CIRCULATION CERTIFIED BY ABC AUDIT

Secret Resigns; Election Date May Be Set Friday

Good Turnout In Recall Election This Forenoon

Pampans were turning out in large numbers this morning for today's recall election on Mayor E. C. Sidwell.

A check at the four polling places shortly before noon showed a total of approximately 1,100 voters had cast ballots at the time.

been cast at 11 a.m. Residents of the ward vote at the North Fire Station, 17th and Aspen. Mrs. W. D. Price Jr. is election judge at this box.

At 11:30 a.m., an even 100 had voted in Ward Three at Ward's Cabinet Shop, 323 S. Stark weather. Bill Watson is presiding judge in this box.

In Ward One, Mrs. Kenneth Dunn, presiding judge, said, 540 had voted by noon. Voting in City Hall, takes place in the City Commission Room.

In addition, City Secretary Ed Vickers had earlier reported that 67 persons had cast absentee ballots. (See TURNOUT, Page 3)

Commissioner Of Ward Two Cites His Disagreement With Associates

Newt Secret resigned today as city commissioner in Ward 2.

Secret, the lone dissenter for some time against the official actions of Mayor E. C. Sidwell and Commissioners Lloyd Simpson, Leon Holmes and L. P. Fort, in the current City Hall controversy over city policies, turned in his written resignation at this morning's regular meeting of the Commission in the Palm Room of City Hall.

Principal reason given by Secret for resigning was that since he was "not in accord with opinions expressed by other members of the Commission, I cannot conscientiously continue to be a part of the decisions reached by this group."

The Commission, in the absence of Mayor Sidwell who is ill with pneumonia in Highland General Hospital, accepted the resignation unanimously.

Commissioner Holmes, who acted as Mayor pro-tem at today's meeting, said steps would be taken to set up an election to name Secret's successor. The commission meeting was adjourned until 9 a.m. Friday.

Under Texas election laws it falls to the lot of the mayor to call the special election. In the event he fails to do so within the specified time, then the city governing body shall order the election after accepting the resignation.

The law provides that a reasonable time then should be allowed for candidates to file for places on the special election ballots. Thirty days then must elapse before an election can be held.

Date for the election to be set was pending on results of today's recall election on the mayor and other incongruities and contradictions between Pampa's City Charter and State election laws. These questions, however, were expected to be resolved by Friday's meeting of the commission, it was stated.

Commissioner Secret's resignation statement follows in full: "City Commission
"City of Pampa, Texas
"Last year when I agreed to enter the race for City Commissioner for Ward 2, it was with the thought that I might be able to render a service to my community. It was with a feeling of humility that I acknowledged the vote of confidence given to me and it has been my desire to serve the people of Pampa to the best of my ability and judgment."

"After having served as one of your commissioners for the past year I find there is very little personal gratification for the time and effort given. Needless to say, I have not been in accord with the majority of the commission. Probably my decisions have not always been right but I do not feel that I could always be wrong. I have voted my personal convictions as to what seemed best for the City of Pampa."

"Due to the controversy that has been an ever present part of this administration, the responsibilities of the office have been taking an increasingly larger portion of my time. I feel my first obligation should be to my family. It is not now possible for me to devote the time that I should to my family, or to properly handle my personal business."

"It was not my desire to carry out the following committees were appointed:
Education, E. E. Shelhamer; civic club coordinator, Carl Beavers; traffic problems, "Doc" Stuart; and publicity, Thelma Bray. Attending the meeting were Ray Browning, Claude Wilson, Beavers, Shelhamer, F. H. Parrott, Stuart, Bob Hudson, Bill Arrington, Lillian Jordan and Thelma Bray.

Also in attendance, were ex-officio members of the organization. Police Chief Jim Conner, Acting City Manager R. B. Cooks and City Engineer Monroe Moore. Hudson, chairman, presided at the meeting. Minutes were read and approved as submitted by Lillian Jordan.

the matter of a recall election to the courts. Assuming the petitions are correctly drawn, and meet the requirements of our Charter, I feel the voters should be allowed to decide whether the present commission should continue in office. I am not able to contribute personal funds to conduct a legal campaign. I do not feel city funds should be used for this purpose.

"Further, I do not wish to become personally liable for city funds that might be disbursed in this manner.

"Since I am not in accord with the opinions expressed by the other members of the Commission, I cannot conscientiously continue. (See SECRET, Page 3)

JFK Is Preparing New 'Master Plan' Of Tactics, Goals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration is preparing a new master plan of national strategy, tactics and goals in world affairs.

The report, nearly 300 pages in its present draft form, is guaranteed not to be a best-seller. Its circulation will be limited to policy-making officials of the government.

The State, Treasury and Defense departments, and other government agencies concerned with foreign policy, have contributed to the document which will be reviewed by President Kennedy and the National Security Council.

The report will replace a similar document on national goals developed by the Eisenhower administration.

It was said to contain no major policies not yet announced, but to be more of a codification of Kennedy administration goals.

The document has been in preparation several months.

Officials said it was not yet clear whether the document would be treated merely as a set of ideas or be adopted formally as "U.S. policy."

There was considerable opinion that broad U.S. strategy should remain flexible and that nothing like a "permanent policy" could, or should, be firmly committed in writing.

The Pampa Traffic Commission opened a project to cooperate with traffic safety committees of local civic clubs at its meeting Monday at noon in Coronado Inn.

Also, the following committees were appointed:
Education, E. E. Shelhamer; civic club coordinator, Carl Beavers; traffic problems, "Doc" Stuart; and publicity, Thelma Bray. Attending the meeting were Ray Browning, Claude Wilson, Beavers, Shelhamer, F. H. Parrott, Stuart, Bob Hudson, Bill Arrington, Lillian Jordan and Thelma Bray.

Agriculture Department Fires One In Estes Case

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department, digging deeper into the case of Texas farm magnate Billie Sol Estes, has fired one employee and turned its files on two other men over to the Justice Department.

Thomas R. Hughes, Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman's executive assistant, announced Monday the department had fired William E. Morris from its credit services department because he failed to answer orders to show up for questioning about dealings with Estes.

In fact, Hughes said, "We still don't know where he is."

Morris was formerly an assistant to James T. Ralph, who was relieved of his duties as assistant Agriculture Secretary two months ago and named agricultural attaché to the Philippines.

Undersecretary Charles S. Murphy announced that the FBI had been asked to look into the activities of Ralph and of Emery E. Jacobs, who quit his job as deputy director of the department's Agriculture Stabilization service last week.

Witnesses at a Texas inquiry said Jacobs went on a clothes-buying spree with Estes, who has been indicted on fraud charges. Jacobs denied he ever took anything valuable from Estes and said he resigned so he could go to Texas and fight the charges.

The department's general counsel said the legal division is also considering turning over to the Justice Department the files of two Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service employees at Clinton, Okla., who were identified as Russell E. Dill and Harvey E. White.

Firm Summoned To Testify On Its Missile Profits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee today summoned Western Electric to testify about its $169.5 million profit for 17 years of work on the Nike anti-aircraft missile.

Western Electric Vice President C. R. Smith hoped to convince the subcommittee that the profit was reasonable. Western Electric was prime contractor for the Nike.

The company has told its stockholders that subcommittee breakdowns of its earnings were "statistical manipulations" which unfairly associated Western Electric with defense profiteering.

According to the subcommittee, Western Electric drew $169.5 million in profits before taxes for its work.

One disputed subcommittee figure claims that $53.2 million of the total earnings represented "mark-ups" on components fabricated by Douglas Aircraft Co. or other subcontractors.

The company has claimed that Western Electric's profits amounted to only 3 1/2 cents on the defense dollar for the Nike.

Other congressional news: Reserve: The House Armed Services subcommittee recalled Assistant Defense Secretary Carlisle P. Runge for further questioning about why six-month trainees lacked the necessary skills to be called up for active duty in the Berlin crisis. Runge said Monday it was because the Army was looking not for sheer numbers but for men with specific skills. But Chairman F. Edward Hebert called it an "indictment" of the six-month training program.

Patents: The House Patents subcommittee said in a report that the National Aeronautics and Space Act, requiring contractors to give the government all inventions developed under federal funds, should be amended to allow inventors to develop their federally aided products commercially so long as the government has free license to their use. Committee said the law in its present form, blocks the "flow of inventions" and creative thinking.

Mexican Revolution Threatened By Group

UNITED NATIONS, Y. (UPI)—A group of 75 Mexican military and professional men today threatened to plunge Mexico into revolution in 10 days unless the United Nations hears their complaints against the Adolfo Lopez Mateos regime.

Headed by Marcantonio Diaz-Infante, described as an international lawyer and educator, the group petitioned the U. N. Security Council and General Assembly for an audience to state their case against the Mexican government.

"If no action should result from this plea," the petition said, "thousands of us will die as men who fight for freedom and seek justice under law in our land."

The communication established a 10-day limit for a reply.

A so-called "statement of freedom from the people of Mexico" accompanied the formal petition delivered to the offices of U. N. Secretary General Thant and Security Council President Daniel Schweitzer of Chile.

The revolutionaries styled themselves the Zapata movement after the late Mexican hero, Gen. Emiliano Zapata. The movement listed seven generals, 10 attorneys, six professors, five engineers and a score of educators among those sponsoring the appeal.

An informed source said the movement had given President Lopez Mateos 72 hours to call free elections "and to dissolve the despotic and totalitarian security police organization of Miguel Aleman (an ex-president) and his Fascist Communist coconspirators."

