By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Democratic presidential campaign has been scrambled by a Florida primary in which Gov. George C. Wallace won by a landslide, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey claimed victory in second place and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie suffered a drubbing.

down on crime and tax the wealthy, proclaimed he can now capture the Democratic presidential nomination. With his 42 per cent of the Democratic vote, he won 75 of the state's 81 delegates to the party's national convention; Humphrey won six with his 18 per cent.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington finished third with 13 per cent, ahead of Muskie with his 9 per cent, and vowed to win the April 4 Wisconsin primary. New York Mayor John V. Lindsay won 7 per cent—barely edging Sen. George S. McGovern for fifth place after a heavy investment here in time and money. McGovern took 6 per cent.

left the party's top contenders with these prospects: —Muskie: The preprimary frontrunner, he suffered a second successive blow after last week's lackluster victory in New Hampshire. The primaries in Illinois next Tuesday and later in Wisconsin now loom as crucial. —Humphrey: Fighting to overcome a "loser" image, the former vice president got the boost he sought when he bypassed New Hampshire to concentrate here. He appears to be Muskie's main rival in Wisconsin. —Wallace: The Alabama governor got the heavy vote he sought and will now enter many other primaries, both in the South and in Northern states such as Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland. "I believe I have as good a chance as anyone to win the party nomination," he said at his Orlando headquarters. Humphrey won his six delegates in a district including heavily Jewish Miami Beach, where half the population is over 65. "Among the progressive Democrats," the 1968 nominee said, "I am the leader."

McGovern is challenging Muskie for many Illinois delegates, while former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota opposes the Maine senator in that state's presidential preference vote. More than 1.6 million Floridians, three-fourths of them Democrats, voted in the state's first presidential preference primary. Previous contests have been for delegates only. Wallace swept ahead with the first votes from his rural, north Florida strongholds and captured every one of the state's 67 counties, including populous Dade which encompasses the city of Miami and surrounding suburbs. "This is my message to the national politicians," the Alabamian said as he hailed his larger-than-expected victory and the massive vote, nearly 3 to 1, for the antibusing proposal. The proposal had been fought by Florida Gov. Reubin Askew and opposed by presidential candidates Humphrey, Muskie, Lindsay and McGovern. Muskie, in a somber mood, assailed Wallace as "a demagogue of the worst sort" and vowed to fight him elsewhere around the nation. "We'll win some battles, we'll lose some battles," the Maine senator said. His crushing defeat seemed certain to spur a reassessment, already under way, of his campaign plan of running in most of the 24 primaries, a strategy which Muskie has said in recent days may have spread him too thin while his opponents selected their best opportunities. He is committed to the Illinois and Wisconsin races as well as the next major tests April 25 in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, and May 2 in Ohio. Aides have indicated he may limit some of his later primary activities.

Mitchell Defends White House Aide In Antitrust Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell says he sees nothing wrong with White House aide Peter Flanagan's retaining an outside financial consultant to prepare a report for the Justice Department in the ITT antitrust cases. Democrats have said Flanagan's role indicates improper White House influence. Mitchell, who testified Tuesday and will be a witness again today before the Senate Judiciary Committee, also said he met with Harold S. Geneen, president of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. for more than a half hour in 1970 but did not discuss the government's antitrust suits against the conglomerate. Mitchell answered questions quietly and with a lawyer's precision during the eighth day of hearings by the Senate Judiciary Committee into suggestions that Justice Department officials acted improperly in the out-of-court settlement of the ITT case last summer. Acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst asked the committee for the hearings after the suggestions were published by syndicated columnist Jack Anderson. Kleindienst's nomination to replace Mitchell as attorney general is pending in the Senate.

Absentee Voting For Election In Pampa Opens

The absentee balloting period for Pampa's April 4 municipal election opened this morning but no votes had been cast up until noon. Last day to register absentee ballots will be Friday, March 31. There's only one contest on the ballot this year and that's the three-way race for city commissioner from Pct. 4. The candidates are Arthur Rohde, seeking re-election, the Rev. Monroe Woods Jr. and John L. Goes. R.D. Wilkerson, seeking re-election from Ward 2, will be unopposed on the ballot. Although candidates are running in only two of the four wards, the voting will be city-wide with ballots cast only at City Hall.

Panhandle City Officials To Be Here For Meet

City officials from over the Texas Panhandle will be in Pampa Friday for the quarterly meeting of the Panhandle City Managers Association. Registration will begin at 10:15 a.m. in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room and a tour of the new M. K. Brown Memorial auditorium is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. City Manager Mack Wofford, who is president of the association, said the delegates will attend a luncheon at 12 noon. State Rep. Phil Cates of Pampa will be the speaker. He is expected to discuss pending legislation affecting municipal governments. The address of welcome will be given by Pampa Mayor Milo Carlson. The afternoon business session is set for 2 p.m. and will be highlighted by the election of officers.

SING IT OUT!—A sextet swings and sings as the women practice for their number in the Lion Clubs annual variety show, slated for Friday and Saturday nights. Featuring a Mardi Gras theme, the show will feature various singing, dancing and variety acts with a French flair. ## Pampa Lions Club To Stage Its Fun-Filled Variety Show

The annual Lions Club variety show swings into action Friday and Saturday nights with a French flair as this year's show boasts a festive Mardi Gras theme. The activities will begin at 8 p.m. each night at the Pampa Junior High School auditorium. Some of the familiar personnel from past shows will be cast in return engagements while new acts have been added, including two from Spearman. A couple of "surprises" are also being held in store for this year's audience.

Singing, dancing, variety acts and jokes will add to the festive atmosphere as about 70 men and women and boys and girls parade across the stage to entertain. Six court jesters will be on hand to insure that laughter has its way in promoting enjoyment. General admission tickets are $1 each for adults and 50 cents each for students. Reserved seats are 50 cents extra and may be purchased at Heard and Jones. General admission tickets may be bought from any Lions Club member or at Heard and Jones or at the door before each performance. Money from the annual fund raising project goes toward the various activities and programs of the club. Among the projects the club operates are an annual scholarship award, sponsorship of the Gray County Junior Livestock Show, contributions to the Pampa Youth and Community Center, purchasing of eye glasses for various underprivileged children, donations to a children's hospital and the operation of the Hi-Plains Eye Bank, Inc.

White Deer Will Host Law Enforcement Day

WHITE DEER—Law enforcement officers and their families will be honored here tomorrow as Masons host the fourth annual Law Enforcement Recognition Day. An award will be presented to an outstanding law enforcement officer of the Texas Panhandle in activities beginning at 7:45 p.m. in the White Deer High School. Jack Hightower, the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Texas, will give an address at the high school at 8:30 p.m. after the presentation of the law award and presentation of 525-year pins to various Masons. The event is sponsored by White Deer Lodge No. 1188; AF&AM, and is co-hosted by the White Deer Chapter 802, Order of the Eastern Star.

Hightower, a native of Vernon and a state senator in the Texas legislature, will be received by the Masons at 7 p.m. in the lodge. At the same time, Eastern Star members and non-Masons are invited to attend a special patriotic program in the High school auditorium. The program, presented by the speech department, is under the direction of James Hinckley. Preceding the activities, a buffet dinner will be served at the WDHS cafeteria for the law enforcement officials, their families, master Masons and their wives and Eastern Star members and their spouses at 5:30 p.m. Lansin Osborne is Master of the White Deer lodge and Coral Riggins is Worthy Matron of the Eastern Star chapter.

Pampa Family Scores Five Wins In County Spelling Bee Contests

By LARRY HOLLIS
And now the family is planning to make their sixth trip to the regional contests in Amarillo on April 29. No one competed in the regional event last year, but Nancy had to present a traveling plaque, given to different schools each year, to 1971's winning school. About 45 students will be entering the regional event at Amarillo. The students represent a region composed of counties in Texas, New Mexico, Kansas and Oklahoma. Tim and Ron beat out around 30 students from Gray County schools to gain their championships. Eighth grade competitors were Tim, Lee, Brenda Malone, Pampa Junior High; Betty Holmes, McLean, and Larry Franks, Lefors. Alternates were Roger Myers, McLean, and Jaylene Wallace, Lefors. Representing the seventh grade were David Fraser, Lee; Vance Bruce, PJHS; Maridale Glass, McLean, and Mary Nichols, Lefors, Marilyn Cook, McLean, and Randy Fletcher, Lefors, were alternates. In the sixth grade, contestants were Carol Sparkman, Austin Elementary; Kay Hair, Baker; Debra Humphrey, winning spelling bees is nothing new to the Ralph Palmer family. 2232 N. Sumner. A member of the family has placed in the Gray County competition for the last six years, five of those as winner eligible to enter the regional contest in Amarillo. Tim Palmer, 14, an eighth grade student at Robert E. Lee Junior High, is the latest after he won the Gray County Spelling Bee yesterday morning. And his brother, Ron, a 12-year-old sixth grader at St. Vincent's School, was winner of the junior division and alternate for the Amarillo contest. Tim was the junior division winner in 1970 and last year was the runnerup to the winner in the senior division. He has entered the contest every year since the third grade. Their sister, Nancy, 16, had previously won the county championship for four years in a row. On the fourth attempt Nancy, who is now a sophomore at Pampa High School, won the regional event at Amarillo on April 29. Tim to compete in regional contests and Ron as a guest for the activities. ## Testimony To Be Taken On Sentence Thursday

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher, 39-year-old farmer's son who rose to the third highest office in the state's government and married a former Miss America, was convicted today of conspiracy to accept a bribe. Also convicted with Mutscher were his two chief lieutenants, state Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and administrative aide Rush McGinty. Mutscher's head swayed slightly as the verdict was read. One of his lawyers, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, dropped his head on his hands and grimaced as if he wanted to cry. The 8-woman, 4-man jury deliberated two hours and 20 minutes after a 13-day trial in which the defense put on no witnesses but used almost all its allotment of four hours in jury arguments in an effort to convince the jury that the state failed to meet its burden of proof. "When you're talking in terms of $100,000 or $200,000, I think men get greedy," Smith said late Tuesday. "I think sometimes good men get greedy. I think the evidence in this case shows that good men get greedy."

market price," Smith said. "If you approve of this, put on your Good Housekeeping seal of approval and find them not guilty. "Let's see whether or not our government is for sale. Let's see if our laws should go to the highest bidder. "If we can't convict on the evidence we've heard here, we might just as well turn our state capital over to the money changers," he said. "Their protection is handling it in a routine manner. I can't put on my income tax that today I received $18,000 as a bribe. The way to keep it from being spotted as a bribe is to put it through the routine you've seen," he said. "It was a bribe. It could have been the best piece of legislation—it could have repealed the sales tax and it was still a bribe," he said. People say 'they' ought to clean up the mess in Austin, he said. But who are 'they'? he asked the jury. Not the legislature, because the House voted 118-30 against a resolution to investigate the case, he said. Not the attorney general, because he has no criminal law enforcement power, he said. "The 'they' we're talking about is you. You are the 'they.' You are the only ones that can do anything about the mess in Austin... it is up to you to write the standards of conduct you expect of your state officials," he said. Defense lawyers stressed that before the jury could convict it had to find that there had been a positive agreement between the defendants to accept a bribe. Smith said they had to find a "positive agreement or understanding" and he added that "you don't have to use any words in reaching an understanding."

