Monkey-Laden Atlas Rocket Blows Up

Vital Space Flight Ends In Failure

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — An 82-foot intercontinental rocket carrying a tiny monkey named Goliath in its nose cone blew up in a boiling mass of burning rocket fuel today less than one minute after it was launched.

The nose cone carrying the 1½ pound squirrel monkey and many times his weight in delicate scientific equipment plunged into the ocean surf, bringing a sudden end to what had been planned as a 5,000-mile flight through space.

The giant Atlas blasted from its pad at 9:56 a.m. but a half-minute later it suddenly leaned flatly and in a split second the range safety officer pushed a button that turned the silvery missile into an inferno.

The wreckage tumbled back to the cape and into the Atlantic Ocean. Some of the wreckage struck near Atlas Pad 14, where the federal space agency is preparing another rocket for an attempt to fire a baby chimpanzee into space next Tuesday.

Recovery ships marked the spot, about 100 yards offshore, where the main wreckage hit and began attempts immediately to salvage it.

It could not be determined immediately whether the nose cone was still in one piece, and scientists declined to say whether the monkey had died instantly.

Scientists had hoped Goliath's performance in space would give them a better idea of how living beings could be expected to stand up mentally and physically under the stresses of take-off and the weightlessness of a long, arching ballistic flight.

Scientists had planned to study other biological specimens aboard to determine the effects of radiation on living creatures. The planned flight path would have sent the nose cone into the lower part of the high-intensity Van Allen radiation belts.

PANHANDLE ORDNANCE GROUP MEETS — Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa was an honored guest as Cabot Ordnance Plant officials hosted the Fall meeting of the American Ordnance Association here last night. Two Firms Plan Gasoline Shift; May Start 'War'

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Oil circles today predicted a nationwide gas war would follow announcements by two of the leading gasoline marketers that their super-high octane service station pumps would be replaced by a lower price product.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. and Gulf Oil Corp. Thursday revealed plans to withdraw their super-premium gasoline pumps from stations in test areas throughout the nation.

Humble announced plans to introduce a new three-grade octane system that would replace its Golden Enco (Esso) with a grade between premium and regular in octane and price.

Gulf announced that it would begin marketing a grade lower in octane and price than regular in certain test areas. Gulf did not say that their super-premium Gulf Crest, would be discontinued but it was learned that the new grade, Gulfane, would be sold from Crest pumps.

Both firms cited the increased use of lower compression engines in new compact cars as a factor in their decisions. The lower compression engines require less octane to operate efficiently.

Gulfane represents a new gasoline especially formulated to offer a quality product to those motorists to whom price is paramount and whose cars do not require higher octane type of gasoline, the Gulf announcement said.

Gulfane became available today at Gulf stations in the Rio Grande Valley area of Texas, the Charlotte, N. C. area, and in parts of East, West and Central Texas.

Gulf tried out its Gulfane in San Antonio during the summer and it was reported its dealers increased gallonage by 18 per cent. But a full-fledged gas war there in July and August brought prices down to 22 cents.

Minor Boost Reported For United Fund

Pampa's United Fund total was increased by only $96 today as General Chairman George Newberry reported contributions to date amounted to $41,632.

Many solicitors, Newberry said, have not filed their reports because of inability to contact prospective contributors.

"We hope the total will climb considerably Monday night," he said, "when the weekly report is due."

Solicitors are asked to make their reports between 5:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Monday in the offices of the Southwestern Public Service Co.

Ordnance Group Sees Gun Barrel Moulded

Some 70 members and guests of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Ordnance Association watched gun barrels in the making as they toured the Cabot Corp. ordnance plant Thursday night.

Prior to the plant tour Don Forsha, Cabot manager of manufacturing, explained various phases of gun barrel manufacture in an illustrated lecture.

The plant visitors then watched the pouring of steel and the moulding of a gun barrel preparatory to the many steps before reaching the finished product. They also heard a short talk by Hugh Burdette, general manager for Cabot in the Southwest.

Later, the group moved to the Coronado Inn for the ordnance association's Fall dinner meeting. Hosts were Burdette, E. L. Green, Jr., manager of Cabot's Oil and Gas Division; R. A. Baker, manager of Cabot's Machinery Division, and Rue Hestand, chief engineer.

Irving B. Akst, Pampa, president of the AOA chapter, presided at the meeting and introduced officers and guests.

Among those introduced were Lt. Col. Marvin J. Bredigam, commanding officer of the Pan-Tex Ordnance Plant, and his executive officer, Capt. Jerry Cochran.

Rep. Walter Rogers, Pampa, of the 18th Congressional District, was introduced and spoke briefly. Rogers paid tribute to the men of the ordnance departments throughout the United States and to those of the Panhandle in particular.

"This country has never lost a war," Rogers said, "and you can give most of the credit to the men in the area of ordnance operations."

"This has been proved in World War I, World War II, and the Korean War," and then Congressman Rogers said.

"I think if the time ever comes that we should be forced into another war, Mr. Khushchev, thanks to our ordnance departments, would be very sorry he started it."

Connally spoke Thursday at the 10th anniversary of the Veterans Administration Center in Bonham. Rayburn was scheduled to make the speech, but when it was determined he could not do so because of his illness, Connally was invited.

Before he left Bonham for Austin, Tex., where he is scheduled to receive a "distinguished alumnus" award tonight from the University of Texas where he graduated in 1941, Connally visited Rayburn at his hospital bedside.

He stayed about five minutes. Rayburn was alert, but very weak. The secretary said that Rayburn recognized him, smiled and reached up and patted his hand.

Soviet Reported To Have Handed West New Plan To Settle Berlin Problem

Texas Told America Can Meet Crises

BONHAM (UPI)—Navy Secretary John Connally, a substitute speaker for cancer-stricken Sam Rayburn in the House speaker's hometown, said the United States is ready, willing and able to defend the free world.

"The people of this nation have never failed the cause of human liberty and I am extremely confident that we will not do so now," he said.

"Today, we have two and one-half million men under arms... in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force. America can meet any crisis presented by its enemies and face up to the hour of peril."

Connally spoke Thursday at the 10th anniversary of the Veterans Administration Center in Bonham. Rayburn was scheduled to make the speech, but when it was determined he could not do so because of his illness, Connally was invited.

Reynolds Named Rodeo President

Wiley Reynolds, Pampa rancher, was elected president of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association at a meeting of the association's board of directors Thursday night in City Hall.

Reynolds was elevated from the post of vice president which he held during the current year. He succeeds Jake Osborne.

Other officers elected last night were Buddy Price, Pampa, first vice president; William Tidwell, Pampa, second vice president; Floyd Watson, Pampa, treasurer.

Farmer Airs Views About Killing Game

WINNER, S. D. (UPI)—Farmer R. W. Leek has specific views about hunters and game commission policies. He recently ran the following ad in the Winner Advocate and Journal:

"No hunting, trespassing, trapping or low altitude flying over NE 1-3, section 3, W ½ NW ½ section 2 of NW ¼ 12-10 1-75 or NW ¼ section 35 and W ½ SW ¼ 35-10 2-75.

"I do not want the badger, skunk, hawk, owl, prairie chicken grouse, wolf, fox, eagle, whooping crane, if any, molested on my land, and the game commission has no more right to make us let pheasant run on our land than to make us feed wild hogs or elephants so they could sell hunting licenses for them."

Connally spoke Thursday at the 10th anniversary of the Veterans Administration Center in Bonham. Rayburn was scheduled to make the speech, but when it was determined he could not do so because of his illness, Connally was invited.

Ft. Worth School Board To Resist Racial Order

By United Press International
The Fort Worth School Board was expected today to appeal the decision of U.S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster ordering integration next fall of the largest remaining segregated public school system in the state of Texas.

And at Austin, it appears the University of Texas is preparing to fight a move to force it to desegregate its campus dormitory facilities.

Judge Brewster ordered Fort Worth to desegregate next fall, and submit a plan for the integration for his approval within 30 days after his judgment becomes final. That will be after all appeals are exhausted, if the board decides to appeal.

Cecil A. Morgan, school board attorney, said that the board has not talked with him about the order, but he said he assumes that an appeal will be made to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

The suit against the board was filed by two Negro families who tried to enroll their children in white schools in 1959 and were turned away.

Approximately 18 per cent of public school students in Fort Worth are Negroes.

Diplomats Say Russia Willing To Begin Talks

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union appeared today to have shifted tactics in a move to get Berlin talks with the West going. There was no sign of any changes in the basic Soviet demands.

Western diplomatic sources said the Kremlin now is willing to negotiate a new status for West Berlin prior to the signing of a Soviet treaty with East Germany.

According to the new Soviet design, the formula would proceed this way:
—The United States, Britain, France and Russia would agree on a new status for West Berlin guaranteeing complete freedom for its residents and free access to the city.

—The Soviet Union will sign a separate agreement with East Germany stressing East Berlin's duty to recognize West Berlin's new status.

—The Western powers will sign an agreement recognizing the sovereignty of East Germany and West Germany should concur.

—After agreement on the first three points, the Soviet Union and East Germany would sign a peace treaty.

It was understood the Soviet position was relayed to Western diplomats in recent informal talks.

It appeared to carry out remarks to newsmen by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev at a Kremlin reception Tuesday that a solution to the Berlin problem should be sought patiently and that the two sides should not push each other.

The key difference between the new and old positions is that the Soviet threat of unilateral action in signing a separate peace treaty with East Germany apparently has been lifted.

American Girl Finishes In Sixth Place In 'Miss World' Contest

LONDON (UPI) — Miss United Kingdom, brown-haired and blue-eyed Rosemarie Ezankland, 18, Thursday night won the "Miss World" title over 36 other foreign beauties.

