Raging Fire In California Flares Out Of Control

Democrats Hail New Jersey And N. Y. Victories

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats hailed their victories in New York City and New Jersey today, their biggest source of cheer being the contest for the New Jersey governorship. Richard J. Hughes, the Democratic underdog, won over former Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell in a major upset.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner was elected to a third term in New York City, defeating Republican Louis J. Lefkowitz, the state attorney general, by a wide margin.

President Kennedy and former President Eisenhower both campaigned for their respective party candidates in New York City and New Jersey, focusing national attention on the two races.

With 4,351 of the state's 4,395 districts reporting early today Hughes had 1,071,188 votes to Mitchell's 1,030,714. This gave Hughes a plurality of 40,472.

Hughes had 50.97 per cent of the two-party vote and Mitchell had 49.03 per cent. That meant when the votes of the seven minor party candidates were tallied Hughes might come out with less than half the total vote which will surpass the all-time record for a gubernatorial race.

Mitchell refused to concede defeat and went to bed early today at his hotel headquarters here.

Hughes, virtually unknown in state politics until he entered the race last March, withheld a flat victory statement. Spokesmen said he was awaiting Mitchell's concession.

Kennedy, however, sent Hughes a congratulatory telegram.

"I express the hope that your administration will be an active partner with the Washington administration," the President said in the telegram received at Hughes' Trenton headquarters.

It was the first election Hughes had ever won and the first time New Jersey has elected a Catholic governor. Mitchell also is a Catholic.

In other off-year balloting the Democrats held on to the Virginia governorship, a Michigan congressional seat and the mayor's office in Pittsburgh. The Republicans knocked out Democratic mayors in Buffalo, N.Y., Louisville, Ky., Youngstown, Ohio, and Erie, Scranton and other cities in Pennsylvania.

Mitchell's defeat was a severe blow to the liberal wing of the GOP which had hoped to stand him alongside Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as chief executive in one of the politically potent states of the East.

In New York City, Rockefeller acted as though the GOP had won a victory by its showing against Wagner. He said two-party government had returned to the city because Wagner defeated Lefkowitz by only about 400,000 votes, far less than his victory margin of more than 900,000 four years ago.

In Nassau County, N.Y., which had a population of 1,300,171 in 1960 and would be the nation's sixth city in population—between Detroit and Baltimore—if incorporated, voters elected a Democrat to the post of county executive for the first time in history.

Eugene H. Nickerson, a 43-year-old lawyer, won an upset victory and the county's top political post over Republican Robert W. Dill by fewer than 5,000 votes out of 425,000 cast.

In Virginia, Democrat Albert S. Harrison won the governorship over Republican H. Clyde Pearson, who polled about 35 per cent. (See DEMOS, Page 3)

United Drive Still $27,429 Short Of Goal

The total in the Pampa-Lefors United fund drive had reached $41,076.75 at noon today. The figure still is $17,429.25 short of the $58,476 goal.

Fund solicitors were urged today by George Newberry, general campaign chairman, to make their calls.

"Fifty per cent of the cards now in the hands of solicitors have not been worked," Newberry said, "and it is vital to the success of our campaign that fund solicitors get out immediately and work these cards."

Newberry said if any solicitors find it impossible to make the calls, they should turn in their cards at fund headquarters and the cards will be assigned to someone else.

The fund chairman also asked citizens who have not been called on to telephone fund headquarters at MO 9-9522 and someone will be dispatched to pick up their contribution.

"Nearly 100 per cent of our large contributors already have been counted," Newberry said. "From here on out the success of the drive depends upon the contributions from individuals."

Firemen Ready For New Peril To Homes Area

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Toppanga Canyon fire flared out of control today and threatened to link up with the giant Bel Air-Brentwood blaze which was officially labeled "contained and controlled" only Tuesday night.

The blaze burst through fire lines within a half-mile of Pacific Palisades and aimed toward Rustic Canyon, pushed on by increasing winds. Rustic Canyon had served as a buffer between the Toppanga and Bel Air fires which already scorched 11,000 acres and gutted 250 homes.

The breakthrough did not endanger any additional homes. But more than 1,200 firemen were prepared to battle any new threat to the Palisades residential area.

The eruption sent all available forces to an area about one mile north of Pacific Palisades. Firemen said they thought the line could be held. It depended on the winds which shifted several times throughout the night.

Residents were packed and ready to move on a moment's notice in case evacuation was necessary. Homeowners could be seen in the streets—waiting for official word.

Not long before the Toppanga fire broke through, city duty fire chief Charlie Rossie announced that the Bel Air-Brentwood fire had been contained and controlled.

At one point Tuesday 3,000 firemen, tons of heavy equipment and low flying bombers dropping chemicals fought desperately to keep the two giant fires from joining. If that had happened the community of Pacific Palisades and the populated beach area might have been lost, one spokesman said.

But a dramatic shift of winds and spectacular successes by the chemical loaded bombers prevented further holocaust.

The flames—burned within about one mile of each other. The Toppanga Canyon blaze was halted within a mile of the ocean.

Residents of the area and more than 200 students from schools in Pacific Palisades were removed. Hundreds of Navy and Army firefighters joined the massive Los Angeles County and city effort to prevent the fires from joining force.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown declared Los Angeles County a disaster area.

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk recommended that President Kennedy be asked to declare Los Angeles a federal disaster area. But he said there was no need to ask the state militia be activated to help fight the blazes.

Bank Robberies Subject Of FBI Parley In Pampa

Some 300 law enforcement officers and bank officials from over the Panhandle were in attendance today at an FBI law enforcement conference held in the Community Building at Recreation Park.

Theme of the conference, arranged and directed by Curtis O. Lynum, special agent in charge of the Dallas FBI district, was "Bank Robbery and Incidental Crimes."

FBI, police and sheriff's officials led quarter-hour discussions which started at 9:30 a.m. following registration of visitors and guests.

Various phases of bank robbery and crime detection were discussed in forum sessions, followed by question and answer sessions.

Attending and taking part in the program from the Dallas FBI office, in addition to Lynum, were Special Agents James W. Bookhout, Manning C. Clements, and Emmett J. Murphy.

H. Barefoot Sanders, U. S. Attorney for the North Texas District, Dallas, scheduled to speak at the session, was called back to Dallas yesterday from Abilene and unable to come to Pampa today.

The conference was followed this noon by a barbecue. Co-hosts for the Pampa conference were Sheriff Rufe Jordan, Police Chief Jim Conner and officials of the First National Bank and Citizens Bank and Trust Co.

Others taking part in the day's program included Mayor E. C. Sidwell, W. M. Henslee, Texas Ranger, both of Pampa; Captain Raymond D. Waters, Texas Ranger, Lubbock; Wiley Alexander, Chief of Police, Amarillo; M. N. Koonsman, National Automobile Theft Bureau, Abilene; and Major Harvey Hutchison, Texas Department of Public Safety, Lubbock.

Lynum said that crimes of robbery, burglary and larceny against banks and banking-type institutions throughout the country increased by 142 in the fiscal year 1961 over the fiscal year 1960. He explained that the FBI's increased jurisdiction to include Federal credit unions, of which there are approximately 10,000 has been one of the factors contributing to the larger total of violations investigated by the FBI. Continuing, he declared:

"Because of the increase in violations of the Federal Bank Robbery and Incidental Crimes Statute and the problem that this poses to the country, there must be a continuous, unrelenting, organized fight to check this trend. The public, the victimized institutions, and all law enforcement agencies have a hand in this fight."

"Only coordinated effort will help conquer the problem, and law enforcement agencies must be sufficiently staffed and adequately equipped so that they may effectively participate in this all-out, cooperative campaign to combat depredations against financial institutions."

"Only by making the entire populace aware of the problem and convincing those persons who may consider committing the crime that there is no profit therein, can we expect to reverse this dangerous trend."

Members of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Ordnance Association will tour the Cabot Corp. ordnance plant as part of their Fall meeting in Pampa Thursday night.

Rue S. Hestand, chief engineer at the plant and vice president of the association, said today the tour will begin at 6 p.m. tomorrow, followed by a social hour and dinner meeting at the Coronado Inn at 7 p.m.

Rep. Walter Rogers has accepted an invitation to attend, Hestand said.

Association members from Amarillo, Borger, Panhandle, Pampa and the surrounding area will attend along with local officials among the invited guests. I. B. Akst, Pampa, is president of the association.

Shortly after the angry matron telephoned registrar of voters Charles Rogers and explained, "I am fatigued today — and my maid is an obedient girl."

Eleven Missing As Ships Crash In Houston Canal

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—A Norwegian tanker and a Chinese Nationalist freighter with a total of 98 persons on board collided head on in Houston ship channel late Tuesday night. They both caught fire and ran aground.

A series of muffled explosions also shook the Chinese vessel, SS Union Reliance. The fire gutted her. Tugs freed the Norwegian steamer, the 9003-ton Berean, from the ground early today and a fire in one hold was put out. Damage was not believed heavy.

Eleven persons—10 crewmen from the Union Reliance and Dave O. Duncan of Houston, her pilot—were missing. Twenty-five persons were injured, including three critically. They also were from the Chinese vessel None was reported killed or injured on the Berean.

