

The Agriculture Department

triumph of bureaucracy

By Ray Cromley

First it was Billie Sol Estes... then reports of scandals involving sales of government cotton... then other reports of sale of rice planting allotments... each day seems to reveal new evidence of the big mess in government-regulated agriculture.

To find out why and how such things happen, top Washington reporter Ray Cromley spent weeks digging into the working ways of the Department of Agriculture. He found:

- ... A maze of often-conflicting regulations and officials.
- ... A score of temptations to illegal or unethical operations by farmers and wheel-dealer types such as Estes.
- ... Dedicated men working against the dead weight of practices built up over a century.
- ... Unimaginative men giving routine attention to jobs that involve millions of dollars.

Cromley's hard-hitting informative series will take you behind the day's headlines. Don't miss his three-part report, "The Agriculture Department: Triumph of Bureaucracy," starting tomorrow in the Pampa News.

US Produced Famed Mexican Bullfighter

EL PASO (UPI)—The United States produced one of Mexico's most famous bullfighters more than a half-century ago, according to a new book, "Knight in the Sun," written by veteran newspaperman Marshall Hail of El Paso.

It is a biography of Harper B. Lee, first American matador de toros. The book was illustrated by artist-author Tom Lea of El Paso and published today by Little, Brown and Co. of Boston.

Hail is on the staff of the El Paso Herald-Post.

"Harper Lee was a celebrity in his day but, partly because of the Mexican Revolution, became the forgotten man of bullfighting," Hail said.

"Some call him greater than Sidney Franklin, the bullfighter from Brooklyn. He antedated Franklin by many years and his example, cited by matador Rodolfo Gaona, inspired Franklin to embark on his own noteworthy career."

Hail gives for the first time Harper Lee's family background and the relationship between him and the father who disowned him.

Son of Ranger
Lee, born in Ysleta, Tex., in 1884, was the son of a noted Texas Ranger, Capt. James B. Gillett. His mother was Helen Baylor, daughter of Gillett's Ranger commander, Col. George W. Baylor.

Gillett's autobiography did not mention his son Harper or the latter's mother. The reasons for this omission were unearthed by Hail from old court records.

Gillett became embittered after Helen Baylor Gillett divorced him and young Harper, who went to Mexico with his mother, took the name of his stepfather, Lee. The lad fought bulls as an amateur in Guadalajara and made his professional debut there in 1908. In 1909 he made his Mexico City debut, scoring a sensational triumph with Miura bulls.

Gillett was so displeased with his son's chosen profession that he refused to help Harper when the matador was near death from a goring in San Luis Potosi, according to Hail's books. Years later, father and son had a reconciliation of sorts, and Harper resumed the name Gillett.

Top Torero
Hail said Lee proved to Mexican skeptics that a non-Latin could make good as a torero.

"Lee was good with the cape," he said. "He displayed artistry with the muleta. He was almost always accurate with the sword. He was in a class by himself with the banderillas— particularly in placing the sticks in the manner now called 'Al Quiebro.' But his greatest characteristic was utter fearlessness. Every critic in Mexico agreed that he was very brave."

Lee spent his last years in San Antonio and his widow, Mrs. Roxa D. Gillett, resides there now.

Lea, himself the author of "The Brave Bulls," said the final effect of Hail's biography "is about a man, a real man, of decent mind and high heart and poignant tragedy."

Fourteen Pampa Scouts participating are David Cain, John Elder, Scott George, Fred Tinsley, David Bailey, David Taylor, David Frasier, Jim Brumley, Charles Graham, Bill Campaigne, Scott Baldwin, Sonny Merrill and Arthur Smalley.

The boys will return from the training camps at 4 p.m. Sunday. The second camp begins at 2 p.m. July 28 and ends at 4 p.m. July 29.

"We will still accept reservations for the canoe trip, although we are within three boys of our capacity," Brantly Hudson, Scout Executive, said.

Transportation to the wilderness

Canoe Base, Ely, Minn., will be by chartered Continental Trailways bus, which will leave from the City Hall with Pampa Scouts at 6 a.m. Aug. 6. Other Scouts will be picked up in Berger, Spearman and Guymon, Okla.

The boys will return Aug. 21, after spending ten days camping, fishing and canoeing in the north woods. It includes 4,000 square miles used by Scouts making trips out of the Charles S. Summers Wilderness Canoe Base on Moose Lake.