Miss U.S.A., Jo Ann Odum, 19, of Huntington, W. Va., finished sixth and a U.S. contest official said American girls are getting beaten in the Miss World contest because they can't "project sex appeal" as well as foreign women.

Commenting on the fact that no American girl has won the title here in 11 years, Alfred Patricelli, 49, of Bridgeport, Conn., sponsor of the Miss U.S.A. contest, said:

"Our girls are the sweet flowery type generally. They are lovely — don't get me wrong. But foreign women know how to project sex appeal, how to get the eye of a man they're interested in."

Patricelli said "American girls are too reserved. They won't put themselves out to please a man and make themselves beautiful to him..."

He emphasized that Miss Odum's beauty "took a back seat to nobody" in the contest, "but she has the girl-next-door look, which we in America prize so highly and she couldn't make any headway against British judges who are used to the other type of woman who puts herself forward."

"Hooray, I'm Miss World and I'm rich," exclaimed Miss Frankland when her name was announced as the winner. She was presented with a trophy, crown and scepter from comedian Bob Hope, one of seven judges. In addition, she won $7,000 in prize money.

Nationalist China's Grace Li came in second, Spain's Carmen Cervera, was third, France's Michele Wargner finished fourth, and Denmark's Inge Jorgenson wound up fifth.

Miss Frankland is 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighs 124 pounds and her measurements are a perfect 38-22-36. She is a professional model and had wanted to become an actress.

30-Year Prison Term Meted Spy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Judge Leonard P. Walsh said today he sentenced former diplomat Irvin C. Scarbeck to a maximum 30-year prison term partly to deter other Americans stationed overseas from giving secrets to Communist agents.

Scarbeck, who said he gave trivial information to the Polish secret police only to save his 22-year-old mistress from being jailed as a prostitute, heard the sentence Thursday with tight lips and a bowed head.

Walsh interrupted a mercy plea from the ex-diplomat's defense attorney to comment that there were thousands of Americans overseas who were confronted by "tremendous temptations."

The judge told a reporter later he presumed these Americans would be interested in what penalty was imposed on Scarbeck, suspended Foreign Service officer and former second secretary of the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw.

Ecuador's Chief Outlines Policy

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)—Newly installed President Carlos J. Arosemena has pledged his government to a policy of diplomatic relations and trade with all nations "regardless of their social systems."

In his inaugural address Thursday, Arosemena said specifically his regime will continue relations with Fidel Castro's Cuba and will "patch up any breach that might exist."

Boost In Steel Seen As Result Of Auto Output

NEW YORK (UPI)—Economist A. W. Zelomek thinks steel production in 1962 should be given a considerable stimulus by the expected increase in auto production and a substantial betterment in the home appliance and entertainment fields.

Production for the first half "should run at an annual rate of between 115 and 120 million tons" with increased buying of steel developing within the next six months, especially in view of the fear of another strike in mid-1962, he figures.

Writer Sees Big Gem And He's Impressed

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If diamonds are a girl's best friend, then the one I just saw could be pals with the entire student body at Vassar.

Any diamond has to be pretty big to be given a name. To give one an indication of its size, this one is called "The Jubilee."

It went on display today in the Smithsonian Institution's Hall of Gems and Minerals.

The Jubilee is the third largest cut diamond in existence, but that doesn't tell you much. It weighs 245.35 carats, but that doesn't tell you much either.

Perhaps a better description would be to say that it reminded me of the headlights of a Volkswagen.

The Smithsonian obtained the diamond on loan for about eight months from its owner, a nonchalant Frenchman named Paul-Weiller.

Weiller recalled that a jeweler came into his Paris office one day in 1937, whipped out the diamond and suggested that he buy it. Weiller did so on the spot.

Then he stuck it in his coat pocket during the past week was "most-favorable." Its advice to clients is "maintain your long positions in both short-term and capital gain investments."

Inflation fears are turning more and more sophisticated money into the stock market to preserve the purchasing power of the dollar, according to Mitchell of Canada. This, he said, is what's keeping the market high and "going to drive it higher, especially the strategic minerals stocks and the natural resources stocks as a whole."

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. says it is inclined to believe that certain science companies possessed of quality or particular capabilities, specializing in promising fields, could be rewarding to the growth minded investor. These stocks might give a far better account of themselves in the market once tax-slinging pressure lifts, the firm says.

When he suddenly remembered he discovered that it was no longer there.

Upon further investigation, Heiler found that the pocket had a hole in the lining and that the diamond had slipped down into the tail of his coat.

Asked how he felt when he first noticed the diamond was missing, Weiller just gave a little shrug. But I would be willing to bet he got that coat fixed right away.

During the press preview, where the diamond was displayed in a velvet case, the corridors of the museum were well lined with armed guards.

The Jubilee is insured for $2 million and you never know when some internationally known jewel thief will try to masquerade as a journalist.

While on public display it will be kept in a glass safe, with a guard in constant attendance. This is only the second time that the Jubilee, which was found in South Africa in 1905, has been shown to the public.

For photographic purposes, the Jubilee, which hangs from a diamond encrusted necklace, was placed around the pretty neck of Miss Janet Barfield, a Smithsonian secretary.

Asked if anyone had ever worn it, Weiller said "Well, I never did." He also said he had no intentions of selling it. Rather, he said, he was looking for another just like it so he could have a pair.

One of the ladies present slipped off her diamond engagement ring and placed it alongside the Jubilee for comparison. I fear that forever after she will regard her husband as a cheap-skate.

Smokers Provide Business Index, Researcher Says

NEW YORK (UPI)— Move

arette smoker and, specifically, the roll-your-own smoker.

Nearly 5.3 million pounds of "roll-your-own" tobacco, of which B&W produces more than half the nation's supply, was used in 1960.

For the first half of 1961, the rate of consumption was at a level which would show 5.9 million pounds usage for this year. Were this figure reached, it would be a postwar high. The peak year of World War II was 1945, when 6.6 million pounds were used.

Jeffries' study of usage figures showed a correlation between rising "roll-your-own" sales and a business downturn both for 1958 and for 1960; and in each case, the upswing in long-cut tobacco sales anticipated general recognition of a business downturn by some months. B&W used the Federal Reserve Board index of production, and industry-wide sales of long-cut tobacco, as its statistical base.

BEHIND THE SCENES OF YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE

An interview with Richard A. Goodson, Southwestern Bell Vice President and General Manager for Texas

BY DON DAVIS, TELEPHONE NEWS WRITER

Here today: A wide range of convenient communications services to fit any need

"Not too many years ago," says Richard A. Goodson, who is in charge of Southwestern Bell's Texas operations, "most people probably thought of telephone service as a single black instrument."

"But nowadays it's increasingly common for people to have several phones in color in their homes. And over the years the available communications services have grown from a rather small number until now it takes a whole catalogue to list them all."

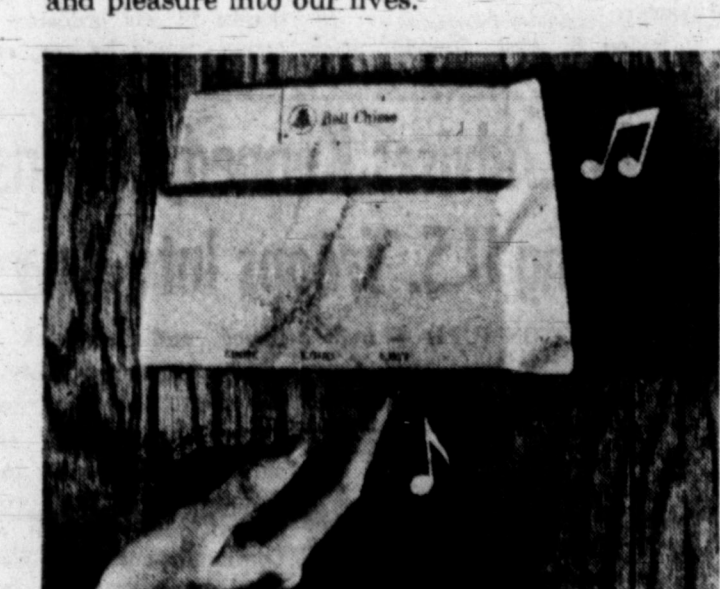

From all of the services mentioned by Mr. Goodson during an interview in his office, I've selected four to picture here, because they vividly illustrate his point that a wide variety of interesting and exciting services awaits today's customers.

"These instruments and services—and the technical advances required to make them work—obviously don't just happen," Mr. Goodson said. "The telephone company has a constant research program to make them happen."

As a result of this continuing search for new developments, telephone service grows better year after year . . . and brings more convenience and pleasure into our lives.

The invitation to Wheeler was accepted by Band Director Ann McMurry.

No official entry forms are necessary, Langham said.

"We would like to have the band directors notify us of their intentions to be present on Santa Day," Langham said.

Flames Destroy Pampa Man's Car

A 1958 sedan, owned by L. L. Leslie, two miles south of the city, was destroyed early today when the gas tank caught fire while Leslie was welding the framework of the auto.

Pampa firemen said they were called at 8:15 a.m. to the Leslie home but were unable to extinguish the flames in time to save the car.

The blaze was caused when the electric welding stick Leslie was using touched the gas tank, firemen said.

Leslie was not injured.

Violinist Shows Impeccable Skill In Concert Here

By BILL HALEY

Concert goers last night were treated to what is becoming an increasing rarity in Pampa the concert soloist. Rarer still is the violin soloist. There have been scarcely more than one or two during the last ten years. The artist this time was violinist Berl Senofsky whose career was launched in 1948 when he won the Naumberg Foundation award with his attendant Town Hall recital.

