Chicago Firemen Start Probe Of Blast Causing Injury To 250 Persons

CHICAGO (UPI) — Which of the lamb-like unguents in millady's shampoo contained a hidden tiger which leveled an "explosion proof" building and injured at least 250 persons? That was the question Chicago firemen hoped to answer today through an examination of the rubble which was all that remained of Building J, a long 1 1/2-story structure at the 16-building Helene Curtis cosmetics plant.

Chicago building commissioner George L. Ramsey said, "I'm sure we'll find the cause of the trouble."
The structure contained such chemicals as vinyl acetate, oxygen, hydrogen, sulphur, fluorine, chlorosulfuric acid and ethyl acetate.

Highway Parley Slated Tuesday At Coronado Inn

Members of six city, county and chamber of commerce groups today were urged by Paul Crouch, chairman of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee to attend a luncheon next Tuesday in Coronado Inn to discuss the State Highway Department's proposed long-range highway development program for Pampa.

Officials of the District Highway office in Amarillo and Pampa's resident highway engineer, G. K. Reading, will be present to explain details of the proposal.

Members of the city commission, county commissioners' court, directors of the Chamber of Commerce, members of the chamber's Highway Committee, members of the chamber's Tourist Development Committee, and a delegation from the C. of C. Merchants Committee all have been invited to the luncheon meeting.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell indicated at last Tuesday's city commission meeting that city officials may ask the Highway Department to alter a suggested plan for changes in the routing of State Hwy. 273.

The Highway Department in its proposed plan says this:

"S. H. 273 from Pampa, southeast, is a two-lane highway that is now carrying 3,290 vehicles per day. Its present design is obsolete for this volume of traffic."

The highway development plan to be discussed Tuesday was prepared by the Highway Department at request of the city some time ago.

It is being offered for approval, state highway officials said, as the result of studies to establish an adequate and acceptable plan for the future arrangement and development of all highway routes through and adjacent to Pampa which will provide for ultimate highway needs in the immediate area.

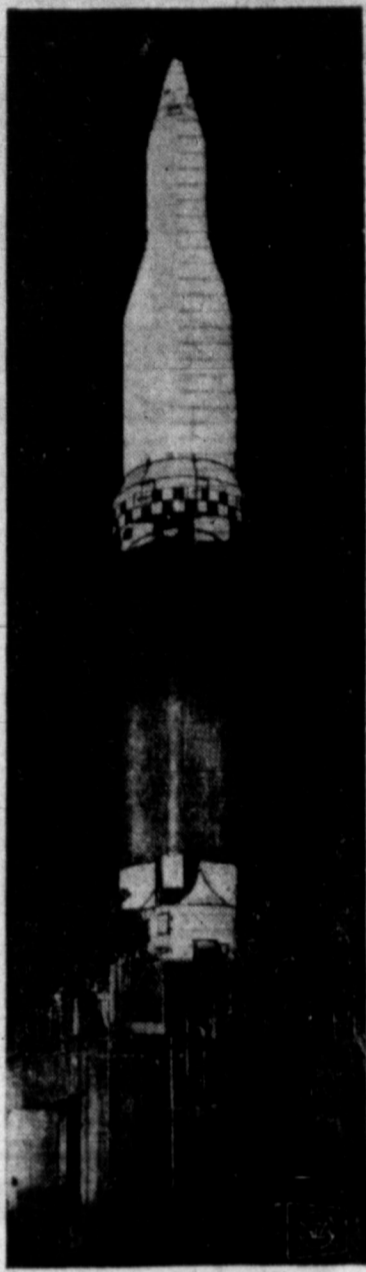

The luncheon Tuesday is scheduled for the Starlight Room of the Coronado.

Pampa And The Top O' Texas In Transition

Pampa is the hub of heavy duty construction operations which are so versatile that they are called upon to do their specialties over a five-state area. One firm has two projects under way in central Kansas and is about to build a big plant down Monahans way.

Not only is it a feather in Pampa's cap to be "home town" of such formidable talent, but it also represents the source of around a half million dollars a year in paychecks. That's another exciting part of the big issue, "Top O' Texas in Transition" coming soon as part of the Pampa Daily News.

Plane Hijackers Await Sentence

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Leon Bearden, 38, convicted of hijacking a $5 million Continental Airlines jetliner, today faced a possible sentence of life in prison.

A U. S. District Court jury took 22 minutes Wednesday to find Bearden guilty of violating three federal laws when he and his 16-year-old son Cody tried to steal the loaded passenger plane on Aug. 3 and force the pilot to fly to Cuba.

Cody pleaded guilty to similar charges. He could be sent to a federal juvenile school until he is 21. His father refused to plead guilty and was put on trial.

The elder Bearden was found guilty of kidnaping, which carries a maximum life sentence; interstate transportation of a stolen plane, with a maximum of five years; and obstruction of interstate commerce, which carries a maximum of 25 years.

The Beardens, from Coolidge, Ariz., hijacked the plane between Phoenix and El Paso, but the pilot told them he did not have enough fuel to fly to Cuba and had to land at El Paso. When the Beardens tried to get the pilot to take off again, FBI agents and border patrolmen shot out the tires and one engine.

Small Firms Declared Bound By Federal Gas Price Rules

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI) — Vice chairman Howard Morgan of the Federal Power Commission said today there was scant prospect that small independent natural gas producers could be exempt from federal price regulation. "In the first place," he said in a prepared address to the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association, "it does not appear the law allows us to exercise discretion in this matter."

In the second place, he said, if these producers were exempted the commission would have no control over their prices and this could trigger costly escalation clauses in major producer-pipeline contracts.

Under the escalation clause, which the commission is trying to avoid, the price of gas is tied to the price of oil. "Avoid the rush, get your 1962 State Inspection Stickers now at Pampa Safety Lane, 411 S. Cuyler. Adv.

Teamster Union President Again Denies Fraud Count

Talks By Nikita Fail To Arouse Hope Of Allies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's easing of his Berlin deadline brought a cool and wary response today from the United States.

Coupled with a new Soviet note challenging Berlin air access, the Kremlin leader's marathon speeches in the last two days produced a U. S. reaction of "let's keep contacts open, but let's not rush into Berlin negotiations."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a news conference Wednesday that Khrushchev's deadline softening "may serve to reduce tension somewhat," but that the rest of Russia's attitude on Berlin showed "little if any change."

In London, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan sounded a note of caution.

Macmillan, in a speech before Parliament, said the world situation had improved in the past three months but warned that "we must not let the Russians drive a wedge between us."

"We are working for a negotiation and we must not be rattled into surrender," he said. "We cannot yield to atomic blackmail and survive."

Khrushchev told Russia's 22nd Communist party congress Monday he would not insist on bringing the Berlin crisis to a head by the end of the year "if the Western powers show readiness to settle the German problem."

The Kennedy administration appeared to be taking extreme caution to avoid a repetition of the 1959-60 Camp David experience in which Khrushchev, removing an earlier Berlin deadline, talked the West into a summit meeting, then wrecked it over the U2 incident. Rusk told newsmen that Russia

Reds Toss Rocks In New Berlin Border Incidents

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist bullets, tear-gas grenades and roving patrols have failed to halt the escapes of refugees through the East-West Berlin border which is barricaded by a wall and barbed wire fences. Now, the Communists have resorted to throwing rocks at West Berliners who often aid escaping East Germans.

Cupid Deals 'Singletons' Severe Jolt

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Richard B. Kay is fighting a losing battle with cupid in Texas. Kay, from Cleveland, is president of the Singletons, a national organization for unmarried men and women. He came to Houston Wednesday to check up on a chapter he chartered nine months ago.

"It's a setback," he admitted. "There were 25 original members, and over half either got married or have been transferred out of town."

Russia's Future Talked In Secret

MOSCOW (UPI) — The 22nd Soviet Communist party congress went into secret session today to discuss Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's glowing two-day report depicting a "rosy future for the Soviet Union and world communism."

Western newsmen, permitted to attend the Tuesday and Wednesday sessions during which Khrushchev spoke for a total of more than 12 hours, were barred from the Kremlin's new Palace of Congress today.

The congress probably will continue for about two weeks behind closed doors.

Tass news agency said the Congress also was discussing the report by the Central Auditing Commission.

Delegations from more than 80 foreign Communist parties still attend the sessions and there was speculation that Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai might reply to Khrushchev's condemnation of Albania.

Chou alone, among all the foreign Communist delegates, did not applaud the Soviet premier's remarks to the effect that Albania still followed a Stalinist line and would have to change its ways before it could resume a place in the socialist camp.

Khrushchev exuded confidence during his public appearances Tuesday and Wednesday.

It was clear that if there still are any conflicts among the ranking members of the Soviet Communist party, Khrushchev's position is firmer than it ever was.

$500,000 Funds Misuse Charged In Federal Case

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa pleaded innocent for the second time in 10 months today on mail fraud charges stemming from misuse of $500,000 in teamster funds.

Hoffa and Detroit banker Robert E. McCarthy Jr., a co-defendant, entered pleas at their arraignment before U.S. District Judge Dozier Devane, who accepted their innocent pleas to the same charges.

Devane gave the defendants until Dec. 1 to file motions. No trial date was set.

Hoffa, dressed in a light blue suit, stood straight with his hands at his sides while his attorneys talked. The only word he spoke during the 10-minute proceeding were, "James R. Hoffa, 48," in reply to U. S. Atty. James Dowd's request that both defendants state their names and ages for the record.

Prior to entering the court room Hoffa said he was confident of a favorable decision in the case. "I have good faith in the American people to tell right from wrong," he said.

Attorneys and Charles Davis of Orlando revealed today that he had filed an appeal with the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans seeking to overturn a ruling by Federal Judge Joseph Lieb, who ruled Oct. 13 against Hoffa's motion to suppress "wiretap evidence."

Hoffa charged was presented to the grand jury which indicted him.

Davis said he based the appeal on the fact that Lieb made his ruling without holding a hearing. Dowd said, however, that to his knowledge no "wiretap evidence" ever was presented to the grand jury.

If convicted, they could receive up to 20 years in prison and be fined up to $85,000 each.

They were first indicted Dec. 7, but that case was dismissed July 13 by U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Lieb. He ruled that the grand jury that indicted them had been improperly selected.

But a second grand jury, empaneled Sept. 25, handed down another indictment containing 16 counts Oct. 11.

Lieb ruled that the grand jury that issued the first indictment had been selected from state jury lists, which are composed of the

Mercury Drops To 35 In Pampa

By United Press International

A mass of Canadian cold air dropped temperatures to freezing in the Texas Panhandle today, but lost its sting as it reached Central Texas.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said temperatures would stay a bit cooler in the northern half of the state through tonight and Friday in the southern half.

Temperatures were expected to rise rapidly in the northern half of the state from the 32 degrees which Dalhart registered overnight, and 35 at Amarillo. It was also 35 at Pampa. The highest minimum was 68 at Corpus Christi.

Skies were expected to be clear to partly cloudy over the entire state through Friday. Temperatures today were expected to range from highs in the upper 60s into the 80s.

The mercury climbed only to 85 Wednesday at Dalhart and 86 at Amarillo. Pessido was the warmest spot with a maximum of 90 degrees.

There has been no rain reported in Texas for more than five days and none is expected through Friday.

Viet Nam Reds Gaining Forces, U.S. Aide Told

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI) — The South Viet Nam government today reported a continuing buildup of regular Communist military forces in the north central plain area. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor studied ways the United States could better help contain the spreading Red menace.

While President Kennedy's special military adviser held a long session with the American military advisory group here, the Vietnamese minister for civic action, Ngo Trong Hieu, told a news conference that the steady flow of Viet Cong troops from the north was proceeding without interruption.

He estimated the number of Viet Cong regulars in north and central portions of the country now totaled at least 20,000 plus hundreds of thousands of supporters pressured by family bonds and other considerations in helping the Reds.

Hieu made it clear he believed that the debacle of Laos could be repeated here unless the efforts to block the Communist buildup show more results.

Taylor spent all morning in a detailed study of the military situation with Lt. Gen. Lionel MeGarra, the head of the United States military advisory group, and other officers at headquarters here.

U.S. and Russia Still Deadlocked On UN Secretary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States and Russia remained deadlocked today on procedure for naming an acting secretary general despite increasing small power clamor for an interim chief by United Nations Day, next Tuesday.

The United States won a victory Wednesday when the main political committee voted 53-13 with 31 abstentions for simultaneous debate on an Indian demand for a new moratorium of nuclear tests and a U.S. call for resumption of negotiations on an ironclad treaty permanently outlawing such explosions.

Video Actress Wants Change In Her Roles

NEW YORK (NEA) — For some actors, television is a chance to escape from the type-casting straight-jacket. But, for Rita Moreno, television has been "no help at all."

In fact, she says, the TV casting agents have been even more narrow-minded about the parts they offer her than their movie counterparts.

"For 11 years," she says, "I've always been the Mexican spit-fire or the Indian girl. Period." Those days may be gone forever, thanks to her performance in "West Side Story." Of course, she's still a Latin-blooded spit-fire (Puerto Rican, this time) but she doesn't mind that. In "West Side Story," as Anita, she has a chance to show that she's an actress, not just a beautiful girl with black hair, flashing eyes and a flashing figure.

"I realize," she says, "That I'm probably limited to certain roles. I know I'm not Mary College. But I'd still like to have some parts which say something."

Television shows simply have never given her the chance. And she's somewhat bitter about this. While many actors are grateful to television, Rita Moreno thinks the TV brass has heads to match. Miss Moreno (the second syllable sounds like "pen") was five years old when she was brought to New York from her native Puerto Rico. Surprisingly, she remembers many things about her Pre-New York days.

I remember walking through sugar cane fields barefoot," she says. "I remember standing outside the bakery for a half-hour, just smelling it. I remember going to the guava field and picking one. That's how a Puerto Rican child — at least when I was there — spent the days."

She started in show business not long after she reached the U.S., as a dancing prodigy. But, since she went to Hollywood, she's dancing very little. As a matter of fact, it had been eight years without dancing, before "West Side Story."

"And it hurt me so much," she says, "that I was in tears each night. My leg muscles were as tight as this table."

But she weathered the pain and found one unexpected dividend — she grew three-quarters of an inch.

Ethel Waters did a Route 66 show directed by veteran director and ex-jazz musician Jack Smight.

Smight says Miss Waters, who has been in semi-retirement for years, didn't want to do the show. That's because she lately has turned to religion, so she objected to some of the Jazz flavoring in the script.

She flatly refused to say some of the words the script called for (words such as "swinging" and "Having a ball"), because she felt they might be offensive to some of her religious friends. The script was changed.

"But gradually," Smight says, "she came out of her shell. Jo Jones and Roy Eldridge, jazz musicians and old friends of hers, helped. By the time the filming was finished, she was swinging and having a ball."

Smight, incidentally, feels that jazz has been given short shrift on TV.

"The wrong people have done the jazz shows," he says. "They give them too much production. Jazz on TV should be kept simple — it should be improvisation, as it is in clubs. I think there could be a weekly TV jazz show. It would be very successful."

"After all, kids who grew up on rock 'n' roll have grown tired of it. Jazz is the next thing for them."

FBI Head Warns In SMU Speech

DALLAS (UPI)— Assistant FBI director W. C. Sullivan said today that democracy must not destroy itself in its own defense.