N. Plains Council Scheduled Meeting

The North Plains Council for Children With Learning Disabilities will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the First Christian Church, Snodgrass Hall, 3001 Wolfen Avenue, Amarillo. Mrs. Aubrey L. Smith, associate psychologist at the PESO Education Service Center will speak on emotional problems of children with learning disabilities. A question-and-answer period will follow. All interested persons are invited to attend.

For an hour and 24 minutes, Smith held the soundless attention of a courtroom that had already heard nearly six hours of arguments. He prowled slowly in front of the jury box like a big bear, softly but relentlessly pulling together the state's case in a powerful embrace. The bribery conspiracy trial of Speaker Gus Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Mutscher aide Rush McGinty went to the jury at 8:18 p.m. Dist. Court Judge J. Neil Daniel instructed the jury to begin deliberations at 8:30 a.m. today. The defendants are accused of conspiring to accept bribes from Houston promoter Frank Sharp in exchange for their influence in winning legislative approval in 1969 of two banking bills Sharp wanted. "What was really happening was they were shaking down Mr. Sharp, who needed these bills. They saw a big, fat piggy bank sitting over there in the form of Mr. Sharp," Smith said. "These people are not victims of manipulation. This is pure smoke. Victims don't get rich," he said. "He (Sharp) could not have manipulated these defendants if they hadn't had their hands stuck out a mile for that greedy dollar," he said. The loans were "collateralized by the speaker of the House's office. And that office doesn't belong to Gus Mutscher. It belongs to you and the rest of the people of Texas," he said. "There are three things Frank Sharp did not make them do. "He did not twist their arms to make them take $300,000 in loans from his banks that was short of cash. "He did not twist their arms to make them pass this through the legislature. "He did not make them sell their stock (bought with the loans) for $5 a share over

Doctor Says TB Still 'Grave Health Problem'

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite the fact tuberculosis is a totally curable disease of tuberculosis control told a public health conference here Tuesday.

Dr. Lee B. Reichman said that TB is still "a grave health, economic and social problem" despite the fact it is the only one of the top 20 causes of death in the United States that is completely understood.

Reichman spoke at a national conference for state and local public health workers.

The paradox of deaths from TB is an illustration of what's wrong with so much of the nation's health care delivery, Reichman said.

It's not a question of what can be done to eliminate the disease, he said, but rather a problem of what is not done.

In New York City, where 386 persons died of TB in 1970, the heart of the problem lies in the poor social-economic conditions found in heavily-populated and non-white areas, he said.

The rate in Central Harlem is seven times the national rate and 11 times the upstate New York rate," he said.

Florida Voters Endorse Proposal To End Busing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida voters heeded Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's call to tell America loud and clear that they oppose busing school children to achieve racial balance in classrooms.

By a 3-1 margin, the voters in a straw vote referendum Tuesday endorsed a proposed constitutional amendment to end forced busing.

Wallace ran an antibusing campaign in Florida's Democratic presidential primary and thousands of the voters endorsed him, too. He won the primary with 42 per cent of the vote.

In another part of the non-binding straw vote which involved Republicans and Democrats, Floridians approved by a 4-1 margin a proposal which endorsed equal education for all children.

And they voted by the same margin for allowing prayer back into the public schools.

With 99 per cent of the vote tallied, 1,103,856 voted for a busing amendment while 386,724 voted against it, 74 to 26 per cent.

The equal education question, which also asked voters if they opposed a return to a dual school system, passed by a vote of 1,065,393 to 289,830, or 79 to 21 per cent.

The call for prayer in public schools was approved by 1,133,679 voters with 294,948 rejecting it, also 79 to 21 per cent.

Florida's Democratic governor, Reubin Askew, campaigned hard to turn the tide on the busing question and was disappointed that his constituents failed to heed his plea. But he said:

"I am very happy and pleased that as a majority of Floridians registered opposition to busing, they also registered a commitment to seek other alternatives and not go back to a dual school system."

After the Florida Legislature passed a bill placing the busing straw vote on the primary ballot, Askew refused to sign the measure until the equal education question was added in an effort to ease some of the busing vote's sting. The prayer question also was added but never was much of an issue.

Black leaders across the state assailed the legislature for putting busing on the ballot and said the neighborhood schools issue was a smoke-screen for an attempt to re-segregate schools which court orders had integrated.

It appeared that not all the opposition to busing was on racial grounds.

Residents of Gadsden County, the only county in Florida with a black majority, voted nearly 3 to 1 to oppose busing.

Import Meat Rejection Rose Sharply Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejection of imported meat at U.S. ports of entry rose sharply last year, partly because of closer checks by federal inspectors, the Agriculture Department says.

In all, nearly 39.2 million pounds of imported meat, ranging from low-grade beef used for hamburger to canned pork, were rejected by federal inspectors. That represented about 1.7 per cent of the more than 1.7 billion pounds shipped to the United States last year.

The rejections were described in a meat-import report sent to Congress by

More Disaster Alert Sirens To Be Set Up

Installation of three additional disaster alert sirens is expected to be made within the next week, City Manager Mack Wofford said today.

One will be located in the alley between Christy and Dwight at 22nd St., another near the intersection of Ripley and Wilks and the third near the intersection of N. Wells and Boyd.

When the three new installations are completed it will bring to seven the number of sirens in the city's alert system.

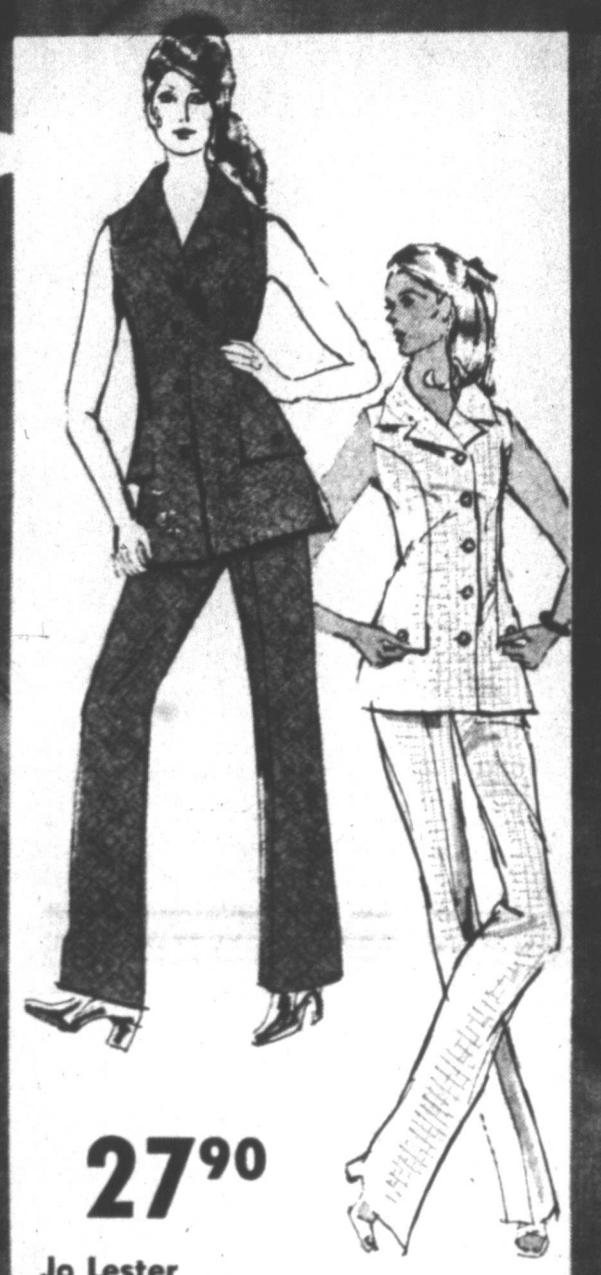

The others are located atop the Hughes Bldg., in the alley between Wilcox and Clark off Albert, in the alley between Aspen and Beech at 22nd and the small siren atop Central Fire Station.

City Manager Mack Wofford said because of complaints from day sleepers tests of the sirens will be made only on the first Monday of each month rather than every Monday as had been the practice.

Over 7,000 Harmful Drugs, Medications Said On Market

Dr. Roy M. Beller, President of the Texas State Chiropractic Association, said recently that "it is impossible to draw a line between what could be considered a good drug and a bad drug."

The chiropractic leader charged that the American public expresses great concern over the use of heroin, LSD, and marijuana, while condoning and participating in the use of more than 7,000 other drugs and medications on the market which can be just as harmful.

"Drug-caused diseases are becoming a health problem of critical proportions because of the overuse and misuse of medicines in our modern society," he said. "There is a trend toward using drugs to escape or cover up the symptoms of a health problem, rather than curing the condition itself."

Dr. Beller charged that medical doctors prescribe drugs recklessly, patients take them recklessly, and too little is known about their ultimate effects by medical doctors, patients or manufacturers.

He pointed out that: "An estimated one million patients are admitted to U. S. hospitals each year for drug-induced illnesses."

"About 100,000 Americans die each year from drug-contributing illnesses."

"About 90 per cent of the drugs taken by the public have not been adequately tested on human beings prior to release."

"Many drugs are habit-forming and require greater and greater dosages as use continues.

"Many drugs give side effects even more harmful than the condition being treated, and can be fatal—especially when used in combination with other medication."

"It is time our society throws off the shackles of drug addiction and drug orientation. It must stop pushing pills down its throat and become aware of the hazards involved," Dr. Beller asserted.

ONE LITTLE, TWO LITTLE, THREE LITTLE INDIANS—No, it was more like two hundred and they were not real Indians but 4th, 5th, and 6th grade students at the Stephen F. Austin School. The students were dressed in home-made Indian costumes and staged three performances, consisting of singing, and dancing. The programs were presented in conjunction with The Texas Public School Week. In the photo on the right, Mrs. J. E. Gunn, Music Director of the School, leads a group of the students in singing. In the left photo, Kim Chittenden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. ### Butz And Tower Call For Labor Law Reform

HOUSTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz said Tuesday price controls simply will not work for commodities as perishable and as varied in quality as food products.

