

'Friends' Found Problem To JFK On Berlin Issue

By HARRY FERGUSON
LONDON (UPI)—The feeling in Western European capitals today is that on the Berlin crisis President Kennedy has made some progress against his opponents, but still has to deal with his friends.

Specifically, he has to deal with French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer if the West is going to present a united front against the Soviet Union at any Berlin negotiations that may develop. It may turn out to be a tough task, and recalls this despairing cry of George Canning, a 19th Century British prime minister: "Save me, oh save me, from my candid friends."

The autumn mists are beginning to gather over the Atlantic and it may be that the view from here is distorted, but a survey of Western Europe shows this is the way things look.

Kennedy has made real progress in convincing Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that he means business on Berlin. The whole tone of Soviet diplomacy has become more moderate in recent days. As long as Khrushchev thought he could bluff Kennedy, he resorted to bluster. Of late, there has been a moratorium on threats, and rocket rattling.

Kennedy is confronted with a delicate domestic problem. He succeeded in firing up the American people to the point where they were ready to go to war over Berlin. Negotiation implies give and take. The question both in the West and in the East is how Kennedy can condition Americans to giving a little bit on Berlin. Will he be accused of appeasement even if he favors a statesmanlike arrangement to save the peace? What will be the reaction of such groups as the John Birch Society?

One of Kennedy's friends is De Gaulle. His attitude is summed up in the following memo from Joseph W. Grigg in Paris, UPI chief correspondent for western continental Europe: "De Gaulle believes negotiations must take place at some time on Berlin, Germany and aid to underdeveloped countries, but not under threats of duress. For this reason he is still against the West making any overtures to the Russians to get negotiations started. He is against surrendering any Western rights in Berlin at all."

Kennedy has another friend in Adenauer. But Adenauer is rock-like in his opposition to permanent partition of Germany. And, as Wellington Long, UPI chief correspondent for Germany, says: "He, of course, opposes any suggestion that the Communists — either East German or Soviet — have any control of the air corridors or the people who use them, and will oppose any suggestion that Soviet troop contingents be stationed in West Berlin to guarantee its free status. Adenauer will oppose any diminution of Western rights in West Berlin proper. In the last analysis he will go along with whatever deal the United States may make with Russia because he has no choice.

In football terminology Kennedy has the ball and has started to thread his way through a broken field toward the distant goal. So far the gain has been only slight and there may be tough tacklers waiting for him. But he also has to be careful he doesn't stumble over one of his own teammates.

'Photo Mechanis' Process Growing, Firm Head Says

NEW YORK (UPI)—We have not seen anything yet of the potential of taking pictures, Leonard S. Florsheim Jr. believes.

When he talks about the future of picture taking, however, it is in a particular field: Industrial uses of the photographic process or more specifically, when he calls the Photo-Mechanis process.

In simplest terms, photo-mechanis is the process of getting an image onto metal, plastic or other surfaces by photographic processes.

For the cameras that Florsheim makes at a plant in Chicago are hardly the type to be slung on a strap over a hiker's shoulder. Some of them weigh up to 14 tons, and can cover a field up to six by 16 feet.

"A great many significant things are coming up in straight Photo-Mechanis," he said while attending a photolithographers show here last week. "Anyone looking ahead to some types of completely automated operations will have to look for part-of-the answers in this field. We think it is where publishers will have to look for future developments in printing."

The whole field has not even approached the potential of development it could reach — and probably the most dramatic expansion will be in industry."

Florsheim, who admits he likes reading, music, hunting and fishing and doesn't have time to do any of these things as much as he would like, is president of Robertson Photo-Mechanis, Inc., founded by R. R. Robertson in 1921. The founder started out with etching machines, branched into camera equipment for industry, and found an early customer in the United States Air Force, back in the same decade.

Killer Declares He Is Ready For Supreme Penalty

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Fred Thomas Leath, 38, convicted sex killer facing electrocution this month, said today he is ready to return to death row and boasted he can "take anything Huntsville can dish out."

A jury ruled Monday night that Leath is sane. It left the state free to execute him on Oct. 26 for the murder of Charles Henry, a 15-year-old Fort Worth boy.

Leath, an admitted homosexual, was in his sixth floor cell at the Tarrant County jail when deputies Perry Perdue and Robert Prindle brought him word of the jury's verdict.

Western Pacific Railroad Plans Outlined To ICC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If Southern Pacific wins control of Western Pacific it will operate the smaller railroad in vigorous competition with its own lines, according to SP President Donald J. Russell.

He repeated that point several times under cross-examination in hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Santa Fe Railroad also is seeking control of WP, which complained formally to the ICC that SP has violated the law by buying stock with intention of acquiring control.

Nine attorneys suggested during Russell's four-hour cross-examination that SP would gain if it allowed WP's services to deteriorate — thus forcing shippers to give their business to SP.

WP has 1,189 miles of track, which for the most part parallels and interweaves with SP's rails.

Russell maintained that a WP controlled by SP would actively and aggressively solicit freight traffic for the benefit of its stockholders.

He also promised that WP would be maintained as an independent firm. Again and again he denied that SP eventually would abandon WP tracks on a wholesale scale.

Yugoslav Urges Space Accord And World Curbs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Yugoslav legal expert said today the peoples of earth must prepare to defend themselves from or cooperate peacefully with peoples on other planets.

He called for international agreement on space law and controls for the dual purpose of promoting peace on earth and presenting a united one-world front to whatever beings may be encountered in space.

This proposal was presented by Michel S. Smirnoff of Belgrade at the 12th international astronomical congress here. Smirnoff, chairman of the International Institute of Space Law, presided at a session on "the law of outer space."

"We do not know what kind of beings we will meet in space," Smirnoff said. "We shall perhaps find there living beings who perhaps their own civilization and their own grade of culture and economic and political development.

"We must be united therefore to meet these peoples from the other planets not only in order to defend ourselves, but also to prepare ourselves for a leading role in space in the event that these living beings from the planets were in need of our help and leadership."

Earldom Presented Husband Of Princess

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth has bestowed an earldom on Anthony Armstrong-Jones, commoner husband of Princess Margaret.

The announcement came just weeks before the expected birth of a first child to Jones and his royal wife.

Tony will be known as Viscount Linley and Earl of Snowdon.

Princess Margaret in the future will be styled, "Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret, Countess of Snowdon."

Margaret's child is due to be born late this month or early in November.

If it is a boy, he will be Viscount Linley. If a girl, Lady (first name) Armstrong-Jones.

Without the title to Tony announced tonight, children of the couple would have been plain "mister" or "miss." Children do not take titles in Britain from the mother.

Armstrong-Jones, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said, accepted the title "with great pleasure" when it was offered. There had been reports the one-time photographer had been reluctant to accept a title "without some service to the nation."

Approval Given To Dam Project

AUSTIN (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has given a green light to the first step in a $60 million dam project on the Texas-Louisiana border and groundbreaking ceremonies are scheduled Thursday.

The dam, to be built on the Sabine River, will form the largest man-made lake in Texas, stretching 60 miles up the river.

Defector Raps Castro Regime

MEXICO CITY, (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's former chief of naval intelligence said today that "the dictatorship of Batista is preferable to that of Castro."

Castro regime two days ago on his arrival here, told newsmen he was definitely through with Red Cuba and expected to leave within a month for the United States where he will make his home.

Diaz Jaffman said he had not been persecuted nor had he suffered under the Castro government but said he could not stand "the horrors being inflicted upon others in Cuba."

Court Upholds Life Sentence Meted To Youth

AUSTIN (UPI)—Mike Martinez of Sterling City, who committed murder when he was 13 and was given a life sentence four years later when he became an adult under Texas law, must serve that term, the Court of Criminal Appeals ruled yesterday.

