Oilman Charged With Swindle In East Texas Slant-Drilling Scandal

DALLAS (UPI)—A Dallas petroleum company formally charged an East Texas oil operator Saturday with a $6 million swindle. It was the first criminal charge in a rapidly enlarging oil well slant drilling scandal.

Nortex Oil and Gas Corp., the petroleum company, filed the fraud charge in justice of the peace court against W. O. Davis

Jr. of Longview, Tex. Justice of the Peace Glenn Byrd issued a warrant for Davis' arrest.

The warrant said Davis is believed to be in Palm Springs, Calif. (Revere Motel) or in Las Vegas, Nev. Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said he will recommend a $25,000-$30,000 bond for Davis.

Slant hole or deviation drilling is the drilling of oil wells at angles on dry leases in order to steal oil from pools on adjacent leases.

The Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates petroleum production in the state, has ordered operators of thousands of wells in the East Texas field—the world's largest—not to tamper with their wells until inspectors can check them.

A force of 50 Rangers and other Department of Public Safety men is in the East Texas field to make sure the wells are not tampered with. The kind of tampering the railroad commission especially wants to prevent is plugging with cement.

The inspectors already have reported 14 slant-drilled wells and two plugged wells.

The charge filed by the assistant secretary of Nortex and one of its officials said Davis, on Feb. 10, 1961 "did unlawfully and fraudulently take $6 million in stocks and debentures of the Nortex Oil and Gas Corp. in the form of eight oil leases in Gregg and Rusk counties."

The charge did not go into detail, but it was understood slant drilling was involved. Davis, operating as Ebro Oil Co., got $6 million from Nortex. After the deal, he continued to operate the wells on a 50-50 basis.

Nortex filed a civil action in Henderson, Tex. last Wednesday, charging Davis with overstating and misrepresenting the value of the leases. If it had not been for the misrepresentation, Nortex said, it would not have bought the leases.

According to Wade, Davis was the president and chief stockholder of Ebro Oil Co. He undertook to sell Nortex eight leases.

Nortex sent two appraisers to see whether the leases were worth what Davis wanted for them.

After the inspection, the appraisers reported that the leases had a potential of 13 million barrels of oil.

So Nortex went ahead with the (See OILMAN, Page 4)

Disorders Grip Mexico In Connection With JFK Visit

Police And Peasants In Clash Near Resort

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Rural disorders, believed provoked by the Communists in connection with President Kennedy's forthcoming visit here, were reported in several areas Saturday.

Police clashed with peasants near the resort city of Cuernavaca in Morelos State in a dispute over lands occupied by squatters.

A real estate subdivision owned by an American citizen, Donald M. Stone, was reported involved in the dispute.

In the northwestern state of Sonora a "hunger march" was being carried out by farm workers and federal troops were on guard in Chiapas State where squatters fought a pitched gun battle earlier this week that resulted in at least a dozen deaths, reports from that area said.

Donato Miranda Fonseca, presidential ministry secretary, said telegrams from various farm organizations have branded the Sonora and Chiapas unrest as Communist-inspired.

Thirty persons were arrested near the Mexico City suburb of Tlalneapantla Saturday when several hundred squatters moved into one area there.

The newspaper ABC said "the hand of the Reds" was evident in the current farm agitation.

Kennedy and his wife are scheduled to arrive here June 29. Authorities here said his visit will include a tour of an "Ejido"—a Mexican style community farming project—outside of the capital.

Mexico's largest farm workers' organization has pledged its cooperation with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos in making Kennedy's visit a success.

Demos Said Involved In 'Harassment'

CORPUS CHRISTI (UPI)—The U.S. District Courtroom will be the setting here Monday morning for a civil rights fight in which the state Republican party contends a GOP official was harassed by Democrats.

Legally, the hearing before U.S. Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza is over whether Duval County Republican chairman Clarence Schroeder should have to serve a three-day contempt of court sentence handed him for refusal to give a Duval County Grand Jury records of the GOP May 5 primary.

But the undercurrent is the Republicans' charge that Democratic officials violated the secrecy of the ballot box and violated Schroeder's civil rights in the case.

Schroeder contends he was forcibly taken to the San Diego, Tex., courthouse to appear before the grand jury. He refused to take records of the election with him to the grand jury, and was held in contempt by Dist. Judge Woodrow Laughlin.

Neutralists, Reds Said After Power

VIETIANE, Laos (UPI)—The right-wing Laotian government accused its pro-Communist and neutralist opponents Saturday of blocking formation of a coalition government by demanding more and more police and defense powers.

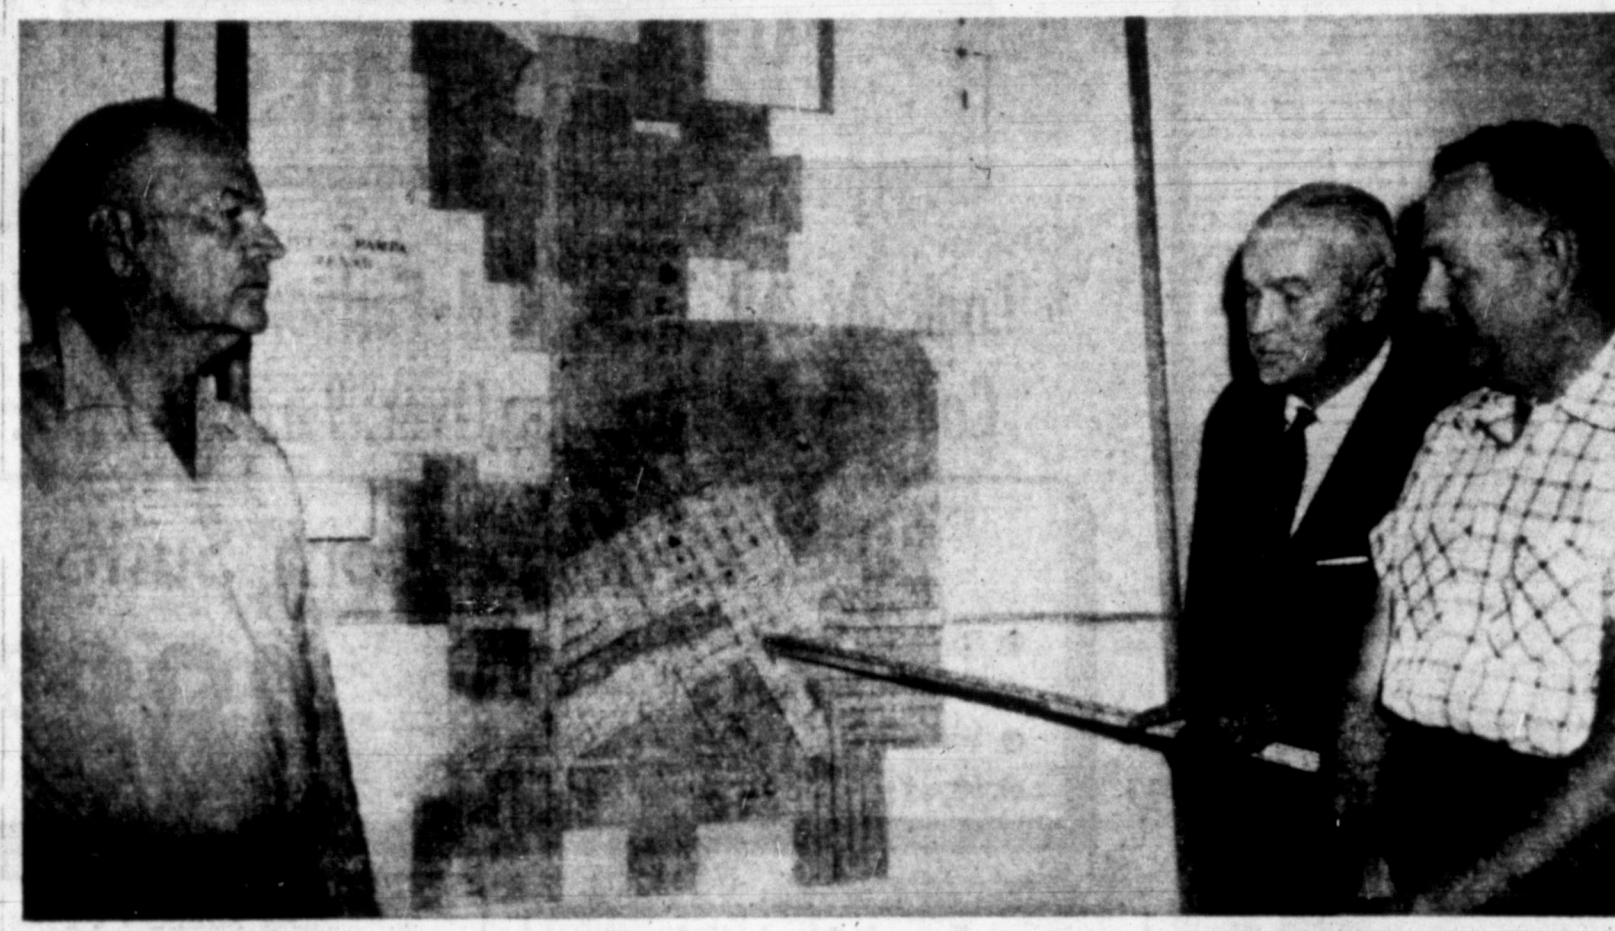

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, the right-wing strongman, and Premier Prince Boun Oum, already had agreed to turn over the key posts of defense and interior (police) to neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma's faction in the new government.

Saturday, the Royal government's Lao Presse Agency said the opposition, especially the pro-Communist faction led by "red" Prince Souphanouvong, head of the Pathet Lao, was demanding additional deputy ministers which would give them greater powers.

The three Laotian princes have been meeting at Khang Khay on the rebel-held plain of Jars in central Laos. The talks were adjourned until Monday when they indicated they expected to reach a final agreement on a coalition.

