County Judge Declines To Act In City Recall Matter

Violent Death Toll In Texas Soars As Drownings, Traffic Mishaps Reported

By United Press International
Two women and three children were swept into the treacherous waters of the Brazos River near Sealy Sunday. The body of one of the women was recovered, the others were presumed drowned.

The tragedy sent the Texas week end violent death toll soaring. A United Press International count for the period from 6 p. m. Friday through midnight Sunday showed 26 deaths. Twelve were blamed on traffic.

The woman whose body was recovered was Mrs. Robert H. Mahone Jr., 32, wife of the president of the Mahone Grain Co. and the Texas Cyanide Co., of Houston.

Searchers today looked for the bodies of her two children, Pete Mahone, 6, and Patsy Mahone, 4, and Mrs. Alton A. Rogers, 32, wife of a Humble Oil and Refg. Co. geophysicist, and her daughter, Nancy Rogers, 5.

The five were swept into the Brazos while wading along a sand bar at Stephen F. Austin State Park, just east of Sealy, Andy Wells, an assistant football coach at Sealy High School, saved two children but failed in an attempt to rescue the others.

A refinery explosion at Port Arthur added two persons to the death toll. Killed were Firmin Dornac and Elvin S. East Jr. The blast happened at a Texaco plant.

In one of the latest traffic accidents, three-year-old Troy Dean Reeves was killed Sunday night in a two-car crash in north Harris County.

The worst auto smashup took the lives of Marjorie Hughey, 16, and Oscar Morrill, 18, both of El Paso Saturday night. Their automobile overturned.

Troy Dean Reeves, 3, was killed in Houston when the car in which he was riding collided with another automobile.

Clifford William Lang, 35, was killed when his pickup truck was struck by a train at a Houston grade crossing early Sunday.

Donald Walker, 32, died of suffocation Sunday when a fire destroyed part of his apartment.

Group Will Take Its Case To District Court

County Judge Bill Craig ruled today that he has no authority to act in the request brought before him this morning to order an election on Pampa's four city ward commissioners.

The county courtroom in the Gray County Courthouse was packed to capacity at 10 a.m. when Judge Craig began reading his opinion. The hearing lasted only five minutes.

Later this morning, a statement by representatives of the Citizens for Better City Government said the group planned to take its case to District Court.

The statement said: "We find a strange contradiction in the remarks of the present mayor and city commission that there will be no closed meetings, yet they are unwilling to let the people speak in a recall election."

"The reason given by the city commission for not allowing a recall election is that 30 per cent of the total votes cast in the election that brought them to office are necessary for each commissioner, since, once they are elected they serve all of Pampa."

"This same reasoning carried to its logical conclusion would make it necessary for any United States Senator or Representative to be recalled by the entire voting population of the nation. Such an unlikely procedure is the thin legal thread the present commission is employing to hold themselves in office."

"No further plans are announced at this time, pending the findings of the District Judge."

It is understood District Judge Lewis Goodrich will be asked tomorrow by the Citizens for Better City Government, through Atty. Norman, to order a recall election for each of the city commissioners, the same request over which County Judge Craig held he had no authority to act.

Present at this morning's hearing were Atty. Walter T. Norman of Borger, representing the Pampa Citizens for Better City Government, who had filed the request; Atty. Clayton Heare of Amarillo, representing the City Commission; Mayor E. C. Sidwell, and Commissioners Lloyd Simpson, L. P. Fort, Nest Secret and Leon Holmes and City Atty. Bob Gordon.

The City Commission last week ordered an election for April 17 to decide whether Mayor E. C. Sidwell should be removed from office by recall. The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce had circulated petitions asking for the recall of the mayor and all four commissioners.

The City Commission, on the advice of Attorney Heare, ruled last Tuesday that only the mayor's petition contained the necessary minimum of 743 signatures — 30 per cent of the total vote cast by qualified electors in the last city election. There were 768 signatures on the Sidwell petition. Subsequently the commission voted not to order an election on the four commissioners.

Their action was based on At-

Dispute Arises Over School Board Voting

Dr. Ray M. Hampton was elected president of the Pampa Independent School Board for 1962-1963 this morning at the regular meeting of the board in the Pampa Junior High School.

Dr. Hampton succeeds Warren Fatheree, outgoing president, whose three-year term has expired. Dr. Hampton's term expires in April, 1963.

R. D. Wilkerson was elected vice chairman and John Gikas secretary.

Two new members were sworn in by Dr. Hampton at the meeting, replacing Fatheree and Elmer Wilson, whose term of office also expired. New members sworn in were H. Creel Grady Jr. and Floyd Watson. Grady is a local accountant while Watson is a banker. They were elected in voting here Saturday and Wilson was defeated in his bid for re-election.

A heated discussion between John Gikas and the rest of the board members arose when it was revealed that some 407 votes were cast in the Saturday election for just one person on the ballot. Under rules of the election, voters were to vote for two out of three candidates on the ballots.

Gikas argued that since there was only a plurality of 294 votes difference between Watson's total of 1,496 and Grady's total of 1,202 votes, a check of the ballots should be in order. Wilson got 1,103 votes.

Ed Pulliam, head election judge in charge of vote tabulation, who was called into the school board session today, said it would be possible to re-count the votes if deemed necessary, but as far as his office was concerned there was no attempt to fraud the public as far as tabulation of votes was concerned.

Pulliam pointed out that it was

McNamara And Rusk Supporting JFK Aid Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara were ready to do battle on Capitol Hill again today for President Kennedy's $4.9 billion foreign aid program.

Rusk was scheduled to meet behind closed doors with the House Foreign Affairs Committee led by Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa. Meanwhile, McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were slated to discuss the $1.5 billion military aid portion of the program at an open hearing by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Morgan plans to get the foreign aid bill out of the way first before wrestling with the United Nations loan measure passed by the Senate last week.

Morgan, who worries considerably each year about House reaction to big foreign aid expenditures, doubts whether his House group will get to the U.N. bill before mid-May.

Other congressional news: Trade: Charles P. Taft of the Committee for a National Trade Policy said today a congressional review of presidential tariff-cutting authority would weaken the position of U.S. negotiators. Taft, brother of the late Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, strongly endorses the administration's trade bill in testimony prepared for delivery before the House Ways & Means Committee.

One Hurt In Mishap Near Alanreed

A military serviceman was hospitalized today from injuries he received in a truck-car accident on U.S. Highway 66, 13 miles west of Alanreed.

Highway Patrolmen from the McLean unit who investigated the accident said Herbert Miller, a serviceman from Quantico, Va., was driving a 1961 Chevrolet west on Highway 66 when he struck the rear of a pickup truck driven by William Woodburn, Amarillo. The Woodburn truck was knocked from the highway and through a fence on the right side of the highway. He was not injured.

Miller was taken to the Amarillo Air Force Base Hospital where he was believed not seriously injured.

Investigating officers said no citations had been issued and the accident was still under investigation.

Top-Secret Satellite Is Launched

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (UPI) — The Air Force today successfully launched a top-secret satellite, believed to be a Midas or Samos "sky spy."

The satellite was boosted into orbit by a powerful Atlas-Agena-B booster combination.

As has been the procedure on previous similar shots, the Air Force would neither confirm nor deny that the satellite was a "sky spy." A spokesman said the Department of Defense had imposed a policy of no longer using popular names on missile projects.

However, in its terse announcement on the hush-hush firing, the Air Force said the satellite was carrying a number of test components, some of which were classified. It would not indicate orbital path of the satellite, which could provide a clue on whether it was the Midas or Samos.

2 U.S. Soldiers Killed, 2 Captured In Raid By Communist Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A band of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas killed two American soldiers and apparently captured two others in a surprise raid on a village in the north of South Viet Nam Sunday, U. S. officials reported today.

The officials said they could not definitely confirm that the two Americans were captured, and therefore officially listed them as missing.

But there were reports that South Vietnamese forces in the area, about 500 miles north of here, had been dispatched to hunt down the rebels and rescue the Americans. Observers said their chances were slight.

