Peace Prize Given Late UN Leader

OSLO (UPI) — The late United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld won the 1961 Nobel Peace prize today, the first time the award has gone to a dead man.

At the same time, the Nobel Peace Prize Committee awarded its previously vacant 1960 award to South Africa's Albert Lutuli, a native nationalist leader.

Hammarskjöld was killed along with 15 other persons in a plane crash in Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, on Sept. 18 while on a peace mission to the Congo. His name, which had been mentioned for the peace prize in the past, came strongly into contention in the wake of his death.

As usual, the committee gave no reason for its decision, apart from the terse communique issued by the secretariat of the Nobel Institute here.

The communique said: "The Nobel committee of the Norwegian National Assembly has decided to give the Nobel peace prize for 1961 to Albert John Lutuli. The prize for 1961 has been awarded Dag Hammarskjöld post mortem. The prize money for 1961 will be placed at the disposal of Dag Hammarskjöld's estate. The prize for 1960 is $42,600 and the prize for 1961 is $48,200."

The Congo mission which was his last was part of the long and arduous struggle for peace that marked Hammarskjöld's days as secretary general.

In November 1956, his quiet diplomacy accomplished the virtually impossible in a moment of life and death for the United Nations when he managed to get the first troops of a U. N. emergency force into positions along the true line between Egypt and Israel.

Before that Hammarskjöld diplomacy had arranged a cease-fire between the two. Then he followed up by obtaining permission from a sovereign nation—Egypt—for establishment of U. N. troops on its soil.

Before that, he had made a "mission to Peking" to talk the Communist Chinese regime into freeing 15 American fliers held in Red prisons.

Then came his successful peace mission of getting the U. N. peace force into the Middle East in the wake of the British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt.

Tragedy Strikes A Second Blow

STUTTGART, Ark. (UPI) — A Cotton Belt freight train killed five persons in two separate accidents 18 miles apart Sunday.

Engineer J. U. Rector, 61, had been railroading more than 36 years without being involved in a fatal accident. Then, in the space of two hours, that perfect record was wiped out twice.

Rector was taking the "No. 1 motor special" between Jonesboro and Pine Bluff when the train smashed into a pickup truck at a flasher crossing and killed three of the truck's four occupants.

A few minutes after the wreckage was cleared, the train killed a mother and child who stumbled onto the tracks into its path just 18 miles from the scene of the first accident.

Rector was anxious to get home. His wife is in the hospital recovering from minor surgery. His mother and father-in-law had come from Rison, Ark., to help take care of his 12-year-old son, Gary.

As he neared the crossing at Stuttgart, his hand rested on the whistle cord. He tugged gently and escaping steam shrieked its warning, once, twice. Then he yanked the cord frantically.

"Good grief!" he yelled. He clawed at the emergency brake, but he knew there was nothing he could do.

The train plowed broadside into the pickup truck, trapped the twisted wreckage underneath and carried it nearly three-quarters of a mile down the tracks before grinding to a halt.

Killed were Elzie Smith, Flavella Ransom and Mrs. Willie B. Smith, all of nearby Almyra. Mrs. Smith's husband, the driver, was critically injured.

"It looked like the truck was trying to run a race to the crossing," Rector told state troopers.

The small town of Almyra is about 18 miles down the track from Stuttgart. Charles Farrer was working at a service station a short distance across the tracks from his home.

Deputy sheriff Tom Smithey said Farrer saw his 24-year-old wife and three children coming to visit him, then heard his wife scream.

Charles Stevens Farrer, 3, jerked loose from his mother's hand and ran toward the tracks as Rector's train rounded a curve — its shrill whistle screeching.

"Charles, come back!" Mrs. Farrer called. She told Wando Jo, 5, to stay back and then ran to catch Charles. In her arms was 2-year-old Charlotte Lee.

Charles dashed across the tracks safely in front of the train. But Mrs. Farrer stumbled and fell on the tracks. She and her youngest daughter were killed.

Mammoth Nuclear Blast Set Off In Russian Zone

U. S. Doubtful Megaton Bomb Actually Fired

By United Press International

Swedish and French detection stations reported today that the Russians had exploded a gigantic nuclear device in the Arctic which "probably" was Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's promised 50-megaton bomb.

There was no immediate confirmation from the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. On the basis of preliminary reports, U.S. officials said they were skeptical that this actually was Khrushchev's 50-megaton weapon.

Reports of the blast came first from Sweden's Uppsala University seismological institution and then from the French atomic energy commission. Both have recorded and announced previous Soviet nuclear explosions in the current series.

The Uppsala institution recorded the explosion at 2:35 a.m. CST. It was set off in the Russian testing zone at Novaya Zemlya.

Markus Booth, a spokesman for the institution, said "it seems probably that this explosion was caused by the 50-megaton bomb which Khrushchev reported would be detonated toward the end of this month."

Several hours later the French agency said it had detected a "very, very powerful" explosion which was "probably of the 50-megaton size."

The French spokesman said his statement was based on first information obtained through seismological and acoustic instruments. He said they showed the test took place in the atmosphere where it would produce heavy radioactive fallout.

In Washington, AEC officials responded with "no comment" when asked if this really was Khrushchev's super bomb.

