Senate Debating Compromise Medical Care To The Aged Bill

Administration In Support Drive For Medical Aid

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI) — The national administration rounded up support among state governors today for a bi-partisan compromise version of President Kennedy's program of medical care for the aged.

The medicare issue was high on the agenda at a breakfast session of Democratic governors before today's opening business session of the 54th annual governors' conference.

The proposal went before the Senate today.

The Democrats counted drawing support from at least one Republican governor — New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller, who said the compromise is based on principles he has been recommending.

Invitations for the private Democratic meeting went out from Gov. Stephen L. McNichols of Colorado. One invitation went to Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey, who also is Connecticut Democratic chairman, attending the conference as a companion to Gov. John Dempsey of Connecticut.

Expect GOP Support

The governors are meeting in this chocolate manufacturing town and vacation resort in the Allegheny foothills for their annual exchange of ideas and fellowship.

Supporters of the Kennedy medical care plan hoped to put the conference on record with a declaration like one adopted two years ago, calling for financing medicare under the Social Security system.

As a result of compromise negotiations between Sens. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M. and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in Washington, the Kennedy backers expected to recruit some Republican supporters led by Rockefeller.

Rockefeller told a news conference Sunday he thought that more than the six Republicans who supported a similar resolution in 1960 would side with him this time. The administration has gone far to meet Rockefeller objections to the original Kennedy plan.

Hatfield Changing Vote

Since three of the 1960 Republican supporters are no longer in office, it was not clear how the 1962 resolution would command more GOP votes than it did two years ago. However, Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, who voted against the 1960 resolution said he probably would vote for it this year since it allowed aged persons an option to buy private health insurance and provided coverage for persons not under the Social Security system. Those two conditions also were part of Rockefeller's demands.

Neither Kennedy, Mateos Changed Cuba Position

By STEWART HENSLEY
MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Neither President Kennedy nor Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos changed position at all on the question of how to handle Castro Cuba during their discussions here.

They discussed the matter of Cuba, including Castro's actions within the framework of Soviet bloc activities in the hemisphere, but Kennedy did not try to get Lopez Mateos to drop his objections to collective action to further isolate the Cuban dictator.

The feeling, nevertheless, was that the frank exchange between the two presidents on Cuban operations gave each a better idea of how the other views the problem and will make it easier to approach realistic steps in the future.

Four Developments

President Kennedy was understood to feel that "the new era of understanding" between Mexico and the U.S. stemmed from four general developments in the course of the two-day talks here.

—The frank discussion of the problem of communism and Cuba in the hemisphere.

—Agreement that countries receiving aid under the Alliance for Progress must make some real effort to undertake legal economic and social reforms.

—Their agreement on the need for encouraging trade expansion and governmental policies to bring more private investment into play.

Bipartisan Support Boosts Legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate opened debate today on a bipartisan compromise medical care for the aged bill.

Worked out in consultation with Republicans, the pending measure calls for participation of the states and private insurance companies in a health care plan. It also extends health benefit coverage to 2.5 million persons not covered by Social Security.

The bill carries the sponsorship of 23 senators, five of them Republicans. One of the bill's backers, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., predicted a House approval for the measure, if it wins a big margin of approval in the Senate.

The estimated cost for a person making a minimum of $5,200 a year would be $13 a year. This would cover limited hospital care, plus limited nursing home and outpatient care. It also would cover some drug costs.

Other congressional news: HOOPER — A House appropriations subcommittee made public today a charge by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that the nation is not doing all it can to wipe out crime. Hoover told the committee "public apathy and the lack of citizen cooperation" is one of the great weaknesses in the war against crime.

U.N. BOND ISSUE — The House Foreign Affairs Committee will question Assistant Secretary of State Harlan Cleveland today on the proposed U.N. bond issue. Cleveland is the latest in a series of administration witnesses who have testified in support of the $100 million bond designed to tide the U.N. over its financial crisis.

BROADCASTING LICENSES — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., introduced a bill today to bar the Federal Communications Commission from favoring members of Congress in the award of broadcast licenses. Proxmire said the FCC had justified an award of a television channel in part on the ground that stockholders of the company were members of Congress. He said this type of criterion could turn into a form of "payola."

Red China In New Claim Of Pending Attack

TOKYO (UPI) — The Communist radio charged again today that Nationalist China is preparing for a "large-scale invasion" of the Red-held mainland and boasted that "we will destroy it."

Feiping broadcasts quoting Foreign Minister Chen Yi and the official People's Daily hammered away at the theme that the United States is encouraging the invasion and will be held responsible for it.

In Taipei, a Defense Ministry official countercharged that the Reds are building up their air strength in the Formosa area in possible preparation for a renewal of the 1958 bombardment of the Quemoy and Matsu.

The Nationalist official said the Communists have moved in 80 Russian-made jet fighters since early May, increasing the force already on hand by nearly one-third.

The Reds also were reported modernizing their fighter force, replacing many of their MIG15s with later-model MIG17s and 19s.

Chen charged at a Ghana embassy reception in Peiping that Nationalist China is "a puppet under the aegis of U. S. imperialism."

"Without the support of the United States, it cannot exist by itself at all, to say nothing of invading the mainland," he said.

Independence Voted

Bitter Algerian Rift Is Brewing

ALGIERS (UPI)—A bitter rift was reported brewing today in the Algerian nationalist government (GPRA) in Tunis virtually on the eve of the birth of an independent Algeria.

The vote in Sunday's referendum ran more than 99 to 1 in favor of independence and President Charles de Gaulle was expected to pronounce the end of 132 years of French rule over the northwest African territory later this week.

Troops Moving In

Boumediene and two of his aides were charged with "criminal activities," and one of them, a Maj. Slimane — was reported under arrest. Boumediene's whereabouts were unknown, but there were unofficial reports he had slipped into Algeria to court the support of guerrilla bands totalling perhaps 10,000 men.

Reports circulating in Paris said the Algerian nationalist leaders were moving troops into some Algerian cities and villages without waiting for the formal independence proclamation. In many places the green-and-white flag of the FLN already flew.

The Ben Bella faction was reported pressing for speedy nationalization of Algeria's factories, farmlands and means of distribution. The right wing of the government, led by Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, favors greater moderation.

'K.' Warns Russia Will Back China

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev warned today that any attack on Communist China would meet with a crushing rebuff from the entire Communist camp including the Soviet Union.

"Let no one have any doubts about that," Khrushchev said in a nationwide address to the Soviet people.