The deaths raised to 17 the number of Americans who have died in South Viet Nam as a result of the Communist campaign to overthrow the U.S.-backed government of President Ngo Dinh Diem. In addition, 93 American soldiers were killed last month when a chartered airliner flying them here from the United States disappeared without a trace in the western Pacific.

The officials said the four Americans were members of the U.S. Special Forces—tough, elite troops especially trained in guerrilla warfare tactics.

They were instructing Vietnamese villagers of An Chau how to defend themselves against the Communist rebels when the guer-

Castro Asks $62 Million For Captives' Release

By United Press International
Fidel Castro in a move apparently aimed at rescuing Cuba's decaying economy, wants $62 million in American dollars for the release of 1,180 captured Cuban invaders.

The Cuban premier will meet Tuesday in Havana with a four-man delegation representing families of the prisoners in hopes of obtaining from $25,000 to $500,000 for individual members of the invasion force.

The government ruled Sunday if Castro's price is not met the men would have to spend 30 years at hard labor for their part in last April's abortive invasion. The announcement was made in Sunday editions of government-controlled newspapers.

The public trial of the prisoners, for whom the death penalty had been asked of the five-man court, ended last Tuesday with no announcement of a verdict.

The "Cuban Families Committee for Liberation of Prisoners of War" cabled Castro Sunday it was prepared to "definitely settle negotiations and liberate all prisoners."

The group said it would be able to offer "products or articles" valued at $28 million and Castro agreed to meet with the four-man delegation.

The committee's cable, signed by Chairman Alvaro Sanchez Jr., said the "firm offer . . . does not refer to tractors." In a speech last May 17 Castro made his "tractors for prisoners" offer, asking that the captives be exchanged for 500 tractors worth about $2 million. He later said he wanted heavy duty tractors which would cost considerably more.

All attempts to make the exchange failed and the Cuban dictator subsequently increased his demands until a $28 million price tag was placed on the prisoners, Sunday Castro more than doubled this.

In Washington, the administration had no official comment on Castro's latest manipulation with human beings. It appeared the United States, which the court-martial board at the prisoners' trial charged with financing and backing the invasion, would take no official part in the negotiations.

Some sources observed that Castro might be trying to establish some diplomatic contact with the United States because no death sentences were handed down at last week's trial.

U.S. Suggests Russians Outlaw Top Reds' Books

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States suggested today that if the Russians are concerned about war or propaganda they should outlaw books by Marx, Lenin and Stalin.

American disarmament negotiator Arthur H. Dean, his temper for once stretched tight, made the suggestion in replying to Soviet allegations that the United States "suppresses advocates of peace."

Dean also called on Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin and other Communist delegates to refrain from allegations that West Germany's leaders are inciting a war.

The angry exchanges in the 17-nation disarmament conference came at the beginning of the last week of President Kennedy's deadline for canceling American plans to test nuclear weapons late this month.

The Soviet Union still has done nothing to end American or Russian testing of nuclear weapons. American officials went into this last week before Kennedy's deadline convinced Moscow will do nothing in the short time left.

Dean reminded the Communists the issue before them today was a Soviet proposal to cease war propaganda and propaganda disturbing relations between nations.

He said if the Soviet Union was truly concerned, he hoped the Moscow government would outlaw books on the theme of the inevitability of war, including those by Marx, Lenin and Stalin.

He said the U. S. government does prosecute those persons who advocated the forcible overthrow of the government, and that some of these people attempt to cover up their activities by pleading they are only for peace.

Sophia Loren, Natalie Wood Among Top Contenders For 'Oscars' Tonight

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Sophia Loren and Natalie Wood were among the leading contenders today for best actress of the year laurels at tonight's Academy Awards presentations.

The 34th annual Academy Awards shindig will see 28 golden statuettes distributed to performers, writers, technicians, directors and musicians for outstanding contributions during 1961.

Favored to come away with most of the awards is the musical "West Side Story" with close competition from "Judgment at Nuremberg." Also in contention are "The Hustler," "The Guns of Navarone" and "Fanny."

Both pictures won 11 nominations last month.

Unlike last year, when Elizabeth Taylor was the sentimental favorite to win the best actress award, competition this year is very close in almost all categories.

Vying for best actress are Audrey Hepburn (Breakfast at Tiffany's), Piper Laurie (The Hustler), Sophia Loren (Two Women), Geraldine Page (Summer and Smoke) and Natalie Wood (Splendor in the Grass).

Best actor nominees are Charles Boyer (Fanny), Paul Newman (The Hustler), Maximilian Schell (Judgment at Nuremberg), Spencer Tracy (Judgment at Nuremberg) and Stuart Whitman (The Mark).

Judy Garland, competing with Fay Bainter, Lotte Lenya, Una Merkel and Rita Moreno in the best supporting actress race, appears to have won more sentimental votes than any other performer. She played a small role in "Judgment at Nuremberg."

For the second consecutive year the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Awards will be held at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. Lack of theater space in Hollywood forced academy board members to move to the Santa Monica Auditorium which has a capacity of 2,500.

Wheel Journal Causes Train Stop Here Sunday

An Oklahoma-bound freight train made an unscheduled stop in Pampa at 8:45 a.m. Sunday when a journal on a box car wheel broke off.

Santa Fe Railroad officials said the freight was headed east from Amarillo with its next scheduled stop at Waynoka, Okla., when the accident occurred.

The train was stopped about one-half mile east of the Pampa depot. There were no cars derailed in the accident, railway officials said.

A crew of car men from Amarillo were summoned to the scene where they worked for four hours to replace a set of wheels on the car. The rest of the train was delayed only a few minutes while the box car was unhooked from the string of cars.

Officials of the railroad department said the accident was caused from the wheels "running hot".

Massive Support For De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI) — A massive vote of confidence from the French people cleared the way for President Charles de Gaulle today to push through independence for Algeria and other plans to restore France to "grandeur."

Fortified by the backing of more than 90 per cent of the voters in Sunday's referendum, De Gaulle scheduled a series of consultations with his top aides to speed his next steps.

The President was returning to Paris from his country home at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises, where he cast his vote, to meet with Premier Michel Debre. He called a cabinet meeting for Wednesday.

His first immediate task was to decide whether to order parliamentary elections as a follow-up to his referendum victory.

In the voting Sunday, 90.7 per cent of the valid ballots approved De Gaulle's request for acceptance of the peace agreement ending the 7½-year Algerian war. De Gaulle regarded the results as a vote of confidence in his overall policies aimed at restoring France as a world power.

The election outcome represented a crushing condemnation by the French in France proper of the Secret Army Organization (OAS) which has plunged Algeria into a reign of terror in a last-ditch effort to keep the territory from Moslem rule.

The election meant that the vast majority of Frenchmen, as opposed to the million diehard Europeans in Algeria, were content to write off the long Algerian war and to give De Gaulle a free hand to complete the decolonizing process in the territory.

In addition to completing Algerian independence, De Gaulle was expected to push ahead with other programs that have been held in abeyance pending an Algerian settlement.

Among these are plans for economic "renovation" of France, the creation of a Western European political union and the raising of an independent French nuclear striking force.

Official figures showed that 20,402,503 votes were cast Sunday, of which 19,300,026 were valid. The "yes" votes totaled 17,505,473; "no" votes 1,794,553; invalid, 1,102,477.

Lenten Message

By The Rev. William A. Keese
Minister, Grace Methodist Church
Baltimore

Written for UPI
Lent is observed throughout Christendom in two different ways. With some it is traditionally a period of penitence and self-denial. The Scriptural pattern is the forty days our Lord spent in the wilderness, fasting and being tempted, or the forty hours he spent in the tomb. The danger, if there is a danger, is that our devotions may become seasonal or that our Lenten denials may be vitiated by after-Easter dissipation, or, worse still, that our religion may become negative, morbid and cheerless.

With others, Lent is the time of intensified religious activity. The Scriptural pattern is those weeks of resolute action at the end of Christ's ministry rather than the weeks of solitude at the beginning. For those who choose this way of observance, Lent is a time of consecration, of recruiting and of witnessing before others for Christ.

