Policy Formats To Be Decided By Commission

Newspaper publicity, the city's retirement program, health hazards, fire traps, and policy procedure headed the list of topics discussed by city commissioners at their regular weekly meeting in City Hall today.

It was one of the shortest meetings the commission has held since taking office last April, but it covered a lot of territory in the one and a half hours it lasted.

When Mayor E. C. Sidwell brought up the matter of a complaint registered by a city employee at last week's commission meeting the consensus was reached that a policy should be adopted on dealing with such matters between employees and city department heads.

Commissioner Newt Secrest said he thought the city commission room was "not the place for discussion of that type of thing."

Secrest declared what happened at last week's meeting should not have been aired publicly.

"We heard only one side of the story," Secrest said. "As a result we got adverse publicity and it has caused a lot of disturbance in our ranks."

Mayor Sidwell said he was of the opinion that anyone had a right to appear and speak before the city commission at any time.

Secrest said the commission should consider complaints like the one last Tuesday in executive session.

Commissioner L. P. Fort entered the discussion at this point and said he was "against any secret sessions where the press was not permitted to sit in."

Mitchell Hill, Pampa grocer, who was sitting in the audience arose and said:

"This is the first commission in 25 years that will give anyone a chance to be heard."

Commissioners Lloyd Simpson and Leon Holmes, appointed last week to investigate the employee's complaint, recommended that the commissioners, city manager and city department heads hold a meeting and adopt a set policy for dealing with matters of that kind.

Mayor Sidwell and other commissioners concurred in the recommendation and went on record that it was not the city commission's responsibility to settle matters of that kind.

Another matter on which commissioners agreed policy should be set was the method of retiring city employees when they become eligible. It was pointed out that the city now has 12 employees working who are over 65, six of whom are eligible for retirement under the 15-year employment rule.

U.S. Communists Fail To Register

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Communist party apparently defied a midnight deadline to register with the government as an agent of the Soviet Union.

Justice Department officials said today that the party owes $10,000 each and every day it fails to do so.

The registration deadline was set last June when the Supreme Court upheld a finding by the Subversive Activities Control Board that the U.S. Communists are an arm of the Russian government.

The Communists said in advance they would defy the order. But the Justice Department had kept its switchboards open to receive any communication indicating a last-minute change of mind.

But none came before the clock struck midnight.

Unless the party mailed the appropriate registration forms postmarked before today, it is now in violation of the Internal Security Act of 1960.

The law, which Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has vowed to enforce vigorously, requires the Communists to register, disclose the names, addresses of officers, file a financial accounting and list their printing presses.

Pampa's Air Service Bid Dealt Blow

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce today received a copy of the initial decision of examiner Herbert K. Bryan of the Civil Aeronautics Board this week in the matter of applications and investigations of airline transportation in Arkansas, Colorado, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, in which the examiner failed to recommend scheduled airline service for Pampa.

The examiner's report, with recommendations, was made following a hearing in Amarillo several months ago at which time Pampa was represented by 10 local businessmen as witnesses.

No applications for new service in this area of Texas was recommended by the examiner in his 150 page report, while service in many cities in Texas and the Southwest was terminated.

The CAB examiner's report is being studied by the Aviation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the chamber's board of directors, along with city and county officials, after which an exception will be filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board. This is the usual procedure in cases of this nature.

Officials of the chamber of commerce have been in touch with Central Airlines relative to the filing of additional briefs due in the CAB office in Washington within ten days.

A summary of the examiner's recommendations which has been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board is as follows:

Found: That American Airlines' authority to serve Abilene and Big Spring, Texas, and Texarkana, Ark.-Tex., should be terminated; That Braniff Airways' authority to serve Galveston and Laredo, Texas; Muskogee, Okla., and Texarkana, Ark.-Tex., should be terminated;

That Continental Air Lines' authority to serve Big Spring, Breckenridge, Lamesa, Mineral Wells, Plainview, Snyder, Sweetwater, and San Angelo, Tex., Trinidad and Pueblo, Colo., and Santa Fe (on flights serving El Paso), Alamogordo, and Las Vegas, N. Mex., should be terminated;

That Delta Air Lines' authority to serve Longview-Kilgore-Gladewater and Tyler, Texas, should be terminated;

That Trans World Airlines' authority to serve Ada, Ardmore, McAlester, and Muskogee, Okla., (See AIRPORT, Page 3)

Search Reduced In Pacific Area For Rockefeller

HONOLULU (UPI)—The Dutch navy reduced the sea search for 23-year-old Michael Rockefeller today and concentrated on the crocodile infested coast line of southern New Guinea on the theory he must be ashore if he is alive.

The young man's worried father, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, received a constant flow of reports on the search as he prepared to fly to New Guinea with Michael's twin sister, Mrs. Marion Strawbridge.

A surge of hope at the finding Monday of Michael's Dutch companion, ethnologist R. J. Wassink; 34, turned to increasing anxiety as the hours wore on with no word of the governor's son.

A spokesman for the Defense Ministry in The Hague, Holland, said the Dutch naval commander in New Guinea had withdrawn his Neptune sea planes from the search of the ocean and ordered smaller and slower Beaver planes to scour the coastline.

He said marines had been put ashore to make a careful search of the coast above and below the mouth of the Islands River.

The shift in emphasis was caused by two factors.

Wassink said Michael had left their native prahu (boat) and swam toward shore buoyed up by two empty gasoline tanks. Wassink stayed with the boat and was found drifting 22 miles from shore.

Secondly, a Dutch spokesman said, up to 8 a.m. Tuesday Dutch New Guinea time (5 p.m. CST Monday) a careful search of the sea had proved "completely negative."

The spokesman said an investigation of the small village of Kampong, near the river mouth, also "yielded no results."

Michael's father, governor of New York, and his twin sister, Mrs. Marion Strawbridge, stopped over Monday night in Hawaii and then took off today in a chartered jet headed for Biak, Dutch New Guinea.

Drive Success Now Rests With Fund Solicitors

Success or failure of Pampa's United Fund drive hinged today on the fund solicitors, Campaign Chairman George Newberry said.

Today's total contribution—figure was $32,265.79, an increase of $1,104 over Monday's figure.

"It's up to the fund workers, now," Newberry said. "We know there are enough cards still out that haven't been worked to make the difference between failure and our $68,748 goal."

"If the workers will get busy we can go over the top. If they don't get busy and work the cards we will fail," Newberry added.

The drive chairman said he planned to hold a meeting of team majors to inject a last-minute effort to get workers to complete their calls.

Russian Charges Branded As 'Wild'

JERUSALEM (UPI)—The Israeli Foreign Ministry said Sunday the Soviet Union made "wild accusations" against three Russian Jews when it charged them with spying for Israel.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said it was feared the new trials of Jews in the Soviet Union meant the start of a campaign to restrict the freedom of Soviet Jewry.

Girl's Story Of Deaths At Sea Bares Mystery

MIAMI (UPI)—Julian A. Harvey flew 114 combat missions for the U.S. Air Force in the Korean War.

In Europe, during World War II, he flew 29 missions. He won the Distinguished Flying Cross twice, the Air Medal nine times. Monday, the story of 11-year-old Terry Jo Duperrault pointed a finger of accusation at Harvey as a man who left her standing alone on the blood-stained deck of the two-masted Bluebelle at the climax of a terror-filled night in which her family and her bride of three and one-half months perished.

A Coast Guard officer said he believed it was a case of "whole sale murder."

The suicide of the 45-year-old Harvey, married five times, seemed to bear out the implications in Terry Jo's story. Terry Jo was the only survivor of a family of five from Green Bay, Wis., who put out on a pleasure cruise to the Bahamas with Harvey and his wife.

Harvey killed himself after Terry Jo was rescued. His story of a broken mast puncturing the boat's hull, of fire at sea, of unavailing attempts to rescue the others was contradicted in almost every major detail.

She said Harvey struck her and forced her below decks, that she saw her mother and brother lying on the cabin floor, that there was no fire. She saved herself, she said, by unlatching a small life raft on which she floated for nearly four days in the open sea.

The Coast Guard said it believed the girl's story.

Yet, today, it was impossible to find any of his friends or acquaintances who could find any reason for Harvey to have perpetrated such a slaughter.

The last letter from his wife to her brother in Milwaukee said the voyage with the family of Arthur Duperrault had been "very pleasant" and that their passengers were a "very lovely family."

Harvey's sister-in-law in Detroit said she didn't believe the retired Air Force colonel had any guilt in the tragedy.

