Wife Held As Slayer Of Husband

Mrs. Patricia Ann Roland, 22, of 407 Elm St. was being held in Gray County jail today on a charge of murder with malice aforethought in the stabbing death of her husband Roger, 29, in front of their home shortly before 1:30 a.m. today.

Job-For-Negroes Drive Scheduled By Demo Regime

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration will begin moving next week on a drive to prod American industry into providing better jobs for qualified Negroes.

Informed sources said today that before the end of next week:

—Representatives of 12 of the nation's biggest corporations will come to the White House and sign voluntary agreements pledging their firms to take specific steps to encourage Negroes to seek, and to train for, skilled jobs. Nine big corporations already have signed similar agreements.

—The government will give final approval to a mandatory reporting system designed to enforce President Kennedy's executive order which bars firms with government contracts from racial or religious discrimination in employment. The system will begin operating early next year, requiring reports from possibly as many as 30,000 to 40,000 firms.

—These new developments will mark major advances in the administration's program designed to provide "equal employment opportunities" for all citizens.

Both Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson probably will be on hand for the ceremonial signing of documents at the White House, tentatively scheduled for next Friday.

The administration last summer started negotiating for detailed voluntary agreements which it calls "plans for progress" — covering employment practices among the 50 corporations with the biggest dollar volume of government contracts.

The nine which have signed have 800,000 employees. Next week's signatures will boost the total to 21 corporations with more than 1,300,000 employees.

Final terms of the mandatory reporting system covering other firms will be hammered out next Friday at a meeting of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities. Johnson is chairman of the committee, which is organizing the reporting system.

Police Lieut. J. B. Goad and Patrolman H. G. Shaffer were on a routine patrol in the area when they discovered Mrs. Roland standing over her wounded husband who was lying on the ground.

Upon investigation the officers found Roland had been stabbed in the left shoulder and the heart. They called an ambulance and he was pronounced dead on arrival at Highland hospital by Dr. Malcolm Brown.

Mrs. Roland told police she and her husband had been drinking and arguing about their children. She said she slapped her face and she obtained the pocket knife and stabbed him.

Police said Mrs. Roland still was holding the knife in her hand when they took her into custody. She was taken to the police station where she was questioned and later removed to county jail.

Arrangements are pending and will be announced later by the Austin Funeral Home in Amarillo.

Roland was born Feb. 4, 1934 in Sulphur Springs and had resided in Pampa for 18 years. He was a member of the Macedonia Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Valencia Antoinette; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Granvil Roland, all of Pampa; two sisters, Mrs. Helen Geary of Gwynn, Mich., and Mrs. Willie Marie Skemer of Agana, Guam; his grandfather, H. L. Linson of McKinney; seven aunts and two uncles.

He was graduated from Carver High School and attended Prairie View State College in Prairie View.

At 9:30 a.m. CST, today United Press International had counted 149 traffic deaths in the nation since the holiday period began at 8 p.m. Wednesday night.

The breakdown: Traffic 149, Planes 2, Fire 15, Miscellaneous 23, Total 189.

California had 24 traffic deaths to lead the nation. This was more than twice the number recorded in any other state. Next highest were Illinois and Pennsylvania, each of which had 10. New York had nine deaths.

The gay, warm aspect of the holiday overshadowed the tragedies of violent death.

There were nationally televised parades in New York, Philadelphia and Detroit. Thousands of free turkey dinners were given away to the homeless and the destitute throughout the nation. In other parts of the world American servicemen shared their Thanksgiving bounty with overseas friends.

The President dined on turkey at his Hyannis Port, Mass., summer home.

Almost perfect driving weather helped Texas hold down the number of traffic deaths over the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

A United Press International count for the period between 8 p.m. Wednesday and 11:59 p.m. Thursday showed a total of 13 fatalities from violent causes. Seven persons were killed in traffic accidents, and six died of miscellaneous causes.

TO KEEP PEOPLE OUT — East German construction workers work atop a new wall in front of the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin. Several thousand East German soldiers, policemen, militiamen and workers turned the Communist refugee wall into a fortification designed to withstand a Western attack. Informed Allied officials said the reinforced wall obviously was built in fear of a Western attempt to break through the wall. "The first wall was built to keep East Germans in," an Allied official said. "The new work obviously is aimed at keeping people out."

52 Persons Die As U.S. Bound Airliner Crashes

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — A British-built Argentine jetliner on the way to New York crashed near here early Thursday, killing all 52 persons aboard.

The dead included two men believed to be Americans, three Argentines on their way to join relatives in New York and an Austrian. The other 46 crash victims were Argentines not known to have close personal ties with the United States.

The casualties increased the toll of Argentine air crashes in the past year to 173 deaths. Thirty-one were killed in the wreck of an army transport last Dec. 12, 23 in a domestic airline crash Jan. 7, and 67 on another internal flight July 19.

The Comet jet plunged to earth from an altitude of about 3,000 feet less than two minutes after taking off from the Viracopos airbase, 60 miles west of here, one of its refueling stops.

Eyewitnesses differed as to whether the plane caught fire in flight or crashed, exploded and then caught fire.

The dead included Gilbert J. Luy, described by the passenger list as a 47-year-old American businessman, and William Boryk, tentatively identified as an American.

The Argentine victims included 17-year-old Marta Smart, whose father Alberto is U.S. manager for Argentine Airlines, the firm that operated the jetliner.

(Tragically, Smart was called on to answer many of the calls that flooded into the airline's New York office from friends, relatives and other associates of the crash victims. His expressions of sympathy conveyed no hint of his personal bereavement.)

Pampa's United Fund total stood at $54,023 at noon today.

George Newberry, fund chairman, said collections were few yesterday because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

The fund today still was $14,651 short of its $68,746 goal.

Firemen Extinguish Small Garage Fire

Pampa firemen Thursday were called to the home of Faye Dismuke, 1300 E. Browning, when fire broke out in the garage. Damage was slight, firemen said, and the blaze was extinguished a few minutes after arrival.

Two grass fires were reported Thursday. The first was reported at 1:38 p.m. at 600 W. Brown. The property was owned by the Santa Fe Railroad. At 2 p.m., one and one-half miles east of the city, a grass fire was started from burning trash. The property was owned by Vance Choat. No damage was reported from either fire.

General Plans Berlin Parley

BERLIN (UPI) — Gen. Lucius Clay today arranged to discuss with West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt a series of Communist moves against the divided city's lifelines and brief him on the talks between President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

While Clay was away in Washington this week, the Communists converted their anti-refugee wall into a tank-proof fortification. They also erected steel road barriers on the Autobahn to West Germany and halted a U.S. military train.

The Russians held the American train for nearly 15 hours in Communist territory until U.S. officials Thursday handed over a 20-year-old man who had climbed aboard in East Germany.

Regulations prohibit non-official passengers on the two American military trains which leave Berlin daily for Frankfurt and the port of Bremerhaven, and the two trains which arrive from the two cities.

The East Germans identified the unauthorized passenger as Siegfried Pump, allegedly wanted by Communist police for burglary.

The thieves used a blow torch to break into cash boxes in two telephone booths in Pampa during the Thanksgiving holidays.

George Newberry, manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. here, said boxes were looted at stations at the Minit Mart on N. Perryton Hwy. and at the Lewis Shamrock service station on the Amarillo Hwy.

The thieves used a blow torch to burn through the front of the boxes to release the lock.

The theft at the Minit Mart telephone booth was discovered Wednesday afternoon and the burglary of the cash box at the service station on the Amarillo Hwy. is believed to have been looted Thursday night, police said.

Pampa Seeks To Host Class AA Dalhart-Quanah Football Tilt

Dalhart and Quanah school officials were scheduled to meet this afternoon at the Pampa Chamber of Commerce office to decide the site of their class AA quarter-final playoff contest next week.