Khrushchev accused Chinese Nationalist leader Chiang Kai-shek of preparing to mount an invasion of the Chinese mainland, with "the support of aggressive circles of the U. S."

Reaffirming Soviet Chinese friendship as an unbreakable force, Khrushchev recalled, similar Soviet warnings during the height of the 1958 tension in the Formosa Strait — warnings that Russia was on the side of Red China.

Sounds Clear Warning

"Now we are saying again that anyone who will dare to make an attack on the Chinese People's Republic will meet a crushing rebuff from the great Chinese people, the Soviet peoples and the entire socialist camp," Khrushchev said.

The premier, speaking from a television studio in Moscow, said the creation of a Laotian coalition government proved that difficulties could be overcome and issues settled peacefully if the desire were present.

But recent events, Khrushchev charged, show that "reactionary forces are trying to maintain a cold war."

"The Western circles are preparing new world war and stockpiling weapons of mass annihilation," Khrushchev said in the speech carried on the "intervention" television network serving East European bloc Communist countries.

"It would seem that with the peaceful settlement in Laos, the situation in Southeast Asia will be more quiet," the Soviet premier said.

Runaway Spy Is Said In 'Serious' Condition

LONDON (UPI) — Runaway Soviet spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen was reported in "serious but slightly improved" condition following his desperate suicide attempt aboard the jetliner flying him back from Israel to the United States to serve a life sentence.

Soblen was taken off the El Al Israel Boeing 707 Sunday and rushed to a nearby hospital after he slashed his wrist and plunged a steak knife into his abdomen under the unsuspecting eyes of a U.S. marshal and an Israeli police doctor.

The exact extent of Soblen's injuries were not disclosed.

Knife Punctures Spleen

U. S. Embassy spokesman James Pettus said the knife punctured Soblen's spleen and doctors at Hillingdon Hospital were giving him transfusions of full blood, not plasma. Soblen, who is suffering from lymphatic leukemia — cancer of the blood — was reported to have lost about two pints of blood by the time he reached the hospital.

—Both Pettus and El Al spokesman Richard Cope said any decision on taking Soblen to New York must await the doctors' orders. Pettus estimated it may be 10 days before Soblen could be moved. Cope said it might be two or three days, or possibly a week.

A hospital spokesman said Soblen's condition this morning "is still rather serious but he is slightly improved since admission." He added there "are no plans for an operation at present."

No Vital Organs Damaged

The spokesman stressed there were no plans to move Soblen from the hospital today. He said it appeared Soblen had damaged no vital organs when he thrust the serrated knife into his body.

The suicide attempt came shortly before the El Al airliner began the descent for the landing at London Airport to refuel for the flight to New York.

The 62-year-old Lithuanian-born spy, who had been sentenced to life imprisonment for spying for the Russians during wartime, lost two pints of blood before his stealthy suicide attempt was discovered by James McShane, chief of U.S. marshals, and Israeli police Dr. Heinrich Gottlieb.

Hides Knife

Soblen had secreted the knife following dinner and hid it under a blanket. He stabbed himself without making a sound and his action went unnoticed until blood started to well through the blanket he had wrapped around himself.

A hospital spokesman said a British detective was on guard in Soblen's room.

The spokesman said Soblen had not yet asked to see a British legal representative. "He doesn't seem concerned at the moment about his situation."

Soblen was expelled from Israel early Sunday for illegal entry. He jumped $100,000 bail in New York last Tuesday to flee to Israel in a desperate attempt to escape serving a life sentence imposed by a federal court for wartime espionage.

Informal sources in Tel Aviv said Soblen was expelled under top secret conditions at the request of Premier David Ben-Gurion. Soblen had entered Israel with the Canadian passport of his dead brother.

Wagon Train In Second Day Of Canadian Trip

Some half-dozen covered wagons and over 30 "pioneers" forming the Top O' Texas Wagon Train pulled out of Miami early today on the second leg of their three-day odyssey to the Canadian Rodeo.

Headed by Wagonmaster "Otto" Mangold, the entourage pulled into Miami Sunday evening "before supper time."

The "pioneers" were quartered behind the county barn, while their horses found lodging in the seldom-used stock pens by the Santa Fe railroad.

Members of the wagon train formed a part of the traditional circle with their wagons and several camp fires marked evening chow time.

Some of the youth with the train found modern convenience near at hand as they took an evening dip in Miami's swimming pool. Others attended evening church services at various Miami churches.

A lunch was planned at "Seven-mile Park" east of Miami at noon today and the train is to camp at the "Y" seven miles south of Canadian for the night.

The group is due in Canadian in time for lunch tomorrow and will take part in the big rodeo parade planned for tomorrow at 2 p.m.

JFK Pulls Troops Out Of Thailand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has ordered withdrawal of about one-fourth of the U. S. combat troops guarding Thailand against Communist attack.

The Defense Department announced Sunday that Kennedy had ordered about 1,000 Marines to gradually withdraw from their positions in Thailand to their 7th Fleet ships.

The Pentagon said further orders will depend on general conditions in the area. There was no mention of pulling out the rest of the American troops who were sent to protect Thailand against Communist attack from neighboring Laos.

On May 15, Kennedy ordered 4,000 troops into Thailand to try (See TROOPS, Page 3)

Saskatchewan Doctors Rebel Against Socialized Medicine; Crisis Grips Area

REGINA, Sask. (UPI) — Saskatchewan's 900,000 residents were faced today with a medical crisis that could deplete the province of its finest doctors.

A strike by the physicians already has reduced medical service in the province to the level of "emergency cases only" and the bitter dispute threatens to take the form of a mass exodus by doctors who feel their professional freedom has been disrupted.

The doctors are rebelling against the first inroad made by socialized medicine in North America.

A new law, patterned after Great Britain's national health service program, assures Saskatchewan residents of free medical care. It went into effect at midnight on Saturday and almost immediately the doctors carried out the threat they made repeatedly during the past several months of controversy.

To prevent a full-scale crisis during the strike, about 240 of the province's 900 doctors are providing free emergency service at 34 of Saskatchewan's 121 hospitals.

Infant Dies

Even though the emergency operation was being bolstered by volunteer workers, a combination of fatigue and financial hardship would make it impossible to sustain the emergency effort over a prolonged period of time.

The disadvantages of the fragmentary program became tragically significant Sunday when a 9-month-old baby, suffering from meningitis, was dead on arrival at a hospital in Yorkton.

The infant, Carl Derhousos of Usherville, was driven 90 miles by his parents before medical attention could be found. Before reaching Yorkton, they stopped at hospitals in Canora and Preceville but there were no doctors on duty.

