May Do Its Own Work

Paving Project Talked By City

Pampa's City Commission today went into action to tackle a host of problems, some of which were described as having been kicked from pillar to post without solution for several years.

The possibility also arose today that the City will do its own street paving and seal-coating next year in order to co-ordinate a haphazard paving situation and at the same time save money.

Immediately following the awarding of a seal-coating contract today for 112 city blocks, the commission asked the city manager and city engineer to make a study of what would be needed for the city to operate its own street improvement and paving program and to come up with recommendations to the commission.

If the recommendations are approved, it is planned to make provisions in the annual budget for the city to take over the work next year. It would require the purchase of machinery, but it was stated the city has enough employees in the street department to carry on the work without hiring extra labor.

City Commissioner Leon Holmes said he believed the city could get into an organized paving program and do its own work at a savings to the taxpayers.

"I believe we could get the job done for nearly half the cost we are paying now," Holmes said.

This year's seal-coating work will continue under a private contract which was awarded to the low bidder, L. A. Purcell of Lubbock, for $23,310.44, or a cost of $0.1269 per sq. yd.

The commission also authorized payment of $9,357.58, the final balance due Ray Boswell of Pampa for paving recently completed on W. Decatur, N. Faulkner, S. Dwight, S. Barnes, E. Albert and W. Harvester.

The money was taken from the current paving fund, and will be collected under assessments on property owners on the streets paved.

Action also was planned today to move against abandoned houses and other eyesore spots within the city limits. Officials pointed out that there are perhaps a score or more of these places in Pampa, most of which are fire hazards and health menaces.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer was asked to report his recommendations to the commission at its regular meeting next Tuesday.

In the solution of other problems such as the paving policy, inter-city highway problems, tax problems and water rates, Mayor E. C. Sidwell and other commissioners agreed they were ready to go into night sessions to work out solutions.

The first such meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday when the commission members will meet with city tax officials and members of the city's tax equalization board.

Voting Light In Election Today

Voting was exceptionally light this forenoon in the special election being held today to pick a city commissioner in Ward 2.

Mrs. Jess Beard, presiding judge at the polling place in North Fire Station, 321 E. 17th St., said that only 85 votes had been cast up until noon today. Mrs. Beard said there were an estimated 1,400 eligible voters in the ward.

Candidates seeking the post are Dr. Will Graham, George Hamlin and H. M. Brown.

The winner will fill the unexpired term of Newt Secrest, who resigned last April 17.

The voting place will remain open until 7 p.m. today.

Supreme Court In Israel Upholds Nazi's Sentence

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — The Israeli supreme court today upheld the conviction and death sentence imposed upon former Nazi SS officer Adolf Eichmann for the slaughter of six million Jews.

The verdict meant only President Itzhak Ben-Zvi could save him from the gallows.

The baldish, 56-year-old Eichmann displayed no emotion as he heard the words of doom:

"We unhesitatingly and without reservation confirm the judgment and verdict of the Jerusalem district court... The maximum penalty laid down by the law has to be imposed in this case."

It appeared he had expected it. But moments later, when the five-man court started reading its 70-page unanimous decision, Eichmann's facial muscles twitched and a tight line girdled the lower part of his jaw.

The supreme court action confirmed the lower court verdict that Eichmann was guilty of crimes against the Jewish people, crimes against humanity, a war crime and membership in "hostile" organizations.

It upheld the death sentence "for the punishment of the condemned man and the deterrence of others."

The court rejected every argument put up by Eichmann against the death sentence imposed on him last Dec. 15. The judges said they were satisfied beyond a shadow of a doubt that Eichmann was a key man in the slaughter of Jews by Nazi Germany.

Memorial Day To Be Quiet Here

Memorial Day will be observed quietly in Pampa.

Most downtown stores, City Hall and County offices will be closed. There will be no city mail delivery, although the post office will be open for the convenience of P.O. Box renters.

The Pampa American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliaries have planned to place flags on the graves of soldiers in Fairview and Memory Gardens cemeteries.

There has been no special program planned for the day.

Stocks Rally As Heavy Surge Of Purchasing Sweeps Market

Trading Today More Active Than Monday

By JESSE BOGUE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heavy trading, above the levels of Monday's huge market, swept stock exchanges here today and, with the tapes running late, flash prices showed gains for leading issues.

By 12:45 p.m., these prices showed Standard Oil of New Jersey up $4.38 from its close Monday; American Telephone and Telegraph, the nation's most widely held stock, also up $4.88, U.S. Steel up 88c, cents General Motors unchanged; Bethlehem Steel up $2.38 and Sears Roebuck up $4.

The New York Stock Exchange ticker tape was up to 54 minutes behind the market shortly before 1 p.m.