He said it was unfortunate that only about one-third of the nation's consumers remember the empty meat counters of the price control days of World War II.

"As a consumer, I know price controls won't work," Butz said in a speech before the Texas-Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

Both Butz and Senator John Tower, R-Tex., called for labor law reform so as to curb spiraling wage demands and crippling strikes.

"Big labor operates behind the walls of statutory protection and Congress must face up to it," Tower said. "Labor laws need reform but it is a difficult thing to do. Congress is all too fearful of the power of organized labor and the pressure for reform must come from the people."

Butz said legislation that would permit President Nixon to deal with such crippling strikes as the recent tie up of West Coast ports by longshoremen is hopelessly bottled up in the Senate Labor Committee.

"This would permit compulsory arbitration but the President currently is powerless beyond an 80-day injunction period and I think that is a sorry situation," Butz said.

"I'm getting tired of seeing farmers produce a crop and then find themselves without a port to move it through. We export about one of every four acres devoted to agriculture."

Butz said food prices are always a potential area of unrest but that cattle raisers must have a profitable price situation to meet projections that current U. S. per capita consumption will increase from 115 pounds today to 130 pounds in 1980.

"I hope such controls will not occur and I believe they will not occur," he said. "After all, farm prices have increased only 6 per cent while wholesale prices have gone up 20 per cent and retail prices 40 per cent. That shows where the price increases have been."

THE WOMAN AT THE WELL
One of the longest recorded discussions in the New Testament is the luncheon break that Jesus took at Jacob's well in Samaria. Not with His disciples nor His family. Neither with opponents who plotted His arrest and conviction, but with a Samaritan woman who had lived with five husbands and now was seeking a sixth relationship.

In a few moments of conversation and dialogue, Jesus turned her way from sexual destruction to the threshold of spiritual recovery and well-being. This was a healing experience and it took some while for His disciples to realize that emotional distress (as suffered by this Gentile woman in her physical and sexual indulgence) was just as disabling as being lame or blind.

The Samaritan woman, with Christ's help, asked for enduring recovery and for the water that wells up to eternal life. At Jacob's well, a Samaritan woman found Jesus and the true meaning of life. And because of her need, we have one of the longest conversations in the Bible and surely one of the most meaningful.

THE COMMANDER'S SERVANT
The commander of one hundred men in the Roman army of occupation was called a centurion. He was a highly trained professional soldier and a successful tour of duty in Israel would lead to further promotions and recognition. His position brought power, influence and dread.

Yet the Gospel writers tell us of the centurion in the city of Capernaum who asked Jesus to heal his ailing servant. More than this, his request was endorsed and personally pleaded by the Jewish elders from the synagogue. This Roman had such respect for the Scriptures and such reverence for God that he had built the local synagogue and given it to the Jewish community.

Further discussions in St. Luke reveal that the man was truly humble, asked nothing for himself, and only for Jesus to "say the word" and his servant would return to health. His prayer was granted, for Jesus observed that nowhere in Israel had He found faith such as this.

Healing was a matter of faith and Jesus found it in abundance in this Roman headquarters.

Author Irving Reported Writing Book About Own Role In Hoax

NEW YORK (AP) — Sources close to author Clifford Irving say he is writing another book—this one about his publicly admitted role in the $750,000 Howard Hughes autobiography hoax.

Proceeds from the sale of the book would go toward repaying the duped publisher, McGraw-Hill, Inc., the $900,000 it is seeking in restitution for advances and expenses it paid, the sources said. Much of the total is reported to be intact.

Irving hopes to complete the new manuscript by June 15, the day before he, his wife Edith and researcher Richard Suskind are to be sentenced in the case, it was said.

The Irvings pleaded guilty to federal conspiracy charges Tuesday and were joined by Suskind to plead guilty in state Supreme Court to charges of grand larceny and conspiracy.

Irving, 41, and Edith, 36, each could face, between the federal and state charges, a maximum of 13 years in prison and $11,000 in fines. Suskind, 46, who was named a coconspirator but not a defendant in the federal indictment, could face up to eight years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Federal mail fraud charges against the Irvings were dropped, as were state counts of larceny, conspiracy and possession of stolen documents against all three and of perjury against Irving and Suskind.

In the court proceedings, the government said it had traced the $750,000 McGraw-Hill gave Irving, including a $100,000 author's advance and $650,000 in three checks for relay to Hughes, to various banks and brokerage houses in Switzerland and the United States.

Nearly all of the $750,000 was said to be intact and will probably be returned to the publisher before sentencing, the New York Daily News reported today. In addition to the $750,000, McGraw-Hill is seeking restitution of another $15,000 it says it paid Irving for expenses and $135,000 it estimates it has paid for legal expenses, type setting and other costs.

And, said a McGraw-Hill spokesman, "the meter is still running."

The federal and county grand jury indictments, returned last Thursday, sketched the broad outlines of what has been called the greatest literary hoax of modern times.

They said Irving hatched the idea while reading a news-magazine article about Hughes, the billionaire recluse who has not been seen in public for 10 years. On the basis of exhaustive research into a variety of sources of Hughes' material, the indictment said, Irving and Suskind taped question-and-answer sessions alternating in the role of Hughes.

Transcripts of these sessions were presented to McGraw-Hill as interviews with Hughes that Irving swore had taken place throughout the western hemisphere.

McGraw-Hill gave Irving the advance and the checks for relay to Hughes. It sold syndication rights to Life magazine. And it announced its publishing plans.

The Hughes Tool Co. immediately renounced the book and a month later a voice identified as that of Hughes called it a fraud, saying he had never met Irving and never received the $650,000.

Irving later admitted his wife had deposited the three checks in a Swiss bank account she opened in the name of Helga R. Hughes. But he claimed she did so on Hughes' instructions. Detail by detail the story crumbled. Time magazine called the book a hoax and labeled Irving "Con Man of the Year." A six-week joint federal-county investigation ended with the indictments.

They believed they could get away with the hoax, the grand jury said, because they believed Hughes was either dead or "not of sufficient mental or physical capacity to denounce it."

To hedge that bet, they tried to treat Hughes in such a sympathetic light "as to preclude him from rejecting it as his life story," the indictment said.

In his new book, Irving presumably would fill in the details of that outline. One source close to the Irvings said there have been many inquiries from publishers about the book but no final sale yet.

Beyond their sentencing here, Mrs. Irving still faces Swiss government charges of forgery, counterfeiting and embezzlement in connection with her handling of the $650,000.

Doctor Says Drug Abuse Reaches Into Industry

A doctor of chiropractic today warned executives of companies in Texas that drug abuse reaches into industry.

Dr. Roy M. Beller, President of the Texas State Chiropractic Association, said: "Don't think drug abusers are all young and long-haired. One of your key salesmen may have a serious drug habit, your secretary may be 'popping pills' at the office, and the machine operator may not be as alert as you think."

He said the majority of abusers "are not thrill-seekers—they may be employees who have resorted to the use of medications in relation to health problems."

Dr. Beller traced a typical case: "The employee has a pain or discomfort and he finds a pill that dulls it. Later the pain returns, so he increases the dosage, or adds another kind of pill. Soon he is dependent on drugs."

"The extent of the problem is far-reaching in that it has an effect on the employee's health, his job efficiency and his relationship with fellow employees," said the doctor of chiropractic.

The Israeli government loaned $476,000 to East Jerusalem Arabs for residential construction in 1971.

Who Gets Consumer Beef Dollar?

(Editor's note: Beef prices hit an average all-time high this year. The following gives a feedlot-to-dinner-table breakdown on your beef dollar.)

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The farm-to-dinner-table trail drive for today's steer is an increasingly expensive trip in which less than half of the critter winds up on consumer tables at triple its original cost per pound.

Cattlemen are getting more money for beef and so are middlemen who slaughter, transport, slice, wrap and ring up steaks, roasts and hamburger on supermarket cash registers.

The result is higher beef prices for consumers, a record average of $1.11 1/2 per pound on a composite, all-cut basis in January, says the Agriculture Department. On the hoof, beef cattle hit an all-time high of $32.60 per hundredweight in February.

The future for retail beef prices? Hazy, according to government economists following last week's report by the Labor Department that the February wholesale-price index was up 0.9 per cent, the most in a year. Food products, mainly meat, led the pace.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, said livestock prices recently have eased but indicated the retail price momentum will continue at least for a time.

"We do not expect further sharp increases in meat prices at wholesale, although retail meat prices are likely to continue rising a little longer," Stein said.

Meat accounts for nearly a third of the average family's food dollar, and beef is by far the favorite, according to government analysts.

Who gets the consumer beef dollar? Allen Baker, a marketing specialist for the department's Economic Research Service, provided a breakdown of beef costs using figures for the fourth quarter of 1971, which included part but not all of the recent uptrend in cattle and beef prices.

A 1,000-lb. choice-grade live steer is sold by a farmer or feedlot operator for $327.79, or about 33 cents per pound, not including transportation or any marketing charges involved.

The packing company, which bought the animal, slaughters the steer and converts it into so-called carcass weight. By this time the steer has been divested of hide, internal organs and other byproducts which are not classified as red meat.

At this point, the packing company has a beef carcass weighing only 620 pounds. The carcass is sold on the wholesale market for $340.10, or about 55 cents per pound for the net remaining weight.

Meantime, the meat packer has sold the byproducts, including the hide, tongue, tripe and liver, weighing a total of 193 pounds, for $20.65. That amount is deducted by economists from the $327.79 paid the farmer to arrive at an adjusted "farm value" for the red meat of $307.14.

The carcass sold by the wholesaler for $340.10 to a supermarket chain, a large hotel or perhaps a small independent grocery store now must be transported, cut up, packaged and, in the case of hamburger, ground up for consumers.

During this process, the retailer trims the 620-pound carcass of excess bone, fat and other waste material. That leaves 463 pounds of beef cuts from the original carcass. But, on the average, there is a 5-per-cent reduction in the retail cuts from spoilage and theft. That leaves 439 pounds of beef available for retail sale to consumers.

The prices of the cuts vary widely, from about 69 cents a pound for hamburger nationally last December, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, to more than $2 a pound for the more prized steaks.

All told, the original 1,000-lb. steer was reduced to 439 pounds of meat selling for $468.40 total or about $1.07 per pound. That's more than three times the original on-the-hoof cost per pound of the live steer.

