Dear Abby...
But Charity Should Begin At Home!!

By ABIL MIL VAN-BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who can't say no to anybody but his wife?

My husband is in the electronics field, and all our neighbors and relatives think that he is a TV and radio repair man. They bring their broken TV sets and radios to our house for him to fix. He doesn't have the necessary parts on hand so he drives miles to get them. He doesn't charge anything except for what he laid out for parts. In the meantime, my own sewing machine has needed repairs since last spring. And the same goes for our son's bicycle. This free service takes all of my husband's spare time, and it is getting on my nerves. How can I get it through his thick skull that he is a sucker?

SUCKER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband apparently ENJOYS running a free repair service and, as long as he enjoys it, you'll never convince HIM that he's a sucker. Doing for others is grand, but charity should begin at home.

DEAR ABBY: The other night I baby-sat for a divorced lady of about 23. She has two children, 5 and 2. I cooked the children's sup-

You'll Be Surprised At How Much You Own

Even a young family which is having its possessions appraised by a mover for insurance purposes can be amazed by the total value of furniture, clothes and knickknacks.

Replacement costs for your household and personal effects could easily run three or four times what you would imagine. It makes good sense, then, to take pencil in hand and set about estimating the worth of the family belongings.

The advantages of such a list could be many. When moving to another house or apartment, for instance, any lost goods can be readily checked for insurance action. Even if no move is contemplated, a list can be invaluable should a fire or theft ever take place.

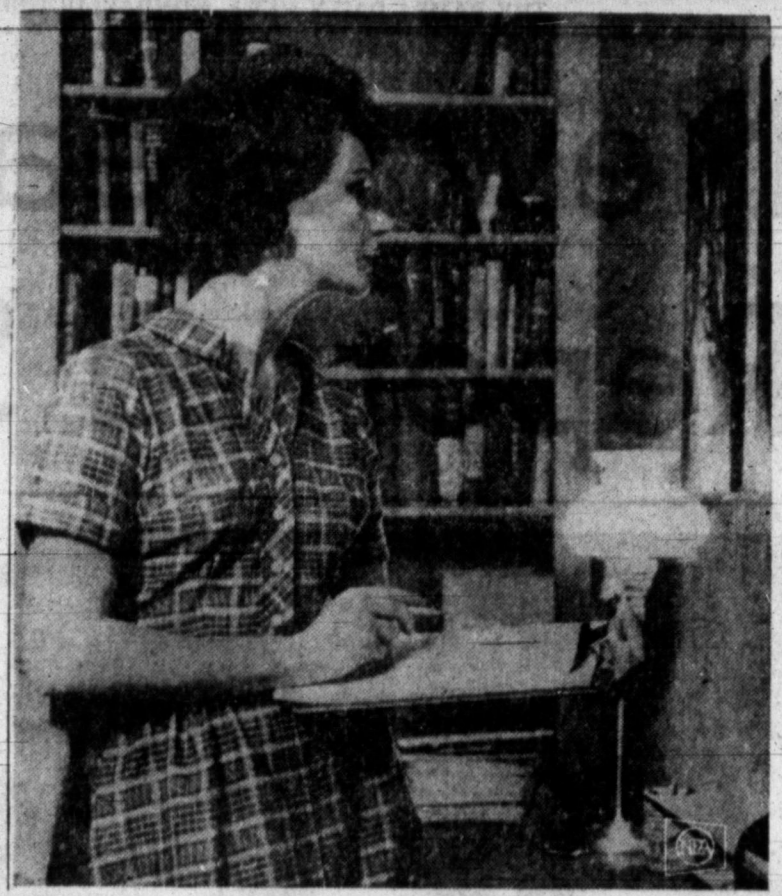

How to make an inventory? From the experience of Jean Kinkead, women's consultant for Travelers Insurance, comes this advice:

Write on separate pages of a large pad of paper the names of the various rooms in the home, as well as cellar, attic and garage if they apply. On a page entitled "miscellaneous" will be listed sports and hobby equipment, jewelry, furs and luggage.

On the right-hand side of each page make heading for "when purchased" and "original cost."

Pad and pencil in hand, enter the first room, noting down the rug and other floor coverings. Then walk around it, listing on the first trip furniture, lamps and books. Then, around again for bric-a-brac. Then list items in the closet, then go to the next room.

If you can't remember what you paid for certain things — say, if they were gifts or antiques — do not enter the price. Complete the list. Then estimate the cost of INVENTORY your belongings for moving and insurance purposes.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.

THE MATURE PARENT

Baby At Home Can't Be Grownup Outside

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: I am nearly 14 and date boys but my mother treats me like a baby, so I can't talk to her about my problem. It is that the two older boys I date always try to get too fresh with me. When I don't let them, they get sore or start making fun of me. I don't know how to make them stop without making them sore and am very worried.

ANSWER: I don't wonder. Look, you haven't had any instruction in geometry yet, have you? Suppose your teacher suddenly told you that you had to pass a geometry test. You would think, "This teacher is crazy. I'm not supposed to know how to do geometry yet! Nobody has ever taught me how to do it." You wouldn't be worried at all about your geometry ignorance. You would just hand that test paper back and say, "This is too advanced for me."

Well, world that treats girls "like babies" is crazy to expect them to deal with boys who get "too fresh." That's—advanced work, too. So I want you to ask some grownup you trust — your minister, your priest or the mother of some girl you know — for added reassurance that resisting boys' sexual aggressiveness is advanced work for girls of 13.

Youth Held For Hospital Damage

An 18-year-old Pampa youth was being held today pending possible charges by county officials for destruction of property in Highland General Hospital Saturday night.

Police said the youth had received mouth cuts in a fight and had gone to the hospital for treatment. While in the emergency room, according to police, he went berserk, broke a window glass, wrecked two wheel chairs, and cursed attendants.

He has been cited in Corporation Court for intoxication and disturbing the peace.

Police Chief Jim Conner said authorities were awaiting the return of Chester C. Lander, hospital manager, before deciding what other charges, if any, will be placed against the youth, who police said admitted he had been drinking a home-made concoction of rubbing alcohol, sugar and yeast.