"I know my sister thought the world of him," said Mrs. C. Raymond Young.

Harvey's closest friend was advertising executive James C. Boo-ter of Miami. Boozer Monday took Harvey's body to sea and watched it pushed overboard in the burial services the Bluebelle skipper had asked in his suicide note.

Did Boozer believe the Duperrault girl's story now?

"I don't know," he said Monday night.

"There is only one reason I would. Harvey always was very proud of his physical condition, of his body. To slash himself with a razor—well, what must have been his mental condition?"

The biggest question—and one completely unanswered—was a motive that Harvey might have had.

He had never met the Duperraults before. The father, mother and three children were on a once-in-a-life-time vacation for a period of three months. Terry Jo's story, said there had been no friction on board.

Harvey twice before had lost boats—one in Chesapeake Bay and another off Cuba—and recovered damages of $14,000 from the government and $45,000 from an insurance agency. But the Bluebelle was not his and he stood to gain nothing from sinking her deliberately.

But shortly before the fatal voyage he took out a $20,000 double indemnity life insurance policy on his wife which would pay him $40,000 if she died accidentally.

Was he unbalanced? His departure from the Air Force after a long career had been an honorable retirement for physical disability after a crash.

There were many questions left unanswered.

Terry Jo said Harvey jumped from the Bluebelle to the lifeboat drifting away. But did that unquestionably mean that he was (See GIRL, Page 3)

Berlin Tear-Gas Battle Fails To Halt Wall Work

BERLIN (UPI)—The East German Communists today put the finishing touches to their reinforcement of the Iron Curtain cutting Berlin in two despite a rock-throwing, tear-gas battle between East and West Berliners along the walled border.

Among the estimated 7,000 West Berlin youths who left a huge rally to march toward the hated Communist wall, about 1,000 managed to evade West Berlin police at Wilhelmstrasse and touched off the biggest tear-gas battle since the Communists closed the border Aug. 13.

Shouting "down with Ulbricht" (East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht), "free elections in East Germany" and "down with the wall," many students reached the wall and began throwing rocks. Red guards retaliated by shooting streams of water from water cannon.

Two hundred tear-gas shells were hurled back and forth across the wall by 20 Western police and an estimated 60 Communist police. West Berlin police had to fight in both directions—against the Reds and the students.

Two miles from the Brandenburg Gate, a mob of 5,000 West Berlin youths was turned back by police.

The last of the demonstrations which took place during a four-hour period was near the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint, where 100 youths appeared, shouting "haug Ulbricht." But this demonstration was turned back some distance from the border at midnight.

During the demonstrations, British troops with machine-guns stood by but took action.

The Communists said work on the reinforced wall would be finished sometime today. Red laborers worked through out the night.

"I've seen lots of battlefields, but I've never seen a better soldier than the well-disciplined American," said the man who commanded Allied forces in World War II.

The former President said the United States, despite its strength, would never be a military aggressor. "But woe be to any who would attack us."

"As a nation, we must always be ready to negotiate, but never appease," he told his enthusiastic audience. "So let's make our convictions felt in every capital—particularly Moscow and Peking."

Eisenhower Doubts Reds Will Start Global War

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Former President Eisenhower said Monday night the Soviet Union does not dare start a global war for fear of being "drubbed" by the United States.

"I today believe we are the strongest military nation in the world. There's none to challenge us," Eisenhower told 7,000 persons at a quarterly meeting of the local chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army.

The five-star general said he personally does not believe the United States is on the brink of global war.

"The Soviets have more sense than that," he said. "They are cold blooded but won't attack us as long as we can drub them."

Eisenhower, who interrupted his fall vacation at the Augusta National Golf course to address the group, said the American soldier was unsurpassed as a fighting man.

"I've seen lots of battlefields, but I've never seen a better soldier than the well-disciplined American," said the man who commanded Allied forces in World War II.

Singer Peggy Lee Rests In Hospital

NEW YORK (UPI)—Singer Peggy Lee was reported in satisfactory condition today at Poly-clinic Hospital, where she was admitted with viral pneumonia.

Miss Lee had been able to complete two shows at a New York night club Saturday night, but could not go on for her third appearance after becoming ill. She was admitted to the hospital Monday.

Notice Sent To America And Britain

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union agreed today to resume the suspended nuclear test ban talks in a note sent the United States and Britain in Geneva on Nov. 28. But it asked an immediate embargo on all tests by any nation, implying it would walk out if the United States tested during the conference.

A first assessment of the Soviet offer by American officials in Washington said the Soviet Union, after carrying out its own massive series of nuclear weapons tests, now appeared to be trying to force the United States and Britain to agree to another unannounced moratorium on such experiments.

Said the Russians: "It is of course understood that if, in the course of the talks, any power will carry out tests of nuclear weapons, then by force of circumstances to which the Soviet government has already referred in the past, the other side will be compelled to draw the appropriate conclusions with regard to nuclear tests."

The Soviet notes, in reply to Anglo-American proposals, were delivered to the U.S. and British embassies by the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

They made no mention of the fact that since resuming its own nuclear tests Sept. 1, the Soviet Union has set off more than 30 atmospheric explosions—including one with a yield of more than 50 megatons.

The United States subsequently resumed nuclear tests underground, and President Kennedy has said the United States will resume atmospheric tests if necessary to protect American interests.

The implication in the latest Soviet replies, observers noted, is that if any power—including France, whose African tests were alluded to by Moscow as one reason for resuming its own tests—should carry out any nuclear explosions during the renewed negotiations (See RUSSIA, Page 3)

Balloon Record Set By Woman

OKEMAH, Okla. (UPI)—A 56-year-old housewife today held the unofficial women's world balloon endurance record, topping the Russian mark by nearly six hours.

Mrs. Alfred (Constance) Wolf, wife of a Philadelphia attorney, battled freezing temperatures and rain but kept her 65-foot balloon aloft 40 hours, three minutes. Two Russian women in 1948 set the record time of 34 hours, 21 minutes aloft.

She did not eat or sleep during the record flight which carried her from Big Spring, Tex., to Oklahoma and Kansas. She landed near here shortly before dark Monday.

"It was a private grudge of mine," she said. "But I'm sick and tired about the Russian's infallibility on records of this type."

"I picked a silly thing to settle a grudge—a balloon."

The 138-pound woman said she never planned to rise over 5,000 feet but once soared to 13,500 feet searching for warm sunlight to dry and expand her balloon. At one time it had sunk so close to earth she talked to persons on the ground.

She said she never knew her location and "that was the most frightening thing."

She left Big Spring, Tex., early Sunday and landed here at 4:00 p.m. CST Monday. She spent Monday night at a hotel here and planned to motor back to Philadelphia later today.

President's Wife Back In Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was back in the White House today, none the worse for a fall from her horse.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said Mrs. Kennedy was "feeling fine." Reports of injuries she supposedly sustained in a spill from her horse while fox hunting last week were grossly exaggerated, Salinger said.

Mrs. Gray Named Violet Club Prexy

New officers for the African Violet Club were elected at a meeting held Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Lee Moore. Named to serve during the ensuing term are Mmes. Holly Gray, president; Norman Walberg, vice president; R. F. Dirksen, secretary; treasurer; J. E. Carlson, librarian; historian; C. C. Matheny, parliamentarian; Dan Glaxner, reporter. The meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. Lee Harrah. An informative program on "Registered and Patented Plants" was presented by Mrs. Dirksen. She stated there are 8,000 named varieties of African Violets, but only 1,242 are registered with the National African Violet Society. "There are only a few patented plants since registering has taken the place of patenting," she informed the group. "A registered plant has to prove entirely true without any variations through three generations." Mrs. Lee Coffee was welcomed as a guest. The following members were present: Mmes. Vernon Osborn, C. C. Matheny, Willie Rheudasil, Joe Shelton, Holly Gray, Lee Harrah, R. F. Dirksen, Bill Hinton, Lee Moore and Miss Mary McCamey.

Dear Abby.... Insist On Allowance And Stop "Filching"

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have something on my conscience which I would like to unload. Also, I want to know if I really should feel guilty under the circumstances. My husband doesn't know how to hang on to money. All he knows is how to spend it. He gives me money whenever he feels like it, which isn't very often. I have been going through his pants pockets while he is asleep in order to get enough money to feed our family properly. If I didn't get the money this way, I would never see it. Is this stealing? DEAR PICKER: No matter what you call it, helping yourself in this manner is wrong. Insist on a household allowance, and stop filching.