According to the breakdown, and allowing for the $20.65 received by the meat packer for byproducts, there was a markup of $161.26 from the time the steer left the feedlot until it ended up in shopping carts as red meat.

Policemen Hurt

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Willie McKenzie, 40, whom police said is an escapee from an Austin mental hospital, was in county jail today following the wounding late Saturday night of two Galveston policemen.

The officers were shot as they investigated a report of a man with a gun in the bar. Officer Larry Russell was shot three times in the back and head and Charlie Roe was shot once in the hand.

U.S. Pacific Commander Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice Adm. Noel Gayler, a pioneer Navy jet pilot, Tuesday was named commander-in-chief of all U.S. forces in the Pacific area.

Gayler, 57, now heads the National Security Agency, a codecracking secret organization headquartered at Ft. Meade, Md.

He will succeed Adm. John S. McCain Jr., who will retire this summer.

President Nixon has nominated Gayler, a native of Birmingham, Ala., for promotion to full admiral in his new assignment, the Pentagon announced.

As commander-in-chief of the Pacific, Gayler will be in charge of U.S. operations from the U.S. West Coast from the middle of the Indian Ocean and reaching northward to the Bering Sea.

Among other things, he will have supervision over naval air strikes against North Vietnam, coordinated with the U.S. command headed by Gen. Creighton Abrams in Saigon.

Gayler is married to the former Caroline Groves of Webster City, Iowa. They have three daughters and two sons.

U.S.-China Trade Prospects Not Optimistic

NEW YORK (AP)—Present prospects of American businessmen closing deals over a friendly cup of tea in Peking are slim.

And even if the Americans get to Peking, they might find there was no sugar in the tea or in the business deal.

Since President Nixon's trip to the People's Republic, businessmen all over the United States have been weighing their chances of opening trade with the Chinese mainland.

There are no immediate signs of a quick development of that trade if previous experiences by American businessmen are any example.

In Los Angeles, for instance, an export consultant has been waiting eight weeks for an answer to his application to attend a Chinese trade fair.

The head of a chemical company in Seattle says, "We've been working on this since last July, but the Chinese do not want to deal with the United States."

Such frustrations have made export-import specialists wary, and here are some of the reasons:

—China clings to a long-cherished policy of self-sufficiency. It is reluctant to become dependent on any outside power and does not want to buy more than it can sell in the world market. It wants to keep an over-all balance of trade.

—What mainland China can offer American traders is not very enticing because the country's economy is basically agricultural.

—China's imports include few consumer goods, except grain, and grain imports have been going down.

Marriage Is No Longer Guaranteed Tax Break

By LYNN SHERR
Associated Press Writer
Whatever else marriage is, it's no longer a guaranteed tax break.
In fact, at most income levels it's cheaper for two working people who earn about the same income to stay single than to get married and file joint returns. New changes in the tax law, which were adopted to relieve the long-time burden of single taxpayers, are unwittingly favoring the "new morality" of living together or the old morality of only one working partner.

It is a surprise even to the government which was merely responding to years of pressure from the nation's divorced, bachelor and widowed taxpayers.
Tax sources within the government say they are studying the problem, but have no immediate plans to change the rates.

Students Present Cantata

The "Childhood of Hiawatha," a cantata by Ira B. Wilson, was presented in three performances by the combined choirs of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of Stephen F. Austin school, under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Gunn, music director.
This cantata, taken from the poem by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, pictures the legends, traditions and history of the Indian race, with the students, in Indian costume, performing songs and dances.
The first performance, presented for the Lions Club, featured Ann Carmichael, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carmichael, 1708 Dogwood, in the vocal solo.
For the second performance, given for teachers and students, Mary Ann King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George King, 2222 Bech, sang the solo.
The evening performance, combined with the Parent-Teacher Association meeting, featured Jim Stallings, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stallings, 1724 Grape, in the solo part.
Kim Chittendon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Chittenden, 2540 Christine, presented her own interpretive ballet to the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," at all three performances.
Sugarcane farmers in Hawaii say one ton of water is needed to produce one pound of sugar.

For instance, an unmarried man and woman each earned $12,500 in 1971. Taking the standard deduction and one exemption each, each will pay $2,177.75 in tax this April—for a combined total of $4,355.50. If they were married and filed a joint return, they would pay $5,068—or $712.50 more.
Of course, it's only a bargain when the earnings of two singles equal the total earnings of one married couple. An unattached bachelor earning that $25,000 all by himself, for instance, will pay $6,320 in federal taxes this April.
The situation isn't a drastic change from years past—just a general leveling off of payments which makes the single pay a little less than before. As a result, married couples pay slightly more in relation to two singles with approximately equal earnings.
It's all due to the government's effort to give a break to singles—like that $25,000-a-year bachelor—who have long paid the highest tax rates in the nation.
The Tax Reform Act of 1969 reduced the rates for singles, who used to pay as much as 40 per cent more than marrieds, so they now pay only up to 20 per cent more. These changes, taken with the raise in the standard deduction to $1,500, all finally effective over a three-year period, are making it look as if the government favors a pair of unwed workers over those who are married.

Your Horoscope
By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, MARCH 16
Your birthday today: Adjustment is this year's key to success. Getting along with people offers the greatest challenge. You like others to take the initiative, even when the role is yours. Emotional ties continue where there is basic understanding; unsound relationships falter. Today's natives run to erratic adventures in a relatively calm year; need channels to express their headstrong nature.
Aries [March 21-April 19]: Use diplomacy if you must brush someone off. There's enough room for everybody. Spending should await a second estimate.
Taurus [April 20-May 20]: The impulse you might have put to good use sometime ago finally arrives and has to be rechanneled. Evening brings a brighter mood.
Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Be careful that you aren't misunderstood as sarcastic or cynical. Hold your temper. Find time for serious study.
Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Don't believe everything you hear. Despite distractions, get routines cleared away, for tomorrow's activity will need space and attention.
Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: You discover more facts than expected. Make notes and sketches, give yourself time to digest the information before you try to apply it.
Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Care and system are needed. Have them in the right sequence, as you may find an item missing in time to do something about it.
Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Yesterday's momentum carries over into today. Details don't automatically go in your favor; look to see what you are promised.
Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Some of what you have learned lately goes contrary to what those around you think, requiring discretion on your part.
Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: There's money being spent you hadn't budgeted, expenses that cannot be held at previous levels. Changes indicate an opportunity to recoup.
Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Social conformity, the needs and hopes of those around you, all coincide toward expensive moves you may not be ready to face.
Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Brief journeys, short projects work out, while larger enterprises falter, encounter momentary confusion. Courtesy is essential.
Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Anything mysterious will be mischief. Ask questions, pursue them to some rational estimate of the state of affairs.

Driven to the edge, he pleads for help!

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 41-year-old man, and I feel like a jerk writing to you, but I have no one else to talk to, and I need some advice before I just drive my car off a cliff.

Over a year ago, my wife had an affair with a married man she works with. It was not her first, and I'm sure it won't be her last. I got fed up with her and her running around, and I finally got a divorce. [We have two kids who are living with me for good reasons.]

I really tried to work things out before divorcing her. That's how I met Lois. [She's the wife of the last guy my wife was fooling around with.] Well, to make a long story short, I dug Lois and Lois dug me. She has three kids, but she won't divorce her husband because she says it was his first offense, and he deserves another chance for the sake of their children.

I'll be honest with you. Lois and I have been having an affair. She says she loves me, but she can't divorce her husband.

Abby, I am crazy about Lois, and can't make it without her. Please tell me what to do. GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Quit seeing Lois unless you want to wind up with another wife who cheats on her husband.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married only two months. We were very happy until yesterday when his ex-wife called to tell him she was pregnant and is naming him as the baby's father!

Abby, my husband is not the baby's father! He divorced her for running around with other men and leaving their two children alone.

If this goes to court, can't a blood test prove for sure that my husband is not the father of his child? Please tell us the facts about blood tests. My husband is "O negative." We are frantic, but we are determined to fight this in court if it takes everything we have. WEST COAST CASE

DEAR CASE: A blood test can only prove who the baby's father is not! If your husband is in fact not the baby's father, but the baby's father just happens to have had "O negative" blood type, nothing is proved.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to tell you what she thought was a "cute" saying: "The neurotic builds dream castles. The psychotic lives in them, and the psychiatrist collects the rent."

Your reply was great! You said, "A competent psychiatrist doesn't collect the rent; instead he helps his patient find a dwelling he can live in. And his fee is more appropriately the cost of moving."

You couldn't have given her a better answer. I was in a psychiatric hospital for a short time recently, and am still under a psychiatrist's care. He has put me on the right track, and I now see a completely different side of life. The right side! I don't know what would have happened to me and my family had I not found him.

If more people who had serious problems would seek the help of a psychiatrist instead of hanging onto that almighty dollar, this would be a better world. I could never pay my doctor enough for what he has done for me.

Please, Abby, print this. It may help someone who needs psychiatric help, but hesitates to go because it's too "expensive." A NEW PERSON

DEAR NEW: The person who admits he needs help is halfway cured. Thanks for writing.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Betty Canary

By BETTY CANARY

It is inevitable. A group of women talk about the future and suddenly we're saying, "If the Real Me ever comes out, I'll be sunning on the Mediterranean," or "The Real Me doesn't care about material things."

We refer to the Real Me as if there is someone quite unlike us, a different person entirely, lurking somewhere inside.

We imply the he-she is in there, constant, quietly waiting to be released from a prison.

It is as if the Real Me never changes, was born fully developed one day long ago and is ready to fulfill desires, live out dreams, cop successes if only we let him out.

There it sits, somewhat like a little carved statue, just pops out and takes over.

Rather frightening isn't it? I mean, if the Real Me isn't a constantly changing, ever-growing part of me, then, for heaven's sake, what is it and when was it formed?

If the Real Me came into being when I was aged three, then I certainly don't want it out here fulfilling dreams! I'd quite likely end up chin-deep in all day suckers, romper suits and red tricycles because that's what a three-year-old would dream of. At the age I am now, I'd hardly get a thrill out of riding a tricycle.

If the Real Me was formed when I was 13 and hasn't changed since, then, good grief! I hope she doesn't come out right now for I'll be in for an evening of jitterbugging!

No, it's much better by far to believe that the Real Me changes even as the outer me has changed through the years, and that it isn't some mystical unknown spirit inside but a living growing part of the outer me.

Our Real Me might be enriched today because of a new encounter or she might shrivel a bit because we withdraw from a challenge offered. She may be a bit healthier tomorrow because we accept new values or become rather ill because we haven't been able to accept a blow handed us. Surely, at the very least, the Real Me will be a bit more experienced each year.

