, the birth place of the United States. This master piece of Georgian architecture was begun in 1732 and was originally planned by the well-known Philadelphia lawyer and amateur architect, Andrew Hamilton. In 1735, it became the meeting place for the colonial assembly; in 1752, the famed Liberty Bell was brought from London and hung in the tower."

"At nearby Gettysburg is located what must be regarded as one of the most outstanding shrines in American history for it was here that the fate of the independent union, which Washington had made possible by over-

Cottingim-Clements Wed In Salem Sanctuary

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Clements, nee Ann Cathryn Cottingim

The sanctuary of the First Baptist Church in Salem, Ill., was the setting for the holiday wedding of Miss Ann Cathryn Cottingim to Robert E. Clements of Pampa on December 29 at 8 o'clock.

Palms, tall baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums interspersed with greenery, banked by candelabras decorated the altar. The two center aisles were marked with lighted tapers. Rev. Olive Rice, pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Charles James presided at the organ, and throughout the ceremony, Mrs. Robert Lodge of Columbus, Ohio sang "O Promise Me," "I Love Thee," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer S. Cottingim, was escorted to the altar by her father. Her floor-length gown of bridal satin, fashioned with a molded bodice, featured a yoke and sleeves of alencon lace. The design of the skirt emphasized a broad front panel of alencon lace which lay in soft folds from the waist, complementing the matching folds of the back that formed a slight train. Her veil, edged with matching alencon lace, was held in place by a circlet of satin, covered with seed pearls. She carried a white lace-covered Bible to which were attached a white orchid and small cascade of white rosebuds with satin streamers.

Mrs. James Taulman, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Suelen and Carol Beth Cottingim, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Philip Cottingim, sister-in-law. They were dressed identically in street-length, bell-shaped dresses of Hot Pink peau de soie. They carried white muffs bearing a cascade of etched carnations accenting the color of the gowns. Each wore a circlet headdress of white fur.

Mr. Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Clements, chose his brother, Bill Clements to be best man. Other groomsmen were Bailey Clements, brother of the bridegroom, Philip Cottingim and James Taulman, brother and brother-in-law of the bride. Ushers were John David Stanford and Charles Wayne Morton.

The mother of the bride was gowned in a sheath of sapphire blue wool crepe. The mother of the bridegroom wore a two-piece dress of whisper pink wool. They wore identical corsages of hot pink etched carnations.

Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Raymond Lows, schoolmate of the bride. Assisting at the reception were Mmes. W. T. Stanford, Walter Meyer, J. F. Morton, Ed Cross, and Bill Clements, sister-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. George Mills was in charge of floral arrangements and catering service.

Following a short wedding trip, the young couple will make their home in Canyon, where Mr. Clements will resume studies at West Texas State University, majoring in Music.

Twentieth Century Club Elects New Officers For 1962-63 At Meeting

New officers for the Twentieth Century Club were elected Tuesday afternoon at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. W. R. Campbell, 1200 Mary Ellen.

In a business meeting conducted by Mrs. R. W. Stowers, president, the following officers were elected for the 1962-63 club year and will be installed at a May luncheon meeting: Mmes. H. E. Stanfield, president; Tom Rose, vice president; Bill Roots, secretary; Albert Knox, treasurer; F. M. Culberson, parliamentarian; Lloyd Hicks, critic; V. J. Jamieson, reporter; R. W. Stowers, Council of Clubs representative and Paul Harbaugh, Federation Counselor.

Mrs. Rose introduced Mrs. Jamieson, who discussed "Getting the Most From Your Medical Knowledge."

In opening remarks, Mrs. Jamieson commented, "It is appalling how supposedly intelligent people will spend enormous sums of money on worthless treatment." She stressed the importance of going to a reputable doctor and not seeking "quick cures"; "exclusive remedies" or "some panacea."

She discussed warning signs, prevention of and cure of some of the prevalent diseases such as cancer, high blood pressure, arthritis and rheumatism, hepatitis, periodontal diseases, polio, weight control and middle-age.

"Good health is a personal thing," Mrs. Jamieson stated. "Abusing your body through poor danger signals, failing to follow the doctor's advice, these can cancel the benefits of the best medical care in the world and force you to pay a steep bill in dollars, lost time and pain."

The speaker concluded by suggesting seven rules of good health: 1) moderation; 2) avoid preventable diseases and accidents; 3) don't skip routine check-ups; 4) make saying, not restoring teeth; your first concern; 5) guard your eyes and ears; 6) do something about symptoms. Do not delay calling or seeing your doctor if your child has a high fever, a very sore throat, or pains in the joints; if your teenager develops emotional problems, becomes noticeably lethargic, has skin problems; 7) do what the doctor orders."

Members present, in addition to those previously mentioned were, Mmes. Bob Andis, G. F. Branson, F. M. Culberson, J. W. Gordon, Raymond Harrah, L. M. Hicks, Lorene Locke, R. H. Sanford and H. R. Thompson.

An informative program, "Modern Pruning Methods," was given by Mrs. Lee Moore and Mrs. Bert Robinson.

