During Tests In Pacific This Week

U. S. Will Fire Polaris With Nuclear Warhead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States plans to fire a Polaris missile with a live nuclear warhead from a submarine during the atomic tests expected to start in the Pacific this week. Well-informed sources said that the new type anti-submarine weapon with an atomic warhead also could be tested in an underwater shot as part of the contemplated tests. The new U.S. tests, including atmospheric blasts, will go ahead unless Russia agrees to a test in with adequate inspection. The U.S. tests tentatively have been set to begin Wednesday. If the present plans are carried out, the Polaris warhead and the anti-submarine device will be the first missile-carried nuclear weapons tested by this country. The Polaris missile has a warhead equal in destruction force to more than 500,000 tons of TNT. The missile has a range of 1,200 miles, but this will be greatly shortened in the Pacific tests by exploding the warhead at a high altitude. It was believed that the Polaris and underwater shots may be the only two in the series designed to proof-test actual weapons. The other tests in the atmospheric shots are expected to be aimed at gathering knowledge on effects of nuclear explosions, especially in the area of missile defense. There will be at least one explosion, under present plans, sev-

'Moon Shot' May Be Made Today

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A 10-story rocket was poised on the launching pad today ready to hurl a capsule into space for close-up pictures of the moon and to plop a smaller package of instruments on the moon's surface. Scientists apparently licked last-minute guidance problems in the silvery Atlas-Agena-B rocket which will lob a 730-pound, Ranger-4 capsule on a 60-hour journey to the moon. "We are in fine shape," one source told United Press International. The Ranger shot is the first of three major missile shots planned here this week. Standing on nearby firing pads are a Saturn "super booster" — possibly the most powerful in the world — and a Delta launcher that will carry the world's first international satellite into orbit around the earth. If all goes as planned, the giant Saturn will be fired on a "sub-orbital" trip 88 miles into space and 225 miles over the Atlantic Ocean Wednesday in the second test of its mighty 1.3 million-pound-thrust engines.

Khrushchev Expected To Hit US In Speech Today

Nuclear Warning Is Expected From 'Mr. K'

By ROBERT J. KORENGOLD
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) — The newly-elected Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, convened today in a session expected to feature a speech by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev warning the United States against resuming atmospheric nuclear tests. The Soviet Tass News Agency said the two houses of the Supreme Soviet... the Soviet of the Union and the Soviet of the Nationalities... met in separate sessions in the Kremlin. Khrushchev received "stormy and prolonged" applause from the deputies when he showed up for the opening ceremonies, Tass reported. The agency said Khrushchev was accompanied by other government officials and sat in a special box. Khrushchev was expected to address the Supreme Soviet Tuesday or later. Observers predicted that he would threaten counter-measures if the American atmospheric tests, scheduled to begin in the Pacific later this week, are carried out. Tass said the Soviet of the Union's session was opened by 85-year-old scientist Alexander Arbuzov, oldest of the deputies. The principal business before the 1,443 members of the Supreme Soviet was to give rubber-stamp confirmation to Khrushchev as the country's leader and to nominate a new government. No major changes were anticipated. The meeting was the first of the parliament elected for a four-year term in last month's election. Observers did not anticipate that Khrushchev would make any statement on the Berlin situation that might upset the delicate negotiations in Washington. The opening of the Supreme Soviet meeting, which is expected to last only a few days; followed a gathering in Moscow Sunday of high Soviet leaders to mark the 32nd anniversary of the birth of V. I. Lenin, leader of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Burton's Wife To Be 'Sounded-Out' About A Divorce

PORTO SANTO STEFANO, Italy (UPI) — An intermediary in London to "sound out" Richard Burton's wife about the prospects of a divorce, friends of the Welsh actor said today. This would clear the way for Burton's marriage to actress Elizabeth Taylor, with whom the matinee idol spent the weekend in this season resort, the friends reported. Burton and Miss Taylor, 30, who plans to obtain a divorce from singer Eddie Fisher, stayed at a pink bungalow overlooking the sea. They were to return to Rome later today to resume shooting on the film "Cleopatra." According to Burton's friends, the emissary went to London recently to talk to Mrs. Sybil Burton, who has been married to the actor for 13 years. Both Burton and his wife have described in public statements recently as "utter nonsense" reports they might separate. Mrs. Burton, who returned to London two weeks ago after a weekend in Paris with her 36-year-old husband, refuses to see newsmen. Burton and Miss Taylor have been making the rounds of Rome's Via Veneto, drinking champagne and eating together with friends in exclusive restaurants. The Rome friends did not identify the emissary dispatched to London but he was believed to be James Benton, Burton's secretary.

The house-to-house canvass for funds will be headed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Jaycee-Ettes and the Pampa National Guard Unit. A. J. Major Demonstrations Erupt In Algeria As French Are Ordered To 'Shoot First'

ALGIERS (UPI) — French security forces with orders to "shoot first" today patrolled Algiers and the western port city of Oran in search of terrorists of the Secret Army Organization (OAS). Major pro-OAS demonstrations suddenly erupted in two major cities in eastern Algeria. A series of 10 plastic bomb explosions rocked Philippeville Sunday night and early today. Reports said there was heavy damage but no casualties. Three bombs also were exploded in Algiers during the night but there was no immediate report on casualties or damages. The bomb attacks followed a night of noisy demonstrations by Europeans in Philippeville and Constantine in support of the OAS and its new commander, renegade ex-Gen. Paul Gardy. Europeans in the two cities in eastern Algeria banged pots and pans, shouted "French Algeria" slogans and placed phonographs playing martial tunes on their windows as a demonstration of backing for the outlawed extremist organization. Most of the OAS strength previously had appeared to be concentrated in Oran and Algiers. French troops in Oran and Algiers were under orders today to shoot terrorists of the Secret Army Organization (OAS) on sight. At the same time, units of the new 40,000-man Algerian "local forces" — mostly Moslems — prepared to move into the Moslem quarters of the main Algerian cities to guard them against attacks by the OAS. The moves were part of the stepped-up offensive against the outlawed European extremist organization which has boasted it can still strike "where we want, when we want and whom we want." The shoot-on-sight order became effective at midnight. Europeans in Algiers and Oran also have been warned to stay off balconies and rooftops lest they be mistaken for OAS commandos. The terrorists stepped up violence over the Easter weekend to show that the OAS is still a force (See ALGERIA, Page 3)

International Lions Prexy Arrives Here

Per Gustav Stahl, International Lions Club president from Eskilstuna, Sweden, was sightseeing in the Panhandle today prior to his appearance as guest of honor and principal speaker at tonight's 25th anniversary celebration of the Pampa Lions Club in Coronado Inn. Stahl, escorted by Wynne Veale, local Lions club president, left Pampa early today for a look at the Panhandle including a ranch stop and visits to other spots of interest in the Pampa area. He was expected back in Pampa at 3 p.m. where a visit to the Lions Club Park also was on the day's schedule. Visitors from eight or ten Lions Clubs in the Panhandle are expected to join with the two Lions clubs in Pampa in honoring the international president at tonight's banquet, scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Coronado Starlight Room. Among visiting dignitaries will be Dist. Gov. Bill Didlake of Borger and many Lions Club past presidents.

CoC Directors To Meet Tomorrow

Directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will hold their monthly meeting at a luncheon tomorrow noon in Coronado Inn. Most of the business sessions, according to Gordon Lyons, chamber president, will be taken up with reports from committee chairmen on activities of the past month. The directors also will review plans for the chamber's annual Membership Roundup scheduled for May 14-25.

Students Feared Lost In Cavern

TRENTON, Ga. (UPI)—Search parties seeking three college students missing on a cave exploring expedition found candy and chewing gum wrappers today in one of the myriad passageways of a cave at the foot of Lookout Mountain. But Civil Defense officials warned against placing too much hope in the discovery. They said the wrappers could have been left by previous explorers of Case's Cave, where the students were believed lost. Rescue groups have been searching almost continuously since early Saturday morning, when the students failed to return from a trek to the cave Friday. A car belonging to the 19-year-old youths, Bill Bartee and James H. Mason, both of Atlanta, and Martin Huddleston, Ormond Beach, Fla., was found outside the cave Saturday. Bartee and Mason are students at Emory University, Atlanta, and Huddleston attends Presbyterian College at Clinton, S. C. A team of cave experts from Chattanooga, Tenn., just across Lookout Mountain from this community in extreme northwest Georgia, joined the search early today. They estimated it would take about six hours to cover the entire cave and its labyrinth of passageways. Huge floodlights lit the small opening to the cave during the night as more than 100 persons, including many fraternity boys from Emory, snaked through the muddy cave. Parents of two of the youths kept vigil outside. The youths were reported to have left Atlanta, 50 miles to the southeast, Friday to explore the cave. Mason's mother called her son's fraternity house, raising an alarm against the death sentence im-

Three-Year-Old Dies Of Burns

MIDLAND, Tex. (UPI)—Three-year-old Charles Mark Floyd died early today of burns suffered Sunday when gasoline his father was using to light a charcoal stove splashed across him and caught fire.