"We must avoid sowing the seeds of hate, distrust and suspicion among ourselves," he told a convocation of Southern Methodist University students.

"No American should stigmatize another as a Communist without positive proof."

Some liberals, progressives and earnest people who disagree with us should not be confused with Communists."

Tower Cheered For Opposing Training Reds

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) A crowd of about 1,500 at a "National Indignation Convention" cheered Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., Wednesday night when he said he supported their protest of Communist pilot training in Texas.

And they "booed" Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., because he declined to give them a "yes or no" answer.

U.S. Rep. Omar Bureson, D-Tex., said he has been opposed to foreign aid to Communist-dominated countries and supports cutting off aid to Yugoslavia. But he said he was hesitant to condemn officials of the State Department because the judgment of too many persons was involved.

It brought cries of "cut him off" and "check his record" from the audience.

The meeting was the fifth of a series of nightly gatherings of the newly organized group which protests Yugoslavia pilots being trained near Sherman, Tex., at Perrin Air Force Base.

They have a telephone hooked up to loud speakers in the assembly hall so that the crowd can hear the conversation.

"The trafficking with an enemy at a time when U.S. survival is in question is wrong," Tower said. "It is my hope the administration will cease giving aid to Yugoslavia immediately."

He called the Dallas gathering "healthy and wholesome."

The group tried to contact Tower by telephone at his home in Wichita Falls the night before and failed to get an answer. It made Frank McGehee, chairman, so angry he called for Tower to be ousted from Congress.

But Tower explained that it was

Need For Fallout Shelters Stressed By Rotary Speaker

Bill Leonard, civil defense director for Pampa, yesterday told the Pampa Rotary club that everyone should think in terms of providing himself and his family with fallout shelters.

Pointing out that he thought the local enemy attack warning system inadequate, Leonard said there would soon be on the market a unit that could be plugged into an electrical outlet that could be actuated to give warning.

Club president Roy Sparkman announced that for the month of September, the Pampa Rotary club had a 98.25 per cent attendance, the second highest in the district.

Visitors and guests for the day were Roscoe Elmore, R. S. Williams and Marvin Cooper.

Elections Study Group Appointed

AUSTIN (UPI)—Four Democrats and a Republican have been named to a committee to study state election laws and proposed changes to the legislature by Gov. Price Daniel.

Daniel named Gaynor Kendall of Austin, M. Sins Davidson of Dallas, Walter Sterling of Houston, Manuel Debusk of Dallas and Ross Woodall of Huntsville to the committee.

Scout Exposition Set For Saturday

The 1961 Santa Fe District Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council Scout Exposition will be held at the Pampa National Guard Armory, starting at 2 p.m. Saturday, October 21.

Operating under the motto "strengthen America. Character Counts." Boy Scout units from throughout the entire district will present a series of booth demonstrations showing the advancement and activity programs of scouting.

All phases of scouting, . . .cubs, scouts and explorers, . . .will operate booths to demonstrate scouting activities, from arts and crafts to sciences and professions, from pets and animals to citizenship, from backyard cookery to satellites.

The Scout Exposition affords the public to see Boy Scouts in action, and its worthwhile benefits, sponsors said.

The demonstration booths will be judged and appropriate awards given to the outstanding displays in each classification.

The public is invited to attend. The doors will open to the public at 2 p.m., and close at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door, or may be purchased in advance from any participating Boy Scout, cub or explorer unit throughout the council area.

Attempt To Enter Home Is Reported

Someone tried to break into the home of W. L. DeSoutell, 1308 Duncan St., Tuesday night, Mrs. DeSoutell reported to police Wednesday afternoon.

The would-be housebreakers cut a window screen but did not gain entrance, police said.

They did break into an auto parked in the driveway and pried open the glove compartment of the car. Nothing was missing, the report stated.

Hoffa and McCarthy are accused of using $500,000 in funds from four Detroit locals to promote Sun Valley Inc., a housing development near Cape Canaveral.

The government charged that it was a privately owned corporation but was promoted as Teamster-sponsored and as a haven for retired Teamster members.

The defendants, charged the government, used the mails and interstate telephone and telegraph lines to promote a fraud.

The first indictment also included Henry Lower, a Hoffa aide from Detroit. But Lower died of cancer in Detroit Aug. 28, while fighting extradition to California, where he was wanted for escaping from a road gang in 1953 while serving a term for issuing fraudulent checks.

Son Of Former Pampans Burned

Larry Raleigh, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Raleigh of El Paso, former Pampa residents, was severely burned last Friday in an accident in El Paso.

The youth was sent on an errand to a nearby service station to purchase kerosene. In error, he bought gasoline in an open container. On the way home, he stopped in the service station's rest room, where he was overcome by gas fumes and became unconscious. In falling, his clothes were saturated with the gasoline. An hour and a half later, he was found in a state of shock with second degree burns over most of his body.

He was rushed to Hotel Dieu Hospital, where his condition is listed as serious, but improved.

Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Raleigh, 7873 San Jose Rd., El Paso and the nephew of Mrs. Robert E. Sears, 1950 N. Faulkner.

Former Solon's Mother Succumbs

Mrs. Cora Guill, mother of Ben Guill, former congressman from the 18th congressional district, died at 10 p.m. Wednesday in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Guill was the widow of the late Dr. H. H. Guill, The deceased moved to Pampa in 1934 and then to Washington several years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday in Washington.

The American war games in West Berlin, now in their second day, drew ridicule from the East German Communists.

As 3,000 GI's — supported by artillery, helicopters and M48 tanks staged the realistic maneuvers in the U.S. zone, the East German ADN news service labeled the American tanks "obsolete."

Western military experts laughed at the charge. "That M48 tank is still a pretty good match for the Russian tank when it comes down to brass tacks," said one expert.

Today's segment of the three-day maneuvers were designed to counter-attack a mock invasion of West Berlin.

PILOTS STRIKE POSTPONED

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Air Line Pilots Association has agreed to postpone a strike against Trans World Airlines. The strike had scheduled to start midnight Wednesday. The ALPA said the agreement was reached Monday at a meeting of the mediation board and representatives of management and the union. The postponement came when the ALPA and TWA agreed to resume negotiations.

Woman Reports Clothing Taken At Laundromat

Mrs. Leta Morris, 406 N. Davis, took some clothes to an automatic laundry at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, put them in a coin-operated washer and left to do some shopping.

She told police that when she returned 40 minutes later, someone had removed 4 shirts, two pairs of pajamas, two sheets and a bra.

Police Chief Conner said he had received several similar complaints in the past couple of months.

$1,000 Bonds Set In Burglarly Case

Bond was set at $1,000 each yesterday for two Amarillo men charged with burglarizing the Satellite Club, 1012 Octavius, on Thursday, Oct. 12.

J. D. James, 34, and Earl Henry Hall, 25, were arraigned before Justice of the peace J. W. Graham late yesterday.

Police said the men broke into the club and looted $20 from a juke box.

"this," the chief said, "is not to leave the laundry until the washing has been completed."

French, Germans Have No Urgent Feeling Of Fear

By PHIL NEWSOM
PARIS—Among the people of France, as in West Germany, there is no urgent feeling that the world may stand on the edge of catastrophe.

A French electrical engineer even denied that there was a Berlin crisis.

"A Hollywood stunt," he called it. "Bad for business," a hotel man said.

"The fault of Roosevelt and Stalin," said another.

Three weeks or travel in West Germany, including nearly a week in Bonn and another in West Berlin, convinced this correspondent that the German people outside Berlin were sleep-walking, in fact hoping that this talk of crisis was all a bad dream which eventually would go away.

In Germany, the feeling is of a country still numbed by defeat in two world wars, a divided nation in which West Germans feel that they still have been wholly accepted back into the family of nations.

France, under President de Gaulle, is at a peak of prosperity. Yet there persists talk of civil war arising from the Algerian problem and the rebellious right-wingers who insist that "Algeria is French."

Plastic bombs explode nightly in Paris and across the Mediterranean in Oran, Algiers or Constantine.

Algerians living in Paris have been placed under an early night curfew.

Yet if these factors tend to divert or prevent popular attention from focusing on the Berlin problem—and Khrushchev's threat against world peace, the same cannot be said of governments or of NATO. There, the focus is sharp and earnest.

It is the subject of constant review by the NATO council, and daily consultations in the Foreign Office at the Quai D'Orsay and at Elysee Palace.

As this dispatch is written thousands of American support and fill-in troops are pouring into France.

De Gaulle has brought two divisions home from Algeria and is planning to bring back a third. His air force is at almost full strength.

West Germany is moving swiftly to build three more divisions, bringing its total to 11.

By the first of the year, NATO officials believe they can have 24 to 27 divisions in readiness. This is the forward wall being built by NATO, first to convince Khrushchev of Western determination and then to meet his attack if it comes.

Solon's Press Parley Plan Shocks Reporter

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Suffering succotash! I never thought I'd live to see the day! A member of Congress is selling tickets to a press conference!

This is so remarkable a departure from the established norm that it's got me ending sentences with exclamation points, which are hard to come by these days. Friends, I have heard of some stunning feats of salesmanship in my time. The Brooklyn Bridge, the Washington Monument and the Taj Mahal all have knocked down a pretty penny over the years.

In fact, I've bid on them a few times myself. But selling tickets to a congressional press conference! That does beat all! The wonder is that someone hadn't thought of it before!

The congressman who finally did think of it is Rep. Walter L. McVey, a Kansas Republican now at home on adjournment leave. I heard about it from a newspaperman here who was invited to buy a ticket to a press conference at Pittsburg, Kan., on Oct. 26.

Normally, as you may know, a congressman who wants to hold a press conference merely announces his intentions, crosses his fingers and hopes that someone will show up.

Apparently, it hasn't occurred to other lawmakers that we newspapermen might pay to ask them questions. McVey may have opened up an entire new concept of congressional-journalistic relations.

I note from the invitation my colleague received that McVey has arranged for three other congressmen to participate in the press conference with him. Thus the reporters who attend will be getting a bargain rate, or four for the price of one.

Furthermore, the price of the ticket ($2) includes a lunch, so that nobody will be obliged to ask questions on an empty stomach. McVey explained that he arranged the press conference because newspapermen in Kansas did not have many opportunities "to interview congressmen regarding national issues."

The assumption is, then, that he will continue to hold free press conferences when he returns to the capital. I wouldn't be surprised, however, if the ticket plan caught on with other congressmen.

Lefors Firemen Hold Open House

LEFORS (Spl)—The Lefors fire department held its traditional open house Saturday winding up a week of fire prevention activities.

These activities included the display of fire fighting equipment showing the progress made since 1957; judging fire prevention posters drawn by school children and displayed at the fire station; housekeeping duties by boy scouts; clubs ladies receiving instructions in the use of emergency equipment, electrical display depicting the elements necessary to start fire and the display of various types of extinguishers.

Registration of guests was presided over by scouts, Charles Day, David Wells, and Bob Thacker.

Texan's $50 Bid For Old Sub Too Low, Also Tardy

HONOLULU (UPI)—Richard Lacy of Tyler, Tex., has offered the U.S. Navy $50 for the submarine USS Gurnard—but his offer was too low and too late.

The obsolete sub, which sank 12 enemy ships and damaged 12 others during World War II, recently was placed on sale at Pearl Harbor submarine base by the Navy's consolidated surplus sales office.

Rear Adm. Roy S. Benson, commander of the submarine force of the Pacific Fleet, received the following letter from Lacy:

"Dear sir: Having earned that the USS Gurnard is being offered for sale, I hereby offer fifty dollars for said submarine. This may seem ridiculous, but if an Army tank can be bought for two dollars, why can't a submarine (obsolete, of course) possibly be bought for fifty dollars? This offer is made in the hope that it will be the only one or possibly the first of the best."

However, his bid came in late and the vessel was sold to the National Metal and Steel Corp. of Terminal Island, Calif., for $41,379.29.

Actually, Lacy's bid wasn't the lowest. The Navy received one offer for $10 for the sub.

Fewer Pretty Girls—That's What Design Engineers Ask

By JESSE ROGUE
NEW YORK (UPI)—This urge to know what the customer really wants has gone just about far enough.

A producer of industrial exhibitions, the New York firm of Clapp and Poliak, Inc., made a survey of visitors to a design engineering show in Detroit earlier this year and came up today with a booklet full of factual information on what your engineer seeks to find in an exhibit at one of the big shows.

For example, technically-qualified booth personnel who can answer questions immediately without having to refer back to the home office; information on research and room to browse.

But the shocker came on Page 7 in heavy, easy to read print in green ink.

"They want," it said, "fewer pretty girls."

Probably it is a credit to the thirst for knowledge held by the American engineer that they should feel this way, but it doesn't get any more pleasant as you read on.

"Being human," continues the text, "design engineers like pretty girls as much as any of us do."

It goes on to say engineers "find them disconcerting, annoying and non-informative as both representatives in the design engineering show."

"If you do employ girls," it recommended, "then give them natural and sensible functions to perform, such as staffing a reception desk and answering telephones, or recording literature and other service requests. Insist that they dress conservatively and simply, much as you expect your secretary to dress in the office."

Well that's some help. But gosh, engineers, do you REALLY mean it?

Pupils Planning For Halloween In Lefors School

LEFORS (Spl)—In class meetings held Monday, the seventh and eighth grades selected candidates for the Halloween carnival race.

The seventh grade choice was Elaine Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knox Nichols of Little Seminole. Elaine has participated in the Pirate band for three years, is a member of the Bandit pep squad and currently president of the seventh grade.

The seventh grade booth at the carnival will be a miniature golf course, which will be managed by the class sponsors, Miss Norma Lantz and Coach Eddy Clemmons, and operated by the class members.

The eighth grade candidate is Sharon Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Harrington from Hopkins. Sharon is a member of the pep squad.

The eighth grade booth at the carnival will be a Basketball throw and the grab bag booth. Mrs. Dale Prescott and Coach Harley Lewis will assist.

Woes In Berlin Possibly Due To Errors Of Past

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — In 1945, the United States missed two more chances to strengthen its position in Berlin.

The first was the failure to take Berlin.

On April 12, 1945, the day President Roosevelt died and 18 days before the Russians captured Berlin, Ninth U.S. Army units crossed the Elbe River near Magdeburg, 50 miles from the German capital.

On April 7, 1945, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had messaged Army Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall in Washington that while he believed going after Berlin was militarily unsound—"I am the first to admit that a war is waged in pursuance of political aims and if the Combined Chiefs of Staff should decide that the Allied effort to take Berlin outweighs purely military decisions in this theater, I would cheerfully readjust my plans and my thinking so as to carry out such an operation."

Gen. Eisenhower had expressed his concern about the political aims of the war and possible trouble with the Russians in 1944, according to publisher Henry Luce. Writing in Life Magazine after a conversation with Mr. Eisenhower in September, 1961, Luce said:

"In 1944... Eisenhower flew to Washington where he found President Roosevelt in bed with influenza. 'This is my pet,' he told the President. 'Let's not have separate occupation zones in Germany. Instead let's have joint Allied administration of the whole country.'"

"Impossible," Roosevelt replied. "I'm already committed." Eisenhower received no direction from above. Adm. William D. Leahy, Chief of Staff to the Commander in Chief, later commented "My notes do not show that the matter (of whether to stop at the Elbe or push on to Berlin) ever came before the Combined Chiefs of Staff."

