AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilites in harmony with the above moral principles.

Once it is admitted that the state has the right to seize money from everybody to "educate" or train young people, it is only quibbling to discuss the kind of education or training the children will get. The larger problem is the inequity and amorality of schools financed by coercion and police

Perhaps education is the process of instilling in young people an appreciation of quality Everything man acquires from an idea to an automobile, he acquires by trading in a portion of his life. We express that in tarms of money, property or man-hours. Buteach of these measures represents a unit of a man's life - he gave up some irreplaceable time and energy to acquire whatever it is he bought.

There should have been advance warning of this switch in devotion to deceased deities, particularly when the one posthumously humiliated and deposed, was such a good friend of Franklin Roosevelt. It would appear to put the deceased deity of the New Deal dynasty in a bad light, for none collaborated to a greater extent with Stalin for the liquidation or repression of millions of people, than did FDR. His eagerness to meet most every demand of Stalin's is excellently deocumented in the book "Roosevelt's Road to Russia," by George N. Crocker of San Francisco. Crocker notes that FDR once told the secretary of labor in his cabinet, Frances Perkins, that he "liked Stalin and I want to keep on good terms with him." He did. But now that Stalin is cast into disgrace it puts the Roosevelt idolators in an embarrassing spot.

William Bullitt, former personal friend of FDR's and former ambassador to Russia, tried to dispel Roosevelt's hallucinations about the Soviet, says Crocker, Bullitt said the secret deal with Stalin at Yalta which betraved Chiang-Kai-shek was "entirely dishonorable" a secret kept from the American people and from Secretary of State Byrnes, besides having consigned millions in Eastern

And the resentment aroused by the Felix Frankfurter school of political scheming and boring-from-within which planted, in Washington, Alger Hiss, Lee Pressman and a horde of others of the same clandestine cult. I do not forget that I am convinced that millions of others remind themselves that Justice Frankfurter was an artful operator who needed Dean Acheson as a mouthpiece before the Senate Judiciary Committee to quality for the Supreme Court. And that both he and Acheson declined to turn their backs on Hiss. Do they mean to tell us that they didn't even suspect this fellow's sympathies? His activities? I wish we could put the pair of them to energetic cross-examination.

In the long run, the falsity of the New York campaign against the Southern states may prove to have been beneficial. Certainly, already it has aroused an understanding that these New York forces are wanton liars, and drawn attention to the ugliness whence this pietistical indignation flows. I observe on all sides in the Southwest and South an anti-New York animus.