Salan Mapping Strategy In Fight To Escape Guillotine

PARIS (UPI) — Ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, captured commander of the Secret Army Organization, today began mapping strategy for his fight to escape the guillotine or the firing squad as a traitor to France. The former general, captured Friday in Algiers after a year-long hunt, scheduled a meeting in his call at Sainte Prison with four attorneys he has named to defend him against four charges of treason. Mme. Salan, who was seized along with her husband, was flown here Sunday and locked up in a cell in the Fresnes Prison in southern Paris. It was not immediately known what any charges would be brought against Mme. Salan. French authorities also flew in the Salan's 16-year-old daughter, Dominique, and turned her over to relatives who promptly went into hiding with her. Salan was brought to Paris by plane within hours after his arrest by agents of the Surete Nationale in a small apartment in Algiers. He was locked up in the same prison where his second-in-command, ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, is being held pending an appeal to President Charles de Gaulle against the death sentence im-

Gen. Walker To Campaign Here

Gen. Edwin Walker, Democratic candidate for governor of Texas, will stop over briefly in Pampa tomorrow morning. According to a notice from Walker's Dallas headquarters, he will arrive here early Tuesday morning from Houston where he is campaigning today. Walker also is scheduled for a "handshake stop" in Borger before going on to Amarillo where he will lunch with supporters in the Crystal Ballroom of the Herring Hotel. No details of Walker's Pampa stop were available this forenoon. If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Howe. Ad.

Injunction Sought To Halt Strike Of Railway Conductors Across Nation

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal judge today was expected to rule on an injunction request by the Pullman Co. to prevent a nationwide strike of conductors. The decision by U.S. District Judge Michael Igoe was expected about 11 a.m. EST. Igoe's ruling could either delay a walkout by the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen, or allow the union to re-examine its position and possibly set new strike dates. A temporary restraining order, which was extended until today, prevented the union from striking on Pullman facilities serving most of the nation's railroads. Igoe issued the temporary injunction while conducting hearings to determine if the restraining order should be made permanent. The union, second oldest railway labor organization in the United States, recently authorized strikes on Pullman sleeping and

Don Yarborough To Visit Friday

Don Yarborough, Democratic electoral candidate, will return to the Panhandle and South Plains Friday, one week before election eve, for a campaign swing through seven cities. Flying into Hereford Friday morning where he starts his day's tour, Yarborough will visit Dalhart, Dumas, Borger, Pampa and Amarillo in the Panhandle, and go to Lubbock in the evening for a speaking engagement and a television address over the West Texas Network. Television In Review

By RICK DUBROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The wildly improbable casting of Jose Jimenez as ringmaster of a water show made CBS-TV's "Marineband Carnival" a generally fun-filled Easter treat Sunday night.

Bill (Jose) Dana, aided by Lloyd Bridges and Rosemary Clooney, prevented the program from being strictly kiddie fare by tossing off such lines as his welcome to Marineland — "This stupendous, colossal, adequate place."

His pallid appearance and skeptical, cowardly attitude toward the whole affair was especially comic in contrast to Bridges' robust manner and the "isn't-it-thrilling" atmosphere of the outdoor audience.

Miss Clooney was charming and lovely, and survived a song with some walrus whom she named Bing, Dean and Perry, and whose faces looked like those of disappointed theatrical agents.

Bridges tried valiantly as Jose's straight man. But his best scene was a clever, trick-photography sketch in which he played a man with an underwater home. A weighted body dropped into his living room, and Bridges noted this was a hazard because of "The Untouchables."

The domestic scene between Bridges and his wife in their underwater living room was imaginative, and reminiscent of the creative camera work of the movie "The Absent-Minded Professor."

The hazards of outdoor shows, such as the difficulty of controlling all reactions — occasionally threw "Carnival" off-pace.

But there were Marineland's performing whales, seals and clown—and an amazing basketball game with porpoises, one of whom sank a basket.

Unfortunately, Bridges tried a duet with Miss Clooney at the end. The walruses were better. But Jose, the catalyst, was always there with his "ladies and gentlemen... joo haven't seen anything yet!"

Without him, the show would have been all wet.

CBS-TV's "The Twentieth Century" took us to the fair city of Seattle Sunday night, somewhat salvaging the disappointingly sparse coverage by the major networks of the opening of an important American event.

Walter Cronkite, narrating television's finest weekly show, was the guide on a tour of exhibitions past and present, among them: the Paris fair of 1900, with its moving sidewalk; the New York event of 1939, which, as Cronkite said, was dedicated to peace as the world prepared for war; and the Brussels attraction of 1958, with its Sputnik exhibition.

But even this solid presentation could not overcome for this viewer the letdown of waiting for the show that never came from the networks: a live, hours-long program catching the festivities and sights of Seattle as the fair got underway. On the West Coast, a group of stations shared in such coverage Saturday, but this was only regional.

TERMITES

ANT

DON'T PANIC—if you think that those winged pests flying around your head are termites trying to demolish your home, take a closer look; they may be only ants. According to the Department of Agriculture, there are two ways to tell them apart. First, ants are "pinched-in" at the waist, while termites have thick waists. Second, an ant's rear pair of wings are considerably smaller than its front pair; a termite has little difference in wing size.

33 Are Killed Across State

At least 33 persons were killed in Texas over the weekend as drownings and snakebites—hazards of spring outings—added to the usual traffic toll of deaths.

A United Press International survey for the period showed at least 15 persons were killed in automobile accidents, including one wreck which claimed four lives Saturday night near Natalia, 15 miles south of San Antonio, and another crash Sunday five miles east of Ballinger that killed two and injured nine.

Killed in the two-car crash near Ballinger were James Cook Mathews, 40, of Odessa and his 6-year-old daughter, Karen.

Julius Enoch Atwood, 66, of Tulsa, Okla., was killed in a two-car crash five miles south of Centerville in Leon County Sunday, the DPS reported.

Three persons were killed instantly in the crash near Natalia. They were Edna Ramsey Richardson and Mrs. Alma Rae Ramsey, both of San Antonio, and Jose Torres, 43, of Natalia. Santos Cuniga, 46, died a short time after the accident.

Guy Watson, 44, of Dallas shot up his estranged wife's apartment Sunday then went out to his automobile and took his own life with a pistol.

Police said a divorce was pending.

Two Jacksonville men were killed early Sunday when their car hit a bridge abutment on State Highway 35 north of Jacksonville. They were Carl Don Barton, 21, and Richard D. Green, 29.

Willie Lee Thomas, 47, of Artesia, N. M., was killed Sunday when his car overturned four times south of Wellman.

O. E. Starks of Lubbock was found shot to death Sunday.

A five-year-old girl, Jill Selman, died Sunday in a Gonzales hospital after being bitten by a rattlesnake Saturday. She was the daughter of Willacy County Agricultural Agent Jim Selman Jr.

Mrs. Bessie Pearl Shelton, 41, of Houston was shot to death with a .22-caliber pistol Saturday.

A car-truck collision near Boyd in North Texas Saturday killed Glenda Sue Smith, 18, of Boyd.

Dudley Murgeson, 25, drowned in Lake Wichita Saturday while on a waterskiing expedition.

Staff Sgt. Franklin V. Williams Jr. of Dyess AFB at Abilene was electrocuted Saturday while using an electric drill to drill a hole in a kitchen sink.

Waymon Eugene Tucker, 33, of Houston, fell from a boat near the Texas City dike while fishing Saturday and drowned.

A Dallas man, Fred Harley Champion, 61, was knifed to death at his home Saturday. Police arrested a suspect.

James Verelle Atkinson, 16, of Dallas, drowned at Lake Lewisville Saturday while on a boating trip with his bride of one week.

Airman Walter Procell of San Antonio died Saturday from burns received in a traffic accident.

Count Ivan C. Podgorsky, 61, was fatally beaten by his stepfather at their San Antonio home Saturday. The stepson, Vladimir Podgorsky, says he killed the man in self-defense.

James Oliver Overstreet, 69, of Dallas, was found shot to death behind his home Saturday. A verdict of suicide was returned.

A Dallas woman, Lovella McAdam Brandon, 27, died Saturday when her car hit a bridge abutment on U.S. 75 north of Corsicana.

Floyd Rudolph Melonson of Raywood was killed Saturday in a two-car collision east of Ames.

Mary Sinegal, 30, was stabbed to death in a tavern fight in Port Arthur Friday night.