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill during this period repeatedly urged the taking of Berlin to strengthen the hands of the Western Powers in that city.

Newspaper Enterprise Association asked State Department officials why no political direction was given General Eisenhower on such an important political matter. Their reply:

"So far as we can tell, the State Department never heard about Gen. Eisenhower's request and therefore had no chance to give its advice. The Secretary of State wasn't kept informed about military matters — even those that had wide political ramifications."

The second lost chance was the failure to extract agreements from the Russians before turning over to Soviet occupation troops a large chunk of Germany which U.S. forces had conquered.

Shortly before April 21, 1945, Prime Minister Churchill proposed to President Harry Truman that the British and American troops remain, at least for the time being, on the lines to which they had advanced far within the future Soviet zone. He suggested that the two governments use this unexpected bargaining advantage to bring about a clarification of Soviet policy toward Germany.

In May, one week after V-E Day, one of Gen. Eisenhower's SHAEF members sought and secured from U.S. Ambassador John G. Winant's political advisor, Philip E. Moseley, a document which recommended that American forces should not be withdrawn from their advanced positions in Germany until the U.S. had received from the Russians an agreement in writing.

This agreement was to authorize the American commander to use any two railways and any two highways from the Western zones to Berlin to carry out any and all repairs and to maintain communications, repair and fuel stations along these routes.

"I am only assuming, of course, that Ahmad keeps such a diary. It may be that he doesn't believe in committing his inner thoughts to paper.

But wouldn't you give a lot to know what sort of an impression a wheeler and dealer like our "Veep" has made on someone like Ahmad? I certainly would.

I have even gone so far as to imagine that some of the diary entries would read something like this:

"— A funny thing happened to me today on my way into town with a load of straw. I was going down the road minding my business when suddenly a tall stranger rushed up and began carrying on like I was his long last brother.

"He pumped my hand and gave me a bear hug that darn near collapsed a lung. The poor fellow must have been out in the sun too long.

"I couldn't understand what he was saying, but I smiled and nodded like I was agreeing with him. I figured that was the best way to handle the situation.

"— Ali Hertz, who runs a rent-a-camel service in Karachi, tells me that the tall stranger I met on the road yesterday actually was the American Vice President. He says all American politicians act that way...

"— This thing is getting more fantastic all the time. I was told today that the Vice President had invited me to America and that I had accepted. Wait till the fellows down at the stable hear about this.

"— Dear diary, I can hardly believe this, but here I am in an airplane, flying to America. An airplane doesn't smell as nice as a camel, but it rides smoother...

"— Landed today at a place called New York. The tall stranger was there to meet me. Took no chances on getting a rib cracked. This time I gave him a bear hug...

"— I am at a place called the LBJ ranch in a place called Texas. It is very confusing. If the tall stranger is truly the Vice President, why does he live way out here?

"— The tall stranger took me around to see some cows and horses. Also saw a big herd of Cadillac. They may be all right for him, but I'd walk a mile for a camel."

Common Stocks Good Buys Now, Broker Claims

NEW YORK (UPI) — Standard & Poor's says a continued well-invested position in common stocks is warranted by both the market's action and by prospects for extended business improvement. It advises selective buying in situations selling at reasonable ratios relative to foreseeable earnings.

Investors Research Co. says the next few weeks will be very important as far as investment policy is concerned. "Should the very favorable short-term signs continue to prevail against the background of an indifferent pattern in the Dow-Jones industrial average, we would have the basic ingredients for a sharply higher stock market."

Spear & Staff advises investors to use any coming periods of weakness to establish positions in specialty issues with demonstrated earnings power. It believes it is in these stocks that the best gains will be made.

Clark, Dodge & Co. says that with the food group already selling at 24 times earnings and yielding 2.3 per cent, it continues to believe that better appreciation prospects over the next year or so are available in other industries where more impressive interim earnings gains are expected.

Mitchell of Canada says the silver stockpile dwindled from 123 million to 85 million ounces over the nine months ended Oct. 4 and "unless someone can pull a rabbit out of a hat, the only long-term solution to the silver shortage is a rise in the price of silver."

Cohen First Man To Quit Alcatraz Prison On Bail

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mickey Cohen, the first man ever to leave Alcatraz prison on bail, was to return to his Los Angeles home today.

The 47-year-old ex- hoodlum stepped off the prison launch Tuesday and gave his brother, Harry, and his attorney big bear hugs.

Cohen went to Alcatraz July 28 on a 15-year sentence after being convicted of evading $200,000 in income taxes. U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas ordered him released on $100,000 bail pending appeal of his case, expected Nov. 10.

Cohen said he expected to leave for Los Angeles as soon as possible to begin work on a book and a motion picture about his life. He also said that if he gets the court's permission, he expects to marry his 19-year-old blonde girl friend, Sandra Hagen.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Charles Chaplin Jr. began a five-day jail term today for drunken driving. The son of the famed comedian pleaded guilty to the charge Tuesday and was also fined $250.

Chaplin, 36, was given an alternative of paying the fine or serving in additional 20 days in jail.

Doughnuts and UNICEF Boxes Help Chase Disease, Spooks From Children

Countless American boys and girls are getting ready to follow on Halloween the example set ten years ago by a few Sunday school pupils who donated their Halloween "treats" of coins to the United Nations Children's Fund.

These young Americans who wrap the familiar orange and black UNICEF label around a milk carton will feel rightly proud of their participation in history's greatest project carried out by children to help children. They know that a single penny given to the Children's Fund can mean enough vaccine to protect a youngster against TB; a nickel can represent the penicillin to cure a case of yaws; 20 cents represents the antibiotics to treat a child for trachoma; 50 cents can supply enough DDT to protect four children from malaria for a year; and $1.00 can provide sufficient sulfone tablets to treat a young leprosy victim successfully for three years.

Let the children run their own UNICEF Halloween doughnut party and "dress up" the doughnuts. The official UNICEF coin container, a half-pint milk carton with a UNICEF Halloween wrapper, comes in handy as a centerpiece on the Halloween table. Put an official UNICEF poster on the back wall. Take a baker's doughnut and make a funny face. Eyes can be small or midget marshmallows with raisins for pupils. A hat can be a large marshmallow crushed into a crown or derby shape. Noses for hobgoblins or witches can be a crooked cashew nut or Brazil nut. Ears can be black and white licorice bits.

Take your extra supply of doughnuts and prepare them for the trick-or-treaters when they knock on the door for UNICEF. Take a penny, nickel, dime or quarter. Insert in the doughnut hole and secure with clear tape. Wrap doughnut in sanitary foil. The coin will go into the UNICEF coin box and the doughnut will serve as fine food fare.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Casserole of tuna and stuffed green olives, fluffy rice, buttered broccoli, seeded rolls, butter or margarine, sliced tomatoes with chopped parsley, fruit bowl, doughnuts, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

STRETCH THEIR USE

Don't throw rubbers away because sides are split. Patch with adhesive-type plastic tape on the inside; use a tube-packaged rubber compound to mend tear. Rubbers will serve well in home or garden.

Delightful Treat From Dixie—Hot Corn Cakes And Coffee

Once again, the griddle sizzles with a warm reminder of the old south, Dixie Corn Cakes are cooking—sweet corn pancakes crisply flavored with crumbled bacon. Next to the griddle, the coffee pot perks, timed to be ready just as the Corn Cakes are scooped onto the plates.

Naturally, Dixie Corn Cakes make an ideal holiday breakfast, the kind that nobody in the household would think of skipping. But if you're partial to Sunday suppers by the fireside, you'll want to serve these wonderful hot cakes some evening when you have a few friends over for a light supper.

Dixie Corn Cakes should arrive at the table, with butter melting over them. Then, bring on pitchers of hot maple or apple syrup and steaming cups of coffee. Just before the coffee pot doesn't run dry, there's nothing more hospitable than plenty of coffee for everyone as you whittle away at slabs of Dixie Corn Cakes.

Dixie Corn Cakes
 1 package (16 oz.) corn muffin mix
 2 eggs, unbeaten
 2 cup milk
 6 strips bacon, cooked and crumbled
 2 tablespoons melted bacon fat
 1 cup well-drained whole kernel corn

Combine all ingredients; stir briskly until thoroughly blended. Bake on hot griddle, turning once. Serve with butter and hot maple or apple syrup. Makes about 20 cakes, 4 inches in diameter.

After Game Party Sure To Score Hit

FALL FOOTBALL FROLIC

An after-the-game party's a "winner" with the football crowd. Make it buffet style for ease of service and for informal conversation. A colorful football centerpiece constructed from chicken wire and flared tissues and framed by home-made goalposts sets the mood. Tissue pom-poms are clever favors for your guests, and easy to make, too.

Win or lose, when the football game is over, your fellow fans are sure to appreciate an "after the game" party and buffet supper.

It's an easy party to plan. You can make your own invitations in the form of small pennants in the color of the home team. Just print the details of the party on the pennants and drop them into a colored envelope.

To encourage a feeling of informality among your guests, a buffet supper is ideal. It has a built-in entertainment value because the guests "circulate" to chat with more people.

For a centerpiece on your table, make a floral football—a real attention-getter. All you do is form chicken wire into the shape of a football. Make the wire foundation about three inches smaller than you wish the centerpiece to be.

The paper covering is made by cutting out large circles of flared tissue and tucking two or three into each opening in the chicken wire. Continue inserting the tissues until the wire is completely covered. (Tissues will hold better if the wire is brushed lightly with glue.)

You can make the goal posts by using the cores from rolls of paper towels. Cover them with plain paper; then decorate with alternating stripes of colored paper. Set the posts in flower holders or styrofoam bases. For an added "authentic" touch, yard lines can be indicated by using a colorful striped paper—tablecloth.

Pom poms are appropriate and popular favors for a football party.

ty. And you can make them, too. Here's how: take six tissues of the color you wish (flare red, yellow, white, pink, aqua or any combination). Fold the tissues in half and fringe with a scissor, making cuts one-fourth inch apart up to one inch from the top. Shake the fringes out and wrap around the end of a thin dowel stick. Fasten with heavy thread or fine wire—and you'll have a giant tissue pom-pom for each guest.

What kind of food to serve? That problem is easily solved with this menu—

Barbecued Beef on Buns
 Tossed Green Salad
 Potato Chips and Relishes
 Hot Apple Pie
 Coffee

You won't have to worry about cooking time, because you can have it all prepared before you leave home for the game. Just warm up the barbecued beef for a few minutes when you arrive home. You'll cut clean-up time, too, if you use gay casual paper napkins—in your school colors, of course.

Sound like a good party? Then try it soon. It's a "winner" with the football crowd.

Quickie Oriental Supper Dishes With Soup

When busy October schedules... PTA meetings, woman's club luncheons or at home chafers... call for meals in minutes or quick supper dishes, depend on canned condensed soup to help you.

From hearty soup 'n sandwich meals to "souper" one-dish meals, canned condensed soups can make "light work" and "short order" out of meal preparation... especially with leftovers.

For a tempting speedy far eastern style casserole that will make the folks think you've spent hours in the kitchen whip up a Chinese Pork Casserole. It combines dried cooked pork, Chinese cabbage and colorful vegetables in a savory sauce of sauced condensed cream of chicken soup blended with soy sauce. An edging of crisp Chinese noodles completes this Oriental delight!

The dessert, too, is a quickie. Prepare a package of rice pudding mix and just before serving fold in canned mandarin oranges. If chopsticks are available, eat with them, for added fun.

Chinese Pork Casserole
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
 1/2 cup water
 1 teaspoon soy sauce
 1/2 cup cooked peas
 1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
 2 tablespoons thinly sliced green onion
 1 cup dried cooked pork
 4 cups finely shredded Chinese cabbage
 1/2 cup Chinese noodles

In a 1 1/2 quart casserole, blend soup, water, and soy sauce. Stir in remaining ingredients, except noodles. Bake in a moderate oven (350°) 20 minutes. Sprinkle noodles around edge of casserole. Bake 10 minutes more. Makes 4 servings.

Proper Breakfast Will See Family Through Busy Morning Until Lunch

Let's take a glance at the breakfasts we eat. Do they contain the proper foods to see us through to lunch without a morning let down?

A high-quality protein food, such as meat, should always be included. This kind of protein keeps you going all morning and prevents hunger pangs.

Let's follow the example of the southerners who are known for their hearty breakfasts. It's an old-time Southern Sausage Breakfast of sausage patties and corn meal mush. The mush is made special by adding currants. It's fried in the spicy sausage drippings and served with sirup.

Reba Staggs, home economist, recommends preparing and chilling the mush the day before. Breakfast is easy! All you do is brown the sausage patties and the slices of mush. Include a citrus fruit and milk for your hearty, nutritious meal.

SOUTHERN SAUSAGE BREAKFAST
 1 pound fresh pork sausage

Buttons Will Stay
 To replace buttons so that they "stay" on children's clothes, try using dental floss for sewing instead of ordinary thread.

imately 2-3 cup condensed cream of celery soup
 2 tablespoons chopped onion
 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
 1/4 cup catchup
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Cook liver in lard or drippings until lightly browned on both sides, about 5 minutes. Grind liver and add to ground beef. Mix together soft bread crumbs, egg and celery soup. Combine meats, bread crumb mixture, onion, parsley, salt, pepper and dry mustard. Shape into 6 patties. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Combine catchup, sugar, prepared mustard and salt and spread over patties. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes, 6 servings.

Court Declares Fugitive Signed Own Extradition

AUSTIN (UPI)—The court of Criminal Appeals has ruled Georgia fugitive Edgar Thompson of Sherman signed his own extradition by admitting an alias, and ordered him sent to Georgia.

Thompson is sought by Georgia authorities for a prison break 16 years ago.

The court, in an opinion by Judge Wesley Dice, said the extradition order and identification of Thompson as the wanted fugitive were correct.

Thompson, 45, escaped after serving a few months of a four-year sentence for two robbery convictions. A man was killed in the escape.

For the past 18 years, Thompson has lived in Sherman under the name of Richard Pressley. The Georgia record was turned up after he was convicted in Texas of bootlegging.

Zollie Steakley, who was then secretary of state, signed the extradition order July 27, 1960 to remand Thompson to Georgia's custody.

Thompson contended in his appeal that duplicates of the papers accompanying Gov. Price Daniel's request for extradition were not provided him or his attorney. He also said the Texas authorities had failed to identify him properly as the accused.

FULL OF TASTEWORTHY FOOD VALUE

'Man's Best Friend' Trouble For His Wife

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Every body knows a dog is a man's best friend and as far as Mrs. H. B. Stuck is concerned today, it can stay that way.

From here on out she wants nothing to do with dogs in general, and her husband's in particular.

Quite frankly, about half of the city officials of Fort Worth are mighty tickled she feels that way. Talk about an uproar. . . it looked like a minor war around her home this week and repercussions reached deep into city hall.

It all started when "Blackie" came streaking home like a scalded cat.

Mr. Stuck let the black Labrador retriever into the house. Then she saw the reason for the haste. Puffing up outside were two city animal control officers.

Fort Worth has a law that says dogs on the street have to be escorted. . . on the other end of a leash.

Stuck was away on a business trip.