The Chinese celebrate their New Year with dragon parades, lion dances, the exchanging of gifts and feasting on tasty, traditional foods.

WMU Holds Bible Study

SKELLYTOWN (SPL.)—The Tuesday morning Ladies Bible Class of the Church of Christ met in the church for study. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Earl Lane, and the lesson, "Ideal Christian," was taught by Mrs. James Douglas. Mrs. Grace Smith closed the meeting with a prayer.

After the meeting a covered dish luncheon was held in the home of Mrs. Roy Lynn McClendon. In the afternoon Mrs. James Douglas, Mrs. Grace Smith and Mrs. Earl Lane visited the Pampa Nursing Home.

Mainly About Skellytown

The Skellytown grade school boys basketball team won district recently. They received a cablegram from local basketball fans which was read by Coach Larry Cole. Cole treated the boys and their managers Tuesday evening to a steak supper at Pampa.

Mrs. Earl Lane and Mrs. Clifford Coleman were at Pampa Thursday morning where they attended the Pampa Daily News press coffee at the Pampa Country Club.

Mrs. Fannie Tash had as a guest in her home this week, her daughter, Mrs. Lorene Fulce, Dumas.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kenney spent Friday night at Canyon where they were guests in the home of Mrs. Roy Oglesby.

Mrs. Miles (Mable) Pearson has been dismissed from the Highland Hospital where she underwent tests.

Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Harris and children, Canadian, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hewitt spent the weekend at Iowa Park, where they visited Mr. Hewitt's mother, Mrs. L.L. Chesher.

The Naomi Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church will meet Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall for the spring social and covered dish supper.

Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Dehis, Skelly Crawford Gasoline Plant, spent the weekend at Lubbock where they visited their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dehis and celebrated Mrs. Dehis' birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Brown announce the birth of a daughter, Feb. 23, at 3:20 p.m. She weighed 7 lbs., 9 ozs. and has been named Cary Rebecca. The Browns reside at 4715 Laura St. in Midland, Tex. Grandparents are Mrs. Neoma Mercer and Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Brown, Skellytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Prescott, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, announce the birth of a son born February 25 at 2:30 a.m. He weighed 8 lbs., and 6 ozs., and has been named James Edwin. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore, Skellytown are grandparents.

Mrs. Kate Enoch spent the weekend at Pampa where she was a guest in the home of Mrs. Charley (Eva) Richardson; another guest was Mrs. Bertha Husted.

Jack Houston, Copperas Cove, Tex. visited his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Huckins, Saturday.

Mrs. Neomi Mercer returned this week from Midland where she spent several days with her daughter Mrs. Kelly Brown and new baby daughter, Cary Rebecca.

Hodgson Defends President's Record On Labor Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson, responding to union charges that his department is oriented more toward big business than American workers, says "That's a bunch of garbage."

Hodgson volunteered the remark during an interview with the Associated Press in which he defended President Nixon's record on labor affairs.

"I think you may have seen some of the stories in the labor press about this department being management-oriented. To me that's a bunch of garbage," said Hodgson, who has had a series of run-ins with George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

Hodgson, who miffed Meany by canceling a scheduled speech to the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach last November, said he hadn't intended a snub to the president of the 13.6 million member labor federation.

"I never snubbed organized labor or any person in it," said Hodgson, who canceled his speech after Nixon's cool reception by 1,000 labor delegates at the November meeting.

Hodgson said he was puzzled by labor criticism of the Nixon Administration's record on labor matters, which he said included new laws for the biggest improvement in unemployment pay in a decade, the nation's first federal health and safety law and plans for a new law to protect and improve workers' pensions.

Hodgson also said that former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, freed from prison after Nixon commuted his sentence, had better "stay out of the union business."

Excerpts from the interview:
Q: This Administration is sort of taking its lumps from organized labor on things like unemployment and wage controls. What is your response?

A: We feel that we've been building a record of accomplishment that shows that we have intense concern for the American worker and we have been attempting to establish a record of fairness to organized labor.

Q: What about relations with organized labor?

A: If one were to go back and examine much of the labor press (newspapers published by labor unions) at the time before the election in 1968, there were horror stories about the kind of anti-labor legislation that could be expected. That has not occurred. We have chosen to work with, rather than around or against organized labor ... We did this on the Pay Board by bringing organized labor ... in on a tripartite basis. We did it in the construction industry ... where we worked with the building trades unions and management of the construction industry to set up a wage stabilization activity with a great deal of success ...

Q: What about the criticism that the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee is granting much larger wage increases?

A: I think you can pick out individual wage increases from either the Construction committee or the Pay Board and question them but both organizations have had to recognize that there are equity considerations there as well as considerations of inflation control that they have to wrestle with.

And there will be—particularly for the year 1971 ... for which the Construction committee has been issuing decisions—a number of wage increases above the guidelines.

But the fact is that board has brought the level of wage increases down from a level of about 16 per cent to about 10 per cent and they're continuing to bring it down ...

Q: Is it possible to see at this point a time in which the controls will be removed?

A: It is possible to see that there will be such a time. Clearly, that's the objective. But when that time will be, again only time can tell simply because we don't know how long it's going to take to get ... where we can say we have reached ... our objective of cutting inflation in half.

We should not only have inflation cut in half, bring it down to that 2 or 3 per cent a year, but make sure that it's cut in half and a new climate is established where if controls are taken off it'll not start going right back up again ... and when we reach that time, off they'll go ...

Q: There's been speculation that the President might choose to do something dramatic on the controls before the November election; do you foresee any major change in the controls?

A: The only thing I can say about that is this President will respond to the needs of the time ... I think you can expect that the President will take whatever action the circumstances dictate at the time, but I have no indication that there is any planned action ...

Q: On the relations with organized labor, the AFL-CIO doesn't seem to be too happy with this Administration.

A: It's a kind of puzzling circumstance in one way. Probably we've never had more things that we're working with organized labor on—that's all organized labor ... —than right now ...

Q: You were not asked to talk to the AFL-CIO Executive Council at its recent meeting in Miami Beach. Mr. Meany indicated that you had sort of snubbed them in November by not showing up for a speech. What's behind all that?

A: The President came to Miami with me as you know and I had a 15-minute speech prepared to give to the AFL-CIO. I'd seen the President's speech. My speech was all designed to say we've got an important thing going in the stabilization effort ... Let's get together and make it work.

Pampa Downs Dumas Demons

By RICKEY WRIGHT
Five in a row stands the record for the fighting Pampa Harvesters baseball squad as they put defeat in the laps of the Dumas Demons by a score of 2-0.

Jeff Hogan, pitcher, and Dale Ammons, catcher, led the Harvesters to their victory. Hogan stands 2-1 in the win-loss category now as he pitched five hits, four walks and struck out seven.

The Demons were AAA State champs last year, "but they lost a lot of their boys," commented Pampa baseball mentor Deck Woldt as he added, "Both teams played well. I think we earned the win."

The Harvesters scored the winning two runs due to the only two errors that the Demons made. Roy Hendricks (center field) was the first to score after he chunked out a double, was sacrificed to third and went to home on an error made by the Dumas shortstop in the fifth inning.

Al Ferguson scored the other run after he was walked by Sisson of Dumas, stole second, went on to third on a pass ball and on to home on another error due to the Demon shortstop.

Dumas finished the game with only two errors that had cost them the game and Pampa finished up with one error.

The Harvesters only got two hits off of Sisson of Dumas. Both were doubles made by Roy Hendricks.

Sisson didn't pitch a bad game for his Demon Dumas. He lost only two hits, walked two and struck out six Harvesters.

One of the more outstanding plays of the game was made by Rick Musgrave, who received a bounce to right field with a man on second. Musgrave hurried the ball to Dale Ammons behind the plate, killing the threat of a run in the third inning.

Another run threat was cut short by a Harvester double play which went from Jeff Hogan, pitcher, to Mike Edgar, shortstop, who sped the ball to Bill Simon at first base.

The final threat was cut short late in the seventh inning. With a man on second and third and two outs, the Demons sent Cook in a pinch hitter to face Hogan. Hogan whizzed three strikes past him to end the game 2-0 for Pampa.

"Mike Edgar did a fine job for his team in the game," commented Woldt, "along with the rest of the team. I was really pleased."

Friday the Harvesters will GENEROSITY PAYS Bob Cousy and Guy Rodgers share the NBA record for most assists in one game, 28.

travel to Woodward, Okla., to play a double header against the Woodward team at 1 p.m. Pitching for the Harvesters in the two-game spread will be Larry Knutson and Jody Johnson.

"Not much is known about the Woodward squad as we are yet to play them, nor has any team we have faced so far known much about them," commented Woldt.

"It is bound to be a tough one as Woodward usually comes up with some pretty good teams." He added, "Oklahoma usually has some good baseball squads as there is no spring football there."

NBA Roundup

By Associated Press

Quick! How many National Basketball Association divisional championships have the Boston Celtics won in the past six seasons.

None. That's right. Incredible as it may seem, the Celtics, who have won three NBA titles in that same stretch, have had to do it in come-from-behind fashion, so to speak, after finishing less than best in the regular season.

But that drought, extending back to 1964-65, which ended a string of nine successive divisional titles, is about to end, thanks in part to John Havlicek.

The 6-foot-5 forward, who became Boston's all-time leading scorer just last Sunday, pumped in 38 points Tuesday night to power the Celtics to a 124-110 victory over the Golden State Warriors.

That kept them 5½ games ahead of second-place New York in the Atlantic Division and within two victories—two Knicks defeats—of locking up the division crown. In Tuesday night's other NBA games, the Knicks defeated Atlanta 115-107, Los Angeles beat Detroit 129-116, Buffalo held off Philadelphia 108-105, Cleveland whipped Baltimore 127-118 in overtime, Seattle edged Chicago 115-111 and Milwaukee downed Portland 109-98.

The Celtics trailed until Havlicek's basket gave them a 59-57 halftime lead, then they poured it on against the Warriors.

Dave Cowens added 24 points for Boston while Nate Thurmond led Golden State with 35.

The Knicks put on a fourth-quarter tear, outscoring the Hawks 16-3 in a six-minute stretch, to win going away. Atlanta led 94-91 with seven minutes to play before falling apart.

Dick Barnett and Walt Frazier had 22 points apiece, Bill

Bradley 21 and Dave DeBusschere 20 to lead New York's balanced attack. Walt Bellamy of the Hawks led everyone with 26.

