Premier, Cabinet Quit In S. Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Song Yo Chang resigned as premier of South Korea Saturday because he said he had failed to live up to expectations in carrying out the revolutionary objectives of the ruling military junta. His entire cabinet also quit.

There had been reports that Song had opposed the financial policies of Gen. Park Chung Hee's junta, particularly the recent currency reforms.

The junta announced Saturday that an estimated 90 million U.S. dollars now "frozen" in the nation's banks will be used to finance the country's five-year economic plan. The announcement said the money was being "re-distributed in the national interest" but promised to give the

Flight Group Defies JFK's Strike Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Flight Engineers Association decided Saturday to stage a "selective" strike against one or more of three major U. S. Airlines in defiance of President Kennedy's appeal for arbitration.

Union headquarters said an announcement would be made late Saturday night or early Sunday morning on which of the lines would be struck — Eastern Airlines, Pan American World Airways or Trans World Airlines.

Involved are 1,700 flight engineers. Their two-year contract dispute centers around the duties and qualifications of the "third man" in a jet cockpit.

A presidential board has recommended that the crews be reduced from four to three and that the third man have both the skill of an engineer and the training of a pilot. The union claims this would displace its members and put them at the mercy of the large and more powerful Air Line Pilots Association.

Vehicles Hit 2 Guardsmen

YONORE, Tenn. (UPI) — Two young South Carolina National Guardsmen who liked to hitchhike over the country together were killed Saturday when hit successively by a speeding truck and a passenger car.

The truck driver, Lee Foster Freels, 48, of Knoxville, said he saw the men "either sitting or lying" on the edge of U. S. 411 about 3:30 a.m. EST but said he mistook them in the darkness for a box or other object.

"He tried to straddle the 'box' with his wheels and ran over them both," Highway Patrolman E. L. Burris said. "A car following right behind the truck also ran over them. The truck driver said he didn't recognize them as people."

The victims, taken to a funeral home at Madisonville, were identified from papers in their billfolds as William G. Cochran, 19, and Daniel B. Scruggs, 20, both of Clover, S. C.

'Dedication' JFK's Advice To Students

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Saturday told college students coming here for summer jobs that government workers are dedicated public servants and not clock-watchers.

He voiced hope that when the students return home, they would serve as missionaries to explain government service and attack "the cloud of prejudice and suspicion which still enshrouds so much of what goes on here and so many of us who work here."

The President's remarks were contained in an announcement giving details of a new White House seminar for some 6,000 college students who will hold temporary government jobs during their summer vacation.

The White House said the seminar — which Kennedy personally will inaugurate next Wednesday — aims at giving the students a broader picture of the way government operates.

The students will work all summer for one agency. But during the seminar, which will meet each Tuesday, they will hear

Rusk Makes New Appeal To Reds To Okay Disarmament Agreement

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Saturday again appealed to Russia to accept a disarmament agreement with a limited amount of inspection and control to guarantee its observance.

"The Soviet Union must realize that it cannot eat the cake of disarmament and keep the cake of secrecy," Rusk said in an address prepared for delivery before the New Hampshire Council on World Affairs.

"The choice is clear," he said. "It is our hope that the Soviets will come to realize that secrecy is a dangerous anachronism in a nuclear age."

At the same time, Rusk said some of the lesser nations would do well to stop their arms races with their own neighbors instead of spending all of their time demanding that Russia and the United States disarm.

He said that "Everybody is happy to vote for disarmament resolutions in the United Nations — for those which seem particularly applicable to the great powers. But not all the nations which vote for them show the same interest in curbing their own arms races with their neighbors — or in settling the disputes which give rise to these other arms races."

U. S. officials said one such "dipute" which Rusk obviously had in mind was that between India and Pakistan over Kashmir. They pointed out that India, a leader in demands for big power disarmament, is seeking Soviet MIG fighters and other equipment to build up her own position because of neighborhood disputes.

Rusk said he would like to see a United Nations meeting "in which it would be out of order for any delegate to say what somebody else ought to do about disarmament, in which each would state quite simply what he is prepared to contribute to disarmament."

The secretary said the Russian refusal to accept an international inspection and control to police a disarmament agreement was responsible for the failure so far of the Geneva conference to make any progress.

Communist Guerillas Trap Convoy In Jungle Just North Of Saigon

By NEIL SHEEHAN
United Press International

SAIGON (UPI) — Two United States Army officers and "at least 15" South Vietnamese soldiers were killed Saturday when Communist guerillas ambushed a military convoy on a jungle road 25 miles north of here, an American military spokesman announced.

The U.S. officers — a captain and a first lieutenant — were the only Americans in the convoy, whose total strength was not immediately known.

But the spokesman said all the South Vietnamese troops in it were either killed or wounded and 15 were known to be dead. The ambush occurred near the town of Ben Cat.

The names of the Americans, who were serving as advisers to the Vietnamese army, were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The two officers were riding in an open jeep in the middle of the seven-vehicle convoy. The captain was killed instantly in the jeep by Communist gunfire, the spokesman said. The lieutenant's body was found in the road some distance from the vehicle.

Villagers near the area said a force of between 400 and 600 guerillas moved into the ambush site Friday night to await the convoy.

Meanwhile, Gen. George H. Decker, U. S. Army chief of staff, said the United States would support South Viet Nam with "whatever means are necessary to achieve final success" against the Communist Viet Cong forces.

Decker spoke at a news conference which concluded a three-day visit here.

He emphasized that the campaign was still "in what might be called the development stage" and said no immediate spectacular results could be expected.

But by next summer, he said, the training program of the U. S. military assistance command would make it possible for the South Vietnamese to throw at least two new divisions of regular troops into the fight.

News of the ambush followed Friday's announcement that an American sergeant was killed by a Communist mortar barrage near the Laotian border on Wednesday. Another U. S. sergeant and a captain were wounded in the same attack.

Texas Traffic Fatalities Drop

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Department of Public Safety said Saturday Texas traffic fatalities have decreased 3 per cent this year from the same period last year.

Traffic deaths to date on Texas roads total 881, compared with 908 to the same time last year. The state has had 737 fatal accidents to date this year, compared with 734 to the same date last year.

The men appeared before Judge Goodrich after they were indicted Monday by the June 17th grand jury.

They are awaiting transportation to the penitentiary in the county jail.

Attorney Says He Split A Fee With The Judge

HOUSTON (UPI) — A Houston attorney Saturday told a court of inquiry investigating probate court that he split a $10,000 fee from an estate with Probate Court Judge Clem McClelland.

Richard H. Putney, pale and trembling, told Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe he paid half of the $10,000 fee from the $160,000 estate of the late Mrs. Clara Currie to McClelland through Tierra Grande, Inc.

Tierra Grande is an investment syndicate upon whose accounts McClelland can draw money for expenses, the probate judge has testified.

After he got the $10,000 fee, Putney said, Judge McClelland told me "put my hail" into Tierra Grande.

Putney told Briscoe there may have been "one or two other times when he made payments to McClelland."

Putney was appointed administrator of the Currie estate by McClelland.

It was also on McClelland's instructions, Putney testified, that he took $15,000 from the estate of Mrs. Currie and bought 1000 shares of stock in Southwest Equities Corp. an investment company which McClelland helped organize.

The court recessed till Monday after Saturday's testimony. Briscoe had not expected the hearing to last more than two days.

"But new avenues of investigation keep opening up with each witness," he said.

Called Meeting Of Commission Set For Monday

A discussion of property valuations for city tax purposes is slated at a called meeting of the City Commission at 7 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

City Manager Harold Schmitter said Saturday that in addition to the city commission, others invited to the meeting include the City Tax Equalization Board, City Tax Advisory Board, City Attorney, City Tax Assessor and Collector and City Secretary.

Also invited to the session are representatives of Pampa's two banks and officials of a half dozen loan and finance companies.

The city manager said the session had been set up to give everyone concerned an opportunity to voice opinion on what has been described at recent City Commission meetings as "possible inequities" in valuation figures "on Pampa's tax rolls."

Monday night's meeting has been described as another step in the direction of disposing of problems which have been "kicked around" in City Hall circles for several months.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell has made the statement in open meetings that "these matters should be disposed of one way or another."

Educational Campaign Due

Traffic Safety Chairman Expresses Confidence In Projects' Success Here

Belief that the people of Pampa will cooperate and participate wholeheartedly in the City Traffic Commission's educational campaign to promote traffic safety was expressed yesterday by Bob Hudson, commission chairman.

The campaign is being launched under the chairmanship of E. E. Shelhamer and will be pursued in conjunction with the safety committees of Pampa's various civic clubs and organizations.

Shelhamer explained that the program is not to be a flash in the pan, but a perpetual movement to keep Pampans — both pedestrians and motorists — traffic safety conscious all the year round.

Chairmen of the civic club groups will be asked to take the campaign into the individual clubs, arouse interest and each club take on one phase of the educational campaign and make it a club project from month to month and year to year.

The Altrusa Club, Shelhamer said, already has taken on its share of the program in the continuation of a successful project which it conducted last year in the way of recognition for the "Most Courteous Driver of the Week."

The Traffic Commission and civic clubs, Shelhamer said, also will need the active cooperation of the City Commission and other city officials.

Said Chairman Hudson: "I know we can count on the people of Pampa to cooperate and participate to make Pampa a safer place in which to live."

The City-Traffic Commission is comprised of men and women who give of their time and serve without compensation.

Hudson has been the commission's chairman for the last two years.

In paying a tribute to the members of the group, Hudson said: "Of all the organizations or committees I have served with I have never served with a more devoted group than the members of the traffic commission."

"They are completely sincere and always ready and willing to put forth any effort necessary to promote traffic safety in Pampa."

"The members of the commission get very little recognition, but they go on serving with only the desire to make our city a safer place to live."

Hudson said the Traffic Commission always is ready and willing to study any traffic problem that any Pampa citizen would like to have considered.

"We welcome suggestions that might be helpful to us," he said. "And we also welcome any citizen to attend our regular monthly luncheon meetings which are held from 12 noon to 1 p.m. the second Monday of each month at the Coronado Inn."

"These meetings are held for the discussions of traffic problems, take official action and send any recommendations on to the City Commission for its action."

Hudson also stated that he and other members of the Traffic Commission appreciate cooperation received from the City Commission.

"We have always found the City Commission ready and willing to help us," Hudson stated. "Almost without fail the city engineer, city attorney, chief of police and director of public works, all ex-officio members of the Traffic Commission, attend our meetings so that we have available to us professional guidance."

In conclusion, Hudson said: "We believe that the traffic safety educational program we are undertaking is desperately needed in Pampa and with the help and cooperation of all our citizens it will be a tremendous success."

Justice Department In Suit For Teacher

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Justice Department filed suit Saturday in an effort to restore the job of a Negro school teacher who allegedly was fired because she complained about being denied the right to vote.

The government asked Federal Dist. Judge Harold Cox for an injunction to require the Greene County School Board to renew the teaching contract of Mrs. Ernestine Denham Talbert.

Shortly after the suit was filed, Cox agreed to hear a governmental motion in Biloxi next Saturday that the school board be prevented from hiring anyone to take Mrs. Talbert's place until there is a full hearing on the case.

A spokesman in Washington said it was the first time the Justice Department had sought court action to get a state or locality to restore a job in a civil rights case.

The suit said the school board, meeting at Leakeville in southeast Mississippi, did not base its action on the "ability or performance" of the 33-year-old college graduate.

Instead, it said, the firing was "an attempt to intimidate, threaten and coerce" her and other Negro citizens for the purpose of interfering with their right to become registered to vote.

The case is tied in with a Justice Department voter registration suit against the registrar of neighboring George County. Mrs. Talbert teaches in Greene County but resides in George County.

Mrs. Talbert tried to register along with her husband in January. She said in an affidavit that they were "arbitrarily denied voter registration." She said they were able to answer questions about the duties of the governor and the responsibilities of citizens and name all the county officers but were unable to name members of the "county voting committee."

In March, she said, the Negro principal of Greene County Vocational High School — where she taught commerce and was the librarian — recommended that she and all other teachers at the school be re-hired for the 1962-63 school term.

Giant Rally Set For Today

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berliners lighted bonfires along "the wall" and marched the streets with torches Saturday night in memory of the city's anti-Communist uprising nine years ago which had to be broken by Russian tanks.

A giant rally, expected to draw 100,000 to hear West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, was set for Sunday in the square behind the West Berlin city hall. It was on June 17, 1953, that East Berlin workers revolted. Soviet guns killed 120 before order was restored.

Sunday's mass meeting will be the first since the Communists put up their barbed-wire and concrete wall through the city last Aug. 13. It was not expected the demonstration would boil over into any mass action. The city hall is two miles from the wall at the nearest point.

Three Pampans Are Sentenced To Penitentiary

Three Pampa men were sentenced to the state penitentiary Friday afternoon following judgment by Gray County 31st Judicial District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich.

The men are James Leon Sirls, 26; Thomas Byrd, 18; and Robert Eugene Mitchell, 18. The trio were sentenced on burglary counts.

Mitchell and Sirls each received 10 years and Byrd, who was on a five year probation for burglary, was sentenced to five years.

The men appeared before Judge Goodrich after they were indicted Monday by the June 17th grand jury.

They are awaiting transportation to the penitentiary in the county jail.

Mrs. Campbell Writes Another Mystery Book

Mrs. Wanda Jay Campbell of Austin and formerly of Pampa, author of three mystery novels for boys, was a Pampa visitor this past week. While in Pampa she visited in the home of her father-in-law, Dr. W. L. Campbell, east of the city. She was accompanied by her husband, John, and their four children.

This fifth-generation Texan was born in Trent, Tex., and lived in Pampa most of her life. She attended Colorado Woman's College and is a graduate of the University of Texas. She now lives in Austin where her husband, John Campbell, is a practicing attorney.

The Campbells have four children, Mary Jay, 13, Bill, 8, John, 7 and Julia Anne, 5. Mrs. Campbell says her son, Bill, proof reads her books and is quick to offer suggestions.

The most recent book out of her typewriter is a mystery novel for teenage girls. The setting is Bosque County where her mother lived when she was a girl. This book will be out in the fall.

The other mysteries she has had published are "The Museum Mystery," a story about Canyon and Palo Duro Canyon, "Mystery of McClellan Creek," and "Mystery of Old Mobetie."

Mrs. Campbell is a former newspaper woman and held office in Panhandle Pen Women. She is a former student of Miss Louisa Grace Erdman of Amarillo. She commented that she was influenced early by Laura V. Hamner of Amarillo.

She said that she started serious work in a workshop group while living in Pampa. She added that this workshop helped build work habits.

"All of life is a matter of selection. We must choose how to spend our time. I want to spend it writing. I don't think you can wait until your children are grown to start writing. After all, it takes a lifetime to learn to write well and we do the best we can at the time."

"Lots of people offer me ideas for books but I have so many of my own ideas for the things I want to do. I enjoy writing for children. This 10 to 14-year-old group is an appreciative audience."

"I try to make my children a part of planning a book. I use historical detail of places that interest me and the children spend time with me there which gives them a sense of being a part of the book. It also gives them an appreciation of their regional history."

"Writing is like parenthood — demanding and takes lots of time and effort—but few writers would trade the life of a writer for any other."

Mrs. Campbell has contributed to children's magazines and such magazines as The American Home but added that she has little time for short stories.

"The Museum Mystery" was honored as one of the top 25 books in Texas by Theta Sigma Phi, woman's journalism fraternity, in 1957.

10-Year-Old Inherits $35 Million

BRUNSON, S. C. (UPI)—Word he had inherited about $35-million failed Friday to jolt Walker P. Inman Jr., a 10-year-old who is getting along just fine on a $1-a-week allowance.

"The boy is accustomed to the thought of having money," his uncle and guardian, Hugh Lightsey, said today. "After all, he got similar amount at the time his father died a few years ago. And there wasn't all this fuss."

Skipper's latest windfall came from his late grandmother, Mrs. Nansline H. Duke, widow of the founder of the American Tobacco Co.

Mrs. Duke, 96, mother of tobacco heiress Doris Duke, died here April 12. Doris, who receives no cash from the estate, was bequeathed personal property, jewelry and clothing.

The bulk of the estate goes to Skipper, after a gift of $5 million to Duke University, Durham, N. C., and other bequests totaling $600,000.

First U.S. hydroelectric plant was built in Wisconsin, on the rapids of the Fox River, in Appleton, Wis., 1892.

AUTHOR VISITS PAMPA — Mrs. Wanda Jay Campbell of Austin, a former Pampian and author of three teen-age mystery novels for boys, was a visitor in Pampa this past week. Mrs. Campbell is also author of a forthcoming book for girls. While in Pampa, Mrs. Campbell visited with her father-in-law, Dr. W. L. Campbell.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The great debate now engaged is between the President of the United States and the senior senator from Virginia, John F. Kennedy and Harry F. Byrd.

The basic question seems to be whether unbalanced federal budgets are good for the U.S. economy and for the common man or are, in fact, likely to destroy the American way of life.

Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon has stated more clearly than the President the theory that federal deficits are good for the U.S. economy and the common man. Dillon was talking about the administrative budget system whereunder the Treasury operates. Kennedy's Yale commencement address this week stated the same theory less definitely but at much greater length.

If it is true that unbalanced budgets are good for the American way of life, Americans never had it so good. There have been 24 federal deficits in the past 31 years. The 25th deficit is coming up in the present fiscal year which will end at midnight, June 30. Byrd estimates that the current fiscal year budget was running in the red at the rate of nearly $10 billion in the first 10 months of the year.

Deficit No. 26 is forecast for fiscal '63 which begins July 1. Byrd estimates that it will range between $3-to-$5 billion. Byrd cites these figures as part of a developing catastrophe for the American people. Writing in the current issue of the Tax Foundation's Tax Review, Byrd said:

"Federal debt and federal deficits are the prime factors in inflation which continues to reduce the value of the dollar. Recent claims that inflation had stopped (the President claimed that this week) were short lived."