Lao Presse said the negotiators agreed to drop the proposal for more deputy ministers during the Friday morning session but that Souvanna and Souphanouvong changed their minds and renewed the demand in the afternoon.

Lao Presse, official voice of the right-wing Vientiane government, said the two princes wanted the deputies "chosen from among the military chiefs of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao bands and Souvanna Phouma's forces."

ON THE LAUNCHING PAD — Pampa city officials are readying plans to initiate a vast street improvement program on inter-city highways within the city limits. G. K. ## It's Pampa's Move Next Highway Improvement Program Gets Boost Via Friday Planning Session

Prelude to a long range inter-city highway improvement program moved into second gear here late Friday afternoon as city, county, and state highway officials met in City Hall and jelled plans that have been in the preliminary discussion stage since last October.

District Highway Engineer Charles Smith of Amarillo, Resident Highway Engineer G. K. Reading, Mayor E. C. Sidwell, County Judge Bill Craig, City Commissioners Leon Holmes and Will Graham, City Manager Harold Schmitzer, City Engineer Moore, Public Works Director R. B. Cooke, Fred Thompson and Frank Culbertson of the Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee, and Wayland Merriman, of Merriman and Barber, consulting engineers, attended the session.

Pampa's city commission learned from the State Highway Department representatives that the drainage, widening and paving projects connected with State Highways 152, 273 and 80 in the west and south portions of the city are hinging upon the city's next move in making a request for the state department's participation in the overall program inside the city limits.

District Engineer Smith told the city commission that the state would be ready to cooperate with the wishes of Pampa in connection with the long-range projection of the entire program just as soon as the city was equipped with the necessary funds for its share of the improvements and right-of-way acquisitions so that the work could proceed.

The major improvements being considered in what could be an overall $1,500,000 program in the south and west portions of Pampa would include the widening and paving of Alcock St. (Borger Highway) from Hobart St. to Price Rd., reconditioning of U. S. 60 inside the city limits on Wilks, W. Brown and E. Frederic, and State Highway 273 from Brown St. south on Cuyler and S. Barnes to the McCullough Ave. city limits.

Also included would be a sewer and drainage program to be tied (See HIGHWAY, Page 4)

Still More Rain For Pampa As .48 Inch Is Measured

Pampa got nearly a half-inch of rain Friday night as the "monsoon" season continued in full swing throughout the Panhandle.

Less than a month ago, area farmers, ranchers and the man-on-the-street were calling for rain to end what could have been a good beginning for a drought.

Now, most of the area has had some rain and some places have had a little too much. However, no one wants to speak up too loudly about too much rain "cause 'someone up there' might hear and too much rain is much, much better than none at all, generally speaking, that is.

The rain gauge above The News building read .48 inch following Friday night's pyrotechnic display.

Thunderstorms soaked parts of East and North Texas Saturday and new weather turbulence built up in West Texas.

A strip of West Texas came under a severe thunderstorm and tornado forecast between 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. The violent weather forecast covered a 120-mile-wide stretch from 40 miles east of Tucuman, N. M. to Fort Stockton, Tex.

Thundershowers fell at Longview in mid-afternoon. Henderson had light rain and heavy rain fell at Carthage in Panola County. Lightning struck an oil tank about (See WEATHER Page 4)

City Manager Has Orientation-Type Meeting With Heads Of Departments

Supervisory heads of Pampa's various municipal departments learned from Pampa's new city manager Friday afternoon that each of them has responsibilities and duties and that they will be expected to carry them out to the fullest.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer also told the department heads, at the first staff meeting he has called since becoming city manager May 15, that he was not employed by the City Commission to come to Pampa to fire anyone.

"They have not criticized any of you," Schmitzer said, "so, if any of you are apprehensive, please calm your fears."

The new city manager told the assembled group at City Hall that he wanted to extend to them the fullest cooperation of his office.

He said the City Council had turned over to him all the powers of the city manager under the city charter to manage Pampa's municipal affairs and that he would need the cooperation of each department head to do his job in a satisfactory manner.

"I will extend you the fullest cooperation from my office and I will back you completely until you prove that you are not worthy of this backing," Schmitzer continued.

Then he added: "To each department head, I want to say this one thing: you have been placed in responsible positions by my predecessors, I have reason to believe, because of your competence and ability. I shall respect this decision." (See MANAGER, Page 4)

GEORGE SCOTT ... to direct campaign

George Scott United Fund Drive Head

H. V. Wilks, president of the Pampa United Fund Board, announced that George Scott will head the 1962 Pampa-Lefors United Fund drive, which gets underway in October.

Scott succeeds George Newberry, who headed the 1961 drive. Wilks said the community goal set this year is approximately $73,000, $5,000 over last year's $68,000 goal.

Scott, accompanied by Newberry, will attend a one-day United Fund Chest Institute Tuesday to be held in Amarillo.

The institute is designed to help leaders become more acquainted with the workings of the United Funds in their communities. Delegates from the West Texas area will attend the meet.

Those attending will receive training in campaign activities such as budgeting, fund-raising, organization, techniques and publicity.

Scott will select his committees and work out campaign details after Tuesday's meeting. Wilks said.

Stiff Note Hits Red Shootings

BERLIN (UPI)—U. S. commandant Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II warned the Soviet commandant in unusually strong language Saturday, against Communist border guards firing at refugees and said in many countries such crimes are "punishable by death."

Watson, in a stiff protest to Maj. Gen. Andrei V. Solovyev, told the Russians "to weigh the consequences" because failure to recognize the mounting acts of violence in the Soviet zone "implies that you condone what is going on."

Watson said the shootings at men, women and children by Soviet sector and Soviet zone guards "are crimes of the most serious order in all civilized countries... (and) in many countries they are punishable by death."

"Callous and criminal disregard for human life" will create a serious problem of maintaining law and order in all sectors of Berlin, he said, and can only harm relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

He protested all firing across the border and condemned in particular Communist firing on the East German excursion boat Friedrich Wolf Friday when its crew raced across the River Spree with 14 refugees.

Watson said more than 200 shots were fired at the freedom boat and that a number of them hit houses and other buildings in the American sector.

"West Berlin police were compelled to return fire in order to protect themselves and 14 civilian passengers on the ship and in order to prevent a Soviet sector police boat from violating United States sector territory," he said.

Demo Politicos 'Stunned' Ted In Massachusetts Blitzkrieg

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—Ted Kennedy predicted Saturday his next stop would be Washington.

Politicians, still stunned by his blitzkrieg victory for the Democratic senatorial endorsement, agreed he had far better than an even chance to join his two brothers as a political power in the capital.

The youngest of the Kennedy clan, sticking his toe in the political waters for the first time, made a resounding splash.

He won the endorsement of the Democratic state committee in the early hours of the day when his opponent, Edward J. McCormack Jr., attorney general of Massachusetts and nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, realized he was being swamped under a wave of Kennedy votes.

McCormack went to the convention microphone shortly after midnight and conceded defeat by withdrawing his name from consideration.

Kennedy, 30, started looking to the future immediately.

"We are starting a campaign right now that will bring us victory over the Republicans in November," he said.

and "take my case to the people."

If Kennedy defeats McCormack again, he still will have to go against the Republicans in November.

Massachusetts law compels both political parties to hold conventions and endorse candidates, but the result is not binding on the voters.

The Republicans will hold their convention next week to choose between George Cabot Lodge, son of former U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, and Rep. Lawrence Curtis. Lodge at present is the favorite.

happened here political experts are inclined to believe that he will be wasting his time.

Kennedy now is the official candidate of the party, his name will appear first on the ballot and he has a well oiled political machine which probably will become stronger.

Only a little more than half the 40 districts had been polled when McCormack tossed in the towel. At that stage, Kennedy had won 21 of the 34 delegations polled, tied in one and lost two.

Shortly after his victory, Kennedy got a phone call from his brother in the White House. The Kennedy camp here has been (See KENNEDY, Page 4)

Farmer's Organization Backs Mateos Policy

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The country's largest farm workers' organization has pledged full support to President Adolfo Lopez Mateos in his policy of friendship toward the United States, in the wake of rural agitation believed timed to precede President Kennedy's visit this month.

Meanwhile, new clashes between peasants and police over occupation of lands by families of squatters were reported Saturday near Cuernavaca. They affected a real estate subdivision owned by a U.S. citizen, Donald M. Stone.

The fight followed a pitched battle earlier this week in Chiapas where squatters fought a pitched gun battle that caused at least a dozen deaths.

Federal troops guarded the Chiapas area today, along with 25 state and federal police, to forestall planned further invasions. Officials estimated that about 150 small farm dwellings of the squatters were burned after the battle.

Thirty squatters (called parachutists) were arrested near Tlalneapantla, where it was reported that several hundred persons have moved in on lands of the Verger Colony.

Federal agrarian affairs chief Roberto Barrios condemned false redemptors of agrarianism for their demagogery in inciting peasants, and appealed to the latter to make their demands through legal channels.

Coincidentally, it was disclosed that Kennedy will include a visit to see an ejido.

The ejido chosen will probably be within a half hour's drive of Mexico City, an informed source said.

Presidential Ministry Secretary Donato Miranda Fonseca made public telegrams received from various farm organizations openly branding as Communist-inspired the agitation in Chiapas, as well as a hunger march started in Sonora by farm workers.

red on the tract (El Ensueno), which was invaded several years ago by about 3,000 parachutists, who were later dislodged by federal troops.

The Cuernavaca area was headquarters of the late Ruben Jaramillo, leftist peasant leader, who was shot to death, along with his wife and her three sons, after they were seized by a detachment of soldiers and federal police two weeks ago.

Members Of Sect Burn Own Homes

TRAIL, B.C. (UPI)—Members of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors Saturday burned some of their homes despite extra patrols of Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the Kootenay Region where the sect has set fire to 57 houses in the past 24 hours.

"God told us to do it," they explained Friday when they began burning down their homes in this remote British Columbia area.