An Abilene man, David H. Rudd, 35, was found dead in his car near Albany. A garden hose was connected to the car's exhaust and led to a gas mask Rudd wore. A verdict of suicide was returned.

Katie Mae Wiggins, 28, of Dallas, was shot to death Friday night during an argument over the "twist" in a nightclub.

Charges Planned In Killing By Student

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Police planned to file murder charges today against Vladimir Podgorsky, 23, a college student who said he killed his stepfather with a heavy bronze bookend to protect his mother and himself.

Ivan C. Podgorsky, 61, reputed to be an exiled Russian count who traveled the world buying and selling art treasures, was killed Saturday in his $150,000 palatial mansion.

"He was like a mad man, foaming at the mouth," Podgorsky said. "I hit him on the head and kept hitting him because he would not stop coming at me with the knife."

"It was strictly self-defense and self-preservation."

Detectives said the downstairs part of the house was in a shambles. Podgorsky said his stepfather "fought like a wild man with the butcher knife and screamed repeatedly, 'I'll kill you.'"

Police said the youth did not have a mark on him nor was the clothing he wore at the time torn or cut.

When Podgorsky was arrested and fingerprinted, police learned he is wanted on an armed robbery charge dating back to 1954. They said he was indicted for robbing a supermarket with a .22-caliber rifle when he was 16 and during the robbery disarmed Lt. Frank Ballard, who was stationed on special duty at the store.

At that time, his name was Vladimir Lapko. Police said he could not be charged until he was 17 and by that time he had moved to Florida and successfully fought extradition to San Antonio.

The victim's wife, Mrs. Mary Podgorsky, 43, said her husband tore her blouse off and when Vladimir came home and tried to intervene, her husband flew into

Chartered Train May Take More Negroes To North

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A segregationist group said it has had so many requests from Negroes wanting to leave the south for the north it plans to switch from sending them by bus to sending them by chartered train.

George Singlemamm, a member of the board of directors of the New Orleans Citizens Council, said his group will ask the state legislature to foot the bill for the "Freedom Trains."

"We've gotten so many requests for Freedom Buses north that we have decided to shift to trains," Singlemamm said. "We plan to send two chartered buses to Washington later this week."

ed 3.25 inches of rain during the 24-hour period that ended at 6 a. m.

Rains of more than three inches were common in deep South Texas. Realitos recorded 4.75 inches in the 24-hour period ended at 7 a. m. Hebronville reported 4.50 inches.

Mirando City had an even three inches; George West had 3.64. Utopia and Benavides reported an even two inches. Laredo had 2.17, far more than its average for the entire month of April. Fort Worth had 2.03 inches.

Other rainfall totals included: Sherman 1.44, Dallas 1.42, San Antonio 1.25, West 1.22 and Carrollton, near Dallas 1.88.

The Weather Bureau said the cool front which triggered the storm system had stalled in south east Texas. Scattered showers fell in that area this morning.

Forecasters said the rain would gradually move eastward out of the state, and called for a warming trend in the southwest. The cooler air from the front covered the northwestern half of the state before it, too, stalled.

Overnight low temperature reports ranged from 36 at Dalhart to 72 at Corpus Christi.

alarm, when the youth did not return home Friday night.

The search began almost at once. Policemen and civil defense workers were joined late Sunday night by carloads of the students' fraternity brothers and by cave experts from Atlanta and Chattanooga, Tenn., just across the mountain.

Some of the cave's passages have been mapped, but many are uncharted. "One old man told me he got lost in the cave and finally came out a passage 10 miles away," one rescue worker said.

Key Club Banquet Is Held Here Saturday

Wayne Denson received the Nanning award and Bill Eads was named "Key Club Of The Year" at the 4th annual Key Club banquet Saturday night in the Starlight Room of theonado Inn. Betty Enright was presented as the Key Club sweetheart.

Over 125 Key Club members, parents, and Kiwanians attended the banquet that was the climax of the club's most ambitious and successful year of service. The Pampa High School unit of Key Club International recently was named the second best club in the Texas - Oklahoma District, among a total of 138 clubs. A brief review of the many projects that went into their award-winning achievement report was given to the program.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Nanning award to Wayne Denson's father, Bill Eads. He revealed that the 60-member boys club had spent 3,896 "boy hours" in direct work efforts from June 1, 1961 through April 21, 1962. Denson referred to the 2,200 clubs and 6,000 members of Key Club, and their impressive themes under which the Pampa club closely operated.

It was also revealed that membership in the Pampa Key Club could be increased from its present maximum of 60 members to 75 by the next school year. The increase was necessary because of waiting list of boys seeking membership, most of the present school year.

Stressing its position as a club of "application and not invitation", officers explained that Key Club is open to "any boy in grades 10, 11 or 12, who is scholastically eligible, and approved by the principal."

Tommy Veale, secretary - elected made the presentation of the Nanning award to Bill Don Eads, retiring secretary. Just before revealing the identity of the secret selection, Veale said, "this boy is as dear to the term 'model Key Club' as any member could possibly come. His has a strong spiritual dedication; a friendly and likeable personality; an inspiration to all who know him; and, our 'Man Of The Year'."

John Holloway, arrangements chairman for the banquet presented the Sandy Nanning award. Created to honor a former member of the Fort Lauderdale, Florida High School Key Club, the medal bears the likeness of Alexander Ramsey Nanning, Jr. Nanning rose above physical illness, and other seeming limitations to become a leader in his high school.

The awards committee, Tony Edmondson chairman, explained that in choosing the "Key Club of the Year", each member is measured against all others. The award goes to the boy judged to have performed the greatest total personal service effort of the year. The Nanning award is measured against the boy's own potential. It is given to the member judged to have "done the best with what he has, his natural abilities."

County Law Officers To Have Meet

Gray County law enforcement officers have been invited to a meeting in the county courtroom of the Gray County Courthouse at 10 a. m. Wednesday when Tom Gibson, head meteorologist of the Amarillo Weather Bureau, will give an illustrated lecture on "Tornadoes."

Bill Leonard, head of the Gray County Civil Defense unit, said today Gibson will brief the law officers on methods of detecting tornado approaches and what precautionary steps should be taken.

"We're heading into the tornado season," Leonard said, "and I'm sure Mr. Gibson will have an informative talk on this particular area. We're hoping for a good turnout of city, state and county officers at Wednesday's meeting."

Leonard stated that the meeting also is open to anyone interested in the subject.

Window Broken At Local Church

Fr. William West, minister of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, 727 W. Browning, reported to police that another stained glass window pane had been broken out of the church sometime Saturday night.

A similar incident was reported at the church about a week ago. Value of the glass broken out was placed at $40.

Two Check Cases In County Court

Two cases of swindling with worthless checks appeared on the docket in Judge Bill Craig's county court today.

David Thompson, Wichita Falls, pleaded guilty of passing a worthless $10 check to Highland Service Station. He was sentenced to six months in jail.

Edward H. Davis, Pampa, pleaded not guilty on a charge of passing a worthless check and bond was fixed at $1,000.

parior cars, beginning with the Milwaukee Road April 12.

Other strike dates on Pullman facilities were for trains operating in and out of Chicago, on April 17; trains running to and from St. Louis, on April 20, and against all other railroads throughout the nation, April 26.

But the Milwaukee Road reached an agreement before the strike deadline with the conductors and granted them a shorter, or 180-hour, work month and job protection. The April 17 and April 20 deadlines were covered by Igoe's temporary injunction.

There was no indication what the union, headed by Louis Wagner, might do if Igoe should refuse the Pullman motion. But it seemed likely that the brotherhood probably would meet and re-set strike deadlines, while attempting to settle the dispute through negotiation.

re-Welcome Extended ee Freshmen At Meet

Merion Marsh, Pampa High school principal, was guest speaker at the combined meeting of Lee PTA unit and freshmen parents held Tuesday afternoon at Robert E. Lee Junior High school. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Don Cain, PTA chairman.

After extending a pre-welcome to freshmen, who will be entering "the greatest high school in the world" next fall as sophomores, Mr. Marsh said, "Let me talk to you seriously for a few minutes about coming to high school. What to look forward to when you get up there and how to make the most of it?"

Nine years ago, when you were in school, you took the first steps toward reaching high school and you are ready to come up to be a part of it.

After you think about it, it is such a big step. Things are so different. The real difference is that there is just a lot more of it; more responsibility, more freedom; more choices.

You do face more responsibility when you become a sophomore." Mr. Marsh stressed, "You are older and more adult than you are supposed to know how to handle responsibility. It gives you more freedom as a young adult in high school. We give you more freedom to make choices. Just as you have had more freedom as a freshman; you will have more as a sophomore; then more as a junior and senior. With that freedom comes responsibility. Much depends on you. Make your choices well and make your choices wisely."