Bomb

radioactive fallout dust over Siberia.

Dr. Markus Baath, director of the Uppsala seismological institution, said the bomb was exploded at "great altitude."

"According to our instruments the force of today's explosion was more than 2.5 times that of last Monday's blast," he said.

Dutch, French-English, Finnish and Danish seismographs also recorded the blast.

French seismologists at Strasbourg estimated the force at between 50 and 60 megatons.

Swedish nuclear scientists said they believed today's explosion was set off by a smaller "spark-plug" bomb inside a conventional plutonium bomb of the type dropped at Hiroshima.

Bjoern Malmgren, head of advanced developments for Sweden's Standard Motor Co. who developed a new method of collecting isotopes by exploding nuclear devices under water, said today's explosion released a force equal to all the electricity Sweden produces in two years.

In London, the Kew Observatory said its instruments also detected the explosion. Seismologist Jan Pieza described it as "definitely a 50 megaton explosion."

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington said it had no comment at this time.

Swedish scientists said they estimated the weight of the bomb at 15 tons. They said it probably was about 16.25 feet high and 9.75 feet in diameter and that it undoubtedly was "dirty."

They estimated it spewed 66 pounds of strontium 90 and 3,300 pounds of other radioactive by-products into the atmosphere.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev announced two weeks ago that Russia planned to wind up its current nuclear test series with a 50 megaton explosion.

Women To Start Drive Wednesday For 'Santa' Fund

Business and Professional Women's Club representatives will start a drive Wednesday to assist downtown merchants in a campaign for $2,600 to pay expenses attendant to Pampa's Santa Day parade and Christmas holiday street decorations.

Chairman of the drive is Mrs. Hattie Harmon, according to Mrs. G. E. Tinnin, B and PW Club president.

Money to be collected also will be used to purchase candy and a gift for some 4,000 children expected to attend the Santa Day observance, Friday, Dec. 1, and the installation of the Nativity Scenes in Central Park.

E. O. Wedgworth, chamber manager, said the B and PW is working with the Merchants Activities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce to raise funds to finance the Christmas celebration.

Teamster Union Official Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An official of James R. Hoffa's home Teamsters Union local was indicted today on charges of taking nearly $9,000 in illegal payments from an employer in violation of the Taft-Hartley law, the Justice Department announced.

The indictment was returned in Detroit against Rolland B. McMaster, 47, secretary-treasurer of Local 299 in that city. This is the home local of Hoffa, national president of the truck drivers' union.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said both McMaster and William F. Wolff, president of the Youngstown Cartage Co. of Youngstown, Ohio, were indicted on 32 counts by a federal grand jury.

The Taft-Hartley law bars employers from making payments to union officials other than wages.

Local 299 has 15,000 members and is one of the largest in the international brotherhood. On Oct. 6, a federal grand jury indicted George Roxburgh, a business agent of the local, on charges of illegal payments from a trucking company.

According to today's indictment, Wolff made payments totaling nearly $9,000 to McMaster between December 1956, and July 1959.

If convicted, both McMaster and Wolff face up to one year in prison and a $10,000 fine for each count of the indictments.

West Germany's Foreign Minister To Resign Office

BOON (UPI) — West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano today announced his decision to resign from office. He told the Christian Democratic party of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer he would not be a member of the new coalition government being formed.

The Christian Democrats failed to win an absolute majority in elections for the 497-seat Bundestag last month.

The opposition Free Democratic party and Social Democrats headed by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt urged voters to replace the 85-year-old Adenauer as head of the West German government. His failure to win a majority in the election led to a move aimed at forming a ruling coalition.

Texas Convicts Conclude Rodeo

HUNTSVILLE (UPI) — Tough Texas convicts rode rough broncs and bulls before 27,000 persons Sunday to close out the final performance of the 30th annual Texas Prison Rodeo.

It was the largest finale crowd in history at the prison, and officials said it was largely due to television star Chuck Connors and New York Yankee slugger Mickey Mantle who were on hand for intermission performances.

Two of the inmates were injured.

Gerald Lee of Pasadena, serving 20 years, got his foot hung in a stirrup in the saddle bronc riding contest and was dragged about the arena. He suffered a broken pelvis. Doctors said he was in "satisfactory" condition. Bill Ellzey, serving 99 years from Brownsville, was thrown and hurt in the bull riding, but after an examination at the prison hospital insisted on returning to the arena.

Giants Fall From Lead In 17-16 Loss To Dallas

Chargers Clout Broncos 37-0

Packers Swamp Vikings 28-10

By United Press International
The "magic number" for San Diego is only three in the American Football League today, and any day now you can expect someone to set up a cry of "break up the Chargers!" kings 28-10.

San Diego breezed to its eighth consecutive victory Sunday by trouncing the Denver Broncos, 37-0. Now any combination of San Diego victories and defeats by the "runnerup" Dallas Texans which add up to three, will clinch the Chargers' second straight Western Division title.

From the looks of things, that wing-ding race in the Eastern Division will not be decided until the final Sunday. The New York Titans stayed on top by beating the Oakland Raiders, 14-6, and the Boston Patriots stayed right with them by edging Dallas, 18-17. The Houston Oilers also remained in contention with a 28-16 triumph over the Buffalo Bills.

A crowd of 32,584, one of the largest ever to pay its way into an AFL game, watched San Diego's brilliant defensive unit intercept four passes and recover three enemy fumbles in the rout against Denver.

Linebacker Bob Laraba raced 57 yards with an intercepted pass to score a San Diego touchdown in the second period and two minutes later Chuck Allen ran 59 yards to score with a stolen aerial. Allen recovered a pair of Denver fumbles in the second half to set up a 13-yard field goal by George Blair and a 33-yard touchdown pass from Jack Kemp to Don Norton.

The Titans marched 78 yards to score on a first-period touchdown by Bill Mathis and then battled the Raiders in the stiff, 25-mile-an-hour winds of San Francisco's Candlestick Park. The team benefiting from the gale punted about 70 yards; the club kicking into the wind was lucky to get off a 30-yard boot.