Red Wedgworth, C-C manager, and the organization's sports committee led by outgoing chairman James Gallemore and new chairman Tom Snow contacted the officials of the schools in an effort to bring the game to Pampa.

Quanah is the district 5-AA representative and the Indians have won 12 straight games including a 28-0 triumph in the regional contest with Ballinger Thursday.

U.S. Navy May Aid Search For Missing Rockefeller Scion

MERAEUKE, Dutch New Guinea (UPI) — Eibrink Jansen, the jungle-wise commissioner of Merauke, said today he had called for a Dutch navy cruiser with helicopters to aid in the search for 23-year-old Michael Rockefeller. He said there still is a "50-50" chance the young explorer is alive.

The Celebes-born Dutchman, who once survived 10 hours in the sea himself, told newsmen the key to the search are the two empty gasoline cans Michael used as floats when he set out from his disabled native boat to swim ashore Sunday.

"The search will continue until the red jerry cans are found," said the bald-49-year-old Jansen. (At the Hague, the Dutch defense ministry announced Thursday night that the Dutch government had "gladly accepted" an offer of U.S. Navy help in the search. The Defense Department in Washington confirmed that such a message had been sent from the U.S. Pacific Fleet commander.

(However, up to today, the U.S. Navy apparently had not yet received official word of the Dutch acceptance and there was no indication that any American ships were on the way to New Guinea.)

Jansen said that if the gasoline cans are found at sea, "we will know Michael is dead, but if we find them on shore we will be encouraged."

"There are 30,000 natives, all friendly, living in that area and we are relying upon them to find Michael," Jansen said.

"A reward of 250 pieces of tobacco — a fortune to natives — has been offered as a reward and entire villages have been drafted for the search."

"Natives know the area and will eventually report anything unusual as it takes time for news where there are only poorest communications."

Michael's father, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and the adventurer's twin sister, Mrs. Mary Strawbridge, spent a sad and disheartening Thanksgiving Day in this coastal village Thursday.

Today the governor, pale and gaunt looking, conferred with newsmen out in the open across the street from Jansen's house.

He quietly offered his thanks to the thousands of persons who have participated in this vast and extremely difficult search.

"I don't know how anything more could be done on behalf of Michael than what is being done and our only hope is that Michael has managed to get ashore and into the rough interior," the governor said.

The governor, stripped of his necktie and jacket, peered intently through binoculars at every inlet, mudbank and creek that might hold a clue to Michael's disappearance during a flight over the area.

He watched the jungled plains stretch endlessly into a hazy oblivion. The muddied tidal waters are brassy and calm in the steaming mid-afternoon sun.

Last Sunday, the waters were white-capped, swamping the twin outboards of Michael's canoe. But today there was only jungle swamp and seemingly thousands of square miles of mud.

Rockefeller was somber-faced and intent as the plane altitude dropped when it approached Flamingo Bay, where Michael swam away from the raft Sunday morning.

Mrs. Strawbridge, who is Michael's twin, was equally impassive behind dark glasses as she gazed out the plastic glass window with her head lowered.

Occasionally, the governor consulted a map and pointed with his finger to a landmark he recognized. Then the binoculars went back to his eyes and he searched up and down, left and right along the mirrored mud flats past the mangrove swamps and up the dirty creeks that empty into the eventy creeks ocean.

The search plane drifted lower and slower, barely skipping over the dreary deltas. About eight villages showed up in the area, contradicting earlier reports that the delta was uninhabited.

Behind the governor stood tanned Eibrink Jansen. In thick, quiet English, he answered the governor's questions, made his observations based on long years spent in these jungles, and emphasized the many possibilities of Michael emerging safely.

The 12-foot tide was out, revealing the acres of silt insulating the high ground from the sea.

No imagination was needed to visualize the reptile life — the crocodiles, pythons, snakes — that nest in these swamps. The reptiles and once-white cranes that fly off on dign brown wings were the only sign of life anywhere along the beach.

Police Find Club Burglarized Of $30

Officers in a police patrol car discovered a break-in at the Penant Club, 543 W. Brown, as they made a routine check at 1:05 a.m. today.

Lieut. J. B. Goad and Patrolman H. G. Shaffer reported they found someone had gained entrance to the place by ripping open a rear screen door and breaking a glass in an inside door. The burglars looted the cash register, cigarette machine and juke box of an estimated $30 in cash.

Oilmen Of Area To Hold Annual Meet Saturday

More than 400 oil men and their guests from all areas of the Panhandle are expected to attend the annual banquet of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute Saturday, Dec. 2, in Borger.

The annual event traditionally is the biggest affair of the API year and will feature the election of officers for 1962.

A social hour is scheduled for 7 p.m. and the banquet will start at 7:30 p.m. in the Beuna Vista Cafeteria.

Banquet tickets now are in the hands of Pampa API members and may be obtained from any of the group's officers who are: Martin F. Ludeman, West Pampa Representing Assn., chairman; Paul M. Wiley, Texaco, first vice chairman; Joe Daniel Jr., Cabot, second vice chairman, and Al Knox, Gulf Oil, third vice chairman.

Other members with banquet tickets are Henry Frazer, Welex Inc.; A. E. "Chick" Hickman, Petroleum Specialty; M. G. Rogers, Pan American Petroleum Corp.; Fred Van Shoubrouk, Humble; Walter Stein, Cabot; Nathan Turnbo, Keweenaw Oil; Vernon Watkins, United Mud; W. C. Newlin, Cities Service; Don Stephens, Skelly Oil, and John Hatcher, Frontier Perforators. The ticket price is $5 if purchased before Saturday evening, but will be $6 if purchased at the door.

The API is concluding an active year with the election of officers banquet. Its chapter meetings during the past year have been on subjects of vital local concern such as cost cutting, saltwater disposal, and waterflooding. Highlights of the past few months would include the talk on waterflooding the North Burbank field in Osage County, Okla., by Stanley I. Betzer of Phillips Petroleum Co., Borger, and the talk on saltwater disposal by Ivan M. Rice of Rice Engineering Co., Great Bend, Kansas, each of whom is a recognized expert in his field. In addition, classes of the Petroleum Extension Service of the University of Texas have been sponsored by the local API during the past year, and the API also has been a supporter of the area's Science Fair program.

Founded in 1932, the local API Chapter has grown with the oil industry in the Texas Panhandle, and has become the largest and most active chapter in the Mid-Continent District of the organization. It is the largest organization of oil men in this area with over 500 members. With the election of its 1962 officers at the banquet Saturday evening, the Panhandle Chapter API will look forward to beginning its fourth decade of service to the community and the oil industry." Chairman Ludeman said today.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. U. Bryant, Cities Service Camp, west of Pampa.

Pallbearers will be Steve Cox, Mike Sullins, Raymond Edwards, Eugene Marak, Jimmy North, Bud Jack, James and Russell Head.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

The youth was born Feb. 21, 1938 in Wewoka, Okla. and came to Pampa with his parents in 1951, when he was in the eighth grade. He was graduated from Pampa High School in 1957 and attended West Texas State College in Canyon. During 16 months' service in the army, he served in Korea and was discharged in July, 1960.

Bryant was a member of St. Vincent dePaul Catholic Church and of the Knights of Columbus.

Dear Abby.... Not Too Much Pride But Too Much Fun

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was practically engaged to a college boy of 19. I am 18. Everything was going along great until I found out he had been seeing two other girls. I asked him to explain himself but he didn't seem to want to, so I told him we were through.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I dine out with friends, he will frequently say, "Aren't you going to eat your potato?" Or, "If you don't want to finish your dessert, I'll take it." He is always finishing up someone's salad or steak, and behaving like a human garbage pail in general.

DEAR CONFUSED: I doubt if he has too much pride. He's probably having too much fun. Don't write him. Write him off.