Mr. Marsh told the freshmen that a green handbook entitled, "Harvester Halls" would be distributed by the homeroom teachers. "Study it well," he advised "for it contains valuable information regarding your high school and college careers."

He also told the students that beginning with the 1963 diplomas that "only one will be issued. We will no longer be giving the separate pre-college and vocational diplomas."

"Give a lot of thought to your three-year program in high school," he said. "Make your plans carefully. High school is a serious business. Think of it as working for a paycheck. You won't get it until the end of three years, but it will be a big paycheck. If you fail to meet the obligations of your responsibilities, you may not receive your paycheck. But it is something that you don't want to miss out on."

Mr. Marsh further stressed to the young people, "You need to make and keep a good record in high school, for it is that record that employers and college people ask for when they are considering you for a job or entry into college. A good high school record also makes you glad that you did what you did when you do get through."

"Many are looking forward to high school for a good time and we want you to have it, but the most important aspect of the high school program is the academic advantages. Put your academic courses first and the 'good time' will follow automatically. For it is your academic record that employers and college people will look at first."

In closing, Mr. Marsh extended an invitation to students to come by the high school this summer for a personally conducted tour of the school and campus. "Come in groups or singly then you will feel better acquainted when you come in next fall. We will be looking forward to seeing you."

Proceeding the talk, Miss Geraldine Rumpy's clothing classes in the Home Economics Department presented a fashion show modeling garments, which they had made during classes. Miss Judith Rogers provided the piano background music for the fashion comments made by Misses Carolyn Tribble and Miss Mary Lou Spillman.

Keith Griffith offered the Thought for the Day.

At the executive board meeting held in the school conference room at 1 p.m. directed by Mrs. J. T. Cornutt, unit president, reports were given by Mrs. William Fain, secretary and Mrs. Jeff Bearden, treasurer.

In a PTA City Council report given by Mrs. H. V. Wilks, she announced that a Procedure Course would be given in Travis School on May 15 from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m. and a Parliamentary Procedure Course would be given in the Youth Center on May 7 with each participating member asked to bring a sack lunch.

Plans were discussed for delegates to attend the annual PTA Spring Conference to be held May 1 in Perryton.

Plans were also discussed for the special program to be held May 17 at 2 p.m. in the junior high for parents, who will have 7th grade students entering Lee next fall.

The board recommended, and it was approved at the general meeting, that $25 be allocated to the Student Council to augment their funds for a school project to be chosen by them.

Attending the board meeting were Mmes. E. E. Shelhamer, Essie Mae Walters, Don Cain, William Fain, Derrell Hogsett, Homer Johnson, Fern Pursley, Ray E. Wilson, Jack O. Miller, Parks Brumley and C. R. Howard in addition to those previously mentioned.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a long-distance operator and my voice must be very interesting because I've had many men try to make dates with me. I was never interested, because what kind of man would want to go out with a girl he's never seen? Anyway, Christmas Eve a man was trying desperately to phone his girl and he was miserable because he couldn't locate her. He liked my voice and I liked his manner and, to make a long story short, I let him pick me up after work. (Please don't let on where this letter is from because I could get fired.) Well, we are going together now, but when people ask me how I met him, what should I say?

GIRL WITH THE SMILING VOICE

DEAR GIRL: Put that smile in your voice and tell your party to dial information.

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column faithfully ever since it began six years ago and I agree with your answers about 99 per cent of the time. But there is one part of your thinking that is full of prejudice, and very narrow-minded, to say the least, and that is marriage outside one's faith. I hope you will be big enough to print this, Abby, because I would like to see some letters from intelligent people who have made such marriages work.

A DEVOTED ABBY FAN

DEAR FAN: So would I.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something in your column to the thoughtless parents who buy their children live baby chicks for Easter. The kiddies soon chase or squeeze the life out of the helpless little birds and really enjoy them less than their candy Easter eggs.

CHICKEN-HEARTED

DEAR CHICKEN-HEARTED: I, too, am chicken-hearted and hope that your timely letter will cause parents to think twice before giving live baby chicks to children who are too young to care for them properly.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the girl who changed her name from Annie to Audrey. I don't blame her at all. I recently read a book about the Barbary Coast and there were four Annies in it. Dirty Annie, Wagon Spoke Annie, Box Car Annie and Glass Eye Annie.

My name is Anna, and I have been called everything from -

First Methodist Wesleyan Service Guild Sees Film On Nigeria Trip

Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist Church met Monday evening in the church parlor for a program of films shown and narrated by Mrs. Fidelia Yoder of the trip she made last summer to Nigeria to visit her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Neher.

In introducing Mrs. Yoder, Mrs. Carl Shafer, instructor of the present study "Edge of the Edge," said, "The church has to go out to men, where they are in their need, pain and bewilderment. The gospel is not told in love unless every effort is made to relate it to the condition of many today. It was that constraining love that sent Gerald Neher, Mrs. Yoder's son-in-law, to Nigeria as an agricultural missionary of the Church of the Brethren. And it was a love for music and for the Neher family that sent Fidelia to look for music through dusty streets and crowded market places."

Mrs. Yoder showed pictures of the landscape, flowering trees, and animals native to that part of the continent as well as the people in their native habitation and market places.

One of the interesting features were the peculiar handmade musical instruments fashioned from animal horns, pieces of scrap metal and wood, from which unusual musical sounds were made. On one occasion, the natives gave an entire concert in honor of Mrs. Yoder, who came to the conclusion that what matters most is not the kind of instrument but that the instrument should be available to use.

It was brought out during the films and discussion that thirty eight million people inhabit this portion of the continent and speak over 400 languages. It is not possible to travel over 35 or 40 miles without encountering a different tribe with a different dialect.

During the business meeting, new officers for the next term were elected, Mmes. Laura Penick, president; Grace Boston, vice president; Lillie Mae Fowler, secretary and Ivo Denson, treasurer.

The president requested that as a summary to the present study that each member be prepared to tell "What I can do as a member of the church" at the next meeting to be held May 7 in the home

He Found Brown So Now Wants 'Green'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Carlos Ortiz, the new lightweight boxing champion, today is looking around for a bigger paycheck than the one he got when he won the title from Joe Brown.

As challenger, Ortiz, a 25-year-old battler from the Bronx, drew down only $17,500 when he matched the crown on an unanimous 15-round decision Saturday night at Convention Center.

As champion, Brown got $30,000. He lost not only his title but a lot of prestige built up during a pro boxing career of 113 fights. This was only the 19th lifetime professional loss for Brown and his poor performance was something of a mystery. He was an 8-5 favorite.

Brown was supposed to have a great right hand that kayoed 38 previous opponents but he used it sparingly. When he did use it, he was wild, sometimes missing by as much as a foot. His strategy seemed to be to fight defensively and wait for an opening — an opening that never came. Brown was strangely cautious even in the final five rounds when he knew he had to knock out Ortiz to win.

Ortiz relied on a fast left jab and literally pecked his way to the corner of Brown's left eye in the second round and blood trickled down the Houston, Tex., fighter's cheek intermittently for the rest of the bout.

Brown is getting a little old for ring warfare, there's no doubt. He'll be 36 on May 18. And he has no money incentive to fight because he's well fixed financially.

Ortiz, on the other hand, is a hungry fighter. He said he will give Brown a return match if "the money is right." He is also considering an offer of a $60,000 guarantee plus expenses from Philippines promoter Lope Sarreal. This would be for a title defense in Manila against Flash Elorda, a Philippine favorite. The money would be tax-free, Sarreal said.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh turned out in baseball's finest styles on Easter Sunday but the poor-behaved New York Mets showed up in their same old basement rags.

Nor did the New York Yankees, in their famous pin stripes, display the fancy finery they usually do as they suffered a pair of embarrassing rips at the hands of the Indians, 7-5 and 9-3.

The general pattern was toward extremes. On the bright side, for example:

—The Indians vaulted from a fifth-place tie to the top of the American League by breaking a 19-game losing streak at Yankee Stadium dating back to May 12, 1960.

—Danny Murtaugh's Pirates tied a modern major league record by beating the Mets, 4-3, for their 10th victory without a loss since the season opened.

—And the lightly-regarded Kansas City A's moved into a virtual third-place tie with the Yankees by defeating the Chicago White Sox twice, 7-1 and 7-3.

On the drab side was the Mets' ninth straight loss without a victory, equalling a National League record set by Brooklyn at the start of the 1918 season. The St. Louis Cardinals also considered it a black Sunday when they lost their first two games of the season following seven straight victories. The Chicago Cubs beat them, 11-5 and 5-1.