Tax Cuts Urged To Stimulate The Nation's Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges called today for cuts in individual and corporation income tax, possibly this year, to stimulate the nation's economy.

Hodges also said he favored early announcement of faster tax write-off schedules for business by the Treasury Department as another government measure to boost business confidence.

The Cabinet officers told a news conference he did not believe, however, that the sharp decline in stock market prices would have any real serious effect on the economy.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said earlier after an economic huddle with President Kennedy that government leaders saw no economic justification for the panic selling which triggered the current stock market plunge.

Democratic congressional leaders, who also met with the chief executive today, took a similar line. They said Kennedy gave no indication he planned special action to counter the slump and reassure investors.

Hodges told reporters he favored cutting income taxes "several percentage points" as part of a tax overhaul program.

He noted that the administration had promised to submit a tax revision plan to Congress early in 1963. But he said it was entirely possible recent stock market developments make it desirable to advance the timetable in order that tax reductions could take effect this year.

Late Demand Aids Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — A mighty surge of afternoon demand sent the stock market barreling forward today in the heaviest trading since the days of the great 1929 crash.

After the market took another licking of major proportions in the early hours, bargain buying by many institutions stemmed the tide and started pushing prices ahead.

Thousands of small investors hopped on the bandwagon when they saw the trend turn upwards, turning what looked like still another market rout into a wild and woolly rally.

Since the high speed tickers were dragged a record 96 minutes behind floor transactions, the popular averages failed to show the recovery.

Even at 2 p.m. with the rally about 90 minutes old, Dow-Jones industrials were off 11.89, even though such pivots in the average as Du Pont, American Telephone, Jersey Standard and Sears Roebuck were up between 4 and 10 points.

Trading over the first four hours swelled to 8,400,000 shares — not counting nearly 1-1/2 hours of unrecorded transactions. This compared with a turnover of 4,310,000 shares Monday when volume had reached a 29-year high.

A-Tests In Space Will Start Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States this week will start exploding rocket-borne nuclear weapons in space.

The explosions, their mammoth fireballs, and the brilliant auroral displays they trigger will be the most spectacular fireworks ever staged by man.

The weapons will be hurled into space — by Thor missiles, according to informed sources — over Johnston Island 800 miles southwest of Honolulu. Three and perhaps four space shots are planned.

One, a junior-sized H-bomb to be exploded at an altitude of about 500 miles, will be the highest nuclear shot ever detonated.

The tests, expected to continue into July, will be of intense interest to scientists all over the world. The scientists will be alerted to study effects of the blasts on the earth's magnetic field and the Van Allen radiation zones enveloping the planet.

The space shots also will help answer to questions vital to the security of the free world: — Can nuclear explosions in space, by blocking out radio and radar, create an electronic smokescreen for sneak atomic attacks? — Do such explosions hold the key to defense against missiles launched through space from another continent?

The Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department announced Monday that the Johnston Island tests would start "in about four days."

TO REPRESENT PAMPA — Gordon Balch, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Balch, Star Rt. 4, Pampa, and Ralph Palmer, center, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Palmer Sr., 2232 N. Sumner, were recently selected to attend the American Legion sponsored Boys' State summer camp held on the campus of the University of Texas, Austin. They will leave June 3 and return to Pampa June 9. Miss Johnlyn Mitchell, right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell, 328 N. Faulkner, is the Girls' State representative from Pampa. She will attend the program in Austin from June 12-22. All three, who will be seniors in Pampa High School this fall, are being sponsored by the Pampa American Legion Post 334.

Soviet Union Reneges On East-West Agreement To End 'War Propaganda'

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union today reneged on an East-West agreement to condemn war propaganda and plunged the 17-nation disarmament conference into a major crisis.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin told the conference his country does not accept the declaration condemning war propaganda which he himself had helped draft last week.

The conference had been supposed to approve the declaration today.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, white-faced with obvious anger, told Zorin that Russia had "blown up" discussion of the whole matter.

Zorin read to a stunned plenary session of the conference a Soviet government statement calling for far-reaching changes in the declaration he and Dean drafted last week.

He said "events in recent days" made the amendments necessary, and cited West Germany, Laos and South Viet Nam as examples of worsening tensions in the world.

He particularly singled out an article written in a NATO publication by West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss which he claimed called for the arming of West German forces with nuclear weapons for "use against the Soviet people."

Dean promptly shot back that the article in question not only was misquoted by Zorin but was two years old.

"The Soviet Union has blown up these negotiations, scuttled them for purposes known only to themselves," Dean said. "It is useless to continue further negotiations on such a matter."

At Monthly CoC Meeting, Pampans Are Told...

