US Successfully Tests Big Saturn

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.
CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The United States fired the giant Saturn super rocket on its second successful test flight today, giving this country's space program an immense boost. The 162-foot rocket rose slowly from its pad in a perfect test of 1.3 million-pound thrust engines and then, in a second successful test, dumped its "payload" of 95 tons of water in space to complete a cloud experiment.

The 460-ton rocket rose, agonizingly slowly at first, on a cradle of flame and smoke sewed out by its eight engines. As it climbed with a deafening roar it gained speed and arched toward the southwest. The test was the second spectacular demonstration of the prototype of rocket engines that will fit teams of men and tons of machinery to the moon later this decade.

Interest In Crazy Day Grows Here

Interest in Pampa's second annual Crazy Day on Saturday, May 14, was reported growing today among merchants and shoppers alike.

Sam Jacobson, chairman of the C. of C. Retail Merchants Committee, and Bill McComas, chairman of a sub-committee in charge of Crazy Day arrangements, both stated today they expect this year's observance to be one of the biggest retail sales events ever held in Pampa.

There will be a full day of activity including a street coffee and dance in the hour just before the stores open, a parade, crazy costumes, crazy customers, crazy clerks, crazy prices and some of the biggest bargains ever offered.

McComas announced that window banners are available for merchants planning to participate. There will be prizes for the craziest clerks' costumes, and prizes for the craziest customers' costumes.

Merchants who plan to go crazy for the day are urged to return the card sent out by the committee with notification that they plan to take part in the annual event this year.

Macmillan Leaves For Talks In Washington On Bolstering West

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan leaves today for talks with President Kennedy on strengthening the Western alliance for future contacts with Russia.

The two leaders will hold their talks, their fifth since Kennedy took office, on Saturday at the White House. They last met in December in Bermuda.

The Stork Found The Stork Home

LONDON (UPI) — The young man frantically ran to a phone booth but discovered it was out of order. He raced to another one, but it, too, was not working. Luckily, a policeman happened along.

"My wife's having a baby," he was barely able to blurt out to police constable Michael Blake. Blake rushed to the young man's home and helped deliver a 7-pound girl.

"We're calling her Michele after that marvelous constable," said Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stork.

Efforts To Halt Nuclear Tests Are Rejected By United States

Mansfield Says Southern Solons 'Play For Keeps'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today Southern senators have shown they are "out to play for keeps" in the Senate's new civil rights battle.

(See related story, page three.)

Mansfield said the Southerners demonstrated their determination Tuesday when they scored a minor first round victory by forcing the Senate to adjourn for lack of a quorum.

But he said the one-day setback for administration forces would not change his plans to seek a showdown on legislation to outlaw state literacy tests as voter qualification in federal election.

Mansfield made the adjournment motion after a 43-minute quorum call had turned up only 35 of the needed 50 senators.

More than 50 were in the Washington area, but it might have taken hours to round them up.

Mansfield assured reporters that he would "have the troops on hand" today to assure a quorum so debate could start. A Southern filibuster against the bill could tie up the Senate for two weeks or more.

The Democratic leader planned to offer the Kennedy administration's anti-literacy test bill as a substitute for a minor House-approved relief bill. The administration proposal would make a sixth grade education proof of literacy for voting in federal elections.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., field marshal of the well organized Southern forces, demanded the quorum call Tuesday. Russell warned that his 19-man group would "fight this with every legitimate weapon."

Mansfield told newsmen that Russell's move did not catch him completely by surprise, but showed that "they are on the offensive and are well organized."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told the Senate Tuesday the "shocking and shameful" shipping of jobless Negroes from New Orleans to the North would only build up public opposition to the Southern filibuster.

JOINS HEALTH GROUP

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Mongolia became the 110th member of the U.N. World Health Organization Monday, the U.N. Office of Legal Affairs announced here.

Macmillan was leaving at 10 EST aboard a commercial airliner for New York where he will address the American Newspaper Publishers' Association banquet Thursday night. He will proceed to Washington Friday.

The prime minister, a firm believer in negotiating with the Kremlin, was reported anxious to keep open the channels between Moscow and the Western capitals.

Diplomatic sources indicated, however, that he was not likely to press Kennedy for an early summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The Daily Express said Macmillan plans to tell the President he is ready to "make a reconnaissance trip to Moscow on behalf of the West" to sound out Khrushchev on Berlin, nuclear tests, and ways of lessening tension on other issues. There was no official confirmation of the report.

The two Western leaders were expected to discuss the merit and pitfalls of a possible diplomatic initiative some time this summer, after the projected U.S. nuclear tests in the Pacific are completed.

High on the list of inter-allied problems was France's independent policy in the Western defense alliance.

The British government was known to be concerned over President Charles de Gaulle's continued hostility to military cooperation with NATO and over the availability and control of nuclear weapons for NATO.

Macmillan was said to feel that the Western alliance, including France, must close its ranks if it is to retain its authority in dealing with Khrushchev.

Estes Grand Jury In Recess At Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — A blue-ribbon federal grand jury called to investigate charges fertilizer king Billie Sol Estes gave expensive gifts to federal farm officials stood in recess today.

The special grand jury was convened in Dallas Tuesday and recessed within two hours after it was impeached by U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes.

The quick recess raised speculation that the Estes probe was only one of the jobs the panel of 20 men and three women will tackle.

Informed sources said the jury would also investigate the operations of the giant Teamsters Union, supplementing an investigation already started by a grand jury in Atlanta, and possibly look into game-fixing charges against Southwest Conference basketball referees.

Seven employees of Neiman-Marcus specialty stores were subpoenaed to testify. They were ordered to stand by and have their records available for the grand jury to examine.

The Neiman-Marcus employees subpoenaed included vice president and treasurer Norman W. Bramley, associate buyer Peter James Zucker and five salesmen.

Testimony that Estes purchased expensive suits, shoes and other gifts for officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture at the Dallas store developed in courts of inquiry held in Dallas by Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson.

Plans Completed For Annual CoC Member Roundup

Plans were completed for the annual Chamber of Commerce May Membership Roundup at a meeting of chamber directors in Coronado Inn yesterday afternoon.

The Roundup, scheduled for May 14-15, will consist of a drive to bring in back dues payments and recruit new members.

Each member of the board of directors will captain a 4-man team in the canvass of "business places."

The drive will be kicked off at a luncheon in the Coronado at noon on Monday, May 14.

The directors also adopted a work program for the remainder of the year, following a discussion of suggestions from the membership and various work committees.

The program will be published in booklet form and will be distributed to all members of the chamber.

A regular monthly membership luncheon is scheduled for the Coronado Starlight Room next Tuesday, May 1.