In other NL games, the Cincinnati Reds beat the San Francisco Giants, 6-4, the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 6-3, and the Philadelphia Phillies downed the Houston Colts, 4-3.

The Baltimore Orioles took over second place in the AL with an 8-3 victory over the Washington Senators, the Detroit Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox, 8-4, and the Minnesota Twins blanked the Los Angeles Angels, 5-0.

Ordinarily, the National League race is much closer than the one in the American. That's not the case this time though. Already there is a 9 1/2-game gap between the first place Pirates and the last-place Mets.

In the American League, on the other hand, only a game and a half separates the first nine clubs! Dick Donovan of the Indians was credited with his third straight victory in the opener against the Yankees although he was tapped for homers by Tom Tresh and Yogi Berra in the 2-3 innings he worked. Jerry Kindall's three-run triple highlighted a five-run third inning and Kindall also contributed two singles and a double to help reliever Gary Bell gain his second victory in the nightcap.

Bill Stafford and Luis Arroyo were the losers. A key to the Tribe's two victories was the fact that Roger Maris went hitless in eight trips and Mickey Mantle had only one bunt single the entire day.

The A's swept their twin-bill from the White Sox on Ed Rakow's five-hit pitching in the opener and a two-run rally in the ninth inning of the finale. Rookie Ed Charles, who homered in the first game, broke a 5-3 tie in the ninth inning of the second game with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly. Gino Cimoli drove in five runs with a homer and a double in the second game, credited to rookie reliever Diego Segui.

Hawk Coach Rudy Pilous was angry with the officiating and said, "We didn't play that rough to get the major share of penalties." Owner Jim Norris complained, "It looked like the referee wanted to get it over with in a hurry."

But none believed the Hawks deserved to win Sunday night.

The goalie stops were the best evidence of the difference between the teams Sunday night. Don Simmons in the Toronto cage made only 20 saves and the Hawks had only 21 shots on goal. But netminder Glenn Hall of Chicago had to make 35 stops, and the Leafs had 37 on goal.

The Maple Leafs' win gave each man a total $4,250 — $2,000 for winning the Cup, $1,500 for the semi-final victory and $750 for a second place finish in the regular season.

Chicago players, who got $1,000 as the losers' share, wound up with $3,000 each, including $1,500 for the semi-final win over Montreal and $500 for their third place finish.

Harmon Killebrew's three-run homer and Jim Kaat's four-hit pitching carried the Twins to their victory over the Angels. Kaat struck out 10 and didn't walk a batter. Killebrew connected in the third off loser George Witt.

Bill Mazeroski broke a 3-3 tie between the Pirates and Mets when he drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning triple off loser Sherm (Roadblock) Jones. Bob Skinner had homered for Pittsburgh in a three-run sixth. Rookie southpaw Bob Veale won his first major league game with a seven-hit job.

Ernie Banks, Ron Santo and rookie Ken Hubbs each drove in three runs for the Cubs in their opening game victory over the Cards. Then the Cubs clinched the nightcap with three runs off Bob Gibson in the first inning on back-to-back doubles by Lou Brock and Hubbs and Billy Williams' two-run homer. Dick Ellsworth and rookie Cal Koonce were the winning pitchers.

Home runs by Vada Pinson, John Edwards and Wally Post led the Reds to victory, with Joey Jay picking up his second win although the Giants drove him to the showers in the eighth. Jack Sanford, driven from the box during a four-run rally in the fourth, was the loser.

Bob Shaw limited the Dodgers to five hits in winning his first game for the Braves. Milwaukee collected 12 hits, including a homer by Del Crandall. Don Drysdale, first of four Dodger pitchers, was charged with his first loss after two victories. Tommy Davis homered for the Dodgers.

The Phillies seem to have the Colts' number. They made it four in a row over the Texans by snapping a 2-2 tie with two runs in the seventh. Four singles did the trick. Jim Owens was the winner with help from Jack Baldschun. Rookie Dave Guisti, the first bonus buy to make the Houston club, pitched 6 2-3 innings, gave up eight hits and all the Phils' runs, and was the loser.

Keane Leads With Three New Cards

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — The case of John Joseph Keane is a typical example of major league astigmatism.

Johnny Keane is in his 32d year in the St. Louis organization, 17 seasons of which he spent as a highly successful minor league manager. Since Keane, the little old Triple A infielder, broke in as a pilot, the Cardinals have had 11 of them. This despite the fact that for the past 15 years, baseball men outside of the Red Bird group have held that Keane was richly entitled to the head job.

Keane is getting his big chance as a freshman manager at 50 and the bloopers in the red blazers look more like the winning Cardinals of old than they have since Branch Rickey switched to Brooklyn.

Starting in a D league and moving up through the minors, Keane developed many Cardinals, including Ken Boyer and Lindy McDaniel, while winning pennants. Johnny came the hard way as a manager and, first as a coach and now as the boss, demonstrated to the Cardinals that he left all his mistakes behind him.

Keane succeeded Solly Hemus last July 8, after which the Cards won 47 while losing 33 games, the fastest pace in either big league throughout the last three months.

What's the biggest difference in the Cardinals?

"Julio Gotay at shortstop and catcher Gene Oliver contributed considerably," said Keane, watching Ray Washburn, a big recruit right-hander warm up at the Polo Grounds before going to work on the new New York Mets.

Keane hastened to add that he also was leading with a third new card, the redoubtable Minnie Mino.

"The record shows that Mino is 39," smiled Johnny, "but his age doesn't show in a baseball uniform. Minnie's a driver who actually became our leader during spring training. His pepper is contagious. He pulled a muscle in his side in the cold of opening night and I waited until we got a little warm weather before putting him back in the lineup."

"We are going to have to live with Gotay at shortstop for a time, but he can only get better. Julio is an emotional Puerto Rican who showed us such a scatter arm last season that we sent him to Charleston as a second baseman. That's what he turned out to be — the International League's All-Star second baseman. But we needed a shortstop and he turned out all right this spring."

"Trying too hard not to do anything wrong he lets up on throws to first base and on double play balls sometimes gives the ball to Julian Javier too slowly. Our job is to get him to get rid of the ball quickly without worrying about the result. That will come, and he has a good bat for a shortstop."

"Oliver is a big fellow up from Portland of the Coast League. He is a good enough catcher with home run power."

The Cardinals have pitching, power and balance, the latter starting with Johnny Keane.

Three 'Fresh' Golf Pros Atop Heap In Houston; 18-Hole Playoff Set Today

HOUSTON (UPI)—Three professional golfers whose careers are just beginning — Jack Nicklaus, Bobby Nichols and Dan Sikes — found themselves all alone today in an 18-hole playoff for 68th money at the Houston golf classic.

The trio finished Sunday's fourth round with identical 278 totals and were forced into the playoff for $9,000 first place prize money.

The extra round was set to start at 2 p.m. EST.

Sikes, a 30-year-old Florida lawyer on his second year of the tour, had to shoot a two-under-par 68 to join Nichols and Nicklaus.

Nichols, former Texas A&M golfer, carded an even-par 70 Sunday and Nicklaus, two-time U.S. amateur champion from Ohio State, went two over par with a 72.

Nicklaus blew a chance to win his first tournament championship when he double-bogeyed the fourth hole Sunday. The young blond from Tucson, Ariz., said he played his approach shot with the wind only to have the wind shift and carry his ball off the green.

Then, choosing to putt the ball rather than chip, Nicklaus hopped his shot high into the air. It landed barely on the green and he had to use two putts to get it in.

Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., fired a 69 Sunday to give him fourth place at 279 and $2,600. Billy Maxwell, of Las Vegas had the day's best round with a 67 that pulled him out of the pack into a three-way tie for fifth place and earned him $2,100.

Also staking out fifth place money of $2,100 were Doug Sanders and Dave Marr, tying Maxwell at 281. Marr fired a 69 Sunday while Sanders had a 73.

Al Geiberger finished the final round with a 282 total for eighth place and $1,700 and Jack Burke was one stroke back in ninth place, a spot worth $1,600.

The two losers of today's playoff will be considered tied for second place regardless of their scores. Each will get $3,800.

Admiral's Voyage Upset Winner At Wood Memorial

By United Press International
Add another hot candidate for next month's Kentucky Derby — Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage, upset winner of Saturday's $81,850 Wood Memorial at Aqueduct.

Admiral's Voyage actually finished in a dead heat for first, but was awarded the winner's garland when Sunshine County was disqualified for interference.

It marked the second time in slightly more than a month that the Townsend B. Martin bay has been denied a big purse by track stewards. He finished first in Hialeah's $100,000 added Flamingo Stakes but was disqualified and placed third.

The Wood is the East's final preview for Kentucky Derby candidates, but several of this year's outstanding 3-year-olds passed it up, thus taking some of the shine away from Admiral's Voyage's victory.

