'Mr. Sam' Won Fame As Maker Of History

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International
Rayburn never was seen slapping a back. He didn't smile much. He seldom made speeches. He disliked and was disliked by photographers. He kissed beauty queens but rarely a baby. Despite these and other departures from the established tradition he attained political success, world renown, and even love and affection beyond the wildest dreams of most politicians.

Rayburn not only served in the House longer than any man. He served as speaker more than twice as long as his nearest competitor. In his years of splintering gavels he built the job into the nation's second most powerful, outranked only by the presidency. He saw made and helped make more history than any of the eight presidents he served with ("never say 'served under,'" he chided reporters).

This was pretty good going for a poor country boy, born the eighth child of 11 in the Tennessee hills and raised on 40 acres in Texas. With nothing to do but chop cotton and read history books, young Rayburn had picked his career before he was 10. He built it on—$25, hard work, and the will to succeed.

The money was an unexpected assist from his dad, shoved into Sam's pocket as he climbed aboard a hot, cindery coach on his way to enroll in East Texas Normal. From that day, Sam was on his own. Among his jobs was sweeping floors at the college, for which he earned $3 a month.

As speaker he earned $45,000 a year. He rode to his fishing holes in an air-conditioned $11,000 limousine, and fished with his chauffeur. He mingled with, and was one of, the great. He was trusted adviser to three presidents (Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy) and had plenty to say, one way or another, about the administration of a fourth (Eisenhower). Rayburn was elected speaker on Sept. 16, 1940, on the death of Speaker William B. Bankhead. He had been learning the trade as a lawmaker from the 4th District in 1912 at age 30.

He took office with President Wilson, who became one of his heroes. From childhood, all Rayburn's heroes were statesmen. Politics was the only career he ever considered, and he claimed to have decided at age 5, 9 or thereabouts he would run for the House and sooner or later be elected its speaker.

He knew the House was the greatest legislative body on earth, and anybody who in his presence used the term "upper body" to refer to the Senate simply didn't know much about getting along with Sam Rayburn.

Unlike some other members of his party—especially some from the South—Rayburn always stayed hitched. "Democrats just naturally seem to know better than Republicans how to keep the (See RAYBURN, Page 4)

Speaker Praised As Great Leader

By United Press International
Democrats and Republicans joined today in hailing Speaker Sam Rayburn, who died of cancer in Bonham, Texas, as a man who placed the well-being of the country ahead of partisan politics.

"I know that the sorrow in Democratic hearts will be shared by those Republicans in the Congress who admired him as a man and respected him as an opponent," said Democratic National Chairman John Bailey.

"Rayburn was a Democrat who always placed his beloved country ahead of partisanship," Bailey said. "His death is a grievous loss for his country and the free people of the world."

Bailey noted that Rayburn served as "a moving force in the administration of four Democratic presidents" and said Democrats particularly "are heartsick with grief over the passing of the man all of us affectionately regarded as 'Mr. Democrat.'"

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, said Rayburn "was impeccably fair and his respect for the rights of the minority party was a household word."

Dirksen said Rayburn gained "the affection of everyone who served with him, and he will be long remembered for his enduring contributions to the well-being of the country." He called Rayburn "a man of consummate courage."

J. C. Magouirk, mayor of Bonham, spoke for his townspeople when he said, "It's sort of like losing the courthouse. Oh, we're going to miss him. We've always leaned on him for everything. Imposed on him, I guess you'd say. I can't say anything that would nearly express how I feel about Mr. Sam's death."

Dry Cold Front Follows Wintry Snow Blanket

By United Press International
A dry cold front bit deep into Texas today but brought no new snow to hamper residents digging out from a near blizzard in the Panhandle that left 16 inches of snow on the ground in some areas.

The storm that had been plaguing the New Mexico-Texas area swept into western Kansas and Missouri. The storm battered region had clear skies today but brisk northerly winds whipped up the snow drifts.

As much as 16 inches of snow was measured unofficially at Romero, a small community in Hartley County, and at a ranch near Dalhart. A low pressure system teamed up with a cold front to cause the trouble.

The fresh snow fell on an earlier layer which had fallen Tuesday. Dalhart had an 8-inch fall and Muleshoe had more than five inches.

Freezing rain snapped power lines and highways remained dangerous.

Wednesday's front carried high, gusty winds which caused swirling snow. The extreme conditions caused highways to ice over and travel was discouraged or stopped on several main Panhandle arteries.

The two fronts brought the worst weather so far this season to the Panhandle and was blamed for at least six deaths in the state.

Overnight low temperatures early today ranged from 25 at Alpine to 57 at Brownsville. The new cold front is expected to cause a freeze over Northwest Texas tonight and across the northern edge of North Central and Northeast Texas.

Precipitation during the 24-hour period that ended at 6 a. m. ranged from .01 of an inch at Austin to .43 at Amarillo. Wichita Falls had .33, Dallas and Fort Worth both measured .28, Texarkana .20, Dalhart .18 and Waco .11.

More high winds whipped deep snow into drifts in weather-battered New Mexico, hampering rescue teams in their efforts to reach an estimated 200 hunters still trapped by the five-day-old storm.

Authorities were air-dropping supplies to the stranded in New Mexico. Another 100-odd of the estimated 500 persons isolated by the storm were brought to safety Wednesday. However, overcast skies put an end to air searches today.

The snow belt stretched from Arizona to Texas and from the Mexican border to Wyoming, where Lander reported 13 inches on the ground, four inches of it falling in a single six-hour period. The Texas Panhandle had 16 inches of snow and western Kansas had five inches.

The cold was moving eastward, and sharp temperature drops were predicted for tonight.

Most of the trapped hunters appeared to be located at camps where some food was still in supply but dangerously low. Some of them were reported eating venison—living on the sport that put them in their predicament.

Bill Southard of the Artesia Daily Press said, "We dropped packages of food to camps while clipping the treetops in the rugged country."

"We took pictures to help locate the areas for ground searches. Some of the camps had children in them and in a few others hunters had written the word 'help' in the snow in hopes we would rescue them."

Iowa Man Rates As A Commuter

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sidney R. Bowen probably qualifies for some kind of commuter championship for the 700 mile roundtrip he makes from his Mason City, Iowa home every Tuesday.

The executive flies here every week to attend a management seminar at Roosevelt University and does his homework during the 350-mile return trip.

TODAY'S SUN SWEEPS SNOW AWAY—Snow fell in Pampa Wednesday in an appreciable amount for the first time this season. Estimate were that about two inches fell during the afternoon. Most of it vanished today under the rays of a glowing sun. The above picture of the season's first snow was made in the Santa Fe railroad park area, Cuyler and Atchison streets. (Daily News Photo)

Thirteen Italian Soldiers Murdered In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Thirteen Italian soldiers flying for the United Nations in the Congo were murdered by drunken Congolese troops last Saturday, a U.N. spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the Italian swere shot shortly after they landed at Kindu Airport in Kivu Province.

He said some of their bodies were hacked to pieces and thrown into the Luluaba River near Kindu prison.

They apparently had been mis-

Pampa Man Hurt In Auto Accident

Six automobiles were damaged heavily, but only one person was injured in two traffic accidents listed by police during the rain, snow and sleet storm Wednesday afternoon and night.

Cloys W. Ross, 411 Texas, suffered a cut lip and broken teeth when the car he was driving veered to the left side of the street and struck two parked cars in the 600-block of N. Gray St. The cars were owned by Jimmy Carter, 617 N. Gray, and the Transwestern Pipeline Co.

Ross was cited for driving on the left side of the street.

In another accident at N. Hobart and W. Kentucky shortly after 4 p.m. automobiles driven by Vernon L. Hunt, 1112 Charles St., James D. Huntley, 214 N. Starkweather, and Aldine Price, 440 Graham, were in collision.

Police said Mrs. Price had stopped for a light at the intersection. Watkins was making a left turn and Huntley was unable to stop on the slick street.

Huntley was cited for exceeding a safe speed.

N.Y. Prisoners Staging 'Sit-In'

OSSENING, N.Y. (UPI) — New tension in the cell blocks today threatened the hope of settling a massive "sit-in" strike with room service" by almost all of Sing Sing Prison's 1,747 convicts.

There was no violence in the strike which started Wednesday morning when prisoners refused to leave their cells to back demands for guaranteed time off for good behavior.

Cabot Awarded $436,744 Order

Cabot Corporation's Machinery Division today received a $436,744 contract award for gun tube forgings for the United States Army.

The announcement was made here this noon by R. A. Baker, general manager of the Machinery Division.

The contract award, Baker said, came from Col. Gerald Johnson Jr., commanding officer of the U.S. Army Ordnance District in St. Louis, Mo.

Baker said work will start immediately on the contract and it is scheduled for completion some time in February.

Cabot Corp. has previously produced gun forgings for the Army.

The Israeli press has predicted the verdict will be read in open court Dec. 4.