The movement called on Lopez Mateos to place command of the army of the north under its control, to disband the federal and state security police, to arrest Aleman and fire the cabinet.

Ex-Premier George Bidault's reported support for the OAS was seen as a desperate effort by the terrorist underground to rally Europeans for an all-out fight to block Algerian independence.

But diplomatic observers said they doubted that it would succeed.

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Former Major General Edwin A. Walker told an anti-Communist rally Monday night that Secretary of State Dean Rusk is responsible for policies detrimental to the United States.

He said Rusk and Walt W. Rostow, counselor and chairman of the State Department Policy Planning Committee, "are responsible for policies damaging to American national interests."

He made the same charges at a Senate hearing April 5.

Rostow was secretly the head of the operating army of the Central Intelligence Agency since 1954, and was secretly on the CIA payroll while on the faculty of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Walker said.

Youth Hit By Car Escapes Serious Injury

A five-year-old Pampa youth escaped serious injury yesterday when he was struck by an automobile while crossing N. Ballard St.

The youth, Charles David Cota, son of Mrs. Pat Cota, 627 Yeager, was taken to Highland General Hospital where he was treated for a head cut and released.

The driver of the vehicle, Billy Bruce McDonald, told officers he was driving south in the 400 block of N. Ballard when the accident occurred.

McDonald said he was following another car and when it slowed down, he attempted to pass and the youth was just starting across the street. He told officers he did not see the boy until he started to pass the other vehicle.

The boy was struck with the left front fender of the McDonald auto. No charges have been filed in the incident.

Chemical Firm Is Hit By Explosion; 30 Hurt

BRANDENBERG, Ky. (UPI)—An explosion heard and seen more than 30 miles away shattered the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. plant here early today, injuring at least 30 employees.

Kentucky state police said one employee, who had been missing had been located, and all workers at the plant were accounted for without loss of life.

The Meade County sheriff's office at first reported 15 dead and at least 35 injured, but all of those at first thought to have been killed eventually were found.

The plant manufactures glycol, a glycerin derivative.

James Willis, publisher of the Brandenburg Messenger, said damage appeared to be extensive, but no estimate was available.

Willis said about 60 persons are employed on the night shift at the plant.

Two persons were taken to Hardin Memorial Hospital at Elizabethtown, Ky., some 30 miles away, and 15 were taken to a clinic here.

Three Excommunicated For Segregation Work

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The aging Roman Catholic archbishop of New Orleans invoked the church's most severe penalty Monday in his fight to integrate 153 parochial schools and excommunicated three segregation leaders.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, 86, charged the three lifelong Catholics attempted to incite "disobedience or rebellion" to his recent order to desegregate all Catholic schools in the 10-parish (county) archdiocese of New Orleans.

Mrs. Gaillot, 42, said she would appeal to the Vatican. She said, "God gave the law of segregation (and the Ten Commandments) to Moses on Mt. Sinai."

Ricau, 44, father of eight, called the excommunication a "cruel edict," and announced he would continue to fight for "racial integrity." He issued a long statement last week attacking Rummel's school desegregation order.

The archdiocese said the excommunication of the three was not a form of revenge or a condemnation to hell because "God alone can do this."

The punishment would be lifted if the three demonstrated repentance, but the order said only the archbishop or his delegate could remove the church stigma.

There are two kinds of excommunication, toleratus and vitandus. Toleratus, or tolerated, was the type invoked against the three segregationists. They will be permitted to attend Mass, but technically have lost the "right" to do so. Vitandus is reserved for the most severe crimes, such as physical violence to the Pope.

Mrs. Gaillot, Perez and Ricau will be denied the sacraments, including communion. They would not get Catholic burial if they died while excommunicated.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Hon. Timothy Tugbuton invaded the office half mad with anger. The old man banged his cane on the news desk, yanked down all plugged lines on the PBX switchboard and brayed a challenge to the government of the United States.

"I a'n't gonna stand for it," the old man shouted. "There was a friend of mine out there at Pearl Harbor on one of those battleships and he was knocked dead when those Japanese came over. It's an outrage."

The old man paused. The slot man remarked that all of that was 29 years ago and why he was shouting about it now. This sent Tugbuton into exclamatory orbit.

"Why? I'll tell you why," he shouted. "That's why." The old fellow slapped the news desk with a folded copy of his favorite newspaper, the Alton (Kan.) Empire, a weekly just arrived. It contained a Page One editorial protesting the award by the U. S. government of a high decoration to a Japanese air officer who helped plan the Pearl Harbor strike.

"What knucklehead ordered that decoration to be pinned on this general name of Minoru Genda? Wait until that young fellow in the White House hears about that. That young fellow in the White House was not playing cribbage when the U. S. was fighting its way back from Pearl Harbor. What did FDR call it, 'the day of infamy' or something like that?"

"That young fellow in the White House was out there in the Pacific fighting the Japs and getting his ears pinned back some, too. I'll bet he hasn't forgotten about that and I ain't either."

"Maybe we ought to dig up Hitler—if we could find his body and pin a medal on it or on Mussolini's body, the bum. Americans are good fighters but they are better at forgetting. The next big thing after Pearl Harbor was the battle for Corregidor and the capture of the U. S. garrison there.

"Then there was a death march of the prisoners that went on for days and a lot of them died. Now, if General MacArthur didn't get around to hanging the Jap general who commanded that death march and his whole dam staff then maybe the U. S. government will give him a medal.

"They ain't gonna like this in Arizona, I'll tell you that."

Somebody wanted to know why Arizona would be interested.

"Because Corregidor was defended by an Arizona outfit," Tugbuton replied, "and that outfit was captured. You try to pin a medal on this general in some Arizona town and they'd hang him and the medal pinner along with him. Dunno but that it would be a good thing, too."

"This General Genda has been running the Japanese air force and his medal says he got it for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services since July 1959.

"Exceptionally meritorious conduct!"

Script Writer Hits Choice Of 'West Side' Story

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Abby Mann, Academy Award winning script writer of "Judgment at Nuremberg," has severely criticized this year's choice of "West Side Story" as best picture.

"I just think 'West Side Story' is incomplete as a statement," Mann said. "West Side Story" on the stage made a statement. It had anger and honesty. The picture didn't transfer it from one medium to another.

"I do think the picture was a compromise. I think the honest anger of the play was lost in favor of something that was palatable to mass audiences.

"I think the thing about 'Nuremberg' is that there weren't any compromises. There were faults. I think 'Westside' is an incomplete piece of work as a movie.

"Movies are a tremendous medium. And they have a responsibility to say something about the world as it is. And even take the risk of reshaping it."

"Nuremberg" won two Academy Awards, Mann's Oscar as best screenplay on material from another medium and Maximilian Schell's top actor laurel.

Mann wrote the screenplay, his first movie, from a television show he did for "Playhouse 90."

"Westside" won 10 Oscars, among them best picture, director and top supporting actor and actress honors to George Chakiris and Rita Moreno.

"Rita Moreno should have won and Chakiris," Mann said. "With those things I have no quarrel. My quarrel is with it as best picture and with a lot of other awards."

"Nuremberg" had two nominees in those acting categories, Montgomery Clift and Judy Garland.

Post Academy Award criticism of winners is rare and Mann will undoubtedly be accused of "sour grape" thinking.

"It may sound like I'm a sore loser, but I'm not a loser," he said, adding that he thinks "Nuremberg" should have won more awards.

Wall Street In Review

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market's success in withstanding an impending test of its January low will probably have an important bearing on investor sentiment, says Standard & Poor's Corp.

Its publication, The Outlook, takes the view that buying opportunities are developing, but it would keep the bulk of buying power intact right now.

Investors Research Co., the West Coast advisory service, says "do not disturb fully invested positions in investment accounts. Despite the continued slide in values, the excellent rally efforts are but another sign that this market is close to a major area of investment demand. Underinvested accounts may do limited buying."

According to Standard & Poor's, there are two trends evident in the soft drink industry, which has experienced steady growth over a period of years. One is the swing away from the cola drinks, which account for about 60 per cent of the market, to fruit flavors. The other is the emergence of the low-calorie soft drink.

The Value Line Investment Survey says that most, but not all, sectors of the textile industry are riding a crest of prosperity. Orders are up, production is up, shipments are rising and profits are running well ahead of last year. But now is the time to look ahead to the next dip, the survey points out. How long will the industry as a whole and individual companies within it fare under the more competitive conditions which will apply a year from now?

2 Youths Are Arrested In Burglary Here

Two Pampa youths were being held in Police custody today in connection with the burglary of the Speedy Queen Laundromat, 601 Sloan, last night.

Police Chief Jim Conner said officers received an anonymous telephone call late last night that someone was burglarizing the firm.

Upon investigating, officers said they apprehended two boys aged 18 and 15, who were trying to pry open a coin changer. Police said the boys had attempted to break into a dryer coin machine.

Officers said there was an 18-year-old girl in the Laundromat when the officers arrived, but she told them she knew nothing of the burglary. She told police she had accompanied the boys to the building to do some washing and had tried to stop them when she saw what they were doing.

The boys were arrested and are being held in city jail and the girl was released.

Officers are still investigating the incident and no charges had been officially filed at press time.

...to be a part of the decisions reached by this group.

...Rather than continue to serve in a situation that is without accomplishments and contrary to my thinking, I hereby submit my resignation as Commissioner for Ward 2, City of Pampa.