Dr. Sam Landa of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons said Carl's death was an example of what doctors feared most when they called the strike. He emphasized, however, that there was no way to determine whether the infant would have lived if a doctor had been more readily available.

Long before the law went into effect, the doctors became embroiled in a battle over it with the socialist government of Saskatchewan Premier Woodrow Lloyd. The law, vigorously supported by Lloyd, was passed last fall as the Provincial Medical Insurance Act.

The greatest anxiety has been caused by the increasingly prevalent indications that scores of physicians were planning to pack their scalpels and move their practices to other provinces.

Dr. M. S. Slobodzin of Askeaton said Sunday "most of the doctors feel that in a very short time they'll seek other opportunities." He said as many as three or four patients a day have been telling him they would move with him to Alberta or British Columbia if he decided to leave.

Man Is Identified As Bank Robber

DALLAS (UPI) — A 24-year-old man who told police he cuts doughnuts for a living was identified by three bank robbery victims Sunday as one of two men who robbed the Greenville Avenue State Bank of $5,500 Friday.

Typical-Ruth Reynolds, Warren Gilbert, a bank vice president, and a teller, Mrs. Joyce Silvers, picked the man from a police lineup. Police said they had arrested him at a Dallas address where he was staying with relatives. Detectives found the man in a closet.

San Quentin Death-Row Prisoners End Escape Try, Return Hostages

By DONALD D. JACKSON
SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)—Six death row inmates at San Quentin prison surrendered amid a barrage of tear gas shells early today three hours after they took two guards hostage in a bold effort to escape.

"We gambled, and lost," said Luis Moya, one of the six convicts. "We were going out the gates."

They also surrendered two guns they had taken from one of the hostages, gun rail officer C. L. Deatrick. Deatrick was struck on the head by the inmates but not seriously injured.

The first sign of trouble came when R. H. Kardell, the guard assigned to death row, telephoned at 1:07 a.m. PDT and said urgently, "we're in trouble." Deatrick went to his aid and moments later associate warden Dale Frady learned that both men were hostages.

Take Two Weapons

The prisoners took a 38-caliber revolver and a 12-gauge shotgun from Deatrick.

More than a dozen guards, led by associate warden Louis Nelson, massed on a ledge outside the row of cells occupied by the convicts and fired tear gas into the cell area at 2:45 a.m. PDT.

The prisoners responded with a telephoned plea to warden Fred Dickson to "knock it off." They said they would release the hostages when guards stopped firing tear gas.

The six involved in the escape plot were identified as Moya, Clyde Bates, Manuel Chavez, Augustine Baldonado, Willard Winhoven, and David Bickley. All six are convicted murderers.

Returned to Cells

James Neiswonger, supervisor of the parole violator unit, said that the prisoners returned to their cells at 4:07 a.m. PDT and order was restored.

He said only the six condemned men participated in the attempted break, and that other death row prisoners were urging them to give up after the tear gas was fired.

The six got out of their cells by sawing the bars with a hacksaw. It was not known how or where they obtained the hacksaw. Five of them sawed their way out and they broke the lock on Winhoven's cell and released him.

Then they overpowered Kardell and after that, Deatrick, who was on duty on a gun rail within the cell block. Neiswonger said they probably struck Deatrick from behind with some instrument.

Take It From Kathy

by Kathy Peterson

Dear Kathy: Some people never seem to be winners and I'm one of those. I'm so used to being in the background that I make believe I don't care. People keep telling me I'd do well if I'd only try. I try very hard for lots of things but if I admitted it I'd feel worse about losing.

My brother and sister are leaders in everything. Everyone compares me with them. I'd give anything to be like them but no one ever has a reason to be really proud of me. I guess I sound like a poor sport but I'm really discouraged.

Even in the play, I couldn't get a walk-on part. One of the gals who sells the tickets, that's me. Why can't people like you as you are when you do your best to live up to what they expect and don't do anything wrong instead of just patting you on the back when you come in first? — J. E. N.

Dear J. E. N.: Forget about beating your brother, sister and the top people in your class for a while and try competing with yourself. Channel the urge you have to win into trying to beat your own records.

Learn to do something you never did before. Add a word to your vocabulary. Improve the mark you had in last week's exam. Aim at doing everything just a little better than you did yesterday. You'll improve and discover a real feeling of satisfaction.

Dear Abby....

What More Could A Woman Want?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have one of the best husbands in the world, and I know it. He puts in a 9-hour day of hard work, and then comes home and helps me with the housework. He keeps all the floors waxed and polished. He takes care of the woodwork, keeps the windows sparkling, and he even does the washing and ironing (yes, I said ironing) when I am behind in my work. Last week he canned 100 quarts of peaches. Now, here is my problem. He isn't very loving. It would mean so much to me if he would just be a little more affectionate. I am only 33 and he is 36.

NEEDS AFFECTION

DEAR NEEDS: Maybe he's tired!

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is having in-law trouble and she isn't even married yet. When her future in-laws saw the wedding invitations, they hit the ceiling because their names didn't appear along with ours. We checked all the etiquette books and the first-class printers and engravers in town and they agreed that in no instance should the names of the groom's parents appear on the invitations. Well, to make a long story short, we had to have ANOTHER set of invitations made up to keep peace in the family. So, Dear Abby, in your role of peacemaker, please suggest that everyone have TWO-SETS of wedding invitations made. One to be socially correct, and the other to keep peace.

FATHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR FATHER: You are to be admired for your generosity, but I doubt if your suggestion will be taken by many. In putting on weddings, most people would rather be socially correct than "friendly."

DEAR ABBY: The person who wrote in to say it was "unhealthy" for a husband and wife to sleep in the same bed reminds me of the mother, who wouldn't kiss her baby because it might spread "germs." Personally, I couldn't wait to find a man I truly loved. Nuts to hot water bottles and electric blankets to keep me warm. There is nothing wrong with sharing a bed with your own husband. That's the way the good Lord intended it to be. If married folks would throw out the twin beds and go back to the big old-fashioned double bed, there would be fewer divorces.

NO PROBLEM

DEAR NO: And to that I say "AMEN." What's a poke in the ribs or an occasional cold foot in your back compared to togetherness?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "N": You never realize how fast a month can go by until you pay alimony. Think it over.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Travel Light, Enjoy Your Trip

By ALICIA HART

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The first important lesson that an experienced traveler learns is to limit herself to a single suitcase for her trip. When fully packed, the case should still be light enough for you to handle alone, for there's nothing scarier than the sight of a porter when you need one most.