"They started knocking on the front door and I was wondering how I could tell my husband when he returned that his dog was in the city pound," Mrs. Stuck said.

So, she just refused to invite the dog catchers in. And she hid Blackie in the garage.

Outside, the dog catchers radioed for help. Inside, Mrs. Stuck did the same thing. They got a police sergeant to call Mrs. Stuck. She called Mayor John Justin, but he was out.

Meanwhile, the sergeant got through. She told him she was going to call the police.

"Lady, I am the police," he said. She hung up on him.

Then she called city manager L. P. Cookingham. He was out. By this time, two police patrolmen had driven up and were pounding on the door. She called city councilman Don McLeland. He was in and came out to the house.

While he was enroute, she called two men from her husband's plant, Stuck Adhesives, Inc., and they came running. By the time they arrived, there was a minor traffic jam between the private cars, three police cars and the animal control wagon.

The policemen (four by now) talked the two men from Stuck's plant into taking the ticket (handed just like a traffic ticket) inside with them and giving it to Mrs. Stuck.

Quite quickly then, they withdrew.

Mrs. Stuck complained to McLeland they should have stuck it in the mailbox or on the outside of the front door.

At any rate, she was so upset that she took Blackie to a private kennel until her husband gets back.

"Next time my husband goes on a trip," she said, "He can darn sure take Blackie with him."

"I don't know what he sees in that dog."

"All she could do is just sit there and smile."

Eight More Die In Algiers Riots

PARIS (UPI)—Terrorists killed eight more persons in Algeria in the past 24 hours and the French government moved swiftly today to deport Algerian Moslems who rioted in the streets of Paris Tuesday night. Two were killed and 55 hospitalized in that earlier violence.

Government spokesman Louis Terrenoire emerged from a cabinet meeting to announce that 1,500 of the 11,500 Algerians arrested here will be shipped back home within the next 48 hours.

The 11,500 were almost half the 25,000 Algerians who rioted in this tourist-filled capital city in demonstrations against a curfew restricting their nighttime movement.

West Berliners Also Departing, Reporter Learns

By LEON DENNEN
NEW YORK (NEA)—Berliners are again "voting with their feet" against communism.

Only now it is West Berliners who are moving to West Germany for fear that their city will ultimately fall into the clutches of Premier Khrushchev's East German puppet, Walter Ulbricht.

Western diplomats take comfort in the fact that the exodus has not yet reached the proportions of a panic. Yet the mental picture of this retreat haunts me as I return from three months of reporting in Europe.

Despite President Kennedy's promise to defend the right of access to West Berlin, thousands are quietly leaving or making plans to leave the beleaguered city.

In the view of West Berliners, the doom of their city was sealed last August when Ulbricht built his concrete wall which now separates East from West Berlin and when the West failed to knock it down.

It would be a grave error on the part of the Western leaders to underestimate the impact of this action on the German people.

It would be another mistake to ignore its effect on Europeans of all walks of life or on the leaders of the neutralist nations whom I recently met at the Belgrade conference.

For the Germans, the open door of Berlin was precious because it was the last remaining breach in the wall between East and West Germany. Its slamming awoke the sense of national emergency.

Ulbricht's wall exploded the myth that firm loyalty to the West means safety from Red encroachment.

Ordinary Europeans say they are no longer convinced that the West is in a position to negotiate with Moscow more than a face-saving solution in exchange for recognizing the East German Communist regime.

A prominent East German Communist who recently escaped West said: "Since Ulbricht was permitted to seal off East Berlin, West Berlin is no longer a bulwark against communism."

"West Berlin is still a symbol of freedom but what man in his right mind would fight an atomic war for a fading symbol?"

East Germans asserted Ulbricht and his henchmen never expected to get away with the sealing of East Berlin so easily. They were nervous about possible Western countermeasures. When these did not come, nervousness gave way to arrogant self-confidence.

Last summer Europeans were still certain that the unity of Berlin would be preserved. As I left I heard the question: "Will the free world survive?"

In Belgrade and in East and West Berlin, in Paris and London I was repeatedly asked whether President Kennedy actually meant it when he said: "We intend to have a wider choice than humiliation or all-out nuclear war."

The American President still is popular among ordinary Europeans. His courageous speeches are written in a language that Europeans love to read. The right word spoken by the President at the right time usually gives the man-in-the-street a lift.

But gradually dismay is beginning to creep in. The ordinary European can hardly be blamed for being confused and frightened by the conflicting statements on Berlin and the recognition of Communist East Germany by influential Americans such as Senators Mike Mansfield and J. W. Fulbright and Gen. Lucius Clay. President Kennedy's special emissary in West Berlin.

Europe watched as in a state of hypnosis — like in a tale by Kafka — the construction of Ulbricht's wall behind which terror will prevail and freedom will be excluded forever more. One began to sense how the credit of our President — and of America — was ebbing away.

"What does the future hold in store for us?" ordinary people began to ask me.

"Is Kennedy's new frontier Ulbricht's wall?" was one sardonic question.

Only closed minds are against East-West negotiations about Berlin. But the consensus of Europeans — intellectuals, labor leaders and ordinary men — was that President Kennedy must insist on the razing of Ulbricht's wall before he sits down to negotiate with Khrushchev.

They are convinced that if the Allies permit Khrushchev to violate all existing agreements on the four-power control of all Berlin his puppet Ulbricht will only be encouraged to further aggression.

If the West can be frightened by Moscow's atomic blackmail why should not the Communists use it again and again to impose the Kremlin's will on so-called "hostage" nations like Britain and France and ultimately on the United States as well?

The memory of Munich and the disastrous war that followed is still fresh in the minds of Europeans.

Speediest Plane Braked In Flight

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI)—Pilot Joe Walker — who set a speed record of 3,920 miles an hour — is convinced the X15 rocket plane will fly faster than its designed goal of 4,000 m. p. h.

The reason? He put the black research plane's speed brakes on Tuesday to keep his speed down during a scorching 10-minute ride that signaled the X15 is ready for an all-out flight.

Arms Control Possible, Agency Chief Believes

By LOUIS CASSELS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — To describe William Chapman Foster's job as difficult and frustrating is to take the optimist's view.

A pessimist would call it hopeless. Foster's job is to find a way to halt the arms race between the United States and Russia.

Does he really think this can be done — despite the tension over Berlin, the paralysis of the United Nations, the resumption of nuclear tests, and all the other signs which point toward a continuing rapid acceleration of the arms race?

"Yes, I do," he said in an interview. "The more dangerous the world situation becomes, the more urgent is the necessity of an arms control agreement. Unless we somehow make progress on this problem, we may have no other problems to worry about a few years from now. I believe this basic fact is recognized on both sides."

Foster is a tall, urbane, 64-year-old man with patrician features and dark hair which has acquired just the right touch of grey at the temples. In private life, he is a Republican-business executive. But he has spent a large portion of the past 15 years in high public office, mostly under Democratic presidents.

He served from 1946 to 1948 as undersecretary of commerce; from 1948 to 1951 as one of the principal architects and administrators of the Marshall Plan; from 1951 to 1953 as deputy secretary of defense. In 1958 he headed the U.S. delegation to the Geneva conference with Russia on surprise attack safeguards.

When President Kennedy announced on Sept. 26 that he had appointed Foster to head the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, no one in Washington was surprised. The consensus was that it would be hard to find a man with more impressive qualifications for the job.

Foster's agency is brand new. It was created by legislation which Congress enacted during the closing days of the recent session, at the President's request. Kennedy said its purpose is to bring America's best brains to bear on the quest for workable disarmament agreements.

Although the agency has independent status, it is presently housed in the State Department Building, and will work closely with the department. Foster occupies the famous walnut-paneled suite on the fifth floor which served for many years as the office of the secretary of state. (Secretary of State Dean Rusk has moved into a new addition to the building.)

Foster sat on a leather sofa in the corner of this historic, high-ceilinged room during the interview. He warned at the outset that he would not feel free to answer specific questions about the details of disarmament negotiations. But he was willing to discuss overall aims and prospects.

His visitor observed that Foster was supposed to be a hard-headed businessman, not a utopian dreamer. He must have some realistic basis for believing that progress can be made toward disarmament, or he wouldn't have taken on the job. What specific reasons did he have for thinking that Russia and the United States, deeply divided on everything else, can get together on such a complex matter as armaments reduction?

Foster pressed his long fingers together and weighed his answer. His professional training as an engineer (at Massachusetts Institute of Technology) has left him with strong feelings about the importance of precision in speech.

"I believe," he said, "that in this one area, at least, the United States and Russia have a common interest. We are both interested in preventing the destruction of the world.

"I believe that all intelligent men — and the leaders of Russia certainly fall into that category — can see that the present arms race is increasing the insecurity, not the security, of both sides.

"The destructive power of modern weapons is no longer growing at an arithmetic rate — doubling, tripling and so forth. It is now growing at a logarithmic rate. (He used his outstretched hand to describe a steeply ascending curve in the air.) We are dealing with ten-fold, hundred-fold, thousand-fold jumps in destructive power.

reach the point where the situation is uncontrollable."

How long will it take to reach that point of no return at the present rate of arms development?

"I don't know exactly. Perhaps five or six years, perhaps eight or 10 years. But I do know that mankind has a finite period of time in which to find a solution to this problem, however difficult and complex it may be. And, as I said before, I believe the leaders of Russia know this too."

The United States and Russia have been talking about disarmament, on and off, for 15 years. But every proposal, beginning with Bernard Baruch's 1946 plan for international control of atomic energy, has foundered on a basic disagreement over what constitutes an adequate system of guarantees.

The United States has insisted on arrangements for mutual "verification" that promised disarmament actually has been carried out. Russia has balked at any elaborate inspection plan on the grounds it would open Soviet territory to "foreign spies."

Are the Russians serious about this fear of espionage, or are they just using it as an excuse to stall disarmament?

"It do not doubt that they are quite earnest about their sensitivity to espionage," Foster said. "This is an important factor which the United States must always take into account in its approach to arms control and disarmament proposals.

"But the Russians must also open their minds to the facts. The United States is not insisting on effective verification for purposes of espionage, or propaganda, but simply because it is essential to insure that agreements are kept."

His visitor observed that Foster spoke of both "arms control" and "disarmament." What's the difference?

"Complete disarmament is our objective," he said. "But that is a long road, and we can't wait until the goal is in sight to start moving.

"The way to begin is to commence. Steps should be taken to halt the dangerous race we are in as quickly as possible, even while we attempt to begin a planned mutual reduction of armaments. That's what I mean by arms control."

AWARDED MALTESE CROSS
NEW YORK (UPI) — Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Tuesday was awarded the Maltese Cross of Merit by the Sovereign Order of Malta, a Roman Catholic religious order.

Lodge was the third non-Roman Catholic layman to receive the award. The others were Vice President Lyndon Johnson and Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y.

AROUND THE WORLD

SOFT LANDING—The softest way to "shoot the chute" is unintentionally demonstrated by this paratrooper at Cheraw, S. C. Fortunately for this fellow, he was almost on the ground when he landed atop the parachute of one of his comrades during a 995-man drop during operation "Swift Strike." The only thing damaged was his pride.

BEAUTY ON THE WING—Adding a bit of lovely color to a marigold, an Indian butterfly spreads its wings as it gracefully lands on the flower. The butterfly was resting atop the bloom in London's Regent's Park Zoo. He'd better keep an eye open for birds.

LAZY DAY—Joe Tabor, 9, is completely unaware of the problems of the world at Niles, Ohio. With fishing pole in hand, Joe's only concern is getting a bite. Even in the space age, a can full of worms and a pole are still wonderful things to a boy.

'LITTLE OFF THE TOP, SIR?'—"Charlie horse" is the nickname London County Council-cleaning men have for this equestrian statue in the Whitehall district. The mournful monarch having his head dusted off is King Charles I, who appears about ready for a shampoo, too.

DEBUT—Three tiger cubs make their debut at the Zoo in San Francisco. David (left) apparently doesn't like to have his picture taken. Goliath (right) takes it in stride. Sharlene, like any girl, seems pleased about the whole thing.

GOLDEN HARVEST—A golden wheatfield shimmers under the bright morning sun in this typical Kansas summer landscape near Emporia. The beautiful wheat harvest scene was captured by camera on the farm of E. E. Reeman.

THE CALM AFTER THE STORM—This old bridge's graceful lines are reflected in quiet waters beneath. What looks like a peaceful river is actually a road in New Delhi, India. The road was inundated after eight hours of torrential rain in the area.

'WELL, HOW DO YOU LIKE IT?'—Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home. That's the way Mr. and Mrs. Percy Penguin feel about this abandoned length of water main pipe that is their new home. Says the little woman: "It's the latest style, Percy, and it's so cool." They are residents of the Whipsnade Zoo in Bedfordshire, England.

FIRST VISIT—Petite Shelley Fabares, 17, didn't let the rain dampen her enjoyment on her arrival in New York for her first visit to the city. Shelley plays the daughter in the Donna Reed TV series and she is the niece of actress Nanette Fabray.

SMAAACK—Unable to resist mimicking this plaster head, Mrs. Ronald Satok provides a double feature at a Toronto, Canada, art exhibit. More than 100 artists from all over Ontario displayed their works. The head above is the work of Mrs. Glenn Staron, a librarian at York University.

WELL-GOURDED—Los Angeles County Fair Princess Diane Munch is surrounded by gourds of all shapes and sizes at Pomona, Calif. The gourds were part of an exhibit of 130 items grown by Alex and Lois Mueller on their 10-acre farm. Diane could wear the gourd she holds as a scarf.

STRAW BONNETS—The straws that will protect coiffures from breezes at resorts throughout 1961-1962 are presented by Scarabocchio. High crowns, broad brims and gay ribbons make chic head lines in the Florence, Italy, straw market that sets the pace for the rest of the world.

GOOD WILLS TOUR—A tugboat caravan carried 150 international representatives across the New York harbor to the S.S. Rotterdam for a celebration of the flagship's forthcoming good will tour, her "Around the World in 80 Days" cruise. The cruise is an experiment in closer relationships between the passengers and the peoples of the foreign countries on the itinerary.

AUTUMN WEAR—Autumn comes early to London as designers stage a showing of their cool weather fashion collection. From Digby Horton comes a jaunty suit combining dark brown wool with light brown and gray check. The jacket, finished with a deep band of dark brown, has hip pockets and mink scarf-collar. It's just the thing for those cool autumn nights, soon to come.

Dear Abby... Young Boy Deserves Happy, Normal Life

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: For five years now we have taken on the full responsibility of our son's illegitimate child. The mother of this child is very irresponsible, and left the child with me since birth. My son and this girl have been going together since the baby was born, but have made no marriage plans for the future. They both date other people. The child sees his mother occasionally, but is confused about who she is because I am the only "mother" he has known, although I have him call me Nanna to let him know I am not his mother. We are the child's legal guardians, and our only concern is that this child should have a happy, normal life. Please help us clear up this mess while there is still time.

HEARTSICK NANNA

DEAR NANNA: To be honest with you, I think you have another child to raise. Why don't you ask for a legal waiver on the boy from both parents, adopt him, and give him the normal life he has coming to him?

DEAR ABBY: I like a kid and he likes me. He is 18 and I am 16. My father says this kid looks like a "wise guy," and he won't let me go out with him. I think this is very unfair as my father only saw him once for a little while. Can you help me?