George Fleming kicked Oakland field goals of 25 and 33 yards to narrow the Titans' lead to one point before a pass interference penalty set up a one-yard touchdown plunge by Mathis with 1:32 left to play. A crowd of 7,138 attended.

Gino Cappelletti, Boston's league leading scorer, kicked a 24-yard field goal on the final play of the game to beat Dallas.

A crowd of about 20,500 watched the Patriots score 11 points in the last five minutes. Trailing 17-7, Boston moved 78 yards in four plays, Ed Songing passing four yards to Joe Johnson for the touchdown. Babe Parilli's two-point conversion run narrowed Dallas' lead to 17-15.

With time running out, the Patriots then moved to within field goal range and Cappelletti booted a three-pointer from the 24 as the fans shouted a count-down with the clock. The field goal gave Cap-elletti a total of an even 100 points for the season.

Veteran George Blanda threw four touchdown passes in Houston's win before a crowd of 21,237 at Buffalo. Blanda's passes sailed 56 and 80 yards to Charlie Hennigan and 32 and 68 yards to Bill Gormn.

Flash! Texas Leads SWC Statistics

DALLAS (UPI)—Mighty Texas continued to dominate the team statistics in the Southwest Conference today, rolling on at a record total offense pace of 438.7 yards per game.

In winning their sixth game of the season against Rice last weekend, the Longhorns matched their first down production for the entire 1960 season (132), ran their total offense to 112 yards more than for 10 games last season and are running well-ahead of the record per game offense average of 386.5 set by the 1952 Texas team.

Texas also leads the conference in most touchdowns by passing and rank second behind Baylor in per-game passing yardage with 110.8 to 125.2 for the Bears. Texas' 327.8-yard rushing average tops Arkansas by 13.1 yards per game.

Texas A&M took over the second-place spot in per-game offense with an average of 274.2 per contest, less than two yard ahead of a 272.4 average for Baylor.

Texas also leads in defense, allowing its opponents 189 yards per game total offense, 83.3 rushing and 85.7 passing. Arkansas ranks second in this category by allowing 140.5 rushing and 69.7 passing for an average of 210.2 yards per game.

The Longhorns have the lead in one other team department—but that's not one they are bragging about. Texas has been penalized 339 yards in six games, an average of 56.5 yards per game. The closest team in this category is the Aggies with 237 yards in penalties for a 39.5 average.

In last weekend's games, Texas was the leading offensive producer with 446 yards against Rice, while Arkansas turned in the best defensive job by limiting Northwestern Louisiana to a total production of only 74 yards.

Powerful Longhorns Eye Perfect Season

By United Press International
The Texas Longhorns sat on top of the Southwest Conference today with not only the league crown, but prospects of the first perfect season in the loop in 22 years easily in reach.

It looks like a one-team race with the rest of the clubs trying for runner-up as the Longhorns prepare for Southern Methodist this weekend. It should be an easy hurdle.

Besides SMU, only Baylor, Texas Christian and Texas A&M stand in the way of an undefeated season for the Steers. If the unexpected should happen, however, Arkansas, A&M, Rice and SMU are presently in line for an opportunity to move into contention.

The Razorbacks and the Aggies try to eliminate each other this weekend.

Rice was supposedly the last

Pair Leads Lone Star Grid Race

By United Press International
Lamar Tech's Cardinals face what may be a severe test this week in the Lone Star Conference against Texas A&I at Kingsville, but odds are they will settle the issue in a showdown battle against Sam Houston State in a race to the wire.

Sam Houston plays host to Sul Ross at Huntsville and is heavily favored while S. F. Austin faces Howard Payne at Brownwood and East Texas plays Southwest Texas at Commerce.

Sam Houston racked up its fourth league triumph without defeat at the expense of stubborn Southwest Texas, but it took a 41-yard first quarter field-goal by Calvin Pope and a 55-yard run by Ken Wiginton to turn the trick 9-7.

Tech, a shade behind the Bearkats with a 3-0-1 loop record, romped to an easy 33-13 victory over Howard Payne. Tech's tie with Southwest Texas only a week ago.

In other weekend activity defending champion Texas A&I bounced back from two successive defeats to maul S. F. Austin State 34-12 and East Texas broke into the league win column for the first time with a 20-6 upset of Sul Ross.

Tascosa Rebels To Meet Palo Duro Dons Saturday

By United Press International
Critical district battles are a cheap commodity on the Texas schoolboy football market this week.

The bulk of the spotlight games will come in Class AAAA; but Class AAA, whose Top 10 ranks were shaken up considerably last week, also will have a half dozen or more contests of import.

Defeat of defending Class AAAA champion Corpus Christi Miller 3-0 by Corpus Christi Carroll last Saturday night, thrust this week's Carroll-Corpus Christi Ray game into the limelight. Ray, ranked No. 4 in the state, must clear the stubborn Carroll team en route to the playoffs.

But, the Southern bracket also has another standout contest in Galena Park at Baytown, both sharing the District 12 lead with Brazosport. Both Baytown and Brazosport have been victims of stunning upsets at the hand of Galveston, while Brazosport handed Galena Park its only setback.

Amarillo Tascosa, leading the 3-AAAA race, faces once-beaten Amarillo Palo Duro in a crucial test. A Palo Duro victory would throw these two clubs into a triple tie with Borger for the lead, while a Tascosa triumph would all but put that team into the playoffs.

Fort Worth Paschal, ranked among the Top 10 all season, faces the first of two tests against unbeaten city district rivals when the Panthers meet Carter-Riverside.

Spring Branch beaten only by Ray in a non-district game, can just about wrap up 10-AAAA honors by beating Houston Jones, while the winner of the Brownsville-McAllen game seems sure to meet the Corpus Christi zone winner in 14-AAAA.

Wichita Falls, the AAAA stand-out, meets tough Arlington in its second 4-AAAA test after mauling Irving last week.

Other-AAAA games of note include Longview-Texarkana in 8-AAAA, Waco-Austin S. F. Austin in 13-AAAA and Alamo Heights-San Antonio Jefferson in 15-AAAA.

