Hoover Says Major Crime In US Is At All-Time Peak

JFK's Tax Bonus Has A Tough Fight Ahead

FBI Chief 'Deplores' Youth Arrest Increase

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy faced a tough fight today to rescue his key $1.2 billion tax bonus for business from a hostile Senate Finance Committee.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., renewed his opposition to the plan, which would give business a 7 per cent tax credit to spur investments in new machinery and equipment.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said in an interview that the $1.5 billion tax break for business announced by Kennedy Wednesday as part of depreciation reform "should be enough of a stimulus."

Long, D-La., it cut the tax impact about in half, to somewhere around $700 million.

Bill Hacked-Up

The net result was a hacked-up bill, trimmed down drastically from the one passed more than three months ago by the House. Instead of the controversial withholding tax, the committee adopted a Byrd-sponsored plan to require corporations and institutions to report to the Treasury any payment of $10 or more in interest or dividends.

Some senators said privately that when the full import of this massive reporting system is felt, businessmen may find the book-keeping so burdensome they would rather have a withholding tax.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported today that major crimes committed in the United States last year rose by 3 per cent to a new all-time peak.

Hoover especially deplored the increase in arrests of youngsters under 18 in recent years. He called it "one of the major problems plaguing law enforcement" and said that unless the trend is reversed, it will result in "serious consequences for the future of our country."

The FBI chief said his agency's uniform crime reports show there were an estimated 1,926,000 serious crimes committed last year—an average of four every minute.

Crimes against property—robbery, burglary, larceny and auto theft—increased by 4 per cent in 1961. Crimes against the person—such as murder, rape and aggravated assault—showed an average 1 per cent gain.

School Board Decision Is Due Soon On Remodeling Junior High Gym Here

An early decision is expected on the Pampa school board on whether to remodel the 35-year-old Pampa Junior High School gymnasium or tear it down and build a new one.

The matter was discussed at length in the first half of today's monthly meeting of the board. The old gym, at the corner of Cuyler and Browning St., was built in the late 20s and presently is in dilapidated condition.

The board voted to have a special meeting with an architect and builders to get a detailed and realistic estimate of the cost of remodeling the building.

A decision as to the next step on remodeling or tearing down would be made by the board following this study, it was stated.

Advertising Plans Made At Meeting Of Industry Group

Twenty-five members of the Industrial Chamber of Commerce met today and approved a plan for further industrial promotion of Pampa.

The group, headed by Johnny Atson, chairman, voted to start a campaign to raise funds for advertising and promotion for industrial purposes only and to "tell the Pampa story."

Discussion was held on placing a minimum of eight ads placed bi-weekly in the eastern and midwestern editions of the Wall Street Journal.

According to Watson, approximately $1,000 was raised toward needed funds from members present at today's meeting. This money will be added to the industrial funds which have been set aside for promotion of the city.

E. O. (Red) Wedgeworth, manager of the Chamber, will send letters to all members of the Chamber of Commerce to give them an opportunity to participate in the industrial promotion program, now underway.

Watson said the size and frequency of the ads to be run in the Journal will depend upon the funds raised in this special campaign.

Part of the funds raised, Watson said, will be used for following up leads which would result from the advertising.

A copy was shown the group of a full page ad which will appear in the August issues of the Texas Parade magazine, exploiting the advantages of Pampa as an industrial site. The Parade is an official magazine of the State of Texas with a circulation of approximately 25,000.

A report on today's meeting was presented to the retail merchants committee which is scheduled to be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Watson stated he was pleased with the enthusiasm of the group at today's meeting.

Churchill Develops Bronchial Infection

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill today developed a bronchial infection.

The complication was one most feared by doctors treating the 87-year-old statesman for a broken left leg.

Disclosure of the new turn in the former prime minister's condition came in a special medical bulletin read to newsmen in the lobby of Middlesex Hospital in central London.

It followed earlier indications that Sir Winston, who broke his leg in a fall on the Riviera June 28, was at least holding his own despite a blood clot that had developed in the broken leg.

Lady Churchill visited her husband this morning and reported afterwards that he was "a little drowsy, but he seems to be in good spirits."

His son, Randolph, saw him Wednesday and told newsmen he had found his father "smoking a cigar, sipping brandy and wiggling his toes."

Wife Only Visitor

Lady Churchill was the only visitor to the hospital today although Bernard Baruch, an old friend of Sir Winston, was waiting for an opportunity to see the patient. Baruch, who will be 92 (See CHURCHILL, Page 3)

Demo Leaders In Effort To Reverse UN Bond Setback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic leaders were counting on near-perfect attendance from administration supporters today in order to reverse an action that would prevent the United States from financially assisting the United Nations.

The leadership was confident that it had the votes to kill an amendment to the foreign aid bill that was tentatively approved Wednesday.

The proposal by Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, would prohibit the government from taking part in the special $100 million U.N. bond issue until all member nations paid their debts to the world organization.

Gross' move caught the administration forces flatfooted. Many of their supporters were off the floor when the on-record 124 to 112 vote was taken. The leaders feel they will have enough members on the floor today when they ask for a formal roll call vote on the proposal.

Other congressional news:

McCloskey — The Senate was scheduled today to take up the nomination of Matthew H. McCloskey as ambassador to Ireland. Sen. John J. Sparkman, acting chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he was confident the Senate would overwhelmingly approve President Kennedy's appointment of the former Democratic party treasurer to the diplomatic post. Several Republicans are opposing the nomination.

Anti-Medical Aid Rally Dismissed By Socialists

REGINA, Sask. (UPI) — The Socialist government of Premier Woodrow S. Lloyd Wednesday night dismissed an anti-medical aid rally, staged by "Keep Our Doctors" (KOD) committees as a failure and said the government would not be influenced by the demonstration.

The premier also charged that organizers of the rally had "strong political motivations."

Police estimated about 4,000 persons converged on the capital here Wednesday to attend the anti-government protest outside the legislative buildings. Lloyd told a news conference later that his sources indicated attendance was "between 2,500 and 3,000" persons.

The premier told newsmen the rally was "not a particularly representative showing of the people of Saskatchewan."

Thirty minutes before the rally was to begin, Bert McKay, KOD provincial president, was admitted to Regina General Hospital believed suffering from a heart attack.

The owner-publisher of the Mosaic (Sask.) Spectator was reported "resting comfortably" Wednesday night.

Lloyd met Wednesday with a 12-man delegation of KOD officials and, according to Rodney Thomson, spokesman for the group, agreed to study the KOD petition and "reply as soon as possible."

KOD has asked an immediate suspension of the Medicare Insurance Act as a basis for resumption of normal practice, and negotiations between the government and the doctors.

Seven Killed In Collision

WALLER, Tex. (UPI) — An automobile pulling a trailer full of household belongings collided with a truck loaded with steel today, killing seven members of a Los Angeles family of eight.

The collision almost wiped out the Cary Jackson family. The survivor was 10-year-old Deborah Jackson. She was in serious condition in a Hempstead, Tex. hospital. William C. Hagerty, 57, of Houston, the truck driver, suffered a broken leg.

The Harris County sheriff's office identified the dead as: Cary Jackson, 53; his wife, Vera, 38; Larry, 8; Nina Lois, 6; Sheila, 2; Mary, 18 and Johnny, 12.

The Negro family formerly lived in Houston and was returning for a visit, sheriff's deputies said.

An eyewitness following the accident said it looked as though the driver of the car was having trouble with the trailer, which kept whipping from side to side.

Finally, the witness said, the car swerved into the path of the oncoming truck.

The car was smashed. Bodies of the family were mangled and thrown from the car.

The collision occurred 2½ miles northeast of Waller, 30 miles northeast of Houston.

Hagerty, driving a truckload of steel for the National Steel Co., said it was his first traffic accident in 3 years as a trucker.

Nation's Businessmen Have New Set Of Rules Designed To Save $$

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's businessmen today have a new set of tax rules designed to save them $1.5 billion a year and put more muscle into the economy.

President Kennedy announced the long-awaited tax break Wednesday night — revised tax depreciation schedules that allow businessmen and farmers to write off their deteriorating equipment faster.

A congressional Democrat said it should convince some businessmen that Kennedy doesn't hate businessmen after all.

The administration — prodded increasingly to propose a general income tax cut this year instead of waiting until next year — will be watching the economy closely to see the effect of the new relief.

May Reverse Position

But informed sources predicted that despite the big tax break, chances are better than 50-50 that Kennedy will reverse his position next month and decide to go for a big — but temporary — tax cut for everyone. It would be temporary so that he would have a "sweetener" in the form of permanent tax relief to include in general tax reform legislation next year.

Sources felt that the decision on a reduction in income taxes will depend largely on the fate of Kennedy's tax credit proposal now in a Senate committee, which would mean another $1.2 billion break for business.

If this is passed, sources said, it might be that these two tax cuts will be enough to avoid doing anything more this year.

Kennedy, in announcing the new depreciation schedules, said they would "automatically permit more rapid and more realistic depreciation than is presently taken on 70 to 80 per cent of the machinery and equipment now used by American businessmen and farmers."

Cites Probable Effects

"By encouraging American business to replace its machinery more rapidly," Kennedy said, "we hope to make American products more cost-competitive, to step up our rate of recovery and growth and to provide expanded job opportunities for all American workers."

In combination with his pending tax credit legislation, Kennedy said, it would "put American producers on a comparable tax footing with their foreign competitors, to increase our share of both foreign and domestic markets, and thus protect our balance of international payments and gold reserves."

Businessmen had been operating since 1942 under Bulletin F, a depreciation guideline that they claimed was highly unrealistic. Treasury officials agreed.

Rusk, Russian Ambassador In New Berlin Issue Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin were meeting today for another round of arguments on the deadlocked Berlin issue.

Their afternoon conference at the State Department came against a background of increased public pressure from Russia for a settlement of the explosive issue on Kremlin terms.

The meeting was scheduled for 4 p.m. EDT.

Rusk asked for today's meeting primarily to probe for any change in Russia's position prior to talks he plans to hold in Geneva within the next week or ten days with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The U.S. secretary also was expected to press Dobrynin for some reply to a two-week-old allied proposal for East-West action to end the shootings and other incidents along the Communist-built wall in Berlin.

Rusk was holding a news conference just prior to seeing Dobrynin and he was sure to be questioned extensively concerning prospects for progress on the Berlin and German problems.

Other subjects likely to be covered at the news session included the question of U.S. recognition of the new Algerian government, American strategy when disarmament talks resume next week in Geneva and progress in the anti-Communist struggle in Southeast Asia.