Take with you a few easy-care outfits, planned around one set of accessories. Supplement your suitcase with a large carryall into which you can put a small camera, guide books, sunglasses, pen, notebook and foreign phrases book if you need one.

If you plan to travel in Europe, remember that both washcloths and soap are seldom found in the hotels. So take them with you. Don't invite trouble by packing containers that are breakable. Pack only plastic jars and bottles into which you've transferred your cosmetics.

For use while you're traveling, take along a supply of foil-wrapped tissues, saturated with antiseptic cleansing lotion. You'll feel fresher on your trip. And buy your favorite perfume in an unbreakable aerosol spray flacon so that it won't spill or evaporate. You'll enjoy your holiday completely, if you travel in this light, easy-care manner.

Very few of us possess natural beauty in every feature. But don't let this stop you from capitalizing on your most attractive feature and becoming a beauty in your own right.

WATER COLORS

It's fun to try one of the temporary color rinses which brighten up any hair, because if the results aren't what you hoped for, you can simply shampoo a way all traces.

play it up so that it becomes the focal point of your appearance. If your eyes are exceptionally beautiful, or unusually shaped, emphasize them with eye shadow, mascara and eye-liner, using the latest application techniques. Compliment your eyes still more by learning to shape your eyebrows as artistically as possible.

If your mouth is your best point, draw attention to it by using the ultrafeminine matte finish sun-pastel lipstick shades for summer, and enhance the effect by matching the color on your fingertips.

By pin-pointing attention on your eyes, mouth or hair—which ever is your best feature—you'll find that the less-endowed ones fade into the background.

Teen-agers who willingly spend most of their allowance on make-up often tend to neglect the two things that must last them a lifetime — their eyes and teeth.

For beauty, as well as health, your teeth must be kept in good condition. So see your dentist every six months. A small cavity, caught immediately, can save your smile.

If you need glasses, wear them. Frames are so good-looking these days, that they can be worn with a flair, as accessories.

If your sight is poor and you refuse to wear glasses, you'll not only ruin your eyes, but cause squint lines around the eyes that will get deeper with each year.

NEA To Open Convention In Colorado Today

DENVER (UPI) — Teacher unions and school prayers loomed as the top issues today before 6,500 delegates to the 100th annual convention of the National Education Association.

Debates also were expected on federal aid, desegregation and teachers' salaries.

The feeling on the prayer question was varied. Many delegates had not had time to decide where they stood since last week's Supreme Court decision banning an official prayer in New York State public schools.

The matter of teacher unions will receive considerable emphasis during the week, especially in light of the one-day strike by teachers in New York City schools.

Sam Lambert, director of the NEA research division, painted a dark picture for delegates Sunday of a mythical American town where a union had triumphed.

"The teacher seeking a job would not see the superintendent of schools but the president of the labor union," Lambert said. "Promotion and transfer would be like based on service-to-the union as on preparation, experience and quality of work."

He said the best defense against union organization is a unified, intelligently hard-working professional group.

James E. Russell, executive secretary of the educational policies commission of the NEA and of the American Association of School Administrators, said he expected the delegates to adopt a resolution on professional negotiations.

School teachers are not the type of people who want to strike, he said, "but what do you do when you reach the end of the rope?"

Fort Worth Death May Be Probed

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The death of a 240-pound Negro former mental patient, who was gunned down by police after brandishing a bar and throwing rocks at them, may be investigated by the citizen's committee and the grand jury.

The police department already has launched an investigation into the death of John C. Scott, 30, killed last Friday. City Manager L. P. Cookingham said he may appoint a panel of citizens to study the shooting after the police probe.

Scott's mother, Mrs. Suzanne Stollen, who said her son sometimes dressed up in a sheet and said he was God, said she believes the police did not have to kill her son to take him.

"They could have shot him in the legs or the foot and they did not have to shoot him so many times," she said.

Capt. Dwight Johnston, who commanded the 18-man squad of police officers and plainclothesmen on the scene, said it was the only thing "we could do." They were answering a disturbance call.

"That man could have crushed a person's head with one arm," Johnston said.

Police Studying Mysterious Death

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Police continued investigating today the mysterious death of a middle-aged white man, whose body was found on a vacant lot near downtown Fort Worth Saturday.

Police described the man as weighing about 160 pounds and between 55 and 65 years of age. His left thumb was missing and he had the word "Ruby" tattooed on his left shoulder.

Investigators said the man had been dead for some time, possibly for several months.

Justice of the Peace Whit Boyd said he will not rule on the death until the investigation is completed.

Framework For Building Collapses

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Investigators today tried to determine why the $280,000, six-story, steel and concrete framework for a new, plush downtown hotel collapsed Sunday.

O. T. Eames, superintendent of Tex-Craft Builders, Inc., said the fall of the structure was mysterious. "It just didn't collapse," he said.

Forty-five men are normally employed on the project. None was on duty when the building fell at 1 a.m. Some construction workers live in trailers near the building site, but escaped the tons of raining debris.

Eames, who made the damage estimate, said the construction time table for the Towers Hotel were set back three months. Work began in February and was scheduled for completion in November.

The $2 million luxury hotel upon completion will be the first downtown hotel opened in Fort Worth in 32 years.

Kennedy

the problem of salt content of the Colorado River and Mexico's claims to a part of El Paso, Tex.

In General Terms Kennedy, it was understood, did not ask Lopez Mateos to help try to persuade other Latin American countries to undertake reforms.

They discussed this in general terms and their agreement implied that Mexico would probably make known her views to others.

The Cuban situation was discussed at some length by the two presidents at their Friday meetings. Their session Sunday was devoted principally to the Colorado River and El Paso questions.

The impression here was that the U.S. and Mexico were close to an agreement in the El Paso (Chamizal) dispute, but that Kennedy wanted to consult Texas authorities again before finally committing himself. The U.S. already had offered to give back some 350 acres of the 450 that Mexico claims. It was not clear whether Kennedy had offered more or the Mexicans were ready to settle for that.

Party Friendly To US Wins In Jap Elections

TOKYO (UPI) — The ruling Liberal-Democratic party, which campaigned for closer ties with the United States, retained control of Japan's upper house today in the country's national elections.

Returns were incomplete and unofficial but Premier Hayato Ikeda's Liberal - Democrats appeared certain to increase their number of seats in the 250-member upper chamber of Diet (Parliament).

The Liberal-Democrats' major opposition, the leftist Socialist party, also appeared likely to increase its seats.