Top contest in AAA may be unreeled in the Panhandle where high-scoring Dumas tangles with Hereford with the 1-AAA lead at stake. But, the Brownwood-Breckenridge clash in 4-AAA, the Belton-Cleburne showdown in 9-AAA the Bay City-El Campo battle in 11-AAA, the Austin Johnston-Sequin struggle in 13-AAA and Port Lavaca-Aransas Pass tilt in 15-AAAA also pack interest.

Cincinnati Club Tromps Syracuse

By United Press International
The Cincinnati Royals finally have developed a solid five-man scoring unit that could prove troublesome in the National Basketball Association this season.

Led by Jack Twyman's 31 points, the Royals defeated Syracuse, 139-132, Sunday night and broke two Cincinnati Garden records in the process. The Royals set marks for field goal accuracy with 59 per cent and had a 73-point first half.

Bob Boozer contributed 28 points, Wayne Embry scored 27, Oscar Robertson 26 and Arlen Bockhorn 15 as Cincinnati evened its season record at 2-2. Dolph Schayes led Syracuse with 27 points.

A six-point spree by Robertson and a pair of free throws by Boozer with about a minute left sped the Royals to victory in the only NBA action of the night.

On Saturday, Los Angeles defeated Detroit, 135-126; Boston topped New York, 132-102; Philadelphia stopped Syracuse, 119-115, and St. Louis beat Chicago, 122-95.

4 Memphis State Gridders To Face Discipline Action
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Four Memphis State football players were to go before a discipline committee today for allegedly roughing up a campus newsmen who predicted Memphis State would lose its first game of the season to Mississippi State Saturday night. He was right—Mississippi State won, 23-16.

Names of the players, all freshmen, were not released but officials said all would be "properly punished." Clinton said the players tried to shove his head, but Memphis State football captain Don Coffey broke up the tussle.

GRABS TD PASS—Tommy McDonald of the Philadelphia Eagles snared a six-point pass with 16 seconds left in the game to enable the World Champions to nip the Washington Redskins 27-24 Sunday and to take over the Eastern Division lead.

And in the league's biggest upset, the Cowboys nipped the New York Giants, 17-16 goal with 1:28 remaining. The defeat knocked the Giants out of a first-place tie with the Eagles in the Eastern Division of the loop.

The Pittsburgh Steelers also sprang an upset when they sent the San Francisco Forty-Niners down to their second straight loss, 20-10.

The Cleveland Browns defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 21-10 and the Detroit Lions whipped the Los Angeles Rams, 28-10.

Jurgensen's last-minute touchdown pass to McDonald put the Eagles alone in first place in the Eastern Division with a 6-1 record and sent the Redskins down to their 15th consecutive NFL defeat.

Just before that, the Redskins had gone ahead, 24-20, when rookie quarterback Norm Snead engineered an 81-yard touchdown drive, topping it off with a seven-yard scoring pass to Jim Cunningham with 51 seconds to play.

The Bears trailed the Colts 20-7 in the third period before they rallied to win before 57,641 fans at Baltimore. Billy Wade completed a 41-yard scoring pass to Johnny Morris in the third period and a pass interference penalty set up Chicago's winning touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Baltimore defensive back Gary Glick interfered with Bears end John Farrington, giving Chicago a first down on the Colts' 17. A few plays later, Casares barged over from five yards out.

A missed conversion attempt by the Colts' usually reliable Steve Myhra, in the third period represented the difference in the score.

At New York, a crowd of 60,284 watched the Cowboys go ahead, 14-0, in the second period, then

By United Press International
Dallas, defending world champion Philadelphia and Chicago all won "squeaker" victories Sunday while the steam-rolling Green Bay Packers blasted the Minnesota Vikings for another easy win.

Chicago's rugged Bears nipped the Baltimore Colts 21-20; Dallas ruined Kyle Rote's Day by upsetting the New York Giants 14-13; Philadelphia scored in the last 16 seconds to trim Washington 27-24 and Green Bay clobbered the Vikings 28-10.

The champion Eagles, the "squeaker" champs of the league, defeated the winless Washington Redskins on a 41-yard pass from Sonny Jurgensen to Tommy McDonald with just 16 seconds left to play. This was the Eagles' fourth victory by a margin of a touchdown or less.

In the NFL's top game, the Bears edged the Baltimore Colts on Rick Casares' touchdown with 6:27 left on the clock.

And in the league's biggest upset, the Cowboys nipped the New York Giants, 17-16 goal with 1:28 remaining. The defeat knocked the Giants out of a first-place tie with the Eagles in the Eastern Division of the loop.

West Texas State Gains Major Upset

By United Press International
Hardin-Simmons tries to bounce back in the Border Conference this weekend against Texas Western in the only league game on tap.

The Cowpokes play host at Abilene while the rest of the loop teams play intersectional engagements.

New Mexico State, which indicates it hopes to at least share the crown it won outright last year, visits Trinity at San Antonio. West Texas travels to Ohio against Bowling Green and Arizona State moves to California to face San Jose State.

The New Mexico State Aggies mauled Texas Western 42-8 in their first league game Saturday night to stay within range of high-riding Arizona State's Sun Devils, who boosted their league record to 2-0 by blanking Hardin-Simmons 47-0.

Since the Aggies and Sun Devils do not meet this season, the last in the conference for Arizona State, they conceivably could wind up with identical 3-0 records and share the title.

Arizona State has only one more league game to play against Texas Western at El Paso Nov. 11, while the Aggies still must get by tough West Texas Nov. 18 and weak Hardin-Simmons Nov. 25.

West Texas may be a tough nut for the Aggies to crack, however. The Buffs, who lost 28-11 to Arizona State earlier in the season, knocked touted Arizona from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten teams last Saturday night 27-23 in a major upset.

The Minimum Wage

In the United States it has been only in this century that there has been such a demand for minimum wages. The minimum wage was first started at 25 cents an hour nearly 30 years ago, if we remember correctly, and now is up to $1.15 an hour.