The Lakers, winning their 23rd road game of the season, broke Milwaukee's record set a year ago. And by winning their 63rd game over-all, they kept alive hopes of breaking Philadelphia's 1966-67 single-season victory total of 68. Los Angeles has seven to play.

The Pistons trailed the Lakers by 19 points early in the third quarter, then trimmed the deficit to two with nine minutes to go before Los Angeles, led by Jim McMillian's 30 points and Wilt Chamberlain's 28, outscored Detroit 18-9. Bob Lanier had 35 for the Pistons.

Buffalo also had to fight off a second-half rally to turn back the 76ers, who trailed by as many as 23 points before chopping the gap to just 103-102 with about two minutes to go.

TEXAS RANGERS

American League West

PROSPECTUS: New Town (Dallas-Fort Worth), new division, but the same old view: looking up from the bottom of the standings. The players, you see, have the same old arms and tired old bats as they did as the Washington Senators. Manager Ted Williams' spunk and expertise can almost make silk purses out of a sow's ear. But not quite. Especially when the operatives must compete against the strengths of teams like Oakland, K.C., Chicago, California and Minnesota. Last season, the team created pre-season excitement by being a haven for individualists (notorious and otherwise) like Denny McLain, Curt Flood, Joe Foy, Well, McLain, once a 31-game winner, lost 22 games. Flood disappeared early in the season. Foy was sent to minors. A lone bright spot remains, aging slugger Frank Howard. Owner Bob Short, crying all the way to the bank, will find solace only in the expected large crowds to see the "new attraction."

Frank Howard

PITCHING: It is generally conceded that McLain's great arm is a thing of the past. Starting help is expected from Dick Bosman (12-16), Pete Broberg who came off Dartmouth campus to win five, lose nine, and newcomers Mike Paul and Rich Hand from the Indians. Capable Paul Lindblad and Casey Cox will be in bullpen.

INFIELD: Don Mincher (12 homers) at first, journeyman Ted Kubiak at second, Dave Nelson (.280) at third and inconsistent, young Toby Harrah at short form barely adequate horn group.

OUTFIELD: Howard in left, plus three guys who can barely hit .250: Roy Foster (in trade from Cleveland), Larry Blittner and Elliott Maddox. Jeff Burroughs (.232 as rookie) may win starting job.

CATCHING: Dick Billings (48 RBIs) will be top catcher. Ex-Indian Ken Suarez will back him up.

Predicted Finish: Sixth in West.

SAN DIEGO PADRES

National League West

PROSPECTUS: The most positive thing one can say about the Padres' 1971 season is that they had fewer passed balls than any team in baseball. After that it was all downhill, precipitously. San Diego finished last in the West, 28 games out of first and 17½ out of fifth. They scored fewer runs (486) and got shutout more times (18) than any National League team. And they drew only 557,513 paid fans. They return this year with more or less the same cast of characters that did such a good job of not hurting attendance at the San Diego Zoo. In the only change, they traded away their best pitcher, Dave Roberts, to Houston for three untested young players. Let's see, how does New Orleans Padres sound? Toronto Padres? Miami Padres?

Nate Colbert

PITCHING: The staff had the league's third best ERA last season but got little support. Roberts' departure leaves Clay Kirby (15-13) as the ace-in-residence, with Steve Arlin (9-19), Fred Norman (3-12), Tom Phoebus (3-11) and Ed Acosta (3-3) as rest of starting rotation. Relief staff of Al Severinsen (2-5 with eight saves), Dick Kelley (2-3), Mike Corkins needs help and Padres have coaxed former Cub Darcy Fast out of retirement. If that sounds like desperation, it is.

INFIELD: Nate Colbert at first, Dave Campbell at second, Enzo Hernandez at short, Ed Spiezio at third. Not exactly a lineup calculated to strike terror in the hearts of opposing pitchers. Colbert, with 27 homers and 84 RBIs on a .264 average, was the only one of the four to hit above .231. Padres hope switch-hitting second baseman Derrel Thomas (.286 at Oklahoma City), who came from Houston, and Garry Jesteadt (.286) can improve matters.

OUTFIELD: Speedy John Jeter (.320 in 18 games) and Leron Lee (.264) came in trades last season and have good chance to start, along with Ollie Brown (.273, 55 RBIs) or Clarence Gaston (.228, 61 RBIs), Ivan Murrell (.235) and Larry Stahl (.253) are still around.

CATCHING: Competent Bob Barton (remember how seldom he had a passed ball) hit .250 and has edge on job but Padres would be happy if 20-year-old Mike Ivie, .305 with 15 homers at Lodi in California League, caught on.

Predicted Finish: Sixth in West.

Tennis Squad Wins Seven Over Hereford

The Pampa High tennis squad was matched with Hereford Whitefaces again Monday after losing to them Friday.

Fate had it in for the netters as they were downed once more by a 13 loss to 7 win margin.

In the winners bracket, the doubles team Richard Kelly and Mike Jennings won over Aleman and Cortez, 8-5. Tom Watson beat Whiteface Eades, 10-8 and Debbie Fletcher rose above Inmons of Hereford, 9-7.

Debbie Gray and Marsha Barton took Schmucker and Swindell, 8-2 in a doubles match.

Mike Jennings overtook Zinser 8-6 in a singles match and doubles team Tom Watson and Jim Daniel defeated Hereford's Sanders and Zinder in a tie breaker, 14-13.

Susan Wilson defeated Emerson of Hereford, 8-5 in singles competition.

Losses for Pampa showed Jim Daniel falling to Aleman, 1-8; Susan Wilson and Joni Wells falling to Emerson and Alexander, 12-14; and Debbie Marchak to Frye, 4-8.

Casandra Mangold and Marsha Plunk lost to Frye and Inmons in doubles competition, 0-8. Frank Henderson lost to Sanders, 3-8, and Pernie Falon fell to Swindell, 5-8.

Jonie Wells came up loser to Alexander, 4-8, as Marsha Plunk fell to Schmucker, 5-8. Laird Ellis and Bill Sargent lost to White and Norman in doubles competition, 1-8.

Laird Ellis lost again to Norman in singles, 1-8. Rafferty of Pampa fell to Swindell, 2-8, and Bill Sargent was defeated by White of Hereford, 1-8. To end the meet Richard Kelly was defeated by Cortez of Hereford, 2-8.

Next on the tennis calendar is the Lubbock Tournament held Friday and Saturday at Lubbock.

Hawkins Proves Himself

(Sixth of a Series.)
 By DAVID WOLF

(From "Foul! The Connie Hawkins Story," by David Wolf. Copyright © 1972 by David Wolf. Published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc., New York.)

After the settlement with the NBA in 1969 and prior to his joining Phoenix, Hawkins didn't construct an elaborate personal racial philosophy, but he became more sensitive to the subtle racism that abounds in pro sports ("When ABA commissioner George Mikan told me to cut my natural, I should have told him to go to hell.") and began to reappraise his past experiences ("I know why I wasn't happy with the Globetrotters—I wasn't actin' like a man.")

Hawk was no longer semiliterate. Although hardly a voluminous reader, he had shaken his fear of the printed word. He looked at the sports pages with a more critical eye, even noticing bylines and recognizing which writers covered pro basketball most competently.

But now, Connie's biggest problem was his knee. It had been operated on the season before. There were sharp pains in the knee.

"There was a lot of pressure on me," he recalls, "especially with my friends going around boasting and saying how I was gonna burn up the NBA." His friends weren't alone. Testimonials poured in from NBA stars who had already seen Hawk play.

Said Wilt Chamberlain, "Hawkins is one of the three best players I ever saw." Lew Alcindor went further: "I never saw anybody better."

Hawk had to prove he belonged. And he proved it. Connie might never be as great as before the knee injury; his legend (actually the reality of his obscure past) might always exceed his performance; but, by the end of his first NBA season, his greatness was without question. He turned the Phoenix franchise around. The year before, the last-most visually exciting and entertaining player in the league which had kept him in exile.

But it didn't happen overnight. The season, in fact, was Hawk's most crucial test as a player and as a man.

Connie limped into Phoenix, in September, to find himself the focal point of a tense and confused situation. General manager Jerry Colangelo was in the second year of his two-year contract and under heavy pressure to improve the team's performance and gate receipts. Coach Kerr was an inept tactician and floundering leader. The players did not respect him. There was potential dissension and racial uneasiness on the squad. And the white scoring star, Gail Goodrich, wasn't inclined to relinquish his role to Hawkins.

Connie had been widely advertised as the answer to the Suns' problems. But, during his first few months in the NBA, Hawk didn't even have the answers to his own.

The raw edges might have been smoothed, had not Goodrich — through no fault of his own — typified the kind of white athlete many blacks (sometimes subconsciously) tend to resent. They sensed life had been easy for him. Gail came from a middle-class home. His college heroics had guaranteed a large initial salary. He was a Beverly Hills stockbroker in the off-season. His playing style had none of the flourishes which mark the ghetto game. His clothes were preppy. In the locker room, he seemed uncomfortable around the blacks. Though never unfriendly, Gail rarely conversed with them. When he did try to joke with Hawkins or Silas after a victory, his words appeared forced and stilted.

"Goodrich dribbled too much," says Hawk. "Somebody'd get open, but Goody'd be so busy setting up his one-on-one moves, he wouldn't notice till it was too late. I think he was trying too hard to compete with me — to be the star."

manager Colangelo fired Coach John Kerr, and named himself head coach. The Suns continued to play in streaks — good and bad — during the final three months of the season. The emotional roller-coaster of internal disharmony still rumbled periodically through the locker room. But the personal frictions, especially the racial tensions, were far less severe and divisive.

For the first time in the history of the franchise, the Suns were winning more games than they lost.

Colangelo reconstructed the offense to accentuate Connie. The responsibility seemed to ignite Hawkins.

Connie now felt more comfortable, less like an outsider, in NBA surroundings.

"So many guys were friendly," Connie recalls. "Like in Philly, Billy Cunningham — a beautiful dude — would rap with me about when we were kids in Brooklyn. Earl Monroe and Nate Thurmond and Walt Hazzard invited me out on the road. After we played the Bucks, I'd get together with Kareem (Lew Alcindor's Islamic name)."

One way Hawkins combated the mental and physical fatigue was by raising his intake of pep pills.

The green and orange, heart-shaped, three-milligram diet pills (Dexamyl and Dexedrine) are used by many NBA players. These relatively mild amphetamines increase the pulse rate, making the athlete feel stronger and more alert. Sometimes they also provide a heightened sense of well-being.