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Tell this "vacuum cleaner" with teeth that unless he stays out of other people's plates, you'll refuse to eat out with him.

You Can Make Outfit In One Sewing Session

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

Perhaps you need something new to wear on a weekend in the country, or for an informal luncheon — or something new for the office.

Here is an outfit you can make in an evening or a Saturday morning: Shop for a pretty fabric — one to become excited about. Buy one skirt length of this: 54, 56, or 58-inch fabric, plus 3 inches.

Tweed's for you.

Buy enough more to make a stole the width you want — 15 to 18 inches. If you fringe the stole then buy 3 inches extra.

Your arithmetic works like this: 28 inches for skirt; 3 inches plus 18 inches for stole; total, 49 inches. So buy 1 3/4 yards, which is 49 1/2 inches. You can stitch the crosswise edges of the stole, then make a rolled hem or stitch 1-inch in from the edge on all four edges and fringe the fabric back to the stitching line.

If you are using jersey, make your stole double and on the length of fabric.

For your skirt you can use a 2-gore pattern, or measure your hip at the fullest part. Cut your skirt width this measurement plus 4 inches to 6 inches, depending upon how snug you want the skirt.

You can measure carefully and place two darts in the back to taper from the waistline to nothing at the full part of the hip, or you can gather the fullness in, as shown in sketch.

Make two rows of gathers at the waistline. This way you would have a side seam at left. Finish this with a zipper.

Belt can be from 1 to 2 inches wide, made double. If the fabric stretches, use nylon ribbon inside the belt to prevent stretching.

First, stitch 1/4 inch from the edge around the bottom edge of the skirt, then slip stitch this stitched edge to skirt, making sure that no stitches show on the right side.

Choose a sweater in the right color for your skirt and stole, and your outfit will be complete.

Dear Mrs. Picken: How can I

ASK THE DESIGNER by gail dugas

Dear Gail: Won't you please say something about the skirt lengths most women are wearing? My friends are mostly middle-aged. Almost without exception they have their skirts right up to their knees. It looks bad enough when they're standing or walking but it's even worse when they're seated. Fat knees and acres of underthings. I'm considered old hat because I wear my skirts about 16 inches. When are designers going to give us longer skirts? —Mrs. M. V.

Dear Mrs. M. V.: I'm with you all the way. But it isn't the designers, really. They make short skirts with pretty young things in mind, and even here, it CAN be overdone. But there's a vast difference between slim young legs and pudgy or knobby, unsightly knees. Let's listen to what that peerless designer, Pauline Trigere, has to say on the matter:

"The length of a skirt should properly depend upon the top of the garment, in order to provide necessary balance. The width of the skirt makes a difference, too. A narrow skirt tends to ride up when the wearer walks or is seated. The woman who doesn't possess beautiful legs should stay away from extremely short-skirts. I like a skirt length of 16 1/2 inches both personally and professionally."

"But let me emphasize: a skirt length is an individual matter and should be decided by a woman only after due consideration to decide what is most becoming to her."

Dear Gail: Would you please tell me how to get a start as a dress designer? I have some designs for evening wear but there are no factories in our area which make that type of clothing. I'm not able to leave home very much because of two small children which limits me, I realize. —Mrs. M. C.

Dear Mrs. M. C.: The best place to start is right at home. By designing and making clothes for friends and relatives for a fee, you can learn the basics. There is far more to designing clothes than the ability to sketch. All top designers can cut, pin, drape and generally handle fabrics with great skill. Some work from sketches and some start with a mental concept. Further advice on this comes from designer Richard Cole, who says:

"I'd write both the Fashion Institute of Technology and the

Gift-Wrapping Show At HD Club Meeting

WHITE DEER (Sp) — White Deer Home Demonstration Club met recently with Mrs. Joe Wheeler. The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Kenneth Armstrong.

A demonstration on gift wrapping was conducted by Mrs. Donald Booth and Mrs. Horace Williams. Special emphasis was given to the wrapping of odd shaped packages.

Attending were Mrs. Loyd Collins, C. D. Freeman, Kenneth Armstrong, Booth, Williams and Armstrong.

The Mature Parent
Seek Key To Distrust Of Child's Initiative

Mrs. P's mother was a lady who was always biting off more than she could chew. She would say, "I must get that carving knife sharpened" — but for years her holiday turkeys were carved with the big kitchen knife.

She would slice off the too-tight top of Mrs. P's favorite dress — but instead of turning it into the "pretty little school skirt," sooner or later Mrs. P would find her mutilated garment stuffed away in Mama's rag bag.

In a burst of enthusiasm Mama would rip all the shelf coverings in the kitchen closet; repaper two of the shelves — and leave the others bare and unsightly.

Inevitably Mrs. P came to the conclusion that people just never finish what they begin. But she was unaware of that conclusion because her dependent respect for Mama made it impossible to register Mama's weaknesses as personal and private to her.

As a result, Mrs. P gets very upset at any evidence of initiative in her children.

Yesterday she felt intense annoyance when she discovered that Jimmy had disassembled his wagon in the driveway. Though he is not Mama, she simply could not credit him with the follow-through required to reassemble his wagon.

So far as Mrs. P was concerned the litter in the driveway was there to stay. Accordingly, she fussed and fussed at Jimmy until he lost his temper and had to be punished for impudence.

For weeks now she has been compelled to discourage Margie's plan to knit herself a sweater. Whenever her daughter raises the question of the purchase of needles and wool, Mrs. P says:

"What do you want to bother with knitting one for when you can get just the color and style you want downtown?"

She envisions hanks of wool and a half-knitted sweater lying around the house for the next 10 years.

Our discouragement of initiative in children is often derived from experiences with childhood authorities like Mrs. P's mama.

It's wise to become aware of this. It's reasonable to start asking ourselves:

"What basis have I for distrusting Jimmy's interest in reassembling his wagon? When Jane takes a magazine to her room, why am I always so sure that I'll never see it again?"

"Why must I always feel that the projects my children undertake will be doomed to incompleteness and failure?"

Such distrust of children's initiative is not the result of our experience with the children.

'Super-Patriots' Are Not Needed, Eisenhower Says

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Eisenhower backed up President Kennedy Wednesday night in denouncing "extremists and super-patriots" and told armed forces officers to stay out of politics.

"I don't think the United States needs super-patriots," said the general who himself has been accused of being a Communist agent by an extreme right wing leader.

"That's just rot, if you'll excuse the word," he added.

Eisenhower covered a wide range of topics in a recorded, copyright interview carried by the Columbia Broadcasting System on its TV program "CBS Reports." During his attack on extremists, he was asked about Army political action.

"I believe the Army officer, Navy officer, Air Force officer, should not be talking about political matters, particularly domestically, and never in the international field," he answered.

It was "bad practice — very bad" for an officer to testify even under oath before a congressional committee in expressing opinions on political matters or economic matters contrary to the President's," Eisenhower said.

He added that officers should indoctrinate troops on U. S. principles, but said "I do not believe they should try to do this in terms of partisan politics whatsoever."

Eisenhower made no specific reference to Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker who resigned recently after being admonished for the political nature of his troop indoctrination program. But the question asked the former president was an obvious reference to Walker.

Eisenhower was particularly sharp in attacking the "rise of extremists." Again, he did not mention any names or specific groups, but he himself has been described as a "dedicated, conscious agent of the Communist party" by Robert Welch, founder of the right-wing John Birch Society.

Five days ago President Kennedy in a speech in Los Angeles deplored extremists who he said were "mounting crusades of suspicion" against Americans when the real foe was foreign communism.

Russian Relations Resumed By Brazil

BRASILIA (UPI)—Brazil has renewed diplomatic relations with Russia, broken off as the result of an outbreak of Communist subversion in this country in 1947.