The area includes the Superior National Forest on the United States side and the Quetico Provincial Park in Canada. The base is located in the Minnesota Arrowhead country, 22 miles northeast of Ely and three miles, by water, from the United States - Canadian boundary.

"Although approximately 5,000 Boy Scouts from all over the Unit-States will participate in the expedition throughout the two-month season, they will be divided into individual crews of 15 Explorers and one adult guide and advisor," Hudson said.

The fee of $140 per Scout includes transportation to the canoe base, meals, canoe base fees, overnight housing and training camps. Every scout must be 14 years old by Aug. 6 and be able to carry on his back or in a canoe all his food, bedroll, fishing and cooking equipment and other trail necessities.

Overnight stops at the Army, Navy, and Air Force installations at Fort Riley, Des Moines and Minneapolis will offer base tours, movies and swimming.

The Council selected four leaders for this expedition, Glen Briles, of Turpin, Okla., W. O. Kindy of Guymon, Stina Cain of Clarendon and John R. Collard of Spearman.

Local Store Hit By Burglars

Police today were investigating a report of a burglary in Levine's Department Store, 101 S. Cuyler St., which netted the thieves a complete wardrobe and $15 in cash, as well as miscellaneous items.

Officers said they received a report this morning from Murray Lillienfeld, manager, that several items of clothing and a March of Dimes canister was taken from the store sometime last night.

Upon investigation, officers said the thief or thieves must have been locked in the store at closing time last night, because no visible means of breaking into the building could be found.

Officers said a broken pair of scissors and a bag containing $7.50 worth of pennies was found near the basement door on the north side of the building where the thieves made their exit. The scissors were used to pry the hasp off the inside door and then the door was pushed back from the inside.

Another pair of broken scissors was found near the office where an attempt had been made to pry open a desk drawer. Officers also found a pair of dirty socks, near the shoe display.

Lillienfeld told officers the articles taken included a pair of shoes, size 8, valued at $5.50; several pairs of Levis; two pairs of cowboy boots, size 9; one shirt; two pairs of underwear, one 12 pack of handkerchiefs; four transistor radios valued at $29.99 each; two more transistors valued at $16.88 each and several $5.99 radios.

Approximately $15 dollars in small change was taken from a March of Dimes canister.

Police also received a report from Phil Burton, manager of Baker Plastics Inc., 516 W. Wilka, that sometime Sunday night, someone pulled open the double doors of the building. Nothing was reported taken.

Bulletin Adds To Water Resources Info For Area

The Texas Water Commission has just issued a Bulletin which adds to the available knowledge of the Southern High Plains water resources.

Bulletin 6207, "Water - Level Measurements Through 1962 in Selected Observation Wells, Southern High Plains, Texas," reports ground-water level measurements in observation wells in 25 Southern High Plains counties which include the most extensive irrigated farming development in the State. The bulletin may be obtained without cost from the Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 2311, Capitol Station, Austin.

Yearly water-level measurements on 1,150 observation wells for the entire period of record, and maps showing their location in the 25 counties are contained in the publication. Some of the annual measurements date back as far as the 1930's. These well measurements thoroughly document the major declines of water levels in the areas of heavy irrigation pumpage, such as in parts of Lubbock, Hale and Floyd Counties.

Declines extended into the 1961-62 period for most of the wells, though in most cases these were small. The average drop in level this year for all wells measured was 0.62 feet.

Personnel from the Texas Water Commission were assisted by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, the U.S. Geological Survey, and the Ground Water Conservation District No. 3 South of the Canadian River in making the 1962 field measurements of observation wells.

Systematic measurement of water levels in observation wells is useful as an index in maintaining a current inventory of available water supplies and in making quantitative predictions of the future availability of those supplies.

Counties covered by the publication are Armstrong, Bailey, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Donley, Floyd, Gaines, Gray, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Oldham, Parmer, Randall, Roberts, Swisher, Terry, and Yoakum.

The Old West Just Isn't What It Used To Be

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — The old west just isn't what it used to be — you can't even leave your wagon and team on the street while the family gets some "vittles."

It seems there is a city ordinance preventing horses from being on city property.

So when the Leon Gillis family of nine — who traveled 4,000 miles from Providence Forge, Va., in a covered wagon — parked their Conestoga wagon and two Percheron horses across from City Hall so they could have dinner, police explained the problem and the family headed west.

