Another 10,000 Troops Ordered Sent To Europe To Bolster Allied Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department has ordered another 10,000 troops to Europe, bringing to 50,000 the number of men to be sent overseas to back America's position in Berlin.

Within little more than a month from now, all 50,000—plus hundreds of thousands of tons of equipment—should be in Europe.

The big movement began on Wednesday with the arrival of the first 500 troops at Cherbourg, France.

Property Owners Are Being Sent Tax Statements

Nearly 9,000 tax statements were scheduled to go into the mail today and tomorrow to Pampa property owners, it was announced today by W. A. Wagoner, chief deputy tax collector for the city.

Although city tax valuations are up some $2,300,000 over a year ago, tax bills to most taxpayers will be a little less because the city tax rate is down 5 cents from $1.50 to $1.45 per $100 valuation, Wagoner said.

The tax statements go to every property owner in the city, Wagoner stated. Each will show the real and personal property valuation for the individual taxpayer and the amount of the tax.

Wagoner said he would like to call taxpayers attention to the fact that if a loan company pays the taxes, the property owner should keep the tax statement for his own personal records.

It was pointed out there are no discounts on city taxes, but there is a plan for split payments.

If a taxpayer wishes to take advantage of the split payments, the first half tax should be paid by Dec. 31, 1961 and the second half by May 31, 1962.

City taxes are payable at the tax collector's office in City Hall. There are three taxing districts in Gray County. County taxes are paid at the county tax collector's office in the Courthouse and Pampa Independent School District taxes are paid at the school business manager's office in Pampa Junior High School.

Only city taxes are paid at City Hall, Wagoner stated.

"We want to make this clear," he said, "because in the past there has been some confusion as to where city, county and school taxes are paid."

Wagoner also stated that if a taxpayer desires to pay the entire tax at one time instead of using the split payment plan, the deadline for payment is Jan. 31, 1962.

The tax statements going into the mail are based on a 1961 valuation of city property totaling $43,759,860, compared to the 1960 valuation of $41,408,460.

Pampa's total tax valuation has nearly doubled in the last six years. Total city valuation in 1955 was $22,748,160.

Wagoner said if a property owner does not receive a tax statement it probably will be because the tax department does not have the correct address. Any property owner not receiving a tax statement by next week is asked to contact the tax office.

This Was Not What Culprit Was Wanted

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A federal judge punished a defendant by throwing down-and-outer by day by keeping him out of his home with a nurse and his Vernon Clifton Robinson, charged with destroying government property, said he would brick through a federal window because he was jobless and wanted to go to a federal penitentiary.

U. S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright freed Robinson but in a gesture of poetic justice, put Robinson on three years' federal probation.

The window of the federal probation office, where Robinson must report regularly for three years, is the window the brick went through.

Kennedy Sees 'No Immediate Hope' Of Ending Vexing Berlin Problem

JFK Appears Heavily Troubled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has given the nation a sober assessment of the international tension which leaves little room for optimism.

His news conference "image" Wednesday was that of a heavily burdened and greatly troubled man hoping to avert the horrors of nuclear war but unable to offer any assurance that he would be able to do so.

From the jungles of South Vietnam to the bristling barrier between East and West Berlin he was unable to report any lessening of the peril.

He told the American public that even if peaceful solutions some day are found, the way through this "period of maximum hazard" is bound to be long, the price high and the perils great.

The President's greatest concern apparently still is that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, despite repeated White House warnings, may doubt the firm determination of the United States to fight if necessary to defend the freedom of West Berlin.

On the specifics of the massive East-West "collision" on all fronts, the President reported:

—The talks he and Secretary of State Dean Rusk had with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko offered no "immediate hope" for settling the Berlin crisis at an early date. He found no "substantial changes" since Khrushchev at their Vienna meeting demanded the Western powers quit Berlin and permit it to become a defenseless "free city" surrounded by Red territory.

—In South Viet Nam there has been a "large increase" in Communist forces seeking to overthrow the pro-Western government. There is "evidence" that foreign Communists have entered the fight. The situation is so serious he is sending Gen. Maxwell Taylor to Saigon to see how the United States can "better assist" the government to save its territory.

The stark impact of the President's gloomy report was heightened by the absence of any sabre-rattling or nuclear threats. He listed the new defense measures he is taking only when asked specifically to comment on charges that he had neglected some phases of military preparation.

President Says Maximum Perils Confront World

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has no "immediate hope" of settling the Berlin crisis. He has warned that this is "the most dangerous time in the history of the human race."

Kennedy said Wednesday he hoped there would not be war, but that it would take skill, nerve and sacrifice to move through "a period of maximum hazard."

Such was the President's slow, thoughtful and grave evaluation of East-West tension reflected in Berlin and Southeast Asia as he discussed world affairs at his news conference.

Close to 400 reporters crowded the State Department Auditorium for the Chief Executive's first question-and-answer session in six weeks. The conference was carried "live" to the nation by all major radio and television networks.

By subject, the President made these points:

Berlin: No solution is yet in sight. His talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko "did not give us immediate hope" that differences with Russia over Berlin would be easily settled.

Southeast Asia: Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, his special military adviser, leaves Sunday for South Viet Nam to study how the United States can better assist the Vietnamese government in resisting Communist threats.

Fallout Shelters: By mid-November, the government will be ready with plans whereby every homeowner can give his family minimal protection against radioactive fallout in event of enemy attack. Kennedy said such protection was necessary because "we are going to live through a long period of constant tension with these dangerous (thermonuclear) weapons which will be proliferated."

Taxes: Because of heavy military expenditures, prospects of a tax cut next year have vanished. Kennedy said he still wanted a balanced budget next year but did not promise one. As for possibly higher taxes, this will depend on how "excessive and substantial" military costs become.

Nuclear Tests: The Russians have fired "more than 20" atmospheric explosions in their current test series. Until the President spoke, this government had announced the detection of only 19 Soviet tests. The White House said later it was true that the government had not announced all of the Russian tests it had detected. This was done to protect the security of the U.S. detection system.

Moon Show: While a major effort already has started, he will continue to be dissatisfied with the U.S. moon shot program until we have a man on the moon.

GOP Criticism: He was unmoved by Republican criticism of his foreign policy except to say constructive suggestions were welcome, but he doubted the wisdom of generalized negation.

Rayburn: He quickly rejected a suggestion that he discuss a possible successor to Speaker Sam Rayburn, critically ill with cancer. Kennedy said the House has a speaker and that when it elected one again, it would be unwise for anyone outside the House to express a preference.

Five Perryton Officeholders Abandon Demos

PERRYTON (UPI)—Five Perryton officeholders, charging the Democratic party has "forfeited all claims to the loyalty of conservatives," announced Wednesday they are switching allegiance from the Democratic party to join the Republican ranks.

School board members Gordon Shackelford and Dr. Roy K. Sanford, and city councilmen Charles F. Taylor and Walter LaMaster said they were defecting to the Republican party to "stem the tide of socialism."

At the same time, a Young Republican Club was organized in Perryton. H. C. Brillheart Jr. was elected chairman of the local group.

X15 Plane Zooms Upwards 40 Miles

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—Maj. Robert White who set a new X15 altitude record with a heart-thumping ride to 40 miles above earth, today began preparing for an assault on the speed record within perhaps the next two weeks.

White, whose heart and respiration rates doubled at times, nosed the stubby-winged rocket plane to 215,000 feet Wednesday in one of the smoothest, most successful tests yet.

Although everything went well for the 37-year-old Air Force officer, his pulse rate, normally 70-80 a minute, jumped to perhaps as high as 170 beats a minute. His respiration rate showed a similar increase as he streaked back into the atmosphere.

At the top of his climb, White was above 99.9 per cent of the earth's atmosphere. He broke civilian test pilot Joe Walker's March 10 record of 169,600 feet by about 8 1/2 miles.

The X15 is supposed to go higher yet, and faster, too. It is designed to fly at least 4,000 miles per hour at altitudes of 50 and 100 miles.

Martial Law Proclaimed In Columbia

BOGATA (UPI)—President Alberto Lleras Camargo clamped martial law on Colombia Wednesday night in hopes of putting a stop to attempts at subversion such as Wednesday's short-lived "lieutenants' revolt."

The decree establishing the national emergency said recent disorders at various points in Colombia had in some cases amounted to virtuous "open rebellion" against the government.

Speaker Rayburn Recovers From Lapse Into Coma

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn, 79, dying of cancer, was making a "miraculous" recovery today from pneumonia which put him in a coma only 24 hours ago.

John Holton, Rayburn's administrative assistant, jubilantly described Rayburn's improvement as miraculous. A bulletin issued by Rayburn's doctors at 9 a. m. said:

"Mr. Rayburn is out of coma. He is definitely improved and the major change occurred this morning. He looks and appears stronger this morning and recognizes his family and associates. His temperature is normal. His pulse, blood pressure and respiration have remained unchanged since the change for the better."

Rayburn's basic ailment—the cancer which has spread through at least half his body—remains the same. There is no hope.

Doctors hoped that by giving Rayburn an experimental cancer remission drug they might slow the progress of the malignancy enough to allow him to return to his Bonham, Tex., home to spend his last days.

They had given him three doses of the special drug when the pneumonia struck Wednesday. They had to stop the drug and fight the pneumonia.

His temperature went up to 103 degrees. He was in coma. But with the help of a breathing machine, oxygen and antibiotic drugs, "Mr. Sam" began to recover.

C-C Banquet Notices Sent To Members

Notices went out Wednesday to Chamber of Commerce members urging them to make early reservations for the annual C. of C. membership banquet to be held in Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, Oct. 26.

Reservations at $2.75 per person are being taken at the Chamber of Commerce office in City Hall. Only 400 persons can be accommodated in the cafeteria.

The banquet speaker will be William J. Bird, vice president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., San Francisco.

New officers of the chamber will be installed at a dinner for directors and their wives in Coronado Inn next Monday night. Installing officer will be Faris Odien, Amarillo, former Pampa resident.

The new officers to be installed are Gordon Lyons, president; Lucian Young, vice president, and Aubrey Steele, finance director.

Loans To Storm Victims Boosted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has taken steps to provide extra home loan money for communities damaged last month by Hurricane Carla.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board Wednesday authorized the Little Rock Federal Home Loan Bank to double the amount of credit that savings associations in the storm-damaged area may borrow from it.

GOES HOME — Mrs. Alexei Golub, a Russian tourist whose husband defected to the West, is escorted to a plane at Schiphol Airport in Amsterdam, Holland, by Soviet Ambassador P. K. Ponomarenko. Earlier, Ponomarenko was punched in the nose by a Dutch policeman when the envoy and nine other Russians stormed an airport police station to seize Mrs. Golub. After hours of debate, Mrs. Golub decided to return to Moscow. Her husband remained in Holland.