Some of the Doukhobors took off their clothes as the homes—plywood and tarpaper shacks—went up in flames. Others hurled rocks at police and newsmen. Belongings were removed before the homes were set afire.

Police said belongings at several other homes have been removed, leading them to believe more fires would be set.

The Sons of Freedom, an extremist faction of the Doukhobor sect which emigrated from Russia to Canada at the turn of the century, burn, bomb and disrobe to protest the interference of government in their affairs.

FAA Feels More Airports Are Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency said last week in its annual report to Congress that nine general aviation airports are needed to relieve air traffic congestion in the Dallas area.

Four new airports are needed for congestion relief in both the Houston and Fort Worth areas, and one at Amarillo, El Paso and San Antonio, said FAA Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby. The FAA suggested that $13.6 million be spent for new and improved airports in Texas.

The airports needed in the Texas areas were part of 250 new or modernized airports needed to serve general aviation (non-airline traffic) primarily, thus reducing congestion at 59 major metropolitan areas.

Suggested locations for airports in Texas were:

- Aransas Pass, Arlington, Bay City, Baytown, Beeville, Big Bend National Park, Colorado City, Corsicana, Crosbyton, Dallas, Dell City, El Campo-Wharton, El Paso, Ennis, Fort Worth, Garland, Grand Prairie, Hillsboro, Houston, Irving, Killeen, Kingsville, Liberty, Munday-Knox City, Port Lavaca, Rosenberg-Richmond, Seminole, Spearman, Texas City, Waxahachie and Weatherford.

The Lighter Side The Massachusetts Contest

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — For some reason, the Democratic senatorial contest in Massachusetts this year has been a source of considerable amusement here in the nation's capital.

I have endeavored to ascertain the cause of the merriment, but it has eluded me.

Apparently, it has something to do with the fact that one of the candidates, Ted Kennedy, is the brother of the President while the other, Ed McCormack, is the nephew of Speaker John McCormack.

Frankly, I don't see anything very humorous about that. Most people have relatives, for politicians the more the better. It could happen to anyone.

But if all of the "Ted & Ed" jokes spawned during the campaign were laid end to end, they would reach from Pat to Mike. No less a personage than Sen. Edmund S. Muskie took note of the levity in the situation when he addressed the Massachusetts Democratic convention at Springfield Thursday night.

In his home state of Maine, Muskie said, "we Democrats used to wonder whether we could find enough candidates to match the job opportunities available."

"I understand that you have a somewhat different problem," he added.

"It will be up to the convention to choose between Ted and Ed, and Muskie made it plain that he didn't envy the delegates that task.

In view of the intensity of the contest, he said he was "glad to be representing the United States Senate rather than the White House or the House of Representatives."

At the moment, he explained, the Senate could be considered "neutral ground," which took him off the spot.

"I am relieved that Lyndon Johnson has no relatives running in Massachusetts," he commented.

Muskie went on to recall that some 65 years ago "the chief justice of the Supreme Court, the speaker of the House and the president pro tem of the Senate were all downeast Yankees" from Maine.

"It is obvious that Massachusetts is doing its best to match that record," he said.

He also noted that either Ted or Ed would be running against a Republican candidate in the general election.

Home Foreclosures Concern Government

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government for the first time officially expressed concern Friday over "the rising number of home foreclosures."

The census bureau said that, "prompted by the concern," it would make a six-city survey of recently foreclosed mortgages to find out why homeowners could not keep up payments.

Last year's foreclosures were nearly 22,000 above 1960. It was the highest total since 1940.

"Indeed, it is apparent that no matter whom you choose for your senatorial nominee, the campaign this fall will be a contest between the dynasty and the dinosaurs," he said.

I thought, however, that Muskie best summed up the situation with the observation that Massachusetts Democrats seemed to be "joking more now but enjoying it less."

In 1961, according to government figures, mortgages were foreclosed on 73,074 non-farm properties. Most were private houses.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What to do in case of fire and other emergencies is part of the growing up knowledge of American kids everywhere. Call the fire department, etc.

There is no common experience, however, that prepares the adult citizen for another kind of emergency that confronts Americans from time to time. This emergency develops when an American citizen is approached by a legal espionage agent of the Soviet Union with a proposition that seems to be both reasonable and harmless.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is eager for American citizens to be prepared for such an emergency.

What to do? Call the FBI. There are more than 76 Soviet and satellite officials on duty in the United States. It is estimated that 70 to 80 per cent of these officials are intelligence agents in addition to their diplomatic and other duties. They are called legal espionage agents because they are legally in the United States. Much of their activity, however, cannot be done legally within the restrictions of their accredited duties. Among other items, these persons seek books, pamphlets, photographs, charts, blueprints, production and training data of all kinds. When unable personally to obtain such material, the Soviet agents frequently turn to an American citizen.

"The citizen may see no harm in procuring a particular catalog or company report for a Kremlin agent. The document is not secret. But unless the citizen is very careful, he may find himself caught in an intrigue from which he cannot escape.

"Contact us at once," is the FBI's advice for such a citizen.

"Generally," an FBI spokesman explained, "Foreign intelligence agents have a motive which goes far beyond obtaining an item which is easily available to the public and probably has little, if any, significant value. A primary objective of legal espionage agents is to recruit others to do their bidding.

"They use the obvious means of exploiting Communist sympathy or ethnic loyalties. They offer financial gain. They use threats or promises where a hostage situation exists, that is, when the American citizen has a relative or sweetheart behind the Iron Curtain. They employ blackmail on the basis of existing or created situations involving sex, perversion, illegal activities or other circumstances.

"Modern?" That's like when you've got (Gas) Air Conditioning!

"Modern" is a real hard word to explain. Like, fr instance, if you were talking about the "newest" in Summer comfort — the Sun Valley Gas air conditioner. It's the "most" in Summer comfort, because the air is the "coolest," and "cleanest" and stays that way when it's "hottest" outside. You might say it's the "economical"est, too, because it uses low-cost, dependable GAS. And no moving parts in the heating or cooling cycles make it the "maintenance free"est" of any unit on the market. So I guess you'd say "modern" ends everything with an "est," like the Sun Valley does.

The Achilles Heel Of Red China

Moral Force Can Win, Says Chiang Kai-shek's General

(Editor's Note: Here is an interview which appeared in the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner on May 13 of this year. It was written by Giles Wright following an interview with General Ho Ying-chin, chairman of the Military Strategy Advisory Board to President Chiang Kai-shek and a former prime minister of the Republic of China. Gen. Ho Ying-chin was in Pampa recently during the presentation of the play, "The Dragon." The interview reprinted here is to help Pampans further understand the purposes of Moral Re-Armament, sponsor of the play, "The Dragon.")

GEN. HO YING-CHIN
... China can be free

By GILES WRIGHT
Herald Examiner Staff Writer

Is it possible that China some day can be returned to the free world without war?

That question was put to General Ho Ying-chin, chairman of the Military Strategy Advisory Board to President Chiang Kai-shek and former prime minister of the Republic of China.

"Yes," he said. "It is possible."

"From within?" next asked Herbert H. Krauch, editor of The Herald-Examiner, who conducted the interview in his offices.

"Yes," said General Ho, whose vigorous manner and erect carriage make him appear 20 years younger than his age of 73. Speaking through an interpreter, Wing Wong, he added:

"Because communism uses hatred and tyranny to rule and control the masses, it is bound to fail. The character of the masses in China for 5000 years has been peace loving, and Chinese in their own tradition have a deep moral character and integrity.

"Recently I read in a Communist magazine called 'The Youth' an article advocating that Communists in China build a new morality."

"Do you mean the Communists now feel they can't control the masses without this morality?" asked Krauch.

"I feel that is so," said General Ho. "There is a great moral need in the country."

"Do you think there is any means possible by which teachings of the free world can be sent behind the Bamboo Curtain?" the general then was asked.

"The Voice of America and the radio from Free China can give these teachings to those behind the curtain," General Ho replied. "The people listen."

"Recently a pilot escaped in a MIG plane to Free China, and he said people on the mainland were eager to listen to such broadcasts."

"The question now is whether the people of the mainland can be offered an idea superior to com-munistism by surrounding nations—Japan, Taiwan, South Viet Nam, Burma, Pakistan, Thailand and India."

"What do you see for China in the future?" asked Krauch.

"To recover the mainland, and to answer communism on the mainland, we must have a superior ideology," the general said promptly. "The military cannot do the job alone."

General Ho's half-century military and political career lends weight to his opinions on such matters.

With Dr. Sun Yat-sen, he was one of the makers of the Chinese Revolution which overthrew the Manchu dynasty in 1911 and established the republic. Following four years as Superintendent of Military Training, in 1936 General Ho entered the cabinet as minister of war, holding the post until the end of World War II. At the end of the war, he received the Japanese sword of surrender.

During the Sino-Japanese conflict, as commander of the Chinese armies in the field, he was responsible for five million men. In 1944 he was appointed commander-in-chief, Allied land forces, China Theater.

Many of the present military leaders of both Nationalist and Communist China were trained by him. Men such as Communist Premier Chou En-lai and Marshal Chu Teh once served under him.

For years, General Ho has been a militant anti-Communist, but explains that formerly he thought the only way to deal with communism was to meet force with force, later learning that we must meet idea with idea.

In that role, he brought 53 young Chinese appearing in the Moral Re-Armament play "The Dragon" to the United States. It was presented in Los Angeles at the Biltmore Theater.

With few questions needed by Editor Krauch, General Ho expanded on his ideas in this manner:

"I'm a soldier and I know that military preparedness, a sound political system and a healthy economy are necessary for a country to exist."

"At the end of World War II, the Nationalist army was five times as great as that of the Communists, despite help from the Russians. Our economy was not so healthy, but that was not the reason we lost the mainland to the Communists. We lost because we lacked the dynamic of a moral ideology. Without this, the people did not know where they stood."

"Many of them were threatened by the Communists, others were bought by them. Many of the leaders bought and fooled by the Communists are still being used as figureheads for so-called democratic parties."

