

Stalin's 'Peace Plan' Fails To Excite World

Diplomats Hint Red's Gesture 'Propaganda'

No Approach Made For Meeting With Truman

By The Associated Press

Soviet Prime Minister Stalin's answers to an American newsmen's questions posed new queries today for diplomats the world over. Propaganda or a genuine desire for peace?

That was the main question as world capitals studied the Soviet leader's statements yesterday. Stalin said he had "no objection" to meeting at a mutually acceptable place with President Truman to discuss a "peace pact" and gradual disarmament.

He said Russia was willing to consider a joint American-Russian declaration of peace intentions.

He said he saw "no obstacle" to lifting of the Russian blockade of Berlin provided establishment of a separate western German state was postponed, the western powers met with Russia in the Big Four Foreign Ministers Council and the allied counter-blockade was lifted.

First reaction was one of guarded caution.

One foreign diplomat in Moscow pointed out there was not a great deal new in the statements.

Stalin said he had no objection to meeting with President Truman, Mr. Truman, in turn, has offered to meet with Stalin if the Russian leader would come to Washington.

Similar Russian offers to lift the blockade have been made before, but always broke down on the question of timing. The Russians have insisted the Big Four must meet before the blockade is lifted.

Stalin did not make clear whether Russia is now willing to lift the blockade first or still insists on the meeting first.

Disarmament has been one of Russia's big propaganda guns in the United Nations. But the Soviets have been reluctant to let the world know the size of their armed forces.

Foreign diplomats in Moscow generally welcomed the statements.

Girl, 8, Burned To Death In Butane Blast

FORT WORTH, Jan. 31 (AP)—A butane gas explosion and fire burned to death an 8-year-old girl and burned critically her parents and another daughter near Smithfield at about 4 a. m. today.

Dead was Bobbie Glenn Hollingsworth, 3rd grade student at the Smithfield school.

Suffering third-degree burns from head to toe were Edward G. Hollingsworth, 32, his wife, Laura, 24, and his Mary Hollingsworth, 5.

A blast ripped through their four-room, frame home one and one-half miles east of Smithfield when Hollingsworth attempted to light a kitchen stove.

Flames swept through the structure and engulfed the family, all of whom had arisen but were clad only in sleeping clothes.

Hollingsworth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Hollingsworth, both 54, were awakened in their home, 200 yards from their son's home, by the explosion and the younger Hollingsworth's screams.

They ran barefooted and in sleeping garments through snow to the blazing house.

The grandparents dashed into the burning home and rescued the 8-year-old girl. They were unable to find Bobbie Glenn. The parents then were forced to restrain their son from returning inside the home, they said.

Douglas Orme, vice-president of Cosden Petroleum Corp., was elected president of the Big Spring chamber of commerce Monday noon at the first meeting of the 1949 board of directors at the Settles. He will succeed Elmo Wasson, whose term will expire officially with the annual banquet on Feb. 10.

H. W. Smith, sales agent for Continental Oil company was elected vice-president and treasurer of the organization and J. H. Greene was elected as manager.

Orme has been traffic manager for Cosden for many years and more recently has served as a vice-president of the company in charge of traffic. He has been a long and active worker in the chamber and other civic organizations. Currently he is district governor for the American Business Club.

When labor and management are "assured once again" that this is our national labor policy, Tobin said, "they will, I feel sure, comply with the procedures provided in the bill."

The administration's measure—unveiled Saturday—would wipe out most of the Taft-Hartley Law and substitute something closer to the Wagner Act of 1935.

One Taft-Hartley feature that would be killed would be the government's power to get 80-day court orders to delay "national emergency" strikes.

To replace that power, the bill provides for emergency boards to recommend settlements of disputes in vital industries. Both sides would be asked to observe a voluntary "cooling off" period of not more than 30 days during which there would be no strike or lock out.

Newsman, Officer Drowned At Tokyo

TOKYO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Bodies of Miles W. Vaughn, 38, United Press vice president for Asia, and Mal Thomas R. Haddock, of the Army Dental Corps, were brought to the U. S. Army 49th General Hospital today.

The two Americans, along with three Japanese, drowned Sunday when a small sampan was overturned in Tokyo Bay. The party, on a duck hunting trip, had been missing since yesterday when their sampan got into a squall.

Practices may be re-instated if conditions warrant, Weaver added. About 150 farms in the county qualify for the payments.

Demo Chiefs Push Brisker Schedule

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Democratic leaders in Congress sought today to line up a brisker schedule for pushing the Truman program through the law-making machinery.

The democratic controlled Congress will begin its second month this week with only three minor bills accomplished.

On the Republican side, there were claims that price declines in some foods and other lines have put President Truman's anti-inflation proposals on a toboggan.

The Republicans confidently predicted defeat of such requests as a Rescission Authority to fix prices and wages, mandatory powers to ration or allocate scarce commodities, or authority for government-built steel plants.

Democratic Leader Lucas (Ill) called for Senate action today on one administration-backed proposal that gave Republicans a chance to sound off.

It is a seven-month extension of the "voluntary allocation" system set up by the last GOP Congress as a substitute for President Truman's request for direct government power to ration or allocate steel and other scarce commodities.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer and other Democrats agree this voluntary plan has worked well. But the Democrats defeated in the Senate Banking Committee a Rescission Authority to extend it longer than seven months.

Army General Rules Paraguay After Revolt

Gonzales Forced Out In Coup At Asuncion

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 31 (AP)—An army general headed Paraguay's provisional government today after dissident members of President J. Natalicio Gonzalez' own party forced his resignation in a surprise coup Sunday.

The bloodless revolution which unseated the 50-year-old writer and poet who took office only five months ago was the sixth in 13 months in this landlocked country of 1,225,000 persons.

A hastily convened National Assembly last night elected Brig. Gen. Raimundo Rolon—defense minister under Gonzalez—to head the provisional government. The constitution requires a presidential election be called within the next two months.

The Asuncion radio charged the ousted government with misuse of public funds. It called Gonzalez "Public Robber No. 1."

Gonzalez' administration had been threatened constantly by dissatisfied members of his own Colorado party, identified as conservative, and by members of outlawed Liberal, Febrerists and Communist parties. Political refugees in other countries had joined in plots aimed at his overthrow.

(Reports from the Argentine side of the border said police and army forces quelled scattered demonstrations in support of Gonzalez. U. S. officials in Washington described the coup d'etat as the result of a contest for power within the Colorado Party.)

Labor Minister Augusto Salvador, a leader of the coup, said the new government would seek peace with the country's many factions. Gonzalez, who led a revolution, himself, last year, had outlawed all opposition groups.

The army and police announced they would "guarantee order and tranquility in the whole republic." Gonzalez, meanwhile, took refuge in the Brazilian embassy in Asuncion, under a Latin American treaty guaranteeing political exiles asylum and safe conduct from the country. Manuel Talavera, president of the Colorado Party's governing board, fled to the Argentine embassy.

(Reports reaching Buenos Aires said some loyal members of Gonzalez' cabinet were detained after they sought to rally the army behind him.)

NANKING AN ISLAND

Li Visits Shanghai On Secret Mission

SHANGHAI, Jan. 31 (AP)— Acting President Li Tsung-jen arrived at Shanghai's Lungwa Airfield at noon today from Nanking. He was on an undisclosed mission.

His political adviser Kan Chieh-nou, who arrived yesterday to contact "non-political" circles in an effort to bolster the Nationalists' sagging campaign for peace with the Communists, returned to Nanking this morning.

The arrival of Li came a short time after it had been strongly rumored in Nanking that he planned to flee to Canton, where the government has announced it will begin functioning on Feb. 5.

Nanking itself today approached the strange state of being neither Nationalist nor Red but an island between the two warring governments.

There have been no indications that any Red officials actually have entered the capital. But they could if they wished.

The city is practically defenseless. Soldiers and naval units, once to have been the defenders of Nanking, have pulled out for the south.

Communist armies are idling six miles north of Nanking, where they have been for a week. Apparently they are waiting for action on the Red radio demand of Saturday that retired President Chiang Kai-shek and other kuo-min-tang officials on the Communist "war criminals" list be arrested.

Gray said in a statement that the change "means that all supervision of field offices which has heretofore been carried on by the 13 branches will now be directed from the central office in Washington. The 13 new district offices (for insurance and death claims) will also be supervised from Washington."

The 13 branch managers have been named to head the district offices which replace them, Gray said.

In a letter to the branch managers, Gray said: "While the organization change will involve some personnel adjustments, I sincerely hope that we will be able to retain our more valuable people in the VA."

The veteran will not realize any change has been made, Gray said. The individual veteran has dealt with the regional offices and hospitals, rather than the branch office which supervised the regional offices and hospitals.