Today's commission meeting lasted only 40 minutes. Mayor Protem Holmes read Secrest's letter of resignation and when he had completed the reading, it was moved by Commissioner Fort and seconded by Commissioner Simpson that the resignation be accepted. The motion carried unanimously and Secrest left the commission table, sat in the audience for a few minutes and later left the room.

In other business today the commission appointed Mrs. James Lewis and Mrs. Elmer Fite to fill vacancies left on the City Traffic Commission by the recent resignations of M. H. Keiffer and Mrs. Jack Hood.

The commission also approved recommendations of Ray Duncan, representing the Pampa Insurance Association, on a blanket policy for insuring all city buildings against fire, windstorm, hail, etc., damage.

Thompson said the clarinet and case were valued at $350.

Police also received a report yesterday from A. L. Miller, who resides northeast of the city, that sometime within the past several days, someone broke into a vacant rent house he owns at 641 Zimmer and ransacked the house.

Miller said entrance to the house was gained by breaking a window and tearing open a screen door. He said the only things missing were a sled and some Christmas decorations.

lots at Friday's deadline.

The polls opened this morning at 8 o'clock and will close at 7 p.m. All qualified voters in the city may participate in the election.

When the City Commission adjourned this morning, it set a meeting for 9 a.m. Friday for the purpose of canvassing the vote in today's election.

The election was called by the City Commission in response to petitions submitted by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees also submitted petitions asking the recall of each of the four ward commissioners but they were turned down on the basis of too few signatures. This decision was challenged by a group calling itself the Committee for Better City Government, which took up the matter when the Jaycees dropped out after submitting the petitions.

The matter is now being submitted to the Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo after a ruling last Friday in District Court here that the commissioners should face recall elections.

There is just one issue on the ballot and no candidate in opposition.

The question stated on the ballot is:

"Shall E. C. Sidwell be removed from the office of mayor of Pampa by recall?"

Officials said there had been some question about the meaning of the word "recall." They explained a vote FOR recall of the mayor would be a vote to remove him from office.

A vote AGAINST recall would be a vote to keep the mayor in office.

Voters will scratch one of these lines on the ballot:

"FOR the recall of E. C. Sidwell."

"AGAINST the recall of E. C. Sidwell."

Man Is Fined On DWI Charge

William Earl Black, 37, 610 W. Denver, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail today when he pleaded guilty before County Judge Bill Craig on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Black was arrested by city police at 1:15 a.m. today in the 300 block of S. Cuyler after the auto he was driving struck a parked car owned by John King, Pampa.

Damage to both vehicles was slight, officers said.

Films On Gardens Shown At ToT Garden Club Meet

Top of Texas Garden Club met Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 in the First Methodist Church for a film program presented by Mrs. Fred Hinkley. The films were entitled "Garden Notebook" and "A Garden In the Forest", which showed flowers and shrubs of the famous Hodges Gardens in Many, La.

Plans were discussed for the annual Spring Luncheon to be held in the Coronado Inn on May 22 at which time Mrs. M. Stephens will be the guest speaker.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Members attending were Mmes. Albert Kouri, Kenneth Osborne, John Howard, Fred Hinkley, Jamie Deal, L. B. Robertson, Joe Ruediger, Helen Knox, Mrs. Margie Mack was welcomed as a new member.

Brown, historian; M. McDaniel, parliamentarian; J. W. Edminister and Frank Kelley, city council representatives.

Mrs. McDaniel announced that the Parliamentary Procedure Course will be held May 7 in the Pampa Youth and Community Center from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. with Mrs. J. W. Danforth, district officer, as the instructor.

She also announced that a Leadership Procedure Course will be held at Travis School from 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. on May 15. All new officers and committee chairmen are urged to attend.

Mrs. Mike Wilson introduced Mrs. McHenry Lane, who presented a program on "Our School-Wide Reading Program."

"Reading is an art based on many complex skills," Mrs. Lane said. "Acquiring these skills is the most difficult task that man ever performs. The reading program is the heart of the school curriculum. A child's success will be measured by his success in learning to read."

Mrs. Lane quoted these suggestions from Dr. Evelyn Thompson, a professor in Houston-University, based as a basis for a good reading program: 1) recognition of the child's worth; 2) differentiated instruction at all levels; 3) systematic training in the reading skills that must be carried on; 4) provides for systematic appraisal of growth; 5) extends the child's reading experiences far beyond that provided by basal readers.

"Such a program," Mrs. Lane stated, "promotes the maximum growth of each child in all areas of his development."

The guest speaker outlined that "the Otis Mental Ability Test" is given to the first graders at the beginning of the second semester of school. It is also given at the fourth, seventh and tenth grade levels. The Metropolitan General Achievement Test is given near the end of the spring semester to the first through sixth grades. The Science Research Ability Test is given to the seventh grade in the fall semester.

"The results of these tests are studied carefully and compared with the results of the Mental Ability tests. This is the basis for the grouping of pupils in reading and also gives the teacher the knowledge needed in providing for individual differences of her pupils."

"We use various means of providing for the better readers," Mrs. Lane told the unit members. "Just as important is the fact that a pupil with a reading problem is not forced to compete with the better readers."

"One major objective in our reading program is to extend the remedial program upward. We are aware that the need extends through high school."

In conclusion, Mrs. Lane stated, "Learning to read is the most difficult task a man ever performs and the end attainment has never been reached."

Dear Abby... Five Dollar Tip ...Is A Tip-Off!!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a waitress, 22, and unmarried. A fat, bald man who must be 50 eats breakfast here every morning. I wait on him in the same pleasant way I wait on others. He has asked me for dates several times, but I have turned him down. Last week he left a $5 tip under his plate. His breakfast was $1.25. I tried to give it back to him the next morning, but he wouldn't take it. He did the same thing again this morning. I feel foolish accepting a $5 tip for nothing. My boss says to keep it. I feel so guilty. What should I do?

TIPPED TOO HIGH
DEAR TIPPED: The old coddler is trying to butter you up. Tell him that you have no intention of dating him (if you really haven't) and excessive tipping won't help. If that doesn't slow him down, pocket the money and forget it.

DEAR ABBY: I have three married children, but I hate the term "IN-LAW" and I never call them my "sons-in-law" or my "daughter-in-law." Yet I cannot call them my "son" or "daughter" because it gets too confusing. How can I avoid the "in-law" part when I introduce them to people?

"MOTHER MARY"
DEAR MOTHER: You can say, "This is Susie — she is married to my son, Jim."

DEAR ABBY: I am at the end of my rope trying to get rid of a certain man. I never really encouraged him. I only dated him a few times because he was so persistent, and now he won't leave me alone. He phones me every night, and almost every day he sends me one of those crazy cards just to let me know he "loves" me. The worse I treat him, the better he likes it. How do I shake him once and for all? He is beginning to give me the creeps already.

OVER 21
DEAR OVER: Tell him in plain language that you do not want to take up any more of his time, and please to stop calling and sending cards. Don't be afraid of "hurting" him. A man who thrives on abuse and keeps coming back for more is too insensitive to get the message.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "B": Give her a long, hard second look. It's easier to get rid of a girl friend than a wife. And a whole lot cheaper.

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Responsibility Of Freedom Discussed By Civic Culture Study Club Speaker

"This Is My Country" was the program topic discussed by Mrs. Emmett Osborne at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of Civic Culture Club held in the home of Mrs. Willis White, 1008 Twiford.

Opening with the first few lines of the song "America," Mrs. Osborne said "My Country," what memories these words evoke in the breast of man. From the far-off climes of the world to our nearest neighbors across the border, "My Country" means something most special in their thoughts.

"But to us, in our privileged land and all around the world, only one country can be meant when the words 'My country 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty' are sung."

"Freedom was inherent in the art of creation," Mrs. Osborne stated. "God created us as free moral agents with the power to choose between right and wrong. Freedom is possible for men who choose the right. Tyranny, suppression and slavery is the lot of men who choose wrong."

"Today we are heaven-blessed to live in America. Our rich heritage of democracy was not easily achieved and it must be vigilantly guarded to assure its continuity."

2 Rural Mishaps Investigated By Highway Patrol

The Highway Patrol investigated 12 rural accidents in Gray county during the month of March, according to Sergeant J. W. Wilson, Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for one person killed, ten persons injured and an estimated property damage of $6,335.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for Gray County from January through March of 1962 shows a total of 38 crashes. As a result of these crashes there were 2 persons killed and 19 persons injured. The estimated property damage amounted to $20,630.00.

With the coming of April, motorists will be getting back out on the highway to enjoy the invigorating atmosphere and colorful country side. The patrol supervisor pointed out that this will cause highway travel to be multiplying by leaps and bounds. He urges motorists, pedestrians and all street and highway users to know and obey traffic laws, regulations, ordinances and their application, and pledge their continuous vigorous support of these laws, so that accidents may be prevented and safety universally promoted.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It was too hard to resist watching "Ben Casey" Monday night: How can you ignore a guy who's asking for a $5,750-a-week raise?

That's what Vincent (Casey) Edwards wants. He gets only $1,750. He wants $7,500. Well, you can imagine the thrill of watching a fellow who has a hammerlock on his boss — and the fascination of trying to figure out which screw is worth $100 more, which screw is worth $500, and so forth.