A congressional source said that as far as he could tell "the AEC was not in a position to identify the explosion to either confirm or deny the French and Swedish reports."

The Uppsala seismograph is one of the Western observatories closest to the Soviet Union's testing grounds. It has detected and analyzed nuclear tests in the past.

Yanks March Into East Berlin To Aid Diplomat

BERLIN (UPI) — Nine American soldiers carrying M14 rifles with bayonets fixed marched into East Berlin twice Sunday to help a U.S. diplomat get past Communist East German border guards.

It was the first such American military operation ever carried out here. It served blunt notice to the Communists that the United States will use force if necessary to defend its rights in Berlin.

The surprised East Germans made no move to resist the American soldiers.

The U.S. Berlin command lodged a strong verbal protest with the Soviet command in East Berlin and was expected to follow this up with a written protest.

The incident was touched off when East German border guards stopped E. Allan Lightner, 53-year-old chief of the U.S. diplomatic mission in Berlin, as he drove across the Friedrichstrasse border crossing point.

The guards refused to let him pass because he would not show his identity card. The United States insists only Soviet military personnel have the right to ask for such identification.

Eight military policemen led by a 1st lieutenant marched across the white line and 200 feet to Lightner's car. Lightner's wife was sitting beside him. The MP's escorted the car two blocks into East Berlin and then out again past the Communist checkpoint.

The East Germans melted away at the approach of the soldiers and made no move to interfere.

Fifteen minutes later, Lightner drove back to the checkpoint, this time with another State Department official instead of his wife, and the East Germans stopped him again.

The American soldiers repeated their previous escort maneuver with the same success. This time three more jeepsloads of Americans were drawn up at the border. Two blocks away were four M48 tanks and four armored personnel carriers, but they were not needed.

The march into East Berlin was unprecedented. It was believed to have been ordered by Gen. Lucius B. Clay, President Kennedy's personal representative here.

After the two rescues, Lt. Col. Robert A. Sabolyk, Army provost marshal, went into East Berlin and delivered a "very strong" oral protest to a Soviet colonel.

After the protest, Lightner drove into East Berlin a third time and was not stopped. Other American automobiles followed him.

Nixon Defended By GOP Woman As Meet Opens

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — An estimated 500 women from six states registered today for a two-day regional convention of the Federation of Republican Women.

Mrs. Clare B. Williams of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Washington, D. C., may have set the tone of the meeting Sunday when she stood up for California gubernatorial candidate and former Vice President Richard Nixon in his dispute with former California governor Goodwin Knight.

Mrs. Williams, assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, said she believed Nixon when he said he did not try to bribe Knight not to oppose him in the California GOP primary.

"I think this has been exaggerated. If he says he didn't, he didn't," she said.

Nixon was accused of offering to make Knight chief justice of the state Supreme Court if he would stay out of the primary.

Mrs. Williams also commented on Texas politics, saying she thinks former Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jack Cox showed good judgment when he switched to the GOP.

Cox has said he will seek the governor's job again, this time as a Republican.

Mrs. Williams said Sunday during a stopover in Dallas that many Texas Democrats are Republicans at heart.

"Their party ran off and left them a long time ago. They are not Democrats in their philosophy — their principles are Republican," she said.

She charged that Democratic party leaders have "adopted socialistic and radical principles of governmental philosophy."

Delegates to the Fort Worth meeting came from Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arizona.

Khrushchev Foe Openly Scathed At Party Meet

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Kremlin publicly humiliated 80-year-old former Soviet President Kliment Voroshilov to his face today for opposing Premier Nikita Khrushchev in the 1957 "anti-party" plot.

Time and again the red-faced former army hero tried to interrupt his denunciation by Russian Republic Premier Dmitri Polyansky in front of the 5,000 delegates to the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress.

Each time the chairman banged down his gavel, drowning out Voroshilov's words.

Voroshilov sat in a platform chair only a few feet away while Polyansky scolded his 1937 apology that "the devil had misled me" into joining the anti-Khrushchev faction led by former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Polyansky demanded that the aged former-defense minister and ex-president be held fully responsible along with the other members of the now deposed opposition group.

Khrushchev opened the congress last Tuesday by saying Voroshilov had apologized, but he linked Voroshilov with Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Georgi Malenkov in his charge that they took part in the Stalin era's mass repressions.

Polyansky said Voroshilov apologized only to cover up his responsibility for the bloody purges, especially those in the army.

Voroshilov served as defense commissar in 1936-38 when hundreds of top-ranking officers were arrested and the officer corps was decimated. His own deputy, Marshal Mikhail Tukhachevsky, and other top generals were shot.

The attack on Communist dissidents at today's session of the congress was led off by American party leader Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who heaped abuse on little Albania for its Stalinist ways.

Mountain Snowstorm Strands 500 Hunters

By United Press International

Stranded hunters beat their way from snow-clogged passes in the northern Rockies today and the worst flood in 17 years inundated farms along Virginia's James River.

Gale winds and high tides subsided from New York to northern New England today after the passage of tropical storm Gerda.

A slow-moving cold front which brought snow and day-long near-freezing temperatures to North Dakota Sunday advanced into the corn belt, dropping the mercury 10 or more degrees as it passed.

