WHERE SPAIN REVOLT FLARES

A heavy loss of life was reported in dispatches from Spain as the leftist government sought to quell rebellious rightists in strategic Spanish cities and Spanish Morocco. The above map shows the cities where the severe fighting took place. Shaded areas show provinces claimed by rebel troops. Malaga was reported to have been fired. British and American warships have been dispatched to Spain to care for their nationals. Below is pictured General Francisco Franco, leader of the revolt. (Associated Press Photos)

FDR To Make Inspection Of Ravaged Region Next Month

WASHINGTON, July 23. (AP)—Ordering an immediate study of "the most efficient utilization of the natural resources" of the nation's huge drouth area, and explaining that temporary relief was not enough, President Roosevelt yesterday named a special committee to investigate and confer with him during a personal inspection tour of the sun-burned region in August.

In a statement issued through the White House, he selected Morris L. Cooke, rural electrification administrator, as chairman of the group to be known as the "great plains drouth area committee." The president himself is on a sailing vacation.

Other members of the committee included John C. Page, acting commissioner of the bureau of reclamation; Frederick H. Fowler, of the national resources committee; Rexford G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator, and Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator.

After a study of the day's cattle market prices, the inter-departmental drouth relief committee decided that values held sufficiently firm to make government purchases of stocks and feeders unnecessary.

MAKE-BELIEVE WAR TO SWEEP OHIO VALLEY AS ARMY TESTS NEW MECHANIZED FORCES

The map shows the battle ground and principal campaigns for the summer war games in which some 50,000 national guardsmen and regular troops will participate, August 1-22.

CHICAGO, July 23. (AP)—War! Tennessee is hostile. The flame whips northward. Pennsylvania flares into rebellion.

Trucks rumble, flanged wheels click along steel rails, speeding boats churn lakes and rivers, airplane motors roar, dust boils up from the swiftly moving feet of fighting men.

The second army is moving in. The enemy will be repulsed! Another civil war? No, it's all make-believe. Tennessee really is as calm as a magnolia on a breezeless day. All is quiet, too, in Pennsylvania. But in the imaginations of thousands of uniformed men these two states, among others, will be a battle ground from August 1 to 22.

Part of Preparedness Program
 The maneuvers, similar to those held last summer in upstate New York by the first army, are part of a program projected by the war department several years ago to keep its reduced fighting personnel keyed up for an emergency.

Some 40,000 national guardsmen of seven states, about 5,000 regular troops, six force detachments from Langley field, Va., and Maxwell field, Ala., and the new mechanized cavalry stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., will participate in the games.

The national guardsmen and regulars constitute the second army, and will oppose the air and cavalry units.

The conflict, as planned by army strategists, is to develop as follows:

Hostilities break out between a Blue nation, comprising Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, and a Red nation—Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland and the area to the southeast.

Blues Charge Nashville
 Blue forces of the fifth corps area—the 37th and 38th national guard divisions of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia and the tenth regular brigade—concentrate at Fort Knox and advance on Nashville, Tenn., the Red capital.

MUTUAL INSURANCE ASSOCIATIONS WIN IN SUPREME COURT

AUSTIN, July 23. (AP)—The Texas supreme court yesterday ruled in favor of local mutual insurance associations in a suit in which the state insurance commission sought to force such groups to reorganize and submit to the same regulations as those imposed on other insurance companies.

The ruling affected several hundred groups as mutual assessment burial associations, small mutual fire insurance organizations, lodge benefit societies, employer benefit societies and the like. It was estimated that these associations have a membership of approximately a million.

Surgery Aided By First Hand Art Sketches

Detail Missed By Camera Caught As Girl Expert Sees Operation

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 23. (UP)—A young woman, clad in stiff white apron and mask, stands unobtrusively in a corner of an operating room in a hospital here as a patient is brought in.

The anesthetist adjusts the cap over the patient's face and the operation follows. But as the surgeon starts to work, the young woman moves closer. She holds pencil and paper and makes sketches and notes as the delicate work in a difficult or unusual operation proceeds.

The young medical artist is Dorothy Sturm. In a few minutes she rushes to her basement studio in the Medical and Dental Building and begins a drawing that looks like a steel engraving. She brings out details of organs a photograph would not show.

Use Natural Colors
 If there is a gangrene or other infection that changes the color, she tints the drawing in natural colors. Miss Sturm is a medical illustrator, doing free-lance work.

Her drawings are used in medical journals and with articles written by physicians. Some of her work illustrates textbooks, and others are made into lantern slides and are used for lectures and teaching purposes.

Doctors who have rare or unusual cases call on Miss Sturm. In addition to watching operations, she works from specimens. Sometimes her tiny studio will be stocked with bottles containing unusual organisms which she draws.

Miss Sturm occasionally uses a microscope in her drawings.

Memphis doctors, who say Miss Sturm is one of the best illustrators in the business, first suggested medical illustration to her when she was graduated from St. Mary's College here and attended James Lee Memorial Art Academy.

But it was not until she attended Columbia University that she began doing scientific drawing. She became assistant medical illustrator at Columbia and studied at the Art Students League in New York.

Aborigines Are Vanishing
 CANBERRA, (UP)—Aborigines are becoming as scarce in Australia as Indians in the United States, according to the latest census returns completed here. These show that there still remain only 60,000 full-blooded aborigines in the country, of whom 24,000 were either in employment or were living in supervised camps. The remaining 36,000 are nomadic.

"To insure SAFETY, COMFORT and ON-TIME SCHEDULES for our 30,000,000 PASSENGERS, Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES are used on Greyhound Buses"

Says C. E. Wickman, President, Greyhound Corporation, world's largest highway transportation system

FOLLOW the lead of big tire users who buy only on proof of performance.

Last year Greyhound buses traveled 138,000,000 miles from Coast to Coast and from Canada to the Gulf across deserts and over winding mountain roads.

They have won the National Safety Council's highest award in inter-city bus operation for the past four years. This is indeed a tribute to careful driving, efficient equipment and the reserve safety of Firestone Tires made possible by the Firestone Patented Process of Gum-Dipping which prevents internal friction and heat.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires run up to 28° cooler and give greatest blowout protection—the scientifically designed non-skid tread will stop your car up to 25% quicker and give you 50% longer non-skid mileage.

Take no chances! Buy your tires on proof of performance. Let us equip your car today with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, the Masterpiece of Tire Construction!

Blues Charge Nashville
 Blue forces of the fifth corps area—the 37th and 38th national guard divisions of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia and the tenth regular brigade—concentrate at Fort Knox and advance on Nashville, Tenn., the Red capital.

Before they reach that objective, however, a Brown nation, composed of Pennsylvania, New York, Delaware, New Jersey and territory to the northeast, enters the war as an ally of the Reds. The fifth corps Blues then retire to Fort Knox to protect an assumed bridge across the Ohio river at West Point, Ky., on which the Reds are advancing.

At this time Blue forces of the sixth corps area—the 32d and 33d national guard divisions of Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois and the twelfth regular brigade—advance against the Browns from Camp Custer, Mich.

Planes To Take Part
 The air forces and mechanized cavalry will represent the Red and Brown forces. Army authorities make no estimate of the Red and Brown manpower, but theoretically it will equal that of the two Blue forces.

The maneuvers of the fifth corps around Fort Knox will continue from August 1 to 15, and that of the sixth corps near Camp Custer from August 8 to 22.

In each phase of the make-believe war, the army announces, actual opposing forces will be in the field. The maneuvers are expected to demonstrate mechanization of the army. Field tactics will stress motorized concentration and movement of troops. All marches will be under actual war conditions.