"As of March of this year the dollar was worth 46.1 cents on the 1959 index. Its purchasing power dropped between February and March, and it had dropped between January and February. I suspect that the records will show it to be down in April and again in May. And, on the basis of present indications the decline will continue."

Byrd's suspicions were correct. The Labor Department calculates the April 1962 purchasing power of the dollar, in relation to 1939 as an arbitrary 100, to be an even 46 cents, down one tenth of one per cent from March.

The Tax Foundation provided some figures more easily to be understood by the common man in answer to this question: "What is your real income?" If your real income was $2,000 in terms of the dollar's purchasing power in 1946 then you must have $3,152 in 1962, just to stay even, an increase of 58 per cent.

If your real 1946 income was $5,000, you need to break even $7,870 today. The $10,000 man would need $15,513. These figures take account of the impact on real income of both inflation and taxes.

Byrd has going for him the generally accepted principle that if you live consistently beyond your means, you go broke. A bankrupt United States? Byrd says it could happen here.

Interview With Guy Lombardo

By DICK WEST
United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earlier this month I paid my respects to the International Jazz Festival staged here under the auspices of one of President Kennedy's cultural committees.

In keeping with my non-partisan approach to all matters, cultural or political, it seemed only fair that I give equal time to the other side.

So I arranged an interview with the White House.

Lombardo, as every Schmalz lover knows, plays "the sweetest music this side of heaven." And since January, 1961, he has been playing the sweetest music outside the White House.

For 24 years, his orchestra performed at all of the presidential inaugural balls in the capital and received occasional invitations to entertain at the Executive Mansion.

But when the Kennedy administration came in, it was limbo for Lombardo.

He is currently playing a commercial engagement at the Shoreham Hotel, which is the only way he can get to Washington these days.

I must say, however, that Lombardo seems to be bearing up very well in exile. When I joined him at lunch, he was as cheerful as an orchestra leader can be at that time of day.

Lombardo recalled that shortly after the 1960 presidential election, he and Lawrence Welk happened to meet at the Los Angeles airport.

"I'm ready," Welk told him. "I've arranged to do my television broadcast from Washington the week of the inauguration, so that I can play at the ball."

"I'm all set, too," Lombardo responded. "I've already told my booking agency to keep that night open."

As it turned out, however, the program committee had other ideas. Neither was invited. In retrospect, Lombardo regards his encounter with Welk as highly amusing. I don't know how Welk feels about it.

Although President Kennedy apparently is not enraptured by the style of music that Lombardo represents, there is no gain saying that it is a part of the nation's cultural life.

It occurred to me the administration could profit by giving it the same sort of boost it recently gave to jazz groups.

This might help the President put an end to charges that the administration is anti-business. Such music is often described as "the businessman's bounce."

I asked Lombardo what he had thought of the idea and he responded enthusiastically.

"We could call it an 'International Corn Festival,'" he said.

● Premier

Song, handed in his resignation after the premier did. All the other ministers then quit their posts, presumably to allow the next premier to designate a free hand in selecting his cabinet.

Actually, under the present circumstances, the South Korean cabinet has little power. It is made up of administrators rather than major policy-makers. The junta holds the real reins of power.

The junta announced acceptance of the resignations of Song and Chyun after an hour-long meeting. Both were said to have stepped down at Park's request. - Until a successor is named for Song, outgoing Foreign Minister Choi Duk Shin will be acting premier.

However, it was understood Song had opposed the currency reforms decreed by the junta last week. In addition he was said to have complained that Chyun was bypassing him in dealing with the turmoil in the Seoul stock market, which closed when the reforms became effective and has not reopened.

The junta replaced the hwan worth .077 U.S. cents with one worth .77 cents. Informal sources said Song was persuaded to withhold his resignation so that the reform would proceed smoothly. Economic observers said the reform had the effect of virtual confiscation of much of South Korea's currency because Koreans exchanging old money for new received only a fraction of the value of the bills they surrendered.

Red Officials Urge Farmers To 'Heroics'

MOSCOW (UPI)—Government and Communist Party officials Saturday urged farmers to make "heroic efforts" to raise the Soviet Union's still inadequate farm output.

They warned that recent hikes in food prices would not solve the problem alone.

The joint appeal from the Communist Party Central Committee and the U.S.S.R. Council of Ministers gave expansion of grain, meat and milk production top priority in the planned construction of a Communist society.

"What has already been done in agriculture is still far from sufficient," it said.

The statement came only two weeks after prices for meat and some dairy products were raised as high as 35 per cent in some cases. The money derived from the price hikes is to be passed along to some 110 million state and collective farmers to help cover food production costs and provide incentives for increased output.

What's The Status Of The John Birch Society?

EDITOR'S NOTE — A little more than a year has passed since the John Birch Society came into national prominence. The following dispatch reports how the society and its members have fared in that time.

By FREDERICK H. TREESH
United Press International

In California's recent primary election, Dr. Max Rafferty, an educator with conservative views and heavy support from the John Birch Society, polled more than 600,000 votes to force a runoff for state superintendent of public instruction.

In Texas, resigned Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, a Birch Society member and outspoken foe of an alleged Communist "apparatus" in the federal government, ran sixth and last in the Democratic gubernatorial race. But he polled more than 138,000 votes.

Two California Republican congressmen, members of the Birch group, won renomination by heavy margins and a third society member won the nomination in a new, recently reapportioned congressional district.

Monday night, in a colonial-inspired, broad-lawned hotel in Garden City, N.Y., a crowd of 1,500 is expected to hear a speech by Robert Welch, founder and leader of the Birch movement. The meeting, arranged by a representative from the Birch Society's Belmont, Mass., headquarters, is "a sell-out," according to a local spokesman. The audience, he said, would be "friends of the Birch Society."

In the months since the Birch Society became publicly known, it has been much debated—in the press, in Congress and by persons of all political attitudes across the land. No small amount of the discussion has been within the ranks of the conservative movement itself.

This section of the debate probably has been centered more around the society's founder and leader—Welch—than about its principles. The National Review, edited by William F. Buckley Jr., a leading spokesman of the conservative movement, devoted a recent editorial to "The Question of Robert Welch."

The National Review editorial concluded: "Mr. Welch, for all his good intentions, threatens to divert militant conservative action to irrelevant and ineffectuality. There are, as we say, great things that need doing, the winning of a national election, the re-educating of governing classes.

"The John Birch Society chapters can do much to forward those aims but only as they dissipate the fog of confusion that issues from Mr. Welch's smoking typewriter. Mr. Welch has revived in many men the spirit of patriotism, and that same spirit now calls for the rejecting, out of love of truth and country, his false counsels."

The editorial drew laudatory letters from two of the most highly placed conservatives in government, Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and John G. Tower, R-Tex. Goldwater implored Welch to resign as Birch Society leader. "We cannot allow the emblem of irresponsibility to be attached to the conservative banner," Goldwater said in his letter to the National Review.

In California, where the Birch Society is the strongest, Democratic Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk drafted a 15-page report on the organization for Gov. Pat Brown. The 1961 report accuses the Birch movement, especially Welch, of employing the tactics of the Communist conspiracy it is dedicated to oppose.

talks by Cabinet officers, legislative leaders and high government officials.

Kennedy told the youths that they may have heard that government positions involve "nothing but plodding routine tasks." Instead, he said, they would see some of the "most exciting, interesting work in the world being done here."

The students, he said, may have heard that "government workers are clock watchers." But he added that "you will find that the vast majority of them are dedicated not to their pay checks but to the job to be done."

He said he hoped they would be sufficiently inspired to return to Washington after graduation so they could work full time for the government.

The programs will be televised by the national educational television and radio center and will be carried in the fall on 63 affiliated stations.

Pampa Will Host Exchange Students Leaving For Home

Final plans have been set for the arrival Thursday of 36 foreign exchange students and two chaperones who will stay in the city two nights and one day as they travel across the United States enroute to their respective homes after a year's study in America.

According to Mrs. Thomas Braly, official host chairman, a bus carrying the students, who have been attending schools in cities and towns in the Panhandle, will arrive at 3 p.m. Thursday at the Coronado Inn, where they will be met by their Pampa hosts who will house and feed them during their stay here.

The exchange students will be staying with families who have a son or daughter in Pampa High school.

The foreign exchange student program is sponsored by the American Field Service with headquarters in New York City. The students are enroute to Washington D.C. for orientation before leaving for their homes abroad.

Special entertainment for the group will be furnished Friday noon when the Downtown Kiwanis Club will host them at their weekly luncheon meeting. Friday afternoon, the students will attend the downtown movie theatres, swim in the Coronado Inn pool, shop, or go sightseeing. A chuck wagon style barbecue is scheduled at 7 p.m. Friday on the south portion of the Coronado Inn property. All hosts and their families are invited. Tickets for the barbecue are on sale for anyone wishing to attend and meet the students by telephoning Mrs. Braly at MO 4-8729. The price is $1.25 per ticket. Proceeds from the dinner will be used to help support the exchange program.

Hosts will furnish transportation for the students to the social activities. At 9 a.m. Saturday, the students will leave Pampa enroute to Bartlesville Okla., where they will stay a day and visit that city.

During the past several years, the local American Field Service, headed by Mrs. Braly have cooperated with the Pampa High School Student Council and civic clubs two foreign exchange students who have lived in the community and attended school for one year.

This year's exchange students were Miss Cathy Papanassopoulos of Greece and Chris Jonsson of Sweden. Jonsson has been living with Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Palmer, 2117 N. Russell, and Miss Pathanassopoulos has been making her home with Dr. and Mrs. Julian Key, 1840 Fir.

The two students are scheduled to leave their Pampa homes Wednesday enroute to their home lands.

Pampa will have two students again next year and homes in which they will reside will be announced soon.

Board Says Dynamite Blast Was Cause Of Tragic Jet Liner Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Civil Aeronautics Board said Saturday that a dynamite explosion, definitely ripped apart a Continental Airlines 707 jet in May, killing all 45 persons aboard.

The announcement came in the wake of an FBI report that said a Kansan, Thomas G. Doty, bought some explosives not long before he boarded the big plane.

Sabotage had been suspected almost from the start as the cause of the May 22 crash. Leon Tanguay, acting director of the CAB's Bureau of Safety, said FBI laboratory tests confirmed that dynamite was the explosive involved. Investigators believe a saboteur set off the dynamite with a fuse placed in a soiled-towel receptacle in the jet's lavatory. They believe he then returned to his seat to await the explosion.

Doty, 34, was reported to have carried at least $275,000 in cash, insurance, naming his pregnant wife as beneficiary. His traveling companion on the flight, Mrs. Geneva Fraley, was insured for $75,000. Mrs. Fraley was Doty's business associate in a home furnishing firm they planned to start.

Doty, who was described as having studied use of explosives in the past, was facing an armed robbery charge in Kansas City, Mo., the plane's destination. It had taken off from Chicago and blew apart 39,000 feet over Iowa.

Reservists Returning From Camp

Pampa members of the 78th Artillery of the 90th Infantry Division broke camp at Fort Polk, La., yesterday and headed for home after completing a annual summer training.

The reserve unit also is made up of members from Berger and Amarillo under the command of Maj. Albert S. Wimberly of Amarillo. It was one of only two units to receive superior ratings during a 24-hour grading period last week, the second week of training.

Capt. Billie C. Cooper, 1904 N. Wells, assistant principal at Pampa High School, commanding officer of Battery A, was in charge of a firing mission that won acclaim and which was watched by Lt. Gen. Carl Jark, 4th Army commander, from Ft. Sam Houston, who was visiting the 78th Artillery during training.

Lodge Wins G.O.P. In Massachusetts

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI)—George Cabot Lodge won the Massachusetts Republican convention's official endorsement for senator Saturday, setting the stage for another possible Kennedy-Lodge race.

Lodge, 34, is the son of former ambassador to the United Nations Henry Cabot Lodge, who was defeated for the Senate by John F. Kennedy in 1952.

Last week the Democratic State Convention in Springfield named Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, the President's youngest brother, as its official candidate to run against the Republican candidate picked Saturday. Ted Kennedy faces a party primary and Lodge may also.

Burglars Have A 'Field Day' Here

Burglars had a field day in Pampa over the weekend, breaking into an automobile, laundry, radio laboratory, grocery, service station and a residence.

Their biggest haul came from an automobile parked in front of the Empire Cafe about midnight Friday.

Mrs. Margaret Avinger, proprietor of the Smoke House Bar, 321 W. Foster, said she drove to the cafe after closing up.

Before going into the cafe she placed two bags containing $341 in cash under the front seat. She locked the car and went inside. When she returned to the car a half hour later, Mrs. Avinger told police, someone had broken the vent glass, opened the door and stolen the money.

Police Chief Jim Conner said Saturday a couple of the burglaries were on the "easy" side.

For instance, Cecil Bowers, 1005 S. Wilcox, reported someone cut a screen and pried open the door to gain entrance. All they took was a plate of fish from the refrigerator.

Four quarts of motor oil comprised the loot taken from the Sixty-Six Service Station at 501 S. Cuyler. Entrance was gained by breaking a glass window in the grease room.

At the Hawkins Radio Lab, 917 S. Barnes, the burglars used a concrete block to break a window and gain entrance. Only thing missing was some small change from a soft drink machine.

A cigarette vending machine was the target at Your Laundry and Dry Cleaners, 301 E. Francis. An undetermined amount of cash was taken.

An attempt was made to gain entrance through the rear door of Mitchell's Grocery, 638 S. Cuyler. Police said the would-be burglars apparently were frightened away.

RESTORE OLD GLORY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. James B. Utt, R-Calif., said on Wednesday the Defense Department had ordered the American flag restored to all military recruitment advertisements.

Utt protested earlier this year that Air Force recruiting posters showed the United Nations flag but did not show the U. S. flag.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Winthrop G. Brown was reported today to be resigning as U.S. ambassador to Laos. Informed sources said he would be given a high post at the National War College in Washington.

200 Attended Last Week's Scout Camp

Camp Kiowa, the Adobe Walls Council Boy Scout Camp near Canadian, closed out a second record week of the 1962 summer camping season. Nearly 200 Scouts and leaders have been in attendance at the camp during the past week. Camp Director Lewis McCoy reported that 180 dads and mothers attended the visitors night. The guests were served the evening meal at the camp site and witnessed demonstrations at the waterfront and a special campfire put on by Scouts at the camp.

Included among the guests this week were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer, and Mr. and Mrs. George Scott. Both men were active in the recent Boy Scout Development Campaign to improve Camp Kiowa. Also numbered among the guests was Bob Curtis, Camping and Activities Chairman of the Council. The Camping and Activities Committee is supervising the improvements being made at the Scout Camp.

The camp opens its third week of operation this afternoon and camp officials expect some two hundred more Scouts and leaders to check in for a week of camping. Camp Kiowa will serve over 1,000 Scouts this summer and officials estimate that some 27,000 meals will be served in the dining hall during the month of June and July.

The staff at the camp includes a total of nine adults employed by the Council for the operation of the camp. A number of Junior staff members also work at the camp. These young men are selected on the basis of their Scouting record and their abilities in the Scouting skills. Serving on the Junior staff from Pampa this year are: David Cain, Don Collins, Jim Eramley, Jim Shelhamer, Gerry Heard. Two of the "three full time" cooks employed at the camp are from Pampa and they are Mrs. Thelma Cruise and Mrs. Helen Lunsford.

Chief Gives Warning On B-B Guns

Police Chief Jim Conner issued another warning Saturday about the use of B-B rifles and pistols. Chief Conner said numerous complaints have been filed with police in the past few weeks about damage being done to windows by B-B pellets.

"Property damage is bad enough," Chief Conner said, "but the real danger is that someone may be seriously injured or lose the sight of an eye by a carelessly fired B-B gun."

The police chief added that there is a city ordinance against the use of such weapons inside the city limits.

"And it provides a stiff penalty," he said.

Chief Conner urged parents to caution children about the use of the guns and advised that they not be given to youngsters as presents.

NEW PREXY — Merle H. Tucker of Gallup, N. M., broadcaster and chairman of the State Park Commission for New Mexico, is the new president of Kiwanis International. He was elected last week at the Kiwanis International convention in Denver, Colo. Dr. Weldon Adair, president of the Pampa Kiwanis Club, was an official delegate to the convention and reported on his trip at Friday's meeting of the local club.

Coach Ends Courses In First Aid

Peter Erwin, assistant coach at Pampa High School, recently returned from aquatic school in Ardmore, Okla., where he completed a water safety instructor's course, first aid and basic boating course, all sponsored by the National Red Cross organization.

Erwin will work with boys and girls in the city recreation program teaching physical education. Other newly-authorized Red Cross instructors this year are Mrs. Tommy Cox, Carl Schiffman and Bobby Bybee. These three recently completed a water safety instruction course in the Pampa Youth and Community Center swimming pool.

Mrs. Cox will teach advanced beginner classes starting July 16 in the city pool. Bybee is currently holding learn-to-swim classes in the community center pool and Schiffman is a life guard at the Country Club pool.

Kiwanis Club Hears Report On Convention

A report on the Kiwanis International Convention held recently in Denver, Colo., was given to Pampa Kiwanis Club members at their Friday luncheon in Methodist Church.

Dr. Weldon Adair, club president, was the official delegate and reported on the convention proceedings.

Dr. Adair also mentioned the possibility of the Pampa Kiwanis Club considering a public campaign to have the Pampa High School Band sent to an International Convention within the next few years.

"We heard several High School Bands from over the U.S. that made the trip to the Denver convention," Dr. Adair said, "and not one of them was better than our own Pampa High School Band."

Adair said he thought it would be a good project which the Pampa public undoubtedly would be glad to support.

The club president also announced that the Pampa High School Key Club, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, will meet monthly instead of weekly during the summer months.