Gift Shopping Leaves Little Time For Beauty

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The holidays are busy times, especially for young people. Hours of gift shopping leave little time to prepare for the many parties and dances that are important to this festive season. At a time like this, short-cuts to beauty are of great value to every girl, teen-ager and big sister alike. Teen-agers find so often that just when they want to look their best, out pops a blemish. One way to prevent this is to watch your diet. More well-balanced meals and fewer sundaes would help. And, in addition, guard your skin by treating it to a daily routine of care. Wash your face at least twice a day, and always use an added protection, you can cleanse it daily with a medicated lotion that is said to prevent blemishes and blackheads, while healing those that have already appeared. When your complexion is in good shape, you've accomplished your greatest short cut to beauty. During these busy days, keep your hair manageable by having it styled so that you can competently set it yourself. The wise teen-ager knows that her make-up should be light. She chooses her cosmetics accordingly. No heavy eye make-up for her. Delicate penciling on her brows if they are very blonde, and a thin coating of petroleum jelly on her lashes will do the trick. She should have on hand a choice of lipsticks from which she can select the one which will best complement her coloring and her costume at a moment's notice. One lipstick, designed just for teen-agers, comes in three shades - a light pink that has a touch of blue; a soft, clear red; and a light, pinky orange. With the three at her fingertips, she'll be set for all occasions. A fragrant-scent is an essential ingredient in the recipe for glamour. One long-lasting cologne, used all over, right after bathing when your body is still warm, should give off fragrance all day long. This could be a lifesaver during the holidays when impromptu parties crop up and there's no time to go home first and completely freshen up. Try keeping a few of your best-looking party dresses and the accessories handy and in good condition so that they can be put to use for unexpected dates. In brief, plan your beauty short cuts, and you won't miss any of the holiday fun just because you had no time to get ready.

Choice Of Looking Sissy Or Tomboy Shown In Preview Of Resort Styles

By SHIRLEY GALLINA
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)

Next-spring women will have a choice of how they want to look - sissy or tomboy. Sportswear, for which California is justly famous, opened California's 11th annual National Press Week Monday in the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. More than 85 fashion editors arrived to preview the show of resort and spring styles. Sportswear designers created clothes for the fashion individualist. This season there is no stereotype of how a woman should look. Instead a whole series of fresh new concepts offer a marvelous variety. Low-Slung Hipsters - In active and leisure sportswear, pants run the gamut of all lengths. The most eye-popping are the low-slung hipsters. When worn with brief tops, a whole expanse of midriff is bared to the hipbone. For the more conservative, long-tailed shirts are worn tucked in... and they stay tucked in. Surprisingly fresh is the effect of long sleeves on everything from shirts to bright cotton dresses. Long sleeves for summer? Why not, with all the air conditioning that makes some kind of cover-up a necessity. Tops that coordinate with pants or skirts are sometimes so abbreviated that they just cover the bosom - or so long that they become tunics of fingertip length. Easy Over-Blouse - The loose, easy over-blouse is a favorite of many designers; and again appears in endless variety. Sir James showed an extensive collection of separates and dresses, all in a lively key. Mohair "hels" (seevees pulovers) with curved hems) were affiliated with sleek silk pants, with the

ASK THE DESIGNER by gail dugas

Dear Gail: I am in my late 60s. My hair, once light brown, is now white. My eyes are green. I would like your advice on a beautiful piece of black brocade satin with small butterflies wings in yellow which I purchased in Hong Kong. I would like a suit made of this material. Would you advise a suit or dress? What style? My height is 5'3" and I weigh 140 pounds. Thank you very much.—Mrs. W. L. C.

Dear Mrs. W. L. C.: For the answer to this problem, I went to famed Roman designer, Eleanor G. rnett. She is very familiar with Oriental fabrics, having designed in Shanghai for many years. This is what she has to say: "These fabrics are very different from those made either in America or Europe. They are different in texture, coloring and widths. They definitely require special handling. Try to find an Oriental tailor in your city. Failing this, it would be worth-while to send it to Hong Kong for making. "Further, I suggest that you have it made up only if you are sure that the coloring is becoming to you. Ordinarily, the combination of black with yellow is a difficult one for one with your particular hair color to wear." I'll add my word of advice to this. It would be best to have it made up as a late day or dinner dress with simplest lines possible. The fabric makes this absolutely necessary.

Dear Gail: My husband and I are going to attend a business meeting shortly. We will be guests of the head of my husband's company. I want to look my best as my husband says I'll meet everyone connected with his company. I need advice as I'm not very style-conscious. Will you please tell me what I'll need and what kind of styles to get? I'm 5'3" tall and weigh 182 pounds. I'm on a diet and hope to lose at least 20 pound by then. I wear a size 16 1/2 dress but take a size 22 in a sheath style as I'm hippy. I've been told that I look best in vivid colors. This is very important to me. Please help me.—Mrs. Rogers.

Dear Mrs. Rogers: Since you have given me permission, I am using your name. I asked design-

The Mature Parent Stuttering Has Message For Those Able To Hear

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My husband and I are separated. My little boy and I live with my parents. Recently he's begun to stutter. He is high strung, has violent temper tantrums and often gets called "bad" and "destructive." I sometimes wonder if I should get a place of my own and some competent woman to look after him while I work, because our situation is so tense all the time. ANSWER: I think that's an A-O.K. idea.

Get your little boy away. Find your own place. He is fortunate in his mother. It isn't every young woman in your position who has the courage to question her parents' judgment of her child. Quite often the self-condemnation from which separated mothers suffer compels them to accept condemnation of their children without question. You're not doing this. So I am not in the least worried about your son's stuttering.

Esposa Joven Club Plans Yule Party

FRIDAY NIGHT CANTEEN

by Janet Henry

Such people are seldom the parents of a daughter who is having marital difficulties. Secretly their tendency is to regard her child as her burden, her punishment for her marital mistake. Thus, they see all his actions through the distorting lens of their antagonism. His curiosity about the insides of things becomes "destructiveness"; any efforts to serve his own interests "badness". As you yourself perceive, such an environment is very hard on a child. He would be bound to sense the hopelessness of ever pleasing his antagonistic relatives and, becoming more and more frightened to please himself, begin to express his frustration, not in straightforward words of protest but in temper tantrums and the hesitiveness of stuttering.

Friendship Class Has Social Meet

The Friendship Class of the Church of God met recently in the church for a Thanksgiving luncheon. Table decorations carried out the holiday theme. Secret Pals gifts were exchanged and names of Secret Pals revealed. Following luncheon, the group worked on smocked pillows. The next meeting for the class will be in the church on Dec. 13 for a Christmas social. Members attending were Mmes. Charles Fleming, L. C. Pennington, Ruby Harris, Gene Willis, Ernest Willis, Bruce Topper, Robert Douthit, Tom Treasure, James Rigsby, Arthur Pfeil, The Rev. Zoe Brown and Dianne Hancock were welcomed as guests.

California Gets Rainfall, Snow Storm Hits East

By United Press International
Drought-baked California dissolved into a sea of mud, damaging homes, and an old-fashioned pre-Thanksgiving storm clogged New England with up to eight inches of snow today.
Gully washing rains from the Pacific Coast to the Nevada desert Monday were the heaviest in more than a year and broke a three-year drought. Farmers cheered. City dwellers were irked.
San Francisco measured 1.71 inches of rain and Los Angeles 1.23 inches. Mud slides and floods closed highways near San Francisco. Wind gusts ripped out power lines in the Bay area.
Another round of showers was expected today in Southern California, where nearly two inches fell Monday on the Santa Monica Mountains, sending floodwaters rushing through lowland areas and producing mud slides in areas hit by recent forest and brush fires.
Homes were washed from foundations at Glendora and San Dimas, Calif. Mud slides seriously damaged five homes in the Santa Monica Mountains.
Garbage cans and refuse floated through streets in the exclusive Roscomare Road district of the Los Angeles area. Autos and fire trucks bogged down in silt-clogged streets.
The heavy rain washed out new seedlings planted in fire swept areas of Southern California in an effort to anchor hill sides devoid of cover.
Snow covered inland areas from western Pennsylvania to Maine and coastal towns in New England were washed by severe rains.
Worcester, Mass., measured eight inches of snow in little more than six hours. Concord, N.H., had seven inches and Portland, Maine, had five inches.
Falmouth, Mass., had 2.38 inches of rain.
Windsor Locks, Conn., and Poughkeepsie, N.Y., each had five inches of snow. Parts of New Jersey measured six inches. The area around Washington, D.C., got up to four inches of snow Monday.