"I am sorry to say that because we lost the mainland, communism has threatened the whole free world. I feel that I owe an apology to the world for what we did not do on the mainland."

"It is why today, at 73 years of age, I want to take a group of young people to all countries to tell what happened in China, so that it will not happen elsewhere. (The play "The Dragon" deals with the loss of the mainland to the Communists and the new hope of regaining it.)"

"Still, I believe that if America is equipped with a superior ideology, to go along with its military and economic strength, it could win the world overnight."

"I know, as a soldier, that any military conflict between Russia and the West can destroy the world. If Russia provokes war, there will be retaliation, so I do not believe we will have nuclear war."

"We are now in the new age of the war of ideologies."

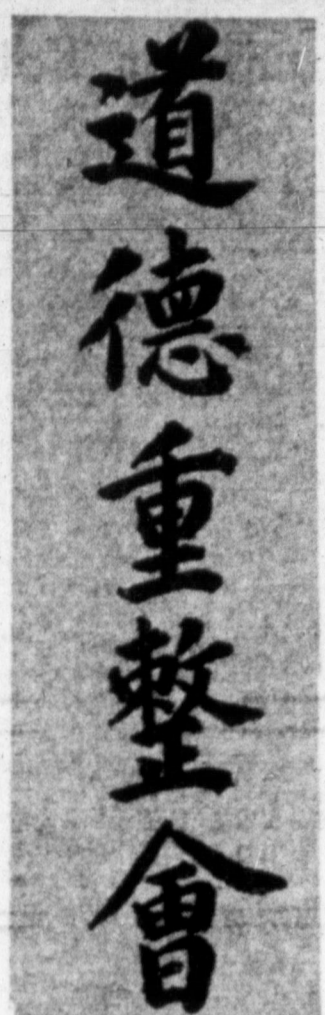

"Communists believe they can win the world with their idea of communism. Leaders of free nations must realize we have reached this age of ideologies and that winning depends on having a superior one."

"Communism is out of date. It is only for one class and is centered on hate."

"The superior ideology is Moral Re-Armament, for it is God-centered and creates unity. It can give a better ideology to Communists themselves and thus win the world."

"Before it began reaching people of the world through its plays, 'The Tiger' and 'The Dragon,' most of the people thought there were only two alternatives possible: war or communism."

"Many were afraid of communism because they had no answer in their hearts. Moral Re-Arma-

CHINESE characters (above) for Moral Re-Armament also spell a new approach to conquering Communist China, says General Ho Ying-chin, chairman of Chiang Kai-shek's military advisory board and former premier of the Republic of China.

ment films and plays presented to these people give a new hope and offer a new ideology which is the next great forward step for Communists and non-Communists alike.

"If we had had Moral Re-Armament in China, we would not have lost the mainland."

"It has changed sincere Communists in many nations, because they believe communism is too small. An example occurred in Europe's heavy industry center in the Ruhr, where Communist representation on the works councils dropped from 72 per cent to 8 per cent."

"This happened because Moral Re-Armament can change human nature."

"Youth today is cynical, and it is hard to change its thinking, but after learning from Moral Re-Armament youth finds it is a greater idea than those it knew only from Leftist sources."

"An example is provided by Japanese students who led the riots in Tokyo which caused President Eisenhower's visit to be cancelled. Some were changed by Moral Re-Armament and they wrote a play called 'The Tiger.' It has been seen by millions in South America, Europe, and the United States.

"Among those seeing it in Peru were students at San Marcos University, where the stoning of Vice President Nixon was organized when he visited Peru."

"They were affected to such an extent they produced their own play, and invited Nixon and his mother to attend the premiere. His mother went, and at the end of the play the Peruvian students apologized to her for what they had done to her son."

"This proves human nature can be changed."

While on the subject of youth, Krauch asked the general for his opinion of the U.S. Peace Corps.

"I think the Peace Corps idea is very good," General Ho said. "Through it, the spirit of America is given to underdeveloped countries. But I believe that if the Peace Corps were equipped with a superior ideology it would increase its effectiveness in all countries. If the Peace Corps were coordinated with Moral Re-Armament, great results could be produced in many countries."

The general's face is unlined, and he spoke with the optimism of the young. Hope buoyed his ideas and plans until it was difficult to keep in mind the history that his life already has spanned.

Certainly he did not appear to be a man who has seen much of the freedom he had helped his country achieve 50 years ago slip away and now be seeking to regain an objective attained in his youth.

For there was never anything in the general's words, manner or appearance to suggest that he had ever suffered defeat, even a partial one.

Office Here Is Maintained To Help Students Find Summertime Jobs

In an effort to secure summertime jobs for Pampa high school students, the Top O' Texas Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a Youth Employment Service.

According to Bill Fry, club president, the service, called YES, is now in full swing and is designed to find summertime jobs and a chance to earn extra money for students during the summer vacation.

Offices for the employment service are located at 317 E. Tyng and are open from 8 to 12 a.m. and from 1 to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Fry said anyone interested in employing a student for a part-time job this summer may contact the office by telephoning MO 5-4544.

A complete file is kept on all students who want jobs and a list of what jobs they can do is at hand.

The office is manned by high school students who have donated their time to the YES program.

Almost any type of employment is on file at the Tyng Street headquarters, varying from a ranch hand to baby sitting.

Fry stated that it is up to the employer what the worker is paid and all the equipment for the job is expected to be furnished by the employer.

The employment service will end in September when the school year begins, Fry said.

A program similar to the one being carried out in Pampa has been a success in other cities throughout the state, and some services are made available the year around.

"We hope Pampans will use the facilities offered them and help keep the students occupied and furnish some extra money for them," Fry concluded.

seven miles west of Henderson and set it afire.

Thunderstorms packing 10-inch rains, twisters, cotton-crushing hail and hurricane-force winds lashed thousands of square miles of North and West Texas Friday night and early Saturday.

A stalled weak cold front stretching from New Mexico across North Central Texas was producing the rain.

More thunderstorms were expected Sunday but temperatures were expected to be a bit warmer, especially in the Northwest.

The rain made it cooler than it had been for more than a week in the northern half of the state after overnight lows ranging from 53 degrees at Dalhart to 80 at Corpus Christi. But the mercury quickly rose into the 90s by mid-morning in South Texas.

Waco received .66 of an inch of rain between 6 a.m. and noon and Mineral Wells 1.43. Other measurements for the same period: Wichita Falls .05, Dallas .68, Amon Carter Field (Fort Worth) .42, Abilene .16, Childress .08 and traces at Tyler, Longview, Midland and Lubbock.

Friday's storm hit Johnson and Hill Counties the hardest.

High winds knocked out power at Rio Vista in Johnson County for two hours, smashed a cotton gin and its office and a feed mill. Big trees were uprooted. They blocked the main street for a time.

Six inches of rain fell at Rio Vista. Ten inches of rain fell on the Circle R Ranch northwest of Rio Vista.

Winds of 77 miles an hour smashed windows and unroofed a Cleburne grade school and 75 mile an hour winds tore roofs off five business houses at Hillsboro.

Hail that fell in a 5-mile-wide corridor for 30 miles in the South Plains dealt a death blow to hundreds of acres of new cotton. At least 40 farmers reported their crops will be a total loss.

Streets of Mineral Wells looked like rivers at one point as a deluge of rain fell.

Tornadoes were sighted at two points near Big Spring and another smashed a barn on a ranch northwest of Joshua. No injuries were reported.

The state has a long range program on the boards for the improvement of Hwy. 273 all the way from Pampa to McLean.

County Judge Craig said the County Commission's No. 1 project right now was the Pampa-to-McLean improvement.

"The State Highway Department is ready to go when the City of Pampa is ready to go," Smith said.

City Manager Schmitzer said after the meeting he was pleased with the progress made during the session and indicated it was the plan of the City Commission to take early action on launching the overall project and communicating to the citizens of Pampa the need for long-delayed street improvements in the city's west and south portions.

in with the proposed street improvements for the west and south portions of Pampa. The city commission already has completed this drainage survey with the firm of Merriman and Barber, consulting engineers.

The general theme of Friday evening's meeting was that the talking stage for the highway improvement program had gone far enough and that the time had arrived for action. Everyone at the meeting agreed on this point.

"We've been talking about it since last October," Mayor Sidwell told the group. "So far, we haven't been able to get off the launching pad. I think it is time for action — and that's the purpose of this meeting — to coordinate the thinking of all agencies concerned in the planning, and then get moving."

District Engineer Smith explained that it was up to the city to make its requests of the State Highway Department at Austin and present a detailed program, backed up by a commitment of funds to pay the city's portion of the cost.

Smith said the only holdup right now, as far as the State Highway Department is concerned, would be the inability of the state to immediately bear its 50 per cent share of right-of-way costs. He stated that if the city would be in position to pay for the right-of-way needed, the state could repay the city later for its share.

"Right now," Smith said, "the state has used up practically all of its right-of-way money in the current budget."

The district engineer said that the number of scheduled commercial airliners in U.S. at the beginning of 1959 totaled 1,717, up from 437 at the beginning of 1941.

deal, although it was not until last May that the last of the leases was turned over to Nortex.

On May 15, the Texas Railroad Commission asked a number of producers for permission to check their wells for irregularities. The commission suspected that some wells were drilled at a slant, so as to steal oil from nearby leases.

The fraud charge was a result of the inspection of leases which Davis sold to Nortex. Lawyer Gaston, French and Asst. Sec. J. P. Broxson of the company filed the charge.

All operators in the East Texas field the world's largest—are under railroad commission orders not to tamper with their wells until railroad commission inspectors can check them for deviations.

The inspectors have already discovered 14 deviations and two plugged wells. Plugging makes it impossible to check the wells for deviations.

The Davis leases also are under a restraining order against plugging issued by District Court in Henderson at the request of Humble Oil Refining Co.

Fritz Lyne, of Dallas a lawyer for Nortex, charged in district court in Henderson last Monday that seven wells on one lease had been tampered with.