We Need To Understand Profit System

America has the highest standard of living in the world but it is to be protected and saved. Americans must have a broader understanding of the profit system.

This was the message given yesterday to some 100 persons at the monthly membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce by Bob Brummal, district manager for the Southwestern Public Service Co. at Borger.

Brummal contrasted the attitude of government in Europe toward business there with the attitude of the U.S. government toward business here.

He said in Europe business is encouraged in making profits that can be turned back into investments and improvements of the general economy.

Tax rates on business are much lower in Europe, he stated, while in the U. S. the high tax rate on business drains off funds that could be used for improvement of plants and development of new products.

Other handicaps to business in this country were cited as the failure of profits to expand over the years, and the persistent decline in the rate of profits.

"In Europe the government treats business a lot like the Chamber of Commerce treats it here — it tries to help and encourage business," Brummal said. "Here in this country government and business act like two separate armed camps."

Charles Haynes of Philadelphia, a coordinator with "The Dragon," Moral Re-Armament play to be presented here Wednesday and Thursday nights, spoke briefly explaining the purpose of the play and the aims of the cast in its visit to the United States to depict the effect of the Communist takeover in China, and the efforts now going on throughout the world to take the offensive in the fight against communism.

Sam Jacobson, chairman of the Retail Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, awarded prizes to winners in the recent Crazy Day promotion. Prize winners were Richard Drug and M. E. Moses Co. in the store divisions; Mrs. Mabel Ford, craziest store manager; George Fierth, craziest male clerk; Jimmie Day, craziest woman clerk; Tommy Sells, craziest male shopper; and Elsie Munday, craziest woman shopper.

Awards also were made at yesterday's luncheon to the three winning teams in the recent Membership Roundup Drive of the Chamber of Commerce.

First place went to the team captained by J. C. Roberts. Team members were John Gikas, Nina Spoonmore and Ida Sallee. The top team totaled 830 points.

Second with 355 points was the team captained by A. J. Carubbi. Team members were Eddie Polnac, Gary Frasher and Jim Christy.

Third place team, with 350 points, was captained by Floyd Watson. Team members were Arthur Aftergut, Calvin Whitley and Warren Hesse. The awards were presented by Lucjan Young, chamber vice-president.

The meal will be served by the Pampa Shriners.

Leading the production of "The Dragon" is Gen Ho Ying - Chin, who is a former prime minister of China and currently holds the post of chairman of the President's Military Strategy Board of the Republic of China (Taiwan). The play portrays the fate of China.

To write the play, the Chinese combined their true-life experiences. Special features include traditional Chinese dances and music by celebrated artists.

The play is spoken in Chinese and translated simultaneously into English over loudspeakers in the process, similar to lip synchronization in motion pictures.

"The Ladder," spoken in English, a short allegory dealing with the basic problems of freedom, will be presented during each evening's performance of "The Dragon."

The story of "The Ladder" is told in one act play which deals with the basic struggle for power.

Students are offered to the college of the students' choice.

Edmondson stated that the re-opening of school for the 1962-63 school year is scheduled for Wednesday, August 29. Edmondson said school will be dismissed for the Labor Day holiday.

Decline

this is regardless of the true value of the industries which issued them, the prospects for the economy, or their dividend rates—shrank about $28.5 billion on the "big board." This did not include losses on the American Stock Exchange, nation's second largest, or in the sprawling over-the-counter market where far more issues are available for trading than on the exchanges.

Volume of 9,350,000 shares was heaviest since the 9,572,000 of July 21, 1933. The drop in the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, down to 376.93, was 34.95 points, biggest single day's drop since the 38.33 of Oct. 28, 1929. Of 1,375 issues traded, 1,212 lost and 75 gained.

At the close of trading, the ticker tape was 69 minutes behind the actual transactions. This is the standard by which the exchange measures the lateness of its reporting while trading is in progress. But the cleanup, the more detailed reporting of all transactions and price changes, ran until 5:51 p.m. on round lots, and eight minutes later on other figures.

The big question was: Who was doing the selling, and why?

Dear Abby....

"Mrs." Might Come
Up Among "Miss-ing"

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After we were married, my wife talked me into letting her retain her maiden name because she was a school teacher and wanted to be known as MISS. This has created some embarrassing situations over the years. After twenty years, I have had it. She positively refuses to use my name and call herself MRS. because, she says, it will confuse things in the school system where she has been known as MISS for so many years. What is your advice?

MR. WITHOUT A MRS. DEAR MISTER: Your school-teacher wife has a lot to learn. But you were the foolish one to have let her get away with it for so long. You can't teach an old horse new tricks. And you'll never teach a mule anything.