Today's Rusk-Dobrynin meeting was their sixth Berlin session in three months. Officials held out little hope for any progress but hoped that some headway might be made when Rusk and Gromyko get together in Geneva.

Transoceanic Two-Way Telephone Calls On Tap Telstar Scientists Planning Next Step

By BOWEN NORTHRUP
NEW YORK (UPI) — Telstar project scientists, elated over their satellite's relay of French and British television casts into American homes, planned today to take the next giant step in transoceanic communication.

"Very shortly we are going to try point-to-point two-way telephone calls," project director Eugene F. O'Neill said in Andover, Maine.

These will beam from the Andover station to N.J. station and to the Holmdel, N.J. station and points in Europe.

If the two-way calls enjoy the same success as Wednesday night's near perfect French and English television transmissions, the telephone conversations should sound as clear as local calls.

O'Neill conceded the success of Wednesday night's tests, by which Americans saw an eight-minute show from France during the Telstar's 15th orbit and a British program during the 16th pass over the Atlantic.

Showed Paris Scenes

The French show, taped in Paris and transmitted from Pleumeur-Bodou, gave Americans views of Parisian street scenes and treated them to a rendition of "La Chansonette" by Yves Montand, once linked romantically with Marilyn Monroe, plus a ballad by chanteuse Michele Arnaud. The presentation hit American screens at 7:37 p.m. EDT. Reception was "perfect," according to a test coordinator in Holmdel.

The British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) reacted with an angry charge that the French had violated an agreement for a later broadcast by the 16-nation Eurovision group. A London newspaper accused the French of "Gallic one-upmanship." Not to be outdone, the BBC rushed their own program into shape for the next orbit.

At 10:18 p.m. EDT they hit the whirling satellite and beamed their own program across the Atlantic, proudly noting that it was "live." It consisted principally of a panel discussion by three officials who stayed up past midnight, British time, to outdo the French.

Though less animated than the Gallic offering, the British program was superior technically, scientists here said. "By George, they've done it!" cried one technician at Andover.

Relayed From Andover

Both programs were relayed from the satellite to the 380-ton reception horn at Andover, then transmitted along conventional facilities to television sets across the United States.

A London official said that scientists at the Goonhilly control room "bubbled over with excitement" when the British show was successfully relayed. "I heard a

JURY DUTY

Jury duty is an experience everybody ought to have.

In a criminal case twelve jurors have a duty to do justice as each one sees it, and yet be unanimous. In most trials both sides have much to say, and the evidence is conflicting. The twelve jurors vary in their ability, temperament, character, education, and their experience in the world, and in the question at stake.

Yet a jury made up of both sexes, with wide age and educational differences, jobs and origins must all come up with the same verdict. Upon their verdict much depends — the life or liberty of others, and the public good. So it may take them days of talking among themselves, all to agree.

Jury duty calls for insight, common sense, courage, tact, fairness, patience, (especially toward the jurors who disagree with you), good humor, tolerance, balance, willingness to hear others out and change one's mind, readiness to go over and over the facts to find something to bring agreement. In short, jury duty demands a "decent respect to the opinions" of others.

More and more women share civic duties, especially as jurors. Time was in Texas when women could not serve on juries. They still cannot in four states.

A jury finds facts. It hears and weighs evidence and then comes to a verdict. It does not make the law — the legislature does; and the judge "charges" or instructs the jury concerning the law applicable to the particular case it is considering.

The judge will tell you not to find the accused guilty until he is proved so under strict rules of evidence. If you have any "reasonable doubt," — not imaginary or far-fetched — acquit the accused.

Civil cases do not demand a moral certainty, merely the "preponderance" of what you regard as reliable and believable evidence.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Wall Street
In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors' graphs point out that the 70-odd point rally has brought cheer to a large body of investors — but it would look for more backing and filling in this area before expecting a sustained advance in the market.

Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co. says the market crossed an important hurdle at $78.18 in the DJIA by moving above the top of a preceding rally. He thinks this accomplishment has improved the technical condition of the market and has strengthened the belief that the June 25 lows will stand for some time.

Ralph Rotnem of Harris, Upham & Co. says in cancelling over one-quarter of its six-months losses in just six sessions, the market has set a pace that is too sharp to last much longer, and a short rest or partial cancellation of gains would do it no harm. But, he adds, this recovery has been much more impressive than others we have had since March.

Oppenheimer, Neu & Co. feels the swift pace of market recovery may run out of steam shortly, and although further strength is possible it would defer purchases until periods of weakness.

Thomson & McKinnon says technical indications are not discouraging by any means and second quarter earnings report could favorably surprise traders and investors alike. "Technicians agree that the next move will be a critical one. Those who time their views with optimism see the breakout coming on the upside, others equally sincere and informed caution of a new decline."

OUT CHASING COWS
CLINTON, Conn. (UPI) — Anthony Fiorentino, 35, forfeited a $30 bond in Circuit Court Tuesday when he failed to appear to answer a charge of allowing cattle to roam on the highway.

Police said he missed his court date because he was "out chasing his cows."

Local Genealogical And Historical Society Slates Meeting Tonight

The Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society will hold its July meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the Genealogy Room of Lovett Memorial Library.

The meeting will commemorate the exploration of Gray County. Captain Randolph Marcy and Captain George B. McClellan, who discovered the source of the Red River a few miles above Lefors on June 16, 1852, and in July of the same year explored the Palo Duro Canyon. This was 110 years ago.

Topic for the meeting tonight will be "How To Do Your Own Research For Family Histories from Genealogical Books." Several new books have been added to the shelves of Lovett Library by the Pampa Society. One volume, virtually unobtainable for some 25 years, "Seventeen Thousand Names of Virginia Revolutionary Soldiers" by Gwathmey, has been purchased by the group and is available for the first time today.

Reports of the progress of the Field Research Committee will be given by Mrs. Bob Anders, chairman. This committee has been cataloging the births, deaths, and other information available from tombstones in the county's cemeteries. The Pampa Society will publish these records (obtainable anywhere else) in a complete volume when the project is finished. Already cataloged are the cemeteries at Alanreed, Eldridge and Lefors. Currently the committee is working on the 4,000 plus markers of Fairview Cemetery, Pampa.

Any person who would like assistance in preparing a family history is invited to attend the meeting and all members are requested to bring their queries for the July issue of "Coronado Heritage," the quarterly publication of the Society which goes to press next week.

O'Neill, refused to indulge in the superlatives heard from others. He noted a "small malfunction" during the "second useable orbit" Wednesday night, and said there were "minor deviations" in both the French and British transmissions. He said these would be cleared up.

Machine Looted, Window Broken In Cases Here

Police received a report from Vertye Rhee, owner of the Blue Bonnet Inn, 1010 W. Brown, last night that someone broke into a vending machine and looted an undetermined amount of change. The report was received at 10:43 p.m.

Mrs. Velma Addison, manager of the Gunn Brothers Store, 318 N. Cuyler, reported to police this morning that sometime last night, someone threw a rock through the plate glass window of the store.

The board president explained this was dispensed with to save time by sending copies of the minutes to each board member instead of reading them at the public session.

Candidate Kicks Off Campaign

PANHANDLE (Sp) — Bill Hayes, Temple, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, kicked off his state-wide campaign last night at a rally held in the War Memorial Building here.

Approximately 60 representatives from various counties throughout the Panhandle heard Hayes point out his reasons for wanting to serve as lieutenant governor.

Hayes told the group he was running on a platform of progress and prosperity for Texas as a representative of the Golden Opportunity Party, (GOP).

Hayes, the winner in the primary runoff election with Kellis Dibrell of San Antonio, will face Democrat Preston Smith of Lubbock in the general election in November.

Hayes stated that the Republican platform did not have all the answers to the problems of the country, but it was a party of dignity and pride.

On his earlier visit to Carson County, Hayes announced if he carried that county in the primary he would return there to begin his state-wide campaign.

Mrs. James Brown, Pampa, vice chairman of the Gray County Republican executive committee, attended the meeting.

Chairman of the rally was Mrs. J. T. Broadway, Panhandle, who introduced Hayes.

A reception was held following the business meeting.

Hayes announced he will be in Pampa at 7 a.m. tomorrow where he will meet with local supporters at a breakfast in the Coronado Inn.

Corsage Making Class Planned

The Pampa Youth and Community Center has announced plans for a class in corsage making, flower arranging and creative crafts for girls, 13-18 years of age.

The class will be held each Wednesday morning at 10 beginning Wednesday, July 18, in the Youth Center.

Classes will be under the direction of Mrs. Clifford Dunham. Girls interested in the class may call Mrs. Dunham or the Youth Center or be present at the first meeting.

next month, is in London on private business.

No new medical bulletin had been expected until Friday. A routine announcement this morning said Churchill had spent a "comfortable night."

Then there were reports that some complications had developed — and word came of the new development.

The bulletin, signed by four doctors in attendance, was released at 2:30 p.m. It said:

"Since Wednesday, Sir Winston Churchill has had a slight rise in temperature due to bronchial infection.

"There has been some decrease in the swelling of the leg."

Confined to Bed

A hospital spokesman said he could not expand on the announcement, but added that Churchill has not been out of bed since last Saturday. Phlebitis, an inflammation of the veins, was discovered in the leg late last week.

Some US Students Play Baseball Where Madame Dubarry Strolled

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press International
PARIS (UPI) — Some American students play baseball today on a lawn where Madame Dubarry used to stroll. Others read "Tom Sawyer" in a schoolroom with marble fireplaces and golden carved walls.

This corner of the United States in a romantic French setting is the American school in Paris.

With the American colony a bustling 10,000, the school is a popular, expanding service for Americans who are embassy or military officials, journalists or businessmen who want their children to attend a school similar to those they left back home.

"We offer the regular American curriculum, plus the French language taught in all grades," said John Chapman, of Bremen, Maine, who left a private school in Portland, Maine, to become the new headmaster.

The school was founded in 1946 by some interested Americans. It has three buildings. Two hundred children are in the first to fifth grades in a rented mansion in suburban Boulogne. Another 180 students fill the sixth and ninth grades in a similar house in suburban Louvenciennes. And across the street, 120 students in grades 10, 11 and 12 use the former Dubarry estate.

The estate includes a house built by former president Rene Coty in 1930 as an exact duplicate of Madame Dubarry's mansion. The 10-acre grounds are as they were in the 18th century—formal gardens, statuary, carriage houses and fountains.

Now the estate has a strong American flavor. Boys bounce basketballs on the mansion's stone terrace. In the French class, Hopi Indian dolls decorate a shelf.

The school has such state-side traditions as a school newspaper, year book, Parent-Teachers' Association and American sports. The children learn American-style handwriting and sit at blue tilt-top desks like those back home.