Natural Gas Reserves Short, FPC Is Told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Natural gas industry spokesmen say there is only enough natural gas on tap in the United States to last 10 to 13 years at present consumer demand levels and rates will have to be "more attractive" if new fields are to be discovered and developed.

This assertion was given in testimony before the Federal Power Commission (FPC) Wednesday during an open hearing on a FPC proposal to substitute uniform, area-wide rates for gas producers instead of conducting lengthy rate hearings for each producer.

More than 60 producers operating in Southwest Texas and Southeast New Mexico joined in presenting testimony and evidence in sending testimony an evidence in the first of a series of area rate cases. They extract gas from a formation known as the Permian Basin.

Ira H. Cram, vice president of Continental Oil Co., said the average 1960 wellhead price of natural gas throughout the country was 14 cents per thousand cubic feet. He calculated the industry would need a price increase to about 20 cents per MCF in the 1961-65 period, and to about 25 cents per MCF between 1961 and 1970 in order to maintain supplies.

The FPC, as a guideline, suggested a ceiling rate of 18 cents for production on new contracts and 11 cents for old production. Industry spokesmen took into consideration the trend to higher costs of finding new supplies, as well as increased consumer needs.

Stanley Learned, chairman of the executive committee of Phillips Petroleum Co., testified that the price paid gas producers comprised only 15 per cent of the consumer's price on a national level.

He said if the industry was expected to find supplies adequate to meet increased demand, the price would have to be more attractive.

Fourteen witnesses submitted written testimony detailing the economics of the natural gas producing business. Central theme of all was that with new gas fields harder to find and drilling costs rising, higher rates would have to be provided to assure adequate supplies.

Seymour Wanner, the examiner assigned to hear the Permian Basin case, acknowledged the FPC would be opposed to an area rate. But he told representatives of several big consuming states supplied by the Basin—"notably Wisconsin and California"—he hoped their testimony would be "affirmative and positive."

He said the commission needed suggestions as to how to make the area rate work—not reasons why it would not work.

Presentation of consumer and distributing company cases will take place later this year. Wanner could not estimate how long the case may last.

Ford Contract Up To Workers

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers Union's 180-member National Ford Council today is expected to approve the new three-year national contract agreed to Wednesday night by the union and Ford Motor Co.

The agreement was reached when the UAW and Ford agreed on the two national issues—production standards and union representation. Money matters were not at stake.

The executive board also decided to ask for a new vote by local 72 at the American Motors plant in Kenosha, Wis., on ratification of the profit-sharing AMC agreement. It set no date for the vote.

The approval of the Ford pact does not necessarily mean the end of the nine-day-old strike which had idled 85 Ford plants and put 120,000 production workers "on the bricks."

Jury Unobtained, Court Switches Trial Of Slayer

BIG SPRING, Tex. (UPI)—The scene of the murder trial of John Edwin Myers, 32, who has admitted killing four persons in a cross-country crime spree with a 13-year-old girl friend, has been switched to Rusk, Tex.

Dist. Judge Ralph Caton ordered a change of venue from Big Spring Wednesday after efforts to select a jury in his court failed. Not a single juror was selected after three days of trying. A special venire of 75 persons had been called.

No date for the trial at Rusk was set.

Four Amarillo Men Reported Dead In Crash

LAS VEGAS, N.M. (UPI)—Four men were killed Wednesday when their light plane crashed 20 miles southwest of Las Vegas.

Police said all four were believed to be from Amarillo, Tex.

Dutch Allee of Amarillo, co-owner of the plane—a Piper Caribbean—said today J. J. Smith, Dr. Walter Patton, Jack Newbury, and Bob Bildersback, all of Amarillo, were aboard the plane Wednesday when it left Amarillo.

Capt. A. P. Winston, district captain of the state police, said the bodies of the men were burned beyond recognition. He said the men would have to be identified by dental work and other means.

Bill Melton, a rancher, saw the crash. He said the plane started spinning, flattened out, and started spinning again before it crashed. He said the plane then burst into flames.

Winston said the plane was identified as the one that left Amarillo by the identification number on the ignition key bar.

Rites Scheduled For Chico Marx

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—The Marx brothers, who gave so much laughter to the world, went away over the death of brother Chico, a heart attack victim Wednesday at the age of 70.

Chico, the wild piano-playing dialect member of the comedy trio, died in his Beverly Hills home with a nurse and his wife, Mary, beside him.

He had been ill since last May, when he suffered a heart attack which was treated with surgery. He had been in a hospital for several days before he passed away.

He was buried in Forest Lawn, Los Angeles, Wednesday.

Irked Wyoming Governor May Quit Oil Group

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)—The state of Wyoming may secede from the interstate oil compact commission.

Gov. Jack Cagle said Wednesday he might take this action, if the commission's executive committee, of which Gov. Price Daniel of Texas is chairman, forces a proposed oil marketing and production study.

The study, which would exclude natural gas, has been approved by the committee.

"It becomes glaringly apparent that their study can come up but with one answer, and that would be to the detriment of Wyoming," Cagle said.

Funeral services will be held Friday morning in the Church of the Wee Kirk O' the Heather at Forest Lawn.

East And West Germans Retain Trade Relations

By PHIL NEWSOM

SCHIRNDING, on West German - Czech Frontier—At this check point on the Czechoslovakian border, a big Mercedes truck from Communist Bulgaria has pulled to the side of the road.

Its driver, a dark-haired man of medium height in baggy blue denim work clothing, swings out of the cab and enters the West German border police station.

He signs the papers permitting him to continue on into West Germany and before nightfall will have driven another 200 miles to deliver his load of Bulgarian fresh vegetables for West German tables.

Naturally, he is a trusted Communist or he never would be permitted by the Bulgarian rulers to emerge from behind the Iron Curtain. He also is over 35 because it is a Communist belief that these men are less impressionable than younger ones.

The Bulgarian truckload of vegetables is an example of the fairly limited but steady commercial contacts that continue to exist between the West German republic and the Iron Curtain countries beyond.

Perhaps between three and four thousand travelers per month cross this check-point which is one of two such highway crossings between West Germany and Czechoslovakia. Most of them are business men.

Through this little town also pass eight freight trains per day, going each way.

U.S. Firms Face Tougher Business Relations Abroad

NEW YORK (UPI) Britain's announcement of its long-expected application for membership in the six-nation European common market gave emphasis today to a recent recommendation that United States businesses overseas be prepared to look their best in the eyes of the world.

That the growing business activity in Europe means increased competition for U. S. firms abroad seems to be a pretty well established premise in the thinking of American economists, financiers and businessmen, and the National Foreign Trade Council, as its name would imply, is naturally interested in the success of U. S. ventures abroad.

The council is a private non-profit organization for the promotion and protection of international trade and investments. It was founded in 1914.

Much of the NFTC's concern in the year of its founding and later was with the effort of U. S. firms to find customers and supply sources abroad for production facilities here. Now, the common market's achievements have brought a change in the direction of interest from this country.

Increasingly, businesses in this country are taking a hard look at their overseas prospects, investment in overseas firms and establishment of foreign subsidiaries.

The NFTC's board of directors at its September meeting suggested that a program of international community relations should be attempted by what it called the "American-owned global companies, maintaining corporate citizenship in many countries."

Russia's Dutch Emissary Flies Back To Moscow

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Soviet Ambassador P. K. Ponomarenko flew back today to Moscow where he may face some embarrassing questions about a Russian scientist who defected to the West here this week.

Ponomarenko, who was punched in the nose by a Dutch policeman in an airport fracas over custody of the wife of defector Alexei Golub, left unexpectedly aboard a Moscow-bound airliner.

"I will discuss the Golub case in Moscow, but I expect to be back here in two weeks' time," Ponomarenko told newsmen as he boarded the plane.

The Soviet embassy at The Hague had said that Ponomarenko was going home to attend the Communist congress next week. But he left amid increasing speculation that the defector, a 35-year-old biochemist, may have "snaked high" in Soviet science.

Golub today was still waiting for the Dutch government to decide on his plea for political asylum. His wife flew tearfully back to Russia Monday night after the airport tug-of-war between Dutch police and Soviet embassy officials led by the ambassador.

Ponomarenko appeared grim as he marched to board his plane.

Asked whether this was his goodby to The Netherlands, he said: "Your question is tactless—I cannot answer provocative questions."

Dutch government sources predicted an announcement declaring Ponomarenko "persona non grata" might be issued within the next 24 hours.

Independent Oil Leader Charges Price Chiseling

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Wednesday accused a few purchasers of chiseling on prices at the expense of the nation's security.

James F. West, president of the Texas independent oil group, said recent price cuts on crude oil seem to us wholly unnecessary and unwarranted.

He said "a few companies appear to be chiseling on prices as a means of gaining temporary competitive advantage, or overcoming what they believe is a competitive disadvantage in their (oil) import quotas."

West praised other companies such as Humble Oil Corp. and Continental Oil Co. for holding the line on price cuts and Indiana Standard which raised some prices instead of cutting them.

"We strongly urge responsible purchasing companies to resist this new round of cuts," West said, "and where possible take up the connections of those companies which are attempting to chisel at the expense of the domestic producing industry and the economy and security of the nation."

Drivers Warned Not To Run New Traffic Signals

Police today called attention of motorists to new traffic lights installed within the past few days at Francis and West Sts. and at 23rd and Wells Sts.

"We have had complaints," Police Chief Jim Conner said, "that quite a few motorists have been running the lights, especially the one at Francis and West streets."

The chief added that motorists now have had sufficient time to acquaint themselves with the fact that the lights are there.

"If the practice of running the lights isn't stopped at once," the chief said, "we are going to issue court citations for the violations."

Cold Air Mass Moving Toward State Vanishes

By United Press International

A mass of Canadian cold air expected to bring cold weekend weather to Texas faded fast in the Panhandle today.

The warm temperatures and humidity that have gripped the state the last few days were expected to continue.

The warm, moist air from the Gulf and the Atlantic Coast not only brought continued humidity but dense fog in almost every part of Texas.

Temperatures overnight dipped to 37 degrees at Dalhart and 74 at Galveston and Corpus Christi. Wednesday's high was 94 at Presidio.

Fallout Debris Found In Milk In Six States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia's nuclear tests have put radioactive iodine into milk in six southeastern states, the U.S. Public Health Service (PHS) said today.

U.S. Surgeon General Luther L. Terry said that radioactive iodine found in milk from Louisiana, Georgia, South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida and Missouri is probably indicative of the degree of such contamination in the eastern part of the country.