Three Satellites Sent Into Space On Network Test

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—Three gleaming new satellites whizzing around earth today indicated that within a year America may receive the first practical benefits from the billions of dollars it has invested in space exploration.

The moonjets, hurled into orbit within a two-hour period Wednesday, heralded a day when man will navigate by artificial "radio stars," communicate through switchboards in space and warn himself of missile attacks with the help of "spy-in-the-sky" satellites.

The most immediate practical pay-off probably will come from a 200-pound atom-powered satellite named Transit 4-B, which the Navy and Air Force put into orbit with a complicated "piggy-back" passenger named TRAAC aboard a single rocket from Cape Canaveral.

Capt. William T. O'Bryant of the Bureau of Naval Weapons said that, if Transit 4-B does its job well, it will become a part of mankind's first operational space network next year—a four-satellite system to provide an all-weather method for global navigation.

An 1,800-pound Discoverer satellite also rode into orbit Wednesday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. It carried experiments for America's top-secret Midas and Samos—a pair of satellite programs designed to warn of missile launchings and do reconnaissance photo work in space.

But details of the Discoverer's payload, including a 300-pound capsule scientists hope to recover, were kept secret.

Rogers To Speak At C-C Aviation Meet Friday Eve

Rep. Walter Rogers will be the principal speaker at an aviation dinner meeting to be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Friday night in Coronado Inn.

Ralph Prock, chairman of the C. of C. Aviation Committee, said special guests at the dinner will be representatives of the Federal Aviation Agency from the Fort Worth and Amarillo offices.

Aviation facilities at the Pampa airport and suggested improvements will be among topics to be discussed with the FAA officials.

The meeting will start with a social hour at 6 p.m. in the Terrace Room. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. in the Cibola Room.

Former Lawmaker Will Run Again

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Raymond Russell Jr., former Texas lawmaker who served two terms in the House as a Democrat, announced Wednesday he is running for state representative again, this time as a Republican.

Russell filed as a candidate for the seat being vacated by Rep. Franklin Spears, who in turn had announced as a candidate for the Senate post vacated by Henry B. Gonzalez after he was elected to Congress.

U.S. Treasury's Silver Holdings Show Big Drop

NEW YORK (UPI)—A. M. Kidder & Co. says a new low of 44.8 million ounces of silver was held by the Treasury at the end of October — a thumping loss of 13 million ounces during the month. This compares with 123.5 million at the start of the year. This acceleration of loss, according to the brokerage house, "appears to reflect near-panic buying by users, expecting a price increase." It says silver issues are still highly favored, and all holdings should be patiently retained.

Arthur Wiesenberger says in his firm's weekly investment report that the unexpected 50-cent General Motors extra dividend is probably the forerunner of others. Rising dividends can do much to dispel investor doubt and worries, says the analyst, and "we remain of the opinion that the long-term trend of stock prices is upward."

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co. says it should be mentioned that most third-quarter earnings reports have now been discounted, so that investors are now trying to appraise economic and stock market prospects for the first half of 1962.

Science & Electronics Investment Letter says that with improvement in orders now beginning, and with steadily rising defense outlays a definite prospect, most science companies should enjoy a hefty boost in volume and profits in the period just ahead.

Helium Contract Awarded Phillips

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interior Department today announced approval of a $13.7 million-a-year contract under which 15.7 billion cubic feet of helium would be conserved over a 22-year period.

Under the contract, Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla., will build two plants in Texas to recover helium from natural gases produced in the Southwest to supply fuel markets.

The Bureau of Mines said one plant in Hansford County will be capable of processing 200 million cubic feet of natural gas daily. The other, in Moore County, near Dumas, Tex., will have a capacity of 275 million cubic feet of natural gas daily.

The department said Phillips Petroleum expects to have both plants in operation in about 14 months, or sometime in January, 1963.

The combined helium output of the plants will be a billion cubic feet for which the government will pay $10.30 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Humble Plans To Take Over Olin Oil Co.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Humble Oil and Refining Co. will acquire all the assets of Olin Oil and Gas Corp. in a stock transaction involving approximately $67,900,000 under a tentative agreement announced late Tuesday.

The tax-free exchange of Olin Assets for common stock in Standard Oil Co. (N.J.) is still subject to approval by Olin shareholders, government authorities, and "the resolution of certain corporate problems."

Olin is a New Orleans-based company which produces, purchases and transports natural gas. It also has interests in crude oil and condensate production. It assets as of Dec. 31, 1960 totaled about $190 million.

Texas Boys Choir Visits Children's Hospital In N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI)—A posse of 25 Texas boys, decked out in white 10-gallon hats, took the children's ward of giant Bellevue Hospital by storm this week and captured the hearts of a building full of invalid children.

The Texas Boys choir from Fort Worth took time out from a wide-eyed tour of the city to pay a visit to the hospital.

To some of the children, it was just like having Santa Claus drop in.

They sat in their beds and grinned bashfully as the Texans split up into groups of five or six and huddled around them, singing medleys of Texas folk songs.

Brownsville Vote Challenge Denied By High Court

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Supreme Court has refused to consider an appeal by a group of Brownsville property owners challenging the city election that created a public utilities board.

The court said it did not have jurisdiction to enter the case.

The case grows out of a July 8, 1960, special election in Brownsville amending the city charter to provide for a four-member public utilities board.

Property owners led by Robert Runyon sued to have the election declared void on grounds the four board members' names were not on the ballot.

Brownsville Mayor J. C. George filed a petition to dismiss, saying the board members were not parties to the suit and contestants did not show their interest was different from the interest of the public at large.

The district court agreed and dismissed the property owners' suit. The Court of Civil Appeals upheld the ruling.

Runyon and his companions in the suit contended the courts erred in saying the court challenging the election did not have a legal interest in the matter.

But the Supreme Court said to day it did not have jurisdiction to consider the appeal.

Laredo led with October receipts of $329,610. Brownsville counted $305,848, Eagle Pass $160,576, San Antonio $20,344, Hidalgo $11,973, Roma $5,657, Del Rio $802 and Rio Grande City $5.38.

80 Persons Killed in Mexican Storm, Reports Disclose

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UPI)—The hurricane which lashed Mexico's Guerrero coast Sunday killed more than 80 persons in coastal villages north of here, it was reported today.

The hurricane hit the coast between Acapulco and Zihuatanejo, about 100 miles to the north, and howled inland to bow itself out the mountains.

Pampans Will Go To Shamrock Meet

Pampa will send a delegation to Shamrock Tuesday, Nov. 21, to attend the annual banquet of the Shamrock Chamber of Commerce.

Local chamber officials received an invitation today inviting Pampa C.C. representatives to attend the banquet which will be held in the National Guard Armory in Shamrock.

while en route to the Washington airport for a flight to the West Coast. He immediately turned around and made plans to fly to Texas.

"The capital is a lonely place without him and the good people of the world have lost a companion and an ally," Johnson said in a statement. "He was always there when he was needed."

Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., of the House Rules Committee, who sometimes tangled with Rayburn over legislation, said the speaker was "the most efficient and effective legislator of his generation."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said in New York she was "very, very sorry" to hear about the death.

Adlai Stevenson, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, said in New York. "The Democratic party has lost one of the most colorful figures of this century and the nation one of its most useful servants. 'I have lost a beloved friend and ally in many battles'."

Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond said Rayburn ranked among America's greatest statesmen because of "fidelity of purpose, dedication to his country, personal and official integrity, courage, foresight and capacity of leadership."

Former President Herbert Hoover said, "Speaker Sam Rayburn has been one of America's great leaders over many years. He commanded both affection and respect irrespective of political affiliations. Our country is better for his life among us."

one of his sisters quoted him as saying he wanted to end his days among "those friends and neighbors who for so long have given me a love and loyalty unsurpassed in any annals."

Joe Denton Sr., owner of the Wise funeral home in Bonham and a life-long friend of Rayburn, took the body from the hospital shortly after the family left. Rayburn will be buried Saturday at Willow Wild cemetery on the western outskirts of Bonham.

Rayburn's grave will be a family plot about a half-mile west of the town's white marble Sam Rayburn Library.

Rayburn wanted to die in the two-story, white colonial home he had built on the edge of Bonham, a town of 10,000 population 80 miles northeast of Dallas.

But elaborate respiratory equipment was necessary, and he was taken to the house converted into a 15-bed hospital.

The speaker's ailment was diagnosed as cancer Oct. 5. A biopsy performed at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas disclosed the malignancy. It apparently started in the pancreas and spread through his body.

Rayburn had left Washington for Bonham late in August, about two weeks before the 87th session of Congress recessed. He had been suffering severe back pains. He said they had been diagnosed by doctors in Washington as lumbago.

A team of specialists did all they could for the man known to millions of Americans as "Mr. Democrat." But the cancer was inoperable, and the final result of the widespread malignancy was never in doubt.