He said a reduction in personnel of about 2,500 will be made gradually between now and July 1, and that no employees will be laid off immediately.

Mercury Plunges To All-Time Low In Texas Towns

The lush Rio Grande valley reported one of the most disastrous hard freezes on record today as a cold wave brought all-time low temperatures to Texas and below-zero readings as far south as San Antonio.

The valley tomato and potato crop was a total loss, ripening fruit was heavily damaged and citrus men say trees themselves, especially young trees, may be damaged.

In one valley count, Cameron, County Agent Frank Bruneman estimated vegetable damage alone will run higher than $15,000,000.

Frost covered a wide valley area. The temperature at Brownsville, southern end of the valley, fell to 22.7 degrees. It was feared even harder crops such as cabbage and carrots may be lost. Llano, near Austin, reported a reading of six degrees below zero.

The mercury dove to three degrees below zero at Waco and Bryan, and two degrees below at Sherman, Fort Worth and Austin.

It was four-tenths of a degree below at San Antonio. Temperatures records were broken at many points, including Austin, Waco, San Antonio and Bryan.

Maximum radiation under clear skies and snow-covered ground were responsible for the terrific temperatures.

Sixteen deaths have resulted from the current cold wave in Texas.

The record temperatures brought hardship and suffering to many portions of the state unaccustomed to such bitter weather.

That portion of Texas from Dallas and Fort Worth south caught the brunt of the cold-wave last night. Amarillo's temperature of nine degrees above zero was relatively high.

At Dallas, the reading was two degrees above zero. On the Mexican border, Laredo had a temperature of 23 degrees.

Snow falls reached record proportions Sunday in many parts of the state. In the Hill Country of South Central Texas nine inches fell. In Central Texas the fall was six inches — in East Texas eight inches.

The record temperatures put a hard crust on the snow-covered to hard and highways were extremely hazardous.

The actual reading at San Antonio was five-tenths of a degree below zero. Coldest weather ever recorded in the past at this mid-wintered city was Feb. 12, 1899 when four degrees above zero was registered. Four and seven hundredths inches of snow fell there Sunday.

Streets were ice-covered at Austin. Buses stopped running at 7 p.m. last night and only a few taxis operated. Every tree and shrub was covered with half an inch of frost.

Somewhat warmer but continued freezing weather was predicted for both East and West Texas this afternoon and tonight.

The two degrees below zero at Fort Worth was the coldest weather of the century there.

The zero temperature at Pampa yesterday was the coldest of the winter. The low last night was five degrees above zero and two and

Wishbone Casualty In Search For The Chicken Of Tomorrow

Tomorrow's chicken won't have a wishbone (pulley bone if you were "raised" way back in the forks) according to America's leading poultrymen.

They base this on progress made in the Chicken-of-Tomorrow contest which recently terminated the awarding of a $5,000 first prize to a California hatchery. The bird had less wishbone but more layers of white meat, plumper drumsticks.

The poultrymen were just downright pleased with results, which really exceeded expectations for the three-year nationwide contest. But they aren't satisfied. Now they want another three-year program to produce a 1951 model bird.

And if it all pans out, by that time the COT will be a fowl quite plump, sans that pretty little breast bone. Instead they want more white meat up front and drumsticks as marvelous as a corpulent lady who won't leave potatoes alone.

This remarkable creature would weigh a juicy four pounds at 12 weeks on 12 pounds of feed. Poultrymen from coast to coast will be asked to take part in the contest to breed this wonder into being. There is little doubt that they can succeed, for some of the past contest flocks achieved the record of many birds weighing nearly five pounds at 12 weeks. The ideal of more conformation with a greater average meat yield is at hand.

But no wishbone! Gee whist!

Reciprocal Trade Agreement Needed To Encourage Trade

President Truman has requested Congress to renew the Trade Agreements act for three years. This is better known as the reciprocal trade act under which the state department explores specific measures for broadening mutually beneficial trade.

After investigation and hearings, the department may negotiate reciprocal agreements with other nations seeking to increase volume of trade with the United States.

This policy was inaugurated under Secretary of State Hull and flourished to show results. It reached its peak in 1947 when the U. S. signed agreements with 22 other nations covering tariff rates on 45,000 items.

A year ago Congress reversed the trend by dealing the act some sore blows for one year in anticipation of complete emancipation under a change in administration. But the contrary thing happened. The congress and not the administration was changed. Perhaps this also reflected the public willingness to return to enlightened reciprocity, which is particularly appropriate in view of the United States' creditor position.

The Marshall Plan also has emphasized the need for increased trade, for one of the purposes of the ERA has been to help other nations help themselves get back on their feet so that they can once more begin trading. In the interest of consistency and of realizing to some degree on our investment, the extension of the reciprocal trade act is in order as a means of encouraging the flow of trade.

Matter Of Fact—Joseph And Stewart Alsop

American ERP Administrator Caught Up In French Politics

PARIS—For any American in his sense it is brusquely sobering to discover the powerful influence of Washington on the internal politics—we at home would consider the private affairs—of the nations of Western Europe. A year and a half ago only American financial aid saved most Western European nations from succumbing to dictatorships either of the Left or of the Right. But this phenomenon has now developed into something much more complex and in some ways alarming.

Here in France, for instance, the basic law of the European Recovery Program has the effect of pushing the Paris E.R.P. Administrator, David Bruce, into the center of the whirlwind of French politics. It is worth examining the problem in some detail to see why this is so.

Very crudely speaking, the grand political contest in France is now between the men of the center—the members of the Socialist, Radical and M.R.P. parties—and General Charles de Gaulle and his followers. The Communists were the menace that first caused Frenchmen to rally to de Gaulle.

Their present role is to help de Gaulle by such attacks on the French economy as the recent coal strike. The demand for de Gaulle, the strong man, always grows louder when political or financial instability increases, and subsidies proportionally when the outlook improves.

It is something of a miracle that the French Center has survived thus far, through the long succession of Ramadier, Schuman, Reynaud and Queuille cabinets. None the less, it has survived. And since the passage of Prime Minister Queuille's rather precariously balanced budget, most wisacres even give the Center at least a chance to survive in the future.

Survival of the Center is difficult for two reasons. Certain issues, such as the Radicals' deep disagreement with the Socialists about state planning, deeply divide the Center parties. And with a few such eminent exceptions as Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and the President of the Republic, Vincent Auriol, the Center lacks big men. Survival has been possible only because Marshall aid has eased the situation here, and because the old Socialist, Auriol, is a political master hand.

Auriol's part, in effect, has been that of the wise old leader of a herd of cattle on the range. Whenever the wolves of the Right and Left come dangerously close, as they do in every governmental crisis, Auriol gives the warning call. Then the whole herd forms up in a circle with their horns outward; the crisis is somewhat surmounted, and a new Centrist government is formed. The Center strategy is to continue to repeat this maneuver indefinitely, if possible, until better times weaken the extremist groupings of Left and Right.

The American role in this process arises inevitably from the conditions Congress attached to the European Recovery Program. For every dollar of Marshall aid, the French government is first required to sterilize an equivalent sum in France in what is known as the counter-part fund. Second, the French government is forbidden to draw upon this fund, which will amount next year to more than 250 billion francs, unless the government is following "non-inflationary" fiscal policies.

The traditions of French government finance have never been especially puritanical. The tendency therefore has always been to put off all such unpleasant actions as imposing new taxes and dismissing surplus bureaucrats, until disaster actually threatened. Now, however, when disaster begins to loom, the first step is to go to David Bruce and ask for a few billions from the counterpart to ease the situation. Being strictly restrained by Congressional injunction, Bruce must then reply that he cannot release the billions until the causes of the threatened disaster have been removed.

Thus "American interference" is grumbled against in many circles, while the Gaullists even make the extraordinary demand that all releases of counterpart funds should be stopped, in order to precipitate a final crisis and force a French election.

It is remarkable that, having been placed in this extraordinary delicate position, David Bruce has managed to retain the respect and win the liking of all groups except the communist diehards. But the fact that Bruce is doing a difficult job with superlative tact does not diminish the American responsibility. Nor does it simplify the problem posed by this new role which the United States cannot for a time escape from playing in European politics.

U. S. Hopes To Work Out Temporary 'Economic Accord' With Russia

WASHINGTON. — A highly important off-the-record conference between the House Armed Service Committee and the top military advisers of the Pentagon building last week may have set the pattern for a new policy of attempted co-operation with Russia.

The United States, the congressmen were told, hopes to work out a temporary "economic agreement" with Russia.

Furthermore, the State Department sees no immediate prospect of war with Russia. The congressmen were even told that the Russians do not appear to be preparing for war.

