U.S. To Push For International Control Of Corridors To Berlin

Soviet-American Meet Will Start Next Week

By STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will push its plan for international control of Allied access routes to Red-encircled West Berlin at Soviet-American meetings beginning here next week.

Officials said today that Secretary of State Dean Rusk would seek clarification of recent hints that Russia may be moving toward some such tension-easing agreement in the explosive area.

Rusk will meet with the new Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Monday to continue "exploratory" talks which have been carried on in New York, Moscow and Geneva during the past seven months.

The secretary has advised Britain, France and West Germany that he wants to find out whether there is any possibility of compromising Soviet and Western ideas of international "authority" over the access routes.

Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko held exhaustive Berlin talks on the sidelines at the Geneva disarmament conference last month. They reported no success in their efforts to ease the crisis, brought on last summer by renewed Soviet demands that the Allies give up their rights in West Berlin and access to the city. But they agreed the talks should continue here.

White there was no "basic progress" at Geneva, the talks did produce the first slight alteration in the Soviet position since the discussions began last autumn in New York. Gromyko responded to Rusk's proposal for international control of access routes by suggesting such a body in an "advisory" capacity.

This failed to meet Western demands, since the Russian plan appeared to give Russia and Communist East Germany veto power over the international advisory group. It also seemed to be predicated on the end of the allied occupation of West Berlin.

Nevertheless, Rusk was said to feel that Russian willingness to even consider some form of international authority might indicate a possibility of moving the Kremlin further toward the Western view.

Weather Problem Faces President's Visit With Navy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Doubtful weather and tight time schedules threatened today to limit the extent to which President Kennedy sees the Navy in action off the Virginia Capes.

The President was scheduled to go to the Naval Air Station outside Norfolk, Va., where he will join congressional leaders, nearly 50 diplomats and a host of federal officials for an overnight training cruise with a task force of 48 ships of the Atlantic Fleet.

A crowded timetable of naval and aircraft maneuvers and firepower demonstrations was due for trimming should poor weather develop as forecast.

Instead of cruising for an hour late today aboard a nuclear-powered, Polaris missile submarine, the U.S.S. Thomas A. Edison, as originally planned, the President was expected to tour the underwater vessel at her dock without putting to sea.

The White House said it had been determined that the submarine cruise would take too much time from the rest of Kennedy's visit with the Navy. The Edison was slightly damaged by fire earlier this week, but the Navy said that had no effect on the President's plans.

Phone Co. Sets Rate Reduction On Some Calls

"A reduction in rates on certain long distance calls within Texas, which will save telephone users more than two and 5-10 million dollars a year, will be put into effect May 20th," George Newberry, manager of the Pampa office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, announced today.

"In general, the rate reduction will apply to Station to Station and Person to Person calls of more than 198 miles," Newberry said.

The reduced rates will apply to nearly 17,000,000 calls a year within the state. The reduction will range from five to fifteen cents for a three minute call. Newberry said these are typical examples of old and new rates for three minute day time calls.

	STATION TO STATION
	Old Rate	New Rate
Pampa to Houston	$1.40	$1.35
Pampa to Dallas	1.15	1.10
Pampa to San Antonio	1.30	1.25

	PERSON TO PERSON
	Old Rate	New Rate
Pampa to Houston	$2.25	$2.15
Pampa to Dallas	1.85	1.75
Pampa to San Antonio	2.10	2.00

Newberry pointed out that the reduction does not apply to calls to other states, nor does it apply to calls of short distances within the state.

The reduced rates result from accounting changes recently arrived at by agreement between the Federal Communications Commission, The National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners, and the Bell System.

DUBUQUE, Iowa (UPI) — Despite "caution," "Danger," and "dead end" signs posted at the end of a street by police, hot rods still crash through the barrier.

The cops are giving it one more try with a new sign that says "whoa."

Federal 'Payola' Scandal Is Hinted In Estes Inquiry

DALLAS (UPI) — The U. S. Department of Agriculture investigated all departmental dealings with Billie Sol Estes today to find out if the West Texas fertilizer and grain storage kingpin's multi-million-dollar troubles are about to become a federal "payola" scandal.

The purported agriculture officials were fitted with $1,033.20 worth of clothes. Sales slips showed from the Neiman-Marcus Co. men's store that part of the clothes were ordered shipped to a "Mrs. Peggy Campbell, Apartment 401, 4500 Connecticut, Washington."

According to department personnel records, Mrs. Margaret S. Campbell lives in Apartment 401, 4500 Connecticut Ave., N. W. She is known around the department as "Peggy." She has been a department employe for 10 years.

Jacobs, known as "Red" and "Jake," has been deputy administrator for ASCS since March 3, 1961. Prior to 1953 he was employed in executive capacities in one or more agencies of the department.

Pampa High Band Wins Sweepstakes

Pampa High School band, under the direction of Bill Tregoe, was awarded a "Sweepstakes" plaque yesterday for its outstanding performances at the University and Interscholastic League music competition held at West Texas State College, Canyon.

Tregoe said the band was awarded a division I rating in sight-reading, concert playing and marching performances.

The marching competition was held in Amarillo last fall.

44 Absentee Ballots Cast In Recall Vote

Another civil action in 31st District Court was still in progress at 3:15 p.m. today, delaying start of the hearing on the Citizens for Better City Government petition asking a restraining order and temporary injunction against holding a recall election on Mayor E. C. Sidwell Tuesday, April 17.

The hearing was expected to get started about 4:15 p.m., too late for coverage today by The News.

Forty-four absentee ballots had been cast up until mid-forenoon today in the recall election scheduled for Tuesday on Mayor E. C. Sidwell.

A hearing was set for 2:30 p.m. today in District Court here at which time Judge Lewis M. Goodrich was expected to rule on a petition filed by the Citizens for Better City Government seeking to restrain the holding of Tuesday's election.

The CBG group wants the mayor's recall election held up pending court action on their request to have Pampa's four ward commissioners included on the recall ballot.

Petitions circulated by the Junior Chamber of Commerce sought a recall on all five members of the city's governing body. But the commission ordered an election only on the mayor after advice from counsel that petitions for the four commissioners did not carry sufficient signatures.

City Secretary Ed Vicars said 5 p.m. today would be the deadline for casting absentee ballots at his office in City Hall.

$2,250 Is Raised For Screwworm Program

A total of $2250.75 has been raised in Gray County in the Screwworm Program, according to Guy Beasley, secretary-treasurer, Gray County Animal Health Committee.

Every penny donated will be used specifically for screwworm eradication, Beasley stated, since the by-laws of the State Animal Health Research Foundation states that no officers, trustees or anyone connected with the State Association shall be paid any fees. This is a rather unusual organization. Actually the Board of Trustees pay for their own travel expense. Marvin Webster, J. D. Skaggs and Wesley Lewis attended the state meeting in Austin at their own expense.

Absentee Voting In May 5 Democrat, Republican Primaries Starts Monday

Absentee voting in the May 5 Democratic and Republican primary elections will start Monday, April 16, and run until May 1, it was announced today by County Clerk Charlie Thut.

Although the Republican and Democratic elections on May 5 will be held in separate voting places, the absentee balloting for voters in both parties will be handled through the county clerk's office in the Gray County Courthouse.

Gray County will have its first double primary in history this year. Heretofore, there has been voting only in the Democratic ranks at primary time.

This year voters will have an opportunity to cast their ballots in either the Democratic or Republican primary contests. If they wish to vote for a Republican candidate they cannot vote for any Democrats in the primary election.

The choice of splitting a ticket will not come until the general election in November. At that time voters may choose either Democrats or Republicans or others as they mark their ballots.

But, not so in the primary election. Electors at the May 5 primaries have no choice except within the ranks of their own party. A voter's decision at primary time is simply whether he wants to vote in the Republican primary election or whether he wants to vote in the Democratic primary election. He cannot do both.

Further explanation of the primary voting procedure will be given by officials of both parties within the next few weeks before the primary election day.

Voting places for both parties—and they will be in separate locations—also will be announced in plenty of time before primary election day.

Steel Price Investigation Is Scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal grand jury will investigate the new steel price increases to determine whether they involved criminal violations of the antitrust laws.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who ordered the grand jury action, said Thursday night the government also was studying whether to start civil antitrust proceedings to "break up" U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest steel maker.

The federal grand jury, sitting in New York City, was expected to begin its investigation promptly. A U.S. Steel attorney said a subpoena already had been served on the firm.

Kennedy told a group of foreign professors at the Justice Department that the government's fight against the $6-a-ton price increases boiled down to two issues. "One is whether the steel companies got together and agreed to raise prices," he said. "If they did, that would be a violation of the law and they would be subject to criminal penalties.

"The second question is whether one company, namely U. S. Steel, so dominates the industry that it controls prices and should be broken up."

If convicted on criminal antitrust charges, the steel companies would face fines of up to $50,000 for each offense. Convicted officials could be sentenced to one year in prison and fined $50,000.

The government would have to file a separate civil suit under the Sherman antitrust law if it should decide to try to break up U. S. Steel. This would not involve any punitive penalties.

Both the civil and criminal actions are permitted under the Sherman law. A criminal suit presumably would be aimed at punishment for past acts, while a civil suit would be directed at future operations of the industry.

The New York grand jury inquiry was authorized by Kennedy within 48 hours after U.S. Steel announced the increase. By Thursday night, seven of the nation's 10 other big companies had announced similar price increases.

Of the "big 11" firms, only Great Lakes, Colorado Fuel & Iron and Allegheny Ludlum had not followed the pattern set by U.S. Steel.

U.S. Steel board Chairman Roger M. Blough, in a news conference rebuttal to President Kennedy's scathing attack on the industry, said Thursday that the price increase would stand.