From the opening number to the finale, the program could hardly have been weightier. It was, by any definition, a program for the connoisseur and although the two sonatas in a row, one by Beethoven and the other by Mozart, may have been a bit taxing, those who attended should feel flattered that Senofsky did not "play down" to them. The Beethoven sonata was a splendid work, similar in many ways to the famous Appassionata Sonata. Nevertheless in the case of Beethoven, as with the Victorian novel and the Wagnerian Opera, length can sometimes be a damning factor.

Besides the sonatas, the program contained two numbers by Kreisler, a Rondo by Schubert and pieces by Bartok, Milhaud and Sarasate. Of these the greatest favorite with the audience seemed to be the Dvorak "Slavonic Dances" arranged by Kreisler. These had much to recommend them — familiarity, the magic Kreisler touch and a superb performance particularly in the double stop sections. The Milhaud "Saudades" were facing musical tapestries with alternating melodic and rhythmic patterns and a touch of humor here and there.

From an artistic point of view however, it was impossible to select one or two as superior to the rest. All were played with impeccable skill by Senofsky whose effortless performance was further emphasized in his bows between numbers when he would let his $75,000 Stradivarius dangle at his side like a baseball bat. In fact the program was so well played that it is hard to imagine even Menuhin of Heifetz doing it better.

or neutron warheads in intercontinental missiles. Even ordinary one-megaton H-bombs are more effective. That is to say, their kill power is greater over longer distances. Neutron bombs would not compare in effectiveness with 5, 10, and 20-megaton H-bombs.

To be really effective, a neutron bomb would have to explode in the air at a fairly precise point within a half mile or so of its target. Soviet and U.S. ICBMs will not have such accuracy soon.

Third: These neutron "bullets" are not new. All ordinary H-bombs when they explode give out a hefty shower of the tiny particles, called neutrons. In most H-bombs the blast, fire and radioactivity travel farther than the neutrons. A victim thus would never know whether he'd been killed by the blast, the fire, the radioactivity or the neutrons.

These neutrons travel about a mile through the atmosphere. At a half mile, they'll penetrate several feet of concrete or earth. They're able to do this because they're so small.

They're contained in the hearts of all atoms, except hydrogen atoms. Sixteen trillion neutrons weigh less than a trillionth of an ounce.

Since any wall, shield or army tank is composed of atoms and electrons which are rather far apart compared to the size of a neutron, neutrons go through these "open spaces" with comparative ease.

The neutrons, when they strike the atoms in a man's body, knock out charged protons — also in the heart of every atom — which destroy the body cells. This kills the man. But it doesn't destroy the chair he's sitting on, the suit he's wearing or the house or tank he's in.

Actually, a neutron bomb essentially is a weak H-bomb with some of its stinging removed. That is, a neutron bomb is a weak H-bomb minus some of its blast strength, some of its heat and almost all of its radioactivity.

A neutron bomb can be made by taking the uranium heart, or trigger, and the outer uranium jacket from a weak H-bomb and substituting some nonnuclear trig-

REV. QUARTERMAN
... Church Celebrant

Episcopalians from this area will leave Amarillo the morning of December third to attend the service in Lubbock. They will return the same day. Billy Ragsdale, a member of St. Matthew's has been asked to take a special part and will carry a processional cross during the service. Plans are being made to broadcast the service over a state-wide network.

From 1931 to 1946, he was Rector of St. Philip's Church, Ardmore, Okla. Shortly after being called to be Rector of St. Andrew's Church in Amarillo in 1946, he was elected Bishop of The Missionary District of North Texas, and consecrated on December 3rd, 1946.

In 1958, the Missionary District became the Diocese of Northwest Texas and Bishop Quarterman was installed as the first Bishop of the Diocese on October 31st, 1958.

Social Workers Ask Prohibition In India By '66

By PATRICK J. KILLEN
NEW DELHI (UPI) — Government-backed prohibitionists are urging a total ban on the consumption of alcoholic drinks in India by 1966.

The cut-off date was put forth in resolution form recently by a high level conference of Indian social workers. It was endorsed later by the Central Prohibition Committee, whose chairman is B. N. Datar, a minister in India's Home Affairs Ministry.

The "ban-the-booze" conference of social workers was inaugurated by Morarji Desai, India's finance minister and one of the country's staunchest prohibition advocates. Desai told the 1,200 delegates that tax-conscious Indian states should not worry about revenue which might be lost if total prohibition comes.

The finance minister said the government was prepared to meet 50 per cent of the lost excise revenue. This, according to unofficial estimates, would amount to about $150 million during the next five years.

Desai said the rest of the states' losses would be made up by the increased purchasing power of those who could no longer spend their money on alcohol.

India's drive for prohibition is the result of a long campaign by many of the nation's moral leaders, including the late Mahatma Gandhi. It has been an objective of India's ruling Congress Party since the 1920's.

Ardent prohibitionists even were able to insert prohibition in the Indian constitution, Article 47 says in part: "... the state shall endeavor to bring about prohibition of the consumption, except for medicinal purposes, of intoxicating drinks and of drugs which are injurious to health."

To date, Indian prohibitionists have made considerable progress, at least on paper. Three states have been declared "dry" and

'Sense Of Threshold' Topic Of First Methodist Pastor

Hubert Bratcher, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will preach at the two services Sunday morning on "A Sense of Threshold," which will include something of the sense of expectancy, faith, alertness, courage that go to make up truly victorious living.

The evening service will feature the congregational hymn singing, that is growing in popularity, a prayer time and a message by the pastor on "What's Behind The Curtain?" The evening sermon will deal with some of the mysteries of life and our attitudes toward them. Music for the services will be furnished by the Sanctuary Singers for the 10:55 service and by the MYF Choir for the evening service.

Monday evening, November 13, has been designated by the Commission on Membership and Evangelism and The Official Board of the church as "Hi Neighbor Night!" when some two hundred people will meet at the church at 6:30 p.m. for the evening meal and go out in pairs to visit the membership of the church. Don Lane is general chairman of the visitation program, working with Charles Shelton, chairman of the commission. The Methodist Men will meet Wednesday, Nov. 15, with guest speaker Mrs. Kermit Lawson, who will speak on the topic "Best Informed Group In The Church."

But there is considerable conjecture as to just how dry the dry states are. Bombay, capital of dry Maharashtra state, is notorious for its bootleggers and its formidable home industry of making illicit booze. Alcoholic beverage can be obtained by foreigners and Indians with medical certificates.

New Delhi, where diplomatic cocktail parties flourish, has no bars but most people can get a drink in a private club. When international conferences are held, the government lets selected hotels open their bars for conferencees.

Of India's big cities, Calcutta remains the bastion of the lawful drinker. Although the city observes "dry Wednesdays," the rest of the week bars do a brisk business.

Another area where prohibitionists have made no inroads is the Indian military, still steeped in British tradition. Indian military clubs continue to cater to the thirsty soldier.

What a difference a year makes!

If anyone had told him, a short while ago, that his 1961 Cadillac could be improved on—he would have regarded them with disbelief.

And yet, after only half an hour in the newest "car of cars", he knows that a year of Cadillac progress has made a world of difference.

In fact, the list of Cadillac advancements for 1962 embraces each of the great motoring virtues.

For added beauty, there is a lower, longer silhouette... greater simplicity and dignity of line... and new interior elegance and luxury.

For improved comfort, there is increased spaciousness... new convenience of appointments... and a ride that is unbelievably quiet and smooth.

For finer performance, there is greater power...

more responsive handling... and a degree of all-around road ability that is new even to Cadillac.

For increased safety, there is a new dual braking system... a new three-phase rear warning light system... and new cornering lights that illuminate your way around turns.

And we would like to say that even Cadillac quality has been enhanced for 1962. But the truth is simply that the car continues to be built to the highest standards that can be brought to the production of an automobile.

Stop by your dealer's showroom soon, won't you? He'll be happy to demonstrate to you what a difference a year can make—when the year is this one and the car is Cadillac.

"Every Child Has A Right To Fill His Own Cup"

The Exceptional child is a child of God.
The City of Pampa has developed a concern and studied the need of the exceptional child in the community and as a result we have the Exceptional Child Association which meets every month on the second Monday 7:30 P.M. in the Social Room of the City Hall.
We now have three teachers conducting classes in the public schools. There is a swimming program each Thursday evening at the Youth Center and other social gatherings for these children. A Vacation Bible School is conducted each year. Many interested person and groups sponsor these activities. The social contact is a great help for both children and adults.