These statements are in amazing contrast to the type of information which was handed out by Secretary of Defense Forrestal's office just about a year ago. At that time newsmen and congressmen alike were told in hushed voices about the imminence of war, given details about sensational Russian airplane manufacture.

At the recent closed-door conference between congressmen and the brass hats, however, the ground was laid for cutting the 'Air Force down from 70 air groups to 48 groups.

The meeting was called at the instance of Secretary Forrestal. He had the session well organized. Doing little talking himself, he called on various experts, the most important being George Kennan, the State Department's chief Russian expert. Kennan is the famous Mr. X who devised the State Department policy of surrounding Russia with a ring of anti-Communist nations.

This time, however, Kennan talked about an "economic agreement" with Russia to promote world peace through better trade relations.

Kennan didn't specify the form of the agreement, except to say that Russia greatly needed American goods, because of production deficiencies behind the iron curtain, and probably would be willing to do business. Nor would the State Department official guarantee success of the agreement on a long-time scale.

A permanent agreement with Russia outside the framework of the United Nations, for trade or other purposes, would have little chance of success. But when Russia needs something, her leaders are practical enough to forget their animosities until the need is fulfilled. On our part, he added, a trade agreement with Russia, even of temporary character, would be a step in the direction of continuing world peace.

The State Department still is convinced that Russia is not preparing for an armed war against the United States. She is not ready now and will not be ready in the foreseeable future to cope with our vast military production in event of war, Kennan told the congressmen.

Best intelligence we have is that Russia won't have any appreciable production of atomic bombs until 1951, Kennan reported, and by that time we will make Russia's production of the bomb seem infinitesimal.

However, he stressed that war could break out in Europe, even though Russia is not planning on one.

For this reason, Kennan said, it was highly urgent that we expedite action on the proposed Atlantic Pact, both to implement the Marshall Plan and to give West European nations further assurances of protection against Russia.

The Atlantic Pact would be a strong "morale builder" for these nations, he emphasized. The Marshall aid program has been as "successful as anyone could hope," he said, but countries which have aroused Russian ire as a result of our help, are clamoring for definite evidence of armed assistance.

Armed services committeemen also got a fill-in on our sensational new B-36 bomber from Air Secretary Stuart Symington, who reported that late tests proved the plane capable of a phenomenal flying range.

I believe he is the right man to help a good cause."

Lily Mae Clawson, Spastics of America, Wichita—"How could anyone have felt sorry for Mr. Roosevelt merely because he was unable to walk! What a great inspiration he was to others who cannot walk. He taught everyone, the able-bodied and disabled alike, that a handicap need not prevent success." Mrs. Lydia Coyle, Arenzville, Ill. — "Your idea about President Truman making a record for the infantile paralysis fund is so wonderful." Bowling Alley Proprietor's Association of Greater Chicago — "our organizations are composed of at least 150,000 people here in Chicago. Thousands of dollars have been raised here for the various benefits. We offer full support and hearty endorsement to your idea and believe it would sweep the country." The Music Shop, Alhambra, Cal. — "We'll do all we can to support the idea." Lancaster County (Pa.) Home for Crippled Children—"you father another fine idea. Unfortunately, O'Connor (head of the Warm Springs Foundation) and the other top brass seem mostly interested in perpetuating the name National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; so much so that Sister Kenny, who undoubtedly has contributed much, has publicly blasted their methods." Carl Saunders, Pasadena, Cal. — "I'll play 'em and plug 'em." Frances Nathanson, Los Angeles—"It's a fine idea but your suggestion for the dedication, 'a crippled president who helped a crippled nation,' sounds terrible. Why not 'in memory of a great president who gave his life for a great nation'." Mary D. Pickens, Chevy Chase, Md.—"Let the public celebrate our President's birthday every year no matter who is President. Let the proceeds all over the country go to some charity." ten letters from students of Stetson Junior High School, Philadelphia, offering to buy Truman records.

Lewis Stone Serves 25 Years With MGM

HOLLYWOOD. — When a man serves 25 years with one firm, he is often presented with a gold watch.

Not Lewis Stone. To celebrate his 25 years with MGM, he has been given the role of a bum.

"This is the quintessence of type casting—I play a bum," he jested on the "Any Number Can Play" set. "The character is supposed to prove the adage that horse players always die broke."

Stone, who usually plays distinguished gentlemen on the screen, doesn't mind the casting at all. It's just another role in a long series of roles that have grown dim with the years. I asked him to name his favorite.

"That's like asking a dentist to name his favorite job," he answered. "I have no favorites. Some roles are good, some are bad, some are interesting and some are dull."

The actor couldn't remember the first picture he did at MGM, nor has he kept track of how many he has done. "When I signed with MGM, I never would have believed that the movie business would last 25 years," he said.

Somewhat, the movies didn't blow over, and he has stayed at the Culver City lot "long enough to be considered part of the property, just like a piece of furniture." He and Louis B. Mayer are about the only ones who have lasted since the beginning.

"That young kid, Lionel Barrymore, came a couple of years after I did," Stone recalled.

The 60-year-old actor is perhaps best known for his roles as Judge Hardy. For eight years he did nothing else.

"It was professional suicide," he remarked. But though he was typed as the benign judge, he enjoyed the series. And he thinks the Hardy may yet return, although Mickey Rooney has outgrown his role as Andy.

"AND TO KINSMEN EBERT" — WILL YOU COURTEOUSLY BEND OVER, EBERT?!"

Old Central School Once Villian Of True Episode

Old Central Ward school, long since disassembled to make way for a greater Big Spring, for five years of my adolescent life threw the rough fundamentals of education my way that were to stand me in good stead for the remainder of my days.

The great, red citadel of learning was also the villain, however innocent, of an episode which was to teach me the true meaning of the word "curfew" even before I came to know how to spell the word.

Situated on the south side of the structure, slanting downward from a second story vent, was a fire escape, a chute which provided the male students with an enjoyable though sometimes hazardous method of recreation during and after school hours.

Contests wherein the boys would determine who could travel the furthest from the exit in a single plunge were not uncommon, though strictly contrary to school regulations. The use of bread wrappers and other types of waxed paper helped no little in speeding one's passage down the slide.

One night while coming home from a movie, my elder brother and I strolled by the school, heard the infectious and familiar chant of friends who had approached the slide in search of excitement and entertainment. Though it was late, and we kinsmen had resorted to subterfuge to go to the movie in the first place, the lure was fatal. We yielded to the urge and joined the others; were to tarry there until midnight.

Ultimately, we hiked homeward, oblivious of any wrong doing, found there a weary, worried and slightly vexed maternal parent, waiting to challenge our right to be abroad at night.

The verbal lashing we received for reduced us from carefree adventurers to bewildered striplings yearning for as little safety. But the worst was yet ahead of us. Her method of censor set off a kind of vibration that could best be likened to the ripples that evolve from dropping a rock into a pool of water.

The echo from the greeting was not long in descending upon the ears of the master of the household, trying to sleep in the rear of the house. My brother and I both clamped our jaws over our aural appendages and shut our eyes, hoping to neutralize the furor we had inspired, but to no avail. The governor hit the ceiling before he hit the floor.

Science says there isn't such a thing as cold, that it can better be described as lack of heat. The heat, the learned ones add, is caused by friction. Well, the friction that was to be applied by the ancestor to our outer regions was to provide so much heat that the memory of it lingered on long afterwards. I made only one request, that "I be licked first." He complied and most methodically dealt out my medicine.

Nocturnal escapades held very little appeal for us after that.—TOMMY HART

Democracy Must Feel Heat To Really Get Moving Fast

WASHINGTON. — A DEMOCRACY is like an elephant with a hot foot. It'll move, all right, but not like lightning. And, before it moves at all, it really has to feel the heat.

That's why so much of what you read about in Washington gets done, when it gets done, so slowly.

Congress is the prime example.

This very slowness has a virtue of its own.

It gives an issue which seems red hot at the moment time to die down, until it's no longer an issue.

And it gives the people, with their conflicting and often strong views, time to make their feelings and their reasons known.

Then, since Congress represents the people, the decision it makes at last should pretty well represent the will of most of the people.

That isn't always so and when it isn't, or when Congress by its slowness shows it doesn't understand or ignores the needs or will of the people, they can change the Congress at the next election.

THIS SLOWNESS—THE RESULT OF trying to get the minds of congress and the people to reach an agreement— isn't always a virtue. Some day, in a time of great danger, it may be a disaster. So far we've been lucky.

Three issues in the present Congress show pretty well the slow process of government:

Opening the benefits of social security to those not protected now; raising the minimum wage; and the pre-paid medical care program.

The social security program and a higher minimum wage may get through Congress this year, although that's not certain. There seems far less chance for the medical program.

But the labor law is one of the prize examples.