Latest returns tallied by the government - sponsored Japan Broadcasting Corp. (NHK) indicated the ruling party had all but wrapped up 62 of the 127 seats at stake. The NHK tally gave the Socialists 28. The Moderate Democratic Socialist party appeared certain of at least one and the Communist party also had one.

Independents appeared certain of at least 10 seats, with seven of these going to members of the Soka Gakkai, a rising religious party.

The 62 seats apparently sewed up by the Liberal - Democrats, coupled with the 73 not up for election this time, assured them of continued control of the upper house.

Cupit Snares Western Open Golf Tournament

CHICAGO (UPI)—One long putt meant redemption for Jacky Cupit and today he had an $11,000 check to prove it, for victory in the $55,000 Western Open golf tournament.

Cupit, a 24-year-old from Longview, Texas, found new vigor when he sank the putt, estimated variously between 40 and 50 feet, to birdie the 15th hole on Medinah's rugged No. 3 course in the final tournament round.

The putt pulled him even again with challenging Billy Casper, who had made up a six stroke deficit in 15 holes and who was heading toward a course record.

"I thought I was out of the tournament," Cupit said. "On the 15th and 14th holes, I didn't hit a bad shot and I still wound up with a pair of bogies."

But the tying try gave him the lift for the finish. He wrapped up the crown, his second tourney victory on two years on the PGA tour, when he canned a sidehill 15 foot putt on the 17th green to pull a stroke ahead of Casper.

Then, with his one stroke lead, he played out a trap and sank his putt to par the final hole, while Casper, trying to get back onto the tie, exploded long out of a trap and missed his 25 foot putt for a par.

Cupit finished with a par round of 71 for a 281 total, three under-par, and Casper missed the course record by one stroke for a 67 to finish with 283 and win $5,500. These were the only two players in the starting field of 135 to break par for the 72 holes, and Cupit, with rounds of 69, 70, 71 and 71, was the only player who did not go over par on at least one round of the 7,110 yard links.

Cupit's prize money was more than he has made all year on the tour and it lifted him to total earnings of $18,307.25 for the year, from 48th to 14th place in the money standings.

Casper's prize lifted him from fourth to third place in total money with $47,658 this year while Arnold Palmer, who finished seventh to earn $1,900 with a last round 69, increased his earnings for the year to $70,231, close to his own record of $75,282 for a single season.

South African Gary Player, who started the final round of the tourney in a tie with Cupit, slipped to a 76 and a third place tie with Fred Hawkins at 286, two over par, to win $1,075 each. Their total score was the same with which Cary Middlecoff won the 1949 National Open on the same course.

Julius Boros and Al Geiberger tied for fifth to win $2,200 each with a 287 total, and there was a five way tie for eighth, each winning $1,500, between National Open champion Jack Nicklaus, Harold Kneece, Dow Finsterwald, Stan Leonard and Jim Ferree.

Lindstrom Is Winner Of Women's Open

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UPI)—New Women's Open champion Muriel Lindstrom plans to reconsider her decision to retire from professional competitive golf now that she has won her first tournament.

The 23-year-old blonde called her husband Saturday and greeted him with, "Guess what, I won the Open." She did it the hard way, picking up five strokes on the final 18 holes of play over the rugged Dunes Club course.

For her rounds of 78-74-76-73-301, Muriel picked up $1,800 first prize money. It was more than she has won all year. She pocketed $1,199 from the tour this season before winning the Open.

Three-round leader Ruth Jessen, who played all but the first round with a painfully stiff neck, tied for second with Joann Prentice, two strokes off the pace.

"Boy, I really choked on that last 18," Ruth conceded. Joann had closed to within two strokes of the leader after the opening round of the 36-hole finale. But the rains came and the damp weather did Ruth's shoulders and neck no good, and hurt Joann's game with a 78.

Defending champion Mickey Wright had been tied for first place with Miss Jessen at the midway point but skied to final rounds of 81 and 77 to finish with a 306, five strokes back in a tie for fourth with Louise Suggs.

Randell Killed In Spectacular Wreck

LANGHORNE, Pa. (UPI)—Auto race driver Hugh Randell, disappointed over his failure to qualify for the 100-mile national championship race at Langhorne Speedway, gambled on a car two other drivers had deserted and drove to his death in a somersaulting crash.

The Vargo special bearing the big number "63", in which two drivers met their deaths two years ago, was started in the race Sunday by Bob Mathouser of Indianapolis. But after 60 laps over the one-mile dirt track, Mathouser called it quits.

Elmer George of Speedway City, Ind., climbed behind the wheel but he, too, pulled into the pits seven laps later, saying he didn't like the "feel" of it.

Randell, who had tarried a week at the track in hope of substituting, volunteered to continue the car in the race. He circled the oval twice at about 100 miles an hour and then headed into the No. 2 curve beyond the grandstands.

His front wheel apparently caught in a run. The car vaulted end-over-end five or six times, bouncing 20 feet in the air, and landed on the tail before turning over on its side. Randell was pinned beneath it.

He still was alive when rescue workers got him out of the wreckage but he died of a broken neck.

enroute to Lower Bucks County Hospital in an ambulance.

Randell, 29-year-old speedster from Louisville, Ky., had broken into the U.S. Auto Club's big car circuit only last year. His wife is an expectant mother.

Race officials said that Dick Linder was killed in the same car at the Trenton, N.J., Speedway in 1960, the same year Van Johnson was fatally injured at Williams Grove, Pa. Randell's death was the first fatality at the track since Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix was killed in the same event in 1960.

A. J. Foyt Jr., of Houston, Tex., twice national racing champion, grabbed the lead from third place in the first lap and stayed in front to the finish. He was clocked in one hour, four minutes and 23.24 seconds for an average speed of 93.186 miles an hour.

THIRD PLACE

CHICAGO (UPI)—Texas Southern University sprinter Homer Jones dashed to third place in the 200-meter run at the U.S.-Poland track meet Sunday.

Jones is a member of the 40-man American team which defeated a Polish team 131 to 81. The U.S. will meet a Russian team later this month.

The 200-meter race was won by Merian Folk of Poland in 21.0 seconds.

Yankees Vault To Top With Doubleheader Split

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Remember the "nickel World Series?"

Well, in the old days, before all those franchise changes, the league-leading Giants and Yankees would seem to be headed for one.

But they're 3,000 miles apart now and if they do go on to win all it will cost you is $159.61 (tax included) to get from one ball park to the other.

Don't feel so depressed, though. It still could be an all-Los Angeles series. The Dodgers and Angels are right up there, and if they ever land in the World Series together they'll play in the same park.