Foreign Minister E. Santiago Dantas announced the renewal to Congress Thursday, setting off a "outburst of turbulence" in which he was booed by rightists and cheered by leftists in the legislature.

City Dump Truck Struck By Train

Highway Patrol officers are investigating a railroad crossing crash which occurred at 10:35 a.m. today, 4 miles west of Lefors.

A Pampa city dump truck, driven by Leslie Edmondson, was struck by a freight train about 200 yards from Highway 273.

Officers said the truck was loaded with gravel and sand which was being hauled from a pit near by to construction work near Pampa.

Estimated damage to the truck was $2,000.

Edmondson was taken to a local physician for observation. He was not believed seriously hurt.

Times Tower Fire Probed By Firemen

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fire officials hope to discover today what caused the Times Tower blaze which killed three persons and injured 29 others on Thanksgiving Eve.

Fire Marshal Martin Scott said a full investigation would get underway as soon as all the water has been pumped out of the Times Square building.

Crew Of Burning Cargo Ship Safe

MORGAN CITY, La. (UPI)—The cargo vessel Jimmie Walker, with 60,000 pounds of explosives aboard, caught fire early today and was abandoned by her crew, who transferred to a sister ship.

The U. S. Coast Guard at New Orleans said the fire still was raging aboard the Jimmie Walker but that the crew was safe aboard the Lilian Walker.

Class For Care Of Sick Held By Red Cross

Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross has held its second class in care of the sick and injured class for instructors the second time in ten years.

Majorie Bouws, Red Cross nurse, completed an Instructors Class for Home Nursing—Miss Bouws came to Pampa November 14 and has held the classes in a home nursing class room in City Hall with 6 persons completing the course.

The Nursing Class enables the instructors to hold classes, for Parent Teacher Association members, or for any community group who wishes to learn how to care for their sick at home. The course is declared valuable for persons in time of disaster and epidemics.

Classes will be set up again soon, and persons interested in taking the course are urged to call the Red Cross.

New instructors for care of the sick and injured classes are: Mrs. Stanley Brandt, Mrs. Bill Marten, Mrs. John Gikas, Mrs. Donald Gray, Mrs. Nita Neighbors, registered nurse and School Nurse for White Deer and Skellytown and Miss Gladys Hickman registered nurse.

Infant Rites Held Today

McLEAN — Graveside rites for Richard Scott Grigsby, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Grigsby of Pampa, were conducted this morning at 10 in Hillcrest Cemetery with the Rev. John Dyer, pastor of Hobart Street Baptist Church, officiating.

The infant, born Tuesday in Highland General Hospital, died at 12:30 a.m. Thursday in the hospital.

In addition to the parents, he is survived by one brother, Robert Burton; one sister, Marjorie Lynn; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Doris Hatch of San Diego, Calif.; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Grigsby of McLean; maternal grandfather, C. A. Crawford; and great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Landers of McLean.

Arrangements were under the direction of Lamb Funeral Home in McLean.

Pampa Cagers Play At Vernon Tonight

Borger, Coyotes Meet Saturday

BORGER—Third time is supposed to be the charm for good luck and the Borger Bulldogs will go about finding out just how true this old saying is Saturday afternoon when the 3-AAAA champs entertain mighty Wichita Falls at 2 p.m. at Bulldog Stadium.

Borger has won only two previous championships in its history and the Bulldogs had the misfortune of playing Coach Joe Golding's Coyotes in bi-district each time.

Wichita Falls nabbed a tough 12-6 decision in 1958 enroute to its fourth state championship and the Coyotes chalked up a 28-6 victory last year on the way back to the state finals.

The Coyotes are easily the most potent team in the state. They have been rated no. 1 all season and have upheld the confidence by winning 10 straight games and scoring 345 points.

Borger, on the other hand, was hard-pressed to make the playoff scene. And had it not been for an upset win by Monterey over Amarillo Tascosa, the Bulldogs might have lost in a coin flipping session. But Borger and Palo Duro tied for the crown and the 'Dogs earned the representative position because of a 21-14 win over the Dons.

The Bulldogs of Gene Mayfield will have a weight advantage over Wichita Falls. The Coyotes have a smaller club than usual, but possess two big, powerful backs in all-state tailback Larry Shields and quarterback Mike Kelley.

Shields is a third year starter and has led the Coyotes to the AAAA state finals two straight years. Last year Wichita Falls lost to Corpus Christi Miller 13-6 and in 1959 were beaten by Corpus Christi Ray 20-6.

Borger, which plays a hard-nosed brand of football, will rely on a potent ground attack featuring the power running of full-back Dave Hill and the break-away threat of halfbacks J. P. and L. T. Tillman.

Tackle John LaGrone and end Joe Robinson beef up the rugged Borger defensive unit, which has allowed just 40 points this season.

Both teams have played one common opponent. Each club whipped the Amarillo Sandies by 14 points. Wichita Falls scored in the second period and late in the fourth quarter to nab a 14-0 victory while Borger tallied three times in the first half to win 20-6.

Borger's lone loss was to Tascosa 7-0. The Bulldogs have scored 284 points on the campaign.

Pass By Saxton Led Texas Win

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Coach Darrell Royal admitted that he sent in the unexpected play that turned the tide in Texas' favor in Thursday's 25-0 victory over Texas A&M, but said "it sure looked like a lousy call for a while."

Royal was speaking of the Longhorns' first offensive effort of the second half when halfback James Saxton, who hasn't thrown a pass all season, took a pitch-back from quarterback Mike Cotten and threw to Jack Collins, who turned it into a touchdown.

That play boosted the Texas margin to 12-0 and broke the Aggie resistance that had held the nation's fifth-ranking team to a pair of first half field goals.

Royal, who has now guided Texas teams into four bowl games in his five seasons as head coach, told writers in the dressing room that "it was the execution by Saxton, that made it go - it looked like a lousy call until James made it go."

He was speaking of the maneuvers Saxton had to put on to keep this throwing arm clear of a host of Aggie defenders who had broken through on a big rush. Saxton darted about, then launched the pass that Collins caught on the 26 yard line and ran for the touchdown.

"It was a heck of a reaction on Saxton's part," Royal said. "No one else could have pulled that one out."

Royal called the 1961 Longhorns, who own a 9-1 season record and are headed for the Cotton Bowl, "the best team I've ever coached."

Royal and his players all admitted that the team "just got ready for those Aggies," after the disheartening 6-0 loss to Texas Christian last Saturday that cost Texas its No. 1 national ranking.

Cotten praised the Texas defense which helped "get us a couple of cheap touchdowns—sure like those."

Aggie Coach Jim Myers, who may have coached his last game at Aggieland since his five-year contract expires next month and rumors have been numerous as to his future, said he "felt good at the half" when his team trailed only 6-0.

"I thought we looked real good in the first half," he said. But "when Texas got those two touchdowns in the third quarter, there wasn't any stopping them."

Dalhart Wolves Rope Mustangs

By United Press International
Texas schoolboy football teams seeking the various state championships swing into high gear tonight—the way already being paved by a stunning Thanksgiving Day upset.

Dalhart's Tommy Ledbetter rocketed 97 yards to break the back of Class AA defending champion Denver City Thursday, 29-8. The Dalhart victory snapped a 26-game Denver City winning streak—the longest in Texas high school football.

Ledbetter's run helped Dalhart overcome an 8-7 halftime deficit. He carried 12 times for 157 yards; Dalhart will meet Quanah next week—28-0 victor over Ballinger Thursday at Abilene.

In the only Thursday game in either Class AAAA or AAA the Dumas Demons of Class AAA finally mustered enough offensive punch to defeat Seminole, 14-0, in a Class AAA regional high school playoff game. Dumas meets the winner of the San Angelo Lake View-Breckenridge game today at San Angelo.