It is, perhaps, more positive than negative. It calls us not to look inward to our own sins, but outward and upward to the perfection that is in Christ. It directs our attention not to what we must give up but to what we may come to possess.

It is not a condemnation of what we are, but a challenge for what we may become. It holds before us the example of One who, knowing that the days were well-nigh come that He should be received up, steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem; but it brings to us His compelling exhortation, "Follow me!"

This is my Lent; to set a goal at some far-off horizon for the soul; Then, day by day, with steadfast will, Unflinching tread the path, until O'er life's dark vale, Where one must grope a mid-night trail I see the Easter sun arise.

And find myself with glad surprise
Arrived at my far goal!
To climb, however steep the ascent,
To pay, however great the toll,
To reach at last the heart's desire,
This be my Lent, O Soul!

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The death of a boxer Benny (Kid) Paret and the critical brain injury suffered by another fighter during the weekend are haunting television.

In the past week, ABC-TV's "Target: The Corruptors" called off an episode in which a boxer is killed in the ring, and CBS-TV's "G.E. Theatre" withdrew a fight story scheduled for Sunday night.

In addition, Red Skelton canceled a sketch in which he was to have portrayed his famous punchdrunk boxer character.

These moves look like just the beginning. The brain injury suffered Friday night by heavyweight Tunney Hunsaker in a West Virginia bout is bound to renew the public uproar, even though it did not have the national television exposure of Paret's beating.

The ultra-sensitivity of television toward boxing since the Emile Griffith-Paret bout, which resulted in the death of "The Kid" last Tuesday, is exemplified by Sunday night's withdrawal of the original "G.E. Theatre" program reported to be a relatively harmless fight tale.

The episode, "The Roman Kid," was taken from a story by Paul Gallico and starred Gene Barry as a sports writer whose knowledge of boxing determines the authenticity of an archaeological discovery. There is a boxing sequence, but no one is hurt.

The story primarily concerned the writer, who, while covering a fight in Rome, meets a girl whose father's reputation is challenged after he unearths what he claims is an ancient statue, "The Seated Gladiator."

Sensitivity on the boxing-on-television issue is almost certain to extend to other directions. For example: Red Serling's "Requiem for a Heavyweight," a brilliant video show that has been made into a movie with Jackie Gleason, Anthony Quinn and Mickey Rooney, seems sure to feel the heat.

Serling says the film is scheduled for October release in this country; the question is what the public's attitude will be at that time, whether it might cause a delay of the movie's release.

You can also expect to see less of the television reruns of the many movies about boxing, at least until things cool down.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co. says that probably one of the closest parallels to the current market technical action is what was taking place in the market just prior to one of the sharpest and most sustained market rises in history.

This period also included such things as bond strength, cancer scares, great uncertainties regarding the steels and investigations of the drug industry.

According to Spear & Staff's science and electronics investment letter, it is important for investors to realize the specific position of science stocks in relation to their overall long-term growth cycle.

In this regard, the evidence suggests the group is in the trough of the cycle and the next broad movement should be upward.

Bache & Co. says there still remains a possibility that buying support will materialize once again at the current level, but for the moment "we can only adopt a wait-and-see attitude."

L. O. Hooper, writing for W. E. Hutton & Co., says that many of the issues which are way down in price still look dear on the basis of this year's earnings expectations and most of the stocks which seem desirable are up in price to levels where much has been discounted. He says that more attention apparently is being paid to price-earnings ratios.

Doubleheader In Space Program Seen This Week

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—America will shoot this week for a space age doubleheader—and Russian diplomats may be in the official gallery for the first time ever.

Members of the U. N.'s committee on the peaceful use of outer space are expected here Tuesday for the planned launching of the world's first international satellite—the British-built "UK1" to be launched by an American Thor-Delta rocket.

Later this week, probably Wednesday or Thursday, U. S. scientists will make another attempt to fire America's new high-energy space rocket, the giant Atlas-Centaur, on its maiden flight across the Atlantic. The shot was postponed twice last week because of bad weather.

Florida is normally "off limits" for Russians, but Soviet and other Communist bloc diplomats have received special permission to see the shot Tuesday, if it goes on schedule.

Russian newsmen were invited to see astronaut John Glenn's historic leap into space Feb. 20, but none attended.

The U. N. committee, with delegates from 28 nations and including at least two Russians, will tour launching areas for the nation's multi-billion-dollar peaceful exploration of space.

A 26-year-old Oklahoma man escaped serious injury yesterday when he lost control of the automobile he was driving and it smashed into a cement support at the underpass in the 200 block of S. Cuyler.

The driver, Roy Thomason of Weatherford, Okla., told police he was driving south on S. Cuyler about 1:22 a.m. Sunday and when he applied his brakes as approaching the underpass he lost control of the vehicle.

Investigating officers said Thomason was taken to Highland General Hospital by ambulance where he received emergency treatment and was released.

Officers said the late model car was completely demolished in the crash. No citations were issued, police said.

She told police the car was unlocked. Value of the coat was estimated at $85.

The Rev. William West, pastor of the St. Matthews Episcopal Church, 727 W. Browning, reported to police yesterday that someone broke a stained glass window on the north side of the church, sometime Saturday night.

Fire Extinguisher Find Is Turned In

Carroll Wood, 721 E. 15th St., reported to police Saturday afternoon that he had found a new fire extinguisher under a small bridge at 13th and Evergreen Streets.

Burglary Try At Lefors Sunday

LEFORS (Sp) — An attempted burglary of John Carpenter's Cafe took place here in the early hours of Sunday morning.

The Carpenters' residence is in the rear of the cafe and when the burglar, or burglars, broke out a window to gain entrance, it awakened Mrs. Carpenter. She called to her husband, apparently frightening the intruders away.

Carpenter saw their car pull away from the cafe and drive down an alley across the street when he reached the front of the building, according to Constable W. R. Combs.

Carpenter reported nothing missing. An investigation is under way.

Recall

Craig, stating it was his opinion that the petitions on the commissions were valid and sufficient and that the City Charter made it incumbent on the County Judge to order the election if the City Commission failed to do so.

Judge Craig's opinion today on this request was as follows: "This hearing is for the purpose of determining if the County Judge of Gray County has any authority to act under a provision of the Charter of the City of Pampa purporting to authorize the County Judge of Gray County to act:

"In case the Governing Authority of the City shall fail or refuse to receive the recall petition, order such recall election, or discharge any other duties with reference to such recall, then the County Judge of Gray County, Texas, shall discharge any such duties herein provided to be discharged by the governing authority of said city."

"The County Judge of Gray County only has such authority as is conferred upon him by either the Constitution or Statutes enacted by the Legislature.

"I am unable to find any statutory or constitutional authority authorizing the County Judge to perform the duty which the City Charter attempts to set out. I have not been able to find any case authority for such action. It has been held in many cases that provisions of the City Charter in Home Rule Cities must conform with the Constitution and general laws of the State. Therefore I find that I, as County Judge, have no authority to act in this matter."

At the conclusion of his opinion, Judge Craig asked the attorneys if they had any statement on the ruling.

Attorney Norman said he recognized the court's authority to give the finding he had just made and said he had no further statement to make at this time.

Attorney Hearse said he concurred with the judge's opinion that he had no authority to act in the case and added that in his search of the Texas law he had not found any place where the county judge could take official action in a matter of the kind that had been presented to him.

Meanwhile plans were going ahead for the election on the mayor-Tuesday-of-next-week.

City Secretary Ed Vicars said today that so far four absentee ballots had been cast at his office in City Hall. Absentee ballots can be voted through Friday of this week.

The only question to be decided at the election April 17 will be whether or not the mayor shall be removed from office or retained to serve out the remainder of his term which does not expire until April of 1963.

There will be no other candidates for office on the ballot.

three shots at the men but missed, West Berlin police reported.

The truck, loaded with cement, broke through at a point where the wall is about two feet thick. On the Western side is an open field.

The Communists sent an armored car and police reinforcements to guard the 10-foot-wide hole in the wall while it was being repaired.