Next meeting of the Key Club is set for 7 p.m. Monday in the Film Room of Pampa High School.

During a recent round-the-world tour Mrs. Houghton was on the campus of the International Christian University, conferring with university officials about the proposed graduate school. She also addressed a student group during chapel services at I.C.U. Church and attended a luncheon at the home of President and Mrs. Nobushige Ukai.

Dr. Loren R. Fisher and Miss Jane Dempsey have been appointed to the faculty of Southern California School of Theology, Claremont. They bring the full-time faculty to 19. Fellow Simple Rules In Automobile Accident Vacation time is here. So on millions of people will be driving about the country, and automobile accidents will occur with increasing frequency. What should a person do when involved in an accident?

At such times it is hard to keep your wits about you and know just what to do. It is therefore a good idea to plan in advance just what you would do in event of a smash-up. Here are a few simple rules that every driver should commit to memory:

1. Stop! Failure to stop can result in serious criminal consequences.
2. Render Aid If anyone is injured: (1) Render first aid. (2) Stop bleeding. (3) Call a doctor or an ambulance, or both. (4) Do not move an injured person in any way that could possibly add to his injury.
3. Protect the Scene from Further Damage. You may be liable for damages to approaching drivers, unless they are properly warned. If the highway is obstructed at night, have someone turn his headlights beams on the wrecked vehicles.
4. Call an Officer. Police, Highway Patrolmen, Sheriffs and their deputies are trained accident investigators whose testimony may be invaluable in establishing your civil claim for damages.
5. Gather Information. Write it Down. Don't trust your memory. Don't guess — be specific. Measure skid marks. Stop off distances. Be sure to obtain names and addresses of witnesses. You are required by law to exhibit your driver's license to the other driver — and he must do the same.
6. Be Careful What You Say. Even if you feel you probably are to blame, it is best to make no admission. You may learn later that the other driver was equally at fault, or more so. Emotional comments can be misconstrued by others, or may be misquoted. Whatever you say, make it factual.
7. See Your Doctor If there is the slightest chance you may be injured. Serious injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.
8. Consult Your Lawyer Immediately. The sooner your lawyer is brought into the matter, the better he can advise you and protect your rights. He can obtain statements from the witnesses while their memories are fresh, and do many other things to insure that the true facts are preserved. Get your lawyer's advice before giving any interviews or statements to investigators or adjusters for the other side.
9. Inform Your Insurance Company Promptly. Failure to do so may void your policy.
10. Report the Accident to the Department of Public Safety. This is required by law if there is any injury, death, or total damages exceed $25.00.

A official accident report form may be procured from the Police, Sheriff's Dept., Highway Patrol, or State Dept. of Public Safety. (This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Lions' Barrel Project Is 'Going Good'

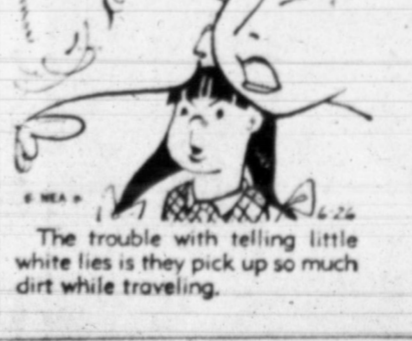

John Locke, chairman of the current Evening Lions Club barrel-painting project, announced that over $200 was raised in the recent campaign through the North Crest and Jarvis Sone area.

Locke said the crew will start Monday in the Frazier addition and east of Hobart St.

Persons wishing to have their trash barrels painted will be asked by a club member and if so the fee is 75 cents per barrel.

"The club wishes to express its appreciation to the residents who have helped the club thus far," Locke said.

Money collected on the project is used to help support the Lions camp for the blind at Kerrville.

Fisherman Named Father Of The Year

DALLAS (Spl) — A 70-year-old fishing enthusiast from Kosse, Tex., in Limestone County, who says his greatest desire is to be "fisher of men" has been named 1962 Texas Baptist Father of the Year.

He is Albert Lee Lewis, an ordained Baptist deacon for 50 years and semi-retired salesman in the little town 50 miles southeast of Waco.

Lewis, who now serves as Sunday School superintendent and song leader for the First Baptist Church of Kosse, was selected as Texas Baptist Father of the Year by a special committee of the Baptist newspaper, published here.

The committee cited Lewis for "using his talents as an effective Christian witness in sharing the Gospel message with others."

He was nominated for the award by his pastor, the Rev. Bill Beatty, who described the Father of the Year as "a great fisherman who fishes several times a week and prays every day that the Lord will make him a fisher of men."

Lewis said that he often talks to youngsters about their relationship with God while they are fishing at the "tank" just outside town, and said that he frequently invites men who need to draw closer to God to go fishing with him so they can talk and pray together.

"I enjoy fishing more than any other good time," Lewis said, "but I enjoy being down there at that church more than being at any other place on earth."

All of Lewis' four children are active in their churches. The oldest, Albert Brady Lewis of Austin, works for the Texas Employment Commission and is a deacon and Sunday School superintendent in his church. Larry Brooks Lewis, who works with the General Dynamics Corporation, and Miss Francis Lewis, district field worker for the State Child Welfare Division, both live in Abilene. Another daughter, Mrs. N. B. (Mary) Inman of Iran, is a former teacher whose husband is with the U. S. Aid to Agriculture division.

Special Father's Day services Sunday at the First Baptist Church of Kosse will honor Lewis. An engraved plaque praising Lewis for "his contribution to Christianity through his family, church and community" will be presented to the Father of the Year.

Wheat Loan Rate In Gray County Is Set

The 1962 wheat loan rate on grain stored in Gray County is $1.98 a bushel, it was announced Saturday by Evelyn Mason, office manager of the Gray County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Storage charges will be deducted from warehouse wheat and wheat stored through June 21 would net $1.88 1/2 a bushel plus any premium for sedimentation.

Miss Mason stated there is a premium on any wheat with a sedimentation value of 40 or more. Sedimentation of 40-41-42 has a 3-cent premium, 43 a 4-cent premium and 44 a 5-cent premium. The premium increases one cent for each additional point of sedimentation up to 64 points. Wheat with a sedimentation value of more than 64 will receive a 25-cent premium.

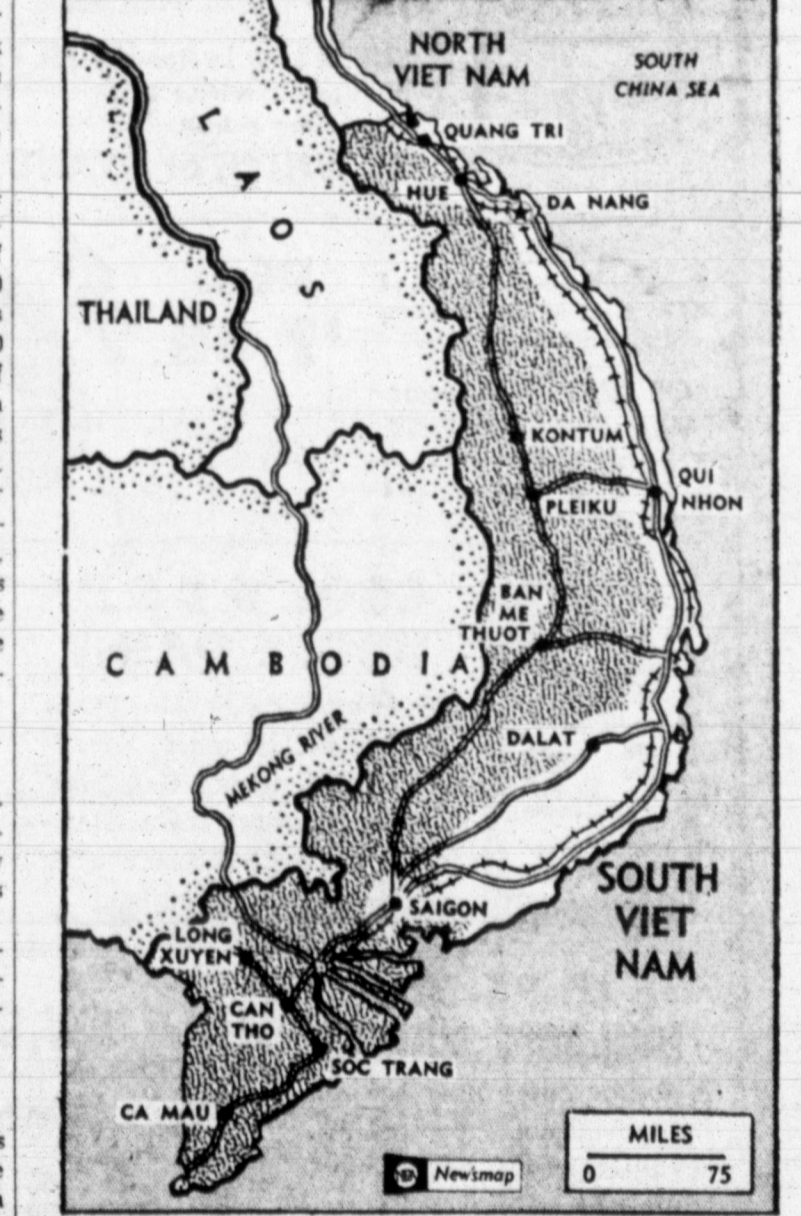

Growers have the privilege, Miss Mason, stated, of requesting that wheat be tested for sedimentation if they believe it may be eligible for a premium. The loan rate on the barley has not yet been received at the local office, according to Miss Mason, but it will be available if growers desire a loan. Only producers participating in the barley feed grain program will be eligible for a barley loan.

The statement issued Saturday states that wheat measurement has been completed and there are no farms in Gray County remaining over the wheat allotment this year.

Wheat marketing cards are ready at the office and can be obtained at any time. Growers who have not signed the wheat measurement report are urged to do so before the marketing card can be released. Cards were mailed out to all wheat growers last Thursday, Miss Mason said.

"Playing the advantage" is an old Mississippi River gambler's expression and means "to cheat."

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — In the rich, rice-growing delta country below Saigon a few days ago, a United States agricultural expert completed his inspection of a U. S. aid project and prepared to go on to the next one.

The journey by air would take him six minutes from wheels up to landing.

But it was the only way he could go, for the area between was under control of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

These are the conditions which led Arthur Z. Gardiner, director of the United States operation mission to Viet Nam to write, in his report for 1961:

"With peace, Viet Nam's future is bright, and the work her people have done for themselves, can lead to a better life for millions. No one can prophesy when the threats and pressures of the Communists will cease, and until they do cease Viet Nam's social and economic development will be impeded."

This correspondent has just completed a tour which included Thailand, Laos and South Viet Nam. Among the three, U. S. aid dollars mount to awesome totals with varying results.

In Laos, where the United States took a $300 million gamble on establishment of a strong pro-Western government, the protracted civil war left results at near zero.

Until the United States cut off economic aid to Laos in February, U. S. aid amounted to about $3 million per month. An announcement in Vientiane Thursday of this week said that aid is to be resumed, now that agreement on a neutral Laos has been reached.

In South Viet Nam, U. S. aid will amount to about $175 million this year, with the effort frankly devoted less to social reforms in the Ngo Dinh Diem government than to winning the war against the Viet Cong.

Nonetheless, U. S. interests continue in the development of a better breed of livestock, in the increase in the production of rice, in the development of land and water resources, in vocational training, in irrigation and better means of communication.

Altogether in South Viet Nam, the United States has poured about $2.3 billion, much more than the entire national annual income.

Thailand, never a colonial country and generally peaceful despite Communist threats, has shown the best results.

Exclusive of military help, U. S. economic aid to Thailand by the end of this year will have amounted to around $311 million.

Thomas E. Naughton, aid director in Thailand, is enthusiastic about the efforts the people of

Asp's Last Gasp In The Expensive 'Cleo'

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — That Asp, at last!
The word came over from Rome the other day that Liz Taylor, at last had completed her last big scene — the asp's bite — for her cinematic death as "Cleopatra."
"The long-worried stockholders of 20th Century-Fox couldn't be happier," the wire service report concluded about the unprecedented $25 million movie. The comment was slightly premature, since the film must earn $40 or $50 million at the box office to put company, and the stockholders, back on solid financial ground.
After two years of soap opera headlines involving Liz, the real magnitude of the most expensive picture ever filmed has not been told.
"It is as super-colossal as the studio claims? Last September I visited the sets in Rome, talked to technicians and keepers of the budget and my answer is, "Yes." Can it earn $40 or $50 million? That's the $25 million dollar question, an ironic one even to the film's director, Joseph Mankiewicz. When he arrived in Rome to direct the film, an Italian newsman asked him:
"How do you see Cleo's life?"
"As economically as possible," he laughed.
This, however, was not to be. Two postponements of the film, three trips to hospitals by Liz and her announcement that she would divorce Eddie Fisher while openly dating her married co-star, Richard Burton, admittedly cost the studio a small fortune.
It is another question mark, about public reception of the film.
But even without Liz's personal drama of "This is MY Life," the harsh, cold language of figures and statistics for the film beggar all comparison.
The costumes, for example, added up to 26,000 including 65 just for Liz. One of these designed by Irene Sharaff, cost $6,500. As "Cleopatra," Liz wears 30 different wigs, but for the cast 300 were designed and made in the studio's wig department. The cast included 50 bit roles and, in one sequence, 6,000 extras.
So, we've just spent $10 million or so in a couple of paragraphs. How do you spend another $15 million?
In the sets alone, the studio budget department reports, are 6,100 tons of cement, 26,000 gallons of paint, 6 miles of canvas, 2,500 square yards of metal tubing, 400 miles of metal tubing and 50 miles of six-foot-wide plywood. From the prop department came 160 plaster statues, 125 separate pieces of jewelry, 467 pieces of pottery, 10,000 snears, 8,000 pairs of shoes, 15,000 bows and 150,000 arrows.
As for the big snadders, perhaps, 20th Century-Fox ordered practically a complete navy for the maritime and sea battle sequences.
Cleopatra's barge, 220 feet long was enough to remind us of that slick definition of a boat:
"A hole in the water surrounded by wood into which you pour money."
But Cleo's barge was just a starter. Egyptian galleys and a variety of other craft for the film totaled close to 500. Among the "minor" scenes, a budget department man told us, was Liz's entrance to Rome perched between the oars of a two-ton, 28-foot-high black sphinx. Liz's $1,000,000 salary, you might say, was the least of the studio's worries.

Reversing the flow of money at the box office is the big question for "Cleopatra," Hollywood's biggest gamble.
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Television — West — just isn't going to forget that television — East — ran away with 21 out of 27 Emmys. Two Hollywood television executives now have charged that the Emmy Awards are "not honest."
Says Alan J. Miller, senior vice president of Revue Studios, in a Daily Variety interview:
"I want to limit my comments to one basic fault — the methods of voting are not honest. There is no evidence that the voters have seen all the entries, and how can members be asked to give an honest vote in categories involving unique technical skills, which they do not fully understand?"
Also in Variety, Warner Bros. studio Howie Horwitz is quoted as saying, even more frankly:
"It's a case of people voting without seeing the things they vote for, but voting arty. Victoria Regina got a lot of votes from people who didn't see it, but felt the Academy needed the prestige, I'm certain."
In the case of television, too, "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet."
No matter how the voting is changed, if it is, the two factions will never agree. Charges of politicking and bloc voting will continue to make Emmy a farce as a public image.
There's only one answer: Let there be two sets of Emmys — Emmy East and Emmy West.
And if it will make television West any happier, let the Emmy East represent ego, messaging prestige — and let Emmy West represent crass commercialism.
If things don't change to split the two rival camps of Emmy voters, someone is going to get murdered in cold, cold blood.

Tony Curtis Is Cured Of Flying Fear

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tony Curtis has been cured of his lifelong fear of flying by a hypnotist who put the actor into a trance to rid him of acrophobia.
Hypnotist Arthur Ellen did such a good job on Curtis that Tony is now shopping around for flying lessons.
Curtis' fear of flying was such that last year he took a train to New York and a ship from there to Argentina where his picture "Taras Bulba" was being filmed.
Recently Curtis went by train and automobile to Lake Tahoe for filming of "Forty Pounds of Trouble" and he met Ellen, who appears at Harrah's Club in that famed resort area on the California-Nevada border. After talking to Ellen, Tony flew home.
"I knew Tony had a serious fear of flying," said Ellen, who helped Boston Red Sox baseball player Jackie Jensen with the same problem.
"Danny Kaye was appearing up there when Tony was working on the picture," Ellen said. "Danny has his own plane and he offered Tony a ride. Tony wouldn't go and Danny suggested he do something about his fear. I was called and went up there.
"I put him in a trance for about 20 minutes and when he came out I told him he would remember all the things that caused his fear of flying and he would have an adult attitude towards it.
"I found out the cause of his fear. As he was getting stature in the movie industry, he was determined to make it, so he told himself he'd better not take any chances. As he progressed, he decided he ought to fly by this time he was self-hypnotized and couldn't. He was also on a flight once when the plane had engine trouble and it was a harrowing experience. That further confirmed the fear of flying."
Curtis confirmed that Ellen helped him become airborne and he plans more meetings with the hypnotist.

Busybody Gossips Are A Maladjusted Bunch

If you don't enjoy gossip—refuse to listen when the tongues begin to wag and never pass on any little juicy tidbits yourself—it's possible you're in for some real trouble with yourself.

An exchange of chitchat about neighbors and friends promotes sound health, both mental and physical, say a prominent anthropologist and psychiatrist who is an expert in the field.

Naturally, both the anthropologist and the psychiatrist are women. Could men be expected to be so authoritative on this subject?

The anthropologist is Dr. Rebecca Birch Stirling of the University of Southern California. The psychiatrist is Dr. Charlotte Buhler, also of USC.

The Insider's Newsletter gives us the report on what these two students of the caty—tongue have to say.