Nortex filed a civil cross-action in Henderson last Wednesday, charging that Davis "knowingly and willfully conspired to produce, manufacture, fabricate and create false, fraudulent and bogus reports, tests, surveys and other geological and engineering data for the purpose of overstating and misrepresenting the value of the leases."

Three Held In Extortion Try

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Clyde Crain and Kenneth Koehler, both 36, were held Saturday in total bond of $8,500 after being charged with trying to extort $4,000 from a man they threatened to kill.

All three walked into a police trap at a shopping center Friday night.

Police said Crain and Koehler fired guns into the home of Richard Bullock Tuesday night as they passed in an automobile.

Bullock got a telephone call Wednesday demanding $4,000. The caller said if Bullock didn't pay, it would mean death for him and his daughter, Karen, 17.

Bullock called police. They helped him make a fake bundle of money which he took to the pre-arranged meeting spot with the would-be extortionist.

Marx was driving the car the boys arrived in and police captured all three.

cision of my predecessors in your appointment."

It was at this point that the city manager explained he had not been brought to Pampa to fire anyone.

Schmitzer also explained that he did not plan to have problems of one or two department heads aired before a general staff meeting and other department heads who were not directly concerned with the problems at hand.

The city manager said he did not plan to have any department head get the feeling that he was being held up for ridicule before fellow department heads.

Schmitzer indicated that general staff meetings would be held only when there were problems in which every department head was directly concerned.

There will be, however, the manager stated, periodic general staff meetings to keep department heads informed of the general progress of city affairs and policies of the city administration.

"To me," he said, "it should not be too much to expect department heads to evidence some interest in the broader problems facing departments other than their own."

Schmitzer said the information aspects of staff meetings will be discussed further at a later meeting when the subject of public relations is taken up.

"Public relations," he said, "is a greatly misunderstood subject, the importance of which is not fully appreciated by many city employes."

Constipated From a 'Crash' Liquid Diet?

Many people have written us that they have tried a liquid "crash" diet and have become excessively constipated. Thousands of people have taken Barcenate during the past 20 years and have found it, not only an excellent way to take off ugly fat, but also a safe and certain remedy to overcome irregularity. Mrs. Karen Charles, 2107 Lafayette Co., Waco, Texas, wrote us as follows: "I am subject to bloating and irregular bowel movements. I find Barcenate not only relieves me of these distressing conditions, but I have also lost 16 pounds. I have never found anything else to compare with Barcenate."

Situation In Venezuela

EDITORS NOTE: Two organized uprisings against the Romulo Betancourt regime in Venezuela in the past month indicate a growing squeeze on that pro-Western regime in strategic South America. How strong is the Betancourt opposition? Will the situation there stabilize itself, or will the opposition keep sniping at the government? UPI's Latin American news editor, Francis L. McCarthy, analyzes the turbulent political situation there in the following dispatch.

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY, UPI Latin American News Editor. The bloody Puerto Cabello uprising of the past weekend, second anti-government revolt in a month and third in a year, may well mark the end of an era for Venezuela's embattled President Romulo Betancourt.

Betancourt has governed through a series of crises the past three years with the full backing of the Venezuelan military. For the first time since Venezuela became a republic, the military not only has tolerated but failed to interfere in civilian government.

Now, for the first time, Betancourt may have to reckon with military demands that he crack down once and for all on the instigators of Venezuela's terrorism and subversion — the Communist party and pro-Castro leftist political groups and parliamentarians.

Following last month's revolt at the naval base of Carupano, he staged Venezuelan marines but planned and promoted by the political left, Betancourt banned the Communist and Marxist-Lenin Revolutionary Movement of the Left (MIR) parties from all political activity.

But he stopped short of outlawing them altogether and thus allowed their representatives to remain in congress and enjoy parliamentary immunity from arrest.

Now, following the bloody Puerto Cabello uprising only 28 days after Carupano, there are signs the military may demand more energetic measures to crush leftist subversion before the shooting stage — measures such as the dissolution of congress, now controlled by the political opposition, or total outlawing of the two radical parties.

The Communists, backed by the Fidel Castro regime, make no bones about their ambitions.

Speaking in congress a few days after the Carupano uprising last month, Communist Deputy Eduardo Machado said: "Here (Carupano), the war started. It has just begun."

"The first stage is that the people will not put up any longer with this government and will rise up against it with what they have at hand: clubs, rocks, gasoline; arms that are still primitive."

"The second stage will come when we disarm the reactionary part of the army, the reactionary police, and a part of the army leaves the government and goes over to the side of the revolution."

It is in the face of this kind of talk that the military may call on Betancourt to act. So far he has refused because he wanted to maintain constitutional government. But the military, and especially the army, docile until now, are showing impatience.

Only one day after the Puerto Cabello uprising was crushed, after some of the most savage fighting in Venezuela since the dictatorial Marcos Perez Jimenez regime was toppled, security police arrested Communist party chief Gustavo Machado as he returned from a "visit" to Moscow.

He had to be released several hours later because as a deputy he enjoys congressional immunity.

The enigma Betancourt now faces — faced also by the military men called on to put down the revolts organized by the Communists and their pro-Castro fellow-travellers — is summed up in the interrogation: Is the price of maintaining democratic government worth risking the very survival of that government?

Horse Race Betting Legislation Expected

By PATRICK CONWAY

AUSTIN (UPI) — From El Paso to Brownsville all along the sluggish Rio Grande, Texans say they are ready for the fast life that goes with betting a few bucks on the horses.

Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio believes the solid support of the parimutuel referendums in 73 counties on May 3 will bring on legislation in the next session to permit local option horse race betting in select areas.

Berry indicated he would not introduce the bill, but said he believes the issue of parimutuel betting is far from dead in Texas.

The white-haired "retired not reformed" gambler sponsored a constitutional amendment last session to provide parimutuel betting on a local option basis. He led the drive to have the referendums placed on the primary election ballots.

The referendum calling for a constitutional amendment was defeated by a statewide vote of 632,458 to 313,763. The referendum calling for a law legalizing parimutuel betting was rejected 520,345 to 594,353.

Berry said the referendums would have carried had they been advertised correctly to the voters.

Voters in large cities like El Paso, Laredo, San Antonio, San Angelo, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, Harlingen, Port Arthur, Victoria, Galveston and Beaumont said they favored legal wagering.

Populous Harris County turned down the constitutional amendment, but endorsed the referendum calling for a law legalizing the parimutuels.

Both referendums drew strong support in five Panhandle counties. Hartley, Oldham, Hutchinson, Carson and Gray counties endorsed both issues and the vote in populous Potter county (Amarillo) was for the law.

If a local option bill is introduced it will probably call for parimutuels with the state and the track sharing 14 per cent of the pool, the home county receiving 2 per cent and all other counties receiving one-half of the net state share on the basis of population. Racing probably would not be permitted on Sunday.

A county-by-county breakdown of the certified vote on the two issues showed voters prefer parimutuels in that part of the state that is predominantly wet for alcoholic beverages.

Berry produced statistics showing the referendums carried in 27 of the 31 senatorial districts. Assuming the representatives and senators regarded the vote as a mandate from their constituents this would give a local option bill a nucleus of some 50 votes in the House and as many as 16 votes in the Senate, including those voters whose districts showed support of parimutuels although the referendums did not carry.

B-Girl Investigation Is Slated Next Week

By JERRY LANDUER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClellan will shine his investigative spotlight next week on a faction-ridden union that lists thousands of self-styled "exotic dancers among its dues-paying members.

Some members allegedly double as B-girls and illegal off-the-job drinking companions for men patrons.

McClellan, laying aside the Billie Sol Estes scandal temporarily, expects to summon up to 50 witnesses in public hearings starting Tuesday.

Many of them will be members of the American Guild of Variety Artists, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO. Penny Singleton, the "Blondie" of television fame, will testify first. She has demanded a thorough scrubbing of the union rolls.

Jack Bright, the union's $31,000-a-year director, also will be called.

The hearings will touch on the practices of underworld employers of union talent in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Miami and Tampa. Working conditions in Los Angeles, New Orleans, Cleveland and East St. Louis, Ill., also may figure. Investigators for McClellan's permanent subcommittee on investigations have been sifting activities of AGVA for nearly a year. In particular, the racket investigators have been checking complaints that some union officials cooperate with hoodlum-controlled night spots.

The union's allegedly lax enforcement of labor contracts with clubs, cabarets and burlesque houses that employ exotic dancers, strip teasers and other entertainers will come under special scrutiny.

In most states, entertainers are forbidden by law to fraternize with patrons for the purpose of pushing drinks on which the girls collect commissions. But the B-Girl racket is said to flourish widely.

McClellan's men have interviewed scores of "exotics," bartenders, and night club owners across the country.

The girls have been asked how much they collect for drinks which they helped sell and whether employers encourage use of "knock out" drops or other inducements to separate patrons from their money.

Many improvements are being made at the camp at the present time as a result of the recent Development Campaign. These include new tables and benches, new boats, new kitchen equipment, and a complete painting program of the various buildings at camp.