Some 500 hunters were caught in the mountains of Utah and southern Idaho by a storm which dropped up to four inches of snow over the weekend. The greatest concentration of the stranded occurred near Burley, Idaho, where more snow was expected.

National Guardsmen and local authorities took snow vehicles into the mountains to rescue the hunters. Food drops from planes were planned in areas isolated by snow-blocked highways. The rescuers were hampered by breakdowns in telephone service to the Twin Falls-Burley area due to the storm.

The storm hit after hunters took to the woods Saturday for the opening of the deer season in Utah and Idaho. It left up to four feet of snow in some mountain areas.

Snow also fell in parts of Montana and North Dakota. West Yellowstone, Mont., reported 9 inches.

Virginia's James River was expected to crest nine feet above flood stage today. Virginia's western highlands had 11 inches of rain over the weekend while tropical storm Gerda plowed northward through the Atlantic.

The floodwaters blocked roads in Virginia's Wight, Louisa and Goochland counties. Although few homes were endangered, the flood jeopardized livestock and farmers were moving their animals to higher ground.

The flood covered the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad tracks in Goochland County, forcing rerouting of trains.

Mile-a-minute winds and tides lowed the action in Cantor's case.

Venue Change Sought In Trial Of 2 Killers

RUSSELL, Kan. (UPI) — Attorneys for two teen-age killers today used different defense methods in the murder trial's opening session.

The two, George Ronald York, 18, and James Douglas Latham, 19, admitted killing seven persons in a five-state crime spree between May 29 and June 10.

They are being tried for the slaying of Otto Ziegler, a 63-year-old trainmaster for the Union Pacific Railroad. The defendants, who walked away from a stockade at Ft. Hood Tex., May 24, are charged with shooting Ziegler after encountering him on a lonely highway near Sharon, Kan., in the western part of the state.

York's court-appointed attorney, Bernard E. Whalen, argued for either a second change of venue, or for a continuance. He said the 150-mile distance between his home in Goodland, Kans., to Russell, had prevented him from consulting with his client.

Jesse I. Linder, Latham's attorney, plans to present positions from several Army psychiatrists who had examined both defendants. They had been under psychiatric treatment at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.

The defendants admitted killing six other persons in Florida, Tennessee, Illinois, Colorado and Kansas.

A court appointed commission, which examined them after their capture, ruled them sane.

Canadian Cold Front Arrives

By United Press International

A Canadian cold front spread cool air across the northern half of Texas today and the Weather Bureau said it will trigger scattered showers over some sections of the state this afternoon and tonight.

The chilly air shoved into the Panhandle during the night and overspread the rest of northern Texas as the front moved across the state in a southwesterly direction.

The cold front, described as weak by the Weather Bureau, was expected to cause only a moderate temperature drop in North Texas and almost none in South Texas.

The mercury dipped to 29 degrees early today at Dalhart, the lowest reading in the state. The highest overnight minimum was 70 at Corpus Christi.

The showers would be the first rain in Texas in more than a week. The Weather Bureau called for rain in extreme northeastern Texas and along the coast in south central and southeastern sections.

Otherwise, partly cloudy skies and cooler temperatures are on tape for northern portions today and the same for southern sections through Tuesday.

Temperatures rose into the 90s and high 80s over much of the state Sunday ahead of the front. Wink, in the lower South Plains, had a maximum of 94 degrees, highest in the nation. Childress had 91 and Lubbock and Amarillo reported 89. Coldest maximum was Galveston's high of 76 degrees.

Economists See Business Upturn

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's leading economists expect 1962 to be a record-breaking year with both consumer and wholesale prices edging upward, a survey showed today.

The consensus of 316 economists polled by F. W. Dodge Corp. is that all major business indicators will advance, many of them setting new records.

The total production of goods and services, the broadest measure of the nation's economic vigor, is expected to increase to $555 billion by the fourth quarter of next year, a 10 per cent rise over the second quarter of 1961.

The economists also predict that the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production will hit a record high of 122 per cent of the 1957 average. The latest reading was 112 per cent.

Nearly all the economists canvassed expressed the opinion that federal defense expenditures will be rising fairly sharply into 1962 and that increased government outlays will be the most important short-range stimulant for the economy.

Gale warnings were up on Lake Superior along the leading edge of a vast cold air mass which stretched from upper Michigan to Texas.

Little Hope Held For Negotiating Berlin Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk sees no prospect of immediate negotiations with the Soviet Union over Germany and Berlin.

Rusk made the statement Sunday shortly before U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson left for Moscow where he eventually is expected to resume exploratory talks with Soviet officials on the Berlin issue. Thompson is scheduled to arrive in Moscow Tuesday.

In a television interview ABC — Issues and Answers Rusk made it clear the West is negotiating from a position of strength. He said that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "must know that we are strong."

Rusk said he was among top government officials who approved a speech Saturday night in which Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric said that U.S. nuclear weapons were numbered in the tens of thousands.

Gilpatric's speech was described by Rusk as "a well considered," "official" statement giving "the facts in the present situation." He added, "I think that it is important for our public and the rest of the world to know the essential facts."

Nuclear War Perils Not Making People Jittery, Expert Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans really getting "hysterical" over the danger of nuclear war, as many Europeans think? A prominent psychiatrist said today he doesn't believe they are.