Program for the meeting will be taken up with discussion of plans for future activities of the chamber.

E. O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager, said today it was hoped the work program booklet will be ready for distribution to members at the luncheon meeting.

Reservations for the Tuesday luncheon should be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce office at MO 4-3241.

Cuban Bank Given Torch By Saboteurs

HAVANA (UPI) — A fire apparently started by saboteurs transformed Premier Fidel Castro's unfinished national bank building into a giant torch that blazed over Havana Tuesday night and early today.

A crowd of about 10,000 persons gathered in Maceo Park and along the waterfront drive to watch the building burn. Every fire company in Havana turned out to fight the flames.

The half-completed building, covering a square block on the waterfront, was the particular pride of the Castro regime. Already 10 stories tall, it was to have gone several stories higher.

YOUTH CENTER OPEN HOUSE SET SUNDAY

The Pampa Youth & Community Center has announced plans for an Open House to be held Sunday from 2-5 p.m.

On May 1, the Center will celebrate its first full year of operation for the youth and community of Pampa. To commemorate this first anniversary the Open House will be held and the public is invited to attend.

The Open House is being held to give the citizens of Pampa the opportunity to observe the facilities and become more familiar with the program offered. The Altrusa club of Pampa will serve as the hostess club and will be on hand to serve punch and cookies.

An aquatic diving exhibition in the Center's indoor swimming pool will be a part of the program. Pampa high school students will assist in serving as hosts and hostesses and the Youth & Community Center Board of Directors will conduct tours through the building and give an explanation of the Center's program and use.

Featured in the program will be a large birthday cake with one candle which will be cut and served by Mrs. Inez Carver, prominent Pampa philanthropist whose support helped make the Center a reality.

Reds Denounce US For Tests

MOSCOW (UPI) — A parade of speakers in the Supreme Soviet denounced the United States today for its decision to resume nuclear weapons tests.

The deputies charged that the United States was hypocritical for preparing for the tests in the Pacific while negotiating disarmament and a test ban treaty at the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva.

The attacks on the United States came during a discussion in the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, of Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's report Tuesday on the Geneva conference.

Gromyko told the deputies that a resumption of explosions by the United States would result in the testing of new nuclear devices by the Soviet Union to safeguard its security.

Deputies Sharas Rashidov and Alexander Korneichug, the first two speakers today, started off a succession of speeches in support of Gromyko's report.

The speeches preceded Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's expected announcement of a new government slate with few if any changes.

Announcement of the new Council of Ministers before the Supreme Soviet, is a mere formality following Khrushchev's routine re-election as premier Tuesday.

The only minister considered likely to be dropped was Ekaterina Furzeva, head of the Culture Ministry. She was not returned to the Supreme Soviet in the national elections March 18.

Interest also was centered on Khrushchev's nominee for vice premier in charge of agriculture, a new post whose occupants will direct reorganization of the lagging farm program. Failures in farm production are Khrushchev's biggest domestic problem.

As chairman of the Council of Ministers, or premier, Khrushchev heads the top executive body which has been made up of seven deputy premiers, 37 ministers, and premiers of the 15 republics, who are ex-officio members.

Dean Holds Out For Inspection System

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States rejected pleas by India and the Communist bloc in the disarmament conference today to halt nuclear testing in the Pacific.

Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin accused the United States and Britain of "attempting to wash their hands before the peoples of the world and shrug off their responsibility."

Indian Ambassador Arthur Lall told the 17-nation conference that he had been instructed by his government to make another appeal to the great powers to "withhold from testing for a short period, perhaps for a few weeks," while another attempt was made to break the deadlock on a test ban.

But American Ambassador Arthur H. Dean replied that the United States, once killed by Soviet acceptance of a testing moratorium which it broke without warning last fall, intends to renounce testing this time only when there is an effective treaty agreement.

Then, turning toward Lall, Dean said:

"With the greatest respect, but with the greatest regret, I must say that my government cannot undertake another unpoliced, un-inspected moratorium. But the United States wants and will continue its efforts to reach an effective test ban agreement."

The Indian and Communist moves came on the eve of renewed American nuclear testing in the Pacific, only hours after the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission announced in Washington that it had received President Kennedy's go-ahead.

Most of today's meeting was devoted to a lengthy discussion of various parts of the preliminary wording of an eventual disarmament treaty.

Zorin attacked U. S. plans for establishing a United Nations peace force as being a violation of the U. N. charter.

When today's session opened, Dean sought and got the floor immediately to propose that two or three of the eight nonaligned members of the conference join the nuclear testing subcommittee to help its deliberations by explaining their proposal for breaking the deadlock.

Zorin warned on Good Friday that there could be no "fruitful discussions" of a nuclear test ban treaty with the thunder of nuclear explosions still to be heard.

Hospitalization Of Elizabeth Taylor Reported In Rome

ROME (UPI) — Italian police today called on Elizabeth Taylor to investigate a published report the actress had been treated in a Rome hospital for an overdose of sleeping pills.

Brigadier Antonio Caiazza, chief of the precinct which includes Miss Taylor's $3,000-a-month villa on the old Appian Way just outside Rome, spent about an hour at her residence.

"We have come to investigate this matter about what really happened to Miss Taylor," Caiazza said. "A newspaper this morning claims she took an overdose of sleeping pills."

Miss Taylor was taken to Salvatore Mundi Hospital in Rome for treatment of an undisclosed ailment Tuesday night and later released.

Her trip to the hospital followed reports of a bitter argument with Welsh actor Richard Burton, her costar in the film "Cleopatra" and her near-constant companion since she broke up with her fourth husband, singer Eddie Fisher.

The Rome newspaper Il Messaggero said, "After a violent argument with Richard Burton, Liz Taylor may have tried to kill herself with barbiturates."

A spokesman at the hospital said the 30-year-old actress "is no longer here." He added that any further information would have to come from her personal physician Dr. Richard Pennington.

Nuclear Atmospheric Tests In Pacific Get Underway Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States fired an atmospheric nuclear shot in the Pacific shortly before noon EST today, informed sources reported.

It was expected the Atomic Energy Commission would formally announce the shot later in the day.

There was no immediate indication of the size of the shot or its power.

It was said the shot was fired at British-controlled Christmas Island 1,300 miles south of Honolulu.

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States started its long-awaited nuclear tests in the Pacific today.

The first explosion, in the atmosphere near British-owned Christmas Island, 1,300 miles south of Honolulu, was not expected to be officially announced until later today.

(The seismographic station at Uppsala, Sweden, recorded a strong earth shock today which a spokesman first said might have been a U. S. nuclear explosion in the Pacific. However, after a detailed study of the data registered on the station's instruments, the spokesman said the shock probably was a natural earth tremor.)

