Hour Of Decision — East Or West, Her Husband Or Her Home And Parents — She Flies Back To Russia!

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — The young woman, her eyes glazed behind a pair of steel-rimmed glasses, sat amid a litter of old cigaret butts and made the decision of her life. "I wish to return to the fatherland," she said softly. "I love my husband, but I wish to return to the fatherland."

Thus did Mrs. Alexandrouna Golub, 32, wife of a Soviet chemical engineer who defected to Holland, bring to an end a day of harrowing cold war drama at Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport. Minutes later she was airborne for Moscow.

Her husband, Alexei, 35, remained behind, in tears.

But before she sealed her choice with those final words, "I wish to return," Mrs. Golub found herself in the middle of an international tug-of-war. And for a few brief hours, it threatened to become more than a minor incident.

The incident became critical when 10 fist-swinging Russians, including Ambassador P. K. Ponomarenko, stormed into the airport office. In the ensuing battle, Ponomarenko was punched in the nose while dazed embassy officials protested. "But he's the ambassador!"

Later in the day, Dutch police posted a seven-hour siege on the Russians and at one point considered arresting all 10 of them.

All day Monday, Mrs. Golub hung suspended over the chasm that separates East and West. Her face was haggard and no lipstick relieved the grim pallor of her lips. There was no escape from the terrible choice that confronted her — home or husband.

The hours of decision first began for Mrs. Golub last Saturday night when her husband told her he planned to remain in the West. The couple had walked for hours through the streets of Amsterdam before he finally made up his mind. They had come to Holland as members of a Russian tourist party.

Monday morning Mrs. Golub and the rest of the tourists arrived at the airport for the journey home. As she walked toward

Communists Will Battle 'Signup' Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another long round of legal wrangling shaped up today in the government's fight to make the Communist party register as a tool of Russia.

The Supreme Court ushered in the new round Monday when it refused to consider its June 5 decision that the party must register.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy promptly announced "we will enforce the law." Communist party leaders said they would defy the ruling.

The attorney general has said he expects a long battle through the courts to obtain compliance with the 1950 Internal Security Act, which the Supreme Court upheld.

Under that law, the Communist party must register with the Justice Department within 30 days after the court's mandate becomes final.

If the party fails to register, it faces criminal prosecution and fines of $10,000 a day for each day it fails to register.

If the party defies the law, the act orders registration of individual officers—the 18-member national executive committee—within the 10 succeeding days. If they don't register they would be subject to the same fines and five years in jail.

If neither the party nor its officers register, individual party members would be required to register within 60 days after the order becomes effective.

The practical result would be to bankrupt the party and send its officers to jail if there is no registration.

Justice Department officials said the Communists have been meeting with their attorneys daily to plan legal maneuvers.

Massing Of Red Military Forces Seen As Grave Threat To West

GREAT CHICAGO FIRE SPARKED FIRE PREVENTION — Here's how an artist saw the scene as crowds jammed streets and bridges to escape the Great Chicago Fire, which began on Oct. 9, 1871. Some 230 dead — destruction in terms of billions of today's dollars — that's the toll of the Great Chicago Fire of 1871, which sparked observance of what is now Fire Prevention Week. The 40th anniversary of the great fire, Oct. 9, 1911, was first observance of Fire Prevention Day. In 1920, President Wilson issued the first presidential proclamation of Fire Prevention Day. In 1922, President Harding proclaimed the first Fire Prevention Week, observed annually since then. Proof that an annual reminder is still needed: Last year, fire took lives of over 11,000 in the U.S.; property loss exceeded $1.5 billion.

Big Maneuvers Being Declared Mobilization

By United Press International

Communist East Germany today extended the length of military service beyond the regular two-year training period in a move to bolster East German armed might.

The East German government said in an official communique that the Defense Ministry had been empowered by the cabinet to keep soldiers scheduled for discharge this fall in the armed services for another six months.

The communique made it clear it was left to the discretion of the Defense Ministry to discharge soldiers or order the continuation of their service.

The move was seen by Western military experts as another step for mobilization of the Communist armed forces.

The West German Defense Ministry announced Monday that giant maneuvers by the Soviets, East Germans, Czechoslovaks and Poles in East Germany were in fact a mobilization of Soviet and satellite armies.

Allied military experts in Berlin said the Communist mobilization and maneuvers in East Germany comprise the greatest military threat to the West since the end of World War II.

But they said the mass mobilization does not prove that the Reds actually plan to fight a war. More likely, they said, the military moves are a variation of the time-honored Communist techniques of using armed might for political purposes—in this case to force Western concessions over Berlin.

Meantime, the United States has told its allies it sees no basis so far for serious negotiations with Russia on the Berlin crisis.

But U.S. officials feel that "exploratory" talks should continue with the Russians in the hope that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will modify his position.

The Russian position included three points:

- Russia, in signing its separate peace treaty with East Germany, is willing to include as part of the treaty a four-power agreement.

Typhoon-Tossed Seamen Rescued By Helicopters

TOKYO (UPI) — U.S. Navy helicopters sped ahead of the fleet today to rescue 74 seamen — most of them Americans — from freighters driven aground by typhoon winds.

Forty-seven men were picked up from the 9,200-ton American freighter Pioneer Muse, stranded on tiny Kita Daito island Monday by Typhoon Violet. The other 27 came from the 7,300-ton Lebanese ship Sheik, which ran aground eight days ago under the lash of an earlier typhoon.

Violet brushed Japan's eastern coast today, killing at least 2 persons and injuring 18 in the dense area. Wind and rain damage was extensive, although the island nation missed the full impact of the typhoon's 100-mile-an-hour winds.

Helicopters from the 7th Fleet aircraft carrier Princeton picked up the stranded crewmen of the Pioneer Muse and the Sheik before warships on the way from the big U.S. base on Okinawa could reach the scene.

Homes Project Revived By City Commissioners

A home development project for a one block area in the heart of Bethune Heights in South Pampa was revived at today's meeting of the City Commission.

Commissioners and Jay Thompson, representative of the Hughes Construction Co., were near agreement on a plan for the laying of water and sewer lines in the proposed residential district.

The plan was dropped a week ago when the city and developer could not agree on an installation plan for water and sewer lines.

Today the city expressed a willingness to pay the extra cost of laying the lines in the alley instead of the center of the street as called for under the builder's original agreement with a former city commission.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell and other commissioners expressed a desire to get the problem solved at an early date. They agreed to work out costs of the new proposal and bring it up for discussion at next week's meeting.

Mrs. Lulu Motley, president of the City Improvement Club, appeared before the commission again and asked that something be worked out where people of the section would have an opportunity to obtain a better place to live.

The commission discussed again today the request of the Worley and Willis Co. of Shamrock for a permit to bring cable television into Pampa. The commission asked further time to study the plan and said they would give a definite answer at the commission's Nov. 6 meeting.

In other business the commission today approved payment of September bills totaling $11,399.44, approved library bills for $482.38, approved payment of $32,634.88 to the Brodie-Ennis Construction Co. of Lubbock for water and sewer line replacements, and approved payment of $1,342.70 to Merriman and Barber, consulting engineers.

Slaying Of Wife Ends Clown's Long Career

RIVER VALE N. J. (UPI) — With a performer's love for adulation, Edward Guillaume played the clown in front of neighborhood children for free when he could no longer get money from the circus.

He was too old, too sick to perform now as he had as "Polidor the Clown" for a generation of Americans, for royalty and for a President.

And then the woman he loved told him the same bitter thing — he was too old. It was too much for the 69-year-old Polidor.

In a statement to police Monday, Guillaume said he grabbed a heavy ax and struck Mrs. Elena Gabriella Nelson, 49, divorcee and veteran circus performer, in the neck. She was killed instantly in the kitchen of the home she had shared with Guillaume for the past seven years.

Still enraged at Mrs. Nelson's disclosure that she no longer cared for him — that he had become too old for her — Guillaume said he then stuck several kitchen knives into the woman and slit her throat.

After the slaying, the man described by Bergen County Prosecutor Guy W. Calissi as a "down and-out clown," tried to blow himself up with a stage prop bomb, the type he once used to

Four Are Killed By Berserk Man

GARY, Ind. (UPI) — A workman went berserk at a steel mill today and ran through the plant shooting at everyone he saw. He killed four men and wounded three more before police killed him.

Police said the laborer, tentatively identified as Davis Arbie, opened fire with a small caliber pistol inside the Gary sheet and tin mill, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel.

He ran in and out of buildings, blazing away indiscriminately, until he was cut down by the plant police bullets, officers said.

Invasion Of Cuba Declared Planned

HAVANA (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's government charged Monday night the United States is training invaders at 30 points in the Caribbean area for "large scale aggression" against Cuba.