For years before 1935 labor had clamored for a law which unions felt would help them in dealing with employers. Employers fought the whole idea.

FINALLY, SUCH A LAW, THE WAGNER Act, was passed in 1935. Then for 12 years employers clamored to have it changed or knocked out.

This wasn't done till the Republicans got control of Congress in 1947, after being out of control since 1932.

Right away they drastically rewrote the labor law and passed the Taft-Hartley Act, this pleased employers. But labor screamed.

But after only two years in the saddle, the Republicans now have lost control again to the Democrats. The people made the upset in the elections.

And now the Democrats are going to change the labor law around to suit at least some of the union's demands.

Today And Tomorrow — Walter Lippmann

Reds 'Peace Offensive' Coupled With China Events

The Communist peace offensive was launched a few weeks ago by M. Cacin in an address to the French Parliament, and was then taken up vigorously by Signor Togliatti in Italy. It has coincided with the economic conference held in Moscow this month by Russia and her satellites, minus Yugoslavia and Finland. It has coincided also with the collapse of the Nationalists in China and the victory of the Communists.

The peace offensive in Western Europe is, I believe, connected with the economic conference of Eastern Europe and with the events in China. The connection, which was explained to me emphatically last November by certain highly influential Western Communists, is the realization that the Soviet orbit is, as compared with the United States and Western Europe, a much underdeveloped region of the earth. There is no doubt that it is: If we take the capacity to produce steel as a rough measure of industrial power, the whole Soviet orbit, vast as it is, is not within sight of being equal even of Western Europe—leaving out entirely the enormously greater industrial power of the United States.

These facts are not new. But what is almost certainly new is that the Communists in Western and in Eastern Europe—and almost certainly Stalin and the peace party in the Kremlin—have realized and recognized these facts. The Soviet orbit is a big place, bigger than ever if it is to include China. The problem of supplying it with what it needs is a formidable undertaking, and Mr. Mikoyan who is, so to speak, the Paul Hoffman of the Soviet orbit, is probably very much aware that the satellites are also clients who want a lot more than he is able to give them.

A Communist who stands very high in the hierarchy told me that in his opinion it would take Russia thirty years to catch up with the United States, that the past two years had proved that Russia could not supply the Eastern European countries with the capital goods that were essential if they were to raise their standard of life. And he went on to forecast not only the present agitation for peace but added the prediction that Moscow would relax her veto on collaboration with the Marshall plan.

When I first heard it, I did not know what to make of this prediction: why, if it was sincere, he made it to me; why, if it was not, he should tell a lie that events would soon expose. That was before Cacin and Togliatti had begun their agitation for peace.

The character of their campaign is such that I, for one, do not think it can be dismissed as mere psychological warfare. The notable thing about the Cacin-Togliatti campaign is that they are preaching peace and collaboration to their own followers—not merely to their opponents, as is always the case in a mere peace offensive.

Would they dare, I wonder, to do that if they intended to call upon their followers to launch more insurrectionary strikes like that which was attempted, and failed so miserably, in Italy last summer after Togliatti was shot, and in France last autumn in the coal mines? Cacin and Togliatti are intelligent men, and I find it hard to believe that they would soften up the French and Italian working classes if they were preparing for a new campaign of insurrectionary strikes.

Knowing, as they do, how profoundly and widely they are suspected and distrusted, they must know that the practical test of their campaign for peace and collaboration will not be in the high diplomacy of Soviet-Western relations. The practical test will be immediate and continuous. It will be whether they use their influence among the trade unions to encourage or obstruct French and Italian production. If they obstruct, their campaign will collapse and they will have accomplished nothing except to prove in a very spectacular way to the working class of Western Europe that the very thing, if they encourage production, their peace campaign will begin to accomplish what they say it is intended to accomplish.

There is, therefore, no reason why we should not wait and see, standing on the cool and sensible position taken by Mr. Lovett last week. If this is a mere peace offensive, a trick of psychological warfare, the behavior of the Communist-dominated trade unions in France and Italy will expose the deceit far more convincingly than all the nervous warnings printed over here.

Relief Client Held For Shooting Priest

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. (AP) — Police tossed tear gas bombs at Stanford's second-floor front room at 212 East 69th Street, but most of the missiles bounced back, spreading fumes in the street.

After bullets had affected Stanford's capture, police found a collection of queer items in his room. Among them was a false black mustache inside an envelope on which was printed "mustache and goatee. Wear one for fun."

Police said a woman witness to the church shooting on Saturday reported the priest's assailant wore a black mustache—apparently.

Dozens of shots were fired in the 45-minute gun battle, Stanford, wounded in the chest and neck, was taken to Bellevue Hospital. He was charged with felonious assault in the wounding of a priest.

The prisoner, who had blazed away with a .22 caliber rifle from the room where he was trapped, also was booked on a felonious assault charge for a finger wound suffered by a detective, and on a charge of violating the Sullivan (anti-weapons) law.

Police were led to Stanford's rooming house when, in the course of combing the neighborhood for a clue to the priest's assailant, they got a tip from a neighbor about a man who had rambled about religiously.

Ordered by police to surrender, Stanford replied by firing through the door of his room. Police pumped more than a dozen bullets into the room before he was subdued.

Police finally battered down the door and found Stanford lying on the floor, wounded twice. At his side lay a rifle, its clip of bullets exhausted.

An intensive search had been conducted since late Saturday, when a gunman rose from a pew in the quiet Church of St. John the Martyr, unwrapped a paper-covered rifle, fired into a confessional booth and fled.

The Rev. Vincent J. Campbell, inside the booth, was wounded in the leg, but not seriously.

Pravda Prints Reaction To Red Protest On Pact

MOSCOW, Jan. 31. (AP) — The Communist newspaper Pravda devoted nearly two columns today to reactions from abroad to Russia's white paper on the North Atlantic Alliance.

A Tass dispatch from New York said the American comments only reflect "an effort to deny the fact that the aim of the pact is the forcible establishment of Anglo-American world sovereignty and undermining of the United Nations."

The official Soviet news agency dispatch said some newspapers were at the same time trying to prove the responsibility of the Soviet Union for the establishment in the world of the conditions that brought about the Western European Union.

Southwest Cage Race Resumed

By The Associated Press

The hectic Southwest Conference basketball race picks up again this week and you can take your choice among Rice, Baylor and Texas as the top title favorite.

These three teams are in a virtual tie for the lead. Each has been beaten once.

Baylor, crippled by the loss of Guard Bill Johnson, has won five victories to hold a percentage advantage.

Loop play opens tonight at Fayetteville, Ark., with Texas A&M taking on Arkansas, a rank outsider now in the championship chase.

Thursday the University of Texas Longhorns are host to Oklahoma University at Dallas and Saturday two games are scheduled—Texas and Texas A&M play at College Station and Baylor and Rice at Waco.

Johnson hurt his back in an automobile accident last week and is out for the remainder of the season.

The slow-starting Rice Owls have hit a terrific pace of late and loom as the best possibility to replace Baylor as the conference champion.

The Owls, paced by Big Bill Tom, have five of their remaining eight games at home.

Texas A&M picks up strength this week when Jewell McDowell, sensational freshman, becomes eligible.

Tom paces season scoring with 229 points. Julius Dolnic of Texas Christian leads conference scoring with 80 points.

PROPOSED RENT CONTROL BILL DRAWS PROTEST FROM READER

Dear Editor:

Wish the people would voice their protests against the abominable rent control bill that the solons are trying to enact into law.