To complicate matters, Rayburn caught pneumonia and lapsed into a coma. A near-miraculous recovery allowed physicians to treat him with experimental drugs. They also administered radiation treatments with a six-million volt X-ray machine.

Pampa Rotarians Hear Praise For Club Foundation

The Rotary Foundation was identified as one of the finest elements in Rotary International by Travis Lively at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Pampa Rotary club.

Explaining that the Foundation was founded in 1937 for the purpose of helping finance student exchanges on the graduate level, Lively said that there has been over $8,000,000 paid into the fund.

The Pampa club has reached the 100 per cent status regarding the Foundation, Lively stated, because it has contributed the equivalent of $10 per member to the program. The goal of the local organization is to have $20 per member in the Foundation which would qualify it as a 200 per cent club.

Visitors and guests for the day were Homer Gibson, Roy Bourland, Howard Buckingham, Charles Stanley, Carl Hills, H. R. Shephard, Jim Cone, K. I. June and C. A. Ray.

Kennedy Departs On Western Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy left here today for a political speaking trip to the Far West where he will also take a first-hand look at military exercises demonstrating defense readiness.

The President departed by a jet plane from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., at 8:31 a.m. CST for a five-hour and 40-minute flight to Seattle, Wash., his first stop.

A coma. A near-miraculous recovery allowed physicians to treat him with experimental drugs. They also administered radiation treatments with a six-million volt X-ray machine.

country runnin' right," he sometimes said.

Rayburn presided over the Democratic national conventions of 1948, 1952, and 1956. Through the sheer force of his personality and a firm grip on the rules, Mr. Sam from time to time saved them from what appeared to be imminent chaos. One convention he didn't run was held at Los Angeles in 1960. He stayed on the sidelines then to manage the campaign of his close friend, Lyndon Johnson. He thought a Johnson-Kennedy ticket would be great. It turned out vice-versa, but only after Johnson cleared with Rayburn Kennedy's invitation to serve in second spot.

Some observers claimed to be baffled by the apparent contradiction of Rayburn's conservative nature and background and his liberal career at the side of Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy. Those who knew him better said this was easy to fathom. Rayburn had seen want; he also knew the value of hard work in overcoming it.

Rayburn did more than any other man to help Roosevelt push through New Deal legislation then considered radical. Later he helped Truman with his Fair Deal. When Kennedy's New Frontier came along, with its accent on youth, Rayburn, by then 79, engineered legislative accomplishments about which even young administration men had despaired.

Yet Rayburn was nobody's rubber stamp. When he couldn't go along with a Democratic president's legislative request he usually didn't raise any public fuss about it. He just did not push, and as likely as not, nothing happened. Truman once handed him a civil rights bill which Rayburn thought was ahead of its time. He carried the bill back to Capitol Hill and forgot it.

Yet some years later (with the help of Johnson, then Senate leader) he was instrumental in putting a civil rights law on the books.

As speaker, Rayburn developed influence and power far exceeding those nominally prescribed for the job. From his election in 1940, he held the job continuously except for the four years of the 80th and 83rd Republican Congress when he served as minority leader.

Rayburn apparently grew up lonely, as some children do in big families, and lived, essentially, the same way. His early marriage lasted only three months. In Washington he lived alone for more than 30 years in the same one-bedroom bachelor apartment. Such meals as he wasn't taking with presidents, kings, prime ministers and lucky Washington hostesses he had sent in from a restaurant across the street.

Rayburn was born near Kingston, Tenn., Jan. 6, 1882. His father had been a Confederate soldier. When Sam was five the family moved to Texas and settled near Bonham. He grew up in the usual country pattern, and in later years liked to marvel at what roads, cars, electricity and the telephone had done to relieve the loneliness of rural living.

He always claimed as his proudest accomplishments passage of the rural electrification act and inclusion of farm-to-market roads in federal highway aid, both of which he said benefitted "the real people."

At noon on June 12, 1961, Rayburn had served as speaker 16 years and 237 days, twice as long as Henry Clay, his nearest competitor. He was 79, said he had never been sick in his life, that he weighed the same 176 pounds he had weighed for 40 years, and that he figured to be around for quite a spell yet.

The tributes that were laid on the speaker that day, by members on both sides of the aisle, were such that the standard flowery, fulsome, melodious eulogies common in exchanges between members on ceremonial occasions were reduced by comparison to mere awkward back-handed compliments.

Rayburn, who had sat through it all glum and silent, took back his gavel, quieted the ovation, and said that if the things his friends had said about him were true, his life had indeed been a rich one.

"I am satisfied," he told the hushed House. "My political career has climaxed everything I ever hoped or trusted it might be. So that when I leave here I will leave without any regrets..."

Two Pampa Girls Reported Missing

Pampa police still were searching late this forenoon for two Pampa girls, 14 and 15 years old, reported missing from their homes Wednesday night.

Parents of one of the girls said she failed to return from school yesterday afternoon. She later was located at the home of a girl friend last night but before her parents could get to the other girl's house, both girls had left. They disappeared about 8:30 p.m.

Police Chief Jim Conner said. The police chief expressed belief the girls would be found somewhere in the city before many more hours.

Thomas Jefferson was the first U.S. president to be inaugurated in Washington, D.C.

Golden Browned Turkey Symbol Of Thanksgiving

Just as our forefathers gathered 'round the table to give thanks for their first year in the new land, we carry on the tradition by joining with our families to count our blessings. And, what is more reminiscent of the first Thanksgiving than a plump, golden browned turkey as the piece de resistance of the feast.

For the quality you want, the style you want and the size you want, you can depend on the name of the best known bird in the U.S.A. Today's turkeys are different from those the pilgrims served because they are especially grown to be tender, plump and juicy. They may be purchased already stuffed and ready to be roasted. Or, they may be purchased ready to stuff for those who have a favorite stuffing recipe. When selecting the size bird for your needs allow 1 1/2 pounds per person of the ready-to-stuff style and 1 1/2 to 2 pounds per person of the already stuffed. This will provide for generous servings plus enough extra for "day after" service.

The ready-to-stuff Thanksgiving turkey may be thawed in the refrigerator or for quicker thawing, placed under cold running water. The ingredients for the stuffing may be prepared ahead. The dry ingredients should be stored in the cupboard and the moist ingredients in the refrigerator. They are combined and the bird is stuffed just before placing in the oven. Directions for thawing are on the wrapper. Roasting time schedules are on the giblet bag.

Going along with the tradition of turkey is a cranberry sauce which combines the texture of apple and the flavoring of mint with the cranberries. To add a bit of fall to your table select a colorful gourd. When split and scooped out, half of the gourd will act as a "boat" for the minted apple cranberry sauce and the other half as a candle holder.

1 onion, finely chopped

Slowly add egg yolk mixture to the remaining chicken bouillon. Cook gently, stirring constantly, until the sauce thickens. Blend together butter, parsley and lemon juice. Add to sauce. Spread bread with butter. Place bread, buttered side up on a baking sheet. Toast top side under the broiler. Place slices of turkey on unbuttered side. Return to the broiler. Place slices of turkey on unbuttered side. Return to the broiler until turkey is warm. Spoon sauce over toasted turkey sandwiches. Serve hot.

Pre-Baked Pastry Shells Are Invitation To Individual Desserts On Brief Notice

The new pre-baked pastry shells and delicious filling combines another convenience food — vanilla pudding mix — with crunchy peanut brittle and California Sherry. After the filling is set, top it with whipped cream sprinkled with more of the ground peanut brittle.

Exotic Relish Adds Appeal To Meat

Molasses Apple Chutney serves as an exotic relish to go with sliced meat or with curry. The pimiento, nuts and raisins studing this chutney give it additional appeal.

MOLASSES-APPLE CHUTNEY
1 can (20 ounces) apple slices
1-3 cup unsulphured molasses
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup vinegar
1 cup raisins
1 medium onion, sliced
1 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
3/4 cup diced pimiento
3/4 cup chopped nuts
Combine apples with unsulphured molasses, sugar, vinegar, raisins, onion, chili powder, salt, and dry mustard. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in pimiento and chopped nuts. Ladle into hot, sterilized 8-ounce or pint jars. Seal.
YIELD: Approximately 3 cups.
Note: If desired, recipe may be doubled or tripled.

TIP FOR ROASTING

When roasting a tender cut of meat in the oven, be sure to use a rack in the bottom of your roasting pan unless the bones form a natural rack as in a pork loin or beef rib roast. This allows the heat to circulate, and the meat won't cook in its own juices.

Cranberry Sauce Good Year Around

A spicy cranberry sauce is good all year around with ham, lamb, venison, wild duck, chicken or turkey. It seems even more suitable during the holiday season. Though it has great depth of flavor, it takes just five minutes to prepare. California Port works the magic.