As hundreds of planes and ships stood by following President Kennedy's order to proceed, the Atomic Energy Commission said the timing depended on "weather, readiness and instrumentation."

The weather forecast for Christmas Island was broken cloudiness, 81 degree temperature and a 10 mile per hour northeast wind.

An AEC spokesman said only those tests which "might cause concern" would be announced in advance. He said this referred not to fallout danger but to tests which might be "visible" from nearby areas.

Kennedy's final go-ahead to the 12,000-man joint Task Force Eight in the Pacific came at the end of the day of tension, not much lessened by the fact that the outcome (See TESTS, Page 3)

The Night Is My Enemy' To Be Presented Friday And Saturday

Pampa Little Theater will present its second play of the current season, "The Night Is My Enemy" by Fred Carmichael, on Friday and Saturday in the Pampa High School with curtain time at 8 p.m.

The play is being directed by James T. West with Mrs. Marie Jones as production manager. A capacity audience greeted the opening of this new mystery when it premiered in Summer Stock in Dorset, Vermont.

From the opening line until the final curtain, suspense and thrills are interwoven with humor to provide a thrilling evening.

Set in 1900, the play takes place in Ora Fontaine's home, a large house on the British Coast. The story revolves around Roane Shepperly, a blind girl, and her change from a young girl into a woman by the events that occur. An accidental death is proven to be murder and it soon becomes obvious that the murderer is intent upon killing all those who are imperfect; making Roane the next in line to be murdered.

An attempt on her life is made, which reveals the murderer to the audience, but not to Roane. Slowly, but surely, all those in the house are taken care of until Roane faces the murderer alone—a blind girl versus a mentally unbalanced killer.

Throughout the play is threaded a charming love story and many lines of rich humor. Reviews, following opening night, state the acclaim was genuine from the eerie opening to the final curtain. Suspense sustained, comedy relief, humorous and never irrelevant.

Character roles are taken by Joyce McCausland as Roane Shepperly, the "adopted" blind niece of Ora, and Hester Fontaine, played by Jim Douthitt and Dorothy Walker. Ora Fontaine is a prominent London Physician, who has semi-retired to the country life and his wife, Hester, faces a most dramatic decision in the play. Jim Terrell has the part of a barrister on holiday from his London practice, who falls in love with Roane. Roberta Hickman plays the part of Augusta Garvey, a London society matron, to whom gossip is the "breath of life." Mary Sue Black has the role of Tessie, the fun-loving cockney maid in the Fontaine household, who is Roane's confidante. Patsy Rawlings and Frank Hatcher are in the roles of Margaret and Herbert Biller, the family housekeeper and butler and the parents of Tommy Biller, layed by Bob Hale, a slow-witted boy who provides a definite clue to the murderer's identity. Don Hickman is Inspector Church, who calls at the Fontaine home to investigate the curious happenings that seem linked with the house, since the first murder takes place on the cliff just outside the home.

At the Monday night rehearsal, Glenn O'Connell, stage manager, was putting the finishing touches on the French windows, which look out over the cliff, getting them ready for the finishing painting job to be done by Mrs. Jack O. Miller. All will be done well in time for the opening curtain at 8 p.m. on Friday evening.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 75 for students and may be purchased from P.L.T. members or at the door on both evenings of the performances.

Woman Hit By 3 Different Cars Dies Tuesday

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — A 29-year-old Seminole, Okla., woman was injured fatally early Tuesday when she was struck by three hit-and-run motorists with in the space of minutes on U.S. Highway 82 one mile west of Gainesville.

Police identified the dead woman as Mrs. Tommie Morrison, 29. Funeral home attendants said she was the daughter of Mrs. Sam Jarvis of Seminole.

Mrs. Morrison and a companion, Mrs. Floyd Conger, 21, were walking from their stalled car toward Gainesville when an east-bound car struck Mrs. Morrison and knocked her body 40 feet onto a bridge. The car did not stop.

Mrs. Conger said she also was brushed by the vehicle and was spun into a ditch but was not hurt.

A truck driver, Marshall Williams, of Ozark, Ark., said he came on the scene driving west and slowed down when he noticed an eastbound car "bumping across something on the bridge." This car did not stop, either. Williams said he saw the body of the woman, "still moving," on the bridge and stopped his truck on the west side of the bridge.

He attempted to flag a third eastbound car, but it went across the bridge—and Mrs. Morrison's body—before it came to a stop. He asked the driver to go into Gainesville and order an ambulance. This driver did, but he failed to return to the scene and his identity was not learned.

Seat Belts Make Advances, Auto Show Indicates

By JESSE BOGUE UPI Financial Editor NEW YORK, April 25 (UPI)—Amid the shiny cars strewn about the coliseum today at the sixth annual international automobile show is one fixture in greater evidence than ever before here: the seat belt.

In part, its appearance is a reflection of legislation passed by the New York legislature to require seat belt anchorage units on 1962 cars sold in this state. Another bill in the legislature would require seat belts as standard equipment on 1965 models.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, American Motors, Studebaker-Packard, and such foreign car producers as Volkswagen, Mercedes-Benz and Renault, announced before the show that they would go along with a suggestion from Sen. Edward J. Speno, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Vehicles and Traffic Safety, to put seat belts in cars on exhibit at the show, Speno said.

Some of the auto-making firms had previous plans for this action, their representatives here said. A show official said that the appearance of the belts had stirred numerous inquiries among "car shoppers" and other spectators at the show, which appears headed for a record attendance of perhaps 400,000 persons before it is ended.

"People have noticed that so many of the cars have the belts this year," he said. "They ask a lot of questions about them." One exhibitor said that people comment but "don't seem surprised" at the number of cars with belts.

Safety officials—traffic bureaus, state police groups, research units—long have campaigned for use of the belts, at least in the front seats of automobiles, and have urged motorists to add them to an automobile's original equipment.

Another 1,000 miles of pipe will form spur lines. Scheduled for completion late next year, it will be the biggest privately financed constructed job in history.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Aided by good business news, as well as by its temporarily oversold position, the stock market seems headed for a fair-sized further rally, says Standard & Poor's Corp.

"Outlook" is its weekly investment advisory bulletin, says, however, that it would be inclined to buy sparingly until there is convincing evidence, that something more solid than a technical rebound is in the offing.

Nothing that "someone will have to pay for the technological improvements needed to assure continued gains in the steel industry's productivity." Value Line Survey says U.S. Steel may have to fall back on the investor through a dividend cut to build retained earnings for capital investment. Some other steel companies would probably follow the leader, it warns.