Unlike numerous football and baseball players, few in pro basketball rely on amphetamines. Some find the pills make them hypertense and hurt their shooting touch. Nevertheless, especially on long road-trips, after heavy partying, or when an afternoon game follows a night contest, Gobies come in handy.

That season, Connie asked one of the Celtics to explain his team's poor performance during a game in Los Angeles. "Our Gobies were stolen," he laughed. "We played in Frisco the night before, and some hippies must have broken into the locker room. They didn't touch our money. All they took was pills — every Gobie we had. The next afternoon, it was cold turkey in L.A."

CARDINALS CAVORT

The University of Louisville has the most consecutive winning seasons among major college basketball teams, 27. Dayton and UCLA have each recorded 500 or better records for 23 straight seasons to tie for second place, while Duke with 21 straight and Cincinnati with 18 round out the top five.

A WHOOPING GOOD ONE—Kathy Collinsworth, member of the Pampa High School girls volleyball team, reaches up to return a ball to the opposing Palo Duro team as Pampa A-squad won last night's match 15-8 and 15-2.

Girls Gain Volleyball Victories

The Pampa women claim another victory as the Pampa High School girls' volleyball squad defeated the Palo Duro Don's fens.

The A-squad played only two of the two out of three win-loss elimination as the score for the first game was 15-8 and the second score was 15-2.

The B-squad played all three games to claim an overall victory after losing the first round.

"Our squad didn't play particularly well," commented volleyball coach Mrs. Lynn Wolfe. "They knew they had a better team and just didn't give much effort."

As the outstanding player, Wolfe chose Cathy Ellis "because she got the B-squad several points through her hard serves."

Chosen for outstanding effort on the A-squad was Lynn Richardson and Kathy Collinsworth.

The next bout for the fem volleyers will be in Amarillo against the Sandies of Amarillo High Thursday night. The B-squads will clash at 6:30 p.m. and the A-teams will meet at 8 p.m.

place Suns won just 16 games and drew only 132,923 paying customers. In Hawk's first season they won 39, finished in a tie for third place in the Western Division, and almost upset the Lakers in the playoffs. Attendance more than doubled.

Connie averaged 24.6 points per game (sixth in the league), grabbed 846 rebounds, and passed for 391 assists. He drew more fouls, had more assists, and blocked more shots than any forward in the NBA. He started for the West in the All-Star game, finished fifth when his fellow players voted for the league's MVP, and was named to the NBA's first All-Star team. He was a bona-fide superstar—the

Peking And Munich

While the smiles are still on the faces, and that warm feeling seems to be creeping through the country over the prospects Mr. Nixon's visit to China seem to present, let us pause...

We thought you might like to step back into history a bit, so we dug out the following:

"We, the German Fuhrer and Chancellor and the British Prime Minister, have had a further meeting today and are agreed in recognizing that the question of Anglo-German relations is of the first importance for the two countries and for Europe.

"We regard the agreement signed last night and the Anglo-German Naval Agreement as symbolic of the desire of our two peoples never to go to war with one another again.

"We are resolved that the method of consultation shall be the method adopted to deal with any other questions that may concern our two countries, and we are determined to continue our efforts to remove possible sources of difference and thus to contribute to assure the peace of Europe." Signed: Neville Chamberlain September 30, 1938.

In explaining the policy of appeasement of Hitler's demands, Mr. Chamberlain said it did not mean that "we are going to seek new friends at the expense of old ones."

Isn't it interesting that the same phrases are repeated through history?

The Munich agreement, as you recall, gave part of Czechoslovakia to Germany, and the tensions that gripped Europe were relaxed.

Chamberlain has been remembered in history as the man who made a foolish mistake. From the distance of years, how simple it is to point an accusing finger at that pathetic gentleman with his umbrella.

But what did his fellows think at the time?

Let's look at some newspaper quotes of the day:

From the Yorkshire Herald: "The tumultuous welcome accorded to Mr. Chamberlain yesterday in London, and the rose-strewn path that opened out before Mr. Daladier in Paris were reflexes of the joy of two nations for their deliverance from war. While we owe so much to those statesmen, we remember how their words were given weight by the calm determination of Britain and France to go the limit for peace but to make plain to all what the limit was."

From the Yorkshire Observer:

"The ultimate power of democratic opinion, as seen in the way Mr. Chamberlain was able to invoke it against more extreme demands, was proved in the middle of this week, when it was mobilized on almost a world scale. The part played by President Roosevelt and the United States Press may, along with the firm British popular voice, have turned the scale against war."

Messages of thanks and congratulations poured in to Chamberlain from throughout the British Empire and other nations.

There were vast crowds to greet him in London. A few days later some hostile political comment was heard in Westminster and in some newspapers, but political office holders rallied to Chamberlain.

Mackenzie King, the Canadian Prime Minister, sent a message expressing "unbounded admiration of the service you have rendered mankind."

General Smuts of South Africa said: "Once more, the occasion has produced the man. A great champion has appeared in the lists—God Bless him. We are proud of his achievement."

It was 11 months after the Peace-in-our-time achievement, after the cheers of the happy crowds which greeted Chamberlain that World War II began as Hitler invaded Poland.

If there is a parallel to be drawn between Chamberlain's appeasement of Hitler and President Nixon's "peace mission" to Red China, perhaps it should wait until Red China's demands are known.

But history should have taught us that any agreements made by politicians are less than reliable.

Look Who's Coming to Dinner!

GLOBAL VIEW Soviet Arms May Be Overestimated

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is serious political and military danger to the United States in overestimating Soviet military might.

If large numbers of people come to believe in a Soviet superstrength which does not exist, there could be an erosion of the confidence of our allies in the deterrent power of U.S. strategic forces, upon which the entire structure of free world defenses rests.

Crucial allies might make deals with Moscow that would endanger their independence and weaken alliances necessary to political and military defenses of the United States.

It would, of course, be unwise to underestimate Soviet strength, but the story of Moscow's growing missile arsenal, its heavy expenditures for military research, its modernized submarine fleet and rapidly expanding surface navy has been told in considerable detail these past few months.

H.L. Hunt Writes

An old enemy has finally been flushed out, making the surrender of the Japanese Imperial Army complete. At least it is assumed that he is the last living survivor of the once mighty force that held the United States and her allies at bay during most of World War II. The bearded Sgt. Shoichi Yokoi, apprehended at the cave on Guam which has been his home for 28 years, said he would like to go back to Japan and then climb a mountain where he could meditate. He had been driven to his hiding place by United States forces in 1944 and had not surrendered because he was afraid he would be executed.

Sgt. Yokoi, now 56, must have found the world he reentered a strange one indeed. To him television was unbelievable and so was the flight time of his trip back home to Japan in a jet plane—three hours. When Sgt. Yokoi ends his meditation and has time to catch up on many years of developments, he will find that a lot has changed. His native Japan, which was taking a terrific beating at the time he fled to his cave, has become a highly respected and democratic country, thanks to the genius and benevolence of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his staff who performed a miracle in setting the defeated country on a course to great achievement. He will find that Russia, which obtained with intrigue and subterfuge unwarranted title to Japanese possessions, has emerged as a superpower with the hydrogen bomb but remains the same old aggressor. He will learn that the Chinese communists, with the aid of some top U. S. officials, drove the fine leaders of the Republic of China into the sea and onto the island of Formosa. But he will find new hope in Japan, just as the entire world has hope in her.

Our aircraft technology is superior, our bomber forces larger and more capable. We are considerably ahead in the sophisticated communications systems—local and worldwide.

The U. S. lead, as emphasized above, is qualitative, the type England's air force had over the German air fleet in the Battle of Britain. To maintain that type of superiority (or sufficiency) as the Russians continue to build and invent, we must put a greater emphasis on research.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

Wallace's Flame Gutters Low, Now

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (NEA)—Alabama's Gov. George Wallace today leads the March 14 Florida primary because he is the narrator-hero of a fantasy many voters in this state enjoy hearing.

The fantasy has to do with braking the pace of racial integration in the public schools—and most particularly with halting the "forced" busing of pupils to achieve that goal.

Wallace tells his listeners "that's going to come to a stop in this country some day, and it's going to come through political action."

But he is neither going to be nominated for the presidency by the Democrats, nor elected. The voters in Florida know that. They also know that busing is already widely established, that integration is well advanced. That where they can avoid it for their children by putting them in private schools, those who wish have generally already done so.

Too, it is not at all clear that many Florida voters think much will come of a Wallace victory March 14, though he says it will "send a message" to Washington.

So, with a few exceptions like his big rally in Melbourne, Wallace is not finding real fervor. In 1968, his packed halls were cauldrons of hate and fury. Often they were near the explosion point.

That is not the mood now. The frenzy is gone. The crowd comes for the show—to be entertained, to recapture briefly old dreams of racial separation, to hear their stand-up man lambaste the liberals and the "dictator" courts the way comedians used to malign Yonkers and Peoria.

Mostly quiet, Wallace's listeners break silence to laugh, cheer and clap at his show-biz lines.

In Washington, government departments stretch as far as the eye can see. There are thousands of bureaucrats toting briefcases. If you look inside, maybe you'll find peanut butter sandwiches.

"Those liberals up there are just a little over-educated for their brain capacity...they want to do away with national defense and give money to welfare loafers..."

"You're almost blown into oblivion by high taxes..."

It's good fun, but it is indeed fantasy. When it's over, people file out as from a movie house. They know they've been watching escape entertainment.

Wallace himself clearly senses it. In a partly filled hall in West Palm Beach, he was not "up." Responses were sporadic. His favorite gags lines seemed tired and old. (They go back to 1966 in some cases.)

And, while Wallace the entertainer and fantasy-spinner can still "get em" when he tries hard, his 1972 show is flattened because he is trying to be a broader and hence more plausible presidential candidate. He offers a full kit of views on defense, foreign aid, taxes, welfare, crime.

His dogged run-through of these things seems a contrived exercise, at cross-purposes with the image of Wallace the thumper, who, before speaking one night, told me: "We're gonna whup 'em, we're gonna straighten 'em out..."

Too often now he doesn't strike fire. The makings of fervor may no longer be in his audience or in him—though he is more skilled and confident than ever, and wears his new assurance in more fashionable, better-tailored clothes.

Yet the great charade is not played out. Many love it still. They don't mind that their narrator is just that—a talker who will never be president.

They will vote for him in droves here, plumping for the warm comfort of a symbol, for the man who can make them laugh as he carves up their adversaries and can give his listeners an hour or so in the company of old dreams.

Crossroads Report

Dear Editor:

Perennial push to outlaw handguns is blooming again with a special assault on the cheap models that make home defense and going into the robbing business very inexpensive. Theory is that since guns kill people, fewer folks would die if fewer people could afford to buy guns.