DEAR ABBY: We have a large family that includes many grandchildren. They are intelligent, active youngsters from 2 to 12. The minute they set foot in our home they start wrecking the place. My husband says, "Well, here comes the demolition crew!" Abby, they jump on the furniture with their shoes, tear up everything they see and in general act like wild animals. All the while their parents sit by and say nothing.

I think we should borrow some wild kids and repay our children's visits. My husband says we should tell them off and put a stop to their visits until the kids grow up. What is your opinion?

DEAR WHAT: Evidently your own children could use some advice, so don't spare the horse sense. Tell them if they don't teach their children how to behave in the homes of others, they can play outside or stay in their own homes.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who LOANED her wedding ring to her girl friend so she could get married? Seems like a hurry-up affair to me. On their return, the girl claimed she "lost" the ring. I say they pawned it. I also say if my wife had any love for me she never would have taken that ring off her finger.

IRKED HUSBAND

DEAR IRKED: Your wife was foolish to have lent her wedding ring, but don't measure her love for you by a simple well-intentioned (though stupid) act of generosity.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BIG DECISION": Any woman who marries a widower who says, "Remember — my children come first," should expect the worst. And she is rarely disappointed.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

What Type Enemy Have We In South Viet Nam?

EDITOR'S NOTE—What type of enemy is pitted against South Vietnamese troops and their American military advisers? In the following interview a wounded American officer, the son of a famous general, gives an intimate glimpse of the jungle war against "disciplined, fanatical killers."

By NEIL SHEEHAN
United Press International

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—Lt. Col. Frank B. Clay shifted gingerly in his chair, obviously still bothered by wounds caused by fragments of plexiglass and aluminum which ripped into his arm, leg and left side.

He found a more comfortable position and leaned back, a cool drink in his hand.

"They have the same spirit as the Crusaders and Saracens—all fired up for a cause," he said.

Clay, a 40-year-old West Pointer, spoke to this correspondent Thursday just 24 hours after he had been wounded.

And he spoke with respect of the elusive enemy he has spent 11 months searching out in the rice paddies, swamps and jungles of the Mekong River delta south of here.

Clay, son of President Kennedy's Berlin adviser, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, is senior adviser to the Vietnamese 7th Division which is responsible for the war against the Communist Viet Cong in five provinces south of Saigon.

He was wounded Wednesday when Viet Cong bullets shattered the cockpit of the helicopter in which he was flying.

Two weeks ago, during a similar operation against the guerrillas, Clay was nearly killed, when a Communist bullet crashed through the plexiglass canopy of another helicopter within inches of his head.

During Wednesday's brisk action against the Communists three other American officers riding in the same helicopter with Clay also were wounded.

Clay said he and another U.S. military adviser, Col. H. C. Blazard, jumped into action early Wednesday with a company of Vietnamese troops near the village of Nhan Ninh in Kien Tuong Province, 50 miles south of Saigon.

The Vietnamese troops, including civil guards and rangers, had been airlifted around the edges of a wide area covered with flooded rice paddies, criss-crossed by canals, and obscured by fields of tall high elephant grass.

Object of the operation, Clay said, was to encircle and trap elements of the Viet Cong 504th Battalion which had been terrorizing the area.

Clay, Blazard, and a Vietnamese company under a young lieutenant marched along the canal for several hours after being landed by U.S. Army helicopters early in the morning.

The group met only light resistance but had to move slowly because of Viet Cong spike traps and other "booby trap" devices, and thick jungle growth, which blocked the route.

Clay said he stood on the edge of a rice paddy in the afternoon where he could see the action and "rubbed my hands with glee. They (the guerrillas) were moving right toward the regulars."

The Viet Cong, as if sensing the trap, suddenly turned west, Clay related, fleeing quickly across canals and rice paddies.

Clay and Blazard climbed aboard one helicopter while a group of Vietnamese followed in a second to head off the Viet Cong for strafing from the air.

The helicopters swung out in front of the Viet Cong and then roared back, slamming away at guerrillas from 30-caliber machine guns mounted in the exits.

"The Viet Cong hit the ground and returned fire," Clay said.

Clay was in the cockpit directing the pilots.

Voicing his opinion of the quality of Communist troops Clay said "I've never lost my respect for them. They're too clever. And they're disciplined, fanatical killers."

Tony Curtis Hits Actors Who Also Want To Direct

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tony Curtis, appearing in his film company's first picture, is determined not to take over production of the movie to satisfy his ego.

"That's the only reason some of those guys do it," said Curtis. "To be involved in production meetings for no other reason except your ego is madness."

"Everything suffers, the production and your acting. There isn't anyone I know who can direct and act in a movie, let alone write and produce it."

"I leave the day to day production problems to someone else. You can't possibly do it any other way."