Terry said that the government is "keeping close watch over the situation." He added that present levels of radioactivity do not warrant "undue public concern nor... public action designed to limit the intake" of milk.

The PHAS has reported increases in atmospheric radioactivity over most of the United States since the Russians began their tests. Today's report was the first involving radioactivity in fresh food supplies.

"Data from the PHS sampling stations in the six states is probably indicative of environmental contamination with radioactive debris of fallout throughout the eastern half of the country," Terry said.

He explained that first tests were conducted for iodine because it retains radioactivity for only a few weeks but is a good indicator of the extent of fallout contamination within the first days and weeks following a nuclear explosion.

He said PHS and the Food and

Jesse Crawford Rites Saturday

Funeral services for Jesse L. Crawford of Dumas, former Pampa resident, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church in Dumas.

Mr. Crawford, an oilfield driller in the Panhandle since 1930, died at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday after collapsing in his car on Highway 60-66 near the Amarillo Air Terminal.

He was born Mar. 8, 1912, in Erick, Okla., and had been making his home in Dumas after moving from Pampa 10 years ago.

Survivors are his wife, Ludie M. of the home; one son, Glenn Crawford of Dumas; five daughters, Peggy Sue Crawford, Kay Stone, both of Dumas, Mrs. Jackie Porterfield of Pampa, Mrs. Charlotte Randall of Buena Park, Calif., Mrs. Tommy Roberts of Laura Bay, S.C.; his father, Lewis Crawford of Elk City; two brothers, Jimmie Faye of Elk City, John with the United States Army in Germany; two sisters, Mrs. Tom Barker of Pampa, Mrs. Orville Merillatt of Erick, Okla.; and 16 grandchildren.

Burial will be in the Dumas cemetery under the direction of Boxwell Brothers Funeral Home of Amarillo.

Drug Administration are working on a report on the health implications on fallout in air, water and various foods.

C-C Activities Group To Meet

Pampa merchants today were urged to attend a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Merchants Activities Committee at 10 a.m. Friday in the C-C conference room at City Hall.

Lou Troja, committee chairman, said the session had been called to discuss plans for Fall and Christmas trade promotions.

"We want every merchant who can possibly get away to attend this meeting," Troja said.

Exploration Into Mental Problems Mapped By JFK

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy called today for a broad new attack on problems of mental retardation. He said the effort might unlock secrets of life and the human mind.

The President announced he would name a panel of experts to recommend a program of action. He said it would include outstanding physicians, scientists, educators, lawyers, psychologists, social scientists and leaders in the field.

The membership, expected to number about 20, will be announced in a few days.

Kennedy outlined his proposal in a 2000-word statement. He said an intensive effort to solve the problems of the mentally retarded had been too long postponed. Kennedy said there are about five million mentally retarded people in the United States and only about 4 per cent are in institutions.

"Our goal should be to prevent retardation," Kennedy said. "Failing this, we must provide for the retarded the same opportunity for full social development that is the birthright of every American child."

The President emphasized that there is a difference between mental illness and mental retardation, which he described as "a lack of intellectual ability resulting from arrested mental development." He said the causes of mental backwardness "are many and obscure."

"It is now possible to attack the causes and prevention, as well as the treatment of mental retardation," he said. "This will require new breakthroughs, but it will pay enormous dividends in knowledge about ourselves, for the functions of the brain represent an almost completely uncharted frontier.

"The basic research entailed in such an effort will probe the essence of human development, and its results may far exceed its objectives. Exploration and discovery in this field may uncover the secrets of life and man's capacities and the answers to many mysteries of social behavior."

'Sound Of 60's, Television Show Called Tasteful

By FRED DANZIG
NEW YORK (UPI) — Television, having disposed of "The Fabulous 50's" last year and deeply involved with the sounds of the roaring 20's this year, took an hour off Monday night to deal with "The Sound of the 60's."

The full-hour-NBC-TV special, first in the "Westinghouse Presents" series, was calm, tasteful, intelligent and gentle entertainment.

Written and produced by Dore Schary in association with Hubbell Robinson, the special ticked off a few of what the script called, "the lighter sounds of people's relationship to one another."

Art Carney, seen last month in another special that dealt with every-day sounds, was on hand to supply the sounds of leisure. He portrayed a do-it-yourself nut. Although his troubles were telegraphed in advance, Carney's style and attack carried it off.

Another section dealt with communication via the human voice. Different cliches were neatly, warmly expressed with dips into our regional accents. Here, the delicate balance between deft entertainment and hard-sell "message" was upset by a summation delivered by host John Daly. The segment also lacked the provocative sound of dissent.

Andre Previn presided over a sprightly musical portion that led us through singing commercials, classical sections and pop tunes. These last were handled in semi-serious style by singers Vic Damone and Gogi Grant.

Dore Schary gave himself a charming, humorous essay on the problems of the entertainment media and followed into a pitch for satire as a bright hope of TV's future. A troupe that included Pat Harrington Jr., Joyce Jameson and Len Weinrib performed a bit from a New York supper club revue, "Dressed to the Nines," and touched some refreshing, bright-faced comedy chords.

A skit about the executive of the future, 1969 A.D. starred Tony Randall and such equipment as instant intercontinental conference calls on TV, instant meals, instant sleep, instant interior decorating. None of this seemed very far out, either. Here, they effectively sacrificed comedy punch for scientific approximation.

Before all this took place, Schary's script took note in graceful style of "ageless, eternal sounds"—those sounds created by nature—and moved into such technological contributions as satellites, jets, computers and, ominously, the H-bomb.

Demo Fight May Erupt Over House Speakership

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Boston Irishman seems almost certain to step into the second-most powerful post in government—House speaker—unless another Boston Irishman tries to bar his path.

The first Irishman is 69-year-old Rep. John W. McCormack. The second is 44-year-old President John F. Kennedy.

A struggle between these two Democrats—should it occur—would produce a donnybrook.

At stake is the Democratic leadership in the House—a position which will become vacant because Rep. Sam Rayburn, who has held it for 21 years, has been stricken with incurable cancer.

It will be up to House Democrats to elect a successor. No one expects Kennedy to intervene publicly. The issue—on which Kennedy's top advisers sharply disagree—is whether the White House should lend behind the scenes support a challenger to McCormack.

As speaker and leader of the majority party, Payburn's successor would preside over the House. The speaker has far more power in the law-making process than any member of Congress. The position pays $45,000 a year, twice as much as other members get.

McCormack, even his foes concede, has considerable support among Democrats from both the North and South. Even some of his House critics feel McCormack deserves the top post in view of his long service as the Democratic floor leader.

The Massachusetts congressman has held the number two spot since September, 1940, except for periods when the Republicans controlled the House.

'62 CORVAIR MONZA

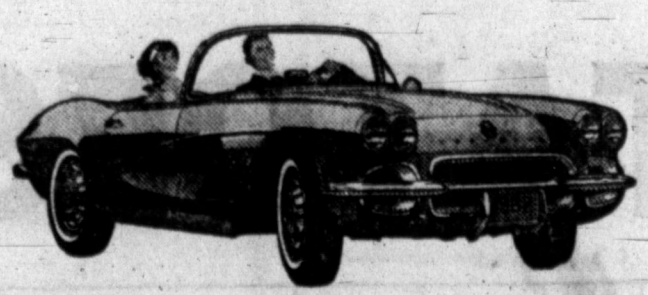

NEW FACE, SAME SPORTING HEART

We might as well tell you straight off: Corvair's the car for the driving enthusiast. Think that lets you out? Maybe. Maybe not.

Until you've driven one, you really can't say for sure, because Corvair's kind of driving is like no other in the land. The amazing air-cooled rear engine sees to that. You swing around curves flat as you please, in complete control. You whip through the sticky spots other cars should keep out of in the first place. (Especially this year, now that you can get Positraction as an extra-cost option.) You stop smoothly, levelly with Corvair's beautifully balanced, bigger brakes.

And Corvair's found other new ways to please you this year. A forced-air heater and defroster are standard equipment on all coupes, sedans and both Monza and 700 Station Wagons. So are dual sunshades and front-door armrests and some other goodies. You'll note some new styling, inside and out. Nice. And safety-belt installation is easier, too, and cheaper. Another extra-cost option well worth considering is the heavy-duty front and rear suspension; it turns a Corvair into a real tiger.

So you can see we haven't really done much to Corvair this year. Why on earth should we? If this car, just as she is, can't make a driving enthusiast out of you, better take a cab.

And here's America's only thoroughbred sports car, the '62 CORVETTE. We warn you: If you drive a Corvette after your first sampling of a Corvair, you may well end up a two-car man. And who could blame you?

Phone Company Plans 'Viewed With Alarm'

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — According to the Wall Street Journal, a copy of which I have just consulted, "Amstel" closed at 119 1/2 on the New York Stock Exchange Monday.

I am not too familiar with market symbols, but I hope this means that the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. is in sound shape financially and thus able to withstand a little bad news.

I say this because I must regretfully report that the telephone company here, which I assume is an ATT affiliate, is in danger of losing a subscriber.

If the company doesn't watch its step, old Jefferson 3-3355, one of its faithful customers these many years, may sever connection and withdraw from the service.

I have first-hand knowledge of the possible rebellion because Jefferson 3-3355 happens to be my number.

It is not that I have had a personal falling out with the phone company or anything like that. Our relations always have been amicable and pleasant, give or take a couple of long distance charges that were mistakenly attached to my bill.

What has me stirred up is the move underway to eliminate lettered telephone exchanges. As I understand it, the phone company is gradually switching over to all numbered numbers to facilitate nationwide direct dialing.

In other words, people accustomed to dialing two letters and five digits will have to start dialing seven digits. The phone company has been pointing to this innovation with pride, but I view it with alarm.

For one thing, human brain, at present stage of development, is incapable of retaining seven figures for the time that elapses between looking up a number and dialing it.

Therefore, the new system is bound to increase the percentage of wrong numbers, which already is growing at a rapid rate, particularly in the hours after midnight.

Further more, many of us will no longer be able to remember our own phone numbers, much less those of friends, neighbors, business associates and bookmak-

ers. In addition to that, many of us have become attached to our exchange names, which give our phones a human quality totally lacking in the cold impersonality of numbers.

In the Virginia suburb where I live, "Jefferson" has a real meaning, providing a link with the past as well as with the gabby party on the other end of the line.

I would hate to be without a telephone, but I'll give warning here and now that if Jefferson 3-3355 ever becomes just plain 5333355, the phone company may find itself minus $8.57 in monthly revenue, less tax.

I'm thinking of hiring an Indian named Jefferson to send smoke signals instead.