Points stressed were "know what and why to prune; use proper tools when the plant is dormant and weather is settled. Pruning is done to improve the appearance, health, safety and to control disease of the plant. QUITE FRANKLY, our word factory is all frozen up as we begin our weekly stint of column-writing and it will take a paragraph or so to thaw it out. Luckily, we have some warm-hearted subjects to discuss, so it shouldn't take long. . . this week, no matter how high the furnace was turned and no matter how much warm air the car-heater poured forth, it was a time for shivering, shaking and chattering teeth. . . and as the cold continued to creep into our bones, we were haunted by some phrases from an old poem, "The Cremation of Sam McGee" . . . and for the first time we more clearly understood how that southern gentleman felt. . . remember how it goes? "The Northern Lights have seen queer sights, but the queerest they ever did see. . . was the night on the barge at Lake LaMarge. . . when they cremated Sam McGee. . . now, Sam McGee was a fellow from sunny Tennessee. . . where the cotton blooms and grows. . . and why he ever left his home to roam. . . Heaven only knows! . . . (apologies for any misquotation of words) . . . The verse goes on to describe how he had been so cold since he left his southern home for the northern country that he was finally cremated to get warm! . . . while we have't thought of going quite that far still our new law. . . have made the North Pole seem like a summer resort by comparison. . . happy thought, though, can spring be far behind when clubs around town begin their election of officers to be installed at Spring luncheons? . . . heard that Vi Stanfield was elected president of the Twentieth Century Club this week and will be installed in May. . . so Spring IS on its way. . . some day!

Many and beautiful are the gifts of Spring, not the least of which is the silent suggestion of the omnipotence of life. - Sam Campbell.

A PRETTY PICTURE . . . on these cold and wintry days is LaJean Caldwell. . . as she and her mother, Juanita complete preparations for LaJean's wedding on Saturday to Carter Williams. . . in the First Methodist Church. . . from all we hear, it is to be a lovely wedding. . . one long to be remembered by wedding guests as well as members of the wedding party. . . we hear that the bride-elect has been most efficient with her beforehand planning. . . most of LaJean's and Carter's school chums, both high school and college, will be members of the wedding party. . . which always adds a sweetly sentimental note, we think. . . LaJean and Carter met and courted on the campus of West Texas State College and will continue with their studies following their wedding. . . a lovely bridal shower was given for LaJean yesterday in the home of Mrs. W. R. Campbell on Mary Ellen by a group of friends. . . Mrs. Campbell, Evelyn Nace, Thelma Bray, Eileen Moore, Gussie Glaxner, Elizabeth Wright, and Nina Spoonmore. . . another pretty bride-elect, who with her radiance warms the heart of a sentimentalist, is Nellie Beth Greene who will arrive home from college just in time for her wedding on Thursday to Stanley McDonough. . . in the First Baptist Church. . . there is such a happy glow about these two and their families that it makes us forget all about the weather.

With calm patience of woods I wait; For leaf and blossom when God gives us Spring! John Greenleaf Whittier.

THE PLAY MUST GO ON . . . the sub-zero temperatures outside have not kept Pampa Little Theatre cast members from showing up for rehearsals of their production "Arsenic and Old Lace" to be presented Friday and Saturday of this week in the Pampa High School auditorium. . . sub-freezing or no, cast members have piled out of their cars and tracked through the snow into the rehearsal hall at 612 W. Browning every night this week. . . from all we hear, the play is hilarious. . . and quite a feather in our civic cap to have an active and thriving Little Theatre organization in our city. . . all a part of our cultural advancement. Glenda Lee Miller, an accomplished actress from Texas University in her own right. . . is doing the directing. . . (by the by, we love her new short hair do and are wondering if directing duties had anything to do with her decision to shorten it? Could it be to help her resist the temptation to pull it all out when things aren't going exactly right on stage?) . . . we've heard so many interesting things from people closely associated with the group. . . as to casting. . . Glenn McConnell plays his role of Teddy to the hilt as the irascible, lovable old dear that buries all of the "yellow fever victims". Wynne Veale, who originally had this role, had to step out due to illness in his family. . . Marie Jones and Martha McComas are entirely believable as the "sweet old ladies" who hospitably serve Elderberry wine to all their male lodgers. . . and can you imagine Nealey Joe Ellis in the sinister role of a "Boris Karloff-type character"? . . . well, he is and convincingly so. . . Frank Hatcher and Chleo Worley add the romantic interest in the play as an engaged couple. . . Jim Douthit, who grew a handsome, coal-black Van Dyke beard especially for the part, has his dialect down pat as the "mod surgeon", Dr. Einstein. . . cast members, we hear, all in good fun, have to watch Homer West as Officer O'Hara, to keep him from padding his lines and thus remaining on stage longer than is in his written role. . . Harry Rawlings as Officer Brophy and R. L. Studebaker as Mr. Witherspoon. . . the fella from Happy Dale. . . and Don Pope in a dual role of Lieutenant Rooney and Rev. Harper are excellent, we hear. . . all in all, it sounds like good theatre fun. . . and real life play-acting will be a most pleasant relief from the tube variety we watch nightly on our television screens.