Braulio Baeza rode Admiral's Voyage over the mile and one-eighth in 1:49 4-5 and the winning son of Crafty Admiral returned $15.30, $5.40 and $3.20. Admiral's Voyage and Sunshine County raced head and head down the entire length of the straightaway before finishing in a dead heat. Donut King was third.

Doc Jocoy edged Blue Serenate by a nose to capture the $42,250 California Derby at Tanforan and earn a trip to the Kentucky Derby. Full Regalia was third and the favored Roy Atack could do no better than sixth.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Al Driscoll of Lamar Tech, topped in the Arkansas Spring Invitational Tennis Tournament, defeated Francis Rawstorne 6-1, 3-6, 9-7 Sunday in the tournament finals.

Driscoll then teamed with Rawstorne to win the doubles title from Tim Heckler and Paul Wilkins, 9-7, 6-2. Heckler is also from Lamar Tech, at Beaumont, Tex., and Wilkins, a former Lamar Tech tennis player, plays out of Baytown, Tex.

Just How Many Duck Days' Can One Anticipate

By DICK WEST
 United Press-International
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Each government agency has its own lingo, but none is more picturesque than that spoken in the bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The other day I picked up a statement made by a bureau official before a congressional committee. To my complete bafflement, it was filled with references to "goose-days" and "duck-days."

It took awhile, but I finally found out what those terms mean. I am now convinced that the bureau has made an important contribution to English lexicography.

What is a "duck-day"? Well, a bureau agent goes out and stands by a pond and counts the number of times that ducks land on it in a single day.

Then he takes the total and projects it for an entire year, and that determines how many "duck-days" the pond will have.

It seems to me that the bureau has hit upon a method of arithmetical expression that could be used to good advantage by the public at large.

For instance, I recently took down the storm doors at my house and replaced them with screen doors. The question then arose as to whether I should equip them with anti-slammng devices.

I answered this easily enough by counting the number of times that my children went in and out during a given day. A simple calculation then provided me with the number of "bang-days" that each door would have during the spring and summer.

I next counted the number of times that my wife, who is rather jumpy, dropped a plate or a cup when she heard a sudden noise.

By comparing the "bang-days" with her "smash-days," I quickly concluded that it would pay to buy some door silencers.

With summer coming on, it also would be interesting to ascertain the "sneer-days" of my front lawn. That would show how many times the neighbors turn up their noses at my failure to keep the grass cut.

And how about the "oops-days" of a telephone? The number of times you answer it and someone says "oops, wrong number."

A television set has "blab-days" (number of times the commercials are interrupted by programs) and parking places have "circle-days" (number of times you drive around the block looking for one).

In fact, there are very few facets of every day life that can't be discussed in "duck-days" language.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Spear and Staff market letter states that the sudden clash between business and the administration, coming when the market was vulnerable to any unexpected bad news, could hardly be expected to put stocks on a better footing.

"We're especially concerned over the clash not because of the possible effects on the firms involved," Spear & Staff says, "but rather because of the fact that such struggles do much to undermine the confidence which the public has in the market as a whole. It's not earning power but rather market psychology which holds the key to the present situation."

Investors Research Co. says oil shares continue to stand out. When a group of securities so closely tied to the overall trend of economic activity maintains a bullish price pattern over a period of many months, it is but another sign of an impending economic revival of substantial proportions.

According to Reynolds & Co. technical indicators currently offer little help in forecasting the near-term course of the market and traders should be satisfied to stay on the sidelines pending further developments.

James Dimes, writing for A. M. Kidder & Co., says that a near-term technical rally becomes increasingly probable with each passing day.

African Affairs Expected To Get Worse Before They Get Better!

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Every reasonable expectation is that African affairs will get worse before they begin to get better.

The question this raises is: Who is going to take charge till the dust settles? Five possible answers are given:

The United Nations; the Western European powers that still have a colonial foothold or association on the continent; the Africans themselves; Russia and the Communist bloc countries; the United States.

This country will probably be called on for continuing sizeable contributions no matter which of the first three is given responsibility for preserving the peace.

But the farther the United States can keep out of this mess the better. And this country, presumably and hopefully, would not move in unless everybody else lies down on the job and there is danger the Communists will take over.

The most desirable solution would be for the African states to stabilize themselves. But they're split many ways.

—Independent South Africa is mistrusted if not hated because of its racial policies towards Southwest Africa.

—Portugal is mistrusted and hated because of its old-fashioned colonial hold over Angola and Mozambique.

—The Belgians have been kicked out of the Congo, the Algerians have no love for the French and the British have their troubles in not yet completely liberated East Africa.

The 25 African nations—20 given independence in the last two years—are poor, weak and cannot be relied on to solve their own internal, let alone their continental problems. Recognizing the need for greater unity in their development, they are divided in two rival groups on how to achieve unity.

This was revealed in the Lagos conference.

Five countries in the so-called Casablanca group refused to attend because they favor quick unification of African states.

On the other hand, 19 of the so-called Monrovia powers—with two missing—recognize that there are fundamental racial and cultural differences between the African states. They therefore favor economic and social ties before there are any attempts at political unity.

There is further root-dragging by the former French colonies that are reluctant to take sides in the Algerian dispute because they believe De Gaulle is trying to settle it.

Some of the more aggressive states favor direct military action against Portugal, though they are incapable of carrying it out. Finally, there is the division between Moslem and non-Moslem states, Arabs versus blacks.

All this confusion indicates the magnitude of the African muddle.

Mr. 4% in Pampa is OTT SHEWMAKER 216 N. Russell MO 4-4333 Representing JEFFERSON STANDARD LIFE INS. CO.

And it indicates by process of elimination that the United Nations is perhaps the best if not the only institution that can assist in establishing order and maintaining peace.

(One recent U.N. General Assembly action was overwhelming approval of a resolution calling on Portugal to end repressive measures against Angolans, and to speed self-government for that territory.)

The question is: How can the U.N. assist without appearing to intervene in the internal affairs of member states?

The first answer given is that the U.N. can lend its good offices only if it is invited by the parties to a dispute or if it is ordered to go in by the General Assembly.

The possibility of another Korea-type action is considered remote. The original charter concept that the U.N. would have a peace force superior to that of any single power has been abandoned after years of wrangling with the Russians.

Furthermore, when the U.S. used force in the Congo, it got into trouble. The most the U.N. can do now is act as a police force to preserve order, shooting only to defend itself when shot at.

This is a United Nations limitation if not an actual weakness. But it will have to be taken into full consideration as the U.N. is called on for future peace-keeping jobs around the world.

The Price Of Bigness

As we move rapidly toward the 200-million population mark, we and our leaders are awakening to a hard fact: when the numbers grow great, there is less comfort in the percentages. Automobile fatality rates, for instance, can hold steady while the actual death toll rises alarmingly.

Halaby, head of the Federal Aviation Agency, calls for new breakthroughs to drop fatality ratios far below accustomed "tolerances," recognizing that a vocal public is unlikely to warm itself over old statistics if death tolls are high.

Air traffic safety ratios, comparatively speaking, looked quite good in 1960. In fact, the numerical total of commercial aviation fatalities was a staggering, record 336. The painless percentage made nobody happy.

Automobile safety specialists are happy for the moment that car traffic fatalities are not keeping pace with population growth and higher traffic volume. Actual deaths in 1961 were down a bit from 1960.

The other day police authorities in a major city said that 85 per cent of boys 18 or younger were law-abiding. But in a nation with soaring numbers of youngsters, the other 15 per cent, by sheer weight of their growing mass, can pose a bigger and bigger threat to public order.

Still, with volume booming over higher and new road networks lagging in construction, there is no assurance the present good showing can be maintained. Even a return only to the old "tolerable" accident rates would at this stage look like a major safety defeat.

In fact, police in the city in question said youths 18 or under accounted for 40 per cent of all 1961 crimes on the city's streets.

Law enforcement officers and all those concerned with the training and disciplining of the young are beginning to understand, as they cope with more and more wrongdoing, that percentages are no longer their friend.

Three Factors

There are three human elements in all types of production each of which must be satisfied with the process or the final act of production will fail. These are: the investor, the worker and the customer. Managers are merely a specialized type of worker engaged in the task of bringing the various factors of production together successfully.

Without Season — Justice

An ancient proverb informs us that half is better than none. But, as in all things, there are glaring exceptions. Take, for example, two provisions of a tax bill now under House of Representatives consideration.

The provisions being considered by the House would allow the deduction of expenses spent for lobbying. But they would disallow money spent for advertising which is designed to influence public opinion. In substance, then, an enterprise whose very existence is at stake will still be denied the right to appeal to the public, which makes the ultimate decisions in all such matters, except at a heavy tax penalty.