Martinez shot and killed a station attendant Taylor L. Garrett May 7, 1957. He was sent to the Gatesville School for Boys as a minor on a charge of assault with intent to rob.

After he became 17, he was tried on a murder charge and sentenced to life.

Dear Abby... Lay Down Law To Idle Sister

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Three months ago my sister (21) moved in with my husband and me. She came from a small town after graduating from business college, in hopes of finding a job and then moving into a small apartment of her own. We were happy to have her, but now we are ready to get rid of her. She has applied for jobs in only two places, has not been called by either, and has shown no interest in looking further. She sits in front of the television all day, and spends countless hours before the mirror trying out new hairdos and makeup. She reads fashion magazines without hardly looking up. She helps around the house if I ask her, but it's always a half-hearted, sloppy job because she's afraid of clipping her nail polish. How can we get her to find a job and clear out here?

HAD ENOUGH!

DEAR HAD: Inform your sister that, starting next Monday, she will be charged for room and board, so she had better get herself a job. I'll bet that moves her. If it doesn't, send her home. She's not grown up enough to be on her own.

The Mature Parent World Of Difference In "Pry" And "Care"

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

On Saturday morning Jill is late getting up. When she finally drifts into the kitchen for coffee, she looks so tired that we ask, "Something wrong? Didn't you and Alec have a good time last night?" In a voice as pale as her face, Jill says, "What? Oh, yes, we had a fine time, thank you."

But 10 minutes later, it appears that she and Alec had anything but a good time. From the telephone in the hall where she is confiding her distress to a friend, bits of intense conversation float in to us:

"So I said, 'What makes you think you can tell me what parties I can go to?' and he said 'That's all I wanted to know...' and I said, 'What's that mean?'"

"We hear our daughter crying. It is self-respecting for young people to withhold their dating problems from us. It is also self-respecting for us to feel concern with these problems."

So while it is proper to refrain from pressing Jill to give us her confidences, it is also proper for us to express our interest in her distress.

Quite often an adolescent child's secrecy with sexual problems is due to his terror that any confidence he extends to us will lead to our monopolizing his interests. This fear gives his evasion of our questions a false appearance of resentment. Unless we know this, we can retreat too hastily when a son or daughter is struggling with the disturbing perplexities of a love affair that he may really want to confide to us.

So on these occasions, the wise thing seems to be to say, "I don't want to know anything you don't want to tell me. On the other hand, I will be very glad to listen to you if you do want to talk to me."

We parents can lean over backward to avoid accusations of "prying" by adolescent children. We can be so anxious to avoid any

Crisis In Congo Heading Toward Another Climax

ELISABETHVILLE (UPI)—The crisis in the Congo headed for another climax today after Katanga and United Nations officials traded charges of trickery and a doublecross.

Unconfirmed reports said Katanga President Moise Tshombe had broken off peace talks with the United Nations. The talks were started to firm up the Katanga cease-fire both sides signed Sept. 21.

Dr. Conor C. O'Brien, civilian U.N. chief here, charged Tuesday night that Tshombe had tricked the United Nations into showing all its military fortifications in Katanga.

Tshombe in turn accused the United Nations of breaking the cease-fire Sept. 24 when it captured 143 Katanga soldiers at the provincial rail center of Nyunzu.

The Katanga president also said U.N. troops in Albertville received additional equipment after the cease-fire, it was reported.

O'Brien confirmed that the United Nations was holding some Katanga prisoners at Nyunzu, but he said they had sought U.N. protection after Baluba tribesmen drove them out of the jungle. The Katangese will be returned in any general exchange of prisoners, O'Brien said.

Pattern For Peace Given To Knife And Fork Club

Speaking on the general theme, "Democracy In Action," Betty Roadman, Hollywood character actress and professional lecturer, told members of the Pampa Knife and Fork Club Tuesday night "some good things about America."

Prefacing her address by quoting Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana that "too much emphasis is being placed on the wrong things in the world," and former President Hoover that we should "say some good things about ourselves," Miss Roadman proceeded to do just that.

There are grave problems facing the world, Miss Roadman said. She indicated some of them, Laos, the Congo, Berlin, social problems involving racial relations, military and scientific problems of greater proportion than ever before in the history of the world, and economic and financial problems.

"We are conscious of these great problems as always," she declared, "but we have always had problems. No, I do not want to be killed by an atom bomb. Neither did our forefathers want to be killed with a tomahawk. We have always faced our problems as a nation and have always been able to find a solution to them.

Turning then to some of the good things about America, Miss Roadman pointed to this nation's place in the world. In 185 years America, by virtue of her form of government and the privileges of freedom permitted under it, has reached the pinnacle of world leadership, she pointed out, adding: "There is something mighty right about a nation like that."

Punctuating her address with both humor and pathos, Miss Roadman, recounting personal experiences in far away Pacific isles as well as in the homeland, told of great humanitarian achievements by the nation, its exemplification of the brotherhood of man throughout the world, the high niche human values hold in American life, the prominence of the church altar, shielded by the American flag, in the lives of the people, and declared:

"Therein is your pattern for peace in the world."

Pampa's Guard Inspection Visit Slated Thursday

Lieut. Colonel Burl L. Lewis, San Antonio, will arrive in Pampa Thursday for the annual inspection of the Pampa National Guard unit. Colonel Lewis will inspect the official records during the day.

The 131 Pampa Guardsmen form Company B of the 36th (Texas) Infantry Divisions 1st Battle Group, 142d Infantry. They are commanded by Captain Lawrence W. Hurdle of 1130 Christine, Pampa. First Lieutenant Lilburn L. Howell of 1600 Dogwood is executive officer.

The IG, or "federal" inspection is an annual examination of all units of the 36th Division by U.S. Fourth Army officials from San Antonio. The units are rated according to Active Army standards.

Maintenance of equipment, discipline, training, and all other phases of National Guard operations come under scrutiny in the examinations. Each individual guardsman is inspected in rank.

The Pampa Guard unit scored the second highest category of Excellent last year. The unit is striving to reach the highest possible rating of Superior Thursday, which they were last rated in fiscal year 1959.

Speaker Rayburn Declared In Satisfactory Condition

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Hospital officials said today House Speaker Sam Rayburn was in "satisfactory" condition, but it would take more tests to decide what was causing his back pains and whether to operate.

Rayburn, 79, underwent X-ray and blood tests at Baylor University medical center Tuesday. It was part of a series of tests expected to be completed Thursday.

The surgeon in charge of conducting the tests denied a printed report that Rayburn has a liver ailment and that a decision must be made immediately whether to operate.

"There is nothing to point toward the liver," the doctor said.

"It has not been decided whether an operation is necessary, but we should know within the next 48 hours. It will take that long to arrive at a diagnosis and then, of course, after that treatment will be instituted."

Boone Powell, administrator of the hospital, said Rayburn was "upset" about "so much coverage" in newspapers and on radio and television about his hospitalization. Rayburn recently branded as "damn lies" reports in Washington that he would never return to Congress.

Speedup In Army Rifle Demanded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate military investigators Tuesday night demanded a speedup and expansion in production of the M14 rifle, recently issued to U.S. troops in Berlin after years of delays.

The Senate preparedness subcommittee charged that for 16 years the M14 fully-automatic rifle project has suffered "a continuing absence of a sense of urgency and emphasis."

Syrian Regime Plans Election In Four Months

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — The Syrian revolutionary government sought to assure the world today that the future of this Middle East country will be in the hands of its people before next spring.