Tony is starring in "40 Pounds of Trouble," his company's initial venture, after a series of co-producers. The actor, who will be 37 years old next month, has come a long way since starting as a low-paid boy star years ago. He now commands a first class salary and has his pick of good roles.

None of it came easy. Curtis made his share of mistakes and tried to learn from each one. He was kidded a lot about being the handsome young man, but he set out to be a good actor and is now a top box office attraction.

"I thought it would be different," he said, explaining how it now feels to work for himself. "But it's like making a picture for anybody else. I get the same call in the morning and the same makeup on my face."

"It's like your first custom-made suit. You get it fitted and then it's just like any other suit."

Curtis was under contract to Universal International studios for years and most of his roles were decided by others. He makes his own decisions now.

"The company gives me autonomy I never had before," he said. "I get the opportunity to do stories I want to do."

Curtis feels he's outgrown his old movie image, dramatically and personally. He describes the early Hollywood Tony Curtis as "one of many people trying to get ahead in this business, a sort of bobby sox idol." Curtis is separated from his wife, actress Janet Leigh.

Having played a variety of roles for other producers, Curtis said his company will concentrate on humor, staying away from message pictures. Besides his own company, Curtis will work for other producers.

"We're going to try and do more comedy than anybody else," he said. "My basic responsibility is to entertain an audience. I do pictures I like because I feel that's what my audience wants to see."

"My taste in films is not sophisticated. I like a good Western, adventure story or comedy."

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

"A powder keg may exist in the impoverished northeast of Brazil but the wick is in Rio de Janeiro."

The above quotation is from Gov. Carlos Lacerda of Guanabara state, whose political beliefs make him both a beacon and something of a paradox in a nation where poverty abets growing communism and communism works hand in hand with anti-Yankee nationalism.

Lacerda, whose state capital is Rio, is a former newspaper editor who is one of Brazil's strongest supporters of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program.

He also believes that U. S. aid should have "strings attached." "Let us not pretend," he says, "that economic help has nothing to do with establishing a free responsible community in Latin America. No one as the right to finance policies that do not prevent communism from growing from within."

55TH YEAR

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS
TUESDAY, MAY 29, 1962

In Brazil, the United States needs such supporters as Lacerda. In the poverty-stricken northeast it has instituted both a crash and a long-range program to bring aid to 20 million inhabitants and to prevent a social explosion in the Castro style.

The rains finally came to the parched northeastern plains last week, making possible a late harvest of beans and corn which may, joined with emergency U. S. food shipments, help relieve widespread hardship and starvation.

In northeastern Brazil, aside from perennial drought, the problem is one of land tenure practically unchanged since colonial days, where a few own vast plantations and the majority starve under an income of less than $100 per year. But Brazil's problems are as varied as the nation's size.

In the transport unions especially, the Communists are strong. There is anti-Yankee nationalism evidence in the national Chamber of Deputies by a bill placing prohibitive controls on foreign investment and by such actions as the seizure of International Telephone and Telegraph's $9 million subsidiary in Rio Grande do Sul state by Gov. Leonel Brizola.

Miami Will Host Its Cow Calling Contest Saturday

MIAMI (Sp) — There's no telling what will happen when the whoop-and-holler men and women start yodeling at the 14th annual National Cow Calling Contest and Pioneer Roundup, to be held Saturday at Thompson Grove, one mile east of Miami.

For that reason, farmers and ranchers who live out around Thompson Grove always move their cows far back from the popular picnic area so they won't have to mend broken fences and drive their cattle back home.

Saturday's program will begin with a gathering of old times at 9 o'clock and last until 11:45 when everyone will go to Thompson Grove for a basket lunch. The only admission will be a well-filled basket of food.

The cow calling will get underway at 2 p.m., and is open to anyone in the world. There will be no entry fee and the winners will receive cash prizes through the courtesy of Miami merchants and individuals. The event is sponsored by the Miami Men's Service Club.

A dance, sponsored by the American Legion, will close out the day's activities. Carl Day and His Knights will furnish the music, starting at 9 p.m.

Pressure On Industry Is Repetition Of History

The story of President Kennedy's pressure moves against Roger Bough of U.S. Steel has been recorded in another time in another place.

It is the story of Germany under Bismarck and Hitler. The parallel has been reported in the April 28 issue of Human Events, a weekly publication in Washington, D.C.

How long that publication will last is a question. In face of the power play, it is a question how long any private industry will last. The divide and conquer process served Adolf Hitler well.

It is shocking for our readers to see the United States President mentioned in a parallel with Germany's Hitler, there may still be hope. For the parallel does exist. The question now is whether American patriots have the stomach for such realization and whether they have the courage to contest it.