The current improved market, tone must be considered technical, says Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co., "but as we see it the improvement should continue for another 10 points based on the Dow-Jones industrial average."

Richard T. Leahy of J. W. Sparks & Co. says technically he feels that despite the unsettling events of the recent past, the overall market showed signs of being able to right itself and ultimately move to the upside. He believes that the lows of the recent decline have been witnessed and that after some near-term stabilization "a formidable recovery move will take place."

The sun wouldn't dare go down, before he got back," answered the officer.

had appeared inevitable for months.

At 5 p.m. EST the AEC distributed a terse statement saying "President Kennedy has authorized the commission and the Department of Defense to proceed with a series of nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere over the Pacific" to begin "as soon as is operationally feasible."

Later, an AEC spokesman said the series would start "shortly, perhaps in one or two days."

The President had announced March 2 he would call off the tests if Russia signed a cheat-proof test ban treaty. Vacating in Palm Beach, Fla., Tuesday, he set 5 p.m. as the deadline.

State Department officials said they expected a certain amount of "inevitable" criticism of the U.S. tests from abroad, but hoped on balance for general support and understanding.

Unlike Russia's sudden test resumption last September with high-megaton blasts there has been months-long buildup for the U.S. series.

Only one country, Japan, has filed any formal protest over the U.S. tests. The Japanese Foreign Office said today it was deeply disappointed at Kennedy's go-ahead order for the tests.

Rogers Is Mad About Senate Bill 'Device'

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa announced plans yesterday to file protest with Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield, Montana, or his role in using Rogers' house to push civil right legislation through Congress.

According to Rogers, the Senate was steted today to use a private bill introduced by him to bring up on the Senate floor the highly controversial, administration-backed literacy test legislation.

Rogers said he would "retaliate" in the house if a parallel situation develops.

The administration has thrown its support behind a bill making sixth grade education proof of literacy for any federal election.

At a Senate session held Monday, southerners attacked the bill which was not scheduled to come before the Senate until yesterday.

When the measure was brought up yesterday for official action, the Southerners poised for a filibuster, but a quorum was not present.

At yesterday's meeting, Mansfield announced that today he would employ a well-used Senate device of substituting a minor personal relief bill in order to bring the literacy test issue before the Senate for consideration.

At present, for instance, Rogers said, "Mansfield is using a bill I introduced last year, and which cleared the House last August to restore to a Memphis, Texas, wheat farmer, James M. Norman, federal Crop Insurance payments which he was forced to rebate to the federal government."

Norman paid premiums on this insurance, Rogers said, and was paid $3,243.51 under the policy for several claims. After the claims were paid, however, the government decided that Norman's farm lands were uninsurable and called on him to reimburse the government.

Rogers, in 1960, introduced a private bill relieving Norman of responsibility. After the bill was introduced the government filed suit against the farmer in federal district court and he had to pay the government $2,001.48.

Rogers said Norman should not have paid the government since the matter was before Congress.

"If the Senate does this sort of thing the House should be able to retaliate in any manner they feel appropriate," Rogers commented.

He continued, "The senate should have consulted me as author of the bill but they didn't."

$850 Collected In MD Campaign

Approximately $850 was collected Monday night in Pampa's annual house-to-house Muscular Dystrophy Fund drive, according to an announcement today by A. J. Carubbi, Jr., fund chairman.

Carubbi said the funds collected by solicitors will be used by the Muscular Dystrophy Association, Inc., for research on the scientific conquest of neuro-muscular diseases which primarily strike children.

Participating in the drive were members of the Pampa Unit of the National Guard, Jaycee's and Jaycee-Ettes.

Two Hurt In Crash Here Yesterday

Two of nine persons riding in cars which collided at Malone and Reid Sts. late yesterday afternoon were injured and the driver of one of the cars was given a ticket for driving without an operator's license and failure to yield right-of-way.

Billy Ray Black, 26, of 908 E. Denver, was reported in good condition today in Highland General Hospital where he was taken in a private automobile.

Jessie Garcia, three years old, was taken to the hospital in a police patrol car. The youngster was given emergency treatment and released.

Police said Black was driving east on Malone and Abel Ruiz Garcia, 825 Malone, was driving south on Reid when the two cars were in collision at the intersection. Garcia was cited by police for the two violations.

Three passengers riding with Black escaped injury and two passengers riding with Garcia were unhurt, police said.

Damage to both cars totaled approximately $350, according to police.

Jap Students Protest Testing

TOKYO (UPI)—A snake-dancing mob of about 100 leftist students marched on the U. S. embassy today, bringing the 1962 casualty spheric nuclear weapons tests but were driven off by waiting police riot squads.

The march was the first of an anticipated series of demonstrations against the resumption of U. S. nuclear testing in the air over the Pacific.

About 500 policemen, armed with pistols and clubs, ringed the U. S. embassy compound. The students, moved to within about 50 yards of the embassy before they were blocked by a cordon of policemen, about six deep.

The students tried to break through the police lines but were hurled back. A police loudspeaker warned the demonstrators to disperse but the students refused and attempted again to smash through to the embassy.

Police then began a series of football-like rushes, steadily forcing the students back. The demonstrators were driven across town, more than a mile from the embassy.

Local Yegg Has 'Nose For Money'

A burglar with a nose for money broke into the Cook Book Bread warehouse in Osage St. last night and stole $115 in five, ten and 20-dollar bills.

The burglar took the money from a "hiding place."

Police received a call from an employe about 10:10 p.m. and a report that the warehouse had been broken into and the money was gone.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery beside her husband, who died May 19, 1946.

Pallbearers will be Billy B. Davis, Kirk Duncan, Skeet Roberts, Blair Townsend, Bill Taylor, Albert Reynolds, Roger McConnell and H. L. Case.

Offensive Against OAS 'Imminent'

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—An all-out offensive by French security forces against the terrorist Secret Army Organization (OAS) appeared imminent today.

Indications were that the drive will begin in Oran, the western Algerian port city which has been a stronghold of the European extremists fighting to block independence for Algeria.

More than 12,000 persons have been killed or injured since the OAS started its campaign of terror on New Year's Day.

The major concern was that the OAS could provoke Moslems into mass reprisals against Europeans and thus jeopardize the Franco-Algerian rebel peace settlement.

Twenty persons were killed and 15 wounded — most of them Moslems — in terrorist attacks Tuesday to protest American atom-toll to 3,899 dead and 8,235 wounded.

One of the victims in Algiers was a trooper of the newly organized Moslem "local force" which is to help the French maintain peace and order in the major Algerian cities until independence is achieved. The first units of the 30,000-man force moved into Algiers and other cities early this week to protect the Moslem sections against the OAS terrorists.