Capt. L. G. Haverland, Coast Guard commander at nearby Galveston, Tex., said one death was confirmed. He said one and perhaps two bodies were still on the Union Reliance.

Fifty-one crewmen and pilot Duncan were on the Union Reliance, outbound with a cargo of lumber and general cargo. She was about 100 feet long; her tonnage was not immediately determined.

The Berean, with 46 persons on board, including a German couple traveling as passengers, was inbound. The crew also included two Britons, two Danes, one Finn and one Spaniard. She was at least partly loaded with fuel oil, chemicals and animal fats.

The vessels collided in the 300-foot wide channel, just below Morgan's Point, about 25 miles south of Houston. They were aground on opposite sides of the channel.

Capt. Sven Larsen of Copenhagen, Denmark, had his wife.

City's Employees Plan Yule Fete

The annual Christmas party for City Hall employees has been set for Thursday, Dec. 21, it was announced today by City Manager John Koozt.

Some 300 employees and their families will be guests at the dinner party and Santa Claus will be there to distribute gifts to the children.

The city manager said program details have not been completed and the place for the party has not been decided upon definitely.

Chilly Weekend Weather Slated

By United Press International
Cool, crisp temperatures and generally fair skies were forecast for Texas today.

The only exception to the statewide outlook was in Southwest and extreme Southwest Texas, where cloudy to partly cloudy skies and a few showers were expected.

Overnight lows early today ranged from a chilly 21 degrees at Dalhart to 53 at Galveston. The only rainfall during the 24-hour period that ended at 6 a.m. was .48 of an inch at El Paso.

Cold temperatures that have covered Texas all this week are expected to continue at least through the weekend.

High temperatures Tuesday varied from 46 degrees at El Paso to a top of 71 at Corpus Christi. The only measurable rainfall Tuesday was .04 of an inch at El Paso.

The wintry weather that covers the state had one good point—it helped prevent tropical storm Inga from becoming a hurricane. Inga was gradually dissipating today. Cool air moving into the Gulf of Mexico from Texas collided with the storm and weakened it.

Texas Baptists Vote To Spurn U.S. Assistance

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Baptist General Convention of Texas voted today to reject all federal aid to church institutions because "religious liberty is far too precious a prize to be sacrificed on the altar of easy money."

The policy stand on separation of church and state was approved at the 76th annual session by representatives of 1.62 million Texas Baptists.

The ruling, first approved this spring by the group's 192-member executive committee, prohibits acceptance of federal aid by the nine schools, eight benevolent homes and eight hospitals as well as all 3,861 churches belonging to the convention.

Today's vote climaxed a three-year study on what Texas Baptists should do about federal grants and loans. Only the Baptist churches of Virginia now refuse to accept any such funds.

The 6,000 messengers at the current three-day meeting were told by executive secretary T. A. Patterson of Dallas that they were obligated spiritually and morally as well as constitutionally toward separation of church and state.

The report adopted by the convention declared "unequivocal opposition to all direct aid, money, or property to church, schools, colleges, and other church institutions, whether they be Protestant, Roman Catholic, or Jewish."

"We believe that any direct assistance to any sectarian institution involves taxation for religious teaching," the report said.

It also opposed any loans from American Barbed wire $8.88 roll. White House Lumber Co. (Adv.)

Rancher Accused Of Keeping His Mother Captive

EUREKA, Calif. (UPI) — A prominent northern California rancher was arrested by sheriff's deputies Tuesday for keeping his 73-year-old mother locked in a filthy shack without heat or sanitation facilities for the past year.

The Humboldt County sheriff's office said Isaac Moxon Jr., 35, gave no explanation for his action. He was arrested under a section of the penal code that makes it a misdemeanor to fail to provide for one's parents and released on $525 bail.

Deputies said an investigation of a report disclosed that Mrs. Alice Moxon was living in a shack across the road from where Moxon and Isaac Moxon Sr. lived in a comfortable home.

Mrs. Moxon said she was brought mush every morning, a sandwich at noon and a meal at night from the family home across the road.

"I knew some day someone would come and help me," she said to deputies. "Please don't let them take me back to that house."

Anti-Communism Course Proposed

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — The Wisconsin General Assembly today considered a bill requiring all state high schools to teach a course called "Americanism vs. Communism." The course would emphasize the "dangers of communism, the ways to fight communism, the evils of communism, the fallacies of communism and the false doctrines of communism."

Red China Lauds Albania Despite Soviet Dictator

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China bluntly informed the Soviet Union today that Peiping would defend the Stalinist leadership of Albania against any Soviet attacks.

Peiping Radio said Red China's all-powerful Central Committee, headed by Mao Tse-tung issued a statement highly praising the leadership of Albanian party leader Enver Hoxha.

In a speech in Moscow three weeks ago, Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced Hoxha's Stalinist ways as contrary to the ways of Marx and Lenin.

Peiping Radio said the statement was issued to commemorate the anniversary of the Albanian "Labor" (Communist) party.

But it went far beyond any ordinary message of this type, in obvious defiance of Khrushchev, although it did not mention him.

"The comradeship-in-arms of the Chinese and Albanian people and their close unity can be shaken by no force on earth," the statement proclaimed.

"Let us shout: Long live the glorious Labor party of Albania! Long live the eternal, unbreakable friendship!"

An unusual and rather oddly worded Peiping broadcast indicated that 30 countries besides China refrained from joining in Khrushchev's attack on Albania during the recent Communist party congress in Moscow.

Some of this support was made evident in Hanoi today where the Central Committee of the North Viet Nam Communist party also praised the "brilliant successes" of the Albanian leaders.

Reds Seek To Halt Peeking Across Berlin Border

BERLIN (UPI)—In a move to seal off East Berlin from the Western sector completely, the Communists have erected cardboard screens at strategic points to prevent persons on either side of the border from waving or signaling to each other.

When the East German Communists closed the East-West Berlin city border Aug. 13, they set up barbed wire barricades and started building a wall along the dividing line. When refugees still managed to escape to the West, they sealed up the windows of apartment houses which faced West Berlin.

Besides isolating East Berlin even further, the screens also serve to prevent Western photographers from taking pictures with their telephoto lenses of East Germans on the other side of the wall.

U.S. officials in Berlin deplored the East Germans' latest attempt to transform the East-West border into a state frontier. But they said the presence of Soviet tanks and troops in East Berlin and the Russians' control of the Autobahn between West Germany and West Berlin were positive points in favor of the West.

A high diplomatic source said Tuesday that the Russians have been forced to admit that they—rather than the East Germans—are responsible for dealing with the Western Allies in Berlin.

Press And 'City Hall' Should Work As Team, Pampa Officials Hear

City commission members and city officials were told by Mayor E. C. Sidwell at Tuesday's meeting of the City Commission that he thought there could be better communication between City Hall and the Press in the matter of keeping the public informed on the operation of city government.

The mayor said he was bringing the matter up because of a speech he heard at last week's Municipal League Conference in San Antonio.

Reading from a copy of the speech by Charles Guy, executive editor of The Lubbock Avalanche Journal, the mayor commented that he endorsed many of the opinions expressed by the speaker.

He read part of the following from Guy's speech:

"I want to talk with you on the subject: A Progressive City's Most Valuable Asset, or City Hall and the Press as a Team.

"Believe it or not, in Lubbock, City Hall and the Press do work as a team, and we find it good. We find it good for City Hall, good for the newspaper and, much more important than either of these, good for the people of our city. For the past 30 years this team work has enabled our city to keep up with one of its most constant and amazing growths and expansions without a hitch — and, more strikingly, without bankrupting the public treasury.

"Now the fact that we have this team work, doesn't mean that the two parts of the team are in constant agreement, or when disagreement arises, are afraid to voice it. We do disagree, and publicly, from time to time which, as you know, is a healthy thing. Yet, even as we disagree, we stick to the issues, with no personalities or peanut politics involved and no effort to sell newspapers based upon emotional, if not exactly fair or true, sensationalism. There is no kowtowing on either side but, instead, there is serious study of any and all programs and issues involved.

"As a result, we have been able to set up and continue a policy of making service at City Hall a civic, rather than a political matter, which beyond question is the greatest asset a community has.

"The lines of communication between City Hall and the newspaper are always open and constantly in use.

"This kind of team work enables people of all levels to be fully informed on what their elected leaders are doing and why. It further enables our city officials to do the best job they can with the least amount of interference and opposition.

"And this room is filled with men who know, or should know, that interference and opposition come more from misunderstanding and lack of information than from any other source.

"I think we would have a better State and a better Nation if there were more teamwork between newspapers and City Hall — if the two would work more closely in the common weal — then often is the case.

"I submit that in every city, it would be good to realize and admit that just as all knowledge and wisdom does not rest in City Hall, neither does it rest in the Editor's Ivory Tower."

In concluding his talk, Editor Guy said:

"On our side of the fence, I think there is need for realization that most Texas city officials are more interested in doing a good job for their fellow citizens than they are in personal glory or political gain; and, from your side of the fence, I recommend more understanding that most Texas editors are more greatly desirous of a well-governed city than they are in an occasional sensational headline, or in the opportunity to editorially boast 'we' threw the rascals out."