Acting Foreign Minister Carlos Olivares told foreign diplomats at a 90-minute meeting the prospective invaders are being trained at 20 places in the United States — mostly in Florida — and 10 U. S. or foreign bases around the Caribbean.

Weed Situation Prompts Appeal By Commission

An appeal to the pride of Pampa citizens came today at a meeting of the City Commission as commissioners and Fire Prevention Week officials discussed ways and means of cleaning up the city from the standpoint of weeds, trash and generally littered streets.

Kay Fancher, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee and Fire Chief Ernest Winborne, asked commissioners what could be done about the weed menace.

They presented pictures, taken last Friday, of several places in Pampa where weeds have overrun lots and are growing in yards of vacant houses.

City Attorney Bob Gordon said it was difficult by law to force property owners to cut weeds.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell said there are more weeds in the City of Pampa than the whole of Switzerland.

"I hope there is some way we can convey to the people," the mayor said, "just how serious we are about this business of cleaning up Pampa."

"I think the majority of the people will go along with us in an effort to eliminate weeds, litter and trash."

Gov. Daniel Challenged To Run For Fourth Term

AUSTIN (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Will Wilson made an unexpected appeal before the State Democratic Executive Committee Monday and accused Gov. Price Daniel of making a personal political deal to continue "pulling the strings" of state government.

Wilson, an active unannounced candidate for governor, also challenged Daniel to run for a fourth term. It came as the possibility was raised that the SDEC may want to draft Daniel to run again.

The attorney general also criticized Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who was at the meeting, and state democratic chairman J. E. Connally of Abilene.

Connally started the ground work for a possible draft, citing Daniel's vote-getting ability as a big reason why the party may want to stick with the governor.

Johnson chimed in, saying Daniel is a "distinguished, popular and beloved governor," and in his 30 years in government "it has never been easier to work with the leaders of your state as it is at present."

Wilson said he had heard that Daniel is trying to talk Navy Secretary John Connally into running for governor while Daniel

Canadian Foliage Tour Set To Start Saturday

CANADIAN (Sp) — Hemphill's County sixth annual Foliage Tour will start Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. at Lake Marvin east of here. John Wilkinson, Chamber of Commerce manager, announced today.

Wilkinson said, "The Foliage Tour was not planned to be this weekend, but due to the weather and a lot of color in the trees and leaves, we are going to have it now."

The event is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday of this week and the same two days next week. "Booths will open at 1 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday and they will remain open until 5 p.m. each day," added Wilkinson.

Information, including maps of the tour, can be obtained at the concession stands, the entrance to Lake Marvin or business houses in Canadian.

Coffee, sandwiches, soft drinks and other food will be available at the concession stands at Lake Marvin, which also has picnic facilities.

An added attraction this year is an old log cabin that survived an Indian raid in 1886, a display of antique guns and a number of quarter horses, offspring of the stallion, Beaver Creek.

Beaver Creek, which died last year, had a wooden leg. He was owned by the Mitchell Seven - Up Ranch near Canadian.

Furniture, typeset of that used 75 years ago, has been placed in the aged cabin, owned by J. M. "Ike" Simpson, 79. The cabin has been brought into Canadian from its original site on the other side of the river and will be open from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday of this week only.

The tour attracted some 5,000 people last year and officials expect better attendance this year. The first Sunday in last year's tour attracted 3,223 spectators and 800 cars said Wilkinson.

Pampan Central Figure In Story Of Lost Watch

A watch lost two months ago in Hollywood Bowl in California is ready for return to its Pampa owner all because of the honesty of a California woman and the bookkeeping records of a Swiss watch manufacturer in Basel, Switzerland.

The watch was lost by Mrs. Laura Fatherine, 831 Christine, while on a trip to California during the summer.

It was found by Miss Mildred Force, 728 Oakdale, Monrovia, Calif., who took the trouble to write to the watch company, which in turn took the trouble to write to the factory. The factory traced the serial numbers to the name of the original purchaser.

The watch had been purchased in Basel as a gift for Mrs. Fatherine. In her letter, Miss Force said the watch apparently had been stepped on by someone in the Hollywood Bowl crowd, but that aside from a broken crystal it was apparently in good condition.

United Fund Agency Serves In Many Ways

The Gray County Heart Association, a participant in the Pampa United Fund and a part of the American Heart Association, is organized to help meet one of the nation's most urgent national health problems — the reduction of premature death and disability from, and the ultimate eradication of, diseases of the heart and blood vessels — diseases which account for more than 800,000 deaths annually and affect more than 10,000,000 men, women, and children of all ages.

If it comes from a hardware store, we have it. Lewis Hdw. Adv.

It is dedicated to the conquest of heart disease through its nationwide program of research, education and community service. Because cardiovascular research is being conducted in medical institutions today, many lives which may have been lost are now being saved and rebuilt. In this way the day is hastened when cardiovascular diseases can be brought under complete control.

The Texas Heart Association Research Program is 21.8 times greater today than it was just three years ago. In the 1958-59 fiscal year, the association supported one project in the amount of $4,600 as compared to $100.

All the money made available to the association is channeled directly into research on a nationwide basis.

Mostly as this research may be, the resulting economy in human life, increased availability of needed industrial manpower, and a lightened tax burden on the community make research support the best possible investment. Heart research anywhere helps hearts everywhere!

No part of the funds go for local operational expense as all members of the association are volunteer workers. There are very few paid employees of the heart association on a state or national level; therefore, almost

'Orbit' Phone System Outlined

Telephone scientists are looking to outer space to make our world smaller.

Students of Pampa's two Junior High Schools, saw a science demonstration today of how long distance telephone calls might be transmitted between Pampa and Istanbul, Anchorage or any point in the world via a satellite orbiting 3,000 miles above the earth.

The demonstration was a highlight of a talk on space age communications given by Glenn Scott, science demonstrator for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. Using miniature equipment, Scott showed how Bell Telephone Laboratories scientists bounced telephone calls off a satellite orbiting in outer space in a special experiment known as Project Echo.

Scott pointed out that the Bell Telephone System transmission network today includes more than 200 million circuit miles to carry phone messages within cities and has some 60 million circuit miles for long distance calling.

The demonstration was given this morning at Robert E. Lee Junior High School and this afternoon at Pampa Junior High.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy survived his honeymoon first session of Congress with his New Deal political machine not much damaged, if any.

Kennedy inherited the New Deal political coalition from FDR by way of Harry S. Truman. Adlai E. Stevenson was standby owner-operator of the New Deal coalition from 1952 to 1960. Stevenson was unable to master the controls of the political machine which was in his keeping.

The New Deal machine reacts effectively only to a master operator, according to the hard and often cynical rules of power politics. Stevenson was not much good at that. FDR and HST were experts. Another expert is John F. Kennedy.

New York, Missouri and Massachusetts politics are hard schools. Their graduates are hard men. Illinois politics also is a hard school in which Stevenson apparently was not an apt pupil. Kennedy's payoff for having been graduated cum laude from the school of Massachusetts politics is that he kept his political army intact after the first round of the congressional wars.

There is some thunder on the left. The left wingers of Americans for Democratic Action are complaining against the record of the recent Congress and against Kennedy's share in that record. ADA said the recent Congress record was:

"At best one of callous expediency and, at worst, one of astonishing indifference to real national needs."

ADA complained also that Kennedy had made a truce with Southern Democrats on civil rights and the filibuster rule, a nice way of calling Kennedy a double-crosser. ADA seems to be speaking mostly for Negro voters in its indictment of Congress and the President. The Negroes, however, are strangely calm. They have complained, it is true, but more in sorrow than in anger.

There is no threat of a Negro bolt from Kennedy New Deal loyalties. Considering the record of Congress on civil rights and the filibuster, this a tribute to the young President's political skill. Without the Negro vote, Kennedy would have been defeated last year. He will need the Negroes again in 1964.

ADA unhappiness is less important. There is nowhere for ADA to go. If there had been, ADA probably would have gone there last year when Kennedy chose Lyndon B. Johnson as his vice-presidential mate.

Water Program Can Be Enacted, Johnson Avers

HOUSTON (UPI)— Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said yesterday that now, for the first time in Texas history, "we know that we can proceed to utilize our water resources under a unified and integrated program."

"He congratulated members of a joint state-federal water study commission which reported on a three-year study of Texas water resources at a noon meeting at the Rice Hotel.

Johnson said in remarks prepared for the presentation of the report that the study "charges Texas with the responsibility of developing and conserving its bountiful water supply."

"The billions of acre-feet of water that are pouring into the Gulf of Mexico must be controlled, stored and regulated for delivery where it is needed — to cities, farms and factories," he said.

"The state must have this conservation and control to meet the constantly growing demands of the expanding economy and population," Johnson added.