"There's a difference between serious concern about the world situation and panic," said Dr. Jerome Frank, professor of psychiatry at John Hopkins University.

"I think there's a good deal of the former, but I don't detect much of the latter."

Although fallout shelters have become a topic of dinner-table and cocktail party conversation, he said in an interview, this doesn't necessarily mean that Americans have developed a collective anxiety neurosis.

"We are a great people for fads," he said. "Remember how the hula hoop swept the country? And the Yo-Yo? Well, right now it's the thing to do to talk about building a fallout shelter. Among my personal acquaintances, however, I know very few who have gone beyond talking and have actually built shelters."

What effect will all this talk have on children? Will they conclude from their parents' conversation that there's not much point in working hard at schools, or otherwise preparing themselves for a highly uncertain future?

"Children are far more likely to be affected by how adults behave than by what they say. Parents who are really frightened will communicate their jitters to their children even if they never mention war in their presence. But if children sense that their parents are taking the whole thing calmly, and going ahead with life in a normal way, they'll probably do the same, regardless of the scare words that may be gibbered around in their presence."

Frank said the greatest psychological danger of too much talk about nuclear war is that it may weaken the determination of adults to avoid such a conflict.

"If we go on talking blithely about 70 million casualties, and coolly estimating whether 10 or 22 per cent of the people in a certain area might survive, we may get hardened to prospects from which rational human beings should recoil in horror," he said.

"Instead of regarding nuclear war as an unthinkable course which must be avoided, we may find ourselves growing used to the idea of wholesale destruction. I think that would be an extremely dangerous state of mind for people to get into."

Gas Well Fire Still Rages In Waters Of Bay

GALVESTON (UPI) — Workmen were preparing today to drill a directional well in an effort to stem a $300,000 gas well burning out of control in Galveston Bay.

The 13,000-foot well, owned by Humble Oil and Ref. Co., caught fire Sunday afternoon after blowing out while workmen tried to close it off. No one was injured.

Nearly wells were shut down and Coast Guard boats patrolled the area, keeping other boats a mile away from the fire. The well was in Redfish reef field about two miles northeast of the Houston Ship Channel.

John S. Bell, Houston area manager for Humble's southwest region, said the fire may burn out before the directional well is completed. The directional well will cost more than $300,000 and take 60 to 90 days to complete, Bell said.

"The burning well may remain on fire all that time," Bell said. "But then again it may burn itself out tomorrow."

Famed Houston firefighter Red Adair was called in for consultation with Humble.

Bell said conventional firefighting methods were impossible because the source of the fire is below the water line.

C-C Banquet Will Be Held Thursday Eve

The annual membership banquet of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria.

Principal speaker will be William J. Bird, vice president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. of San Francisco, Calif.

Approximately 400 persons from Pampa and neighboring towns are expected to attend the banquet.

Bird, formerly with the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and the United States Chamber, is one of the nation's outstanding after-dinner speakers. He spoke in Pampa in 1954 at the annual chamber meeting and scored a hit with those in attendance.

Tickets are on sale at the Chamber office, with a limited number still available for Thursday night's meeting.

Russell Rites Slated Today

Funeral services for Donald Russell, 29, were held at 3 p.m. today in the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home with Jay Channell, minister of the Harvester-Mary Ellen Church of Christ, officiating.

Russell was found dead by his mother, Mrs. D. Russell, at 7:17 p.m. Saturday in his art workshop, 501 E. Browning. The mother told the police that he had left home at 5:30 p.m. Saturday to work on some modernistic paintings in his workshop.

Officers said they found a note written by Russell saying he had taken ten sleeping pills. Verdict as to the cause of death is expected this afternoon.

Russell was born Nov. 29, 1931 in Duncan, Okla. He came with his family from Bartlesville, Okla. in 1941 and made his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Russell at 723 N. Dwight. He was graduated from Pampa High School in 1950.

Palbearers were Arthur Orth, Odie Shelly, Ira Carlton, Roger Long, Everett Leland, and Lloyd Kuntz.

Interment was planned in Fairview Cemetery.

J. E. Foran, Jr. Rites Wednesday

Interment rites for James Edward Foran Jr., 38, x-ray technician, will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Hobart Street Baptist Church with the Rev. John Dyer, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Foran, born April 23, 1923 in Cincinnati, Iowa, died at 2:15 yesterday in the home of his mother, Mrs. Irene Whisler, in Oklahoma City, Okla.

He moved to Pampa in 1924 from Iowa; was a member of the First Christian Church and a 32nd degree mason. He was graduated from Pampa High School in 1941

Broker Reveals Tax Loss Plan In Stock Buying

NEW YORK (UPI) — Suppose you sell a certain stock for a tax loss and while you are waiting the required 31 days to buy it back again, it makes a big recovery in price.

Too bad, but if you had followed this advice from Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co. you could have established your tax loss and gotten in on the recovery too.

"Suppose, for example, you originally purchased 100 shares of XYZ at $7. Now the quotation is down to 21. So, you go into the market immediately and buy another 100 shares at 21. Then you wait 31 calendar days (to avoid a wash sale penalty) and liquidate the original 100 bought at a lofty price. You still retain 100 shares and will be protected in case the market quotation for XYZ recovers at some date in the future."