To gossip, says Dr. Stirling, is to promote emotional stability by releasing frustrations and channeling discontent. This, in turn, helps to prevent ulcers, high blood pressure and neuroses.

Her colleague, Dr. Buhler, backs her up. Non-gossipers, she says, tend to be rigid, repressed, distrustful.

The Newsletter reports that Dr. Stirling's studies show that those who pass the "news" along have better-balanced personalities.

"But, like everything else, says Dr. Buhler, tongue-wagging is a 'luxury' that must not be over-indulged. The busybody who sticks her nose into everybody's business is, an example, she's maladjusted, says Dr. Buhler, living other peoples' lives instead of her own.

Gossip is to be taken in moderation, she says, and the healthiest people do, admit it, relax and enjoy it.

This seems to be license for everybody to tell everything he's heard. But a clergyman once cautioned a "neighborhood reporter" in his flock that to tell a reputation—destroying untruth was like opening a pillow and dumping the feathers to the wind.

All the feathers can never be recovered, nor can the reputation be fully restored.

Telling A Big Story

For the first time, wholesaler and retailer associations are joining to tell the story of the American food industry. The occasion will be the Fifth International Food Congress, the place the New York Coliseum, and the time September of this year.

It is expected that several hundred thousand people, will visit the planned $50,000 exhibit. The purposes are two—first, to dramatically present to the American public the story of the contribution of mass distribution to a safe, healthful, inexpensive and varied food supply; second, to give visitors from abroad information which will enable them to emulate the American system, to the advantage of their peoples.

Endeavors like this are all to the good. We tend to take the American system of distribution for granted—and thus to overlook the remarkable services it performs for all of us, and its superiority over systems prevailing elsewhere. And what is true of food is true of mass retailing generally. It would be a good idea if producers and retailers in all the many fields joined together to tell their respective stories as the occasion offers. It's a big story, and it's worth constant repetition.

Another Billion Dollar Fizzle In Feed Grains

Through the courtesy of the taxpayers, the Kennedy administration this year plans to hand out $85 million to farmers for not planting corn, grain sorghums, and barley under the feed grain program. Last year the administration paid farmers 767 million dollars for not planting corn and sorghums.

Taxpayers are getting tagged for a larger outlay this year because 42 million will be paid for diversion of barley acreage, which was not eligible for payments in 1961, and also because more corn and sorghum growers recognized a sure thing when they saw it and signed up 11 per cent more acreage. Total costs of the program, including price supports and administrative expenses, will soar well beyond the billion estimated for last year.

Last year's program brought a 10 per cent reduction in total feed grain output, and was hailed by the Kennedy administration as a huge success in helping reduce costly surpluses. Now the happy bureaucrats in the department of agriculture are pointing to the increased sign-up this year as evidence that the 1962 program will prove even more successful.

What they neglect to mention is that relatively small reduction in feed grains was accompanied by a 35 per cent increase in soy bean production, because many farmers took advantage of substantially higher price guarantees offered for beans and planted this crop on land they diverted from corn. As a result, total stocks of feed grains and soybeans on April 1 were down only a trifling 3 per cent from a year ago. Moreover, a quarter of a billion dollar surplus of soybeans now is in prospect, whereas a year ago there was no soybean surplus.

If the program were the success the administration claims it to be, it is indeed strange that Secretary of Agriculture Freeman continues to press Congress to authorize compulsory controls for feed grains for next year. That in itself appears to belie confidence within the administration that the current "voluntary" program is actually working.

Mr. Freeman, of course, could lower future costs of the feed grain program substantially, and at the same time reduce the incentive to over-produce, simply by dropping price supports to a more realistic level in relation to market prices. Taxpayers needn't count on this, however, for the secretary is a staunch advocate of more government meddling in agriculture.

TRUTH-FORUM

With Ed Delaney

(Special European Release) FRANKFURT, GERMANY—Although countries of the world may be different in many respects, the people are the same. The amazing prosperity of West Germany, many having more money to spend than ever before, has brought some of the same problems that we know in prosperous America. In charge of the department at the police presidium here which handles the juvenile delinquents and youths who become involved in crimes of various kinds, is a Frau Donner. For nearly two hours she and the head of the criminal division of the police told me of the problems the new "prosperity" and the new modern ideas have posed for them. In the main their story is much the same as told by police and welfare workers in the large cities of the United States.

Once upon a time the father in the German family exercised almost autocratic authority. The children were under strict discipline. There is a noticeable change today, observed Frau Donner. The change is due to the same factors that are cited in America as contributing to juvenile delinquency. Gangster films in the movie house and on TV; sexy trash that is available on the news stands and the so-called "nacht lokals" or drinking places where the youths congregate at night.

With everyone in the family working—often father, mother and the elder children, the combined income of the family permits spending on a scale not known before. While the statistics show that the number of misadventures and crimes by the juveniles has not increased by any appreciable percentage, the age of the ones involved is lower than in the past. Instead of 17, 18 or 19, being the age of the ones getting into mischief, it is the boys and girls of 13 and 14. It is not a good omen for the future as Frau Donner pointed out. Their efforts and the welfare bureau are working toward better cooperation with the parents and of course various church organizations as it is moral influence which is apparently lacking. This is the same problem the authorities in the United States have cited repeatedly. Fortunately here there is no narcotics problem to be stamped out, as is encountered among the youths in many American cities.

Considerable comment editorially is observed here in connection with seeming irreconcilable position of Chancellor Adenauer and our State Department in the manner of handling the access roads into Berlin. Adenauer's contention is, rightly or wrongly, the flagrant violation of all agreements made with the Soviet or any of the communist countries in the past. Only a consummate fool of a man will put credence in the pledges in the future. But on the whole there is hope that President Kennedy will maintain a firm stand against Soviet bombast and threats. There is less fear of a nuclear war here or the fringe-of-the-iron curtain than in the United States.

In today's issue of the "Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung", one of the most important daily papers in the country, is a five-column picture of President Kennedy behind a battery of microphones in a smiling appeal to voters for his party in New York. People here are kindly inclined to Mr. Kennedy. They expect him to adhere to the assurances he has given the Berliners and the people of West Germany that we shall not be a party to any permanent partition of the country. But unfortunately the President himself, either consciously or unconsciously, occasionally weakens the confidence the people have in him. It is known here that the President has surrounded himself with persons who are known to be pro-Soviet or pro-socialist. It is a trifle difficult to explain that those persons of extreme left-wing tendencies are not influencing the President.

It will be more difficult to convince those people after they see that picture in today's newspaper. Because the only other person who is conspicuous in the picture and the only one who is identified in the accompanying "blurb" under the picture is a person who in the past 20 years has been a member of or identified with more than 80 subversive organizations in America, most of them cited as such by the attorney general or the House Un-American Activities Committee. A person who within the past 12 months has taken an anti-West German attitude and has spoken in favor of the communists' proposals for ending the Berlin situation. Those proposals are, of course, nothing else than complete repudiation of all previous agreements made for reunification of Germany and positive action which will permanently eliminate the Berlin problem.

That person so prominently presented in the picture in today's paper here, is none other than Eleanor Roosevelt.

Volumes of words that may emanate from the White House and the State Department in an effort to maintain confidence in the President will not erase from the minds of people here the picture of Mr. Kennedy in what is obviously cordial association with Eleanor Roosevelt. Her aid for socialists is as well known here as in the United States. The late Franklin Roosevelt, with his record of betrayal of a large part of western Christian civilization to the Soviet is regarded here very much the same as is Adolf Hitler. Both were egotistic charlatans who attained political power

Hey, girls! The reason for the delay in marketing those no-run, seamless stockings that have been promised you is that the hosiery industry wishes to have enough of them on retailers' shelves to meet the terrific demand expected. No fewer than 15 manufacturers are making what promises to be the biggest seller in stockings since nylons were introduced in 1946, and the workfolk lined up to buy them.

While running out of gasoline is one of the negligible troubles afflicting motorists, it's the No. 1 cause of trouble calls on the New York Thruway. In ordinary driving there are always filling stations within a short distance, but not on that Thruway. Social note in Denton (Tex.) Record-Chronicle: "Receiving guests were the honoree—her mother, Mrs. Blank, in a silver chafing dish. . . . Eickleness statistic: Toothpaste shows the biggest switch in brand popularity so far in 1962, a survey shows.

Today's favorite gag: A business psychologist had finished his pep talk and was answering questions from the floor. A meek little man asked, "Did you say a good poker player could hold down any kind of executive job?" "That's right," said the psychologist. "Does that raise any question in your mind?" "Yes," was the reply. "What would a good poker player want with a job?"

A panel of architects on home building points out there is always a tendency to place a picture window in full view of the street. Picture windows, however, are only worthwhile when there is an opportunity for a pleasant view combined with privacy. . . . Doughnuts are a popular food in Germany, but there they're made without holes in them. And doughnuts in Deutschland are called "Be-iners," although they were not invented in that city. . . . A new type camera takes four identical pictures at once. It is intended for badges, passes, and documentary work.

Thoughts while shaving: 1. Up to the time Woodrow Wilson became President, nearly everyone, including politicians, newspapers and magazines, had referred to our legislative body in Washington as "Congress"—just plain "Congress." But President Wilson, in all his speeches and documents, referred to it as "THE Congress." And that's the way it has usually been referred to since. . . . 2. Another nicety of Mr. Wilson's diction was avoiding the phrase "under the circumstances," in favor of "in the circumstances." He took the stand about the same time and the lives of both ended only weeks apart. While some of those truths are carefully omitted in the current histories and articles appearing in some American publications, they are known here. That picture of Mr. Kennedy with Lady Eleanor, will not enhance the standing of the President. Some still quote that saying about a man and the company he keeps.

'Inconclusive' Is Word For California Vote Test

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Political strength of the right wing movement in America got its first test in the California primary. Results are by no means clear.

On the one hand, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon won the Republican gubernatorial nomination after repudiating the John Birch Society. This can be taken as an indication that right wing support is not necessary for victory this year.

But California experts point out that GOP Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel—running for renomination without repudiating the Birchites—defeated two right wing opponents by far greater majorities than Nixon defeated State Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell, a conservative who asked for and got right wing support.

This poses a big question for Nixon in the coming campaign to defeat Democratic Gov. Pat Brown.

Nixon can't possibly win in November unless he draws to his banner all the Republicans and right wingers who voted for Mr. Shell.

Nixon must also get support from thousands of registered Democrats, who are in a majority in California. If he now appeals to the right wingers, he loses the Democrats.

It took fortitude, for Nixon to repudiate the John Birch Society in the primary.

But as one national GOP leader in Washington sizes up the situation, "A candidate in a close race can't afford to repudiate anyone. He should campaign on the principle, 'I'm going to make the best governor you ever had. So I want everyone to vote for me, and I don't care who you are.'"

Another angle to this story is that a third member of the John Birch Society, Republican H. L. Richardson of Temple City, won nomination for Congress from a new 29th district in the Los Angeles area. This is also the area from which two incumbent Birchites in Congress come—that the prefix "circum" signifies around, about, on all sides; therefore it is preferable to say "in the circumstances" rather than "under" them. . . . 3. Curious is human nature, even among twins. There were two lovely Chicago girls who were twins. But in the first 18 years of their lives they grew mighty tired of being mistaken each for the other. So they saved up enough money for one to have a facial operation—and now they look like two different persons. And everyone is satisfied. . . . 4. It isn't much to worry about, but the chances are only one in a million that a newly-born baby will grow up to be a midget—or should we say "grow down"?

Reps. John Rousselot and Edgar Hiestand.

Since all 30 of the incumbent California congressmen—16 Democrats and 14 Republicans—won renomination, this last point does not mean too much.

It leaves the real test for the eight additional House seats which the state gained in the 1960 census.

Still another important factor is that the total primary vote, an estimated three million, is only about half of the over-six million votes cast for Kennedy and Nixon in 1960.

This is normal for a mid-term primary. But there may have been special circumstances in California.

Brown was a shoo-in for renomination, so many Democrats saw no point in voting Republicans who didn't like the way Nixon and Shell split the party just this one out. Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, in Washington recently predicted many voters would stay home.

Los Angeles is the heartland of the California right wing movement. There are 280 California organizations listed in the "Directory of Rightist Groups."

First Washington analyses of California results were that they might set a pattern for the 1962 congressional elections. While the right wing groups are not united into strong statewide central organizations, they do have strength in many localities and congressional districts, particularly in the South and West. They could conceivably increase the conservative strength in the next Congress.

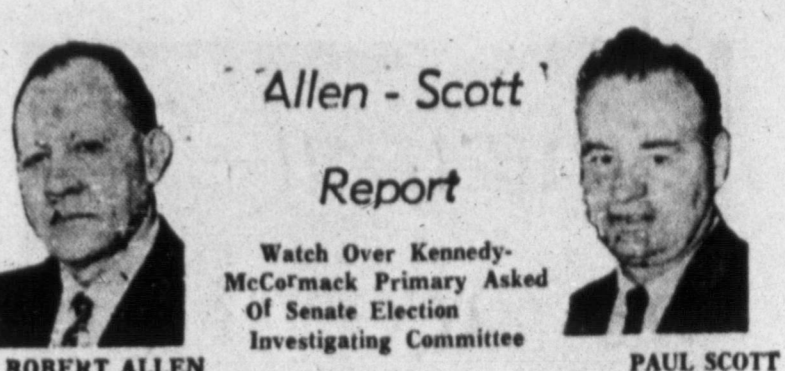

A Democratic appraisal is that the right wing movements of the last two years are more shadow than substance. This is the basis for predictions that the usual mid-term election trend in which the party in control of the White House traditionally loses some strength in Congress could be reversed this year.

Watch Over Kennedy-McCormack Primary Asked Of Senate Election Investigating Committee

WASHINGTON — The Senate Election Investigating Committee is being sounded out on keeping an official eye on the impending dynamite-loaded senatorial primary battle between "Ted" Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President, and Massachusetts Attorney General Edward McCormack.

The Committee, headed by Senator Howard Cannon, D-Nev., has authority to investigate this primary. Whether it will do so remains to be seen. The other committee members are Senators Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Carl Curtis, R-Neb.

Basis of this significant back-stage move for a Senate probe is a flurry of sensational charges by McCormack and his backers that "White House pressure" was extensively used to win the endorsement of the state Democratic convention for young Kennedy's senatorial ambitions.

McCormack had confidently predicted he would win the convention's approval, but was overwhelmed by a surprise Kennedy landslide.

Foremost among the bitter charges of "White House pressure" were: That more than 50 postmaster-ships were unfilled so they could be dangled as prizes for delegates' support; that certain leading delegates were threatened with income tax probes; that deportation proceedings were allegedly intimidated; and that members of the White House staff and other government agencies campaigned for "Ted."

Among those cited as doing the latter were Richard Donahue, White House assistant, and William Hartigan, a Postoffice official, who resigned his job to work for young Kennedy. Also active were Warren O'Donnell, brother of Kenneth O'Donnell, special assistant to the President, and Milton Gwirtzman, administrative assistant of Senator Ben Smith, classmate of the President, who was appointed to his Senate seat following his election to the White House.

Advisers of Attorney General McCormack are strongly urging that the Senate investigators be formally requested to keep a close check on this primary fight.

McCormack's managers are stressing this on the ground his young multi-millionaire rival can be expected to spend freely. He is credited with having done that in the convention battle. In that fray, it is claimed his payroll and other expenses exceeded $25,000 a week.

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, 70-year-old mother of the candidate, already has lined up numerous speaking engagements and "teas" to electioneer for him. In this state wide campaigning, she will be accompanied by his sisters and sisters-in-law—all socially prominent and White House intimates.

For Mrs. Kennedy and "the girls" this is an old experience. They did it in all the President's races, starting with his successful bid for the House of Representatives in 1946.

Also, as in the convention clash, young Kennedy's campaign will be managed by Stephen Smith, brother-in-law of the President, who gave up a State Department job early this spring to take charge of family business affairs because of the illness of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy.

HELPFUL FRIEND(?) — Governor Gaylord Nelson's campaign to unseat Wisconsin's veteran Republican Senator Alexander Wiley is getting little help from Democratic Senator William Proxmire. When asked by Nelson's friends to head a fund-raising dinner in Washington, Proxmire reportedly claimed he was too busy with legislative affairs. So the friends turned to Senator Hubert Humphrey, D-Min., who readily agreed to sponsor a $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner for Nelson. Sputtering Democratic politicians are now watching how many tickets Proxmire will buy—if any!

Democratic National Chairman John Bailey is greatly concerned over a growing storm of opposition against Nevada's bumbling Governor Grant Sawyer. His foot-in-mouth and other antics have so antagonized influential party leaders that a scorching primary fight against him is virtually certain. In contrast to the widespread ire against Sawyer, the party is strongly united behind Senator Alan Bible's bid for a second full term. He is assured of renomination by an overwhelming vote.

A bipartisan presentation has scored a big hit for one of Idaho's world-famous products—its unsurpassed potatoes. Thanks to the joint courtesy of Idaho's Senators Henry Dworhak, Rs., and Frank Church, D., every member of the Senate received a 10-lb. sack of giant Idaho potatoes. They so impressed Senator Gale McGee, D-Wyo., that he wrote the two solons, "The potatoes looked so wonderful I'm not sure whether we should eat them or frame them." . . . A biography is being written of former Senator Burton K. Wheeler, D-Mont., one-time militant liberal who wound up his political career a bitter New Deal foe and leading isolationist. Now 80 and practicing corporation law, Wheeler says he is still a Democrat, but he supported Eisenhower and is critical of the Kennedy regime.