Prime Minister Mamoun Al-Kuzbari told newsmen Tuesday night that his government represents only a holding operation until it can hold parliamentary elections within four months.

He said the government would neither "advance nor retreat" — and would not even revoke the nationalization laws introduced under the United Arab Republic regime of President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He had indicated Friday that nationalization would go immediately.

"It's up to Parliament to deal with nationalization," since it would exceed the function of the provisional government.

"As a sign of easing of the tension, the curfew was cut back from 9 p.m. to midnight in the capital.

Tuesday night Damascus streets were decorated with colored lights and people jammed the shops.

The number of tanks, armored cars and troops surrounding the city appeared to have been reduced.

Max Dworkin, the father, was less seriously hurt and managed to help firemen rescue his wife, child and Mrs. Taylor.

Albany And Anson Clash In Top Game

By United Press International
Defending champion Albany's clash with Class AA Anson highlights this week's Class A school-boy football schedule.

Coach Carl Spoonemore's champion Lions, who have now won 15 in a row since dropping their season-opener to Olney last season, have what appears to be their toughest hurdle to date in the Anson Tigers.

While Albany has beaten Olney 40-12, Merkel 40-6, Winters 14-0 and Coleman 21-6, Anson has met three of these clubs and come away with 19-0, 18-0 and 26-9 victories over Coleman, Winters and Merkel, respectively. In addition, Anson owns 28-6 and 19-9 victories over Roscoe and Cisco.

The Anson-Albany game is the only one on the schedule which has any of Class A's 18 perfect record teams and seven other undefeated-but-tied clubs involved against unbeaten rivals.

A handful of the undefeateds, however, face dangerous foes. Wink's potent Wildcats, fresh from a 1-0-sided conquering of McCamey, hosts once-beaten AA Ft. Stockton Chillicothe's thrice-tied outfit; meets once-beaten Henrietta; Forney takes on an AA Rockwall team that just spoiled AA Lancaster's perfect record; Garrison meets once-beaten Judson, and Waller faces Class AAA Cypress-Fairbanks.

White Deer, Gaston and Hull-Daisetta—all considered major playoff contenders—are in this week and most of the other unbeaten teams appear safe.

White Deer, Sanderson, Eldorado, Midlothian, Chillicothe, Tarkington and Pettus are the unbeaten-but-tied teams.

In addition to Albany, Wink, Forney, Garrison, Waller, Gaston and Hull-Daisetta the other perfect record clubs include Stratford, Gruver, Springlake, Kress, Sonora, Clyde, Brownsboro, Kerens, Thrall, Anahaus and Rio Hondo.

115 HOMERS—The New York Yankees set a new major league home run mark this season for one club with 240 roundtrippers. And 115 or almost half the club total was hit by Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle. The Rog slammed 61 for a new mark for a full season and Mick busted 54.

Shockers And Plainview To Play Here Thursday

The Pampa Shockers entertain the Plainview Bulbups Thursday at 4 p.m. at Harvester Park as local grid teams swing into another big week of action.

Robert E. Lee's 8th grade Rebels host the Dumas 8th grade and the Pampa Junior High Reapers tangle with Berger Austin in other home games Thursday at 4 p.m.

Coach Lester Ramsey's Robert E. Lee 9th graders take to the road to meet Dumas Junior High at 4 p.m. Thursday.

The Lee 7th grade plays Berger Sam Houston at Harvester Park Friday afternoon at 3:30 and the Harvesters engage Monterey's Plainsmen at 7:30 p.m.

In last week's action, the Shockers were walloped by Berger 48-12, the Harvesters dropped a 41-6 decision to Tascosa and Coach John Hale's Pampa Reapers were edged by Perryton Junior High 6-0.

On the winning side, Robert E. Lee Junior High made a complete sweep with all three teams copping victories. The Rebels 9th grade nipped the Berger Austin Mustangs 8-6; Coach Mack Chate's 8th tamed Austin's same group 34-12 and Joe Perryman's 7th graders nipped the Ponies' 7th 28-20.

Coach Frank Craig took his charges to Phillips and the Pampa Junior High 7th grade club walked off with a 14-0 triumph. Halfback Lewis Meers, of the

Razorbacks, Frogs Meet In SWC Tilt

By United Press International
Texas Christian's darkhorse football team made an indelible impression on Arkansas Scout Wilson Matthews.

The champion Arkansas Razorbacks, getting ready to open defense of their Southwest Conference laurels at neutral Little Rock Saturday night against TCU, heard these words from Matthews:

"TCU is big, strong and aggressive. Only one man on the first three teams is less than six feet tall and none of the guards, tackles or centers weighs less than 200 pounds.

"Quarterback Sonny Gibbs is tremendous... fullback Tommy Crutcher is outstanding. TCU has been a second half football team... they came from behind to win (against Kansas) and they came from behind to tie (Ohio State). They've been getting the big plays from Gibbs and Crutcher."

TCU's impressive showing against the so-called major powers has changed the picture considerably for Saturday night's contest. Instead of being the favorite, champion Arkansas will be the underdog.

To add to Coach Frank Broyles' worries at Fayetteville, starting guard Dean Garrett and end Tim Langston had to be held out of contact work Tuesday because of shoulder injuries aggravated in last week's disappointing squeak by Tulsa. Both are expected to be available for TCU, but their degree of effectiveness remains problematical. All other Razorbacks were on hand for the workout which stressed defense.

At Fort Worth, Coach Abe Martin sought to ward off complacency with a two-hour drill devoted to both offense and defense. The Frogs were in "pretty good shape" physically with the return to action of reserve halfback Bud Priddy.

At College Station, the Texas Aggies got both good and bad news as they drilled for Saturday night's conference opener at Lubbock against Texas Tech. Tackle Ben Krenek returned to duty after missing Monday's workout because of a knee injury, but it appeared a leg injury would keep guard Jim Harper sidelined indefinitely.

Both the Aggies and Tech worked against each other's plays and at Lubbock Tech Coach J. T. King was displeased with the success his fourth team had running A&M plays against the vsity.

Meanwhile, Texas drilled on pass defense at Austin for Saturday night's intersectional clash with Washington State and SMU went through a controlled scrimmage at Dallas getting ready for Saturday's Air Force game.

6 WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1961 64th YEAR

Inside The Huddle

By Joe Lee Smith

It's here again.

The World Series that is. And the New York Yankees are back in the classic for the 11th time since 1949 and for the first time under new manager Ralph Houk.

Opposing the Yanks is a newcomer to recent series and a real surprise they are. We are talking about the Cincinnati Redlegs, who were supposed to finish sixth in the National League race.

Freddie Hutchinson, a former American League pitching star with the Detroit Tigers, is the Redlegs manager and it's his job to prove the critics wrong about the Reds.

And as the battle starts today, the Yankees and Houk are being closely watched by the baseball world. Not only because of the presence of Roger Maris, the new home run king (for 162 games), but because the prestige of the junior loop is again at stake.

The National League has really whipped up on the Yankee led Americans since 1956. The senior loop has taken three of the final four all star games with the other tilt ending in a 1-1 tie and have

Robin Roberts On Draft List For New NL Clubs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Mets and Houston Colts will get a crack at several old "war horses" and some promising youngsters when the new National League teams draft players at the end of the World Series.

The names of the players most of the other eight NL clubs have tossed into the grab-bag already have been turned over to officials of the New York and Houston clubs. They have been asked not to reveal the names of players on the draft list, but there have been several "leaks" in recent days.

For instance, it was learned on Tuesday that Robin Roberts, one of the great right-handed pitchers of the post war era, is one of the two $125,000 picks the Philadelphia Phillies have offered to the infant clubs.