The final day of the year for this so-called "doubling-up" process figures out to be Nov. 28, Grimm notes.

Although recent markets have not treated too kindly some of the so-called glamor issues in a general downgrading of growth factors, there have been intermittent signs of accumulation in those issues whose potentials are clear and practical enough to wager hard cash on their fulfillment, says Thomson & McKinnon.

During the past three weeks, Bache & Co. notes, Dow Jones industrials have established a clear trading range between 689 and 714. "It appears likely that near-term action will continue to be confined within these limits."

and was in the Marine Corps in 1940 for a short time.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his father, Edward Foran of Pampa, two half-brothers, Tommy and Richard Foran, both of Pampa; his grandmother, Mrs. Orpha Barton of Lebanon, Mo.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery with Floyd Hatcher, Charles Hatcher, Ray Duncan, Mage Keyser, James Evans and Jerry Thomas as pallbearers.

History and Function of United Nations Speaker's Topic For Parent Education

The history, organization and function of the United Nations were discussed by Mrs. Gene Hall at a meeting of the Parent Education Club held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Tom Snow, 207 N. Gray.

Mrs. Hall stated that the formation of the United Nations began in 1941, when nine European governments signed the Inter-Allied Declaration, which declared the only basis for lasting peace was the willing cooperation of nations that are free of aggression.

"In 1942," Mrs. Hall stated, "Roosevelt, Churchill, T. V. Soong of China and Maxim Litvinov of Russia signed the declaration by the United Nations and 47 nations signed."

"The main organs or divisions of the United Nations are the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council, the Trusteeship Council, the International Court of Justice and the Secretariat."

Wesleyan Guild With Mrs. White

Miss Ila Pool presented a program on "Ten Safety Signs For Good Mental Health" for the Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist Church at a meeting held recently in the home of Mrs. Frankie White, 610 N. Frost. Mrs. Diana Wood was co-hostess.

Following hymns, Mrs. Gladys Turner brought thoughts of devotion followed by prayer.

Miss Pool, as moderator for the lesson taken from Dr. Ralph Sockman's book, "Suffering" introduced Mrs. Grace Boston, whose topic was "Pain"; Miss Alma Wilson, who discussed "Disability"; Mrs. L. D. Wilkerson, "Mental and Physical Illness"; Mrs. F. White, "Faith" and "Healing."

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Rachel Jones, Mrs. Mildred Cook announced that the "Week of Prayer and Self Denial" service is to be held in the First Methodist Church Chapel on Oct. 30 from 7:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. for the Guild membership and for others who would like to spend a quiet hour in prayer.

Attending the meeting, other than those previously mentioned, were Mrs. Laura Penick, Ethel Johnson, Irene Smith; Mrs. Julian Key, special guest; Misses Inez Clubb, Lillian Mullinax, Margaret Wilkerson and Lou Ella Patterson.

Teenagers Feted At Tacky Party

LEFORS (Spl) - Mrs. John Roberts and Mrs. Tom Gee were hostesses in the civic center Tuesday night for a teen-age tacky party.

Mrs. Douglas Carver, 1708 Charles on Oct. 25 at 9:30 a.m.

JACKIE SHAW CIRCLE met in the home of Mrs. Bob Andis, 1710 Mary Ellen with Mrs. C. F. Crowson offering opening prayer. Mrs. Jerry Lunsford conducted the business meeting. Bible study, "Sharing My Savior in the Home" was taught by Mrs. Glenn Miller. Closing prayer was by Mrs. A. J. McLain. Thirteen members were present. Mrs. Arthur Bullock, 1320 N. Starkweather, will be hostess for the Oct. 25 meeting.

Halloween Party Planned By Club

GROOM (Spl) - The Juniors 4-H Club met in the Home Economics Room at the Groom School Building recently with Miss Janice Britten presiding. Roll call was answered with a favorite poem.

Plans were made for a 4-H Halloween party to be held later this month at which time the county agents will discuss 4-H work with parents.

First aid kits are made by each of the girls. Twila Wade closed the meeting with a song.

Present were, Carol Garmon, a visitor, Wanna Sue Garmon, Sandra Kotara, Janice Britten, Pam and Karen Ollinger, Tanja Weatherly, Jane Hudson, Twila Wade, and Mrs. Sam Kotara, leader.

Mrs. Hall brought out that "the United Nations considers problems and makes recommendations to member nations concerning the decisions made by the majority of the nations represented. Among the problems handled by the UN are Arab-Israeli Armistice, Indonesian-Netherlands Dispute, Korean War, Suez Canal Crisis and the Congo revolt."

Mrs. W. J. Derington, president, presided during the business meeting as proposed changes in the club's constitution were vetoed.

The next meeting for the group will be on Nov. 7 at 2:45 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Hall.

Janice James Feted At Party

LEFORS (Spl) - Janice James celebrated her twelfth birthday with a party after school in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Games, west of town on Thursday afternoon.

A scavenger hunt, a sack race, bean race and other yard games were played.

Cup cakes were served, ice cream, and favors of packages of gum were given.

"A Child And His Money" Forms Topic For Goodwill Home Demonstration Meet

Goodwill Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. W. E. Autry, 1424 N. Russell for a program on "A Child and His Money" presented by Mrs. John Brewer.