Representative George Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House Space Committee, is getting an honorary degree on the 50th anniversary of his graduation from St. Mary's College. . . . Senator Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., chairman of the Anti-Trust Investigating Committee, is girding for a possible new clash with the steel industry. A report he requested on the average cost-per-ton of steel production is two months overdue. The study was to have been submitted by April 15, but when it wasn't forthcoming Kefauver granted a 30-day extension. Now he has learned the report still isn't completed, and he has told other committee members, "It looks like we're getting a run-around." . . . Representative Sidney Yates, D-Ill., is being highly lauded by veterans' organizations for his fight to increase the appropriation for prosthetics research. Yates was one of the authors of this measure for amputees and other disabled veterans, and has consistently supported it for more than a decade. Veterans' organizations rate him as top champion of legislation for the development of improved artificial limbs and other prosthetic devices.

MAN OF YEAR RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—Jack Wardlaw, president of the Raleigh Association of Life Underwriters, proposed last year the group establish a "man of the year." Thursday the association named the winner of the first award—Jack Wardlaw.

Municipal Swimming Pool Puts The Accent On Swimmer Safety

By WANDA HUFF
Pampa News Staff Writer

Because of strictly enforced safety rules and careful, observant lifeguards, Pampa's Municipal Swimming Pool has had only one accident in six years under the present management.

"It happened about six years ago," Morgan Edwards, pool manager, said. "A little seven-year-old girl swimming in the shallow water, decided to hold to the rope separating deep water from shallow, and walk the ledge along the side of the pool. Evidently, her foot slipped, she lost the rope and slipped into the deep water."

"The lifeguards on duty pulled her out and revived her in a few minutes. That was the only time we have had to give artificial respiration."

"Our basic safety rules are: no running, no tag playing, no inner tubes or life rafts in deep water, no glass bottles allowed, no jumping off the side of the diving boards and only one bounce is permitted."

"Divers must go off the end of the boards to keep from landing on the concrete. If they take more than one bounce to dive, they usually miss on the second bounce and skin their legs on the board."

"Inner tubes or life rafts are not allowed in deep water because they might deflate or tip over."

"To enforce these rules, we make the swimmer who breaks them count the no running signs around the pool or the bricks in the wall and fence. After we give him three or four chances and he still breaks the safety rules, we send him home for two days," Edwards said.

"I try to use lifeguards who are 16 or over, because younger ones don't think fast enough and are in a more playful mood. The State Health Department requires only one senior guard and the rest just have to be good swimmers, but I require all of my guards to be qualified with at least a junior Red Cross life saving card."

Sixteen-year-old Brian Morton has a senior life-saving card. Three other guards, with junior life saving cards, are Bill Snider, 18; Harold Thrasher, 17, head lifeguard and Ronald Woodward, 15.

The four lifeguards alternate every 30 minutes, keeping three on duty by the pool and one in the office with Edwards. The head lifeguard, like Edwards, is licensed by the Texas State Health Department and the Texas Beach and Pool Association.

In addition, all pool employees have city health permits and the manager keeps a standard first-aid kit in the office.

"To ensure the purity of the water, we take a sample every two hours and run it through our residual machine to test for algae and other impurities. Every week, a sample is sent to the State Health Department laboratory to be sure no chloroform organisms are present," Edwards said.

"Lifeguards and managers are required by the State Health Department to know the basic characteristics and bacteriological features of swimming pool water and what chemicals to use to keep the water safe."

"We have an open-type gravity sand filter that circulates and filters the water 24 hours a day. It catches and filters out the silt, lint, hair oil and lint."

"Every day, seven days a week, rain or shine, the guards put on diving masks and go down at 6 a.m. to vacuum sweep the bottom of the pool to prevent dirt and algae from collecting and multiplying. They use an air compressor and vacuum pump."

The pool is heated between 75 and 80 degrees, holds 275,000 gallons of water and was filled when the pool opened May 31. It measures 15 feet by 16 feet for the baby pool and 60 feet by 100 feet for the large pool, which graduates down from 3 to 9 feet.

It is open daily from 1 to 6 and 7 to 9 p.m. and is equipped with a concession stand, operated by Mrs. Morgan Edwards. Fee for swimming is 25 cents for children 11 and under and 50 cents for persons 12 and over.

"We have closed only once this year because of the weather and we don't stop the swimming if it's just a rain storm, but if it starts lightning, we pull the swimmers out of the pool."

"Private swimming parties are permitted between 9 and 11 p.m., but they must have a minimum of 30 adults or the equivalent of the admission price of 30 adults, because we can not afford to run the lights for less."

"We provide the life guards, usually one, or if necessary two, depending on the size of the party. Reservations must be made at least three days in advance," Edwards said.

2 Texans Named As Astronaut Trainees

By United Press International

Two Texans have begun training for America's man-in-space program and another has been selected for space flight preparation.

Maj. Byron F. Knolle Jr., 38, of Houston and Navy Cmdr. Carl N. Birdwell, 34, of Bryan, Tex., are in training at Edwards AFB, Calif., to prepare them for possible participation in the Dyna Soar, Gemini and Apollo projects.

Lt. Cmdr. Walter W. Stovall, 31, of San Benito, Tex., starts training Oct. 30 at the Navy Test Pilot School in Patuxent, Md. He is one of 10 Navy fliers and two Marine pilots chosen for the training.

Knolle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron F. Knolle of Houston. He was born and reared in Houston, attended Texas A&M College and later was graduated from West Point. He is married to the former Shirley Black of Norris, Ill.

Birdwell is the son of Carl Birdwell Sr. of Bryan and is married to the former Mary Jean Hadley. They have three sons, Carl, 10; Hugh 8 and Robert, 4.

Birdwell has been a pilot since 1945 when he enlisted for cadet training.

He was graduated from the Patuxent, Md. Navy Test pilot school three years ago with some of the highest grades in the school's history.

Stovall, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Orlan Stovall, a San Benito insurance man, is a graduate of Texas Southmost College in Brownsville in 1949.

Stovall, played baseball at Southmost but his schoolmates remember him as being most interested in mathematics and physics.

New Proxy For Steel Company

DALLAS (UPI)—George A. Wilson, a former director of petroleum supply for the Petroleum Administration, has been named president of the Lone Star Steel Co.

Wilson, 52, succeeds Eugene B. Germany, the company's president for the past 14 years. Germany will remain with Lone Star as chairman of the board of directors.

A law graduate of Tulane University, Wilson practiced law in New Orleans from 1933 to 1940, when he became legal counsel for Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. During World War II, he served on the Military Petroleum Advisory Board.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Inestographs stock survey says last week's settling down action on the stock market give it encouragement that the market will now gradually consolidate around the 600 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

If the market stays near this level for some time as it expects, it says there will be ample time "to upgrade portfolios." It feels many high quality stocks are cheap for the first time in years.

Investographs adds that those conservative investors who held defensive issues during the recent decline, fared better than average. If they are to cash in on this advantage, it says, they should now be shifting to the more interesting of the stocks that were knocked down.

Oppenheimer Neu & Co. says the daily market fluctuations near the end of last week were smaller and indicate a consolidation period for the near term. At this time, it adds, emphasis should still be on stocks which have consistently higher earnings and pay a reasonable and increasing yield.

Clark Dodge & Co. says the lack of much market response last week to the promise of both personal and business tax cuts emphasizes the current hesitant, cautious mood of the market. It says the better acting groups recently have been the oils, autos and defense issues.

Arthur Wiesenberger & Co. says it looks for a continuing period of wide-swinging prices that should afford a full measure of investment opportunity on both sides of the market.

Thomas & McKinnon thinks the stock market is likely to move in a consolidating trading area in the period ahead and while an aggressive attitude is not counseled, it says investors should take this opportunity to put their portfolios in order by making necessary up-grading switches to ward quality.

HAS EXPLANATION

DOWNERS GROVE, Ill. (UPI) — Tom MacLeran had an explanation for police Thursday for being control of his car, resulting in a traffic accident.

"I slid off my air cushion," he said.

At last! From Arkla-Servel comes a GAS heating and air conditioning unit that's really new... converts an ounce of GAS into more than enough heating and cooling to slug it out with Summer heat and Winter cold and never yield a degree... laughs at repair and utility bills, because it has NO MOVING PARTS in the heating and cooling cycle... wrings out, sifts and cools or heats to just the temperature that suits you... leaves dust and pollen outside to irritate the bees... operates like a coffee percolator and who ever heard of a coffee percolator wearing out?

If spending a penny to get 20 worth of heating and cooling makes sense to you, then call us for further information about the Arkla-Servel Sun Valley* All-Year* GAS air conditioner.

Annual City Golf Tournament Starts Today

Palmer, Nicklaus Vying For Title In Playoff

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (UPI)—Burt Nicklaus, a pro for only ten months, showed favored golfer Palmer those money prizes Saturday as he came on the stretch to the golf's golden y for the U. S. Open golf championship.

The blond bomber from Ohio made up two shots on Palmer in the final round with two under par 35-34-69 for a 3 which threw the nation's best coveted championship into Sunday playoff.

Palmer, the Masters champion making a big slam, was as much three shots up on the field as he fought out the final two rounds over awesome Oakmont's hills and dales. But then a balky tee shot and the grasping greens got him as he finished with a 35-71.

That brought them home all week after three days of struggling through rain and heat—with cocky Phil Rodgers and Louisville slugger Bobby Nichols tied two strokes back at 285.

Fifth came Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla., at 287, while Tommy Jacobs and Gary Player were tied at 288 and defending champion Gene Littler wound up at 290.

It was a tight, tense afternoon before a record crowd of 23,522 as Palmer, the tawny tiger of the golfing jungle, jumped into a three shot lead and then, with his putter misfiring, saw it dwindle away and force the playoff.

He kicked some of it himself. For he was in position on the semi-final hole of the morning round to put it away when he drove the green of the 292-yard par four hole and rammed home a 25-foot putt for an eagle.

But then, on the 18th, he played it like an amateur as he three-putted from 20 feet and finished that third round in a tie with Nichols, with Rodgers and Bob Rosburg one shot back and two shots away the ever-threatening Player.

Nobody was paying a particular attention to the 22-year-old Nicklaus. While he won two National Amateur championships and has been a consistent money winner since turning pro, nobody figured him for the nerves required to race up and look Palmer in the eye.

But the 200-pounder played it like a steel-nerved veteran while Palmer's putter was giving him fits and the Masters champion was battling desperately just to stay alive.

South Meet Set Monday

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The Southland's best amateur golfers—including several former Walker Cup players—will tee off here Monday in the 58th annual Southern tournament.

This year's tourney, to be played on the par - 72, ocean-bounded course of the Ellinor Village Country Club, has attracted a field of 182, including defending champion Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C.

Patton, who gained the title at the Holston Hills Country Club in Knoxville last year, has shown equally good form so far this year. A former Walker Cup player, he recently won the annual ship.

Another Morganton player and former Walker Cupper scheduled for the event is Dale Morey. He has Western and Southern titles to his credit and was runner-up in a U. S. open.

Others expected to give Patton stiff competition include last year's U. S. Amateur runner-up Dudley Wyson, of Tyler, Tex., and former Walker Cupper Charlie Smith of Gastonia, N. C., a previous winner of the Southern and North-South.

The standard of this year's golf could be affected by the weather, since the course lies alongside the Atlantic and is swept by often heavy winds. The weather has been stormy during the past week and the forecast is for more of the same.

The annual event is staged by the Southern Golf Association, which numbers 262 clubs in 14 states among its membership.

On Wednesday the players begin match play, which will take them through 18 holes that day. On Thursday and Friday, rounds will be played both morning and afternoon to cut the field to just two players who will fight for the championship over 36 holes Saturday.

Your Laundry, B&B Win In North Loop

Your Laundry and B&B posted wins in Northern league play Thursday night.

Your Laundry shutout Milliron, 11-0 behind the combined three-hit pitching of Larry Roberts and Sam Heasley while B&B downed C&M, 4-2.

Roberts was the winning pitcher for Your Laundry, striking out four and walking one. Heasley had five strikeouts. R. Holman was the losing pitcher for Milliron.

Leading Your Laundry with the timber were Jerry Heasley, a three-run homer; Johnny Merrilott, a double and two singles in four trips to the plate and Terry Tregoe, a double and single in four trips to the plate.

Mike Hughes gained the win for B&B, striking out six. Jones was the losing pitcher.

Leading the winners with the timber were Jim Hollis and Orford with a pair of singles each. Jones and Carmichael each had a pair of singles to lead C&M with the lumber.

Dick Evans and Rotary won a pair of Western league contests in their loop.

Dick Evans won over Mohawk, the loop leaders, 5-1 and Rotary downed One Bull, 6-5.

For Dick Evans, Carlos, Hunter, Parker and Brown each got two hits in three trips to the plate to share hitting honors for the winners. Mohawk picked up three hits by Schaub, Wight and Hasten.

Gene Davidson picked up the win for Rotary while Herring was the loser. Davidson had seven strikeouts and Herring seven also.

Leading Rotary with the timber was Allen Jenkins with two hits. Thomas led One Bull with two hits also.

In Eastern league play, Duncan won over Sealtest, 4-3 and Cabot and Windsor played to a 3-3 tie, called after time had run out.

Darrell Smith was the winning pitcher for Duncan, walking two and allowing three hits. Alonzo Gomez was the loser, walking five.

Tigers Down Yanks On Kindall's Homer

DETROIT (UPI)—Earl Wilson straddled six hits in seven innings and helped his own cause with a two-run bases-loaded double Saturday to pace the Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 victory over the slumping Detroit Tigers, who dropped their eighth straight game.

The 6-3 Boston righthander was tagged for a pair of solo homers by Detroit slugger Rocky Colavito, his 11th and 12th of the season, but except for those two lapses Wilson had things pretty much under control. Wilson left the game after seven innings, with reliever Dick Radatz finishing up, and recorded his fourth victory against two defeats.

The loss stretched the Tigers' longest winless streak of the year to seven games and gave the Red Sox a 7-4 mark against the Tigers. It was the second straight victory for Red Sox coach Billy Herman since taking over for manager Mike Higgins, who was away at his daughter's wedding.

Kindall hit a two-run homer in the last half of the ninth inning Saturday to give the Cleveland Indians a 10-9 victory over the New York Yankees despite a three-run pinch-hit homer by Mickey Mantle.

Kindall's home run, which knocked the Yankees out of first place in the American League, was his fourth hit of the day and boosted his batting average to .450 against the Yankees. Kindall connected against Jim Coates, the seventh New York pitcher, after Woody Held was hit by a pitched ball.

Mantle made his first appearance in nearly a month in the top of the eighth. The slugger, who suffered a muscle tear in his right thigh May 19, slammed a tremendous 450-foot homer with two on to give the Yankees a 9-7 lead. The blow climaxed a Yankee rally from an early 6-0 deficit with John Blanchard and Roger Maris hitting two-run homers during the comeback.

Following Mantle's blast the Indians scored one run in the eighth against Bob Turley, but Coates came in to end the rally. Coates was Kindall's victim in the ninth, however, and suffered his third loss against five victories.

US Winner Of Tennis Cup Title

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Darlene Hard, the blonde ex-waitress from Montebello, Calif., blasted Christine Truman off the court Saturday and gave the United States its 28th victory, 4-3, in the Wightman Tennis Cup.

But as soon as the top-ranked American disposed of the six-foot British girl, 6-2, 6-2, the rest of the United States team fell apart. And with the pressure off the British players suddenly snapped into form and walloped their American opponents in the last three matches in straight sets.

The capacity crowd of 6,000 laughed at the obvious relief with which Mrs. Margaret DuPont of Wilmington, Del., captain of the American team, clutched the tall silver cup, thoughtfully filled by the British with a bouquet of American beauty roses for the presentation ceremony.

"Am I glad to receive this," she said.

And she meant it after a long afternoon of watching Ann Haydon of Britain come from behind to outplay Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of San Antonio, Texas, at the net, 10-8, 7-5, and chunky little Deirdre Catt of Britain beat Nancy Richey of Dallas, Texas, at her own baseline game, 6-1, 7-5.

To make matters worse, Mrs. DuPont split the Wimbledon doubles champions, Mrs. Susman and Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif. She paired Miss Moffitt with Miss Hard instead and they were soundly outmaneuvered by the veteran British pair of Miss Haydon and Miss Truman, 6-4, 6-3.

Hardware Posts Two Pony Loop Wins

Pampa Hardware eased past the Pampa Lions club, 4-3 Thursday night in a Pony league game at the Optimist park.

Gary Moiberg was the winning pitcher, striking out 12 while Johnson was the losing pitcher, striking out 15. Both pitchers gave up two hits.

Moiberg staved off a sixth inning threat by the Lions club after building up a commanding 4-0 lead. The Lions wracked up three runs in their half of the sixth, but fell short as Moiberg bore down to gain the victory for the Pampa Hardware nine.

In another Pony league game, Pampa Hardware also won a slugfest over Ideal Food, 12-9.

Mike Stone was the winning pitcher while Larry Daniels was the loser.

Brunfield had a home run for Ideal with a man on base to share hitting honors for the losers along with Roy Bray and Larry Daniels. For Pampa Hardware, Don Evans, Randy Holmes and Alfred Brown welded the big sticks.

Pampa Hardware picked up 10 hits while Ideal had five hits.

In another Pony league game, Pampa Lions won over Cree Drilling, 10-3.

Eugene McCambell was the winning pitcher while Butch Crossland was the losing pitcher.

Pampa Woman Is Top Fisherman

Big catches at the old fishing hole have always been synonymous with male anglers, but Mrs. Eddie Moore of Pampa proved that this doesn't always hold true.

Mrs. Moore, who lives at 502 N. Carr in Pampa and presently residing in Sterling, Colo., recently caught a giant 33 1/2 inch catfish weighing out at 17 pounds. Her catch was made in the North Sterling reservoir inlet, using worms and a spinning tackle.

Mrs. Moore will receive a winner's rod and reel, a framed 8x10 color photograph of herself with the prize catch and a trophy proclaiming her as Fisherman of the Week. The prize was presented by the Sterling Journal - Advocate newspaper and a local sporting goods store in Sterling.

Her catch is as big as any catfish ever entered in the Fishing Derby, currently underway in Sterling.