Fan Pattern For A Pieced Quilt

By RUTH ORR
Pattern No. 284

Here's grandmother's old fan pattern for a pieced quilt. Those of us who remember going back to the farm for Thanksgiving have pleasant memories of these fan quilts, for it was a favorite pattern among the old-time quilt makers, especially for "Friendship Quilts." In making these "Friendship Quilts," each fan was made of the materials given by a different friend—bits and pieces of leftovers of her dresses. Then, of course, when the whole top had been pieced and all the blocks joined, there would be a party so that all the neighbors could help with the actual quilting. The small sketches below the illustration above will give you some idea of the many interesting arrangements of the fans which may be made. The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with diagrams of several arrangements of pieces to aid you and full size paper pattern. To obtain this pattern, send for No. 284 and enclose 10 cents in

Party Laughs At Desert Heat; Car 'Air-Conditioned'

When the W. G. Campbells and Miss Mattie Leatherwood go vacationing they like to do it in comfort and traveling across the Mojave desert in the "heat of the day" isn't their idea of comfort, so in Yuma, Ariz., they had their car "air-conditioned" with dry ice. Result: cool traveling in the desert sands. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell of Eastland and Mrs. Campbell's sister, Miss Mattie Leatherwood of this city, have recently returned from a 19 days' trip through western and northwestern United States and Canada. In order to get to see everything in as short time as possible a guide was hired at each city where they thought there was something of special interest and the party made a quick but thorough trip. Cities included on their list are El Paso, Phoenix, Ariz., Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif., Seattle, Wash., where the Shriners were holding a convention which Mr. Campbell attended, Denver, Col., where they visited Miss Nell Brown who is studying there this summer, and Amarillo. From Seattle the party took a boat trip to Victoria, Canada, where they spent a day. They also toured around the Yellowstone National Park.

Personally Speaking

Dr. and Mrs. E. O. Ellington returned Wednesday evening from a 10 days' visit with their daughter, Mrs. Ed C. Bowe, in Fort Worth. They also visited the Centennial in Dallas and Fort Worth, as well as visiting relatives and friends in East Texas points.

Rev. and Mrs. Ben Hardy of Anson are guests of their son, Dr. W. B. Hardy and family for several days.

Alonso Cooper, technician and laboratory man at Big Spring hospital, returned from a 15-day vacation spent with relatives at Atlanta, Ga., and other points of that state. He made the trip via American Airlines, arriving in Big Spring early Thursday morning.

Miss Veda Robinson will return tomorrow from Kermit where she has been the guest of Miss Dorothy Bunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lawrence have as their guests Mrs. Lawrence's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Moor. The Moors are en route to their new home in Walla Walla, Wash., where Mr. Moor has been transferred to the Veteran's hospital there. They have formerly made their home in Waco.

Miss Deveda Lee Moore has returned from Ackerly where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Owen Winn, since Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hayworth, Coahoma, Tuesday became the parents of a boy. Mother and son are doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Allred Tuesday became parents of a baby girl, christened Marie.

Mrs. J. F. Jennings, who is visiting in Dallas and attending the Centennial, will return here Saturday.

Mrs. Cecil Wasson and Misses Jena, Lillian and Dorothy Jordan have returned from Fort Worth where they attended the opening of the Frontier Centennial.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hayden left this morning for Maywood, Calif., where they will be the guests of Mrs. Hayden's sister for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Loy Acuff have returned from a vacation trip to points in Colorado.

SON IS BORN

Birth of a son Thursday morning is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kiser. The baby, weighing eight pounds at birth, has been named Thomas Glenn.

Members attending the party were Mrs. Stephen Rowe, Mrs. Floyd Flood, Mrs. Jack Hodges Jr., Mrs. L. N. Milton, Mrs. Raymond Noah and Mrs. Jenkins. Mrs. Flood will entertain next.

PLEAD INNOCENT IN BLACK LEGION DEATH

DETROIT, July 23 (AP)—Five men charged with killing a negro world war veteran "just for fun" during a Black Legion drinking party a year ago stood mute Wednesday at their arraignment on murder and kidnaping charges. Pleas of innocence were entered ### for the five and all were ordered held without bail for examination July 24.

The first, almost incredible account of the shooting of the negro came from Dayton Dean, confessor of Black Legion deeds of violence, whose sanity has been questioned in court. Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea said he had obtained a corroborating statement from one of the men Dean named.

That statement, the prosecutor said, came from James Roy Lorane and like Dean's account, named Harvey Davis, reputed Black Legion "colonel," John Bannerman, Ervin D. Lee and Charles House as the other persons present when Silas Coleman, 42-year-old world war veteran, was shot to death in a marsh near Pinckney, Mich.

New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana to convene in one of the largest motorcycle gatherings in history.

From Big Spring these club members will go: Tootie Witt, Howard Lloyd, N. E. Tally, R. H. Barton, Cliff Cunningham, Jimmie Patterson, Fabius Shorter, Howard Peugh, Gabo Miller, Cecil Miller, Bert Holden, L. R. McIntosh and Bill Howard.

Among those who will join with the Big Spring delegation are Arthur Spencer, Eunice, N. M.; Arzie Circle, Seminole; Marvin Douglas, Midland; and J. V. Pylant, Midland. The Albuquerque, N. M. club and the El Paso club will join with Big Spring club members for the trek to Dallas.

Francis Lederer narrowly escaped being drowned by his father when he refused to follow the latter's profession of boot-maker.

Honest, Courageous, Capable

HONEST AND FEARLESS in his decisions.

COURAGEOUS in his fights for the people.

CAPABLE in handling the problems of the Commission.
His mind is clear.

His purposes are simple.

His methods are direct.

He has stopped hot oil.

He has stopped gas waste.

He has put bootleg trucks off the highway and made travel safer.

He has reduced freight rates on cotton and grain.

He has reduced gas rates in hundreds of Texas towns and cities.

He sponsored legislation which forced oil companies to pay royalty owners 100 per cent instead of 99 per cent of tank tables, and if law is upheld in courts will return millions to Texas land and royalty owners.

He has, by his constant efforts, increased the daily market demand for and sale of Texas oil by four hundred thousand barrels per day.

He has studied oil conservation and is probably the best informed public official in America on this subject today.

Race For Oil In Dutch East Indies Starts

Developments Planned By American, Japanese, Australian Firms

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23 (UP)—The fight among Japan, Australia and American interests for exploitation of oil in the Dutch East Indies has assumed new proportions today as a result of the Standard Oil company of California announcing a concession from the government of the Netherlands Indies of 1,482,000 acres for exploitation on the island of Sumatra.

At the fight now stands, Japan and Australia insist they are engaged in an effort to develop nearby supplies of oil that would make them self-sufficient for defensive purposes, while the American company takes the position it is merely seeking to increase its sources in the Far East.

Thus, a gigantic although uncoordinated effort is being made to develop in the four principal islands of the Dutch East Indies—Borneo, Java, Sumatra and New Guinea—oil fields that might possibly equal those of southern California.

According to the announcement of the Standard Oil company of California, the government of the Netherlands Indies granted to the Netherlands Pacific Petroleum company, the stock of which is controlled by the Standard, the new concession on the east central coast of Sumatra, about half way between the present oil-producing region of Atjeh, at the north end of the island, and the prolific fields of Palembang and Djambi, near the south end.

Transportation Problem Solved
 Should the exploitation of the vast tract develop in the discovery of new oil fields they would be located sufficiently close to the coast to make the problem of transportation to the oil steamers comparatively easy, it is pointed out.

Under the terms of the concession, according to the announcement, the Netherlands Pacific company enjoys the right to conduct geological work and carry on other forms of exploration activity within the specific area for the next six years. The text of the announcement reads:

"It is contemplated that a development concession will be issued on such portions of the area as the company may find favorable for the production of oil. Geologists are at work in the region and have been for some time. The company plans a vigorous program to establish the existence of petroleum in commercial quantities."

The concession, it is pointed out, lies almost opposite the great sea-land of Singapore, which England in the last few years has turned into another Gibraltar, constituting a main naval and aerial base for all lines of communications in the Far East and for the protection of dominions, dependencies and commercial interests there.