Scientists Talk About Bombing Intense Storms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Weathermen may bomb a hurricane with TNT within two or three years, according to Weather Bureau chief Dr. Francis W. Reichelderfer.

He told an audience at the National Press Club this week that scientists looking for a way to kill or at least control the storms think an explosion might do it.

However, he said the Weather Bureau would not use nuclear bombs on hurricanes until it knows far more about possible "side effects."

Reichelderfer said he personally thought cloud seeding might work better than explosions, either TNT or nuclear.

An H-bomb might just intensify a storm, he said, but seeding might weaken a hurricane by draining moisture out of it.

Weather scientists put silver iodide in Hurricane Esther this year. Photographs indicated it rained out part of the storm's eye wall, but the wall quickly reformed, the hurricane stayed on course and its intensity was not affected.

The bureau has held talks with the Atomic Energy Commission about the possibility of trying to kill hurricanes with nuclear explosions. The AEC has said each megaton of power, equal to a million tons of TNT, would cost $1 million.

The bureau won't spend such a sum "until we know what we're doing," Reichelderfer said.

Bank At Zapata Will Open Soon

ZAPATA, Tex. (UPI) — The Bank of Zapata will open within 30 days, J. E. Bravo, vice president of the bank, said today. Officials said they were negotiating for the use of the building formerly used by the privately owned now defunct Bank of Zapata.

Cecil E. Burney, Corpus Christi attorney, has been elected president of the new bank, which will have a capital of $300,000.

Depositors in the bank will be assured, through a statement of policy, that their money will be safe, Burney said. Deposits will be insured and the bank will be a member of the Federal Reserve Bank.

The Treasury Department of the U.S. will supervise the operations, Burney said.

Zapata County has been without a bank since its private Bank of Zapata folded July 18.

Comic Uneasy About His Start In Video World

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Like a terrified kid whistling his way past a cemetery at midnight, Bob Newhart is jumping into the bonfire of comedians—a weekly TV series.

to death.

A smash in nightclubs, on the concert circuit and a runaway success on records, Newhart is somewhat intrepid about his new venture.

"You can't run away from television all your life," he said with all the conviction of a man in the starting blocks awaiting the first bad review.

"Sure I'm nervous. I don't know if I'll be able to make good. But I want to become better known, and TV is the place to do it."

Money isn't Bob's reason for tackling video.

He earns more than $100,000 a year making personal appearances and from the sale of his albums, "The Button Down Mind" and "The Button Down, Mind Strikes Back." Later this year another record, "Behind the Button Down Mind," will hit the market.

"My sponsor is gambling $3 million on the premise that viewers aren't limited to those with 12-year-old minds," he added.

"We can't afford to sell ourselves out to what other people think is funny. We hope to be able to come up with things that we think are funny and let the viewers judge for themselves."

Good Health Begins With Good Breakfast

The old saying, "A good start is half the race" is sound advice for good health. A good breakfast is a good beginning. But, it's too often the most neglected meal of the day.

A well-balanced breakfast helps you do more work, think and act more quickly. Industry studies show a decrease in output between 11:00 and 12:00 when workers had no breakfast. Another survey showed that 29 per cent of the teenagers ate no breakfast or one without solid food.

Good breakfasts should be included in a reducing diet, too. Otherwise, you're likely to eat twice as much lunch to compensate or take a high-calorie snack. This is a good time to consider whether your family is getting the nutrients essential in the morning.

What is a good breakfast? It should include at least one food in each of these 4 groups:

- (1) Citrus fruit-or juice
- (2) Meat and-or egg
- (3) Cereal-and-milk and-or toast
- (4) Milk

It's the high protein meat group that prevents that "meal let-down." Meat satisfies hunger and has staying power, says meat expert Reba Staggs.

New Items In Pouch Packaging On Horizon For Consumer Use

Pouches containing soft drinks, cottage cheese, instant coffee and salad dressing are among the newest items on the horizon for consumers, reports the Packaged Convenience Foods Institute.

From Canada comes news of a polyethylene pouch for both non-carbonated and carbonated soft drinks, with a built-in straw as an added feature. Clypsco Food and ly become routine. Of course, bacon and sausage are the popular standbys. However, there are many other meats that are delicious at the morning meal.

You could serve a ham slice, Canadian-style bacon, dried beef, cube or rib steaks, corned beef hash or lamb patties. There are many types of sausage for hearty breakfasts: bulk, link, country-style or ready-to-eat.

New Sauce Adds Exciting Flavor to Burgers

Popular the year round, beefburgers broiled in the kitchen range take on new dimensions with the artificial seasoning of bottled all-purpose barbecue sauce. Season the meat before broiling with this new zesty sauce, and you'll be surprised how much of the "open pit" flavor it lends to burgers. The difference in flavor is in the perfectly seasoned sauce.

Cheese Whamburgers

- 2 tablespoons all-purpose barbecue sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 6 slices of cheese

Stir barbecue sauce and salt into beef. Shape into round patties. Broil on both sides; then top each patty with a slice of cheese and spoon on additional barbecue sauce. Continue broiling until cheese is melted—about 1 minute. Makes about 6 servings.

Homemade Treats For Tricksters

When would-be goblins and ghosts come calling on Halloween on behalf of UNICEF, they deserve a treat. Try these easy to make recipes for instant soft drink punch and candied apples.

Honey Orangeade Punch

- 1 quart water
- 1 quart orange juice
- 1 stick cinnamon
- 1 envelope pineapple-grapefruit Kool-Aid
- 6 to 8 apples
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/2 cup sugar

Combine water, orange juice, and cinnamon stick in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients. Stir well until sugar is dissolved. Remove cinnamon stick. Serve hot or chilled. Makes about 8 1/2 cups, or about 18 servings, 4 ounces each.

Candied Apples

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 1 envelope cherry Kool-Aid
- 6 to 8 apples
- Wooden skewers

Combine sugar, water, and corn syrup in a saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Continue boiling without stirring, until mixture comes to a temperature of 290° F.

Remove from heat and dip pan into cold water to reduce the bubbling. Stir in cherry instant soft drink mix, blending well. Hold pan over boiling water to help prevent syrup from hardening. Spear clean dry apples through the core with skewers. Dip slowly into syrup; turn and lift out. Allow excess syrup to run off. Place dipped apples on greased tray or wax paper and allow to harden (about 20 to 30 minutes). Makes 6 to 8 candied apples.

This Magic Dish Puts Imagination Into Everyday Ingredients Quickly

Every homemaker has those busy days when she wishes the dinner could be prepared like magic. Jiffy Beef and Macaroni Bake isn't quite that simple, but it certainly takes a small amount of time and effort on your part. That's one big advantage of ground beef, says meat expert Reba Staggs.

This dish puts a little imagination into everyday ingredients you probably have on hand. Brown the beef, then combine it with other ingredients in a baking dish. Twenty more minutes and you're ready to serve.

JIFFY BEEF AND MACARONI BAKE

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion

If you don't want to embarrass a 12 or 14-year-old don't say, "My, how you've grown."

Cereal Base For Pizza Adds Delightful Flavor

Pizzas with a yeast bread base are deservedly popular and of course, lend themselves to informal eating out of hand. For a luncheon pizza, for a sit-down service, or buffet lunch, why not try a molded cereal base instead. South of the border they use corn meal cooked, chilled, and cut in attractive shapes, then topped with a savory sauce. For a delicate flavor and delightful texture, try cooked, chilled Cream of Rice, the quick cooking rice cereal. Instead of oven-heating, you can brown the molded Cream of Rice in butter or bacon fat and top with a sauce of your choice — anchovy, Sardine, cheese, mushroom, etc. For the sauce, use tomato soup, tomato sauce or the new tomato soup mix as a base.

PIZZA-STYLE CASSEROLE

- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 cup water

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup Cream of Rice, quick-cooking rice cereal
- 1 tablespoon minced parsley
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 1/4 cup diced onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 cup diced celery
- 1/4 cup diced green pepper
- 1 can (11 oz.) condensed tomato soup
- 1 cup (4 oz.) diced, processed American cheese

Place milk, water and salt in top of double boiler and heat over boiling water. Sprinkle in Cream of Rice and cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened — about 1 minute. Cover and cook 10 minutes longer. Stir in parsley. Pour cereal mixture into greased 9-inch layer cake pan and spread smoothly. Chill until firm. Meanwhile, melt fat in saucepan. Add onion and garlic, celery and green pepper. Cook, stirring occasionally, for about 5 minutes. Add tomato soup. Bring to a boil, then add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Cut chilled mixture into 6 or 8 wedges and arrange on greased 12-inch pizza pan. Pour sauce over wedges. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven, until lightly browned and thoroughly hot — about 25 minutes. Serve immediately with a tossed salad. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SASH BELTS STAY

The sash belt, popular all summer in fabric, appears for fall in leather versions with fringed ends. Many colors, too.

It isn't good manners to mention the cost of your possessions.

Attention Called To Braised Meats

Fall arrives with cooler days and in some areas we may have to say good-bye to outdoor cooking.

Fall days often mean more attention focused on the slowly braised, economy meats for hearty family meals. Beef short ribs are one of the cuts that require this moist heat cooking. The flavors have a chance to blend.

SHORT RIBS—FAMILY STYLE

- 3 pounds beef short ribs
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 2 bouillon cubes
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 medium onions, cut in 1/4-inch slices
- 3 tablespoons flour

Brown short ribs on all sides in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add water, bouillon cubes, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and onions. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2 hours or until meat is tender. Measure cooking liquid and, if necessary, add enough water to make 1 1/2 cups. Thicken liquid with flour for gravy. 4 to 6 servings.

IT'S LOVE AT FIRST BITE

FULL OF TASTEWORTHY FOOD VALUE

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There must be something wrong with the alarm bells in the Department of State. Sometimes they fail to ring out the alarm.

All bells should have rung long and loud in November 1956, when a United Nations diplomat tried to alert the authorities through the State Department that there was great trouble at the United Nations and that Soviet Union agents had infiltrated the United States intelligence service.

The U. N. diplomat was Povl Bang-Jensen, formerly a member of the Danish foreign service and well known to State Department foreign service officers. Bang-Jensen is dead. The word he sought to pass was that the Soviet Union had infiltrated the high command of the United Nations as well as U. S. intelligence.

The record available indicates, also, that Bang-Jensen knew of one or more Soviet nationals in the United States who wanted to defect to the United States.

Specifically, Bang-Jensen wanted to tell his story to Allen W. Dulles, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency whose organization allegedly had been infiltrated by Soviet agents. The Dane began in November 1956 to bid for a chance to talk with Dulles. When nothing happened, Bang-Jensen persisted into June 1957. Dulles was unaware of this until May 3, 1957.