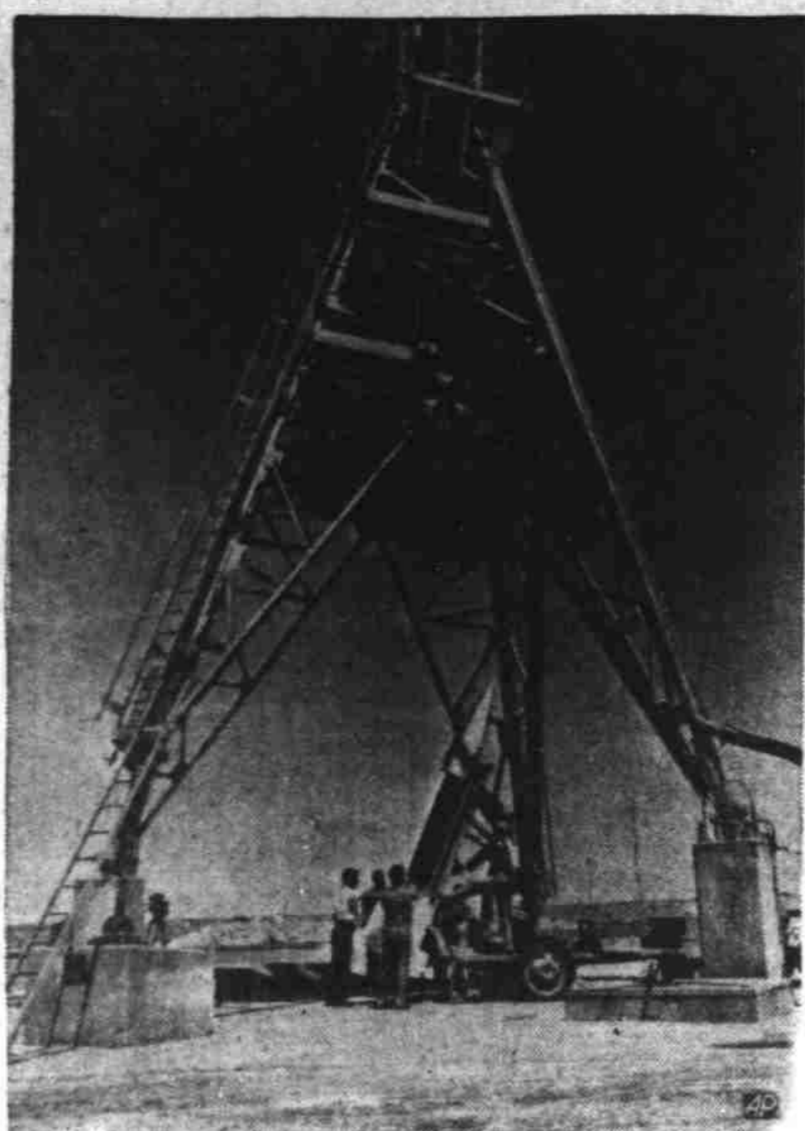

If and when this fallacious measure is put into law, we shall then be serving Hitlerism from our own table.

To my way of thinking socialism will be more attractive than will be this obnoxious law—a lesser evil of the two.

Russia To Free 30,000 PWs

BERLIN, Jan. 31. (AP) — Taegliche Rundschau, Soviet army newspaper in Germany, says about 30,000 German prisoners of war will be repatriated in February.

In one paragraph item, the Soviet organ said yesterday prisoners will arrive aboard several transports at Frankfurt-On-The-Oder in Russian occupation zone.

Allied and German sources estimate the Soviet still holds more than 200,000 German war prisoners.

Early this month the United States, Britain and France asked Russia how many German prisoners she held, the three powers said they had fulfilled an agreement by the big four foreign ministers council to release all German prisoners by last Dec. 31.

Tass, official Russian news agency, said the Soviet was not bound by the 1947 agreement since the Dec. 31 deadline was dependent on a plan of repatriation to be worked out through the four-power Berlin Allied Control Council. Efforts to work out details collapsed in Berlin.

A U. S. State Department spokesman pointed out, in answer to Tass, that Moscow agreed flatly in an earlier agreement to return POWs by that date.

Blair Cherry Gets $1,500 Pay Boost

AUSTIN, Jan. 31. (AP) — Blair Cherry got a new five year contract and a $1,500 salary boost to continue as head football coach at the University of Texas.

The Board of Regents of the University Friday approved the new contract, calling for an annual salary of $12,500.

The Regents also gave Cherry a vote of thanks for staying at Texas "out of loyalty" although he had reportedly received better offers to join the pro football coaching ranks.

Cherry's entire staff was rehired and given salary increases.

Cherry became head football coach at Texas in 1947 after ten years as an assistant to Dana X. Bible, who quit to devote full time to his duties as athletic director.

In his first year as head coach, Cherry instituted the T-formation and the only game the Longhorns lost was a 13-14 defeat by Southern Methodist University. Texas beat Alabama in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day 1948.

The Longhorns lost three games and tied one last year, but upset Georgia, 41-28, in the Orange Bowl.

His old contract had two years to go.

Salary raises approved for the assistant coaches:

H. C. (Bully) Gilstrap, first assistant and end coach $7,500 a year, an increase of $500.

Ed Price, line coach, $7,000 a year, an increase of $1,000.

Eck Curtis, backfield coach, $7,000 a year, an increase of $1,000.

Harold (Buddy) Jungmichel, freshman coach, $5,000 a year, an increase of $1,000.

Scandinavians Fail To Agree On Pact

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 31. (AP) — Norway, Sweden and Denmark have been unable to agree on a joint attitude toward the proposed Atlantic Security pact.

Months of negotiations between the three Scandinavian nations ended in failure yesterday.

Sweden insisted on preserving her principle of neutrality, Norway favored joining the broad western defense system and Denmark was said not to have made a definite choice.

Norway was reported to have stuck to her pro-western stand despite Russian pressure.

Russia asked Norway Saturday whether she intended to join the North Atlantic Alliance and whether she intended to grant military bases in Norway to the western powers.

The questions came shortly after the Soviet government asserted the North Atlantic pact is intended to establish American-British domination of the world by force.

The pact, as now described, would take in the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

The Soviet note to Norway pointedly called attention to the fact that Norway and Russia have a common frontier and said the "initiators" of the Atlantic pact were seeking bases in states "close to the frontiers of the Soviet Union."

Officials in Stockholm and Copenhagen said Russia had not approached Sweden and Denmark with questions such as those asked of Norway.

BUFFS LOSE IN FINALS

Coahoma Wraps Up Sterling City Casaba Championship

STERLING CITY, Jan. 31. — A furious last half surge propelled the Coahoma Bulldogs to a 61-26 victory over the Forsan Bulldogs in the finals of the Sterling City boys' invitational basketball tournament here Saturday night.

The Bulldogs had a comfortable ten-point lead at half time. If there was any doubt as to the outcome at that stage, Ed Robertson's game erupted it after play was resumed. They led, 41-24, after three quarters of play and permitted the Buffs only two points in the final eight minutes.

Coahoma defeated Christoval, 56-10; Westbrook, 51-20, and Big Spring, 55-26, to reach the finals. Forsan attained the finals by drubbing the Courtney Eagles, 33-13.

Westbrook won the girls' championship with a 15-13 triumph over Coahoma in the finals.

Sterling's A string won the consolation round in boys' play with a 20-13 victory over the Sterling B string. Lakeview was the consolation bracket winner, having edged Merton in their last game, 35-13.

Jackie Wolf was high scorer in two of the Coahoma games, rapping 18 and 23 points, respectively. Edwin (Red) Dickson bagged preliminary game point-getting laurels in the opening game with Christoval when he hit for 18 points. Bill Bennett was outstanding in the final bout with 25 points.

Members of the boys' all-tournament team were Dickson and Wolf, Ken Baker of Forsan, Bob Brown of Sterling City and James McNee, Westbrook.

James Suttles of Forsan was named the winner of the sportsmanship award. Each member of the all-star squad was given a miniature gold basketball.

Selected for the girls' all-tournament squad were Kiser and Lindley of Coahoma, Glaspie, Courtney; Barber and Dorn, both of Westbrook; and Corbell, Lakeview.

Lewis of Lakeview won the sportsmanship award in that division of play.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Monday, Jan. 31, 1949 5

Looking 'Em Over
by Tommy Hart

They may not win another basketball game this season but the members of the Big Spring high school team can always look back on the 1948-49 campaign with satisfaction. In coping the Odessa invitational tournament last weekend, the Bovines walked off with the spoils in just about the best show of its kind in West Texas, if not the entire state.

They did the impossible by forcing the fight to the enemy most of the way and controlling the ball in all their starts. A lafge bouquet of congratulations should go to Coach Johnny Malaise, too, who this department regards as the best young coach in the Texas interscholastic league's vast organization. John took a bunch of rinkydinks, so to speak, and moulded them into an aggressive, well oiled machine.

In his four seasons here, the one-time North Texas cager has done a tremendous job of "selling" the game to the prep students. He's got more lads playing the game now down through the grades than ever before and would be doing an even bigger job, if facilities permitted.

The Longhorns have shown a remarkable ability to fight back after being all but laid out on the canvas at the half time. In the Odessa title game with Andrews, the locals were down seven points at one stage but rallied and had pulled ahead before the quarter was out. John had instructed his boys to work the ball in and take nothing but crisp shots and the strategy paid off.

ODESSA PROMOTERS STAGED GREAT SHOW

The Odessa people spared no expense in putting on a good show. Not only did they give a giant trophy to the Steers and awards almost as big to the runnersup and consolation winners, they also honored Malaise with an appropriate prize. Each member of the local team was given a miniature gold basketball, too.

LAMESA TORNAOES EXPERIENCE SLUMP

Those who saw the Odessa tournament say the Lamesa Tornadoes are not playing the brand of ball necessary to carry them to the district title. They were down nine points to Andrews in the semi-final game and, although they pulled to within a point of the Mustangs, they never actually looked as if they were capable of going ahead.