"He said better use of state water resources would result in a more abundant and diversified Texas economy. Johnson said the report, by the U. S. Study Commission for Texas, sharply defined state water problems and provides an instrument for their solution.

Johnson pointed out that the federal government is to spend $80 million this year in Texas on water projects. He said construction is already under way on the Canadian River project in the Panhandle to provide water for 11 cities, and similar projects can stem from the water study report.

"He said it shows how to 'properly utilize every drop of rain that falls on Texas.'

"By starting now on this report it will take 5 to 15 years to translate this gleam in our eyes to tangible projects," he said. "I am told that we should have, if we are going to solve the water problems of Texas, $690 million worth of work in operation by 1975 and of work in operation by 1975 and $1.8 billion by 1990."

"Best of all," Johnson said, "it can pay for itself on water revenue."

"He said we have only scratched the surface in the use of water for power development and transportation; are just barely started in halting the gigantic waste of our precious top soil through water erosion; and have only touched the task of curbing the economic loss brought on by floods.

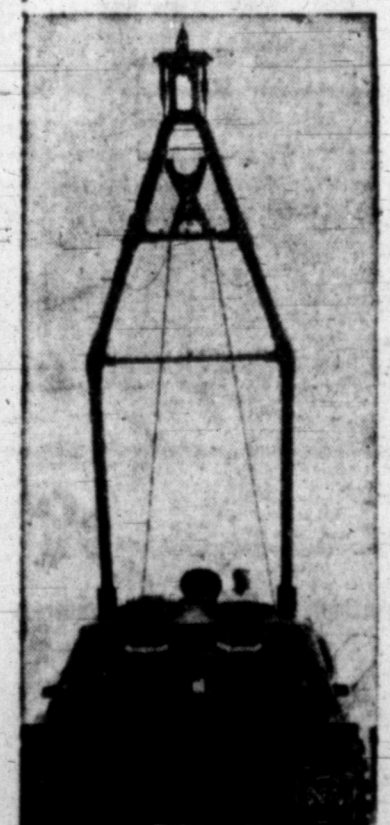

Johnson said the recreational developments and industries resulting from dams and lakes, on the Colorado, Brazos and Trinity rivers "are only the first sketches of the full picture that can be painted in Texas with water."

Panhandle Area Swept By Rain

By United Press International
More rain fell across most of Texas today on the heels of six-inches of rain in West Texas Monday and a three-inch down-pour that touched off flash flooding in downtown Fort Worth Monday night.

In the Panhandle area adjacent to Pampa, Perryton had .37 inch of rainfall. Just 15 miles north reports were that 2 inches fell. Clarendon reported 1.52. Canadian .75. Borger, .11; Skellytown .28 and Wheeler .90.

Pampa reported .70 inch rain during Monday. Winds were strong Monday night and the skies cloudy.

Three inches of rain fell in downtown Fort Worth in a three-hour period, Arlington Heights, a section of Fort Worth, reported a total of 4.70 inches of rain Monday.

Police said 35 persons were injured in traffic accidents blamed on slick streets. Many other persons had to be rescued from their automobiles stalled in high water areas.

Water was seven feet deep at the dry weather crossing in the city's Sycamore Park.

Water rose on lawns in many areas of Fort Worth and crept into at least one home. Parts of the downtown area had curb deep water. Rain gauges across the city measured from one to four inches of rain.

The Weather Bureau said the rains would begin diminishing tonight, with skies clearing from the southwest.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly In Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plaque odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at drug counters everywhere.

Numerous showers were falling today in a broad strip 100-150 miles wide across Central and North Central Texas. Nearly all the state had cloudy skies and mild temperatures.

Southerly winds up to 25 miles an hour swept the state. Temperatures during the night ranged from 54 degrees at Dalhart, El Paso and Alpine to 76 degrees at Laredo and Corpus Christi.

Plane Tourists In Pampa Today

Scheduled to make a 30 minute stop at the Perry-Lefors Air Field at 3:30 p.m. today was the All-Texas-Air Tour caravan which is making a state-wide good fellowship tour to promote interest in flying.

The air tour, sponsored by the Texas Aeronautics Commission, started Saturday, Oct. 7 from Harlingen with some 35 or 40 planes carrying 30 persons to 36 cities throughout the state.

The caravan will be met at the air field by Ralph Prock, Pampa Aviation Committee chairman, city and chamber of commerce officials and other aviation group members.

The seven-day air tour is headed by Aza Burroughs, executive secretary of the Texas Private Flyers Association.

Next stop after Pampa will be Plainview where the group will spend the night.

Pampa Welders Club In Meet

An activation meeting by the Pampa Welders Club was held Monday night in the Gate Valve Shop and Supply Co., Pampa.

Guest speakers for the evening were Willis Riddle and Victor H. Lyon, representatives of a welding corporation in Flushing, N.Y.

President of the club, Jack Robinson, stated the Pampa Welders Club will be affiliated with the National Welders Club to maintain and advance welding knowledge.

TOO MANY SMOKE SIGNALS

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Paul Three-Fingers, 26, an American Indian, was sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse today for sending up sleepy smoke signals.

Specifically he was charged with setting fire to a bed in the Parmelee Hotel when he fell asleep while smoking.

World's largest machine tool plant is located in Cincinnati, Ohio.

B. T. Ross Service Set

Interment rites for Benjamin Thomas Ross, 61, of Skellytown will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Community Church in Skellytown with the Rev. Robin Byars of the Assembly of God Church and the Rev. Jerry Byron, pastor of the Community Church, officiating.

Mr. Ross died at 9:05 p.m. Monday in Highland General Hospital.

He was born Oct. 16, 1901 in Edom and had been a resident in Skellytown for 35 years.

He worked for the Cities Service Oil Co. until 1940 and for the past 21 years had been in the construction business.

He was a member of the Community Church in Skellytown; a member of the McLean Masonic Blue Lodge 889; a 32nd degree Mason; and a member of the Scottish Rites of the El Paso Consistory No. 3.

Survivors are his wife, Ora May; one daughter, Mrs. C. M. Shiley of Stinnett; one son, Ethelred Ross of Panhandle; and nine grandchildren.

The body will be sent to Willis Point for burial, according to Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Amarillo Tutors ECA Speakers

Mrs. A. O. Graham, Mrs. Johnie Perry and Mrs. M. Bural, special education teachers all of Amarillo, were guest speakers at the Exceptional Child Association meeting held last night in the City Club Room.

Following a discussion of their work with trainable and educable children, two films were shown. "The Tommie School," depicted classroom work in California school; and "The Innocent Child" illustrated the teachers' work in their special education classrooms in Amarillo.

In a business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Jack Sloan, plans were made to sponsor a Boy Scout Troop with Dr. Nicholas Kadings as leader, Max Hukill and A. L. Patrick Jr. as assistant leaders. Troop organizational plans are set for the near future.

Phone Company Appoints Aide

Ray Ainsworth, Amarillo, has been appointed supervisory wire chief for the Pampa area of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. It was announced today by H. T. Estes, Amarillo district plant superintendent.

Ainsworth has been with Southwestern Bell since 1951 when he started his career as a cable splicer's helper in Fort Worth.

The job being taken by Ainsworth is a newly created post in the Pampa area, Estes said.

Ainsworth is married and has three daughters. He is a member of the Baptist Church and the Masonic lodge.

He comes to Pampa from Amarillo where he was test center foreman for Southwestern Bell.

$3,000 Bond Set In Assault Case

Bennie Bessire, 26, 1116 Var-non Dr., was released on $3,000 bond late Monday after being charged with assault with intent to rape.

Sheriff officers said Bessire was taken into custody yesterday following a report from a 20 year-old N. Somerville woman who said she had been attacked Monday morning by Bessire while baby-sitting in his home.

The bond was set by Justice of the Peace Bill Graham.

Civilian Aircraft To Be Grounded For 12 Hours

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All of the nation's civilian air travelers will be grounded for 12 hours Saturday when U. S. defenses will be extensively tested by a mock "surprise" attack.

From 11 o'clock CST until midnight, the only aircraft over the United States will be military jets and bombers. The exercise involving hundreds of warplanes and more than 250,000 military personnel has been tagged "Operation Sky Shield II."

Every civilian plane has been ordered to stay out of the sky for the 12 hours. On a normal Saturday, an estimated 125,000 passengers use the scheduled commercial airlines.

The exercise is expected to result in some long football weekends, a number of overcrowded hotels and heavier airline traffic on Friday and Sunday.

To civilians, Sky Shield may be an inconvenience. To military officials, it is a deadly serious attempt by Strategic Air Command bombers to crack the North American Defense Command's protective curtain of radar, anti-aircraft and supersonic interceptors.