A widespread investigation was on in industrial plants to find out where Braun got his aluminum and other materials which are in very short supply.

Mrs. Capps Honored At Yellow Rose Tea

HONORED — Mrs. Ruby Capps, named by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority as "Woman of the Year" for 1962, receives the Certificate of Achievement from a former student of hers, Earl Cooper, associate minister of the First Methodist Church at the Yellow Rose Tea given yesterday afternoon in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Mrs. Ruby Capps, Pampa Junior High School counselor, was honored by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority as its selection for the Woman of the Year for 1962 at a Yellow Rose Tea held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

The traditional honor, bestowed annually by Beta Sigma Phi, was accorded Mrs. Capps because of her outstanding contribution to the youth of the community through school and church work.

Approximately 250 friends, neighbors, co-workers and relatives of Mrs. Capps attended the tea.

Refreshments were served from a table appointed with a floor-length Powder Blue cloth centered with an array of white stock and blue Shasta Daisies, interspersed with greenery, flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers. Blue napkins inscribed with "Woman of the Year," crystal service completed the table appointments.

Miss Cynthia Duncan, former student of Mrs. Capps, provided background music at the piano during the tea.

Mrs. Dot Francis, BSP Council president, extended a welcome to the guests and introduced the speakers.

Mrs. Lonnie Richardson, Pampa Junior High music instructor and co-worker of Mrs. Capps, sang two of the honoree's favorite selections, "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "I Love Life," accompanied by Mrs. John Gill at the piano.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, church-home of the honoree, gave the invocation and benediction.

Earl Cooper, associate minister of the First Methodist Church and former student of Mrs. Capps, presented Certificate of Achievement, during which he stated that "humility and human qualities" were the outstanding character traits of the Woman of the Year. "She is a woman who likes children and whom children like."

Mr. Cooper also presented Mrs. Capps with a telegram from Knox Kinard, former superintendent of schools. Mrs. Capps was one of the first teachers Mr. Kinard hired in his position as superintendent of schools in 1946.

Mrs. Frank W. Shotwell, Woman of the Year in 1961, made the presentation of a bouquet of yellow roses from the sorority and, also, the presentation of a silver medallion, inscribed with the "Woman of the Year 1962," which is traditionally presented by the former Women of the Year.

In accepting the honor, Mrs. Capps credited her friends and co-workers with help that made it possible. "If I have made any measure of success," she said, "it is because I have been doing the things I love to do."

Friends were received in the foyer of the Starlight Room by the honoree; her two children, Karen and Tom Charles Capps; her mother, Mrs. C. C. Holden of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Shotwell; and the presidents of the four Beta Sigma Phi Chapters, Mrs. Ernest Fletcher, Mrs. Ray Jordan, Mrs. Ralph Esson, Mrs. Pat Watson, and Mrs. Francis.

Among the out-of-town relatives of the honoree attending were, in addition to her mother, Mrs. E. H. Gill and Mrs. Ruby Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Capps, Janice, Jimmy and Jean; Mrs. Edith Capps, all of Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clem of Granite, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Mel McMonies of Eseteta, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Knowles, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brewer, all of Berger; Mrs. Dean Ward and Mrs. Doug Riley of Fort Stockton.

DEAR ABBY: I've never written to you with a problem, but I wouldn't think of missing your column a single day. In fact, I enjoy reading DEAR ABBY so much that I've given it up for Lent.

Yours sincerely
Mrs. F. O'N.

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old daughter recently married a 20-year-old boy whom we love as our own son. He has been sent overseas and our daughter has moved back into our home.

She drives our car, keeps late hours and runs with a beatnik crowd. If we don't watch her, she'd eat popcorn and candy bars for supper and sit up all night watching TV. She claims she is a "married woman" and can do as she pleases. Is that right?

UPSET PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: While she is in your home married or single, she is your responsibility. Since your daughter obviously is not grown up enough to know what is good for her, it's up to you to tell her and to see that she does it.

DEAR ABBY: I am about to lose my mind because of a problem that would sound stupid to everyone I know, so I am hoping you can help me. HOW can you wash a three-year-old girl's hair when she fights, claws, and screams blue murder? I have to chase her around the house to catch her and then it is a real battle all the way. I have tried putting ear plugs in her ears and a towel over her eyes, and even washing her hair in the shower, but nothing works. I have bribed, begged and spanked. Please help me.

END OF MY ROPE
DEAR END: She has probably had her eyes burned by soap and has never forgotten it. Get a shampoo board and let her lean back so that no water or soap can run down her face. Or buy one of those rubber "brims" (infants department) to keep her face dry. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Would it be proper for a mother to go down the aisle with her only daughter and give her away in marriage? She has no brothers or uncles to give her away, and her father hasn't done a blooming thing for her since she was born. To be honest with you he took off years ago. I don't know where he is and I am not about to hunt him up. Thank you.

WIDOW OF A LIVING LOUSE
DEAR WIDOW: Talk to your clergyman about the "giving away" part of the ceremony in your church. Not all ceremonies include it. And in some, it is perfectly permissible for a mother to go down the aisle with her daughter. Or the bride may go down alone.

Dear Abby... Sacrificial Praise From Grateful Fan

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've never written to you with a problem, but I wouldn't think of missing your column a single day. In fact, I enjoy reading DEAR ABBY so much that I've given it up for Lent.

Yours sincerely
Mrs. F. O'N.

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old daughter recently married a 20-year-old boy whom we love as our own son. He has been sent overseas and our daughter has moved back into our home.

She drives our car, keeps late hours and runs with a beatnik crowd. If we don't watch her, she'd eat popcorn and candy bars for supper and sit up all night watching TV. She claims she is a "married woman" and can do as she pleases. Is that right?

UPSET PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: While she is in your home married or single, she is your responsibility. Since your daughter obviously is not grown up enough to know what is good for her, it's up to you to tell her and to see that she does it.

DEAR ABBY: I am about to lose my mind because of a problem that would sound stupid to everyone I know, so I am hoping you can help me. HOW can you wash a three-year-old girl's hair when she fights, claws, and screams blue murder? I have to chase her around the house to catch her and then it is a real battle all the way. I have tried putting ear plugs in her ears and a towel over her eyes, and even washing her hair in the shower, but nothing works. I have bribed, begged and spanked. Please help me.

END OF MY ROPE
DEAR END: She has probably had her eyes burned by soap and has never forgotten it. Get a shampoo board and let her lean back so that no water or soap can run down her face. Or buy one of those rubber "brims" (infants department) to keep her face dry. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Would it be proper for a mother to go down the aisle with her only daughter and give her away in marriage? She has no brothers or uncles to give her away, and her father hasn't done a blooming thing for her since she was born. To be honest with you he took off years ago. I don't know where he is and I am not about to hunt him up. Thank you.

WIDOW OF A LIVING LOUSE
DEAR WIDOW: Talk to your clergyman about the "giving away" part of the ceremony in your church. Not all ceremonies include it. And in some, it is perfectly permissible for a mother to go down the aisle with her daughter. Or the bride may go down alone.

★ Polly's Quiz ★ By Polly Cramer

"Something old and something new" is not a saying to be reserved just for a bride's good luck. Brides, of course, and homemakers of all ages will find it a good maxim to follow when planning the furnishings for a home, be it old or new.

Antique accessories add a charming link with the past when used with contemporary furnishings. Modern paintings and sculpture, modern designs in fabrics and wallpaper can be used to achieve a sophisticated atmosphere in the room with older furnishings.

Never be afraid to combine the old and the new. Each can enhance the beauty of the other.

Dear Polly: I am being married this summer and would like to take advantage of the furniture sales. My basic plan is for Early American in cherry. The main problem is what color to select for sofa, a pair of wing chairs and a man's chair when I have no idea where I will live or what color the walls will be.—N. D.

Dear N. D.: Basically, your idea makes sense. Great savings can be made by careful shopping at sales. But since you don't know what your colors will be it's difficult to select upholstered pieces. If you're willing to repaint your future home, you could proceed with planning a scheme and buy things accordingly. Otherwise, buy only wood pieces or upholstered things in muslin or the lowest grade covers so that they can be slipcovered. Consider carefully if such a plan will cost you as much in the end as to buy what you need when you need it.