As it turned out, two brilliant acting performances were far more fascinating than Casey. They were by Japanese actress Yoko Tani as a blind girl and Eddie Firestone as a bumbling, solemnly hospital orderly who falls in love with her.

For a while, it looked as if we might be in for one of the finest shows of the year. The crux was Casey's trying to convince the girl and his superiors that her blindness is a psychological problem he can't cope with. Once again, he goes the treatment, leading one to suspect that he is not merely human, but perhaps incompetent.

The orderly, meanwhile, sees things more clearly than Casey. He gives the girl the human warmth and attention she needs. Their private scenes in her hospital room, in which the orderly whose life has not amounted to anything — gently gives the girl the courage to keep on living, were poignant.

Unfortunately, the climax was contrived. Firestone sneaks Miss Tani out of the hospital for a good time at a low-down dive. Even a bumbler would know better than to take a hospitalized blind girl to such a place. A bruiser asks Miss Tani to dance. His girlfriend gets angry. There's a fight. An inflammable substance is dropped, and there's a fire. The orderly and blind girl are burned, she on her face. When the bandages are removed, she can see.

As for Casey, he was par for the night. He told off his boss and offended a patient. Once he almost laughed, but he's no fool: he knows his price would drop if he got caught acting human. Anyone can laugh. It takes talent to be attractively offensive.

Frankly, I couldn't see a $5,750 difference in his performance. But he knows he has set the adrenalin flowing in the nation's ladies, and that's what really counts. You have to respect a fellow who knows his commercial worth — even if he wasn't supposed to get the series in the first place. It was offered originally to Cliff Robertson, who'll play President Kennedy in the movie "PT109." But Robertson turned it down.

Anyway, tune in next week. The coming attractions Monday night showed a nurse slapping a patient. That's the kind of hospital for me. Doctors insulting patients. Nurses slapping them. Orderlies sneaking them out.

I'm writing to the American Medical Association.

Lenten Message

By The Rev. Dr. Ben Mohr Herbster, President The United Church of Christ Written for UPI

In every year in every place Lent should call people to repentance and faith; 1962 and America are no exceptions. The hatred, prejudice, poverty, injustice, crime, immorality found on our doorsteps express the sin of our world.

Part of the guilt for that sin is yours and mine. Beyond that, unless our consciences are caloused, we know that as individual men and women there is a great gulf between what each of us resolves and what any of us achieves; between the way of Christ and the way we live. How can we fail to cry out: "God be merciful to me (and to us)!" But confession, if it is to be sincere, must be followed by change. Contrition that does not eventuate in transformation is hollow. But to change our ways is so difficult!

It was true in the First-Century and is still true in the Twentieth Century that the evil we would not do, we do; the good which we would do, we do not. Where is there help and hope?

Our hope in every age is in faith in God as God reveals himself in Jesus Christ. So beyond repentance we must turn to God, for in Him "we are more than conquerors." This faith in God is the source of the new life awaiting every one of us in 1962. This new life Lent can bring to us in America and everywhere.

Youthful Quartet 'Stole The Show' On 'Disneyland After Dark' TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"I'm the bass," said the 12-year-old boy. "And I'm the lead," said his 6-year-old brother.

And with this introduction on NBC-TV Sunday night, four brothers—ages 6, 8, 10 and 12—provided one of the most captivating show-stopping acts of the television season as a barbershop quartet on a spirited program, "Disneyland After Dark."

The boys are named the Osmond Brothers, and they hail from Ogden, Utah. And Sunday night, in an hour that also featured another scene-stealer, Louis Armstrong, they displayed such astonishing poise, showmanship and harmony that it will be a wonder if they are not snapped up by variety programs all over the networks.

In addition to the boys' rendition of "Side by Side," Walt Disney, with his knowing hand for a tasteful, holiday-mood show that caught the sounds, smells and color of an amusement park at night, Armstrong was the center of a nostalgic rickety sequence aboard Disneyland's Mississippi River steamboat, "The Mark Twain," when he got together with two famed members of his "Hot Five" from the 1920s, trombonist Kid Ory and banjo player Johnny St. Cyr. To see the old-timers stomp out Ory's "Muskrat Ramble" was an eye-dampening delight.

Also on hand were young singer Bobby Rydell, whose style would not be possible without Frank Sinatra and Bobby Darin; and some hula dancers for kids my age. The narration was wisely confined to occasional remarks by Disney, with the wandering cameras doing most of the work: picking up a girl who snapped a salute when a band played "Dixie" and capturing the fading music of "The Mark Twain" from shore.

Seattle World's Fair Will Open Saturday

By MARTIN HEERWALD United Press International SEATTLE (UPI) — It's almost blast-off time for the Seattle World's Fair, a colorful space-age extravaganza designed to lift its visitors into the next century.

The countdown for this scientific exposition, staged where nature overstocked the landscape with marine and mountain beauty, will run out at noon Saturday, April 21. Another 173 days will follow, 50 of them programmed especially to salute every state in the union.

Oklahoma latched onto opening day, and Gov. J. Howard Edmondson personally will represent the Sooner state in ceremonies initiating the first World's Fair in the United States in 23 years.

Like every producer, fair officials have had their eyes on the box office, the ultimate test to success. They hoped for more than a million when advance sale of tickets began, but they missed their guess by more than two million.

When advance sales ended March 15, more than 3.2 million admissions had been sold and the fair had more than $7 million in the till.

"We don't think anything ever in the world has seen an advance sale that equals this one," said Ewen C. Dingwall, manager of the fair.

Most of the advance tickets, were purchased close to home, but Dingwall had reports from cities as distant as San Francisco "where lines were running a block long on the final day of advance sales."

The most conservative estimates for the six-month run of the fair put the attendance figure over the 10 million mark. Only time will tell what travelers from other regions will do for turnstile tabulations, but there is more concern here over crowds than there is fear of failure at the gate.

No part of the fair complex is busier in the pre-opening rush than Expo-Lodging Inc., the organization set up to find sleeping accommodations for the invasion. Expo-Lodging has been on day and night shifts for weeks, and this giant agency has been reserving rooms at a daily clip of 1,500 to 2,000. The pace will multiply as Expo-Lodging increases staff and operates around the clock.

As for readiness, fair officials admit that some finishing touches will be needed after opening day. But the major part of the $100 million display will be ready for showing.

Two of the fair's main attractions already are doing a big business with the home crowd. The 1.2 mile monorail, running from the heart of the city to the foot of the 600-foot space needle, has been thoroughly tested. So has the observation deck of the space needle, a steel spire offering an uncluttered view of Puget Sound, the Cascade and Olympic Mountain ranges and the city.

When the fair had won its battles of planning, financing and construction, it faced new battles of rumors. Reports drifted back from other areas of the nation that prices were as high as the space needle, motels and hotels had no rooms to offer, and it would cost $35 per person just to get into the fair grounds.

While fair officials stretched their welcome mats around the merchants in the state to devise a fair practices code, holding the line on prices. Expo-Lodging Director Ralph Lee continues to emphasize that the agency can fill every reservation request. And Dingwall figures the admission price—$2 per adult and $1 per child—can't be matched as an entertainment bargain.

Weekly Report To Texans

By SEN. JOHN TOWER

Senator John Tower (R-Texas), in his weekly report to Texas constituents discussed the Revenue Act of 1962, popularly termed the Tax Bill as passed by the House on March 29. He termed the section referring to withholding taxes on dividends, interest, and patronage refunds as the most objectionable provisions of the Act. The text of Senator Tower's remarks follow:

"One of the biggest pieces of legislative news to come out in the last few days has been the passage by the House of Representatives, the Revenue Act of 1962, sometimes just referred to as the Tax Bill.

"I'd like to talk about two particular sections of that Tax Bill today. Generally speaking, I don't regard it as a good bill. I might note that all of the Republicans in the House of Representatives tried to change this bill substantially, and they were joined by a number of Democrats. The bill is not a popular one, and not one that is designed to give business and investment the stimulus that they should have.

"Looking at what has generally been called the better part of the bill, there is a provision for an investment tax credit. The most important section of the bill is this provision, or at least it is generally regarded as the most important. This section provides that a business can subtract from its tax liability 7 per cent of its new investment in tangible business assets other than buildings. This credit is an outright subtraction from the tax and is in addition to the full allowable depreciation of the cost of the asset. The amount of the credit that can be taken in any year is limited by the amount of tax. The tax liability limit is $25,000. For a taxpayer, whose tax (before the credit) is not over $25,000, the credit can offset his tax dollar per dollar. Where the tax is larger than $25,000 the credit is limited to $25,000 plus 25 per cent of the part of the tax over $25,000. Any dollar amount of credit which is not usable (because of this limitation based on the tax) may be carried over and used against tax of the following five years.

"This does, of course, afford some allowance for depreciation and some incentive for the replacement of worn-out equipment, and so forth, is a little bit more realistic than perhaps what we've had in the past, but still it is not entirely adequate. It is limited, and although it is what we might call a fairly favorable section, it's not adequate.

"Perhaps the most controversial section of the tax bill, at least the section that I seem to be getting the most mail on, is the provision, providing for a withholding tax on dividends, interest, and the patronage refunds of cooperatives. This part of the bill provides that a pay of dividends, interest, and patronage refunds (of marketing or producer cooperatives) will be required to withhold tax at a rate of 20 per cent without the payer being required to notify the recipient of the amount withheld.