Security Agency Official Ousted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The personal director of the super-secret National Security Agency (NSA) has resigned at the insistence of the Pentagon. House investigators have urged that he be charged with perjury.
The House Committee on Un-American Activities announced that Maurice H. Klein resigned 10 days ago. A Justice Department spokesman said it was studying the case.
The committee said Klein told congressional investigators that he made false statements about his personal history on official documents. The committee also said its investigation indicated that a personnel form in Klein's file was not the original document he made out in 1942, although Klein claimed it was.
The committee said a Defense Department official advised it that the FBI had confirmed its suspicions about Klein's personnel file.
Klein admitted making several misstatements in a 19-year-old job application form, but said they were the result of "pure carelessness."

Theater Group Has Workshop

Pampa Little Theater held a workshop Monday night in the rehearsal hall, 612 W. Browning, preceding rehearsals for "Arsenic and Old Lace."
Mrs. John M. Scott directed the workshop, which included two readings by junior members of the group, Miss Kim Wilson, who presented her version of "My First Football Game," and Miss Pat Ludeman, who dramatized a lady shopping for a pair of shoes.
The workshop concluded with Mrs. Scott in a comedy sketch of "Aunt Hattie's Cooking Hour," a take-off on a home economist giving recipes to a television audience.
In a brief business meeting, conducted by Homer West, president, Mrs. Marie Jones gave the secretary's report.
Following adjournment, cast members remained for rehearsal of "Arsenic and Old Lace," which will be presented Jan. 19-20.

State Parks System Declared Outmoded

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Research League said today the state parks system is "badly out of date" and in such poor shape it might be more harm than help to the tourist business.
A league study of the 56 state parks cited lack of basic standards, some poor park sites, inefficient operations and general rundown conditions as making the Texas state parks system "a questionable asset."
"Roughly a third of Texas state parks are so small, so poorly located, or so physically unattractive that their presence in the system is very difficult to justify; they downgrade the system as a whole," the league said.
It also criticized the "great geographical, historical and scenic gaps in the Texas state parks system which severely limit its value to both Texans and out-of-state guests."
The board carried out suggestions that:
—The state set minimum standards for its parks and dispose of substandard areas.
—Park experts at Texas Tech make a long-range plan for park acquisition, interpretation and maintenance.
—Parks board and legislative action is pending on:
—Establishment of personnel standards for all parks board staff members.
—Financial division of parks management and concession operation.
The last recommendation on finances was regarded by the league as "the single most important requirement to the development of a satisfactory state parks system in Texas."
The league said park management should be separated from concession management and qualified park rangers should be employed by the state. Park managers are paid $2,900 a year by the state and get a commission on amusements receipts and sales of supplies and souvenirs.
"In Texas we have expected our state park managers to be both storekeepers and park operators, and a direct conflict of interest has resulted," the league pointed out.

JFK, Adenauer To Talk Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer were expected at two White House meetings today to come to closer grips with their major problem—how to go about negotiating a Berlin settlement with Russia.
The U.S. and German leaders at their initial session late Monday ranged in general terms over "the current situation in Berlin and Germany and the current relations between their two countries," according to their official spokesmen.
Informed sources said the emphasis during their two hours together, all but 15 minutes of it entirely alone except for interpreters, was on Berlin and NATO.
While both sides were silent concerning any details of the conversations so far, American officials have made it clear that Kennedy wants to convince Adenauer that the Western Allies should maintain a flexible attitude in seeking a "reasonable basis" for negotiating with Russia on Berlin.
Kennedy is said to fear that if Adenauer succeeds in limiting too narrowly the aspects of the Berlin situation to be discussed with Russia this may make it impossible to work toward a tension-easing solution.

abandoning the ship, or could he have been trying to save the dinghy?
Another of the Duperrault children, Rene, 7, was found dead in the dinghy with Harvey. He said he found her in the water and pulled her body into his boat. If he committed mass slaughter, why did he not throw her overboard, too?
Terry Jo said she saw her mother and brother lying in blood in the cabin. But, before she ever told her story, Harvey had said two of his passengers were injured when the ship foundered in a sudden squall.
The girl said he was carrying what appeared to be a rifle. In the darkness could she have mistaken it for the wire cutters he said he got out to cut through the tangled rigging?
She said there was no fire. But a close examination of Harvey's story—told previously—showed he had told the Coast Guard the fire was confined to the cockpit area and it was quite possible the child might not have spotted in on the 60-foot ketch.
The answers to the mystery may never be known.
The Bluebelle lies under more than 700 fathoms of water and could never be located, the Coast Guard said.

Austin Students Arouse Founder Of Birch Society

AUSTIN (UPI)—Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, argued Monday night with a television cameraman, lashed out at what he called "hostile young people" in an audience of about 1,200 and spoke for about two hours against Communism.
Welch's basic speech was from a printed text that he has used in previous Texas appearances. He warned of the danger of communism from internal subversion, criticized the United Nations, U.S. foreign aid and infiltration of Communists in the Protestant clergy.
During the speech in the Austin Municipal Auditorium, Welch told cameraman Clyde Butler, representing WFAA-TV of Dallas to "take yourself and that camera out of here."
"It throws my thinking off—just like a shoe about to drop," Welch said when told by Butler the camera was not being run.
After his speech the white-haired Welch answered students' questions. Several of the questions obviously angered Welch. "If you are going to make a speech, hire your own hall," Welch told one questioner.
One bearded youth stood in the balcony and asked Welch why the John Birch Society did not back civil rights causes such as integration.
Welch replied that most "of the drive for integration in the South is Communist inspired." Both boos and applause greeted the reply.
Welch had to cross a picket line of University of Texas students to enter the auditorium. Many of them were recognized by newsmen as members of the "Students for Direct Action," a group which frequently demonstrates for racial integration at the school.

"I knew Rockefeller well since he arrived as a member of the Harvard Peabody Museum expedition to study the headhunter tribes in central New Guinea," Boendermaker said. "He was going after headhunter relics along the coast of the Asmat territory."
"Michael wanted to buy carved shields, totem poles and human heads from the local population. He planned to go down the Islands River and cross the sea to Agats village where 2,000 recently-pacified members of a headhunter tribe live."
"A few weeks ago it was reported to me that members of the headhunter tribe approached the area administrator for permission to go headhunting 'for one evening, only please, sir.'"
"This was because Michael was offering ten steel hatchets for one head. We had to warn him off as he was creating a demand which could not be met without bloodshed... the headhunter tribes have been pacified, but occasionally bloodshed occurs."

tations in Geneva, then the Russians would continue, too.
In London, a British spokesman welcomed the Soviet move but added, "until further study, we do not know what conditions, if any, are attached to the acceptance of the Western proposals."
The Soviet note said the Soviet government has "consistently strived to achieve the ban of the use of nuclear weapons, to discontinue their manufacture, to liquidate stockpiles—and accordingly the cessation of all kinds of nuclear tests for all time."
The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union had been dicker-ing over a nuclear test ban treaty for nearly three years under a voluntary moratorium against nuclear weapons tests.
The Soviet Union abruptly ended the moratorium Sept. 1 by setting off, with a one-day advance warning, a nuclear test explosion in the Arctic.
Since then, according to Western scientists, the Soviet Union has set off more than 30 nuclear explosions, including two in the super-megaton class.
The United States resumed underground nuclear testing after the Soviet action and no test ban talks have been held at Geneva since August.
The Soviet note said that Russia is prepared "to do everything that depends on it to bring nearer the day when the nuclear weapons will forever cease to threaten the lives of people."
"Precisely for this reason," the note continued, "at the 16th session of the General Assembly of the United Nations on Nov. 14 it voted for the draft of the resolution to ban the use of nuclear weapons."
"The Soviet government would welcome similar efforts by the governments of the United States and Great Britain."