Dear Polly: Please advise on a curtain for a church with beige walls and light oak furniture. We want it as a background for a head of Christ. Would it be all right to hang it the full length of the church pulpit (12 feet) or just behind the picture? Would dark red be the color and where can it be bought?—N. L. S.

Dear N. L. S.: My choice for the dossal cloth in your church would be a dull finish beige fabric, perhaps a self-toned brocade. Another color would detract from the picture. Without knowing the design of the pulpit wall, it is impossible to say what size. But I would imagine it should be floor length and certainly wide enough to provide a real setting for the picture since it is apparently the focal point in the church. It should not be backed by a fabric that competes for attention. This curtain should be custom-made by a professional drapery workroom.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

Recent Meeting Of Womens' Council

The Womens Council of Hiland Christian Church met recently. The business meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Ray Mason. It was decided to continue to bring coffee mugs. Names were taken to provide new Easter clothing for the children at the Christian Indian School in Sedona, Arizona.

Following the business meeting the program was turned over to Mrs. Edwin East. Mrs. Floyd Pycatt presented the devotional, "A New Commandment," and prayer was offered by Mrs. Pycatt.

Mrs. Carl Summers gave a report on the Dean Wegwart family in England, and Mrs. Harold Starbuck reported on the Guy Mayfield family in Italy.

Slides were shown on the Mayfield family of their tour of duty with the armed forces and of their Mission work in Italy.

Members present were, Mmes. Carl Summers, Leo Wheeler, R. C. Taylor, Scott, Floyd Pycatt, Harold Starbuck, Edwn East, Ray Mason, Dorothy Daves and one guest, Mrs. Laura Bell Cornelius.

Death rate from accidents in the United States is about 85 per 100,000 or seven times the toll taken by pneumonia and tuberculosis.

Take It From Kathy

by kathy peterson

Dear Kathy: I have horrible pimples. I'm conscious of them all the time. I have tried everything to get rid of them but nothing seems to work. What can I do?—Jeannie S.

Dear Jeannie: You may have tried one or two things when convenient, but I'll bet you haven't declared all-out warfare. Gather your forces. Summon all your will power.

1. Your skin is a pretty waterproof umbrella. It's reasonable to assume that creams won't affect it as much as the thing you put into your tummy. If you hope to eliminate pimples with a magic concoction while gorging with candy, ice cream, etc. you are dreaming. Cut down or stop eating completely fried foods, chocolate, sweets, soft drinks, spicy foods.

2. Teens who have solved the pimple problem will tell you that the closest thing to a magic helper is soap and water treatment. Scrub, scrub, scrub. Careful rinsing is important.

3. Girls often use bangs as a disguise for a blemished forehead. This compounds the problem. If you feel it's absolutely necessary to wear your hair on the face, push it back the instant you reach home. Keep it there with a band or hair clips while you sleep. Frequent shampoos are necessary. They shouldn't harm your hair if you are careful about rinsing well. Changing pillowcases often can be helpful.

4. Don't use night creams meant to lubricate the skin. Most teens with pimples already have an excess oil problem. Stick with the medicated creams that fight blemishes.

5. FINGERS OFF! When a cut

Does BLADDER IRRITATION MAKE YOU NERVOUS?

After 25, common kidney or bladder irritations often occur and may make you tense and nervous from the frequent burning or itching irritation both day and night. Secondly, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, OXYTEK usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating acids in urine, acid urines and by giving analgesic pain relief. Get OXYTEK at drugists. ## If you plan your HOME LOAN as carefully as you plan your HOME...

you'll begin to consider the things your home loan should be —

It should be personal... designed to fit your own unique circumstances, both now and in the years to come.

It should be local... handled by neighbors in your own community — not strangers in another city.

It should be expert... designed by professional men who can give you the benefit of their knowledge of local property values.

It should be quick... given immediate attention and completed without annoying doubt, delay and inconvenience.

If you insist upon a home loan that meets these important requirements, you'll discover there's one special place to go...

Cards, Cubs Not Given Any Chance For Title

By United Press International
The St. Louis Cardinals won the Grapefruit League championship and the Chicago Cubs took the Cactus League title, but 5 will get you 10 neither wins the National League pennant.

The Cardinals were the best in Florida this spring with an 18-8 record while the Cubs rode herd in the cactus country with an 18-9 record. The UPI Board of Experts picked the Cards to finish fourth and the Cubs to wind up seventh.

The Cards rallied in the seventh inning in their windup game Sunday to gain a 3-3 standoff with the Philadelphia Phillies at Atlanta, Ga. The game had to be called after 10 innings in order to permit the teams to make plane connections.

The Cubs, meanwhile, unloaded four home runs to account for all of their runs in an 8-7 win over the Boston Red Sox at Wichita. Jim McKnight, Ken Hubbs, George Altman and Elder White hit the Chicago homers. The Red Sox finished with a 10-18 mark.

The defending NL champion Reds scored three runs in the ninth inning to beat the Chicago White Sox, 8-6, despite three homers by Chicago's Bob Sadowski. The Reds finished with an 11-18 slate while the White Sox were 17-11.

The Houston Colt 45s, who finished second to the Cubs in Cactus League play, scored five runs in the bottom of the eighth to defeat the Los Angeles Angels, 8-4, at San Antonio. The Colts had a surprising 17-11 record this spring. The Angels were 14-13.

Earl Battey hit two singles, two doubles and a three-run homer and Vic Power, making his debut with Minnesota, chipped in with a long homer and single to lead the Twins (12-13 this spring) to an 8-4 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics (16-11) at Jacksonville, Fla.

A three-run homer by Joe Adcock in the sixth inning powered the Milwaukee Braves (10-17) to a 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers at San Diego. The Dodgers were 17-12 this season.

The San Francisco Giants (13-13) and the Cleveland Indians (9-20) concluded their pre-season barnstorming tour with a 4-4 tie in a game called after six innings because of rain at Salt Lake City.

The Yankees (17-10) vs. the Detroit Tigers (8-17) at Richmond, Va., the New York Mets (12-15) vs. the Baltimore Orioles (13-11) at Portsmouth, Va., and the Washington Senators (12-10) vs. the Pittsburgh Pirates (9-11) at Washington were rained out.

Three Tied In Masters; Playoff Set For Today

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—It was Arnold Palmer, who pulled his game together just when it looked like he was going to blow it for the second year in a row; defending champion Gary Player and conservative Dow Finsterwald in an 18-hole playoff today for the Masters championship and one of golf's richest purses.

They tied for the title Sunday with total of 280, eight strokes under par, and the same score with which Player beat out Palmer for the championship last year by one stroke.

It was Palmer, as usual, who came up with most of the drama as 35,000 fans watched in brilliant sunshine and Finsterwald sat in a cottage bordering the Masters course wondering how he was going to make out.

Shooting a one over par 37-36-73, Finsterwald, playing with U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, who finished fourth, had come in with his final score at Palmer and Player tied off for the 16th hole. At the time Player was tied with Finsterwald, and Palmer, who had blown a two stroke lead starting off the final round, was two shots back.

Palmer, who needed only a par on the final hole to win last year but soared to a double bogey to lose out to the little South African, had played his poorest round, with three bogeys, one double bogey and 12 pars going to the 16th.

He changed from a four iron to a five iron for his tee shot on the par three, 190-yard hole and hit it too well, going over the green, and it looked like he was doomed to failure in his bid, for a third Masters championship.

But he wedged the ball into the cup from that 45 feet for a birdie.

Now he knew he needed another birdie to get back into the running and he got it on the next hole, the par four 400-yard 17th. He put his eight iron second six feet from the cup and sank the putt.

That put him into a tie with Finsterwald and Player and then came the par four, 420-yard 18th where he blew it last year. This time he boomed his tee shot 300 yards slightly to the left. Player followed with a drive of 285 yards down the middle. Player's six iron second went 70 feet beyond the pin; Palmer, who switched from an eight to a seven iron, went 30 feet past.