CRANBERRY WINE SAUCE
(Makes about 2 cups)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
12 whole cloves
3 tablespoons sugar
Grated peel of 1 lemon
1/4 cup California Port
1 (1-pound) can whole cranberry sauce
Combine cinnamon, cloves, sugar, lemon peel and wine; simmer about 5 minutes; remove cloves; add cranberry sauce. Serve as accompanying sauce with lamb, venison, wild duck, chicken or turkey.

FOR QUICK SUPPER

Here's a suggestion for a quickly prepared meal. Cut luncheon meat into 1/4-inch slices, then divide each slice into four strips. Dip the strips into a batter made of 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 beaten egg and 1 tablespoon vinegar. Fry the meat strips in hot lard until they are golden brown.

Things Continually Happen To Tuna With Addition Of New Ingredient

New things are continually happening to creamed tuna, and one of the best is the addition of a little wine. Used with discretion, the wine — we used a medium Sherry from California when testing this recipe — heightens the flavor of the fish and brings out unexpected goodness. Compliment it still more by serving glasses of a white dinner wine, such as Sauterne or Chablis, well-chilled, as the mealtime beverage.

Sundae Sauce Is Tempting Blend

The sundae sauce, a tempting blend of molasses and honey, may top ice cream, cake or puddings. Serve it warm or cold, as your dessert and mood suggest.

PRALINE SUNDAE SAUCE
1/2 cup unsulphured molasses
1/2 cup honey
1-16 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

'Absurdity' Detected On Television Show

By FRED DANZIG
NEW YORK (UPI)—One dark and dreary night not so long ago, I had this nightmare about the "Sing Along With Mitch" show.

I dreamed that Mitch was switched and Bert Parks replaced him as the smiling host. Why? Oh, something about more warmth, stage presence, savvy and whiter teeth.

I recalled this nightmare with mounting terror Tuesday night while watching "Yours For a Song," a brand new ABC-TV half-hour sing-along-for-look series presided over by Mr. Music Man himself, Bert Parks.

Can it be that I'm still dreaming, that my set is haunted and this is all some kind of joke?

What can I say about Bert's confused, loud, cheap, forced program? It's not very musical. It's not fun to watch. It sounds awful and has an artificial look. But I suppose some will excuse all this because, after all, it gives uninhibited housewives and other exhibitionists a chance to sing a few lines of "My Blue Heaven" and win a few hundred bucks in the bargain.

Now I see the value of Mitch's show. If you pay close attention to the sing-along lyrics, buy his record albums and keep your eye on the bouncing ball, you may one day put this knowledge to work on Bert's show and win enough money to buy all the other sing-along record albums that have flooded the shops.

So, the seemingly bland, uncorruptible "Sing Along" format moves into the game show genre, and badly, and another TV art form becomes polluted.

While I'm no admirer of Mitch's cornball show, at least his band knows the music, the songs gush forth in appropriate readings, and the host, despite other shortcomings, doesn't explode all over the stage with frenzied ebullience the way Parks does. Bert Parks reminds me of a rocket — after someone has pressed the "destruct" button.

Was it Sam Johnson, or Oliver Treyz, who once said, "Almost all absurdity of conduct arises from the imitation of those whom we cannot resemble?"

Dialing and Filing: Just before the "Yours For a Song" nonsense, ABC-TV's newly-slotted "The New Breed" presented an obtuse episode called, "The Butcher." Written by Sheldon Stark, the drama showed how detectives nailed an abortionist and his accomplices. I put it that way because the emphasis was on suspense and action—not on a seriously-intended exploration into the universally-applicable considerations of the subject. So we write it off as sensation-seeking.

"Behind the Wall," the first in ABC-TV's two-part "Bell &

Howell Close-Up" dealing with divided Berlin and Germany, was a laudable attempt to contrast life as it really is in East Germany with life as the German Communist functionaries see it. Some of the spoken accents were hard to follow, some camera statements weren't effectively formulated, but on balance, the half-hour captured a mood made up of fear, hopelessness, terror and bluff.

I saw only the first half of Chet Huntley's NBC-TV special, "The Face of Spain" Tuesday night and found the camera work beautiful, the mounting of a bullfight-and-flamenco dancing segment inspired and spectacular. Besides, I'm for any show about Spain that doesn't bring Ernest Hemingway into the act during the first half-hour, at least.

The introductory remarks explained that the documentary would be more of a travelogue than a study of Spain's dictatorship and bureaucracy because most Americans already know about the latter. To which I might add, no thanks to TV.

The Channel Swim: It's official: Groucho Marx returns to network TV in January as the star of a new half-hour series on CBS-TV. The format of the still-untitled show will feature light incisive conversation with guests. The new series is expected to be a replacement for "The Investigators" in CBS-TV's Thursday schedule.

The ABC-TV engineering department has developed a videotape process which permits instant playbacks of action in slow motion. The process, called VTX, will be used for the first time on TV during the network's coverage of the Thanksgiving Day football game between Texas and Texas A&M.

Fallout Killings Opposed By U.S.

DETROIT (UPI)—For the record, it's official government policy to frown on shooting your neighbor at the fallout shelter door in the event of a nuclear attack.

John E. Cosgrove, new assistant director of the Office of Emergency Planning for the federal government, said, "The federal government does not favor shooting one's neighbor."

Cosgrove made the statement at a White House regional conference.

'Right-Wingers' Are Rapped By Robert Kennedy

DALLAS (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said yesterday organizations such as the John Birch Society and the Texas-based National Indignation Convention are "doing a tremendous disservice to their country."

"We welcome disagreement," Kennedy told a press conference, "but when groups seek to undermine the confidence of citizens in their government, they are doing a tremendous disservice to their country."

Kennedy said right-wing groups are doing nothing to combat the principal danger of communism, which he said is espionage by diplomatic representatives of Iron Curtain countries.

He said the FBI is the only agency that is handling that threat, and is the only organization capable and authorized to deal with it.

"The only Communist the John Birch Society has uncovered," Kennedy said with a smile, "is President Eisenhower."

President Kennedy's younger brother was in Dallas for a speech before the Associated Press Managing Editors convention. He told the press conference that new legislation is needed in labor, anti-racketeering and perhaps civil rights.

However, he said he will not make a decision on whether to seek new civil rights legislation until he evaluates progress at the end of this year.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the editors' convention, Kennedy again stated his distaste for right-wing groups.

"I have no sympathy with those who are defeatists and who would rather be 'Red than dead,'" Kennedy said. "Nor do I have any sympathy

Wisconsin's Chief Forfeits $10 Fine

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Gov. Gaylord Nelson's car brings him only trouble when others get behind the wheel.

Nelson was admonished by a judge two weeks ago for leaving the keys in his car. A youth took the auto as a prank.

Tuesday the governor forfeited a $10 bond on a charge of allowing an improperly equipped vehicle to be operated by his press secretary William Fairfield. The brakes on Nelson's car failed after Fairfield parked it.

Commie China Pushes Toward Nuclear Tests

LONDON (UPI) — Communist China, pushing relentlessly for status as a world power, is reported speeding an independent nuclear program which may produce its first atomic bomb by 1962.

Diplomatic reports based on information from behind the Bamboo and Iron curtains cite strong indications that Peiping is making a determined effort to become a nuclear force.

The current signs are that the Peiping regime is going about it without Russian help and even growing opposition from Moscow.

The middle of 1962 has been mentioned as a likely date for Red China's first nuclear explosion, although other estimates say it will take up to two more years.

Two years ago foreign minister, Marshal Chen Yi, told a news conference that Peiping intended to have the atomic bomb. Since then there has been official silence while Peiping's propaganda machines firmly denounced nuclear efforts of the West and supported proposals for a nuclear free zone in the Far East.

In 1959, Ho Chi Minh, president of Communist North Viet Nam, dropped a casual remark that the Chinese would have atomic bombs "in the not too distant future." Peiping said nothing.

In its ideological struggle with Moscow over interpretation of Marxist-Leninist doctrine, Red China has consistently taken a tough line toward the West against the softer line proclaimed by Moscow.

Some political observers believe that the recent explosion of a 50 megaton plus bomb by the Soviet Union was designed as much to impress Red China as to intimidate the West.

A ranking Asian leader told this

African Learns About Railroad Methods In U.S.

By JESSE BOGUE
 NEW YORK (UPI)—With all the material available in the United States on the problems of railroads yesterday, today and tomorrow, it would seem that a sort of world-wide rule book could be assembled.

But not when it comes to African railroads. There, at least in the case of one long line in particular, what American railroads have discovered doesn't seem to apply. At least not when it pertains to how to tell its story to the public.

Prince Yurka Galatzine, 42, the Briton who took over that chore for the Benguela Railroad line about four years ago, discovered this when he took a look at the layout for the line, which runs from the Atlantic coast into Africa to link up with the Katanga and Rhodesian railway systems. It runs through Angola, and it furnishes an outlet for the copper-mining areas of Katanga.

Galatzine told about it on a recent trip to the United States. He thought the Association of American Railroads might have hints that would be helpful to him.