Freedom Riders' Group Sentenced

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—Eleven "freedom riders," including the Yale University chaplain, were convicted Monday night of disorderly conduct for attempting to integrate a bus terminal lunch counter last May.
Circuit Judge Eugene Carter sentenced the biracial group to 30 days hard labor and fined each $100. Attorneys for the group filed an appeal.
Carter ruled within two minutes after the prosecution and defense waived closing arguments.
"The court finds all the defendants guilty," the judge announced. When told that one defendant had only a charge of illegal assembly against him, Carter said, "He's just as guilty as the rest."
The 11 posted $750 bonds.
Dr. William S. Coffin, chaplain of Yale University, said he was "disappointed but not surprised" at the conviction.
"The question is will the mob or the state rule," he said. "Peace is not absence of tension but presence of justice."
Dr. John Maguire, assistant professor of religion at Wesleyan College, said the conviction was "fundamentally phony."
He said, "Throughout the trial the state has charged that they were arrested for our own safety but when proven there is no right, the state shows its true color and acts on it as General Graham put it, a challenge to our long standing segregation customs."
The defense had put Adj. Gen. Henry V. Graham, head of the Alabama National Guard, on the stand to testify he once said he was "happy" when the 11 were arrested.

ings, came up for discussion again.
It was pointed out that the city has ordinances covering both violations within the city limits.
City Attorney Bob Gordon and City Manager John Koonz were asked to make a further study of the situation in Pampa and determine methods of procedure to be taken against property owners in enforcement of existing laws which call for a penalty of from $1 to $150 a day fine for each day the violation exists. The two officials were asked to come up with their recommendations next week.
City Manager Koonz told commissioners District Highway Engineer Charles Smith, Amarillo, had advised him that Pampa should send a delegation to Austin to press its case for the improvement of SH 273 on S. Cuyler from the city limits to Brown street.
The commission approved payment of $4,480 to Koch, Fowler and Grate, Dallas engineers, for Report No. 2 on the "Land Use Plan" prepared by the engineers as part of the city's overall planning project. Mayor Sidwell asked the commissioners to study report No. 4 and also indicated the city would make a decision next week as to whether to continue with completion of the work started by the engineering firm.
City Attorney Gordon told the commissioners Pampa's zoning ordinance needs revision and it was pointed out by Commissioner Secret that there are more than 100 businesses located in residential districts contrary to city law.
The commission held a hearing on the recent paving ordinance covering several city streets preparatory to proceeding with assessment legislation to cover the

Alabama Moves Into Hot Seat; Longhorns Fifth

NEW YORK (UPI)—Alabama, pouncing through the stretch of the college football season with a perfect record, grabbed the lead from Texas today in the United Press International weekly ratings.

Twenty-five of the 35 leading coaches who comprise the (UPI) rating board picked Alabama as their No. 1 choice after the Crimson Tide ran its season record to 9-0, by blanking Georgia Tech, 10-0, last Saturday.

Texas, which held down first place, for the past two weeks, skidded to fifth place, following its first defeat of the season at the hands of Texas Christian, 6-0.

The Longhorns drew only one first-place vote after being the top choice of 26 coaches a week ago.

Ohio State, Minnesota and Louisiana State also took advantage of the Longhorns' upset defeat, each moving up a notch. Ohio State took over the runner-up spot, Minnesota jumped to third place and LSU advanced to fourth.

Mississippi was the only member of the top 10 not affected by this week's wholesale shake-up. Ole Miss remained in the sixth slot while Michigan State advanced one notch to seventh. Colorado moved from 10th to eighth Michigan from 14th to ninth, and Arkansas from 16th to 10th.

Purdue dropped from seventh to 13th after losing a 10-7 decision to Minnesota while UCLA, which shared eighth place with Michigan State last week, failed to draw a single vote following its 17-13 loss to Washington.

The second 10 members in addition to Purdue included Utah State, Kansas, Duke, Wyoming, Tech, Notre Dame, Penn State, Rutgers and Wisconsin.

Cincinnati Favored In MVC Chase

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Cincinnati's Bearcats have the horses to repeat as the basketball champions of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). At any rate, they have enough talent to be easily the best team in the Midlands.

Only co-captains Bob Wiesenhahn and Carl Bouldin were lost from the team that wrapped up the NCAA championship and won 27 of 30 games last year.

Among the returnees reporting to Coach Ed Jucker are 6-foot 9-inch Paul Hogue, a 240-pound whiz and a straight "A" student; forward Tom Thacker, and guard Tony Yates. In all, Jucker has 10 returning lettermen and a promising sophomore in 6-foot-7-inch George Wilson.

Expected to come the closest to rivaling Cincinnati for supremacy in the Midlands are St. Louis University, Drake and Kansas State.

St. Louis has seven lettermen back from a team that compiled a 21-9 record, including regulars Tom Kieffer, Donnell Reid and Gary Garrison. And Drake has six returnees, with starters Marvin Torrence, Jerry Foster and Bill Hahn on hand.

Both St. Louis and Drake may give Cincinnati a run for the Missouri Valley Conference Championship, with Bradley, Wichita, North Texas State and Tulsa looking on from the outside.

Kansas State is the class of the Big Eight Conference, despite the loss of high-scoring Larry Comley and rebounding ace Cedric Price. Big Mike Wroblewski, a 6-foot-8-inch veteran who spelled Price last year, is being counted on by Coach Tex Winter to take up a lot of the slack caused by the departure of Price and Comley — Price through graduation and Comley to the pro ranks.

Kansas State has good depth, two fine guards in Richard Ewy and Al Peithman, and a strong rebounder in Pat McKenzie.

Colorado, led by controversial Wilky Gilmore, should be in contention for the Big Eight crown all the way. Gilmore, a 6-foot-5-inch senior whose eligibility was questioned last season and again during the off-season, works equally well from the outside and inside. The Buffs' hopes ride with him — and with his ability to stay eligible.

For the first time in several decades, Kansas is supposed to have only a mediocre ball club. Gone is Bill Bridges, who for three successive years led the conference in rebounding. Also missing is the club's leading scorer for the past two seasons, Wayne Hightower, and two part-time regular forwards, Ralph Heyward and Al Correll. Hightower, Heyward and Correll quit school and Bridges graduated. That leaves only guard Jerry Gardner from last year's starting array.

Royal Expects 'All Out Effort'

By United Press International University of Texas coach Darrell Royal isn't crying over spilled milk and feels his team is ready for "an all-out effort" against Texas A&M Thursday.

The Longhorns, knocked from their perch as the No. 1 team in the nation 6-0 by Texas Christian Saturday, "have excellent character," Royal said Monday.

"We don't have our chins on our chest," he said. "We have our heads up. It takes more character to rise from a fall than it does

Texas Prepared For Ags

MIAMI (UPI)—Louisiana State and Colorado seemed today the likely opponents for the 1962 Orange Bowl game.

The Orange Bowl selection committee issued an "informal invitation" to LSU's Tigers after a meeting Monday.

Acceptance by LSU was expected to be no more than a formality, even if the Tigers lose to underdog Tulane on Saturday. Committee Chairman Van C. Kussrow said the invitation did not hinge on this game.

Southeastern Conference teams are not allowed to accept post season bowl bids until the end of the regular season, Kussrow said the formal invitation would be issued Saturday to LSU.

to avoid falling. We're going to make an all-out effort against the Aggies Thursday. And I hope it will be enough."

Royal said his team will not scrimmage at all preparing for the Cadets. He expressed hope that fullback Ray Poage may see some action. The injured Poage has missed three games and the Longhorns have been hurting for a crushing-type runner of his caliber.

Royal said he felt both teams had enough time to prepare for the game Thursday. "We could play today and that would be one helluva football game," he said.

Maybe Royal would not mind playing today, but with the injury list Texas A&M coach Jim Myers has, Thursday will be soon enough.

Ten Cadets were on the training room roster. At least two of them—tackle George Hogan and guard Jim Phillips—probably will not play in the game at College Station before a national television audience.

Also injured were halfbacks Jim Linnstaeder, Kenneth Kipp and Travis Reagan, end Pat Latham, tackle Ben Krenek, guard Wayne Freiling, fullback Roy Caffey and kickoff specialist Mike Clark.

Southern Methodist also counted its wounded. The injured were right end Norman (Happy) Nelson; left tackle Jim Crowe; quarterback Roger Braugh and center Joe Miller.

The Mustangs travel to Waco for a joust with the Baylor Bears this Saturday. The Bears Monday watched movies of their 31-7 victory over the Air Force Academy.

Arkansas and Texas Tech—foes at Little Rock this weekend—went through light but brisk drills. Trainer Bill Ferrell said the Razorbacks were injury free.

Short sweatshirt workouts also took up most of the time at Texas Christian and Rice.

The Owls meet Texas Christian in Fort Worth Saturday. Rice center Dan Malin, who has been out of the last four games with a knee injury, will be ready for action against the Horned Frogs.

Tigers, Colorado Eyed By Orange

MIAMI (UPI)—Louisiana State and Colorado seemed today the likely opponents for the 1962 Orange Bowl game.