Player putted to within three feet, Palmer to about two and a half feet. Player sank his putt first to tie Finsterwald, and then Palmer calmly stepped up and knocked his putt in to create the first three-way playoff in the 26 years of the Masters and only the fourth playoff in all that time. The last playoff was in 1954 when Sam Snead beat Ben Hogan by a stroke, 70 to 71.

Palmer, shaking his head sadly, admitted he was lucky to get into a playoff.

"I played so bad I couldn't have made the Podunk Open," he said. "I just never got going. I wasted too many shots.

Many in the huge gallery thought the turning point for Palmer came on the second hole, after he missed a two foot putt for a birdie. After that he knew nothing but trouble until he made that spectacular chip-in shot on the 16th.

Player, four strokes behind

Kennedy To Throw Out First Baseball Today

By United Press International
President Kennedy, a touch football player of some repute, unlimbers his strong right arm for baseball today to help open a "new frontier" in the major leagues.

The President, who showed a live fastball last year in his first experience in a ceremony dating back to William Howard Taft, will throw out the first ball at the game between the Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers in the nation's capital.

Rain threatened to dampen, or possibly even to postpone the presidential opener. The forecast was for cloudy skies and a 50-50 chance of showers.

There also was an opening-day game scheduled at Cincinnati, where the Reds, 1961 National League champions, were pitted against the Philadelphia Phillies. Because Cincinnati was a charter franchise in 1876, the Red traditionally open at home each year, instead of on alternating years. Only Cincinnati and Washington rate this privilege.

On Tuesday, major league baseball formally extends its boundaries to Texas for the first time. The Houston Colts, one of the two new National League franchises in the new 10-club alignment, make their debut against the Chicago Cubs.

And on Friday, National League baseball returns to the ancient Polo Grounds in New York after an absence of four seasons. There the New York Mets, second of this year's new franchises, meet the Pittsburgh Pirates.

President Kennedy, a host of Washington dignitaries and thousands of plain old baseball fans were expected to pack the spanking new $20 million District of Columbia Stadium to its 45,000 capacity. This would be the largest crowd ever to see a baseball game in Washington.

Right-hander Bennie Daniels will take pitch for the Senators, opposed on the mound by Detroit's left-handed Don Mossi.

At Cincinnati, the scheduled starting pitchers were Joey Jay for the Reds and Art Mahaffey for the Phils. Both are right-handers.

The Los Angeles Dodgers will dedicate their new Chavez Ravine Stadium Tuesday against the Reds. Other NL openers on that day pit the Milwaukee Braves at the San Francisco Giants; the

Colts Set For Opening Day Diamond Tilt

HOUSTON (UPI)—It will be the old vs. the new Tuesday when major league baseball officially comes to Texas, Houston and the entire southwest.

The Chicago Cubs, oldest team in the National League, will face the Houston Colt 45s, newest team in the circuit, at 12:30 p.m. est. It will be the first major league game involving a team from south of the Mason-Dixon line.

On the mound for the Texans, where everything is the biggest and best, will be a five-foot, seven-inch Pennsylvania Dutchman named Bobby Shantz, who may not be the biggest but is probably the best of the pitching staff lined up for Houston's first excursion into the big leagues.

Pitching for Chicago will be Don Cardwell, a fire-balling right-hander who won 15 games against 14 losses for the seventh-place Cubs last season.

Shantz, obtained from Pittsburgh in the player pool last fall, earned the starting assignment for the 45s with a good spring showing in which he allowed only three runs in 28 innings.

A capacity crowd of 32,000 is expected at Colt Stadium, where the fences begin 360 feet from home plate at the foul line and fall back symmetrically to a distant 420 in dead centerfield.

Manager Harry Craft said his team was "ready to go."

"They demonstrated in spring training that they have the desire to play, and many of them will surprise their former teams," Craft said. "The spirit has been excellent and the results—up to now—have exceeded our expectations.

"I know this: The Colt 45s will be a scrappy team every day." Even tactician Paul Richards, the general manager, was guardedly optimistic.

"We've had a great deal to encourage us," the lantern-jawed Texan said. "We still know there are some things to do and we've got to wait and see just what we have to do."

"But the team has been playing well and doing the things it takes to win. Naturally, if we can keep this up during the regular season, our worries are over."

Steers, Pipers To Settle Title Tonight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Kansas City's Mo. and the Cleveland Pipers will settle the American Basketball League (ABL) professional basketball championship tonight.

It was undecided until late Sunday exactly where the game would be played. Abe Saperstein, ABL commissioner, ordered the game played here no later than tonight.

Both clubs have won two games but a mixup in the final playoff site had the two teams playing here Sunday night, then in Cleveland Tuesday night and then back here.

George Steinbrenner, Cleveland owner, said the action was "typical of the indecision and disorganization" in the ABL.

He said Commissioner Saperstein changed his mind twice between Thursday and Saturday.

Saperstein, in a telegram to Steinbrenner, Sharman, Steer owner Ken Krueger and Kansas City Coach Jack McHahn, said he was "completely surprised" that a controversy developed.

A coin was flipped in the "usual sporting gesture," the commissioner said in Chicago.

Lakers Down Celtics To Even NBA Series

BOSTON (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers have a new professional basketball distinction. They are the only team ever to give the Boston Celtics an opening—and survive.

The Lakers were leading by 24 points at one stage in Boston Garden Sunday during the second game of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association championships with the Celtics.

But the Lakers let down just a little and for a very short time. In a matter of minutes, the three-time champion Celtics had wiped that 24-point deficit from the boards and were on the verge of taking a second decision from the Lakers in 48 hours.

The rest is on the record. The Lakers rallied their stellar forces for a 10-point late game push and won a 129-122 victory over the Celtics. The Los Angeles victory evened the series at one win each since the Celtics had romped

The Pampa Daily News

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Classified History

When historians of 2962 A.D. probe into the strange and primitive society of a thousand years before they, they may have a handy guide—the classified pages of the telephone directory.

So predicts the magazine Telephone Review, noting that the classified book is one of the most widely consulted books in America. A review of changes in the Manhattan directory bears out the contention that it provides a unique view of life in the 20th century.

Of interest to women is the fact that the first directories listed no coin-laundries, dry cleaners, nor, of course, any appliance dealers in the "good" old days.

The word "Aero-plane" made its appearance six years after Kitty Hawk.

Five pages were devoted to things "Electric" by 1910, and 3 1/2 pages to the "Automobile." Stables, carriages and blacksmiths were still plentiful.

"Psychologist" was first seen in 1919.

The emancipation of women is perhaps reflected by "Reducing Treatments" and "Beauty Shops," new in 1923.

"Saloons" were conspicuous by their absence during the Prohibition era.

The atomic bomb gave rise to a host of new listings: "Atomic Sprays," "Atomic Cleaners," etc.

Another important addition after World War II of interest to historians: "The United Nations."

But the changes of the past lifetime are not as sweeping as they seem. The first Manhattan directory in 1878 listed 271 businesses. Today 50 of them are still in operation, four of them at the same address.

Same Law—New Views

The fact that human opinion in regard to morality has changed rather frequently through history does not disprove the existence of moral law. Rather it demonstrates that human opinion changes. As we learn to recognize the existence of moral law with greater certainty we change our views of the nature and meaning of morality. It is our views that change, not morality.

The State Is The Enemy

In any kind of warfare, hot or cold, it is absolutely imperative that the nature of the enemy be understood. A faulty conclusion as to enemy potential or objective will lead to disaster.

In his editorial to a Colorado editor in an exchange of ideas, Tom Kerr has offered his belief that Russian Communists are not the same as other communists (socialists) but constitute an entirely separate breed of people.

He sums up his position by stating that the Russian Communist has as an OBJECTIVE the destruction of civilization, that he is "the archetypal amoral man" that he may be interested in the substitution of socialist economics for the free market system but that he confuses ends with means and makes as his objective "plotting, destruction, killing, torture, terror and rape" not just a means to an end but "they are the game itself."