Many Americans living in Paris send their children to French schools. But the American School appeals even to native Parisians. Ten per cent of the students are French. Another 10 per cent are embassy children from 12 countries, from Japan to Brazil, and other nations where English is the first or second language.

The American pupils come from 48 states. They include Ambassador James Gavin's two oldest children; Mark Hammel, son of a Louisville, Ky., businessman, stationed in Paris, and Martie Holmes, Westport, Conn., whose father serves with the American Youth Association.

The students go to school by bus. All hands get hot lunches, plus milk imported from Norway, served in the entry hall of the Dubarry mansion. The marble floors and paintings on the ceiling are part of the setting here too.

The tuition ranges from $500 a year for first graders to $725 for 12th graders, plus fees for lunch and bus. Of the 40 teachers, 8 are French, 4 English and the rest American.

"We have stacks of teachers' applications. All American teachers must want to live in Paris," said Chapman. "One of our former teachers has opened an American school in Madrid and there are such schools in Rome and London."

Unwanted US Children Are Growing Up In Institutions

By CLAIRE COX
NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of unwanted children are growing up in institutions because of chaotic adoption laws in the United States, a social service worker charges.

Verrill Rogers, executive director of WAIF, an organization founded in 1953 by actress Jane Russell to find homes in the United States for foreign orphans, said that nearly a million American couples seek to adopt children every year but that fewer than 100,000 youngsters are made available.

There are many children overseas who are adoptable, but various stumbling blocks such as immigration laws and other red tape and high expenses keep the number low, she said. WAIF for example, after nine years in operation, recently found a new home for its 10,000th orphan—a Greek boy adopted by an American couple.

"Despite all the red tape in adopting a foreign child," Miss Rogers said in an interview, "it still is easier to adopt a Greek child than a child in a founding hospital in the United States."

"Adoption laws differ from state to state. Some states have excellent legislation and some, dreadful. It is still legal in one state to deed a child, the way you would buy or sell a piece of property."

"A service man in Japan married a Japanese child," she continued. He brought his wife and children home. Their marriage is not legal in his state because of their racial difference. He cannot adopt his own children because they are half Japanese."

Miss Rogers said that child welfare agencies are trying to draft uniform adoption laws for consideration by state legislatures to get children out of institutions and into homes.

Ways are being sought, for example, to force parents to give up children that they institutionalize for various reasons. In many places, Miss Rogers said, a parent is allowed to limit his visits to a child to once a year but at the same time refuse to give the child up for adoption by a couple who would give him a real home.

"We are hoping for laws that will provide homes for these children," she said.

Miss Russell, as the head of WAIF, a division of International Social Service, Inc., was invited to argue the case for more liberal adoption laws at the National Conference of Legislators in Seattle in June.

"We hope to get uniformity eventually," Miss Rogers said. "We need reciprocal arrangements between states, for one thing. California and some other states now have such an arrangement. If someone in California wants to adopt a child in another part of the country, there is machinery to provide for that in some cases. This should be the case all over the United States."

"For another thing, we want a clearing house of information on what people want children and what children are available and where they are. If an Oklahoma couple wants a child and the child is in Maine, they should get him."

Retired British Submariner Sailing Around Earth In An 18-Foot Sloop

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International
Jim Wakefield, a retired British submarine man, is sailing around the earth in an 18-foot sloop which he assembled from a kit he bought two years ago for $560.

At the moment, the intrepid 40-year-old adventurer, who left Bristol, England, on May 14, is estimated to be somewhere in the Mediterranean with his one-man crew, Andrew Freke, 19, a mechanic.

For the last five years, Wakefield worked as an engineer on a guided missile project. For the last two, he devoted most of his spare time to building and fitting out the boat, "Spartan Spirit," in an abandoned farmhouse near Bristol.

While the basic design of the "Spartan Spirit" is that of the kit boat, Wakefield and Freke made some major modifications to meet conditions they expect to encounter on their two-year, 28,000-mile voyage.

To prevent flooding, they reduced the cockpit to one-fourth of its designed space, and to improve stability, they reshaped the keel and added 15 pounds to the craft's weight.

Below deck, Wakefield has rigged up a steering device in the cabin that enables him to stay on course in rough weather. Wakefield described the system as "a lash-up based on bicycle bits and pieces."

Another bicycle part serves as a key element in the electrical system. It is a dynamo linked to a small spinner that trails behind the boat, producing 6 volts at 140 RPM for lights and an emergency radio transmitter.

The "Spartan Spirit" also carries a unique course indicator fashioned by Wakefield from scraps of electrical hardware. If the sloop drifts off course, a windsock mounted aft turns on lights on a panel in the cabin; the lights glow dim or bright, depending on the degree of course variation.

Wakefield and his one-man crew believe that theirs may be the smallest craft ever to attempt a full circumnavigation of the world. Their course from the Mediterranean will take them through the Red Sea to Aden, the Arabian Sea to Colombo, the Fiji Islands, Easter Island off the coast of Ecuador, through the Panama Canal across the Caribbean to the Azores, a final stop at the Azores and then home to Bristol.

Their only concession to the certainty of wind and tide will be a 6½-horsepower Perkins outboard motor installed on special transom.

'Cheesecake' Doesn't Figure In The Career Of Popular European Star

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Cheesecake doesn't figure in the career of Romy Schneider, one of Europe's most popular young stars. "I hate cheesecake," she said in an interview. "It is really thin and an actress of merit doesn't need to pose that way. Men are tiring of it." Munching toast and sipping coffee — her lunch — the star of "Boccaccio '70" also said she hates publicity about her private life, divorce, and temper outbursts on a movie set. The bachelor girl, 24, likes Chanel clothes, Chanel hats and the simple life in the country when able to get away from the movie sets. In New York to launch her latest movie, Miss Schneider spoke like an old fashioned girl — bearing little resemblance to her role in "Boccaccio '70." "Wiggles" for "Art's Sake"

In one scene she wiggles out of her clothes until only a necklace and telephone cover her. "Whatever I do in the movies," she said, "that is for art's sake. Whatever your part, you are not ashamed and you put all of yourself into it. "But in your private life, no one can rob you of certain standards." Miss Schneider, Vienna-born and now of Paris, said she has no time for marriage right now. "When you are at a certain level in an acting career you work to stay there and you keep it up as long as you can," she said. "A movie career is like quicksilver in your palm. Once it drops, it is hard to pick up. All too soon, one can be on the way out." Miss Schneider intends to marry someday, but only when she knows it will be for keeps.

"I don't believe in marriage otherwise," she said. The actress said she doesn't care about money right now either. Parents Both Act Born Rosemarie Albach, Miss Schneider is the only daughter of acting parents. Her mother, Magda Schneider, still appears in dramatic screen roles. Her father, Wolf Albach-Retty, is a former German matinee idol.

55TH YEAR
Her grandmother Rosa Albach-Retty was one of Vienna's most acclaimed stage actresses. Miss Schneider said she has received 10,000 mailed proposals of marriage to date — a testimony to the pulling power of the "no-cheesecake" look. Miss Schneider's taste in clothes leans to Chanel — an uncluttered look that isn't figure accenting. And when she finds a good anything for her wardrobe, she sticks with it. "I discovered a Chanel sailor hat suited me perfectly," she said. "I ordered six of them — white, blue, green, red, black, tweed."

Some 105 Varieties Of Cancer Afflict Man

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—After much scientific fretting and thinking, Dr. George E. Moore, the famous cancer scientist and surgeon, has come to the conclusion that 105 varieties of cancer afflict the human race.

Rarely do you find an acknowledged cancer expert willing to name an exact number although they all know there are many. Previous expert numberings of varieties have ranged from 70 to 500.

Moore decided the numbering of varieties was important. It is a way of emphasizing both to physicians and to the lay public that cancers have intensive individualities.

"It should be emphasized repeatedly that no single cause—and hence no single magic, curative drug—is likely to be found," he said. On the other hand, classifying cancers by variety is scientifically useful.

Positive Approach
It is an approach which centers on "the possibility of curing many individual cancers in various individual ways, rather than on the general incurability of cancer in general."

This stimulates scientific work and, he continued, it "should also help to decrease the fear which the word cancer commonly engenders."

Moore is director of the Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y. Editorializing in the technical organ of the American College of Surgeons, he said the figure of 105 "is not a magic one, since the exact value depends upon your own personal philosophy."

"In the future, some tumor categories will probably be eliminated by combining them with others, whereas new ones will be added when etiologic (causative) factors have been found, new clinical syndromes have been described, and specific responses to definitive therapy have been attained."

More Than One
You can be scientifically emphatic in stating that cancer is not a single disease, he said. Some kinds of tumors are entirely benign and some of those which are malignant "are rarely fatal." But opposed to the latter are the few kinds which are just about never cured.

Obviously, he continued, you can't classify cancers by their causes, since most of the causative agents are unknown. Besides, he said, some agents apparently can cause several sorts of cancers, just as the bacteria responsible for tuberculosis can cause a number of different diseases.

Nor can you classify cancers by the body sites where they rise. That would involve much duplication, and he cited one type of cancer which "arises from dozens of different organ sites."

"The unpleasant fact," he said, "is that no one really knows how many kinds of cancers there are."

ART LOVER—A French poodle ponders the wonders of art at outdoor exhibit in New York's Greenwich Village.

ADAPTABLE AUDITORIUM—Burgeoning student enrollments have caused school architects to come up with ingenious ideas to get the most out of the available space. One new design puts the usually idle school auditorium to use. Cutaway drawing above shows a new divisible auditorium at Boulder City (Nevada) High School. Movable walls have divided the building into three independent teaching areas. The walls are actually king-sized folding doors, motorized and soundproof. The design was supported by a grant from the Education Facilities Laboratories. The movable walls added less than 10 per cent to the hall's $367,508 cost, much less than would be needed for new classrooms.

Mexican Musician Says Soviet Composers 'Worst In The World'

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Carlos Chavez, Mexico's leading musical figure who recently returned from a conducting tour of Europe and the Middle East Monday denounced Soviet composers as "the worst in the world."

He said Soviet composer Dmitri Shostakovich is "chained" to state-dictated art rules and called Aram Khachaturian the "apotheosis of vulgarity."

"I did not go behind the Iron Curtain, and I don't want to go to Russia," Chavez said, adding Brussels, Berlin, Hamburg, Vienna and Tel Aviv and presented some of his own works at most concerts.

Switching to musical life at home he said Mexico "unfortunately does not occupy a vanguard position in musical expression" and cited as the main cause a total lack of "renovation." He said "the public here is offered the same thing as 30 years ago."