The article in Human Events by James L. Wick, executive publisher, draws the shocking events of recent weeks into focus with the rise of Germany under Bismarck and Hitler.

"First, what happened in the United States in mid April? In effect writes Wick, the President of the United States issued an ultimatum:

"Play ball with the administration or take the consequences — which we promise you will be serious — The President will hereafter decide the prices you charge, the profits you can make, and the wages you must pay your workers. And, by the way, if you know what is good for you, you will choose chief executive officers pleasing to the White House."

"The New York Post, a pro-Kennedy publication, published a story stating . . . it is felt that Blough may be asked to quit, even tho he is credited with having done a good job for his company . . ."

"One Wall Streeter said: 'Blough's going would have a kind of logic to it. It would summarize a final peace with the government, a final clearing of the air.'"

"A columnist wrote: 'The best inference in Washington . . . is that we may be living in a New Era. Those interested mostly in self-preservation should now make the Eric Johnston adjustment to the new circumstances. When the President, catering to the least intelligent portions of the electorate, hereafter makes a declaration as to what is 'in the national interest,' we now know that he may order the FBI into action at 3 a.m. if need be to get his way."

"Under Bismarck, Germany's collection of weak states was molded into the strongest nation on the continent thru warfare. Prussian armies brought southern German states into line; then Germany fought a war with Austria, winning in seven weeks."

Headline in the Washington Sunday Star: "Mr. Nixon Describes His Tightest Moments." Research of women's smoking habits shows the smoking percentage increases with the size of the city, family income, employment and education.

Today's favorite gag: A none-too-successful salesman, blockaded in Montana by a spring blizzard, wired his boss: "Stranded here due to storm. Wire instructions." Back came the reply: "Start summer vacation immediately."

Eric Johnston led a faction within the U.S. Chamber of Commerce which proclaimed that anti-Rooseveltism was a luxury that business could not afford. This platform brought Johnston the presidency of the chamber and Johnston has done right well for himself ever since.

"The sad truth," writes Wick "is that we may be living in a New Era. Those interested mostly in self-preservation should now make the Eric Johnston adjustment to the new circumstances. When the President, catering to the least intelligent portions of the electorate, hereafter makes a declaration as to what is 'in the national interest,' we now know that he may order the FBI into action at 3 a.m. if need be to get his way."

Ted Kennedy Backers Pressuring Hard As Delegates Near Convention Endorsement

ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASINGTON — Partisans of Edward (Ted) Kennedy are apparently going to exceptional lengths in their hectic last-round efforts to win the endorsement of the Massachusetts Democratic convention for his senatorial ambitions.

Graphically illustrative of their backstage pressure drive is a reputed offer of a telephone call from President Kennedy himself. Amazingly, this alleged proposal was ascribed to a telephone official.

Mrs. Gertrude Daley, Berkshire, Mass., a convention delegate supporting State Attorney General Edward McCormack, asserts she was told the President would phone her if she would switch to his 30-year-old brother.

Edward Moss, former Berkshire business manager of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., is a subsidiary of AT&T, which has a big stake in the controversial communications satellite issue pending in Congress.

As related by Mrs. Daley, following is what transpired: "Moss came to my apartment and spent a lot of time trying to get me to switch to Ted Kennedy. I told him I loved the Kennedys, but that enough is enough. Also that I didn't think Ted had any experience, while Eddie McCormack is older and has come up through the ranks. Moss even tried to get my daughter-in-law, who was visiting me, to persuade me to change over. But she said she would not interfere."

"A few days later, he called me and asked if I would change my mind if the President himself phoned and asked me to vote for him."

To show the Nazi tide was not irresistible, a publisher reported that even after the elections of Nov. 14, 1932, there was a surge of hope among anti-Hitler elements. Of 229 Nazi delegates elected in August, only 196 were returned to parliament.

But the publishers were afraid to risk their positions. They could not agree on an all-out attack. Hitler's control was complete by Jan. 30, 1933, and the publishers of newspapers no longer were free.

Neither were the German people. Wick includes in his report a damaging indictment of spineless publishers the world over. "To resist tyranny — to oppose programs today that may lead to tyranny tomorrow — is a traditional obligation of the press. The German experience may suggest what can happen here."

More and more the Soviet and its satellites are using sex in their world-wide espionage activities. Near Rosa - Luxemburg Square in East Berlin is a new eight-story building. The main entrance is closely guarded and barbed wire barricades prevent pedestrians from getting a glimpse through the windows of the ground floor. Here is where the communists are trained.

From that building will occasionally emerge one or more beautiful girls clad in expensive costumes and wearing the latest in furs. Some will drive off in automobiles and go right through the check points the Reds have set up between East and West Berlin without being stopped.