"It wasn't that they didn't answer," Galatzine chuckled as he recalled his experience. "They sent a flood of stuff I almost had to open a warehouse."

"But none of it applied. Running a railroad in Africa is nothing like operating one in the United States."

He described the railroad as a "lifeline" into Katanga, but it isn't exactly a passenger line. "The train makes lots of stop," he said. It takes three days for a passenger to travel about as far as a good (freight) train will make in one day. And at most stops, you get a sort of conducted tour of the area. Very friendly. "But the passengers seem to travel at only about 15 miles an hour."

Kansas Presents Plea In Western Railroad Tangle

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A number of states have chosen sides in the battle between Southern Pacific and Santa Fe for control of Western Pacific—but some feel the smaller railroad should remain independent.

Arizona, Kansas, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Washington have rallied behind Santa Fe at Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on the dispute, Iowa and Wyoming favor SP, but pleas for an independent WP have been made by California, Oregon, Utah—and Nevada.

Arizona and Kansas appealed Tuesday for continued competition between SP and WP, but argued that WP competition would be stronger if controlled by its bigger business ally, Santa Fe. However, Nevada witnesses said there has not been sufficient evidence that WP would profit from Santa Fe control to warrant a change.

Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada, in a message to the ICC, said his state has gained great and priceless benefits from the competition between WP and SP. He said the benefits can continue only if the present active competition is preserved.

E. T. Williams, chairman of the Arizona's experience with SP attacked SP's claim that it would operate the paralled WP as a separate and aggressive competitor, Arizona Corporations Commission, indicates that the public cannot trust its promises, Williams said. He charged that SP had pledged to maintain various lines, then allowed service to deteriorate.

The Kansas case was presented by Richard C. Byrd, chairman of the Kansas Corporation Commission. He emphasized the value to shippers of a choice between railroads.

Fog-Veiled London Has Enchantment In Autumn

London fog wraps Sherlock Holmesian atmosphere, sherry parties and shopping bargains in traditional autumn veils.

By GAILE DUGAS
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
LONDON (NEA) — Oh, to be in England now that autumn's here! The quotation may be a bit off, but there is much to be said for Great Britain in the foggy days of fall.

The first thing to be said is that London simply abounds in lovely bargains for women shoppers.

Of course, you must keep in mind that $100 limit, but you can still do well.

Buys in silver are plentiful. So are bargains in antique jewelry, Victorian scent bottles, charms for your bracelet and beautiful knitwear.

You can't shop ALL of the time and you'll want to enjoy a cup of tea by an open fire, a long ride through London's lighted streets on a double-decker bus, and a visit to Mme. Tussaud's Chamber of Horrors.

You're sure to be invited to a sherry party or two and you'll find these an agreeable substitute for the American cocktail party.

Late autumn (or early winter) is the best time to chase ghosts of all sizes. England abounds in them and the English are justifiably proud of them.

A visit to the Tower of London on a chill, gray day will point this up. You may not see any ghosts but you certainly will sense them.

What will happen to you about the time you're shown the spot where Anne Boleyn's head was chopped off is that you'll feel an urgent desire to get outside those gates. Still, it's an experience to be cherished later.

And there's a cozy restaurant nearby where you can get a nice cup of tea and brood over the fact that the 20th century may have some advantages after all.

Winter is the best time for roast beef and Yorkshire pudding, with their hint of Dickensian cheer.

Of course, you'll want to visit Dickens' home in Doughty Street and Sherlock Holmes' study, now located over a pub.

And a trip to the Old Curiosity Shop, the very one of which Dickens wrote, is a must.

If you're a mystery fan (and they're legion today), a trip down to Old Bailey, the famous criminal courts, is one you'll want to make.

Delta Kappa Gamma Members Explore New Trends In Art With Guest Artist

Exploring new trends in art with a critical explanation of the works of some of his pupils in this area, Dord Fitz of Amarillo spoke to members of Beta Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma at a meeting in Lovett-Memorial Library on Saturday.

"Art has always been art," Mr. Fitz said, "from the artistic creations of the ancient Egyptians, Syrians, and Greeks through the Middle Ages to the modern paintings of today. The great change came with the Renaissance."

"The laws of art are the same today as they always have been," Mr. Fitz continued. "Only the attitudes have changed." Explaining that art can be either abstract or realistic, as well as visual and emotional, Mr. Fitz said, "Paintings by my students reveal that all do not think alike. In teaching art, you do not teach an attitude and put all students in one mold, but you teach art and let them express themselves."

"A person paints what he sees, thinks and feels," the speaker emphasized. "The paintings of some are mathematical concepts, others visual reproductions, and others poetic or spiritual expressions."

"Art is a complete new world," he said. "To appreciate works of art, a person must learn to read a painting. Art is not recognizing an image but reading it, and to understand a work of art a person must be taught."

Mr. Fitz studied at the University of Iowa and was a professor of art at the University of Kentucky 14 years. He has been teaching appreciation of art and promoting an interest in art in the Panhandle since 1951.

The speaker was introduced by

Mrs. Raymond Harrah. Hostesses were Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams, Otis Mangold, Julian Key, and Misses Betty Boswell and Lillian Mullinax.

A fall arrangement of pyracantha was used with a copper tea service on a yellow tablecloth to carry out the fall theme. Refreshments of Danish rolls and coffee were served. Miss Sibly Turner, president, presided at the regular business meeting.

Mrs. Gerald Beaty, who is moving with her family to Goldsmith, was bid farewell by the class. Mrs. Bill Fulcher, as installing officer, likened each member as a ship with God as the pilot, the Bible as the compass and love as the anchor.

Refreshments were served from a table appointed with a Thanksgiving theme.

Those attending were Mes. Bob Callahan, class teacher, Dean Wheeler, Gerald Beaty, Al Kuykendall, Jay Thompson, Doyle Beckham, Johnny McGuire, Bill Jenkins, Bill Watson and John Adams.

Dear Abby... Unhappy Girl Needs A Friend

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't tell me to go to a doctor because we owe every doctor in town and I'm not kidding. What's wrong with me? When someone asks me a question, I start to tell the truth, but end up telling a lie. I lie about little things, like where I buy my clothes and who cuts my hair. I am 15 and don't get an allowance, so when the kids ask me to go with them, I never say, "I can't" — I say, "I don't want to."

I have a quick temper and tell all the wrong people off and am sorry the next minute. Sometimes I think I'm going crazy. Is there any hope for me?

70 immediately meets me, at the door and I am stuck with him the entire evening. He seems to like me but he never asks me out. Other men appear interested in me but they don't have a chance because this man monopolizes me. How can I get rid of him without hurting his feelings?

TENDER HEARTED: DEAR TENDER: HEARTED: Here is a case where age can learn from youth. Enlist the help of a friend. She can subtly let other interested parties know that you are not attached to this "over 70" gent by choice, and would appreciate being "rescued" occasionally.

UNHAPPY: DEAR UNHAPPY: You need a friend. Most people lie because they lack the courage to tell the truth. If there is a teacher, clergyman, or mature adult with whom you can talk frankly, do so. Your problem is not as hopeless as you think it is. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were engaged four years before we were married. He was away in service most of this time. He wrote me beautiful love letters. I have kept all of them and they run into the hundreds. Now he has asked me please to destroy them because he doesn't ever want anyone else to read them. I doubt if anyone could get to them in our home. Do you think there is any harm in keeping them?

SENTIMENTAL: DEAR SENTIMENTAL: It all depends on what's in the letters. If they are inflammable — you'd be wise to burn them.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps I am too tender-hearted. I belong to an OVER-SIXTY club. I am 62 and have been widowed 3 years. Another widow and I go to their Saturday night dances. The minute I walk in, a gent who is over CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL AT THE STORE: Better marry a girl who's broke than one who's cracked.

Local Boxers Host Amarillo Wills, Perez To Battle Tonight

Pampa's Optimist Boxers will host the Amarillo Boxing Club tonight at 7:30 at the Boy's Club Building with a 16-bout program scheduled.

Fighters from Borger, Stinnett and Lefors are also expected to be over for the event.

The feature attraction on tonight's program will be a 147-pound division bout between Manny Perez of Amarillo and Dickie Wills, Pampa.

Perez is the regional welterweight champion. He narrowly beat the 1960 state welterweight champion from Levelland, Gary Watt, for the regional title.

Wills was a 1961 regional semi-finalist in the same division. He lost in the semi-finals last year to Watts by a split decision. He has had over 100 fights in his career.

Cliff Dunham, the program director, observed, "Both boys will be weighing in about 155 pounds. There should be plenty of fireworks. Manny is about as colorful a fighter in the ring you will see. His Mexican sombrero and 'chacha' stomp before the kill is well known throughout the Panhandle."