In Class A action Thursday Wink ripped Rotan 22 to 6, Forney nipped Mt. Vernon, 14-13 and Waco-Connally beat Thorndale 34 to 20.

There will be some playoff action Friday and Saturday night. Class AAAA's two title favorites, Wichita Falls and Corpus Christi Ray, wait until Saturday afternoon—the top-ranked Coyotes against Borger at Borger and Ray against Austin S. F. Austin at Austin.

The only other Saturday action will find San Angelo at Ysleta in AAAA; Nederland at Cleburne and Del Rio at San Antonio Lee in AAA.

All other games are scheduled Friday night.

These include Dallas Wilson at Fort Worth Paschal, Denison at Fort Worth Paschal, Denison at Houston Milby, Galena Park at Port Neches and San Antonio Jefferson vs. San Antonio Brackenridge in AAAA; Breckenridge at San Angelo Lake View, Carrollton vs. Gainesville at Denton; Corsicana at Carthage, Bay City vs. Angleton at Freeport and San Benito at Port Lavaca in AAA.

Paschal, Texarkana, Spring Branch, Galena Park, Jefferson, Breckenridge, Gainesville, Carthage, Bay City and San Benito rate the favorite's roles.

In Class AA Friday night, Jacksboro plays Plano at Haltom City, Hooks plays Gilmer at Daingerfield, Brady meets Hearne at Killeen, Columbus is at Dayton, Sweeney plays Gonzales at Victoria and Donna is at Devine.

In Class A, Gruver meets Kress at Canyon, Albany and Crowell battle at Stamford, Brownsboro meets Groveton at Nacogdoches, Hull-Daisetta and Sealy clash at Liberty and Three Rivers meets Rio Hondo at Raymondville.

Jacksboro, Gilmer, Brady, Columbus, Sweeney and Donna are favored in AA, while Gruver defending state champ Albany, Groveton, Hull-Daisetta and Rio Hondo are the Class A favorites.

The program with Blackwell has been tentatively reset for Jan. 6.

Borger's coach Jerry McClure will bring his whole team over Saturday.

For Pampa, some of the top-notch boys who will be in the ring are Gary Wilhelm, a well known Panhandle area boxer; Pat McDonald; Dickie Wills, who scored an upset last Wednesday over Amarillo's Manny Perez; and Lefors' Gene Shipman.

Some of the top bouts which have been tentatively set will pit: Joe January (Borger) vs. Lucky Dunham (Pampa) in 147-pound match; Johnny Caldwell (Pampa) vs. Gene Hart (Borger) and Glen Samples (Pampa) vs. Steve McCarthy (Borger)

Harvesters Eye Second Victory

By JOE LEE SMITH
Sports Editor

VERNON — Two is the magic number for the Pampa Harvesters.

Coach Terry Culley's Pampa cagers take to the road again tonight in search of their second straight win of the 1961-62 season when they meet the Vernon Lions of district 4-AAAA at Vernon with games scheduled at 6:15 and 8 p.m.

Pampa opened the campaign Tuesday night with a hard-earned 67-57 decision over the always-tough Hereford Whitefaces at Hereford. But the Harvesters trailed throughout the first half—by as much as 11 points—before the local cagers exploded in the third period for 28 points to ice down the triumph.

Guard Keith Swanson led the Pampa comeback as he hit eight of nine free throws and a field goal in that important third quarter outburst. The Harvesters had trailed 35-27 at halftime.

Wayne Kreis, guard, and Randy Mason, center, also headed the come-from-behind effort. Kreis connected on a pair of jump shots and a layup and Matson added a pair of tip-ins in the third period.

Culley will probably go with the same six boys tonight, alternating Bobby Neslage and possibly Swanson, Matson, Kreis, Gordon Balch and Lloyd Balch are the other frontline men for the Harvesters. Neslage turned in a highly creditable performance on the backboards for Pampa in the final quarter in the place of Matson, who had fouled out. He could become a big help if he continues to rule the backboards like he did Tuesday night.

Matson popped in 22 points against Hereford but he did not look like the same boy who turned in such a good defensive performance in scrimmage games against Clarendon Junior College.

But Matson has been bothered with some bruised ribs but should be ready to go full steam tonight.

Culley was complaining before the season about a lack of depth and Monday guard Ronnie Chase, a 5-7 letterman, broke his foot, and will probably be out of action for the rest of the season.

It was a tough blow for the already inexperienced Harvesters. For Chase is just what the Pampa cagers need—a slick ball handler and playmaker.

It might have been opening night jitters, but the Harvesters made many backcourt mistakes against Hereford. But Pampa proved one point—they can shake off disappointment and bounce back.

Jim Myers Fired By Texas Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Texas A&M College announced today that the contract of head football coach Jim Myers will not be extended when it expires in January and that a successor will be named as soon as possible.

The Aggies finished their fourth season under Myers Thursday without rising above the .500 mark in overall play and with only five Southwest Conference victories.

In conference play under Myers since 1958 the record is 5-18-3 and for the full schedule it is 12-24-4. The Aggies played Southwest Conference champion Texas Thursday and lost, 25-0.

It was speculated that Jim Owens of the University of Washington, a former assistant coach at Texas A&M under Paul (Bear) Bryant, would succeed Myers as the head coach.

Myers was hired to replace Bryant in 1958 after months of squabbling among members of the Texas A&M Athletic Council. Bryant resigned to go to his alma mater, the University of Alabama.

The Aggies at that time were under probation imposed by the NCAA for recruiting practices.

SURPRISE HERO—Junior guard Keith Swanson was a pleasant surprise as the Pampa Harvesters tripped Hereford 67-57 in their season opener Tuesday. Swanson will be one of the mainstays in the Pampa line-up against Vernon tonight.

Texas Wrecks Aggies 25-0

Steers In Cotton Bowl

COLLEGE STATION—(UPI)—Co-captain Don Talbert of the Cotton Bowl-bound Texas Longhorns figures his mates showed their "team character" in Thursday's 25-0 victory over Texas A&M to clinch the bowl bid and at least a share of the Southwest Conference title.

The Longhorns very easily could have been very much "down for the 68th meeting with arch-rival Texas A&M after having the props knocked out of their No. 1 national ranking five days earlier in a 6-0 upset defeat at the hands of Texas Christian.

But, the opposite seemed true to most of the 42,000 speculators jammed into Kyle Field for the Thanksgiving Day national television contest.

The Aggies gave fifth-ranked Texas a run for it in the first half, holding the Longhorns to 31 and 33-yard field goals by Eldon Moritz and turning back another Texas scoring bid at the one-foot line.

But Texas exploded for two touchdowns within the first five minutes of the second half to dent the Aggie poise and force an 18-0 lead that Texas A&M was never able to even threaten.

The victory, the ninth against one loss, gave Coach Darrell Royal a record of having coached four bowl teams in his five seasons at the Texas helm. And, the team owns a share of the conference crown regardless of how defending champ Arkansas fares Saturday against Texas Tech.

Arkansas can gain a co-championship by beating Tech, but a loss or a tie would give all the glory to Texas.

Royal said he thought quite possibly that the first quarter field goal by Moritz might stand up.

"But, after we kicked the second one (with just 11 seconds to half-time), I began worrying that it was just like having a touchdown without the extra point."

So, after halfback James Saxton eluded a swarm of Aggie defenders to launch a 46-yard scoring pass play to Jack Collins, Royal had his team go for the two-point conversion. It failed.

But less than three minutes later, halfback Jerry Cook took the pressure off in a big way by romping 43 yards to the two-yard line with an intercepted pass, then bolting over for a touchdown and an 18-0 lead.