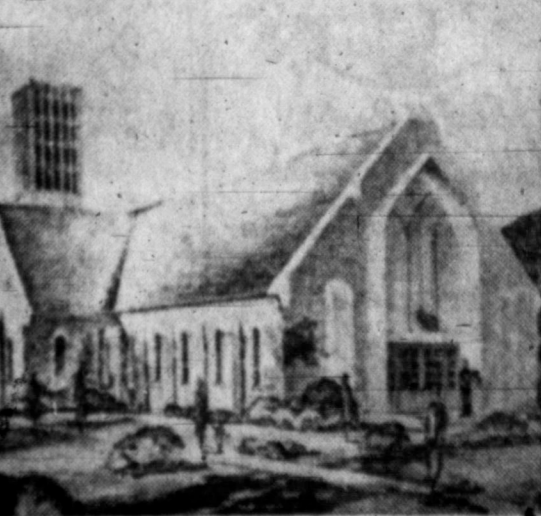

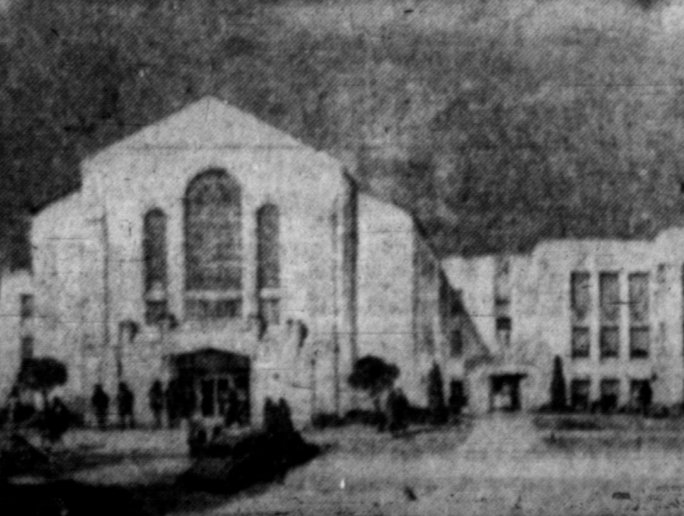

A Church School Class is planned in the near future. The class will meet each Saturday afternoon at 2:30-3:30 P.M. The United Church Women are sponsoring this class. It is the purpose of the class to help the children.

1. To Know God and learn that He cares for them as if they were the only child.
2. To feel confident and secure in God's love.
3. Feel confident in their ability to show God's love in everyday living.
4. Feel confident that God understands when they fail to do their best and He expects them to try again. He loves them when they continue to do their best.
5. Learn simple prayers. Talk to God.
6. Know that in Jesus, God shows us His love and how we ought to love and live.
7. Learn to worship God and appreciate his church and its worship service.
8. To live the commandments of Jesus Christ.

We will do this through singing hymns, gospel songs and childrens tunes. There will be Bible stories and drama. Visual aids such as Flannel graphs and audio visuals will be used. The children will participate in drama and rythm band. There will be periods of handcraft for the children.

To the best of our ability we will strive to help the Exceptional Child develop a skill in using the Bible; to respond to the love of Jesus Christ; to appreciate his church and develop a feeling of belongingness to it; and help him feel that he is a part of his community.

Jesus Said, "as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me." Mtt.25:14.

ST. VINCENT DINNER-BAZAAR - St. Vincent dePaul Catholic Altar Society has everything in readiness for the Turkey Dinner and Bazaar to be held tomorrow from five until seven o'clock in the school. Left to right, Mrs. John Schwind, Mrs. Forrest Hills, Altar Society president and Mrs. Joe Gayden are displaying a few of the items which will be offered at the Bazaar. Center of interest is a modernistic Christmas ornament made from plastic tomato baskets glued together and decorated with Christmas baubles. A Turkey dinner with all the trimmings will be served in the school cafeteria. The public is invited to attend. (Daily News Photo)

Marilyn Monroe Special Fashion Case: Designer

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Fashion designer John Moore concedes that one of his most famous customers, Marilyn Monroe, may forego buying from his spring collection.

"She could wear the clothes, but she won't," said Moore, after showing a handsome new collection built around the princess and tunic silhouettes.

"Marilyn is such a special case," said Moore, in one of the understatement of the year. "I have to make movie star clothes for her."

Short Costume Jackets
The clothes the designer for Talmack, Inc. made for women a little less special than Marilyn included some of the shortest costume jackets seen in any spring collection.

He revived such dressmaker touches as fagoting (openwork stitching) and hemmed edges and bias (against the grain) cut to give a soft, feminine look to many of the garments.

Black or white, or combinations of black and white, proved his favorite color schemes.

In Polka Dots
The black and white combinations showed in a number of polka dot silk prints with the dots about the size of a quarter. They showed also in brief touches of trim—as in the white lace tweed suit accented in black bone buttons and with a black patent bow at the center front. This suit was one of Moore's silhouettes which hugged the rib cage.

Most of his clothes, however, skimmed lightly over the bust and waist, usually were not belted, and in the case of the princess shape were flared through the skirt.

Brownie Troop 42 Celebrates Birthday

Brownie Scout Troop 42 celebrated its first birthday on Friday afternoon in the Fellowship Baptist Church with parents and friends as special guests.

Receiving first year pins from their leader, Mrs. Franklin Wall were Vickie Fletcher, Sandra Gann, Martha Morris, Marilyn Murphy, Debra Parker, Troyce Wall, Sharon Wallin and Marsha Wells.

An investiture service was held for two new members, Diane Graham and Linda Albritton with each receiving Brownie pins.

Following the ceremony, troop members grouped around the birthday table, which was appointed with an arrangement of autumn flowers—and a tall yellow candle from which each member lighted individual candles, one from the other, to demonstrate the circle of friendships of scouts.

The program opened with singing "Hello" and the pledge of allegiance to the flag was given by the Brownies. Linda Albritton, president can directed the business meeting during which each girl displayed and explained some project which the troop had planned and executed during its first year.

The refreshment table was centered with a cake decorated with a capering Brownie and yellow roses. Coffee, punch and cake were served by the girls. Mrs. Tommy-Murphy is the assistant leader.

Miss Wallace Is Feted With Party

Miss Linda Wallace, bride-elect of Charles J. Libby of Lefors, was honored by friends with a bridal shower in the Methodist Church parlor on Friday evening.

The entertaining rooms were decorated in the bride's chosen colors of pink and white. On the bride-elect's table was a large crystal basket of white mums and pink carnations flanked with pink tapers in crystal candleholders.

Mrs. Alvin Driggers was guest registrar.

Hostesses were Meses. Ann Lowry, Alvin Driggers, Ruby Capps, W. S. Voyles, Floyd Ward and N. D. Steele.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Jim Libby and Mrs. C. Lisenbee, mother and sister of the bride-groom-elect, both of Lefors, Mrs. D. R. Jennings of Borger, aunt of the bride-elect. Also attending were the bride's mother, Mrs. Ione Wallace and her grandmother, Mrs. Joe Mullins Sr.

Approximately 35 guests attended or sent gifts.

To shop from the rack is an art. To tell successfully whether a dress you see on the hanger will look well on you, you must have either a naturally clever eye or a lot of training. So don't refuse to try on a dress suggested by a saleswoman. She has seen the dress on others. You haven't.

Dear Abby... Boat Of Happiness Has Already Sailed!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR-ABBY: Two years ago, when I was 21 and "M" was 16, we went steady and planned on getting married. I got her in trouble and left town. I thought it over and came back two weeks before she had the baby and offered to marry her. She turned me down, and told me she never wanted to see me again. She kept the baby, is living with her parents and is finishing school. She said that chapter of her life is closed and I should forget her. But I can't. She even refused child support. I begged her parents to talk her into marrying me, but they say it's her decision. How can I get her to marry me?

A FOOL
DEAR FOOL: You can't. Your timing has been poor from the start. Leave her alone.

DEAR-ABBY: I was glad to see that letter in your column signed RED, WHITE AND BLUE. I am not in the service and have no axe to grind but I, too, thought that the service was "no place for a decent girl" until one day an FBI agent rang my doorbell. He had come to inquire about the reputation and character of a neighbor girl who had applied for the WAVES. I never realized that in order for a girl to get into the armed forces they made such a thorough investigation of her character. More people should know this.

MAGNOLIA STREET

DEAR-ABBY: A close friend of mine is getting married in the fall to one of two sisters at a double wedding. My wife and I will be invited to the wedding. Our problem: we are not acquainted with the girl he is marrying, nor the other couple. Should we send a gift to each girl, or just to our friend's bride?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Since you don't know the other couple, a gift is not in order. Send gift to the bride of the friend who invited you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO IN LOVE ALONE: Sorry, but it is not possible to "be in love" alone. Love is a two-handed game. You may be fired with desire to be "in love"—entranced, infatuated and full of hope. But to be "in love," you need more than a "smile" from the object of your affection.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Major Fashion Themes Emerge From Collections Of New York Designers

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Four major fashion themes for spring emerge from the collections shown thus far by leading New York designers.

They are:
—A heightened look to the waistline, detailed with high-set buttons on suits and coats, with fabric bows, insets or high-riding belts on dresses.

—A construction closer to the body, but rarely hugging the figure.

—Continuation of a knee-high skirt length for day.

—Designers' renewal of the bias cut in all fabrics and their enchantment with a softened look via ruffles.

These are the "basics" to watch for when you do your spring shopping. But apt to go unnoticed are numerous other fashion touches.

Pump For Daytime
Take shoes. The low heeled pump is in for daytime. Models at most shows wore alligator or kid pumps with narrow toes and chunky one-inch heels.

Take hats. The wide brim swept off the face and the side draped turban are the shapes most frequently used to accessorize daytime clothes. For evening, encase your hair and face in several yards of sheer veiling.

Take collars. That is, take collars if you can find them. The collar-less look continues into spring '62 in suits, coats and costumes. When collars are attached, they're neat, well-mannered little jobs lying flat against the collarbone.

Few Sleeves
Take sleeves. There again, if you can find them. The sleeveless dress often is topped with a brief, winging jacket called the "flip," also sleeveless.

When there are sleeves, they end—just below the elbow. The glove to wear with them no longer is the classic shortie, but an elbow-length kid.

Take fabrics. They get lighter in weight each year and such terms as soufflé silks and spongy woollens are everyday words in the fashion industry.

Ruth Millett Man's Evaluation Of "Women-Talk"

"If American women were as interested in improving their conversation as they are in making the most of their looks, what charmers they would be." So says a man who reads this column. He goes on to explain:

"It's when she opens her mouth that a woman either draws people to her or turns them against her. It's a shame how many women do the latter through just a few bad conversational faults. The faults that really grate on most men are these:

"Talking too much and in too opinionated a manner. When a woman in a mixed group takes over conversationally, she irritates every man forced by politeness to listen while she holds forth on first one subject and then another.