The scheduled events with Pampa fighters listed first and Amarillo second and the weight division last are:

Roy Lumpkin vs Johnny Garcia—70 pounds

Marvin Tinney vs Jimmy Jimenez—85 pounds

H. D. LaRue vs Sammy Mata—85 pounds

Jimmy Watson vs Junior Navarretta—90 pounds

Pete Pettit vs Ronnie Fitzgerald—100 pounds

Jesse Dean Reed vs Paul Valverde—118 pounds

Glen Samples vs Tea Luzero—124 pounds

Ronnie Cox vs George Arredondo—135 pounds

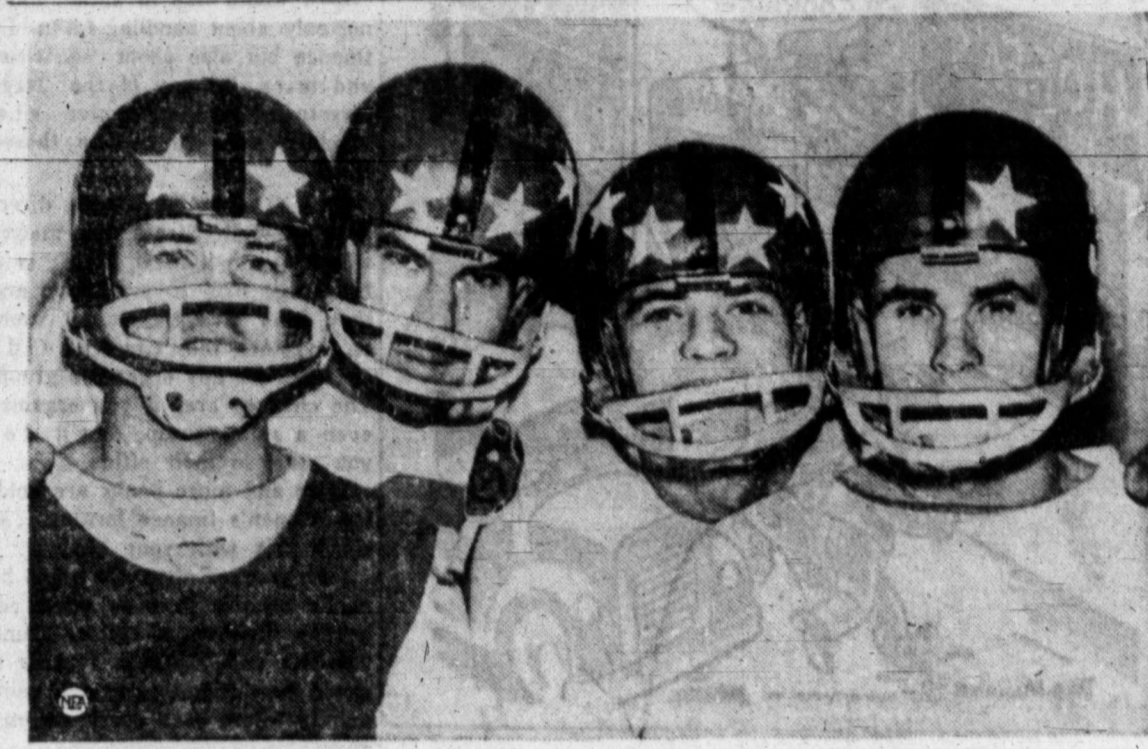

Ronnie Fletcher vs George Brender—135 pounds

Max Taylor vs Reno Rodriguez—145 pounds

Pat McDonald vs Leslie Martinez—147 pounds

Gene Shipman vs Manuel Gonzales—147 pounds

Dickie Wills vs Manny Perez—155 pounds

Azle Eleven Defeated By Ineligibility

By United Press International

The ineligibility bugaboo which annually rears its tainted head about playoff time in the Texas schoolboy football ranks struck the Azle Hornets today to alter the pairings for this weekend's Class AA bi-district actions.

Azle was forced to forfeit all of its District 10-AA games because it was discovered halfback James Stewart was average, thus moving the Decatur Eagles into the playoff spot opposite the pre-season state title favored Jacksboro Tigers.

The Jacksboro-Decatur game, which will be played at Weatherford Saturday night just as the original agreement with Azle called for, will be a rematch—but Decatur fans had rather not talk about the earlier contest.

Jacksboro won that one 81-0 at a time when the Eagles had seven regulars sidelined with injuries. Decatur lost its first four games, then won the next five in a row until bowing to Azle 12-3 in the season finale for the district crown. Thus, Decatur will carry a 6-4 win-loss record into the playoffs. Counting the 1-0 forfeit from Azle, the Eagles have scored 179 points to the opposition's 180.

Pampa Gridders Climb In 3-4A Statistics Race

Fine performances against weak Plainview enabled Kenney Hebert, Ralph Palmer and Butch Crossland to advance to high positions in individual statistics in 3-AAA play.

Hebert tallied 23 points against Plainview and Palmer racked up 18 to move into third and seventh place respectively in the loop scoring race.

Palo Duro's Gordon Nelson is the top scorer with 80 points followed by Lubbock's Tom Middleton with 48 and Hebert has 42.

Crossland passed for 149 yards against the Bulldogs to jump from eighth to third in the passing department. The senior quarterback, who has played in just four district games, trails Palo Duro's Ricky Nix by just 23 yards. Middleton leads with a commanding 485 yard total.

Hebert advanced to sixth in pass receiving with 155 yards on seven catches. The Pampa sophomore tumbled to second in punting, however, as his average dropped to 36.4 yards per boot.

Palo Duro continues to lead in total offense and rushing and is the total defense leader.

Miami Plays Jayton Club Friday Night

Groom, Miami and McLean take to the road this weekend to begin the first leg of the playoff activities.

Miami's undefeated, untied and untested Warriors go to Childress to meet a mighty Jayton team Friday night at 7:30. Jayton blasted the Warriors 28-0 last season in the regional round of the eight man post season play.

Jayton owns a 32-game victory streak. Miami has won 46 out of its last 49 games. The winner of this game will meet the Three-way-Wellman victor in the regional round.

Miami will stick to the same line-up it has used all season in scoring 228 points to 54 for its opponent. They will have Jim Flowers, Scotty Daugherty and Mickey Kivlehen in the backfield with Tim Flowers, Mark Arrington, Don McLaughlin, Joe Wayne Holland and Harold Coffee in the Holland and Harold Coffee.

The Warriors will outweigh the Jayton gridders by three pounds per man 170-167.

McLean, takes a 9-1 mark into Borger Friday night at 7:30 for their meeting with undefeated Gruver in a class A bi-district contest.

Deer Season Opens Today

AUSTIN (UPI)—Thousands of hunters took to the woods and fields today to stalk the wily whitetail deer and State Game and Fish Commission executive secretary Howard Dodgen said a heavy population of the animals may give Texas "its best season yet."

The season runs through Dec. 31. Bag limits are two bucks daily and two in possession, except that 25 areas get a "bonus" deer this year. Deer can be shot 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset. A state license is required.

Under the general game and fish law, the bag limit is two bucks with pronged horns. Under the regulatory authority of the game and fish commission, spike bucks are allowed with hardened antlers protruding through the skin, in all regulatory authority areas except Trinity, Blanco and Hays counties. In those counties, pronged antlers are required.

More encouragement for hunters comes from Al Springs, the commission's wildlife coordinator, who says the turkey season, also opening today, may be good in most areas.

"Turkey reproduction has been good over South Texas and along the eastern border of the Edwards Plateau in the edge of the hill country," Springs said. "Some western counties, however, have been rather dry. The cold weather will help the deer season, but it probably will not change the turkey outlook much."

Turkey hunting coincides with deer season this year, running through Dec. 31 with a bag limit of three gobblers daily and three in possession. Shooting hours are also 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset. A state license is required except in the county of the hunter's residence.

Coach Derral Davis' Tigers are the district 2-A champs and were only beaten by White Deer 20-6, a team which Gruver trounced 22-8. McLean has scored 287 points to the Greyhounds' 202 total.

Gruver has a trio of hard-running backs in halfbacks Doyle Sturman and Francis Shapley and fullback Ronnie Riley. McLean likes to throw the ball with tall Ken Willingham doing the passing. Halfback Jim Watson, a d fullback Clyde Windom beef up the running attack.

Groom will face a Bovina team, which posted a 7-3 season record, at Canyon Bowl Saturday night at 7:30 in Canyon.

Bovina lost to class A toughies—Springlake 14-0, Farwell 6-0 and rugged independent Boy's Ranch 14-6. They have whipped Whitharal 26-0; Amherst 22-16; Ft. Sumner, N. M. 21-14; Hart 41-6; Happy 39-8; Lazbuddie 34-8, and Vega 72-12.

Groom mentor, Dwaine Currie, stated, "Bovina has a real explosive offense with good size and speed. Buddy Turner, a halfback, and Don Compton, quarterback, are real fine backs. Turner runs good and Compton is a dandy passer."