The family only wanted to stop for a meal, but it looks like the town also missed out on a pretty lively party — Gillis and his wife, Iyone, 38, celebrated their 20th anniversary Sunday.

ADDED ATTRACTION—Visitors to New York City are seeing a new detail on the famous skyline. This new twin-jet helicopter carries passengers among three airports and at times seems to blur tag with the skyscrapers.

Goldberg May Ask Walkouts Be Barred From Defense Industries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor secretary Arthur J. Goldberg has indicated he will ask Congress to bar walkouts at missile sites and plants if that defense industry is hit by a strike scheduled for a week from today.

Goldberg said the security of the nation could not afford work stoppages in this field.

The United Auto Workers and the International Association of Machinists are jointly negotiating, mostly in California, with five major missile and aircraft producers. Little progress has been made so far and the two unions have said they will call their members off the job if a settlement is not reached by July 23.

Goldberg said that while strikes anywhere were not desirable, they could at least be tolerated in most areas of the economy as a price the nation pays for freedom.

But he said, the nation could not afford a strike in the missile manufacturing plants because "the security of all of us depends on uninterrupted production."

Water Rates

taxes. A subsidy to a private special interest group is not a proper realm of government. Government should be limited to those things that the individual has the right to do for himself, such as self defense against aggression. A subsidy resulted in the action by government to collect money unjustly, thus to obtain funds in a manner that would be illegal for an individual.

Graham stated that he would oppose city government subsidy to any special interest group. He added that water rates should be as uniform and as cheap as is humanly possible to make them, while keeping in mind the necessities of the city government, both now and in the foreseeable future.

In an apparent reference to the City Manager's long-range financial plan, Commissioner Graham said: "Good economics demand that the long-range effect should be a prime consideration. If we do not adhere to a high standard of city government, how can we expect the injustices of federal government to be reduced?"

Spokesmen for the Fairview Cemetery Association included Ed Dunigan, C. P. Buckler, Fred Hobart, and Atty. William Smith. "Dunigan pointed to the fine job the association had done in keeping Fairview Cemetery a beauty spot and added that it had saved the City of Pampa a great deal of money by maintaining a cemetery which costs the city nothing more than the water it contributed.

Dunigan also pointed to two examples of cities losing money in the operation of cemeteries. He said Charlotte, N.C., lost $33,000 in 1961 and Grand Haven, Mich., lost $18,000.

He also pointed out that the cemetery is a non-profit organization operating under the control of the State Banking Commission. Directors of the association, he said, receive no pay. "Fairview Cemetery took in about $25,000 last year," Dunigan said, "and spent $25,000 for maintenance."

He also pointed out that the cemetery association had paid $4,600 as its share of paying for the pavement of Duncan St. and had spent $2,700 for paving inside the cemetery.

Dunigan told the commissioners an agreement was made on water rates between the City, County and Cemetery Association in 1934 in order that the association could keep up the cemetery grounds. The city was to charge only a nominal rate and all city commissions up until now have gone along with this agreement.

"Now," he said, "we ask that this, this commission honor this agreement."

Hoyt Haynie, manager of Memory Gardens, a relatively new cemetery opened west of the city limits just off Airport Road, asked to be heard and told commissioners that Memory Gardens was established with the intention of not being a liability to anyone.

Haynie stated, however, that his cemetery also is a perpetual care cemetery and operates under the same rules and regulations as Fairview. He stated it also is under control of the State Banking Commission.

He explained that Memory Gardens has its own water wells and water system. It had been brought out earlier that Fairview Cemetery's water bill would approximate $100 a month if it were on the same basis as other commercial water consumers.

"Water is the most expensive item a cemetery has," Haynie said, "and it costs us a lot more than $100 a month to operate our own system. We have only 6 and a half acres at present and that is less than Fairview. Our costs for water runs into thousands of dollars a year and I don't see how you can get by on $100 a month."

"Memory Gardens has no desire to be a liability to the city, but if the city will give it to us we would like to get the same water rate that Fairview has—we would like to have it."

Haynie said Memory Gardens now has some 1,200 lot owners. "In recent weeks," he said, "we have been asked by many of our lot owners why we can't have the same rate. Fairview is getting."

Mayor E. C. Sidwell, who presided at the hearing, invited the Fairview Cemetery officials to join with city officials in deliberating the matter further.

"I feel we can do this in a business-like manner and I believe this situation can be settled to your satisfaction."