"The bill contains several provisions cutting down on overall withholding: Exemption certificates, for example. All individuals who expect to have no tax liabilities for the year will be able to file an exemption certificate and avoid the withholding on bank interest, series E-bond interest, and dividend income. All individuals under 18, whether or not they expect a tax liability, can file these exemption certificates. There will be some quarterly refunds. Tax exempt organizations, and married couples with less than $10,000 dividend or interest yearly income, and single persons with less than $5,000 yearly income (if they expect to have less tax liability for the year than the amount withheld) may file quarterly claims for refunds. There will be some offsets. Corporations and tax-exempt organizations may take credit for amounts withheld from them against any liabilities that they have as withholding agents of income and social security taxes.

"I strongly object to this withholding feature. I don't think withholding taxes are a particularly good idea, but this does provide for some exemptions, but it puts the burden on the taxpayer. To secure these exemptions, it involves a lot of administrative work and paper work. It will be an additional burden on business and on individuals."

Burglars Hit Miami Firms

MIAMI (Sp) — Three burglars here Friday night netted burglars approximately $120 in cash, 10 cartons of cigarettes and eight boxes of cigars.

The break-ins were reported to Roberts County Sheriff Cy Carr Saturday morning when store owners began to open for business.

Carr said Ethel's Cafe, Mayo's Cleaners and the school building were burglarized.

These are the first burglaries to occur in this community for several years, Carr said.

Ethel's Cafe was entered by cutting the glass in a rear door, reaching through and unlocking the door from the inside. Approximately $120 in cash was taken from the cash drawer and 10 cartons of cigarettes were taken from a vending machine and eight boxes of cigars were reported missing from the check-out counter. The cleaning establishment was entered through a rear door, by breaking the glass, Carr said, but nothing was reported missing.

Entrance was gained into the school building by cutting a hole in a glass door near the gymnasium. The burglars then entered the principal's office where they attempted to pry open a safe, but were unsuccessful. The Coke machine in the hall - way of the school was pried open and an undetermined amount of small change was taken.

Sheriff's officers late Saturday night were still investigating the incidents.

First Aid Class Set Wednesday

The Pampa chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor a first aid instructor class beginning at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Red Cross office located in the basement of city hall.

Alvin Lewis, Spearman, will be the instructor - trainer for the class. The class will be concluded next week with H. H. Gilliam, Brownwood, serving as instructor.

Persons who have completed the advanced first aid course are urged to attend these classes.

There is no charge for the course and all the material used in the classes has been received from the national office by the local chapter, according to Clifford Hill, Pampa first aid chairman.

Tools, Suitcase Missing

Sheriff's officers received a report Sunday from "Chick" Clark, Brownfield, that sometime Friday night or Saturday, a tool box filled with hand tools and a locker suitcase containing several personal items was taken from his pickup truck while it was parked at the Perry-Lefors Airfield.

Clark, a spray pilot for a local firm, told officers he parked his pickup truck at the airfield prior to flying a spray mission. When he returned Sunday afternoon, he said the vent glass of the truck had been broken and the articles were missing.

IT'S CLEANUP TIME AGAIN

Yes, it's cleanup time, all across America, and you and your neighbors will be burning last year's grass, old papers, trash, and the piles of limbs from the trees that fell last winter.

Smokey Bear says that careless debris burning is one of the principal causes of forest fires, year after year.

So when you're ready to strike that match, won't you heed SMOKEY's simple rules?

1. Check with your local fire warden or fire department before you burn! You may need a permit for any fire outdoors!
2. Have tools, water, and enough help to be sure your fire can't get away!
3. Don't burn on dry, windy days, when fires run fast and sparks and embers fly!
4. Never leave a fire—any fire—burning unattended!

Remember—only YOU can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

Heavy Title Site Still A Mystery

NEW YORK (UPI)—The boxing business, long accustomed to strong arm tactics, had a splendid view of a two-handed black-jack today.

Floyd Patterson will defend the heavyweight title against Charles (Sonny) Liston in New York, either Sept. 17 at Yankee Stadium or Sept. 26 at the Polo Grounds if 1. The New York State Athletic Commission grants Liston a license.

2. Stadium rental comes off as desired.

Otherwise, say those promoting this affair, "We quickly could move somewhere else."

Like Dallas or Houston, where a mysterious Texas syndicate of unknown stature supposedly has offered a $1 million guarantee and is being "held open" until Thursday noon or Philadelphia, which is described as "prepared" and ready to make Municipal Stadium available "at a nominal sum."

The promoters, who will have a $100 top price for tickets; assertedly have received the largest foreign radio offer in fight history from the British Broadcasting Corp.; will accept sealed bids for closed circuit television rights, and anticipate a gate of from $1,250,000 to $2,250,000, aren't going to toss their money around.

Which explains the two-sites decision in New York.

Yankee Stadium wants too much money. The inference in the Polo Grounds' alternative or "some other city" is that the Yanks better get with the proper price or blow their one-night tenant.

There's little question, either, as to why at this late date they're still hashing around with other cities and nebulous bids from unnamed syndicates sending mysterious telegrams.

This is to let the New York State Athletic Commission know that its better get on the stick and grant Liston a license pronto and no foolishness.

This gentle hint undoubtedly results from the sorry state of boxing in general and the questionable state of Liston, in particular.

There's no doubt that every man deserves another chance, but there may be a question in some minds as to how many new chances. Liston has a long arrest record stretching from 1950 right into 1961. The charges range from robbery and larceny through assault with intent to kill, strong-arming, loitering and impersonating an officer.

Once he served 29 months in the Missouri State Penitentiary and again nine months in the St. Louis Workhouse. As recently as last year he was in difficulty with the gendarmes again and, while he has since supposed to have been rehabilitated, there may be some question when they get around to fingerprinting him again when he applies for his New York license.

Gen. Melvin L. Krulwich, chairman of the New York Commission, has promised nothing but a quick decision. The promoters assert there is "no reason to think Liston might not get a license."

Yet the mysterious Texas bid, which promoter Tom Bolan admits he puts in the category of offers where somebody is always saying he wants to put up money, is being "held open" until Thursday noon to make up everybody's mind.

By which time, Yankee Stadium and the New York Commission probably will have made up their too.

Six members of the Pampa golf team received letters for their links play during the past year. Boys receiving letters included Johnny Hatcher, Bryan Prigmore, Leonard Hudson, Gary Stanfield, Freddy Howard and Roy Webb. Hudson was named captain of the local golf team during the past year.

Individual season averages included Hudson, 77.6; Hatcher, 79.0; Prigmore, 80.9; Stanfield, 83.8 and Howard, 84.4.

Boat Owners Are Opposed To President's Craft Taxation

CHICAGO, Ill. (Sp)—The boating industry is opposing President Kennedy's plan to levy an annual use tax on pleasure craft.

The proposals are a "perversion of sound tax principles," the Outboard Boating Club of America and the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers have charged in a joint statement.

"While we most certainly subscribe to the overall objective of long range planning and action to assure adequate recreational resources for our people, we strongly oppose this attempt to tax a small segment of our population to pay for such lands for the benefit of the entire population," the statement continued.

The two groups expressed confidence that the Congress would reject the proposed tax as "discriminatory."

According to OBC, boatmen are already paying local, state and federal governments more than $100 million annually in boat registration fees, taxes paid on fuel, personal property taxes and similar fees.

The Administration measure would levy a $5 annual fee on pleasure craft 14-16 feet in length, with a $2 charge for each additional foot.

The money collected would pay for the acquisition of additional land for federal parks, forests and wildlife refuges.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson (D-N. M.) introduced the Administration measure in the Senate as S. 3118. It was assigned to the Interior Committee, of which he is chairman. Anderson was joined in sponsoring the bill by Senator Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) and Senator Jack R. Miller (R-Iowa).

Identical legislation (H.R. 11172) was introduced into the House by Representative Wayne N. Aspinall (D-Colo.). Aspinall is chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, to which the bill was assigned.

Both OBC and NAEBM have pledged a joint effort to defeat the measure.

Two days after the Presidential message in which the proposals were made, the two groups issued the following joint statement: "On April 4, 1962 legislation was sent to the Congress to impose an annual graduated tax on all sail and motor boats 14 feet and over. The stated purpose of this tax on boat owners is to finance the acquisition of additional federal lands.

Harvesters Facing Bulldogs Today At 4

Mike Clark will take the hill today at 4 p.m. at the Optimist park against the Borger Bulldogs in an effort to break the Harvesters two-game losing streak and up their average toward the .300 mark.

Clark, loser of his last outing Friday afternoon at the hands of Lubbock's Westerners, 5-4, will be seeking to even up his own personal record in the process. The stylish right-hander has a 1-2 record in loop play.

The Harvesters are 2-4 in league play.

Pampa wracked up a total of 13 hits in their weekend losses to Lubbock and Monterey, but were held to five runs after whacking away for 14 runs and 17 hits against the Palo Duro Dons in an earlier contest.

The Borger game will bring to a close the first half of play for the Harvesters in 3-AAAB competition.

John Arthur, who is currently one of the hottest Harvesters with the timber, had three for seven against the two Lubbock schools, including two singles and a double. Arthur went into the series with close to a .500 batting average as clean up man for the local nine.

Borger goes into the game with a 3-1 record in loop play.

Around the infield for the Harvesters will be Gerrel Owens at first, Larry Gregory at second, Butch Crossland at shortstop and Ricky Stewart at third base.

In the outfield will be Arthur in left, Howard Reed in center and Kenny Hebert in right field.