The speaker brought out that a child has to learn to manage his money just as he has to learn to read and write. "Management is started when he first gets an allowance. He should be allowed to work for extra money but not for an allowance. The allowance should be increased as child grows older. Have set rules for allowance but not too many restrictions."

Dear Abby...

Boys Can Run Faster Than Girls
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a son who just finished college, and is about to enter a theological seminary. He has wanted to be a minister since he was 16. He is a good-looking, athletic, wholesome boy who has had an average social life.

He dislikes bold girls who wear sweaters and tight skirts, but he is now being chased by girls looking for marriage. It is the present custom for young men to marry before entering the seminary. Girls bombard him with phone calls, invitations to parties, etc. I do not want to offend the girls but, when I grew up, the men did the courting. Nothing will drive him to a celibate life sooner than aggressive girls. These girls are running him ragged. What can I do?

DEAR MOTHER: A young man with the obvious moral training and spiritual aspirations of your son does not need anyone to run interference for him. Relax. Mother: I have never heard of a boy who couldn't run faster than a girl in a tight skirt.

DEAR ABBY: We are four girls who would like to know how old a girl should be before she can (1) Shave her legs. (2) Wear make-up. (3) Go in cars with boys.

PATTI, CAROL, LINDA AND JOAN

DEAR P. C. L. AND J.: Girls can do the above-mentioned things when their own mothers decide they are ready. It is up to each mother to make these de-

Technical Data Given On Perils Of Fallout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Since man unleashed the explosive power of the atom 16 years ago "fall-out" has become a household word with a sinister meaning.

It has taken an even deadlier nuance since Sept. 1. That was when Russia broke the tri-power voluntary test ban moratorium with a series of atmospheric tests known to total 20. Now Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has announced the tests will conclude Oct. 30 or 31 with a mighty blast equivalent to 50 million tons of TNT.

But what is fallout? How is it measured, and what do the figures mean? Fallout consists of radioactive particles deposited in the troposphere and stratosphere as a result of nuclear explosions. These particles descend on the earth gradually but irregularly over a period up to several years.

Fallout is measured by counting the radioactive particles, so-called Beta nuclides, contained in one cubic meter of air near the surface. The unit of measurement is the micro-microcurie, equivalent to one millionth of one millionth of one curie. One curie is the amount of radiation produced by one gram of radium.

Fallout resulting from the explosions contains about 200 different nuclides. Their radioactivity lasts for different periods of time. Only five of them are believed to affect human health. Among these, strontium-90 and cesium-137 are considered the most dangerous.

Strontium-90 is a long-lived radio-isotope. It gets into plants and thence into milk and from there into human bones. Very young children whose diet includes a large amount of milk and whose bones are growing, absorb more strontium-90 than adults.

In large amounts—large in comparison with those caused by test fallout—strontium-90 can cause bone cancer in laboratory animals. It may also cause leukemia.

Cesium-137 is more widely distributed in the human body than strontium-90 and may thus more easily reach the reproductive organs, possibly causing miscarriages and genetic mutations.

The micro-microcurie count by itself does not definitely indicate how dangerous fallout in a certain region is. Scientists say it is impossible to state that so-and-so many micromicrocuries are the maximum humans can withstand. But some contend that any "prolonged increase in radiation may be harmful, particularly to future generations.

It all depends on the composition of the fallout; and where the five or so types of nuclides which are considered dangerous ultimately end up.

Scientists believe there is little danger from direct "dusting" of people with the comparatively small amounts of fallout registered thousands of miles from a test site.

The danger arises from radioactive particles which are absorbed by food and fodder plants and ultimately get into people through vegetables, fruit, milk and meat. The micro-microcurie count of the atmosphere has little bearing on this.

Protection guidelines established by U.S. scientists state that humans can consume milk giving a count of 33 micro-microcuries per litre for an entire lifetime without suffering ill effects.

Scientists insist, however, that such statements constitute only estimates which may be highly inaccurate.

"How much can man stand?" is a question that may never be answered, because experiments in which humans are subjected to radiation until they die or develop cancer or leukemia are not feasible. Besides, there is some reason to believe that different individuals react differently.