Why do so many people believe minimum wages will be beneficial to mankind? There's not much question but that the majority of people believe in minimum wages — that is, that minimum wages should be set by law.

It is rational to ask, "Why would you not expect those who were captives in tax-paid schools to believe in minimum wages when most of the adults now have gone to schools where minimum wages were set by law for the schoolteachers?"

And since most people believe that schoolteachers understand economics and moral principles and are teaching them, they naturally accept what their teachers accept without inquiring as to the harm that eventually comes from minimum wages.

Minimum wages are a complete denial of the reality that each and every man must produce his own wages as determined by a free market if he is to have a job for long.

But those who are supposed to be educators want to be in a special class, and, in fact, most people working for any form of government want their minimum wage set by law. And since most people believe that people working for the government, and the leaders of labor, know what they are doing and are doing it with the best of intentions, which undoubtedly they are, it is only natural for the inexperienced to believe in minimum wages.

If minimum wages are good and the welfare of mankind can be benefited by having a law setting a minimum wage, then why not set a minimum wage of $2 or $3 or $50 an hour? Of course, the higher the minimum is set, the fewer can earn it. And if it be true that people want permanent jobs, they must create sufficient production by their labor so that what the worker produces can be sold to pay his wages. The employer does not really pay wages but, rather, wages are paid by those who buy the product sold by the employer.

Minimum wages are just one of the fruits of having "education" determined by the majority. When the teachers demand minimum wages and tenure, why shouldn't the youth who attend school believe their teachers know what they are doing and take it for granted that wages can be set by law instead of by a free market for what each produces?

If the youth of the land were taught to understand that each man must produce his own wages and that we cannot have a fair wage unless we let every other person in the world help establish wages, there wouldn't be a demand for minimum wages.

Minimum wages are one of the cornerstones of the labor union movement. Minimum wages are a result of emotion and false sympathy rather than experience.

We are seeing much of our capital moving to countries where wages and labor unions have not pushed wages so high as to impede production as they have in our country. Thus, the employers and workers in the United States find it difficult to compete with the foreign market, even with our better tools and a larger market.

Yes, everything is happening just as could be expected when tax-paid schoolteachers are all paid a minimum wage and evidently believe in it, because we have never heard any of them objecting to it or wanting textbooks which explain that a wage must be produced by the worker who receives it if he is to have a steady job and must not be set arbitrarily by law.

Can Guilt Be Shifted

People often suppose that if government orders a man to do wrong, there is no wrong because government commanded it. Leo N. Tolstoy once examined this thought in his "Notes for Soldiers" and observed: "Is not the sin of adultery much easier than that of murder? And yet can one man say to another: 'Go and commit adultery. I shall bear your sin, because I am your commander'?"

Capitalism Surviving

An image of ogreism still stalks the by-ways of the American mind in relation to corporation management. The image is a legacy from the 19th century and contains the spectres of a "score or more" "rugged" individualists who, according to the fantasy, trampled on the rights of everyone in order to build empires of wealth and special privilege.

False as this picture was when it was first carefully limned by socialist agitators of the period, the picture is even more inexact and questionable now.

Today's corporation executive is not the swashbuckling pirate so many envision, but a well-bred, almost painfully astute professional who is the center of a world of pressures put upon him by government, union blackmailers and the customers themselves.

Most important, in so far as his image is concerned, he is usually NOT the owner of the corporation whose destiny he may direct. This is a fact which is carefully unplayed by those who wish to continue to use corporations and corporation presidents as objects to instill fear in the very young.

Actually, from the standpoint of sound economic management, it might be better if corporation presidents really did own the corporations they head. Such concentrations of ownership would invariably bring on concentrations of self-imposed responsibility. The result would be larger accumulations of wealth and, we suspect, an improved technology and more tools by means of which more goods could be provided at less cost.

If there is one justifiable criticism of the modern corporation manager it is that he is too often placed under pressure to which he yields in an effort to "make everyone happy." The function of a corporation is to make money for the stockholders, the owners.

When a corporation president begins to waver from this fundamental purpose, he becomes less useful as a captain of industry than he otherwise would be. But so effete has our business climate become that many corporation directors now view themselves as providers of relief and welfare, mainstays of foundation financing, problem solvers for workers and, indeed, advisers and managers of every conceivable civic or national problem as far removed from their particular specialty as time, space and inclination can move them.

Doubtless, this psychological retreat into "community" and "togetherness" is one of the products of the swashbuckling image of the 19th century impressarios, which image in itself is so totally lacking in realism.

But even as corporation executives have grown soft and excessively wary, the corporation structure itself has changed one time, many a corporation was owned outright by financiers or by a caretaker family which controlled and managed the entire operation.

LAW SUIT OVER BERLIN? (Chicago Tribune)

The allies notes of Aug. 26 defended their right to use the air corridors from West Germany to Berlin. Now the Russian reply is at hand. It presents what is essentially a legalistic argument: In this respect, at least, the reply resembles the original notes: we say the agreements reached by the four powers prove we are right and the Russians say the agreements prove they are right. The quarrel thus comes down to a dispute over the interpretation of documents. That is the kind of quarrel that the lawyers call justiciable, by which they mean that it is capable of being decided by a court in the light of established legal principles.

Then why not propose submitting the dispute to the Court of International Justice? We think it highly improbable that the Russians would accept the suggestion but if they refused it they would show lack of confidence in their own rectitude, to say nothing of their desire to avoid war.

This newspaper believes in the Connolly amendment which, in effect, permits the United States to decide for itself whether it wishes to accept the jurisdiction of the court over any controversy to which it may be a party. In suggesting the submission of the controversy over the corridors to the court we are not guilty of an inconsistency. To say that the United States may not be dragged into court against its will is not equivalent to saying that it will never go into court of its own will.

If the Russians were as confident of the soundness of their case as they pretend to be, they would welcome a trial by impartial judges. We recognize that there are risks for us, too, in this process. Perhaps our case is not as good as we think it is. Perhaps the judges might be prejudiced against us. But these are risks we can afford to take.