To sustain his view Mr. Kerr makes reference to at least one book which holds to this position. We have ourselves read a number of books which take this position and we have spent considerable time, energy and money in an effort, over the years, to track down this idea.

Let us, then, examine the substance of the charge.

There are in Russia, according to latest advices, some 3,000,000 members of the Communist Party (the World Almanac, 1962). If Mr. Kerr is correct, these persons are constituted differently than other human beings. They intend to destroy civilization by all manner of unpleasant means.

What is the evidence to support this claim?

There is absolutely none. Were it true, there would be in Russia at the moment the greatest blood purge in the history of the World being conducted by these 3,000,000 people. Since the objective is murder, per se, there would be a daily list of casualties, numbering into the millions; there would be no opposition from the Russian government which, dominated as it is by party members, would applaud this process.

Murder, and the other unpleasant items mentioned by Mr. Kerr are so easy of accomplishment by anyone at any time; that were his evaluation correct, we would have seen by now the total decimation of the Russian population, which despite his gloomy outlook, continues to INCREASE every year.

There are now, nearly 200 million people in the Soviet Union and by next year it is calculated to be in excess of 218 million. Apparently Russians, including Russian Communists, are having babies and raising them to maturity.

Nor would this wholesale destruction Mr. Kerr fears be confined within the borders of the Soviet Union. With a host of amoral archetypes bent on destruction as an end in itself, the borders of the nation would be breached daily in every direction and the piles of dead bodies would mount on every hand.

This is simply an old wives' tale and wholly without substantiation.

But, Mr. Kerr might well ask, how can one account for the mass murder that actually HAS occurred from time to time? How can one account for the documentation of horror that has admittedly occurred?

The facts are these. Men in Russia are of the same species as men outside of Russia. They do not enjoy killing any more than anyone else of this species. Nor do they embark on planned torture and murder to a degree particularly at variance with similar instances under Hitler (an anti-communist) or other dictators such as Hirohito, Napoleon, Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, or other famous mass killers.

Human beings embark on such programs for only two reasons: (1) mass fear; (2) political ambition.

Now we will concede at once that Russian politicians, just as French, Dutch, Japanese, German, Italian, British, American, Cuban or Fiji politicians may from time to time embark on programs which are wholly destructive. There are no people on the earth who have not embarked on some such program at one time or another in their history. This is not reserved to Communists nor to Russians. It is not a matter of geography, race, or nationality as such. These tendencies arise from fear and from ambition relating to the amassment of power, and no people are free from it.

Therefore, we would have to conclude that the idea that Russian Communists are somehow different from other people is purely a myth. It is the politician of any nation who provides the problem. It is the power of the state, not the race or nationality of the people, which is the core of the problem.

A thought for the day: Sir Winston Churchill said: "Dictators ride to and fro upon tigers which they dare not dismount. And the tigers are getting hungry."

Edson In Capitol

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Joao Goulart of Brazil has one of the world's largest selling jobs to do when he arrives in Washington April 3 for an official visit of state.

He is coming here to build up his prestige. He wants greater stature at home and more respectability abroad. He wants to prove that he is not leftist. He is something of a figurehead president. He does not exercise the leadership which his country needs. But he is president until 1966 and both Brazil and the United States have to face that fact of living together.

When, as vice president, Goulart succeeded President Janio Quadros on the latter's resignation last August, Brazilian military leaders forced a change in the constitution. It established a parliamentary form of government with the power given to a premier, Transcredo Neves. But for the last six months Brazil has been drifting from bad to worse.

Brazil is not exactly bankrupt, except maybe in a fiscal accounting way, for a country bigger than the United States and with vast resources can never go broke. But two-thirds of Brazil's people — not just one-third—are ill-fed, ill-clothed, ill-housed and also illiterate, meaning they have no vote.

Inflation is rampant. The Brazilian cruzeiro which was 200 to the dollar a year ago is now over 300 and headed for 400. Nothing is being done to stabilize the economy except talk. There are no credit controls, no attempt to hold down the cost of living to even a reasonable 10 to 15 per cent increase a year.

In spite of this, the Brazilian economy is growing at the rate of about 7 per cent a year—twice the U.S. rate. Many in Brazil say inflation stimulates this growth. They like it.

The Brazilian congress which recently reconvened has before it measures for land reform, tax reform and stabilization. Few people expect anything to be done about these things, however, for this is an election year for all members of the Chamber of Deputies and two-thirds of the senators. They are soon expected to start drifting away to campaign.

This year's election is of special interest because ex-President Quadros is now reported to be a candidate for governor of Sao Paulo, the largest state, and also for the Chamber of Deputies.

If he wins both elections he would be in a position to resign the governorship — turning it over to a hand-picked candidate for lieutenant governor — go to congress, win its leadership and become premier. That would give him constitutional power and it might give Brazil a leader it needs.

Meanwhile, Brazil's future in the Alliance for Progress is the biggest enigma in the western hemisphere. By sheer size, Brazil might be expected to receive from a third to a half of the 120 billion in alliance aid estimated for the 1960s. If the alliance does not succeed in Brazil, the whole thing fails.

But today Brazil has no central planning authority — even though President Quadros decreed on June 15 before he quit the presidency. There is no master plan which would qualify Brazil for alliance aid.

All Washington has received from Brazil is a two-page list of separate projects from states, cities and even private organizations, asking for aid totaling $600 million.

In spite of this, the D.S. has in the past year advanced Brazil over $350 million, over half of it to refinance past purchases. A $58 million Food for Peace sale has just been negotiated, payable in cruzeiros.

For the coming year the big project is to make a start on aid for the poverty-stricken northeastern provinces. They do have a plan for local land reform and resettlement. But before it can be made effective there must be a vast training program for 25 million Indians and Negroes.

There is a hope that the problem created by President Goulart's brother-in-law, Gov. Leonel Brizola of Rio Grande do Sul province, who seized an International Telephone and Telegraph Co. subsidiary, can be settled before the official visit begins. But the bad taste left with congress and with the U.S. financial community by this action won't be blunted by Goulart's welcome.

Gromyko Caught in Chaff Lie; Lord Home Cautions NATO on Trusting Reds

WASHINGTON — Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko is bluntly portrayed as a bald-faced liar in an extraordinary document by British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

This startlingly undiplomatic castigation is contained in a report Home has sent to foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization summing up the six private meetings he and Secretary Rusk had with Gromyko during their 17 days of deliberation at the Geneva disarmament conference.

In a vividly described confrontation, Lord Home relates in detail how he exposed Gromyko as a brazen liar. As a result of this stark experience, the British Foreign Secretary solemnly warns his NATO colleagues:

"The unreliability of Gromyko reinforces the necessity for the West to insist on verification of any nuclear test agreement or reduction in arms."

Gromyko's discomfiture occurred during a heated exchange over Russia's harassment tactics in the Berlin air corridors. The Soviet Foreign Minister blandly denied that metallic chaff had been used to disrupt Allied traffic control.

"He looked me straight in the eye," says Home in his report, "and denied that his government was responsible for the dropping of the metallic chaff. His performance was most amazing. It was difficult to believe he was serious, but there could be no question about it."

"Gromyko insisted, 'This did not happen. We know nothing about it,'" continues Home.

"I can produce many, many witnesses to prove conclusively that it did happen, and that it was your planes that dropped this metallic chaff," Home says he replied to Gromyko. "I am utterly unable to understand why you persist in denying it."

"It is not so," retorted Gromyko angrily.

At this point, Home reached into a briefcase and pulled out a box of metallic chaff that had been dropped while British planes were in the Berlin corridors. From another package he produced exactly similar material that had been used in a shipment of goods from Russia to Britain.

"All this chaff is exactly the same," Home icily told Gromyko, "and all of it came from your country."

Then as Gromyko listened intently, Lord Home read an official report listing the type of Soviet planes that had scattered the chaff, the dates on which that was done, and the names of witnesses who had seen it.

"On this basis of this overwhelming evidence," Home told Gromyko, "it would be well for you to reconsider your previous statements."