DEAR SIXTEEN: Parents have been known to misjudge people, but they usually are correct in their first impressions. Take your father's word for it, and be a "wise girl."

DEAR ABBY: This might sound like a very petty thing to complain about, but it means a lot to me. My husband doesn't remember my birthday, our anniversary, the children's birthdays or any of the smaller occasions, like Valentine's Day and Mother's Day. He DOES remember Christmas because there is so much advertising about it, I don't love him any less for it, but I can't help feeling a little hurt. Don't tell me I should be glad he doesn't get drunk and chase women. I know all his good qualities, but I wish he were a little more thoughtful. When he forgets, he

Mrs. J. Davies Circle Hostess

Mrs. John Davies, 1128 S. Sumner, was hostess for the Gilleland Circle meeting of Highland Baptist Church Women's Missionary Union.

New officers were elected during the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Lee Gilleland. Mrs. George Moore gave a devotional directed to the discharge of duties by the officers.

Plans concerning all phases of WMU work were made for the coming year.

Mrs. A. M. Giesler closed the meeting with prayer.

Members attending in addition to those previously mentioned were Mmes. D. W. Tracy, Ray Jackson, Maysel Butler, Gene Winegeart, WMU president. Mrs. Milton Tice was welcomed as a guest.

DEAR "FORGOTTEN": Don't sulk in silence. Start your own "advertising campaign" by sending your husband little reminders a week or two in advance. You will be "remembered," and your husband won't feel guilty because he "forgot."

WASH TO WEAR WELL.
If a twice-daily face washing makes a young skin clearer and prettier, how much more necessary it is to a complexion that has weathered more years.

Imaginative gifts of beauty will answer the Christmas wishes of many women this year. For the girl who cares how she looks at all times, there are pretty checked cap (upper left) to cover rollers and matching bag to hold rollers. Giant swansdown puff (lower left) is a long-lasting, washable luxury. This Christmas belle (right) wears print terrycloth cardigan as she eyes the pretty shower cap trimmed with a flower. Both are practical gifts.

Give Gift Of Beauty At Christmas This Year

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It may come as a shock, but Christmas is not really far off. And it's time to start your gift list, particularly if it's to be a long one.

Very often, the small gift, or stocking stuffer, is the most difficult to choose. But for the women on your list, the task should be simple this year.

Why not choose accessories for bath and beauty time? You need not worry about size or age, for they're as suitable for elderly aunts as they are for teen-age cousins.

Soft, fluffy swansdown powder puffs, for example, come in many luscious colors and make luxurious gifts. The large ones, perfect for dusting on fragrant powder after a bath, come boxed in clear plastic. They are pretty enough to present even without gift-wrapping.

For the girl who wears popular modified bouffant coiffure, there is a shower cap, bubble-shaped, with adjustable ribs to hold the plastic puffed out and away from her hair so that it won't be crushed. Many are clear plastic, through which gleam bright flowers.

A "nightcap" or cover-up for rollers after a shampoo and set will make a popular gift, especially if given in combination with Another charming and versatile gift would be a pair of frilly nylon net slippers in a matching drawstring bag which serves as a curler cap or a small travel-many purposes. It can be used in bag to hold soap and other bath accessories—and the slippers can even be washed in it. This would be ideal for the lucky girl who will soon be resort-bound or off on a cruise.

A bathtub vanity tray would also make an attractive and useful Christmas remembrance, as would bath oil, scented soap or any of the small extravagances that make the daily bath routine delightfully luxurious.

These are just a few of the items you will find displayed on counters everywhere. They'll simplify your shopping chore, and they're sure to please every girl on your list. For no woman can resist a gift that makes her feel beautifully feminine.

Book Reviewed For TC Culture

Twentieth Century Culture Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ross Buzzard with Mrs. V. L. Hobbs as co-hostess.

Preceding the program, Mrs. Phil Gates, president, conducted a business meeting during which the secretary's report was given by Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer, secretary.

The Council of Club's report was given by Mrs. L. J. Zachry. Mrs. Warren Hasse was appointed Civil Defense chairman. A report on Fire Prevention Week was given by Mrs. Joe Donaldson.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Leslie Hart reviewed "Quest of America" by George Mard-kiam, owner of the Omar Khayyam's Restaurant in San Francisco.

Before starting the review, Mrs. Hart emphasized the author's patriotism and love for America. She brought out that the story is the Armenian author's search for happiness and success in America. "It is sometimes happy, sometimes sad and tells of many interesting Armenian customs," the reviewer stated.

Refreshments were served during the social hour to the 17 members present.

Take It From Kathy

Q — For the past couple of months my boy friend has been calling at the last minute for dates. I don't have time to plan my clothes or do my hair. It's agony to sit waiting for a call that might not come. Sometimes I pass up things I'd like to do just because I think he might call. How can I make him understand?

A — Purposely plan other fun for an evening he is expected to call. When he telephones, be sincere about your feelings. Let him know that you would have preferred his company, but made plans because you weren't sure he would call. It might be necessary to do this several times to wake him up.

If you enjoy his company, don't turn down every date. Refuse just enough so that he realizes you have other alternatives. He will be the one who is left-peaceing the 31st floor.

At the last minute, it will be difficult for him to make plans that are pleasant.

A few dull evenings should make him think ahead.

If he doesn't change, remember that waiting for a husband who doesn't show up on schedule is much more difficult than hoping a boy friend will call.

Duo Favored To Triumph In Tourney

COSTA MESA, Calif. (UPI)—Billy Casper and Jerry Barber, pro golfers fresh from America's Ryder Cup victory over Britain, rate among the favorites today in the start of the $17,500 72-hole Orange County Open at Mesa Verde Country Club.

Casper, the only poly former U.S. Open champion from San Diego, Calif., is in a hot streak. He was undefeated in Ryder Cup play and won the Portland, Ore., Open in September. Casper is the fourth leading money-winner of the year with official earnings of $34,983.

Barber had a special incentive to fly here from Europe in time to play — his older brother Willie is host pro. Jerry's biggest win of the year was the national PGA title — good for $11,000. He is 22nd in official earnings with $20,176.

Other pros anxious to share in the moolah here include: Jack Fleck, Los Angeles; Bob Rossburg, Portland, Ore.; Bobby Nichols, Midland, Tex.; Al Geberger, Santa Barbara, Calif.; Bob Harrison, Pacific Palisades, Calif.; Dick Stranahan, San Leandro, Calif.; and Bob McCallister, Yorba Linda, Calif.

CHIPS OUT — Mary Lena Faulk chips out of a sand trap at the Stardust Golf course in Las Vegas, Nev., as she warms up for the $15,000 Ladies National PGA Championship Tournament. Thirty-eight leading lady pros have entered the tournament, richest for the women in 1961.

Fraley Picks Irish And Longhorns

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fraley's follies and the weekend football "winners" — along with some equally startling gridiron lore.

Game of the Week
Michigan - State over Notre Dame — Meetin' of the unbeaten with State a seven point favorite. A defense which has yielded only three points figures to stem the Notre Dame attack and a route-offense should rip an Irish defense which is slightly less than invulnerable.

The East
Syracuse over Penn State — Princeton in 1959 inaugurated the cheering section.
Columbia over Harvard — Cornell tried to play Michigan in 1873.

Villanova over Boston College — The Cornell president refused.
Yale over Cornell — "I will not permit 3 men to travel 400 miles, merely to agitate a bag of wind."
Also: Holy Cross over Dartmouth, Princeton over Colgate.

The West
California over USC — W&J first numbered players in 1908.
UCLA over Pitt — It didn't catch on despite unnumbered chaos.
Washington over Stanford — Chicago made it stick in 1913.
Maryland over Air Force — But it wasn't general practice until the early '20's.
Also: Oregon State over Arizona State, Wyoming over Brigham Young, Utah State over Colorado State, Idaho State over Montana State, Oregon over San Jose State and Utah over Montana.

The Southwest
Texas over Arkansas — The 1914 Yale Bowl was the first big grid stadium built.
Texas Aggies over TCU — Walter Camp picked the first All-America in 1889.
Baylor over Texas Tech — For nine years it was All-Ivy League.
Rice over SMU — Now it's all football-factory.
Also: Tulsa over North Texas State, Arizona over New Mexico and West Texas State over Hardin Simmons.

The South
Duke over Clemson — The forward pass was legalized in 1906.
North Carolina over South Carolina — Notre Dame "made" it in 1913.
Georgia Tech over Auburn — Do-rai to Rockne to beat Army.
Alabama over Tennessee — And the Fighting Irish were on their way to gridiron greatness.
Also: Florida over Vanderbilt.

UP THE LAUNDER — Mel McGaha, promoted from coach to supplant Jimmy Dykes as manager of the Cleveland Indians, never played baseball in the major leagues. He managed successfully in the minors.

Army over Idaho (instant mashed potatoes), Penn over Brown, Rutgers over Lehigh, West Virginia over Boston U., Albright over Youngstown, Lafayette over Bucknell and Buffalo over Temple.

The Midwest
Michigan over Purdue — The old timers were iron men.
Detroit over Navy — Wearing pads was "sissy."
Ohio State over Northwestern — They didn't use helmets.
Iowa over Wisconsin — They just let their hair grow from June 1.

Also: Minnesota over Illinois, Indiana over Washington State, Missouri over Iowa State, Kansas over Oklahoma, Colorado over Kansas State, Oklahoma State over Nebraska, Bowling Green over Kent State, Houston over Cincinnati, Western Michigan over Toledo and Xavier over Dayton.

Amarillo Keeps Statistics Lead

Tasco's quarterback Eddie Whiddon jumped back into the total offense leadership last Friday as he passed for 92 yards and ran for 91 to up his total offense total to 382 yards for three games.

Whiddon replaced Amarillo halfback Ronnie Williams as the leader. Williams netted 133 yards against Pampa but still dropped to second in view of the Rebels field general's big evening.

Palo Duro's fleet 154-pound halfback, Gordon Nelson, vaulted into first place in the rushing department as he romped for 127 yards against Monterey to raise his total to 311 yards in 45 carries for a 6.7 average.

Whiddon continues to lead the loop in passing with 220 yards on nine completions. Monterey's Byron Stovall has the best passing percentage with 12 completions in 18 tries for .667 and 124 yards gained.

Pampa doesn't rate in the individual statistics in anything except punting, where Kenny Herbert ranks third with a 35.6 average on 15 punts.

The Harvesters are last in total offense, seventh in rushing, last in passing, seventh in total defense, seventh in pass defense and sixth in rushing defense.

Pampa Gridders Eye Palo Duro

Coach Weldon Trice made a few changes Wednesday as the Pampa Harvesters went through a grueling practice session in preparation for the Palo Duro Dons.

Pampa takes the week off this Friday with an open date but the Fighting Harvesters will have their hands full and then some when they travel to Amarillo to battle the once-beaten Dons October 27.

Two Harvesters missed Wednesday's session due to injuries and a third saw limited action. Guard Danny Mathus and halfback Rylee Walters were held out of action and defensive halfback Butch Crossland saw only limited play.

Crossland is still unable to go full steam as the result of a knee injury suffered in the Dumas game that has failed to respond to treatment. Walters has pulled tissues in his foot and will be out several days.

Trice juggled his offensive unit by switching halfback Mike Stewart to fullback, with junior Ralph Palmer moving into Stewart's slot and fullback Jerry Glover going over to left end where he lettered last year to replace Keith Roemer.

Jimmy Hoyle filled in for Mathus at right guard on the offensive eleven.

Tonight the Pampa Shockers will play host to the Palo Duro Chicos at Harvester Park at 7:30 p.m. Coach Norman Phillip's crew will be looking for their second triumph of the campaign.

Trice praised several of the Harvesters for their hustle and determination that resulted in an upset victory over Amarillo. He remarked, "Our hustle really paid off."

The head Pampa mentor also noted that Palo Duro will probably be the best team the Harvesters will face this year. Trice mentioned that the Dons have a big, fast line and the "fastest backfield" in the district.

He added, "I don't see how Borger beat them."
Palo Duro has won five times and lost once — to Borger 21-14. The Dons will be without the service of all-state candidate halfback Floyd Burke, a 9.7 sprinter, for the remainder of the season.

Burke is reported to have a cracked vertebrae in his back.

Meanwhile, several of the state's undefeated, untied teams face severe tests with two games matching clubs with unblemished records meeting in class A.

There are 35 teams in the top four classes with unbeaten records. Nine of the clubs have been tied. The two tilts matching perfect mark elefens are Hull-Daisetta (6-0 198-18) against Anahuac (6-0 199-42) and Springlake (7-0 133-39) against Kress (7-0 197-25).

Gruver has romped to six straight wins — including a 24-6 blasting of previously undefeated Stratford last Friday. But the Greyhounds must get past dangerous White Deer (4-1) to be a challenger for the district 1-A grid title held by the Stinnett Rattlers.

Anahuac, a pre-season favorite to represent the southern bracket in the class A finals, faces a great defensive club in Hull-Daisetta. The winner will become a heavy favorite in the district 23-A race and a possible state semi-finalist against Gaston or New London of district 18-A.

The Kress-Springlake clash will probably decide the 3-A champion. Kress upset pre-season favorite Farwell last week 26-6 and can practically sew up the crown by beating Springlake.

Other important class A battles looming Friday pitted unbeaten Gaston against arch-rival Levert's Chapel in an important 18-A tilt. Garrison (6-0) vying with San Augustine's once-beaten Wolves in 20-A and perfect mark Waller against twice-beaten Crosby, the 1960 class A finalist, in a non-conference struggle.

Class AAAA favorite Wichita Falls takes the week off before opening defense of its 4-AAAA crown next week. The Coyotes have roared past six opponents while scoring 242 points.

Third ranked San Angelo plays once mighty Abilene in an important district 2-AAAA contest and 10th ranked Brassport meets Galveston in 12-AAAA in another big game.

Denver City and Albany-sporting the state's top winning streaks of 22 and 20 games respectively — goes against weak Stanton and winless Eastland respectively.

Albany is defending class A throne holder and the Mustangs are the AA champs.

NAMED COLT COACH
HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Luman Harris, veteran Baltimore Oriole coach, today was named to the coaching staff of the Houston Colts by General Manager Paul Richards.

Richards Wednesday announced the appointment of Ellis (Cot) Deal as pitching coach of the Colts.

Claude To Entertain Groom '11'

GROOM (Sp) — Coach Dwaine Currie's Groom Tigers, defending district 1-B champions, travel to Claude Friday night to battle the Mustangs in their second conference tilt of the campaign.

The winner will take a giant step toward the crown as both clubs opened district play last week with victories. Claude thumped winless Texline and Groom waylaid Sanford-Fritch 34-8 before a large homecoming crowd.

Groom has played a tough non-conference schedule and the win over Fritch evened their season mark at 3-3. The Tigers whipped two class A eleven — Clarendon 12-6 and Panhandle 12-0 while losing to three well-regarded class A teams — White Deer 31-0, McLean 49-0 and Gruver 14-8.

Claude has won two tilts while dropping four decisions. The Mustangs have lost to Gruver 38-14, Happy 14-0, McLean 32-0 and Clarendon 6-0.