Our notes, to which the Russians have replied, said that any interference with our access to Berlin by air would have "the most serious consequences." That is diplomatic language for war. As between the costs of war and the costs of losing a lawsuit over access to Berlin, the choice ought to be easy for everybody concerned including the West Berliners themselves.

Too few of these corporate bodies remain to add vigor to the scene, the bulk of all corporations are now owned by literally millions and millions of Americans.

While this may be a questionable virtue, there is certainly one magnificent fact which is plainly apparent. There are millions of Americans, and the list grows every year, who have examined various economic systems and have come to understand the virtue and the meaning of capitalism. Thus, they are investing in the capitalist system to the extent of their ability. And by this investment, the system itself is helped and strengthened.

In 1954 our major corporations were owned by some 7,300,000 men, women and children in this country. In seven years this ownership has been enlarged to more than double the 1954 size. Today, there are more than 15,000,000 stock owners in the country. And many of these owners are young people, college graduates of modest incomes, who are well informed and who are placing their reserves in growth stocks and in tool investment which is a harbinger of future productivity and sound management to come.

Matter of Fact

A crackling-dry Midwestern summer ended in disaster on Oct. 8, 1871. Two of history's greatest fires broke out that fateful day—the near-legendary Chicago blaze and the terrible Peshigo, Wis., forest fire. While many Chicagoans saved their lives by fleeing to the shores of Lake Michigan, the victims of the Wisconsin fire were trapped. The Chicago fire claimed 250 lives; the less-known but even more tragic Peshigo blaze wiped out over 1,000.

Proposed Guerrilla Action Against Viet Cong In North Viet Nam Investigated by Taylor

WASHINGTON — The best kept secret of General Taylor's mission to South Viet Nam is his private orders from President Kennedy to make an on-the-spot investigation of President Ngo Dinh Diem's highly secret proposal to carry the war into North Viet Nam.

As proposed to the President through diplomatic channels, President Ngo Dinh Diem's explosive plan calls for U.S. help in the infiltration of several thousand of the best Vietnamese jungle fighters behind the North Viet Nam border.

The dangerous mission of these counter-guerrilla troops would be to disrupt the preparations of the Communist Viet Cong forces for a full-scale invasion of South Viet Nam. They would be used to cut the Communist communication lines that now run through Laos into the delta area of South Viet Nam.

Also, these highly-trained Vietnamese troops would begin the organization of anti-Communist forces among the peasants of North Viet Nam, stirring up a major rebellion there.

Already, the daring proposal of President Ngo Dinh Diem has touched off a sharp policy dispute within the Kennedy administration over whether the U.S. should give him the material and supplies his military needs to successfully carry off this bold military venture.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, retiring CIA director Allen Dulles, and Dr. Walt Whitman Rostow, special assistant to the President in charge of anti-guerrilla warfare policy, are all opposing the plan on the grounds that such offensive action might widen the conflict and bring hordes of Communist Chinese "volunteers" pouring into the battle.

Dr. Rostow, a member of the Taylor mission, goes even further in his personal opposition, contending that "the sending of men and arms across international boundaries and the direction of guerrilla war from outside a sovereign nation is aggression."

All three are opposed to sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam.

THE CHOICE — The Joint Chiefs of Staff, although they have not been asked to make any formal recommendations to the President, look on the proposal as a possible "alternative" to sending U.S. combat troops to that Communist-impiered Southeast Asia nation.

By supplying the Vietnamese with special anti-guerrilla type arms, supplies and ships needed to mount the operation inside North Viet Nam, the Joint Chiefs believe that these behind-the-line forces could so harass the bases of General Vo Nguyen Giap, the ruthless North Vietnamese commander, that he would be forced to pull the majority of his forces out of South Viet Nam.

Also, these military advisers contend that the counter-guerrilla operation in North Viet Nam could be a first step by the West in over-throwing a Communist regime short of general or even limited war.

The JCS disagree with the Central Intelligence Agency's dark estimate that the offensive action would bring Chinese Communist troops into the battle.

President Kennedy sent General Taylor to the scene because there is an element of urgency for him to end the current policy debate if the counter-guerrilla action is to be launched in time to head off a large-scale Com-

Hankering

By HENRY McLEMORE

I had a cup of hot tea in a cool corner yesterday with a man of many talents. Crack grocery clerk, top movie star, unexcelled automobile battery repairman, washing machine salesman, disc jockey, stage and movie director, advertising salesman, radio announcer, husband, father, and expert gardener.

He's a man of many assets, too. Tall, handsome, gracious, knowing and, not to be overlooked, the owner of Audrey Hepburn.

His name is Mel Ferrer and he acts in movies only to "refuel his bank account" to use his own words. "I don't like acting in movies, or any other kind of acting," Ferrer said. "An actor has to be hambone — all hambone. He must think of himself all the time, and that tires me. I only act to get enough money to afford the luxury of directing and producing. Mind you, I'm not knocking the movies. They have been awfully good to me — a lot better, let's say, than grocery stores and battery shops."

Never having met a really fine battery recharger, we were interested in that phase of Ferrer's career. "I was a good one," he laughed, "even though I had been ill and couldn't use my right arm. I may well have been the only left-handed battery man in Los Angeles. I was one of the hungriest, for sure."

Ferrer talked about those days in the early 1940's, when he was broke and none too well, as if he had enjoyed them. "I tried everything — had to eat and sleep, you know. Not many people who think my diction is good know that I got it, repeating grocery orders over a telephone to Hollywood housewives too busy to shop. Potatoes, ham, Swiss cheese, olives — these are good words for an actor to practice on."

We mentioned the movie "Lili." "Wonderful little picture," Ferrer said, "but what a fight we had to make it. The studio wanted to take the simple, sweet story and blow it up into a big musical. The studio actually disowned it, you know. Not a studio person of any importance came to the premiere. Just washed their hands of it. They were ashamed to have it bear their name. Then when it turned out to be a sleeper, and got rave notices — well, I hardly have to tell you the studio's reaction."