SOMETHING AMISS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A New York Central freight train en route to Cleveland, Ohio, was several miles out of the station when crewmembers noticed something amiss.

A backward glance by the engineer confirmed the suspicion. Seventy-one cars and the caboose had been left in Indianapolis.

2 Buses Of Negroes To Head North

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The White Citizens Council of greater New Orleans plans to send two buses containing a total of 78 Negroes to Washington, D.C. within the next few days. The council will pay the Negroes' fare as part of its "freedom bus north" campaign.

George Singelmann, leader of the council's "freedom bus north" campaign said the buses will leave "as soon as I've worked out the details."

He said the buses will be chartered and each will carry 39 Negroes. He did not reveal which busline will be used or exactly when the buses will leave.

The pro-segregation council sponsors a program called "freedom bus north," in which the council buys one-way tickets out of the South for any Negro dissatisfied with segregation.

Singelmann said 115 Negroes have taken advantage of the program so far. He said more than 100 have gone to Chicago. An unemployed Negro longshoreman, his wife and their eight children have gone to New York City.

Wigs Take Guesswork Out Of Hair Beauty

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Summer can make a pretty girl look like a clump of seaweed, fresh out of the water, especially if the hair has little body and begins with. Just the trip from the office is time enough to make it fall limply about the vacation presents its problems. You want to sail, swim or play tennis. Then there's the rush to the hotel, a session with the hairdresser and an unshakable hope that your hair will be attractive for that magical evening of dancing.

There's a sure-fire cure for summer hairdo blues; and a simple one, too. Wear a wig. You'll be able to come home from a swimming date and appear beautifully coiffed for a formal evening. If you own more than one wig, you can change your entire appearance. You'll find you can wear fashion and make-up shades that never could carry off before. Your own hair should be cut short and simply styled so that the wig will fit comfortably on

It's exciting to own both a blonde and a brunette wig, each styled differently, suggest experts Charles of the Ritz. The dark-haired girl, for example, can wear a wig on her blonde wig, or bring her own dark hair from under the light wig dark streaks. A hair change will open the door to a new world of color for brunettes.

A dark-haired wig can be set for a more dramatic fashion for formal occasions, and can play up the elegant effect of more brilliant shades in the hair and make-up.

Wigs of real hair can be matched to your own shade, and they can be shampooed and restyled the beauty salon.

They're the perfect answer to the summer hair problems of the younger and outdoor girl. And any man will delight in the chance to "slip on" a new hairdo for the evening.

Wigs of real hair are a life saver for a busy career girl like this model. She can go from a swimming date to an elaborate formal when she knows she has a wig at home to cover her windblown hair. Her own fine, dark hair won't hold a curl during the hot, humid months. It has been cut short, and simply styled (left) so that she can comfortably wear a wig on top. For a complete change of looks, she wears a blonde wig (center). This gives her a chance to try the pastel make-up and fashions that flatter blondes. Her brunette wig, dramatically styled in a flip-up for evening wear (right) can also be worn in an upswipe. With this wig, she wears more brilliant colors to play up her dark hair. These wigs can be shampooed and restyled in the beauty salon.

Dear Abby.... Aw, Mom Let Son Have News Route

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband has always bragged about how he used to deliver newspapers when he was nine years old. Now it seems he would like our nine-year-old boy to get a paper route and do the same thing. I have always wanted better for my children than I had as a child. My husband says it is good training for the boy and he can use the money for his own "spending money."

We try to give our children what they need, and feel that a boy of nine does not need to have "his own spending money." I would like your comments.

MRS. A.
DEAR MRS. A.: Newsboys get excellent experience in accepting responsibility, handling money, and meeting the public. Money is not only for spending, it is also for saving (another bit of invaluable training). Your husband is right. Let the boy have his paper route. Some of our most successful business and professional men were newsboys.

DEAR ABBY: I have two neighbors—one at my left and one at my right. Our three mailboxes are down the road about a block. It is a nice walk, which I enjoy taking. My problem is that neither of my neighbors lets the mailman get away from those boxes before he races down there. One tries to beat the other. The one who gets there first sorts the mail and brings it to my house and sticks it in my door. It isn't necessary. They just want to see what I am getting in the mail. How can I let them know I would like to pick up my own mail?

HAD A ROUGH DAY
DEAR HAD: Have you ever thought of telling them?

DEAR ABBY: I am 22, a college graduate who majored in Physical Education. I am 5'2", weight 195, and have blue eyes and blond curly hair. I am considered "handsome" by many, but have had no luck with the opposite sex. The reason, I suppose, is because I have what some people might call "peculiar" diet habits. (I eat health foods—no meat, no coffee or tea.) Also, I like to be in by 9:30 or 10:00 because I get up at six in the morning for an hour's pre-breakfast workout. How can I get a girl, Abby? I don't want to change my way of living, but I would like some female companionship.

MUSCLES
DEAR MUSCLES: There are about a million young women between 18 and 22 who are just aching to meet you. Pay less attention to your muscles and more to your circulation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CHASED"
AT CORNELL: Old goats are often friskier than young wolves.

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Learn How To Accept Compliments With Poise

Many women reach the prime of life without ever learning how to accept a compliment graciously. When a remark of sincere appreciation is made to some of us, embarrassment often brings forth some pretty silly responses.

When a friend, for instance, says, "What a pretty hat!" we may find ourselves claiming that it was bought a year ago at a sale and is just about ready for the rag bag. We don't mean to be ungracious. Yet what we say degrades the good taste of a friend. A simple "thank you" would have created a much more pleasant atmosphere.

Learn to accept compliments in a pretty, unflustered manner, the same way you would accept the offer of a piece of candy or a helping hand in stepping off a bus. Poise and good manners reap their own rewards.

DON'T EAT 'EM
Nail biting is an ugly habit. Yet it's one that persists, often in spite of a sincere desire to break it. The only real solution to the problem lies in awareness of your hands. Some reminder, such as a new costume ring, will make you remember that you want your hands to look pretty. Once you have a reason for wanting to show them off, you will do your utmost to achieve nail beauty.

Another constant reminder is the use of hand lotion after each washing. Run a touch of the lotion around your cuticles and press them gently down with a towel. This will be your first constructive step toward lovely nails. Until your nails have grown above the tips of your fingers, leave the polish alone. Buff them instead.

In a few weeks, you'll find rewarding signs of development. Then you can use polish — any shade that appeals to you. And at this point you'll discover that nails are much too pretty to eat.