The Senate internal security subcommittee reported this week on its investigation of the Bang-Jensen case. The report is adversely critical of the State Department. It finds no fault with CIA nor with the FBI for failure to bore into the Bang-Jensen mystery when first word of it reached those agencies. On the contrary:

"Since this was a highly sensitive matter involving the United Nations," the subcommittee report said, "both the CIA and the FBI took the stand that they could not act without higher authorization from the State Department. The only action called for was a simple suggestion from State to Mr. Allen Dulles that he listen to what Bang-Jensen had to say."

"But for some reason this suggestion was not forthcoming. The result was that nothing was done. From the standpoint of national security, the entire record in dealing with Bang-Jensen's request must be considered a lamentable example of procrastination and indecision."

"Matters such as this cannot be permitted to wait for months or even weeks before a simple decision is made to receive the information."

This is not light and casual criticism. It raises a question as to what kind of a tip to the State Department about a threat to the U. S. national security would be sufficient to get action. If the department's alarm bell did not ring on Bang-Jensen's tip, what would make it ring?

This episode did not turn out well for Bang-Jensen, either. Much of the investigation sought to determine whether Bang-Jensen committed suicide, as the New York police reported, or was murdered by Soviet agents because he knew too much.

HOT PILOT — Navy Cmdr. Forrest S. Peterson is shown after a flight in the experimental X-15 in which a speed of 3,545 m.p.h. raised the rocket plane's skin temperature to near 1,000 degrees. At one time smoke from burning paint filled the cockpit but Peterson felt no heat because of his pressure suit.

National Cotton Quota Increase Asked By Tower

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., yesterday urged President Kennedy in a telegram to order Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman to increase the 1962 national cotton planting allotment.

Tower called for Kennedy's intervention because he said he understands that Freeman is "contemplating" a cut from the 1961 allotment of about 18.5 million acres.

The Texan said cotton plantings should be increased because stocks are "at a minimum level," and because of world tensions. Other factors which argue for an acreage increase, Tower said, include the fact that cotton exports help build up the U. S. gold balance.

Freeman is currently abroad on a tour to study trade development and methods of aiding underdeveloped countries. But the Agriculture Department is expected to announce the 1962 cotton allotment by the end of this week.

ENDS HOLDOUT

CHICAGO (UPI)—Murray Balfour ended his holdout with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League today when he returned his signed contract for the 1961-62 season.

Only Stan Mikita now remains unsigned on the Hawks' roster.

Larger Orange Crop Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department Tuesday estimated the early, mid-season and navel 1961-62 orange crop at 64,765,000 boxes.

This was up 3 per cent from last season's production.

The crop reporting board issued these additional citrus reports based on Oct. conditions:

Oranges — California navel and miscellaneous (no Valencia estimate until December) 8,000,000 boxes; Florida — all oranges 99,000,000 boxes, including 45,000,000 boxes of Valencias; Texas — All oranges 3,700,000 boxes, including 1,800,000 boxes of Valencias; Arizona—all oranges 1,400,000 boxes, including 850,000 boxes of Valencias; Louisiana — all oranges 315,000 boxes.

Tangerines: Florida — 3,800,000 boxes.

Grapefruit: Florida — 35,000,000 boxes; Texas — 6,500,000 boxes; Arizona — 2,400,000 boxes; California — 1,300,000 boxes (desert Valleys).

Limes: Florida — 330,000 boxes.

The crop reporting board estimated these crop conditions: oranges 68 per cent of normal; grapefruit 66 per cent; lemons 75 per cent; limes 85 per cent.

Florida accounts for most of the increase above last year's crop of early, mid-season and navel oranges, although Arizona and Louisiana also expect larger crops.

The crop report said losses to the Texas citrus crop as the result of Hurricane Carla appeared to be no more than 10 per cent.

Girl Scouts Plan Swimming Session

A Girl Scout swimming session, with instruction by qualified persons, will be held from 9 to 10 a.m. Saturday, in the Pampa Youth Center pool, according to Mrs. M. H. Taylor and Mrs. Russell Holloway, who are in charge of the event.

Any Girl Scout who is interested may attend. She must bring written permission from her parents, and, if she has not taken part in previous swimming sessions, she will need a health card. For Scouts who are not members of the Center, a fee of 25 cents will be charged.

A second swimming session is planned for the same time Oct. 21. If the response for these first two sessions is good, later dates will be set up, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Holloway stated.

Any Girl Scout planning to attend Saturday is asked to call Mrs. Holloway, MO. 4-8913.

Dear Abby...

Boys Today Are Sharper Than Scissors

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When the newspaper comes, my mother gets it first and cuts out all the pictures she thinks my 14-year-old brother shouldn't see. This includes pictures of girls in bathing suits, and low necklines and so forth. When my father sees the paper all cut up he blows his stack. I am a girl, 16, and have tried my best to explain to my mother that she is making a big mistake trying to hide these things from my brother. He knows more than I do, and I don't think I'm stupid. Will you please put something in your column to convince my mother that she should leave the newspaper alone?

SIS

DEAR SIS: If your father "blows his stack," and you have tried to appeal to your mother's reason, and she still "censors" the newspaper hoping to keep your 14-year-old brother wide-eyed and innocent, I fear my efforts will be futile. But I'll try: Dear Mom: A 14-year-old boy today is sharper than your scissors.

DEAR ABBY: My father and I were having an argument, and I thought you might be able to solve our problem. If teenagers drive the family car, does the insurance go up?

TEEN-AGE GIRL

DEAR GIRL: And how! DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and he is 25 and I am very much in love with him. We went together almost a whole year, and we spoke of being married in two or three years. It has been a month since I last heard from him, and he lives right in this town. A mutual friend told me he went back to his old girl friend. I can't understand it. We didn't have a fight or anything. He just said goodnight after a date and I never heard from him again. I hate to crawl to him, but I know if I saw him again we could straighten everything out. My friends say to forget him.

Delights Of Mad Shopping Spree
Denied First Lady Of Country

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the sad things about being First Lady is that you can't trot down to the department store when you feel like it.

It creates such a hubbub that Mrs. Kennedy has to get her secretary to go to New York and buy her dresses when she sees one she likes, according to a prominent dress designer.

"It's an agonizing experience for a young lady like Mrs. Kennedy who likes to shop not to be able to go into the stores," said Mollie Parnis, who designed Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower's clothes. "The First Lady cannot get around and go in and out of stores. She must depend on someone else."

Never, said the New York designer, has there been such a fashion influence in the White House.

She said Mrs. Kennedy is "naturally a clothes horse." "She looks good in anything," the designer added. She said the First Lady can wear bathing suits, slacks and kerchiefs on her head and look right.

"That's why the President picked her, I guess," she said. Mrs. Eisenhower was "clothes conscious," the designer said, "but she had many more problems." She said Mrs. Eisenhower didn't have as much money as Mrs. Kennedy and she had a figure problem.

However, the New York designer said it was not fair to compare the two women. "There's a big difference between 30 and 60," she pointed out.

She defended the First Lady's wearing of scarves instead of a hat to church and slacks in public. "She ought to be able to wear what she wants. Everything she does is an influence."

The First Lady, she said, "has made the average woman fashion conscious."

Hobgood Group
With Mrs. Williams

The Hobgood Group of First Christian Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Roy Williams with Mrs. Charles Lanehart as co-hostess.

The meeting opened with a solo by the Rev. Robert C. Jones, who conducted the song services during the church revival.

Mrs. Lanehart introduced The Rev. Jim Brown of Washington, D. C., evangelist, as the guest speaker.

Rev. Brown related interesting facts about his church in Washington, which has a membership of 300; a few representatives, senators and people who work in Washington, D. C.

Rev. Brown told the group that about the palatial offices of Lyndon B. Johnson and that he often works until nine at night and works his staff harder than any staff in the capitol building.

A question and answer session followed his talk.

Refreshments were served as guests and members arrived.

Guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Roy E. Curtis, Rev. James R. Brown, Rev. Robert C. Jones, Mmes. Beverly Kempa, Matilda Smith, Tom Eckard; members attending were Mmes. R. E. Dauer, Clayton Dunham, Molly Hetchock, R. L. Parsley, Bert Kiser, C. A. Pollock, E. B. Smith, V. Smith, W. F. Taylor, O. A. Wagner, Doty Warner, Roy Tinsley, and T. R. Wilson.

Mrs. Hix Named
Class President

LEFORS (Spl) — Mrs. Ralph Hix was elected president of the Mary Martha Sunday School Class at the class monthly social and business meeting, recently in the home of Mrs. Roland Wells.

Mrs. R. E. McDonald was elected vice-president and group captain. Others elected included Mmes. Daisy York, secretary; B. J. Thacker, flower fund chairman; June Akin, group captain; Floyd McMinn, group captain; and Howard Marlair, social chairman.

Mrs. C. H. Earhart led in prayer for the new officers.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. R. E. McDonald. The newly elected officers will serve a one year term.

Mrs. R. E. McDonald will be hostess, Nov. 6th. Secret pal gifts were exchanged. Refreshments were served.

Don't correct a friend's version of a funny story. He won't thank you for it.

Some Fashions Should Be Marked Down, Out

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) Bill Bliss, award-winning designer, says women's fashions are cluttered with some things which could be marked down — and out — forever.

Bliss would outlaw once and for all these items which he said subtract from chic ("something you can acquire") and elegance ("something you're born with"):

—Jingling bracelets.—"That constant racket makes a man extremely nervous," said Bliss, who copied this year's "Winnie" Award presented each year to a designer selected by the American fashion critics for his or her outstanding contribution to fashion. A psychiatrist once said that an arm loaded with bracelets indicated a woman seeking security. To me, they are just a corny attempt to be a fashion lady."

—Teased, elaborate hairdos for day. "They belong with evening clothes," said Bliss in an interview.

—Pants. "I loathe them on women," said Bliss. "They are marvelous on a very, very few. They have their place, I suppose, when you're cleaning house or doing active sports. But certainly not on the street... not for shopping."

—Heavy makeup for daytime and heavy makeup at anytime on teenagers. Said the Indiana-born designer nostalgically, "I remember when the teenaged girl had a fresh-scrubbed face, wore very little lipstick and always seemed to have shiny, well-brushed hair. Seems to me teenagers were prettier then."

—Skirts slit up the back so that the slip beneath is on display.

—The color cult, which each season decrees that one shade is "in." "Last spring it was pink everywhere you went," said Bliss. "Color should be a matter of individual becomingness."

—Fashion conformity. "The same hat, the same mink stole, the same alligator bag," he commented. "Individuality in dress is sadly missing these days."