"Failing to really listen when others talk. Women who don't really listen always give themselves away by wandering eyes, inane comments, tense, nervous gestures.

"Not letting others finish their sentences. Women who are bad at this will talk as loud as necessary to drown out the person who is trying to get a word in edgewise.

"Concentrating so much on unimportant details they never make the point of the story they set out to tell. "Let me see, was it last year or the year before it must have been last year, because . . ." and so on and on, instead of getting to the point.

"Talking far too much about their children, a topic guaranteed to bore every man who has to listen.

"Making malicious little remarks about people who aren't present to defend themselves. The sweeter the tone of voice, the more irritating those remarks are to a man."

Are we women really guilty of all those charm-killing conversational habits? If so, maybe we had better worry a bit less about how we look and a bit more about how we sound.

Many are the ways discussed in Ruth Millett's booklet on "How to Have a Happy Husband." Send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, care of Pampa News, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

Depressed Stocks Start Comeback

NEW YORK (UPI)—Depressed stocks are starting to come back and short selling for the time being is not expected to be profitable as the current rally shows every sign now of generating more strength, according to Joseph E. Granville.

The E. F. Hutton & Co. analyst also lays great stress on the recent recovery in the airlines. "This has technical importance over and beyond the individual trading implications. Airlines have a tendency to top out ahead of the general market and also to bottom out ahead of the general trend."

Kenneth War of Hayden, Stone & Co., says a breakthrough above 714 in Dow-Jones industrials, accompanied by increased volume (this happened on Monday) would suggest another test of the old closing peak of 726.52 and possibly a new high before the end of the year.

Amott, Baker & Co. notes that the Treasury is urging the financial community to strongly recommend in market letters and other communications to customers the advantages of purchasing

U.S. savings bonds with a part of their funds. Amott, Baker says "We can't make a cent on U.S. savings bonds transactions, but we herewith do our patriotic duty and agree that this can be very good advice for many investors."

Purcell & Co. says with the near-term business outlook on the favorable side, the current expectation is that November will be a better month for the market and could be the best since the summer. "On the whole, the present status of stock prices is encouraging for the intermediate term."

Stolen Articles Returned To Firm

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI)—A "Jane Doe" who formerly worked at the big Westinghouse plant here apparently can now sleep nights.

Westinghouse this week received a letter from the conscience-stricken former employe with the following note:

"Gentlemen: Enclosed find $5 for two pairs of scissors and a small pair of pliers that I took from your plant when I worked there about 15 years ago." It was signed "Jane Doe."

Bears Eye Texas Upset

By United Press International

A brawny bunch of Baptists take their "revival" to Austin Saturday hoping to work a miracle that would stun the nation.

It's the feature attraction of the Southwest Conference card—Baylor's Bears tackling Texas, the nation's No. 1 football power.

Upset minded? You bet! And nobody knows it any better than Darrell Royal, head coach of the unbeaten, untied Longhorns.

"They're just the same dangerous football team they have been for the last two years," Royal observed. "I think they're back in early season form."

"They had a revival out there (in Waco last Saturday when Baylor whipped TCU 28-14 ending a three game losing streak) and now they are taking it on the road."

Texas won the past two games in the series, but both were close. In 1959 Baylor had a 12-7 upset underway when Texas scored in the final minutes on a recovered fumble for a 13-12 edge.

Last year the Steers took a 12-0 margin into the fourth quarter, but Baylor scored and converted with 4:23 left and then drove to the Texas 29 when the clock ran out.

The early season form Royal referred to had the Bears picked in a number of books as the pre-season favorites for league laurels.

And after last week's showing, the outlook for this week's main SWC attraction—Baylor—vastly improved. But odds-makers still rate the Longhorns a 10-point favorite.

There is another top scrap on tap... the battle for survival at Houston between contenders Rice and Arkansas because both are still in the running for a post-season bowl berth and, of course, a slice of the conference crown should Texas tumble.

Elsewhere, Southern Methodist takes its rejuvenated Mustangs to College Station to face the Texas Aggies in a league game and Texas Tech hosts Boston College in an intersectional tilt at Lubbock to round out the Saturday afternoon program.

Texas Christian plays UCLA at Los Angeles tonight.

Tony Lema Leads Mexico Tourney By Two Strokes

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., and Mexican amateur star Roberto Halpern shared a two-stroke lead today going into the second round of the Mexican National Open golf tournament.

Lema, having his best year since turning professional six years ago, shot a 35-33-68 while Halpern, a veteran of many international matches, had a 34-34-68.

Inside The Huddle

By Joe Lee Smith

McLean meets Lefors tonight for the district 2-A grid title with the winner scheduled to play 1-A king Gruver in the bi-district round.

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce is trying to get the bi-district game played here — regardless of whether Lefors or McLean represents 2-A.

We hope that our good neighbors — Lefors — will want to play here in the event they beat McLean. And Gruver has gotten on friendly relations with Pampa during the grid season. The local gridders have played Greyhound teams in junior high and high school ball.

Gruver is one of the state's 10 undefeated, untied class A elevens. The Greyhounds have a rugged defense and a fine backfield foursome blessed with speed and power.

Coach Corky Chapman's club wasn't considered much of a threat prior to the season in district 1-A play. Old powers: White Deer and Stinnett were the choices of almost everyone.

But the Greyhounds' prestige grew when they blanked perennially tough Perryton 8-0. The first major hurdle in district competition was unbeaten Stratford.

who fell 24-6; then Gruver knocked off White Deer 22-8 and upset Stinnett 15-8 for the well-deserved title.

So the Harvesters have a 1-7 season mark! The combined record of the teams they have played comes to 44 wins and 21 losses.

El Paso Bel Aire, who edged the Harvesters 7-0 in the opening game, is one of the five unbeaten AAAA schools. Palo Duro is a slant just once in nine outings and Dumas is the top-rated AAA eleven.

Last week we hit on 20 predictions, while missing four and had one tie. But we are especially proud of picking the LSU upset win over Mississippi.

This week we see: Pampa beating Plainview — unless the Harvesters get overconfident — and we see no reason why they should — they will capture win no. two by three tallies.

McLean over Lefors — Maybe the Pirates will make us eat our words, but we will take the Tiger's home field advantage.

Tascoma over Monterey — This could develop into a major upset but the Rebels will probably win.

Texas over Baylor — It's as simple as this. The Steers have the nation's top offense and Baylor has a weak defense. Our nod to the No. 1 team by 20 points.

Rice over Arkansas — Just a guess.

Other winners in caps: AMARILLO vs Lubbock, MEMPHIS vs Canadian, CHILDRESS vs Wellington, DUMAS vs Levelland, GROOM vs Texline, GRUVER vs Sunray, WHITE DEER vs Stratford, STINNETT vs Panhandle, PERRYTON vs Spearman, QUANAHA vs Shamrock, TEXAS A&M vs Southern Methodist, UCLA vs Texas Christian, BOSTON COLLEGE vs Texas Tech, WEST TEXAS STATE vs Trinity, MICHIGAN STATE vs Purdue, MINNESOTA vs Iowa, MISSOURI vs Oklahoma, LSU vs North Carolina, COLORADO vs Utah and WHITE OAK vs Hallsville.

Chicago Scores 102-97 Victory

By United Press International

Last place Chicago hung a 109-97 defeat on first-place Pittsburgh Thursday night and helped turn the young American Basketball League race into mathematical madness.

Washington edged Hawaii, 92-91, and Cleveland nipped San Francisco, 103-100, in other action.

When the final whistle had been tooted, six of the league's eight teams — including the entire Western Division — were still at a .500 mark with only Pittsburgh (2-1) and Chicago (2-3) fighting the trend.

Bulldogs Look For Upset Win

PLAINVIEW — Pampa and Plainview — a pair of teams with only two wins between them in the past two seasons — get together here tonight at 7:30 in a 3-AAAA tilt.

But Pampa's Harvesters may have the best of things this year. Coach Weldon Trice's crew has shown tremendous improvement over its early start and snapped a 16-game losing streak Oct. 13 with a 15-14 upset over the Amarillo Sandies.

On the other hand, the Bulldogs of Plainview have only taken one victory in their last 21 games. Yep, the Dogs licked Pampa last season 13-6.

However — as Trice put it Wednesday — the Bulldogs will be out for Pampa, since they believe the Harvesters are the only team they can beat.

It would prove embarrassing, even to Pampa, to lose to Plainview. After all, the Bulldogs have allowed 356 points in losing eight games. They have only tallied 20.

Big Springs started the assault on Plainview with a 36-0 season opening triumph. These teams followed in suit: San Angelo 52-0; Littlefield 32-14; Amarillo 45-0; Borger 66-0; Palo Duro 48-6; Lubbock 66-0 and Monterey 41-0.

Pampa — which had looked like a football team against Monterey, Amarillo and Palo Duro — should be on the rebound this week after getting walloped 33-12 by Lubbock.

Tonight could be the evening the Harvesters have been waiting for a long time. Pampa just might get everything to clicking — the way it used to be.

Kenny Hebert provides the Harvesters break-away threat and Bud Crossland is an accurate passer who is always dangerous in the air lanes.

With such guys as James Webb, an unheralded lineman, John Brown, Danny Mathus, Dee Wright and Corky Godfrey up front, the Harvesters should have the weight and experience on the Bulldogs.

For the first time this fall, Pampa will have an edge in experience, size and speed. Plainview just has four seniors — the same as Pampa — on the starting lineup. But the Bulldogs only have two lettermen on the first eleven.