POSE WITH GRACE
Spring and summer are picture-taking seasons. Your camera will go with you as you spend more and more time outdoors. Why not take a few hints from fashion models so that the number of unflattering poses will be kept at a minimum?

Stand with one foot at a right angle to the other, giving the camera a three-quarter view. This throws the body into profile and makes less noticeable the ten pounds the camera sometimes adds. Turn your head a little to the side. A flat, full-faced view can be unattractive.

In beach photos, keep your feet and legs together. They'll assume large, ungainly proportions if they're sprawled out in front of you.

Life's Beginning

Extended To 50

"The 50s can be fabulous," writes a 50-year-old woman who reads this column. If you're wondering why she thinks so — here is the answer in her own words.

"On my 50th birthday I made a marvelous discovery — my time was mostly my own.

"For years I had put my family's needs and interests and demands above my own, trying to help, encourage, protect and guide a growing family.

"At 50 it dawned on me that most of my living for others was finished. Only my husband and I were left at home. Keeping house for two was a snap after keeping house for six.

"I realized I had two choices — to go on making a full-time job out of homemaking or admit it was now just a part-time job and that the rest of the hours of the day were mine to do with as I pleased.

"So I started right in to do the things I had always half-heartedly wished I could do. I am taking piano lessons — and practicing more hours a day than any of my teacher's schoolage pupils.

"I have quit wishing for 'a green thumb' and am learning all that I can about growing flowers. My garden already is a delight instead of a disappointment.

"And I am experimenting with gourmet cooking — which is fun after years of cooking and planning just plain, nourishing meals.

"There are other interests I wish I had time for — and, perhaps, I will later. The point is, my days are full and happy and I am building some skills for the future.

"I am writing you because I see around me so many women my age who haven't found much fun in their 50s. I think they have made the mistake of not realizing that their time is now theirs to do with as they please. So they are pretending they are still fully employed as homemakers when the truth is they now have just part-time jobs with a world of leisure for their own enjoyment. Could you tell them that, please?"

Harvesters Shutout Sandies, 4-0

Colts Mound Corps Is 'Fantastic'

HOUSTON (UPI) — Fantastic is the favorite term now being used to describe the surprising performance of the new Houston Colts' conglomerate of pitchers.

"This is our most pleasant surprise," said Colt field manager Harry Craft when asked about his team's pitching record.

The big surprise is that Colt pitchers have allowed only a 1.68 earned run average through the first 10 games in the National League for the best average in that department in the major leagues.

The record shows that Houston pitching has given up only 21 bases on balls through 10 games and struck out 60 batters. In three of the winning efforts, the starting pitcher went the entire distance.

The best performance to date has been turned in by lefty Dean Stone, who hurled two shutouts. Bobby Shantz, another southpaw, went nine innings on opening day when the Colts defeated the Chicago Cubs 11-2.

"We had hoped that our pitching would be adequate," Craft said, "but thus far it has been more sensational than adequate. And I don't believe there will be any drastic change in the effectiveness of our pitching as the season advances."

"Over the long haul, if we can keep on the same level as we have with our pitchers, we should be in pretty good shape."

"Some will say we have been playing against the weaker teams in the National League. But our pitchers have gotten out some pretty good hitters."

HOUSTON (UPI) — The big bats of the Pampa Harvesters boomed loud and clear on a clear, sunny afternoon at the Optimist park diamond Tuesday afternoon as the local nine smashed the Amarillo Sandies, 4-0.

Jerry Glover, the fire-balling righthander for the Harvesters, set down the Sandies on just five singles in sailing to his third win of the year in loop play. He has lost two.

Jerry exhibited tremendous control throughout the game, striking out eight and walking one to give the Harvesters their sixth victory of the loop campaign against four setbacks.

The broad-shouldered sidearm specialist helped his own cause in the third inning with a towering home run over the right field wall with the bases empty for the Harvesters second run of the game.

Mike Stewart also hit for the circuit with a line smash over the left field wall in the fourth inning, also with the bases empty.

The Harvesters picked up their first run in the second inning. Stewart was safe on an error and Mike Clark doubled him around to third with a long poke to left center. Ricky Stewart then reached first on an error to score brother Mike from third base.

Following the two home run blasts in the third and fourth innings, the Harvesters picked up their final run in the fifth inning to sew it up. Howard Reed opened the inning with a single to right field and stole second. Keny Hebert then smashed out an angle to centerfield to bring home Reed with the final run of the game.

Jim Carrigan was the losing pitcher for the Sandies.

Powell Leads Orioles Past Minnesota, 5-4

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Rookie John (Boog) Powell has "made" the team!

You can read that two ways because the beefy 20-year-old Baltimore outfielder not only earned his letter Tuesday night but also lent credence to the general belief that he could be the making of the Orioles this year.

Powell, faced with his biggest test under major league pressure so far, came through brilliantly with two out and the bases full in the ninth inning to give the Orioles a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Joyous Baltimore players poured out of the dugout to pump Powell's hand for producing his clutch two-run single that climaxed a four-run rally and kept the Orioles in a virtual tie with the Cleveland Indians for the American League lead.

The Twins took a 4-1 lead into the bottom of the ninth and Jack Kralick appeared to be an easy winner with a man on third base and two out. But a single by Jerry Adair made it 4-3 and another single by pinch hitter Dick Williams brought in reliever Joe Bonikowski.

Johnny Temple's bad-hop double scored Adair, then an intentional walk by Dick Stigman filled the bases and brought up Powell, hitless in 12 previous trips.

Stigman knocked Powell down with his first pitch but the six-foot-three, 235-pound rookie dusted himself off and then drilled a single up the middle for the ball game.

Up to Tuesday night, it had been a little rough for young Powell, who was given a Mickey Mantle-type build-up before the season even started. Concerned about his recent hitting trouble, the kid had commented to a teammate, "I'd better cut down on my smoking. I'm up to nearly a pack a day."

His clutch hit Tuesday night extended the Orioles' winning streak to four games and rewarded route-going Milt Pappas with his second victory.

The Indians nipped the Los Angeles Angels, 3-2; the Detroit Tigers blanked the Kansas City A's, 1-0; the Chicago White Sox ended a four-game losing streak with a 3-1 win over the New York Yankees, and the Boston Red Sox downed the Washington Senators, 4-1.

Pittsburgh made it 11 out of 12 with a 7-3 victory over San Francisco in the National League; the Cincinnati Reds also beat the New York Mets, 7-3; the Houston Colts edged the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3; the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-1, and Sandy Koufax equalled the major league record by striking out 18 batters as the Los Angeles Dodgers crushed the Chicago Cubs, 10-2.