Aid To England, Too
 As any oil sources thus developed on Sumatra would also become available commercially for England, the fight in the Pacific apparently becomes one not only of purely local but of worldwide importance.

In the meantime, the Netherlands Petroleum company through a 20 per cent ownership in the Netherlands New Guinea Petroleum company already has another foothold in the prospective Dutch East Indies oil supplies. The company is carrying on an active exploration campaign in Dutch New Guinea.

Pending results of this exploration campaign, the Japanese have already succeeded in carrying their fight there for a nearby oil supply to more concrete realization. Japan is getting its supplies established in three of the islands of the Dutch East Indies, namely, Borneo, Java and Sumatra.

In Borneo, it has been announced two companies have been producing a daily average of 13,640 barrels for the past year.

Parties Turn Attention To State Races

Demos, GOP's Seek To Boost Ranks With Victories In The States

By BYRON PRICE
 (Chief of AP Bureau, Washington)
 Special measures to buttress the democratic ticket in New York and Michigan serve as a reminder that state as well as national politics is having a field day in 1936.

Thirty-six of the 48 states choose governors. Elections to state legislatures and to local office are legion. One third of the states will vote for United States senator, and a representative in congress is to be selected in every congressional district.

While, for understandable reasons, popular interest focuses chiefly on the presidential campaign, there are deeply why the politicians are so intensely interested in all classes of local political battles.

Because the national house of representatives is the point of origin of "money" bills—measures dealing with taxation and spending—it is a matter of more than ordinary interest just now whether the nominee who is elected president shall have a house of his own political faith.

An extraordinary situation also exists, from the democratic viewpoint, in the purely state elections. Many of the Roosevelt policies depend on a measure of state cooperation. Naturally the democratic national administration is interested in having as many democratic state administrations as possible.

Strengthening The Party
 No one doubts, of course, that the presidential campaign was the thing foremost in the minds of the Roosevelt managers when they persuaded Governor Lehman to run again in New York, and Frank Murphy to become a candidate for governor in Michigan.

There was no secret that the Roosevelt men felt that the names of Lehman and Murphy on the ticket would help to attract strength to the democratic emblem, and that the president's reelection chances would benefit thereby.

But, unquestionably, less-talked-of considerations also entered into the picture. One of them was the desirability of having democrats in as governors of important states should Mr. Roosevelt be reelected. Another was the hope that Lehman and Murphy would help to pull through some additional democratic candidates for congress.

Besides all of this, there was the purely party view. No party which hopes to remain in power at Washington can afford to neglect the constant building up of its state organizations. Even in national defeat, the survival of strong state organizations is an insurance of hope for the future.

There can be no question that, correctly or not, the national democratic leaders believed that Lehman in New York and Murphy in Michigan offered the best possibilities for solidifying party strength in their respective states.

Sanctions Against Satan Face League In Strange Mandate Case

CANBERRA, July 23 (UP)—The league of nations, which failed completely in its applications of sanctions against Italy, soon will be called upon to pass on the application of sanctions against Satan.

The case has been submitted to the league council and the league's mandate commission by the commonwealth government, which exercises a league mandate over New Guinea.

According to the report, Australia was obliged to send an official investigator to look into a strange case of Satanism that created a difficult situation on the mandated territory. At the village of Bunki, New Guinea, about a year ago, a native named Marafi spread the rumor among all villagers and the surrounding population that Satan had visited him and given him supernatural powers.

He insisted that Satan had taken him into the earth, where the dead told him that Satan would not allow them to return to earth until he Marafi had induced the villagers to believe that Satan was the supreme being.

Marafi, according to the official report to the league, put his alleged supernatural satanic powers to profit by insisting that natives of all the surrounding villages make presents to him. He held seances on dark nights, and boasted he could fly like a bird. He collected tributes in many villages.

As a result of Marafi's evil influence on the villagers, food gardens were neglected and communities suffered. Then, Australia, as the mandatory power under the

MEDICAL TESTS CUT MARRIAGES IN CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, Conn., July 23 (UP)—Dan Cupid headed into a depression market when the state blood test law was passed.

During the first five months of its operations the number of marriages totaled 1,513. This compared with 3,668 during the same period last year, a drop of approximately 47 per cent.

However, Massachusetts, New York and Rhode Island, across the state line, played hosts to hundreds of elopers who were reluctant to submit to the tests. The number of the farm, they all enlisted in the navy.

control of the league, was obliged to send district officers, who applied local sanctions by placing Marafi and other offenders who had helped him under arrest, and then by taking the case into court, which finally permitted re-establishment of order and prosperity in Bunki and surrounding villages.

Under the procedure of the league, which was charged under the Versailles treaty with administration of mandates over uncivilized territories in such a manner that the inhabitants eventually might become civilized and capable of self-government, the report first will be passed upon by the league's mandate commission.

If the latter decides that the sanctions employed by Australia as the mandatory power, to put an end to the satanic disorders of New Guinea were justified, the report then will be passed on to the council of the league, which, as a rule, invariably approves whatever recommendations the mandate commission makes.

In event the report is approved, the league will be considered as having demonstrated its ability to apply sanctions against Satan.

ber of these marriages probably never will be known.

Health officials declare the law "highly successful." State Health Commissioner Dr. Stanley H. Osborn said only one in every 100 tests showed the presence of disease.

"The required test," he said, "has been successful to the point that there is no doubt that within a year or so Connecticut will lower its infant mortality birth rate to an astonishing degree."

The law requires each party submit to the test, performed by a physician.

members voted against the bill, while the democratic members, by a vote of more than three to one, supported it. But because a two-thirds vote was necessary, the bill failed by seven votes to secure the necessary two-thirds," O'Mahoney said.

Under the present and traditional system, postmaster appointments are made usually upon the recommendation of the house member from the district in which a vacancy occurs, if he is of the same political party as that in control of the administration. Otherwise the recommendation may come from local political leaders.

Races Gather

Helped since poll taxes and exemption certificates amount to $291 against $313 for the same time two years ago. Neither figure takes into consideration the number of voters in rural boxes who will not be required to present exemption certificates to vote.

New Counting System
Election judges, eager to cooperate in obtaining quick returns, have changed their system in the larger town boxes and hope to be complete within two hours after the close of the polls. They will have separate sets of counters who will pool their totals instead of following in the tedious process of tallying on one master total.

L. S. Patterson, secretary of the county democratic executive committee and veteran election judge of precinct No. 2, urged that voters come to the polls as early as possible. A deluge of last minute votes, he said, would only serve to delay complete returns. It was predicted that his box, second largest in the county, would be complete in little more than an hour after the polls close and that No. 3, which contains a third of the voting strength, would be complete within two hours.

Interest and pre-election talk still centered on the county judge's race, in which J. B. Garlington, incumbent, H. R. Debenport and Charley Sullivan are opponents. In-to most conversation on this contest came discussion of the affray case against Garlington, dismissed by him in his own court after he appealed a justice court decision.

Two Opinions
Garlington stood by his opinion that the case was closed, and announced that Gov. Jas. V. Allred, in a telephone conversation, said that he could not appoint a special judge in the case unless Garlington certified it.

County Attorney Wilburn Barcus was just as firm in the opinion that the case was still on the docket, and asserted that it would be tried on its merits. He has contended that Garlington was disqualified to sit in his own case.

Local attorneys have cited the following state statute as covering the case. Article 554 (621) of the code of criminal procedure of Texas, it reads:

"When the judge of the county court or county court at law is disqualified in any criminal case pending in the court of which he is judge, the parties may, by consent, agree upon a special judge to try such case. If they fail to agree upon a special judge to try such

Liquor, Beer Sale Banned On Saturday

Official Cites Penalty For Violation Of Election Day Laws

Sale of beer, wine and hard liquors Saturday—election day—is prohibited by law, J. D. Pelfrey of the district staff of the state liquor control board announced today.