Chavez said he has contracts for the near future to conduct at Seattle, at the Santa Fe, N.M., Stravinsky Festival, at Rio de Janeiro and Bogota. In the fall of 1963 he will return to Europe to lead orchestra in Berlin, Stuttgart, Vienna, Rome and Oslo, he said.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—W. I. La Tourette of Shearson Hammill & Co. says he sees no reason to change his earlier views that the economy probably is heading for at least a mild dip.

He is also skeptical as to the likelihood of the recent market rally extending much further, and he thinks that trading accounts, or those that are still over-invested in common stocks, would do well to take advantage of market strength to lighten up.

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. says it is quite evident that both investors and traders are showing a greater willingness to buy stocks, and this indicates a shift in attitude which could well lead to a worthwhile extension of the recovery movement. The thinking undoubtedly is, he says, that price risks have been greatly minimized at this stage, because of the market's major correction.

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co. says although an advance above 600 D.J. is expected later this summer, it seems unlikely that any broad recovery much above 580 will take place over the near-term, mainly because the general market still lacks a sufficiently strong prior base of support.

HAS SECOND THOUGHTS

CHICAGO (UPI)—Mayor Richard J. Daley said Tuesday that Chicago "would be happy to welcome anyone and everyone" to the city, including the 1962 meeting of the World Congress for Disarmament.

Daley then had second thoughts about the congress currently meeting in Moscow and said he would like to know more about the congress before welcoming it to Chicago.

1962 Wheat Crop Estimate Made

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas wheat crop for 1962 is predicted to be 49,158,000 bushels with a yield of 18 bushels per acre, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday.

Last year, the state produced 84,870,000 bushels of wheat and had a record yield of 23 bushels per acre.

The department blamed damage from weather and abandonment of acreage for this year's production drop. A spring drought hurt wheat crops, the USDA said.

Although they are named after Andreas Dahl, the Swedish botanist, dahlias first were used as food by ancient Mexicans.

Backstairs At The White House

By ALVIN SPIVAK
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: There is a series of motion pictures in Washington that were made at a low budget by Hollywood standards but have big-star value that the film capital would have trouble matching.

However, the movie industry need have no fear of competition from these productions. They will never be released to the public, and only a handful of people ever will see them.

The attractions: Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's home movies of herself, her President-husband, their 4-year-old daughter, Caroline, and their 9-month-old son, John Jr.

Mrs. Kennedy has been building a considerable collection of these 8-millimeter reels, capturing such active moments as her water-skiing at Newport, R.I., and horseback riding at Middleburg, Va. Caroline's activities in the saddle at the latter site also have been filmed for Mrs. Kennedy's collection, although the "First Lady" was understood to have been angered by newspaper publication of some shots of her daughter in a pony show.

These are not the only films starring Mrs. Kennedy that are having limited distribution. There also are the U. S. Information Agency's (USIA) color movies of her trip to India and Pakistan.

Because of a law which bans any propagandizing by the USIA in this country, the American public will never see the magnificent documentaries on the trip which were produced for that agency at a cost to the taxpayers of more than $100,000. Overseas, many millions of people will view the films, which have drawn waves from newsmen and officials allowed to witness them here.

But except for select groups of family and friends, no one will see eyes on the First Lady's home movies, photographed for her by friends, relatives, and White House aides.

Though live births set a record (4,282,000), rate per thousand was slightly lower than in the last two years. Death rate of 9.3 per 1,000 is slightly lower than in 1960. Infant mortality rate of 25.3 deaths under 1 year of age per 1,000 live births is a new record. Data: Public Health Service.

Mexican Agricultural Outlook For Remainder Of Year Said 'Favorable'

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The outlook for the country's agricultural production for the rest of the year is "favorable" and may set a record corn harvest of over seven million tons if rainfall continues normal, agricultural sources said Monday.

The Mexican Federation of Agricultural Organizations noted that rains started more than a month late in most sectors this year, but have become regular and fairly heavy since. The rainy season usually lasts into October.

The federation said the harvest of a record wheat crop now is being completed with 1,400,000 tons recorded so far. The federation said that corn, wheat and beans continue to provide the basic staples of a majority of the population.

Apart from a now-promising rainfall picture, the federation said farm activity has been aided recently by the virtual disappearance of "agitation in some zones, particularly in the West and North-west."

"This atmosphere of calm should be reflected in increased production since farmers can devote time and attention to cultivation," the federation said.

Other sources predicted that the three million hectares of farmland under the jurisdiction of the country's irrigation districts will have a total commercial value of $720 million (U.S.).

The estimate was based primarily on recent optimistic reports of the hydraulic resources ministry which indicated "great volumes" of water will be stored in reservoirs by the end of the rainy season, high storage readings also will provide a guarantee of irrigation for early plantings next year.

You Are More Valuable To Your Company If You Know Financing

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—This may surprise none at a time when stock market writhings have made ordinary citizens acutely sensitive to money matters, but an organization devoted to home study in such things has reported most workers who study finance and accounting do well by themselves.

Not necessarily in the stock market. The survey didn't cover this, and it might be hard to keep up with profits and losses there. Instead, it devoted itself to the way that home students made out in salaries and promotions.

The survey was made by International Accountants Society, Inc., which says it is the oldest and largest home-study school in the field of accounting and allied management. It covered 5,343 persons who had received diplomas from the IAS in the past 10 years and found that 3,840 of them got pay raises and 2,728, or more than half, got promotions about the time they completed their studies.

Annual canvasses were made in a 10-year period, 1952 through 1961, of those who finished the complete course. The IAS said $7.7 per cent returned questionnaires with information on promotions and salary increases. The canvasses did not include persons who subscribed to shorter courses to concentrate on specific subjects.

The IAS has headquarters in Chicago and is expanding its curriculum to provide instruction in business subjects not necessarily connected directly with accounting problems.

"Today's narrowed profit margins and complex tax laws, among other considerations," said IAS president Byron Mendies in a statement released here, "make it essential that anyone aspiring to his company's executive level be thoroughly trained in financial and management techniques."

"In other words, if you work for someone, you'll be more valuable and stand a better chance of promotion if you know how money is handled and affairs are run."

Mona Lisa, subject of Da Vinci's famous painting, was the Neapolitan wife of a 15th century Florentine merchant, Zanobi del Giocondo.

Dr Pepper does it again... the different soft drink is having another different contest! Where else can you win a solid gold dinosaur and $10,000 in cash?

So enter, friends. As often as you like. Surely you can use $10,000. And the dinosaur is an original by Johnny Hart, creator of the comic strip "B.C." (He also created the two characters above, Harmon and Bunsen, and the other friendly cavemen types we hope you're enjoying in our current advertising.)

In case you've wondered, we run these unusual contests—once we gave away a Diamond Doorknob, last year a Tropical Island—to remind you that Dr Pepper is an unusual soft drink. Not a cola, not a root beer, it's a happy blend of many fruit flavors. Try it. See why almost everyone says, "It's different—I like it!"

GIVE THIS POOR CREATURE A HOME!

It breaks our heart to part with this handsome fellow, but we know someone will give him the home he deserves. He's no trouble at all—and not life-size (how would you get him into the house?)! Actually, this Johnny Hart-designed original stands 4" tall and will be the perfect conversation piece on your mantel or book shelf. Hand-crafted of 10-karat solid gold (weighted), he comes complete with his favorite possession—a miniature Dr Pepper bottle (we had to get the commercial in someplace).

You'll find an official entry blank on every carton of Dr Pepper. Pick up several tomorrow. Enjoy the Dr Pepper, send in your entries, and start planning what to do with the only gold dinosaur anywhere and $10,000!

610 OTHER PRIZES TOO!

By George, this is a line contest, isn't it? Not only a solid gold dinosaur and $10,000, but all these other prizes, too! Count them:

10 SECOND PRIZES!
RCA Victor Color TV Set (New 1963 Model, similar to Model 212-F-75-M. Service policy not included.)

200 THIRD PRIZES!
RCA Victor Portable Phonograph (New 1963 Model, similar to Model 1 EMP 2-KK)

400 FOURTH PRIZES!
RCA Victor Transistor Radios (New 1963 Model, similar to Model ELF 3RH10)

GREAT PARTY IDEA! HAVE A "CAVEMAN COOKOUT!"

Here's a party idea that's a ton of fun. The secret? No silverware—just fun! Every entry blank for the Solid Gold Dinosaur Contest features a recommended menu and tasty new no-silverware recipes! Go all the way, and make it a party. Have your guests come barefoot and in costume—if it was good enough for our ancestors, it's good enough for us!

for use! Outlaw silverware, serve in paper plates or pie tins, and keep the napkins handy! Throw in some cave games (please, no "Dagging Girl by the Hair") and let your imagination do the rest! Just seven words of warning: don't, don't, don't forget the Dr Pepper!

Chocolate 'N Ice Cream Teamed With Imagination

Tennis, anyone? Of course! And after the game — or any summer sport — everybody, including the spectators, will want cool refreshments. Since it's a young crowd, the refreshments will require two essential ingredients: chocolate flavoring and imagination. Luckily, chocolate and imagination are excellent teammates. The flavor of chocolate, such a favorite in itself, blends beautifully with all sorts of other flavors — orange, mint, coffee and banana are good examples.

Making chocolate - flavored sodas, milkshakes and frosteds is a breeze. You start with quick chocolate - flavored mix, which dissolves instantly in liquid, and your work is done in a flash. The mix combines equally well with milk or soda water; a little stirring distributes its rich chocolate flavor through the ice cream soda or milk drink immediately. Because quick chocolate - flavored mix is a powder, it needs no refrigerator space for storage. Just keep it handy on a cupboard shelf.

Here are some tempting possibilities:

A chocolate - banana flip, made with contrasting layers of vanilla ice cream and chocolate mix blended with banana, stands next to a chocolate cinnamon shake, sporting a stylish cinnamon stick stirrer. For those who like mocha — and who doesn't? — there's a chocolate soda with coffee ice cream. Next comes chocolate ambrosia, a chocolate soda with orange sherbet and a gay orange slice on the rim of the glass, and finally, a minted chocolate frost, a peppermint - flavored chocolate milkshake with a scoop of vanilla ice cream as a bonus.

To honor the winners and console the losers, bring on a round of Whoopie Pies. The Woodbound Inn, an attractive resort in Jaffrey, New Hampshire, featuring summer and winter sports, serves these chocolate marshmallow-filled cookies as a snack.

Quick chocolate - flavored mix is at the heart of the matter again. It combines readily with the other dry ingredients in a butter dough and imparts its fine flavor and color to the wafer-thin cookies as they bake. A filling made with marshmallow cream, butter and confectioners' sugar completes the story.