Mayor Sidwell, in commenting on Editor's Guy's speech, said he thought it was one of the best on the subject he had ever heard. He said he was bringing it up before the commission meeting for what it was worth to them.

Ohio produces 22 million pounds of tobacco annually, ranking 10th among states of the Union in this respect.

Ecuadorian Rule Seized By Army; President Named

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Official broadcasts from Ecuador indicated early today that the armed forces have seized control of that strike-torn country and made Chief Justice Camilo Gallegos Toledo its president.

An armed forces committee promised elections within 90 days for a constitutional convention to "reestablish juridical order" in Ecuador.

The official radio announced that Jose M. Velasco Ibarra had "ceased to be president." It said "chaotic" conditions made it impossible to install extreme-leftist Vice President Carlos J. Arosemena as his successor.

The official announcements took no notice of the report broadcast by a private, protestant-operated Ecuadorian network saying Arosemena had proclaimed himself president at a special session of congress.

The private network went off the air soon after broadcasting the Arosemena announcement, but it was not clear whether it had been forced to shut down.

Two Killers Face Death Sentences

RUSSELL, Kan. (UPI)—Two teen-age soldiers today faced death on the gallows for the murder of a 62-year-old Kansas railroad man, the sixth of their seven victims in a killing spree which stretched more than halfway across the nation.

An all-male district court jury decreed the death sentence Tuesday for George Ronald York, 18, Jacksonville, Fla., and James Douglas Latham, 19, Mauriceville, Tex. They were convicted of the first degree murder of Otto Ziegler of Oakley, who was shot to death and robbed of $51 along a lonely highway in western Kansas.

Judge Benedict P. Cruise withheld formal sentencing until he hears a motion for a new trial Nov. 17.

AMARILLO (SpI) — The Board of Directors of Pioneer Natural Gas Company, at a meeting held Tuesday, declared a quarterly dividend of 24 cents per share on the outstanding common stock, payable Dec. 5, to stockholders of record on November 24, 1961.

C. I. Wall, President, stated that the net income for the first nine months of 1961 amounted to $3,692,653, or $1.06 per share on 3,474,499 shares outstanding on September 30, 1961. These earnings compare with $3,371,240 for the first nine months of 1960, or $1.00 per share on 3,371,204 shares outstanding on September 30, 1960.

The nine months report to the stockholders will be mailed about Nov. 14.

Kennedy, Nehru Continue Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru were expected to shift their global policy talks today to the United Nations' problems and future.

Involved were such sources of U.S.-Indian friction as the long fight over U. N. admission of Communist China and Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon's stand during the U. N. secretariat crisis.

A high administration official described Krishna Menon's short-lived proposal to rotate the secretary general's job among three men as "worse than the Soviet troika plan—possibly the surest way to destroy the United Nations' effectiveness."

Krishna Menon withdrew the proposal, apparently on orders from Nehru.

India has been equally irritated by the American tendency to suspect pro-Soviet motives in any Indian proposal at the United Nations that clashes with the U. S. or Western position.

Both U. S. and Indian officials said they expected Kennedy and Nehru to agree on the necessity of maintaining the United Nations and its capacity to act, such as in the Congo and Middle East.

Today's White House meeting was an extra, third session in the four-day series of talks Kennedy and Nehru will meet Thursday afternoon before issuing their final communique.

Sources close to the talks said they doubted that either man had persuaded the other to make any significant changes in his policies or approach to major world issues.

Letors Band Sweetheart Gets Crown

LEFORS (SpI) — Barbara Smiley, senior student, was recently crowned Sweetheart of the Letors Pirate Band at the half-time performance on Shaw Field, November 3.

Attendees were Wilma Earles Freshman, and Sue Stubblefield, eighth grader.

Miss Smiley and attendants witnessed the band march down the field. They were then escorted to the center of the field. Don Elliott, Band President, escorted Miss Smiley and crowned her with a band of gold adorned with a black chenille Lyre, and decorated with three pom-poms beneath it. He too, presented her with a heart drop necklace with her name and "Band '61," engraved on it.

Wilma Earles was escorted by Johnny Warner, and Sue Stubblefield by Mike Allison. The attendants were presented Mum corsages.

public funds by religious organization "for the construction of church schools, church college buildings, hospitals and other church institutional buildings, or for any other purpose under any circumstance."

In all, the executive committee made recommendations on 10 areas of conflict of government policy with church stands. The report said the church institutions should continue to accept government research grants, use second-class postal privileges, take advantage of tax exemptions, participate in medical care programs and furnish military chaplains.

The convention heard Gov. Price Daniel speak out Tuesday for separation of church and state, but no "separation between church and statesmen."

Daniel said in welcoming remarks to the convention that both pastors and laymen should join lawmakers and help them "fight for stronger laws with which to combat crime and obtain better law enforcement."

Dear Abby... Snappy Answer Would Only Bounce Back

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How can you tell well-meaning friends to mind their own business? I am a single woman (not a "old maid" or a "spinster" thank you just an unmarried woman). I have been keeping steady company with the same man for four years. He sees only me, and I go with him exclusively.

I suggest you take your son to a doctor, however. He appears to need some professional help in breaking the habit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO RENE: The only successful substitute for brains is silence.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding, send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

I am very tired of having people ask me when we are getting married. The sad truth is that we are NEVER getting married because his wife is in an institution for the incurably ill. Can you give me a snappy answer that will shut everybody up?

DEAR OVER: Tell them you have no plans for marriage in the immediate future. Why do you want a "snappy" answer? It would only bounce back.

DEAR ABBY: After our family has eaten in a restaurant, my husband scrapes everybody's dishes and stacks them one on top of the other. He used to work in a restaurant and says he is just helping the waitress. I don't mind so much when he does this in a noisy hash-house type eating place, but when he does it at a quiet high-class restaurant, I am embarrassed. He seems to think it is all right. I would like to know what you think.

DEAR MRS. E. S.: Your husband should restrain his urge to "help the waitress." Dishes should not be scraped and stacked at the table—in a noisy hash-house or in a "high-class restaurant"—but your man means well.

DEAR ABBY: Our 15-year-old son has the habit of smoking so bad that nothing can stop him. We have punished him and even taken away his allowance, but he manages to get cigarettes somewhere. He smokes so heavily he has yellow stains on his fingers, and he smells like a smokestack. Have you any suggestions? It kills me to see a young boy craving a cigarette so bad he can't sit still. Neither his father nor I smoke.

DEAR MOTHER: If your son does not WANT to stop smoking, there is little you can do about it.

20-30 Club Has New Officers

Installed were Mmes. J. M. McPherson, president; H. C. Dunn, vice president; M. R. Dickerson, secretary; B. J. Cox, treasurer; and E. L. Foshee, reporter.

Miss Marlene Cates played background music for the service.

A gift of appreciation was presented by Mrs. McPherson to Mrs. Sims for her service as president.

Civil Defense Topic For Club

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

United Press International
The executive problems of the United Nations appear to have been solved with the appointment of U Thant of Burma as acting secretary general, with Russia joining in the unanimous vote.

But don't bet on it.
Russia's decision to join the parade behind Thant does not mean it has given up its plan to institute a troika system of secretaries general, which would ruin the United Nations. Nor does it mean that the Soviet Union will not do everything possible to keep the temporary incumbent of the U.N.'s 38th floor as hamstrung as possible against any initiative of his own.

The Russians boycotted the late Dag Hammarskjold because of his independence of action—independence, that is, from Kremlin policies.

When Hammarskjold died in an African plane crash in September, the United States wanted to go to the veto-free General Assembly immediately to have his successor named.

With the true Irish sentiment, Assembly President Frederick H. Boland insisted that the opening day's consecration to Hammarskjold's memory should not be marred. By the second day, India was insisting that the Security Council must recommend a successor to Hammarskjold before the assembly could elect him.

The United States elected to leave the initiative then to a group of small powers, which got no place in several weeks' negotiation.

It finally simmered down to bargaining talks between U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin. This behind-scenes work accounted for Stevenson's absence from several critical U. N. sessions, for which he was criticized.

Russia started out with insistence on a troika-like setup of three assistants to act in complete accord with Thant on any decisions, but finally agreed that Thant should be elected with no political strings attached.

But when, after he voted for the Security Council's recommendation of Thant last Friday, Zorin read the letter of notification he intended to send as president of the group, he included a reference to appointment of the Burmese as the chief U. N. "administrative officer."

Stevenson demurred. He said the top U. N. job was political, as well as administrative, Zorin subsided.

When he offered Russia's congratulations to Thant after his election by the General Assembly, Zorin renewed Russia's campaign for a troika on a permanent basis when Thant's interim term expires in April 1963.

More of the same can be anticipated.

Queen Expected To Bypass Ghana During Her Tour

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI) — Two more bomb explosions apparently set off by President Kwame Nkrumah's foes increased the possibility today that Britain would cancel Queen Elizabeth's visit to Ghana.

The latest two explosions occurred Monday night and the Queen is due to arrive here Thursday.

One went off harmlessly in a bush near the National Lottery Building but the second blew out a block of cement edging the flower near Kwame Nkrumah Circle just 50 yards from two giant portraits of the Queen and Nkrumah.

Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys flew in here Monday to check on whether it was reasonably safe for the Queen to go through with her visit.

FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE

SAN DIEGO'S FEARSOME FOURSOME!

... For Texas Steamroller

Bears Work On Defense

By United Press International
With four of their offensive sparks on the sidelines anyway, the Baylor Bears have turned their practice sessions this week into a defense cramming session in preparation for meeting top-rated Texas.

The Baylor defense hasn't been able to contain anybody's offense since a 31-0 blanking of weak Wake Forest in the season opener, so Coach John Bridgers is doubly respectful of a Texas attack which leads the nation in rushing and total offense.

Quarterback Bobby Ply, half-backs Ronnie Bull and Ronnie Goodwin and soph fullback Dalton Hoffman all watched Tuesday's Waco drill sessions from the sidelines as every phase of defense came in for major attention.

Indicative, however, of the fiery anticipation with which the Bears eye Saturday's approaching battle and a chance to spoil the Longhorns' No. 1 national ranking was the fact that guard Herby Adkins insisted on donning pads for a full portion of the workout. Adkins has been on the injured list, too.

Bull likely was the only one of the four backs who might get back into harness for today's Baylor practice.

At Austin, Coach Darrell Royal spent the time polishing the Texas attack, which found itself throttled in the first half against Southern Methodist last week, the first time this season the Longhorns failed to stampee early.

There was no contact work and Royal said the injury situation looked brighter with only starting fullback Ray Poage apparently due to miss the crucial Baylor tilt. Reserve end Tommy York, out since the Arkansas game with a broken hand, is due for service.

Rice casualty reports continued to be gloomy about center Dan Malin, out with a knee injury since the season opener, and tackle John Cornett, who hurt a leg against SMU three weeks ago. Neither is expected to be ready for the second-place showdown against Arkansas at Houston this Saturday.

The situation was much better at Fayetteville, where Coach Frank Broyles reported everyone in pads for the first time in at least three weeks. Starting end Tim Langston remained a possible longwarmer with a sore knee. Broyles expressed some displeasure with his defense in Tuesday's sessions.

A casualty developed among the Texas Aggie starters as they worked for Saturday's game with SMU at College Station. Tackle George Hogan suffered some torn foot ligaments. Joe Eilers moved up to plug the spot in case Hogan fails to respond.

Halfback Billy Gannon, end Rene Medellin and place-kicker John Richey remained on the doubtful list at SMU in the wake of the good, but losing, showing against Texas. Defense was the order of the day in Mustang drills.

TCU was due to wind up rough work today in preparation for the Frogs' Friday night date in Los Angeles with UCLA, while Texas Tech worked on its passing and kicking games getting ready for Saturday's intercollegiate clash with Boston College at Lubbock.

Two Share UPI Grid Laurels

NEW YORK (UPI)—One was facing the No. 1 team in the country and the other was facing the No. 2 team, and each found himself a one-touchdown underdog.

But both men guided their teams to stunning upset victories and that's why, for the first time in history, United Press International "Coach of the Week" honors in college football were divided today between two men.

So-hail to Murray Warmath of Minnesota, whose Golden Gophers handed top-ranked Michigan State a 13-0 beating, and hail to Paul Dietzel of Louisiana State, whose Bayou Bengals followed suit a few hours later by whipping second-ranked Mississippi, 10-7, under the lights.

Each week the 35 famous coaches who make up the UPI football ratings board nominate one coach as the man who did the top job on the preceding Saturday. But this week Warmath and Dietzel received exactly the same number of votes.

But then the pattern has been the same almost all season for Minnesota and Louisiana State. Both were highly touted at the beginning of the year. Each lost its opening game, but Minnesota now has come storming back to win five in a row and Louisiana State has won six in a row. Minnesota has pulled up to the No. 5 slot in the national UPI rankings and Louisiana State has topped that by going to No. 4.

Warmath and Dietzel agreed without hesitation that squad enthusiasm was the main factor in their upset triumphs.

Pampa Plays Plainview Friday

Albany Tops 14 Class A Champions

By United Press International

Eighteen playoff berths remain to be settled this final weekend of the Class A state schoolboy football race with 11 of them hanging in the balance in showdown games Friday night.

The other seven have potential ties in the making, although in most cases the district favorite could wrap things up by winning.

The showdown contests in which the winner bounds into the playoffs include Lefors at McLean in District 2, Midlothian at Burleson in 12, Honey Grove at Pilot Point in 13, Talco at Mount Vernon in 15, Hawkins at Overton in 16, Gaston at New London in 18, Groesbeck at Franklin in 21, Connally at Waco Midway in 22, Louise at Hitchcock in 28, George West at Three Rivers in 30 and Bloomington at Woodsboro in 31. They will join the 14 clubs which already have assured themselves playoff spots—Gruber in 1, Kress in 3, Idalou in 4, Seagraves in 5, Rotan in 6, Wink in 7, Mason in 9, Albany in 10, Crowell in 11, Forney in 14, Brownboro in 17, Groveton in 20, Bandera in 29 and Rio Hondo in 32.

In District 8, Sonora must beat Big-Lake or leave a three-way tie involving Eldorado; in 19, San Augustine must trim Timpon or create a triple tie involving Garrison; in 25, Hull-Daisetta must down Warren or leave both tied with Anahuac, and in 26, Crosby must defeat Tarkington or leave both tied with Barbers Hill. In triple ties, district committees will have to decide before midnight Saturday.

Three way ties already exist in 23 between Rosebud, Rogers and Thorndale and in 27 between Sealy, Eagle Lake and Waller. Thorndale, which has beaten both Rosebud and Rogers, can gain the playoff spot by beating Granger. A Thorndale loss would give it to the Rosebud-Rogers winner Friday night.

Sealy and Eagle Lake play each other in 27, while Waller plays East Bernard. Waller has beaten Eagle Lake, but lost to Sealy and those results would determine the playoff team, if Waller beats East Bernard.

In District 24, Shiner leads the district and can sew it up by beating weak Del-Valle. But, if Shiner loses, then either Smithville or Weimar, who tied each other, will be the playoff team.

Cincinnati Royals Roll Past New York 123-96

By United Press International

The Cincinnati Royals have bounced up from a poor start because of Coach Charlie Wolfe's novel belief that defense can still be an important phase of the game in the National Basketball Association.

"Our goal in each game from now on is hold our rivals to 25 points a period no matter how many we score," said Wolfe last week after the Royals lost four of their first six starts. "If we do that we're gonna win some games."

AFL To Hold 1st Draft Once More

DALLAS (UPI)—The American Football League will again rival the rival National Football League to the punch in staging its draft of college football players.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss announced Tuesday night the two-year-old pro circuit would hold its entire 30-round draft here Saturday, Dec. 2—two days before the established NFL stages its draft in Chicago.

Dumas Reaches Second In AAA

By United Press International

Gainesville replaced Brownwood as Class AAA's No. 1 team as both AAA and AAAA underwent considerable reshuffling in this week's United Press International Coaches Board schoolboy football ratings.

Wichita Falls still ranked No. 1 in Class AAAA, but Corpus Christi Ray replaced San Angelo as the No. 2 team. Fort Worth Paschal moved up a notch to fourth. Galena Park jumped four places into a tie with San Antonio Jefferson for fifth, Corpus Christi Miller skidded from fourth to seventh, Yuleta remained No. 8, Spring Branch climbed into ninth from 11th and Odessa Permian edged back in at the No. 10 spot.

Brownwood's upset tie game with Breckenridge, with the latter holding a 1-0 edge in penetrations for state playoff purposes, left the coaches with a wide variety of choices for the No. 1 spot vacated by the Lions.

Five teams got first-place votes with Brownwood, San Benito and Gainesville getting four each, Dumas three and Breckenridge one.

There was little to choose between Gainesville's top-ranked 122 points and the 118 polled by Dumas and San Benito as those two clubs deadlocked for second place. Brownwood's 107 kept it as high as fourth.

Fourth-ranked Carthage and ninth-rated Silsbee, suffering their first defeats of the season at the hands of Kilgore and Conroe, dropped out of the top 10 to make room for Breckenridge, which wound up seventh, and Nederland, which ended in a tie for 10th with Angleton.

Belton edged Cleburne for fifth place by one point although Cleburne won their tie game on penetrations last week. Bay City remained in eighth and Seminole edged up to ninth.

Bulldogs Could Spring Upset

The Pampa Harvesters were looking down south today toward Plainview with a weary eye out for their second conquest of the season Friday night.

Pampa and Plainview's Bulldogs have been the "softies" in the past several seasons. But the Harvesters changed things a little bit when they pulled one of the conference's top upset in history by beating Amarillo 15-14 and played highpowered Palo Duro a credible performance.

And the Harvesters will be searching for their second win of the season Friday. A Pampa triumph coupled with an Amarillo victory over Lubbock would throw these clubs into a three way tie for fifth place.

Plainview hasn't won a game since it nipped the Harvesters 13-6 last year for their lone victory while Pampa had a winless season. In 1959, the locals scratched out a 9-7 triumph on a last minute field goal by Lucky Dunham.

Harvester coach Weldon Trice said Tuesday. "This is the game they (Plainview) have been waiting for all season. They figure we are the only team they can beat and they would like nothing better than to beat us because my relatives and Eural Ramsey's relatives are from Plainview."