Bliss, 38, is a native of Fort Wayne, and began sketching clothes under tutelage of his mother, who was a dressmaker. He came to New York to attend the Parsons' School of Design but World War II intervened and he spent three and a half years overseas with the Army Corps of Engineers. After his discharge, he returned to New York and went to work for the wholesale dress firm of Anna Miller as a sketcher.

In 1958, the Miller firm merged with Maurice Rentner, Ltd., and Bliss became head of the design staff. Recently, he became a vice-president and part owner of Rentner, long an established label in the New York garment industry.

Jackie Look Is Gone
We're Ourselves Again

By the way what ever became of the Jackie Kennedy Look? It just occurred to me the other day when glancing through the latest fashion magazines that I hadn't heard anything about the Jackie Look lately.

Not only that, all those carbon copies of the First Lady that blossomed on Main Streets throughout the land seem to have faded away along with the last roses of summer — both the ones in the store windows and the ones walking along the street.

Even the models in the advertisements have gone back to being themselves, instead of Jackie Juniors.

What happened, I suppose, is that the Jackie Look had such a swift and sudden vogue it couldn't last. Just as we quickly got sick of women looking like sacks in their sack dresses, we quickly tired of seeing Jackie Kennedys every place we looked.

And just as we threw out the sacks and went back to a little individuality and variety in clothes, we've left the Jackie Look to Jackie and have decided to go back to being ourselves.

Of all the people in the world who are glad to see that the Jackie Look had such a short vogue, the gladdest must be Jackie Kennedy, herself.

For it would be frustrating to any woman to work hard to emphasize her own individuality — and then to suddenly find the look she had made her own staring back at her from models, shop girls, waitresses, matrons, and magazine cover girls.

I, for one, am happy that we have given the Jackie Look back to Jackie. On her it looks good. But you couldn't say the same for most of the carbon copies.

It is just as well not to mention having seen an acquaintance's picture in the paper, if the picture was poor.

The Mature Parent

Time To Get Realistic Over Touchy Youth

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When Jerry made his first solo train trip to visit relatives, his parents gave the porter in charge of his car $5 in exchange for special attention to the successful conclusion of their 9-year-old's adventure. Ever since, when Jerry has undertaken such solo expeditions, they have made this purchase of special attention from porters, conductors, bus drivers, etc.

Now 14, Jerry recently took a train for his first term at boarding school. After helping him settle his luggage, his father said, "Well, I guess I'd better have a little talk with your porter—and was whirled upon by his child. Whispering ferociously, Jerry said, "Dad, will you PLEASE stop bribing people to look after me?"

Later, his father said shakily to his wife, "I suppose the kid was right. I suppose bribing is what I have been doing all these years when we've seen the boy off on trips."

I'm glad to be able to report that his wife laughed. "Nonsense," she said, kissing her guilt-stricken husband. "What you've been doing is buying care for your child. If that's bribery, it's O.K. with me and ought to be with you."

The young can be very cruel. Maybe it's time we got a little fed up with the touchy pride of adolescents who see so much of what we do for them in angry terms of outrage upon their self-sufficient dignity.

This constant struggle to keep remembering that the hostility with which they greet our efforts to protect them is "part of growing up" can get pretty wearing. Because adolescent hostility, like other kinds, can deprive us of the meaning of our own actions if our hold upon that meaning is uncertain.

It can cheat us right out of our identity—a thing we badly need,

Matthew Flinchum Feted On Birthday

LEFORS (Spl) — Matthew Flinchum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Flinchum, and grandson of Mrs. E. D. Crutcher and the T. F. Flinchums, was honored on his third birthday, with a party in the home of his parents at 1824 N. Christy, Pampa.

The honoree entertained guests with his mother's help by playing with toys and presenting favors of whistles and balloons.

The chocolate cake was decorated in a western theme with Indians and Cowboys, and was served with ice cream, after the group sang, "Happy Birthday, Matthew."

Guests were Stevie and Rene Pennington, Janna and Rich Swope, Terrie and Tammie Brumley, Carolyn Flinchum, Mmes. Jim Pennington, Bob Swope, Dale Brumley, O. R. Henry, Martha Sublett (aunt), Linda Griffith sent a gift. to be a parent today.

What Jerry needed to hear in that train car was, "Watch your choice of words, my lad. To bribe is to pay a person for doing something dishonest. Better check the word in your dictionary."

White Deer Hosts Stinnett Friday

Amarillo Grabs Statistics Lead

Amarillo's Golden Sandies grab most of the top places in the district 3-AAAA statistics today after running wild in a 45-0 drubbing of the Plainview Bulldogs last Friday.

Ronnie Williams, Amarillo half-back, took over total offense leadership as he rolled up 214 yards rushing against Plainview in 14 carries. Tascosa's Eddie Whiddon, last week's leader, dropped to second place with 199 yards total offense.

Whiddon is the passing leader with 128 yards on five completions in 13 attempts. Rickey Stewart, the Pampa Harvesters sophomore quarterback, dropped from a second place tie to fourth as he completed only one aerial in five tries against Monterey. Stewart has passed for 80 yards.

Another Pampa sophomore, Kenny Hebert, holds fourth place in punting. He has punted eight times for a 31.5 average.

The Golden Sandies piled up a gaudy 536 yards total against Plainview, 472 of them coming on the ground to lead the loop in those two categories.

The Pampa Daily News

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Good Friends

Our good friends, the Soviets, have sent us a transcript of a speech by the President of the Presidium of the USSR Supreme Soviet. (He is so important, his name isn't even mentioned, just his title. "Ho, there, Comrade Khrushchev! Thou shalt have no other gods before you, eh?") space are not accidental. They reflect the natural course of victorious communism. Communism is irresistibly advancing and there is no force in the world capable of hampering the vigorous advance of mankind to its bright new future."

This must be news to the East Berliners who are doing their best to resist this irresistible force. In fact, only Soviet guns can keep them from escaping this bright new future of world-wide communism.

Some people, apparently, just don't understand.

Double To Zero

Did it ever occur that should the government get busy and print up enough money to double the amount of cash held by every American, no one would be better off by so much as a penny?

'I' Motivation

Capitalism can perhaps best be understood if we recognize it as the economic system containing a profit motive. Not that there is anything inherent within the system which guarantees that profits will be made, for no such guarantee exists.

accomplish this, he will feel good deep down inside. It is that good feeling he desires — the feeling that he really amounts to something by being able to help another. This is his profit. He will do almost anything to obtain it, when he thinks and feels this way.

He may rationalize and pretend to himself that he is absolutely without self-motivation. He only deludes himself. He is pleasing himself above all. The object of his concentration is merely the tool he employs to obtain his deepest sense of satisfaction.

The same facts emerge in any and every case of kindly action, generous behavior, or actual outright risk of life and limb. Whenever an individual volunteers to act on behalf of another it is because, having weighed the evidence on both sides, the individual believes he will be happier AFTER he has volunteered than before. If he feels otherwise, he will not volunteer.

This phony sense of "other" motivation is at the root of almost all our problems. It deceives us. We fancy that we are wholly objective. No man ever is.

Each of us is centrally motivated and inner directed. And capitalism takes this into account and fits the facts of life as they are.

Capitalism merely makes room for the natural tendency which men have to seek to gain in everything that they do. Men, being rational, do not try to experience a loss or a deprivation. Every sane man always acts on the basis of obtaining something for himself that he feels he wants.

In a capitalistic system he does not try to get something for nothing; rather, he tries to get as much as he can for as little as possible. This effort is consonant with the idea of profit. Buyer or seller, worker or manager, each human being is always trying to improve his position on this planet, to make things more comfortable for himself, to attain satisfactions and a sense of ease in all that is done.

This is the profit motive. Capitalism operates with an open acknowledgement of its existence. All other systems, however called and however organized, seek to interfere with the natural operation of this profit motive. It could be said that all other systems, including communism, socialism, Fabian socialism, and so on, predicate their case on the assumption that man can be reformed so that he will not want profits for himself.

If a little time is spent studying this particular area, it will be seen that efforts to remove the profit motive will always be doomed to failure. In the end, the only economic system which can function is one which is fitted to the nature of man as he is. Man ALWAYS wants to improve his own particular world. To imagine anything else is to imagine an absurdity.

Sometimes there are gentle, soft-eyed creatures who come forward to argue that man really isn't motivated by the thought of profits for himself but that his most profound motivation can be discerned when he is anxious to make profits for others. This is the premise on which all communistic thinking rests and is the primary reason why communism is attractive to so many people. It SOUNDS so generous.

Coal, source of nearly 90 per cent of the U.S. energy in 1960, accounts for less than 30 per cent of such energy today.

In 1870, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee died in Lexington, Va.

In 1920, construction began on the twin tunnels under the Hudson River linking New York City and Jersey City, N.J.

In 1950, the Senate subcommittee to investigate interstate crime began hearings in New York City under the chairmanship of Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn.

A thought for today: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "There is no absurdity so palpable but that it may be firmly planted in the human head if you only begin to inculcate it before the age of five, by constantly repeating it with an air of great solemnity."

The Nation's Press

ATTACKING THE PATENT SYSTEM

(The Wall Street Journal)
In any indictment as sweeping as the antitrust action just brought against three leading drug companies there are bound to be many things too fuzzy for judgment until the Justice Department presents its evidence in court.

But there is one aspect of this case that isn't obscure. Running through the whole probe of the drug industry, from the Kefauver committee investigations to the present court action, is the implication that it would be good public policy to force the companies to put all their new drug discoveries in the public domain so that anybody can make them.

American Cyanamid, for example, holds the patent on Aureomycin, the first of the broad-spectrum antibiotics, and it hasn't licensed anybody else to make and sell it. The Charles Pfizer company has its own antibiotic, Terramycin, which it manufactures and sells exclusively itself.

Pfizer also holds a patent on another antibiotic, Tetracycline, which it does license to two other manufacturing companies, American Cyanamid and Bristol-Myers, and which it also allows Squibb and Upjohn to sell. But besides these no other drug companies can make or sell Tetracycline.

Two attacks are made on this situation by the Government. The first is that Cyanamid, Pfizer and Bristol-Myers "conspired" to make the prices of all these drugs noncompetitive. This is an allegation of the truth of which must await the evidence in court, although it is worth noting that the only apparent basis for it now is that the prices were "substantially identical," a fact which might, just as well prove tough competition as non-competition.

But a good part of the Justice Department's statement is devoted to a broader question. The charge is that up to 1955, when Tetracycline was patented, Cyanamid's Aureomycin and Pfizer's Terramycin "dominated" broad-spectrum antibiotic sales, accounting for 92 per cent of all sales in 1953. In short, the charge here is not of conspiracy but of the "monopoly" situation.