AN INTERESTING SIDE-LIGHT . . . Glenda Lee Miller was telling a friend that she had received a most interesting telephone call recently from Mrs. Otis Holladay. . . wife of the new Harvester football coach. . . it seems that Mrs. Holladay is directing "Arsenic and Old Lace" for a theatre group in Gainesville, which is where the Holladays will be moving from. . . and she wanted to discuss mutual notes with Glenda Lee. . . Mrs. Holladay expressed such delight that she would be moving to a town with an active theatre group. . . and was looking forward to being associated with it during the summer-time, when she is less busy than in the winter time. . . another interesting note, too, is that Martha Marsh, daughter of the Bill Marshes on Duncan and a former member of Pampa Little Theatre, is active in the University Theatre at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales. . . this week. . . on Thursday to be more exact. . . she had a role in a workshop presentation of "The Intruders". . . we know that her parents are proud of her!

ANOTHER SET OF proud parents are Betty and Earl Horthof who last week received the news that their son, Richard had been selected as a member of the Tau Beta Pi, an honorary engineering society at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which my dear non-technical friends is one of the highest honors scholastically that you can receive in the engineering field. . . Richard will graduate this Spring from MIT, but will return next fall to work on his Master's degree. . . two of our local fellows, Natre Turnbo, Harold B. Lawley, Buzz Roberts and Don Fiestar, among a lot of other hardy petroleum-pilers-of-the-trade, journeyed to the AIME meeting in Amarillo on Tuesday night. . . and returned home as officers of the organization. . . there is talk of forming an auxiliary to the AIME, which would mean that the wives of members could have a few social events of their own.

See you at "Arsenic and Old Lace" . . . Love, Peg.

TINT RUG SPOTS
Bleach spilled on dark cotton rugs can be made less noticeable by applying food coloring to the lightened spot. The coloring will have to be replaced when the rug is washed, but it's a cheap and easy way to make the rug presentable.

★ Polly's Quiz ★

By Polly Cramer

Many homemakers spend the long winter evenings doing handwork of some kind, but often this urge to do something results in the creation of useless things that have no place in a smart, modern home. Beware of dust-catchers!

Women who like needlework would do well to investigate the art of crewel embroidery. This colored wool embroidery, worked on natural linen or heavy cotton crash, was used by our ancestors.

It is decorative on curtains either as a border or in an all-over pattern. It is also used for chair seats or to cover a wing chair. The best effect is obtained by confining it to one object in a room.

To learn the simple stitches and shading of colors, buy a pattern and learn on a sweater or a summer cotton bag.

Dear Polly: There are some wonderful ideas around for novel window treatments but most are achieved at the cost of cutting out light. I like sunshine and I like to look out of my windows. Is there any solution other than draw curtains or ruffled curtains? I have three windows across the front of my bedroom and get lots of sun. I would like toile draperies but when I get them, the windows are going to look bare without glass curtains or cafes. (I don't want either.)—Mrs. R. M.

Dear Mrs. R. M.: You can't have your cake and eat it, too. Hang toile draperies at sides of each window with matching valance across top. Semisheer glass curtains may cover the windows or leave them exposed.

Dear Polly: Please help me make my living room cozy. Mine is a three-and-a-half-room apartment. I have a good two-tone gray rug and gray walls. My couch is brown with gold metallic threads. I have a yellow chair and a turquoise lounge chair. Drapes are mauve and brass lamps have green bowls. Could I cover that yellow chair in violet and maybe use violet for the drapes, too?—Mrs. R. B. W.

Dear Mrs. R. B. W.: Your living room has isolated bits of color but no plan. Violet certainly will not add to the overall effect. Shop for a gay chintz that has white, gray and turquoise in a floral design on yellow ground. Make draperies and slip cover for the couch from this fabric.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

Blue taffeta hats draped with veiling formed their headpieces and they carried cascades of white carnations.

Danny Chisum of Pampa was best man. Groomsmen were Bill Paschal, cousin of bride, of Amarillo and Don Brannon.

Miss Betty Faye Brown of Pampa, bridegroom's sister, lighted the altar candles. Donna Kay McBride of Pampa, bridegroom's niece, was flower girl and Mike Ragle carried the rings to the bridal pair. Mrs. Robert Moore accompanied Miss Gay Halford in solos.

coming adversity at Valley Forge, hung in the balance."

"Here, the Confederate leader, Robert E. Lee, engaged in a supreme effort to make recession and division of the Union an accomplished fact. The story of the battle is well-known. Three months and sixteen days after the two great armies had withdrawn from the scene of conflict, a tall, gaunt man in sombre dress came to Gettysburg to dedicate the battlefield as a national cemetery. The immortal words of Lincoln spoken at that time summarized the significance of this titanic struggle on Pennsylvania's soil for all time."

FORD'S BOYS WEAR OLLIE HARE STORE FOR MEN

The Mature Parent Soviet vs United States Teaching Of Reading

"Mrs. Black had three happy pigs. We know her pigs were happy. They looked for something to eat.

They could not find it. Still the three pigs were happy."

This arresting piece of prose is a sampling from one of this nation's "basal" school readers. It and books like it are American children's introduction to the grace and majesty of English literature.