Other stars of past National League seasons known to be on the list include Gil Hodges of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Wilmer Mizell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Johnny Antonelli of the Milwaukee Braves, Richie Ashburn of the Chicago Cubs, Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Sam Jones of the San Francisco Giants.

The complete list of Cincinnati players eligible for selection will not be determined until after the World Series, but Jay Hook, Dick Gernert, Gus Bell, and possibly Darrell Johnson will be among them.

In addition to Hodges, the Dodgers reportedly are willing to

Crossland And Brown Still Out

Coach Weldon Trice put the Pampa Harvesters through a long practice session Tuesday stressing pass defense and pass protection.

The Harvesters tangle with the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen here Friday night at 7:30. The district 3-AAAA tilt will mark the halfway point for Pampa, who has yet to win a game in four outings.

Monterey brings a 2-1 season mark into the fray and the Plainsmen have been considered the loop's darkhorse with good size and 13 lettermen returning from a 1960 club that had a 5-5 mark. Coach Bill DuBose's gridders have whipped Abilene Cooper 33-0 and Midland High 9-6 while losing to the fifth-ranked AAAA club, Odessa Permian, 20-6.

Guards Larry Ferrell and Jerry Burke, tackle Richard Parker and 205 pound center Dale Harris anchor the heavy Monterey line. All are lettermen.

Halfback Larry Strickland has been the main cog in the Lubbock school's offensive attack.

Pampa still has two starters out of action from injuries received in the Dumas game. Tackle John Brown and defensive halfback and second string quarterback Butch Crossland have been working out in sweat suits, but the pair haven't had any contact practice since September 21.

Crossland was working out at quarterback Tuesday taking snaps and throwing passes. The Harvesters spent a lot of time on pass defense, Tascosa completed seven passes for two touchdowns and 149 yards in Saturday's game.

Quail and Hurricane Carl are the top items on the agenda for the meeting. The operating budget of the commission for the fiscal year which has already started may have to be revised because of damage caused by the storm.

W. J. Cutbirth Jr., assistant director of administrative services, said, "We've had damage which I believe ran over $100,000, principally to the marine and chemical laboratory at Seabrook."

"We will discuss with the commissioners what budgetary changes have to be made and whether they involve legislative changes," he added.

Commissioners will decide the Texas quail season for counties under the commission's regulatory authority. Last year's quail seasons ranged from an opening date of Nov. 1 to a closing date of Jan. 31, with bag limits of 12 and possession limits of 36 in many areas and 15 and 45, respectively, in some areas.

Eugene Walker, commission assistant director for program planning said quail prospects are generally promising.

"In parts of the quail areas, particularly the blue quail range, there have been good increases," Walker said. "Because of spotted rainfall, part of the bobwhite range is good and part not so good."

The commission will also set seasons for 18 counties coming under the regulatory authority of the commission for the first time. They are: Burnet, Eastland, Kerr, Bexar, Frio, Uvalde, Saba, McCulloch, Menard, Gillespie, Kerr, Bexar, Frio, Uvalde, Webb, Trinity, Walker, Colorado, Burleson, Harrison, Borden, Mitchell and Cochran counties.

Hays and Blanco counties' addition to the regulatory authority list is not effective until Nov. 7, after which the commission will set their seasons.

SWC Grid Teams Have Big Crowds

DALLAS (UPI)—Southwest Conference football teams are playing before larger crowds this season than last, a conference survey showed today.

With each club having played two games, total attendance has been 656,000 as compared with 520,000 a year ago—an average of 42,000 against 36,500.

Each year, a whopping $3,000 sellout crowd at Columbus, Ohio, has helped swell the total. This year TCU played Ohio State, last year it was SMU.

Seven of the eight clubs have played before 41,000 or more fans at least once and four have played in sellout games with Rice figuring in two.

Rice has played before 117,000 in two games, TCU before 109,000.

All clubs but Texas Tech have played one of their two games at home.

Coyotes, Lamar Hold Onto Lead In Big Classes

By United Press International
Dumas, Belton and Mesquite moved into the Class AAA Top 10 for the first time this season as that division underwent a general shakeup in the weekly United Press International Coaches Board ratings.
Lamar Consolidated, Brownwood and San Benito remained in a tight battle in that order for the Nos. 1-2-3 spots as the coaches nominated 30 teams for berths in the Top 10.
Angleton, tied by Wharton; La Vega, beaten by Mesquite, and Lamesa, beaten by Brownfield, all dropped out of the Top 10 to make room for the newcomers.
Cleburne, which received five first-place ballots moved up two notches to a strong fourth. Lamar Consolidated got six first-place votes, Brownwood four and San Benito one.

Carthage, Dumas, Gainesville, Belton, Mesquite and Monahans, which lost to Hobbs, N.M., rounded out the Top 10.
In Class AAAA, Wichita Falls polled 15 of the 16 first place votes for the second straight week, while San Antonio Jefferson got the other one and rated a strong second place ahead of No. 3 Odessa Permian. Permian moved up as San Angelo skidded to seventh after its loss to Jefferson.
Baytown took over fourth and Corpus Christi Ray, moving back up after an early-season loss to San Angelo, was fifth. Galena Park, which was No. 4 until edged 7-6 by Brazosport, dropped to 12th.
For Class AAA, San Angelo, Abilene High, Corpus Christi Miller and Ysleta High continued to fill in the lower berths in the AAAA-Top 10.

Mississippi Crew Heads UPI Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mississippi Southern, back in the small college football ranks this year after a one year promotion to the majors, today was named the nation's No. 1 small team in the first weekly United Press International ratings.
The Southerners, who won six of 10 games among the major ranks a year ago, were voted the nation's top small college team by UPI in 1958 and finished second in 1959 when Bowling Green won the national title.
In this first week of the 1961 ratings, picked for UPI by 35 coaches, five from each of the seven geographical areas, Mississippi Southern was the top choice among seven coaches as a total of 77 colleges received votes. The Southerners also received strong second and third place backing or a total of 144 points, which are awarded on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 points for from first to 10th place.

Kent State of Ohio, the next most popular choice with four first-place votes, and Hillsdale of Michigan were tied for second, each with 82 points, while Humboldt State (Calif.) and Louisiana Tech were tied for fourth each with 79 points. Hillsdale received two first-place votes, while Humboldt State and Louisiana Tech failed to draw a single vote for the top spot.
Northern Michigan with three firsts, was sixth with 77 points, Texas A & I was seventh with 76, Delaware was eighth with 67, Arkansas State was ninth with 51 and Chattanooga and Pittsburg (Kan.) tied for 10th, each with 47 points.
In the second 10 this week were Fresno State, Lenoir Rhyne, third in the final ratings a year ago, Louisville, Southeastern Louisiana, Lamar Tech, Baldwin-Wallace, Butler, East Texas State, Florida A & M and Idaho State.

Tass Refuses To Cover Series

NEW YORK (UPI) — World Series notes:
This is the series that matches the Reds against the Yanks. But the Soviet news agency, Tass, will not cover the games.
"It would be completely baffling to the Soviet people," said a news editor at the Tass New York office. "But... come to think of it, if the Reds win, maybe we'll pick it up from the papers."