The hearing was adjourned at 10:30 a.m. and the city officials returned to their regular meeting place in City Hall to take up regular business matters.

At this session the commission approved a bid of $4,000 submitted by Frank Shaw for repairs to one of the horse barns in Recreation Park. It was stated the work was expected to be finished in time for the Top O' Texas Rodeo late next month.

An ordinance extending the city limits to include an additional 4.13 acres of the Bethune Heights addition was passed on final reading.

Bills totaling $1,919.10 were approved for payment to Continental Oil Co. for gasoline and oil.

Smoking Mothers, Premature Babies Are Linked In Government Project

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The expectant mother who smokes stands a greater risk of giving birth to a premature baby than the woman who does not smoke, according to a government-sponsored research project.

The U.S. Public Health Service reported Sunday that early findings also indicate that the infant born to a cigarette-smoking woman is likely to be smaller at birth than the baby of a non-smoking mother.

The health service released some of the "preliminary findings of a research project now in its fourth year. It said the results so far should be "viewed with caution" because the research activities are still going on.

But it said that what has been learned so far "may prove to be promising leads for future investigation."

The research program—dealing with the connection between birth defects and events during pregnancy—has involved more than 23,000 expectant mothers and 17, children, the health service said. It is being conducted by 15 medical centers and under the coordination of the service's National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness.

'Stubborn' Bureaucrat May Have Prevented An American Tragedy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the story of a woman who refused to let criticism sway her doubts about a new drug. Her refusal to approve its sale in the United States may have prevented thousands of babies from being born with deformities.)

By LEON BURNETT
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Frances Oldham Kelsey of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has been called a stubborn woman. She also has been called an unreasonable bureaucrat.

But Assistant FDA Commissioner Winton B. Rankin says the American public owes her a vote of thanks for that stubbornness.

Rankin confirmed that Dr. Kelsey may have prevented "an American tragedy" by her steadfast refusal to allow the marketing in this country of a sleeping pill later linked to grotesque deformities in newborn children.

The 47-year-old drug specialist withstood a barrage of criticism before a medical investigation eventually proved that her suspicions were well-founded.

The story, which was related Sunday by the Washington Post, involves a drug with the chemical name thalidomide and a rare type of birth defect known as phocomelia.

West German Development
Thalidomide was developed in 1954 by a West German firm but was discarded because it showed no effect on test animals. In 1958 another German firm found that it promised to be the best sleep-inducer ever — no hangover, no danger in overdosage.

Under the trade name of Contergan the drug found a booming market in West Germany. It was sold in Britain as Distaval, in Portugal as Softenon, and in Canada as Telimol.

In September 1960 the William S. Merrell Co. of Cincinnati asked the FDA for clearance to market the compound in the United States.

The thalidomide application became the first assignment for Dr. Kelsey who had just joined FDA.

Along with the application came data claiming the drug to be safe for use. But Dr. Kelsey was not convinced. She repeatedly refused to approve the drug and her superiors backed her up.

Dr. Kelsey says there were insinuations that she was a hairsplitter, an unreasonable bureaucrat — that she was stupid. But she refused to budge from her position.

A variety of possible causes, from heredity to radioactive fallout, were considered and discarded. Then last November Dr. W. Lenz, a Hamburg pediatrician, conducted a study which showed that about 20 per cent of the mothers of deformed infants whom he treated had taken thalidomide. After further investigation, he found the rate went up to 50 per cent.

The drug was found to be dangerous to the unborn when taken by the mother within 20 to 40 days after conception. During this period, Dr. Lenz believes, the chances are at least two in five that the baby will be affected.

Removed From Market
Thalidomide was removed from the market in Germany and elsewhere. But it is estimated that by the end of August the number of deformed children born in West Germany will be between 3,500 and 6,000. One of three is expected to die.

Dr. Kelsey, wife of another pharmacist, F. Ellis Kelsey, special assistant to the surgeon general, and the mother of two daughters, 15 and 12, had this to say about her role in keeping the drug off the American market:

"They certainly thought I was unreasonable. But I didn't feel the material to back it up was very adequate.

"The company was very anxious to get the stuff on the market, but this was routine."

The whole general tenor of the criticism of her "was sort of a 'stubbornness,'" she said.

Production Credit Groups Urging Observance Of Farm Safety Week

CANADIAN (SPL) — Farm organizations and cooperating agencies and groups across the nation will join together in observance of National Farm Safety Week, July 22-28.