Package stores must remain closed all day Saturday, and as the law, all of Sunday also. According to Pelfrey, the statutes declare that "no sale or delivery shall be made between 12 p. m. and 7 a. m. on any day on which an election is being held, whether state or national, in the district in which the package is located."

Further, "all package stores, wine and beer retailers, beer wholesaler and general or local distributor can deliver beer between the hours of 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. on a x x election days. No wine is to be sold on election day."

The penalty for violation of the statute by package stores is not less than $100 or more than $1,000 or not more than one year confinement in jail, or both.

Penalty imposed upon beer dealers is not less than $50 nor more than $500. The county judge, a ten day notice and a hearing, may revoke the license of any guilty dealer in his county if he sees fit.

Strict warnings were issued against looting.

Inspection of patrolling cars became increasingly important since some automobiles manned by fascists roamed the street firing into leftist groups.

The government threatened to punish shop-owners whose food prices were raised as members of the local committees acted to conserve food supplies. Family purchases were ordered restricted.

Comedy Romance Featured At Ritz

ROSS ALEXANDER

"Hot Money," a comedy romance featuring Ross Alexander and Beverly Roberts, plays Thursday at the Ritz theatre.

The picture, containing a full quota of laughs and an underlying romance, deals with the "wildcat" promotion schemes in the days of easy money, and particularly with the sale of stock in an organization formed to sell a liquid concentrate, which, added to water, will make a substitute for gasoline.

Stock is sold quickly to the public, but the company gets in hot water with the Better Business Bureau. Action moves fast and furious with stockholders clamoring for their money back and the promoters threatened with arrest. But an unusual event occurs to conclude the picture in riotous fashion.

Alexander is the fast-talking promoter and Miss Roberts his secretary. Others in the cast are Joseph Cawthorn, Paul Graetz, Andrew Tombs, Harry Burns, Ed Conrad, Anne Nagel, Frank Orth, and Cy Kendall.

Dr. Townsend Must Return For Hearing

Leaves Cleveland After His 'Walk-out,' Speaks In The East

CLEVELAND, July 23. (AP)—Dr. F. E. Townsend was on an eastern speaking tour today but he was compelled to return here in less than a month to answer more questions in a court battle designed to oust him and other officers of the old age pension movement bearing his name.

The Long Beach, Calif., physician stalked from a deposition hearing, entered his limousine and headed for Erie, Pa., Tuesday. It was three months to the day from the time that he walked out on a house of representatives committee in Washington. A contempt citation still is hanging fire in connection with that march.

He drove away with George Maines, publicity man for Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, and Mrs. Townsend. In the interim, Benjamin F. Sacharow, attorney, conducting the hearing, obtained a contempt of court citation from a notary public and set out with a deputy in a taxicab in pursuit.

The Townsend party got as far as East Cleveland when he was overtaken and returned to a courtroom.

State Health Record Poor

Maternity And Child Health Figures Cited By Official

COLLEGE STATION, July 23. (AP)—Dr. Edythe F. Hershey of the state department of health, told attendants at the Texas A. & M. college farmers' short course Wednesday that Texas could not be proud of its record in maternity and child health.

She cited figures showing the death rate among Texas mothers in 1935 averaged 72 for each 1,000 cases, compared to the national average of 50 for each 1,000. Deaths of Texas infants, before reaching the age of one year, averaged 72 for each 1,000, she said, compared to the national average of 40.

Dr. Hershey addressed the general assembly on the administration of social security.

Activities today included a luncheon for Texas agricultural workers and the closing sessions of the institute for co-operatives, Epsilon Sigma Phi, the national honorary society for extension workers, held its annual meeting last night.

I. P. Gabbard, agricultural experiment station economist, declared in a featured address that rural Texas communities bear a disproportionate share of governmental costs.

Intangible property concentration in cities brought about that situation, he said.

Rising taxes and falling prices, he said, resulted in the taxes on Texas real estate being, in 1935, about three times that of 1912.

The reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Canada, completed November 15, 1935, probably will be the main subject for "official" conversation between President Roosevelt and Lord Tweedsmuir, christened John Buchan, was best known as a writer before he was named to represent the British crown in Canada. One of his latest books is a thoroughly documented biography of Oliver Cromwell.

Pension Notices Mailed Out to 134

Notice of grants to 134 old age assistance applicants were mailed out from the district office here Thursday morning.

The notice of payment brought the total number receiving action from the state commission to 740 for the district, more than one-third of the total applying.

Checks, in most instances, arrive before the notice of grant and are dated as of July. Those who receive grants later but who had their applications in by July 1 will be paid as that date.

Answering a letter from a Martin county woman that she had heard over the radio that those who were not included in the first group would be deprived of participation in the program, district officials made it plain that such was not the case. Every case, they said, is open and eligible for a grant until the applicant is definitely notified otherwise by the commission.

SUPT. WOODS MAKES RADIO TALK TONIGHT

L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, will make a radio address in behalf of his candidacy for re-election Thursday night, friends here have announced.

Woods will speak over station WFAA, Dallas, beginning at 10:15. His talk will follow immediately one by Gov. Jas. V. Allred, who will be on the air at 9:30.

Please help me win the race for District Clerk. Hugh Dubberly—ad.

A&M EXES TO GIVE BANQUET JULY 30TH

Ex-students of Texas A. & M. college will stage a banquet here July 30 in honor of E. E. McQuillen, secretary of the A. & M. ex-students association, and Doug Rollins, assistant athletic director of the college.

The affair will be in charge of W. T. Strange, Jr., head of the local Aggie organization.

All former students of the college who plan to attend the banquet at the Settles hotel have been asked to notify Strange so that arrangements may be made.

LINDY ADDRESSES GERMAN AVIATORS

BERLIN, July 23. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, speaking at an Air Club luncheon, called upon Nazi aviation leaders today to realize the responsibility they bear for the deadly weapons they created.

Aviators, he said, "are unlike the builders of the first dugout canoe. They lived to see their harmless wings turned into carriers of destruction—even more dangerous than guns and battleships. We carry the responsibility for the results of our experiments, which in other fields have been passed on to future generations."

Geologists To Meet In Angelo Saturday

The regular monthly meeting of the West Texas Geological Society will be held in the Green room of the St. Angelo hotel, San Angelo, Tex., Saturday night, July 25th at 8 p. m.

Dr. F. B. Plummer of the University of Texas will deliver a paper entitled "Experiments on the Flow of Fluids Through Sands, and Their Applications to Geological and Production Problems."

This paper should be of particular interest to all persons engaged in the oil business. Petroleum engineers are particularly invited to hear it.

Dr. Plummer may be accompanied by Dr. Noe, paleobotanist of the University of Chicago, who if present will speak of his experiences on a recent geological trip through Mexico.

HAWKINS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY AT POLLS

BRECKENRIDGE, July 23.—John W. Hawkins swung toward the finish of his race for land commissioner today with new pledges of support from Texas teachers, educators and organized labor, he said here.

After one of the most vigorous campaigns Texas ever has seen for an office other than that of governor, Hawkins declared he was confident of the outcome. "My friends assure me," said Hawkins, "that I will have a lead he didn't get another until he celebrated his 82nd birthday here.

Hatching Of Chicks Nears Real Science

Experiments May Add Millions To Income Of Poultrymen

WASHINGTON, July 23. (UP)—Savings of millions of dollars annually will accrue to poultrymen if experimental work by government scientists develops as expected.

The experiments have been conducted by H. G. Barott, agriculture department poultry technologist, over a period of 15 years and are said to have resulted in finding the optimum of favorable conditions under which eggs should be hatched.

For years, Barott has worked in his extensive laboratory at the Beltsville, Md., experimental farm with "calorimeters" in which he could measure exact air conditions—the amount of humidity, gaseous air contents and temperatures—so that over a long period he could determine what air conditions were best suited to hatching.

Results To Be Known Soon
The results of his experiments are to be published in a detailed technical report, scheduled to be out of the presses in about two months.