A lot of good that does all you baseball fans in Punxsutawney, Pa.

Actually, it's still anybody's race in both leagues. If you don't believe it, take a look at the leaders:

from Cleveland right fielder Gene Green, whom we'll get to later.

The Yankees copped the opener, 6-3, then dropped the nightcap, 12-5. The White Sox swept two from the Indians, 5-4 and 7-6, while the Twins checked a four-game backslide with a 9-0 decision over the Senators. Detroit moved into fifth place with a 3-2 win over Baltimore, and Kansas City beat Boston, 4-5.

The Giants held on to the top spot in the NL with a 5-4 victory over the Phillies while the Dodgers stayed close by beating the Mets, 5-1. Pittsburgh outscored St. Louis, 7-2. Cincinnati hurled Houston, 6-1, and Milwaukee blanked Chicago, 1-0.

Ralph Terry won his 10th for the Yankees in the opener with the help of home runs by Tom Tresh and Hector Lopez off loser Don Lee. The Angels trailed until the eighth inning of the nightcap when they scored four runs and then tacked on four more in the ninth. Winner Art Fowler drove in four runs with singles in the eighth and ninth. Leon Wagner hit his 22nd homer in the opener and his 23rd in the nightcap.

Camilo Carreon's bases-loaded triple with two out in the ninth enabled the White Sox to come from behind in the first game and the second game was just as much of a nightmare for the Indians, who have lost five in a row and 10 of their last 15.

The White Sox clinched the nightcap with six runs in the fifth inning, four of the runs being unearned when Green dropped two fly balls. Turk Lown and Juan Pizarro were the winning pitchers.

Camilo Pascual, a good bet to be the starting pitcher for the AL All-Stars, scored his 12th victory for the Twins with a five-hitter against the Senators. The Twins collected 13 hits, including homers by Harmon Killebrew, Lenny Green, Bernie Allen, and Bob Allison.

Reliever Terry Fox retired

Brooks Robinson with the bases full and two out in the last of the ninth to preserve the Tigers' victory over the Orioles. Rocky Colavito's 17th homer off loser Robin Roberts helped Jim Bunning to his eighth victory.

Earl Wilson, making his first start for the Red Sox after his no-hitter, was kayoed in the seventh inning by the A's. Kansas City rallied for five runs in that frame as Bobby Del Greco and George Alusk each homered and Ed Charles tripled, Gordon Jones was the winner and Dick Radatz the loser.

Willie Mays' two-run single in the eighth off loser Art Mahaffey gave the Giants a come-from-behind victory over the Phillies. Ed Bailey hit his fourth homer in five games for the Giants while Ted Savage and Billy Klaus connected for the Phils. Reliever Don Larsen won his fourth game.

Don Drysdale struck out 13 and tamed the Mets on five hits to register his 14th victory for the Dodgers. Sammy Taylor's second inning homer was the only run off Drysdale, who has won seven of his last eight games. Ron Fairly and Frank Howard hit homers off loser Roger Craig.

Don Hoak's three-run triple off loser Larry Jackson broke a 2-all tie between the Pirates and the Cardinals in the sixth inning. Al McBean limited the Cards to six hits for his seventh victory. Smoky Burgess homered for the winners.

Gordie Coleman's 11th homer spearheaded a 14-hit attack that carried the Reds to victory over the Colts. Joey Jay scattered nine hits in bringing his season record to 11-7. Jim Golden was the losing pitcher.

The Braves collected only two hits off Don Cardwell but still beat the Cubs when Mack Jones scored the only run of the game on Dick Bertell's passed ball in the third inning. Bob Hendley pitched a six-hitter to gain his fifth victory.

Texas Loop Pitchers Are Improving

By United Press International

Texas League pitchers, finally settling down after several months of dodging rocketing line drives and sizzling grounders, are beginning to make monkeys out of the batters.

Take for instance Sunday night. There was only one count it—baseball knocked out of a park in four games. There were two three-hitters, a five-hitter, a six-hitter and a seven-hitter. And in one case there was a shutout.

League-leading El Paso blanked Austin 4-0 in the first game of a twinbill but dropped the nightcap, 4-3. Amarillo whipped Albuquerque, 5-1, and San Antonio edged Tulsa, 5-3.

Corky Johnson turned in a three-hit shutout for the Sun Kings in their first game, and Gerald Robinson struck the only homer of the night in the 4th inning.

Austin scored three runs in the last inning of the nightcap to pull victory out of the fire.

San Antonio scored five runs in the first three innings and coasted past the Oilers, who are now one game behind El Paso in second place.

Amarillo, behind the three-hit pitching of Robert Lasko, exploded for four runs in the 8th inning for its victory.

Tonight, Tulsa visits San Antonio. El Paso is at Austin, and Albuquerque is at Amarillo.

It's An Old Crime But A New Chapter

Nowadays it is generally the crimes of nations rather than individuals which enlist the attention of a broadly troubled world. Occasionally some people get aroused by a specific application of capital punishment, as in the Caryl Chessman case in California in 1960. But the instances of such interest are uncommon.

It is not easy for us today to imagine, therefore, the intense interest felt 25 years ago at the climax of the celebrated, seven-year - long Sacco - Vanzetti murder case.

Yet, as recently as 1959 and 1961, this case still was viewed as politically explosive in Massachusetts, where the crime occurred.

From 1920 to 1927, during the long course of trial appeal and special inquiry, political passions were deeply stirred. The accused were both anarchists. Many liberals led a protest, believing the case represented a miscarriage of justice.

Frances Russell, writing now in the history magazine American Heritage, sided with these protesters as recently as 1958. But today he believes one of the accused, Nicola Sacco, was guilty, and the other, Bartholomew Vanzetti, innocent.

The behavior and attitudes of the protesters may hold a lesson or two for us in 1962.

The two anarchists were executed in 1927 for the murder of a paymaster and guard in a 1920 payroll robbery on a street in South Braintree, Mass.

Eyewitnesses never positively placed the two at the scene.

The damaging evidence: Ballistics tests appeared to show that the bullet which killed the guard came from a gun owned by Sacco and found on him when he was arrested with Vanzetti.

Vanzetti also had a gun when seized. No bullets from it were found in either victim or at the crime scene. Still, many who studied the evidence believed he had taken it from the fallen guard, who possessed one just like it.

Skeptical liberals stressed the defendants' professions of innocence, the lack of firm identification, conflicts in ballistics evidence resulting from the crude state of testing techniques in 1920.