As proclaimed by President Kennedy, all persons and organizations allied with agriculture are urged to join in the effort to reduce the number of farm, home and highway accidents. The week is sponsored by the Department of Agriculture and the National Safety Council, in cooperation with various other farm agencies and organizations.

The Canadian Production Credit Association, agricultural financing organization, serving a six-county area of the Panhandle, is among the area agricultural groups participating in the week's observance.

farm resident deaths, home and work accidents caused 680,000 disabling injuries, in comparison to only 180,000 disabling injuries due to motor vehicle accidents, he explained, emphasizing the necessity of good safety practices at home and at work on the farm and ranch.

About 1,000 persons are killed each year in farm tractor accidents, the PCA executive said, and 45,000 nonfatal accidents involving tractors occur each year. He warned against carelessness, darning or sporting liberties while driving a tractor in the field, on the farm or on the highway.

Affliction Becomes Common
In 1961 West Germany found itself confronted by a vexing medical problem. Phocomelia, an affliction so rare that some medical dictionaries do not even list it, was becoming all too common.

Ordinarily, a victim of phocomelia is missing one arm and small rudimentary fingers grow from the stub. But the cases in Germany were worse. Some infants were born with both arms or legs missing, others with three limbs and a few with none at all.

"We urge all our stockholders and all other farming and ranching people to participate in the observance, and to help decrease the alarming number of accidents occurring to our agricultural population," declared E. L. Crowell, general manager of the association, owned and operated by farmers and ranchers in Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Roberts, Hemphill, Gray and Wheeler counties.

Crowell pointed out that although the farm population is only 3.7 per cent of the nation's total, farm and ranch people suffered 13 per cent of the motor vehicle deaths in 1960 and 13 per cent of the nonfatal accidents of motor vehicles.

According to National Safety Council figures, Crowell said, fatal accidents to farm and ranch residents in 1960 totalled 11,300 with disabling injuries reaching a total of 950,000. Accidents included motor vehicle, home, work and public nonmotor vehicle.

Although motor vehicle accidents counted for nearly half of

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The popularity of CBS-TV's "Captain Kangaroo" shows that a lot of kids have pretty good taste until they start hanging around with adults.

And with the networks promising a new wave of special children's programs come fall, it seemed like a good time Monday to catch some pointers from the daily, hour-long show presided over by Robert Keeshan, who plays the title role.

The new wave is more of a ripple. But it is something — and parents should be grateful to Newton Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, for his pressure in this as well as other areas that concern serious televisioners.

The lesson in Keeshan's accomplishment — and it was no different Monday — is the way he avoids lecturing his young people. The chubby, mustachioed, soft-spoken wonder believes in self-reliance, and teaches his youngsters by example or off-the-cuff remarks.

Monday, for instance, he wound up a toy animal that drank milk; imparted the happiness of tasteful music with a film of clapping hands; told the story of a prize-winning dog that suffered after coming up with its pals; reminded his viewers to say their prayers, and hoped they were in the summertime habit of reading books.

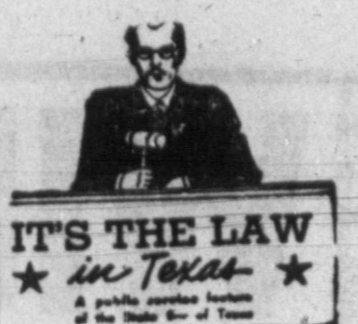

Having read the releases about all the learned people associated with the new network offerings, it strikes this viewer that strong attention should be paid to the techniques of "Captain Kangaroo."

This seems obvious, yet the releases give the impression of a pretty straight educational approach. Unless there is an awareness of the practical showmanship problems of commercial television — as learned by such as Keeshan—there may be a bumpy road ahead for these latter-day pioneers. Witness the demise of NBC-TV's "1,2,3—Go!", Jack Lescault's educational program for children, against the competition of CBS-TV's "Mr. Ed," the series about a talking horse.

The Channel Swim: Gene Krupa appears on NBC-TV's summer jazz series, "The Lively Ones," Aug. 2. Stan Kenton visits same show Aug. 9. Minow is interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" Sunday.

President Kennedy may appear on next Monday's scheduled two-way European-American "live" telecast via the Telstar satellite. CBS-TV is interested in taping a one-hour special of Carol Burnett's touring road show.