Autos, of course, also kill people. And if only the very rich could afford to buy cars, thousands of lives would be saved every year. So maybe Congress had ought to outlaw cheap cars, too.

Lots of noisy demandment these days for doing away with the titles Miss and Mrs. and replacing same with Ms. for both single and married ladies. Having different titles for claimed and unclaimed womenfolk has probably saved many men from getting shot, but equal protection for gals on the prowl is not provided by doing away with their marital status tag.

It would seem better to equalize the sexes by having two titles for men also. Like tagging unmarried men as Mr. for "mister," and married ones Gr. for "got her."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Wyoming Territory passed a law granting woman suffrage in 1869. The World Almanac recalls that adult women in New Jersey could vote in general elections under a constitution adopted in 1776, provided they were "worth 50 Pounds Proclamation money, with clear estate in the same." In 1807, this provision was "reinterpreted" and voting was limited to free white male citizens.

News Briefs

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—An elderly man from Stockton, Calif., passed out several $100 bills to bystanders in a bus station, police said Wednesday.

A girl said she received $400. Police delayed the bus, questioned the unidentified man and quoted him as saying:

"I have plenty ... and I don't need it any longer."

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A rock music band went to small claims court seeking $100 of a contract they claim a night club failed to pay them after the group was forced to play in a storeroom because they were too loud.

Members of the Gibraltar Group said Wednesday they contracted with the nightclub last March to play six nights for $600. They said they played three nights in the club and one night in a storeroom with only a club official in attendance, then were fired with payment of $500.

Tony Cerkenik, president of the Fifth National Banque, the night club, said he put the group in the storeroom because they were driving away customers.

Justice of the Peace John Murphy took the case under advisement.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Another souvenir of Hollywood's past—Rudolph Valentino's 49-year-old luxury automobile, still operable and gleaming as though new—goes up for auction tonight.

The Avions Voisin Victoria Phaeton was custom-built in France in 1923 to the personal specifications of the silent-screen lover who died in 1926.

The car will be sold by Sotheby, Parke-Bernet Los Angeles.

President Ward Landrigan said he had been told Valentino paid $31,000 for the car. Landrigan estimated the vehicle, being offered by a collector's widow who has asked to remain anonymous, will bring "$20,000 plus" at auction.

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—The National Park Service says it will increase its free shuttle bus fleet in Yosemite National Park from three to eight this year in an effort to further reduce private vehicle traffic.

The 125-passenger, double-decked buses are powered by low-emission engines. They are used on two park loops which provide access to the main sights of the park, hiking trails and tourist accommodations.

Motorcars have been banned beyond Yosemite Village and the Park Service said many of Yosemite's 1.6 million visitors last year formed long queues to take advantage of the bus service.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The Yale admissions officer is urging applicants to illustrate their skills by enclosing samples of their poems, photos, paintings or whatever else they have a knack for.

One girl sent an apple pie, which was judged "delicious" by the admissions staff.

DOOR OPEN TO YOUNG---BUT WOMEN?

Jaycees Build New Image

TULSA, Okla.—(NEA)—The great-grandson of a Chinese immigrant to Hawaii now heads one of the biggest of America's service-fraternal organizations. He's Ronald Au, a Honolulu lawyer, president of the U.S. Jaycees.

Ronald Au
Expecting repercussions.

He is the first member of a minority group to become president of the Jaycees—and he won the office just in time to get involved in another minority fight.

Women want in. Until now, the Jaycees have been limited to men, between 21 and 35, and the by-laws specifically state that no women can become members.

"I think," Au says, "that a fraternal organization should have the right to exclude them if they want to, but I feel that within five years they'll be allowed in. But I just had the unpleasant duty of having to revoke the charter on one chapter (in Rochester, N.Y.) which went against the by-laws and voted to accept women. There are bound to be repercussions."

Since he assumed office, Au has been leading the fight to lower the minimum membership age to 18, figuring that if young men can vote, they ought to be allowed to be Jaycees.

The Jaycees—they were the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce until they officially changed their name in '65—is trying to live down its old "young executive" label. Today, they encompass men from all walks of life, and there's even a big movement to enroll men in prison.

of them all is their desire to do good works, on community, national and, lately, international levels. This can range from projects involving ecology and drugs and prison reform to a group of the boys getting together to repaint the home of a bed-ridden 85-year-old lady and the sponsorship of local beauty pageants.

Au, as president for a year, had to move here, to Tulsa, where the Jaycees have their headquarters and maintain a home for the president. Although Au diplomatically says he likes Tulsa and thinks that Oklahomans are "great," he also says that as soon as his term is up, he'll head home to Hawaii.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Mavis is a smart wife. For she remembers that old adage which states: "Love flies out the window when poverty stalks in the door." But bargains hunting soon becomes a game and great fun if you follow the prescription below. Solvent homes have fewer quarrels!

CASE T-528: Mavis B., aged 22, is a new bride with a serious problem. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I want my marriage to Tom to stay permanently happy."

"But I grew up in a hectic home environment. "For Daddy was the son of a wealthy business executive, so Daddy was spoiled by having his father bail him out of debt periodically."

"My mother was harassed by bill collectors until she was almost a nervous wreck. "Then she'd finally get Daddy to go to his father for an extra remittance check."

"But I wish to start our marriage on a budget. "Tom is a reporter and I work as a secretary for the same paper."

"So will you please suggest a financial prescription for us?"

BUDGET WIVES

Since Mavis took bookkeeping at Business College and is a sensible girl, I recommended that she serve as the treasurer of her family corporation.

Then she can allot Tom his necessary money for weekly expenses, which can often be a great boon.

For when his buddies want to borrow a 5-spot till pay day or even a sawbuck to bet on a horse race, Tom can honestly state:

"Sorry, Pal, but my wife is treasurer of our family corporation, so you must ask her!"

Obviously, his pals will not do that!

Then Mavis and Tom should specifically outline their expected expenses in a budget.

But unexpected drains generally make a big hole in the usual budget, so allow for such.

Even our political budgets seldom can stay intact, which is why our national debt keeps rising steadily.

Incidentally, when France and England estimated the costs of National Health Insurance Programs, the ultimate costs were double those original estimates!

So don't feel too optimistic when you allocate money for various expenses!

Also, young married couples should learn to be bargain hunters.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellott, Indiana 47858, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Today In History

By Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, March 15, the 75th day of 1972. There are 291 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in the year 44 B.C. Julius Caesar was assassinated.

On this date: In 1608, the French navigator and explorer, Samuel de Champlain, sailed for the New World.

In 1767, the seventh American president, Andrew Jackson, was born.

In 1820, Maine entered the Union as the 23rd state.

In 1916, a U.S. force of 12,000 soldiers under Gen. John J. Pershing was ordered into Mexico to capture the revolutionary Mexican leader, Pancho Villa.

In 1943, Japanese planes raided Darwin, Australia, during World War II.

In 1956, the Broadway musical, "My Fair Lady," opened in New York to rave reviews.

Ten years ago: It was disclosed that American military training personnel in South Vietnam had exchanged fire with Communist Guerrilla forces.

Five years ago: A military marshal, Arthur da Costa e Silva, was sworn in as president of Brazil.

One year ago: In Vienna, U.S. and Soviet envoys began the fourth round of talks on limiting strategic arms.

Today's birthdays: Singer Eddy Arnold is 54. Actor George Brent is 68. Economist Robert P. Mayo is 56.

Thought for today: Youth comes but once in a lifetime—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. American poet, 1807-1882.

Amber's Source

Amber, the hardest resin known, makes a very fine but expensive varnish. It comes from the fossils of extinct pine trees that once grew on the shores of the Baltic Sea.

Israel has spent $71.4 million on maintaining and developing the Gaza Strip since capturing it from Egypt in 1967.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Carson's second annual special starring performers in what he described as "the Social Security bracket" came off in excellent style on NBC Monday night. If it was not quite as moving a little gem as the hour last season it was because there were so many guests and star turns that no one had time for more than a few minutes at stage center.

There was Eddie Foy Jr., at 68 dancing with the grace of a man half his age; Ethel Waters singing "Dinah" with the enthusiasm of a beginner; Gene Sheldon getting as many laughs for his comedy banjo act as he did in vaudeville days.

Bette Davis half sang and half talked a song from a Broadway musical in which she "appeared almost two decades ago—a number whose music and lyrics were much inferior to her talents.

Hits of the show again were members of the chorus, all former show girls who danced with the enthusiasm of the June Taylor line but perhaps a little less agility. In a nice windup, a quintet of composers sang bits from some of their greatest hits. Shelton Brooks, at 85, sang his "Some of These Days;" Harry Ruby recalled Helen Kane's "I Wanna Be Loved by You," and Irving Caesar belted "Tea for Two," with grand opera gestures.

Carson made graceful introductions, then kept pretty much out of the way. Earlier Bob Hope presented his final special of the season—his monologue was predictably full of Nixon-China jokes. Then followed several rough and tumble sketches satirizing motion pictures nominated for Academy Awards. Television viewers who had seen the movies may have found the going on funny. Those who had not had a little difficulty understanding what the sketches were about.

With the three networks moving into reruns, the annual ratings race has wound up virtually in a photo-finish. The winner and the biggest loser are within a two-point margin that the samplers allow for error.

CBS has emerged in the Nielsen numbers the winner with an average prime-time rating of 20.5. NBC followed with 19.3, and ABC pulled up the rear at 18.7.

The totals are of special interest because ABC, for years the Cinderella among networks, has bootstrapped itself into a position as a tough contender for audience attention.

Mobile Concession Awarded Permit Around Meredith

A two-year permit has been awarded for a mobile concession to serve various areas around Lake Meredith, according to James M. Thompson, superintendent of Sanford Recreation Area. Mrs. Cherry Hamilton, Fritch, and Mrs. Vasta Harris, Amarillo, were awarded the permit.

The two women began operating a mobile concession service around the lake last year on an experimental basis under a temporary special use permit. Their snack bar, "The Goodie Truck" has been a familiar sight around the lake where they have served visitors at Cedar Canyon, Fritch Fortress, Rosita Motorcycle Area, and the swimming area below the dam.

Greatest Parade

The greatest ticker-tape parade on record is the one given in New York City for astronaut John Glenn Jr. on March 1, 1962, after his return from his triorbital flight.

Neophyte

Neophyte, a Greek word for newly planted, was used by early Christians to describe newly baptized or recent converts and later extended to a newly ordained priest, a convent novice and, ultimately, a beginner, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.