If we were to pick a favorite for the district title, it would be Abilene. Unsung Denver City proved one of the toughest clubs in the tournament. The quintet came within two points of entering the finals. Had it played Andrews in the last round, Denver City probably would have been favored to come out on top.

COLLIER'S TO SELECT ALL-AMERICA

Hank Iba, the astute Oklahoma A&M casaba mentor, will be a member of a five-man staff that picks an All-America cage team for Collier's magazine this season. The others: Everett Dean of Stanford, Clair Bee of Long Island; Ozzie Cowles, Minnesota; and Adolph Rupp, Kentucky.

Iba's star center, Ben Harris, has a very good chance to rate the first team. Others who could get the most support are Alex Groza, Kentucky; Ed Macauley, St. Louis; Kevin O'Shea, Notre Dame; and Tony Lavelli, Cornell.

LOCAL MAN WOULD ALTER PLAYOFFS

Dan Conley, a member of the local school, says Shaughnessy playoffs in baseball are unfair, that the full season leader is always at a disadvantage for several reasons.

Dan would revolutionize the system by having each of the top four clubs in the standings play the other three eligibles five games. The team boasting the best won-and-lost average at the conclusion of the series would be declared the champion.

Sounds good. Why couldn't the Longhorn league try it out next season? Too long, you say? Well, the 1948 playoffs consumed as much time.

Bovines Entertain Tornado Five In League Contest Here Tuesday

Fresh from a surprising sweep to the title in the Odessa invitational basketball tournament, the Big Spring high school Steers return to action here Tuesday night in an important engagement with the Lamesa Tornadoes.

The Tornadoes are currently setting the pace in District 3AA standings. Only last week they clinched a place in the playoffs by beating Odessa by a single point. They later lost to Andrews in the semi-finals of the Odessa tournament, 26-25.

The Lamesas handled the Steers quite easily in Lamesa earlier this month but this time out they'll face an improved and an aroused Steer outfit that should be much tougher to handle.

Johnny Malaise's Longhorns will be fighting to remain in the conference playoffs. They're currently mired in fifth place and face the necessity of winning all their remaining games if they slip into the top four.

The Steers had one all-tournament performer at Odessa in Cuin

Grigsby and might have had others had the squad not been picked before the final game. As it so happened, practically every one was expecting them to lose long before the finals. In fact, it would have surprised no one had defending champion McCamey taken their measure in the opening round.

The Longhorns go back to Odessa Friday night for a conference joust with the Bronchos.

The Detroit Red Wings set a new attendance record for the Motor City recently when 15,336 fans watched them beat Toronto, 2-1.

Prep Baseball Program Will Help Majors

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
AP Staff

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. — You seldom hear much about baseball's high school committee except when some club gets slapped with a $500 fine for violating a rule that committee drew up. . . but Jim Gallagher of the Cubs forwards a mass of material which indicates this committee may have helped the game a lot. . . in 1940, a typical pre-war year, some 5,000 high schools carried on baseball programs. Last year there were 8,500. . . state championship tournaments increased from 16 to 29 and there has been a great increase in school-sponsored summer baseball, something that pleases the professionals greatly. . . Iowa, for instance, holds spring, summer and fall championships; Minnesota put on a big program, capped by 32 district tournaments, and other states have liberalized their rules to permit more summer play. . . organized baseball's hands-off policy can't be given credit for all this, since the rule wasn't effective until 1946. . . but, as Gallagher points out, before then "many principals felt a few years ago that when they permitted baseball to be carried on as a part of the school athletic program, they merely encouraged boys to be lured out of high school by professional scouts."

When Carl Bennett, Fort Wayne Zollners' athletic director, was summoned from Minneapolis to New York for a meeting, he was reluctant to miss the basketball game his team was playing against the Minneapolis Lakers. . . Carl saw the first half, hurried to the airport and found his plane had been delayed. . . Immediately Bennett telephoned a Fort Wayne radio station, arranged for the announcer to place the phone beside his mike and listened to the broadcast of the entire second half in the phone booth.

Since the wintery weather hit the University of Kansas, Dolph Simmons and Kent Thomas, two good football guards, have been injured in coasting accidents on icy Mt. Read. . . when the medical reports came in, Coach J. V. Sikes sprang: "We'll have to start practicing early this year to cut down on injuries." . . Homer Dunham, enthusiastic publicity director at Western Michigan College, proposed a two-year plan for picking an all-America college baseball team. He's begun with picking all-tournament teams at this year's regional and national NCAA playoffs. . . At least he won't have to worry about two-plateau stuff. . . Charley Bachman, ex-Michigan State grid coach, is out with a book on "the Z formation." Its chapter on how to meet changing defenses should interest a lot of coaches.

J. Ryan Jessell, Marquette U. track star of the early 1930's, now is "assistant professor of crowns and fixed partial dentures" in the Marquette School of Dentistry. . . That's a job you can get your teeth into.

Hogan, Demaret Vie At Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 31. (AP)—Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret continue their golfing tete a tete today when they meet in an 18-hole playoff to decide the winner of the $10,000 Phoenix Open Tournament.

Yesterday Hogan pulled the same trick he did the previous week at Long Beach, Calif., when he scored a one-under-par four on the final hole to tie Demaret. Both had 72-hole totals of 278—the highest in a Phoenix open since 1935.

Hogan had a final 74 and Demaret a 73 on the par 71 Phoenix country club course, a flat 6,578-yard layout.

Hogan seeks his third consecutive victory in open golf competition, having won the 1949 Bing Crosby event before his triumph at Long Beach.

Lower scorer today takes $2,000 first prize and the loser $1,400—but each figures to earn considerably more.

They'll divide 50 per cent of the gate with the admission price set at $1.50. Yesterday's crowd was estimated at 4,000 to 5,000.

Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., and Sammy Sneed, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., finished in a tie for third with 280.

Next in line was Marty Fargol, Albuquerque, N. M., with 281. Clayton Heiser, Charlotte, N. C., and Bob Hamilton, Landover, Md., had 282.

Bill Nary of Phoenix was alone at 283, while Dick Mertz, Virginia Beach, Va., and Fred Hass, Jr., New Orleans, had 284.

Other money winners were Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., and Toney Penas, Cincinnati, Ohio, 285; George Fazio, Conshohocken, Pa., and Jack Harden, El Paso, 286; Ted Kroll, Philmont, Pa., Emery Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., and Dale Anderson, Glenview, Ill., 287; and John Revolta, Evanston, Ill., Jimmy Ukanaka, Hilo, Hawaii, Leola Gibson, Kansas City, Mo., and Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., 288.

Kentucky Cats Pointing For New Chance Against St. Louis Bills

Two Clubs Are Still Unbeaten

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. (AP)—The mighty Kentucky Wildcats today appeared headed for a post-season basketball showdown with their only conqueror—St. Louis University.

Winners of five straight since their two-point Sugar Bowl loss to St. Louis, the Wildcats have kept quiet about their tournament plans. But it's no secret around their Lexington campus that they'd like another shot at Easy Ed Macauley and Company.

Kentucky, currently rated the second best team in the country, is the defending N. C. A. A. champion. St. Louis, the No. 1 team, is the ruling king of the other big March tournament, New York's National Invitation.

Unbeaten major teams are practically extinct. Only Villanova (12-0) and Hamline (14-0) haven't been beaten and their schedules indicate it will be only a matter of time.

Villanova has to play Duquesne tonight, Chicago Loyola Wednesday, Baldwin-Wallace Thursday and Bowling Green (Ohio) Saturday, all away from home. Hamline should keep winning until Feb. 17 when it meets the Phillips Oilers.

Western-Kentucky, ranked fourth in the latest Associated Press Poll, and Minnesota, ranked fifth, were defeated for the first time Saturday night.

Minnesota ran afoul of Illinois, 45-44, in the top game of the week at Champaign. Western was upset by its bitter intra-state rival, Eastern Kentucky, 42-40.

Oklahoma A&M, No. 3 in the nation, avenged one of its two losses of the season Saturday by whipping DePaul in Chicago, 37-26. Kentucky trounced Notre Dame, 62-38, and St. Louis overpowered Wichita, 72-41.

St. Louis plays Missouri and Long Island University this week while Kentucky starts tonight at Vanderbilt and takes on Alabama and Mississippi before meeting Bradley Saturday night at Owensboro, Ky.

Utah was the third member of the top 10 to fall Saturday, losing to Brigham Young, 56-55. The two teams play again tonight.

AT AUSTIN
Ray Morrison Has Work Cut Out For Him

SHERMAN, Jan. 31. (AP)—Ray Morrison, who has been coaching for 34 years, is coming to Sherman to see about rebuilding the sagging football fortunes of Austin college.