Vignettes: Mickey Mantle in the Yankee locker room with a bandage on his right rear so big it looked as if he had slid into third base and it stuck to him. Roger Maris cleaning out his locker, perhaps in expectation he won't be coming back to New York again this year. Among the things he packed — a baseball homer last week in the bleachers, to see the Yankee-games free in the box seats with his girl. Sellers Triumph At Atlantic City

By United Press International
Johnny Sellers added three more winners at Atlantic City Tuesday but it now appears he'll fall short of Joe Culmone's all-time track record.
The plucky little Oklahoman took a while to get warmed up, but then scored his triple in the final three races on the program. Sellers, the nation's leading jockey, has 64 winners at the current meeting—still five short of Culmone's 1951 mark—with just one day left.
Sellers' latest successes were aboard Fleet Sailor ($4.20) in the sixth, Terrorize ($5.00) in the featured seventh and Indian ($4.80) in the eighth. Terrorize, a 2-year-old son of Pry, passed Lebardux in the stretch to win by a half-length with Blue Bolt another three and one-half lengths back in third place.
Naval Treaty staved off a stretch drive by Peal to capture the $19,275 Brook Steeplechase Handicap on the final day at Belmont. Naval Treaty's final margin of victory was three-quarters of a length and he returned $17.30, $4.50 and $3.50.
It was the second straight steeplechase victory for Naval Treaty.

Stanford Mentor Named UPI Coach Of The Week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If adversity breeds success as the old adage claims, then the United Press International's Coach of the Week should never lose a game this year.
His name is Jack Curtice and his Stanford Indian grid squad has scored stunning upsets over Tulane and Oregon State in their first two games of 1961.
Curtice, who watched his team lose all 10 starts last year, is beaming broadly these days. His latest triumph was a 34-0 rout over an Oregon State club that was favored by two touchdowns.

Stanford. There the high entrance exams and the scholastic requirements have been throwing him for a loss.
"But I never lost faith during the losing streak," he says. "These were wonderful boys. Now I have a team that averages about 19 years to the man. And I love every one of them."
Has he done anything differently than he did when the club couldn't win for losing?
"Well, none of these boys has broken legs, to start with," he cracked. "But honestly, I have done something different."
"I used to have certain assistants who were specialists on defense, others who worked only on offense."
"But now every man on my staff works full time on both offense and defense."

No Perfect Drivers

"Of all the skills practiced by mankind, there is none that is used more — and improved less — than that of driving an automobile."

That's a provocative idea to have thrown at us as we enter the fall and winter driving season, most hazardous of all because of diminished daylight driving hours.

It comes from Paul C. Ackerman, engineering vice president for Chrysler corporation, writing in the magazine Highway Highlights. He seems chiefly interested, and wisely so, in puncturing the complacency and self-satisfaction which grip most motorists.

Repeatedly, surveys show that most of us think safe driving warnings are for the other fellow, and that many believe driver education is something only teenagers need. These attitudes are reinforced by safety studies which stress the menace of the extremist — the drunk and the reckless speeder especially.

But listen to Ackerman: "The plain, hard facts are that the majority of injury-producing accidents are caused by self-knowledge good drivers who are traveling at speeds under 50 miles an hour."

Actually, these average drivers who become involved in an accident, because of a thoughtless, unsafe maneuver, like changing lanes without looking prob-ly have done the same thing so many times without having an accident that they have developed a false sense of security.

Many of us have or develop bad driving habits. Only luck gets us by without trouble. All of us can learn new things about driving — not generalities such as "stay alert," but specific things like how to use the brake for best effect, how to grip the wheel for full control of the car, what to do when pavements are icy.

Ackerman offers his own list: Check your car at the outset to see that tires are firm and all equipment is working.

Behind the wheel, watch the road well ahead, not just the car immediately in front, so you can cope with developing danger.

Look into rear and side mirrors every few seconds to keep track of side and following traffic.

Glance at the left front wheel of oncoming cars for first sign of maneuvers that could spell peril. Many head-on crashes might be averted if such action were begun in time.

Stay far enough behind the car ahead — particularly on expressways — so you can stop safely.

One more thing, Ackerman was photographed in a car with his seat belt securely fastened. And that is a picture worth countless written comments on how to save lives on the highways.

Big Brother Vs. AT&T

American Tel & Tel is involved with the government in a rate-making hassle, the crucial point of which seems somewhat obscure to us.

The phone-company's principal concern, as we understand it, is that the government is taking the attitude that the Federal Communications Commission has the authority to set telephone rates.

The various agencies of government always have contended they have the authority, through the FCC or some other agency, to control the telephone companies by prescribing the conditions under which they may do business, by limiting their relationship to their suppliers (viz AT & T and Western Electric) and by prescribing what return the company is entitled to make on its total investment or its total assets.

It seems to us to be inevitable that once the government is conceded to have this authority, it is just a matter of time until it will get around to saying how much the phone company can charge for a two-party line, a call to London or a little light on the Princess instrument.

Government control does not diminish, ever. It grows and flourishes like the green bay tree. The phone company might have some pretty cute lawyers and astute rate-makers, but they have only to read history to know they are fighting a losing game until the entire complexion of our national philosophy changes.

The phone companies, like the airlines and the railroads, are controlled by the government because they accept favors from government. Utilities companies demand exclusive franchises from local governments. A franchise forbids anybody from competing with them. Obviously if a government can grant an exclusive franchise, it can lay down the conditions of the contract, limiting the profits of the franchise holder or regulating his rates.

The airlines receive enormous government subsidies. But the government tells them what routes they may fly, when they may compete with each other, what they may charge their customers. And now the railroads, already half dead, are being urged to accept direct government subsidies like the airlines, in return for more arbitrary controls. That ought to kill 'em good!

The point is this: as Thoreau said, for every man whacking away at the roots of evil, there are ten thousand snipping away at the limbs. The game is a losing one; the limbs grow faster than they can be cut away.

We have developed our own form of American socialism under which the stockholder remains the titular owner of these vast systems of utilities and public transportation, but the government controls them by subsidy, franchise and tax considerations.

We would be more impressed with the complaints of the utilities and common carriers if they asked the government to remove their special privileges along with their special controls.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Nine Americans are now believed to be held prisoner by the Communist Pathet Lao forces in Laos. Five are Army and Air Force personnel, four are civilians.

State Department spokesmen insist that the nine are not hostages of the Communists. It is pointed out that the royal Laotian government forces with whom the Americans are co-operating hold many more Pathet Lao prisoners. But the status of the nine Americans being held by the Laos Communists is the same as that of the four Americans still being held prisoner by the Chinese Communists. All efforts to obtain their release have proved futile.

State Department requests for information about the Americans held by the Laos Communists began after the first one was reported missing early this year. Every channel of communication was explored. None yielded replies.

First contacts were attempted through the British and French governments which maintain diplomatic relations with the Communist government of North Vietnam. The British and French were then asked to approach the so-called neutralist leader and former premier, Souvanna Phouma. The results were no better.

The U.S. then made a direct request to the Russian government to obtain information. There were no answers.

An appeal was then made through the U.N. International Control Commission in Southeast Asia, which is in direct contact with all governments and political factions. Its requests were met with the same stony silence.

American Red Cross was asked if it could make contact. It worked through international Red Cross in Geneva, which maintains a Swiss national as delegate in Laos. He ran into difficulties because there is no Red Cross society in northern Laos. He got no co-operation. In one instance he was stoned.

He has not been permitted to see any of the Americans, nor has he been able to communicate with them directly. But he has been given indirect assurances that some are still alive.

When the Geneva Conference on Laos opened in mid-May, U.S. Ambassador Averell Harriman made direct requests to Laotian and Pathet Lao leaders for release of the Americans.

The only concession he has been able to obtain is tentative agreement on one provision for release of all prisoners held by both sides. This exchange is to be effected on a still unspecified number of days after a treaty creating a unified, neutral government for Laos is signed.

Harriman repeatedly asked for information during his recent trip to Southeast Asia, but obtained none.