Note, please how it harps on certain words. Three times it repeats the words "pigs" and "happy." This reiteration is deliberate. Its authors are not the lunatics they appear to be. Instead, they are the tools of this country's educational powers who, 30 years ago, rejected the phonic reading instruction of children for that "whole" word memorizing method which wiser folk than I hold responsible for increasing reading disability among our youngsters. So, inevitably their works are babbling dullness.

It stands to reason that if you are going to try to teach a child to read by pushing words into his memory, two results will occur. You will have to repeat those words to the point of nausea, and you'll have to restrict the number of new words you can offer him in deference to the limits of human memory.

So what happens is that we Americans equip fourth grade John with a vocabulary of 1,900 words while the Soviet Union, using the rejected phonic system, equips its fourth grade Ivan with at least 10,000 Russian words.

This is the point of an explosive new book "What Ivan Knows That Johnny Doesn't" by Arthur Trace Jr. Its facts may detonate action on the educational front just as the feat of Yuri Gagarin aroused us to roar at our space experts, "Get going! Stop dithering — and move!"

I, for one, surely hope so. For Russia's Ivan, phonically trained to explore new words by sounding their syllables into recognizable wholes, uses a ninth grade reader that offers him Shakespeare, Tolstoy, Goethe and Chekhov. But your ninth grade Johnny — what does his reader offer? A collection of such gems as "Pass that Puck!" sparked with occasional selections from people like Carl Sandburg and James Thurber. Ye, like the small boy who had to prove he could spit farther than his rival, we may now set ourselves to proving that we can teach reading to children, too.

Buy this book. Read it. Then, at your next PTA meeting get up and ask the question: "Why is my child involved with Mrs. Black and her happy pigs when Russian children are given a fairy tale by Leo Tolstoy?"

PEACE TREATY—The oldest known peace treaty in the world, a 4,000-year-old document shaped like a football, is inspected by two Yale University professors. The clay treaty tells of a border dispute between two ancient states in Babylonia, and history records that the treaty had the same fate of many other such peace pacts—it didn't work.

BALLET BIT—Young David Dimon will tell you that it takes muscles to give his charming partner, Carol Greene, that impressive lift. Ballet routines, he retorts to his Bayshore Gardens, Fla., playmates, are clearly not for sissies.

COMING ATTRACTIONS—Three "little nothing" dresses for summer, 1962, in gossamer silk prints of green, red and orange predict that the full-skirted, sleeveless, collarless dress will make a return engagement to Paris fashion.

HIS NUMBER'S UP—The dummy stuck on that sign was there to call attention to the phone number at which the signboard space could be rented. Dear Abby... Past Life Causes Present Complications

By ASIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago I left home (at the age of 20) to have a baby. (I was not married.) No one here knows about it. I passed myself off as a widow and raised my son alone. He is a fine well-adjusted lad. His father was a married man from whom I neither expected nor received any financial help in raising my boy. I have a very good position and have made a good name for myself in my community where I am known as "Mrs. So and So."

A prominent, successful man has become my admirer and he wants to marry me. I know I will have to tell him the truth about myself, but what about other people? There might be curiosity and probing about my "former husband," his family, etc. Would I like my marriage certificate "Mrs. So and So," although I am not in fact legally that person?

MRS. SO AND SO
Dear Mrs. SO and SO: First, tell the man who wants to marry you about your past. If he loves you, it won't matter, and he will spare you the legal red-tape.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married soon. I would like to have a double-ring ceremony. The problem is that my future husband already wears a wedding ring on that very special finger. It was his mother's wedding ring. (She is now deceased.) He told me that he will never take that ring from his finger because she placed it there. Do you think this was fair of her? He says that he and I will be just as much married without his receiving a ring, too. Am I wrong in asking him to wear MY ring instead of his mother's? Or is he wrong in his attitude?

LITTLE BUT STRONG
DEAR "LITTLE": You are wrong. Let your fiance wear his mother's ring.

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor has a four-year-old girl and I have a four-year-old boy. They play together all the time. The little neighbor girl swears like a trooper, and now my son has started to pick it up. You never heard such language from kids!

I don't believe in trying to discipline other people's children, but I don't know how else to stop her. Don't tell me to talk to the parents because I have heard this

"Backward" Party Held By SS Club

SKELLYTOWN (SPL) — Members of Skelly Schafer Club met in the club house recently for a "backward party". Clothes were worn backward and inside out. The guests were greeted by the hostess, Mrs. Leroy Allan, at the back door with a friendly "goodbye, come again."

Several games were enjoyed in which words were spelled backward and a relay race run backward, carrying an apple in a spoon.

A short business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Lloyd Cowart, vice president, was held. Several members were reported ill. The next meeting was scheduled for February 13, with Mrs. B. A. Wesner and Mrs. Lloyd Cowart as co-hostesses.

Attending were Mmes. J. M. Chapin, R. E. McAllister, L. Barrett, John Kenney, Bill Truitt, Wesner and Cowart.