The President told newsmen Wednesday that the price hike represented a "pursuit of private power and profit" by a tiny handful of steel executives. He said it would raise prices for consumers and boost defense costs by $1 billion a year.

In reply Blough said the heads of the steel companies were as public spirited as anyone, but

Blough Presents Steel's Defense

NEW YORK (UPI) — Board Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel answered his critics from President Kennedy to the man in the street by calling the announced increase in steel prices "almost negligible."

Blough read a 1,500-word statement at a jammed news conference Thursday and declared the $6 per ton hike in steel prices would ultimately benefit the nation.

The statement did little to stem the tide of criticism flowing from the White House, although some government economists said privately the price rise would not hurt business expansion.

Secretary of commerce Luther H. Hodges held a news conference of his own in Manhattan and said the men responsible for the price increase "said in effect that United States Steel comes first, the United States of America second."

Blough, 58, closely guarded by city detectives and other security guards, opened the nationally televised news conference with an obvious reference to Kennedy, who has called the price increase "wholly unjustified and irresponsible."

Steel Situation At A Glance

BULLETIN — WASHINGTON (UPI) — A major steel firm, Inland Steel Co., the nation's eighth largest producer, refused today to boost prices and President Kennedy ordered that military steel buying be shifted as much as possible to mills which hold the line against the $6-a-ton increase.

Shortly after Inland reported it was holding the line on a price increase, Bethlehem Steel announced it was rescinding its raise, announced shortly after U.S. Steel raised its price.

NEW YORK — Prices on the New York Stock Exchange dropped to a new 1962 low. Steel issues led the decline with U.S. Steel off 1 1/2%.

WASHINGTON — Senate Republicans generally declined to take sides in the dispute, but Democrats flatly rejected Blough's defense. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., supported the price boost.

Fear Smites Victim Of Cancer

By JACK PROCTOR
Written For UPI

Apprehension, dread and just stark fear smite the consciousness of a person who has learned he or she is the victim of cancer, the reaction differs to degrees, but the basis for all feeling is included in these three dreadful blows to the emotion, here's where the physician starts his therapy, so to speak.

The highly skilled cancer specialist with whom we finally met eased some of our fears. This practitioner, we were to learn, had studied and perfected a new and highly effective method of radium implantation, which was to be done on our carcinoma gland II of the floor of the mouth.

The mein of this specialist was all that could be expected by a person unaccustomed, as most are, in starting treatment for a malignancy. He was calm, reassuring and optimistic after examining the primary lesion in our mouth. Like the other physicians, he was emphatic about the seriousness of any type or grade of cancer he let us know this from the outset, but his every word lent encouragement, for which at this juncture, we had a great need.

He explained the implant he planned to do, the teflon tube method, which he briefly, but succinctly outlined to us. The method, he said, consisted of sewing teflon tubing through the tissues and completely laying out the desired radium pattern.

Into these tubes, which would be sutured through an area wherein lay the primary lesion and through the lesion itself, would be placed as many low intensity radium needles as the geometric pattern called for.

Each end of each tube would ultimately be closed by a Michel clip.

Teflon, we learned later, is a form of tough plastic with characteristic which made it highly desirable for radium implant procedure.

Its stability to withstand heat up to 550 degrees, allowing all materials to be autoclaved; its resistance to stretching, so its diameters are not easily altered; a tube wall stiff enough to remain fastened securely to the threaded end of the needle; secondary scatter similar to that of tissue and smooth, slick walls allowing radium needles to be inserted easily, are its main attributes.

The low intensity needles, fashioned to any shape or desired length, were primarily conceived to protect operating personnel from the deadly gamma rays of radium.

The doctor told us, in answer to one of our many questions, that only 2 per cent of cancer patients failed to respond to irradiation of this type. He told us more than 100 cases of carcinoma of various portions of the body had been treated using this technique since 1956.

We were given an injection an hour before we were wheeled into the operating room for the implant procedure. We figured we were in the operating room for two, perhaps three hours. Our first thought afterwards was of the implant and we asked a nurse if we had any needles in our chin. She said we sure did have. Then we timorously felt for our chin, and sure enough, there was a maze of protuberances there. They would remain there for seven days and seven nights.

The needles were in all right, 10 of them, but we were experiencing no pain or discomfort. There was a drawing sensation in our chin as attendants wheeled us to our room. We looked into the mirror and what we saw resembled a human pin cushion around the chin at any rate. We could touch the outer end of the tubing which contained the radium needles and we did. There was no pain and we later learned no narcotics had been prescribed on our chart for pain. The strongest drug we took during the seven days and nights we remained in the hospital with 10 radium needles inserted in our chin, was an everyday remedy, whose

Starting a new lawn this spring?

1. Don't Worry about poor soil. You don't need to go to the trouble and expense of bringing in topsoil. Any soil — even subsoil — can give a satisfying lawn with regular feedings of Scott's protein-building TURF BUILDER.
2. Don't be taken in by seed "bargains." You want a good lawn, not a hayfield. Cheap mixtures contain wild grasses that will plague you for the life of your lawn. Scott's seed is all good grass, perennial and weed-free.
3. Don't plant the wrong kind of lawn. Be realistic. If you need a lawn that stands up to the punishment of children and weather, choose Scott's PLAY seed. If appearance is paramount, Scott's FAMILY or CLASSIC.

French Encircle Oran In Search For OAS

By ALAIN RAYMOND United Press International ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—The French army encircled Oran today while heavily-armed security patrols stalked through the center of the house-to-house search to root out Secret Army Organization (OAS) commandos. A band of uniformed OAS guerrillas fought a five-hour battle with French security forces Thursday in the heart of the western Algerian port city. Unofficial reports said at least 15 of the French troops were killed or wounded. The Army set up a ring of armored cars and barbed-wire around the central downtown area, where the battle raged, and mounted heavy guards on main roads leading to the east and west in an apparent move to block off possible escape routes. After a comparative lull of 24 hours the OAS resumed its daily round of slayings in Algiers today. By mid-day, the toll was four persons killed, all Moslems, and five persons wounded, including two Europeans. This brought the year's casualty total to 3,610 dead and 7,858 wounded. The gunmen picked off the Moslems apparently wherever they could find them—a salesman killed on one street, a chauffeur on another, a newspaper vendor on his corner. In Oran, the search by troops for OAS commandos included the Grand Hotel, where foreign and French journalists are staying. Troops moved in around the Place de la Bastille in the western Algerian port city at dawn after warning inhabitants to stay off the streets and away from windows. Soldiers strung barbed wire barricades around the area and set up heavy machinegun posts at strategic points. Armored cars also stood by. Patrols of gendarmes moved cautiously through the deserted streets and into the buildings—many showing the scars of the five-hour battle Thursday. Observation helicopters hovered overhead on the lookout for OAS snipers. Armored-backed French troops also mounted strong guard in Algiers as a precaution against new assaults and terrorism by the OAS. Military sources said the security details were some of the largest since the March 19 Franco-Algerian rebel cease-fire, which the OAS is trying to wreck. The show of military might fol-

Vandalism, Theft Reported Here

Vandals stoned the Pampa Parts and Supply Co. building, 833 W. Foster, Thursday night and broke out 29 panes of safety glass windows. Police said rocks were found on the floor inside of the building. Each of the broken panes measured 14 by 18 inches.

A pay telephone was jerked off the wall last night in a room at the northwest corner of the building occupied by the E. M. Keller & Co., trucking firm, 725 S. Cuyler.

According to police, the vandals took the pay phone with them. No trace of the missing telephone had been found up to noon today.

'Butch' Must Die

LONDON (UPI) — Butch, the mixed-up boxer who loves people but hates dogs, must die. An appeals court Thursday turned down a last-ditch attempt to save the life of the dog who underwent 8 months of psychiatric treatment.

The 6-year-old Butch was sentenced to be destroyed last January for attacking a poodle after his owner brought him home from the Canine Defense training center.

Owner Constance Gamble, 42, vowed to fight on, despite the fact that she risks a fine of $2.80 for every day that Butch re-

"I have fought for Butch in every way I know," Mrs. Gamble said. If I don't have him destroyed it will mean one pound a day and I don't have the money. But he loves human beings, particularly children.

Butch's neurosis began when he was bitten by a large dog while still a puppy. He had a long history of attacks on other dogs when he was sent to the center for psychiatric treatment.

lowed a bomb attack on the Algiers airport control tower by the OAS and the five-hour street battle between heavily armed OAS commandos and security forces in Oran Thursday. First reports indicated at least five French security forces were killed and 10 more wounded in the fighting at Oran. There was no estimate of OAS casualties. OAS terrorists also were active through another day of violence in which 37 persons were killed and 17 wounded, bringing the 1962 toll to 3,606 dead and 7,853 wounded. Observers said the step-up in violence was designed to demonstrate that the OAS is still a power in Algeria despite the heavy losses in battles with French troops and Moslem guerrillas in the hinterlands.

Fallout Traces From Red Tests Reaching U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first traces of radioactive fallout from last fall's Russian nuclear testing in the atmosphere are beginning to show up in the Southern states, health officials said today.

The officials said radioactive strontium 90 levels probably have risen throughout the United States in the past two months because of the Russian tests. Only tentative data is available for that period.

More certain evidence of the fallout can be obtained in the South, they explained, because cattle already have been grazing in open pastures there.