Mike Stewart will handle the catching with Clark on the hill.

Mays Leads Giants Past Cardinals In 19-8 Victory

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

That million-dollar figure started the wheels turning in Willie Mays' head and the first thing you know he felt he had to pay off like a slot machine.

He did Monday night with a booming three-run homer that set the tempo for a 19-8 shellacking inflicted by the San Francisco Giants on the Los Angeles Dodgers. Those box-car figures represented the Giants' highest run total against the Dodgers since they trampled them, 20-6, on July 5, 1953.

Prior to Monday night's game, Mays leaped for the first time through newspaper stories that Giant owner Horace Stoneham had turned down a million-dollar offer for him from the St. Louis Cardinals six years ago and a subsequent $650,000 bid from the New York Mets last summer.

"We certainly thought Mays was worth it," said Mets' President George Weiss.

But Stoneham says there isn't enough money to buy Willie's contract.

Mays' homer was his fourth of the season, making him the major league leader. It came off southpaw Willard Hunter, third of five Dodger pitchers, in the sixth inning. Felipe Alou and Jim Davenport also homered in the Giants' 12-hit attack while Tommy Davis connected for the Dodgers.

Billy O'Dell went the route for the Giants and gained his second victory although tagged for 15 hits. Stan Williams was the loser.

The unbeaten Pittsburgh Pirates scored their fifth victory in a row by handing the Chicago Cubs their sixth straight defeat, 6-3; the Cardinals also kept their perfect record intact by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 12-6, and the Cincinnati Reds-nipped the Milwaukee Braves, 2-1. Cold weather forced postponement of the Houston Colt-New York Mets game.

All clubs were idle in the American League.

Diomedes Olivo, a 41-year-old rookie reliever up from Columbus, was credited with the Pirates win over the Cubs, who are still looking for their first victory of the season. Olivo spaced three hits and one run over 4 1-3 innings and Elroy Face held the losers hitless over the final 1 2-3 innings.

Roberto Clemente gave the Pirates a 5-4 lead with a three-run homer off Glen Hobbie in the sixth-but Bill Mazerowski singled home the winning run off loser Bob Anderson in the seventh.

The Cards-Phils contest was a weird one with each club scoring six runs in the first inning. Ernie Broglio took over for Cardinal starter Bob Gibson in the first inning and pitched scoreless ball thereafter, giving up five hits, to earn the victory.

Gene Oliver broke the 6-6 tie with a home run off loser Don Ferrarese in the third inning. The Cards rapped Ferrarese for three more runs in the fourth on Bill White's two-run triple and Ken Boyer's sacrifice fly.

Joey Jay finally broke into the victory column for the Reds after two losses by hurling an eight-hitter against the Braves, who never have beaten him.

Jay wasn't especially sharp. He walked six batters and hit another, but started Cincinnati's game winning rally with a single. Frank Robinson drove in both of the Reds' runs with a sixth-inning double. Bob Shaw, making his National League debut, hurled two-hit shutout ball until Jay opened the sixth with a single.

Giants Turn Down Offer For Mays

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If Willie Mays didn't know what he was worth on the hoof—before, then he should know now.

He's a million dollar chattel for Senor Horace Stoneham's San Francisco Giants—even if Horace won't admit it.

Stoneham reportedly has been offered $550,000 by Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson of the New York Mets for Willie's contract. Willie also was the subject of a $1 million offer a half dozen years ago from the St. Louis Cardinals.

However, this latter offer, if recalled correctly, included a couple of $250,000 ball players in return. That's like setting the price on a race horse at $1 million—by offering to exchange two $500,000 humming birds for him.

Mays never has been the popular figure in San Francisco that he was in New York. Orlando Cepeda, Stu Miller and Felipe Alou possibly all rate ahead of Willie in popularity.

Cancer Victim Must Have Faith In Doctor

EDITORS—Even if cancer appears to have been cured, the victim must be constantly on guard for years afterward. Here is the final of four dispatches by Jack Proctor, editor of the Cleburne Times-Review, telling of his fight with cancer.

By JACK PROCTOR
Written for UPI

After receiving radium treatment by needle implant for carcinoma of the floor of the mouth, we will probably be observed by our physician for several years at varying intervals. This procedure is convenient and it is essential. If a person has ever been felled by a malignancy, it is imperative that he or she be observed for a certain length of time. This is the way statistics on cancer cures are fashioned; not to speak of the safeguard against re-growth afforded the patient. In our case, the tissue changes came as we were told they would, a few small ulcerated places on our gums. These were quickly and deftly obliterated by cauterization. Then, after about three to four months, just before we were to pay a previously-designated visit to our physician, we noted three rough, white patches had suddenly and mysteriously formed on the side of our tongue opposite where the implant had been made. We naturally were disturbed. Here was our first experience with leukoplakia. Our physician said this was a reaction, prompted perhaps by our many years of smoking. He snipped off the tissue build-up and cauterized the spots with an electric needle. The tissue was tested and it proved to be leukoplakia. The spots smoothed out where the patches had been and we sailed along for another two months without incident, except that we had insisted, along about Thanksgiving, that our doctor cauterize our left lower gum with electric needle. The physician told us we would have a sore mouth, as he acceded to our insistence. We learned the hard way, because we indeed did have a very sore mouth. Then about two months ago, the leukoplakia broke out again on the side of our tongue, a larger mass this time. The doctor told us it might disappear. Otherwise, he would have to snip it off and cauterize, explaining that such a wide area of cautery would perhaps necessitate sending us to a hospital. But the growth began to dwindle, as we stepped up our visits to the doctor to once a week, so he would watch the leukoplakia. This tissue build-up is not cancer. It occurs in the mouth and one the lips as well as the tongue. It is a white cloudy film, like tissue paper. Since leukoplakia is sometimes a forerunner of cancer, it must be taken seriously and eliminated. We have learned the ways to reduce the danger of the mouth cancer, now that we have experienced it and we pass this information on in the fervent hope it may preclude, perhaps, one case of the malady: 1. If you must smoke, smoke in moderation, but who will do this? You will make no mistake if you quit smoking altogether. 2. Keep your mouth clean by brushing your teeth twice daily. 3. Permit no broken teeth or chafing dental appliances to go uncorrected. This, we have to think, is what caused the irritation which set up our malignancy. 4. Avoid insulting your mouth with food and drink that is too hot. 5. Above all, inspect your mouth thoroughly at regular intervals. Get in the habit of saying "ah" to yourself regularly and taking a good look. Once a month is often enough. And feel, as well as look. It may save you loads of trouble, inconvenience and shattering apprehension.

Southwest's Role In World Trade Builds

HOUSTON (UPI)—World trade is becoming more and more a factor in southwest business and Houston has taken the leadership with a unique 12-story world trade center. The $3 million building just recently occupied by the Houston Port Commission is the nation's first building designed exclusively to promote international trade and commerce. The center, with 93,900 square feet of rental space, is expected to strengthen Houston's position as the nation's second leading port. More than 4,600 deep sea vessels tie up at Houston docks each year. One feature of the center is a complete import-export service center with interpreters and translators, bi-lingual secretaries, foreign trade experts and advisers, and the Houston Port Bureau. Among tenants already housed in the modern structure composed of alternate vertical strips of glass and brick with insets of mosaic tile are steamship agents, freight forwarders, importers, exporters, tug operators, consulates and other maritime interests. "Our trade center is not a copy, but a new departure," said Jerry P. Turner, general manager of the commission. "Houston now has a true world trade building combining foreign representation with domestic offices as an effective means of developing, promoting and furthering Houston's growing world trade." Space in the building is limited to firms in the international field. The center has a special service for visiting businessmen, both foreign and domestic, which provides temporary office space, secretarial help, translation aid and advice in business contracts. The center is expected to play a vital role in trade between Europe and this country as the European Common Market continues to expand its world trade operations.

Congressman's Ordeal With Correct Manners For A White House Dinner

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—By no standards that I know of could Rep. John F. Baldwin be described as a bumpkin. He is a graduate of the University of California; he was president of his law class for three years; he was a practicing attorney for five years, and he has served in Congress since 1954. You would think a person with this background would feel at home in almost any company. Yet there is something about a state dinner at the White House that makes even a relatively sophisticated congressman uncertain about his manners. Baldwin was one of the guests at the dinner, that President Kennedy gave for the Shah of Iran last week, and I suppose it was the invitation that put him on edge. As he related in a report on the affair to his constituents, the envelope contained no less than five cards, which seemed to take nothing for granted. The first card told what the occasion was. The second one gave the time and place of the dinner. The third one told him what to wear. The fourth one told him where to respond. And the fifth one told him what gate to enter. When he and his wife arrived at the White House, they were handed still another card which told them where to sit. At the table, they found a seventh card which made it clear they had found the right place. It was at this point, apparently, that Baldwin's confidence in his table etiquette was shattered. "I must confess that my main concern during the dinner was whether I was using the proper knife or the proper fork at the right time," he said. "There were three different knives on the right, and three different forks on the left." Expressing hope that he "represented you properly at this state dinner," he said, "I think I only used the wrong fork once." Well, gee, I don't want to embarrass the congressman or anything, but I must point out that when you have three forks, it is impossible to use the wrong fork only once. Silverware errors are cumulative and cannot be rectified as the meal progresses. In other words, if Baldwin used his dinner fork on the salad, then he must have used his salad fork during the main course of dessert. But Baldwin needn't feel chagrined about it, for it was the fault of the White House staff. They should have provided yet another card showing which fork to use.