The Harvesters had backfield drills Tuesday. Most of the afternoon was spent with the backs in blocking, defense and running plays.

Pampa came out of the Lubbock game in good physical condition and Trice expects to have everyone ready to go against Plainview.

Pampa's defense began to look like one big hole again last Friday against Lubbock. The Westerners rushed for 489 yards and passed for 76, more in rolling to a 33-12 victory.

Only a pair of long runs by Ralph Palmer on a kickoff return and Mike Stewart with an intercepted pass kept the Harvesters in the game through the first three periods.

But Lubbock controlled the ball and the game. The Harvesters ran just eight plays in the last half and only 28 in the entire contest while the Westerners ran 69 plays from scrimmage.

Inside The Huddle
By Joe Lee Smith

The Texas Longhorns are the top college football team in the nation today — a position they should have held since the third week of the season.

But with so many Midwest sportswriters, it is almost virtually impossible for a team from another area to make top ratings.

In a way, we hated to see Ole Miss get beat, but if that's what it took for the Longhorns to get their deserved rating, we're glad it happened.

We feel like Ole Miss should have been the national champions in 1959 and 1960 but with the backing of Midwest and Eastern writers, the honors went to Syracuse and Minnesota respectively.

Of course, every team left on the Texas schedule will be gunning for the Steers now that they are number 1. But Texas can bring prestige to the Southwest Conference brand of football if they can finish the season undefeated.

Here is something to think about. Rice beat LSU 16-0 and the Tigers in turn upset Mississippi 10-7. Texas pounded the Owls 34-7.

LSU is ranked fourth nationally. Missouri blanked Minnesota 6-0 only to have the Gophers stop top-ranked Michigan State 13-0 and Missouri to lose to Colorado 7-6.

Yet Minnesota is rated fifth, Michigan State seventh and Colorado ninth.

Ohio State, the nation's third place team, was tied by TCU, a 28-3 loser to Arkansas, who lost to Texas 33-7.

You explain it to us.

Coach Norman Phillips' Pampa Shockers hit the road Thursday to play the Lubbock Monterey "B" team in the final game of the season at Lubbock at 4 p.m.

The Shockers will carry a 2-6-1 season record into the fray as against Monterey. Pampa dropped a 20-3 decision last Saturday to the Amarillo Yannigans.

Pampa's two wins have been over Plainview 28-12 and Tascosa 18-12. The Shockers have been defeated by Gruber, the top class A team in the Panhandle area, 46-0; Phillips 32-0; Borger 48-12; Lubbock and Palo Duro 30-22.

Fullback Curtis Fletcher racked up the Shocker's lone score against Amarillo on a 24-yard scamper in the third period. Tackle Gerald Rasco booted the extra point — the first of the season by the locals.

Monterey was beaten 28-6 by the Yannigans earlier in the campaign.

Coach Terry Culley was pleased with the Harvesters' cage scrimmage last Thursday with Clarendon although he said they "need to iron out a few problems."

Culley takes the Harvesters to Clarendon Thursday for another scrimmage at 4 p.m. Then Pampa goes to Canyon Nov. 18 to hold a practice session with the West Texas State freshmen squad.

Economists See Signs Of Rosy Business Period

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Record buying of new automobiles in the last 11 days of October was hailed by administration economists today as one sign that the business outlook is still rosy.

They also pointed to indications that firms may be stepping up spending for factory modernization and expansion—an important clue to overall business trends.

Although avoiding any flat predictions, some officials also said that apart from international tensions conditions were favorable for a long-awaited surge in consumer buying to start.

Other developments which have tended to dissipate the mild concern in the administration over the September lull in business activity were:

—Good readings for department store sales, which have been above year-ago marks for the past few weeks.

—Strength in the stock market, which suggests to some government experts that hesitancy in the business community is evaporating.

—A 7 per cent jump in engineering construction contracts awarded for 1962.

—A moderate increase in the rate of rise in electric power production. This suggests a pickup in industrial activity.

“All of this is fragmentary but still a good bit of evidence the lull is over,” said Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy’s Council of Economic Advisors.

Reds Seek To Destroy U.S., Kiwanians Told

An appeal to Pampans to alert themselves to the encroachments of communism and socialistic trends in government was sounded last night by Gris Rogers, area engineer for Pan American Petroleum Corp., as he addressed members and guests at a meeting of the Top O’ Texas Kiwanis Club in Coronado Inn.

Rogers called on Americans everywhere to come to the realization that the Communists are out to destroy this country.

“The enemy is relentlessly advancing,” he said, and the time for action is now. It must be action by individuals — by you and me.

“Too many of us say — I’ve got a business to take care of. I don’t have time for that kind of thing. Let me say this: you don’t have time to not have time.”

Rogers reviewed the history of communism and its inroads down through the years. He read the predictions made by Lenin in 1928 on what progress the Communists would make by taking Eastern Europe, China and the last bastion would be the United States.

“They have completed three-fourths of that program,” Rogers said, “and now stand at our back door in Cuba. They’re headed our way — and unless we arise and recognize the immediate threat to our freedom it is possible that Khrushchev’s prediction that he will take us over in 14 or 15 years may come true.”

The speaker told his audience that it is the duty of everyone to become concerned, study communism and its aims, study our own government and its trends and to write or call his congressman when he sees something that isn’t right for America.

The two greatest allies of communism, Rogers said, are socialism and apathy.

“Practically all of us are guilty of apathy,” he said, “I wish I had done something about it 15 years ago when those smarter than I were trying to warn me.

“It is time for all of us to decide whose side we are on. It is time for individual action.”

Members of the Top O’ Texas Kiwanis Club voted last night to send an inter-club delegation to the Tascosa Kiwanis Club Ladies Night meeting in Amarillo Monday, Nov. 13.

Guests of the club last night included John Holloway, Red Weatherred, Ben Ogden, Joe Gordon, Walter Ellis and Tex DeWeese.

House Of Krupp In Ruhr Marks Birthday Soon

By TOM A. CULLEN
ESSEN, West Germany (NEA)

—The House of Krupp is trying hard to live down its past. West Germany’s biggest industrial empire celebrates its 150th birthday here in the heart of the Ruhr Nov. 21 but there will be no fanfares.

Krupp policy these days is to shun publicity. Instead the 110,000 workers employed in Krupp plants all over West Germany will be given the day off and there will be a small works meeting here in Essen addressed by Alfred Krupp, 54-year-old boss of this steel and coal empire (full name Alfred Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach).

The House of Krupp would just as soon forget some of the milestones in its 150-year history. During most of this time it has been linked with guns and Prussian militarism.

Starting with the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, Krupp has served as Germany’s arsenal in every conflict in which this nation has been involved, including both world wars.

The House of Krupp also bears a heavy responsibility for strangling the Weimar republic and helping Adolf Hitler come to power.

Small wonder that a small army of public relations men has been hired in an effort to remove some of the curse from Krupp.

“Operation Eau de Cologne,” the publicity campaign is known as here.

But what sort of image does Krupp present today? The image has two aspects.

The first is that of a phoenix-like recovery from the ashes of war.

Just 16 years after Hitler committed suicide in his Berlin bunker, the Krupp empire is mightier than ever.

Its Rheinhausen iron and steel works are the largest in Western Europe. After looking over the Krupp plants in the Ruhr valley, one begins to understand what the Germans mean when they speak of their national recovery as the “Miracle Workshop.”

The second aspect is that this vast industrial complex is now working for peaceful purposes.

You won’t find a single weapon being produced by Krupp today.

“Never again,” Alfred Krupp swore when he was released from Landsberg prison in 1951, meaning that never again would the House of Krupp get into the war business.

Alfred Krupp had served less than three years of a 12-year sentence as a war criminal — he was convicted for employing slave labor — and he showed all the fervor of a pacifist convert.

As recently as April, 1958, he reminded Krupp employees, “We are striving for economic success exclusively through the production of peacetime goods.”

He has tasted that success, but still his critics are skeptical.

They point to Krupp’s dealings — double-dealing, some would say — with the Allied control commission after the war.

The Allies were determined to smash the Krupp empire, so that it could never be used again for war purposes. Therefore, they dismantled some of the steel plants, sized all of Krupp’s patents and foreign assets.

They also ordered Krupp to sell his coal mines and steel mills and gave him until 1958 to complete this transaction.

But 1958 rolled around without Krupp having disposed of a single one of his properties — nor does he intend to in the future. Some accuse Krupp of arrogance but everyone here agrees that the order to divest is now a dead letter.

In justification of Krupp, he pleads that he can find no buyers for such a vast coal and steel complex.

Meanwhile, as a personal contribution towards healing war wounds, Krupp has agreed to pay some $2 million to former Jewish inmates of concentration camps who worked in Krupp factories during the war.

In 1953, the Krupps gave their ancestral palace, Villa Hugel, with its priceless Rembrandts and Rubens to Essen as a museum.

Nuclear Testing Perils Admitted By Red Dictator

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev acknowledged yesterday that radioactive fallout from nuclear bomb tests harms world health. But he said Soviet testing is carried out for the sake of “world peace.”

He added that “the use of nuclear weapons in war is a million times more dangerous.”