There will be preaching nightly at 7:30 beginning Sunday evening and running through Friday, April 20. "Lamb of God, Our King with the Church at the morning service April 15. Included in this group will be several youths who have attended six courses conducted by the Church minister, Glyn B. Adst. The sermon subjects of Dr. Carstensen are: Sunday morning, "Recapturing the Radiance;" Sunday evening, "The Soul's Business;" Monday, "Faith of our Fathers;" Tuesday, "Over the Rim of the World;" Wednesday, "Amos, What Do You See?;" Thursday, "Down by the River;" and Friday, "The White Magic of Faith." tablets of stone, but, according to U.S. religious leaders, it appears to have acquired a wide following. There is great concern among Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders about this popular tendency to add convenient escape clauses to the Commandments which have been the basis of the Judeo-Christian moral code for thousands of years. Theologians call it "moral relativism." The moral relativist, they say, doesn't ignore moral laws. He just interprets them to suit himself. He is honest, up to a point. He is truthful, a good part of the time. You can trust him, especially if you keep an eye on him. He would never think of robbing a bank. That would be criminal, and also dangerous. But he sees no great harm in clipping the company for a few bucks on his expense account ("They ought to pay me a better salary anyway") or in pressing a spurious damage suit ("The insurance company can afford it") or in defrauding the government somewhat on his income tax return ("They'll take it all if you let them.") If he reads in the newspaper about a janitor who returned a sackful of money that fell out of an armored car, he sits down and writes the janitor a letter—telling him how "stupid" he was. If he happens to be an electric industry executive who is caught fixing prices, he blandly explains to a congressional committee that he didn't do anything really criminal: He just violated a law that was inconvenient to his business. If his favorite TV quiz shows turn-out to be rigged, he doesn't get sore at the well-prompted

"geniuses" who played him for a sucker. After all, he asks, who wouldn't lie for $64,000? He does have a code of sexual morality—in fact, two of them. One, which he expects his wife and children to follow, is based on Biblical teachings. It forbids sexual relations outside of marriage, with no ifs, ands or buts. The other, which he privately regards as the only suitable rule for a robust man like himself, is borrowed from romantic movies and novels. It holds that marital infidelity is excusable if it results from a mutual, if fleeting, passion sanctified by the name of "love." Don't get the moral relativist wrong. He doesn't want to repeal the Ten Commandments. He thinks they are a great guide to conduct, especially for the other fellow, and provided, of course, that you don't carry them too far.

Christian Science Services

Christian warfare, in which spiritual good overcomes the evil in human thinking, is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon to be heard Sunday at Christian Science church services. Scriptural selections will include Paul's exhortation: "The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light" (Romans 13). "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the title of the Lesson-Sermon. This citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will also be read: "Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. They must grapple with sin in themselves; and in others, and continue this warfare until they have finished their course. If they keep the faith, they will have the crown of rejoicing" (p. 29).

Church Merger Delegates Report Optimistic Prospects; Ask Others

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the high-vaulted library of Washington Cathedral, leaders of four Protestant denominations sat, side by side, at the end of a huge oak table. For the past two days they had been talking candidly behind closed doors about the possibility—some would say the distant dream—of merging the four denominations to form a single great church with 20 million members. Now they faced a roomful of reporters who wanted to know how it had gone. Did these churchmen really think there was a chance of uniting the Episcopal Church, the Methodist Church, the United Church of Christ and the United Presbyterian Church? The question brought a smile from the Rt. Rev. Robert F. Gibson Jr., the handsome, gray-haired Episcopal bishop of Virginia. "I can tell you this," he said. "I'm a lot more hopeful about the prospects than I was when I walked in here."

Women In Church

By MARY FOWLER
The 1,800,000 member Women's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Church has said: "Recognizing the need for coordinating the planning, services and research on the problems of urban areas, into which 70 per cent of our population is gathered, we recommend the establishment of a Federal Department of Urban Affairs and Housing, with a secretary at Cabinet level." Methodist women are asked to express their opinions to their representatives in Congress. Six Girl Scouts in Pelham, New Hampshire, have contributed $25 to help deaf children in Ceylon, through the purchase of gift coupons of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. As reported by their treasurer, Vivian Lemire, when the Scouts visited U. N. headquarters recently, the coupons were sent to the Mount Lavinia School for the Deaf, which since 1912 has been teaching Ceylonese children how to overcome the handicap of loss of hearing. Today 120 boys and 60 girls are enrolled in the school. Mrs. Margaret Steward, educator and social service worker serving in Greece under the United Church Board for World Ministries, has been named president of Orlinda Childs Pierce College in Athens. The appointment is announced by the trustees of Pierce College of which Mrs. Douglas Horton, formerly president of Wellesley College, is chairman. Mrs. Steward, who has been acting president of Pierce College for the past year and a half, is the wife of Newell Steward, director of the Congressional Christian Service Committee in Greece, part of the United Church Board for World Ministries. Mrs. Steward and her husband first went to Greece in 1955 to work among the poor and the refugees of Athens. In Ano Petralina, a depressed area of the city, they founded the Estia Filias Neighborhood House, the first social center in Greece. This center is now providing recreational and educational programs for the community of some 600 needy families. Since beginning her relationship with Pierce College soon after her arrival in Greece, Mrs. Steward has taught at the college and reorganized and directed its School of Social Work. She has been acting president since 1960.

A big, baldish man with shoulders like a fullback nodded in vigorous agreement. This was the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church, who first proposed the merger. "This initial meeting has carried us much further than we had dared to hope," he said. How so? a reporter pressed. New York attorney Charles C. Parlin, a member of the Methodist delegation, replied that the conferees had reached agreements "easily and enthusiastically" about several important questions of procedure. They had decided to invite three more denominations (the United Christian churches, Evangelical United Brethren, and Polish National Catholic Church) to join the talks. They had fixed March 19, 1963, for their next meeting. They had also taken steps to initiate a large number of joint theological studies, to clarify the specific issues of doctrine and church organization that will have to be settled before a plan of union can be drawn up. The Rev. Dr. David G. Colwell of the United Church of Christ suggested that these agreements, while valuable, were not the real reason for the optimism which clearly radiated from the whole group. What really counted, he said,

CAN USE MONEY

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Montgomery County Court Clerk James C. Brinton Tuesday trusted over hundreds of old indictments dating from 1924 to the district attorney, although he knows most of the cases can't be prosecuted because of the statute of limitations. Brinton said he would ask the district attorney that bail bonds in the prohibition, wife desertion and assault cases be forfeited to the county. "It was the 'excellent atmosphere' and the fact that in two days of frank discussion 'no roadblocks were erected which will make difficulties in the future.'" How long will it take—if all goes well? Ten years was the lowest estimate that any of the delegates was willing to offer.

ETERNAL LIFE NOW

"This is eternal life, that they know thee the only true God." John 17:3.

Nowhere in the Gospels can we find Jesus talking about immortality. Instead we hear him talking about "eternal life."

Immortality carries with it primarily continuous existence. Eternal life stresses and means quality of life. Immortality is merely going on and on; eternal life means life so rich in the experience of the forgiveness and reality of God, that going on and on is desirable. Immortality is post-mortem; eternal life is now.

I. One practical aspect of this emphasis is that we must cease postponing eternal life. Our living now must be focused, not on the distant future, but on the here and now.