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Baltimore pitcher Mill Pappas was charged with reckless driving following a three-car collision Wednesday in which he suffered minor injuries to his right hand and cuts on his knees and throat.

Pappas was treated at Union Memorial Hospital and later was released.

Baptists Reject Subsidy

We salute the Baptist General Convention of Texas which has voted to reject all federal aid to church institutions. It would be wonderful if all the other churches would follow the lead of the Baptists and refuse to tap the public treasuries.

The vote climaxed a three year study on what Texas Baptists should do about federal grants and loans. Only the Baptist churches of Virginia now refuse to accept any such funds.

The 6,000 messengers at the current three-day meeting were told by executive secretary T. A. Patterson of Dallas, that they were obligated spiritually and morally as well as constitutionally toward separation of church and state.

The report adopted by the convention declared "unequivocal opposition to all direct aid, money, or property to church schools, colleges, and other church institutions, whether they be Protestant, Roman Catholic, or Jewish."

"We believe that any direct assistance to any sectarian institution involves taxation for religious teaching," the report said. It also opposed any loans from public funds by religious organizations "for the construction of church schools, church college buildings, hospitals, and other church institutional buildings, or for any other purpose under any circumstance."

God love the Baptists!

Wit, Wisdom, Character

"Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country."

That was the noble sentiment, now ignominiously ignored, expressed by J. F. Kennedy in his inaugural address.

Apparently, the administration does not expect the people to observe this admonition, for ever since the words were uttered, most of the news and action coming out of Washington has been concerned with vast programs the planners are pushing, supposedly for the benefit of the people. Evidently, the administration thinks the people expect government to do just about everything for them.

Fortunately the proposal to federalize education at a cost of $5.6 billion over the next five years was defeated, but we have the $2.5 billion four-year commitment to urban renewal; a multi-million dollar program to federalize housing, not only for low-income families, but for medium-income families and for rentals as well as ownership. There is also the proposal to establish a new Department of Housing and Urban Affairs at Cabinet level. No one knows how much money that will cost the American taxpayer.

A determined effort is being made to federalize medical care. The proposal is to cost only $1 billion the first year, but the intention is to expand the program to something comparable to that existing in Great Britain. In terms of our population and scale of wages and prices compared with that of Britain, a similar program in our country would cost not less than $22 billion a year. If brought under the present Social Security program, that would mean an increase in the payroll tax to 11 or 12 per cent. To meet present Social Security goals, the tax is expected to rise to 9 per cent during the present decade and will probably have to be considerably higher before the program will be in balance.

If we embark on federalized medicine we may expect the Social Security tax to rise to somewhere between 20 and 25 per cent of payroll. Add to that 10 to 15 per cent for income tax deductions, plus liability and unemployment deductions, and we may confidently expect that well over one-third of each paycheck will be withheld from the worker.

We need not be surprised at this, for so-called "welfare deductions" in Italy amount to 44 per cent, in France 32 per cent, with comparable percentages in other countries.

Government already exercises a tight control over agriculture, is moving into the "depressed area" problem, already controls banking, railroads, aviation and other means of transportation. What is left of our freedom? What is left of our incomes? What scope is left for the exercise of free initiative? What has all this done to free enterprise? This is not wild talk; it is a realistic view of what is only a few years ahead for the American people if they do not wake up and stop it soon. Government, managed economy, with the suppression of the individual, loss of freedom in many areas, enormously expensive and with lower standards of living, is just ahead.

We are communicating ourselves so rapidly that the Kremlin sees no reason for war. We are surrendering to Marxian ideology at such a clip that, as the Russian official boasted privately to an American writer last fall: "We won't have to urge you or fight you — but only to sit quietly as you join us by adopting our ways."

That's what is happening. You don't have to accept it, but you are accepting it. So take a good look at your future and see how you like it! In case you remember the Constitution, the Founding Fathers and the irrepressible joy that spread through this country when freedom and self-government were achieved, remember that you can arise in your might, put an end to degrading socialism and reestablish the freedom our forefathers bequeathed to us, but which we of this generation have not yet shown the wit, wisdom and character to retain.

We have worshipped the false gods of "something for nothing." We have become a nation of thieves, divided into innumerable pressure groups each striving to see how much it can get from the production of others. We have lost our manhood and our integrity and instead of assuming responsibility for ourselves, are whining for federal aid. We are engaged in a vast program, not only of covering the wealth of others, but of seizing it for redistribution. We can redistribute it until it is gone, then cruel masters will force us to such toil as we have never known in this country.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — The people who are putting up the 36-story building that is going to be New York's tallest building without a single window in it — the people are the New York Telephone Co. — are getting on fine with their work just across the street from my windowed typewriter. It's up to 18 stories, the steel is coming in every day. Concrete floors have been poured up to 8 stories and now the huge concrete slabs that will encase the building are beginning to rise from the foundation level. These are solid slabs, threaded with steel rods and are a foot thick. The floors are beginning to darken where these slabs are going up, one floor in height at a time, and electric lights now are blazing for the workmen who are laying pipe, electric conduits and installing the air-conditioning ducts.

This is a building designed against The Moment. Its thick concrete walls, devoid of any exterior opening, are calculated to withstand radiation and the shock of a nuclear bomb. I won't argue the radiation-proof values of 12 inches of concrete, but I have to argue the shock-proof plan. From what the nuclear scientists tell us, nothing for a radius of 22 miles all around is going to stand if a 50 megaton bomb is fired over Manhattan. The island itself, they say, will be broken in two. It will be leveled. Steel and stone will have melted under the intense and unbearable heat of a mile wide fire ball. A crater a mile wide will have been created. Such skeletal steel structures have not melted will fall into this enormous hole, toppling like wooden sticks into an agony of chaos at the bottom.

The building across the street is to be the heart and center of all foreseeable future automatic Long Distance dialing equipment. The kind of dialing where you yourself dial an area code number and then add the number of the person you are calling. They tell me, the men working on it, that it will duplicate equipment. One set on the floors above street level, and a triply protected set under street level, deep in the foundation with steel, concrete and lead to shield it. This, they tell me, will stand anything and communications, so vital after disaster, will survive and be useful.

Scientists also say that, actually, it would be not much more than a psychological gesture to subject New York to nuclear bombing. There is no major railway complex here, no vital manufacturing, even the harbor, if destroyed and poisoned by radiation, isn't important. There are harbors from Maine to Florida and the Gulf, Boston, Baltimore, Wilmington, so on up and down the coast. Eight million or more persons would be either dead or next to it, true, but no military gain would have been accomplished by destroying New York. All its financial records, all its important documents, long since have been duplicated and buried safely elsewhere deep in mountains.

There are a dozen cities in the United States more useful to destroy by nuclear explosion. Chicago — a rail center such as no other. Pittsburgh and Birmingham for their steel. Detroit for its automotive and tank manufacture. Several cities for their missile components. New York only makes clothes, jewelry and some novelties. Near New York there are vital industries, which shall be nameless, but in the city itself — nothing.

Nonetheless, this huge building is going up and it is fascinating to watch it grow and become a finished item. What is going to be the problem of those who work in it remains to be discovered. To work day after day in a building totally encased in concrete, with not one window to look from to see if the sun shines or snow falls, to see blue sky or gray, would be for me a mounting, irritating factor. I would yearly be able to look out. But, then, if I knew that working there, sheathed in steel and concrete, meant I would possibly survive — perhaps my irritation would be held in check.

In any case, the monolith, the giant, is going up. It hums on every floor now, the crews racing against time. If the day comes — I shall be sitting in my own glass-enclosed building in an office itself walled in glass, and probably battered when that glass begins to fly in a deadly spray.

Bid For A Smile

Three high-waters leaped from their hiding place and pounced upon the lone Scotchman. Although he was taken by surprise he put up a terrific struggle and almost succeeded in landing the three burly things. He finally was beaten into insensibility, though, and the four-piece racket for fully 45 minutes before going through his pockets. After a very thorough search they were dismayed to find only a nickel. They marveled at the man's stubbornness in risking his life for a paltry nickel. "Darned good thing for us, remarked one, that it wasn't a dime." David — Has your wife learned to drive the car yet? Fred — Yes, in an advisory capacity. ## Administration Tries New Public Relations Technique

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Kennedy administration has embarked on some interesting experiments in political public relations.

The idea is to show the administration image around the country, three-dimensional, live and at close range. Among the principal objectives are to overcome impressions that the administration is antibusiness, so far to the left that it is practically socialistic and that its top officials have horns. Also to peddle its programs door-to-door.

Past practice has been to let the administration image filter out of Washington through press, radio and television, supplemented by an occasional speech here and there by the President or some member of his cabinet.

There has inevitably been some distortion in these traditional methods in spite of the good job which the news media do through accurate reporting. A long speech by anyone is a bore, even if delivered to an audience in the flesh.

Bad focus accounts for much of the prevailing anti-Washington sentiment of the country, no matter which party is in power. What the Kennedy administration is trying to do is overcome or soften this hostility.