Bob Hope Shelves His Doctor's Advice

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood is talking about "Suddenly, Last Summer" going back into release. With Liz Taylor as its star, maybe it should have been retitled, "Suddenly, Last April." Or: "A Funny Thing Happened to Me on the Way to the Forum."
Bob Hope putting his doctor's "take it easy" advice on the shelf. He now has movies lined up for himself. ABC television mixing two old movies, "The Defiant Ones" and "I Want to Live" for home screens. Their plots about contemporary social problems were too hot to handle. Cary Grant's European vacation—with his psychiatrist. Frankie Avalon turning 21 and coming into money—his. The loot built up in a trust fund supervised by court order until he was of age.
Robert Stack playing a medic in "The Caretakers," his first movie in three years. He will deadpan it like Ben Casey (and Elliott Ness).
How movies have changed note: Joan Crawford and Bette Davis costarring in a movie, "What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?" Old time movie fans, of course, know what happened.
Proof that family entertainment can make money: Walt Disney's record six months profits of $2.5 million, an increase of 262 per cent over the previous year. The line for the memory book Jack Benny tossed at JFK's birthday party.
"I can't understand how a man in a rocking chair can be married to such a young girl."
Max Shulman about the success of his "Dobie Gillis" series on television:

"We try to do something in comedy nobody else does—be funny. I didn't get into television to reform the medium but to make money. I promise when I leave I won't write an expose of television. Television is not an entertainment medium, but a sales medium. Anything that interferes with sales cannot get on television."
The spring tonic on movie row: Pixie-faced, 19-year-old Laurel Goodwin. She's the object of Elvis Presley's affections in "Girls, Girls, Girls." She's a Wichita, Kan., miss who spent most of her life in San Francisco, and most of her day dreaming about becoming an actress. She was appearing in summer stock there when an agent said, "You should be in the movies." One look at her photo and producer Hal Wallis ordered a screen test, cast her opposite Elvis.
The family of Clara Petacci, mistress of Mussolini who died with him, losing a court battle in Italy to have her sequences cut from a documentary movie, "Benito Mussolini: Anatomy of a Dictator."

PIXIE FACE—One look at the face of Laurel Goodwin and producer Hal Wallis gave her a screen test. Now she will star with Elvis Presley in "Girls, Girls, Girls."

That just-announced movie title, "The Village That Wandered." No, Myrtle, the plot has nothing to do with the demise of Hollywood via run-away film production.
Ken Murray's quip about a straight acting role: "It's a character part. I work without a cigar."
Groucho Marx's 15-year-old Melina making her movie debut in "Bye, Bye Birdie."
Leading Hollywood television figures (who won only six of 27 Emmies the other night) charging there is no equity in the Emmy categories or awards. They will demand a change in the awards structure to avoid "the obvious politicking and bloc voting."
"Kowtowing" to Washington on the Emmy award show also brought considerable criticism, both east and west.

Protest Note Is Sent To India By Red Chinese

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China has sent a new protest note to India charging that Indian border provocations could set off a new clash along the frontier "at any moment," the Communist New China News Agency reported Saturday.
The agency broadcast, monitored here, said the note was delivered June 2 in reply to India's own note of May 14 accusing Peiping of provocations in the disputed border area north of the Kashmir area where clashes have taken place in the past.
"What the Indian government now seeks, is to provoke bloody conflicts, occupy China's territory and change the status of the boundary regardless of the consequences," the Chinese note said.
The Chinese said the "most urgent" problem in the Sino-Indian border dispute was that India "persist in changing by force the status quo of the Sino-Indian boundary."
The note said the Indians have set up "military strongpoints on Chinese territory" which must be removed if the dispute is to be settled peacefully.
The Chinese also rejected India's suggestion for mutual withdrawals on the border.
"This 'very fair' proposal bragged of by India means in essence that India wants to secure the Chinese side's withdrawal from large tracts of Chinese territory, measuring more than 33,000 square kilometers," said the note.
This territory, said the note has "always belonged to China."
In exchange, the note said, India was offering "withdrawal from a few points which have always belonged to China but have only recently been occupied by India, while the Indian side continues to occupy, exactly as before, Chinese territories in the eastern and middle sectors of the Sino-Indian boundary."
This, the note said, "is of course unacceptable to the Chinese government."

Performs Valuable Public Services

Lovett Memorial Library Not Just A 'Book Shelter'

By WANDA HUFF
Pampa News Staff Writer

Lovett Memorial Library, serving Pampa and surrounding towns since January, 1955, is not just a house for volumes of books and magazines, but is a modern service center for all ages to meet for research, art displays, community meetings and reading groups.

Currently, it sponsors a Vacation Reading Club for children in first through sixth grades. To participate in the summer reading program and receive a Vacation Reading Club certificate, a child must read 12 books either on or above his own grade level. This summer's program began June 1 and continues through Aug. 15. Mrs. J. B. Crinklaw, library secretary, and Dianne Zachary, a summer assistant, Hardin Simmons University senior and daughter of Dr. L. J. Zachary, Pampa, are directors of the vacation reading program.

Gale Pletcher, first grade student at Travis Elementary School, was the first child to read 12 books. Paul Helms, a third grader in Baker Elementary School, was the second.

All children who finish 12 books will receive the certificates when school begins in September. The Texas State Library in Austin prepares the certificates complete with state seal and state library picture.

"We have always had a summer reading program, but this is the first time the state library has helped sponsor it. This program is a project of the Texas Reading Club and the state library prepares and sends the certificates to us," Mrs. Lillian Snow, librarian said.

Mrs. Crinklaw lists encouraging reading among children as one of the library's four principal services. "That aids their reading skill," she said.

She conducts a weekly preschool-age story hour during the winter, during which she tells stories and directs the children in games and simple folk dances. Last year 180 children registered for the story hour.

No special program is provided for young people, but the library is constructed to provide an upstairs section containing fiction and nonfiction for young people. In this section, the Kiwanis Club keeps the library stocked with Scout Merit badge books.

"This week we received 173 new books for juniors and teenagers," Mrs. Snow said.

In the reference and research department, Mrs. Snow said, "For a town this size you won't find a better reference section. We keep magazines by date and have some published in the 1920's, but most date back to 1942. Our bound volumes include Time, U.S. News and World Report and National Geographic."

"In the winter, we have pulled as high as 1,000 magazines a month for research purposes."

The library's newspaper references date to 1933. Two papers are on microfilm, the Pampa Daily News from 1925-27 and the Dallas News for April, 1917.

For easy reference, the library's files include regular alphabetical files, Geographical Society, memorial books, pictures of birds, churches, paintings, flowers, and animals; phonograph records, maps and a separate children's alphabetical file.

The library's 20,000 books are shelved into sections for history, fiction, story collections, romance, westerns and mysteries and includes books on biography, travel, adventure, literature, art, music and dancing.

One unusual book is a single volume illustrated record of Chinese Jade history, from the collection of Stanley Charles Nott.

The principal children's reference books include World Book, Book of Knowledge, Popular Science, Golden Book Encyclopedia for smaller children and other specialized references, a Creative Science Series and Community of Living Things.

As in most town libraries, the librarian's chief problem is the shortage of books. "Since the first of May we have checked out about half of our books. More people would read if we had more books," Mrs. Snow said.

In the children's section, shell displays and an aquarium attract the children's attention.

"So many of the children go to the beach and make their own shell displays," Mrs. Snow said. Putting the shell names on the display helps the children to identify their shells.

"When the children come in, the first thing they want to show their parents is the dinosaur track. It doesn't show up as well as it used to because so many little fingers have rubbed the toes."

The 100 million-year-old track was taken from the Connecticut Valley, Holyoke, Mass., and presented to the library by Godfrey L. Cabot, owner of Cabot Chemical plant.

Throughout the modern library, ivy and other green plants are placed along the windows and on low tables.

The wood paneled auditorium, entered from the north, is the center for art displays, club meetings and banquets. It can seat and serve 150, and is furnished with two green patterned divans and chairs and is provided with a loudspeaker.

"Each club is permitted to have one meeting a year here and any educational project that is open to the public can use the facilities," Mrs. Snow said.

"It is used particularly for art displays. We have at least six exhibits a year. Each display hangs for a week or two weeks.

Once a year, local and area artists have individual shows. The Texas Fine Arts Club, a traveling art exhibit and the high school and junior high art classes use it," Mrs. Crinklaw said.

"Frank Lloyd Wright, the architect, wrote and asked me for a picture of the entrance to our auditorium. He wanted to use it for a branch library," Mrs. Snow said.

The glass enclosed reading room contains pictures, books and historical documents of early Pampa history. A display of black and white photographs shows Pampa and its principal buildings in the 1930's.

Other library employees are Mrs. Carrie Speed, circulation manager; Mrs. Virginia Allaman, clerk and cataloging; and Mrs. Mildred Collum, clerk.

IT'S FUN TO READ — Five grade school readers explore the world of books in Lovett Memorial Library and participate in the library's Vacation Reading Club. Left to right, Frank and Wayne Diggs are 8 and 7 years old and attend Woodrow Wilson Elementary School. Students of St. Vincent's School are Rocky (8 years) and Miss Shannon Hills (7 years), and Terry Sanders, standing (7 years). (Daily News Photo)

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

VIENTIANE, Laos—The government of Laos conducts its business in a high ceilinged building of yellow stucco and brown trim just across the street from the walls of the royal palace and its adjacent Buddhist temple.

The man in charge during the frequent absences of premier Prince Boun Oum and his strongman overseer Gen. Phoumi Nosavan is a small, compact man who stabs the air with a finger to emphasize his current indignation with the United States.

He is Acting Foreign Secretary Sisouk Ne Champassak. Among his other jobs, Sisouk also is the permanent Laotian representative to the United Nations in New York and has the respect of Western diplomats here even though now they find themselves on opposite sides.

For, like Phoumi and Boun Oum, Sisouk bitterly resents United States action switching its support from the weak but pro-Western Boun Oum government to the neutral government proposed by the once-deposed Prince Souvanna Phouma.

He charges that when the United States withdrew its economic support from the Boun Oum government, it deprived the government of its greatest bargaining card at the conference table. "Now," he shrugs, "we will go and we will sign. There is nothing else we can do. For this the United States bears a heavy responsibility."

Government troops fought well before their rout at Nam Tha, he maintains, until they found the Pathet Lao and Communist Viet Minh troops at their rear as well as in front.

U. S. officials here agree that the royalist forces could hold their own against their fellow-countrymen, the Pathet Lao, but have proved themselves no match for the disciplined Viet Minh.

As for the bargaining, by which Phoumi hoped to hold the defense and interior ministries for his own right wing forces, Allied officials point out he had many months in which to negotiate before being forced to do so by lack of U. S. support and on the advice of Thailand.