Right of Witnesses

By far the most vital people in our system of justice are witnesses. Everyone else in a trial exists to hear what they have to say. Our courts need witnesses. A jury to find the facts. The lawyer to apply the law. The lawyer to tell his client's story.

Chances are you worry about stepping up, taking an oath, and telling your story in court.

On some rare occasions you could be called upon to testify about something affecting your own standing in the community.

As a witness you too may have the right, for example, not to testify against yourself in some body else's lawsuit or crime trial.

If you are ever in such a bind, consult a lawyer of your own choice on what to do. The lawyer who called you to testify has a sworn duty to protect his client, not you. But your lawyer is sworn to keep what you tell him secret and to advise you in your own interests within the law.

Wise lawyers tell their witnesses to obey twelve rules:

1. Go to the place (say, the scene of an accident). Check your memory before you go to court. People forget and get caught up on details. But if you check what you saw and heard you are on solid ground.
2. Visit a court. Hear how other witnesses testify. It will help you see your role on the witness stand.
3. Wear clean, conservative clothes.
4. Don't memorize your story word for word. That is the surest way to sound bad. But think of what you saw and heard.
5. Listen to the questions you are asked with care and answer thoughtfully.
6. Give a simple, direct answer in your own words. Don't be rushed.

7. If you err — and people often do — correct yourself at once. If you can't remember some detail, say so. Don't bluff.
8. Tell the truth. Don't figure which side you may help. Don't identify yourself with either side.
9. Stop when the judge breaks in, and don't try to sneak an answer in before he can stop you.
10. Keep cool and don't sass back.
11. If they ask you: Certainly, you have talked to other people — the lawyer, for example; and yes, you may be reimbursed for certain of your expenses incurred in attending the trial.
12. Remember, without witnesses our law would fail to do justice. If you are called, be a good witness.

SUMMER SCENE—This is the time of year when some mighty secret maneuvers are going on. Even though the introduction of '63 models is months off, photographers are being shuttled about to photogenic residential locations like this one in Detroit snapping previews of the new cars as discreetly as possible. Greatest hazard: the hordes of neighborhood youngsters who want to kibitz on the scene.

Keep 'em Separated
DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Criminal District Judge Joe B. Brown ruled that twin-brother lawyers

Ross and Doss Hardin had to wear different colored suits in his courtroom while defending a client charged with robbery and murder.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables:

Mystic Number:
Ranking West German and Allied officials in Bonn anticipate a possible worsening of the Berlin situation around Aug. 13, first anniversary of the Berlin wall. They believe Moscow then either will demand the West set a date for a peace treaty with East Germany or set a date itself for signing a separate treaty with the Communist East Germans. It has been learned that the matter already has been discussed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his ministers at a cabinet meeting.

The feeling is echoed in West Berlin, based on hints from the Communist East.

In Geneva, where U. S. Secretary of State Rusk is expected to meet with Soviet Foreign Secretary Andrei Gromyko this week, some sort of action also is anticipated but without deadline or ultimatums. However, expectations of any sort of agreement remain slim.

Purge:
Observers in Bonn expect a new Chancellor Adenauer's state secretary, Globke, who has worked for Adenauer since 1949, once belonged to the Nazi Interior Ministry and wrote the commentary to the infamous Nuernberg racial laws. The Communists long have attacked him but Adenauer always has rejected the idea of firing him. Now the West German press for the first time has demanded that Globke go. The new campaign follows closely upon the firing of Attorney General Wolfgang Fraenkel who once worked for the Nazi Supreme Court but never told his Bonn superiors what kind of work he did.

Nuclear Compromise:
Despite the vote of confidence his government won in the French National Assembly, President Charles de Gaulle still may be willing to accept some sort of compromise on his controversial nuclear striking force. The compromise might take the form of an invitation to other European nations to join in the cost of the program's development. De Gaulle has indicated clearly he wants to go it alone, but in the past he also has shown that he is not totally opposed to compromise.

Hope:
Fear of the European Common Market and difference in ideology has not dampened hopes of East German Communists for credits from Western countries, particularly England. The Communist regime admitted in May that it was seeking a $687 million credit from West Germany but it made no accompanying offers, such as a possible guaranty on West Berlin.

U.S. Didn't Share 1961 Increase In Steel Production

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — World steel production rose in 1961, and while this nation had 25 per cent of total output, it did not share in the increase, the graphic facts book of the American Iron and Steel Institute shows.