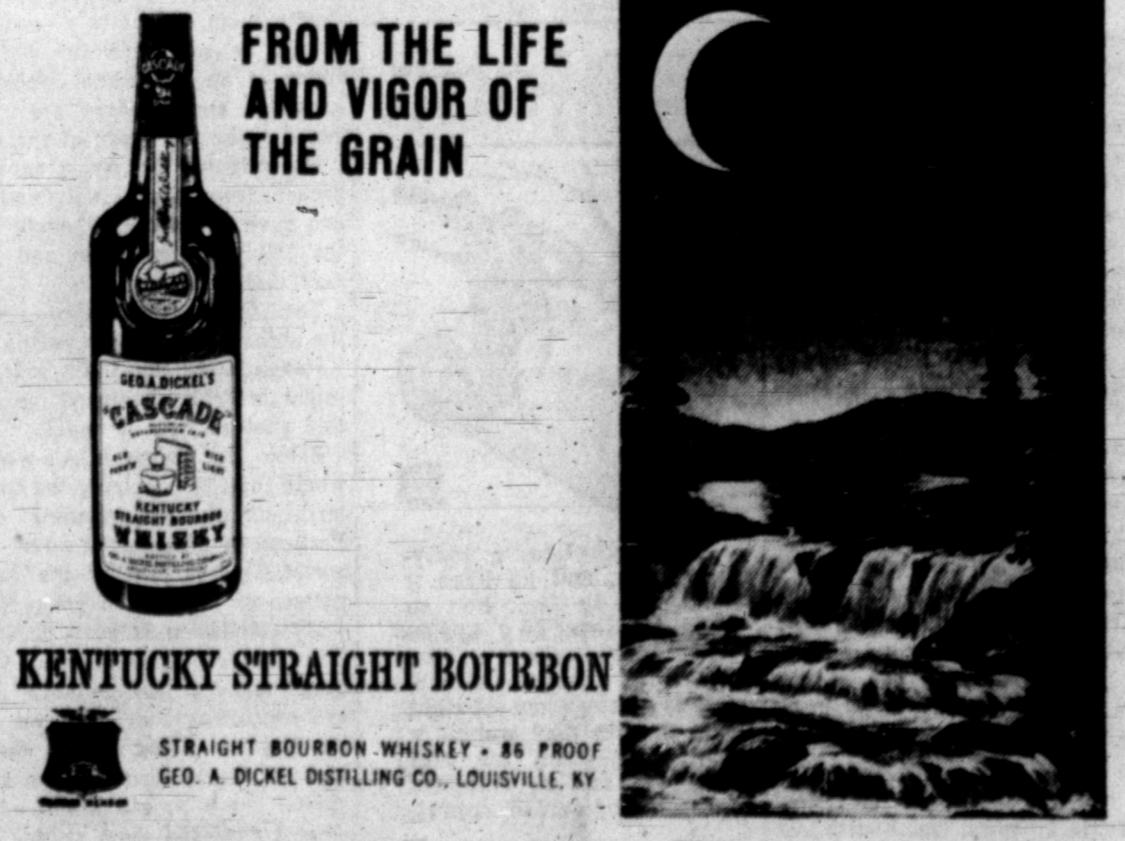

Texas added an insurance touchdown in the final quarter with reserve Tommy Ford blasting the final yard of a 55-yard drive in which he personally accounted for 38 yards.

That was when Texas Athletic Director Ed Olle passed out a statement in the press box stating that Texas would start accepting applications immediately for its share of the Cotton Bowl ticket allotment.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his-utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

The Big Future

Far too little emphasis these days is placed upon the importance and the virtue of capitalism.

And this is both strange and deplorable. Having gotten this nation off to a fast gallop due to our early emphasis upon free enterprise and private property, we have adopted something in the nature of a national guilt complex over our success via the capitalist route.

Today's young people seem to have phobias concerning the making of money. It isn't that they don't want money. Indeed, they do. But they want to get it the "easy" way, without effort, if possible.

Only rarely now do we run across young people with a burning zeal to DO something. Instead, we find scores of people starting their careers in a negative framework of reference.

"I don't have to succeed mightily," we are told. "I'd just like to have a modest income at a job that isn't too hard. Then, after I've worked the required number of years I can retire and do some of the things I really want to do."

This seems to be more or less standard nowadays. We can remember when young people used to talk of doing, really DOING something. Their schemes were on occasion hair-brained, far-fetched, often unrealistic. But they wanted to make something or provide something, or invent something, or figure a new way to improve our way of living.

They dreamed of making fortunes and were all ready for the big gamble. They might not make it but they wanted to be free to try. And how they rejoiced that they lived in a country where people could try. Maybe they'd fail, and this they knew. But at least they had had an opportunity. And this they cherished above all.

Nowadays, there seems little enthusiasm for a risk such as this. The sure, safe job, with big firm, or in politics, or civil service, or the army... these are the lode-stones to draw the youthful metal. Ask a young man or woman today what he or she wants to

Most don't seem to know, or to care. They want someone else to tell them what to do. Few visualize themselves in positions of authority. It is almost as if the life were a chore that had to be faced. Therefore, the youth of today faces it with some stoicism but with little if any enthusiasm.

It is like the young fellow about to be drafted. He doesn't want to go into the army. He has no yen for a military career but he knows he will have to serve his bit. It's a chore. A duty. He faces it almost grimly, looking beyond those years to a time when he will be outside of the pines of the stockade once again.

And so with his major incentives to life. What he really wants is to retire. Until he can manage that, well, he'll accept some work-a-day post to assure himself of eating money. When the time has passed and he can get retirement pay or social security for both, then and only will he come alive.

Instead of trying to make a place for himself, today's young man all too frequently wants someone else to make a place for him. It is no wonder, when government has grown so large that it is frustrating everyone at virtually every level.

Why take risks? Government will stand behind you to comfort and solace you. Especially if you remain obedient and tractable and don't get into political controversy.

One would think everything worth while had been done. But it hasn't. We are not at the end of human experience; rather, we only now are beginning to learn enough to know that all prior times are but a prelude to a magnificent tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be a time for the giants. Small men are in the ascendency today, but that day is already slipping into twilight. Tomorrow's world will be a world for those rare persons who have not forgotten that the big rewards go to the big adventurers.

Capitalism is still the biggest adventure of all. What is wrong with success? Or profits? Or independence? Or the thrill that comes only to those who have dared, and finally won the race?

Perspective

In 1981 you'll be looking back and talking about the good old days' of 1961.

Economics Means 'I'd Rather'

Sometimes we are inclined to believe that the use of Greek words provides something in the nature of a Greek tragedy. For instance, the word economic or economy.

This is a word taken from the Greek. To the minds of most Americans it probably signals boredom, wrestling with figures, taxes, distribution of production quotas, distribution objectives, and personnel data.

Actually, the word has a very simple meaning and concerns all of us just about all the time. The most sophisticated, and at the same time the most simple way we know to describe what we mean when we say "economy" is to say motivated human action. Economics is merely the study of motivated human action. That is all.

Man, being a rational creature, is motivated. Let us concede that some men are not always wise in their motivations. Nonetheless, men do what they do for reasons. The reasons can be logical or illogical, sound or unsound, wise or foolish. But the reasons exist. Even in the mind of the deranged or the mentally incompetent, a motive exists before he will do whatever it is that he does.

Now that we have said motivated human action, we could simply say human action and let it go at that.

Hankering

By HENRY
McLEMORE

The infantry soldier always draws the short straw — or so it would seem.

The submariner gets extra pay for diving, and the flier gets the same for risking his neck in the heavens, and I wouldn't be surprised to learn that the artilleryman gets paid extra for handling shells, and the finance department clerk something on the side for risking his neck with figures.

But the infantryman gets no bonus. The risks he runs are in the line of duty, and nothing is added to his pay check no matter how many times he leads an assault, how many days he curls up in a foxhole or how many openings he makes for tanks to rumble through.