WHOOPIE PIES

Short Cut Gives Same Flavorful Effect To Italiane Spaghetti Sauce Garnish

Home from the beach, beside the swimming pool or after a good tennis game and a cold shower — in fact most any time, teen-agers can enjoy spaghetti with a good rich flavorful sauce. And although the Italian sauces cooked the day long over a slow fire were wonderful with a rich caramel undertone, there is a short cut that gives the same flavorful effect. Thicken the sauce by adding tomato paste to give you that cling-to-the-surface consistency and add kitchen bouquet to give that rich long-cooked color and flavor. For hungry appetites serve French bread spread with garlic butter and toasted, and plenty of pickles and raw vegetable relishes. The beverages will probably be bottled soft drinks. For dessert watermelon is in season and a platter of store bought cookies or small cakes will disappear promptly.

ITALIENNE SPAGHETTI
¼ cup fat
1-3 cup finely diced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon kitchen bouquet

½ pound ground beef
1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) tomatoes
¼ teaspoon powdered thyme
2 teaspoons salt
1-16 teaspoon pepper
¾ cup tomato paste
8 ounces spaghetti
Melt fat in 9-inch skillet. Add onion and garlic and cook over moderate heat about 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in kitchen bouquet. Add meat pulled into small pieces. Cook, stirring constantly until meat is crumbly, then add tomatoes, thyme, salt and pepper and simmer for 15 minutes. Stir in tomato paste and simmer uncovered for 45 minutes, stirring frequently until sauce is thick. Meanwhile cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain thoroughly. Serve immediately topped with the sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Sandwich-In-The-Round Dramatic Offering For Family Table Scene

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Fiesta Sandwich Ring is rather sensational. Part of its appeal is an unusual shape — a sandwich in the round.

The peppy ground beef filling is broiled right on the bottom half of a corn bread ring. Then the top is fitted and draped with melon cheese triangles.

Back to the broiler for a minute or two, and presto! Out comes a handsome sandwich ring.

¼ cup chopped Spanish olives
One 8-oz. can tomato sauce

Peerless Pineapple Perfect Palate Pleaser For Summertime Desserts

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The peerless pineapple with its wonderful flavor and aroma is in abundance now. Though pineapples look quite sturdy, they are actually delicate and should be handled carefully.

A pleasing aroma and orange-yellow color are the best guides to good quality. The "eyes" should be flat and almost hollow and the fruit should be heavy for its size.

SPICED FRESH PINEAPPLE COMPOTE
(Yield: 6 servings)
1-3 cup sugar
1 cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
2 sticks cinnamon, 2 inches long
1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 teaspoon whole allspice
3 cups fresh pineapple wedges
Fresh berries in season

ring.
Top with remaining cheese slices; return to broiler 1 to 2 minutes or until cheese is melted.
Cut into wedges; serve hot.

Combine sugar, water, salt, cinnamon, cloves and allspice in a saucepan. Mix well. Bring to boil in point, and boil 2 to 3 minutes. Strain over pineapple wedges. Cool.

Chill and serve in compote glasses. Garnish with berries in season.

FRESH PINEAPPLE SOPHISTICATE
(Yield: 4 servings)
Cut 1 medium fresh pineapple lengthwise into quarters.
Note: Do not remove top; but cut through it.

Run a sharp knife along the underside of the pineapple ½-inch from the shell, but do not remove meat.

Cut-out core from each serving. Cut the fruit into ¼-inch crosswise slices. Then cut down the center. Push alternating slices so that they extend slightly over the edge of shell on each side.

Sprinkle each serving with 2 teaspoons sugar and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Let stand at least 30 minutes before serving.

Familiar Foods Are Enriched With Iron

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q — What familiar foods in my market are good sources of iron?
A — All these meats are excellent sources of iron: liver, beef, lamb and pork. Oysters and clams are very good sources, too.

Q — Should older people eat raw fruit and berries?
A — The Nutrition Foundation advises that older people need fruits and vegetables as much as young people do — at least four servings daily.

Raw fruits and vegetables, particularly citrus fruits and tomatoes, should be in the diet unless there is a definite medical contraindication.

Cooked fruit and berries may be substituted for raw, if an older person finds the uncooked fruit and berries difficult to chew or digest, but added sugar will add calories — usually not needed for older persons whose calorie needs are reduced.

Arrange 4 to 5 whole, uncapped fresh strawberries down the center of each.

Reading, Basic To All Learning, Is Important To The Young Student

You, Your Child and School
By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The teaching of reading has many implications for school and home. Some parents are confused by the many theories, criticisms, and comparisons of the subject.

Obviously, reading is the most important academic area since it is basic to all knowledge. Based upon this fact, schools concentrate on reading during the primary grades. An emphasis on learning to read is needed before a student can make extensive advances in most other areas.

Comparisons with Russian or European methods actually have few implications for us in that our language is quite different. An analysis of English will show a need for mastery of a variety of skills. A pure phonics approach is inadequate as a total sight approach. We must be prepared to teach reading by many methods.

In addition to the irregularity of our language, we have the irregularity of learning. Readiness is constantly referred to when reading is discussed. A child's readiness to read depends upon his physical development (eyes, ears), motivation, experiences, and emotional adjustment. Naturally, the combination of these items cannot be expected to develop at the same speed in each individual.

The broad area covered by the actual learning of reading means that much more than mechanical teaching is necessary. Of course, there are many intricacies of teaching for which much training and experience is needed. This does not mean that good common sense and understanding, on the part of parents, will not aid the situation.

In the pre-school years, the parent can create an atmosphere and plan experiences which will lead to readiness. Listening and discrimination through hearing and seeing are important. How can these skills be developed? Most children enjoy hearing adults read. They develop interest as they listen and participate. How? Inject questions such as: And what do you think will happen next? Motivate the stories with expression and interest.

Along with the development of skills, your child should also develop motivation. As he has more exciting experiences with books he will want to delve further. Relate actual events and desires to books. Your reading and his should be shared.

Create an atmosphere of respect toward books and the child's reading time. Give him a section of a bookshelf for his own books. Don't interrupt him when he is reading. Provide a quiet place where he can get lost in the world of books.

Salinity Problem In Rio Grande Is Cited

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Commenting on Washington reports that Mexico puts high salt-content water into the Lower Rio Grande River water used on U.S. farms, the Foreign Ministry said Monday night this problem "should be studied immediately after" resolution of the reverse situation on the Colorado River.

Mexicali Valley farmers near the California-Arizona border last November began complaining that U.S. allotments to Mexico of Colorado River waters were arriving with a crop-killing salt content. Formal talks have been in progress for several months and President Kennedy agreed to seek a solution in a joint declaration signed with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos during Kennedy's recent visit.

Above all, do not create a feeling of pressure. Avoid comparing his accomplishments with classmates or other members of the family.

Reading is an integral part of learning. Take advantage of the child's interests. Encourage reading but avoid pressure. Do not discourage a narrow concentration of reading but build upon this interest. Variety will develop as the child's curiosity and scope of experience grows. The major aim should be to develop a respect and knowledge of the fascinating world which can be unlocked through books.

The ministry said the salt comes from the Morillo Drain, part of the Lower San Juan River Irrigation District. The saline water empties into the Rio Grande about three miles upriver from the Anzalduas Dam, near Reynosa.

The ministry said the salt enters drainage waters by "entirely natural" causes during the irrigation of salt-laden farm lands. Mexicali Valley farmers protested that water sent to Mexico as its share of a bilateral treaty of governing Colorado River waters, were first used to flush salt from the Wellington-Mohave drainage system in Arizona by means of deep wells.

The ministry said the Mexican waters raise Anzalduas Dam water salt content to "inconvenient" levels when discharges from the Faldon Dam upstream are "very low."

It said Mexican authorities agreed "immediately" to send Morillo waters straight to the Gulf of Mexico when U.S. officials last December said they threatened U.S. crops.

"The commissioners of both nations in the international boundary and water commission agree that (the problem of these (Morillo) waters should be considered by the commission immediately after resolving the case of contamination of the Colorado River," a formal statement said.

MAN OVER NATURE—A man-made hole in the clouds more than three miles wide is clearly visible in photograph above. Using a cloud-seeding machine developed by Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories scientists, a pilot created the hole in one hour with only eleven pounds of dry-ice pellets. The machine, dubbed "The Cloudbuster," was developed to give Air Force transport pilots the ability to make windows at will through supercooled cloud decks. At the touch of a lever, the machine can make different sized pellets from liquid carbon dioxide as well as control the rate of dispersal.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republicans have another angry attack on their hands because former President Eisenhower seems to be pulling the rug from under the Republican congressional leadership.

This took place at an all-Republican conference of party leaders June 30 at Eisenhower's Gettysburg farm. Ike was first up to speak. He said that he had been reading some reading lately and identified his reading matter as a periodical named Advance.

Advance is published five times a year in Cambridge Mass, by a group of young men led by publisher Bruce K. Chapman. The magazine describes itself as a journal of political thought.

Eisenhower told the Republicans that Advance had the right ideas. Ike said it was possible that publisher Chapman was among the assembled party leaders. Sure enough, Chapman was and he stood up. Ike said everybody should subscribe to Chapman's magazine. He proposed that the Republicans approach Chapman during the conference and get on the mailing list.

Attack on Leaders

It is reported that House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck required restraint by calmer counsel when Eisenhower endorsed Advance. Halleck was angry because the latest issue March of Advance contains a free-swinging attack on Halleck and other congressional Republican leaders, notably Senate Leader Everett Dirksen and Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The March issue of Advance was devoted to "the Republicans on Capitol Hill." The magazine described the House Leadership as reluctant, lazy or hostile in matters of responsibility to the well-being of the nation and the Republican party. It attributed to several of Halleck's Republican colleagues the statement that Halleck hasn't read a serious book in 10 years and is suspicious of those who have.

"Republicans of all views," the magazine related, "feel they are being less led by Halleck than presided over; that the only attempt at hammering anything out comes not in policy but in the strategy of obstruction."

Bumbling Chairman

The young editors of Advance discovered Goldwater to be a bumbling chairman of the Senate Republican campaign committee. They called him disqualified for that chairmanship, adding that "Goldwater's liabilities in his campaign committee position seem to us overwhelming."

Dirksen and Halleck are regular Republican television spokesmen on what has come to be known as "The Ev and Charley Show." Advance rated the show as valued for little more than comic relief and as evidence of Republican intellectual pauperism.