For these girls are part of the invading communist army. They go to all parts of the world. Only carefully selected students attend this specialized school of sex appeal which the communists have set up. Besides being of more than usual beauty the young women speak two or more languages.

They are well versed in the use of secret codes, miniature transmitters, tape recorders and, most important, in the effective use of their sexual appeal. These lady spies have been thoroughly educated as chief counsel of the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee.

Efforts of former Governor "Happy" Chandler and one-time Senator Earle Clements to wrest the Democratic senatorial nomination from Kentucky's Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt have suffered a stunning setback. Their candidate, Harry Lowman, had to withdraw from the race because of serious illness. That leaves Chandler and Clements out in the cold, but is a big break for Wyatt and Democratic unity in the fall campaign against Republican Senator Thurston Morton.

Chandler and Clements were bitter personal and political foes, but buried their differences to "get" Wyatt. Representative William Green, Philadelphia Democratic leader, won a resounding triumph in the recent primary. His slate swept every contest and overwhelmingly defeated every rival put up against it. In 1960, Green's organization gave President Kennedy a majority of more than 575,000 in the Philadelphia area. It was this huge vote that put Pennsylvania in his column.

Representative Walter Baring, D-Nev., was openly spanked by the state Democratic convention for his opposition to Kennedy administration policies. When a Baring message was read at the convention, it was greeted by silence and a few hisses. Later a resolution lauding the national and state administrations made no mention of Baring. Some Democratic leaders are openly seeking a candidate against him. H. W. Secretary Ribicoff wants to hang on to his job until July 1, shortly before the convening of the Connecticut Democratic convention that will nominate the party's senatorial candidate. Ribicoff feels that will help his chances. But White House insiders are making no bones they feel he should resign by June 15. At the latest, Ribicoff faces tough opposition from Representative Frank Kowalski, retired regular Army officer who is running on a vigorous liberal program.

Work Cut Out For GOP -- Boost Power In Congress

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Republican leaders say they feel pretty good about the primary election results so far. They make a rather sweeping generalization that even in the elections in which they have not polled the most votes, they have at least made gains over their counts in 1958 or 1960.

The new bright spot for the Republicans is Pennsylvania, where GOP National Committee Chairman William E. Miller of New York thinks the party's gubernatorial candidate, multimillionaire William W. Scranton, has definite presidential possibilities for 1964 and a man to watch.

This does not discount the prospect of that other multi-millionaire, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. Republicans are now saying that he is the one 1964 possibility that millionaire President John F. Kennedy would most like to see defeated in this year's New York governorship race.

The reading now is that Gov. Rockefeller's divorce has not injured his political image. Assuming that he does not remarry before the election — which even the governor's closest associates won't talk to him about — he can campaign as a proud father with his fine children on the platform.

Romney and Nixon are considered possibilities only if they win their governorship races. Sen. Barry Goldwater has run for re-election to the Senate in 1964. Since it is not considered likely that he can get a "Lyndon Johnson law" passed by the Arizona legislature to let him run for two offices at the same time, his presidential prospects are dimmed.

But all this 1964 talk is considered speculation. The situation could change completely in the next two years. The immediate Republican job is to make a better showing in Congress than their present 174 House, 36 Senate seats.

They talk big of recapturing control in off-year elections. But they will be doing well if they make a small gain in the Senate and pick up 26 seats in the House for a total of 200. If they don't do that well, the Republican presidential nomination may not be worth having.

The GOP prevailing sentiment seems to be: "Give us a gain in Congress, a couple more Berlin walls, two or three more Laoses or Cubas, two or three more Billie Sol Estes — and we'll be in the running."

The Congressional Joint Committee on Republican principles under Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin expects to have its statement of positive GOP policies ready June 7. It will be voted on by party caucuses in Senate and House. As accepted, it will be presented to the National Committee in Seattle June 11 or 12.

June 22 the Republicans will stage their first $100-a-plate congressional campaign fund dinner in Washington. The old Citizens for Eisenhower and Nixon Committees are being revived and their headquarters moved to Washington to help in other money-raising drives.

June 28 a group of 50 to 75 Republican leaders will hold a conference with ex-President Eisenhower at his Gettysburg farm — probably in a tent. This will precede the annual Governors' Conference at Hershey, Pa., July 4 weekend.

Take Me Out To The Ball Game

It was a beautiful day for baseball. Harriet's fiance, Dick, was taking her to her first big league baseball game. They arrived just before the opening pitch and found their seats along the first base line in the fifth row.

Harriet was enjoying all of the color and excitement of the ball park, the baseball fans, the hot dog vendors, and, of course, the game itself. Suddenly a hard hit foul ball flew into the stands and struck Harriet, severely injuring her.