The Orange Bowl selection committee issued an "informal invitation" to LSU's Tigers after a meeting Monday.

Acceptance by LSU was expected to be no more than a formality, even if the Tigers lose to underdog Tulane on Saturday. Committee Chairman Van C. Kussrow said the invitation did not hinge on this game.

Southeastern Conference teams are not allowed to accept post season bowl bids until the end of the regular season, Kussrow said the formal invitation would be issued Saturday to LSU.

Two Starters Return To White Deer Five

White Deer lost three starters and its head basketball coach from the Bucks' state tournament team of last year, which finished third in the class A division.

Gone from the White Deer campus are all-tournament guard Tommy Lester, guard Dickie Hanna and 6-3 forward Bob McAllister. Also missing is Bob Moore, who has taken over the head post at Phillips High School.

Wayne Tipton, ex-Sunray High coach, is the new mentor of the Bucks. He brings a winning record to White Deer and with help from Carl McAdams and Gerald Bichsel, Tipton could bring another district title to Buckland.

Tipson recorded a 140-41 won and loss record at Briscoe, Norwood and Sunray. His 1960 Sunray club went to the class A finals before losing to champion Huntington.

McAdams and Bichsel helped the Bucks to a 32-3 season mark last year. The 6-2 McAdams poured in 22 points against Louise in the battle for third place as White Deer clobbered Louise 64-46.

The Bucks were beaten by state champion, James Bowie in the semi-finals 47-38. White Deer's other two losses were in district 1-A play to Gruver, who won the first half crown.

The girl's team, the Does, are champions also. They posted a 28-6 season mark last year before losing in the regional tourney to Sundown.

Juana Jo Moore, the Does top scorer last season, returns to bolster their hopes for a third straight district title.

Both the boys and girls opened the season last Saturday night against Perryton with the Bucks dropping a 47-41 decision and the Does winning 40-31.

Area Teams Set Playoffs

Area grid teams have set their playoff dates for bi-district and regional contests.

Borger's Bulldogs, the 3-AAAA representative, will host a championship-favored Wichita Falls at Borger Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

In AA, undefeated Quanah plays upset minded Ballinger at Abilene Thursday afternoon at 2:30 and defending state champion Denver City goes against Dalhart at Lubbock at 2 Thursday afternoon.

Gruver, the 1-A kingpin, meets Kress Friday night at Buffalo Bowl in Canyon at 7:30. And in class B, Groom plays Anton for the regional title at Plainview Friday at 7:30.

TIL Lowers Boom On London Team

NEW LONDON, Tex. (UPI)—District 18-A champion New London was bounced from the school-boy football regional playoffs today because of an ineligible player.

New London's Wildcats, which had an 8-2 record through bi-district action, forfeited all 10 games played this season. The Brownsboro Bears will replace New London in the regional match against Groveton's Indians at Nacogdoches Friday night.

The Wildcats, overlooked in most pre-season polls, had beaten previously undefeated Brownsboro 36-16 in a bi-district game last Friday.

Shockers Action Also Scheduled

Coach Terry Culley's Pampa Harvesters take the floor tonight at Hereford in the opening cage game of the 1961-62 season at 8 against the district 1-AAA Whitefaces.

And the Pampa Shockers of coach Roy Kieval will get into action against the Hereford B team at 6:15.

Both Pampa and Hereford are rated high in their respective districts. The Harvesters are the 3-AAAA coaches' choice to capture third slot in the rugged district chase. Hereford is relegated to second place in the 1-AAA race.

Culley announced his starting line-up Monday night for the opener. The Pampa mentor will go with senior and co-captain Lloyd Balch and senior Bobby Neslage at the forwards; junior co-captain Randy Matson at the post and the guards will be juniors Gordon Balch and Wayne Kreis.

Guards C. E. Cantrell, Ronnie Chase and Keith Swanson, forward Harold Burgess and center Jim Storey are due to see plenty of action for the Harvesters tonight.

Matson, who missed several practice sessions last week with bruised ribs, returns as the probable big gun in both the offensive and defensive plans of Culley.

The 6-5 Harvester low post man was the club's leading scorer last season as a sophomore. Now with a year of valuable experience behind him, some observers have tabbed the Pampa ace as a top candidate for all-state honors.

Neslage and L. Balch should give the Harvesters good backboard strength teamed with Matson. And with Kreis and G. Balch sniping from the outside, Pampa could have a well-balanced offense. Chase could be the best outside shooter the locals have. But the diminutive guard is still having trouble with an injury sustained this summer.

L. Balch, G. Balch, Chase, Kreis and Matson are the returning lettermen from the 1960-61 squad.

Hereford returns one starter — and he is a dandy — and three other lettermen. The lone returning first stringer is 5-8 guard Dennis Hodson, a two year regular and a great playmaker.

The Cruel Tax

What would life be like for us today if there had never been a cold war, if Russia and Red China were governed by men bent on living at peace within their own borders?

We know, of course, we would not be wholly free of international disputes. The controversies that embroil the Western allies even when they confront joint peril of defense are sufficient proof of that.

Nevertheless, we would have saved incredible sums of money that have been lavished on our defense establishment, and that of our friends and allies abroad, wholly and solely because of existence of the aggressive threat from Moscow and Peking.

Before World War II, in the 1935-40 span, we averaged a yearly outlay of $1,340,000,000 for defense.

In the first postwar years, the figure ranged from 12 billion to $15 billion, what with higher prices, more elaborate and costlier equipment, enlarged population and hence notions of a "safe" defense.

If we arbitrarily add another 5 billion to cover additional changes in these directions, we have a figure of $20 billion.

It might be regarded as a reasonable annual defense charge covering requirements for internal security, plus our share in any conceivable world policing effort.

Take 1950, at the outbreak of the Korean War, as the point where Communist aggression really began to force our defense outlays above "minimum" levels suitable in a peaceful world.

From that point until the middle of 1962, we will have spent $270 billion more than the proper minimum.

That $270 billion is the staggering price we, as the principal guardian of the free world, have had to pay to buy security in a world imperiled by marauding Communist tyrants.

That is the fabulous insurance premium that has helped us to stem their aggressions, not only against the industrial West but against the weak, underdeveloped and pitifully timid "neutrals" who, standing behind our shield, indulge the luxury of attacking us as "warlike."

Without that shield they would not long be either independent or vocal.

It is a cruel tax Moscow and Peking have levied upon free humanity as it seeks to ward off their depredations, done cynically in humanity's very name.

Lasting Qualities

Diamonds are just lumps of carbon that made good under pressure. Steel is just iron that learned to keep its temper in spite of the heat.

'Planned Obsolescence'

It is fashionable now, and it has been fashionable for decades, to attack business and businessmen. The very persons who are primarily engaged in enriching society and in providing the multitude of goods and services all of us want and require, are apparently the bulseye of nearly everyone's target.

And it must be conceded that businessmen themselves have often failed to live up to their high calling and, hence, have deserved a tiny fraction of the opprobrium which has been heaped upon their shoulders.

But as a rule we believe that attacks on business and businessmen are unfair, even in cases where the business or the manager is vulnerable in fact. Because, taken by and large, who else has done so creditable a job? Who else has worked so hard and profited so fractionally to serve so many?

The architects of abundance are accused of being the architects of almost everything else. Yet, when anyone takes a moment to examine the picture rationally, who else is a major supplier except the major suppliers themselves?

Large in the mind of many is the theme that businessmen and industrialists operate on the basis of a "planned obsolescence." Well written, but badly researched books pump out this line of irrationality and there are millions who buy the idea.

Yet, to accept the idea is to show one's ignorance of the market place and of the real nature of competition. For any firm which planned to make its products break down or wear out would quickly find itself exposed by other firms which had no such plan and would take advantage of the fact.

It should be recalled that even widely held opinions are not necessarily factual. In the 13th, 14th and 15th centuries it was widely believed that the earth was flat. In the 18th and 19th centuries many people believed that snakes did not bite, but rather that they stung with their forked tongues. Only a couple of generations ago, the tomato was considered a deadly poison. Within known history a belief in witches was widespread. Yet none of these things was true.

The host of fears and apprehensions we have had in the past day seem to coalesce against the businessmen.

On this same subject of "planned obsolescence," many believe that American manufacturers of motor vehicles are foisting off on a gullible and defenseless public, machines of unnecessarily high horsepower, huge size and giant tail fins. They are ridiculed as "insolent chariots" with chrome trappings and silly interior decorations. So, it is now being claimed that foreign manufacturers rescued us by importing a line of cheap cars. And there is no doubt that the foreign car market has boomed.