In addition, her entry is automatically entered in the competition for the grand and super grand prizes to be awarded at the conclusion of the 20-week contest.

Value of prizes will total $1800.

First Baptist Posts Win In Midget Loop

PERRYTON (Sp) — The Perryton YMCA baseball season is in full swing now with the Midget league and the older boys' league having already played some games.

In the Midget league game, the Rotary Gold Sox tied with the Shriners Panthers with a score of 5 to 5. The First Baptist Bears overpowered the First Christian Frogs with a score of 15 to 8, and the Perryton Furniture Aces won over the White House Builders' with a score of 14 to 9. In an earlier game last Friday, the Frogs lost to the powerful slugger.

Saturday's games were cancelled due to the rain.

In the older boys' league, the Perryton Motor Texans won their Monday game against the American Legion Hawks with a score of 3 to 2.

Tom Rose In Minor Win

Tom Rose, downed Jays Grocery, 7-5 in a minor league diamond tilt at the Optimist Park Thursday night.

Charlie Buzzard was the winning pitcher, walking eight and striking out 12. Steve Jenkins was the losing pitcher.

Leading Tom Rose with the timber were Johnny Moore, three for three, scoring one run; Buzzard, two for three, scoring two runs; Douglas Davis, two for three, scoring twice; Darrell Hail, two for three, scoring once; and Gerl Brister, two for three.

For Jays, Rusty Walls had two for four, scoring once. Steve Jenkins, one for four, scoring once.

Also, Stanley Burns scored one run on a walk. Pat Mitchell scored one run on a walk and Chris Johnson scored one run on a walk.

Oilers Are Looking Up

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Professional baseball died here less than a year ago. But things look rosy now.

The Tulsa Oilers are leading the Texas League in average attendance, are solid contenders for pennant and have one of the best prospect properties in the minors in big, powerful first baseman named Jeffrey Long.

"Big Jaw" spells his name like an Englishman, but he's really a Kentucky babe whose poise and budding ability have him pegged as a sure bet to make with the parent St. Louis Cardinals.

Long, like many another hitter before him, was signed as a pitcher, getting a bonus in neighborhood of $85,000 after signing for Lloyd High School in hometown of Erlanger, Ky., 1959. This is only his second year as a first baseman, and has a lot to learn, particularly defense. But nobody in his mind questions his muscle.

Construction official A. Smith bought the Oilers who appeared they might move to Tulsa, and started a face-lift program. He put in paved parking for 1,000 cars and built 700 seats. He installed a ham organ for between-innings entertainment. Other improver were made.

Those projects, and some baseball turned in by Long whose cohorts have brought promise of a banner game,

Sophomore Jinx Can Also Hit Managers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Even managers, it seems, can fall victim to baseball's sophomore jinx. Ralph Houk of the Yankees, who won a world championship in his rookie year as pilot, has been hit by injuries, military calls and slumps by key players as he struggles to keep the champs afloat in his second go-round.

Bob Scheffing of the Tigers, one-time Cub boss but a sophomore in the American League, is in even worse shape. Voted Manager-of-the-Year in his first shot at Detroit last season, big Bob has been staggered by injuries.

In the spring, Scheffing allowed as how, "we'll stick closer to the Yankees this time if we stay healthy" but things haven't been the same since.

Houk lost Mickey Mantle — Scheffing lost his ace, Al Kaline. Houk lost reliever Luis Arroyo and has his troubles with some-time ailing Whitey Ford — Scheffing is baffled by the arm injury to pitching ace Frank Lary and has had numerous problems with sore-armed relievers.

Scheffing can match the Yankee skipper injury for injury and have plenty left over.

"Not only that," says Bob, "some of my other hitters who should be delivering just aren't doing it."

As the Tigers came to town this week to play the Yankees, Scheffing had Kaline, Bill Bruton, and Norm Cash completely out of action and Lary a potent question-mark though he did pitch the series opener — and lost.

"That's enough right there to prove Lary's sore shoulder isn't right. He rarely loses to the Yankees. A 23-9 pitcher last year, Frank now is 1-4.

In addition, pitchers Jim Bunning, Terry Fox and Don Mossi have been handicapped by injuries at one time or another; catcher Dick Brown was hurt for awhile; second baseman Jake Wood missed a few games while undergoing a physical checkup to determine why his work had fallen off from his classy rookie performance of last season.

Biggest blow to the Tigers was Kaline's broken collar-bone. Racing in to make the last out of the game against the Yankees May 26, Kaline somersaulted with the ball in his glove—and went on the shelf.

"I hated it worse than Kaline did," said Scheffing. At that point, the veteran outfielder was winging on his best batting, spree ever and was getting homers, too. He had 13 up to his injury.

Bruton, a skilled outfielder and clutch hitter, injured his leg and Cash was sidelined briefly with a pinched nerve in his neck. Cash happens to be defending his American League batting title (.361 last year) although he hadn't been doing such a hot job of it after an early spurge of home runs.

Among other Yankees who have had their injury problems are Bill Stafford, Cleve Boyer, Elston Howard, and Yogi Berra. Losing shortstop Tony Kubek to the Army was a major blow right at the start.

The Yankees could afford such attrition better than the Tigers because of a superior set of reserves, but if you mention "second year jinx" to either pilot, he'll know darned well what you mean.

Vardon Rated As Top Pro Golfer

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — The dapper little man with the smiling eyes looked a half century back down the road today as they teed off in the National Open golf championship and allowed that back then Arnold Palmer wouldn't have had a ghost of a chance.

"We were golf professionals," said white-haired Freddie McLeod. "These are professional golfers."

Freddie, at 80, should rate as an expert because he has seen them all come and go. He captured the Open from a volunteer field of 88 entries back in 1908.

"I'd hate to be competing against Palmer today," smiled the five-foot, four-inch veteran who has been the fairway professor at Columbia, C.C., in Chevy Chase, Md. since 1912.

But, he insists with a Scot's stubborn persistence, there never was a man on the links like the great Harry Vardon.

"Vardon or any of the old timers, could have done just as well as the modern crop with all the benefits in equipment," McLeod asserted. "Vardon certainly could have because he stands as the greatest of them all."

The steel shaft, which replaced the willow hickory stick, according to McLeod brought the boys up to the men in the golfing business.

"It took a world of finesse to play those hickory shafts," he analyzed. "Now, every shaft is the same and has the same reaction. But in the hickory shafts, every club could have a different feel and a different reaction."

"We were golf professionals in the true sense of the word," he added. "We played, we made clubs and we took care of our courses. All they do today is play golf. Yet with all of the other things he did, and with the uncertainty of the hickory shaft, Vardon hit it long and he hit it straight."

"I don't think that even a Palmer could compete with a Vardon on the limited amount of time that Vardon had to give to his personal playing," Freddie insisted.

McLeod, who will make his regular every five year trip to his home of North Berwick, Scotland, next month, came to the United States "because I had to have a job" in 1903 when he was 21 years old. He worked at Rockford, Ill., Chicago, St. Louis and since then at Chevy Chase.

His "biggest thrill," came when he won the Open at Myopia Country Club in South Hamilton, Mass. And if you think that's a misprint, the club was named thusly because its seven founders all wore glasses.

"I carried eight clubs compared with the one that are allowed today," said Freddie. "I had a driver, a brassie, a cleek, a mashie niblick, which is a seven iron today, two mashies, which are five irons now, a mid-iron or three iron and a putter."

Freddie won $300 in the process. And if you don't think that was a long time back and a lot of money in those days just remember that McLeod won the 11th Open — and today they're teeing off in the 62nd.

Freddie's only wish is that the winner walks as far a piece down the road as he had.

Full Scale Riot Could Have Erupted On Field

NEW YORK (UPI)—For a guy who was "just standing there minding my own business," Roger Maris came close to setting off the baseball battle-royal of the year.

All four umpires were unable to restore order and although three policemen eventually did, a crowd of 11,483 witnessed the nearest thing to a full-blown free-for-all at Yankee Stadium Monday night when New York Yankee Manager Ralph Houk suddenly went after Baltimore Oriole Manager Billy Hitchcock.

When it was all over and the Orioles knocked the Yankees out of first place with a 5-3 victory, everyone concerned insisted someone else started the trouble.

Hitchcock blamed Houk and Houk turned right around and blamed Hitchcock.

Some of the Orioles fingered Maris and others cited Yankee pitcher Bud Daley. A couple of the Yankees blamed Oriole pitcher and ex-teammate Robin Roberts.

Maris and Elston Howard blamed Oriole catcher Hobie Landrith.

The unwitting center of all the fireworks was John (Boog) Powell, Baltimore's 21-year-old outfielder who was hit on the head by one of Daley's pitches in the top of the fourth inning. Even though he was wearing a protective helmet, Powell went down as if he was shot.

He never lost consciousness, but was carried off the field on a stretcher and later removed to Lenox Hill Hospital where he spent the night.

Maris was the first Yankee batter in the bottom of the fourth. Roberts, always known for his extraordinary control, delivered his first pitch dangerously behind Maris' head.

Maris glared back at the Baltimore pitcher for a moment, then Landrith moved out after Maris, who brushed him roughly aside.

That was the signal for both teams to come charging out of their dugouts. Houk suddenly went berserk and tore at Hitchcock, both arms flailing wildly.

Oriole Coach George Staller tried to go to Hitchcock's aid but Maris applied a headlock on him.

Then Whitey Ford sought to head off Houk but the Yankee manager brushed him off as if he were a flea on his sleeve.

The umpires looked helpless but the fight suddenly went out of all the individuals as soon as three New York City policemen emerged from the stands.

Maris said there was no doubt in his mind that Roberts threw at him in retaliation for Powell's beaming.

"I'm standing there minding my own business and I get thrown at," he said. "Why don't they throw at the guys who threw at them? I didn't do it. I'm not a pitcher."

"I feel sorry for Powell. I got hit once and I know how it feels. And I wasn't charging out after Roberts. If I charged him, he'd know it."

"Landrith started the whole thing. He kept making remarks behind the plate."

"That's right," Howard agreed. "The guy is with Baltimore three days and he wants to run the league."

Roberts, who was released by the Yankees on April 25 and signed by the Orioles on May 20, made light of the entire episode. He didn't want to talk about it or even about how Tom Tresh spiked him on the right foot during a play at first base in the fifth inning.

"We won, 5-3, that's it," Roberts said. "I'm not mad at no one."

Daley said he did not intentionally throw at Powell.

"It was a high fast ball that got away," he said. "Hitchcock said to me 'You've got better control than that.' I told him that Powell was my out man and I wouldn't throw at an out man."

Berry said he would make report of the affair but did not intend to fine anyone although he did eject both Houk and Hitchcock.

Little Loop Mound Star Has Faith

BOSTON (UPI) — A courageous Little League baseball pitcher, whose severed right arm was sewn back on in a miracle operation, was back home today dreaming of returning to the mound.

Everett Knowles of Somerville, a 12-year-old, freckle-faced right-hander, went home Wednesday from Massachusetts General Hospital where he had been a patient since the accident May 23.

A team of surgeons "reimplanted" the severed arm in a 7½ hour operation which never before has proved successful. Everett was given "one chance in a million" of regaining use of the arm.

But it appears that he might have won that single chance. Said one hospital official: "It's working so well it's frightening."

Everett's arm was torn loose at the shoulder when he tried to hop a freight train and was knocked off the train by a bridge abutment.

The key to success is yet to come. The boy will undergo another operation later to connect the nerves in the arm with those in his shoulder. Doctors said if the damage does not reach too far toward the spine, the nerves will be reconnected. If the damage is too extensive, it would be virtually impossible to put life back into the limb.

Even if such an operation proved possible it would be a year to 18 months for the connection to take and for Everett to know if he will be able to use his arm again. At best, the re-haired youngster would have only limited use of the arm.

"It will be clumsy but we hope he will be able to pick things up and feel with his fingertips," said Dr. Ronald A. Malt, who led the operating team. "We don't think he'll ever pitch again but he may surprise us."

At present, blood is circulating through the arm and there is a pulse although the limb is totally numb. The boy has been warned that he could bruise or burn the arm without feeling it.

Pitchers Playing Dangerously With Brushback Mound Action

NEW YORK (UPI) — They're playing a dangerous game with baseball's traditional "brushback" pitch in the majors this year.

Perhaps overconfident because all hitters must wear protective helmets, hard-pressed pitchers either are getting mighty careless or mighty mean as they fire away at the head of the batters for purposes of strategy or vengeance.

"At least two near-riots already have sprouted as a result of beanings. In another case, slugger Ernie Banks of the Cubs was felled by a pitch that clipped him below the rim of his helmet and Ernie departed on a stretcher."

Only one hitter in all of major-league baseball history died after a beaning and that was long before the helmet era. Carl Mays of the Yankees hit Ray Chapman of the Indians in 1920 and Chapman never recovered.

Mickey Cochrane, player-manager of the Tigers in 1937, had a close brush with death after a beaning by Bump Hadley of the Yankees but came out of it. However, his playing career—spectacular enough to put him into baseball's Hall of Fame in later years—was ended.

The game's almost perfect record, plus the mandatory helmets, may have made today's pitchers (and their managers) a bit too complacent about the possibility of injury.

TEXANS PREFER
HERE'S WHY:
 When Texans choose one brand of insurance over another, as they have with State Farm, they must have some pretty solid reasons. Take cost for instance. Texas policyholders have come to expect dividend savings from State Farm Mutual (eligible policyholders have been receiving them for the past 27 years). State Farm's present 25% dividend makes the actual net cost of State Farm car insurance lower than most other companies. What about service? State Farm has more agents in more places to provide more service than you'd find almost anywhere. Most important, you get top-notch protection and famous "hometown" service wherever you travel. Car insurance due? Check with me before renewing your present policy.

WE'RE CONSIDERING deleting three little words from our social amenities when we greet friends . . . those words are "How Are You?" . . . they are often the most insincere and most frustrating greeting in our social vocabulary . . . oh, we don't propose to do away with them entirely . . . but suggest that they be included in technical medical dictionaries as accepted repartee between doctors and nurses and their patients . . . just analyze those three words for a minute when you ask someone "how are you?" and they say "oh, fine," but add nothing else . . . don't you think "wonder what's making her feel so good?" . . . or if you ask "how are you?" and they really tell you . . . aren't you sorry sometimes you asked? . . . there are so many other greetings that we could use . . . like for instance, just that friendly and enthusiastic Top o' Texas "Hi!" is enough to warm the cockles of your heart . . . without getting personal or leading you astray.

A CASE IN POINT . . . the other morning, we bounded out of bed and stubbed our little toe on the foot of the big bed went to the bathroom to wash the sleep out of our eyes and turned on the hot water faucet full force and scalded our hands . . . stumbled agonizingly down the hall anticipating a cup of coffee to make us want to wake up and live and found that the coffee canister was empty . . . glanced at the clock to see how soon the grocers would be open . . . only to find that we had gotten up one hour too early . . . back to bed to "nap" until time for the store to open . . . we over-slept and made the family late for their busy day's schedule . . . when we finally did get to the store for the coffee . . . what did we say to the kind clerk, who asked "Good Morning! How Are you?" . . . we said, "Fine!"

TODAY IS "dear old Dad's Day" . . . but we know one mother, who is getting to share in sort of a dual celebration . . . and that's Dorothy Neslage, who, with Fred, of course, are being honored by their children at a Silver Wedding Anniversary party this afternoon in the Pampa Club . . . a Silver Wedding anniversary and Father's Day all the same day makes Fred a "first" in this field, we think . . . and something else that we heard of this week that very well could be a first . . . that any rate it is rare . . . that beautiful Magnolia tree at the Don Glaxner home has bloomed . . . and that's something for local gardeners to write to their friends in the Deep South about speaking of rarity . . . if your children have heard about Cigar Store Indians, but have never seen one . . . Rhea Williams in the 700 block on North Wells has one standing guard right in her front yard . . . and it is worth a trip by to see . . . if you haven't already . . . imagine it would make an interesting story to find out how she came in possession of it . . . must find out if we can . . . heard that Peggy and Joe Daniel went down to his high school reunion in Corsicana last weekend . . . imagine they had fun reminiscing with classmates . . . swapping success notes . . . children statistics . . . and what time has done to hairlines and waist-lines.

THE PARTY CIRCUIT . . . Martha McComas, Marty Price and Nancy Gabelmann got their pretty heads together this week and entertained with a Farewell Coffee for Betty Ellis on Thursday morning in Marty's lovely new home at 2135 Charles . . . it's that very attractive architectural assemblage of Antique Brick with white shutters, which the Bob Prices just completed and moved into this Spring . . . we love their home, the interior is done in varying shades of white ranging from stark white to egg shell with blue accents . . . the luxuriously, deep-pile off-white carpeting in the living and dining rooms offer a strong inclination (which we resisted) just to kick off your shoes and wade through it . . . and where did most of the guests linger longest for informal and gay chatter? . . . Marty's pretty kitchen . . . again done in blue and white with the entire back wall gilded in cupboard doors filled with pretty blue and white china . . . papered above and below with a gay blue and white print . . . some of the guests must have known Marty's color scheme . . . for there were a lot of either white or blue and white summer frocks . . . Dot Stowers was particularly chic in blue cotton with blue costume jewelry . . . and Johnny Syper, brown as a berry, the tan acquired not on the golf course, as suspected, but from doing yard-work . . . Jean Duncan, crisp and fresh, in white . . . vivacious Viola Jordan in a colorful print . . . and there was Dorothy Neslage . . . Phyllis Smith . . . Alleith Curry . . . Grace Henry . . . June Alexander . . . Catherine Jones . . . Grete Arrington . . . and so on, ad infinitum . . . Farewell parties are never really fun . . . we'd rather go to a "Hi!" party . . . but they do afford an opportunity to say how much you have enjoyed knowing the honoree . . . this attractive popular young couple, Betty and Neeley Joe, who were so active in civic, church, cultural and social affairs, will be missed . . . heard that Martha McComas made all of those delicious breads and coffee cakes that were served with the fruit tidbits . . . that Martha! is there no end to her talents!