Harriet brought a lawsuit against the baseball club. She alleged that spectators should be protected from such injuries, and that additional screens should have been put up to prevent fouls from coming into the stands.

But the court said, "No" to Harriet. She had chosen to sit in the unscreened bleachers in preference to sitting behind a screen where the tickets cost more. Therefore, she had "assumed the risk" of being hit by a batted or thrown ball during the playing of the game. No recovery was allowed.

In such cases, the courts say that the spectator is an invitee to whom the invitor (the ball club) owes the duty to exercise ordinary care to render the premises reasonably safe for him.

"But," say the courts, "the invitor is not an insurer of the safety of the invitee; neither is the invitee protected against all hazard, nor relieved of all duty to himself for his own safety. And to the extent that the duty of self-protection rests upon the invitee, the duty of the invitor to protect is reduced."

The same rules as to "assumption of risk" are applied to most places of amusement and amusement devices. A swimmer must anticipate that a diving board will be wet and slippery. A person who rides on an amusement device and sees flying sparks takes the chance that a flying spark may strike his eye.

And one who goes upon a revolving floor device for the purpose of being thrown from it, accepts the dangers inherent in the sport so far as they are obvious.

On the other hand, if the danger is not apparent or obvious, the operator of the device has a duty to warn the rider or spectator. It is the ordinary risk that is assumed, not the unusual. Where, for example, a device was operated on a particular occasion at an especially fast speed so that it jerked and jolted violently, a rider who was injured by these unusual conditions was permitted to recover.

A patron of a place of amusement is entitled to be protected from hidden dangers, but he cannot go into a place of danger which he appreciates and understands, and then recover damages if he is injured.

WALTER ROGERS

18th District of Texas

Walter Rogers Reports
War Against Crime

The Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives is presently engaged in final action on a bill which will contribute measurably to breaking the back of crime. Several measures have been passed in the last year directed at the very roots from which crime feeds. These have been aimed at curtailment or shutting down of wire services furnishing information which the bookies, sports pool betting, and lay-off operators must have to operate on a big time scale. Cutting off this information is in effect cutting off the very source upon which gambling feeds. Without gambling and the enormous profits reaped therefrom, criminals are unable to finance big time crime.

It has been the profit from gambling that has enabled the crime syndicate to flourish. It makes no difference whether it is a small, local syndicate, a national syndicate, or an international group. In recent years some of these associations have become so rich and powerful that they have completely outgrown local authority.

There has been evidence of collusion between public officials and the syndicates that effectively blocked law enforcement. There has been evidence of arrogant flouting of local authority and enforcement officers, due to flaws and loopholes in the present laws.

Big time criminals are dealing with millions, if not billions, of dollars. By the use of these funds they can employ the best brains available to circumvent statutory prohibitions. An excellent example of this has been the manner in which the Johnson Act, which is sometimes referred to as the "slot machine law," has been conveniently avoided. The requirement of the certainty with which a crime must be spelled out in a criminal law makes it possible for these criminals to work out methods of obtaining a result without actually violating the law. The Johnson Act which was passed in 1951 outlawed the interstate transportation of slot machines.

In the Act, gambling devices referred to had to be defined. It was this definition which afforded the loophole for the gamblers. They simply shifted their operations from the slot machine defined in the Johnson Act to the "pinball" machine, which had been used primarily for amusement only. By making some intricate changes in the operations of these machines, they were able to perfect a method of continuing their gambling operations, and in fact increase their take in many areas.

The American Bar Association took a leading role in instituting action to stem this tide. Out of their activities and the activities of the lawmakers who have long fought the gambling syndicates, a bill referred to as S. 1658 came into being. As could be expected, much pressure has been brought to bear on Members of Congress, from many directions. The gambling syndicates themselves do not lobby directly, but do their best to obtain help from every segment of the economy to which they can appeal.

Usually, this help is innocently provided by those who do not suspect what is behind the scenes. For instance, I have received quite a number of communications opposing this legislation on the ground that it is designed to concentrate power in Washington, and to infringe upon the rights of American citizens. No one abhors centralization of power any more than I do. No one abhors infringement upon the rights of individual American citizens any more than I do.

However, I would point out that these arguments against S. 1658 are fraudulent in every detail. Unless legislation like S. 1658 is passed, there will certainly be a concentration of power. This concentration will not be in Washington, but will be in the hands of the vicious criminals throughout this land and the world who have no inhibitions about preying upon American citizens, whether they be business people, teenagers, or little children.

Unless this type of legislation is passed, the rights of American citizens will be infringed upon; but this infringement will not be by a division or agency of the government. It will be by those same criminals who have no regard for human rights and who contribute to the destruction of the very inner character of human beings, and whose activities have throughout history destroyed homes and churches and entire nations.