This should be changed, and I don't say this only because I was once an infantryman and have a warm spot in my heart for the men who wear the baby blue ribbon on their caps.

The infantrymen have something coming to them, and I have a suggestion regarding their bonuses.

Why not pay them when they are pressed into service to help Hollywood make a war picture? Why shouldn't they be paid the full Hollywood scale for extras? They are forever being hauled off to some location to lend authenticity to Hollywood's efforts at realism, and for them to work for nothing is ridiculous.

For them to work at all for Hollywood is ridiculous, for that matter. When a soldier takes the oath of allegiance, he doesn't say anything about being loyal to Twentieth Century-Fox, Darryl Zanuck, or Columbia Pictures. He doesn't owe fealty to any producer, director, or scenario writer.

The current argument over whether or not GI's brought from Germany to help in the filming of a picture about D. Day were afraid to jump into the sea until Robert Mitchum had shown the way is nonsense.

Why shouldn't an infantryman balk at jumping into a cold ocean for the benefit of Darryl-Zanuck, Robert Mitchum, and movie distributors all over the world? It would have pleased me greatly if they had stayed on the landing craft until next week, no matter how many times the fearless Mitchum jumped into the surf.

Everyone knows that movie stars are braver than ordinary men. Errol Flynn proved that by taking Burma seven times during the last war, and he wasn't the only actor who showed an admirable disregard for danger.

Being an infantryman is tough enough without having to play at being a combat soldier on one's day off. The daily routine, even in peacetime, is quite sufficient to keep a man exercised. To be hauled around and told to charge, form and reform for a director is asking a bit too much.

But if the Pentagon's policy calls for lending soldiers, then the Pentagon should see that the boys get paid for their work. A laborer is worthy of his hire, even if he is only a private in the army.

A sense of fulfillment, then he will alter his course of action accordingly.

This is what we mean by human action. It is the sum total of millions of varying, divergent, convergent, independent actions taken by millions of individualistic, self-motivated creatures, called men.

And each and every one of the actions taken is taken on the basis of "I'd rather." Every action taken is at once a rejection of every other possible action that was not taken.

What will you do today? Will you work? Or wash the car? Or go for a picnic? Or read a book? Or call a friend? Or go to the dentist? Or buy a magazine? Or write a letter? Or stay in bed? You will choose. You will make constant choices. You will change your mind a thousand times, even in the midst of previously determined actions.

These constant choices, made always on the basis of "I'd rather," is that we mean by economics. For every action of man taken in an effort to satisfy his "I'd rather" choices, is an action in which the man SEEKS PROFIT. Man, above all other things, is a PROFIT SEEKER.

Allen - Scott Report:

Government to Help Fall-out Shelter Builders With Mortgage Insurance; Advisors Urge Drive

WASHINGTON — If you are thinking of building a fallout shelter, Uncle Sam is ready to help you financially.

You can get a government-insured loan for that purpose.

The Federal Housing Administration is prepared to insure mortgages for fallout shelters for both new and old houses — provided the shelters meet official standards.

FHA is drafting a new set of such specifications. Pending their completion, the standards formulated by the Office of Civil Defense are being used for loan guarantee purposes.

Regular FHA interest rates will apply to shelter loans.

No limit has been set on such insured mortgages. However, they must be "reasonable," that is, proportionate to the value of the house. For example, FHA will not approve a $5,000 shelter loan for a $18,000 house.

Some White House advisers favor a special drive to stimulate shelter building.

They are urging a speech by President Kennedy on the matter.

The subject has been discussed at several cabinet meetings, but the President is still considering it. He is apparently cool to the address idea; has indicated he favors a special message to Congress when it reconvenes in January.

Whether he does that or not, he definitely plans to include fallout shelters in his State of the Union message.

EXTRAORDINARY SCHEME — A high official of the Kennedy Administration is seriously proposing putting the Strategic Air Command under NATO, with full authority over it in the hands of the United Nations.

That's the startling plan advocated by Defense Undersecretary Paul Nitze at a recent national strategy seminar in California.

The former New York banker and director of the State Department's Policy Planning Staff in the Truman Administration is now in charge of international affairs for the Pentagon. In this key position, he wields much influence in military, State Department and White House councils.

There is every indication the Senate probers, headed by Senator John Stennis, D. Miss., will question Nitze about his unusual views.

His exceptional nature is graphically shown by the following highlights from the transcript of his talk:

"I propose that we multi-lateralize the command of our retaliatory systems by making SAC a NATO command. We inform the United Nations that NATO will turn over ultimate power of decision on the use of these systems to the General Assembly of the United Nations subject to the following conditions:

"(1) That we and our allies will assume continuing responsibility for manning, maintaining and improving these systems, (2) That UN inspectors would be invited to inspect and satisfy themselves that these are the only nuclear systems we are maintaining, (3) That a UN order to use them will be honored only in the event some nation has initiated the use of nuclear weapons, other than over its own territory in self-defense against military aggression.

"As part of the plan, the Soviet Union would be invited to take reciprocal action. In particular, it would be hoped that the USSR would give convincing demonstration that it, too, was prepared to restrict its preparations to a deterrent nuclear counterforce.

"It would be made clear that we and our NATO allies reserve the unilateral right to modify or terminate the plan New technology developments or evidence that the USSR was continuing to strive for an overwhelming nuclear capability might well cause us to judge some new approach more conducive to the world's and our security."

In Nitze's talk, he also advocated developing what he called "purely retaliatory systems," as follows:

"We should concentrate on building a variety of secure, purely retaliatory systems, preferably those exploiting mobility and concealment (example: the intercontinental ballistic Minuteman missile), and located away from population centers. These retaliatory systems should be in the air, under the sea and in the deserts.

"When we have such a mix of relatively secure systems, we will be able to scrap the fixed base (Atlas and Titan) vulnerable systems."

(matter of fact) The sloth lives a topsyturvy life, and he likes it that way. In fact, he's so used to hanging upside down by his toes from the branch of a tree, he's helpless as a baby when set right side up. He may wobble a few paces—then his legs give way and he collapses into an undignified sprawl.

The American Way

By DR. ROBERT MORRIS
THE CONGO CONFIRMS
BANG-JENSEN'S CASE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Robert Morris, President of the University of Dallas, was formerly chief counsel of the Senate's Subcommittee on Internal Security.)

Povl Bang-Jensen and some potential Soviet defectors tried desperately to tell us from November, 1956, until June of 1957 that the Secretariat of the United Nations was under the control of the Soviets. They also tried to tell us that our own foreign intelligence was infiltrated by the Soviet Secret Police. But, as we now know from the Report of the United States Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, released recently, their warnings went unheeded.

When I learned this story in 1958, it was no surprise to me. Even the identity of the Americans involved in the story was no surprise because they had been put in their positions by Alger Hiss, the first Secretary-General of the U.N. Of course, they are still in their important positions of power, more and more controlling our destiny.

When the Senate Committee on Internal Security held its hearings on Communist penetration of the Secretariat in 1952 and 1953, I was its Counsel. In a short period of time we turned up literally massive Soviet penetration of the American representation in the Secretariat.

Heads of important divisions and sections and other high ranking and highly paid officials of the United Nations Secretariat were rather conclusively shown to be implicated in the American Communist movement. Most of those involved could not answer the evidence and invoked their privilege under the fifth amendment of the Constitution.

Trygve Lie, the Secretary-General at the time, dismissed many of these. Some, however, succeeded in having their dismissals reversed. Jack Harris, of the Trusteeship Division, for instance, who had extensively invoked his constitutional privilege, when asked about his Communist record, received a $40,000 indemnity from the Administrative Tribunal of the U.N.

We also learned at that time that there was no resistance whatever to Communist infiltration at the UN as there were virtually no security checks or security system. The record is indisputable on this.