Sky Shield will involve an undisclosed number of SAC B47 and B52 bombers aided by 15 RAF planes. Their "opposition" will be NAORD's jet fighters, ballistic missile early warning radar, Canada's Mid-Canada and Pinetree radar lines, Navy radar picket planes, "Texas navies," space detection and tracing installations and NORAD's entire attack reporting over an area of 14 million square miles.

The attacking units will attempt to jam defense radar and communications—the main reason why NORAD asked the airlines to ground all flights. An airliner flying during the operation might find its navigation fouled up.

Inconvenience to the traveling public will be minimized as much as possible, even though the canceled flights total 1,850 U. S., 273 Canadian and 31 foreign. About 2,000 airliners will be on the ground and more than 70,000 private and business aircraft.

Gas Association Names President

DALLAS (Spl) — E. H. Smoker, president of The United Gas Improvement Co., Philadelphia, has been elected president of the American Gas Association.

Smoker, who was selected by the 3,000 delegates attending the 43rd annual A.G.A. convention, succeeds Lester T. Potter, president of Lone Star Gas Co., Dallas.

The new president will serve for a year as head of the national trade association of the $25 billion gas industry. The 8,600 members of A.G.A. throughout the U.S. and Canada represent leading gas distribution and transmission companies and gas appliance and equipment manufacturers.

Smoker has been president of U.G.I. since 1955, having started his career with the company in 1930 as a research chemist. He is also a director of U.G.I.

Born in Columbia, Pa., Smoker was graduated from Franklin and Marshall College and received his master's and doctor's degree from the University of Cincinnati. He lives in Wallingford, Pa.

Smoker is a director and past president of the Pennsylvania Gas Association. He is a director of the Girard Trust Corn Exchange Bank and A.G.A. and a trustee of Franklin and Marshall College.

Sullivan Video Berlin Program Found Pleasing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whatever else free access to West Berlin may represent to the Western Allies, it must rate as TV's secret programming weapon these days.

Look at the excitement Jack Paar generated by traveling there. And now comes Ed Sullivan to give his Sunday night CBS-TV format a badly needed lift by visiting the beleaguered city.

In Sullivan's case, the object was entertainment for about 6,000 appreciative U.S. and Allied servicemen and friends who gathered in the Sportsplatz to watch the all-star show. Sullivan offered no political pronouncements and simply confined himself to introducing such performers as Louis Armstrong, Maureen O'Hara, a Parisian dance troupe called "The Bluebell Girls," singer Connie Francis, Van Cliburn and the comedy team of Rowan and Martin.

There were many shots of audience reaction and one highlight was the camera's recording of G. I. reaction to Miss Francis, who went into the audience to sing.

Incidentally, the hour was rewarding in another way. For once, televisioners were able to hear what it is that Sullivan says to the artists as he shakes hands with them after they complete their turns. He told Van Cliburn, "You've added a very fine dimension to this show." Just as I thought.

Another Sunday show that used the Berlin command for an audience was the "Du Pont Show of the Week."

"U. S. O. — Wherever They Go!" produced for NBC-TV by John Aaron and Jesse Zousmer of "Person to Person" fame, was a tribute to the 20th anniversary of the service organization. They reeled off miles and miles of ancient film footage showing Jack Benny, Dick Powell, Danny Kaye, Joe E. Brown, Ray Bolger, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Mickey Rooney, Marlene Dietrich, Dinah Shore and other stars in action before World War II G. I. audiences.

The accent was on the stars, not on the accordion players and jugglers who also carry the U. S. O. banner on high. Highlights of the hour were Marilyn Monroe shimmying in Korea, Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme swinging in West Berlin last summer.

Rather than fill the time with flesh-and-blood anecdotes, the program spent a great deal of time saluting the stars with shallow, obviously uninformative and repetitious little speeches. But Debbie Reynolds, Joe E. Brown and Dwight D. Eisenhower were among the few who supplied less mechanical comments — just enough to demonstrate what could have been done with a program of this sort.

Panhandle's Fabulous Heritage In Review

Joe B. Frantz and Mrs. Cordia Sloan Duke
... "Six Thousand Miles Of Fence"

"Six Thousand Miles of Fence" by Cordia Sloan Duke and Joe B. Frantz will be reviewed by Travis Lively Sr. on Monday, Oct. 16 at 8 p.m. in the parish house of St. Matthews Episcopal Church. Mrs. Duke, widow of Robert L. Duke who, for many years, was manager of the famed XIT Ranch, will be present to autograph copies of the book.

M. K. Brown, who in cooperation with the University of Texas press, made publication possible, will also be present to autograph copies of the book, which will be on sale at the time of the review.

The fabulous XIT Ranch has been celebrated in song, story and serious history. This book of reminiscences of old XIT cowmen puts on record the everyday life of the individuals, who were in charge of the ranch. The authors relate the honest cowboy language of what actually happened inside XIT's 6,000 miles of fence. It is a forthright, yet picturesque discussion of ranching hardships.

Mrs. Duke, wife of a rising young cowhand, kept in her apron pocket a notebook and pencil, recording all manner of interesting details as they caught her attention. This diary is the nucleus of the present book.

Mrs. Duke, who lives in Dalhart and Joe B. Frantz of the history Department of the University of Texas, have organized the reminiscences around key aspects of ranch life, retaining the language of the cowhands.

Copies of "Six Thousand Miles of Fence" will be on sale at the review and one-half of the royalties from the sale of this book will go to Boys' Ranch at Tascosa.

Tickets may be purchased from women of St. Matthews Church or at the church office.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER
Senior Citizens Center

We had a gay time at Senior Center last week. Uncle Billy Frost danced with Adrienne Foster and Mrs. Mary Johnston. Lefors entertained with old, favorite tunes on her French Harp.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Dilley are anticipating a visit from Mrs. Dilley's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Johnson from Walla Walla, Wash.

Mrs. R. Nolan is ill in Highland General Hospital with pneumonia. The lovely centerpiece of white and red gladioli, fashioned by Mrs. Roy Kay, was taken out to the hospital for her pleasure following the Thursday afternoon meeting.

Mrs. Katie Vincent recently visited in Dumas with Mrs. Joe Vincent.

Friends at the Center will be happy to learn that N. A. Cobb was able to come over Sunday and attend church services at the Mary Ellen - Harvester Church of Christ. Mr. Cobb is staying in a rest home in Amarillo.

Visitors in the N.H. Shireman home on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shireman and two sons, Howard McDowell of Frederick, Okla and Granwelle of Erick, Okla.

Mrs. N. H. Shireman's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Howell have recently moved to Pampa from Spearman. We missed Mrs. Howell at the Center on Thursday.

Mrs. Maggie Deal visited in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Arthur in Perryton one day recently.

Visitors in Pampa recently were Mrs. Rosalie Weir and her two daughters, Margie and Gloria of Laporte. Mrs. Weir is the daughter of Mrs. Jessie VanHuss.

The first meeting in each month is a birthday party for all Senior Citizens having birthdays during the month. Those having birthdays this month were Mmes. Nettie Cornelison, Ollie Daniels, F. M. Heaton, W. R. Hamilton, Alice Isbell, Lillie Reynolds; Messrs. Murray King and L. J. Sutton. The Altrusa Club presented each one with a gift. Fruit salad, birthday cake and coffee were served to 77 members. Mrs. Louis Sewell is the Altrusa Club Senior Center chairman.

We were happy to have both Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Norris with us on Thursday. Mrs. Norris is still unable to resume writing this column due to a lacerated hand that got caught in a car door last week.

Mrs. Cora Yates returned home with her son, Frank Yates and family and will visit in Cheyenne, Wyo. for a week or so.

Mrs. V. L. Hobbs, who is Senior Center co-chairman for the Altrusa Club, has her daughter, Mrs. Sailer and granddaughters, Laura and Mary Lee visiting with her, so she brought them along to the Center this week. Let us all pray for peace, Love, Mrs. O. A. Wagner, guest reporter.

Dear Abby... Men Do Well When Wives Do Shopping

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am in the men's retail clothing business, and would like to know what has happened to the backbone of the American male? He doesn't seem able to think for himself any more.

About ten per cent of the men who come in are unable to choose their own clothing without a final okay from their wives who fancy themselves experts on fabrics and style. The other ninety per cent have nothing to say about fit, color or price. If the husband likes the suit, and his wife doesn't, he ends up buying what she likes. Many of my friends in the men's clothing business have told me they have noticed the same situation. Can you explain it?

is 32 and I am 26. He knows about my unsuccessful marriage, but no one else in town does because we moved here a few years ago. I know I can't wear the traditional white wedding gown and veil, but our wedding will take place in the person's study. What should I wear, and what kind of flower, should I carry? I want to look at a bride-like as possible.

CLOTHING SALESMAN
DEAR SALESMAN: Only a man who wants to please his wife will take her along when he buys a suit. He, in my opinion, is more of a man than the male who disregards all opinions but his own. More women would do well to take their husbands shopping. There would be fewer "mistakes" hanging unworn in the clothes closets of America.