Khrushchev made his remarks in a toast at the Kremlin reception marking the 44th anniversary of the Russian revolution. It followed a big military parade in Red Square.

This was the first time Khrushchev has publicly noted the world outcry of protest against fallout dangers caused by the explosion of at least 31 nuclear blasts since the Soviet Union resumed testing on Sept. 1. The tests include the biggest explosion ever set off by man—a massive nuclear blast more powerful than 50 million tons of TNT.

“There is talk of the harmful effects of experimental nuclear explosions on people’s health,” the official Tass news agency said. “Yes, it has been scientifically established that they are harmful to health.

“But the use of nuclear weapons in war is a million times more dangerous.

“We fully understand the feeling and aspiration of those people who wish to put an end to nuclear weapons tests. These correspond with our own feelings.”

He said the Soviet Union would welcome general disarmament which would include a universal ban on nuclear tests. But he blamed the West for resumption of Soviet testing by saying Western “war threats” had forced the action.

They also ordered Krupp to sell his coal mines and steel mills and gave him until 1958 to complete this transaction.

But 1958 rolled around without Krupp having disposed of a single one of his properties — nor does he intend to in the future. Some accuse Krupp of arrogance but everyone here agrees that the order to divest is now a dead letter.

In justification of Krupp, he pleads that he can find no buyers for such a vast coal and steel complex.

Meanwhile, as a personal contribution towards healing war wounds, Krupp has agreed to pay some $2 million to former Jewish inmates of concentration camps who worked in Krupp factories during the war.

In 1953, the Krupps gave their ancestral palace, Villa Hugel, with its priceless Rembrandts and Rubens to Essen as a museum.

Daniel Revives State Committee For Aging Folk

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Price Daniel revived his committee on aging and renamed State Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro to head its work with the White House Conference on Aging.

Daniel also named Mrs. Frances Allen, a governor’s staff member, as liaison worker between the committee and governmental agencies and with voluntary groups. Daniel said Mrs. Allen’s duties will be exclusively on the problem of the aged.

The entire membership of the 120-member group will be named later this month, Daniel said.

The committee’s duties will be to help local organizations in working out programs for the aging. It will also try to carry out the recommendations of the 1960 State Conference on Aging and the parts of the national conference’s program applicable to Texas. The group will report to Daniel and the legislature on proposed state action to help meet the needs of Texas’ older citizens.

Commie China Faces Severe Food Problem

By JOHN STROHM
 MACAO (NEA) — There have been charges that Red China's government wanted to starve off millions of her people so that there would be fewer mouths to feed. But this year Peiping already has spent $300 million of its shrunken treasury to buy about 5.7 million tons of foreign wheat, flour and other grains.
 This food, primarily from Australia and Canada, will provide 25 million persons with 2,000 calories a day for a year. Without this food, 10 to 20 million Chinese might have died.
 Deep as China's trouble was early this year, it promises to be worse this winter because of another bad crop in '61, and a suspicious peasantry that won't be so easily enthused or driven by Communist exhortation next time.
 Having been given some concessions, the canny peasants, who have seen warlords come and go, may hold out for more concessions with a slowdown of deliveries.
 "The Red Chinese food situation is so critical that slowing up grain deliveries from the farms by two or three months can result in millions starving," says one American observer in the Far East.
 The Red rulers already are taking steps to meet the crisis. First, they're negotiating with Australia and Canada for another six to eight million tons of wheat for delivery starting in January. That will keep 30 million persons alive for a year — 60 million until the new harvest comes in next May. They'll need half a billion dollars in cash or credit to pay for this grain — plus another $125 million that remains unpaid for this year's purchases.

 Red Chinese have been in Canada and Australia trying to get easier credit terms. Also, gold and silver bullion is being sold in London to finance these purchases. It probably came from old coin hoards confiscated from murdered landlords and liquidated businessmen in the early days of the revolution.
 Second, the Communist bosses have abandoned almost everything about the agricultural commune except the name. (They might have gotten rid of that if Khrushchev had not ridiculed Mao's masterpiece in a scathing speech at Warsaw in which he gave four reasons why the communes were sure to fail. The Chinese press responded with a stinging four-point editorial citing the same reasons why the communes would succeed. Khrushchev's round.)
 The Great Step Backward—the Chinese double talk explanation—goes like this:

After forcing the peasants into communes (2,000 to 10,000 persons) on the grounds that they would have more efficient utilization of manpower, the authority has been given back to the production team (usually 10 or 20 families) — for the same reasons.
 Private garden plots, abolished under the commune system, because "the commune can make a wiser use of land and labor resources," are now given back to the peasants with the explanation they "will produce more food."
 Pigs, which the communes tried to raise in large collective herds, because there would be "better management, less disease, and more production," are once more returned to private peasants. That's because the "peasant will take better care of them, will have less disease problems, and will raise more pigs."
 Sideline occupations, which were discouraged on the grounds they smacked of "capitalism," are now encouraged because it is good to have "little freedoms within the large collective."
 But what went sour — why is food so short? Why was the Great Step Backward necessary? There were several reasons:
 —Weather. Disastrous droughts in various sections cut yields three years in a row. One qualified observer thinks floods destroyed 50 per cent of the amateurishly engineered irrigation structures. Three years ago, I saw millions of Chinese "volunteers" at work on these jerry-built dams, carrying baskets of dirt on shoulder poles.)

 —Lack of incentive. The peasants' land, their pigs, their private garden plots were taken from them. Although the commune promised to pay peasants none of the commune workers I talked with had received anything except their food and cloth rations for the past three years of labor. The Communist edict "He who does not work does not eat!" keeps the sullen peasants at work in the rice fields. I talked with a mother holding a tiny 3-week-old baby, who said:
 "They told me I had to go to the fields the day after I had my baby if I wanted my regular food rations." She escaped a week later.
 —Population is growing. Every day there are 40,000 new mouths to feed in Red China — 12 to 15 million more a year. In 1948, the Red Chinese had 470 million people and 271 million acres of arable land. Today they have an estimated 700 million people and only 261 million acres of land.

New Gold Crisis

It was in October of 1960 that the first truly dangerous signs of dollar collapse appeared on the world market. At that time, gold reserves were notably in short supply and European claims against these gold reserves began to take enormous chunks out of the sparkling bars stacked in Fort Knox and in New York banks.

Between October of 1960 and February of 1961, approximately $1 billion in gold reserves was freighted across the Atlantic to find repose in foreign hoards.

Then, in February, the drain was temporarily halted with the American dollar looking rather roughed up after a stormy crossing. Since 1957, the gold drain has been enormous, reducing our gold reserves in 48 months by some 5.4 billions of dollars.

During this same time, foreign claims against our gold have climbed by some $4.7 billion. The result is that, at the moment, foreign claims against gold held in reserve in this country exceed by some $2.1 billion the total amount of gold left on hand, which is approximately $17.5 billion.

There is an existing law which requires the U. S. to keep in reserve for backing American bank payments, something in the neighborhood of $11.4 billion. Were this called up, and foreign claims paid off at the same time, a deficit of more than $3 billion would occur.

America would be in the position of having to repudiate its debts. The dollar would have lost its reliability and a general economic collapse of world-wide dimensions would have occurred.

President Kennedy, who had some pretty grandiose schemes related to running up larger debt, has been forced by this contingency to slow down. He is walking a tight-rope wire and, at long last, he knows it.

The problem continues, however, for this nation is still spending more money abroad than it earns abroad. Thus, the balance of payments which can be demanded in gold, is favorable to another run on reserves. The bulk of American spending in other nations relates to our enormous we have "something coming" from the Social Security department when we have reached what the government decides is retirement age, the fact is that there is no precise connection with sums paid in by workers and amounts retired persons may receive.

Additionally, by law the entire system could be revoked at any time and hence all payments made under the assumption that insurance was involved could be cancelled.

We have talked about the Social Security deceit many times. But now it appears that thru the Internal Revenue Service, we are going to move much more closely to the Inca concept of numbering and branding all citizens.

On September 26, the Congress of the United States approved the issuing of a special number to all taxpayers. This will not be the Social Security number, but a more general number which is going to be required as a filing number for YOU.

foreign "aid" program, and to our spending in defense areas abroad. Twelve allied nations abroad with 274 million people spend about $14.5 billion annually for defense. America, with about 180 million people, spends more than $46 billion, much of it in preparation to defend these allies.

As an indication of the foreign weakness of the dollar, right now our own international exchanges are being buttressed by German marks and Italian lira. And had it not been for British intervention with gold in February, our own position at the moment might be inconceivably worse than it is.

Since the end of World War II this nation has spent more than $85 billion abroad. About $40 billion of it has gone into Western Europe, $20.3 billion into the Far East, $12.8 billion into the Near East, and $1.5 billion has gone behind the Iron curtain to Poland, Soviet Russia and other Russian satellites.

Additionally, we have put $5 billion into international financing institutions.

On a few years ago, the world was faced with what was popularly termed "a dollar shortage." Today, this same old world is replete with dollars and the clamor for redemption of these dollars in gold is growing.

And with suddenness this nation is faced with a shortage of foreign currencies by means of which it hopes to allay the possible new shortage of gold.