Roughly, however, his experiments have shown that the ideal hatching conditions are: Temperature, 100 degrees; humidity, 90 per cent; and gaseous makeup of the surrounding air, one-half of one per cent carbon dioxide and 21 per cent oxygen.

Barott experimented with temperatures ranging all the way from 90 degrees to well above 100 degrees, with humidity ranging from eight to 97 per cent; and with gaseous makeup ranging from less than one-half of one per cent carbon dioxide and 15 per cent oxygen to 10 per cent carbon dioxide and 50 per cent oxygen.

He worked with 100 eggs for each of his experiments. Highest percentage of chicks he obtained from a single group was 95, but this was exceptional. He considered 50 chicks out of 100 eggs good, and thought such a percentage would justify his long years of work.

Normal length of time to hatch chicks is 21 days. Barott found that raising the temperature slightly would increase this incubating period by 24 to 36 hours, but that raising the temperature just one per cent would result in reducing the quality of the chicks by 20 per cent. Therefore, he concluded, it would be far wiser not to attempt to speed up incubation.

The "respiration calorimeters" with which Barott worked are specially designed incubators in which all conditions can be regulated to the nth degree. Special electric grids allowed him to keep the temperature at exactly the point he wished it, and unusual air intakes permitted him to make exact measurements of air conditions and keep them at whatever point he wished.

Agriculture department officials said Barott's experiments were "one of the most detailed pieces of work" ever conducted in the field of chick hatching.

Experiments Are Outstanding
They explained that few persons had gone into the question seriously enough to devote years to the problem, and that if Barott's findings were put to actual use poultrymen undoubtedly would find they were producing a better quality chick as well as getting a larger percentage of chicks.

Some new type incubators, they said, in which the eggs are kept in tiers of shelves, probably can be adapted to making use of Barott's findings without much difficulty because air conditions can be controlled within the tiers. But small dealers, who have old-type equipment and do not operate on an extensive scale, probably will not be able to put the findings into practice, they pointed out.

M'Donald Injury Hinders His Race

DALLAS, July 23 (UP)—William H. McDonald, candidate for state land commissioner, injured in an automobile collision, said Wednesday he would be unable to campaign actively between now and election day.

He was confined to his bed in a hotel here with a gashed knee and severe bruises. The automobile in which he rode hit another vehicle on the outskirts of Willis Point Tuesday and he was taken to a Terrell hospital for treatment. He was able to leave the hospital in a few hours and come to Dallas.

of 300,000 in this race. I know from the thousands of personal contacts I have made, that Texans are awake as never before to the necessity of placing trained, experienced men in their positions of trust."

Instancing the support of teachers, Hawkins read a news dispatch from Austin on July 15, quoting Texas teachers who had met there for the meeting of the state board of education, as "strongly supporting" his candidacy, on the basis of their "confidence in his ability to handle the $80,000,000 permanent school fund."

TECH GRID TEAM TO BE 'SMART'

LUBBOCK, July 23.—After ten successful football seasons the Texas Tech Red Raiders know better than to be too superstitious, but Coach Pete Cawthon and his coaching staff will be as willing to admit there may be something to all this lucky seven business. "Dempsey" Cannon, veteran Raider and captain this season, known as "Egg Head" or "Bald Eagle," will be a big help to the vertical digits in scaring away any "Voo Doo" who might have ideas about the 1937 season.

In the first place Cawthon and Smith won't have to worry much about brains this season. Ed Smith, junior left half from Del Rio, the boy who won the Stander-Cannon football scholastic trophy for '35-'36, will be back in his place when fall training starts. Then, too, they won't have too many brain storms over dumb guards, what with Appleton making 36 hours last semester, A. Owens 32, Line-Captain Louis Jones 30, and Greene 26. In the second place it seems that there'll be little worrying about brown. For instance, the '37 Raider manager, Ed Klein of Waco, is not the tiny "fixer-upper" traditional job holders of this kind are supposed to be. He wants a 14 1/2 shoe, a 9 1/2 hat, and looks like tackle material. Then there's H. Pockets Overton, soph mite of a center, who is 6-foot 3 1/2 inches and weighs 230 pounds. Allan Hummer, soph full, who made a name for himself working with Huffman's Pioneers last year, is one of the college's outstanding wrestlers. Broadway and Jess Browning (brothers) certainly won't hold the weight of the team down any. The question is how much they will weigh by season opening time, after vacationing on their father's ranch 120 miles from the college roping bobcats for use in school laboratories.

Three sets of brothers may give opposing linemen trouble because of their size and their brains. They are Pete and Alton Owens, guards; Jesse and Broadway Browning, tackles; Jack Jones, right end, and Louis Jones, left guard.

Helping the nation see all of the Texas Centennial are Tex Wigginton, center, J. W. West and George Philbrick, ends, Pedro Owens, guard, and Jim Neill, half.

Cat Warns of Centipede

TULARE, Cal., (UP)—Mrs. Maci Thompson is not quite sure whether her pet Persian cat saved her life or whether she saved the cat's life. When the cat saw a six-inch centipede creeping up on its mistress, it hissed, then dived under the stove. Mrs. Thompson seized a broom and killed the centipede.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCormick are leaving Friday morning for Houston. Mr. McCormick has been relieving Alonzo Cooper at the Big Spring hospital while on vacation.

Alfred Discusses His Merit System Of Prison Paroles

HOUSTON, July 23.—For the first time in Texas history, a helping hand is being extended offi- cially to paroled convicts through the county volunteer parole board system set up under his administra- tion, Governor James V. Alfred told South Texans in a speech here last night. "A voluntary parole board has been set up in every county," the governor explained. "These boards, non-partisan bodies of leaders in each community, help the ex-convict get a job and try to see that he is allowed to forget his past mistakes. That is an investment in hu- manity that pays guaranteed dividends. It has been recognized as such throughout the nation and Texas has received a great deal of favorable editorial comment from other states for its efforts along this line." "I was determined to end Texas' off-again, on-again policy on par- dons and paroles," he said. "I was determined that the pardon ped- dling racket should stop and that the men whom society must pun- ish should not be used as political pawns. "So my administration instituted the clemency-by-merit-only policy that is already paying dividends and that will continue to pay dividends in the years to come." Mrs. Granville Glenn and daugh- ter, Doris Jean, have returned from a month's visit with her par- ents and other relatives in Corpus Christi and Kingsville.

THE ELEEMOSYNARY PROBLEM.

Most Texans give little thought to the rapidly developing emergency need for expansion of the state's eleemosynary establishment, and yet it is found to be one of the most seriously important problems confronting the state.

At the present time there are five hundred insane persons in the county jails of Texas, held there because no room is available for them in the asylums.

Due to overcrowding of such institutions as the state school for feeble minded children, no more mentally defective children can be accepted there.

The state's facilities for taking care of neglected children—the type usually described as underprivileged—are wholly inadequate.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

NEW YORK—George Jessel, the comedian, was pushing his way through a crowd the other night when a tablecloth bandit (night club proprietor) weighed in with this wee bit of wit. "Your hair is turning gray, George, but that's better than becoming bald. Could anything be worse than being bald?" "Yes," confided Jessel, "being headed."

Sigmund Romberg, who gave up engineering to become one of the most successful composers of light opera, does most of his work in a sound-proof studio in a Fifth avenue hotel.

Fred Allen, like most clowns, is a pessimistic, gloomy fellow off-stage (the Pagliacci complex). Although independently wealthy, his conversation sounds like a soothsayer touching on the woes of the world.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By SHEW FRANKSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(This is the sixth of a series on the Roosevelt family. The final article on John Roosevelt, follows next week.)

WASHINGTON—During his bare 22 years, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., has succeeded in winning more notoriety than any other younger member of the family—but he has had an awfully good time doing it.