Take It From Kathy

Dear Kathy:
I like a boy who lives on my street very much. I told a few kids about it, and now it's all over the neighborhood. I don't like it and I'm sure he doesn't. I thought he liked me because he talked to me every time he had a chance. Now, one of his friends says he doesn't like me at all. I have stayed away from him because I don't know what to do. Please advise.—Yicky A.

Dear Vicky:
The boy probably resents the situation and perhaps resents you a bit because of it. His friends have teased him so much that he wouldn't dare admit liking you right now.

Behave normally. Treat him casually. If friends mention him, change the subject. It's belated, but keep your feelings about him to yourself.

Stop listening to the rumors that bounce around! Hearsay evi-

Constructive Atomic Uses

In this day of emphasis on size, a recent atomic explosion of relatively small dimensions may not get as much play in the press as it should.

The explosion itself was of minor proportions, a mere 5 megaton bomb. That is to say that the explosive force was equivalent to 5,000 tons of TNT.

The bomb was planted deeply below the surface and exploded on Dec. 10th, it accomplished a number of things expected of it and a few things totally unexpected.

For one thing, despite its depth in the ground, it produced an atomic cloud and caused unexpected rumblings at great distances.

But the major import of this particular event was that its purpose was not to figure out new ways of destroying human beings, but rather to find new uses for the atom in peaceful avenues.

Commentators have been quick to observe that the entire atmosphere of the project, insofar as those working on it were concerned, was noticeably different from that normally experienced at such affairs.

Scientists are still tabulating results, but it is now envisaged that in future years, many of the major earth-moving chores can be conducted by underground atomic explosions.

Another major find: Heat, measured in millions of degrees, instantly melted several thousand tons of rock salt in the underground explosion area about 1200 feet below the earth's surface.

Turn-About

Democracy, intended as a check on tyrants, becomes itself an even greater tyrant when majorities learn they can demand largesse and subsidy from the political mechanism.

Calls For Defeat

In the recent United Nations betrayal of Katanga and the monstrous sell-out following unprovoked and aggressive war, a new theory relating to what is called colonialism has evolved.

This theory is observable additionally in the equally unprovoked and aggressive act of war perpetrated by India against tiny Goa, a Portuguese colony of the once mighty maritime power.

The theory seems to be that the way to end colonialism is to have small and relatively defenseless territories gobble up by large and predatory neighbors. Assuming that the tiny territories are colonies, as is the case with Goa and her two sisters, this ends colonialism, doesn't it?

This conclusion, recently voiced in part by Defense Minister Krishna Menon of India, is a logical extension of the concept of military rule by a total power. Menon expressed himself as surprised when western powers refused to applaud the naked actions of force by means of which Goa was reduced. He indicated that he thought such actions which would surely wipe out colonialism, were precisely what the West wanted.

He was supported, understandably, by the Soviet Union, which has been one of the major voices raised in strident criticism of colonialism. If this line of reasoning were to be strictly pursued, one could immediately conjure up a vision of repeated acts of aggression by

EXTRA VITAMINS WILL NOT INCREASE YOUR STRENGTH

Q—I am a police officer and I also do manual labor on an outside job. I am taking a very potent vitamin formula as a supplement to help keep up my strength.

A—Not knowing the potency of the formula you are taking or the dose you are taking, I can't say. But I am certain that you need no supplementation whatsoever unless you have some definite and specific complaint that your doctor interprets as a vitamin-deficiency manifestation.

Q—I am 27 years old and I have had repeated bladder infections since the birth of my second child seven months ago.

Q—Why don't you try wearing a corset with a fitted pad to hold the kidney in position before you submit to surgery?

Q—Our son just came home from school where his football coach told the squad to get special pills to make them stronger and more fit.

Q—Good for your druggist. The Food and Drug Administration announced "seizure" of the products you mention on the ground that they were "being falsely promoted to athletic coaches as an aid to physical endurance."

Q—Atomic energy is a great new power source which belongs, not to the politically minded, but to the productivity minded.

force of military aggression with a stand-pat military defense, will leave us forever dealing in the realm of effect rather than cause.

The reason there is so much belief in the United Nations and the one-world concept today, can be traced to carefully laid indoctrination efforts which had preceded the founding of the U.N. by more than a score of years.

A popular belief, however deeply rooted in fallacy, it may be, will ultimately win out, if it is sincerely supported by enough people.

Those who sustain the cause of freedom have, in these same years of growing dependence on government, done an amazingly poor job of selling their ideas.

It would also serve to further demolish freedom, if it would play into the hands of one-worlders to establish the socialist creed as a universal doctrine among men.

Efforts made by a few mighty fine Americans to rush to the aid of some particular tiny country, such as Katanga, will always be doomed to failure, unless such efforts are preceded by a carefully nurtured program of sound education. To meet the onrushing

Can't Believe My Ears —

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Governor Nelson Rockefeller has come to two eventual conclusions concerning his political future.

On the basis of a series of extensive surveys, the New Yorker is convinced that:—His marital difficulties will not be a serious impediment to his being decisively re-elected this year, and running for President in 1964.

—The Catholic vote will be the "swing" vote in 1964, and may very likely determine the outcome of that presidential race.

George Romney, 54-year-old head of American Motors Company, will definitely run for Governor of Michigan.