The Mustangs had previously ripped the Vega Longhorns 14-6. Quarterback Wesley Cornett, halfback Eldred James and fullback Leroy Littlefield pace the Tigers backfield.

Tackles Wayne Kotara and John Koetting spearhead the Groom line play.

Montreal Beats Rangers For Hockey League Lead

NEW YORK (UPI)—Coach Toe Blake today credited the surprising early season play of defenseman Lou Fontinato and center Ralph Backstrom for the Montreal Canadiens' flying start in the National Hockey League race.

Although they were forced to open the new campaign without two of their stars, Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore, the Canadiens remained unbeaten in three games by bombing the New York Rangers, 5-2, Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

Backstrom, filling in for Bellevue on Montreal's No. 1 line, scored two goals. Fontinato, appearing in New York for the first time since the Rangers traded him to the Canadiens, spent most of the evening spilling his former teammates on their shiny blue pants.

Blake admitted that Fontinato has provided the Canadiens with "a lot of fire."

"When he first broke into this league, I always thought Lou was a show-off the way he used to bull guys around," Blake said. "But in the last two or three years, he's developed into a darn good defenseman and he's going to be a big help to us."

Regarding Backstrom, Blake said he was "pleasantly surprised" by the young center's play.

It was only the Rangers' second loss in five games — both to Montreal — and left them one point ahead of the second-place Canadiens. It was the only game on Wednesday night's NHL schedule.

The Rangers visit the Chicago Black Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings entertain the Boston Bruins tonight.

Houston Oilers To Play Texans
HOUSTON (UPI)—When the Dallas Texans meet the Houston Oilers in an American Football League game in Houston Sunday, any new maneuvers or personnel for the Oilers will be as much a surprise to the Houston fans as to the Texans.

New Oiler head coach Wally Lemm closed the Oiler practices Wednesday and said he would make no announcements concerning the drills or changes in personnel prior to kickoff time Sunday.

Lemm, who succeeded the fired Lou Rymkus as head coach earlier this week, said the closed sessions would not be permanent. He said he wants a win over Dallas and feels the secret drills are necessary.

Margaret Grange Named HC Queen

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Miss Margaret Grange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Grange, Skellytown, was elected Homecoming Football Queen by the Buck's football team at White Deer High School.

Coronation ceremonies were held preceding the football game Friday night with Stinnett, Captain Carl McAdams crowned the queen and she was presented an arm bouquet of red roses and a sweetheart necklace, gifts of the football squad.

She was escorted to the throne by McAdams and Larry Brown. In the queen's court were senior attendants, Miss Linda Biten, escorted by co-captains Larry Sport and Philip Dittbener and Miss Donna Hooker, escorted by co-captains Joe Gurdelizik and Larry Keshey.

Class representatives were Miss Mary Ann Ratliff, senior, escorted by Frankie Williams; Miss Peggy Horner, junior, escorted by Gerard Ballard; Miss Lynette Williams, sophomore, escorted by Jimmy Lopez and Miss Shelia Earnest, freshman, escorted by Vince Martinez.

Miss Grange is a twirler with the Bucks Band, was Skellytown Lions Club Sweetheart this year, and is a four year member of the Doe basketball team.

Hershey Cops Hockey Game

By United Press International
Bobby Perreault is still teaching the youngsters in the American Hockey League the tricks of goaltending.

The 30-year-old Hershey veteran needed all the knowledge he has gained in 10 years of net-minding Wednesday night to turn back the Pittsburgh Hornets, 3-0, in the only AHL game played.

Perreault was called on to make 42 saves, many of them spectacular, as the desperate Hornets forced the attack in search of their first victory. Instead, they were tagged with their third defeat and remained on the bottom of the league's Western Division

Warriors To Meet Mobeetie

MIAMI (Sp) — Potent Miami hosts Mobeetie's Hornets Friday night at Warrior Stadium at 7:30 p.m. in the annual Miami homecoming tilt.

Highlighting the evening activities will be the crowning of the football queen in pre-game ceremonies.

Coach Bill Hines' undefeated Warriors have copped five straight wins including a 40-0 waxing of the Darrouzett Longhorns last week in the opening district 1-B eight man grid contest for the defending district champions.

A vaunted defense has helped Miami post its unbeaten record. Against Darrouzett, the defensive unit limited the puncheon Longhorns to 39 yards on the ground.

The hard-charging Miami line caused the Darrouzett passer to rush his passes, which resulted into two key interceptions by Scotty Daugherty and Jim Flowers.

Miami did not sustain any injuries last Friday night, so there will remain only one Warrior on the doubtful list for the Mobeetie tilt. He is Don McLaughlin, who was injured in the Lakeview game.

The probable starting line-up for the Warriors will keep Keith Locke and Tim Flowers at ends; guards Harold Coffee and J. Wayne Holland; center Mark A. Pringle; tailback Jim Flowers; quarterback Daugherty and wingback Mickey Kivehen.

TCU Wogs Wallop North Texas 48-6
DENTON (UPI)—The Texas Christian Poliwogs whipped the North Texas State freshmen 48-6 Wednesday night to hand the Eagles their worst whipping since the Denton school began playing freshman football five years ago.

Wog halfback Jim Fauer streaked 43 yards for the opening touchdown in the game, and added a second score when he caught a 20-yard touchdown pass.

TCU outgained North Texas 417 yards to 161. A. D. Whitfield saved NTS from a shutout when he ended a touchdown drive in the fourth quarter with a one-yard plunge.

4 Baylor Starters May Miss Contest

By United Press International
At Baylor, the big news this week is what isn't instead of what is.

So far the entire top-of-the Bear "T" and a starting guard have failed to make a single workout. Halfback Tommy Minter and guard Richard Burk are definitely out of Saturday's game against Texas Tech in Lubbock.

Halfback Ronnie Goodwin and fullback Ronnie Bull will be on hand, but according to Baylor coach John Bridgers, will probably be limited to spot service. Goodwin is hobbled with an injured leg, while Bull re-injured his back in the Arkansas game.

Sonny Whorton, Bull's understudy at the fullback post, has also missed two workouts with a charley horse. He is expected to be ready to play against Tech in Fayetteville, Ark., the Razorbacks prepped for their all-important Southwest Conference clash with unbeaten Texas by adding the name of another regular to the injury list.

Left tackle Jerry Mazzanti sprained an ankle during Wednesday's workout and appears out of the Saturday clash. Guards Dean Garrett and Tommy Brasher worked in sweat clothes again, and probably will be able to play some against the Longhorns.

Texas, meanwhile, appeared at top shape for the game. With no reported injuries. The Longhorns spent their practice working on passing offense and defense and kicking under pressure.

Southern Methodist and Rice both spent long sessions on the practice field Wednesday. The two teams open their Southwest Conference season in Houston Saturday night.

SMU worked on both offense and defense, while Rice spent most of its time drilling on recognition of known Mustang plays

The Texas Aggies travel to Fort Worth to take on Texas Christian in the other game involving conference teams. It will be a Corps Trip for the Aggies, with some 5,000 Cadets expected to see the game.

The Aggies spent two hours Wednesday working on pass defense, and coach Jim Myers said it was "very sad." He said not only did his first unit fail to stop the passing attack mounted by the reserves, but that the entire defense was "very" bad.

Yankees Recall Gold Sox Players And Jake Gibbs

By United Press International
Jake Gibbs, the New York Yankees' $100,000 bonus beauty from the University of Mississippi, may get his chance under baseball's big top earlier than anyone dreamed possible.

The Yankees, it appears, are getting Gibbs ready to assume an important role in 1962 because of the possibility that regular shortstop Tony Kubek will be called to military duty.

The 6-foot, 180-pound Gibbs was called up from the minors, along with eight other prospects, by the world champions on Wednesday. He's due to report to spring training with the Yankees and it's obvious that he'll be tried at third base, shortstop and second base.

Gibbs' ability to play three positions could be an important factor should Manager Ralph Houk have to realign his infield because of the loss of Kubek.

Gibbs, who hits left-handed, batted .272 in 408 at-bats with eight doubles, six triples and six homers for Richmond of the International League this year. Yankee scouts, watching him closely all the way, have termed his performance "highly satisfactory."

The others called up by the Yankees are outfielder Don Lock, infielder Pedro Gonzalez and pitcher George Haney from Richmond; shortstop Phil Linz and outfielder Ron Solomino from Amarillo of the Texas League; and pitchers Howard Kitt and Louis Romanucci and catcher Billy Madden from Binghamton, N.Y., of the Eastern League.

The Yankees also sent first baseman Bob Hale and pitchers John Bronstad, Gerald Heintz and Billy Short to Richmond and pitcher Duke Maas to Amarillo.

20-year old pitcher Bruce Kunkle from Kingsport, Tenn., of the rookie Appalachian League. May hit .328 in 61 games while Kunkle had a 3-2 record and 3.90 earned run average in 1961.

George (Red) Witt, rookie star of the Pittsburgh Pirates three years ago, has been purchased conditionally by the Los Angeles Angels from the Pirates' farm club at Asheville, N.C., General Manager Fred Haney announced today.

Witt, a native Californian, had a 9-2 record in 1958 with the Pirates but injuries kept him from repeating that winning season in subsequent years.

BROTHER DUO—If Pampa Harvesters opponents get confused on which Stewart is which, it's understandable. They aren't twins, but both Rickey (12) and Mike (21) are starters in the Pampa backfield. Rickey is a sophomore quarterback and Mike is captain and right half-back and a senior letterman.

Pro Cage Campaign Opens Play Tonight

By United Press International
Two new coaches and a brand new team will make their debuts tonight when the National Basketball Association opens its 1961-62 season with a Madison Square Garden doubleheader pitting the Philadelphia Warriors against the Los Angeles Lakers and the Chicago Packers against the New York Knickerbockers.

Frank McGuire, who compiled a brilliant coaching record at North Carolina, will handle the Warriors in league competition for the first time in the opener while Eddie Donovan will make his official debut for the Knickerbockers in the second game. Donovan entered the pro ranks after a fine record at St. Bonaventure.

The Packers, first team to represent Chicago in the NBA since the 1949-50 season, are coached by ex-Minneapolis Laker star Jim Pollard and their lineup is featured by Walt Bellamy, Bob Leonard and Charlie Tyra.

The NBA has made 13 changes in playing rules for the new season including:

Black Thumper Wins Big Race

By United Press International
Ledgesmont Stable's Black Thumper is turning out to be quite a bargain.

A big dark gelding, Black Thumper was claimed for a mere $5,000 last year. He more than returned this investment to owners Benjamin Green and Herb Fisher Wednesday when he scored an impressive victory in the $27,550 Nassau Handicap at Aqueduct.

The winner's purse was worth $17,907.50 and increased Black Thumper's total earnings for 1961 to over $94,000.

Black Thumper got off to a poor start in the Nassau but rallied to move into second at the top of the stretch. After taking the lead, he rolled away to a two-and-one-half length victory over Eglylad while the favored Divine Comedy

Linda Poarch Named Lefors Grid Queen

LEFORS (Spl) Miss Linda Poarch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Poarch, and senior at Lefors High School, reigned as football sweetheart, over the Homecoming game, against Clarendon, Friday night at Shaw Field.

Selected by the football boys, Linda, was accompanied by her attendants as she circled the football field in a convertible car, stopping on the fifty yard line.

She was escorted to the center of the field by two of the captains, Scott Dunnam and Ronny Line, who presented her with a golden locket, a dozen red roses, and a kiss from each. She was crowned with a glittered football helmet.

The attendants were elected by the boys in their class, Jan Atkinson, senior, was escorted by Jerry Nichols; Kayola Lisenbee, junior, was escorted by Mickey Archer; Shirees Cable, sophomore, was escorted by Larry Ables; and Kay Stanton, freshman, was escorted by Anthony McCool. The attendants were all presented with mum corsages.

The Lefors Pirate Band provided music for the ceremony, playing, "Sweetheart of Sigma Phi."

"Goodnight Sweetheart," was played as the Sweetheart and attendants were escorted to their special place of honor. Their chairs were placed on pedestals of blue velvet and there they reigned throughout the game.

West Texas Meets HSU

By United Press International
Lamar Tech and Sam Houston State try to stay unbeaten atop the Lone Star Conference Saturday in the headline attractions of the college football scene in Texas this weekend.

The task may not be too tough for Lamar Tech, but Sam Houston seems to be in for a rough session against defending champion Texas A&I.

Tech, rolling along with four victories without defeat and with the only untarnished record in the state aside from the Texas Longhorns', plays Southwest Texas, a team which has been developing since losing two of its first three starts.

The Bobcats, who will have the San Marcos home field advantage, will catch Tech after the latter's defense has finally jelled. Until last week's 34-0 rout of Sul Ross, the Card defense had yielded yards and points in big chunks. Sam Houston will have the advantage of the home field and also will catch Texas A&I with two top Javelina backs—Butch Pressley and Tommy Janik—sidelined. A&I was upset 15-8 by Howard Payne last week. Sam Houston has beaten Howard Payne 10-7.

In other Lone Star activity, East Texas plays Howard Payne at Brownwood and in the only day-night game; S. P. Austin visits Sul-Ross at Alpine.

West Texas State, with Pistol Pete Pedro back at full speed, tries to recoup from last week's heartbreaking 28-11 loss to Arizona State in a Border-Conference game against Hardin-Simmons. The latter club has lost 17 in a row and should be no match for West Texas at Canyon.

In other Border-Conference action, Texas Western invades San Antonio to meet independent Trinity, New Mexico State travels to Kansas to meet Wichita and Arizona State stays in Tempe to host Oregon State.

North Texas State, the lone Missouri-Valley-Conference member in Texas, entertains Tulsa in a league contest Saturday afternoon.

Independent Houston, still reeling from the mauling at the hands of Ole Miss last week, faces Cincinnati in the Ohio city.

Other games on the weekend card show Abilene Christian at Memphis State, Arlington State at McMurry, Millsaps at Austin College, Tarleton State at Henderson (Ark.) State and Corpus Christi at Texas Southern. Texas Lutheran is idle.

Williams Named NL Top Baseball Rookie

NEW YORK (UPI)—Billy Williams, 23-year-old Alabama-born outfielder who hit .278 for the Chicago Cubs, was named the National League's rookie of the year today by the United Press International's board of baseball experts.

Williams, who went barnstorming with Hank Aaron and Satchel Paige when he was only 16 years old, received the votes of 20 of the 36 experts who took part in the voting. Joe Torre, 19-year-old Milwaukee Brave catcher, was a distant second with five votes.

Ken Hunt of the Cincinnati Reds was third with four votes, Willie Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers had three and Art Mahaffey of the Philadelphia Phillies and Leo Cardenas of the Reds had two each.

A native of Whistler, Ala., Williams played in 146 games and batted .278 with 20 doubles, seven triples and 25 homers. He scored 75 runs, knocked in 86, and stole six bases.

Williams went barnstorming with Aaron and Paige in 1954 even before he was graduated from Mobile County Training High School. In 1959, he was one of the Texas League's leading hitters with a .318 average and in 1960 he hit .323 and made the American Association all-star team.

TICKETS IN DEMAND
AUSTIN (UPI)—The University of Texas has sold its entire allotment of 1,850 tickets for Saturday's Southwest Conference game against Arkansas in Fayetteville, Ark., including 165 students tickets, athletic ticket manager Al Lundstedt said Wednesday.