But look again. The "economy" small car is being sold today principally in its luxury models. Public taste as of 1961 is veering away from the tiny models to something more elaborate. 70 per cent of the American "compacts" feature airplane seats and cost at least $60 more than the regular compacts.

One American executive stated: "If we depended on the buyers who consider the automobile only as a means of transportation, we would go bankrupt." In other words, the automobile companies make every effort to meet public taste and if they fail they suffer.

Americans trade in their cars every few years. This may not be true in other countries, but it is true here. And the reason for the trade-in is not that the car had been planned to be obsolete. Take a look at the used car market and estimate the number of miles put on vehicles AFTER they had been traded away by their original owners because they were "obsolete."

American business, in the automotive field or elsewhere, follows the public taste or is overwhelmed in the competitive effort. And better products which perform in superior fashion are always in demand when they can be produced. Good-businessmen try to produce them.

Don't criticize the man who has done more than anyone else to satisfy you, the customer. He may not be perfect. But who compares with him?

Approximately 72 per cent of the world's molybdenum is mined at Climax, Colo.

Hankering

By HENRY McLEMORE

I'm all for one world and for one form of currency for it.

An Esperanto of money if you please.

A type of money that is as good in Tanganyika as in Tampa, in Yuma as on the Yangtze.

Such a world currency would do much to bring men together, ease the path of travelers, break down barriers and — most important — get rid of a fruit jar of mixed money which I have here at home.

I must have a small fortune in that fruit jar. There is money of all shapes, sizes, and denominations. Some is bright and shiny, some is dull and rusty — but it's all money, and should be able to be spent.

I tried to get rid of some of the other day, during one of those minor financial binds that often seize this household. The dry cleaner came to the door, laden with a bundle of clothes, fresh with the fragrance that only dry-cleaned clothes have.

There was no American money to be found. I thought of the fruit jar. The delivery man's eyes were bright with interest as I screwed off the top, perhaps because he thought he was watching a miser tap his hoard.

His eyes lost interest, however, when I offered him three Swiss francs, two Italian 100-lire pieces, a Siamese Tical, and a handful of Peruvian sols.

"What is that stuff?" he asked. "Money, precious money," I said. "Men have fought and died for the stuff you hold in your hand."

"Looks like junk to me," he said. "Better give me some real money."

"That's real money," I said. I pointed to a Swiss franc and a couple of German marks. "That money there is real hard — as hard as there is in the world."

He looked at me as if I must be hard in the head and handed it back. "None of that stuff for me. I don't want to get fired."

"Listen," I said, "your wife can use those coins for buttons. Mine does."

And I was speaking the truth. The wife of every man who travels in foreign countries goes through a foreign coin button phase. During this time they see foreign coins on everything. I have sports shirts that are alive with coins and many of Mary's dresses look as if she had walked through a foreign mint with a sticky dress. Then the crazy dies off and the coins find a home, in a fruit jar.

Really, there should be a universal money. For travelers, at least. It is impossible to get out of a country with no foreign money left over, even if you try to spend it at the last moment at a souvenir counter buying googly-eyed dolls, cheap perfume, tiny knives, and other gimcracks. Not to mention head scarves. We have enough of them to paper the Pentagon.

Or, if a universal form of money is impossible to work out, make it mandatory that dry cleaners accept the foreign coins. That would help.

Obviously, the Council decided to require military officers to submit their addresses for approval, to assign political advisers to top commanders, and to send the NATO Allies a statement on this country's "military position" — and the State Department is executing those decisions.

Also, while congressional investigators can subpoena government officials, there is no way to compel them to testify — if the President orders them, not so.

However, the Senate probes are not wholly without means. They already have considerable information, and are on the trail of other jolting disclosures that may require the State Department to make explanations.

A general idea of the "U.S. military position paper" has been ascertained by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But they have never seen it, and learned about it from NATO sources. The Senate investigators want to know why the State Department ignored the Joint Chiefs on this matter.

STILL STICKING AROUND — Defense Secretary McNamara, either spoke too soon or changed his mind about the resignation of Maurice H. Klein, the National Security Agency official responsible for hiring those two cryptographers who defected to Russia — where they are now presumably breaking codes for the Reds.

No Matter How They Serve It —

WASHINGTON — The Senate committee investigating the muzzling of military officers is running into a frustrating stone wall in obtaining any information from the State Department.

Secretary Dean Rusk is flatly refusing to throw light on three major issues under scrutiny:

—Identity of the State Department officials who are censoring military speeches to ensure they are in line with the Administration's foreign policy.

—Directives and policy guidance papers dealing with the assignment of State Department officials as "advisers" to top military commanders. Also the names of these political advisers.

—A "U.S. military position paper" that the State Department reportedly recently sent to NATO Allies without consulting the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Rusk's ban on supplying the Senate probes with answers to these significant questions covers all State Department employees in the U.S. and abroad.

The committee, headed by Senator John Stennis, D.-Miss., discovered this when its investigators sought to interrogate Department officials both in and out of Washington. In every instance the result was the same. "We are under explicit orders not to talk."

Two counter measures are under consideration by the probes: To take the matter directly to President Kennedy with a request that he overrule Rusk; subpoena State Department officials in an effort to induce them to talk.

Committees frankly admit the main value of these moves is psychological.

It is deemed highly unlikely the President is not fully aware of Rusk's obdurate attitude toward the Senate committee. In taking that stand, the State Department head is acting on authority given him in an unannounced executive order earlier this year.

Under this backstage directive, the State Department was designated as the agency to carry out policies laid down by the National Security Council, over which the President personally presides.

Obviously, the Council decided to require military officers to submit their addresses for approval, to assign political advisers to top commanders, and to send the NATO Allies a statement on this country's "military position" — and the State Department is executing those decisions.

Your Pocketbook

Has any salesman suggested you rent, instead of buying it? Latest figures show that 3 out of every 10 families now are renters of a wide variety of products and that consumer renting is now a $100 million-a-year business.

When should you rent? When should you buy?

You alone can answer these questions, because they pertain to your own pattern of spending. Here are some guides:

Figure how much it costs to own a product. Include the initial purchase price and financing charges if you are not paying cash. Next, figure the cost of maintenance. Finally, survey the use you make of the particular product.

For example, if you need a car for year-round transportation, figure carefully how much that car costs you on a monthly basis — repairs, insurance and gasoline. Query car rental services in your area about the monthly cost of rental, specifying the number of miles you travel and the cost of gas.

Yours will not be a true survey unless your comparison is based on identical car models. You probably will discover that owning in such a case is preferable to renting. If, however, you live in a congested metropolitan area where you only have occasional use for a car, there is little doubt that you'll come out ahead by renting.

Consider a lawn mower. I've been told the average life of a power mower today is 70 hours. Sounds extraordinary, but figure. How long does it take to cut the lawn? How often in a 12-month period do you cut grass? You probably will discover a new power mower will last three years. Now figure the rental on the same basis of hours. Compare the costs.

After you have made both these computations, ask yourself a further question. If you had not invested the dollars in that particular purchase, what might you have done with those same dollars? Every purchase you make should be considered as an investment. Every investment should be made with an eye to making both your dollars grow and the enjoyment of those dollars increase.

Why would anyone rent? Why the trend? Unless it's a building or manufacturing equipment, don't look for a tax advantage. But, there is a subtle trend in our thinking. Yesterday we worshipped possession. Today we worship competence. When you rent you usually get the newest model. If there is any failure of performance, you merely return the product and get a new one in exchange. No repair bills, no annoyances.

The American Way

The United Nations came a step nearer disintegration recently when the delegate from Little Ghana in Africa, asked for the expulsion of the Republic of South Africa from what he termed "this organization of humanity."

The Ghana man objected to certain of South Africa's domestic policies. It was the acme of hypocrisy to call the UN an "organization of humanity" in view of the brutalities imposed on millions of people by some UN member states.

Eric H. Louw, South African Minister of Foreign Affairs, refused to argue against interference in the domestic affairs of his country. Nor would he discuss with the UN committee his country's policy of separate development of its non-white population. It is no concern of the UN, he said, or those member-states that sponsored the resolution for expulsion. Louw rejected the charge that his country "discriminated" against a section of its population and cited the monumental atrocities of the Soviet for taking the road to bloody oppression of its people. Louw pointed out that the Soviet has stained an unenviable reputation throughout the civilized world as perpetrator of unparalleled terrorism and inhumanities, not only within its own borders but on people beyond its frontiers. He cited the tragic case of Hungary and asked what action the UN had taken to end that.