For a long minute the stony-faced Kremlinite said nothing. When he finally did speak, he changed the subject.

MORE LYING — Despite this jarring incident showing him up as a bald-faced liar, Gromyko staunchly insisted at another meeting that Russia could be trusted to abide by international agreements.

Lord Home's report to NATO foreign ministers relates that he bluntly raised this question, as follows:

Pull Up A Chair

After an absence of 75 years, buffalo meat will soon be available to one and all by mail order, from the world's largest private herd in Wyoming. Buffalo meat resembles lean, well-aged prime beef in taste and will be sold at about $2 a pound in the form of roasts or ground meat (buffaloburger).

If a young woman wears high heels all the time, the muscles in the calves of her legs shorten. Today's Health mag warns. She won't notice this until she switches to low-heeled shoes, when the stretching of these shortened muscles may be painful.

News item in the Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Dispatch: "He said Blank offered him a $5000 bride."

To combat chain rivalry, the independent drug store specialized on diabetic supplies and equipment, and that special department now accounts for 60 per cent of total sales. It's estimated a typical diabetic spends around $300 a year for his needs.

Today's favorite gag: Little Alfred returned to school after a three days' absence. "Didn't your mother write a note?" the teacher asked. "Yessum, but I forgot to bring it," said Alfred. "Well, then," continued the teacher, "why were you absent?" "I don't know," confessed Alfred. "I didn't read the note."

In recent months the $100-a-plate dinners for political and charitable groups have even been exceeded in Washington, where such affairs have commanded $250 and even $300 a plate. At these affairs, however, the dinner is served on commemorative plates, and those who bought the tickets keep the china-ware as a souvenir.

Flash-back: In 1853, when the German-born Karl Marx little dreamed he would some day be the fountainhead of Soviet communism, he wrote in the New York Tribune: "There is only one way of dealing with a power like Russia, and that is the way of courage."

Thoughts while shaving: 1. It's the veteran society editor, only recently retired, who observes that fathers are even more anxious than mothers to have their daughters' debuts and weddings receive sufficient publicity.

2. Of all the vitamins of which folks speak so glibly, wonder how many know that the term "vitamin F" was once applied to the nutritionally essential fatty acids, but medical scientists then decided to drop it as a therapeutic name.

3. The Screen Actors Guild in Hollywood has at last named specifically the misdemeanors of temperamental actors and actresses against which the studios long have complained. The guild mentions "an actor (who) doesn't show up for work on time, or takes two hours for lunch when he's only supposed to take one, or is busy on the telephone when the assistant director calls him for a take, or has had a few too many nips out of the bottle, or has just been too busy to learn his dialogue." (It doesn't mention the cinematic femmes, but they're just as temperamental, too.)

4. The H. J. Heinz who founded that food business was a hunch man. Some time after the company had been established, he created the slogan, "57 varieties." At the time, he conceded, he knew his plant was turning out more varieties than that, but he felt 57 was a magic number, and that it "sounded good."

Country editor speaking: "The only trouble with a sure thing is its uncertainty."

Pegler Says: He Fished, Settled Vast Affairs With Ex-Pampan

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

HARLINGEN, Texas — Ralph Juillard, once of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Pampa, Texas, was at my door at precisely 5 o'clock, as he had promised. He was in khaki and sneakers and an old hat. I was going fishing on the Colorado arroyo, an offshoot of the Rio Grande where it divides into stringy meanderings in the last miles of its journey to the Gulf of Mexico. Why do I make such reckless commitments late the night before? Mr. Juillard is much younger, but I doubt that he will ever feel as old as I felt then; tired from travel in oscillating planes in blizzard and low clouds and from long days at the typewriter and hard nights among many strangers. I put a few weary words to the last paragraph and we struck off for his camp.

On the way we drove past a rickety plane under a shelter. A grease monkey was going over it and Mr. Juillard said, "You might remember that young fellow's father. He was a New York newspaperman named Jeff Burke. This kid says he was a great editor."

Jeff Burke? Yes; on the Daily News in its early days on Park Place and I think he was badly hurt falling down those wide stairs which had no rail in the center so that people got dizzy and lost their balance. I knew him. A good man, and his kid is better off flying a crop-duster in the Lower Rio Grande Valley than fighting the crowds in the New York subways and the buses whose drivers so heartily hate mankind.

Juillard is now the general manager of three conservative newspapers in the Valley, called the Freedom Group. He said he wouldn't change jobs and his way of living with any other newspaper executive in the world. And he wouldn't work and live in New York for any money or title. (Editor's note: Juillard is a former publisher of the Pampa News.)

Dark was coming on as we pulled into his camp. We had a quick drink and went down to the boat-house where he slipped a belt on a wheel and snapped a switch. The boat-house door went up, the boat slid down the skids with the keel riding on rollers, and we climbed aboard. He tipped the engine and propeller over the stern, spun the starter and headed downstream for shrimp to bait the bass. Dark patches of duck took off close to our bows. The rattlers would be out in a few days, deadly, innumerable. He had shot a rattler's head off in a duck blind which just missed him only because he had become conscious of a slight persistent hiss and turned his head in time. You have to expect them.

More than 200 years ago the deadly Karankaws infested this coast from Galveston to some undefined end of their domain down in Mexico. They had no guns, they were stupid and they lost many people to the snakes and they had no real trails and they were almost as much in the sea as in the swamps.

Ed Kilman, a Houston journalist, did a book on the Kranks, or Krons, three years ago, a page of Indian lore in the big history of those strange people which otherwise might have been lost. They were "towering ogres with saurian eyes who ranged the shore and slithered among the thickets." They may not have been carried but "in extreme hunger, resorted to worms, bugs and spiders and relished spoiled meat." They were six to seven feet tall but facially hideous and notoriously cannibalistic — "the scourge of the frontier."

Well, they wouldn't be along tonight to molest law-abiding, tax-paying, God-fearing American fishermen on Ralph Juillard's dock because Mr. Killman's book, "Cannibal Coast," assured us that about 1850, the last dozen Krons encountered a bunch of Rio Grande Indians, who also were cannibals, and "our man-eaters were devoured by other man-eaters." That wasn't so long ago, was it?

Across the arroyo brahmas bulled through the mesquite on one of the greatest ranches of a wild-western.

Something took my hook, but the line barely tingled and went slack. This happened over and over. In humility, I got one bass about a foot long — all night. I am always catching one nasty little fingerling in "teeming" waters. In Lake Mead, I got one perch — in two days. Is this personal or is it fate?

We had steak for dinner and settled vast affairs. They are all conservative. Their county, Cameron, went for Nixon and for Tower for Senator. And their Congressman, Joe Kilgore, a Democrat and a war bomber pilot but conservative, voted against President Kennedy on packing the Rules Committee. Then the Pentagon took away an Air Force base with a payroll of about $25 million a year and a Naval jet air station with from 300 to 400 men. But a community can't ask to live on war so they were doing their best to bring in free enterprise. A thousand good small homes have been abandoned by the service people. These places are surely going to ruin unless new people buy soon. The tourists who come here are the type who "bring one shirt and one ten-dollar bill — and don't change either all winter."

But the Valley gets four crops a year of most things and the shrimp and fish are constant. In three years the citrus will be back after the terrible freeze.

"Let's not panic," Mr. Juillard wrote when the sad word came from the Pentagon. "We've had disasters like this for years."

He is a very handy man. When his father died leaving less than $2, his mother took in boarders and he got a job after school in a wallpaper place. He never went to college but he did join the Marines. When some uni on a struck a paper he not only turned to and ran a linotype but in one day did three days' work of a union man and did it better than most. He can run any machine in a modern shop and talk turkey with any other publisher in the country—and he wouldn't take the job of publisher in Chicago or New York at any price.

Fact

The flag's 50th star was officially added on July 4, 1960, to commemorate Hawaiian statehood. The previous July 4, a star was added for Alaska. But if you have one of the millions of 48-star flags still in existence, fly it proudly. Experts on flag lore say it's a fine, patriotic thing to fly historic flags, as long as they're clean and unattered.