A fair question: did Ike actually read the magazine or did he succumb to a snow job by John L. Loeb Jr. of New York, a financial backer of Advance?

Another question: How does Ike plan to oust the leaders and who are his candidates to succeed them?

PRODDING MOTHER

HAMMOND, Ind. (UPI) — Raleigh Dahl, 18, plans to fulfill the rest of his sentence for illegal possession of fireworks the hard way.

Dahl, sentenced by "spanking judge" William Obermiller, of Whiting, Ind., to have his hair cut short and to read Edward Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," was told he could report on the condensed paperback version of the book. But with a bit of prodding from his mother, Dahl began reading the entire five-volume edition.

HIS YIELD WAS GOOD—Though Missouri's wheat crop may be the smallest since '51, Charles D. Meyer, of Brunswick, isn't complaining. A 13-acre field of his made 745 bushels for an average of 57.3 bushels an acre. High-yielding wheat, Pawnee variety, was top-dressed this spring at the rate of 30 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre. It was seeded heavily—about 2½ bushels per acre—on Oct. 6.

Dear Abby... Girl Needs To Talk To Parents

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is urgent. I MUST know at once in which states you can get married (A) without a waiting period and (B) without a blood test; (C) how old must the boy be and how old must the girl be to marry without the consent of their parents; (D) if you lie about your age, is the marriage legal; (E) how can you tell for sure if you are expecting without going to a doctor?

IN A HURRY DEAR IN: In reply to questions A, B, C, AND D: The requirements differ in the various states. Call your local County Courthouse or the Justice of the Peace. All lawyers or clergymen have this information. In reply to E: You can't — until it's too late. You sound as though you need to have a long talk with your parents. I recommend it.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I was invited by a classmate to spend the week-end "vacationing" at his family's seaside cottage. I accepted. We took a ride on their boat for an hour on Friday, which was the only time we got near the water. Then he suggested we get some "exercise." So we spent all day Saturday and Sunday rebuilding a sea wall, mowing the grass and weeding the garden. I appreciated the invitation, but I could have stayed home and worked on my own lawn. How does one reciprocate for a "vacation" like that?

A "GUEST" DEAR GUEST: Invite your "host" to your place one week-end and treat him to a little "exercise" on YOUR property.

DEAR ABBY: I have a dear friend whose husband is in the hospital. He has been there for over a month. It's nothing serious, only a back injury. He calls all the nurses, aids and maids by their first names and acts very flirty with them. When his wife comes to visit him he introduces her as his MOTHER. She feels hurt, but what can she say? She has been thinking about bringing a strange man to the hospital with her next time and introducing her

Here's Something New Under Summer Sun

By ALICIA HART Newspaper Enterprise Assn. At the first sign of summer, beams of advice crop up on how to be cautious under the sun. So many words on the subject may seem unnecessary, but from some of the blistered, sore-looking sunburns I've seen, the advice went unnoticed by many women. It's true that one of the most flattering cosmetics a woman can wear is a healthy sun tan. But, unhappily, summer is not a golden season for everyone. Most people know that the sun is more intense during July from noon to 3 p.m. However, a lot of women don't realize that the sun has sneaky ways. If you are fair, limit your first session in the sun to 10 minutes, and use an effective sun tan lotion. Gradually increase your time under the sun's rays, and soon you will build up a protective tan that will permit you to enjoy your vacation without worry of sunburn. Beware of complacent moments under a hat or protecting umbrella. Neither of these protects against sun rays bouncing off sand and water. Watch out for hazy days of light fog. Ultraviolet rays are penetrating and creep up on you in cool sunless air. In mountain areas, unfelt burning rays are stronger than the cool air would indicate. Your fragrance is the most subtle and feminine way to make your presence felt. There are many methods, aside from splashing it on your skin, to make it work for you. For instance, when you expect guests, use your scent on the candles you light at dinner and on the electric bulbs. Try floating blossoms in scented water; the effect is delightful. Just before your guests arrive, spray the air and walk through it. You can make your clothes closet a part of your personality, too, by spraying your fragrance on padded hangers. When you are going dancing, spray the hem of a full-skirted dress so that it will give off a subtle scent with every movement. Above all, don't save your favorite fragrance. Long standing can cause it to evaporate. Use it so that you can enjoy it. That's the primary reason for its presence on your dressing table. BLUE IS COOL COLOR Blue is a cool and popular color for summer. Why not carry it out as a theme, accented with your make-up shades? Create a blue-eyed illusion, even if your eyes are of another color. Apply eye shadow in true blue or a blue mist shade. Then draw on a band of blue eye liner and use blue mascara. To complete the cool theme, wear lipstick that has rose or pink tones to pick up the blue of your eyes. If you wear rouge, it should be the pastel counterpart of your lipstick color. You'll look cool and dainty on a summer evening — no mean achievement!

Woman's World

Muffled Look Takes Over Ruffle Look In Major Autumn And Winter Fashions

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI)—Last year fashion designers ruffled us up to our ears in furbelows. This fall and winter, they want to muffle us up to our ears. Neck muffers, from two-inch skins of mink or phony mink wrap-arounds, or eight and ten and twelve-inch wide scarves of fabric or other fur, wrap a woman's throat as if every designer was scared the customer was in danger of pneumonia. The muffled look is a major trend of fall and winter fashion collections of women's apparel being shown this week for some 250 visiting fashion reporters who are in New York for the semi-annual displays of the New York couture group and its auxiliary membership. The week-long shows will include highlights of collections from 24 couture group members, plus the assorted auxiliaries who will display creations from hair-dos to bowling fashions. It is a rare suit, costume or coat which is not accompanied by a rectangular-scarf around the neck, and tied on the left shoulder. Some of the muffers are so wide and voluminous they cover a woman's ears, chin, nose and most of her coiffure. Hats go right along with the covering trend. So do shoes—boots make a grand walk-on—as seen in millinery and shoe shows. For the woman shopping for a fall and winter wardrobe, besides all that neck-line wrapping, here are things that she should watch for, based on the New York collection. In suits and coats, primarily the skinny, narrow silhouette will prevail, with a tremendous revival of what we once called the princess, with subdued bodice, hinting of a classic high bustline and its no-belt shape flaring at the hem. This shape also is called the rajah, the garment industry's newest term since Mrs. John F. Kennedy's visit to India and Pakistan. Also attending were Mrs. Wayne Stroope, Mrs. Gregory Rappine, both of White Deer; Mmes. Paul Carroll, Dennis Kotara and Ronald Kotara of Panhandle; Mmes. Alton Goodin, of Claude; Mrs. Ivan Frekerisen and Raymond Faulkner of Amarillo.

Esther Club With Mrs. Ed Wylie

Esther Club met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Ed Wylie, 1821 Coffee with Mrs. Eura Davis, president, presiding. Discussion tabled until a later date. A program of music and games comprised the entertainment with Jeri and Perrie Armstrong singing several selections. Door prize was awarded Mrs. Lucille Kessinger. Others attending were Mmes. Nelda Monday, Gladys Mayo, Ella Thornhill, Ola McAfee.

The Mature Parent Grandma Must Keep Foot Out Of Mouth

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My 7-year-old girl and my mother don't get along. If my mother is around when my daughter won't do something she's told to or talks back to me, my mother will say "I never heard of such a thing in my life" or something like that. I think she is trying to defend me. But my daughter resents this very much. I don't know how to tell my mother not to interfere when I am having trouble with the children. I don't want to hurt her. She is a wonderful woman and only has my good in mind. ANSWER: If your good is what your mother has in mind, then she should trust you to work out your problems with your daughter. When she "interferes" in what is going on between you and your child, she demonstrates that she does not trust you to work the problem out. The fact that she feels obliged to try to reinforce your authority over your daughter tells us that she does not respect it as competent and sufficient. Perhaps this is why your daughter resents her. As children have to depend on our reliability as their leaders, they are made very uncomfortable by people who belittle it. In the presence of a relative who belittles it by interfering in our treatment of some misbehavior, children will increase their defiance. Caught as we are in a situation that then involves three people instead of the two it ought, we get muddled and confused. We become angrier at the child instead of perceiving that his increased defiance is not directed at us but at grandma's or aunt's.

HONORED TOURISTS

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hickman and daughters, Beth, 9 and Kathy, 8, have just returned from a 22-day vacation during which they were picked "Lucky Tourists" for the day in Westminster, British Columbia. The family is pictured here being greeted by the Mayor of Westminster, Beth Wood and given the "keys to the city." The Hickmans were conducted on a tour of the city in a white convertible and given souvenir remembrances of the honor. Luncheon and dinner were provided at leading restaurants in the city, and they were given a suite in a swank Royal Towers Hotel. During their vacation, the Hickmans visited Grand Canyon, Disneyland, Sequoyah and Yosemite Parks, San Francisco; up the Pacific Coast highway to Oregon and the World's Fair in Seattle, Wash. They visited in Canada, Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City, Colorado, New Mexico before returning to their home, 2223 Duncan, last Thursday. (Columbian Photo)

SHAPING THE SATURN—Almost lost in the plumbing, two technicians work in the engine area of a mock-up Saturn rocket at the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala. The SA-5 (fifth version of the Saturn) will sport several design changes, including larger tanks to carry an additional 100,000 pounds of fuel. Most apparent are the huge fins which have been added to give greater stability and control. The Saturn, world's largest known rocket, has already been successfully tested in an earlier version. The full-scale model aids engineers in the transition from blueprints to actual rocket.

Peruvian Is Once Again Storm Center Of Political Crisis

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The situation was nothing new for Dr. Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, a hawk-nosed, burly man who for 40 years has been a storm center of Peruvian politics. In 1931, he ran for president in Peru and, according to his followers, gained the greatest number of votes. But Luis Sanchez Cerro, a military man, was declared the winner.

In the current political crisis in Peru, he again is the storm center.

Returns from the June 10 elections gave Haya de la Torre a slim margin over his two principal opponents, Fernando Belaunde Terry and Gen. Manuel A. Odría, who served as president from 1948 to 1956.

Congress to Decide
Since no candidate received a third of the votes cast, the decision now must be made by the Peruvian Congress, selecting one from among the three leaders.

Opposition to Haya de la Torre, springs from an unlikely combination of right and left.

On the right is the army. "Even if Haya de la Torre is elected, he never will sit in the presidential palace," remarked one general two months before the elections ever were held.

The army has brought charges of fraud against Haya de la Torre's American Popular Revolutionary Alliance and has demanded he withdraw from the race.

On the left are the Castroites and Marxists who polled only 10,000 votes but who believe the three-way tie enhanced their cause. They hope for a weak government whose internal dissension might promote their hopes for revolution.