For a boy of his age he has not done badly at keeping alive the presidential name, his chief contribution being to have it scrawled across the police blotters in some New England and the Middle Atlantic states.

However, most of Harvard, where he is now about to enter his senior year, has had little opportunity to bask in the radiance of the Harvard Crimson rants as being disrupting to the Harvard House cross-section plan.

Living with Franklin is the son of William Marshall Bollitt, senator in Louisville, Ky., republican and solicitor general under Taft.

Also Browning Endicott Marcan, Jr., one of the best Boston names, direct descendant of Robert Browning and grandson of Emma Endicott Marcan, a lesser poet of Cambridge.

The state's facilities for taking care of neglected children—the type usually described as underprivileged—are wholly inadequate.

Just the same Franklin found it necessary last winter to discontinue his telephone, even though it was in the name of his roommate, Thomas Husband.

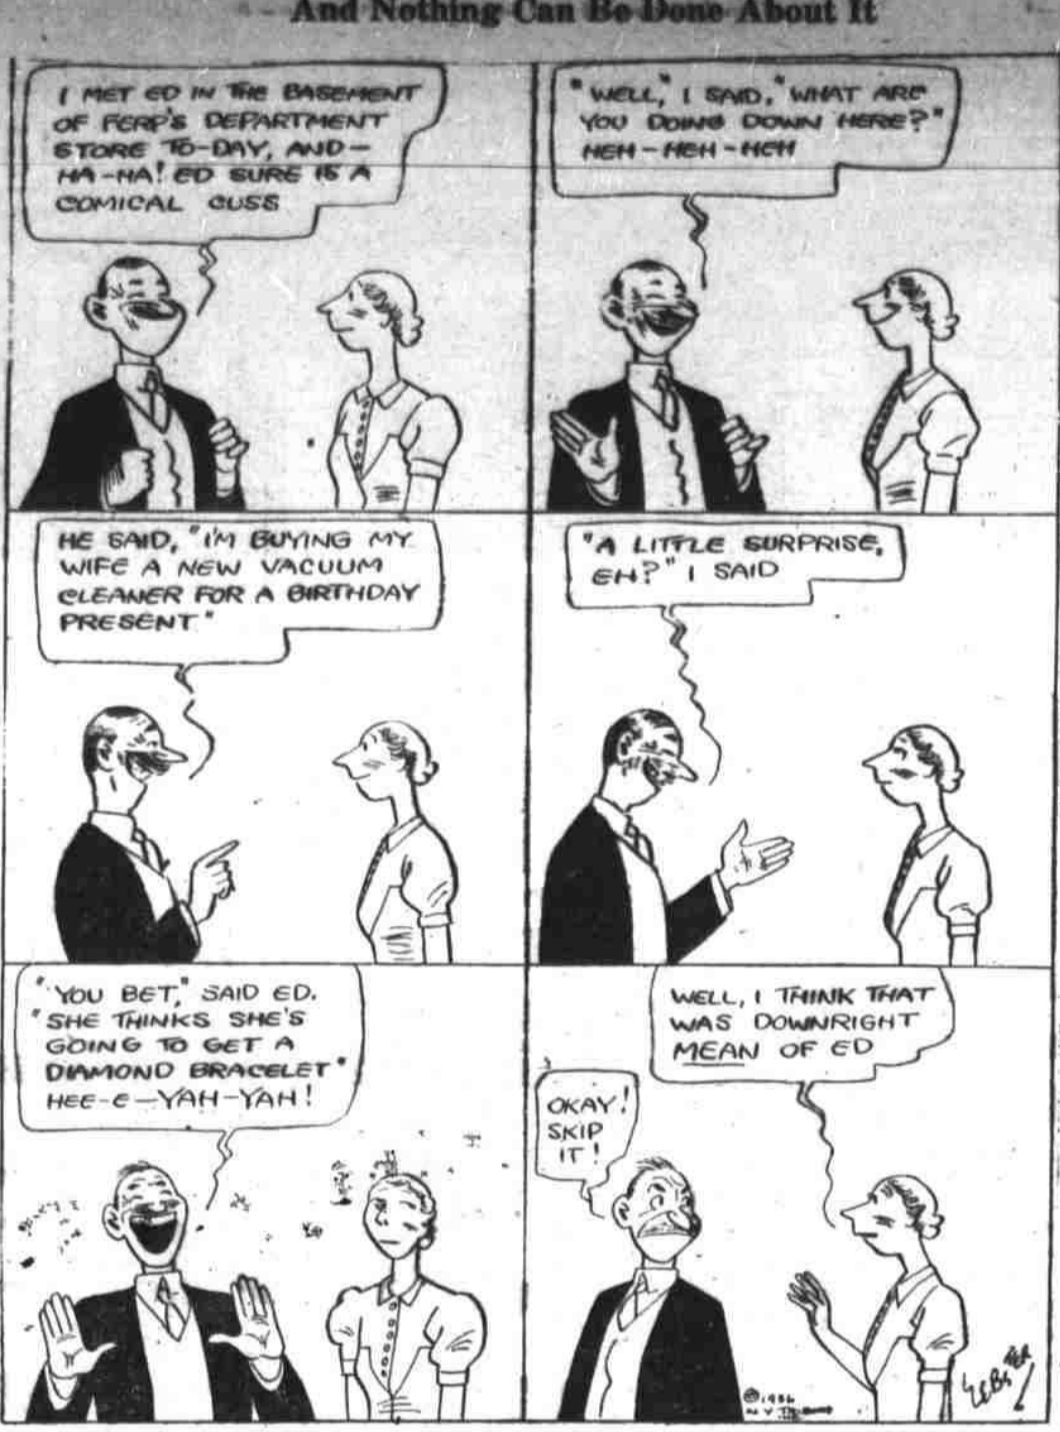

Franklin's motor record is not as successful as that. For a time, he was a dangerous menace on the highway.

He began Aug. 17, 1932, while his father was running for president, then a cop pulled him in at Smithfield, N. H., for speeding with an expired license.

He began Aug. 17, 1932, while his father was running for president, then a cop pulled him in at Smithfield, N. H., for speeding with an expired license.

Then, on March 24, 1934, at Jamaica Plain, he hit Mary O'Leary of East Boston, who sued for $25,000.

On October 15 he was picked up at Glastonbury, Conn., for speeding to his "injured brother," who later did not seem to be injured at all.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

Chapter II
NEW THEORY

There was, of course, a good deal of regret over the murder expressed superficially, and whenever men or women met the worn out phrases automatically rose to their lips: "shocking... awful... dreadful... bad business up at the court... and so on; but no one was really sorry.

Arthur Burdett had no friends in Hope Enderton, nor indeed anywhere else; and he had quite a number of potential enemies, for a good score of the cottages in the village belonged to him, and he was the absolute pattern and exemplar of all that a landlord, even in his own interests, should not be.

There was a school of thought, regarded almost as disloyal by the vast majority of the villagers, that the crime was committed by someone outside Enderton altogether, a stranger who had nothing to do with the place.

This possibility was urged by Sergeant White when he called round, by order, to see the inspector at the Hoop, the morning after their first visit to Enderton Court. Kingsley Hylton had just polished off two eggs and an outside rasher of Wiltshire bacon and was sipping his extremely hot, though far from excellent, coffee. He lit one of his long thin cigars and pushed his case towards the sergeant.

White smiled. "No thanks, sir. That one yesterday nearly did for me."

"You find them a bit strong? Well, I suppose they are. They help you to think, you know, especially if you've got a slow brain like mine. What makes you imagine that it's somebody outside the village?"

"I only say it may be sir."

"It's a possibility, but somehow—"

"And the last few days I've seen a couple of rough characters on the roads that didn't belong here."

"Tramps?"

"That class sir."

"Um. Your theory is then: a tramp comes up the door to beg, forces his way in, kills the old man, grabs a handful out of the safe and disappears."

"It's possible, sir."

"All things are possible."