The little Presbyterian school, once feared by the best of them, hasn't had a winner in years. In the past two seasons the Kangaroos hopped pretty low—they won only two games each year.

Morrison, credited with bringing pass-happy football to the Southwest, was signed to a contract at a salary unofficially reported to be $8,500 per year. The length of contract was not revealed but he will be the boss of the Austin college athletic department. The salary is an increase of more than $1,000 over what the coach had been drawing.

His desire to return to Texas, where he started as a coach and put Southern Methodist into the big-time, was an important factor in his accepting the position here. He had resigned at Temple university only last Thursday after being there nine years. The announcement that he was coming to Austin college was issued Saturday.

Morrison coached at Southern Methodist for 15 seasons and won three Southwest Conference championships. He made SMU a national power with ambitious intersectional schedules that included Notre Dame and Army.

He went to Vanderbilt as coach in 1935 and had considerable success there before moving to Philadelphia where his record suffered.

Morrison will arrive here about March 1 to start spring training. He will be greeted by a veteran squad. Austin college issued letters to 29 men last season, all of whom are eligible to return.

Bill Pierce resigned as athletic director and coach here Dec. 6 after a two-year tenure. His assistants, Milton Buchanan and Byron Gilbreath, remain. Whether they will be retained has not been announced by Morrison.

Austin college, now celebrating its one hundredth year, has an enrollment of about 700. School officials said obtaining Morrison as a coach was a move to get top material for the football squad. Plans are under way for building a new gymnasium at the college.

Dr. W. B. Guenzert, president of Austin college, said "we are highly pleased. We know that in Coach Morrison we are getting not only a great builder of football talent, but also a man whose fine personal character has been an influence for good in Southwestern athletics."

Eight of the twelve players on the Villanova College basketball squad are from Philadelphia, all four of the others from nearby New Jersey.

Bill Parks Tests George Bruckman At AC Tonight

They'll generate some energy, both in the heating compartments and the battle pits, at the Big Spring Athletic club this evening. Promoter Pat O'Dowdy is turning on the lights at the wrestling emporium for the first time in a month and the show he has lined up should be up to par, if the boys come up to their past performance.

In one go, Mill Olsen of Canada, the reigning Texas Junior Heavyweight titlist, goes against Billy Hickson, Knoxville, Tennessee. In the other, George Bruckman of Chicago tangles with Billy Parks, a Canadian youngster who is so new here he hasn't had the wrapping taken off him yet.

Olsen's title will not be at stake. Hickson agreed to go into the arena with him just for the experience. Since both lads have the reputation for being clean sportsmen, a fast, scientific bout is in prospect.

The same can't be said for the other go, however. Bruckman was quite the villain when he left here months ago and there is no indication that he's changed. Even if Parks doesn't believe in using the rough stuff, he may be forced to use it to hold his own.

O'Dowdy's shows have been weakened out for the past three weeks but the only way the elements could interfere now is to throw a ninth inning curve ball. The grapplers reportedly left their headquarters at Amarillo on time.

The opening bout goes on at 8:15 o'clock.

Groth And Bauer Best Of Frosh Fly Chasers

By JOE REICHLER
AP STAFF

NEW YORK Jan. 31.—A number of experienced outfielders will be gunning for major league berths this year but most of the attention during spring training will center on rookie flychasers Johnny Groth and Hank Bauer.

The one voted most likely to succeed is Groth, the 22-year-old freshman of the Detroit Tigers who burned up the International League last year. Playing with Buffalo, Groth paced the circuit in hits, doubles, triples, total bases and runs scored. He finished with a .340 batting average and drove in 97 runs and hit 36 homers.

Hank Greenberg, one of the game's greatest sluggers, thinks that Groth will develop into the No. 1 outfielder in the American League in two or three years.

Bauer made a fine impression after joining the Yankees from Kansas City in September last year. Bauer hit .305 for Kansas City and drove in 100 runs in 132 games. Scouts who have watched the big boy say he can't miss.

This is the way the teams probably will open the season in the out-

American League:
Boston, Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and Stan Spence; Chicago, Pat Seery, Dave Philley and Gus Zernial; Cleveland — Dale Mitchell, Larry Doby and Hank Edwards; Detroit — Dick Wakefield, Hoot Evers and Johnny Groth; New York — Hank Bauer, Joe Dimaggio and Tommy Henrich; Philadelphia — Barney McCoy, Sam Chapman and Elmer Valo; St. Louis — Al Zarilla, Paul Lehner and Dick Kokos; Washington — Buddy Lewis, Clyde Vollmer and Ed Stewart.

National League:
Boston — Jeff Heath, Pete Reiser

and Tommy Holmes; Brooklyn — Carl Furillo, Ed (Duke) Snider and Gene Hermanski; Chicago — Harry Walker, Andy Pafko and Hal Jeffcoat; Cincinnati — Hank Bauer, Frank Baumholtz and Johnny Wyrostek; New York — Bob Thomson, Whitey Lockman and Willard Marshall; Philadelphia — Del Ennis, Richie Ashburn and Bill Nicholson; St. Louis — Enos Slaughter, Stan Musial and Ron Northey.

Many Rushing To Pay Taxes

Persons stormed the county tax collector-assessor's office this morning in the wake of rising temperatures to obtain poll taxes and pay property assessments.

The agency is to remain open until midnight tonight to accommodate parties who cannot call during regular hours.

Prospects were poor that this year's voting strength will not come up to that mustered in 1947, a year when similar elections were held.

Final figures two years ago showed a total of 4,579 poll taxes had been sold. In addition, 548 exemptions were granted.

Nearly 3,800 poll taxes had been distributed by tax office personnel at 11 p. m., an increase of about 600 over the same hour on Saturday. Exemption grants already show a gain over the 1947 figures, however, some 725 having already been granted.

Sunday Supper At Country Club

Reservations may be made by calling 1784 by 10 a. m. Saturday morning for the regular Sunday night supper honoring members and their guests at the Country club, Sunday, Feb. 6, from 6:30 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Announced hostesses for the evening will include Mrs. Dee Davis, Mrs. George Oldham, Mrs. Lee Rogers, Mrs. Doug Orme, Mrs. Joe Burrell and Mrs. Zoellie Boykin.

Red cherries may be sweetened and thickened and served as a sauce over sponge or plain white cake. Add a second sauce of soft custard for a de luxe dessert when company comes.

Diplomats Hint

however. They said Stalin's avowed willingness to make a joint declaration with the United States on peace was praiseworthy.

These diplomats said the statements, together with Mr. Truman's pledges that he planned to work the next four years to achieve peaceful relations, made for a "healthy outlook."

In Washington, the State Department said no formal approach for a Truman-Stalin meeting had been made by Russia.

No change has been reported in the State Department's attitude since former Undersecretary Robert Lovett said recently the United States would welcome actions to suit the peaceful world uttered by Communists all over Europe in the last few weeks.

ONLY TO THE OWNERS

Juke Boxes Cost Less These Days

Three minutes of music on a $500 instrument. That's what you get when you put a nickel in a juke box.

Until recently, your coin would have put a $1,000 instrument into action, but prices are coming down. Right now the demand in the U. S. is tapering off and foreign markets are being sought.

Although a comparatively new form of musical entertainment, the juke box has become an American fixture due to its economy and flexibility.

The juke box itself is not new, for one of its names is as old as the theatre, coming from the name of a small Grecian theatre. The Odeum in ancient Greece was a small emporium where writers and poets submitted their compositions for public approval.

From this comes the name nickelodeon, which gave way to easier "juke" handle.

With the surge in popularity of the juke box, a faithful barometer of musical preference has been developed. Machines, according to Oscar Glickman, who furnishes and services juke boxes in this particular territory, contain counters that tab the number of times a particular record is played. Each week the popularity ratings are based on the number of nickels invested in a particular tune.

This also serves the operators a useful purpose, for "platters" receiving the least number of plays are replaced by more popular offerings. Sometimes there are sectional preferences on tunes, and operators keep a close watch on this.

Different locations require different types of music. For instance restaurants use soft music, for the most part, to add to a placid setting. Smooth vocal recordings go well in these places. Night spots use popular dance music, and some of the more spirited clubs use brassier, faster music. Certain ones have a clientele demanding tunes on the "Hill Billy Hit Parade."

There is no set line between "popular" and "hillbilly" music, for somewhere in the middle is folk music. There is no sectional monopoly on the hay-seed tunes, for they go quite as well in the East as in the hinterlands. In fact, the fever is so hot in the populous areas that a square dance was given recently at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Age has a lot to do with preference, for youngsters are the most consistent addicts to boogie-woogie. Oldsters are more apt to dial old favorites and serene lyrics.