The series of 12 two-day conferences in major U.S. cities this month is the most notable example of the new public relations pitch. Teams of government officials headed by a cabinet member hold discussions with groups of leading citizens in each community.

Chicago and St. Louis have held the first two. New York will have one Nov. 16-17, Los Angeles and San Francisco Nov. 20-21, with others in-between.

Kennedy policies and programs are explained, questions answered, criticisms heard. If the government officials learn something in this two-way exchange, so much the better.

There is an important political factor in this technique. Whichever party is in power in Washington has the advantage through readier access to communications media. If the party in power can now take its fireside chats to more regional firesides, its smoke signals should become easier to read and harder for the opposition to blanket out.

Your Pocketbook

Q—I would like to know, more not only about handling family finance but also about securities and taxes. Do any of the large investment companies give elementary talks to explain these? G. G.

Dear G. G.: You have a direct wire to Wall Street no matter where you live. If there is a brokerage firm in your town and they don't give classes for women investors, they can provide speakers for any organized group. The chances are, if you organize even a small group, they'll let you meet in their office.

More and more banks are holding women's finance forums, so check this with your bank.

Such courses often are given by public schools in their adult education division, at colleges, universities and YWCA's. I think it would be difficult to find a community where such courses aren't given.

If you have trouble, write to me again and I'll contact someone in your community for you. Q—My husband and I hold a house and two lots in joint deed. In case of death, must my husband have a will so the place belongs to me legally?—L. E. H.

Dear L. E. H.: I don't know how many times I've warned that everyone should have a will. Joint ownership of property rarely takes the place of a will. In your case probably, property other than real estate is involved and you should have a will.

Q—I've heard of a Junior GI Bill. What is it?—R. V.

Dear R. V.: It provides education for the son or daughter of a deceased serviceman who does not have financial means because of the father's death. Under the War Orphans Education Assistance Act, he or she may apply to a public or private college, vocational or business school.

A young person may be eligible even if he has one parent still living, or if he or she is married. These benefits are available to those electing to study in a vocational or technical field (exclusive of high school).

You would be eligible if you have served in the Armed Forces for a period preceding your 23rd birthday and apply within five years after your release or discharge and prior to your 31st birthday. Otherwise, age limits are 18 to 23 inclusive. Specialized vocational training is provided for handicapped children who have reached 14.

Allowances are $110 monthly for full-time students, $80 for three-quarter time, $50 for half-time. The parents or guardian must file at the local Veterans Administration Regional Office.

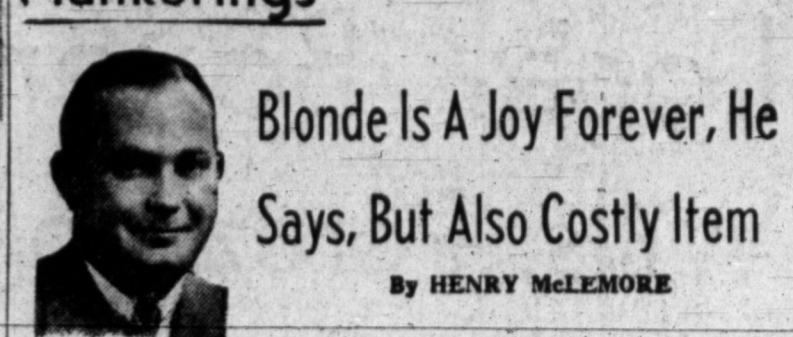

Q—Savings and loan companies are attracting so much capital. Are they as safe for a widow's savings as a regular savings bank?—K. C.

Dear K. C.: Yes, providing you put your money in a savings and loan association that insures your funds, either with a state or private agency or with the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Blonde Is A Joy Forever, He Says, But Also Costly Item

Miss Anita Loos is quoted in London as saying that "gentlemen still prefer blondes, but can't afford them."

The authoress need not have gone so far away as London to make such a statement. It would be just as true if spoken in Bangor, Medicine Hat, New Bedford, or Tuscaloosa.

I doubt, however, if Miss Loos realizes just how much truth there is in her remark — for Miss Loos, as a woman, never has had a blonde to support, and so cannot possibly know what these beautiful additions to a man's life cost per annum. Or per month, per week, per day.

There would be fewer married blondes today if a book of which I know were more readily available. This is entitled, "Blondes — Blessing or Bankruptcy?" — a most complete and authoritative study of the subject by Dr. Luther Paste of the University of Lapland.

Dr. Paste, heir to a vast whale blubber fortune, manfully married two women of different hair shades in the cause of research, and is filled with facts and figures, right down to the last decimal point. By the time a man has finished reading four or five chapters of "Blondes — Blessing or Bankruptcy?", he is fully aware that a whole covey of brunettes can be maintained for what it costs to provide for a lone blonde.

I quote: "Blondes, like yachts, should not be the concern of men to whom money is important. Money, like chestnut trees when the blight is on, disappears around a blonde. One gains the feeling after a while that blondes arise in the middle of the night and throw money out of windows, or send it up the chimney in smoke."

In chapter three of his work, headed "Feeding Habits," Dr. Paste says: "Blondes are infinitely more expensive to fuel than brunettes. While they eat only fifty-five (55) more pounds of food a year than brunettes, they are pickier and choosier and have costlier appetites. Few blondes can abide mashed potatoes and, while brunettes will eat and enjoy, say, a rump roast, blondes will search the menu for a more costly meat."

"In all my work with blondes, I never found one who really went for hash. Many brunettes who came under my observation liked the stuff. Our cheapest food in Lapland is pot roast of reindeer and, while my brunette wife adored it, and often asked for second helpings, my blonde one scorned the dish and demanded parmigian under bell."

Another fact unearthed by Dr. Paste is the excessive cost of clothing a blonde. "Blondes are much more allergic to wool in coats than brunettes," Dr. Paste says in an exciting chapter entitled, "The Proper Approach When Making A Loan." "Wool coats itch blondes about the neck, and they fuss for fur. Blondes are much harder on stockings, too, and have a tendency to wear down the heels of their shoes much faster than brunettes."

This book fell into my hands several weeks after my marriage to a blonde, and honesty forces me to say that I am glad it was late.

Expensive, yes. No one can deny that a blonde is that. But there is something about a blonde — well, as Dr. Paste says in his final sentence, "a blonde is a joy forever."

UPI Foreign News Analyst

On Oct. 20, 1956, the French crew of an airliner chartered by the Moroccan government diverted the aircraft on a flight to Tunis and landed it near Algiers. Thereby, into French hands fell five leaders of the Algerian revolt, the most prominent among them Mohammed Ben Bella, the rebels' military leader.

At the time, other, bigger news was stirring. Britain, France and Israel, were about to invade Egypt.

Within the next few days, Hungary would flare into bloody revolt.

So the kidnaping of Ben Bella and his companions went comparatively unnoticed despite protests from Morocco and Tunisia and rioting in Casablanca and Tunis.

Today, the French may wish the events of Oct. 20, 1956, never had occurred.

Certainly, the arrests brought no end to the Algerian conflict which then was nearing the end of its second year.

This week they injected a dangerous new element into President Charles de Gaulle's efforts to negotiate Algerian peace.

Even as De Gaulle announced in Corsica "We are about to bring the Algerian affair to an end," Ben Bella and his companions were well launched into a hunger strike which they hoped would force their release.

Beating the propaganda drums in their support were their old friends Morocco and Tunisia.

It seemed the chances were that De Gaulle also would like them off his hands.

France could not afford at this juncture in the on-again-off-again peace talks to have them die in jail. On the otherhand, De Gaulle would be reluctant to release them under pressure.

In the meantime, there were reports that thousands of other Algerians in French jails voluntarily were joining the imprisoned leaders in the hunger strike.

De Gaulle's hope for early settlement apparently sprang from the contacts which his government and the rebels have maintained through Switzerland and the milder tone adopted recently by the Algerian Moslem leaders.

He already had agreed to Algerian sovereignty over the Sahara with proper safeguards for French economic interests, and the rebels had indicated agreement to maintenance of French military bases in Algeria.

Despite De Gaulle's announced optimism, the sound of gunfire from ambush still was drowning out the cooing of the dove.

Date Not Set For Execution Of Dual Killer

HOUSTON (UPI)— Convicted killer Howard Stickney will live to see another Christmas, his fourth since the slaying of Clifford and Shirley Barnes and his third since he was sentenced, it appeared today.

The latest developments in the legal scramble involving the Stickney case left the former Highway Department draftsman without an execution date.

Since no date was set by the Board of Pardons and Paroles and Gov. Price Daniel immediately after he was granted his last stay by Dist. Judge Cullen Briggs, most legal authorities believe Stickney must be returned to Houston to Dist. Judge Miron Love's court for re-sentencing.

Under ordinary procedure the date would be set about a month in advance and the governor would grant a further 30-day stay