NBA Prexy To Retire Next Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maurice Podoloff will step down as president of the National Basketball Association at the end of the 1962-63 season in order to "realize some of my unfulfilled desires."

Podoloff, now 71, announced his retirement plans Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the NBA's board of governors. He has served as president of the pro basketball league since its inception in 1946.

"There are a great many things I want to do and I will now have the opportunity to realize some of my unfulfilled desires," Podoloff told the NBA owners. "And having passed the proverbial 3 score and 10, the years are getting shorter."

No mention was made of a possible successor to Podoloff, who got started in sports promotion in 1926 when he supervised the construction of the New Haven (Conn.) Arena and introduced professional hockey to that city.

Podoloff later served as president of the American Hockey League, resigning from that post in 1952 to devote all his time to the NBA.

Under Podoloff's supervision, the NBA grew fast. It standardized its officiating, hired permanent referees and instituted many rules changes, including the six-foot limit, the bonus free throw, the 12-foot lane, and the 24-second rule.

Westminster Will Be Recipient Of Trophy

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (UPI) — The United Press International trophy, symbolic of the 1961-62 college division national championship, will be presented to the Westminster College basketball team at a recognition banquet Saturday night.

The banquet is being sponsored by "Friends of the Titans" and the Greater New Castle Association.

Irving L. (Bud) Mansell, managing editor of the Youngstown Ohio, Vindicator, will make the trophy presentation to Coach Buzz Riedl, who guided the Titans to a 26-3 record and the top position in UPI's small college ratings.

Manzell, who is undergraduate sports editor of the school newspaper, nicknamed Westminster's basketball team the "Titans." He now serves as a trustee of the college.

Westminster's only losses during the recent season were to Prairie View A & M in the title game of the NAIA tournament and to major schools Pittsburgh and Duquesne.

Bob Voshurg, sports editor of the New Castle News, will present a UPI small college first-team All America certificate to the Titans' Ron Galbreath. A duplicate certificate will be accepted in behalf of the college by Dean Charles F. Saylor for display in the school's trophy room.

Approximately 350 persons are expected for the event, which will be held in the New Castle High School.

Bart Richards, editor of the New Castle News, will act as toastmaster for the banquet honoring Westminster for its first national basketball championship.

The featured speaker will be Dr. John Lawther, a Westminster alumnus and originator of the zone defense when he was basketball coach of the Titans. He presently is associate dean of physical education and athletics at the Pennsylvania State University and last month was elected to the NAIA Basketball Hall of Fame.

Sam Frank, a local businessman, is handling arrangements for the affair.

Zale's Starts Month-Long Sale Here

Zale's Jewelers Monday began a month-long sale in celebration of the firm's 38th anniversary, it was announced this week by Sam Jacobson, manager of Zale's store in Pampa.

"We have just concluded a record year," the Zale manager reported, "and while final figures are not yet available, the company expects to show net sales of approximately $63 million and net earnings in excess of $3 million.

The nation's largest retail jeweler currently operates 220 stores in 32 states. Construction is underway on 14 additional stores, and negotiations are pending for several more.

"In anticipation of a record year and this month's celebration of it, Zale's put its foreign offices to work early in 1961 in Europe and the Far East to provide special merchandise and unusual jewelry designs for this occasion.

"We hope," continued Jacobson, "that in this way we can show our appreciation to this community for its wonderful support of Zale's."

No retail store, he added, can ever be successful without the wholehearted support of the people in the market it serves. Zale's appreciates the wonderful support we have had here.

The circus is truly international in aspect. It is produced by Hubert Castle, former tightwire star of Ringling Bros. Circus. The circus will have 35 specialty acts in three rings, not including the many clown routines. There will be the usual many animals, including Pink and June Madison's Elephants, Watkin's Chimpanzees, Leona's Dogs, Jennier's Seals, Portis Sims' Ponies, Pallenberg's Bears and Robert Baudy's highly-trained animal act, featuring leopards. There will be the exciting "high-swinging" acts on the trapeze, wires, perch-pole, and the like. Novelty acts include unicycle, trampoline, parallel bar, juggling, acrobatic and teeter-board features.

me Van Doren) is so upset at the theft of her act by a colleague (Barbara Nichols) that she hires lawyer Powell to get it back; despite the objections of his respectable fiancée (Angie Dickinson).

Powell kissed Miss Dickinson a lot and Miss Van Doren a little. And Miss Van Doren and Miss Nichols tossed their torsos whenever things got dull. But don't get the idea that Powell was selling sex, sex, sex to cover a weary comedy. No, sir. He had a message with heart, to wit:

"Anybody has a right to have a creation protected. So if you wonder why Miss Nichols had to repeat a strip sequence we saw her do earlier, don't think cynical thoughts. Remember Powell's words to the judge: "You honor, this is much bigger than a dance."

The dance was Miss Van Doren's routine in which she portrays the three stages of a missile taking off. In the third stage, you find out she's not a missile.

There were strip scenes in a law office and in court. But the funniest bit was Miss Nichols doing the act in a club, screaming, "countdown...blastoff," then having her costume disintegrate in smoke.

As usual, Powell's script was slick and brittle, with a childish idea of sophisticated romantic dialogue. Samples: Angie—"Are you for real?" Powell—"Try me." Powell—"I had plans." Angie—"So do I."

Miss Van Doren and Miss Nichols were cast according to their ability. As strippers, they looked ready for Minsky's, especially Miss Van Doren. Miss Dickinson also tried a few tosses in a nightclub and revealed herself to be an amateur, with all the benefits thereof.

As for Powell, his performance ranged from the way you saw him last time to the way you'll see him next. In Hollywood, the show is the kind described by certain nostalgia-prone producers as the type of entertainment "they" don't make any more. Translation: We don't know how to make anything else.

From its opening shots in a pub, where Cockneys sang "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," to its moving closing which showed proud old soldiers in uniformed drill at the Royal Hospital in Chelsea, ABC-TV's "Britain: Ally on the Verge" Tuesday night was a powerful documentary about where our island partner is heading.

The hour-long program, produced and written for the "Close-up" series by Helen Jean Rogers, was successful in making crystal clear the complex issues facing Britain at a time of crisis. When it is deciding whether to emphasize its role in the Common Market, the Commonwealth or neutrality.

It did this by speaking to countless ordinary citizens along with Lord Bertrand Russell, historian Arnold Toynbee and government officials. The script was forcefully terse, and the editing was so quick, sharp and dramatic as to be reminiscent of Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane."

The Channel Swim: ABC-TV cancelled "Bachelor Father"... CBS-TV did the same to two daytime programs, "The Clear Horizon" and "Video Village," as of June 15... Gary Crosby joins his father, Bing, on the crooner's May 14 special for ABC-TV.