These deal with rulings laid down by the Internal Revenue Service, and held by the highest courts to be in accord with existing law. In effect, the rulings say that an enterprise cannot deduct, for income tax purposes, expenditures made in effort to influence legislation and public opinion. They have been applied to many businesses — the primary one being the electric power utilities, to which opposition to socialized power is a life and death matter.

The Portland Oregonian correctly said of this: "It would make a distinction between talking to your congressman and talking to the public, to the disadvantage of the latter approach. Such distinction has no support in reason." Or, it may be added, in simple justice.

Russian Objection Studied

When, as at Geneva, the Russians demonstrate anew how unyielding they are in negotiation, discouragement tends to overwhelm even the eternally hopeful in the Western world.

great military and industrial power by mid-century, whatever regime she might have had. This greater strength would certainly have whetted her ambitions and stiffened her diplomacy. It is against this reality, not against a state of blissful conflictlessness, that Soviet recalcitrance and hostility have to be measured.

Some impatient conservatives, supported from the Far Right, would like to see a virtual end to all such efforts at accommodation with the Soviet Union.

In other words, stubborn, untrustworthy Russian behavior in the international sphere is centuries old. And we would most likely be frustrated by these traits even if the Russians lived today under democracy.

But living as they do under rigid communism, with its goal of world conquest, they vastly enlarge the problem of dealing with them.

Strong right-wingers are severely criticized by their opposites for wishing to close out such dealings. Yet, clearly, many liberals have no more tolerance than the right-wingers for enduring the exasperations of unfruitful negotiations with the Soviets.

In his book, "Russia and the West," Kennan makes these pertinent points:

This is the import of "The Liberal Papers," a collection of essays on the world struggle by liberal scholars and intellectuals, undertaken in 1959 at the behest of 10 Democratic congressmen including Rep. James Roosevelt of California, editor of the project.

Running through these writings is the attitude that the tensions and dangers of nuclear-age stalemate with the Russians are "intolerable" and cannot be borne indefinitely. Hence the proposals for weeping concessions, aimed at breaking the deadlock.

Nothing in Russian history suggests however, that life for free men would be one inch easier after such concessions. The realistic expectation would be great new Soviet demands.

Hard as it may be, "living with the Russian problem" seems the only course. Free men have trod that path a long, long time.

TRUTH-FORUM

With Ed Delaney

During his two unsuccessful campaigns for the presidency the loquacious Adlai Stevenson indulged in puns and allegedly amusing comments. Now serving as our ambassador to the United Nations he appears to be indulging in supposedly serious observations, but when stripped to their basis we find they are flights of fancy rather than fact.

Recently he made a pitch before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in an effort to win their approval for the 100-million-dollar gift to the bankrupt U.N.—under the guise of purchasing its bonds for that amount. Bonds with no more worth than an empty cigarette carton. After warming up to his sales theme, Adlai said that "in all the history of the U.N. I know of not one case in which the U.N. has injured the vital interests of the United States."

One would imagine he was speaking to a class of 10-year-olds who knew little of our recent history and the facts concerning the U.N. The tragic record of our defeat in Korea, brought about by the U.N. and the supine acquiescence of President Truman to the demands of the pro-communists in Washington and in the U.N. completely refutes the words of Adlai Stevenson. In a wholly futile effort to substantiate his statement that the U.N. had never injured the interests of the United States, Adlai said "there is the memory of the support which the U.N. gave in the defense of the Republic of Korea." There were some troops other than those of the United States in that war which the U.N. and Truman decreed should be won by the communists against the vital interests of the United States. But those other troops constituted but a fraction of the forces under command of Gen. MacArthur whom Truman and the U.N. decided must be removed because he declared there is no substitute for victory. For Stevenson to say that the U.N. gave support to the Republic of Korea is palpable falsehood.

Moreover, at the beginning of that "police action" a resolution was adopted by the U.N. guaranteeing there would be no partition of Korea. Was that adhered to? Certainly not. It the U.N. did not actually master-mind the vicious division of Korea, then there was close collaboration with the Soviet and the Chinese Communists to partition the country. And it was not in the interest of the United States, regardless of what Adlai told the Senate committee.

He also touched on another phase of U.N. history. The American people, he said, rejoiced to see the people of the old colonial empires attain their independence and there may soon be 20 more new nations seeking membership in the U.N. This, he stressed, is in line with our Declaration of Independence which asserts that all men are created equal and have unalienable rights. Quite so. But the same rights are for the people of Hungary, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia with their centuries-old culture and predominantly Christian heritage. The U.N. abandoned them, and in the case of Hungary passed 12 resolutions condemning the obliteration of its independence by a member of the U.N. Although some of the liberals and supporters of U.N. policies may have rejoiced at that, the majority of the American people did not.

Climaxing his effusion over the U.N., Stevenson said that "as far as the United States is concerned I believe the game at the U.N. is exactly our national style." That is a libelous charge against the character of the American people. The game as played by the U.N.—a policy of perfidy and abandonment of peoples and principles—is diametrically opposed to what we like to believe is our "national style" of fulfilling our pledges and commitments. The game as played by the U.N. may be exactly what those such as Adlai Stevenson regard as commendable. It has brought the U.N. to both moral and financial bankruptcy.

Whatever else they may have to regret, the American people give thanks to God that on two occasions the voters rejected the man who downgraded the United States to the level of the U.N.

Hard as it may be, "living with the Russian problem" seems the only course. Free men have trod that path a long, long time.

U.S. To Detonate Nuclear Warhead In Outer Space, via Missiles, for First Time

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — In the impending new series of atmospheric nuclear tests in the Pacific, the U.S. for the first time, will use ballistic missiles to detonate warheads in outer space.

Missiles to be used in these tests include the Army and Air Force's intermediate range Redstone and Thor, and the former's Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile. If weather and other factors permit, the first of the new series of nuclear tests may take place later this week, in the vicinity of Britain's Christmas Island, some 1,200 miles south of Hawaii.

Tentatively, approximately 27 atmospheric tests have been scheduled. This number may be increased 10 or more, as strongly favored by Atomic Energy Commission scientists and military authorities. Determination of such additions depends on the outcome of certain tests.

Plans for the series are based on their running into July. Most powerful warhead that will be tested is in the 12 megaton (million) range. This will be an air drop from a high-flying B-52 bomber.

No test comparable to the Soviet's stupendous 58 megaton shot is contemplated. The Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Atomic Energy Commission favored such a test. The U.S. has nuclear weapons of this magnitude. Tests of them were urged to determine the effects on (1) underground missile installations, (2) communications systems, and (3) early warning networks.

But President Kennedy ruled out such tests for the time being, chiefly in deference to world opinion. However, this decision may be reconsidered if Russia resumes nuclear testing during the U.S. series. The President strongly indicated this in inner council discussions of the possibility of new Soviet tests.

OUTER SPACE SHOTS — One of the most unique tests will employ an Air Force intermediate range ballistic Thor missile and a recoverable Discoverer satellite. The Thor will be used to detonate a nuclear warhead at a height of "more than 100 miles." Simultaneously, a Discoverer satellite will be launched from Vandenberg Airbase, Calif., to pass through the explosion area.

Purpose of this unusual test is to ascertain effects on the satellite. Laboratory experiments indicate direct electromagnetic effects of great intensity in the area of nuclear blasts. These experiments also point to certain possible effects on satellites of the huge cloud of radioactive ionized particles produced by nuclear explosions.

The outer space tests will range from heights of 50 to 300 miles. The first of these space shots, by means of ballistic missiles, is slated for early May from Johnston Island, approximately 600 miles southwest of Hawaii. These tests are considered the most important of the series.

Other tests will be from steel towers and air drops. The Navy will test a new underwater depth bomb and a rocket torpedo armed with a nuclear warhead. Primary purpose of the series, the first by the U.S. in three and a half years, is to perfect missile warheads of considerably reduced size while greatly increased in destructive power.

In some instances the size of these weapons has been cut in half and their explosive force intensified by as much as 50 per cent.

This has been accomplished by materially decreasing the size of the fission bomb trigger required for detonating the thermonuclear explosion of a bomb or warhead. That is what the Soviet demonstrated it had accomplished in its tests last year.

Typhoid Vaccine Protects Only Against That Disease

Q—There has just been an epidemic of paratyphoid fever in our local high school. My daughter, who has rheumatic heart disease, was one of many victims. It has left her so weakened I don't think she'll be able to finish the term and she is heartbroken.

I was warned to protect her from all sorts of infections and just last year she had her shots for typhoid and para-typhoid fever. I think they call it triple typhoid. How then is it possible for her to come down with an attack? Shouldn't she have been protected by the vaccine? Or the school doctor?