In any event, Western representatives now have their highest hopes in a year that the feuding Laotian princes will reach agreement on a coalition neutral government and that some stability may result.

They argue that if Russia fails to enforce Communist agreement to a neutral government in Laos, it loses all hope of agreement on other issues, including Berlin.

Jaipur Wins Belmont Stakes Race By A Nose

Shoemaker Boots Home Winner For Third Time

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jaipur withstood a bitter three-horse stretch battle at Belmont Park Saturday to win the $153,300 Belmont Stakes and give George D. Widener his first triumph in the classic in 44 years of trying.

It was back in 1918 that the chairman of the Jockey Club first tried to win the third of the Triple Crown classics with a horse named Lanus, and the 73-year-old Philadelphia started seven other horses over the years since.

He got his initial victory by the closest of possible margins for Jaipur charged across the finish line only a nose ahead of Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage with Crimson Satan third, another length and a quarter farther back.

It was one of the tightest finishes in the long history of the mile and one-half classic and you have to go back to 1938 when Granville nosed out Mr. Bones to find one as close.

Decidedly, the Kentucky Derby winner, was fourth but he was six and a half lengths behind Crimson Satan and never a threat in the torrid stretch duel. The front three horses were spread across the track almost on a line with Admiral's Voyage on the inside, Jaipur in the middle and Crimson Satan on the outside of the charging pack.

Crimson Satan was the first to crack, Jaipur, with Willie Shoemaker giving all he had, and Admiral's Voyage, with Braulio Boeza riding desperately, struggled on.

Right at the finish line Jaipur stuck his nose in front and Widener's dream of a lifetime came true.

For Shoemaker, it was his third Belmont Stakes success. He won with Gallant Man when that colt set an American record of 2:26 3-5 in winning the race and on Sword Dancer in 1959. He also was fourth aboard Tompon in 1960 and now boasts three Belmont wins in four tries.

Jaipur, withheld from the Kentucky Derby to get ready for this race, did not threaten Gallant Man's mark but he was timed in 2:28 4-5, one of the fastest runnings of the race.

Jaipur was the favorite with the crowd of 58,832 and he paid $7.70, $4.40 and $3.40 across the board in a race in which $799,142 was wagered. It was the first time since pari-mutuel betting was introduced in New York in 1940 that the favorite of the Belmont Stakes was more than 2 to 1. Usually he is an odds-on choice.

Haynie In Golf Lead

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth shot a two-under-par 72 Saturday and grabbed the lead in the $7,500 Austin Women's Civitan Golf Tournament with a three-round total of 214.

Early leader Mickey Wright of Dallas slipped to three-over-par 77 and a second-place tie at 217 with Gloria Fecht of Los Angeles, Miss Fecht shot an even par 74 Saturday.

Alone in fourth place after three rounds was veteran Betty Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., who fired a four-under-par 70 for a total of 218.

The spotlight was stolen by Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., who stroked a six-under-par 68 for the day's best performance and a course record. She moved into 10th place with a 222 total. Tied at 220 were Marilyn Smith of Tequesta, Fla., and Judy Kimball of Sioux City, Iowa. Miss Kimball shot a 77 and Miss Kimball had a par 74.

Veteran Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., was far off the pace with 232, following a five-over-par 79 Saturday.

Jackie Pung of Daly City, Calif., shot a 73 for fifth place at 219. Jo Ann Prentice of Birmingham, Ala., had a 72, good for a tie for eighth place with Mary Mills of Ocean Park, Miss., at 221. Miss Mills shot a 74 Saturday.

A heavy rain failed to interrupt third-round play on the Austin Country Club course and the last few golfers finished over a soaked course.

PERRYTON (Sp) — The YMCA men's softball league has been delayed due to the fact that lights have not been installed at the ball parks.

SPORTS

55TH YEAR SUNDAY, JUNE 10, 1962

Houston Having Dome Troubles

HOUSTON (UPI) — The city that imagination built may have bitten off more than it could chew when its citizens decided to put a roof on their baseball stadium. But if so it's not going to admit it to the world.

Money—the stuff Texans are not supposed to worry about—is creating a problem that scientists and engineers can not solve for the stadium as they did the question of how to make grass grow under the roof or how to keep it from raining inside.

County Judge Bill Elliott, after he had been told recently the stadium could not be built with the $13.3 million remaining from a bond issue, grimly said, "We will build the stadium. It will have a dome and it will be air-conditioned."

The president of the Houston Chamber of Commerce said last week, "The people of this community are committed to this project. Our prestige, our pride, are involved."

Most Houstonians seem to feel the domed stadium will be built. But the local temper currently runs strongly against the possibility of another bond issue.

To get the money to make up the difference in cost—which will not be determined until bids are received later this summer—Elliott and county commissioners may have to dip into the county's general fund. Or they may work out a ticket option sale with the Houston baseball Colts and the Houston football Oilers.

As a last gap measure, the commissioners may have to ask for a bond issue election. Chances of voters approving additional funds are dim since the original $22-million issue was supposed to cover all costs.

Back in January of 1961, when residents approved the stadium project, it was hoped that the new Colts could open their first National League season in the domed park. But a lawsuit and a federal fall-out shelter snafu dashed the plans. When the Colts opened play in their temporary stadium, all the fans had to show for the domed stadium was a 30-foot-deep, 800-foot-diameter hole in the ground nearby.

After settling the legality of the bond issue election, the county flirted with the idea of a massive underground shelter. Commissioners assumed the federal government would go along on the plan and the stadium was designed around the shelter.

Late last month, the Defense Department informed the county that $750,000 was the most it could contribute to the shelter cost. Elliott said it would take $2 million to build.

So Elliott ordered the shelter plan stripped out of the stadium's design. This architects said, would delay final design because the shelter was integrated in the stadium.

Architects told Elliott the changes and other unexpected items would raise the cost originally expected. That's how the situation stands now.

Why not leave out the dome and the airconditioning? Besides the matter of civic pride, weather conditions and the city's convention program dictates the roof and cooling.

Houston is one of the rainiest major league cities and its high humidity can be uncomfortable, especially in the summer season. City fathers want to use the domed structure to lure in the big conventions that need a lot of space. Houston has bid for the 1964 Democratic and Republican national conventions.

Stadium supporters have blamed the delays for the loss of the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship fight, which they say would have been a natural for the stadium.

Palmer Given Best Chance To Win Open

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — Lew Worsham, host professional for the 1962 National Open but a victim of sectional qualifying, today singled out Arnold Palmer as the fellow who should take it all at the Oakmont Country Club next week.

Worsham, himself an Open champion in 1947, sat in the clubhouse at Oakmont devouring a king-size lunch when he was asked the inevitable question—"Who do you think will win it this year?"

Lew, hardly pausing between bites, named Palmer to win his second Open here June 14-16. Arnie annexed his first Open crown in 1960 at Denver's Cherry Hills.

"I have to go along with Palmer," burly Lew replied. "He's from this area (Latrobe, about 40 miles east of Oakmont) and he knows this course pretty well. He's played it quite a bit as an amateur and a pro."

"He has the game to beat it (the course) and he's been playing good golf," Lew added. "But then, just about any one of those fellows on tour could win it."

Worsham, who has been under treatment for shoulder bursitis, failed to qualify Tuesday at the nearby Pittsburgh Field Club. He played in a steady downpour which tended to aggravate the condition.

A muscle inflammation, bursitis kept Ben Hogan from even attempting to win his fifth Open championship this year. It would have been Hogan's second try to win at Oakmont, the course where he added his fourth Open crown in 1953 with the lowest four rounds ever recorded here—a 283 total.

Worsham believes a 72-hole total of 280, four under par, will win the championship. "We changed the par from 72 to 71 by making the first hole a

Yankees Smash Orioles On Homers By Richardson, Berra

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yogi Berra, possibly putting in his last active season, celebrated his 2,000th game with the New York Yankees by blasting a pinch three-run homer that capped a five-run rally Saturday and produced a 7-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The 37-year-old Yogi was given a standing ovation following his dramatic seventh-inning homer off reliever Dick Hall. The homer, Berra's third of the season and 343rd of his career, came after the game had been halted so that plate umpire Jim Honochick could present Yogi with a baseball commemorating the 2,000th game of his major league career.

The victory was the fifth straight for the Yankees, who trailed, 2-0, until the seventh. The Yankees tied the score in that frame on Bobby Richardson's first homer of the season with one on off Oriole starter Steve Barber, who was charged with his fourth loss.

Elaston Howard singled with two out and after Hall came on and walked Bill Skowron. Berra drove into the upper right field stands as the crowd of 21,567 thundered its cheers.

BOSTON (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians, scoreless for their last 19 innings at Yankee Stadium, ran their two-game Boston run spree to 29 Saturday with a homer-spiced 14-0 victory over the Red Sox.

Willie Kirkland, whose three-run homer in the 13th inning last night broke Cleveland's four-game losing streak, hit his ninth of the season with two men on Saturday. Other Indian homers, each for two runs, were by Tito Francona and Woodie Held. All three were hitting their second home run in as many games.

Boston third baseman Frank Malzone hit two solo homers, his fifth and sixth of the season, while Red Sox outfielder Carl Yastrzemski and rookie power hitter, Bob Tillman also homered. Tillman's homer, a solo clout out of the park, was his eighth in 23 games.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chuck Cottier's one-out, one-on home run in the 10th inning off relief pitcher Jerry Casale gave the Washington Senators a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

Cottier had scored the tying run in the ninth inning to send the game into extra innings. He doubled to open the inning off Detroit starter Hank Aguirre. It was only the fourth hit off Aguirre who was then replaced by Terry Fox.

With one out, Job Schaefer singled off Fox to score Cottier.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Bill White drove in three runs and Ray Sadecki battered a homer while pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to their fifth consecutive win, an 8-4 triumph over the slumping San Francisco Giants.

Sadecki, recently reinstated by the Cardinal management after failing to show up at a game because of a $250 fine, settled down after a shaky first inning during which he allowed five hits and three runs.