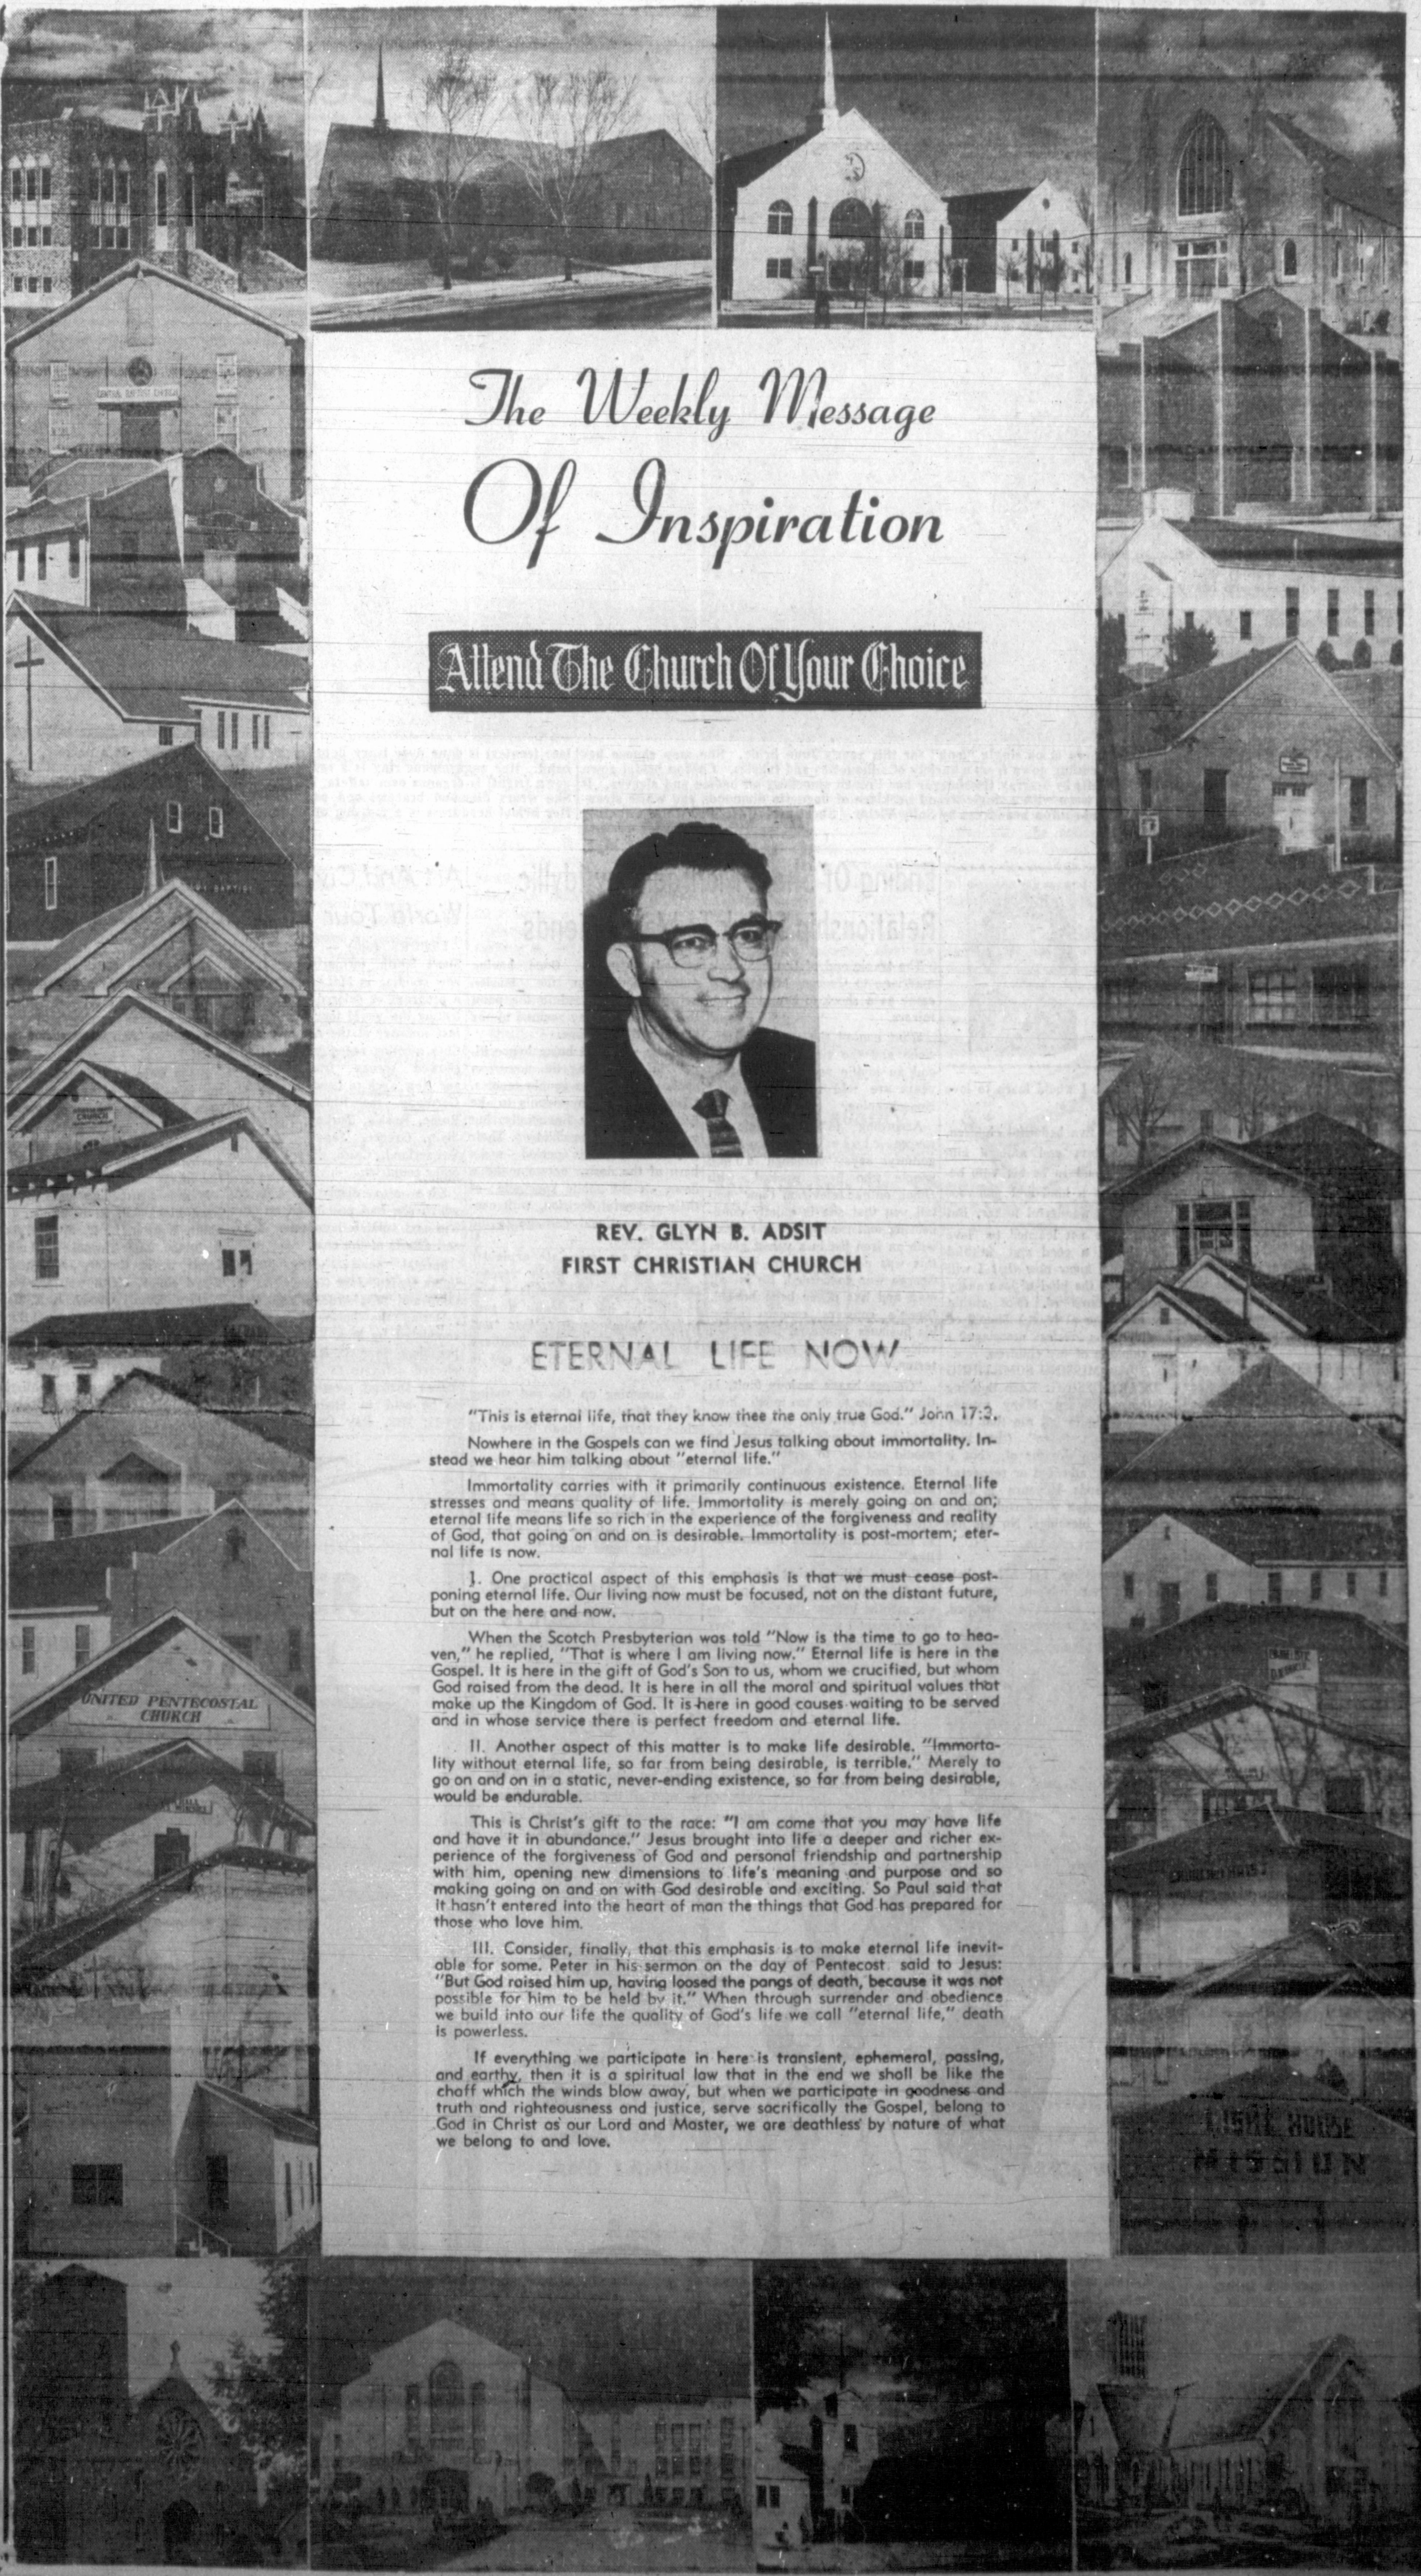

When the Scotch Presbyterian was told "Now is the time to go to heaven," he replied, "That is where I am living now." Eternal life is here in the Gospel. It is here in the gift of God's Son to us, whom we crucified, but whom God raised from the dead. It is here in all the moral and spiritual values that make up the Kingdom of God. It is here in good causes waiting to be served and in whose service there is perfect freedom and eternal life.

II. Another aspect of this matter is to make life desirable. "Immortality without eternal life, so far from being desirable, is terrible." Merely to go on and on in a static, never-ending existence, so far from being desirable, would be endurable.

This is Christ's gift to the race: "I am come that you may have life and have it in abundance." Jesus brought into life a deeper and richer experience of the forgiveness of God and personal friendship and partnership with him, opening new dimensions to life's meaning and purpose and so making going on and on with God desirable and exciting. So Paul said that it hasn't entered into the heart of man the things that God has prepared for those who love him.

III. Consider, finally, that this emphasis is to make eternal life inevitable for some. Peter in his sermon on the day of Pentecost said to Jesus: "But God raised him up, having loosed the pangs of death, because it was not possible for him to be held by it." When through surrender and obedience we build into our life the quality of God's life we call "eternal life," death is powerless.