Fullback Eddie Clark, a senior, is a two-year letterman and the Bulldogs top offensive runner. In the line, Dwight Swanner, a 205-pound senior tackle, is the lone letterman.

Bob Hamilton, a Pampa tackle will miss tonight's game with a broken foot.

Monterey Lancers Maul Pampa 52-0

LUBBOCK — Pampa's Shockers closed out their 1961 grid campaign on a sour note here Thursday afternoon as the Monterey Lancers laced the visitors to the tune of 52-0.

Monterey was in complete command as the Shockers never mounted a serious threat and the Lancers scored 30 points in the second period to take a 36-0 halftime lead.

For Pampa, it was loss number seven. The Shockers won two and tied one. They beat Tascoma 18-12 and Plainview 28-12.

Garcia Notches Upset Triumph Over Jose Cruz

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eddie Garcia, 133, Denver, Colo., a three-one underdog, opened up with a two-fisted attack Thursday night to win a lopsided 10-round unanimous decision over Jose Luis Cruz, 134, Mexico City, at the Olympic Auditorium.

Garcia, who was voted the winner by a margin of 11-1 on the scorecards of all three officials, failed to deck his opponent.

Pampa Captures Chicago And 11 Of 21 Bouts In Boxing Meet

Open class boxers Don King and Pat McDonald put on classy performances Thursday night at the Boy's Building to headline 11 victories by the Pampa Boxing club in a 21-bout event.

Borger and Lefors each won four bouts and Stinnett copped two triumphs.

King, a 140-pounder stopped Borger's Ed Badgett and McDonald continued to show promise of developing into a regional champ in the open class as he decided Billy Wade of Borger, a veteran fighter.

But the real crowd pleaser of the evening was Ronald Fletcher's narrow victory over Borger's Andy Harris in a bout that kept the fans on their feet throughout the match. They stood toe-to-toe for three rounds and slugged it out.

A "corner" for Pampa is Gail Martin, a 126-pounder. Martin, however, lost to Steve McCarthy, Borger, in a close decision.

Another good local prospect, Max Taylor, continued his winning streak with a victory over Borger's Jim Dowdy.

Two boys who lost, but gained the respect of the fans, were Robert Henry Harris and D. D. Lofton.

Harris, a heavyweight, was tko'ed in the second round by Delton Weights of Borger. But the Pampa lad held his own until he ran out of steam. This was Harris' first bout and he is not in good shape yet.

Lofton of Lefors lost by an eye lash to Rick Parson, an older boy, of Borger. But Lofton displayed to the crowd why he was selected as the winner of the top award at Dalhart last year in the Golden Gloves tourney.

Other Pampa winners were Gary Watson, Roy Lumpkin, Andy Grim, Marvin Tinney, Jim Watson, H. D. LaRue and Warren Pettit.

The Lefors victors were Danny Adams over Bruce Watson, Pampa; Larry Gilbreath; Glenn Henderson and Ross Henderson.

Mike Young beat Joe Roth; Pampa and Rick Parson won the other two matches for Borger.

Allen Smith and Gary Jones captured the two Stinnett victories.

Chicago And Green Bay Play Sunday

By United Press International
The Chicago Bears and New York Giants can throw the National Football League's division races into wide-open scrambles by winning showdown battles Sunday with the Green Bay Packers and Philadelphia Eagles.

The Giants are favored to do so; the Bears are not.

Coach Al Sherman's defensive-minded Giants were picked by 3 points over the Eagles in New York; the Bears were 3-point underdogs against the Packers at Chicago.

A Bears victory would tie them for the Western Division lead with Green Bay and also would bring the San Francisco Forty-Niners, Detroit Lions and possibly even the Baltimore Colts back into contention.

A win by the Giants also would bring them even with the division-leading Eagles and would haul the Cleveland Browns back into the Eastern race.

This is an opportunity for the Packer and Eagles to shake off their closest pursuers, at least for a few weeks. For the Bears and Giants, these are "win-or-lose" games.

The Forty-Niners and Lions were comparatively slim favorites to survive their away-from-home games. San Francisco was the choice by 4 points over the Los Angeles Rams, and Detroit was 2 over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In other NFL games, the Cleveland Browns were the choice by 12 at Washington to send the Redskins down to their 17th consecutive NFL defeat; the Baltimore Colts were 14 over the Vikings at Minnesota and the Pittsburgh Steelers were the choice by 10 at home over the Dallas Cowboys.

The American Football League presents a Saturday night game in which the New York Titans are favored by 8 points at home over the Oakland Raiders.

On Sunday, the powerful San Diego Chargers were picked by 20 points to beat the Broncos at Denver and clinch the AFL's Western Division crown; the Houston Oilers were the choice by 9 at home over the Boston Patriots, and the Dallas Texans were favored by 8 at home over the Buffalo Bills.

Froggies Tackle UCLA Tonight

By United Press International
Rose Bowl-bound UCLA takes on TCU tonight in the start of a college football weekend that may produce a repeat of last week's upsets or a clear picture of post-season bowl prospects.

The Bruins are 7-point favorites to win their sixth game in eight outings this season. They lead the Big Five Conference with a perfect record of 2-0. Texas Christian, still with outside hope of gaining a post-season berth, has split its schedule down the line, winning three, losing three and tying one.

Mike Halfner and Bobby Smith are expected to provide UCLA with a pulverizing ground attack against the Horned Frog forward wall. TCU hopes to retaliate through the air.

Texas, the nation's No. 1 team, kicks off Saturday's key games as a 10-point favorite over Baylor. The Longhorns, one of 16 unbeaten and untied major powers, are driving toward a Southwestern Conference title and the Cotton Bowl.

But don't sell the Baylor Bears short. Last in the SWC standings Baylor has always been a threat to Texas' domination.

Second-ranked Alabama, leading the Southwestern Conference for a host role in the Sugar Bowl, should roll comfortably over Richmond, while third-ranked Ohio State is an almost certain winner over Indiana.

But Louisiana State, beating Mississippi to retain the only other spotless record in the SEC in money winning on the pro golf circuit.

fourth-ranked LSU Tigers are 12-point picks against the Tar Heels who rank second in the Atlantic Coast Conference race.

Minnesota, rising to a No. 5 ranking on the basis of an upset over previously undefeated Michigan State last week, is a 2-point underdog to Iowa. The Gophers could gain further prestige by knocking off Iowa and remaining unbeaten in the Big Ten Conference.

Colorado, which defeated Missouri last week for the Big Eight Conference lead, seeks to enhance its chances for an Orange Bowl trip by adding Utah to its unbeaten and untied mark.

PGA Okays World Membership

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI)—The Professional Golfers' Association paved the way for membership of stars from all over the world today with the elimination of the controversial "Caucasian clause" from its constitution.

The action means that such foreign stars as Gary Player and Harold Hemming of South Africa and Peter Thomson and Bruce Crampton of Australia in addition to Negro golfers can qualify as members of the PGA.

PGA President Lou Strong, called the action a "constructive measure" and revealed that delegates from Georgia and Alabama joined those from four PGA sections in New York and delegates from Southern California in sponsoring the resolution to cancel the clause.

The clause, which limited membership in the PGA to members of the Caucasian race residing in North or South America, was denounced by the NAACP and the attorney general of California when Negro pro Charlie Sifford was denied admission in the 1962 PGA championship scheduled for Los Angeles. The state attorney general hinted at legal action against the PGA if Sifford were not permitted in the tournament, and the tournament was shifted to Philadelphia, July 19-22.

Strong pointed out at that time that Sifford did not qualify from a competitive point of view for the tournament. But he also conceded that the "Caucasian clause" would bar him anyway.

"This was a constructive measure, coinciding with the decision set forth by the U.S. government," Strong said Thursday.

"The unanimous approval of the change in membership requirements speaks for itself and for the representatives of the PGA."

Player is a former U.S. Open champion and the current leader in money winning on the pro golf circuit.

Strong pointed out at that time that Sifford did not qualify from a competitive point of view for the tournament. But he also conceded that the "Caucasian clause" would bar him anyway.

Wilt Scores 55; Celtics Defeated

By United Press International
Wilt Chamberlain may be unstoppable, but who says the Boston Celtics are invincible?

Chamberlain led the Philadelphia Warriors to the highest point total of their National Basketball Association history Thursday night when he scored 55 points in a 151-108 victory over the Syracuse Nationals in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

Detroit, doormat of the Western Division, handed the defending champion Celtics their first defeat of the season, 116-110, in the opener.

Chamberlain, averaging better than 50 points a game for his first nine contests, combined with Tom Gola, who scored 26, to rally the Warriors from a 13-point deficit in the opening period.

Dave Gambee was high man for Syracuse with 20 points.

Don Ohl led Detroit with 29 points as the Pistons battled Boston on even terms most of the game and finally broke a 94-all tie early in the fourth quarter to go ahead for good.

A pair of foul throws by Bob Ferry cracked the deadlock. Ohl and rookie Ray Scott found the range to widen the gap and provide Detroit with its second win against six setbacks.

Bill Russell scored 28 points for the Celtics, who had won their first four games.

Texas Link Tourney Led By Fairfield

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI)—Don Fairfield, owning a two-stroke lead over the field in the $20,000 Beaumont Open golf tournament, hopes to settle down today after an "erratic" round in the opening day of play.

The young Casey, III, pro shot only one birdie on the front nine Thursday, taking it on No. 6. But on the backside, he fired birdies on No. 11, 14, 16 and 18 to wind up with a five-under-par 35-31-66.