SECOND TIME AROUND
DEAR SECOND: Wear a dress, pastel suit, and a flowered hat with a fingertip veil, and cardigans. They don't tell. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it is a good idea to make a husband jealous once in a while to keep him on his toes?

BROKEN - HEARTED AT 50
Tell your husband you found the letters and get it over with. Things might not be as hopeless as you think.

YOUNG WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Forget it. Instead of keeping him on HIS toes, you are apt to find him on YOUR heels.

What's troubling you? Write Abby, care of Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Include self-addressed stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 5 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

People who always say they don't have time spend their time doing what busy people never have time for.

A young girl should rise when she is introduced to an older woman - but not to meet those her own age.

Fallacy Repudiated: Jack Frost No Painter

posed to the sun while the leaves on the other side of the plant may be only yellow or green.

Another interesting factor is that plants growing in swamps or other low places are often the first to show fall color. This is simply because the colder air settles in such low places on still nights. Plants growing in 'shady' locations can not be expected to have as strikingly marked red color as those grown in full sun.

Brown is not an autumn color, for all leaves eventually turn brown as the result of death and decay of tissue. The leaves of some oaks turn brown and will remain on the tree all winter. But in other cases, the sugar maples and spice bush leaves drop while they are still brightly colored. The degree of color may also directly depend on soil conditions. A well known fact is that pin oaks receiving heavy applications of nitrogenous fertilizers will develop a much deeper red color than those grown on poor soils without such fertilizers.

Plants adaptable to this area that are capable of producing red autumn coloring are dogwoods, smoke tree, hawthorns, certain crabapples, high bush cranberry, Texas red oak, virginia creeper, boston ivy, winged euonymus, green barberry, deciduous holly, mandina, mahonia, and sumac.

LOOKING FOR AUTUM COLOR - Mrs. W. M. Castleberry is pictured beside one of the few Aspen trees in Pampa, which is in the yard of her home, 221 N. Ward. She brought the trees, which are noted for their color, from Colorado a few years ago and they seem to be thriving in this climate very well.

By R. L. STUDEBAKER
Horticulturist

As the summer has transpired into fall, our thoughts turn to the autumn scenes; harvest shocks, pumpkins, strutting turkeys, full moons, falling leaves, and autumn color. In grade school we were told the story that Jack Frost with his magical powers and tricks changed the green leaves into colors of autumn splendor. Many still believe this story, and to be sure this story is much more romantic than is the actual cause of autumn color.

America is very fortunate to be a temperate region of the world in which autumn coloring can be seen, for not all regions of the world are so fortunate. A small region of South America, a section of eastern Asia, and a small part of southwestern Europe are the only other places where fall coloration occurs.

nights in which the temperature is below 45 degrees F. Thirdly, ample soil moisture must be available to the plant.

Plant physiologists have proven that when such conditions occur the sugars that are manufactured in the leaves during the warm, sunny days are not able to be translocated to other parts of the plant when the temperature drops below 45 degrees F. In other words, the sugars and other materials are "trapped" in the leaves. The accumulation of these products results in the manufacture of the red anthocyanin pigment.

The combination of these factors may be better understood when one observes a certain tree that may be red on the side ex-

Colts, Mets To Draft Players From Pool Today

Hodges, Roberts Among Draftees

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Gil Hodges and Norm Sherry are expected to be among the first "bargains" snapped up today when the National League's two newest teams — New York and Houston — select their players from a special pool priced at more than $4-million.

President George Weiss of the New York Mets will choose the players for his club and General Manager Paul Richards of the Houston Colts will pick for his team, each of them to select in alternate order.

Rebels Rise To Top Spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mississippi, possessing a high-scoring offense and a stingy defense, today ranked as the nation's No. 1 major college football team in the United Press International's second weekly ratings.

Mississippi, a 33-0 winner over Florida State last Saturday for its third victory in a row this season, received 24 first place votes from the 35 coaches, representing seven geographical sections of the country. The Rebels, who now have an unbeaten string of 18 straight games, accumulated a total of 316 points.

Ole Miss replaced Iowa as the nation's top ranking team as the Hawkeyes, who just managed to edge Southern California, 35-34, dropped to fifth place. Mississippi was second-ranked last week.

Michigan, eighth-rated a week ago, jumped into the runnerup spot by virtue of its 38-8 romp over Army. The Wolverines got three first place votes and a total of 233 points on the basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 points for votes from first to 10th place.

Texas picked up just one first place vote but received a total of 225 points to remain in third place while Alabama advanced from seventh to fourth with 214 points.

Michigan State, rated No. 4 last week, fell to sixth position. Notre Dame moved into the top 10, jumping from 12th to seventh; Ohio State advanced from 10th to eighth and Maryland, out of the top 20 last week, tied Baylor for ninth.

Missing from the top 10 this week were Georgia Tech, which dropped from third to 14th; Missouri from sixth to 15th and Syracuse, ninth a week ago, obtaining only one point this week.

Northwestern heads the second 10, followed by Colorado, Duke, Georgia Tech, Missouri, Arkansas, Washington, and Utah State. Four teams are tied for 19th place: Auburn, Louisiana State, Purdue and Wyoming.

Team	Points
1. Mississippi (24) (3-0)	316
2. Michigan (3) (2-0)	233
3. Texas (1) (3-0)	225
4. Alabama (2) (3-0)	218
5. Iowa (1) (2-0)	214
6. Michigan State (3) (2-0)	212
7. Notre Dame (1) (2-0)	133
8. Ohio State (1-0-1)	103
9. (tie) Baylor (2-0)	51
Maryland (3-0)	51
Second 10 —
11. Northwestern	35
12. Colorado, 35, Duke 19; 14. Georgia Tech, 13; 15. Missouri, 12; 16. Arkansas, 7; 17. Washington, 6; 18. Utah State, 5; 19 (tie), Auburn, Louisiana State, Purdue and Wyoming, 4 each.

Between them, Weiss and Richards could spend as much as $4,200,000. Under the rules laid down to them, each must spend $1,700,000 or a total of $3,400,000.

Hodges, a long-time favorite in Brooklyn who has been serving the Los Angeles Dodgers, is certain to be picked by the Mets because of his tremendous appeal in New York. The Colts already have said they would defer to the Mets in his case.

Sherry, also with Los Angeles and the brother of pitcher Larry Sherry, is in demand by both new clubs because of the scarcity of front-line catchers in the pool.

Among some of the other better known players who will be up for grabs at $75,000 apiece are Robin Roberts of the Phillies, Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals, Johnny Antonelli of the Braves, Richie Ashburn of the Cubs, Sam Jones of the Giants and Gus Bell of the Reds.

The Mets and the Colts are obliged to pick 16 players apiece from the eight other NL clubs at a cost of $75,000 each. Then both new clubs may choose eight more players priced at $50,000 each if they wish.

Following those two go-rounds, the Mets and Colts get a crack at four so-called "premium players," who will cost $125,000 apiece.

There will be a total of 16 of these premium players to choose from, with each of the eight existing NL clubs putting up two players. Only one can be selected from each club.

Hopes by the New York and Houston clubs that they might get a chance to purchase some of the league's better performers were quickly dashed upon learning that such rather mediocre players as Hal Smith and Don Leppert of the Pirates, Dick Lemay of the Giants, and Dick Farrell and Daryl Spencer of the Dodgers were among those offered as premiums.

Quarterback Club To Meet Tonight

The Pampa Quarterback Club holds its weekly meeting tonight at the high school cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. with president Paul Brown presiding.

Last Friday the club and the Pampa cheerleaders organized a downtown pep rally that seemed to fire up the team and the student body and the Harvesters responded with a well played contest against Monterey. Business will be the first order of the session tonight and then the members will hear a scouting report on the Amarillo Sandies, Friday night's opponent, and coach Weldon Trice will show the Pampa - Monterey game film.

Coffee and cake will be served.

LETDOWN — Edward T. Blakely, 84, tried to duplicate his catch of a 22½-pound world record salmon he took from Sebago Lake, Maine, 54 years ago. Fishing at the identical spot with the same rod and reel, Blakely came up with a salmon, but it was only one and a three-quarters pounds.

Berra, Ford Set Series Records

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Yogi Berra, who sets a record every time he appears in a World Series game, didn't play in the New York Yankees' clincher Monday, but still managed to break nine records and equal two others.

Another Yankee "old pro," Whitey Ford, in addition to breaking Babe Ruth's 29 2-3 innings of scoreless pitching, set records in five other categories.

Berra now has included among his host of records: most series played (12), most games played (72), most hits (71), most singles (49) and most runs batted in (39). The Yankee slugger equalled marks for the most times being a member of a winning club as an active player (9) and most extra base hits for total series (22).