The spot a juke box gets in a cafe, tavern or drugstore has a lot to do with its patronage. Properly located it does a good business; improperly situated, it may make customers hold their ears. For the most part patrons treat the boxes tenderly, but occasionally some vent their fury on the helpless mass of plastic, metal and chrome when their nickel gets no tune or the wrong platter.

There are a few records that remain as best sellers of high sellers year after year. Among these is Bing Crosby's "White Christmas." Come Yuletide, operators pull out these platters for a booming business.

Lamesa To Get Garment Factory

LAMESA, Jan. 31—Operation of a garment factory will begin soon here as a building can be completed.

The concern, headed by H. C. Ingram, president of Delta Manufacturing Co., made the announcement here Saturday. He said that production would begin as soon as a 150x130-foot building on N. Fourth Street can be occupied and equipped. He estimated 200 people will be employed. Several Lamesas have invested in the concern and on the board of directors are Cecil Blanton, Carl Rountree, C. A. Hollingsworth and C. A. Eiland, Lamesa. Ingram said he planned to make his home here and supervise operations. The concern manufactures work garments at Taylor, Lockhart and Fredericksburg.

New Atom Bombs More Powerful, A-Board Reports

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The United States has new atomic bombs which are much more explosive energy than the old ones.

The Atomic Energy commission, which has hinted previously that it had developed more powerful weapons than those dropped on Japan or at Bikini, announced it outright today in its fifth semi-annual report to Congress.

And it said "further developments are now in progress."

Chairman David Lilienthal declined comment when asked whether the United States is seeking to obtain atomic weapons other than bombs.

Mercury Drops

one half inches of snow were on the ground. Skies were clear today. Apparently little or no livestock were lost.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company announced today that 37 North Texas towns were still cut off from telephone communications as the result of last week's severe ice storm. A thaw ended the ice storm Thursday, but power and communication lines have been crippled since.

All schools were closed at Dallas today where the low temperature was two degrees above zero.

The six-inch snow at Bryan Sunday was a record. Schools were closed. Communication lines were down between Bryan and Houston.

It was clear and bright at Midland today. The temperature last night was 10 degrees above zero.

Fredericksburg, in the Hill Country, reported a temperature of 4.6 degrees above zero.

Schools in many places were closed today.

Most highways were open but the State Highway Patrol advised motorists to proceed with caution and in some cases warned them not to travel at all yesterday.

Gear, cold weather was forecast for most of the state today. The weather bureau forecast slightly warmer weather.

The snowfall at Dallas yesterday was three and one-half inches. Heavy snowfalls were reported at Nacogdoches, Llano, Fredericksburg, and Mason (eight inches).

Del Rio and Crystal City and Galveston, a Gulf Coast resort center, had one inch of snow each.

South Texas flax and oats crops were heavily damaged. In the Hill Country North of San Antonio heavy losses of lambs and ewes was feared. In the winter garden area of Crystal City and Carrizo Springs garden vegetables were hurt.

And McAllen reported: "The entire Valley vegetable crop is virtually destroyed. Only some cabbage, carrots and beets may survive. Ice particles formed in all citrus and the crop is badly damaged but growers would make no estimates yet. Much of the early citrus has been harvested, but the late crop, such as valencias, is just coming in. Tomatoes are destroyed, along with peppers, squash and potatoes. The temperature fell to 22 degrees here and to 20 degrees at Weslaco."

SIMPLY WANTS TO KEEP COPS OF CITY BUSY

JACKSON, Tenn., Jan. 31 (AP)—Two weeks ago a young mule escaped from his owner and raced merrily through the city streets, causing a minor smash-up between two automobiles, and giving pursuing officers of the law the mule-laugh.

He was finally caught and sold at auction.

But at week's end he was back in hot water with the law. The trouble: overparking!

Patrolman Gerald Parrish found him tied too long to a parking meter and calmly wrote out a ticket.

The only one disturbed was the new owner who stepped up to pay the $1 fine.

Dunlap Nominated For Revenue Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Dean Rusk, director of the State Department's office of United Nations Affairs, for promotion to Assistant Secretary of State.

Rusk succeeds to a vacancy created by the resignation of Norman Armour last summer.

Other nominations sent to the senate by Mr. Truman included: John B. Dunlap to be collector of internal revenue for the second district of Texas.

Seven members of the Clemson College starting football lineup are from South Carolina.

AIKIN CLAIMS NEW LABOR BILL HAS 'HARDLY ANY TEETH AT ALL'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Senator Aikin (R-Vt.) complained at Senate hearings today that the administration's new labor bill has "hardly any teeth at all" for dealing with strikes such as a walkout by John L. Lewis' mine workers.

Secretary of Labor Tobin was before the Senate Labor committee discussing the new bill when Aikin raised that criticism.

The administration measure would repeal the Taft-Hartley law, wiping out a section which lets the government get 80-day court injunctions to prevent national emergency strikes. President Truman used that section against a coal strike last year.

In place of that section, the administration measure would substitute a 30-day voluntary cooling off procedure. The President would ask the workers to stay on the job for 30 days while an emergency board studied recommendations for a settlement.

"In the case of Mr. Lewis, that would be hardly any teeth at all—unless you might say false teeth," Aikin told Tobin.

How, Aikin asked, could a presidential request that the men remain at work be enforced.

Tobin said: "The power of the President of the United States—"

Then he paused and went on: "The public opinion of the country would be so strong it would prevail. It is a powerful force."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) a co-author of the Taft-Hartley law, laughed at that.

When Aikin mentioned Lewis again, Tobin protested that he did not want to "engage in personalities."

"Mr. Lewis," Aikin shot back, "is not altogether a personality. He is almost an institution."

While the administration measure contains no provisions for injunctions to block national paralysis strikes, some lawyers contend broad powers of the president under the constitution might give him the right to seek a court order in a grave emergency.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) in reference to that contention, remarked: "The chief executive always has his powers as the chief executive."

Pepper added that under "a fair labor law" the occasion for using anything as stringent as an injunction would not be likely to arise. Pepper wants the Taft-Hartley law repealed.

At that point, Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) recessed the hearing until 9 a. m. (CST) tomorrow because the senate was meeting.

Boy Scouts To Get Advancement Awards

Hospital Given Temporary Okay

Provisional approval has been announced by the American College of Surgeons for the Malone & Hogan Clinic-Hospital in Big Spring.

The general hospital, a partnership institution, is listed with 45 beds and 17 bassinets.

Dr. M. T. MacEachern, associate director for the first time the ACS is evaluating on a point system with emphasis on quality of professional services and care of patients. Ratings of 70 per cent plus carry full approval. National average is 75.

In the U. S. he said, 3,150 hospitals have been approved and 3,947 are under survey, making the approval percentage 79.7.

Surveys are limited to hospitals of 25 beds or more. Points are based on physical plant, organization, administration, personnel, professional staff, diagnostic and therapeutic facilities, regular staff conferences, and primary consideration to patients. Certain time limitations must be observed before any hospital can be given full approval, said Dr. MacEachern.

The trick in making hashed brown potatoes is to allow them to fry over low heat, without stirring, until brown on the bottom. They may then be turned with two wide spatulas and the other side browned.

Widespread rain and snow over the cotton belt were considered favorable by traders in building up a moisture reserve for the next crop.

ICE AGAIN STRIKES TEXAS TELEPHONE LINES

ON THE HEELS of one of the most widespread ice storms in Texas history, which did about two million dollars worth of damage, another blanket of ice this week spread over much of Texas, leaving new wreckage from Oklahoma to Temple, and west to Peeco.

North and East Texas, on the edge of the first January ice area, bore the brunt of the new storm. Thousands of telephones were silenced. Many cities were isolated from communications with the outside world as wires snapped and poles crashed to the ground under the heavy weight of the ice. Only a few lines were available to many other points.

ICE DAMAGE IS WIDESPREAD
By early Thursday, 1,400 poles were down in Northeast Texas, 11,000 wire breaks were reported, and 1,250 long distance circuits were out of service.
Additional crews of workmen started rolling into the stricken area while ice was still on the wires. With standardized tools, the "know-how" born of experience, and with tons of materials, they tackled the big job of restoring communications quickly.

VOLUME OF CALLS SOARS
Telephone operators and equipment were swamped with calls from those who were "shut in" by the storm. Long distance operators did their best to get the flood of messages through over circuits not damaged by the ice.

To those whose telephones were out of order and to those whose long distance calls were delayed—thanks for your patience and understanding.

The damage of the ice is big... a big job faces telephone repair crews.

But the Bell System, which has brought to America the best and cheapest telephone service in the world, is BIG enough to meet the emergency.