The UN is pledged by its charter to a policy of non-intervention in the internal affairs of any state. Once the UN starts expelling fellow members because of differences of opinion that is the end of the organization. The action against South Africa is of vital concern to the United States. Some of us have been warning that the UN eventually would meddle in our domestic affairs. If the UN can interfere in the domestic affairs of South Africa, how long will it be before some little states of Africa or Asia gang-up to inject themselves in the domestic affairs of the United States? ## Letter Speaks For Family Behind Union's Blackball

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Here are excerpts from a letter sent in by a lady whose husband—a 20-year union man — worked for the losing candidate in a union election, then found it impossible to get work. The National Labor Relations Board found the union wrong and Mr. Matzka right, ordered amends and closed the case. But Matzka is still blackballed and can't make a living.

DEAR MR. EDSON: We have just received a letter from the National Labor Relations Board in St. Louis, Mo., containing two checks made out to my husband for $517.20. One check was from the Boiler-maker's Union, Local 363 in East St. Louis, Ill., for $286.60 and the other from Fluor Corp. for $230.60. The statement attached informed us that this was in payment for loss of work due to Fluor Corporation not hiring my husband when he went to the contractor to ask for work, as the boiler-maker business agent would not put him to work, although he had 29 years in Local 363. This is full payment and out of the National Labor Relations Board's hands, we were told.

The last job my husband received from the Boiler-maker Local 363 was in the spring of 1955. We then had three children and expecting the fourth, so we were very concerned when he didn't get any work. The whole story is in the NLRB files in Washington, D.C., of how the men who had been in the local for many years, were not put to work because they had campaigned for a man to oppose the business agent.

Our story is small compared to others on file, but it looms big to us, because we have never lived a day since my husband filed his suit with the NLRB, we have simply existed. We have lost everything — all of our insurance, my husband's right to work, as they took his card away from him and we are living off the government on public aid, which has humbled two very independent people very much.

Before we received this letter, we had something to look forward to — the time when the NLRB would settle our case. Well they did and my husband didn't even get his card back. (so he is still "blackballed" from every union job in East St. Louis and surrounding territory.)

I look back on these six years and wonder what was accomplished. My husband was told by his lawyer at the NLRB to be on the watch for "goon gangs." I have lived in fear for my children as they walked to school. We have faith, not only in God, but our fellow man. We believe that a man's livelihood should not be taken away from him, and if it is, in this land of America, it will be restored to him.

If we cannot look to the government and the NLRB to settle this case justly, who can we go to?

All of the statements made in court, and the trial examiner's remedy, were in our favor. Not one favorable thing was said for the union officials or the union. Every bit of information we have received from the NLRB (and we have every piece), was filled with hopeful expectations that something would be done to straighten out this local and have a new election for business agent. We were very hopeful of getting my husband's card back.

I called the main man at the NLRB in St. Louis, and asked him the meaning of this, and all he could tell me was that the NLRB really got the people involved too hopeful, and that it was out of his hands, and he felt very sorry for the Matzka family but there was nothing else he or the NLRB could do, except if my husband would go to another contractor and ask for work and start a new suit. I don't think anyone could take six more years of what we have been through.

The most disheartening thing is I think, the shallowness of the National Labor Relations Board. When it was brought into existence it was for the welfare of the men as well as the unions.

Very truly yours, (signed) Mrs. Eric C. Matzka.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 21, the 325th day of the year with 40 more to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning star is Venus. The evening star are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history: In 1877, Thomas A. Edison announced in Menlo Park, N.J., that he had invented a "talking machine."

In 1933, William C. Bullitt began his service as the first United States ambassador to the Soviet Union.

In 1949, former Secretary of State James Byrnes warned that the federal government's fiscal and taxation policies threatened to saddle the nation with socialism and to lead to a concentration of government in Washington.

In 1960, the first direct clash between the Congolese army and United Nations' forces in the Congo occurred in Leopoldville.

A thought for the day: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. said: "Life is an end in itself, and the only question as to whether it is worth living is whether you have enough of it."

Bid For A Smile

A young boy never could seem to remember to wash his hands thoroughly before entering the classroom. Consequently he was never being thrashed for having dirty hands.

One Tuesday morning as he scuffed his way along to the schoolhouse he suddenly remembered that he had been playing with and realized that he would get another thrashing if he didn't do something to clean his hands. Lacking any other means, he licked his right hand as clean as he could.

Lined up for inspection, the boy kept his hands concealed behind his back until the teacher demanded that he show them.

The teacher brought forth his right hand, the one he had licked, and turned it so that the teacher could see both sides.

Teacher (disquieted) — If you can find a dirty hand than that in the entire school, I will let you off.

The lad promptly revealed his left hand and said: "Lad—here it is!"

Up-To-Date State Voting Statutes Urged By Daniel

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Price Daniel asked the Texas Election Law Study Committee today to "bring Texas election laws up to date" and eliminate "ambiguities and conflicts."

Following the governor's introductory remarks, the committee recessed to nominate 10 additional members from county clerks and county chairmen of political parties.

The governor said the committee should maintain "majority control" in elections, to assure that the majority voice is heard in Texas politics. A Democratic Party observer said he took that to mean measures such as the law setting up runoff races for special congressional elections in which no candidate receives a majority in the first election.

The group elected state Sen. Thomas Creighton of Mineral Wells as temporary chairman today and Manuel Debusk of Dallas, one of Daniel's appointees to the group, temporary secretary.

Daniel appointed to the committee Debusk, Gaynor Kendall of Austin, Dallas Republican M. Sims Davidson, Ross Woodall Jr. of Huntsville and Walter G. Sterling of Houston.

House members appointed by Speaker James A. Turman are Reps. V. E. Berry of San Antonio, Ronald Bridges of Corpus Christi, Bob Eckhardt of Houston, Howard Green of Fort Worth, and Mauro Rosas of El Paso.

Senate members appointed by Ben Ramsey when he was lieutenant governor are Sens. Thomas Creighton of Mineral Wells, Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin, Abraham Kazen of Laredo, Jarrard Secrest of Temple and Bill Moore of Bryan.

False Teeth Fail To Prove Point

DENISON, Tex. (UPI)—A teller at the drive-in window of a Denison bank was astounded. He figured the guy in the car outside was trying to put the bite on the bank.

The man was a stranger, and he wanted to cash a check. The only identification he offered, when asked, was to take his false teeth out and show the name imprinted on the plate.

"I'm sorry," the teller said. "But I have to have something with your signature, and I'm afraid that won't be enough."

Later, the teller did some probing in dental circles and found that during the war soldiers with false teeth had their names and serial numbers put on plates to serve as identification in case they were lost, or the owner should be killed.

Firm Will Build N. Y. Skyscraper

NEW YORK (UPI)—Springs Mills, Inc., one of the nation's largest cotton manufacturers, disclosed today it will construct a 21-story office and showroom building in mid-Manhattan. The Springs building is expected to be completed in late 1962.

General Irked By Army's Call To Reserve Men

BOSTON (UPI)—The commanding general of the Army Reserve's 94th Infantry Division said today the "crisis is over," and all ready reservists activated because of it should be released as soon as draftees can be called up and trained.

Maj. Gen. Michael J. Galvin said the government should "not call up ready reserves again to support diplomatic offensives in a cold war that may last a generation."

Galvin's statement was before a committee of the state legislature, studying mobilization and civil defense needs of the state.

"The 1961 call-up handed Mr. Khrushchev the unlimited power to turn it into a 'wolf' cry by merely ending the crisis. This Khrushchev has done," he said.

Galvin asked: "Will Congress support another call-up of ready reserves in 1963 to support a diplomatic move to counter another Khrushchev crisis; and then do it all over again in 1965?"

Galvin is a vice president of the Reserve Officers Association and represents the 70,000 man organization in its dealings with the Army.

Notes from the foreign news cables:
Equal Rights:
The Italians are getting tough with U.S. and British airlines over the matter of reciprocal landing and traffic rights. Talks with the United States on Alitalia's request for permission to land at Pacific Coast cities have broken down. The United States has refused, until Italy turns over traffic statistics, which Alitalia so far has declined to do. In return, Italy is threatening to refuse Rome landing rights either to TWA or Pan American.

Red China also made Nepal a present of three airplanes.