Ford set new marks for the most series games for pitcher (16), most series played for pitcher (8), most games won (9), most games started (16), and most strikeouts (70). The stubby left-hander also has a string of 32 scoreless innings going for him.

Albuquerque To Join TL

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — The Albuquerque Dukes baseball team expects to join the Class AA Texas League next year, taking over the Ardmore, Okla., franchise.

The formal announcement was made Monday night at a special dinner-meeting called by Dukes' owner Tom Bolack.

Bolack said all negotiations with league and Ardmore officials have been completed. The league will vote on the move at a meeting at San Antonio next Thursday.

An expansion of Albuquerque's facilities will begin immediately upon acceptance.

Bolack, who is also New Mexico's lieutenant governor, said plans are being made to enlist the financial support of 100 Albuquerque businessmen to underwrite the initial cost of the expansion.

Texas League officials conferred here three weeks ago and tentatively approved the move.

White Deer And Hogs Ready Stinnett Clash For Baylor On Tap Friday

The spotlight in Panhandle football warfare turns from the city slickers to the farm boys Friday night with the White Deer-Stinnett attraction getting top billing in this area as well as statewide.

These class A giants clash at White Deer and if previous games are an indication, the district 1-A championship will be decided by 10 p.m. Friday night.

Both are former state champions. White Deer took the class A crown in 1958 and Stinnett copped all the marbles in 1956. The Rattlers roared through 13 games last season, including a 29-6 triumph over the Bucks, before losing to eventual state champion Albany 8-6 in the semi-finals on a frozen field.

Coach Colje Huffman's Bucks have a 40-1 log this season with wins over Groom 31-0; Canadian 19-0; McLean 20-6 and Shamrock 21-8. Lefors tied White Deer 6-6.

Stinnett, coached by Don Light, brings a 4-1 record to the battle. The Rattlers were dealt a 22-15 setback by undefeated AA Dalhart while holding victories over Clarendon 35-6; Spearman 21-0; Canadian 25-6 and Lefors 14-12.

What kind of game will it be? Well it could be an offensive battle with guys like White Deer's Carl McAdams, "Rickey" Lowe, Jimmy Thurmond and Johnny Spence; or Stinnett's Maines Gibson, Floyd Watson, Bobby Bain and Jerry Lasater.

Or it could be a defensive struggle led by the Bucks Jimmy Lopez, Frankie Williams, Mike Hefner, Larry Short, Joe Gordzelik and Wesley Schultz. Stinnett has its own line stalwarts, with Edward Lorenz, Larry Wolfe, Ronnie Williams, Robert Ballard and Don Davis leading the play.

League-leading Tascosa hosts Lubbock High, Palo Duro and Monterey meets. Amarillo is at Pampa and Plainview goes to Borger in district 3-AAAA action.

The top battle in AA pits undefeated Childress and Quanah at Quanah in an opening district 5-AA tilt with the winner getting the nod to coo the crown. Perryton engages Shamrock in another top-notch battle.

The area grid standings are as follows:

Cincinnati Takes Defeat In Stride

CINCINNATI (UPI) — It was back to normal in old-Cincy today—the 1961 World Series just an unwanted memory.

The city took the Reds' defeat in five games by the block-busting New York Yankees calmly. As far as the baseball fans were concerned, they had their fling when the Reds clinched the National League pennant. The Series was anti-climatic.

There were no tears. You could see the Yankee victory coming after the Sunday game, when Whitey Ford and Co. blanked Cincinnati, 7-0.

In the Reds' locker room, the same attitude prevailed. The players could smile after the defeat Monday and made plans about the off-season.

Crosley Field emptied quickly after the final game and only a few autograph seekers stuck around to watch the players leave the clubhouse.

SUSPEND TWO GRIDDERS

STORRS, Conn. (UPI) — Sophomores Dave Roberts of Meriden, Conn., and Fred Gates of Fairfield, Ill. have been suspended indefinitely from the University of Connecticut football team for breaking training rules.

If you think Arkansas coach Frank Broyles had his Razorbacks high for their 28-3 victory over Texas Christian, bend an ear to what he is telling his Hogs about this week's opponent—Baylor.

"Baylor's football team would make a lot of pro football teams envious," Broyles said. "There are a lot of pro clubs which lack the weapons Baylor has. A lot of pro coaches would be envious of the material and execution of Baylor's pro-type offense and defense."

After Broyles warned his players about Baylor's "professional" ability Monday, he sent them through a spirited 90-minute drill in sweat clothes.

At Waco, Baylor sloshed through a scrimmage in a heavy downpour. The Bruins spent most of the time working on offense.

Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian showed his team films of the Arkansas game and said "Arkansas had a great night against us and our fumbles killed us." He said the Razorbacks were "probably the quickest team we will meet all year." TCU plays Texas Tech at Lubbock Saturday.

Texas Tech whipped through a light workout in sweatsuits and tackled Pat Holmes and Larry Mullin and end Bob Witucki were elected tri-captains for the TCU game.

The Texas Longhorns took it easy Monday and learned that two top Oklahoma linemen are doubtful starters for the annual grudge battle in Dallas Saturday. Sooner Coach Bud Wilkinson said tackle Tom Cox and center Johnny Tatum both sprained ankles in the 21-15 loss to Iowa State last weekend.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal said wingback Jack Collins has a hurt knee and may be out of the Sooner clash.

Texas A&M got the day off—a reward for the 38-7 thrashing of Texas Tech last Saturday. The Aggies begin preparations today for Saturday's game with Trinity University at San Antonio.

The Rice Owls, idle last week, went through a hard-nosed drill with plenty of contact. Coach Jess Neely sent his No. 1 team against the reserves in a scrimmage.

Quanah And Bobcats Tangle In Showdown

By United Press International
Showdown battles between Childress and Quanah in District 5 and Sweeney and Ganado in District 26 headline this week's Class AA schoolboy football schedule.

All four are among the list of 21 undefeated-untied teams in the division and Quanah and Sweeney have long been ticketed as possible semifinalists.

Quanah has the third best scoring record in AA circles with a 40.8-point average to 42.3 for Jacksboro and 41.3 for Hearne.

twice-beaten Olney; Mansfield, which plays potent Azle and Hillsboro, which tackles tough Gatesville. All but the Dalhart-Dumas game are district tilts.

Most of the others, including defending champion Denver City with its 21-game winning streak, appear safe. The champion Mustangs meet weak Post.

All 32 districts are involved in title play this week with some of the teams having two-thirds of their schedules behind them.

BREAKS WORLD RECORD

MOSCOW (UPI) — Irina Press of Russia, the only woman to total more than 5,000 points in the pentathlon, broke her own world record for the event Monday with a total of 5,137 points at a U.S.S.R. track and field meet.

The Soviet sportswoman's previous high was 5,020 points, according to the Tass news agency.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less. To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Count Down That Counts

The reductio ad absurdum of government planning is upon us.

A recent Wall Street Journal contains a story which explains that a new federal tactic has been developed in an effort to obtain statistical data which can be fully relied upon.

A small army of bureaucrats will be employed during several weeks prior to harvest in some 5,500 farm fields across 28 states, busily engaged in counting the number of plants, the number of blooms or fruits on each plant, the size of each such fruit as well as other pertinent data.

As Joe Western, a staff writer for the Journal, puts it:

"In farmer John Britt's steamy four-acre cotton patch, three and a half miles northwest of here (Springfield, N.C.), grimy, sweat-soaked John Champion swoops and crawls.

"In two carefully-chosen plots, he painstakingly counts the number of plants growing and the number of blooms, small bolls (less than one inch in diameter) and large bolls on each. He records each tally. Then he strips two plants of their buds, as well as blooms and bolls, and under a shady tree, counts these pickings and scrutinizes them for insect and other damage. These findings, too, go down on paper."

The same prospect awaits "scientifically" selected sample plots across the nation wherein ears of corn, soybean pods and heads of wheat will be tallied. Where the activities of the food producers incline toward trees, government bureaucrats are busy climbing ladders and counting, right on the tree, every cherry, orange, lemon, peach and walnut. Even grapes on their vines face the federal census.

Precious Privacy

We should never construe our willingness to help another in distress as a license for us to intrude into someone's private affairs. To many, even a helping hand offered with full kindness and sympathy merely adds a burden. Privacy is so precious—it must not be trespassed.

Leadership In America

Lately we have been hearing considerable in the way of comment respecting America's "lost" leadership.

"Where are our leaders?" is the cry. "Men of stature do not seem to be on hand to lead us out of the mess we are in."

Another will chime in. "Someone must come forward to lead us or we are doomed." The shadow of tragedy appears to hover, like Poe's raven, upon the threshold of so many minds.