Belaunde Favored
Forced to make a choice, they probably would select Fernando Belaunde.

They believe that under Belaunde there would be less chance of harsh repressive measures toward them and that he would withhold the government support

KEEPS AT IT—Canadian elections are over, but Real Caouette, deputy national leader of the Social Credit party, keeps in touch with the voters: He's shown, right, talking mortar mix with masons in Rouyn, Quebec. With 30 seats in the 265-seat House of Commons, the Social Credit group could prove an important voting bloc for Conservative Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's minority government to reckon with.

Mexican Blasts US Sugar Quota

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Secretary of Agriculture Julian Rodriguez Adame said after a meeting with President Lopez Mateos Wednesday that the recent sugar quota set by the United States for Mexico, 190 thousand tons over a two and a half year period, was too low.

Adame said the U.S. ought to consider that Mexico is Latin America's number one purchaser of U.S. manufactured goods. The secretary said Mexico "is continuing to negotiate the matter with the U.S."

He added that the new quota would directly affect many farmers, and said Mexico would maintain its current sugar production and at the same time seek to enlarge domestic sugar consumption.

Space Speedup OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate approved by voice vote Wednesday a $3.8 billion bill which would authorize a speedup in the nation's space programs and restore $45.8 million in cuts made by the House.

The action, which sent the measure to a House-Senate conference to iron out differences, came after two amendments by Sen. William Proxmire, D - Wis., were voted down.

Bob Feller, former hurler for the Cleveland Indians, issued 1,764 bases on balls during his pitching career, a record.

William Johnson, 24, and his wife Caroline, 23, hid their heroin supplies under their four-month - old son's mattress, detectives said. Basing their operations in a Manhattan park, the couple made about $300 a day from their sales, according to police.

JFK Signs Bill Requiring 82 TV Set Channels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy signed a bill Wednesday which may revolutionize television viewing by ordering that new sets receive 82 channels rather than the present 12.

The "all channel" legislation signed into law authorizes the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to require that all sets sold across state lines shall receive both the present 12 very high frequency (VHF) channels and the 70 available ultra high frequency (UHF) channels. Supporters of the law, including FCC Chairman Newton N. Minow, believe it will mean a gradual increase in the number of U.S. television stations and the probable formation of a fourth major television network. This increased competition, they argue, should lead to better television.

Groat Says Pirates Have To Play Better

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—All-Star shortstop Dick Groat feels the Pittsburgh Pirates will have to avoid any losing streaks in the second half of the season if they are to recapture the National League pennant after a year's lull.

Groat, who drove in a run with a first hit in an All-Star contest Tuesday to help the National League win the American League, said he believes the Pirates have the spirit and the ability to grab the championship in the senior circuit this year.

He compared the morale of the 1962 edition of the Bucs with the team that shocked the Yankees in the 1960 World Series.

"I think the spirit of the club was lifted noticeably in the past month," said the Buc captain. "But we have to keep away from those losing streaks that hurt us in the first half of the season. In fact, any club that wins will have to avoid a losing streak."

But Groat said the Pirates, who currently are in third place, 4½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, are playing their games as they come.

"I believe that's the way you've got to play to win," he said. "You can't worry about what the other clubs are doing. We've heard some of the players say what the Giants or Dodgers are doing when we hit a winning streak. Someone always answers them, 'don't worry about them, we've got our own games to win.'"

Groat, whose .320 batting average puts him among the leaders in the league, made the All-Star team in 1959, '60 and '62.

He was unable to explain his comeback so far this season from last year when he batted .275 and was having trouble in the field after winning the batting title in 1960.

"I can't say that I'm doing anything different," he said. "It's just that last year everything seemed to go wrong. What worried me most during the winter was that I not only dropped my average, but I wasn't catching the ball."

Regarded as a "steady" player, the former Duke All-America basketball star said one thing that takes a few points off his average is hitting behind the runner purposely to advance him.

"But I never think of it that way," Groat said. "Although it does drop my average, my ability to do little things like that is what keeps me in the major leagues."

Groat said he hoped Dick Stuart would come out of his batting slump to give the Bucs a lift in their drive for the National League flag.

"He's got a great deal of ability and I have a lot of confidence in him," Groat said of the Pirates' first baseman. "But he's being pressed hard now and that makes it more difficult for him."

Groat discounted any notions that the hot weather expected in July and August would affect the play of some of the older members of the squad. "We played in weather last month that will be as hot as anything we get in July or August," he explained. "The heat didn't bother us in St. Louis or Houston or in the hot spell here, in fact we were winning then."

Yanks Lead Little Loop

LEFORS (Sp) — The double header games Monday night, July 2, began with the Yankees winning over the Giants, 18-8. Adkins was the winning pitcher for the Yankees, while Philip Allison was losing pitcher for the Giants. In this game Bruce Ginn knocked a home run.

In the second game the same evening, the Cardinals won over the Cubs with a score of 14-5. Jimmy Gilbreath was winning pitcher while Gary Smith lost.

The Yankees edged the Cubs in a battle Tuesday night, July 3, at the city ball diamond. The final score was 10-8. In this game, Bruce Ginn hit his seventh home run of the season for the Yankees. Terry Johnson was winning pitcher and Dennis Keith was losing pitcher.

In another exciting game, the Giants and Cards clashed to arrive at a 11-10 decision with the Giants out in front.

The Giants and the Cubs competed Friday night, July 6 with the Cubs dropping the Giants 16-4. In the second game of the evening, the Yankees defeated the Cardinals 11-5.

Here are the standings of the teams reported through the end of the first half of the season by Duany Goode, compiled in a box score.

Yankees 8 1 .88 —
Cards 5 4 .555 3
Cubs 3 6 .333 5
Giants 2 7 .222 6

Wheeler is second with four wins and one loss; McLean is fourth with two wins and three losses.

Mobette has no wins and five losses and has forfeited the rest of their games this season since they do have enough boys to play. This will automatically give the other teams a win in the final standings.

Lefors has one of the best pitchers in the league in Phil Woodring. Danny Robbins, Lefors left fielder, is considered the player making the most improvement through the season so far. Jerry Lane, with a batting average of .125, hasn't had too good a chance to prove his batting ability, since he has been walked about twenty-five times.

Michael Allison, Bobby Call, and Larry Pruett have just begun to play with the team, having been unavailable the first half of the season.

Maury Wills Was Real Thief In All-Star Contest Against Foes

NEW YORK (UPI) — There was an old-timer at the All-Star game who, in the light of events which had transpired, was discussing how they finally figured out how to stop Ty Cobb's base stealing.

"It was really simple," he said. "We threw two bases ahead of him."

Which brings up the case of Maury Wills, Rocky Colavito and whether the Tiger outfielder should have thrown at least one base ahead of the Thief of Bagdad on the Pacific Coast.

Actually it is a play which wasn't too devastating, as it all turned out, being merely the icing on the National League cake in a 3 to 1 victory. But, contended one, it might have altered the American League strategy in the ninth if their heroes had been only one run off the pace instead of needing two to tie.

But it's the way of baseball buffs that the Wills-Colavito play will be remembered and debated long after the two other runs which actually won it are forgotten.

The situation arose when Wills singled and then went down to second on a Texas League single by Jim Davenport. Wills, however, rounded second and took a fat lead. He was deliberately daring Colavito, who had fielded the ball in short left field, to throw to second.

One contention is that all Colavito had to do was to pussy-foot straight toward Wills. But, possessing one of the best throwing arms in baseball, Colavito elected to do just what Wills was hoping he would. Rocky fired a bullet to Bobby Richardson at second and Wills galloped on into third, sliding under Brooks Robinson's tag.

Robinson argued with umpire Tony Venzon with the usual result. Venzon's decision stood. And Wills was able to score later on.

another daring dash that otherwise would never have occurred. But, in light of Wills' record of base stealing, it stands as slightly surprising in this corner that Colavito didn't throw ahead of him.

Being noted as a meathead, I am not going to suggest that Wills is a Cobb. But you can look at the figures yourself.

Cobb was a master thief on the basepaths, a hit and run Raffles who stands alone. He purloined 892 bases during his big league career and set the one-season record of 96 which has stood since 1915.

But Wills, with 46 stolen bases at the halfway mark this season, isn't too far off that pace.

Wills in his first three years in the majors, not counting his 46 to date this season, stole 92 bases in 379 games. Cobb, in his first three major league seasons, stole 111 in 397 games.

In 12 years of baseball, Wills has stolen 419 bases. In his first 12 years, Cobb stole 631.

But there are added factors favoring Cobb. His was a "dead ball" era in which there was a far greater accent on base running. Then, too, Cobb in his career had a .367 batting average which put him on base far more often than Wills' meager .233 average for big league play.

This isn't to say that, like the old-timer explained, they should adopt the policy of throwing two bases ahead of Wills, too. But one base ahead would seem to be for sure.

Government vs. Business

It would be comforting if we could honestly declare in this column that the administration and the business community were in harmony and that all was going to be well. We do feel that efforts will be made, perhaps efforts that will reach a crescendo in coming weeks and months, to convince all of us that love and harmony prevails between these two segments of the nation.

But the effort will be strained and, in point of fact, it will be just one more attempt to make those things which are truly incompatible, harmoniously compatible. The task cannot be done. There is a line of demarcation running between government and the business community which propaganda cannot erase. The truth is that this line is not something new to the current period. The present administration did not invent the schism.

As a matter of candor, the obvious break in the relationship occurred when it did simply because Mr. Kennedy is less gentle and diplomatic than some of his predecessors in office. When Kennedy pointed up the line of cleavage, he was just being honest. He was stating to the world that which he knew and about which he did not propose to dissemble.

The purpose of government is to rule by means of a political monopoly backed by force of arms if necessary. The purpose of business is to make profits, and to make these profits by providing for people in the market place, goods and services which are better and cheaper than can be provided in any other way.

Not only are these different objectives, they are mutually exclusive. If an individual is a politician, it will be to his best interests to seek to rule. For him to function at all he must rely on controls, regulations, laws, taxation and ultimate power. For him to refuse to rely on these items, is for him to refuse to function as a politician.

If an individual is a businessman, it will be to his best interests to seek to make profits thru the voluntary purchases of his goods or service by the public. For him to function at all, he must rely on freedom and the generally held view that individual people will volunteer to purchase what he provides. If they fail to purchase, he will go bankrupt.

Constant Learning

In life there is no such thing as graduation. You either continue to learn and to make progress or you sit still and deteriorate.

What Is Leisure?

The dictionary describes leisure as "freedom afforded by exemption from occupation or business; time free from employment." But some of our psychologists and present-day social philosophers think the subject of leisure is a good deal more complex than this.