That there was for a time a "monopoly" situation seems rather indubitable; indeed for one year (1949-50) Cyanamid held an absolute monopoly since it briefly had the only patent on a broad-spectrum antibiotic. But this was a "monopoly" created by the patent system itself.

The patent system, which is imbedded in the Constitution, provides that the holder of a patent on a new thing shall have the exclusive rights to that invention for a period of years. It was adopted not to give "privileges of profit" to a few but for the very practical reason that it thus encouraged men to spend much time, money and effort in inventing new things, and it prevented others from getting a "free ride" on the successful efforts of the inventors.

Of late this system has been under widespread attack. In other industries, too, there have been antitrust cases the object of which is to have "compulsory licensing" of new inventions. Technically the inventor keeps his patent but in the guise of preventing a monopoly (which is precisely what the patent law intended) he is required to allow all comers to use it.

Senator Kefauver's attack on the present system is even less disguised; he would cut the life of any patent to two years.

In the case of the drug industry the attack on the patent system has a particularly emotion packed argument. Why, so we are told, should a company discovering a new miracle drug be allowed to "profit from a monopoly"? Once an Aureomycin or a Terramycin is discovered, would it not be better public policy to let all the drug companies make it increasing competition and lowering the price faster? Why should one, or two, companies "get rich on human misery"?

This is an argument not without its appeal. But before either the courts or the public accept it, we think a little reflection is in order.

We don't know how much money Cyanamid spent to develop Aureomycin, or how much Pfizer spent to develop Terramycin to compete with it. But would Cyanamid have spent any if it knew in advance that it would have to let every other company have to let every other company have, which isn't nothing, get a free ride on Cyanamid's research efforts. Or if made Pfizer from the beginning could have made and sold Aureomycin, have spent time and money to develop a different broad-spectrum antibiotic to compete with Aureomycin?

These questions are not trivial. Whether it be in electronics or in drugs, modern research requires enormous sums of money spent with considerable boldness; there are more research efforts that

Gromyko Proposal: Soviet Troops In West Berlin In Return for Free Access

MRS. KHRUSHCHEV'S LULLABY — Mrs. Nina Khrushchev, the trusting Communist wife of the Soviet premier, is either as big a liar as her husband or somebody in the Kremlin has greatly misinformed her about the Soviet Union's tremendous civil defense effort.

At the same time she was telling a group of Western pacifists that "We are not building any bomb shelters, we are not getting ready," more than 30 million Soviet civilians were either enrolled or had completed a compulsory course in civil defense.

Part of their training consists of an 18-hour course in "practical training in post-attack problems," including "shelter procedures, evacuation procedures, and behavior in response to alert."

As for the Soviet's shelter effort, U.S. Civil Defense officials say that it is much further developed than this country's hit-and-miss program.

These intelligence facts, that counter Mrs. Khrushchev's propaganda lullaby, are reported in a memorandum on "Civil Defense Training of the Soviet Population" prepared by the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization for the House Appropriations Committee. Its highlights include:

"The Soviet appear to believe that in modern warfare the frontlines would be on the homefront. Presumably for this reason the USSR maintains an elaborate civil defense system and a massive program of compulsory training.

"Since 1954, Soviet civil defense courses have included instruction in defense against fission weapons, including such subjects as the building of shelters, fire control, decontamination of radioactive materials, and protection of food and water supplies.

WASHINGTON — A sharp policy dispute has developed within the Kennedy Administration over whether the West should permit Soviet troops to be stationed in West Berlin in exchange for new Soviet guarantees of Western access routes to that beleaguered city.

This major argument has been going on at the very top of government since last Friday when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko made the new Soviet proposal to President Kennedy during their two-hour private White House meeting.

Gromyko, catching the President by complete surprise, revealed that Premier Khrushchev is now willing to guarantee the access routes if the West will agree to the stationing of Soviet troops in West Berlin.

The Soviet military garrison would be similar to the military contingents that the Western powers now have in that city, Gromyko told the President. He explained that Khrushchev was willing to negotiate an over-all reduction to keep the forces well under the present 11,000 that the U.S., British, and French now have there. Except for two token guard units of about two dozen soldiers, the Russians have no troop units in West Berlin.

Gromyko said the purpose of the Soviet troops would be to "guarantee West Berlin's status of a 'free city,' but with no right to interfere in the internal affairs of the city."

Since the proposal came like a thunderbolt out of the sky, President Kennedy informed Gromyko that the U.S. reply would have to wait further consultations with our Allies.

Among the President's own foreign and military policy advisers the new Khrushchev proposal immediately touched off a major policy disagreement.

THE BIG DEBATE — Secretary of State Rusk, who sat in on the White House meeting, is urging the President to accept the proposal if Khrushchev will agree to put the access route "guarantees" in writing.

He is taking the position that such an agreement is worth the price of the major concession that the West would make in permitting the Soviets to station troops there.

Secretary Rusk is being strongly supported in his recommendation by McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for international affairs. Opposing the Rusk recommendation are General Maxwell D. Taylor, military representative of the President, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

They are flatly warning the President that if Soviet troops are permitted in West Berlin it would be a major blow to that city's morale and could eventually lead to a Soviet take-over.

So far as can be determined, the President has not yet decided on what advice to follow. However, he must make up his mind within a few days so Secretary Rusk can present the Soviet proposal, along with a firm U.S. position, to our allies.

fail that succeed. Good public policy is that which most encourages men to search for new things from which all society will profit.

Hankerings

By HENRY McLEMORE

The President's physician, Dr. Janet Travell, thinks American housewives overwork themselves, and has advised them to take things a bit easier.

One cannot question the fact that Dr. Travell is in the perfect spot to study the average housewife at work.

Her office in the White House affords her many opportunities to watch Mrs. Kennedy over the cook stove, wrestling with a recalcitrant washer, repairing a fallen clothesline, waxing the floor of the Blue Room, and trying to get more in a refrigerator than it will hold.

As much as I appreciate free medical advice (I am one of those people who corner a doctor at a party and try to pump a free diagnosis from him) I wish that Dr. Travell would have kept her advice to housewives to herself. Or just taken Mrs. Kennedy aside and whispered to her to ease up on her household chores.

My wife read the article quoting Dr. Travell and then reread it, and then read it aloud to me, and then reread it aloud just to make sure that I heard and understood and absorbed.

My wife was particularly pleased with Dr. Travell's suggestion that she be very careful when shopping and not overload herself with bags and bundles. Ever since then she has thought twice before buying a pound of butter and a spool of thread on the same trip, and our household is forever shy of essentials.

She took to another suggestion, too: the one about not doing all the washing and ironing in one stretch. The doctor said work should be broken into small bits, and Mary has taken the advice to heart. She now irons a sleeve, takes a coffee break, visits a friend, makes a phone call, and then goes back to the ironing board to do the collar and maybe one cuff.

I am now wearing half-ironed shirts, and I really look good when the ironing was started on the shirttail and never reached the higher areas.

My wife has also hinted, and strongly, that she needs a rocking chair to rest in while she is taking work easy. She also has complained of sore back and arm muscles for the first time in our married life.

To paraphrase, I am all for letting sleeping housewives alone. Tell them nothing. If they want to do a week's shopping at one whack, let them do it. If they care to wash and iron from dawn to dusk, give them a free hand.

Our pioneer women worked like beavers from sunrise to long after sunset, and we all know what wonderful women they were. Of course, they looked a bit old for their years, but a beautiful wife is no more precious than a well-ironed shirt, or a floor glistening under a fresh coat of wax.

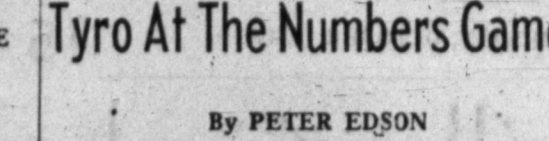

Besides, when a man comes home after a day of hard work, it makes him feel better if his mate is beat up, too. Gives them a sure and lively topic of conversation.

This is going too far, but it is only the beginning of what's ahead in this world of numbers. The telephone companies, having accustomed everyone to re-

'Ralph 124C1 Plus' Was Tyro At The Numbers Game

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Life in these United States has become a huge numbers racket, and it's mostly Washington's fault.

If there is anyone else around to remember it, a Luxembourg named Hugo Gernsback published the first string of "Modern Electrics" magazines about 50 years ago, in which the science fiction for boys was simply wonderful.

One of his heroes was a character named "Ralph 124 C 41 Plus." He was named that because world population was so great that the same first, middle and last names were held by so many people that it was confusing. So everybody got a number.

What the "C" and the "Plus" stood for escapes the feeble memory for the moment, but no matter. "Ralph" was a handy name to yell at him, and he was "Plus" all over.

He talked and saw pictures over the radio, when in real life it was a system of dots and dashes called the wireless telegraph.

He wore space helmet and suit. He visited the distant planets in his rocket ship and he did all the things Cmdr. Alan Shepard, Maj. Yuri Gagarin and other astronauts are just beginning to do.

And he had a number for a name. Lucky Ralph. He had only one number to remember. But now, 50 years later, it turns out that everybody has to have not one number but a score of 'em. Life is dominated by numbers. And it takes a whole battery of electronic computers to keep the numbers straight.

In the beginning, man had a house number or a rural route number and the date of his birth to remember, which wasn't too difficult. Then he got a telephone number, but it was something simple like "812 Green."

If you forgot your hat, neck, chest or bust, waist, hips, socks, shoe or glove sizes, you tried something on till you got a fit, and that was that.

It wasn't too bad, either, when four million Americans went into World War I and were assigned identification numbers. If you forgot for a moment who you were, your hand made an automatic, cogie-scratching gesture and out came your dog tag.

Things got a little more complicated when automobile tag and driver's license numbers had to be paid for. But the real trouble began in the New Deal 30 years ago, when Social Security was introduced and everyone insured was given a number.

The original intention was that everyone except the bookkeepers could forget Soc-Sec numbers until the retirement age of 65 was reached. Then the number could be dug out to collect benefits, which was compensation.

But next the Internal Revenue Service took over this number system and required it on an income tax forms.

What's worse, they're going to assign income tax account numbers to people who don't have Social Security numbers.

And according to a new law which President Kennedy is signing, anybody who forgets to put his number on his tax return can be fined $5.

This is going too far, but it is only the beginning of what's ahead in this world of numbers. The telephone companies, having accustomed everyone to re-

The stone age and modern times collided when Australians installed telegraph lines through the bush country. Bushmen used glass telegraph insulators to chip into knives. To cut down the thefts, Australians piled broken glass and crockery at the foot of each pole. Bushmen quickly lost interest in climbing with "riches" easily available on the ground.