The era of our present appears to be one of disillusionment. It is not that our leaders today are worse than those of the immediate past. It is, perhaps, that men are asking more of their leaders than they ever asked before. It is entirely possible that we are evolving at an astonishingly rapid pace and that "leadership" as we have thought of it in the past may no longer serve.

Too many seem to feel that a leader is made by his followers. Thus, the result of leadership, a following, is construed into a cause for leadership to appear.

This tendency to confuse cause with effect has resulted from our overweening dependency on government. Political leaders are rarely leaders in any real sense: They are unqualified in the department of leadership.

Political ascendancy is arrived at thru mass propaganda and mass voting. The fellow with the right-sounding name and with the votes in his column is somebody imagined to have the qualities of leadership. But this is not leadership at all.

The characteristics of leadership emerge within the individual and they have nothing to do with a following. The man who is a leader is a superior man within himself. In some particular avenue of thought or action, the leader is far above and beyond his fellows.

And it's all on behalf of planning. So how can it possibly be wrong?

Here is a statistical empiricism carried to its logical conclusion. Whenever central planners begin mapping out how life shall be lived for the rest of us, it turns out all they have to go on are statistics gleaned from prior years. But, in practice, these statistical garnishings are never accurate.

But, in practice, these statistical garnishings are never accurate. They can't be used as a reliable means of forecasting what farmers and ranchers should produce.

Bureaucrats discover this lack of reliability with considerable chagrin. But they fail to discover why such statistical ingathering is faulty. They simply assume that had they had enough statistics, and if the statistics had been fully accurate, then it would have been possible to predict what should be done with accuracy. Hence, the descent to the counting of each bloom and each fruit. It is as logical as folly can ever be.

In John Patrick's book, "Yankee Hobo in the Orient," it is for World War II the Japanese bureaucrats counted every tobacco leaf on every plant of Japan's not inconsiderable tobacco yield. And every farmer was made accountable for every leaf on his farm and must have the full quota to turn over to the government at harvest.

Joe Western's story doesn't tell us about this, and we presume that at the moment Washington's bureaucrats haven't figured it out. But it is a safe assumption, once such painstakingly gathered data are proved to be as unreliable as former sheafs of statistics, that it will be assumed that the farmer is a villain and he will be made accountable for each blossom, nut, apple, peach, pod, etc., etc.

Children are amazingly perceptive as to people, toys, stories. They don't do much about it, usually because they realize that it would be a losing battle. I have in mind an American actress who makes a great show of just adoring children, especially when there are four or five around and someone with a camera is at hand. This lady likes to be photographed in cozy surroundings with the little darlings and sweet-talks them silly. But, on one occasion, one of her pets strolled over and we got into talk and he said, "She's a phony, you know. Actually, she can't stand us. She just likes to get her picture taken with us."

Miss Jaffee, then, has done the honest job of telling a little story in which it is clear that she neither disdains children nor smother them with flows of affection. She accepts them for what they are, unself-consciously, without pretenses. I don't imagine she goes into happy conniptions over dull children and would prefer the talk and society of bright children.

Her book is illustrated by Erik Blewett, a young man from Copenhagen who comes to us with, apparently, the same healthy attitude toward children. His pictures are not smears of syrup, the child that dominates them is not overly cute, he even has a sort of vly, suspicious eye not calculated to be hoodwinked by fatuous adults.

One doesn't, customarily, give this much attention to just one more book for children. Nor does the fact that I know Miss Jaffee motivate me.

It just happens to like "The Last of the Wizards" for what it shows beneath the surface. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

One doesn't, customarily, give this much attention to just one more book for children. Nor does the fact that I know Miss Jaffee motivate me.

To those who are filled with woe over American prospects because they cannot seem to find "leadership," we have a suggestion. Stop looking at the man with a following and begin looking within yourself for the qualities of leadership which mark the true and the great. If you do not find them, seek to develop them.

Few men are born great; Few men are born to leadership; Few men are real leaders are earned. And real leaders are earned by unwilling self-discipline and an unwillingness to accept less than superior performance from yourself.

This is an age in which the world is hungry for superior men. But we must never mistake popularity for superiority. They are worlds apart. Instead of trying to find a leader you can follow, try to make yourself into the kind of man others would gain from if they followed.

America has not lost its way by having too little leadership. It has failed to find itself because it is looking in the wrong direction. Our future is inextricably webbed with individual greatness, not in

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — Miss Rona Jaffe is an exceedingly bright and exceedingly attractive young woman who has written two best-selling novels, one at least of which became a major motion picture, and how she got them done is a kind of testament to the magic powers of utter concentration. She wrote them in her own apartment at a time when friends in squads were coming in and out, talking, arguing, sipping and making distraction. This detail I had from Miss Jaffe at one time, plus her statement that she didn't hear any of it and was never distracted by it since she had a working code — up at 8 o'clock and get 10 pages done that day, noise.

As one who has worked in airplanes, factories, even during parades and certainly in a variety of city rooms and motion picture studios, I can, in a way, go along with her in the claim that anyone can concentrate so thoroughly and deeply that noise right at hand and ear is not heard and does not distract. But it's a chore. And most certainly I never wrote a best-selling or any other kind of novel under those circumstances.

In any case, Miss Jaffe has just sent me a cordially signed copy of a slim and enchanting little book she has written for children. It is called "The Last of the Wizards," and it is about as far in content and spirit from her novels as Tierra del Fuego is from Reykjavik.

What is interesting to me, not being a child any longer, is the rapidity with which she has written a book that is only 32 pages long, not even a full 32, and using larger type than is customary for body type. I am perfectly sure that Miss Jaffe spent just as long and worked just as hard on this story as on her long, detailed novels. Perhaps even longer. There is no work in prose quite as difficult as the writing of a successful, honest and beguiling book for children. It is a feat and a trick that defies most professional writers for the perfectly evident reason that most adult, professional writers either err on the side of a fake sophistication growing out of a built-in disdain for children or they are so glued up with distressing treacle and wet honey that they go the work up to the extent that even children gag on it.

Children are amazingly perceptive as to people, toys, stories. They don't do much about it, usually because they realize that it would be a losing battle. I have in mind an American actress who makes a great show of just adoring children, especially when there are four or five around and someone with a camera is at hand. a passing show of noise and acclaim. One can almost conclude off-hand that the man with an enormous following must be lacking in certain essentials of leadership or he would not have the following he has. Leadership can be discerned qualitatively, not quantitatively.

The man with the greatest potential of leadership may be the one whose eyes are now resting on these words.

Director of New Disarmament Agency Given Last Minute Congressional Okay on Cushy Jobs

WASHINGTON — If you are looking for one of those super-grade government jobs that pay from $18,500 to $21,500, the place to apply is the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

This newly established agency has hit the congressional jackpot when it comes to these high-paying positions. Congress, during the adjournment rush, gave William C. Foster the $22,500-a-year director, sweeping authority to pay these top salaries to fifty persons.

Specifically, Director Foster can hire a deputy at $21,500 a year; four assistant directors at $20,000 a year; and 45 other "scientific, technical, administrative, and professional personnel." Of the latter group, two can receive salaries of $20,000; 20, $19,000; and 23, $18,500.

In addition to these lush job plums, the legislators gave Foster the green light to hire as many $100-a-day experts and consultants as President Kennedy or he believes necessary to shape the administration's disarmament plans.

To provide funds for these super-duper jobs and more than 500 lesser-paying ($4,000 to $18,000) positions, Congress voted a million dollars for the agency to spend between now and January. President Kennedy will seek an additional $10 million when Congress reconvenes in January to run the Disarmament Agency during 1962.

When Congress approved the agency during the wee hours of the closing session, only a handful of legislators knew about the jackpot of jobs and they never mentioned them in the brief Senate and House floor debates.

THE AUTHORITY — The legislative authority for the gravitrain is spelled out in a little-noticed House Foreign Affairs Committee report entitled "Establishing a U.S. Arms Control Agency," that states:

"Subsection (b) of Section 35 of the Arms Control and Disarmament Act permits the Director to appoint, compensate, and remove, without regard to the provisions of any other law, 45 scientific, technical, administrative, and professional personnel. Of these 20 may receive up to $500, and two may receive up to $1,500, in excess of a GS-18 ($18,500); the others, $18,500."

The report contends that these high salaries are needed to assure the agency of the nation's best brains, stating:

"Analysis of the complex and changing technical, military, political and economic issues which are involved in developing and reviewing disarmament policy can be accomplished only by highly trained experts in such fields as seismology, electronics, physics, geophysics, economics, chemical engineering, nuclear physics, military weapons systems, statistics, foreign relations, and international law."

"Flexibility in recruiting the scarce skills required to handle the agency's diverse responsibilities is obviously essential and authority for these exceptions is necessary to meet the labor market rates for qualified persons."