A lot of comment today makes the point that many people in this country and elsewhere undertake "leisure time" activity which is in fact just another kind of occupation — though not gainful.

What they mean is that men and women pursue sports, hobbies, do it - yourself activities and the like with a furious intensity and outlay of energy little different from work time.

As fathers and mothers, these same folk are accused of organizing and managing their children's affairs as if they were running some sort of junior corporation. Mother dashes about in the station wagon delivering Johnny to the Little League ball park, dropping Freddie at Cub Scouts, picking up Emily from dancing class, and so on.

There is a school of thinkers who say all this may be fine enough — but it isn't leisure. To these people, leisure is not just time away from work but time to think without pressure, to rest, to wander aimlessly, to take stock of one's day and one's life, to just plain loaf.

The notion in all this, obviously is that leisure is a kind of pause, an entry into a spacious clearing where you can look at the forest rather than just the trees. You can't do that when you are out in the car, whizzing among the trees.

It is of some interest that the Twentieth Century Fund, a privately financed research organization which devotes itself to economic and social problems, is looking into the matter of leisure. It has financed a study of the history and nature of leisure by Dr. Sebastian de Gazia of Rutgers University.

De Gazia is not about to give away his findings, which soon will be published. But the Fund's newsletter suggests he belongs with those who are concerned that the idea of leisure and of free time — away from work — may be gravely confused by many.

He does drop this hint of what is to come: "Something as personal as leisure cannot be pinned down. To measure it is, somehow, to be measuring something else, usually oneself."

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Want to Stop Smoking? Use Your Won't Power!

Q — Although a "cigarette cough" is the only bad effect I note from smoking, I want to kick the habit and have been advised to take a drug whose name escapes me. Can you tell me what this is and whether it is effective and harmless?

A — The only safe and effective measure you can use to kick the cigarette habit is WILL POWER. If you haven't got it, you can't buy it.

Q — Why do you continue to recommend aspirin alone for pain relief? Isn't it better to use a combination of pain killers? Surely the effect of two or three similar products must be better than that of any single one.

A — Your logic may be good but your pharmacology is not. Dose for dose, aspirin is as effective as any combination of pain killers. However, if you compare the action of a 5-grain aspirin tablet with a combination in which each of three ingredients is present in 3-grain dosage, the combination may have a superior effect.

But that's not the main reason for favoring a single product when a single product will do the trick. By using additional products, you expose the patient to additional risks from side effects and even poisoning.

Thus, acetophenetidin (phenacetin) is often used with aspirin. Yet a recent study made in Sweden revealed that, of 130 workers who regularly took phenacetin for the relief of arthritis or sciatica, almost one-third had signs of kidney damage. And, of those who were "acetophenetidin eaters" for a considerable period of time, approximately a half had disturbances of kidney function — disturbances of sufficient severity to have contributed to death in 27 instances.

As to the other substances used with aspirin, acetaminol may act as a depressant to the heart. Aminopyrine has been known to cause serious damage to blood cells.

Maybe, in view of these facts, you'll agree it is better to stick to aspirin.

Q — Is it necessary to restrict the use of salt during pregnancy? A — Not if your pregnancy is progressing normally. However, if your doctor finds signs of beginning trouble (pre-eclampsia), such as a rising level of blood pressure, albumen in the urine or swelling of fingers and feet, he will want to have you cut down on your intake of salt.

Lincoln's Hallmark On Wide Range Of Laws

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Along with all the Civil War centennial observances this year, they are celebrating in the Capital and in every state and territory the 100th anniversary of President Abraham Lincoln's signing of the Morrill Act.

This created the land grant college system. There are 68 of these land grant, state institutions today. They have over 600,000 residents and 150,000 extension course students — nearly 20 per cent of total enrollment.

Originally these colleges of agriculture and mechanical arts were financed by the income from grants of federal lands to the states. Land grant colleges now get 90 per cent of their income from the states. But they also get about $15 million a year in educational grants from the federal government, plus $110 million from Department of Agriculture for experiment stations and extension work.

Grown from a little beginning, here is federal aid to higher education in a big way.

But in connection with the Morrill Act centennial ceremonies, one of the most significant details is that it was President Lincoln who signed this legislation, although his predecessor, James Buchanan, had vetoed it.

This is only one of many pieces

Chiang Kai-shek Proposes Quemoy-Matsu Defense By Bombing of Reds' Vulnerable Rail Supply Line

WASHINGTON — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is vigorously proposing to bomb vital Red Chinese rail and other supply lines in the event of a large-scale assault on Quemoy and Matsu.

The Nationalist leader is determinedly pressing this forceful measure as intelligence and other authoritative sources report a continued massive build-up of Communist forces and munitions opposite the two beleaguered offshore Nationalist strongholds.

It is now definitely known that in the past several weeks large quantities of jet fuel and artillery shells have been laboriously transported into the area opposite Quemoy and Matsu.

Two factors are mainly behind Chiang's insistence on bombing the Reds' supply network: —Its crucial necessity to them, and at the same time its high vulnerability. The rail system consists of two single-track spur lines, one 435 miles and the other 125 miles. In addition there are a number of newly-built gravel roads and old coolie trails that are largely unusable in heavy rains.

—Principal threat to Quemoy and Matsu is in the air. The powerfully-fortified and strongly-manned Nationalist bastions cannot be subdued solely by artillery pounding. That was clearly demonstrated in the long 1958 attack — and the Islands now are a far tougher nut to crack than they were then. Air superiority is essential to take them, and Chiang is determined to prevent the Communists from gaining that.

He proposes to do this by destroying their supply lines which the Reds must keep functioning to support an all-out assault. As previously reported in this column, Peiping has massed in this area upwards of 425,000 troops and some 400 jet planes. For the first time, these aircraft include transports and bombers; 30 twin-engine transports and 50 two and four-engine jet bombers — all Soviet-made.

The transports are capable of airlifting a battalion of paratroopers, and the bombers of dropping huge loads of explosives on Quemoy and Matsu.

VULNERABLE JUGULAR — The two long single-track spur lines, carrying the bulk of the Communists' heavy weapons and supplies, are clearly their Achilles heel. If these crucial rail lines are knocked out, the Reds are in a jam.

Both spur lines start at Yingtan, a key center on one of the main north-south Chinese rail systems. From Yingtan, the 435-mile spur line traverses a circuitous route, via Nanping and Yunguan, to Amoy, an important port blockaded by Quemoy. The 125-mile spur extends from Yingtan to Nanping to Fochow, another sizeable port dominated by Matsu.

Two other factors make these vital rail lines extremely vulnerable to disruption. One is that they have 46 tunnels and 140 bridges, which are readily subject to aerial attack. Many of these points have anti-aircraft defenses, and the Reds' powerful air forces also would be used to ward off bombers. But this would not keep these single-track rail lines from being cut — to the Communists' serious discomfiture.

The second factor is the ancient and worn-out equipment being used on these all-important supply routes. The engines are 20 to 30-year-old steam locomotives that are in bad repair and frequently break down, with long delays in traffic. The flatcars and other rolling stock are equally as old and battered.

Amoy and Fochow are virtually useless to the Communists so long as they are barricaded by Quemoy and Matsu — the former five miles off the coast and the latter 15.

That's why Peiping is so persistent in its costly efforts to get rid of these Nationalist strongholds. Once Amoy and Fochow are cleared, they could be used to mount an invasion of Formosa — the Reds' burning aim for years.

They have never ceased preparing for that.

They have built up a large invasion fleet along this coast. They now have a number of Soviet-built submarines, and in the past month have been sneaking Russian motor torpedo boats into Amoy and Fochow at night.

private dining room in one of the Hub's leading restaurants where he can gorge himself on his delicacy all alone.

These heavily-armed, light-draft craft have been run into these ports at the rate of several a night.

Chiang Kai-shek has the air power to blast the Reds' crucial supply system.

The Nationalists have upwards of 500 combat planes, approximately half of them jets. These include late-model "Century series" fighters, comparable to the best the Russians have given the Chinese. Further, the Nationalists have repeatedly demonstrated they are far superior combat pilots than the Reds.

Chiang strongly argues that because of the dire menace that the Communists may gain air superiority, a passive defense of Quemoy and Matsu is no longer tenable. He contends it is essential to take the offensive by attacking the Reds' supply system.

President Kennedy and his State and Defense Department advisers have reached no decision on this momentous proposal.

It is known to be favored by U.S. commanders in the Pacific. They are credited with heartily supporting Chiang's position, and want this country to back him to the hilt.

What the outcome of this eventful backstage debate will be is conjectural. The President has given no hint of his leanings.

However, there has been one significant straw in the wind.

The President has authorized a heavy stockpiling of "iron bombs" (TNT) on both Formosa and Okinawa — main U.S. military bases in the Far East. That was not done in the 1958 attack on Quemoy and Matsu.

Also, Admiral Harry Felt has been empowered to strengthen his forces in the Formosa area. But nothing beyond that. He has not been authorized to take any combat action.

Meanwhile, Chiang Kai-shek has greatly intensified the operations of his elements on the Red-ruled mainland.

These are largely conducted through so-called "secret societies." They are directed by Nationalist military leaders, and are used for intelligence, subversion and sabotage. These societies have colorful names — such as Heaven and Earth, White Lily, White Cloud, Scents of Spring, Fragrant Wind.

The anti-Communist operations of these secret societies do not violate the mutual defense pact between the U.S. and the Nationalists, which requires prior consultation by the latter before engaging in military measures.

WITHOUT COST TO THE TAXPAYERS

(Industrial News Review)

The federal government has built a series of multi-purpose dams on the Missouri river. But the river does not carry sufficient water at all times of the year to provide for irrigation, municipal water supply and other requirements, and at the same time generate enough electricity to serve the customers.

So it is proposed that the government build steam generating plants to make up for the lack — at a cost of many millions to the taxpayers of the entire country.

That expenditure is totally unnecessary. For 14 taxpaying, investor-owned utilities in the area have offered a simple plan that would solve the problem without the construction of any additional facilities.

Here is the way it would work: When the river has an excess of water, the government would send its surplus power to the 14 private systems, and they would distribute it to customers.

Then, when the Missouri had an insufficiency of water, the 14 systems would return or trade back electricity to the government so it could serve its customers.

Neither party would normally sell electricity to the other. It would simply be "traded" at the most economical time. And government customers and private utility customers would have available all the power they want, regardless of the water situation in the river.

If, in the light of this, the government does build steam plants, it will represent a waste of the public's money — at a time when every possible economy in federal spending is a matter of the utmost urgency to prevent federal deficits.