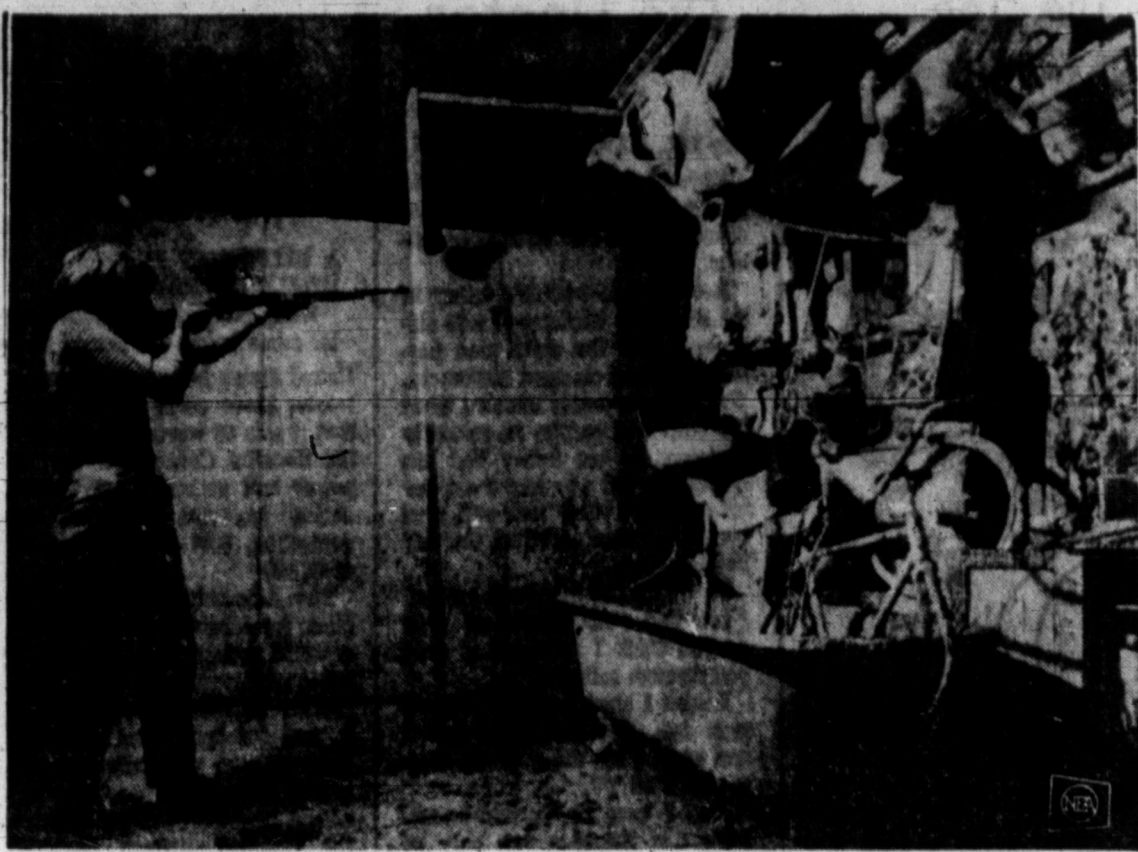

Texas Teachers End Convention

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Texas State Teachers Association closed its largest gathering in its 83-year history Saturday on a harmonious note by electing Mrs. Fred B. Norris of Corpus Christi as president.

Mrs. Norris, a Corpus Christi classroom teacher, succeeds Dr. D. Richard Bowle of Austin as head of the 78,000 member organization.

Egyptian pyramids contain plasterwork still hard and durable that was executed 4,000 years ago, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Americans spend about 1.7 billion dollars annually for dental care.

BANG OUT OF HER WORK—Spurning the traditional brush and palette, French artist Niki de Saint-Phalle uses a .22 caliber rifle to create her latest masterpiece in Copenhagen, Denmark, where she is having a show. Niki's technique is to assemble such inspiring items as old shoes, bathtubs and broken bicycles. Bags filled with paint or eggs are then hung about and Niki blazes away at them, letting the ooze fall where it may. The result is sheer artistry. Question: should it be displayed in an art gallery or a shooting gallery?

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

PARIS — An American official here calls it "yo-yo diplomacy." It is the combination by which Nikita Khrushchev first ships the world out to the end of a string with threats and then reels in again with sweet talk as suits his purpose.

This official believes it is time the world got off the string. This dispatch is written at the end of a week of talks with high French and NATO officials in which they spoke frankly of problems ranging from Berlin to Laos but with the condition that any information used later would not be directly attributed to its source.

However, the views are authoritative. The French government believes it is receiving adequate reports on Washington and United Nations discussions of the Berlin problem.

However, it is not entirely certain it knows President Kennedy's and Secretary of State Dean Rusk's exact thinking on Berlin or the German problem as a whole.

It opposes any move to extend talks on Berlin to the question of European security. It opposes any concessions on Berlin which might lead to a "creeping neutrality" over Western Europe. The French believe this not only would lead to eventual withdrawal of American forces in Europe but also to collapse of the whole system of West European unity built up so carefully over the last 16 years.

Both French and NATO officials believe that the morale factor of the peoples involved in the present crisis is important. They admit that United States public opinion for a strong stand against Soviet threats is far ahead of that of Europe.

But they say it is not because Khrushchev's nuclear threats have frightened the peoples of Europe. It is simply that after recurring crises, they simply don't

U.S. Ambassador Victim Of Cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, U.S. ambassador to Spain, has lung cancer, the State Department disclosed Saturday.

Biddle, 64, was flown from Madrid to Walter Reed Army Medical Center here Oct. 12 after failing to recuperate from an attack of pneumonia.

The main idea is to get off the Russian yo-yo, both by increased awareness among public opinion and by a steady buildup of Western strength regardless of Soviet attempts at confusion.

New Orleans Bar Girls Ply Trade In Easy Manner

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The petite, shapely brunette flounced to the bar in her low-cut dress. She eased down on a stool next to the man-eyeing-the-girls night spot. "Where are you from, honey?" she inquired in a too-friendly tone.

Master of her trade—B-drinking. A few well-chosen remarks to touch his ego, and 21-year-old Marie B—had talked him into buying her a drink.