Gold Mine Subsidy

Sen. Clair Engle of California wants to put the gold miners on the same kind of a dole as the farmers.

Mr. Engle has grown concerned about the loss of the U.S. gold reserves, which have been brought about by the flow of gold to foreign lands.

So he has introduced a bill SJ Resolution 44 which would authorize the secretary of the interior to make incentive payments, above the official price of gold, to domestic miners for up to five years.

He claims this will restore U.S. gold reserves to $2 billion, their approximate level of four years ago. "The incentive payments would vary from mine to mine, depending upon what amount would enable each mine to get into production, but in no case would payments exceed $35 an ounce above the $35 fixed price," Mr. Engle claimed in a statement last week.

This falls in line with thinking of too many persons holding government jobs. There's a "farm problem," so we guarantee prices, and wind up with more problems; then we start a "soil bank" and create more problems; then we put on iron clad controls, which mean more problems. It's the same in housing, health and welfare and all other fields. There's never an end, once it's started.

In the gold situation prices were fixed and it was made unlawful for citizens to hold gold. When it was no longer profitable to mine gold, the miners quit.

Now, because the Americans are not allowed to hold gold, while citizens of other nations can demand gold for dollars, the gold reserves have disappeared. Engle's plan to pay miners more than the fixed price of gold probably will only serve to make the miners forever dependent upon government. If he thinks the subsidy can be ended in five years, he is mistaken. No subsidy ever ends.

The answer to the gold situation is the answer to any other problem created by government to get the state out of it, and let the market take over.

One World, With Liberty For All

International trade is complicated, not by the primary issue, free trade or not, but by the interference of governments in the industries of their home countries.

The advocates of free enterprise are inconsistent if they do not at the same time believe that the exporters and importers of all nations should be allowed to sell to whom ever they choose and buy from whom ever they choose, without restraints imposed by governments. Freedom should not stop at national boundaries.

There may be times, however, when a government is justified in preventing a free untrammelled flow of commerce, as, for instance during time of war. And since we are now at war with communism, it may be argued that governments have the right to protect the lives and property of all its citizens, from doing business with the Communists.

But that is not the situation when it comes to removing tariff walls that stand between nations which are at peace. Tariffs are a restraint on liberty. They are artificial obstacles, approved by protectionists, placed in the way of trade. It does not make sense that we constantly strive to eliminate natural barriers of commerce and then raise artificial impediments.

Distance, for instance, is a natural barrier to commerce between the U.S. and Europe. To overcome this obstacle, technicians, scientists, inventors have for centuries striven for faster, more economical means of transportation. At the same time, the governments have erected artificial barriers, by means of tariffs, to neutralize these gains.

Western Europe, with its Common Market, has gone so far toward eliminating trade barriers among the market countries, that, viewed against the background of prejudices that prevailed there no more than 10 years ago, the accomplishment seems almost miraculous.

The people of those six nations — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg — had clung to tariffs for the same reasons that are put forward today by protectionists in the U.S. Each of them had its hands of protectionists who argued that certain of their industries would be forced to shut down if products made cheaper in other countries, for whatever reasons, were allowed to "flood" the fatherland duty free.

The reverse, however, has been the result. It is true that some industries in some countries have been forced out of business. But in each of the six, industrial output is at an all-time high — as are wages and employment — and still growing. Labor, both skilled and unskilled, is in such short supply that the Common Market countries compete for it — meaning that those who work get higher wages — now that the travel restrictions between the Inner Six also have been eliminated.

So successful has the Common Market been that it now stands as a bulwark against the menace of communism. It is a third industrial giant, alongside the U.S. and Russia. In this manner, too, Europe's gain is also ours.

So good is the living in the Common Market nations that their leaders have proclaimed the arrival of the millennium, and, thinking how to protect it, have made the mistake of setting about to erect trade barriers against the other nations of the world, such as the U.S., which they fear will "flood" the Inner Six with cheaper products, putting out of business "home" industries, or at least stunting their growth.

That's where we come in again. We ship vast amounts of manufactured and agricultural products to Europe, and the U.S. will lose these markets unless we can persuade the Common Market nations that we ought to lower the tariffs, or, better still, get rid of them entirely.

President Kennedy has asked authorization to make a cut for a cut, and his bill is now being argued in Congress. The President's proposal is so lopsided that it probably would be of no benefit at all to the U.S. as a whole. For one thing, it calls for subsidies for U.S. industries that would suffer from the competition. Our experiments with agricultural subsidies have produced such a tragi-comedy that it would seem a proposal to extend the subsidy system would have no greater enemy than the President.

U.S. industry is having an increasingly tough time competing with foreign countries in the world markets because of high labor costs, brought on by government protection and coddling of unions, high taxes and by interference by other methods in the natural processes. President Kennedy's bill does nothing to rub out these obstacles.

Eliminate all government restraints on industry, including tariffs, and the U.S. need have no fear of any one nation or group of nations outpacing or out-selling us. We will have more for ourselves and more to export.

Economic isolationism promotes hatred and distrust, which promote war. We ought to be per-

TRUTH-FORUM

With Ed Delaney

"The true story of 18 months of United Nations occupation in Katanga, is a ghastly saga of rape, pillage, atrocity, confusion, treaty violation and apparent contempt for the entire international code of military ethics."

Those are the introductory words of a newspaper article by Miss Philippa Schuyler, daughter of the New York editor of the Pittsburgh Courier, the largest Afro-American newspaper in the United States.

Her article thoroughly unmasks the hypocrisy of the U.N. as an organization committed to a policy of peace and non-aggression. It strips aside the veil of secrecy which many in the Washington administration and of course our delegates to the U.N. have draped around happenings in Africa in order to beguile the American people into continuing United States support for the "thing."

Miss Schuyler spent much time in the Congo. She is the author of a book entitled "Adventures in Black and White" her latest book being "Who Killed the Congo?" She cannot be accused of being prejudiced against Negroes since she is one, herself. During these days when propagandists for the U.N. are traveling about the country trying to break down resistance of the American people to further lavish contributions of our money for the maintenance of U.N. mercenaries in the Congo and elsewhere, the words of Miss Schuyler should be driven into the consciousness of our people.

The U.N. forces, she writes, "operate under diplomatic immunity. They cannot be prosecuted for anything they do. If a U.N. soldier commits a crime, no civil court can punish him, no military court does so. Other armies are accompanied by military tribunals. This one is not. The U.N. forces can and have committed thousands of crimes, the majority being personal crimes of individual soldiers. Through-out Katanga I heard incontrovertible evidence of raping and looting committed in particular by Ethiopian soldiers, but by no means solely by them."

These U.N. soldiers, she states, are mercenaries in the true sense. Operating under diplomatic immunity and coming in the main from the most brutal sector of the most backward countries of the U.N. troops are Ethiopian and Gurkhas from India. They are tough, coarse and incredibly brutal. They kill, loot and terrorize. Miss Schuyler points out that in parts of Ethiopia emasculation of an enemy is still practiced. Our U.N. delegates do not dwell on these little niceties of the "police force" preserving peace in Africa.

Any woman caught out after dark in Katanga, was raped, says Miss Schuyler. Vice, crime and conspiracy have altered the character of once orderly Elisabethville, previously the most important city in the Belgian Congo. Every type of adventurer is there to get what he can and with them are beives of prostitutes from every port in Africa eager to entertain the conquering army, says this Negro writer from America. She has the commendable courage to tell the truth, to reveal what white reporters who are in the service of newspapers that condone and even commend the misdeeds of the U.N. find it convenient to omit. Seemingly they dare not tell their readers facts, but for political expediency they present fiction about the happenings in Africa.

Recently Secretary of State Dean Rusk made the ominous prediction that it would be a catastrophe for the United States if we did not hand over another 100 million dollars so the U.N. could continue with its ruthless aggression in Katanga and presumably in other parts of the world. The Kennedy administration and Adlai Stevenson, our delegate to the U.N., may rhapsodize on the achievements of the U.N., but they will scrupulously avoid mentioning such truths as Philippa Schuyler is now telling the American people. Since the United States is the main financial stay of the U.N. we are mainly responsible for the misdeeds in Africa. Some of our people resent that stigma on our country.

White House Intervening in Mass. Senatorial Race—'Bobby' Also Making Behind Scenes Calls

WASHINGTON — The White House is intervening directly and openly in Massachusetts' tense Democratic senatorial race.

Despite avowals by the President and Attorney General Robert Kennedy to keep hands off, leading members of the former's staff are actively seeking support for 30-year-old Edward (Ted) Kennedy at the June 7-9 pre-primary convention in Springfield.

Spearheading this vigorous campaigning for young Kennedy, is Richard Donahue, White House aide and long a devoted Kennedy partisan.

While Donahue is spending much of his time politicking in Massachusetts, other influential members of the President's staff are putting in their licks by telephone and other means.

Bustily engaged in these efforts are P. Kenneth O'Donnell, Timothy Reardon and Ralph Dungan, all officially-listed as special assistants to the President. All are also from Massachusetts and have been closely associated with the President throughout his political career.

Significantly, the White House intervened in behalf of "Ted" when it became apparent State Attorney General Edward McCormack, 39-year-old nephew of Speaker John McCormack, would very likely win the convention's endorsement.

As of now, McCormack has a two to one margin over young Kennedy among the 1,763 delegates.