Steel's troubles in world competition, past and present, have become a familiar story to the nation's industrialists and businessmen. The AISI in its ninth annual edition of "Charting Steel's Progress" gives a matter-of-fact presentation of the competition for world markets which helps clarify the picture.

Last year, world steel production hit a new record, about 393 million net tons of ingots, the AISI reports. It was up 11 million tons, or 3 per cent, over 1960.

But all of the increase—the difference between 1960-61—was accounted for by production in the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe and Japan.

Of the overall world production, the United States kept 25 per cent. Western Europe had 30; the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, 26 and Japan 8 per cent.

In its production charts, the AISI shows that in 1950, the United States had about 47 per cent of total world production, which at that time was 208 million tons.

In that same year, Western Europe's output was about 38 million tons, compared with 119 million in 1961; total for the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe was 39 million, compared with 102 million last year and Japan's was five million tons, compared with 1961's 31 million.

Dear Abby... How Do You Address The Blind?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently I met a blind person where I am employed. We exchanged only a few words but I developed a feeling of great regard for him. Last night I saw him again in a restaurant. As I passed by I said, "Hello, how are you?" He returned the greeting, but I'm afraid my courtesy might have been cruel because I'm sure he didn't have the slightest idea who had spoken to him.

What does one say when greeting a blind person? Does it hurt their feelings to be told immediately, "I am Mary Smith"? I could use some first-hand information on this.

NEEDS ADVICE DEAR NEEDS: I assume a sightless person appreciates being told immediately who is addressing him. But this may not be necessary for long because acute hearing compensates most blind persons for their loss of vision.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from GRANDMA who "thought" the cat had given her grandchild ringworm. She doesn't know what she's talking about. If their cat had ringworm they would know it because her hair would become dull and would fall out in huge patches, leaving unsightly sores that could not be ignored.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and in love with a wonderful boy who is 20. He has asked me to marry him this summer, but I told him I think we ought to wait until we are both out of college. Here is my real reason: In the six years we have gone together I don't

Designers Of Autumn Fashions Show How "Fur" Milady Can Go This Fall

NEW YORK (UPI) — "How fur can you go?", punned the commentator at the millinery industry's style show as a trapper's paradise of pelts paraded past.

In fur hats, it turns out the designers have gone pretty far for fall and winter. Fur is heaped on fur in the new hats, with the long haired pelts such as opossum and lynx adding to the smothered look. Some of the fur hats are so muffling about all you can see of the wearer's face is nose and chin.

Other furs shaped into snoods, helmets or Garbo slouches include mink in all the mutations, fox, unshorn lamb, leopard and chinchilla.

To add to the bundled-up look are neck warmers or boas of matching fur. One designer participating in this week's millinery show did some chin warmers and hats in amber-dyed opossum, with the rims of the hats detachable to serve as separate fur pieces.

The show is part of the semi-annual press week sponsored for visiting fashion reporters by the New York Couture Group of ready-to-wear manufacturers. The millinery group is an auxiliary member.

The milliners mean for warmth to be fashionable in ways other than with fur hats. Jersey or other woolens act as attached scarves to tie helmet or hunting cap shapes, securely under the chin. Or, chiffon scarves muffle the throat for evening wear.

Hat shapes ranged the field, with more than the usual number of casual slouch shapes shown for daytime wear. Some cloches were for evening too. Designer Mr. Fred of John Frederics included slouch shapes in gold snakeskin. Sally Victor did Gargo slouches, with four-inch wide brims, of patterned and stitched gold capeskin.

Big Government Spender Proud Of Record

By ROY MCGHEE
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the stratospheric field of government finance few men will outspoke defend huge federal spending programs. Fewer politicians will. Yet the man who has presided over probably more appropriations and spending authorizations than any man in history is proud of his record.

"The money has made America strong," says Sen. Dennis Chavez, D-N.M.
Chavez is chairman of the Defense appropriations subcommittee and of the Public Works Committee of the Senate. In the former role, he has presided over appropriations totalling $294.5 billion for national defense since 1955. In the latter, he has guided spending authorizations totalling $65.6 billion for public works projects.

Chavez has been in and out of Washington since 1916. During that time he has watched the national budget soar. "It's the temper of the times. The times demand things be done. That takes money," the senator said in an interview.

Cites Urgent Need
"Military appropriations are for the defense of our country. They are absolutely necessary if we are to exist as a democracy and even continue to exist as a nation."
"Public works spending is for the welfare of the country — and equally important."