Yet, in spite of this situation, gold mines remain closed or in partial operation and the price of gold remains pegged officially at the unrealistic point of $35 per ounce. Add to this the fact that Americans, at home or abroad, have been forbidden to redeem their currencies in gold.

In short, the inflation with which this country has been saddled by loose fiscal policies and wild spending, has spread to the rest of the earth. Dollar demand has declined and the people of the world over, including Americans, are looking for something in the way of specie which cannot be tampered with by ambitious politicians.

He is a difficult subject for interviewing because of his wife, Miss Abbe Lane.

The Cugats are a devoted couple, and are nearly always together, and when Miss Lane is around it is more than a man can do to keep his mind, or his eyes, on Mr. Cugat.

I talked with the Cugats just before they left for Belgrade, where Miss Lane has some three weeks of shooting to finish her latest picture, "Julius Caesar and the Pirates."

The interview went along swimmingly at the start, for Miss Lane was not shopping. Xavier and I talked about his early days in the United States — Barcelona is his home town — when he was a cartoonist for the Los Angeles Times.

Next to a Trappist monk, Xavier Cugat must be the toughest man of them all to interview.

Not because the bandleader isn't an intelligent man, for he is, and extremely so. And not because he is impatient with interviewers, for he isn't.

He is a difficult subject for interviewing because of his wife, Miss Abbe Lane.

The Cugats are a devoted couple, and are nearly always together, and when Miss Lane is around it is more than a man can do to keep his mind, or his eyes, on Mr. Cugat.

I talked with the Cugats just before they left for Belgrade, where Miss Lane has some three weeks of shooting to finish her latest picture, "Julius Caesar and the Pirates."

The interview went along swimmingly at the start, for Miss Lane was not shopping. Xavier and I talked about his early days in the United States — Barcelona is his home town — when he was a cartoonist for the Los Angeles Times.

Then we talked about the world in general, and few men know it better, for the pencil-mustached maestro of Latin American music has been around the world ten or twelve times, and is still on the move.

Then Miss Lane came in and I forgot all about Xavier, interesting as he is.

Miss Lane is plumb pretty. She's more than that. She's beautiful and has — well, more scenic attractions than Yellowstone, the Grand Canyon and Niagara Falls all rolled into one.

I just sat and stared, pencil in hand, notepaper on knee.

It was a pleasure to watch Miss Lane walk, smile and laugh, and a pleasure to listen to her talk.

Yes, she can talk, and well. "I couldn't talk very much, or very sensibly when I met Xavier," she said, "but traveling with him is an education. He is interested in everything, knows everybody, or so it seems, and when we go to a foreign country he makes himself a part of it."

Miss Lane started to pack the family luggage and that made a pretty scene, too. Never did I think that watching anyone pack a suitcase could be such a delightful sight.

The Cugats want to go back to Japan. On their trip there they played to hundreds of thousands of Japanese music lovers — $2,000 of them at one time in a baseball stadium.

"I never thought the Japanese would take to my kind of music, so much," Cugat said, "but they go for it even more than the South Americans. We were mobbed everywhere we went."

McCone Investigating Communist Infiltration of CIA; Wants More Effective Handling of Iron Curtain Intelligence

WASHINGTON — John McCone, new head of the Central Intelligence Agency, is in Europe making a significant first-hand survey of both U.S. and foreign Intelligence personnel and operations.

There are good reasons for these scrutinies.

The FBI and Military Intelligence have warned McCone there is disquieting evidence that Communist agents have infiltrated CIA and the Intelligence agencies of NATO countries — particularly Britain.

Being specially looked into by McCone is the refusal of two CIA officials to return to the U.S. for questioning on their undercover activities and private business ventures.

Allen Dulles, whom McCone is succeeding as CIA director, is with him in Europe. McCone's unannounced plan is to take office around November 17.

He has already made one important decision on personnel changes. McCone proposes to have two deputy directors instead of one; one directly in charge of the collecting and evaluating of information; the other to supervise covert operations, such as counter-espionage and guerrilla penetrations.

All signs point to these two key officials being selected from outside ranks. From McCone's private discussions he has indicated he is convinced CIA needs a strong infusion of new blood.

In conferring with CIA officials, he has been frankly critical of their failure to effectively collect and evaluate Iron Curtain Intelligence. This has long been a distinctive CIA shortcoming.

It has been under fire on this score in inner congressional and executive quarters for several years.

Whether McCone can remedy this situation is conjectural. It is significant that he is acutely aware of it and already grappling with this serious problem.

SIGNIFICANT WARNING — Unexpected Senate opposition is being voiced against the U.S. financing Ghana's Communist-coding President Kwame Nkrumah's $200 million Volta River power and irrigation project.

The senatorial group also inspected the huge Aswan Dam the Soviet is building on the upper Nile for President Gamal Nasser. The senators report this work is progressing very slowly as most of it is being done by manpower.

The American Way

HOW THE TIMID CAN SAVE AMERICA

By Harry T. Everingham — "The meek shall inherit the earth." And the "timid soul" must save self-government in the U.S.

Too many Americans stay out of politics, even refusing to work their own precinct, because they consider politics "dirty business" and feel nothing but loathing for the average politician.

Thus, the government of the United States has become a government of, by and for the bureaucrats, expedient politicians and socialist pressure group leaders, instead of our traditional government of, by and for the people.

The average patriotic citizen who understands all this and realizes that his nation is being led into socialism and a regimented police state by the professional politicians, wants to do something, but he doesn't know how.

When he tries to talk to his friends and neighbors, he gets that cold stare which can mean, "Oh, you're just an alarmist" or, "Well, it won't be long before the men in the white coats will pick you up."

The press, radio and TV seldom allow even a glimmer of truth to break through the rigid censorship that the Socialists and One Worlders have imposed upon our media of communication.

But under the skin our average friend or neighbor is conservative. He wants to retain his private property and personal freedom. He also wants national sovereignty and U.S. independence when you reason it out for him.

He wants freedom of religion, free enterprise and opportunity for personal growth and prosperity. In short, he wants everything enumerated in the Bill of Rights in the Constitution, if only he had the time (interest) to read the Bill of Rights and realize how those God-given rights are quickly and permanently being destroyed.

Only the meek can tell him — but the meek is a timid soul and doesn't realize his own potential. He's afraid of controversial issues for fear he may become a target of abuse from the other side.

He will not lend his name to an organization that strikes out militantly against the forces of socialism, communism and One World government. He doesn't want to be subjected to ridicule and smear by the vicious but influential leaders in his local churches, schools, civic groups, etc. who will not admit that socialism leads to communism.

But the timid soul will join with other dedicated patriots in small home-study groups where he can learn to influence others and to develop himself for civic service on a non-partisan basis, such as getting people to register to vote.

As he serves long hours to persuade people to register "to save their vote," he himself becomes a person of influence in the community — one who is known for his civic service. He may persuade many people to register who have not voted for years.

Later, come election day, these very people are likely to ask him for whom they should vote. He establishes himself as a public-minded citizen who serves his country without pay — a person they can trust because unlike the politicians, he has no axe to grind. And from working the precinct door-to-door to increase registration, he finds his courage.

McNamara, who banned speeches by military personnel "not in accordance with established national policy," wrote Thurmond, a brigadier general in the Army Reserves, "National policy is the term that has been used in the Department of Defense for several years, and such policy is available to Department of Defense personnel in various forms, such as the statements of the President and the acts and resolutions of the Congress."

Four Key Reasons Why Russians Lead In Space

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Several things have "come to light" that explain why the United States is lagging in space despite superior over-all U.S. science and technology.

These U.S. mistakes and omissions explain why Russia will probably get to the moon first, even though the $2 billion U.S. has spent on space is considerably more than the Russians have poured in, and though the $20 billion to $40 billion U.S. moon program is considerably more ambitious than the Soviet plan.

First: There are strong indications the Russians are ahead on key basic instrumentation. There is reason to believe the Reds can measure great thrusts more precisely. They can measure extremely heavy weights more closely. They can measure some electromagnetic wave more finely.

The ability to measure high thrust is a prime prerequisite to building super-high-thrust space rocket engines quickly and efficiently.

The ability to measure high temperatures is a prerequisite to developing superior metals for rockets and space ships.

The ability to measure electromagnetic waves is crucial in developing better space communications.

Second: The Russians have shown a greater willingness to standardize in all aspects of their space work.

This standardization results in more reliability, less cost. It means that any particular space project can be accomplished more quickly.

The United States has more or less tailor-made every job. The U.S. tends to build a separate vehicle for almost every space payload. We thus have too many varieties of stabilization systems for satellites, too many different types of power supplies for our satellites and space vehicles.

We have too many different varieties of telemetering systems. Tailor-making complicated electronic space gadgetry means creating new variations, each with a series of bugs that must be ironed out before the project can go ahead.

The cut in reliability as a result of this variety is tremendous. The U.S. has only 50 per cent success in getting its space vehicles into orbit.

Third: The United States tries to squeeze the last ounce of performance out of every space component. This means increased complexity and a further lowering of reliability. This constant refining is very expensive.

If the U.S. had spent more time and effort in making larger rockets and less time on refining the size of components, we would have done better.

In other words, our space scientists have spent too much of their time on minor refinements instead of looking for radical new approaches.