The first American reported missing was Charles James Duffy, 43, Watkins Glen, N.Y. He is an American businessman, Laos resident manager of Pioneer Construction Co. of Hong Kong. He went on a hunting trip into Communist territory Jan. 13.

On March 23, Army Major Lawrence R. Bailey, Waycross, Ga., and seven Air Force officers and noncoms were reported missing when their C-47, assigned to the U.S. air attaché in Vientiane, failed to arrive at Saigon, South Vietnam.

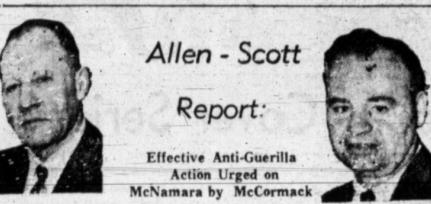

There is some indication that the plane crashed over Red-held territory and that Bailey was the only survivor. But the others are still carried officially as missing, in absence of proof.

On April 22, Capt. Walter H. Moon of the U.S. military assistance group and three noncommissioned officers were reported taken prisoner when their plane crashed in Red Territory. With him were Sergeants John Bischoff, Mountain Rest, N. C.; Orville Balingier, Spring Lake, N. C.; and Gerald Fiber, Grand Junction, Colo. All are officially listed "missing."

On May 15, Grant Wolfkill of Shelton, Wash., NBC cameraman, and two civilian pilots were reported captured by the Communists when their helicopter was spotted undamaged in a rice field after a forced landing in north-east Laos. The two pilots, flying on a guerrilla supply drop for Air America, Inc., were Edward R. Shore, Gallows, Tenn., and John B. McMorrow, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Report:
Effective Anti-Guerrilla
Action Urged on
McNamara by McCormack

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary McNamara is being strongly urged to support an Army plan that calls on the U.S. to take the offensive in fighting the Communist guerrillas in undeveloped nations.

In a strong personal letter, Acting Speaker John McCormack, D. Mass., wrote Secretary McNamara. "Such an organization of combined military and civil affairs units should be effectively organized and trained by our country."

"We have been too long on the defensive," McCormack declared, "and I feel that the battle should be carried to the Communists. I have felt for some years that we should have an organization so organized and composed that it could deter the Communists in their efforts of destruction and put them on the defensive."

McCormack called to McNamara's attention that "The President and Vice President have shown a great deal of interest in special forces and in unconventional warfare units which could be organized and deployed to counter and destroy the sinister Communist purposes and advances."

"As you are well aware, on May 25, 1961, in an address to Congress, the President announced that an increase and reorientation would be made of these special military units," wrote McCormack. "I most wholeheartedly support this action. It should be carried out."

According to Acting Speaker McCormack, the counter-guerrilla warfare units "should be headed by a specific individual who knows the Communist mind and tactics and possesses the outstanding ability and determination to meet the Communists on common grounds so as to destroy their effectiveness."

McCormack's letter arrived on McNamara's desk at a very crucial time of the Army's anti-guerrilla plan, which is supported by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has just been sent back from the White House for McNamara's recommendations. Reliable Defense Department sources say that McNamara plans to reject the Army proposal this weekend and that only a strong appeal from powerful Congressional sources or the President can save it.

In the White House, the plan is being opposed by Dr. Walt Whitman Rostow, special assistant to the President in charge of drafting an over-all anti-guerrilla warfare policy.

UNDERGROUND STATION

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — Radio station WEAM is building what it calls the "first all-underground station in the country" to enable it to stay on the air in a nuclear attack. A planned underground broadcast tower could be raised if the station's present tower is destroyed.

"Mr. Bennett made up his mind, presumably without consulting others, to take the drastic move. . . He confided his decision to but one other member of his cabinet, his right-hand man, Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy whose participation was necessary in the drafting of the necessary legislation."

In the light of the above, it seems useless right now to try to discover what may be the Bennett government's next move on the Columbia treaty. Mr. Bennett publicly says he is all for it, but his greatest praise is reserved for the Peace River project, which is now his direct and finance with public funds. So, of course, is the Columbia River project.

Even to us Americans who have been debating the merits of private and public power development here in our own country, the action of Premier Bennett comes as a severe shock. His utter disregard of property rights and his failure to allow his constituents to be simpler, as effective and less expensive to swab their throats with Merthiolate? Why has the practice of throat swabbing become unpopular with the medical profession?

A—Throat swabbing with any and all chemicals is wholly ineffective. First of all, it's impossible to get the solution into the nooks and crannies in which infective organisms take refuge. Second, it isn't possible to maintain contact with those that can be reached for a sufficient length of time and in sufficient concentration to deal them a death blow. And third, even if the swabbing killed nine out of 10 organisms, the single survivor would make up for the population loss within the matter of a very few hours.

For the most part, throat swabbing is like trying to thoroughly clean a room by waving broom and mop from a standing position at the front door.

The American Way Hankerings

BENNETT'S GRAB
By GEORGE PECK

Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia, Canada, recently took over all of the private electric industry of that province. At one full swoop he nationalized British Columbia's power industry perhaps the better word would be that he "socialized" the development of electric energy in Canada's most westerly province.

As far as we have been able to learn this seizure was not essential in order for British Columbians to get all the power they require. Investor-owned companies had the situation well in hand, were taking care of the present electrical needs of the province, and prepared to meet future needs.

What British Columbia does about electric energy production is strictly its own business but there is grave doubt that his seizure of the privately-owned electric companies reflected the will of the majority of British Columbians. He made the move strictly on his own, consulted only one member of his Cabinet, and without consulting with his provincial legislature.

Premier Bennett's flimsy pretext for taking this surprise action was that the Federal Government of Canada levies high taxes on private utilities, and that under provincial ownership these taxes will be avoided, resulting in lower rates for British Columbia's electric users.

The Independent Democratic "New Orleans (Louisiana) States-Item" makes caustic comment regarding Mr. Bennett's pretext:

"In Canada's far west, the province of British Columbia announces that it is taking over the privately-owned British Columbia Electric Company."

"The reason? Because the Canadian government levies high taxes on private utilities."

"If that were to set a precedent for business takeover in the United States, just think what the socializers could do."

"Because the federal government takes 52 per cent of their profits away from them, just about all business firms would be eligible for public ownership."

The Independent Tacoma (Washington) News Tribune predicts that the action of Premier Bennett will have a deterrent effect on further investment by U.S. investors in British Columbia enterprises:

"Canada, seeking new industry, wealth and a better trade balance with the United States, has for years been urging U.S. citizens to invest capital in Canadian firms."

"Canada has been partly successful in this. But the action of British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett in taking over all private electric industry in the province must have set this investment campaign back considerably."

"The term 'RISK CAPITAL' now will have a new meaning for prospective U.S. investors. The accent will be on risk. It is likely that most investors will not like to chance the loss of gain on their investment through the prospect the government might take them over and pay them off as of market value on a certain day. . ."

"The premier says the province took over these holdings in order to produce more industry. Well, American businessmen have heard that before. We doubt if they'll be impressed."

"The Portland (Oregon) Oregonian, Independent-Republican, is suspicious as to what Premier Bennett will do in connection with the U.S. - Canadian treaty for the development of the Columbia River. It comments:

"Premier W. A. C. Bennett's manner of bringing off his sweeping nationalization of British Columbia's power industry gives a clue to the way he may be expected to play his role with respect to the U.S. - Canadian treaty for the development of the Columbia River. . ."

"Mr. Bennett made up his mind, presumably without consulting others, to take the drastic move. . . He confided his decision to but one other member of his cabinet, his right-hand man, Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy whose participation was necessary in the drafting of the necessary legislation."