Later evidence from improved microscopic techniques reinforced the case against Sacco. And at one stage a three-man committee under Harvard President A. Lawrence Lowell solemnly reviewed the whole case and supported the court's verdict of guilty against both men.

Author Russell's reversal of his own earlier judgment provides an interesting footnote to this review. His personal exoneration of Vanzetti must be set against the Lowell committee's own careful study.

Most pertinent today are the signs that many protesting liberals appeared far less interested in the quest for the real truth than in exploiting possible doubts in the manner of defense attorneys. For instance, some sought unfairly to discredit ballistics techniques now accepted as standard and virtually foolproof.

When you have a cause, liberal or conservative, in 1927 or 1962, you gain far more head-way and credibility — when you embrace the hard test of truth rather than run from them.

Today's favorite gag: The husband told the judge: "I came home and found my wife in the arms of a strange man." "And what did she say when you surprised her?" inquired His Honor. "Well, Judge, that was what hurt me most," said the husband. "She turned around and saw me and then she said, 'Look who's here! Old Blabbermouth! Now the whole neighborhood will know.'"

Thoughts while shaving: 1. Up to 1933, when President Roosevelt started organizing so many new government agencies, it had been a custom for newspapers to place a period after each letter in an abbreviation such as U. S. A., U. S. S. R., E. S. T., etc. . . 2. But when an early New Deal measure was called the National Industrial Recovery Act, the newspapers started to abbreviate it to NIRA. (It was later reduced to NRA.) And from then on, as new agencies came into being the periods after capital letters were omitted, and readers read the RFC, PWA, WPA. . . 3. Then, when newspaper copy desks found the name Roosevelt rather long to jam into headlines, they tried F.D.R., and finally condensed it to FDR. And it was easy for FDR's successors to become HST and JFK in headlines. But President Eisenhower's nickname was of such brevity, IKE was used instead of DDE—which sounded too much like an insecticide, a nyway. . . 4. But long before America adopted this periodless expedient, the British had initiated it. That was during World War I when Parliament established the Defense of the Realm Act, a term often used in those war days. British newspapers swiftly (and humorously) telescoped Defense of the Realm Act to DORA, and that's what and who started it all. DORA.

Unproved Cancer Treatment Can Lead to Heartache

All too often the heartache and problems of the patient with inoperable cancer, and of members of the family, are increased by well-meaning advice to "try some unauthorized, unsanctioned and unproved method of treatment."

Usually the recommended treatment is the "discovery" of a "foreign scientist" or of a physician who received his training abroad and who conducted his experiments in the laboratories of an "institute" whose facilities cannot be checked despite its high-sounding title.

Frequently the family physician's unfamiliarity with the treatment is interpreted as a measure of his "ignorance." The refusal of organized medicine to sanction the treatment is often interpreted as evidence that "doctors don't want to find a cure." Usually those who regard anything imported as being naturally superior to anything domestic regard the American insistence on definitive proof as additional evidence of our scientific backwardness.

We have already commented in these columns on the Koch treatment, already completely discredited in our courts, and on Krebion whose claims are presently being reviewed by federal authorities.

Here is a list of some other unproved methods of cancer treatment which have been studied by the American Cancer Society. Each one has failed to present evidence that its use, as directed, "results in any objective benefit in the treatment of cancer in human beings."

Gerson diet treatment employing liver, vitamins and fresh vegetables and fruit prepared in glass utensils and chopped or juiced in special machines offered for sale at $150. Also included in treatment are frequent and copious enemas, often of coffee, and injections of liver extract. In 1947, a committee of the N.Y. County Medical Society thoroughly reviewed Dr. Gerson's work including histories of patients who were said to have benefited from the treatment. "This study failed to disclose any scientific evidence of objective improvement."

Carcin and Neo-Carcin. These products were said by Dr. Jacob Pawlitzky to prevent cancer in the susceptible and to cure cancer in 70 per cent of serious cases. Permission to market Carcin in France was denied by the Ministry of Public Health on the ground that it was "ineffectual."

Pegler Says:

Employee's 'Railroading' Was Shocking Brutality

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The shocking brutality of the Department of Agriculture in railroading Miss Mary Jones, a law-abiding employee, has been aggravated by the defiance of Orville Freeman, the secretary of this mysterious maze. Miss Jones was physically snatched by two fellow employees and detained 12 days in the surroundings of a madhouse without a warrant or even a policeman's complaint. In a scuffle to free herself she lost a shoe, seized it up and hit a male employee on the head. If she had had a pistol and had blown his brains out she would have been justified on the ground of self-defense, but unfortunately she was not armed.

This snatch occurred in Freeman Robert Dole, of Kansas, he was aware of the incident within an hour. But when Congressman Robert Dole, of Kansas, dared to suggest that Freeman take appropriate action, this Minneapolis politician refused to comment on the ground that so to discuss the lady's experience would be to invade her privacy. The abduction was a Federal case committed on Federal property. It seems to have complied with Freeman's concept of due regard for the privacy of a lady of 51 with a superior record covering years of employment who has not yet been charged with any overt conduct. Curbstone law is fallible, but the Lindbergh Law provides that kidnapping will be punished by imprisonment for life in the Federal system, even unto Alcatraz, at the Attorney General's discretion.

The reason for this violence and the ensuing incendency, including at least one day in an isolation cell stripped of her clothing, is that Miss Jones was reportedly trying to take possession of documents bearing on dealings in favor of Billie Sol Estes, an important henchman of one Texas Senator and at least one Texas Congressman. She supposedly wanted to deliver them to her boss, N. Battle Hales, to prove charges which he had made and Freeman had described as lies.

There has been much corruption in the Department and Freeman is the one with the strongest official motive to suppress embarrassing information. There have been diligent editorial efforts to keep political names out of the Billie Sol mess notwithstanding circumstances which justify inquiry. Never to my knowledge has so much of the press been so reticent.

Mr. Freeman, obedient to his background, could not forbear to sneer at Congressman Dole's solicitude for Miss Jones. She is a citizen of North Carolina, on the New Frontier, and Dole is a Kansas Republican. So Freeman suggested that political interest, not chivalry or a decent respect for the laws against physical assault on females even by a Government Bureau, inspired Mr. Dole's inquiry. But already Senator John Williams, of Delaware, another Republican, to be sure, had made even more vehement demands for amends to Miss Jones and punishment of whoever violated any law. Mr. Freeman thinks this is fastidious.

This leads into the jungle of "mental health" laws, a Viennese import, which actually permit any two persons or an ordinary cop or a scheming spouse to cause the commitment of an unwary individual and the confiscation or depletion of the victim's estate.