Two other significant developments in this hot tangle are: (1) Donahue is pointedly making no secret that he is strenuously electioneering for "Teddy" — obviously to let the party faithful know the White House is behind the high-powered drive to win the senatorial nomination for the President's youngest brother.

(2) Attorney General "Bobby" Kennedy will actively go to bat for his brother. That's the inside word being passed out by Donahue. He is telling that to local leaders in endeavoring to line them up for "Ted."

"Bobby" is giving strong confirmation to the claim by telephoning party leaders and others in behalf of his aspiring brother. Businessmen and factory managers have been asked by "Bobby" to arrange for "Ted" to meet and speak to their employees. In each instance, "Bobby" was personally acquainted with the individuals involved.

PRESSURE POLITICS — In one stormy clash over convention delegates, Donahue grabbed off four who had been pledged to McCormack at a previous meeting. This switcheroo occurred in Ward 1 of Lowell, Mass.

Donahue is chairman of this ward, and he pulled off this delegate-winning strategem by declaring the earlier meeting "illegal" because he had not been present. After hours of bitter wrangling and nine close ballots, he finally reversed the initial vote.

William Moriarty, militant McCormack backer, angrily denounced Donahue's tactics. "We were out - maneuvered," he declared, "We were subjected to intense pressure politics and that did the trick. There is an old saying, 'You can't beat City Hall.' In this instance it was a case of 'You can't beat the White House.' That's what happened to us."

White House efforts are also underway to swing labor support to "Ted."

Massachusetts leaders of the Brotherhood of Railway Train-men are supporting McCormack. Other union officials also are lining up for him. Members of the White House staff are trying to offset this influential trend.

Edward Martin, former Boston newspaper official, has been hired as "Ted's" press director. He will be assisted by a group of Madison Avenue advertising and radio-TV specialists. Already considerable broadcasting time, has been tentatively reserved for "Ted."

POLITICALS — Former Florida Governor Leroy Collins, now head of the National Broadcasters Association, is the latest entry in the growing list of aspirants for HEW Secretary Ribicoff's job when he quits to run for senator in Connecticut. Collins backed President Kennedy before and after the 1960 convention, and is highly regarded by him. Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the influential Foreign Relations Committee, is not going to have a "free ride" for re-election, after all. When Governor Orval Faubus announced he was quitting politics, that was widely taken as indicating no opposition for Fulbright. But George Benson, head of Harding College, Searcy, Ark., is preparing to throw his hat into the ring as an ultra-conservative. A one-time missionary in China, and close friend of former General Edwin Walker, Benson has long been a militant Old Guard. During the New Deal, he hotly assailed the National Youth Administration, refusing to allow it at Harding College.

Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt will win handily the Democratic senatorial nomination in Kentucky's May 29 primary — according to the latest polls. The former-Mayor of Louisville and housing administrator in the Truman regime has a big lead over the candidate backed by former Governor "Happy" Chandler and former Senator Earle Clements. These one-time personal and political foes have joined in an effort to lick Wyatt, but apparently are getting nowhere. The White House is being bombarded with recommendations to appoint George Johnson, former California Democratic party treasurer, as Treasurer of the U.S. to replace Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Calif., who is quitting to return to the state. Senator Clair Engle, D-Calif., favors Johnson.

Country editor speaking: "After looking over the possible followers, Uncle Sam might decide that world leadership is hardly worth while."

Pull Up A Chair

Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., carried several new drugs on his orbiting of the earth last Feb. 20. One was an anti-motion compound, the other an anti-shock compound, but he did not choose to use either of them so far as is known. You may not know any one of them all the way through, but there are 271 versions of the Star Spangled Banner on file at the Library of Congress. Headline in a Los Angeles shopping weekly: "It's a Buyer's Market. Select Your Casket Now."

While Eugene O'Neill is often rated as the greatest modern American playwright, not one of his works which has been adopted for the movies has been a solid box office success — and they include "Strange Interlude," "Mourning Becomes Electra," "Desire Under the Elms," "The Hairy Ape" and "Ah, Wilderness."

Today's favorite gag: The school teacher was instructing her pupils in the value of coins. Taking a half dollar out of her purse, she held it up for them to look at, then placed it on the desk as she asked: "Can anyone tell me what that is?" From the rear of the room came a little boy's voice: "Tails!" Macabre: Reporters for the Chicago newspapers in the city hall press room have what they call "The Ghoul Pool." Each time one of them makes a plane trip, the others give him a quarter each, and the traveler names each his beneficiary on a maximum air trip policy. So far, no collections.

It's each man to his specialty, and for some inexplicable reason a professional tea taster can rarely qualify as an efficient coffee taster — and vice-versa. Prof. Greenhouse found that from just one ounce of seed will come 3,000 plants, and the tomatoes from those 3,000 plants will aggregate 30,000 pounds. Observes a cynic: "A wife who says she can read her husband like a book rarely does. Instead of skipping what she doesn't like she goes over and over it."

Thoughts while shaving: 1. How often have you heard a person say, "Lend me a cigarette"? And how often have you seen the borrower return the cigarette? (Neither have we.) 2. He had to reach 'way back for it, a century ago, but in this "The Proper Bostonians" Cleveland Amory recounts that in 1863 a Boston etiquette pamphlet warned book collectors that: "The perfect hostess will see to it that the works of male and female authors be properly separated on her bookshelves. Their proximity, unless they happen to be married, should not be tolerated." 3. Advertising men themselves often fret about the sameness of advertising appeal to women — the so-called universal appeals of love, beauty, wifehood, motherhood. But coming up with something new that will still exert an equal appeal is something else again — and sometimes causes peptic ulcers. . . . It seems paradoxical, but despite the fact he left a $40,000,000 estate, E. W. Scripps, founder of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain, had this for a motto: "Never do today what you may mean you can put off till tomorrow, and never do yourself what you can get anyone else to do half as well as you could do yourself." (There's not much inspirational bunk in that.)

Coffee Problem Gives Many Sleepless Nights

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A 48-nation Coffee Study Group will meet in Washington beginning March 21 to consider the draft of a world agreement to stabilize markets by bringing supply into better balance with demand.

Attending the conference will be representatives of 30 producing and 18 consuming countries. No Communist countries are included. Fifteen of the attending nations are merely sending observers; however, the other 33 are full members of the study group. On the basis of their discussions, the decision will be made on whether to proceed with negotiating an agreement.

Chief U.S. representative at these discussions will be W. Michael Blumenthal, deputy assistant secretary of state for economic affairs. Decision on whether the Kennedy administration will recommend United States adherence and ratification of a world coffee pact has not yet been made.

At the Inter-American Economic and Social Council meeting in Punta del Este, Uruguay, last August, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury-C. Douglas Dillon did state that, "The United States is prepared to join in a workable coffee agreement and to help in the enforcement of export quotas through the use of import controls." The Alliance for Progress charter also calls for the study of commodity stabilization agreements.

Latin American coffee producing countries have taken these statements as commitments for the United States to join. But the key words are "study" and "workable." Any agreements which would create more problems than they settle could be rejected.

Effects of an international coffee agreement might be far reaching if it can be enforced. It might even mean an increase in coffee prices for American housewives.

As Secretary Blumenthal told the U.S. National Coffee Assn. recently, "It is certainly possible that over the next few years coffee prices would firm up to some degree. But I cannot see how anyone would object to that for the price of coffee is presently lower than it has been for many years."

The figures cited are 34 cents wholesale at the beginning of the year, as against 90 cents in 1954. U.S. retail prices averaged 61 cents a pound last year.

This steadily declining price caused by overproduction has been responsible for a number of efforts to change the situation. The study group was set up in 1958. The next year Latin American producing countries agreed to establish export quotas to reduce price-depressing surpluses on world markets.

This was only partially successful as new producing countries, principally in Africa, increased their output. The result is that there is now a world surplus of 61 million bags of 132 pounds each — more than a full year's supply.

There is no plan to buy up this surplus. But since world consumption is estimated at 44 million bags for this year, there must be a production cut of nearly one-third.

Principal provision of the draft agreement to be considered here is that all major producing countries must put in production controls. Smaller producing countries must also accept their share of the burden by agreeing to stop new planting for some time and then regulate replanting within quotas.

Realistic export quotas are also called for to keep surpluses in the producing countries. All producing countries will probably have to take cuts in present unrealistic quotas.

Consuming countries will be asked to agree to buy only from producing countries ratifying the agreement. Exclusive or preferential buying and selling agreements will be regulated.

An assessment of around 25 cents a bag will be levied against all coffee in international trade to finance agricultural diversification in countries producing coffee. Fifteen Latin American and 17 African countries now get more than half of their income from exports of one commodity. A one-cent drop in the wholesale price of coffee means a loss of $50 million to world coffee producers, based on $2 billion sales a year.

Coffee is, incidentally, the second largest commodity in world trade, petroleum and its products ranking first.

One of the stock arguments made by Latin-Americans is that if the prices of raw materials they export could be stabilized — at higher levels, of course — there might be less need for Alliance for Progress aid to balance their trade deficits and increase their import purchase from the U.S.

A few minutes later Willie came out of the bedroom, smiling amiably.

Mother — Did you ask God to forgive you?

Willie — Yessum, I did; and God said, Never you mind about that, Willie; I thought that big dog was a bear myself, until I got another good look at him!

Amos — Why, these clothes I've got on were father's!