When the UN Command began to make military moves in Africa, naturally I was apprehensive. Some of the same individuals involved in the 1953 hearings and in the Bang-Jensen Case in 1958 were influential in the operations. A few other security cases like Gustavo Duran of the Spanish Revolution, now an American citizen, were added to the cast of characters.

Then the UN acted in the Congo. It worked day and night, for 15 months, to restore Lumumba's parliament that the Congolese had overthrown after Lumumba's Communist rampage in June of 1960. They succeeded on August 2, 1961, when on the campus of the University of Louvain of the Congo, the Parliament was reconstituted. To the surprise of no one it was learned that Gizenga controlled the Parliament. Most of the important ministers appointed have included Gizenga and his lieutenants. It was no surprise, for that is obviously what these people in the UN had been working for.

Then came the UN declaration of war on Tshombe and Katanga. The reason for this martial act on the part of a force that was supposed to bring, not war, but peace, was that it was trying to prevent a secession by Tshombe from the Central Congolese government that he had never joined. Tshombe gave his reason early in 1960 for not subordinating himself to Lumumba's authority. Lumumba was a Communist and he, Tshombe, wanted no part of Communism. Tshombe's position should be supported for we are living in an age when self-determination and freedom are supposed to be the order of the day.

Recently we saw Syria actually secede from the U.A.R. and no one gave any serious thought that the UN would move in and prevent that secession.

The Czech Communists want the mines and the treasures of Katanga and the UN military might is being employed, so that this goal is now in sight.

Below the Congo is Angola, where the UN is helping the Czech terrorists who are invading that Portuguese province from the north. This is part of the same pattern of Communist conquest.

My conclusion is very different from the conclusion of many wonderful writers and editors who are concluding that what we and the UN are doing in the Congo and in Angola does not make sense. These people are doing what I expected them to do. The Congo and Angola are proving the

Tale Of 'Foggy Bottom' And A Wave Of Wild Rumors

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — U. S. State Department's budget troubles have started waves of wild rumors chasing down the corridors of the enlarged and fancied-up foreign affairs palace in Foggy Bottom.

Latest one which Deputy Undersecretary of State for Administration Roger W. Jones is trying to mop up is that all State Department employees in Washington will have to contribute two weeks work without pay, so that operations can be kept within funds appropriated by Congress.

Not a word of truth in it, says Jones. He was an assistant director of the Budget Bureau under President Truman and chairman of the Civil Service Commission under President Eisenhower. So he knows what's what in government finances and personnel management.

Following postponement of Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles' scheduled conference with American ambassadors in the Far East and Assistant Secretary G. Mennen Williams' third trip to Africa this year, other similar rumors spread.

They were to the effect that the Kennedy administration had overspent on travel — including the trip of Secretary of State Dean Rusk with three other cabinet members to Japan and Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's Latin American trip — that President Kennedy had ordered Bowles and Williams to stay home.

Nothing to these reports either, says Jones.

The Bowles missions to regional conferences of United States ambassadors were fully budgeted for at the beginning of the year. Five of these conferences have already been held for North and South Africa, South Asia, Central and South America. Others for the Far East and Europe will be held in due course.

What seems to have happened in this case is that the detractors of Bowles, thinking that he ought to stay home and tend the store, started criticizing his travel as costing too much. Cocktail circuit gossip took it from there.

It was foreseen at the beginning of the new administration that the assistant secretary of state for African affairs would have to do considerable traveling to the new nations to establish good relations. It was fully budgeted for. Williams is still scheduled to go again.

Expenses for all this top-level travel were budgeted for in terms of several hundred thousand dollars. But the State Department's shortage of funds this year is in millions.

Congress didn't appropriate State Department money until two days before adjournment at the end of September. The fiscal year was then three months gone. Spending had gone on under the assumption Congress would approve funds for programs already under way.

The State Department had asked $212 million. Congress appropriated $205 million.

But due to the increased cost of everything overseas, filling new diplomatic posts and the ation of a new Operations Center after the Cuban fiasco, the fund deficit comes to $9 million.

Overseas operations couldn't be stopped. So an effort was made to spread the cuts across domestic operations. A list of useful services that might be curtailed was made. The State Department's library, security office and even its car pool were put on this list. The work leaked out and streams went up that all — and others — would be abolished.

What's actually going to happen is that about 500 out of 7,200 jobs in Washington will be affected. Attention will be paid to the congressional feeling that a lot of the water in State Department payrolls should be wrung out.

But the Department won't stop hiring stenographers, foreign service officer recruits and specialists, which are always in short supply.

The case is presented here as an example of the way rumors spread — like a fire in fallen leaves of a dry autumn — when one of these big government agencies takes a major budget cut and a "RIF," or reduction in force, is ordered.

Cost Plus Work Shunned By Top U.S. Contractor

STANTON, Calif. (UPI)—Paul Hardeman is a relatively rare combination of the old and the new in the world of high finance. As the nation's leading missile base builder, he's a product of the space age. But he believes in some things that nowadays often are considered old-fashioned—like hard work and direct action. A big, rugged former football tackle who was educated as a mechanical and petroleum engineer at the University of Southern California, Hardeman has surrounded himself with a vigorous corps of young executives operating an $80 million a year business. The average age of the executives is 37. At 46, he's the grand-daddy.

Less than 10 years ago, Paul Hardeman, Inc., was a $3 million business, confined largely to residential and commercial construction. The sharp increase in dollar volume stems, of course, from participation in missile and space launching facility contracts, but also is attributable in large part to the tireless activities of Hardeman, the president and board chairman.

Last year, Hardeman did $50 million in business with the U.S. government. But the company does not confine itself to government work in the United States. It has contracts for three parts of the Pan American Highway in Argentina, a petro-chemical plant in Japan, a hydroelectric plant in El Salvador, and a hydroelectric plant in Arkansas. Hardeman is strenuously against frills and feather-bedding in government contracts. He would prefer to gamble on a lump sum basis (with possibly greater profits) rather than work on a cost plus fixed-fee basis. "Cost plus work tends to soften your organization," he said. "You're guaranteed the return of your cost, plus profit, and it takes the competitive incentive out of your work."

He testified before a House of Representatives subcommittee on military construction early this year and expressed his philosophy this way: "The history of the construction business has been that the man who can get there the earliest and the fastest and get done the quickest is the one who will make the money."

Since the Navaho program of 1953 at Cape Canaveral, Hardeman, Inc., has participated in every major missile contract in the United States. Currently it is engaged in construction at 186 missile launching silos at 19 bases.

"We don't sublet contracts," he said. "That's the big difference between us and other contractors. Our main interest is in rough and unusual jobs that no one else wants to do."

Cadillac

A matter of minutes confirmed its fame!

He had heard and read a great deal about this 1962 Cadillac over the past several months.

And frankly, he wondered if any motor car could live up to the compliments that have come the way of this new "car of cars".

Well, he has just spent thirty minutes at the wheel—and the evidence is unmistakable.

Exhibit A: the way it looks. Inside and out, Cadillac styling has an undeniable sense of "rightness" about it. And its colors and fabrics are all master touches of elegance and luxury.

Exhibit B: the way it rides and handles. Boulevard or back trail, this one takes the road with incredible ease. Steering is little more than a gesture... and the car's ride is so level and smooth and quiet that it seems almost to float over the highway.

Exhibit C: the way it's built. The car is crafted to the most meticulous standards that can be placed over the manufacture of an automobile—and more than 1400 inspections now guard the production of every model. Here is quality that can be seen, and felt and sensed.

The verdict, of course, is indisputable. This is the zenith of sixty years of fine-car design and engineering. This is a Cadillac among Cadillacs.

We suggest, however, that you visit your dealer's showroom soon and act as your own jury. He'll be happy to present the case for Cadillac at any time.