Miss Jones still suffers from a gratuitous implication that she is "emotionally disturbed" because she tried to safeguard the evidence of dirty work in the Department of Agriculture.

Pacific-Nevada Nuclear Series Most Expensive; High-Altitude Failures Cost U.S. $10 Million

WASHINGTON — The double-barreled nuclear test series underway in the Pacific and Nevada is turning out to be the most expensive ever undertaken by the U.S.

The mounting cost, due partly to the hurried preparations, has soared to an estimated $223,400,000 — or approximately $25 million more than any previous atomic test series.

This record expenditure could climb even higher if new delays are encountered in the high-altitude testing in the Pacific, or if President Kennedy decides to permit additional tests that the three military services are proposing.

As now scheduled, Joint Task Force 8 is set to wind up its atomic firing in the Pacific during the third week in July. The final Nevada test will come a few days later.

To meet this White House-imposed deadline, at least one of the three originally planned high-altitude H-bomb shots is being dropped by U.S. test officials.

The plan now is to try once more for a successful 200-mile-high nuclear explosion. For the third time, next week an Air Force Thor IRBM with a thermo-nuclear warhead will be launched from Johnston Island.

If this rocket-borne test is a success, another nuclear warhead will be fired to a height of 30 to 50 miles. The sensational 500-mile-high explosion originally scheduled for this series has been dropped.

In addition to the remaining high-altitude experiments, at least three more atmospheric tests will be attempted in the Pacific, and five more atmospheric and underground tests in Nevada.

These explosions will raise the number of nuclear tests for this series to a final grand total of 50 — 27 in the Pacific and 43 in Nevada.

UNDER THE GROUND — The little publicized underground Nevada tests are turning out to be technically more valuable to the nuclear scientists than the headline-making atmospheric tests in the Pacific.

Already, three of these underground explosions have resulted in showing that drastic improvements can be made in the yield-to-weight ratios of nuclear warheads for the Polaris and Minuteman missiles, and the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

In these tests, the explosive power of the nuclear warheads was more than doubled, while the sizes of the actual weapons were reduced by from 20 to 50 per cent.

Another underground test proved a laboratory theory that warheads of greater simplicity and ruggedness of design can be developed. These findings are expected to greatly reduce the vulnerability of nuclear weapons to counter-measures. Some AEC scientists believe that this information can be used to drastically reduce the cost of producing all nuclear weapons.

Techniques to help detect hidden nuclear tests were improved by information gained from two other underground experiments. Because of these promising developments, scientists will seek President Kennedy's permission to continue these tests this fall.

LOOKING FOR TROUBLE — The two Thor missile failures—which added $10 million to the cost of the tests — are now being fully investigated by a specially assigned group of scientists within Task Force 8.

These officials are probing the possibility that signals from either U.S. or advanced Soviet radar, located on their four tracking ships cruising in the test area, may have been responsible for the malfunctions of the missiles.

In both instances, the range safety officers had to destroy the IRBMs after the missiles began to veer off course. In the first test, the Thor guidance system failed. In the second experiment, both the rocket's engines and guidance system cut out.

ATOMIC FALLOUT — The French embassy is distributing to all members of Congress a new 56-page booklet outlining France's atomic achievements. Titled "France and the Atom," the booklet lists France as "the world's fourth nuclear power," and credits her scientists with "the construction of a nuclear submarine prototype." . . . The Bainbridge, the Navy's first nuclear-powered destroyer leader, is scheduled to go to sea by the end of 1962. The ship will have a cruising radius of 150,000 miles continuously at full power. Conventional-powered destroyers carry only enough fuel to operate for 2,000 miles. The Navy will use the Bainbridge as a single-ship task force. . . The highway leading to the Atomic Energy Commission's atomic testing grounds near Las Vegas, Nev., is more dangerous than the testing area. According to an AEC report, 98 persons were injured and 15 killed in 115 accidents on the highway during 1961. During the first four months in 1962, six persons have died in accidents on the road.

SOCIAL WHIRL — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and Senora de Lopez Mateo, wife of Mexico's President, will be able to converse much more easily than their husbands — thanks to the Mexican First Lady. She speaks English and a little French, and with Mrs. Kennedy fluent in both languages, the two ladies will be able to talk without interpreters. . . One of the capitals most unusual parties was a dinner given by Representative Frances Bolton, R-O., veteran member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. She invited all the African ambassadors and a number of African students to dine in her beautiful gardens. All of them came, as well as top State Department officials and congressional leaders. Mrs. Bolton toured Africa last fall, and has become an authority on that headline-making continent. But while an African enthusiast, she served a strictly American dinner — lobster Newburg and rice, cold turkey salad, ice cream and raspberry sauce, with strawberry tarts and coffee.

That widely-discussed dinner-dance by Attorney General and Mrs. Kennedy, in which she fell into their swimming pool and several prominent guests were jocularly tossed in, was a sort of community affair. Neighbors for quite a distance around were kept awake until dawn by the exuberant dance music — due to the orchestra's being seated high up in a tree-house on the Kennedys' large McLean, Va., estate. The booming music reverberated throughout the quiet countryside, to the annoyance of some neighbors and the delight of others, who took advantage of the occasion to have informal dances of their own. They report that a number of twists were played during the long night. After the party broke up, around 5:00 a.m., police were summoned, but not because of a disturbance. They were called to straighten out a traffic jam resulting from the departing guests, who umbered upwards of 300. Related one neighbor philosophically. "We don't mind these Kennedy parties too much. They're noisy, but only happen a couple of times a year."

Kuwait is a tiny country with a population of only some 350,000, but it is immensely wealthy due to fabulous oil resources. That may have accounted for the large throng of guests who turned out for the first reception given by Kuwait's first Ambassador to Washington, Abdul Rahman Al-Atiqi entertained in a manner befitting his wealthy homeland. Attired in native Arabian robes, consisting of sheer white veiled in sheer black bordered in gold, with a white drapery covering his head, he greeted guests in excellent English and served a large and lavish buffet of both native and American dishes. But there were no alcoholic drinks. There was plenty to drink, but only fruit and soda beverages. . . The Junior Foreign Officers Club is celebrating the 4th of July with a repeat of the very successful party it gave last year. This was a reception for their opposite numbers in the foreign diplomatic corps, and the young U.S. envoys contributed their food and beverages out of their own pocket. They are doing the same this year with one big difference. They are being allowed to hold their party in the large and handsome reception suite of the State Department, which will add immeasurably to the success of the occasion.