A—Your question and confusion are natural. Let me try to explain. The triple typhoid vaccine, that contains the organisms also of paratyphoids A and B, actually protects only against typhoid fever. In fact, I have been unsuccessfully trying to convince manufacturers to omit paratyphoid organisms from the vaccine since they are almost useless as you've just found out and they add to the unpleasant reactions from the shots.

The reason they're useless is because there are dozens and dozens of paratyphoid organisms and the immunity that develops to any one is so specific it affords no protection against near relatives.

Because of this, the triple vaccine gives a false sense of security. Thus, what has happened to your daughter is not due to any carelessness on your part, or on the part of the school doctor. Unfortunately, if another member of the paratyphoid family (called salmonellos) or of the closely related dysentery group (called shigellosis) came along tomorrow, you'd have another outbreak unless public health authorities could swiftly discover the source of the contamination and control or eliminate it. The source could be water or milk supplies or a food handler.

Q—I just had a complete health examination—and was told I was O.K. except for a high white count. What does that mean? Is it serious?

A—I can't answer satisfactorily without knowing more details. But the likelihood is that the high count has no significance or your doctor wouldn't have dismissed the finding so lightly. However, for your information and peace of mind, a high white count may be due to a technical error by a laboratory technician.

If it is correct, however, and due to an increased number of marrow cells (leucocytes), it usually signifies the presence of infection with a staph or a strep or some related organism. If it is due to an increase in cells derived from lymph nodes (lymphocytes), it may also be due to infection but with organisms such as those of whooping cough or one of the typhoid fevers.

If it is due to an increase in what are called the mononuclear cells (single nucleus), you may be coming down with the so-called "kissing disease," infectious mononucleosis, that is most prevalent in the spring.

If the finding continues to bother you, despite this scant outline of possibilities, ask your doctor to have the count repeated in duplicate. Don't eat for a few hours before the time of the expected examination because the count rises after meals. If the increase persists, ask your doctor to explain.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D., in care of this paper. He will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

For a copy of Dr. Hyman's new leaflet "My Aching Back," send 10 cents to Dr. Hyman, care of The Pampa News, Box 489, Dept. B, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

Up to U.S. To Set Reform Example For Latin America

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (N E A) — There's a deadly parallel between U.S. congressional reluctance to enact some of the programs proposed by President Kennedy and the reluctance of Latin-American congresses to enact land, tax and other governmental reforms considered necessary for the success of the Alliance for Progress.

There is plenty of Washington criticism of Latin-American oligarchies. Some of the most bitter critics of all U.S. foreign aid programs would gladly see all grants and loans for Latin-American countries held up until they learn how to democratize and govern themselves responsibly.

Latin Americans' neglect of their working people, their enforced poverty, disease and lack of educational opportunity are decried. Unwillingness of the rich, land-owning class to pay higher taxes is castigated. Their refusal to sell excessive holdings so that more of the predominantly rural population can own the land they work is held a primary cause of the low per capita income rates and the low standard of living.

Refusal of the rich to invest in the development of their own countries is cited as a principal reason they are underdeveloped, though possessing vast natural resources. And yet, if they wanted to, the Latinos can point to their rich Uncle to the North and ask pointedly why he doesn't set his own house in better order before censuring others.

This year the centennial of the great Civil War that was fought to abolish slavery, establish freedom and equal opportunity for all. But only now—100 years later—has the U.S. Senate approved a constitutional amendment to abolish poll taxes as a requirement for voting in federal elections. Whether it will pass the House is doubtful.

The proposition that literacy tests be abolished as a qualification for voting by those having sixth grade education has an even more uncertain future. And a presidential proposal that an attack be made on adult illiteracy in the United States is not yet assured of passage.

In fact, President Kennedy's re-organization plan to establish a Department of Urban Affairs in the federal government to look after some of the problems of growing city population was turned down by Congress earlier this year. The record of the present Congress shows bitter opposition to many other long-recognized and long-needed reforms:

Tax reform to close loopholes that benefit special privilege; land reform to take out of production marginal acres responsible for unmarketable surpluses; public works programs to help the unemployed in surplus labor market areas, aid to education; health care for the aged; stimulation and stabilization of the economy to cushion the effect of recessions and help reduce poverty.

All these are unnecessary evils existing in far greater degree in Latin America than in the United States. North Central Americans want the South and Central Americans to make reforms in a hurry. If speed in reform is desired south of the border, however, setting a good example north of the border might help.

But General De Gaulle Knows Why!

Kennedy Is Popular In Europe

EDITORS NOTE: The writer of this dispatch has just returned to the United States after a three-year assignment in Europe.

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five minutes after being introduced to an American it's an even-money bet that this question will be thrown at you: "What do Europeans REALLY think of President Kennedy? Is he popular over there?"

The answer is yes. But not primarily because of things he has said and done since he entered the White House. Europeans do not follow the day-to-day activities of the President of the United States and their appraisal of him is more emotional than actual.

A big asset Kennedy has right now is his wife. Europeans, both men and women, may be completely ignorant about such Kennedy projects as medical care for the aged, but they can tell you all about Jackie, her hats, her dresses and her children. Her recent trip to India and Pakistan was widely reported and photographed by the European press. Earlier she enjoyed a triumph in Paris, Vienna and London when she accompanied her husband to Europe.

President Charles de Gaulle is near-sighted and reluctant to wear glasses. There was quite a stir at a state dinner in Paris when the President and Mrs. Kennedy arrived. De Gaulle put on his glasses and kept them on for about ten minutes and he wasn't focusing on Kennedy's white tie either. Later he unbent enough to pay a public tribute to Jackie's charm.

Kennedy took note of the enthusiastic Paris crowds that turned out to greet his wife in a speech at a press luncheon: "I would like to introduce myself as the man who came to Paris with Jacqueline Kennedy."

The other day he referred to it again at a dinner for the Shah of Iran and Queen Fara. He said he and the Shah had gone through an identical experience in Paris. Both of them had taken their wives there and both the Shah and himself were ignored.

Europeans have a built-in prejudice in favor of Presidents who are members of the Democratic party. By a quirk of history, it has always been a Democrat in recent years who has rushed to the rescue of our European Allies when their existence was threatened. It started with Woodrow Wilson in World War I, continued with Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Second-World War, and with Harry Truman and his Truman doctrine and Marshall plan. Few Europeans think it through to the point where they come to the conclusion that Republican Presidents probably would have reacted just as quickly in the same set of circumstances.

Kennedy's comparative youth helps him, too. Europeans frequently wonder out loud whether the Chief Executives of our principal Allies — De Gaulle, A de millan in Britain — are getting too old and too tired to stand up under the constant rain of blows from the Moscow hammer and sickle.

The residents of West Berlin, in particular, seem to set great store by the fact the President of the United States has not even reached middle age. When Kennedy reinforced the West Berlin garrison, called up the reserves and sent Gen. Lucius Clay to the scene of the crisis, there was great relief among the Berliners. One elderly man made a remark that roughly could be translated: "The boy has grown taller than the men."

Population Is Now Above 186 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's constantly increasing population reached 186 million Saturday.

The Census Bureau's population "clock" — a device which resembles the mileage meter in an auto dashboard — hit 186 million at about 2 p. m. est. Officials said that the reading was symbolically accurate but not scientifically precise. The "clock" shows a gain of one person every 10 1/2 seconds of the day (it is shut off at night and corrected in the morning) on the basis of the following averages: A birth occurs every 7 1/2 seconds. Someone dies every 19 seconds.

An immigrant arrives in United States every 1 1/2 minutes. Someone leaves this country every 23 minutes.

Major Lost His Post For Supporting Walker

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maj. Arch E. Roberts was told by the Army last September that he had disqualified himself for information duty because of activities on behalf of rightwing former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, it was learned Saturday.

ex-major general was commanding the 24th Infantry Division in Germany.

The major has now been suspended from military duty and confined to his post at Ft. Lee, Va., pending investigation of a speech he made Thursday before the Daughters of the American Revolution here.

He attributed a "Communist background" to Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles and "leftist leanings" to Ast. Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams who is out of the country. Yorty vehemently denied the allegation and called Roberts a "crackpot."

The Army made clear that the earlier action against Roberts does not figure in the current inquiry by Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr.

Roberts was reassigned "without prejudice" from his New York post, and was given duty as a medical supply officer at Ft. Lee. The phrase, "without prejudice," meant that nothing injurious was placed in his permanent service record.

But the Army said Saturday he was told at the time that he was being transferred "because of personal actions which placed him at variance with established positions of the Department of the Army."

First record of measurement of atmospheric pressure with a barometer was given in 1643 by Evangelista Torricelli, who had been an assistant of Galileo.