The networks again will pool their coverage of the Mercury-Atlas 7 manned orbital shot expected in mid-May. CBS-TV starts a daily daytime version of "To Tell the Truth" June 18; the night-time show continues... Steve Allen is in Marilyn Monroe's new movie, "Something's Got to Give."

A Look At The Gubernatorial Candidates John B. Connally

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following story is the first in a series of biographical portraits on each of the six Democratic and two Republican candidates for governor of Texas.

CONNALLY BIOGRAPHY
By United Press International
FORT WORTH (UPI)—To his supporters, John B. Connally is the savior of the Democratic party in Texas, the man to weld the party back together and consolidate its traditional hold on the state government.

To his opponents, Connally represents a continuation of the same policies, the same philosophies which have guided the state for years.

Accused of being Vice President Lyndon Johnson's hand-picked candidate, a man who will give Johnson fingertip control of the state government, Connally will say only that he is a friend of Johnson, and of President John F. Kennedy as well.

Connally was born Feb. 27, 1917, in Floresville, Tex., one of seven children. He attended public schools in Floresville and San Antonio, and received his degree in law from the University of Texas in 1938.

His first job after graduation was as congressional secretary for then-congressman Johnson. He held that position until the start of World War II when, as a member of the Naval Reserve, he was called to active duty.

During the war, he served in both the European and Pacific theaters and won a number of combat decorations, including the Legion of Merit and the Bronze Star. He was detached from the Navy in 1945.

After leaving the Navy, Connally returned to Texas and set up private law practice in Austin. He served three years as president and manager of radio station KVET in Austin, and was named to the board of directors of the Lower Colorado River Authority.

In January, 1949, he returned to Washington as administrative assistant to then-senator Johnson.

Guests were Mrs. Frank Kirk, Mrs. Charles Audleman, and Chuckie, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Duncan, Edgar Brown, George Duncan, Jimmy Pennington, Doyle Harris, Ben White and David Francis Cox, Larry Gilbreath, and George Smith.

OCCUPATION—CROOK

LONDON (UPI)—A convict in a British prison filed a claim for an income tax rebate—truthfully listing his occupation as a "crook."

The Common Market Is Cutting Prices For European Shoppers

EDITOR'S NOTE: U.S. housewives, as well as business men, will be impressed by the effects the European Common Market has had in cutting prices for European shoppers. In only three years, the market has brought about profound changes in the economic face of the six nations involved, and may exert political force as well. A special reporting team of UPI staff correspondents in these countries tells in the following dispatch, the first of three, what the market is, its accomplishments to date and what may be expected in the future.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Mrs. Rene Verdier, a Paris housewife, went shopping and had an eminently successful day. She saved $11.50.

The reasons behind this happy experience remained a little vague in Mrs. Verdier's mind. But it occurred in a large Paris department store in which gaily decorated placards proclaimed "La France et le March Commun" (France and the Common Market).

Her savings came on an $8 Italian twin sweater-set for her two daughters—a $2.50 drip-dry blouse for herself from Holland and a $4 briefcase from Germany for her husband.

In 1958, the sweater set would have cost $14, the blouse $5 and the briefcase $7.

The key to this lesson in thrift came in the placard, "France and the Common Market."

Roger Coullard, a 55-year-old pharmacist, had a similar experience. Coullard, shopping for a new automobile, bought a German compact car.

"It's simple," he said. "The quality is about the same. I've always wanted to try one, and it was a good bargain."

He figured he had saved about $50 over the price of a comparable French car.

This is the result of a new and dramatic economic pulse beating in six Western European industrial nations, lowering tariff barriers, heralding the birth of a United Europe and a powerful new dramatic force. The countries are West Germany, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The market is a potential weapon in the cold war that affects the pocketbooks of millions.

Outwardly, the badges of the official name of the Common Market — are seen in the shape of "EUR" plates on automobiles, marking their owners as officials of the bloc, and on the placards designating EEC buildings in Brussels, Luxembourg and Strasbourg.

It is seen in the filled order books of European industrialists and in Western Europe's unprecedented prosperity.

Back in 1945 when visionary men were seeking a way to end the wars which had devastated Europe for centuries, Sir Winston Churchill spoke of a "United States of Europe."

President Charles de Gaulle sees it as a "Europe des Patries" (Europe of Fatherlands).

But whatever it is called, the six nations of Western Europe have bound themselves together.

already have progressed so far in economic union that there appears no chance of turning back. Eventually, their goal is political union as well, either as a federal union similar to the United States or as a confederation of loosely united independent states.

In these countries economic union binds together 170 million people in a single market which eventually will see the free movements of goods and labor anywhere within the six.

Economic union still is not complete. Trade barriers within the six are falling and will continue to fall to point "zero" for the next 10 to 12 years. Internal tariffs on manufactured goods already are down 40 per cent and on agriculture some 35 per cent.

Political union, if it comes, will be slower.

Only gradually can the logic of economics and geography take over from the unreason of centuries of prejudice.

"You Americans," said a French professor of history, "may wonder why it has taken us so long to get together. But to us Europeans, the wonder is that it is happening at all."

Although the Common Market has been in existence only three years, growth figures are such as to have been believed impossible 10 years ago.

From 1958 through 1960, internal trade among the six increased 49 per cent. Exports jumped nearly 35 per cent and imports nearly 30 per cent. Figures for 1961 are expected to be equally impressive.

Today, the six are the world's greatest exporters.

Again from 1958 through 1960, industrial production in the community rose by approximately 25 per cent, compared with 13 per cent in Great Britain and just over 8 per cent in the United States.

In 1960, the value of trade within the community surpassed $10 billion.

France, which had been the most fearful of the impact of the Common Market on its economy, increased its trade within the community by 79 per cent.

In these same years, foreign investment flowed into the six nations for a total of nearly $600 million. More than 500 American firms established themselves in the Common Market.

Within the six there is almost total employment, with only Italy having a sizable manpower pool.

In Germany there are four jobs for every unemployed person, and production may slow down simply because there are not enough workers to go around.

Tomorrow: The market's probable expansion and effect on Russia.

Finally, at the end of the day, which may be 12:15 p.m., four rings let members know that the House has adjourned. Five rings announce a recess.

On the Senate side of the Capitol, the bells mean something different.

One long ring marks the hour of convening; one short ring starts a roll call vote. Two rings signal a quorum call and three rings are used to call senators who didn't answer the quorum call.

Senators also use three rings to call an elevator; but that is a private signal which has nothing to do with the legislative process.

There are four rings for adjournment or recess; five rings for an executive session; and six rings for a legislative session after an executive session.