In the Kennedy-Nixon contest, the Republicans got 22 per cent of the Catholic vote as against 44 per cent in 1952 and 49 per cent in 1956 when Eisenhower was the party's standard-bearer.

As a result of this study, Rockefeller also is of the opinion that the decisive Catholic swing to Kennedy was "not in depth"; that it was primarily impelled by two factors: His being a Catholic, and that this was made an issue against him by organized groups.

It is Rockefeller's view that a similar campaign situation will not prevail in 1964.

To the New York Governor, the door is wide open to the Republicans to make heavy inroads in the Catholic vote for two reasons: first—because Catholics are basically middle-of-the-roads; second—the Kennedy Administration is leaning to the left, and leftist elements are steadily infiltrating its ranks.

Catholics are increasingly leery of this development, Rockefeller feels, and the GOP should make it a major target both in this year's congressional elections and the next presidential race.

Two other strongly-held Rockefeller convictions are: He will win a second gubernatorial term by upwards of 750,000; the Republicans, particularly in key industrial centers, must put up more Catholics as major candidates.

Rockefeller is stressing that in talks with party leaders throughout the country, he is pressing that as of primary importance to counter Kennedy.

Outside of Rockefeller's immediate family, no one has any clue as to when he and his wife will be divorced. Some of his intimates are still hopeful they will be reconciled. However, it is admitted there is more wish than substance behind these hopes.

They also concede that if there is a divorce, the New York Governor will definitely remarry.

POLITICALS—The reason for Nixon's defeat is bluntly spelled out in a report being submitted to the Republican National Committee meeting in Oklahoma City this Friday and Saturday.

When enough people understand and believe in freedom, we will move in that direction. Until then, a call to action is a call to defeat.

Subway Getting On 'n off Proves Dangerous Pastime

By HENRY McEMORE

The sport of getting on and off a New York subway is different from any other sport I know in that the player, no matter how well he masters the fundamentals, soon forgets them if he doesn't have almost continual practice.

A man who really learns a sound golf swing can quit the game for years and return to play creditably. The same is true of tennis, bowling, bicycling, and many other sports.

Stay away from this exacting pastime for even a few months and you return a frightened, awkward novice, scarcely able to hold your own against a group of school children headed for Central Park and an afternoon of play.

I was a fine subwayer when I lived in New York. During my nearly fifteen years in Bagdad-on-the-Hudson I developed into one of the better getter-ners and getter-offers. Never a professional, mind you, but a scratch amateur good enough, to be eyed by the professionals and, after a particularly successful afternoon on the Lexington Avenue Express, to be offered a contract by them.

The scout who happened to see me on that occasion wrote on his report that, given a bit more weight and a little more training in the use of my right knee, there was a strong chance that I might develop into a first-class rush-hour performer.

He noted on his scouting chart that "he has a willingness to charge into old ladies just as recklessly as into the conductor."

LABOR STATESMAN

(Chicago Tribune)

President George Meany of the AFL-CIO made two recommendations to President Kennedy and Congress in a television interview on Sunday.

He said this is no time to talk of balancing the budget. He agrees that a deficit invites inflation but he is quite willing to run the risk if only the government, through its deficits, will manage to provide jobs for the unemployed.

That is, wipe out the value of everybody's insurance protection, bank account, savings and loan account, savings bonds, and pension in the hope of creating jobs for the small minority that are out of work.

That was Mr. Meany's first contribution to statesmanship. His second was to argue against legislation that would forbid union to discriminate against Negroes under penalty of losing their standing before the National Labor Relations board.

Just like a senator from Mississippi, Mr. Meany proclaimed himself the Negro's best friend, Organized labor, said Mr. Meany, had done more to advance Negro rights than any other agency.

This boast can be challenged on behalf of the northern armies in the Civil war, the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments to the Constitution, the Supreme Court of the United States, the public school systems of the northern states, and last but by no means least, the churches; but Mr. Meany, still talking like a Mississippi senator, said the unions had made such great progress that they shouldn't be pleased.

"We wonder why not. To hold a job in many lines of work, in many states, a man has to belong to the union. That is a union privilege written into the law. To say that in these circumstances the union may deny membership to anyone on account of race is to deny those who are discriminated against an opportunity to earn a living at the trade which they wish to follow. Unions which aren't willing to play fair toward Negro applicants can continue to function but aren't entitled to the special privileges granted them in the labor law.

DALLAS (Sp) — The Sixth Annual national meeting of the Association of Oilwell Servicing Contractors will officially begin Thursday, when the 1961 board of directors meet at 9 a.m. in the Baker Hotel here.

Well servicing and workover contractors attending from almost every oil producing state in the U.S. will focus their attention upon the oil and gas producer, their only customer.

General registration begins Thursday at 1:30 p.m. on the mezzanine with all Friday and Saturday programs open to all registrants and guests. This includes the breakfasts at 8 o'clock each morning in the Lounge Room on the mezzanine.

Dr. Kenneth McFarland, who appears through the courtesy of General Motors, will deliver the keynote address at 10:30 a.m. Friday. Dr. McFarland was rated "America's Number One Speaker" by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

His topic will be "Living To The Point" which covers the human qualities needed to be successful in business under today's economic conditions.