If everything we participate in here is transient, ephemeral, passing, and earthy, then it is a spiritual law that in the end we shall be like the chaff which the winds blow away, but when we participate in goodness and truth and righteousness and justice, serve sacrificially the Gospel, belong to God in Christ as our Lord and Master, we are deathless by nature of what we belong to and love.

For June Brides Of All Ages: A Beauty Plan

By GAILE DUGAS
NEW YORK (NEA) — This is a year in which a June bride can create any image she likes as she floats down the aisle in a mist of white.

Her dress may be day length or long, have a train or not. The silhouette may be slim and sheathlike, bell shape or full and soft. Some dresses even have bustles. Some are sleeveless, others have little cap sleeves. Or long sleeves, tight to the wrist.

There is sure to be a perfect rapport between her headdress, dress and coiffure. As for the headdress or head piece, it's much more like a little hat than it's been in the past. Whether it's a pouff or chiffon, a delicate cluster of flowers or a smooth band of satin, it's very close to what we consider the very dressy little hat.

Fabrics will include peau de soie, taffeta, lace, chiffon, organza, organza, silk faille and heavy ribbed silk.

The best-liked veil is elbow length. Easy to manage and flattering, it provides for sheerest backdrop for a pretty face.

The wise bride, once she has decided upon her dress, will have her headdress made for the dress. She may want to match the fabric of the dress or use whimsy in lace, satin or silk. But it should carry out the feeling of the dress in the same way that a daytime dress and hat are good companions.

There is no single "look" for this year's June bride. She may choose her wedding gown from a variety of silhouettes and fabrics. Chiffon bridal gown (left) by Murray Hamburger has French smocking on bodice and sleeves. It is worn with a single-strand necklace of baguette diamonds and white straw-and-chiffon headdress by Sally Victor. Short bridal dress of white Chantilly lace (center) is done over ivory lightweight taffeta. Headpiece is a narrow band. Her engagement ring is a four-carat emerald cut diamond. Formal gown (right) is organza over taffeta, is cut with soft bustle and slight train. She wears diamond bracelet and pear-shaped earrings in a flower motif. Her bridal headdress is a massing of delicate flowers.

Happy Wives Should

Remember That...

Happy wives remember— That the husband who complains about the monthly bills also pays them.

That the husband who is "hard on the children" has as much right to his opinion on how children should be disciplined as does the wife.

That the husband who sits in front of the television set night after night isn't out chasing around.

That the husband who never even notices when his wife changes the living room around doesn't complain about such changes.

That the husband who raises Cain when his wife forgets to set down the checks she has written is the one who's responsible for keeping up the balance.

That the husband who never notices when his wife wears a new dress at least isn't demanding to know how much it cost.

That the husband who takes his wife for granted probably also takes it for granted that he will always have the same wife.

That the husband who never thinks about anything but his job could be thinking of things less advantageous to his family.

That the husband who never listens when his wife talks at least isn't thinking, "Why in the world doesn't she stop yakking all the time?"

That the husband who is close-fisted in money matters will probably leave his wife better-off financially than an overly-generous husband would.

That the husband who never talks at least doesn't make a fool of himself trying to be the life of the party.

That the husband who isn't overly ambitious probably won't ever require a special diet.

That the husband who thinks a wife's place is in the home doesn't expect his wife to help earn a living.

Dear Abby... There Are Two Sides To Beauty Salon Gossip

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would print something in your column about hairdressers. Why do they think they have to talk all the time? I go to the beauty parlor for a hair-do, not to listen to how hard they work, petty gossip about the other employees in the shop and all the dirt about the person they took care of before me. I travel quite a bit and find that it is the same no matter where I go. My husband says this is true of barbers, too.

DEAR BORED: I also travel quite a bit, and I get the other side of the story. Hairdressers tell me they wish their customers would just relax and be quiet instead of telling them their troubles and gossiping about everyone they know. My husband gets around a lot, too, and tells me this is what the barbers tell him.

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl in our dorm who is knockout to look at. She has a face and figure every girl envies and she has a great personality to go with it. Our problem is that she must be asked for dates, but if a boy even tries to put his arm around her she hauls off and just about fractures his skull. They say that it is like pulling teeth to get her to go out a second time with a fellow who is even mildly affectionate. How can we help her?

DORM MATES
DEAR DORM MATES: Fix her up with a dental student!

Ending Of Shore-Montgomery Idyllic Relationship Shock To Many Friends

The tragic end of Dinah Shore's marriage to George Montgomery came as a shock to her many admirers.

What caused the mounting tensions and the final decisions to end an idyllic relationship of 18 years are told in April Good Housekeeping.

According to the article, a source close to the Montgomerys says: "Although some people who have worked with Dinah on her television show will tell you that she is quietly domineering and runs every last detail with an iron fist in a velvet glove, this was never true as far as George was concerned. He is all man and has never been bossed. Dinah's constant concern about his business ventures has been voiced only in the most subtle terms."

"George has a serious fault, in that he tries to do too much himself. Two years ago, Dinah gently tried to persuade him that he should not try to write, produce, direct and act in his first motion picture effort. She pointed out that money was no problem. They could well afford experts for at least two of these responsibilities."

Friends believe that during a brief vacation in Palm Springs six months before the public announcement was made, they

Art And Civic Club Members Take World Tour Via Colored Slides

LEFORS (Sp) — Mrs. Alice Short Smith, formerly of Lefors, now residing in McLean presented a program of colored slides illustrating the world tour she took last summer at the Art and Civic Club meeting recently. The films showed scenes from Amarillo and New York to London, Holland, Germany, the Rhine, Paris, Rome, Russia, Turkey, Palestine, Siam, Greece, Japan, Austria, Switzerland, Cairo, Egypt and other countries.

She also displayed articles, which she had purchased on the trip and related humorous and sad details of the tour.

Special guests were Mmes. Volna Ogden, Jess Graves, A. T. Cobb and Miss Ardele Briggs.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Earl Atkinson, president, Mrs. L. R. Spence was elected delegate to the Top of Texas District meeting of TWFC to be held in Shamrock April 11-12; Mrs. Ray Chastain was named alternate. Mmes. Keith Geisler, Joe Watson, Dunny Goode and Paul Walden were named to a committee to make plans for entertaining at the Golden Age Fellowship on April 5.

Plans were also announced for the installation of new club officers by Mrs. Edith Watson on May 1.

Mrs. Carl Hall was elected chairman of the pie-baking for the Lions' Club.

Members attending were Mmes. Fred Blackwell, R. H. Barron, Edith Watson, L. R. Spence, Lee Airington, Jack Thwacker, John Lantz, J. E. Carter, Joe Watson, Floyd Hines, Keith Geisler, Paul Walden, Dunny Goode, J. E. Carter, and Charles Roberts, Bud Cumberland, C. H. Gustin, Carl Hall, Ray Chastain, Earl Atkinson, Harry Garrison, Jerry Jacobs, C. C. Mullins, and Misses Norma Lantz, Mickey Johnson and Beryl Hixson.

agreed to part. Once having made the decision, the tension between them eased to the point that outwardly they seemed to be happier than before.

"They were not being hypocritical in withholding the news," a spokesman for the couple reports. "There were many details to be resolved not only financially, but with respect to the children. Their silence during this period was born of the desire not to make a down-right public spectacle of their sorrowful decision, with consequent emotional damage to the whole family."

Another associate explains: "They both have a great respect for each other. George is a big, rough guy, but basically a gentleman. Dinah is first, last and always a lady in the Southern tradition and ladies do not cry in public."

In summing up the sad ending of the Montgomery marriage, a close relative of Dinah Shore told Good Housekeeping: "Like thousands of women who have gone through a similar experience, Dinah still has the love of her children to comfort her and the knowledge that she did her best to keep her home intact."

Controversy, Anxiety Visit New Orleans

The first of two dispatches by UPI's national reporter who went to New Orleans to investigate the growing controversy there over integration of the city's schools.

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International
NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—In your hotel room is a tourist guide book which says: "New Orleans, traditionally the city that care forgot, is a lady of many moods."
Care has not forgotten New Orleans, but has come to town for a long visit and brought along two of her sisters whose names are controversy and anxiety.

Legal actions against racial integration of the public schools are nothing new here. Lawyers for the state and city have been fighting against integration ever since the Supreme Court decision of 1954. But on March 28 there was a new development that had nothing to do with the public schools. Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of the Diocese of New Orleans (ten counties and part of another) ordered that all Catholic schools in the diocese should be fully integrated in September.

His order did not include the words "Negro" or "integration." It simply abolished the system of separate parochial schools for whites and Negroes and provided that any Catholic child could attend any school he chose.

Half-Million Affected
There are 527,490 Catholics in the diocese, a little less than half of the entire population. All of them knew immediately they were in a dilemma. Their consciences had become battle grounds on which two long standing loyalties warred against each other. As Southerners they were taught that the white race is supreme and must not mingle. As devout Catholics they knew the church holds that the color of a man's skin is irrelevant. Be he white, black, tan or yellow; it is the salvation of his soul that matters.

Most Catholics kept quiet. But among the Catholics who didn't were:

Mrs. Delphine P. Roberts who picketed Notre Dame Seminary carrying this sign: "Integration, the tool of Satan, is designed to destroy not only the white race and our country but Christianity and all civilization."

Rodney Buras, member of the legislature, who endorsed a financial boycott against the Catholic Church.

Leander Perez of the New Orleans Citizens' Council, who was quoted: "Cut off their water. Quit giving them money to feed their fat bellies. If that is an undignified way to talk about bishops, let me remind you that this is not a dignified fight."

And, finally, Mrs. B. J. Gaillot, president of an organization known as Save Our Nation, Inc.