Ferrer was a director before he was an actor. "You'll never guess what my first picture behind the camera was. No use trying. It was the 'Girl of the Limberlost' for Columbia. A 'B' picture with two capital 'B's.' The budget was just about what a night on the town costs now, and the shooting schedule was 14 days. I took 16 days and there was heck to pay. It made money, but I quit."

Ferrer quit, he explained, when Jose Ferrer (no kin, although Mel has a brother named Jose) offered him the lead in "Strange Fruit," a dramatization of the novel dealing with racial discrimination.

Ferrer is now making a movie for Royal Films called "The Black Lancers." Most of the footage was shot in Yugoslavia. In December he reports to Columbia under a producer-director contract to shoot a movie entitled "Return Fare." It will be filmed in Africa.

He said his wife, Audrey, was wonderful in "Breakfast at Tiffany's," and so was the baby.

Bid For A Smile

The woman walked out of the grocery and saw a driverless car rolling slowly down the street. Thinking quickly, she ran to the car, jerked open the door, sat behind the wheel, and pulled the emergency brake with a hard yank. The car came to a stop. As she stepped out, feeling proud, a man walked up. "Woman — Well, I stopped it. Man — Yes, I know. I was pushing it."

Joe — Did you ever tickle a mule? — No. — Joe — You ought to try it. You'd get a big kick out of it.

Little Mary was observing, for the first time, a mother cat carry off one of her kittens by the scruff of the neck. She was horrified by what she thought was such rough treatment. "Mother," she scolded, "you ought to fit to be a mother. Why, you can't hardly fit to be a father."

Think twice, and you will have only half as much to cry.

A proud mother wished to enter her 6-year-old daughter in an exclusive school where the minimum age was 8. "She can easily pass the 6-year-old test," the mother told the principal. "But the teacher was openly skeptical as he said to the little girl, 'All right, say some words.' The precocious child looked at the man with great dignity for a moment, then asked her mother, 'Purely irrelevant word?'

Pegler Says:

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

About 20 years ago, certainly before the Hod Carriers Union became notorious among the war labor rackets, I went to work on a foul crook named Nick Strone who ruled over the political and economic rulers of Pittsburgh. At last only recently, he got ten years in prison. He was until then a power and a terror. He may be again. It was not for lack of proof that the local, state and federal governments failed to break him. But the papers fetched him only glancing blows to which he had the grotesque effrontery to threaten libel suits and Big Business seemed unable to bear down on him. The conscience of the community ignored him. He was in a shooting scrape with a woman in a hotel which proved to be an amiable mishap and love conquered all.

He abused his loyal, modest wife, a good woman who had spent her little savings as a garment worker to rent the conventional dinner jacket for their wedding party. Nick then was just an apprentice hoodlum in Newark. He disowned and scorned her except for the time when by some freak of whim he took her along on a great demonstration of the gaudy opulence of the American union crook which covered many Italian cities and towns, then Paris and, finally, England.

His wife came to my office in New York a few years ago and, with red eyes and a damp handkerchief, recalled the young dreams and her sweet hopes of happiness with her, the dirty thug who went on to extort fabulous bundles of money on war construction. He never shed her the price of a hat.

She had clung to her marriage for the religious reason, but by the time of our visit she realized that he was unlikely to do any decent thing as long as he lived. In the end, if this is the end, Nick got his ten years in a federal prison and a fine of $10,000 on a specific charge of extorting $31,274 from a sub-contractor who provided slush-concrete for a steel mill at Allentown, Pa., in 1952 and 1953. That, you see, was long ago. It takes years to catch up with the like of Strone although their corruption has been common knowledge for decades.

But a scabby, twitching wino at a bar in a county court gets two years for bouncing a tremulous $50 check on a booze dealer a few days before.

And Meany and Reuther lived all through the worst of Strone's career while organized "Labor" vouched for thousands of crooks. Now Meany and Reuther roll their eyes and invoke their new-found ethics against Jimmy Hoffa.

The sub-contractor who paid Strone for the privilege of hiring labor for his job finally was driven bankrupt. In an earlier trial of the same complaint another contractor testified as "back-ground" that Nick got $35,000 for letting him have labor for a demolition job.

Strone was convicted and got three years, but the Supreme Court sent the case back for another trial and, of course, this may happen again.

The judge in the present case, John P. Willson, seemed naive in his final remarks. He seriously said "It is necessary that labor leaders be men of integrity and honesty in their dealings with management."

Corruption Runs Rampant In U.S. Labor Movement

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

"You seek to dominate not only labor but management." And again, "You have violated your trust to labor apparently because of avariciousness and a desire for personal gain. I have no sympathy for you."

Nick said, "I have been associated 30-40 years with the house of labor. I have attempted to do things with righteousness and justice. This is the first and only blemish on my record."

Strone was sole owner of a company which rents heavy construction equipment to contractors within his jurisdiction. This was one of Joe Fay's rackets in the Newark area where he enjoyed the protection of the New Deal machine. Not only that, but he became a contractor too. He prospered until Tom Dewey got him off balance in New York and put him away for ten years. But during that time George Meany and many officers of public government paid homage to him in the chapel at Sing Sing. Fay's union is the Operating Engineers, a close ally of Strone's, which is called the Hod Carriers' and Common Laborers'.

It still seems doubtful that Strone will do his time. The Supreme Court could reverse the District Court again and the Department of Justice could quietly turn him loose rather than take another defeat. The unions usually have the better lawyers.

Dick Lamb, a reporter for the Pittsburgh Press, pioneered the disclosure of Strone's rackets just before the war. But he got neither recognition nor results. In disgust he left Pittsburgh for magazine work in Chicago. I have not heard from him for a long time, but his little file on the Pittsburgh union rackets was the kernel of my present enormous mass of proof that the labor movement in the United States has been a worse corruption down to and including the present than Wall Street ever was.

Probe Of Food Packaging Didn't Settle Everything

BY DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — From a spectator's viewpoint, the current Senate investigation of food packaging and labeling practices is one of the best that Congress has staged in many months.

The main point at issue is whether consumers are being misled or deceived by the fancy, fascinating sub-topics, such as wrappings and containers that groceries come in nowadays.