Friday evening, activities get underway at 8 p.m. with a cocktail hour in the Terrace Room followed by a buffet dinner.

Saturday morning the Association will present Frank N. Icard in his first major address since he became executive vice-president of API. Icard will pin-point some pertinent oil and gas issues of paramount importance in the current legislative session in Washington.

IPA Head Says Oil Surplus Now World Problem

OKLAHOMA CITY (Sp) — The problem of oil surpluses, once confined to local areas within the United States, now must be "considered and solved in a worldwide arena," according to the new president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Harold Decker of Houston, who assumed the IPAA presidency on Jan. 1, said the domestic oil industry had "conquered waste and learned to live with local surpluses to the benefit of the entire nation — but now is faced with a much larger challenge in the form of oil surpluses around the world."

"Thirty years ago our conservation and crude oil market problems were essentially local," said the IPAA president. "Today, they are worldwide."

Scheduled to speak tomorrow at the annual meeting of the Oklahoma Independent Petroleum Association, Decker said effective oil import controls are made imperative by "the continuing build-up in world oil resources, the growing intrusion of Soviet oil into world markets, and the U.S. position of world leadership which is dependent on adequate energy supplies within our own control."

Declaring that orderly domestic conservation practices under authority of the oil producing states had averted "the threat of federal government intervention to clear up the 'oil mess'" three decades ago, Decker said:

"There is a distinct parallel between local problems then and the worldwide problems existing today. There was talk then of federal intervention to solve local problems, and there is talk today that some kind of 'international control' might be necessary to deal with worldwide oil surpluses and marketing problems."

"Just as the states exercised their responsibilities to bring order out of chaos three decades ago, so must the federal government exercise its responsibilities in today's worldwide arena of oil problems."

Drop Negotiations For Properties BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (Sp) — Officials of Cities Service Company and Fairway Oil and Gas Company announced jointly Saturday that negotiations for the acquisition of Fairway's properties in East Texas by Cities Service have been discontinued.

The proposed acquisition, made public last November, was subject to closing conditions which cannot be met at this time, it was announced.

Both Cities Service and Fairway Oil and Gas Company hold substantial interests in the Fairway field of Anderson and Henderson Counties. They will continue to operate their respective properties and to cooperate in efforts to obtain unitization and maximum recovery from the field.

Cities Service Promotes Wiand NEW YORK — Burton F. Wiand has been named manager of industrial relations for Cities Service Company, it was announced today by Burt S. Watson, chairman of the board.

Wiand, formerly vice president for industrial and public relations of Cities Service Gas Company at Oklahoma City, succeeds Fred M. Bulter, who has retired after 35 years of service with the Cities Service organization.

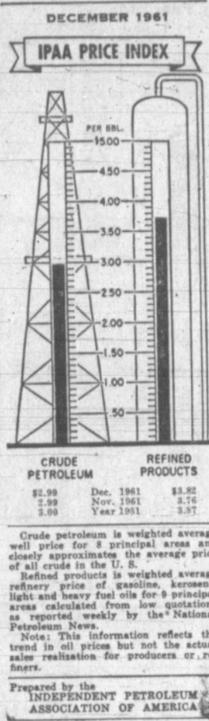

In addition to his new duties, Wiand will continue as coordinator of public affairs for the Cities Service system.

Humble Montana Project 'Iced In' CUBANK, Mont. — Sub-zero temperatures, gusty winds, drifting snow, and frozen ground has not stopped work on Humble Oil & Refining Company's secondary recovery waterflood project in Montana's Cut Bank oil field, Glacier County.

Workers constructed a plastic hut to thaw the ground before pouring concrete for the foundation of the waterflood plant located just 15 miles south of the Canadian border.

European Trade Topic Is Vital In This Nation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most Americans know that in the coming months they are going to read and hear and talk a lot about what's happening to business and trade in Europe and what it means to United States business at home and abroad.

Six busy industrial European nations—and Britain on the edge, going through some soul-searching before taking the plunge to join them—are talking about the further progress of the Common Market idea, through which they may present a common customs tariff, an agricultural policy, even a certain amount of political coordination.

Business Week magazine said one can expect that within five years Europe will have a single mass market consisting of 10 countries — others have indicated they will want to join the six — and almost 250 million people.

That's a lot of customers—and a lot of workers whose products can compete with those of the United States in world markets.

Discussion of these matters will not be confined to the halls of the national legislature or the conference rooms of international corporations.

In midtown New York, the Foreign Policy Association-World Affairs Center has just issued a sort of guidebook to let the ordinary citizen—and his club group, company, labor union or whatever—find out what is being done by more than a score of national and civic organizations to tell the story, to stimulate discussion, to issue information on the trade picture ahead.

The FPA-WAC has done this through its current issue of Intercom, carrying a special feature focus on trade. It lists more than a hundred publications dealing with the trade problem; some from educational groups, some from national and international official and semi-official organizations; from trade organizations, banks, private groups.

British Newspapers Published These Stories Of Life In U.S.

By HARRY FERGUSON

LONDON (UPI) — Seeing ourselves as others see us—verbal reports from British newspapers about life in the United States this week.