Steel Prices

President Kennedy and his Harvard-type economic advisers in Washington are expressing rather pious hopes — sometimes they sound like demands — that the steel companies forego any increases in prices. The wonderful wizards of Washington are concerned that a steel price increase will cause inflation.

We are told that the steel companies can absorb the new wage increase which is effective next month and still make "a good profit."

Now we must admit that the wage increase now going into effect was granted under duress of federal officials in 1959 and cannot be laid at the door of the Kennedy administration, since it was during the Eisenhower regime. However, the fact is that the steel companies face increased costs that were not of their own making.

But neither can one blame the steel companies which bowed to pressure from federal officials two years ago.

But, the principal issue seems to us to be that federal officials, including President Kennedy, claim to know how high or how low prices should be.

Mr. Kennedy and his brain trust have never demonstrated they know how to produce anything. Mr. Kennedy inherited his millions from an indulgent father, much of whose wealth came from a monopoly right to sell Scotch whiskey.

No one knows how high or how low prices should be. If prices are not high enough to reward capital for its investment, the capital will go where it can receive the adequate reward. No one or no government or no labor union can determine either wages or prices except a willing buyer and a willing seller.

Certainly, those in the steel industry will not be likely to increase prices in the face of a competitive foreign market, unless they feel they must in order to continue operation.

But it is rather strange that an administration which is hell-bent on spending $10 billion more than it takes in this year should all of a sudden become concerned about inflation because steel prices may rise.

Ah, To Be In Business

The lure of the market place! What a delightful adventure it poses for both young and old who wish to experience the joy of serving the public and of doing so at a profit, both to themselves and their customers.

But, alas. This lure is not confined to men and women who wish to get into the market place, there to compete fairly and honestly. It also rears its head in the halls of government.

For men in government also feel the lure of business exchange. And few temptations can equal that of the bureaucrat who believes he can make use of public funds in a business way, to the enhancement of himself and the increase of income to the governmental agency he serves.

We have noticed and commented here on the growing list of businesses and industries into which our federal government has intruded.

But we are reminded by a recent article in the Wall Street Journal that cities and towns are rapidly invading the free market field, there to compete unfairly with legitimate business and to drive our fine capitalistic system to the wall.

Beware of the city official or the union executive who will not stay within the confines of his own device. A politically owned and operated business is an abomination. A union owned and operated business is a sore affliction on any and all businesses.

Recently, for example, the city of Tarboro, North Carolina, got into the milk business. It now operates a dairy which competes with legitimate business and which has managed to obtain some 600 customers in its community.

This dairy was set up at public expense. This is to say that existing dairies were taxed to provide the capital by means of which a competing city business could be introduced into the market place.

If the dairy loses money, the taxpayers will make up the deficit. If it makes money, it will be in competition with legitimate dairies.

Some cities have now begun to own and operate hotels. Some are producing grain, making fertilizer, even running cocktail lounges open to the public.

Some run zoos, many run airports, some operate cemeteries, building supply houses, liquor stores, race tracks and recreational facilities. Some sell gas, and electricity, provide paving materials in competition with legitimate firms which are not infrequently run out of business.

Down South

By THURMAN SENSING

PICTURE OF INACTION

One of the favorite themes of the liberal-leftists is that Southern states must not resist integration because this resistance has an adverse effect upon "world opinion." They charge that the "image" of America is distorted when Southerners seek to retain their accustomed way of life.

It is strange how this line is completely forgotten when the labor czars spring into action and utter ugly abuse about American communities and government. For instance, no prominent "liberals" spoke up when the National Maritime Union sought to cripple the economy of coastal cities last summer or when Jimmy Hoffa, boss of the Teamsters, killed a proposal at the union's annual convention that would have put his reelection as president up to the rank and file members of the union.

Yet what are respectable people in civilized countries to think when the nation that professes to be a model of a good society permits labor monopolists and labor dictators to lord it over individuals and entire cities?

In the case of the maritime strike, five unions imposed millions of dollars in losses on seaport cities and industries therein. No way exists for the communities or companies to recover what they lost through union arrogance and irresponsibility. The shipping strike, as is the case with all "union-wide" strikes, was a hideous example of unbridled union power. The shipping industry that was halted is a vital defense industry. The unions, however, showed, as usual, contempt for the defense needs of the nation. They put their own high-handed demands above the needs of their fellow-citizens and of the country as a whole.

Fortunately, the Taft-Hartley law is in existence, but Mr. Kennedy had the shocking bad taste to say that he regretted he had to use it. One can only be thankful that this legal instrument existed so that a ruthless band of power-hungry labor bosses could not completely paralyze the nation.

Jimmy Hoffa, behaving his usual arrogant self at the convention in Miami Beach, gaveled home in quick order a constitutional change in the union's by-laws which hiked his pay from $50,000.00 a year to $75,000.00 a year, plus an unlimited expense account. Many a truck driver with half a dozen children, who drives at night and in all weather, must think to himself (that dare not voice his feelings) that he pays union dues to let this union boss tyrant live in the lap of luxury. How can good people abroad understand the Hoffa story? Why, they must ask, is this sort of situation permitted in America? Why doesn't someone set the union members free from their captivity?

Yes, why isn't the U.S. Attorney General, Robert F. Kennedy, doing something about Jimmy Hoffa and his type? Mr. Kennedy talks a good fight against Hoffa, but that's as far as the fight goes. Jimmy Hoffa is more powerful today than ever. (Don't be misled by the few wildcat defalcations in his ranks — they will be controlled.) At Miami Beach, he talked confidently of forming a union federation of his own. And Jimmy Hoffa usually does more than talk.

The New Frontier has ample powers. It can assist "Freedom Riders" to invade the South. It doesn't hesitate to tell textile workers who they will work alongside. It permits Oriental countries to flood the textile market, even though this injures domestic industry. It has power and energy for hundreds of projects. But when it comes to cracking down on Big Unionism, the New Frontier does nothing at all. Good citizens — great numbers of them — resent the fact that the New Frontiersmen see no evil where union tyranny is concerned.

Monopoly unionism, supported by compulsory unionism, must be abolished if we are to remain a free nation. As it is, members of the unions are not only slaves of their leaders, but the welfare of all the people is subject to their whims. A cooling-off period helps — but it is not enough. Labor unions must be made subject to the anti-trust laws.

Report:

President Warns Administration Aides 'Hands Off' on Selection of New Speaker

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is sharply cracking down on White House assistants and other Administration officials on meddling in the smoldering House Speakership issue.

They are being strongly enjoined to keep hands off.

Since the announcement of Speaker Sam Rayburn's fatal malady, certain militant New Frontiersmen have been covertly fishing in succession waters.

One widely-published manifestation of this has been a flurry of press reports of alleged Administration opposition to Democratic Floor Leader John McCormack, Mass., who by long tradition is directly in line to be the next Speaker. In the final weeks of the recent session he was Acting Speaker.

An important factor behind these undercover press "leaks" is the reputed ambition of Edward (Ted) Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President, to run for the Senate next year.

That clashes squarely with similar intentions of Massachusetts Attorney General Edward McCormack. The tall, blond, handsome Annapolis graduate, former Naval officer and nephew of the House leader, is serving his second term, winning re-election in 1960 by a majority second only to the President's in his home state.

The senatorial aspirations of Ted Kennedy, who has yet to make his first campaign for public office, also cut across the political future of Senator Ben Smith, who was named to the President's vacated seat after his 1960 election. Smith also is untried as a candidate.

Latest inside word is that he is to be shunted to running for governor. So far Smith has given no indication of wanting to do that.

How this backstage scramble will be resolved is in the laps of the gods. It could develop into a bruising personal and party brawl into which both the President and McCormack would inevitably be drawn regardless of their outward "neutrality."

"Eddie" McCormack is a proven potent vote getter. Ted Kennedy has a name, a lot of money, and a mother and sisters with much experience and skill in campaigning.

CLIMBING ON BANDWAGON — The President issued his emphatic "hands off" edict when he got wind of the inner Administration sniping at McCormack.

"The Speakership is one matter we are not going to get involved in," he announced emphatically at a staff meeting. "The House would resent it, and there is nothing we could do about the succession even if we wanted to, which I don't. We have plenty of pressing problems on our hands without getting tangled in this one."

This presidential stand is decidedly to McCormack's advantage.

The only opposition evinced against him so far has come from certain militant New Frontier sources. Among top House Democratic leaders it is being taken for granted he has the succession sewed up.

A number have already advised McCormack of their support.

Foremost among them are Representative Francis Walter, Pa., chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee who has been mentioned as a possible aspirant for Speaker, but who has told McCormack he wants to nominate him; William Green, powerful Philadelphia leader, whose

Kennedy And Congress Face Another Tussle In '62

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Any way it is figured, the Kennedy administration cannot claim the overwhelming successes it expected in the session of Congress just ended. And the outlook for the second session of the 87th Congress in 1962, which is an election year, is considered no better.

What the administration is up against is the combination of Republicans and conservative Democrats who have the real majorities in both Senate and House. They made the record. And these same majorities will still be in control next year.

Arguments on the whys and wherefores of this record — good or bad, as you choose — will now be carried on in home districts as congressmen mend political fences before returning to Washington.

But it wasn't just politics that killed so many of the administration's New Frontiers programs. Congressmen are always tuned in on home. The right-wing coalition still senses that there is strong opposition to turning the country over whole - hog to ultra liberal reforms.

Kennedy still has a big selling job to do, to convince a larger majority of the American people on the rightness of his policies before he can expect better results from Congress in the last two years of his administration. This is what the 1962 Congressional election campaign will be all about.

For the session just closed, the administration claims 30-odd major accomplishments. Some of them weren't so major and many didn't provide all the administration asked for.

Congress was not generally hostile to giving the administration money for its new programs. While the requests were cut about $3 billion, the total appropriated is over $95 billion, or $12 billion more than last year.

Some of this is for future expenditures. The amount to be spent in the fiscal year ending next June 30 is estimated at $58 billion, which will mean a $6 billion deficit.

National defense was raised by Congress $600 million over the $6 billion increase asked by Kennedy, to make a $47.6 billion total.

The larger cuts: $870 million less for foreign aid, $150 million less for agriculture.

Major measures defeated include federal aid for education, health insurance for the aged, omnibus farm legislation, tax reform, postal rate increases, manpower retraining, revision of conflict of interest laws for federal employees.

Creation of a new Department of Urban Affairs and a Youth Conservation Corps were turned down. Reorganization of Securities and Exchange Commission, Federal Communications Commission and National Labor Relations Board was disapproved by Congress.

Next year, the President is expected to repeat most of the requests which Congress did not act on.

There will also be renewal of the reciprocal trade agreements and tariff policy to consider. Another hot subject is likely to be formulation of broad new transportation policies. General taxes reform, postponed this year, will probably be the most controversial item on the calendar.

Everything that may happen in Congress is of course dependent on developments abroad. A shooting war crisis in Germany, Southeast Asia, the Near East, Africa or even Latin American could bring Congress back into special session.

That could knock out all programs for development of the American economy and result in tight controls.

TRUTH-FORUM

With Ed Delaney

The 17th of March is usually associated in our minds with St. Patrick, the one who is said to have driven the snakes out of Ireland. But the 17th of last March President Kennedy, whose grandfather came from Ireland, removed the ban on the Communist literature coming to this country through the mails and that poison of the atheistic snakes of the Kremlin now floods our country and is distributed at the cost of the American taxpayer.

A wall of secrecy that has been erected since that ban on communist propaganda was lifted by the President, prevents us from determining the exact amount of the poison that is coming in daily.

As an example however, we know that last year the San Francisco post office cleared 17 1/2 tons of postage-free communist propaganda that arrived in one week. This was addressed mainly to schools, colleges and student groups. The agents of the Soviet and its satellites send these addresses to their masters in Moscow. In a 12-month check at New Orleans, 300,000 packages of communist propaganda, cleared through that port, all destined for schools and colleges. There are 40 other ports through which this poison is poured to be syphoned, at the expense of the American tax-payer, to educational institutions and individuals.

This is supposed to be labeled as "political propaganda" but it is not. Prior to the ruling of President Kennedy, last St. Patrick's Day, the postal department had some discretion in the matter and did throw out tons of this material for brainwashing students and others who are so credulous as to believe the Red literature. But now the hands of the postal authorities are tied. We must not do anything that might "increase the tension" between the Soviet and the United States, so the hierarchy of the elect in Washington tell us. The Reds got the green light last March 17th.

TAXES IN U.S.S.R. MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Tuesday no one will have to pay income taxes in the Soviet Union by the end of 1963. (Observers said, however, that while Soviet income taxes are gradually being eliminated Soviet citizens pay large sums in hidden taxes in the form of a "turnover tax" on goods sold at government prices. These taxes seldom are mentioned in Moscow.)

The Nation's Press

GROWTH—AND TAXES (Industrial News Review)

We have heard a great deal about the nation's "growth rate" recently. A good many people feel that we just aren't growing fast enough economically.

Without arguing the pros and cons of that, it should not be forgotten that our tax laws stand solidly in the way of maximum growth. For instance, most other industrial nations give far more favorable tax treatment to industries which wish to replace and modernize their plants than we do. Our laws, with their obsolete depreciation provisions, heavily hamper this kind of progress.

A well known economic forecaster, William F. Butler, writes in Nation's Business: "If we are to grow, if we are to compete with other industrial countries whose plants are becoming steadily more modern, we have to provide greater encouragement to saving and investment and encourage a higher rate of replacement so that our plant will become steadily more modern, more efficient. This is the major problem we face."

In the Yap Islands of the South Pacific, nobody tried to keep his wealth a secret. It would have been hard to do, anyway. Medium of exchange was a thick stone wheel with a hole in the center. Stones ranged in diameter from 6 inches to 12 feet. These were stored alongside their owners' huts.

READY TO SERVE YOU — Robert McCain, bodyman and truck driver for Ford's Body Shop, 111 N. Frost, stands beside one of the wreckers that awaits your call day or night. Whatever the extent of damages to your automobile or truck, Ford's Body Shop will soon have it back on the road. For daytime service telephone MO 4-4619. For night service call MO 4-7542.

No-Roach Safe To Use Against Pesky Insects

The major disadvantage of using a spray to combat cockroaches, which are usually found in the kitchen among dishes and food, is the "fall out" of dangerous chemicals that so easily contaminate everything that is not-covered up.

There is no danger of "fall out" when smart housewives just brush Johnston's No-Roach around cabinets, under sink, along baseboards, and on cracks and crevices around the kitchen floor and walls. The colorless, odorless coating dries quickly, and stays effective for months to kill all crawling insects that walk across it.

If ants swarm over your kitchen floor, the best way to get rid of them is to add one ounce bottle of No-Roach to one quart of your favorite liquid floor wax. This is 1 part No-Roach to 4 parts wax. Mix, apply as usual, buff lightly—and voila, you've got a beautiful floor that ants simply won't tread on. When they sense No-Roach on the floor they run scurrying in the opposite direction.

Summing up, remember:

- a. Colorless, brush - on coating of No-Roach eliminates "fallout" of vapors that sprays give.
b. No need to move dishes or food when you use No-Roach.
c. Brush on to control cockroaches in cabinets, and around sink.
d. Mix into liquid floor wax to keep ants off kitchen floor.