'Car 54' Director Has Experience Similar To Show

NEW YORK (UPI)—The director of the popular television series "Car 54, Where Are You?" had a frustrating experience the other night that resembled one of his show's typically daffy plots.

Al De Caprio had just finished a long night's work on another television show when he discovered that his car had been stolen from a parking lot in the Jamaica section of New York.

He waded down a passing police car and in a manner worthy of the confused occupants of Car 54, the patrolmen told De Caprio they were "sorry" but there was nothing they could do and he would have to report the incident to the nearest precinct.

He went to the precinct and was told that he had come to the wrong one. A visit to another precinct was equally fruitless. It also was the wrong one. It seems the parking lot was on one side of the street and precinct boundary on the other.

By this time De Caprio began to feel like he had wandered into a re-run of one of his shows. So he gave up the search, with the following comment:

"Now I think that showing Muldoon (one of the patrolmen in Car 54) as an idiot on our show was too flattering."

Mrs. Gaillot is a slender, intense brunette, 42 years old and a seventh-generation Catholic. She has read the Catholic (Douay) Bible through her adult life, memorized much of it and annotated the passages which she believes refer to racial integration.

Her conclusion is that, regardless of the teachings of her church, God ordained that racial integration was a sin and so revealed himself.

"Where?" I asked as we sat in her living room with a Bible between us.

She read from the book of Genesis: "And when Sara had seen the son of Agar the Egyptian playing with Isaac, her son, she said to Abraham: Cast out this bondswoman and her son: for the son of a bondswoman shall not be heir with my son, Isaac. Abraham took this grievously for his son. And God said unto him: Let it not seem grievous to thee for the boy and for thy bondswoman: in all that Sara hath said to thee hearken to her voice."

"Mrs. Gaillot, your interpretation seems to be that Agar the Egyptian and her son were members of the black race?"

"Yes," she replied. "All non-whites are members of the black race."

Lenten Message

By James Cardinal McIntyre
Roman Catholic Archbishop Of Los Angeles
Written for UPI

Throughout the history of time, the thinking of man has been diverted in an irregular fashion by varying philosophies. Many of these have come and gone and left behind little or no wake.

Even some that have flourished greatly for a reasonable length of time have too gone the way of falling into the ranks of the unknown.

Our present day is confronted with a philosophy in the form of communism that is godless, if not anti-god.

Such a philosophy tends only to the acceptance of the material, and the concepts of mind and imagination find origin in birth and conclusion in death. There is no beyond.

Even meditation upon the mysteries of life and the natural law that have been established by the creator for the guidance of human beings receive no encouragement in a godless philosophy. While it is true that the philosophy of communism receives today, in the publications of the world, a publicity far beyond its deserts, it is, nevertheless, very gratifying to observe that the holy season of Lent is acknowledged so widely in all countries of the world, even within the confines of Russia itself.

This holy season commemorates the public life of our Divine Saviour as He ministered to the needs of human nature and gave a living example to all men of the virtues of good and exhorted them to avoid evil. He sacrificed his whole life and rose triumphantly conquering sin and death.

It is wholesome indeed that each year during these days of Lent, our reflections dwell more prayerfully on the mission of Christ and upon our obligation to follow in His footsteps as we relish the prospect of eternal happiness in heaven.

During the two hours of our conversation several telegrams arrived. Fifteen of them applauded her. Sample from Birmingham, Ala.: "You are absolutely right on your stand. I hope and pray you won't retreat or surrender."

The one adverse telegram was from Bartlesville, Okla.: "May I suggest you resign as president of Save Our Nation and let us pray for peace in America. I too am a Catholic and the father of eight children."

In the big bundle of mail that arrived on April 1 was a letter written on the stationery of the archdiocese of New Orleans and signed "Joseph Francis Rummel, Archbishop of New Orleans." It informed Mrs. Gaillot that there were penalties for Catholics "who provoke others to disobedience."

"Any further attempt by you," the letter continued, "through word or deed to hinder our orders or provoke our devoted people to disobedience or rebellion against the church will subject you to excommunication."

Nothing shatters a devout Catholic so much as the threat of excommunication. Excommunication cuts him off from attendance at Mass, the taking of Holy Communion and burial in ground consecrated by the Catholic Church. He is an outcast from the communion of the faithful. Mrs. Gaillot admits the letter gave her pause but nothing happened immediately.

"I kept right on going to Mass and taking Holy Communion," she said. "But I couldn't help thinking every time that this time might be the last."

'Safe' Diet Is Outlined By Air Force Major

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI)—A diet on which a person can safely lose 30 pounds in 60 days without getting hungry was outlined recently by an Air Force major.

Maj. Paul W. Musgrave of the Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine told the 33rd annual meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association that the diet, calling for 350 calories and one pop pill daily, had been tested on volunteers at the school.

Musgrave said the 350 calories are apportioned among foods providing sufficient proteins, vitamins, minerals and bulk to maintain health. The pill is a 15-milligram capsule of dexedrine sulphate which suppresses hunger but has little or none of the usual stimulating effects in a person ingesting only 350 calories.

He emphasized the diet should be undertaken only under a physician's direction. He added it possibly might endanger persons with a history of psychiatric disorders.

The menu:
Breakfast, one egg and six ounces of skimmed milk; lunch, 100 grams of tossed salad, salt and pepper and vinegar dressing; dinner, three ounces of lean meat and another tossed salad. All the tea or coffee you want, without cream or sugar. One highball with water or soda during the day.

Some Abstract Art Ideas

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—We were sitting in the living room, having a quiet evening at home. I was reading the paper and she was doing her nails.

"What do you do with your old cleaning tissues?" I said. "The ones you use to remove your make-up at night."

"What do you think I do with them?" she replied. "Frame them or something?"

"That's exactly what I had in mind," I said. "They might be worth a lot of money."

She went back to doing her nails and I went into the bedroom, where I emptied the wastebasket and collected the tissues smeared with lipstick, eye shadow, rouge and other such goo.

These I pasted onto a piece of cardboard, which I carried into the living room and hung on the wall in the place where Uncle Ullis' portrait usually hangs.

"What is that supposed to be?" my wife said, eyeing me nervously.

"It's a painting," I said. "I call it 'Algerian sunset.'"

"It looks more like a stomach upset," she commented, but I imagine she will change her tune when the money starts rolling in.

What launched me on my new career was an item I saw about a lady artist in Florida who had been cleaning her brushes on a piece of masonite board.

One day she noticed that the dabs of paint formed an abstract pattern. So she entered the board in an art show and it was the first painting she sold. Fetched a nice price, too.

The artist indicated that she expected to turn this into a good thing. I wouldn't be surprised if she gave up painting entirely and spent all of her time cleaning brushes.

Reading of her coup made me realize what a fool I've been all these years.

When I painted something—a patio chair, say, or a window box—I took the brush up to the attic afterwards and wiped off the excess paint on a rafter.

I must have thousands of dollars worth of abstract art on those boards and no way to capitalize on it. If I saw a painting out of the rafters, the roof would cave in.

There's a growing market for art that wasn't intended to be art, and eventually, I suppose, the paint-smeared rafters will be worth more than the house.

LITTERBUGS CLEAN UP

Matson, Martin Are Ready For Regionals

Randy Matson and Bill Martin, the M and M of Pampa high school journey down Odessa way today in preparation for the annual Region 1 track and field meet which will pit the best athletes in AAAA and AAA cinder competition during the past season.

Matson, representing District 3-AAAA in the shot put and discus and Martin, representing the loop in the high jump, both stand a good chance of hurdling the regional event and marching into the state tournament in Austin May 4-5 with banners flying.

Matson has already bettered the regional standard with the 12-pound iron ball and is a scant three feet short of breaking the regional mark in the discus throw. Randy threw the shot 60 feet 10 inches in the district meet last weekend while his best discus throw this year has been 167 feet one inch as compared to the regional mark of 172 feet 1 1/2 inches set by Richard Stafford of Matador in 1958.

Martin, though falling off his record setting jump of six feet in the high jump event in the district meet, has looked real good in practice and seems to be determined to take the regional title and head for Austin.

Matson is given an excellent chance by area sportswriters of winning the state title in the shot put if he does win, he will be the first from Pampa High school to win the title with the 12-pound ball.

John Cantrell finished second in 1954 in the state meet with a toss of 52 feet 11 inches and then fourth the following year with a heave of 54 feet 11 inches.

Quantico Relays Slate Big Meet

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI) — More than 850 track and field athletes, including world record holder Frank Budd, were expected to participate today in the Quantico relays.

The annual relays, which usually draw trackmen from more than 80 colleges and clubs, is the first big outdoor meet of the season on the East Coast.

Rain and cool weather which hampered the all-Marine championships here Thursday was expected to give way today to partly cloudy and warmer weather.

Budd, of Villanova, holds a world record in the 100-yard dash. He was timed at 8.2 seconds June 24, 1961 in New York.

Finsterwald Leading Greensboro Tourney

GREENBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., led a field of 152 pros and amateurs today into the second round of the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament—the richest golfing event ever held in the Carolinas.

Finsterwald toured the rain-sodden par 71 Sedgfield Country Club course Thursday, with a 32-33-65. That was two strokes better than the 33-34-67 turned in by Julius Boros, his closest challenger after the first day of the four-day tournament.

The large field will be cut after 36 holes to the low 80 scorers and ties. Amateurs must make the pro cut for the first time in a GGO to stay alive and go into the third round Saturday.

Finsterwald, who won the GGO three years ago, finished third in a three-way playoff with Palmer and Gary Player for the Masters' crown at Augusta, Ga., earlier this week. "The greens aren't too bad but the fairways sure are damp," said the grinning Finsterwald after his pace-setting round played in the rain.

Mike Souchak, the defending champion, and five other pros carded three under-par 66s.