JUST TRY TO catch the brass ring, as we continue telling you about the Merry-Go-Round of parties that have been given for Heidi Schneider this week . . . Heidi is the bride-elect of David Roupp of Denver, Colo. . . and will become Mrs. Roupp on July 8 in a ceremony planned in the First Presbyterian Church . . . Adrienne Foster and Mary Johnson were hostesses for a "come and go" bridal shower on Tuesday evening in Adrienne's home . . . then on Wednesday, the Mary Ann Kelleys, both senior and junior, were hostesses for a luncheon in the Pampa Club at which time guests shared their favorite recipes with the bride-elect . . . among the guests was Maynette Loftus, who will be a bridesmaid in the wedding . . . yesterday a one o'clock buffet luncheon was given in the home of Albertine Triplehorn with Alleith Curry, Claudine Vail and Sandy Williams as hostesses . . . all these bridal courtesies are tokens of affection for this Pampa High School graduate, who this Spring was graduated from Wyoming University as her fiancée . . . there was another pretty party last Sunday afternoon in White Deer to which a lot of Pampans were bid to attend . . . it was the announcement party given by Mrs. R. A. Thompson Jr. and Sr. announcing the betrothal of their daughter and granddaughter, respectively, to Earl Cooper, who is the former associate pastor of the First Methodist Church . . . they're planning a late August wedding . . . Earl, the eligible, will become ineligible after that date!

THE TEENAGE RUSH PARTIES . . . which we have been keeping our beady little eyes on because of the ingenious invitations came to climatic conclusion this week . . . Sub Deb Club gave a Twist Party in PamCel Hall, but preceded it with a swimming party at the Country Club to whet appetites for the delicious barbecue served afterwards . . . their invitations were green record discs with stand-up figures . . . Las Cresas also gave a "South Pacific Party" on the same evening in the Country Club . . . and then on Saturday morning at four o'clock . . . they came by the homes of the rushees, pulled them out of bed and drug them off to a "Come As You Are" Breakfast . . . (of course, they had made pre-arrangements with the parents of the rushees to leave the doors unlocked and designate in which bedroom they would find the rushee) . . . and we shudder to think if any of our adult friends ever did this to us . . . it would probably be the last "come as you are" party ever given . . . Kit Kat Klub gave a luau at the home of Sherry Williams on Monday night . . . and on Thursday night had a slumber party . . . rushees left their bedrolls at the home of Jan Grady . . . but we never did learn where they spent the night . . . by the time this is in print, the rushing will be over and pledging will begin . . . and for a month some of our slickest little chicks will look like characters in the "Grapes of Wrath" . . . but when else (other than in the teens, can a gal afford to go without lipstick . . . have stringy hairdos . . . and wear sloppy worn-out clothes! . . . understand that the complementing boys' clubs, like Seven-Elevens, Esquire and Los Duenos don't go through the social amenities of rushing . . . they just pledged their members and that was it! . . . feel the merry-go-round slowing down and since we don't have the brass-ring . . . think we'll wait until next week to try again as we go 'round and 'round and 'round keeping up with the social whirl of things . . . your daisy Peg.

Mrs. Nelson lives in a suburban area of Lubbock and shortly after occupying her Medallion Home, she realized that she had a problem... she was a long way from the nearest supermarket. The problem was solved by the addition of a free-standing combination electric refrigerator-freezer. This, plus the capacity of the built-in electric combination that came with the home, makes it possible for her to have a "supermarket" right in her home. Now, visits to the grocery are at her convenience — usually at two-week intervals. You, too, will like the convenience of your own home "supermarket."

FOOTSAVING EDUCATION

By FRANK D. SMITH
Are Pre-Walking Shoes Important?

The harm done by outgrown pre-walkers is very important: The younger the child, the softer the bones. Many children have the beginnings of bunions before they wear any shoes because their feet were bound in the feet of outgrown pajamas.

Pre-walking children should wear shoes only when the house is cold enough that he needs mittens on his hands. Parents marvel at the way their babies flex their toes when they take their shoes off but the seldom think of the fact that using those muscles is the only way known to strengthen them. Even good fitting shoes discourage exercise.

Here's How The Government Vocational Training Program Is Supposed To Work

EDITOR'S NOTE: What is a worker to do when his job is replaced by a machine? Too often in the past, he has found himself on the relief rolls. Now a new federal program is being launched to retrain workers and eliminate some of the nation's "hard-core" unemployed. The following dispatch tells how this will operate.

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's first large scale effort to solve the problem of hard core unemployment will get underway July 1.

During the next three years, the federal government will spend $435 million on a nationwide program of vocational training.

Its purpose is to provide marketable job skills for about 500,000 technological misfits of modern society.

They include industrial workers whose skills have been rendered obsolete by automation, farm hands no longer needed in mechanized agriculture, and youths who dropped out of school without learning a trade.

The Labor Department estimates there are between 500,000 and 1 million of these people in America today. They are the "hard core" of the nation's 4.5 million unemployed. Many of them have been out of work for periods ranging from six months to three or four years.

Meanwhile, good jobs are being begging because employers cannot find people who are trained to fill them. In many communities, for example, there are chronic shortages of welders, machine tool operators, stenographers, nurse's aides, skilled seamstresses, clerk-typists, and auto mechanics.

The idea behind the training program is that the nation can kill two birds with one stone—increasing its reservoir of skilled manpower and reducing the number of people dependent on unemployment compensation or public welfare.

The law authorizing the three-year program was enacted by Congress with strong bipartisan support. Signed by President Kennedy last March 15, it is to take effect with the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), which will administer the vocational training program, and the Labor Department, which will select the people to be trained, have spent recent weeks gearing up for a fast start. They hope to have training projects underway in cities by the end of the year.

James Clarke, director of the manpower training office of the HEW Department, said the program will be similar to one which the government is already conducting, on a relatively small scale, under the area redevelopment program. About 10,000 people are being re-trained under this program, which is restricted to "depressed areas" with high chronic unemployment rates.

The new program will be nationwide in scope. The training courses offered in any particular community will be determined by surveys of the job openings in that community. The objective is to be sure that each trainee will be readily absorbed into the community's labor force when his course is completed.

Applicants for training will be screened by the U.S. Employment Service. Priority will go to unemployed persons and to members of farm families with annual net family income of less than $1,200 a year. If they don't fill all the vacancies, training may also be provided to "under-employed" workers—that is, those who are working only part-time or at unskilled jobs.

The government will pay for the training courses, which will be given at public high schools, vocational training centers, junior colleges and similar existing facilities.

It also will pay subsistence allowances to some of the trainees. Heads of families who have spent at least three years in gainful employment but are now out of work may receive training allowances equal to the average weekly unemployment compensation in that state. Youths between the ages of 19 and 22 may receive training allowances of up to $20 a week.

If it is necessary for a person to attend a training school which is beyond a reasonable commuting distance from his home, the government will provide extra allowances for transportation and subsistence.

Special programs of vocational training will be provided for boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 19 who are not enrolled in a regular school.

The federal government will underwrite the entire cost of the program for the first two years of operation. Beginning in mid-1964, however, states will have to pick up half of the tab.

Ward P. Beard, assistant director of vocational education for the HEW Department, said the main emphasis will be on preparing people for "the simpler types of skilled jobs" which can be mastered in a few weeks or months.

Experience gained under the area redevelopment program, he said, indicates that a nurse's aide can be trained in four weeks, an auto mechanic or a key punch operator in 16 weeks, a stenographer in 20 weeks, and an electronic mechanic in 26 weeks. Where highly specialized skills are needed to meet the employment demand of a particular community, longer courses, ranging up to a full year of training, may be offered. Training funds will be allocated among all states on the basis of a complex formula which takes into account the state's population and unemployment rate.

"Local initiative will be welcome," Clarke said. He said communities desiring to get in on the program should not wait for the government to come to them, but should organize their own representative local planning committees and get in touch with local or state offices of vocational education or employment security.

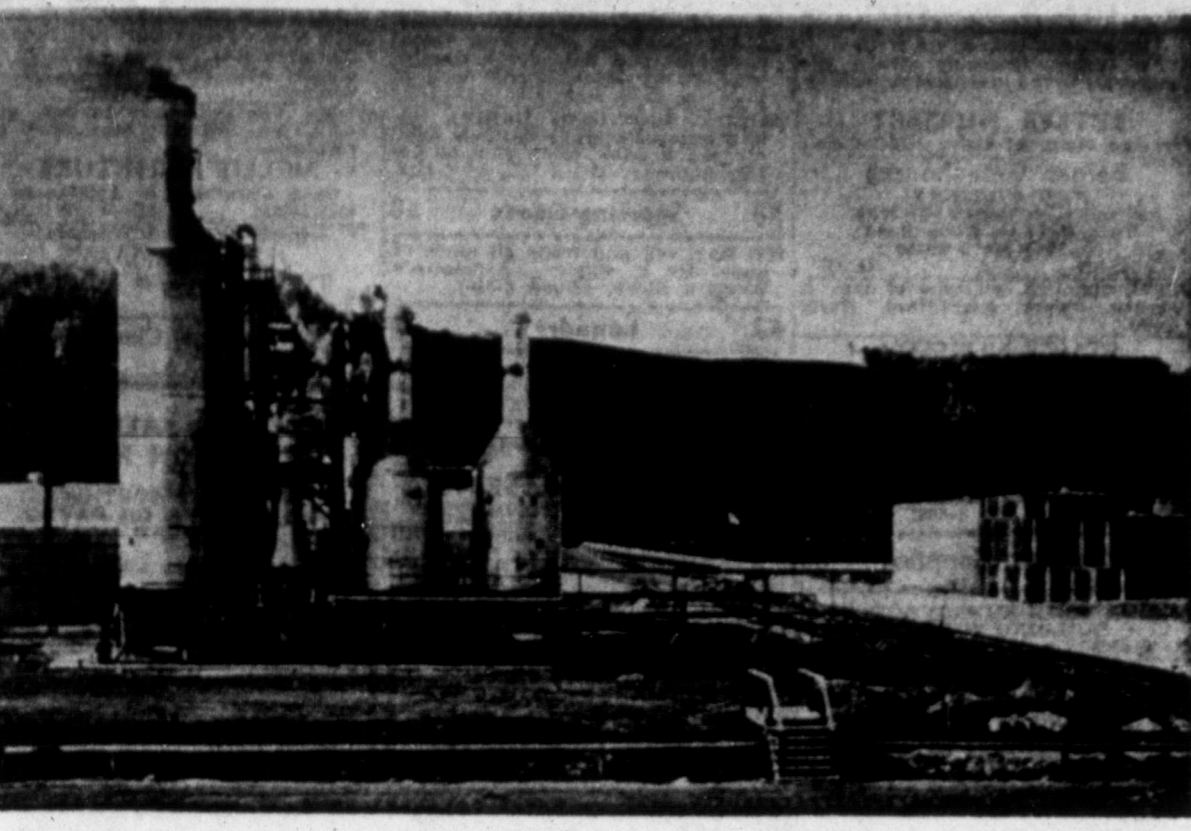

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—As far as analyst Martin Gilbert is concerned, the odds are in favor of the stock market "holding" somewhere around the 553 level of the D-JIA, which was the low point of the dramatic May 28 decline.

The Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. market expert says he can't see any further deterioration from that point, because there will be substantial values at these bottom levels and investment logic should then prevail.

One of the unusual aspects of the present market, says L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. is connected with the sizable amount of short selling being done by odd lot and hundred share investors. He says this is not good quality selling and that the present sizeable "unsophisticated" short interest is one of the reasons for thinking the market could rally without any outside inspiration.

Jerome Peck of Jerome Peck Associates says he continues to favor "earnings-uptrend" issues for longer-term appreciation and feels that many such stocks have declined to levels at which indicated current year profits are being capitalized most conservatively.

CONDUCTING STUDY—Here is a view of the refining and storage equipment in the pilot plant at Mildred Lake, in northeastern Alberta Province, Canada, where Imperial, Cities Service, Richfield and Royalite are conducting studies to determine the commercial feasibility of extracting hydrocarbons from the Athabasca oil sands. The refining equipment is capable of processing 3,000 b/d of a bitumen diluent mixture. The oil sand escarpment can be seen in the background.

Oil News

Cuban Oil 'Utopia' Didn't Materialize

The Utopia prophesied for the Cuban petroleum industry by the Castro regime after its nationalization of the industry has turned out to be, instead, nothing but a wasteland dotted with dry holes, promises of equipment, and a technology at least ten years behind that of the U. S. it has been revealed by Edmundo Cintra, former chief of Cuba's drilling operations.

In an exclusive interview in the June issue of WORLD OIL magazine, Cintra points out to the magazine's associate editor, Don Lambert, that the Cuban oil and gas industry now is in no way more improved or productive than it was three years ago when Castro confiscated the facilities and equipment of private companies. And if anything, it is in worse condition.

Despite an increase in drilling activity, Mr. Cintra states, the communist box score in three years is nothing but dry holes. Production remains the same as it was in 1959 — still the only production is from oil fields, and that has dwindled.

Drilling equipment, he adds, is ready for use, but there are no parts and no money to buy any.

The article goes on to discuss the influx of Russian technical personnel and what they are doing for the industry, the deadly success of the combination of politics and technology, and the sham Russia has made of its trade pact with Cuba.

In a telling account of Russian manufacturing techniques, Cintra points up one of the factors which makes the communist system hang together — the lack of self-sufficiency on the part of the satellite countries. "In the manufacture of drilling rigs," Mr. Cintra states, "Rumania must depend on Poland for engines, Russia for pumps, and Czechoslovakia and Russia for tubular goods."

Cintra was head of the drilling section of the exploration department, Instituto Cubano de Recursos Minerales when he left Cuba in November 1961. He is a 1955 graduate of Havana University and began his petroleum career with Loffland Brothers, working in the U. S. and Venezuela. In 1959 he resigned from the American firm to join the staff of the minister of Public Works in Cuba.

In August, 1960, he was selected to head the drilling section in the exploration department of the Cuban Institute of Petroleum, retaining that position after Castro formed the Mineral Resources Institute in June 1961.

He has removed all of his family and relatives from Cuba.

Dear Abby...

Money And Blessings
Important To Marriage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school junior and am in love with a 19-year-old boy. He says he loves me and wants to marry me as soon as I finish school. The only things stopping us are age, religion and money. I am Catholic and he is Jewish. His parents are so mad at him they don't even want to meet me, and mine are also against our marriage. He still doesn't know what line of work he is going to follow, but can get almost any kind of selling job because he has a nice appearance and a gift of gab. Do you think we have a chance of making a go of marriage?

SUE (not my real name)

DEAR SUE: If you and your boy friend are two in a million, you can make it. But I advise you to wait. Neither one of you is equipped for marriage. And money, and the blessings of your parents are very important.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for three years and I feel like nothing but an unpaid housekeeper. When we go grocery shopping, I sit in the car and my husband goes in with the grocery list. I am not allowed to have a milkman or a bread man. I haven't been to a beauty parlor since we've been married. Abby, what's a woman supposed to do when she looks like a sheep dog and is kept practically bare footed?

DEAR BLUE: A man who keeps his wife broke, looking like a sheep dog and practically bare-footed is sick upstairs — and a woman who holds still for this kind of abuse is sicker than he is.

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor and I have a complaint. Every weekend two religious fanatics come to our doors and try to preach to us. They have magazines and pamphlets and they want us to stop everything and let them read to us from the Bible. Now we have nothing against these people or their religion, but why do they try to preach to people who have their own religions and are not interested? We've tried telling

28th BIRTHDAY PARTY
Tex Evans Buick-Rambler

In June, 1934, Tex Evans Buick Co. Opened for business at 315 W. Foster. That fall we held our first new car showing with the 1935 Buicks. A new model in the Buick line that year was the "SPECIAL"

We have a 1935 Buick Special 4 door sedan on display in our showroom now. Come by and refresh your memory on the many changes made in automobiles over the years.
1935 was the last year for the crank, "soft" tops on closed models, small trunk lids, wooden shell bodies, mechanical brakes, and rear spare tire mounting (Now an accessory called the "Continental Kit").

Tex Evans has changed, too, over the years. Now, we cover the entire 100 block of North Gray street between Foster and Kingsmill. Here to care for all your needs, we have an ultra-modern building, latest electronic service equipment, large areas to display ample stocks of new Buicks, Ramblers and G.M.C. Trucks and better buy used cars.
Right now we are completing a new body shop addition with the finest equipment for paint and repair of your car.

We are proud of Pampa and we try to show our confidence in Pampa by having a show place we can be proud of. A lawn of African Bermuda Grass, wide open showroom, large service department, new body shop, and ample display areas for new and used cars. Come by, visit us, see what we are talking about.

TWO THINGS WE HAVE ALWAYS BELIEVED

- 1. HONESTY IS THE ONLY WAY.
- 2. QUALITY IS YOUR BEST BUY.

SURE WE'RE PROUD OF OUR 28 YEARS
COME IN NOW DURING OUR
28th Birthdaw Sale

We have Birthday presents for you with the sale of each new Buick or Rambler. There are special prices,

Texas Unions Report Finances

DALLAS — Assets of more than $15 million and liabilities of just over $1 million were reported by 1,437 local unions in Texas which filed financial reports in 1960 with the U. S. Department of Labor. The figures appear in a new publication called "Union Financial Statistics". They are based on data compiled by the Bureau of Labor-Management Reports from the first year of financial reports required to be filed by most labor unions under the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act, according to Area Director V. L. G. Matelis. Total receipts by the 1,437 local unions reporting from Texas amounted to $19,785,300. More than $14,000,000 of such receipts came from dues. Total disbursements by the Texas unions amounted to $19,663,000. Of that $5,701,100 went to officers and employees and $13,761,400 represented other disbursements. Loans amounted to $194,500. An even dozen Texas unions reported no income at all while at the other extreme one local union in Texas reported receipts of nearly a million dollars. More than half of those reporting, however, had receipts under $5,000. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, New York, and California, in that order, rank highest in number of unions — each has more than

dick evans inc. specialists in weed control

Nine years ago dick evans, inc., became one of the first companies in America to specialize in the business of chemical weed control . . . in the oil patch and plant areas. We became the first company to field test and develop application techniques for new chemicals that had been laboratory developed for this purpose.