Sections 23 and 24 of the Act authorize Foster to hire a deputy director, and four assistant directors.

RIFLES FOR AIR FORCE — The Air Force is seeking 8,000 22-caliber rifles to protect its own front line personnel operating in the Congo and South Viet Nam.

The unannounced request was made to the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee by Maj. General J. K. Hester, Deputy Director of Air Force Operations. He asked the committee's permission to use funds earmarked for plane maintenance to purchase the rifles.

Private Opinions Made Public: Appease and concede are so near alike in the dictionary that Washington is going to have a tough time convincing the majority of Americans that it isn't appeasing when it is conceding.

Read Webster's definitions of the two words and you'll see why so many of us are going to wonder about the outcome of the Berlin talks.

The only concessions the Russians are going to make — my guess, anyway — are ones involving rights which we have under the law. That is, they are going to give us what already legally belongs to us. Big-hearted, to say the least.

Actually, Khrushchev got just about all he wanted the day he sealed off East Berlin with hardly a protest. It'll be the day when he opens it, either as an act of appeasement or a generous concession.

Domestic note: housewives have long hours largely because women are nowhere nearly as efficient workers as men. They take twice as long to do a task as a man would. They like to dawdle, dislike quick actions and decisions.

A man can (or could) get a child off to school in half the time it takes a gal to do the job. Men are much faster cooks, too, and I am sure they could sweep and dust a house in half the time a woman requires for the job.

The best sports news in a long time is that Casey Stengel is coming back to baseball as the manager of the new New York National League club. The Yanks have always had the major share of publicity in New York. That will change when Casey unlocks his jaws after a year's absence.

After a year in hibernation, "Off" Case will break the world's non-stop talk record (his own) before the season is half finished.

What would the Las Vegas odds be on Richard Nixon's not shooting the Presidency in 1964 despite his statement on the subject? "I'd say one to ten. No, one to twenty. When a man gets as close to a job as he did in November, he is bound to have one more crack at it. Or try to."

Americans are the politest people on earth. Europeans have that reputation, but live in Europe a few months and you'll agree that for common, every-day niceness and politeness, Americans have it all over the hand-kissing, low-bowing, flattering-word Old Worlders.

This Old World charm of manner is very impressive at the start, but live with it a while and it begins to wear thinner than a slice of prosciutto.

Another reflection on the Russians: If Khrushchev is crazy, he is going to make war whether he is appeased or not. If he is sane, he isn't going to envelop the world in nuclear war over Berlin or East Germany, so why doesn't standing up to him make sense?

I cannot find it in my heart to care whether "Cleopatra" is ever finished, whether Liz Taylor is fat, thin, or medium-sized, or whether she is nice to visitors (even Congressmen), on the set. It's about time to bring in the wisp and let it bite the whole picture.

There was only one thing wrong with the six-day bike race revival in Madison Square Garden. The riders rode in a circle and not straight ahead.

Reds Benefit By UN Delay Naming Secretary-General

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Opening debate drags on at the United Nations while the diplomats work feverishly behind the scenes, trying to find some satisfactory formula for selecting a secretary-general to succeed the late Dag Hammarskjold.

Without a secretary-general the U.N. has no executive authority and is in fact reduced to a debating society.

The United States delegation is anxious to have this stalemate ended. For a new crisis anywhere in the world would find the U.N. powerless to act decisively.

This seems to be just what the Russians want. One way out of this dilemma was a plan put forward in the last few days, to follow a 1946 precedent.

At the first U.N. session in London, the security council was unable to agree on whom to recommend for the position of secretary-general.

The general assembly moved in on this situation and named a temporary secretary-general to serve until the security council could make up its collective mind.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain was chosen for the temporary job. He served until the security council finally agreed on Trygve Lie of Norway, who was duly elected.

From the American viewpoint, this precedent looks good. It would permit the general assembly to name its president, Mongi Slim of Tunisia, as temporary secretary-general and get on with its business.

This idea was put forward by Ireland and several other smaller nations. A number of the African states backed it. Even Indonesia agreed to sponsor it.

The plan was then submitted to India. And as usual, H. V. Krishna Menon turned it down. He may have killed it.

Menon's line was that nothing should be done which would anger the Russians. It was the old Indian rope trick. It left an uncertain status quo dangling helplessly in mid-air.

By taking this compromising position of appeasement, Menon gave all the new, unaligned or neutral nations a chance to duck responsibilities.

For weeks and months these new members of the U.N. have been advised that if they didn't want the world organization to be wrecked, they would have to stand up and be counted.

They would have to vote in opposition to Russian resumption of nuclear tests. And they would have to vote for a strong U.N. with a single secretary-general instead of the three-man secretariat of a Communist, a neutral and a Western power, each having a veto.

Many of the neutrals were almost convinced. Krishna Menon's soft line gives them the "out" they are looking for to abstain from voting, and to think they can get away with it.

President Mongi Slim may himself have put one slight obstacle in the path of becoming secretary-general.

He insists that if he takes the job even temporarily, he will resign the general assembly presidency. His reason: He does not want to set a precedent for having some future assembly president try to boss the secretary-general.

It is more than of a presidential chair.

The parliamentarian and the man who keeps the wheels turning in the general assembly is Andrew W. Cordier, an American who until last year was top administrative assistant to both Secretaries-General Lie and Hammarskjold. Cordier resigned to devote full time to the general assembly.

Hammarskjold's three top undersecretaries, still on the job, are: Ralph J. Bunche, of the U.S.; C. V. Narasimhan, of India; and G. P. Arkadev of Russia, who handles security council affairs in a position similar to Cordier's in general assembly.

All were appointed. They can handle administrative matters, but they cannot initiate U.N. policy.

Under the U.N. charter, the secretary-general must be nominated by the security council and elected by the assembly.

Presidency of the 11-member council rotates monthly, alphabetical order by countries. President for October is Turgut Menemcioglu, of Turkey. For December it will be Valerian A. Zorin of Russia. The Russians might want to stall until then, so that they can preside over the decisive sessions.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Dr. Robert B. Lawson, chairman of the Department of Pediatrics at Miami University's School of Medicine, asks, "Do we physicians have to give some form of treatment to every child brought to us? Should we prescribe a medicine just because the family expects it?"

Answering his own questions, he urges restraint under at least the following circumstances: (1) when treatment may prove more harmful than the disorder itself; (2) when failure to recognize self-limited variations from the normal may lead to (unwarranted) insecurity on the part of parents; and (3) when undue emphasis on treatment may exaggerate the problem it is meant to control.

Here are some examples of what Dr. Lawson means: In the second year of life, babies are apt to develop day-to-day swings in appetite. If vitamins and tonics are prescribed because of the parent's unwarranted concern over a normal variant, treatment may be not only unnecessary but actually harmful.

The child's continuance of the normal variant, regardless of the treatment, may cause anxious parents to lose confidence in their doctor and start on a medical "shopping tour."

Certain minor defects and variations in development tend to correct themselves without recourse to needless surgery. Illustrative of these are umbilical hernias, port wine stains, strawberry marks, tongue-tie, etc. By the same token, tonsils need not be removed merely because they appear to be enlarged. And physiologic flat feet, bow-legs and knock-knees of minor degree may be corrected by the "beneficial" progress of normal growth" sometime before the fifth birthday.

The common viral infections of respiratory and intestinal tracts are not responsive to treatment with antibiotics. They are self-limited invasions except under unusual circumstances. "The excuse that the family demands a 'shot' or a 'mycin' does not justify the unwarranted use of potentially harmful and costly drugs."

So-called "innocent heart murmurs" are frequently encountered in early life. These must be called to the attention of the family as matters of fact. Not as threats. If restrictions are placed on the child's activities and/or the family is warned to keep a close watch on the youngster so that he doesn't "overdo," this state of oversolicitude and overprotection can only be harmful.

What Dr. Lawson is urging is normal concern and intelligent observation. Not neglect. And not a policy of therapeutic nothingness. It is his enlightened view that "the test of good medicine is to practice the art of intelligent, planned neglect."

To do this, the physician should not yield to the pressure to "do something" and advocate treatment when treatment is not necessary. And may even be harmful.

The Almanac

By U. ed Press International

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 10, the 283rd day of the year with 82 to follow in 1961. The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history: In 1845, the United States Naval Academy was opened formally at Fort Severn, Annapolis.

In 1913, in Washington, President Woodrow Wilson pressed a button that blew up the last remaining obstruction in the Panama Canal.

In 1943, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was sworn in as president of China on the 32nd anniversary of the founding of the republic.

A thought for today: American poet Emily Dickinson said, "Hope is the thing with feathers that perches in the soul, and sings the tune without the words, and never stops at all." The hedgehog is the European porcupine.