Turning in other 66s were Juan Rodriguez, Al Johnston, Rex Baxter and Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem. Charlie Sifford, Bob Bruno, Jim Ferrier, Billy Casper, Mason Rudolph, George Bayer and Don Fairfield were one stroke back at 69.

Gallery favorite Sam Snead, who has won the GGO seven times, was one of 13 pros who were one under par with 70s. Two amateurs, Bobby Loy of Virginia Beach, Va., and Wade Briggs of Roxboro, N.C., were bunched with Palmer and five other pros at 71.

Fair Sex Wins Rugby Match

LONDON (UPI) — The Englishman, world-renowned for his gallantry to the gentler sex, is carrying a point of courtesy just a little too far these days.

The relation between the sexes went slightly astray Thursday when a group of girl students from the South-West Essex Technical College in a nearby London suburb gave their male classmates a 13-10 thrashing in a rugby football game.

Played strictly for charity, the girls enjoyed a numerical advantage over the blushing rivals, there being 30 shapely lasses lined up against a mere 15 burly lads.

Referee Ian Campbell was on hand to see no tackles went astray and said afterwards: "It was a fair game, the boys soon discovered they didn't need to make concessions."

"It was like playing against a bunch of squealing, hair-pulling wild-cats," said Pete Barlow. But another boy attributed the girls' victory to "superior tactics."

Harvesters Slate Busy Weekend Of Baseball

Mike Clark and Jerry Glover take the hill this weekend for the Pampa Harvesters against a couple of Lubbock opponents at the Pampa Optimist park in an effort to boost the local nine's average over the .500 mark.

Clark, 1-1 will be seeking victory number two in the campaign in the game today against Tom S. Lubbock at 4 p.m. Glover on the other hand will also be seeking to notch number two up over Monterey Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

The Harvesters broke out of their hitless rut in their last game with a crushing 14-0 victory over Palo Duro out Amarillo way Tuesday. It was their second loop win of the year against two setbacks.

In the game with the Dons, the local crew lashed out 17 hits for their initial victory over an Amarillo school this year. They had previously dropped decisions to Amarillo and Tascosa. Their other win was over the Plainview Bulldogs.

Larry Gregory, who couldn't seem to buy a hit this year with 0-8 batted out 4 for 4 against the Dons to up his average to a healthy .333. John Arthur also improved his swat mark with 4 for 5 to increase his .250 average to around .500.

Arthur had two of the Harvesters extra base blows with double and a triple while Gregory rang up a three-bagger among his four bingles.

Clark, sailing along with a 5-0 record won his last outing against Plainview, 1-0 after suffering an opening season shutout at the hands of Amarillo high, 4-0.

Glover lost an extra inning game at the hands of Tascosa, 3-2 but bounced back behind the solid support of the Harvesters bats to ring up a decision over the Dons.

Lubbock has one of the strongest teams in the district with a 4-0 mark in loop play and 14-5 for the season. Monterey has a 3-1 record and is 13-5 for the season.

Around the horn in the infield for the two weekend tilts will be Gerrod Owens at first, Gregory at second, Butch Crossland at shortstop and Rickey Stewart at third.

In the outfield will be Arthur in left, Howard Reed in center and Kenny Hebert in right. Hebert will be subbing for Dee Wright after shedding his cinder suit last Saturday at the close of the track season.

The powerful hitting right-hander came into the game against the Dons as a pinch-hitter and responded in three trips to the plate with a pair of doubles.

Mike Stewart will handle the catching chores while Clark will be on the mound.

Surprising Colts Win Third Straight Game

United Press International

They always said pitching was 90 per cent of baseball but the Houston Colt .45s may yet prove it's really 100 per cent of the game.

The Colt .45s aren't supposed to have anything else except pitching but that's all they've needed to become the surprise team of the 1962 major league baseball season. And it all comes as no surprise to General Manager Paul Richards because that's the way he planned it.

The Colt .45s made it three in a row Thursday when they beat the Chicago Cubs, 2-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Dean Stone. Their pitching staff has now allowed the grand total of two runs and 17 hits in three games—which means that either Richards and manager Harry Craft have come up with a "sleeper" pitching staff or that somebody bored holes in the Cubs' bats.

Stone, who formerly pitched in the majors with the Washington Senators, Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Cardinals, struck out nine batters and walked two. It was his first big league victory since May 28, 1957, when he shut out Baltimore.

Stone, who had a 12-8 record for Charleston in the International League last season, was drafted by the Colts last Nov. 27. It was the second straight shutout turned in by Colt pitchers and ran the Cubs' string of consecutive scoreless innings to 19.

The San Francisco Giants also remained unbeaten in three games with an 8-4 decision over the Milwaukee Braves and the Los Angeles Dodgers ripped the Cincinnati Reds, 11-7, in other National League games while the Los Angeles Angels shaded the Chicago White Sox, 1-0, and the Minnesota Twins defeated the Kansas City A's, 9-5, in American League games.

Jose Pagan drove in four runs with a triple, double and single to lead an eight-hit San Francisco attack. Jack Sanford went seven innings for the victory although Stu Miller took over in the eighth after Joe Adcock's grand slam homer.

Rookie Pete Richert tied a big league record by striking out four batters in one inning—he also struck out six straight batters—in the Dodgers' second straight victory over the Reds. Back-to-back doubles by Wally Moon and

Scribe Studies Stars To Forecast Future

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you fished after 4:36 a.m. today you wasted your time. Sonny Liston should win the heavyweight title in June, Mickey Mantle and Willie Mays will have good seasons and Arnold Palmer has a great chance of scoring his big slam this year.

It's all right there in the zodiac.

That means, as I understand it in a book sent to me by a friend, the way your life is affected by the moon, the stars and the various planets.

Personally I have seen my share of stars from time to time and nobody can convince me that it's a good thing for the shape of your features. There also are those who contend I've sat around in the moon and taken on a little too much shine from time to time.

But, as I get it, a lot of people swear by this stuff called astrology. And this little book, Madame Lasagna, gives you everything but the time of day you shouldn't step off the curb in front of a bus. On what are noted as "good days," it is presumed that if you step in front of the bus all you do is dent the fender.

Anyhow, I have looked up the future portents for some of my athletic heroes and it makes for interesting observations.

Consider the possibilities for Liston, who some time in June fights for the heavyweight title. All I can say is that Floyd Patterson better be careful what date he picks. The even numbered days are "adverse" for him and Liston has only four "bad" days—June 12, 20, 25 and 27. If they fight on the 12th it shapes up as a turkey. It's a bad day for both of them.

The same goes for the May 12 NBA light heavyweight title bout between Doug Jones and Harold Johnson. It's a bad day for both, so a double knockout is in the lunar ledger.

Palmer, who this week won the Masters, has his heart set on a "big slam" of the U.S. and British opens and the PGA. Well, Arnie had better be careful on the final day of the Open at Oakmont.

That's the one bad day of his whole competitive setup. All the rest of the days in those three events are going for him—as well as the fact that he's a helluva golfer.

Celtics Coach Confident Of Annexing Title

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics took a "let them worry" attitude today as they sharpened up for a fifth meeting with the Los Angeles Lakers in the National Basketball Association championship playoffs.

Usually conservative Boston coach Red Auerbach, who rarely makes predictions until the final quarter's waning minutes, told newsmen, the series has now turned in our favor.

The Celtics and Lakers were all even at two games each in the best-of-seven series for the NBA title. The next contest is here Saturday and the sixth game will be in Los Angeles. If a seventh game is needed, it will be here and Auerbach figures this gives him the edge.

Bill Russell will again be counted on to make the "difference" between the two clubs. He made the fourth game in Los Angeles, a "must" game for the Celtics, a relatively easy victory.

For the Lakers, the key men will again be Elgin Baylor and Jerry West. If both are hitting, despite Russell's fine defensive play, the Lakers could easily return home with an important edge in the series.

Maple Leafs Lead Hawks In Cup Play

TORONTO (UPI)—The Toronto Maple Leafs are beating the Chicago Black Hawks at their own game—roughhouse hockey—in the Stanley Cup finals.

The Maple Leafs opened a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series Thursday night by skating to a 3-2 victory over Chicago, who gained the final round by eliminating the mighty Montreal Canadiens.

The Hawks were flat and easy pickings in the opening game, Tuesday night and though they Toronto had only a few anxious moments late in the game before they clinched it with a pair of goals by Frank Mahovlich and captain George Armstrong.

Toronto coach George (Punch) Imlach, who naturally was pleased with his team's two-game bulge, allowed that "we can still play better and we may have to if we hope to win in Chicago."

The series moves into the vast Chicago Stadium for the third game Sunday night and the fourth next Tuesday. If additional games

Top Bowlers In Masters Keg Tourney

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Some of the nation's top bowlers will go to the line here Saturday to launch a five-day drive for one of the richest purses in the 12-year history of the American Bowling Congress' Masters tournament.

The qualifying group of 480 will be pared to 48 Saturday and Sunday. They will join eight exempt bowlers and eight state representatives for the double-elimination match game championships, which will run through day and night sessions Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

A record prize fund of $19,520 will be awarded, including $3,000 to the champion. The top prize exceeds $2,500 which defending champion Don Carter, St. Louis, Mo., received last year.

Carter and three other former Masters champions are among the eight exempt from the two days of qualifying trials.

Other former champions are Billy Golembiewski, Detroit, and Ray Bluth and Tom Hennessey, both of St. Louis.

Also exempt from qualifying tests are Dick Weber, St. Louis, the 1961 bowler of the year; Eddie Lubanski, Detroit, current ABS 10-year, a leader; Bob Brayman, Detroit, 1961 classic division all-events champion; and Luke Karan, Detroit, 1961 regular division all-events champion.

Twins Snowed Out In Seasons Opener

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—The Minnesota Twins, snowed out of their home opener against Los Angeles today, moved indoors for a workout at the University of Minnesota.