Thru constant research . . . training . . . and proven effectiveness in our specialized field . . . our business has enjoyed a consistent growth. Today . . . you will find dick evans inc., trucks and trained crews applying our specially blended chemicals around plants and oil patches from Kansas to the Gulf of Mexico.

Each year we add more names to our growing list of satisfied customers . . . because our method of weed control is more effective . . . yet costs less than old fashioned methods of hoeing, cutting, and goosing.

Our specialized business demands the combination of highly trained technicians . . . and equipment engineered for our specialized service. In addition to special blends of chemicals designed to kill all vegetation . . . under all conditions . . . we have developed equipment with "the controlled accuracy of an eye-dropper". When the situation demands, we can accurately place chemicals along a six-inch strip . . . or spray several acres with equal results. Our 29,146 man days of accident free operation is indicative of our "on the job" attention to business.

A Salute To Dick Evans, Inc. And Baker Plastic, Inc. From:

Pampa... Where Industry Is Welcome & The Livin' Is Good

Clean Air Was Mother Nature's Gift To Pampa

The crisp, clean air 3,254 feet above sea level, is Mother Nature's gift to Pampa and her people.

With an average of only 81 cloudy days per year, temperatures that range from an average 37.5 for a low to 75.8 for a high; 21 inches of rainfall and 16 inches of snowfall, Pampa has very few days of "bad weather."

On her warmest days, a cool breeze, and almost any form of shade provide comfort. On her coldest days, a brilliant sun keeps people warm even with snow on the ground.

Snow and wind, the two least predictable weather factors, cause far less inconvenience than "downstate" reports would lead outsiders to believe.

When compared to almost any other section of Texas or our sister states, Pampa suffers far fewer days and hours of disagreeable weather than most. Traffic, communications and power supplies are seldom interrupted, and never for more than a brief period of time.

Pampa delights in cool summer nights and light southwestern breezes.

Entertainment Is Not Forgotten In The Pampa Area

A knock at the door, the ring of a telephone, or a letter in the mail in Pampa, often paves the way for a new fun experience.

Here, where the "West Meets the Future," there is an ideal balance between hard work, and the enjoyment of life. Invitations to informal "coffee," bridge parties, dress-up balls, teas, receptions, stage productions, and many home celebrations are moving constantly.

Knife and Fork lectures and entertainment features; the classics in music, art, and literature; Little Theater drama; near professional performances of the Pampa High School A Cappella Choir and Harvester Band; The Madrigal Singers; and area features in Amarillo and Canyon open new vistas of culture and pleasure.

Pampa manages to keep her

Baker Plastic Has 17 Years In The Oil Field Coating Business

Baker Plastic, Inc., located at 516 W. Wilks St., just south of U.S. Highway 60, is one of Pampa's most recent industrial firms.

eginning operations in the Pampa area in February of this year.

Baker Plastic, Inc., has been in the plastic coating business for over 17 years. In addition to the Pampa plant it also operates firms in Hobbs, N.M., and Odessa, where the home office is located.

The company operations consist of baking plastic coatings on drill pipe, connections, tubing, casing and line pipe. All operations can be on location or in the plants service yard, with the exception of the large tanks which are coated on the customer's location.

Phil Burton, local general manager of the firm, said the company has portable field units that can coat on the job, all oil field equipment.

"We are proud of our flow-line service. We can coat 'in place' up to four miles of pipe in one set-up. This on-the-job treatment reduces operating costs and enables the producer to utilize his existing flow-lines and saves the cost of replacement," Burton said.

A new service that has proved to be a real time and money saver is Baker Plastic's turn-key job rate on all water flood equipment. This coating is done in either the field or the service yard at the Wilks St. location.

Each piece of equipment that will be coated is thoroughly sand-blasted to remove all rust, scale, paint and oil. All rough and protruding edges are buffed smooth. The plastic coating is applied to proper film thickness and is checked with a film thickness gauge. After the coating is applied the coated surface is checked with a detector to insure pin-hole-free coating.

Baker Plastic engineers have designed a new coating device for internal tubular goods. Also the engineers have developed a new cleaning method for all fittings. This means quality control in the baking plants plus speed and economy.

President of the company is H. T. Fillion of Odessa. The plant here now employs 15 persons.

Department heads of the company are Charlene Boyd, secretary; Jesse Stidham, project foreman; John Nelson, custom shop foreman; and manager Burton, all of Pampa.

Mrs. J. E. Baker, also of Odessa, is company vice president and treasurer.

All personnel have been through a rigorous training program, no matter what their previous experience might have been. Consequently when Baker Plastic, Inc. men are on the job, you can rest assured that the best possible job, in the shortest possible time, will be done.

HOME ON THE RANGE — Here's a typical scene around Pampa where you will find livestock as much a part of the Pampa industrial scene as its oil, gasoline, gun barrel, chemical and carbon black installations. A SPOT TO RELAX — You've heard of Central Park. New York. This is Central Park Pampa — shady and beautiful — and just the ideal mid-town place for a close to home picnic or short period of outdoor relaxation. It has tennis courts and a wading pool for the children. Pampa has four other city parks providing similar facilities plus baseball and softball diamonds.

THE THREE R's — Pampans pride themselves on their modern educational system and their school buildings. Shown here is Pampa Senior High School where the campus is complete with football stadium and field house for indoor sports. Pampa also has two junior high schools and seven elementary schools including a school for colored students from the first grade through high school. St. Vincent's Catholic School instructs pupils from kindergarten through the eighth grade.

Pampa 'Takes Care Of Its Own' Where Education Is Concerned

The old red brick school house in downtown Pampa is gone — but it lived to see modern miracles in public education. The old school was located on Cuyler at Browning and in constant use until new facilities took its place. Torn down in 1960 to make room for playground needs, the two-story building once housed all of Pampa's school system.

Today there are a total of 11 modern buildings serving the student life of a large independent school district. Over 6,000 boys and girls attend these schools. There are two parochial schools and beyond public school education, Pampa offers a business college and a major beauty school, Phillips College. Berger, provides commuter bus transportation for Pampa Junior College students. Junior colleges are also located in Amarillo and Clarendon, and West Texas State College in Canyon draws many of Pampa's graduates.

A special committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce continues a study of the need for a junior college in Pampa. Another committee sponsors adult education courses, taught at night by professors from West Texas State.

A recent addition to the senior high school building added classroom space that will permit steady increases in enrollment, without serious crowding, for sev-

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — President Kennedy, in his commencement address at Yale University: "Some conversations I have recently heard — and overheard — in our own country sound like old records, long-playing, left over from the middle thirties. The debate of the thirties and its great significance and produced its great results. But it took place in a different world with different needs and different tasks. It is our responsibility today to live in our own world — and to identify the needs and discharge the tasks of the nineteen sixties."

CLOSE BOND NEEDED

BONN — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, explaining why a close bond between France and Germany is important to the security of the West: "If German economic power were to come under Russian influence without war, but through political events, then the Soviet Union strengthened by German economic power could cause the United States the greatest difficulties. Therefore a strong, close friendship between France and Germany is absolutely in the interest of the United States."

When you build a quality truck, the inclination is to run around asking users what they think of it. We do quite a bit of this. It's a funny thing. You'd think people would talk mostly about the mechanical features of the vehicle — the good ride, its power, the double-wall construction, cab comfort, or tough tailgate. These things get comment, of course, but they're consistently outnumbered by expressions of satisfaction with the dependability of a Chevrolet truck. Its greatest single asset seems to be the fact that it does its job well day after day without a lot of fuss or attention — and that's what impresses people the most. Quality is the key to reliability. The next time you have to buy a truck, call your Chevrolet dealer and make your money go farther.

YOUTH NOT FORGOTTEN — The pride of Pampa's youth is the Pampa Youth and Community Center. The Center features a heated indoor swimming pool and a full schedule of activities for both youth and adults of the community. The structure was built with a large assist from the teenagers of the community themselves, who put on variety shows to raise money for the project.

HOSPITAL FACILITIES — Pampa is the hospital center for the northeastern Panhandle and western Oklahoma. Shown here is Highland General Hospital, operated by Gray County. Also in Pampa is Worley Hospital, privately-owned by a group of Pampa doctors. The two hospitals, both with modern equipment, have a total capacity of 200 beds. Pampa also has several modern surgical and medical clinics.

Pampa Provides Professional Leadership For Top O' Texas

Pampa is a town of great professions. There are more physicians, attorneys, dentists, teachers, engineers, and scientists, per capita, in Pampa, than in any city her size in Texas. Geologists, architects, ministers, and many other professional groups supply most of the leadership for the entire Eastern Panhandle. The building trades, general contractors, electricians, and communications experts travel many miles to serve other communities and areas. Pampa is a medical center. Her physicians, dentists, technical specialists, hospitals and clinics attract patients for hundreds of miles in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. Two general hospitals, Highland General and Worley, have a total of 192 beds, plus nursery facilities, out-patient care, and highly skilled nursing staffs. Several private clinics supplement the hospitals for patient care. Specialists in major surgery, diagnosis, and internal medicine are among the 22 physicians with 14 men and women practicing in all fields of dentistry. Pampa is the focal point of a vast area for care of the teeth. Through local agency influence,

In the Middle Ages, iron was made in furnaces of relatively small size, in which pure ore was reduced to a pasty mass by means of charcoal and the product subsequently was hammered to get rid of impurities.

Both hospitals and all licensed practitioners of the healing arts share in providing some medical-dental care for needy patients without fees or compensation. Dick Evans, Inc., Nationally-Recognized Weed Control Firm, Constantly Growing Dick Evans Inc., which recently moved its home office operations to Pampa, is nationally recognized as one of the first organizations of its type to be formed in America. The company specializes in the chemical control of weeds in the oil patches and around plant areas.

The company was formed sixteen years ago, specializing in the chemical application business. About nine years ago several major chemical companies approached Dick Evans with a new series of materials they had developed in their laboratories for weed control. At that time no other company had experience in this phase of the business and Evans began experimental work to field test and prove the advantages of chemicals in controlling weeds in the oil fields.

"We spent our first year," Evans states "trying all types of application methods. Because our work was of an experimental nature we naturally kept records of wind velocities, temperatures, soil conditions, amount of humidity in the air and numerous other factors that eventually let us develop a technique and system. We conclusively proved use of chemicals for weed control, when properly applied was less expensive and far more efficient than any other means."

During the past nine years the company has constantly expanded its specialized service. It is the largest organization of its type in the weed control business. Today Dick Evans Inc. crews and trucks cover an area from Kansas to the Gulf of Mexico, performing their specialized services.

Thru the years the company has maintained a research and development program and as new techniques and formulas are proven they are incorporated into the company's operational procedures. "We found," Evans states, "that the use of a dye mixed with chemicals permitted us to have greater accuracy by enabling our applicators to visually recognize the exact area covered by the weed killing chemicals."

Dick Evans, who founded the company, still serves as president and is active in directing the company's sales and research programs. He is also active in many civic affairs. Mildred Evans, his wife, serves Today Dick Evans Inc. employs as many as 25 people during seasonal peaks. Their trucks travel approximately 500,000 miles a year throughout the midwest applying chemicals for weed control.

The new administrative offices are located on West Borger highway, Pampa, Texas.

Financial Institutions Here Encourage Industry Growth

The strength and vision of any community can be largely determined by the money activity it generates.

Two commercial banks, with combined deposits of over $30 million, serve thousands of business and individual accounts in the primary trade territory. These banks also serve as corresponding banks for institutions in other towns and cities nearby.

Through local banks, Pampa offers major loan, discount, and collection services anywhere in the world. A savings and loan association boasts deposits of $32,350,000.

Home construction has increased steadily for the last decade. Adequate local financing has a strong influence over residential development. Plans for budget buying, automobile financing, and long-term secured business loans can be handled in a matter of minutes right at home. Specialists in FHA, farm and

47 Congregations Boost Spiritual Life In Pampa

With 47 congregations and 41 church buildings, Pampa is a strong spiritual center.

Representing almost all faiths, these churches have a dramatic influence over the life of the people. Many of them provide complete family recreational facilities, as well as programs of worship.

Additions to existing structures, as well as completely new facilities are constantly under construction. An estimated 17,000 of the total population of 25,000 people are members of local congregations or have a church preference. This 68 per cent is well above the national average of approximately 58 per cent.

Vacation Bible Schools are conducted in most churches. A unique class is made up of exceptional children. These handicapped students attend their own Vacation Bible School each summer, in a local church. The famed "Pampa Pilgrimage" is conducted on a Sunday before Christmas each year. This family "walk to church" attracts thousands of participants who attend almost 40 of the local churches. The pilgrimage has gained, and holds, nationwide attention each year. Pampa's pastors are among the most forceful, and many have gained wide recognition for their effective ministry among Pampa's residents.

Fine People---Pampa's 'Secret Weapon'

This is Pampa's 55th year.

Organized in 1907, the capital of Gray County, has discovered and developed many resources that make a city great. A village for farmers and ranchers when Gray County was established in 1876, Pampa is still the trading center for many miles of grazing and farm lands.

In the space age, Pampa still retains the pet name of "town" where rural residents go to shop, but is known as a city to new and vibrant industries. Her people, government, business and industry are as modern as the next moon shot, and as comfortable as an old-fashioned fireplace. This mixture of yesterday and tomorrow mingling with today is a strange, but appealing phenomenon. Alert to every growth opportunity, Pampa is best defined as attentive, rather than aggressive. Aggression is a harsh term, while attention to the needs and desires of business and industry is a friendly term. That's Pampa. Warm, friendly, and personable.

When industry or business decide to move, expand, or diversify, many strange things happen. Quiet studies of maps, chamber of commerce published information, and reports from industrial associations are conducted. Even the best kept secrets tend to seep out. Soon towns and cities are in direct contact with the prospective new tenant. A vasy array of requirements are set out. The industry wants favorable response to its needs for property, labor, market, adequate housing, best possible transportation, highways, streets, and pleasant working conditions.

Then, there are the families that are affiliated with the firm. What about schools, churches, parks, libraries, entertainment facilities, cultural opportunities, and community activities? Will their families be well received? Will they live in a friendly atmosphere? Is it a growing city, or is it static... Falling back? What of the crime rate, police protection, fire defense, and youth activity pattern? The Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development is the heart of Pampa's orderly and continual increase in industry and business. Volunteers serve on many committees that prepare current data for just such situations. The story is impressive. In every category of industry's needs, Pampa scores "a-ok." Her tax structure, healthy economy, excellent finance facilities, land natural resources are attracting more and more favorable studies from prospective newcomers. A look at how Pampa got "where she is today" is always reassuring. Only an attentive community could make that kind of progress.

The Panhandle and Santa Fe Railroad, and the Fort Worth and Denver Railway made Pampa the transportation hub for the Eastern Panhandle. In 1926 oil was discovered and Pampa welcomed a new boom to her economy and population. With cattle, agricul-

Lots Of Industrial Sites Available In City Of Pampa

Land — lots of land — surrounds Pampa, and smaller parcels are available at reasonable costs inside the city limits.

For many miles in every direction from Pampa, level, attractive sites invite industry of any size. Easy access to existing streets and highways, as well as low costs in building new roadways help keep the cost of new plant building to a minimum.

Primary and Farm-to-Market roads offer paved road access to thousands of acres of open country. Agriculture and cattle lands are plentiful. Industrial development has been orderly and well-planned. Sites are available in the midst of well-organized industrial communities, as well as large independent tracts for separate locations.

While Pampa is a thriving business community, there are usually a few first class buildings on the real estate market. These locations will vary from retail business sites, to small factory or plant locations.

Experts agree that industrial growth will continue in Pampa for many years. With all essential facilities in first class abundance, it only remains for Pampa to tell her story. In the decade ahead, business, industry, and population will reflect a healthy growth in every community activity.

Industrial sites, plus adequate power, water and other public utilities, linked with strong natural resources and a city "where the livin' is good" make Pampa an ideal and logical site for industrial expansion.

ture, transportation and petroleum already here, industry began to discover the pretty lady of the Panhandle.

With more than 22,000 oil and natural gas wells, Pampa could have been dull and dingy. But, she wasn't and isn't. Pampa is a powerful denial of the notion that industry and poor community housekeeping are synonymous.

Industry came. Industry was welcome. Industry stayed and manufacturing moved in. Local citizens demonstrated their faith in Pampa's future. Many risked personal funds and energy in cattle processing, real estate development, retail business firms, and plants large and small. And Pampa grows.

Pampa has a secret. The secret is more in what Pampa knows than in what she has. Pampa knows the value of natural resources, topography, and climate. But, the greatest asset is her people. Added to the riches of natural deposits, industry finds new riches in human nature. Here is a personality — a character — a spirit that is unique in a busy, pre-occupied age of stubborn self-interest. Ambitious, but fair-minded, folks here are a refreshing mixture of hard work, relaxed play, and practical wisdom. A remarkable team effort between industrious citizens and industrial management is at its best in employee-employer relations. Management and labor trust and respect each other. The result is a healthy, strong and happy economy. Pampa has never had a major strike.

Fine churches, excellent schools, attractive homes, and a remarkable climate help to attract individual families as well as major firms. This is the stuff that makes a town a city and a city great. Pampa's house is in order. Everything is ready for "company" — for a day or a lifetime. In Pampa, all systems are "go!"