Chavez, 74 last April, attained his position of power in the Senate through the hallowed seniority system. And even during the past year, during much of which he has been confined to a hospital bed, his colleagues deferred to him in vital areas of national policy and procedure.
"The President proposed the $46 billion defense budget," a colleague noted recently. "But it was Chavez who helped make it a reality."

The senior senator from New Mexico usually does not need much convincing from the nation's military chiefs. He figures if they think they need a given amount of money to protect the country, they should have it with a minimum of quibbling. But occasionally he gets at loggerheads with the civilian heads of the services for his staunch support of admirals and generals. A current example involves the controversial continuance of the B70 program.

Opinions Differ
The secretary of defense wants to use the billions it will cost to complete the big bomber program on other items. But some Air Force generals think the country will need bombers a long time—that it will be a long time before it will be safe to put the total U.S. defense effort into missiles. Chavez agrees with them.

Since the first atom bomb was dropped in a desert area of Chavez' home state, in 1945, Chavez has had a deep interest in the scientific side of military technology. And like competent amateurs in many fields, his enthusiasm sometimes is greater than the professional's.

"One time Gen. Curtis LeMay, former head of the Strategic Air Command) was up here testifying for his appropriation," Chavez recalled.

"I asked him if he could use a billion more than he requested. He said he could, and I saw that he got it."
"As it turned out, he used $800 million on a program that made SAC stronger, and the extra $200 million for more airplanes."
"LeMay is for the B70 program, too," the senator added as an after-thought.

Public Works Man
Notwithstanding Chavez' absorption with military money, the senator says he has a more abiding interest in public works. He has headed the Public Works Committee since 1949, and seen it authorize $65.5 billion worth of specific projects, and given general authorization to the $41 billion interstate defense highway system.

Chavez disdainfully dismisses criticism of federal public works as "pork barrel" spending. "Public works build America," the senator said. "They make it a good place to live. They make it worth spending billions to defend."

The soft spoken slightly built New Mexican is especially proud of the federal highway program. And the biggest public works project of all time — the interstate defense highway program — he considers his special pride.

"When I first drove from Albuquerque to Washington, in 1924," Chavez remembered, "There was only about 60 miles of paved road between Albuquerque and Joplin, Mo. The trip took more than 10 days."

Recalls Early Roads
Chavez recalled his boyhood in Valencia County, N. M., working in the broiling sun of the Rio Grande Valley. There was seldom enough water, never an abundance. Repairing and maintaining irrigation ditches was a constant chore. The very existence of farmers in the valley hung on the availability of water.

The government currently is experimenting on the cheapest way to turn salt and brackish water into potable water. One of its experiment stations has just been dedicated at Roswell, N. M.
"If the Roswell plant proves a success," Chavez said, "we are made. But we must do more than experiment. We must put our river water behind dams. We must learn how to re-use it. We must keep it clean."

Although he still is recuperating from a serious illness and a series of operations, Chavez says he is looking forward to many more years of public service. He has no plans to retire and says he will seek re-election in 1964. "I started my campaign for election in 1964 the day I was elected in 1958," the senator said with a chuckle. "I'm still running."

"Between Albuquerque and Arriño there was only 25 miles paved. And the only other stretch of hard surface was about 35 miles between El Reno and Oklahoma City."

Now the senator makes this way across two-thirds of the country by car in three or four days "and at a leisurely pace."

"Roads have done more for the country than anything else... and they still do. They bind it together. They enable us to mix. They let us understand one another," the senator said.

Being from the arid West, Chavez brooks little foolishness about water — or critical comment from those who do not agree flood control and navigation projects are important to the welfare of the nation.

"Water projects are like highway projects," Chavez said. "All other benefits flow from them. Without water nothing grows, nothing progresses. Without highways there is no commerce, no communication, only isolation."

Water Always Scarce
Chavez recalled his boyhood in Valencia County, N. M., working in the broiling sun of the Rio Grande Valley.

Students Can Earn Over $600

It isn't necessary for students to stop working this summer after earning a total of $600.

Ellis Campbell, Jr., Dallas district director of Internal Revenue Service, advised parents that it is possible to claim a son or daughter as a dependent on federal income tax returns even if they earn more than $600.

Campbell suggested that students contact IRS for needed information on how their parents can claim them as a dependent.