"And, of course, as like as not anyone begging on the roads would have heard some talk about Mr. Burdett being a miser and having something worth while up there."

"Um. Let's go and see what sort of a night friend Lumsdale had."

However sweet the quality of friend Lumsdale's slumber it had not served to soften in any way the pawkiness of his humor and the hardy short truculence of his bearing. He uttered a short, derisive laugh when he heard the sergeant's theory.

"And 'ow would this tramp of yours get in, sergeant?" he asked.

"Mr. Burdett would think it was you knocking at the door and go and open it."

"And when he saw it was someone he didn't know, he'd ask him to supper I suppose?"

"A tramp might have forced his way in."

"Against the chain?" Lumsdale shook his head. "No, sergeant. That's just exactly what the old skin-flint had the door put on the chain for each time."

Hylton was inclined to agree with this. Sergeant White, however, was not entirely convinced, and he begged leave to prosecute a few enquiries on his own account.

"My dear fellow," Hylton urged him in a humorous outburst, "prosecute all the enquiries you like. Don't think I mind overzealous subordinates. I love 'em."

White smiled unabashed, and disappeared about his business, and the inspector devoted himself to an even more thorough examination of the room of the tragedy. It seemed clear that entrance had been gained by the door, for all the windows were securely fastened and bolted on the inside and had been so, according to both Lumsdale and the sergeant, on the night of the murder.

The noise of a car on the drive outside told the inspector that the man he was waiting had arrived, and presently the chief constable of the county was shown into the room by Lumsdale.

Major Thorpe was a man cast in the traditional mould of the regular army officer. Well set up, spruce and evidently as fit at 60 as most men at 45. He was a little hot tempered but perfectly just, and although a strict disciplinarian he was popular with his men.

Hylton talked with him for 10 minutes or so without adding appreciably to his meagre knowledge, except to learn from the county criminal investigation department what he already feared, that the fatal club bore no decipherable fingerprints.

"Pretty cold scent, eh?" Major Thorpe asked.

The inspector laughed. "It very often is, you know," he said, easily. "People have an idea that murderers invariably leave handkerchiefs behind with obligingly tell-tale laundry marks, but as a matter of fact they don't. The distressing truth is that most detective work consists of laborious questioning, usually of the wrong people."

"Well, thank God you've got the job and not me," the major said piously. "I've lost a day's shooting over the thing already. Good luck to you."

"Thanks. I suppose you can let me have two men up here all the time to keep undesirables away?"

"You can have all the men you want Mr. Hylton, just let me know and I'll fix it. Do you want a car?"

"No, not a car. I'll just ferret about in my own way."

Hylton smiled, enigmatically this time he hoped. He had no more idea than the man in the moon where the expected solution was coming from, but he kept that under his hat.

Five minutes after the major's departure, Hylton was walking briskly toward the Hoops. He was not yet unduly worried by the almost complete absence of clues. There was no truer saying in the world, he was convinced, than "murder will out." Your murderer has to go home some time.

Inspector Kingsley Hylton already regarded the outwardly friendly and placid village of Hope Enderton as a secretive and hostile world, presenting a hundred false faces to him, lying with a hundred honeyed tongues.

It was lunch time when he got back to the Hoops, and a meal was laid for him in the small back room already reserved for his private use.

Edward Perry brought in a jar of pickles as an agreeable adjunct to the excellent cold beef.

"Pickles sir?"

"Good."

It took Perry a full minute to put the pickle jar on the table to his exact liking.

"They do say, sir," he blurted out at least, "that the old man's head wouldn't recognize it, and that there's over five thousand pounds missing from the house."

Hylton swallowed a succulent piece of beef and replied equably "Quite a considerable body of people also say that the earth is not round, but flat," a reply which momentarily nonplussed the good Perry.

"Quite so, sir, quite so, sir," he said, coloring slightly. "Perhaps you'd ring if you want anything further."

The inspector undertook to do this, but as a noble Stilton cheese, weighing about seven pounds, stood on the sideboard, the question of ringing did not arise.

Kingsley Hylton was still exploring the Stilton when the front door of his little room was burst open, and a wiry figure with the thin gaunter leg of the horsemen and a green hat came unceremoniously in.

"You this detective fellow?" he asked explosively.

"Which detective fellow?" Hylton replied. "Have some cheese?"

"No. Damn the cheese. The man looking after this murder business at the court."

"That's my job at the moment."

"Right. My name's Reeves, Captain Patrick Reeves of Fernoy House and I might as well tell you that I was at the Court on the afternoon of last Monday and saw old Burdett there. What are you going to do about it?"

Hylton had placed one of his long cigars in his mouth and was searching vainly for a light.

"Have you got a match, captain?" he asked.

Reeves seemed annoyed rather than otherwise by this reception of his declaration of war, and he very ungraciously pulled out a box of matches and threw it onto the table.

Reeves belligerently divulges important information, tomorrow.

BRILLIANT BIRDS ON TOP LOFTY FALL BONNETS LEND SPLASH OF COLOR TO SOMBRE HUES

Come fall, says fashion seers, and smart women will wear new high hats such as this.

Designed by Sally Victor, its soaring crown of black velvet is pierced with an eagle feather.

er. Tiny, brilliant-hued birds perch on other models of dark fabrics.

tilt, others thrust them slightly forward, but the leaders agree to a height of 4-1/2 to 5 inches for the most lofty models. Velvet toques, twisted or cutasant at the top of the crown, gain height by brilliant red or green wings.

Black is the leading color. There is a new "coronation red," a medium tone launched in honor of the 1937 coronation of King Edward VIII, and some olive greens, browns, russets and a few navy blues. Furry velours, felt, velvet and stitched wools and silks are the leading fabrics.

Feathers, too, are big news in fall hat fashions. Tiny brilliant humming birds, champagne yellow "birds" which seem to be nothing more than a wing with a beak thrust in the end, shining lacquered feathers and ostrich all add color to dark hats. One designer makes an entire sailor hat of narrow hackle feathers sewn flat. Sally Victor makes some of the most striking feather-trimmed high hats in town. She shows a black velours postilion, reminiscent of the coachman's hat, whose tapering crown is trimmed with a curled red coque feather thinned out until it is as feathery as an egret. A close fitting green felt toque is trimmed with big champagne yellow birds whose wings thrust forward over the forehead.

Birds Top Many

A big "highland fling" берет, whose square cut front joggles forward over the forehead, is trimmed at left back with two brilliant red birds, and a stitched green velvet toque is finished with a composition bird whose red head perches on top of the crown and whose green toque feather tail trails down the back of the head.

Toques of black velvet or stitched satin mold the head closely, dipping over the forehead and climbing to a peak which leans backward like a streamlined smokestack. Some of these have a beaten gold leaf centered with a cluster of "ruby" berries or a brilliant little humming bird poised at the top. Black velvet toques are trimmed by brilliant wings thrust in the top.

blurred felt hats which enter well down the back of the head making the elastic anchorage, long a part of women's hats, longer necessary.

Elastic Band "Out"

A Tyrolean trend is seen in a number of sports and street hats designed with high tapering crowns and brims which roll down in front and up on the sides and back. Some come in felt trimmed with eagle feathers, others in stitched black taffeta.

Another designer declares she intends to sound the "death knell" of the elastic which holds hats in place. She is making high-crowned

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Profit of Texas Corporation, oil refining and distributing concern, in the first half of the year were about equal to those for the full year 1935, it was disclosed today.

T. Rieber, chairman of the board, announced that estimated earnings of the company and its subsidiaries were approximately $16,000,000 equal to $1.71 a share of capital stock. For 1935 the profit amounted to $16,002,986 or $1.72 a share.

The estimated net was after a charges, including depreciation, depletion and amortization, as well as estimated normal federal income taxes. No provision has been made for the surplus on undistributed profits, it was said.