This has spawned all sorts of fascinating sub-topics, such as whether the average housewife has kleptomaniac tendencies and whether her shopping habits have any rational foundation.

The kleptomaniac theory was advanced by Roy King, editor of a food trade publication, who told the subcommittee that women shoppers tend to filch items that aren't put in big packages.

He said that lipstick, for instance, are attached to cards to make them harder to slip into purses.

Some of the interrogators and women witnesses gave King a hard time about this. Retreating slightly, while at the same time standing his ground, he explained that he hadn't meant for his statement to embrace all womanhood.

King also insisted that a woman ought to be able to figure out the quantity-price ratio of food after a quick look at a package. He said it was a matter of simple arithmetic.

On this he was challenged by Mrs. Dorothy S. Wheeler, who represented a consumer service. She said bargain hunting has become so complicated that grocery carts should be equipped with slide rules on the handles.

This argument, I fear, will never be finally resolved, dealing as it does with what goes on inside the female mind. Fortunately, the hearing also touched on a topic that falls within my personal purview.

Someone who was defending the use of gaudy packaging to attract shoppers in a supermarket observed that food items don't just jump off the shelf into the cart.

This may be true according to the theoretical laws of physics, but you and I know that it doesn't work that way in practice.

I have never yet been grocery shopping that I didn't take home two or three items that I couldn't remember having purchased. The only explanation is that they jumped off the shelf into my cart.

Furthermore, there is a related phenomenon which the subcommittee didn't get into. I refer to reverse leaping.

A victim of reverse leaping finds when he gets home from the supermarket that several items he was told to purchase have somehow disappeared. Obviously, they jumped out of his cart and back onto the shelf.

I have tried to explain that to my wife several times, but she can't seem to understand.

Most Stocks in 'Buying Range', Brokerage Says

NEW YORK (UPI)—Shields & Co. tells clients it has looked across the broad range of stocks both listed and unlisted and has the feeling that most issues are currently in buying range.

Shields says its definition of "buying range" relates to the price experience of recent years, the present discount from earlier highs and the belief that many companies will attain record earnings next year.

The brokerage house says the total picture now is one of a market decline in the process of being arrested. "It is a tentatively bullish picture," Shields writes.

The Johnston Mutual Fund reports a 4.1 per cent gain in per share net asset value in the third quarter and a 15 per cent rise in total net assets.

United Business Service says that prospects remain encouraging though it is likely that market gains will continue on a very selective basis until general business catches up.

Bache & Co. writes that the action of the stock market is a sign that investors are becoming disappointed with the strength of the economic recovery.

Walter Mintz of Shearson, Hamill & Co. continues to believe that stock prices on the average will show more strength than bond prices over the intermediate term.

Canned Juice Clicks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Food chains sold twice as much canned juice in 1960 as they did in 1955, notes the grocery edition of Grocery Store Age. Sales in 1960 were $370 million, up 128 per cent from the $162 million in 1955.

Food For Peace Group To Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food for Peace director George McGovern announced today that the first regional conference designed to generate public understanding for the program would be held Nov. 20 in Denver.

McGovern said the American Food for Peace Council meeting would include delegations from Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas and Wyoming.

It's Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Ne-man-Marcus, the Texas-style department store (his and hers air planes, gift-wrapped steers on the hoof) recently came up with a new gimmick — box lunches for shoppers "sent right to your fitting room."

Water Meeting Starts Nov. 5

MCALLEN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Water Conservation Association will hold its 17th annual meeting here in the Lower Rio Grande Valley Nov. 5-6 and an announcement today said every person who uses water is welcome.

Col. L. H. Hewitt of El Paso, U. S. commissioner for the International Boundary and Water Commission, and Maj. Gen. Robert J. Fleming Jr., commander of the U. S. Army engineers in Dallas.

Max Starcke of Austin, president of the group, said the meeting would bring together farmers, ranchers, businessmen, engineers and other Texans "who just want their big, thirsty state to insure itself a drink of water for the years to come."

Starcke said McAllen was a fitting place for the annual convention because in the Valley "people know what water is worth."

Committee meetings will be held next Sunday, and a formal program Monday. Speakers include:

Frosty photographs show how New Skelly Regular with KT-3 helps you

Start and stay started...

... even on raw, damp, Texas winter mornings that "strangle" a carburetor with ice crystals:

NOT THIS: Ice can form fast in your carburetor on a damp day—even when the outside air temperature is between 35° and 50° F.—well above freezing! Then your engine stalls when you take your foot off the accelerator, because ice has choked off the vital air supply your engine needs to "breathe."

BUT THIS: Anti-Frost at no extra cost! When KT-3 in Skelly Regular Gasoline goes to work in your fuel system, you can forget your worries about stalling due to carburetor icing. KT-3 prevents carburetor icing, lets your engine "breathe" free even in cold, damp weather when other cars stall.

Help your engine breathe free this winter... breathe ice-free air this winter... with new Skelly Regular Gasoline with KT-3

Why take chances on carburetor icing, when it's so easy to avoid it? Why put up with stalling at stop signs, when backing up, or shifting gears? Cold, damp mornings, when the temperature is between 35° and 50° F., can cause rapid ice build-ups in your carburetor that can be dangerous as well as annoying. But Skelly Regular Gasoline with KT-3 gives you Anti-Frost protection at no extra cost to prevent icing.

Why let dirty carburetor deposits rob you of valuable mileage? Dirty deposits that form in your carburetor's throat can also cause your engine to stall at slow engine speeds — usually when you need prompt, powerful engine response. New detergent-action KT-3 lets you clean your carburetor the easiest possible way — just by driving.

Why risk rust and corrosion that can cost you good money for a carburetor cleaning job, when it's so easy to protect yourself against it. Just switch to new Skelly Regular with KT-3. KT-3 fights rust and corrosion all through your fuel system — from fuel tank to carburetor.

Switch to new Skelly Regular with KT-3. Get all the benefits of this great new fast-starting, high octane gasoline — including Anti-Frost at no extra cost! See your Skelly Dealer. Fill up today.