The man's eyebrows rose when he got the bill. His beer, a small one, cost $1.75. Her drink, which she ordered as "the usual," was $2.90. It had a slightly honey odor, and its alcoholic content was so low as to be almost undetectable in a police chemical test.

Marie, 5-foot-1 and 102 pounds, is prettier and younger than the average B-drinker here. The city vice squad estimates there are several hundred B-drinkers operating out of about 50 clubs, most of them on tourist-rich Bourbon Street in the French quarter.

The girls, from 3 to 10 in each club, are part of the floor show. When they are not peeling off their clothes, they hustle drinks.

Practitioners of this fine art of solicitation range from a few teenagers to heavily-made up women in their 40s. Many are divorcees. They come to New Orleans from all along the East Coast, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

"I believe there's a regular circuit they travel," said 38-year-old Lt. Joseph Murry, head of the vice squad. "I know they go from one place to another within the city."

B-drinking convictions are hard to come up here. Murry and his nine-man squad have made 149 arrests this year. There has been one conviction.

The arrested girls post cash

Parcel Post Rate Boost Proposed

Downhill In Laos

Laos, thrusting part way back into the spotlight that for months has so steadily shone on Berlin, seems no more promising for the West than when it first slipped onto the back pages.

Major negotiators discussing a settlement at Geneva meet again and again in what appear to most observers the fruitless sessions typical when Communists are participating.

Anti-Competition

A proposed federal law would prohibit "below-cost sales." It is vigorously opposed by the National Association of Food Chains, on sweeping grounds — that it is unnecessary, vague, anti-competitive, in violation of the intent of existing anti-trust legislation, and in opposition to the public interest.

Should We Strengthen The U.N.?

By DR. V. ORVAL WATTS. INSTALLMENT 2. A BLUEPRINT FOR WORLD GOVERNMENT. When the United Nations Charter came before the Senate of the United States for ratification as a treaty, there could be no doubt that it was so worded as to make the Security Council the seat of power and authority for "police action."

Why the Veto?

On this point let there be no doubt. The United States Senate would never have ratified the Charter had it not given the United States the right or privilege of the veto in the Security Council, and the people of this country would have stormed into Washington by the trainload in protest had the Senators not stood firmly in that position.

OPEN UNKNOWN MEXICO TO TOURISTS—A new and shorter rail route from America's Midwest to Mexico's Pacific coast is in the making. It's the Chihuahua and Pacific Railroad's route through some of the most rugged terrain in North America, including Mexico's answer to the Grand Canyon, the great Barranca del Cobre, or Copper Canyon. The last 40-mile stretch is under construction, including the great bridge above in an almost uninhabited section of Mexico between Estacion Creel and San Pedro.

Rural Non-Farm Families May Obtain Federal Housing Loans

Families living in small rural communities and in rural areas, even though not engaged in farming may now be eligible for the housing loans made by the Farmers Home Administration, according to James D. Gouldy, the agency's county supervisor for Armstrong, Donley and Gray counties.

The Housing Act of 1961 broadened the eligibility requirements for rural housing loans. As a result owners of non-farm tracts in rural areas and in small rural communities of not more than 2,500, as well as farmers, may be eligible for this type of credit.

"This program is an important new tool in promoting the development of rural areas," Gouldy said. "Rural housing loans will not only help families obtain better homes but will put more carpenters, plumbers, and electricians to work, and will increase the sales in lumber yards and building supply firms."

Housing loans are made for the construction, repair, and remodeling of dwellings and essential farm buildings and to provide water for farmstead and household use.

In addition to major construction, funds are available to modernize homes — add bathrooms, central heating, modern kitchens, and other home improvements, as well as to enlarge and remodel farm service buildings and put in related facilities such as paved feedlots, yard fences, and driveways.

The interest rate is 4 per cent per year on the unpaid balance of the loan. Loans may be scheduled for repayment over periods up to 33 years.

The proposed housing must be adequate to meet the family's needs yet modest in size and design.

To be eligible an applicant must own a farm or housing site in a rural area; be without decent, safe and sanitary housing; be unable to obtain the needed credit from other sources; and be without sufficient resources to provide the necessary housing on his own account. He must also have or be able to obtain sufficient income to meet payments on existing debts, take care of his other expenses, and make the payments on the proposed loan.

The local county or area committee of the Farmers Home Administration determines the eligibility of applicants.

Farmers who need to enlarge or develop their farming operations in order to obtain enough income to pay for housing loans may obtain farm enlargement and development loans and farm management help from the Farmers Home Administration.

All loans are secured to the extent necessary to protect the Government's interest. Small improvement loans made in amounts of less than $1,500 with repayments scheduled over periods up to 10 years may be secured by a promissory note. Other loans are secured by mortgages. The Housing Act of 1961 also authorized the Farmers Home Administration to insure loans for housing and related facilities for domestic farm labor. These loans may be made to farm owners, associations of farmers, state and local government units and non-profit associations.

Funds for these insured loans are provided by private investors. The Farmers Home Administration will make and service the loans, and insure their repayment. The total volume of insured loans may not exceed $23 million in any one year.

Further information on rural housing loans may be obtained at the county office of the Farmers Home Administration located at Clarendon, Texas.