It gave Fairfield a two-stroke edge over a threesome of Gene Coghill, Jay Hebert, and Bob Rosburg, all at 68. Coghill, of Penfield, N.Y., fashioned his round in 35-33. Hebert, of Lafayette, La., put together a 37-31, and Rosburg, of Portland, Ore., made it in 36-32.

Five golfers were bunched at 69; five at 70 and 13 at par 71 as the field of 108 pros and 10 amateurs moved into the second round over the 6,573-yard Tyrrell Park layout.

Three strokes off the pace at 69 were Joe Moore Jr., of San Antonio, Tex., Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., Eddie Merrins of Rockaway, N.Y., Bill Farrell of Springfield, N.J., and amateur Ray Moore of Beaumont.

Among those at 70 was Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif. Several other veterans of the circuit were further down the list. Mason Rudolph carded a 74, as did Al Balding, while Jim Ferree soared to a 77. Gay Brewer toured the first round in 72.

The field will be cut to the top 60 pros and amateurs, and ties, after today's round.

Business—A Living Entity

We are indebted to Forbes Magazine for a most interesting story. It is a sad story. But it illustrates a most important point.

It concerns the Morris Drug Company of York, Pennsylvania, one of the nation's oldest pharmaceutical houses.

Morris Drug is going out of business after 138 years of continuous operation. James Monroe was in the White House when this little drug business first got started in 1823.

The store was on the first floor of a four-story brick building that still stands in York. On the third floor of the same building, a laboratory was installed where syrups, powders and various medications were manufactured.

In the early days the company had mule-drawn wagons which delivered sundries, drugs and medicines over a wide rural area.

Morris Drug Company was a thriving business for a very long time. It weathered bank panics and inflation. Four days before the battle of Gettysburg, a band of Confederate soldiers searching for medical supplies ransacked the company.

Morris Drug never made the big time but it prospered. Over the years the firm developed some 40 products that became household names for generations of York County folk.

By the late 1930's the company was booming in a small way. Under the direction of Fred R. Yost, whose father had joined the company back in 1859, Morris Drug was doing about a $1-million annual business.

After World War II, imperceptibly at first, the business began to decline. Why? Probably because of a failure to grasp one of the basic principles of applied economics.

The firm just didn't keep up its reputation as a pioneer. Indeed, it didn't even keep up with the times. Rather, it rested on its not inconsiderable laurels. But that is the point of reform" was going to take place. Mao and his minions in China promised "agrarian reform."

What these pathetic dupes do not see, or apparently may be unwilling to see, is that a system which wrests land from the right-ful landowners for purposes of "distribution" or for purposes of "collectivizing" destroys the very concept of ownership of property they are seeking.

Such concentration of land ownership exists in so many countries of the world today that there is a rising tide of revolution. The people want land. In their efforts to upset stable or "conservative" governments that tend to protect concentrated land ownership, the people turn to communism because it APPEARS to offer collective ownership which they interpret as individual ownership.

For the economic facts of life are such that in business one NEVER has it "made." No company, big or small, can drift with the currents. At the moment, a number of very big companies are in rather serious straits from which they may or may not recover, depending largely upon their ability to meet the challenges in modern business operations.

And in each of these cases, government and union intrusion provide factors which make survival, even for the biggest firms, precarious and, sometimes, almost impossible.

So it takes more than years to establish a firm and keep it established. There is no place where the businessman can go, not even to government, in an effort to escape the necessity of re-evaluating his holdings, his services, his goods, his employees and his general business policies.

Business is a living thing which grows or dies. Morris Drug faced its moment of truth back in 1950. Research and wonder drugs were changing the drug business and making gigantic strides. At this critical juncture, Yost died. And there was no new blood to be infused into the operation, to give the ailing firm a jolt and set its feet firmly on the pathway to profits.

The liquidation sale will be going on soon. And then the books will close on 138 years of successful operation which ended in failure.

Perhaps we should observe a moment of silence to commemorate this instance of false economic philosophy. The very principles which make for a business opportunity, make for a constant element of risk.

Risks can only be successfully met with clear vision, with foresight and with courage. Sound business management is the priceless commodity in all business.

No firm runs itself, regardless of its record.

Why doesn't the Rose Bowl overlook a West-Coast team this year — all being ordinary in caliber — and select the No. 1 and No. 2 ranking teams to play? It would be a much better game, would draw a full house, and the only sufferers would be the West Coast team that was robbed of a hundred grand in revenue. But the rest would do the West Coast boys good. It would save them a licking and allow them to catch up on their homework.

It is going to take me two more weeks to figure out why a general of the army can't instruct his troops on what they're up against, what they would be fighting for in case a war came, and how they should feel about the enemies of this country. There must be a reason, and a good one, but so far I haven't been able to grasp it.

Nothing is gained when people succumb to the temptation to use a "quick" method of getting to something dishonestly thru political or military action. The gain, if so it can be called, accrues to the politician or the military leader, and the land-hungry are in worse plight than before. Having abandoned their moral sense, they are in league with villainy.

Being in league with villainy makes it difficult or impossible for them ever to find any kind of security again. Having cast their lot with the looters, they must forever be content with loot which will be their share of the immoral procedure.

This is not really what they want. But this is what they will get. And in the end, they will be looted in turn.

Allen - Scott Report:

Truman Visit at White House Produces Proposal for Greece, Turkey Goodwill Tour

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy did more than handsomely entertain former President Truman in his first time-in-eight-years stay at the White House.

Under this backstage plan, Truman would visit Greece and Turkey where he is profoundly esteemed for the special military and economic aid programs he initiated for these two countries in 1947.

The governments of both countries are very eager to have him come, and Kennedy urged him to do so. Truman expressed his willingness.

"I'll do anything you think will help our country and the fight against Communist imperialism," he said. "I would like very much to go to Greece and Turkey, especially if it will be of service to them and to us."

No dates or other details were discussed. Truman left the planning to the President. But he did make one characteristic suggestion.

"Don't schedule this trip for next fall," Truman said with a smile. "I expect to do quite a bit of traveling then, but it will be entirely here at home. I'm planning to be out on the hustings campaigning for Democratic congressional candidates wherever they want me. I'm spreading the word that I'll be available anywhere and anytime."

"That goes for me, too," laughed the President. "I'm going to take a very active part in that campaign from start to finish; from Labor Day right down to the voting."

The so-called "Truman Doctrine" was personally submitted by Truman to a joint session of Congress on March 12, 1947. He asked for $400 million to enable Greece and Turkey to resist Communist aggression — $300 million for Greece to combat widespread guerrilla warfare; $100 million for Turkey to modernize its Soviet-threatened military forces.

Also sought was authority to send U.S. military and civilian personnel to assist the two countries to counter the internal and external Red menaces confronting them.

"If Greece should fall under the control of an armed minority," Truman told Congress, "the effect upon its neighbor, Turkey, would be immediate and serious. . . . It would be an unspeakable tragedy if these two countries, which have struggled so long against overwhelming odds, should lose the victory for which they have sacrificed so much."

"Should we fail to aid Greece and Turkey in this fateful hour, the effect would be far-reaching to the West as well as to the East. We must take prompt and resolute action."

On May 15, 1947, Congress approved the "Truman Doctrine." WINNING WAYS — Mrs. Kennedy scored a tremendous hit with the Trumans.

Mrs. Truman was captivated by the changes in the White House. She was enthusiastic about the antiques Mrs. Kennedy has installed, and particularly praised the "homelike atmosphere" she has imparted to the executive mansion.

"You've managed to do what I never was able to," said Mrs. Truman admiringly. "You've given this place a homelike feeling. I don't know how you've done it because it's basically the same as it was. At the same time, there is an air and atmosphere or homeliness that is very distinctive and a great tribute to you." Truman was equally complimentary.

During the dinner, in an exchange of toasts with the President, Truman forgot his. He got to reminiscing about his and Mrs. Truman's seven years in the White House, and finally sat down without giving a toast. Former protocol chief Stanley Woodward jocularly called his attention to the oversight.

Jumping to his feet Truman, somewhat flustered, said, "To the President of the United States. One of the best we've ever had."

Later, chatting with Mrs. Kennedy, Truman apologized for his gaffe.

"But your timing was perfect," the First Lady assured him. "You couldn't have done it better. Your toast really stood out that way. You made us all feel very happy and very proud. Mr. President, and I can't begin to tell you how grateful we are."

Truman beamed like a smitten swain. Mrs. Kennedy made a hit with the other guests with an after-dinner innovation.

Instead of the traditional White House custom of the men remaining at the table for coffee, cigars and stories; and the women going elsewhere for coffee and chat by themselves, Mrs. Kennedy had everyone served coffee in the Red Room. She and the President circulated among their guests talking with all of them.

POLITICALS — Former Vice President Nixon is stepping up his campaign plans for California's Republican gubernatorial nomination. He is telling Washington friends he will start active barnstorming early in January instead of a month or so later, as originally contemplated. Nixon is saying he faces a tougher primary than he had anticipated. . . . Another prominent 1962 candidate is also losing no time in hitting the campaign trail. Senator J. William Fulbright, D. Ark., chairman of the influential Foreign Relations Committee, who hasn't had opposition since 1944, is taking no chances this time. He is already touring the Arkansas-hustings as a candidate for re-election — a year before the balloting. Reason for Fulbright's concern is the possibility he may be challenged by Governor Orval Faubus. So far he has given no hint what he will do, but Fulbright isn't waiting for Faubus to make up his mind.