Several inches of snow still covered the ball park but officials were hopeful of playing Saturday afternoon's game.

Twins officials decided Thursday that the six-inch snowfall which hit the area could not be cleared in time to permit the season opener.

Bill Robertson, director of stadium operations, said equipment could not be moved onto the outfield to remove the snow because it would tear the turf. He said "we'll just have to wait and let nature do most of the job."

The infield was protected by a tarpaulin. Crews had removed most of the snow from the seats and from parking lots.

Imlach says he doesn't care how he wins and his Leafs have thoroughly overpowered the so-far docile Hawks. They did it Tuesday night and again last night.

Murray Balfour, right wing on the line with 50-goal scorer Bobby Hull and center Red Hay, was put out of action in the first period when Carl Brewer boarded him heavily. Brewer got only a two minute minor and Hawk coach Rudy Pilous complained about the officiating of referee

Frank Udvari. Pilous charged Udvari with "turning his back" on what he called too much "clutching, grabbing and holding and roughing" by the Leafs. And in connection with Balfour's injury he added: "The man was bleeding. What did he think it was — tomato juice?" Balfour, in addition to suffering a mild concussion, needed nine stitches to close the cut he got from the jolt.

The Pampa Daily News

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Qualifying For 'Benefits'

When government sets up a system of "benefits" for certain classes of people, it is predictable that many will attempt to qualify according to the definitions provided.

If, for instance, government is to pay men who are out of work, it becomes obvious that being out of work is not so bad. In order to qualify for these "benefits," one must be out of work. Then why work, when benefits can be had for not working?

When the government provides payments for not raising crops, then it follows that it is profitable not to raise crops. So, why raise crops? When the government provides payments for having illegitimate babies, it follows that having illegitimate babies is profitable. So, why not have babies?

A case which reveals just how far governmental programs of "benefits" may be carried came to light in Riverhead, New York, not long ago. A Marine veteran, Peter R. Sherry, 33, managed to get his hands on about $40,000 of taxpayers' money in an eight-year program designed to take advantage of certain "benefits."

Sherry served in the Marines for three years, 1944-47, under his original name of Peter A. Bachulis. In 1951 he legally changed his name to Peter R. Sherry. Actually, had he adopted the second name informally, it is possible that the story would never have come to light.

In 1953, authorities are now saying, Sherry obtained a death certificate at the town clerk's office. He filled in his original name of Bachulis, forged a doctor's signature and then had it filed officially. Cause of death was listed as heart failure.

Mrs. Sherry then began collecting federal "benefits" as a veteran's widow. First, she got her $10,000 in veteran life insurance had $63 per month in veteran's family benefits.

Then she applied and obtained Social Security benefits totaling $190.52 a month, and Social Security benefits for the eldest daughter, aged 12. This later came to $28.10 per month.

The Weapon Of Taxation

We've seen weapon development thru the years which can only be described as fantastic. From slings, bows and arrows, spears, javelins and swords, man has contrived rifles, grenades, flame throwers, tanks, rockets and guided missiles.

But when all is said and done, it may just be that taxation will turn out to be the most terrible and devastating weapon of all time. It is true, of course, that the immediate effect of taxation is not death. But there is something gently enervating, like nerve gas or phosgene, about the ability of the government to employ taxation, and in process to gradually reduce a once proud people to dependence, subservience and final ruin.

Even atomic fallout or the aftermath of hydrogen warfare may not have any more far reaching effect than that obtained by politicians as they coerce everyone with their legal forays against humanity in the guise of "what is good for us."

It is the apparent harmlessness of taxation which does the damage. We can prepare some measure of defense against any and every other weapon known. But to date there is no known protection from taxation. When politicians wield it, we stand naked and defenseless before their attacks.

Now it is true that some politicians will claim that taxation is a legitimate device intended to raise the "necessary" funds for the operation of government. Since no one has ever successfully defined what actions of government are truly necessary, the matter may remain in doubt. But it is also true, ever since

Pull Up A Chair

By Neal O'Hara

If human beings ever colonize a planet larger than this earth, they may have smaller appetites, and their children may not grow as large as earth-living youngsters, experiments at Iowa State U. indicate.

Headline in the Dallas Morning News: "Meeting Set On Highways." The Federal Trade Commission is now giving special attention to manufacturers who claim their product is what "most doctors recommend," or which "four out of five housewives prefer."

Today's favorite gag: TEACHER—"What is the significance of November 11th?" LITTLE BOBBY—"That's the day the armistice of World War I was signed, and there have been three minutes of peace each year since then."

Sherry, and quite possibly Mrs. Sherry, will doubtless be convicted of defrauding the government. Having been convicted they may spend some time in prison, again at taxpayers' expense, and in the end will be released.

Now the fact is that this particular case has been uncovered. But one is left to wonder how many more of this kind have not been.

If, for instance, Sherry could have managed without legally changing his name, the connection might never have been discovered. Or, additionally, had he gone out to get another job rather than trying for still more goodies at public expense, he might never have been found out.

And if this one man was able to pull off this kind of hoax for eight long years, how many variations of this scheme are in force today in various parts of the country? No one can possibly know.

But, as we said at the outset, when the government provides certain "benefits" it is perfectly natural to expect that some people will seek to qualify to receive the work-free blessings. If death is one of the qualifications, then all that has to be done is to provide evidence that death has ensued.

The something-for-nothing philosophy of socialism has captured the minds and the ambitions of millions of the American people and there will be no end to this kind of thing, until the practice of government goodies is brought to an end.

the income tax was slapped against us with its progressive and graduated feature, that taxation has been employed for purposes of punitive conclusions. You are taxed today, not because the government allegedly "needs" the money, but because of social theories to the effect that government may employ the weapon of taxation to accomplish a particular economic objective.

An example of the use of taxation for punitive purposes is the current proposal to prevent business firms from deducting the cost of advertisements which take a position favorable to free market ideas. If a businessman, in order to stay in business, undertakes to educate the public as to the merits of private ownership, he will find that he may make no allowance on his tax bill.

Curiously, however, if he spends the same sum of money in an effort to lobby a bit of legislation thru the halls of Congress, said expenditure would be deductible. In short, lobbying is a legitimate business expense, regardless of the effect laws passed thru lobbying efforts may have on the remainder of the economy. But educating the public as to the nature of the socialist threat hanging over this nation, is not deductible.

In point of fact, a business which seeks to educate the public is performing a public service, and one which spends its time lobbying is in all likelihood performing a disservice. Yet the American government views these two actions in a manner which can only be detrimental to the interests of the public. Here is a precise instance of Getting Harder And Harder — FOR A COMPOSER TO RECOGNIZE HIS MUSIC.

Pegler Says: He's Embarrassed At Not Visiting Valley Before

HARLINGEN, Tex. — Harlingen is the capital of a relatively small patch of the United States so rich that Nazi Germany and the Soviet empire would have gambled millions of lives to capture it had the lower Rio Grande Valley lain within reach of their logistics.

Our country hasn't even a squad of soldiers on guard along the border and the few unhappy patrolmen of the Immigration Service are looked upon with mild hostility even by Americans because it is their job to keep out wetbacks — Mexicans who want to work for American employers who want to hire them.

Thoughts while shaving: 1. Male Texans are noted for their rugged strength. So we've wondered how Van Cliburn, after winning the top award in Soviet Russia, and since, has withstood all the handshakes of his fellow Texans without damage to his talented fingers.

The valley is so efficient, diligent and prosperous, in general, so important to our country, that I feel embarrassed after all my travels never to have discovered the place before. Harlingen is the commercial capital of the valley, in a county that went Republican for Nixon in 1960, and the center of a region highly civilized in the most favorable American meaning of that word.

There was a bad freeze this winter, but a normal crop is about ten million boxes. I do not know how long a train or 43,000 cars would make, but that is the number of loads of carrots, corn, tomatoes and all that kind of jazz which the valley sends out in a normal year.

The growing conservative elements in this part of Texas are snarling to keep this spot available for commercial development as an attraction for tourists under private enterprise. In a vague, pathetic way they seem to think they could have a Miami Beach of their very own, but that is just a dream. Texas has so many Baptists and they are so strong in politics that nothing like Miami Beach can ever come to pass.

Miami Beach needed gambling in the mad days of promotion under Steve Hannagan and Carl Fisher and you can't even match pennies in Texas, to say nothing of running horses with mutuels. They did have a fling of racing some years back, but that got put down. The fascinating hell-hole of the Macco brothers in a casino called the Balinese room at Galveston was extinguished with triumphant yelps of "Hallelujah" four years ago by Will Wilson, the State Attorney General.

Mr. Wilson is now running for governor, about fourth in a field of six, and falling back fast. His monument of achievement is the Irons, drowsy, dilapidated, storm-wracked island of Galveston haunted by spooks of the 'stick-men' at the crap tables he put out of business, but God will bless him for the holy zeal.

Bid For A Smile

A youngster went into the parlor to see a visitor who was with his father. Father's Friend — Well, my little man, what are you looking at me for? Boy — Why, daddy, told me that you were a self-made man, and I want to see what you look like. Father's Friend (ugly and fat) — Quite right. I am a self-made man. Boy — But what did you make yourself like that for?

KEEP LOOKING
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Indiana Public Service Commission Chairman Merton Stanley is looking for a secretary with these qualifications:
"The secretary should be 20 to 40 years of age, a female in nature, have the vigor of Darlene Hard, the eyes of Elizabeth Taylor, the figure of Jayne Mansfield, the patience of Job, the personality of Zsa Zsa Gabor, the poise of Queen Elizabeth, the charm of Ladybird Johnson, the style of Jacqueline Kennedy, the good humor of Phyllis Diller and the wisdom of Solomon. It will help if she can type and take shorthand."