Penney's Store Soon To Start Credit Program

R. M. Samples, manager of the J. C. Penney Company department store, announced today that the store will offer charge account privileges to customers beginning Oct. 19, 1961. The Penney credit plan will make available to customers the newest type of charge account in both Penney's charge account and the Time Payment Plan. The Penney's charge account which makes it possible for a customer to pay an account in full within 30 days of billing date without a service charge. This plan also provides an option for customers who wish to spread payments over a longer period. Each month a bill is received the customer can pay it in full, without service charge, or pay a designated amount and extend the balance over a longer period. Minimum amounts vary from one-fourth to one-sixth of the total bill. The Penney Time Payment Account is designed for higher priced apparel with a unit price of at least $49 and for home furnishings items with a minimum unit price of $29. For this account the minimum payment will be $5 per month and the account may extend to a maximum of 18 months. Samples emphasized that the credit plan will in no way change the company's long-standing, low mark-up policy for customers who wish to continue to make their purchases on a cash-and-carry basis.

No-Roach Curbs Pesky Insects

Another new use has been discovered for Johnston's No-Roach. Simply pour one pint into a gallon of water, and sprinkle on your lawn or garden plants which are troubled by insects. The milky fluid kills the bugs, and will not harm the plants. Makers of Johnston's No-Roach received several letters from customers with this problem: "This summer my lawn and the neighbors' lawns, began to develop brown spots. I pulled up the grass and saw swarms of little insects, smaller than ants, which were eating the grass roots. I poured one pint of No-Roach into a gallon of water, and using a watering can I sprinkled the infected spots. Now, several weeks later, my lawn is perfect, but all my neighbors will have to dig-up the dead grass and replace it at great expense. Next year, they are all going to use No-Roach to keep this from happening again." The makers of Johnston's No-Roach invite you to try this on your lawn. Send your report to Gaston Johnston Corporation, Long Island City 3, New York, plus a cap from a bottle of the product, and in return they will send you a free pen. Get No-Roach at your favorite drug store or supermarket.

Navy Building Defense About New Destroyers

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Guided missile destroyers for the defense of convoys and aircraft carriers are coming off the assembly lines to complement the offensive Polaris submarines. Five of the heaviest, longest, widest, fastest and most powerful destroyers ever built already have been commissioned by the Navy. The latest, the $60 million USS Lynde McCormick, recently got its first top brass inspection at the Navy Weapons Plant dock in Washington. The McCormick, equipped with two separate guided missile systems, Asroc and Tartar, theoretically is a triple threat capable of carrying on simultaneous action against sea, air and land weapons. The Asroc anti-submarine missile can outdistance any sub torpedo in existence today. Designed with a long-range sonar system and rocket propulsion, the missile can separate from its rocket motor and airframe in the air and plunge into the sea to drop a depth charge and a torpedo which homes in on the target. It is fired from a box-like launcher amidships. Tartar anti-aircraft missile, 15 feet long weighing 1,200 pounds, is capable of destroying supersonic fighters and bombers. With its dual thrust motor, auxiliary power supply and a warhead, it can be launched and accelerated from the ship's stern with a high thrust for a short duration. Then it can shift to low thrust for long duration and maintain supersonic speed until target interception. The missile, equipped with its own electronic guidance system, can follow its nose to the target instead of depending on a ground-based radar beam. Tartar missiles are packed like coke bottles in a leader below deck. The loader spins like a cylinder in a revolver, ramming two missiles at a time vertically onto twin launchers. Both Asroc and Tartar are operated from a Combat Information Center which integrates detection, tracking, display and weapons direction information. The McCormick also carries ASW short-range torpedoes. Two fully automatic, 5-inch guns round out her fire umbrella. Comdr. Ernest S. Cronwall Jr., the McCormick's skipper, says: "As far as weapons are concerned, this baby's got just about everything." So the McCormick can be used on offense or defense.

The Navy guided missile destroyers. Several already are under construction. Beside McCormick, Adams, King, Sampson and Wilson already have been commissioned. McCormick, primarily made of comparatively light aluminum and magnesium, has twin rudders which provide exceptional maneuverability for a ship of that size. The ship can reach a speed "far in excess of 30 knots." child care to international events. It was at last year's annual meeting in October that the council voted to make a "role call" survey of women. "We wanted to find whether they are America's great untapped resource," said Mrs. Jacobs in an interview. "We found they are."

G. E. (ED) TERRELL ... Promotion Announced

Former Pampan Advanced To Top Publicity Post

G. E. (Ed) Terrell Jr., a former resident of Pampa, has been promoted to General Information Supervisor with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in St. Louis, Mo. His mother, Mrs. G. E. Terrell presently resides at 513 N. Ward Street. Two sisters, Mrs. Earl McConnell and Mrs. Doyle Jones, and a brother, Jim Terrell, are also residents of Pampa. A graduate of Pampa High School and Oklahoma State University, Terrell was formerly sports editor and city editor for the Berger News-Head. He also worked for newspapers in Marshall and Kilgore. He joined the telephone company's public relations department in Dallas in 1954, was promoted to advertising supervisor there in 1956 and transferred to the company's home office in St. Louis a short time later. In March of 1960 he was named public information supervisor for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, in New York, the position he held until his recent promotion and transfer. The Travers Stakes at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., first run in 1864, is the oldest stakes race in the United States.

'People Need People' Video Debut Praised

By FRED DANZIG NEW YORK (UPI) — Fred Astaire, always so easy to take, is one of the men who imparts to TV whatever class it can boast of. I'm glad that he has latched on to a TV series, for it will involve him with the medium more directly than ever. And what makes this union still more momentous and welcome is the fact that Tuesday night's opening for Astaire's "Alcoa Premiere" series on ABC-TV was a rousing and, at the same time, sensitively enacted drama. "People Need People" was a tightly compressed version of what went on at a Navy hospital in Oakland, Calif., in 1955 when Dr. Harry Wilmer withdrew all restraints from a group of psychoneurotic servicemen and let them sample community living for a 10-day experimental period. At the end of that interval, despite some difficult crises and setbacks, the patients had responded to such a degree that they could be reassigned to hospitals and wards, their recovery chances considerably improved. Lee Marvin was remarkably believable as Marine Sgt. Hughes, the most hostile and volatile patient in the group. Marvin's searing control of the character, his uninhibited furies, came and went with vivid, painful power and the ring of authenticity. Equally impressive were Arthur Kennedy as Dr. Wilmer and James Gregory as Chief Driscoll, another of the beat-up but salvageable hulks in Wilmer's group therapy experiment. The entire cast pitched in and, under Alex Segal's direction, gave of itself unsparringly to make this hour count for something. The cast also included Joey Forman, Keir Dullea, Marion Ross, Jocelyn Brando, Paul Sand and John Alderman. Drawbacks? Well, this business of arousing instincts for understanding our fellow man worked too well. I found myself caring about the patients in Wilmer's ward, not just Sgt. Hughes, the central figure in the drama. Unfortunately, Henry Greenberg's script couldn't deal in detail with each case. And that was a flaw, for those cases were 24 — carat beauties. Another flaw was the 10-day deadline attached to Wilmer's experiment. This aspect of the story remained under developed and raised more questions than the script was prepared to answer. The deadline took on a superfluous, even gratuitous, aspect. There were too many short cuts in the plot, some fast-shuffles at the finish and an incomplete summation of the experiment's accomplishments. But with it all, I admired the acting and the skill with which inter-group communication and esprit-de-garde were slowly, painfully and lastingly established. I guess "People Need People" needed another half-hour to do its job as well as, say, "Playhouse 90" did with a similar theme in "Journey to the Day." What did Astaire have to do with "People Need People?" He was the on-camera host and off-camera narrator. People need people and TV need Astaire, especially if he'll help build an audience for a production that was worth watching. ..The Channel Swim: "Chicago and All That Jazz," a "Show of the Week" musical that NBC-TV has scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 26, will star Garry Moore as a narrator and at least 20 well-known jazz musicians. "The Seasons of Youth," first of four Timex specials on ABC-TV airs Wednesday, Oct. 25 with a cast that includes Fernand Lamary, Paul Anka, Barrie Chase, Jill Corey and the off-Broadway "Premise Players." George C. Scott and his wife, Colleen Dewhurst, co-star in "I Remember a Lemon Tree," the Monday, Oct. 22 drama in ABC-TV's "Ben Casey" series. Scott portrays a physician who has become a drug addict. Betty Fields and Lon Chaney, who last appeared together in the Broadway production of "Of Mice and Men" some 20 years ago, are co-starring in "The Mud Meet," a "Route 66" drama being filmed in Baltimore for future scheduling on CBS-TV. Chaney has the role of a vindictive farmer; Miss Fields portrays his wayward daughter.

County Men Complete Modern Swine Plant

Peering twenty years into the future, the McLaughlin Brothers, Elmer and Ralph, have just completed one of the most modern and revolutionary swine production plants in the Southwest on their farm near Laketon.

The swine factory was designed with emphasis on two main points, labor savings and disease prevention, after the McLaughlins had traveled extensively over the nation, visiting swine farms in search of advanced ideas to incorporate in their swine farm.

For sanitary reasons the buildings have been located on a site with considerable slope where the High Plains breaks off into the rolling rangeland northeast of Laketon.

They will produce secondary S.P.F. breeding gilts and boars for distribution over the Southwest. Those not sold for breeding stock will be marketed at a local packing plant. They have registered Hampshire as well as cross breeds.

Shawnee State Forest, largest forested area in Ohio, covers approximately 33,419 acres.

Crackdown Urged On U.S. Commis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., of the House Committee on Un-American Activities has urged a crackdown on registered U.S. Communists who seek federal work or passports.

Walter Wednesday asked federal officials to comply strictly with internal security laws in light of this week's Supreme Court action ordering the Communist party to register as a subversive organization.

Broker Expects Continuance Of Bullish Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Although much now depends on the changing international situation and the tenor of business news, and another test of the September lows cannot be ruled out at a later date, nothing has happened so far to change opinion that the bull market still has further to run, according to Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co.

He says the old cliché to "forget the averages and concentrate on individual stocks" is never more appropriate than it is today.

O. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutson & Co. says the recent behavior of the list tends to strengthen his conviction that stocks are likely to go higher, so far as the averages are concerned over the near term. It does not, however, alter his feeling that prices are likely to move lower over the next six to nine months.

The most promising areas for common stock purchases at this time appears to be finance companies, electric utilities, rails, retailers, chemicals and certain segments of the armament industries, according to Walter Mintz of Shearson, Hammill & Co.