A private Republican poll shows former President Eisenhower as the only GOPer who can beat Senator Joseph Clark, D. Pa., who comes up for election next year. State Republican leaders are using these figures to reinforce their efforts to persuade Eisenhower to run. So far he has been cool to their pleas, but they're not giving up hope. . . . Senator Vance Hartke, Ind., chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee, is making a hit with constituents with a new campaign "gimmick." When Indians visit him in Washington, he has himself photographed with them with one of those "instant" cameras and then gives them the autographed snapshot. Hartke's idea is going over so big that other senators are adopting it. It probably won't be long before members of the House will be doing the same thing.

Edson In Washington Laos Shut-Off Could Halt Red Flow To South Viet Nam

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is a way — even yet — to save South Viet Nam from the Communists. Laos is the key. Unless the United States takes some extremely daring steps in Laos, South Viet Nam will fall to the Reds and Cambodia with it.

Now that Gen. Maxwell Taylor and his group have completed their study in South Viet Nam, one thing is clear. If the border between Laos and South Viet Nam could be closed the loyal South Vietnamese, with continued U.S. support, could hold their own against the infiltrating Red invaders from the north.

Sealing that border would cut the life line between the Red guerrilla armies and their North Viet Nam base. If that border remains open, it is clear what South Viet Nam faces. Reds by the thousands are coming down by trail from North Viet Nam — through Laos — and on into South Viet Nam. That movement is being stepped up daily.

Once the Reds improve the Laotian trails into roads and start bringing in their men and supplies by truck along these Laotian trail-roads, then South Viet Nam is doomed. THE PROBLEM: that border cannot be closed from the South Viet Nam side. It is too long, for one thing. If South Viet Nam or the U.S. tried to string troops along that 300-mile mountainous, inaccessible border, it would take staggering numbers of men and present impossible supply problems.

For the Red supply route through Laos — called the Ho Chi Minh trail — is actually hundreds of trails. They cross the border into South Viet Nam at hundreds of points. In this mountainous, forested-inaccessible interior, South Vietnamese or Western armies strung along that border could be caught in a series of disastrous Dien Bien Phus.

The only feasible way to close the major supply routes between north and south Viet Nam is by controlling a narrow East-West corridor across the waist of Laos roughly at the 17th parallel. A careful patrol of some 35-45 miles of this Laotian waist and a spot patrol of another 20 to 30 miles would effectively seal off the underground invasion routes. Once this Laotian waist is sealed to the Communist invaders, U.S. officials believe the loyal South Vietnamese could hold their own without involving U.S. troops in the fighting.

There are four ways to close that waist: U.S. troops could occupy and guarantee a neutral zone in Laos through which no "foreign" troops could pass — meaning North Vietnamese. U.S. troops could be logistically supplied from Thailand. South East Treaty Organization or U.N. troops could occupy and guarantee such a neutral zone. They also could be supplied through Thailand.

An inspection commission could regularly inspect and guarantee such a neutral zone. Thus far, such neutral inspection teams have been ineffective. The United States could insist that the new Laotian government guarantee a neutral zone by occupying that waist with Laotian troops. The U.S. could depend upon to see that no Red troops got by. How the U.S. could be certain of this, even with solemn guarantees is not clear.

Since the last two methods seem impractical, this leaves troops — U.N., SEATO or U.S. — as a possible solution to the problem. The troop solution would take some doing and some daring. But note that sealing this Laotian waist would also protect Cambodia and the most vulnerable points of Red entry into Thailand. There may be no other way out.

matter of fact. As a romantic legend, the Pony Express was a solid hit. Financially, it was a flop. Over 300 runs were made each way between St. Joseph, Mo. and Sacramento during its year-and-a-half-long existence. Every run was a "losing run." Each letter cost an estimated $16 to deliver. Sadder and much poorer, the backers of the Pony Express went out of business 100 years ago — Oct. 26, 1861.

Map Makers Bothered As Reds Shift Honors

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thus far it seems that U.S. comedians have been the principal beneficiaries of the Communist party decision to downgrade Josef Stalin by uprooting him.

In the past 10 days or so, the late Soviet premier has been the butt of more jokes than Texas and your mother-in-law combined. As pointed out in Roll Call, a Capitol Hill newspaper, the removal of Stalin's body from the Red Square tomb also provides this country with a ready answer to future Communist propaganda.

The next time Khrushchev threatens to "bury" us, we can ask "for how long?"

There is one group, however, to whom Stalin's fall from glory is no laughing matter. I refer to the map makers, who have the job of keeping track of geographical name changing behind the Iron Curtain.

The problems they face have been neatly summed up by the National Geographic Society which fears that maps of the U.S.S.R. and points east will soon have to undergo wholesale revisions.

The difficulty stems from the Soviet habit of bestowing temporary immortality on its heroes with geographical namesake.

Most countries do this to some extent, of course. But their heroes remain fairly constant.

In Russia, on the other hand, the turnover is something fierce. Today's hero may become tomorrow's bum, and vice versa. Therein lies the map maker's travail.

During the years that Stalin was in power, the Soviets and their satellites arbitrarily renamed more than a hundred landmarks of one sort or another to apple-polish the dictator.

IMPERIAL OF 1962

IMPERIAL LEARON FOUR-DOOR SOUTHAMPTON

A forthright challenge to everyone who plans to buy a luxury car this year.

In a few days, you will receive a personal invitation to drive a 1962 Imperial. Not the usual vague "see your dealer" . . . but a specific challenge to compare your own car with the best Imperial we've ever built.

At your convenience, a dealer in your area will deliver a 1962 Imperial to you . . . for a thorough comparison-tour that you conduct by yourself.

We believe anyone planning to invest from five to seven thousand dollars in an automobile is entitled to the unembroidered facts right from the car itself.

Naturally, our dealers explain the advantages of torsion-bar suspension . . . tell you how the alternator supplies current even while the engine idles . . . quote engineering data on the superior performance of our new transmission . . . and answer any other question you ask about Imperial.

But you can find out only so much about Imperial by mere listening. To give the facts substance and meaning you must drive and compare.

So, when our invitation arrives, take us up on it. It obligates you not at all. And whether you eventually buy an Imperial or not, you'll never forget that once you drove a car which handled and accelerated and thrilled as a great car is supposed to.

R.S.V.P. Even though our invitation may somehow miss you, an Imperial comparison-tour may easily be arranged by writing on your letterhead to: General Manager, Imperial Division, 12200 East Jefferson, Detroit, Michigan.

Jack Cox Uses False Tactics, Demo Declares

AUSTIN (UPI) — Forty-five of the 67 persons reported to news media as signers of a petition urging Republican Jack Cox to run for governor were not present at the meeting, Clyde Johnson, executive director of the state Democratic party said today.

Johnson called the meeting "the worst political flop and the biggest piece of false political propaganda in Texas politics."

He said some of the persons listed as present at the meeting "were not even in the country," citing State Sen. Hubert Hudson of Brownsville who was in Europe.

"They (the Cox supporters) even had the audacity to list a member of our State Democratic Executive Committee," Johnson said. "Three of those listed were prominent Democratic party leaders who have vigorously protested this action and denied any part in the meeting or the petition."

Johnson said he was "deeply

Foreign Commentary

Five U. S. Cabinet officers and two of President Kennedy's top economic advisers sat down with their Japanese counter-parts at a mountain resort in Japan last week to discuss a common problem.

Both nations are buying more than they sell abroad.

Each also had complaints to make against the other.

It had not been planned that any agreements would result. Nor were there any.

But the size and importance of the U. S. delegation was in itself unprecedented, and the two delegations did have the opportunity to explore the problems of two industrial giants who are allies but at the same time competitors in a fiercely competitive world market.

Because of geographic and population differences in size, and availability of natural resources, figures produced in the three-day conference were not always comparable and sometimes appeared contradictory.

For example, U. S. deficits of payments in 1960 amounted to nearly $4 billion. This year, Japan's deficit is running about 1600 million.

The U. S. economic growth rate is about 3.5 per cent per year. Last year, Japan's economic growth advanced a whopping 13 per cent.

Next to Canada, Japan is the United States' best customer.

The Japanese do not like American quotas on Japanese textiles, the decision to raise the tariff on certain carpets, U. S. agricultural disease laws and the "buy America" dollar savings program.

The Americans do not like Japanese restrictions on such things

Morgue Attendant Denies He Is Afraid Of The Dead

CHICAGO (UPI)—"I don't fear anything—living or dead!" The words were uttered today by Nelson Sparks, 40, night attendant at the Cook County morgue, in defense of charges he was afraid to "stay alone in the morgue with the bodies."

"I'm not afraid of anything—No, sir, I'm not afraid of anything," Sparks' job on the midnight to 8 a. m. shift was spotlighted when Corner Andrew J. Toman asked the county board for permission to hire an extra man to help Sparks.

Toman told the board Sparks "is afraid to stay alone in the morgue with the bodies." He said the attendant now sometimes puts the receiving office telephone outside the window and stays out in the cold to take any calls.

Toman said none of the three daytime attendants wants the job. "They're just as scared," he said. Sparks scoffed at Toman's statement.

"I've been visited by lots of reporters since he said that," Sparks laughed. "They all ask the same questions. I give them all the same answer."

"I'm not afraid of anything," Sparks spends the lonely night hours in a brightly lighted first-floor office. Bodies under examination by the coroner are stored in a refrigerated crypt on a lower level.

Occasionally, Sparks has to receive bodies brought in by police after midnight.

"I put a tag on the toe and I examine them," he said. "Then everybody leaves and I take them down to the basement. I'm not afraid of anything."

Sparks, a slightly built Negro, is paid $325 a month for his work. He said he has been "a medical student for 19 years."

"I may be afraid of you," he said, "I'm not afraid of them. You can hurt me. They can't."

Since whatever might be good for the Japanese worker might also cost an American worker his job, and vice versa, an important task of the conference was to reach a better understanding of each other's problems.