In the light of the above, it seems useless right now to try to discover what may be the Bennett government's next move on the Columbia treaty. Mr. Bennett publicly says he is all for it, but his greatest praise is reserved for the Peace River project, which is now his direct and finance with public funds. Lots Of Things To Learn After Year Spent Abroad

By HENRY McLEMORE

When an American returns to his own country after nearly a year in Europe, there are a surprising number of things he has to get used to all over again.

For a few days his own, his native, land is the foreign one, and it takes a bit of adjusting. There are speed cops, for one thing.

There are few such animals in all of Europe, and Italy has none. Once a motorist hits the open road he is free to push the accelerator to the floor and let 'er roll. One of the great pleasures of Europe is to barrel past a cop when one's speedometer shows top speed and not give a thought to a chase and a fine.

One can drive from one end of Germany to the other flat out, and when Italy completes its Autostrade there'll be non-stop races, night and day, from the top to the toe of the boot.

Dining indoors when the weather is good furnishes a surprise to the returning American. When the sun is 'out the European dines on the sidewalk or half-way in the street. Inside dining rooms a car is deserted as a 'haunted house.

The American has to overcome jaywalking, too. The last man to cross a street at a regulation crossing in Italy was in B.C. days. Italians not only cross the street at all points, but use it for strolling as much as they do the sidewalks.

Newsstands look bare in America, there are so few newspapers. Paris must have fifty daily newspapers if it has one, and in Rome everyone with a different political slant puts out a newspaper to tell the world about it.

The size of American automobiles is overwhelming after Europe's pygmies. I have a crick in my back and neck that will take weeks to lose from getting in and out of hat-sized Fiats and Renaults.

One keeps looking for mules, donkeys, bicycles, and even drawn carts on the roads and city streets. In Europe any means of transportation is looked on as better than walking.

"Stop" and "Go" lights come back into one's life with a bang. In Europe there are a few scattered here and there, but for the most part corners belong to the brave, the bold, and the adventurous. Yet traffic moves faster. There are more accidents, of course, but Europeans take them in stride.

The returned American traveler keeps looking for fruit and cheese at the end of a meal, coffee shops every half a block, football tickets, and booths selling football pools, and he misses the clang of church bells, lack of salesmanship in stores, haggling over prices, tourist buses by the thousands, and tens of thousands of tourists with cameras slung around their necks, and vendors selling knick-knacks of every description.

There are no young lovers kissing on the streets, or cats in every window, the water drinks are wonderfully cold at home, and debate the issue smacks of dictatorship. Castro could scarcely have done the job more neatly or with greater dispatch.

BID FOR A SMILE

When you were busy's age, didn't you know right from wrong?

—Ellen McCullough, Rome, Ga.

Mother, asked the little one, on the occasion of a number of guests being presented at dinner, will the dearest girl me, or is there enough to my room and bed?

A fellow bought his wife a piano. Later, a friend asked how she was doing with it.

Friend — A clarinet? How come? — Well, with the clarinet she can't sing.

A little miss of four came tearfully to her mother one morning with the complaint, "How can I button my dress when the buttons are on the back and I'm in the front?"

Second-hand Car Salesman (on trial grounds) — This car is sound in every part.

Prospective Buyer — So I hear.

Mrs. Gray (to the son of the grass widow who had recently tripped up in the altar aisle) — How do you like your new daddy, Johnny?

John — Oh, he's all right in some ways, but he can't do my home work as good as the other one did.

Meet girls — their job — it's the work they don't like.

You must cry over spilled milk, condense it.

She — You're my daddy for me? What did he do?

He — Not a word. He just fell on my back and said, "How do you like your new daddy, Johnny?"

Dear Mom and Dad, a young college student wrote home to his family. I haven't heard from you in nearly a month. Please send a check so I'll know you're all right.

Happiness grows at our own firesides and is not to be picked in strangers' gardens.

Hal — John's wife doesn't know what the baby gets in his back when he comes home.

John — That's strange. Most of your mothers and fathers this sort of responsibility in a life.

An area rich in possibilities, but tragically poor in reality is trouble-ridden northeastern Brazil. In the Amazon region, poor land is farmed while rich land lies idle, because the good land is in areas that can't be farmed until flood control works are built. Agriculturalists say millions of oriental rice farmers could eat well and live well along the Amazon flood plain—a place still sparsely settled and still desperately poor.

Hike In Market Averages Seen As Possibility

NEW YORK (UPI) — Notwithstanding early tax-loss selling in glamor issues, a rise in representative averages to fresh peaks by the year-end would come as no surprise, Hornblower & Weeks says.

Walter Maynard of Shearson Hammill & Co. says the wise course for investors to pursue this period of market uncertainty is to continue to accumulate soundly situated stocks, avoiding those, however, which are selling at unreasonably high price-earnings ratios.

Oppenheimer, Neu & Co. feels that since we are entering the fourth quarter of the year, further selling to establish tax losses has to be expected, and it is quite possible that the downturn in former favorites will be exaggerated just as much as the uptrend was in the beginning of the year.

The Wiesenberger Investment Report remains of the opinion that the long-term trends of business and the stock market are up and that declines in prices induced by apprehensions over international disturbances should be regarded as buying opportunities.

Auto Insurance Dividend Hiked

The nation's largest writer of auto insurance raised its dividend to Texas policyholders effective October 1. The increase dividend will go to 94 per cent of the 228,000 Texas motorists insured by State Farm Mutual. Earle B. Johnson, State Farm's regional vice president at Dallas, said the move was made to partly offset the increase in auto insurance rates announced recently by the state insurance department. Johnson said the insurance department has approved a boost in the State Farm dividend from 12 to 17 1/2 per cent below the state's uniform auto insurance rates. Local agents for State Farm are Harry Gordon and Glen Courtney.

Robert Young's New Video Show Called Childish

By FRED DANZIG
NEW YORK (UPI) — We lost Loretta Young for the 1961-62 season, but Robert Young has come back to TV. With his CBS-TV series, "Window on Main Street," it's as though Young, Robert, never was away.

This time, he portrays a pipe-smoking, tweedy cliche, an angelic, homeward-looking author who is trying to rediscover Main Street back home. The story gave us a flashback, some childish behavior and a cloying reunion with a girl Young hadn't seen in 27 years. Everything hung together like crystals on a sugar cube.

The acting — and this time, Young was called upon to do some — was prettified. The dialogue was wooden. The laugh-and-applause track was intrusive. And the background fiddle music was impossible. Verdict: "Window on Main Street" has everything it takes to be a smash hit. Name-ly, Robert Young.

"Ben Casey," the newest full-hour series about the medical profession, got off to a promising start on ABC-TV Monday night.

Vincent Edwards, in the title role, managed his assignment in convincing style and gave promise of developing into a TV matinee idol. He portrays a young, gifted brain surgeon who is a rugged individualist. He badgers nurses into quitting, wrecks the hospital budget, talks down to the attending staff. Small wonder Sam Jaffe, as old Dr. Zorba, refers to Casey as "such a boy."

After numerous difficulties Monday night, the script gave us a cheery finish. Directed by Fielder Cook, the production fell short of "Dr. Kildare" standards, but it still displayed large enough chunks of sensitivity and savvy to be satisfying.

Jaffe, unfortunately, appeared determined never to be mistaken for Dr. Gillespie as he adopted an excitable, non-professional approach to his role. Get this kind of stuff out of the way, tone down some of the action, and "Ben Casey" will deserve a long run.

Proof that day shows needn't be as flashy and noisy as a carnival midway on Saturday night: "Calendar" and "Password," two new, plain, civilized CBS-TV daytime programs.