Interest High In Kentucky Aug. Primary

Senator Logan Opposed By Beckham, Veteran, Brown, Newcomer

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 23 (UP)—A three-cornered contest for the democratic senatorial nomination will enliven Kentucky's 1936 primary election on August 1.

The incumbent, Sen. Marvel Mills Logan, of Bowling Green, former chief justice of the court of appeals and undefeated in any political contest, will be opposed for renomination by J. C. W. Beckham, of Louisville, former governor and senator, and John Young Brown, of Lexington, a dynamic, youthful figure who has come to the front politically in recent years.

Six years ago when the democratic cause in Kentucky appeared doubtful, Logan, then a judge, willingly carried the party banner when others were more skeptical of democratic chances. He won in that election and the democrats have not lost a major state battle since.

Beckham, backed by the state administration of Gov. A. B. Chandler, long has been a familiar figure in state politics. He was the state's youngest governor, having succeeded to the governorship in 1900 when William Goebel was assassinated.

Defeated For Senate

Beckham served almost eight years as governor and, in 1908, was democratic caucus nominee for United States senator when senators were selected by the legislature. He was defeated.

Then, in 1914, the first year senators were elected by popular vote, he was nominated and elected. Six years later he was renominated by his party, but lost the election to Ferdinand P. Ernst, Covington republican.

Seven years later Beckham became a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, won the nomination, but lost in the election to Flen D. Sampson.

Brown was speaker of the Kentucky house in 1932 when a sales tax was first proposed. He opposed the tax and was elected congressman-at-large on that issue. Two years later he lost in the primary for renomination.

Two Face Difficult Race

There are two other candidates with no organized backing.

Political observers concede that Robert H. Lucas, of Louisville, will win the republican nomination for U. S. senator. He will be opposed by four candidates.

Statewide registration, in effect for the first time this year, is expected to bring a record number of voters to the polls.

There is little interest in the congressional races. Incumbents, in most cases, are expected to be renominated.

Winners Named In Bedroom Contest At Short Course

COLLEGE STATION, July 23—Bedroom improvement contest winners in the 12 extension service districts of Texas were announced Wednesday afternoon at 4-H club picnic program at the farmers short course by Mrs. Bernice Clayton, home improvement specialist, as follows:

First place winners—district 1: Gwendolyn Ochs, Pampa; district 2: Arnatta Stoval, Slaton; district 3: Marguerite Ickeret, Olney; district 4: Elizabeth Gilbert, Grapevine, Tarrant county; district 5: Ruth Bledsoe, Rouston, Lamar county; district 6: Nell Edmiston, Eldorado, Schleicher county; district 7: Irene Hopf, Harper, Gillespie county; district 8: Stella Zajfiek, Bell county; district 9: Lydia Ann Psenick, Dayton, Liberty county; district 10: Edna Real, Kerrville; district 11: Yuva Rue Weitzel, El Campo; district 12: Lena Mae Wella, Palfurrias.

Second and third place winners, respectively—district 1: Lois West, Kirklund, and Onie D. Smith, Wellington; district 2: Reddell Parks, Tokio, Yoakum county, and Amy Donaldson, Farwell, Parmer county; district 3: Bonnie Jo Vannoy, O'Brien, Haskell county, and Nola Dean Fullerton, Holliday, Archer county; district 4: Emma Lou Hightower, Sadler, Grayson county, and Buena Berry, Melissa, Collin county; district 5: Lillie Mae Berry, Enloe, Delta county, and Nathalia W. ters, Tyler, Smith county; district 6: Leola Page, Lamesa, Dawson county, and Millie Drennan, McCauley, Fisher county; district 7: Edith Kimmons, Zephyr, Brown county, and Dorothy Sutton, San Saba, San Saba county; district 8: Katherine Von Rosenberg, Austin, and Lorita Hyden, Groesbeck; district 9: Reba Howard, Zavalla, Angelina county, and Maurice Gladden, Pleasant Grove, Rusk county; district 10: Emma Mueller, San Antonio, and Vera Riddle, Dale, Caldwell county; district 11: Phyllis Reed, Beaumont, Lee county, and Juanita Cole.

And as the spectacle unfolds, the audience experiences the beauty of its waterfall, of the lithe young square dancers forming a wagon wheel and a star, of the indescribably appealing music that Producer Billy Rose and his staff have added to the songs of the West.

It experiences the thrills of an Indian attack on the wagon train, of one of the schooners leaving the arena in flames.

FEDERAL REVENUES FOR FISCAL YEAR LARGEST SINCE '21

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—A comparison of treasury records today revealed that government revenues for the fiscal year just closed were the largest for any year since 1921.

At the same time, a breakdown of receipts for the year showed the income tax trending back toward its once dominant position as the source of most of the government's income.

Total federal revenues from all taxation sources were $3,520,000,000 for the fiscal year. Not since 1921, when the total was $4,985,000,000, have they been higher. For that 15-year period, moreover, 1935 was second highest, with revenue totaling $3,299,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. McAllister and daughter, De Alva, left this morning for Denver, Colo., where they will meet their son and brother, Leander, and his friend for a two-week trip through the Yellowstone National park.

Vote For Charlie Sullivan FOR COUNTY JUDGE

Mr. Sullivan is a man of mature judgment; he is a man who has had nineteen years of actual legal experience, four of which was as county judge of Parker County. During the past eight years he has been actively engaged in the practice of law in Big Spring. The attorneys of the Big Spring Bar have on two different occasions elected him special district judge to serve in the absence of the regular judge. And during the last term of our district court he served as Special Judge in the very noted Johnson murder case and those who participated in the trial of this case and those who observed Mr. Sullivan and the manner in which he conducted the trial of this important case could readily see that he was very capable and conducted the case in an efficient manner.

Mr. Sullivan is a man who is fair, courteous and impartial; he is a man who will treat each and every one alike; he is a man who will discharge the duties of the office in a very courteous and efficient manner. He is a man who will work and co-operate with the various county officials of the county; he will make us a county judge that all of the people can depend upon and one that we can be justly proud of, and we ask the voters of Howard County to give his candidacy a careful consideration.

Bank Bandit And Slayer Is Given Second Life Term

FARWELL, July 23 (AP)—Herbert Stanley, on trial for robbery of the Friona State bank last month, was found guilty by a Farmer county jury last night and assessed a life sentence.

The penalty was the minimum sentence which could be rendered, as Stanley already had been convicted of a capital offense in Texas.

In closing arguments District Attorney James W. Witherpoon asked the jury to assess the death penalty.

Stanley already is under a 90-year sentence for the torch slaying in 1930 of Roy Hawthorne. Defense witnesses today testified Stanley was a model prisoner enjoying trusty privileges.

Please help me win the race for District Clerk. Hugh Dubberly—ad.

'Last Frontier' Colorful Spectacle Dramatizing Days Of The Old West

FORT WORTH, July 23—Texas and the Southwest as it was 100 years ago is pictured in a highly exciting spectacle known as "The Last Frontier," at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial. This western saga, set to music expresses the heritage of Texas and the Southwest. It is not a rodeo, not a pageant, but a rip-roaring dramatization that every westerner will love as a part of the background which he lives, it is also a show that thrills the easterner.

This cowboy about whom much of the show revolves, was given an unexpected opportunity to demonstrate his resourcefulness at the opening performance when Sunday; one of the horses in the broncho-busting episode, bucked himself and Chuck Williams into the pool at the foot of the waterfall. The crowd got back in its seats only after the rider crawled out of the pool and the cowboys in the arena roped the horse, dragged him from the water and helped him to his feet. Neither was hurt.

The show is notable for its sequence of western pictures alone, for the train of prairie schooners that comes winding down out of the mountains, for the breath-taking lightning on the longhorn herd as it disappears up the trail.

The sonorous voice of Capt. Irving O'Hay gives the background: "Many, many moons ago, the smile of the Great Spirit beamed upon the land of that red man. Great herds of shaggy buffalo thundered westward . . ."