Builders have often had to go beyond present-day U.S. scientific knowledge by guesswork and by rule of thumb.

With more basic research, the U.S. could leapfrog ahead at much less expense and in much less time, over the long run.

As one space scientist puts it, "No matter how many billions you spend you can only increase the speed of a race horse by a small amount in terms of miles per hour. Whereas if you invent an automobile you can multiply that speed up to a point."

"And if you invent an airplane, or a rocket, you immediately jump into a whole new realm of speed. It's much cheaper to make these big jumps by new routes."

THE FEATHER MERCHANTS (California Feature Service)

Senator John J. Williams of Delaware, one of our favorite delvers into the esoterica of federal bureaucracy, has come up with another dandy. It seems the General Services Administration has a stockpile of feathers.

They won't tell Senator Williams how many of the 1,930,000 pounds they said they would sell a year ago — actually are still around. Nor, probably, would they confirm a suggestion, — not the Senator's — that the feathers originally were bought for a pillow fight with Khrushchev.

We can assure our readers that the feathers are not just leftovers from Fidel Castro's chicken-plucking visit to the United Nations. They were imported, probably at no small expense, from pre-Korean War China. So surely Comrade K has access to information as to our strategic stockpile.

Evidently the GAS never heard the old joke: "How do you get down off an elephant? You don't; you get down off a goose." It's still acting like a goose refusing to get off a downy white elephant.

Our word "wedding" brings back medieval times, when marriage was a business transaction. A father sold his daughter to the bridegroom for money, horses, cattle, or other property. This payment was called the wed. A wedding was the pledging of a bride's troth to the man who bought her. And so we call it today, though brides are no longer swapped for livestock.

Encyclopedia Britannica

Number Each Taxpayer

Authorities who have studied the civilization of the Incas in the high mountain valleys of Peru have concluded that this civilization was a socialist empire of vast ramifications.

During the days of Inca supremacy in the region, all persons who lived under his sway were numbered, branded and kept track of in precisely the same fashion as the herds of llamas which also belonged to the Inca.

Each man was recognized by a colored band worn about the head. No one could move freely about the country. Even a journey from one town to another could be made only after the permission of the Inca had been obtained.

Freedom or private enterprise was unheard of. And altho a semblance of a small degree of ownership of property in land was allowed, the Inca ruled all with a hand of iron. Everything was planned. And death awaited the individual who broke the rules or who in any way displeased the sovereign ruler.

In the United States of America, the beginnings of an Inca-type rule were noted when this nation adopted a Social Security system back in the 1936 period. At that time, all workers within certain categories were given social security numbers. These numbers were issued on little pasteboard slips and each worker was required by law to pay a portion of his earnings into a Social Security fund.

The Supreme Court, at an early date, ruled that this system was not an insurance type of system but simply represented one more device for taxing Americans. Altho we are often reminded that we have "something coming" from the Social Security department when we have reached what the government decides is retirement age, the fact is that there is no precise connection with sums paid in by workers and amounts retired persons may receive.

Additionally, by law the entire system could be revoked at any time and hence all payments made under the assumption that insurance was involved could be cancelled.

We have talked about the Social Security deceit many times. But now it appears that thru the Internal Revenue Service, we are going to move much more closely to the Inca concept of numbering and branding all citizens.

On September 26, the Congress of the United States approved the issuing of a special number to all taxpayers. This will not be the Social Security number, but a more general number which is going to be required as a filing number for YOU.

The IRS is setting up a dossier on you.

It will keep elaborate files which cover your entire life. The file will show your place of employment, the date of your marriage, the names and ages of your children. Your special IRS numbers will be attached to all of these documents.

Employers, banks, investment houses, all institutions which pay you money will be required to obtain from you your special IRS number.

Every check issued to you will have to have this number on it. When you make out your income tax return, your number must be on it. By elaborate date machines, everything you receive in the way of taxable income will be listed and checked in your file. When you file your Form 1040, all the information the IRS requires of you will already be at hand so that errors will be automatically spotted.

You will be compelled by law to operate in accordance with this number. Any failure on your part to furnish your number to a firm requesting it will be subject to a $5.00 fine.

Banks, corporations, businesses, large and small, will be required to do intensive bookkeeping on your behalf. Any firm which pays you $10 or more in the case of dividends, will report that payment, together with your IRS number, to the Internal Revenue Department.

The only thing missing thus far is the brand. And there has been some talk of tattooing your number on the sole of one of your feet to eliminate costly replacements of pasteboard tabs which get lost. In future time infants may be numbered at birth, both for Social Security and for the IRS.

It is beginning to look as though the Inca system hasn't perished after all.

Crime Busters Not Yet Aware Of Size Of Job

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Even Asst. Atty. Gen. Herbert J. Miller, Jr., in charge of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, doesn't know how big the bear is they're going after in the nationwide crime-busting drive.

There are some guesses around the Justice Department that organized gambling alone has a gross take of $7.5 billion a year and a net profit of almost a billion dollars, much of which is used to bankroll almost every conceivable type for organized crime.

No one knows how many hundreds of millions of dollars go into payoffs, bribes or "payments." When a Braniff airplane crashed at Buffalo, Tex., on Sept. 30, 1959, a gambling collection man was discovered killed. He was en route with his boss' share of profits from operations in Texas.

Last year, Louisiana racketeers traveled to Hot Springs, Ark., in an attempt to move in on the race wire service. The operator of the Hot Springs service then traveled to Chicago to seek the help of the Chicago rackets overlords in fending off the New Orleans group.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy says Justice Department information "reveals numerous instances where the prime mover in gambling or other illegal enterprise operates by remote control from the safety of another state — sometimes half a continent away. He sends henchmen to the scene of operations or travels himself from time to time to supervise the activity and check on his underlings. As for profits, he receives his share by messenger."

No one knows how many cities are affected or how many rural counties Justice Department men have no idea how many officials are bribed, how many prostitutes there are, how many juvenile delinquents, how many gangsters.

Ask for an estimate of the number of men and women in organized crime alone. The estimates will vary from "a few thousand" to more than 10,000.

But the Justice Criminal Division does know something about the type of problem it's up against. One official at the Justice Department describes it in these terms:

The kingpin gambler uses his gambling earnings and his organization for any other business he can get — slot machines, narcotics, extortion, pinball machines, prostitution.

He has to have protection for one racket. He ups the ante a little and uses his protection for a whole row of rackets.

His men move into labor unions, and put pressure on companies to buy protection at high prices from a hoodlum-owned business or face a strike or sabotage. A

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — United States policy is to spend billions of dollars on the under-privileged and others in foreign lands to influence people.

This program to purchase the confidence and affection of states and individuals pretty much everywhere in the world has not been a bang-up success. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes it seems to work in reverse.

Some of that money—not very much—might be diverted now to a project nearer home and among under-privileged persons who already have given freely their confidence and affection to the people of the United States. These under-privileged are the thousands of Cuban refugees now mostly and dimly clustered in Miami.

Already the first faint warning signals of trouble to come are being heard from Miami. There is tension present and building between the refugees and such of those Floridians who hold the refugees to be competitors for their own jobs. There is tension present and building because the rules of relief-welfare payments are not the same as between the refugees and the native-born.

There is, in fact, a potentially bad situation in Miami. There was a firm warning last week from a Florida official of a likely explosion to come if the refugee situation in Miami is not corrected.

Charles E. Taylor of the United Press International reports that there are 73,000 Cuban refugees in the United States, 51,800 of them in Miami. They are flying in at a rate of 200 a day—and others arrive by boat. So this problem is expanding and the warning is that if it continues to expand, or merely remains as is, the explosion will come.

That would make good propaganda, no less, for the Kremlin and for Fidel Castro in Cuba. A factor in this situation seems to be this: The United States cannot afford to permit its handling of the problems growing out of Castro's seizure of Cuba to make more good propaganda for the Bear or for the Kremlin.

The United States government restaurant or hotel owner may be required to have his laundry done at premium prices from a laundry service owned by the racketeers.

The kingpin or his henchmen may buy into other legitimate businesses and use his strong-arm men or his control of local officials to force honest competitors out of business. Bribed officials can harass the competition with "regulations" or visits from the police.

beginning with the Eisenhower administration and into the Kennedy administration has goofed on its actions relative to Castro's Cuba. A refugee riot or a move of native-born against Cuban refugees in southern Florida would be more of the same.

There must be a great many U. S. dollars which could be diverted from the aid of Africans, Asians, South Americans or Europeans to the assistance of our Cuban neighbors who have fled to the United States. They could be dispersed through the country to areas where they could work even though jobs had to be made for them.

Considering the open-handed way the U. S. government spends money on all else, the cost of heading off trouble in Miami would not be much. But it would be worth more than that.

Wife Of 'Veep' Sends Over-Due Book To Library
AUSTIN (UPI)—Vice President Lyndon Johnson's wife has returned a book to an Austin high school library nearly six years after it was first checked out.

The librarian said it was not Mrs. Johnson's fault the book was overdue.

Mrs. Johnson mailed the book to the library along with a letter that explained she found the volume when she was sorting through belongings when the family moved into its new Washington home.

"In moving, I have found all sorts of things thought long lost," she said. "Occasionally I found something I never knew I had."