WASHINGTON—The latest definition of a dedicated Communist is the man who, given a choice of dating Mrs. Kennedy or Mrs. Khrushchev, chooses the latter.

MADISON, Wis.—Did you ever promise to poke your old sergeant in the nose if ever you met him in civilian life? Airman Sidney Harding did, and fulfilled his promise five minutes after getting his honorable discharge. Said Sergeant Cletus Lewis, signing an assault and battery charge: "He wouldn't have done that 24 hours ago."

LOS ANGELES—Edith Hinchley enrolled at Redlands University to "improve my mind and invest in the future." She is 80 and a great grandmother.

NEW YORK — That curious American phenomenon, the business breakfast, is attacked by a Wall Street firm. Its salesmen have been warned they must no longer "engage in business at breakfast unless it is the business of being a husband and father."

A Chicago psychologist says nothing should make a man sacrifice breakfast at home. "Some people think it is a status symbol to say they have been to breakfast with the boss," he said, "but it is a dangerous trend. It can hurt a marriage severely."

UNITED NATIONS—Sly slogan for the U.N.'s drive to raise funds for the Congo fiasco: "Fight now, pay later."

WASHINGTON — Somebody has goofed and hundreds of school children are writing to say so. The space agency has named America's man-to-the-moon effort "Apollo"—and Apollo was worshipped as a sun god.

CHICAGO—An American friend of mine has taken out a subscription to a junior book society for his young son. "I wanted him to take more interest in literature and less in television," he said. The boy has received his subscription bonus—a transistor radio.

NEW YORK—The latest thing in American intertainment is the angry young comic, Dave Astor, at the Blue Angel. "Psychiatrists," he says, "tell us that one out of five people in this country are emotionally disturbed. The reason is that the other four are nuts." Another of his jokes is about the vice president, Mr. Johnson. "He gets into his plane," Astor says, "and tells his pilot: 'Go anywhere—we got troubles all over.'"

PLANS SKYSCRAPER — NEW YORK (UPI)—The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormons) will build a 20-story skyscraper on Manhattan's Fifth Avenue, it was announced Wednesday. The building will be a center of missionary, administrative, cultural, recreational and informational activities as well as a place for worship.

The U.S. Constitution does not give the American people their rights and liberties. It guarantees them.

NINETY-NINE YEARS OLD — William B. (Uncle Billy) Frost celebrated his 99th birthday Friday afternoon with an Open House given by friends in his home, 1105 Charles. Due to inclement weather, the party was postponed from his birth date, Jan. 10, to Friday afternoon. Approximately 85 friends called during the afternoon to offer best wishes. Uncle Billy is pictured here enjoying a piece of his 99th birthday cake. (Daily News Photo)

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
Next to that of Josef Stalin, it would be difficult to imagine a name likely to fall with a more unpleasant ring on the ears of Nikita Khrushchev than that of Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov.

Last November when Molotov returned glumly to Moscow from his Vienna post to be met only by members of his family, it appeared that "old Bolshevik" career indeed was finished.

But here he is, however briefly, in the news again and returning to his Vienna job as Soviet representative on the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Recalling the bitter charges hurled against him by Khrushchev and succeeding speakers before the recent 22nd Communist party congress in Moscow, one of three conclusions seems possible:

Molotov still has friends powerful enough in the Soviet command to prevent his decline into total obscurity.

The Moscow leadership, which is pledged against a return to the lethal purges of the old Stalin days, believes he is less a menace to the new regime outside the country than in.

The Soviet Union regards the international atomic agency as of so little importance it doesn't much matter who has the job.

Another and less likely possibility in the jungle of high-level Kremlin politics was a decision that, despite past sins, Molotov had the right to some recognition for more than 30 years of faithful service to communism.

In the figure of Molotov there are many unpleasant memories for Khrushchev.

First, of course, was Khrushchev's charge that as a leader of the "anti-party" group, Molotov plotted for Khrushchev's downfall, and even up to the past party congress opposed the latter's de-Stalinization program in his writings.

Of significance, too, is the fact that it was Molotov under Stalin's guidance who worked out the pact with Hitler Germany permitting the rape of Poland and who sent a message of congratulations to Hitler on the fall of Paris.

It was Molotov also in those high-flying days who referred to Nazism as "a question of taste" and an ideal that could not be destroyed by force.

Those are points the present-day Moscow hierarchy would prefer to forget.

Cub Scouts Hold First 1962 Meet In Scout House

LEFORS (Sp) — Don Two of Cub Scout pack 18 met for its first meeting of the new year in the scout house recently with their leaders, Mrs. Don Robison and Mrs. Cedar Torres.

A new project was started, that of making decorated marble cans. Coffee cans were used, spools were attached to the lids for knobs, and wallpaper was used to decorate the sides. The project will be completed in two weeks.

In the opening ceremonies Joe Bob Fish and Phillip Collins led the group in the LaW of the Pack.

Attending were, Ken Prestidge, Joe Bob Fish, Phillip Collins, Richard Roberts, Lanny Atchely, Chuck Andlema, Dennis Boyd, and James McDonald.