Let No-Roach be your kitchen police, and stop those pesky intruders at your doorstep. Available at your favorite drug store or supermarket.

Pampa's Penney Store Initiates Charge Accounts

R. M. Samples, manager of the J. C. Penney Store in Pampa, announced that this store has been selected as one of the J. C. Penney Stores to have customer charge accounts beginning today. The Penney's charge account is a 30-day charge account which makes it possible for a customer to pay an account in full within 30 days of billing date without a service charge.

The Penney's charge account is a 30-day charge account which makes it possible for a customer to pay an account in full within 30 days of billing date without a service charge. This plan also provides an option for customers who wish to spread payments over a longer period.

Each month a bill is received the customer can pay it in full; without service charge, or pay a designated amount and extend the balance over a longer period. Minimum amounts vary from one-fourth to one-sixth of the total bill.

The Penney Time Payment Account is designed for higher priced apparel with a unit price of at least $49 and for home furnishings items with a minimum unit price of $29. For this account the minimum payment will be $5 per month and the account may extend to a maximum of 18 months.

Penney's first started their credit operations in 1958 with 24 stores after 56 years of operating on a strictly cash-and-carry basis. In 1959 169 more stores were added to the group. By the end of 1963 all of the nearly 1,700 Penney stores throughout the country are slated to offer charge accounts. About 600 stores will be offering credit by the end of 1961.

Credit Unions Topic Of Talk At Jaycee Meet. Glen Addington, director of public relations for the Texas Credit Union League was guest speaker at the Jaycees' weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Palm room at City Hall.

In Pampa there are about 20 credit unions serving about 10,000 people with assets of over $5,000,000, Addington said. "Credit unions are not designed to replace banks but to supplement them," he added, "and many people would not and could not save money if it weren't for credit unions."

Harold Davis was inducted as a new member in the organization. Guests were William R. Brown, David Ganz, Cliff Everhart, Leo Nelson, Wayne Holcomb and Glen Courtney.

Dick Powell's Show Declared Good-Bad

By FRED DANZIG. NEW YORK (UPI)—The old smoothie, Dick Powell, ran into some rough going Tuesday night. In the title role of "John J. Diggs," Powell turned up in the NBC-TV hour that also gives him a title role, named, "The Dick Powell Show," and tied up some loose ends near the Mexican border. It was a story of capital letter ACTION! Romance! Intrigue! Passion!

Powell first appeared as a kitchen-door tramp, a loser all the way, but with one difference. He had class. Also integrity. That is, he refused to accept one dollar from lovely Rhonda Fleming because that was a handout. He sought a more businesslike arrangement—a $100 loan.

Anyhow, before the hour ended, Diggs was helping Miss Fleming run her hotel, helping the law wipe out a band of murderous car thieves, anonymously helping his very own long-lost son out of a jam, and helping Miss Fleming while away the lonely off-duty hours. She dug Diggs and Diggs dug her. Happy ending.

Produced and directed by Ralph Nelson, the hour was diverting for about 20 minutes and then the plot began piling up coincidences recklessly. Before long, the airy pace had sagged and hit bottom. Miss Fleming, still lovely to look at, was tedious instead of tense. And Powell never did get that $100 loan.

One of those interchangeable actors named Charlton Heston—I believe that there is no such actor and that Burt Lancaster and Kirk Douglas take turns playing the part—had a thick-veined, meaty assignment Tuesday night with "The Fugitive Eye."

Heston played the part of an itinerant Irish strong man—an Anthony Quinn—"La Strada" type guy—whose life was changed, almost ended, in fact, after he asked a man for a light.

The man turned out to be a missing atomic scientist. A fresh-killed one. A band of British traitors did away with the scientist and then found Heston to be a witness so they had to get busy and do him in, too. How Heston fared at their hands, the hands of the skeptical police, the hands of some nurses and a small boy, raised goose-bumps more consistently than eyebrows on Tuesday night's "Alcoa Premiere" over ABC-TV. It was a serviceable suspense yarn.

Again, a few crucial coincidences were hard to accept. And Heston never did get that cigarette lit.

The Cheneil Swim, "Wide World of Sports" returns for its second season on ABC-TV starting Sunday, Jan. 7. Jim McKay again serves as host for the new series of 90-minute specials.

A color cartoon series, "Laurel and Hardy," based on material suggested by Stan Laurel, the surviving member of the famed comedy team, is being prepared for NBC-TV's next season as a prime-time entry.

Theodore White, author of "The Making of the President, 1960," has joined the CBS news staff as a consultant on creative planning.

MAID OF MILK—Barbara Jo Finley, 19, of Mountain Grove, Mo., uses the lactic lacture her Eight Jerseys produce to pay for her education at Drury College. She's milking a Holstein at Missouri Agriculture College where she was chosen Missouri's Maid of Milk.

Rowley also feels that the public tends to confuse the Secret Service with other law enforcement arms of the Treasury — narcotics, customs, and internal revenue. All have been lumped together under the term "T-men."

While not the least bit ashamed of the Secret Service's association with the Treasury in stopping counterfeit and forging of government checks, Rowley thinks the Secret Service can be made more distinctive in the public eye.

He wants to sharpen the public's "image" of the Secret Service without spending money on a public relations campaign—something the service has never done in for.

The father of three girls, Jim Rowley is a square-jawed, easy-going Irishman from New York who made many friends in his 22 years of guarding presidents.

From the bang-bang pace of traveling with the chief executive, Rowley stopped short on Sept. 1 to assume the duties of chief of the 300-plus Secret Service agents in Washington and 59 field offices.

It is a change that takes some getting used to, he said. It is intensified just now by Rowley's need to bone up on a lot of service matters which didn't concern him at the White House. Doing his homework makes him even more desk-bound than a chief usually is.

One of Rowley's new problems is the need for more national coordination of Secret Service crime-stopping. Rowley hopes to expand his headquarters staff so it can do more work in this direction.

He also believes more field agents are needed to cope with the mounting volume of counterfeiting and check forging. As for presidential protection, he feels that it is well looked after by Gerald Behn, new head of the White House detail, and his two top aides, Floyd Boring and John Campion.

Still, if President Kennedy decides to make a major international trip, it's a good bet that Jim Rowley won't miss it.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Now that everybody has had a good laugh, it remains only for American manhood to learn how to wear a beard. And that campaign is already under way.

That the beard is back — and respectable — is no longer in any doubt. From New York to Los Angeles, TV screens, pulpits and better restaurants are alive with overbrush. The latest edition of a barber's manual, hot off the presses in Chicago, has a new chapter on beard care. A yoke of scientists has reported that bald men can now wear their beards transplanted onto the scalp.

(Not so surprising, then, that the beard is disappearing from Beantnikland, leaving householders from Greenwich Village to Provincetown and North Beach waiting nervously for the next symptoms of rebellion and emancipation.)

But if the beard is back, the experts say style has not come with it. For the most part, the American beard today is a bulbous bush, trimmed perhaps, but not parted, not pruned, not sculpted — and above all, not wedded to the personality, the experts say.

The fault lies with the history of the U.S. beard which got off to a good start with Abraham Lincoln a century ago and grew handsomely through the presidencies of Grant, Hayes and Garfield.

Secret Service Not Understood, Chief Declares

By EDWARD COWAN. WASHINGTON (UPI) — James J. (Jim) Rowley, the new Secret Service chief, is pondering a problem that stumped all his predecessors.

How, he wants to know, can the public be helped to understand more clearly what the service is and does, short of an out-and-out public relations campaign.

Leaning back in his red leather office chair, Rowley told an interviewer that many people think the FBI protects the President and his family.

Fact is, the Secret Service has been doing that job since Congress authorized such protection in the wake of President McKinley's assassination.

The White House detail is particularly important to Rowley. He joined that force in 1939 and was its boss from 1946 until he was tapped this year to succeed retiring Secret Service Chief U.C. Baughman.

Rowley also feels that the public tends to confuse the Secret Service with other law enforcement arms of the Treasury — narcotics, customs, and internal revenue. All have been lumped together under the term "T-men."

While not the least bit ashamed of the Secret Service's association with the Treasury in stopping counterfeit and forging of government checks, Rowley thinks the Secret Service can be made more distinctive in the public eye.

Securities Sales Mount In State

AUSTIN (UPI)— State securities commissioner William King said his office authorized the sale of $43.1 million worth of securities in Texas during September.

The total was more than double the $21.6 million authorized for sale during the same month a year ago, and up from the $49 million authorized in August, 1961.

Six new Texas firms were granted permission to sell their securities last month. Also included in the total authorized sale were securities to be sold under renewal applications by two Texas companies and two amended applications.

The new companies are Ramsey Steel Co., Inc., El Paso, $500,000 in stock; Savage Laboratories, Inc., of Houston, $35,000; Texas Capital Corp., Georgetown, $1,350,000; Texas Research and Electronic Corp., Dallas, $3,042,500; Western National Gas Co., Houston, $1,200,000; and Word Record Distributing Co., Waco, $200,000.

Texas Company renewals were granted Great Western Loan and Trust Co., San Antonio, $216,751; and the Tex-Star Oil and Gas Corp., Dallas, $254,700. Tex-Star was also granted an amended permit, as was Southwestern Investors Inc., of Dallas, to sell $1 million in common stock.

Cotton Plowup Deadline Won't Get Extension

AUSTIN (UPI)— State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said today he will not extend the Oct. 31 cotton plowup deadline in South Central Texas for pink bollworm control.

White asked farmers to "work together to prevent a threatening serious buildup" of the cotton pest in Bastrop, Caldwell, Comal, Guadalupe, Hays, Lee, Travis and Williamson counties, all in Zone 5 of the pink bollworm control area. "Excellent weather conditions for cotton harvest are prevailing over the area, and field activity is already past its peak," White said, encouraging farmers to clear their harvest and field cleanup in the next two weeks to meet the deadline.

"It's just for beatiniks and actors." He says he's counting on pressure from American women to stop the whole thing. Besides, a lot of men have sparse face whiskers and just don't look good in beards.

But from a veteran barber and officer in a barbers' association comes professional joy. "It could be wonderful. Wonderful. Two haircuts and a shave from the same customer. "It could be the greatest thing that's happened to barbering since the first barber's guild was formed in Greece in 400 B.C."

Guards At Berlin Border Stare And Stare—At Girls

By WELLINGTON LONG
BERLIN (UPI)—It happened at the "deadline," a white line six inches wide painted across Friedrichstrasse at the precise border of East and West Berlin.

An American MP strolled toward the line while a vopo (people's policeman) matched each of his steps, approaching the line from the other side. The two reached the border at the same moment, each stopping with the toes of his boots barely touching the line. Face to face, they must have felt each other's breath, but each acted as if the other were not there.

The American raised his binoculars and began to survey the other side, sweeping the glasses from right to left. The vopo also raised his glasses, and in a moment each was looking dead ahead—into the binoculars of the other. Still as stone, they stood that way for perhaps three minutes until the American dropped his glasses, turned and walked away.

It happened that way at this single point where non-Germans may pass through the East German wall because the United States refuses to recognize the East German regime. For the most part soldiers of East Germany and the United States pretend the other is not there.

The vopos have a habit of reaching for their tear gas grenades when crowds gather at Friedrichstrasse. The Americans reach for their own. The vopo slowly draws his hand away from his grenade. So does the American. Eventually both light cigarettes.

They play the same game with their guns, the vopos pretending they are about to bring their burp guns closer to firing position, and the Americans casually unbutton their pistol holsters.

"The only thing they dislike about this duty," one MP commented, "is they are forbidden to shoot at us."

An American pretends he is so absorbed looking down a side street that his foot slips onto and even over the line. A half-dozen vopos suddenly come alive and start for that spot.

"It drives them crazy," the MP comments.

Asked what rank one vopo is, an MP sergeant walks straight to the line, leans far forward almost touching the Communist, stares at the latter's insignia, then reports loudly, "the little punk is a corporal." The "little punk" just binks his eyes.

Both sides spend hours both day and night looking across the line through binoculars. What are they looking at? Says an American: "In the daytime, the vopos are doing the same thing as we—looking at the girls."

Proposed Drug Law Ripped By Gotham Lawyer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A New York patent attorney said today that proposed drug patent laws might force manufacturers to resort to secrecy when they invent potent drugs.

Paul S. Bolger of the New York Patent Law Association made the statement before the Senate anti-trust subcommittee.

The subcommittee is hearing testimony on a bill sponsored by its chairman, Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., which calls for stiffer patent laws on new drugs.

The bill would reduce exclusive patents on drugs from 17 to three years, and require a patent holder to license any other firm during the next 14 years which wished to produce the drug.

Bolger said in prepared remarks that reducing the exclusive rights would kill incentive for research.

He said if the drug industry is forced to adhere to a three-year exclusive patent, medical chemists may "by-pass the patent system altogether and resort to secrecy," to protect their inventions.

"Secrecy dries up the flow of scientific knowledge which the present patent system encourages," Bolger said.

Kefauver claims the bill would invite more competition, lower prices and break the "monopolistic control" of a few big firms over the production of vital drugs.

But Bolger claimed it would do "irreparable damage to the patent system."

9 Reasons Why You

Should Choose A Carrier

Heating and Cooling Specialist

Heating and cooling equipment is a major purchase—and the man who installs your system plays a major part in making it a good investment. He must combine many skills: he must select the right equipment, arrange it efficiently, install it properly, and adjust it for economical operation. And over the years, he must provide prompt, competent service. How can you be sure that your dealer can do all these things? You should look for a heating and cooling specialist, a man who can offer you these advantages:

- 1. Training. He should be factory trained to select the right equipment for you, and to lay out your system efficiently. Carrier representatives are thoroughly educated in heating and cooling application engineering.
- 2. Installation Skill. You are sure of a workmanlike installation, following all proved practices, when a Carrier representative installs your system. Every Carrier dealer receives extensive installation training.
- 3. Quality Products. Your dealer can be no better than the equipment he sells—and your Carrier dealer's products are known for performance, quality and long life. Carrier is the First Name in Air Conditioning and sets the pace for the industry.
- 4. Low Operating Cost. You get far more heating and cooling per dollar from a Carrier system because Carrier designs units for maximum efficiency and operating economy.
- 5. Wide Selection of Equipment. Your heating and cooling specialist should have available a wide choice of equipment to fit all needs, both as to type of product and capacity. Carrier makes available to its dealers the widest range of equipment—from small room units to systems for the largest buildings.
- 6. Quick Delivery. To keep your system operating properly, your dealer needs a local source of service parts and equipment. Air Equipment, Inc., Carrier distributor in Amarillo and Lubbock, maintains a large product inventory, and a complete stock of service parts.
- 7. Prompt Service. Carrier heating and cooling specialists provide prompt and efficient service at all times. Factory training keeps Carrier representatives up-to-the-minute on new models and service procedures.
- 8. Proved Installations. Your Carrier heating and cooling specialist can show you a wide variety of successful installations, to illustrate his ability. There is more Carrier Air Conditioning operating in the Panhandle-West Texas-Eastern New Mexico area than any other make!
- 9. Dependability. Your dealer should be an experienced and successful businessman. You should be sure he will remain in business through the years, as Carrier dealers do, to take care of your future heating and cooling needs.