"Calendar" is an instant "Today" show. It scatters quickie service interviews, features and news notes before the slipper-shod feet of busy housewives in 30 minutes, less commercials. The program content included a baseball story, a report on child care centers, Eric Sevareid talking about British women. It was informative and interesting, but only skin-deep.

I hope Harry Reasoner and Mary Fickett, who referred to themselves as "Chet" and "David" for some reason or other, will remember that they aren't Mike Nichols and Elaine May as they preside over "Calendar" and de-emphasize the comedy.

"Password," with Allen Ludden as emcee, is an enjoyable word association game that involves degrees of telepathy, psychology, concentration and luck. The opener was fast, lots of fun to watch, and informal. The prizes are modest cash bundles.

And then there was "Make a Face," a persnicketeer game show that joined ABC-TV's daytime inventory Monday. The souped-up format involves matching up three parallel revolving slot machine-type drums to create a picture. Frankly, I get my kicks by reading labels of whirling phonograph records. And it's easier on the eyes.

The Chamel Swim: Arthur Godfrey says he hopes to visit Ireland with Carmel Quinn as his guide and tape their sight-seeing for a possible CBS-TV special this season.

Joan O'Brien, Frank Aletter and Ronny Howard have been added to the cast of "Tippy Top," the half-hour musical play which "GE Theater" airs in December on CBS-TV. Red Buttons has the starring role.

Charles Bickford will star in a newly created MGM adventure series for TV, "House of Seven." Anticipating the sale of another cycle of shows after Thursday's finale on ABC-TV, Saul Turell

Writer Ready To Vote For Husband-Of-Year

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the time comes to elect the 1961 "husband of the year," I intend to cast my vote for Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, the President's youngest brother.

His qualifications for this honor flash almost blindingly into view when you consider the press reports on the birth of his second child in Boston last week.

According to the accounts I read, Kennedy was not at the hospital at the time and his wife was quoted as telling a doctor that he might be difficult to reach because he was a heavy sleeper.

This indicates that he was at home in bed while she was giving issue. If so, he may have made a valuable contribution to the science of obstetrics.

I mean, all of the advancements in this branch of medicine in recent years have been directed to the benefit of the mother and child.

Very little has been done toward solving the ancient problem of what to do with husbands until the baby arrives.

About the best system that has been worked out so far is to have them mope around the hospital corridors, looking at old magazines and getting in the way of nurses.

I would give a pretty good how Ted Kennedy avoided this. Possibly his baby-arrived unexpectedly. If so, his wife showed commendable foresight in being at the hospital at the right time.

Most women, as you know, wait until the situation becomes critical. Then they take their own sweet time about finishing the job.

However he accomplished it, it seems to me that Kennedy has pointed the way to a logical solution to the problem. What could be more sensible than to let husbands sleep through the birthing period?

When a husband is shaken awake in the wee hours and told that it's time to go to the hospital, he simply tells his wife where to find the car keys and swan dives back into the pillow.

This would be a splendid arrangement. Right, fellows? Well, do I recall the first time

Barefoot Freedom Week In Progress

At a time when greater emphasis is being placed on walking, the annual recurrence of National Barefoot Freedom Week calls special attention to the importance of foot comfort.

It is said — by doctors as well as by shoe dealers who understand the necessity of comfortable shoes in order that women can enjoy true barefoot freedom — that walking not only provides outdoor exercise but stimulates many muscles and is good for practically everybody young and old.

For thousands of people it offers the only form of exercise. In taking this exercise, naturally the feet too, benefit — provided those feet are in sensible low-heeled shoes made over time-tested lasts. Only through walking, not sitting, can muscles be developed. Millions of adult Americans know this, which helps explain the ever-increasing popularity of walking.

Proof of the amazing extent of today's walking — even in this motor age — is provided by an "official" table which shows these statistics on distance walked in the average day:

Housewife — 3 1/2 miles, stenographer 6 miles, sales girl 8 miles, woman shopper (average shopping day) 8 1/2 miles and (Christmas season) 11 1/2 miles, school girl at play, 11 1/2 miles and waitress in grill, 12 1/2 miles.

All this is being called to the attention of the public on a coast-to-coast basis as National Barefoot Freedom Week is being observed in many cities and towns through Saturday, Oct. 7.

and Paul Killiam, producers of "Silent Please," are adapting John Barrymore's "Don Juan," Gary Cooper's "Lilac Time" and "The Three Musketeers," starring Douglas Fairbanks Sr. James Daly has the starring role in "What's Wrong with Men," the first presentation of the new season for NBC-TV's "Special for Women" series. Air date is Thursday, Oct. 19.

Writer Ready To Vote For Husband-Of-Year

I caught the dawn patrol. After spending endless hours in the maternity ward, I finally went down to the operating room, thinking I would have a tonsillectomy or something to help pass the time.

Unfortunately, the surgeon on duty wouldn't cooperate, so I had to spend the rest of the night in the lobby, playing the Coke machine.

At times like this I envy the penguin. When a female penguin lays an egg, she goes out for a walk and leaves the male to hatch it.

Hatching an egg is not exactly my idea of great sport, but at least it would give you something to do.

New Radio Chain Has Anti-Panic Signal Feature

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a room at the network Central-Control-of-the-Columbia Broadcasting System's radio division there's a little button.

Nobody ever wants to have to push that little button, one of nine signals in a new communications system between CBS Radio's New York headquarters and its 206 affiliated stations on the U.S. mainland.

But if it ever should become necessary to bring that button into action, CBS believes it can help a lot to prevent any public panic in a time of national emergency.

The "anti-panic" button is part of the communications system called Net ALERT by which CBS can put all its radio stations into action at once, at any time of day or night.

On getting official instructions, the system could signal all Net ALERT-equipped stations to join an emergency network and prepare for extraordinary information. Then, in a matter of seconds, it could begin transmitting accurate reports, instructions and comment from authorized government sources.

Net ALERT is designed for flashing nine different signals eight of them having to do only with normal CBS Radio network traffic. Five are for station cues, network cues, closed circuit voice messages and maintenance tests. Three are reserved for alerting the stations to exclusive bulletins, special programs and very special programs.

The ninth — the "national emergency" button — is surrounded by a combination of error-proof safeguards: a lock and key, a mechanical stop which must be removed by hand and an electronic device to monitor the correctness of the signal.

Once it is pushed, it would be announcing not only a national emergency but the end of broadcasting — as usual for all radio networks.

Transmission of this signal would indicate that a Conelrad Alert has been declared. Under such an alert, the CBS Radio network would become part of the National Emergency Broadcast System. Programs would be transmitted from the seat of the Federal Government.

How does Net ALERT work? When an engineer in the network Central Control pushes a button, a barely audible signal is set out over the program line to the stations, without disturbing the program the line may be carrying.

This impulse triggers a numbered plate which flips up on the Net-ALERT receivers in the stations, telling the program directors the kind of message or special program they will receive 30 seconds later.

But what happens if the station is off the air as many are after midnight? Net ALERT's executive home alarm, an extension of the receiving device at the station, activates an alarm bell in the home of station executive. The chime keeps sounding until the official reaches his station and gets his transmitter on the air.

The new communications system is the result of several years' research and development. Its high precision sending and receiving devices were made in the pilot production plant of CBS Laboratories. The first instruments were field tested for six months on circuits running from New York to Boise, Idaho, Los Angeles and Washington, D. C.

The most challenging problem faced by engineers on the project was to develop a foolproof "national emergency" signal which could not be duplicated by some accidental combination of electronic impulses.

MISS CANADA — Nina Holden, of Victoria, British Columbia, has been named "Miss Canada." Originally runner-up, she was elevated to first spot when judges disqualified Connie-Gail Feller because of "parental interference."