He evened his season's mark at 3-3.

The loss was San Francisco's fourth in a row and marked their longest nose dive of the season.

White put the Cardinals ahead to stay in the fifth inning with a two-run homer off of Giants' starter Jack Sanford which gave St. Louis a 5-3 edge. The Cardinals had evened the score in their first on Stan Musial's 700th double, which drove home a run and another two-bagger by Carl Sawatski, which sent two more runs across the plate. A final three run outburst in the seventh, during which Sadecki hit for the circuit, put the game beyond reach.

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Outstanding relief pitching by Dom Zanni coupled with a deluge of Chicago extra base hits Saturday gave the White Sox an 8-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Zanni took over for Early Wynn with two outs in the fifth and the Twins leading, 5-4. He allowed only one hit the rest of the way and retired the first eight men he faced before Bob Allison singled in the eighth. Zanni was credited with his fourth win in six decisions.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Bob Burkey of the Cincinnati Reds, the major leagues' top winning pitcher, required relief help from Bill Henry Saturday to receive credit for his 10th victory, a 5-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The game was delayed 45 minutes by rain with the Phillies at bat in the eighth inning and after the interruption Henry set them down over the last two innings. He struck out five in the three hitless innings he worked.

Staked to a three-run lead in the first inning, Purkey breezed through six innings with a three-hitter before the Phillies knocked him out in the seventh. Clay Dalrymple and Don Demeter opened the seventh with singles and Roy Sievers doubled off the score.

Colts Meet Graham Plow Nine Sunday

Pampa's Colts will try to even up their loop record in the Tri-State league Sunday when they travel to Amarillo for a 2 p.m. contest with Graham Plow.

The Colts are 0-1 in loop play. Monday, the Colts host Liberal, Kans. at 8:15 p.m. in a non-league contest. The Colts only loop loss was to this same Liberal team in a league game earlier this year.

Wednesday the Colts battle Spearman here at 8:15 p.m. in a league contest.

board in left center field to score Dalrymple and chase Purkey.

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Colts overpowered Los Angeles with 13 hits, including three home runs and three triples Saturday, for a 13-1 victory over the league-leading Dodgers with the most runs ever scored by the Houston club.

The Dodgers retained their half game lead in the National League after San Francisco lost their fourth straight game, 8-4 to St. Louis.

Bob Bruce, the tall 200-pound righthander, went the distance for the Colts and gave the Dodgers only seven scattered hits. One of these was Tommy Davis' 11th home run of the season for the only Los Angeles score.

Bruce, getting his fourth win against a single loss, struck out four and walked three while his slugging mates were backing him up with alert fielding.

Houston's biggest inning of the year came in the fifth inning when the Colts put together eight runs on homers by Roman Mejias and former Dodger Bob Aspromonte, triples by Merritt Ranew and Al Spangler, two singles and three bases on balls.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles rookie Dean Chance scrambled through a 10-hit Saturday to pitch his first complete major league game, and the Angels coasted to an 8-1 victory over Kansas City.

The 21-year-old Chance, who also picked up his first hit and RBI as a big leaguer, retired the Athletics in order in only two innings. But he was aided by an Angel double-play in the first inning and then seemed toughest when he was in a bit of trouble.

Leon Wagner's 15th home run of the year, tying him for the American League lead, was the biggest of eight Los Angeles hits. The Angels also had doubles by Bob Rodgers, Earl Averill and Albie Pearson—all in the fourth inning—as they clubbed three Athletic pitchers.

Wagner's homer gave the Angels a 1-0 lead in the third and Los Angeles scored three more in the fourth off starter George Wyatt.

Trailing 6-0 in top of the sixth inning, the Athletics scored their lone run when Jose Tartabull doubled to right field and Manny Jimenez — the American League's leading hitter—singled him home.

Finsterwald, Nicklaus Tied For Golf Lead

CLIFTON, N. J. (UPI)—Burlly Jack Nicklaus fired a course record seven-under-par 35-30-45 Saturday for a 207 which tied him with Dow Finsterwald for the third round lead in the $300,000 Thunderbird Golf Championship.

The 22-year-old two-time amateur champion, in the money in all of his 16 tournaments as a pro, played what he described as the "best sustained round" as he tied Finsterwald, the former P.G.A. champion, at Upper Montclair Country Club. Finsterwald, who hasn't won a tournament in more than two years, carded a 33-34-67.

Nicklaus and Finsterwald took over the lead as Sam Snead, who rode a two-stroke advantage going into the third round, collapsed to a 37-41-78 for a 214 on a round in which he said "everything happened but being struck by lightning."

Nor was it too much better for golden boy Arnold Palmer, who proved himself solid 14 carat when he sacrificed his own ambitions "for the good of the game" by agreeing not to withdraw after a 35-37-72 for 219.

Palmer planned to withdraw with no chance of earning top money to break his own one-year money-winning record.

Nicklaus, the husky former Ohio State star, was blasting the ball as he romped into a tie for the lead with Finsterwald—one shot in front of defending Open champion Gene Littler who had a two-under-par 70 for 208.

Tied at 209, two strokes off the pace with only Sunday's final round remaining, were Butch Baird, Wes Ellis and long-hitting Paul Harney. Baird carved out a 3-33-68, Ellis a 69 and Harney a 70.

At 210 were Fred Hawkins, who has won only two championships in 13 years on the tour, and Frank Boynton, another Texan. At 211 was former Masters and P.G.A. champion Jackie Burke with a 70 Saturday.

Snead had a 66 in the second round to take a two-shot lead on the field but Palmer already by then entertained an idea of withdrawing after a 73-74-147 left him nine shots back at that stage.

Mets Smash Chicubs, 11-6

CHICAGO (UPI) — The New York Mets raked five pitchers for 16 hits Saturday to slug the Chicago Cubs, 11-6, for their second victory in their last three games.

Rookie relief pitcher Bill Hunter worked to his first major league victory after rescuing starter Bob Morehead in the second inning. Hunter needed help himself when the Cubs touched him for two runs with four consecutive singles in the eighth, but the Mets held on for the victory.

Duncan Insurance Slams Celanese In 19-2 Rout

Duncan Insurance bombarded Thursday night to post a 19-2 Celanese with three home runs victory in Eastern league play at the Optimist park.

Steve Summers was the winning pitcher, giving up but 140 hits. Patterson was the losing pitcher.

Darrell Smith, Mike Brown and Fran McCann pounded out home runs for the winners. Smith had three for four and Brown two for four to lead Duncan hitters with the timber.

In a Western league game, Rotary won over Dick Evans, 6-3.

Ellis Thomberg was the winning pitcher and Mike Phillips was the losing pitcher.

Thomberg struck out six and walked three and helped his own cause with a couple of singles. Phillips struck out five and walked five.

Other leading hitters for Rotary included Charles Smith and Butch Davis, each with a double and a single and Allen Jenkins and Mike Atchley with singles.

For Dick Evans, Johnny Carlos had a double and Carr, Hunter and Farber each picked up singles.

Rotary picked up eight hits while Dick Evans had four hits. In another Western league game, Dick Evans shutout One Bull, 8-0.

Johnny Carlos was the losing pitcher. Carlos gave up but one hit, striking out 12 and walking two.

Carlos also lead the winners with the timber with three for four including a home run. Also welding a big bat were Brown, two for four and Forbes, two for two.

Dick Evans picked up a total of 17 hits in their one-sided victory.

In another Western loop game, Mohawk Signs eased past C. R. Hoover, 6-5.

David Schaub picked up his second win of the year against one setback, Mike Sublett was the losing pitcher. Schaub pitched two-hit ball, striking out 14 and walking five.

Schaub struck out the last man to face him in the sixth inning with two runners on base to end the game after Hoover had picked up a single marker in the top of the frame.

Touring Pros Have Tough Time Of It

CLIFTON, N.J. (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

Golfdom's hot shots, like Arnold Palmer who has banked close to $60,000 in prize money already this year, rate the headlines and the fat paychecks but all is not gold and glamor on the tournament trail. It takes $30,000 a week for the average guy to play the circuit and plenty of them don't win anywhere that much in prize money.

Most of the youngsters are sponsored until they can win on their own but as one also-ran moaned at the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic now in progress, "sponsors can get mighty tired mighty quick of shelling out $15,000 a year for expenses if you don't deliver."

NBC will televise the Thunderbird Sunday starting at 5 p.m. (EDT) with Bud Palmer and Chuck Hearn the commentators. Camera towers are up at seven locations.

Three baseball books worth reading are out, or coming out, with Bill Veck, pitcher Jim Brosnan of the Reds and Roger's Hornsby of the Mets as the authors. Some of Hornsby's comments are typical of the bluff old Ralah:

"Roger Maris could hit 400 if he added all his averages together. It takes $300 a week there." Lew Burdette "has the very best spitball in baseball" and about Willie Mays, "the best way to determine his salary is to take the figure in print and divide it by three."

Branch Rickey, whose daring move in 1947 brought Jackie Robinson to the Brooklyn Dodgers as the first Negro in the majors, will be on hand to honor Jackie at a dinner July 20 shortly before Robinson is inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame. Rickey scoured the Negro leagues and the colleges before he came up with what he considered to be "the right man" for the historic move...and Robby sure was it.

Bows and arrows are the weapons on the playing fields of Eton this weekend. World archery champs Joe Thornton of Tulsa, Okla., and Nancy Vonderheide of Cincinnati are in England to compete in an international meet June 9-10.

Manager Dany Murtough of the Pirates calls Cincy catcher John Edwards "the most improved young player in the National League."

But did you know that in the old days pro catchers regarded the mask as sissy stuff? It was 16 years after college boys introduced the mask at Harvard in 1877 before the first pro catcher would be caught dead in one.

Paralyzed Roy Campanella, ex-Dodger catcher, is head of a new sports board of the National Paraplegia Foundation. Roy keeps working in the hope that "some day others like me will be helped by new methods even if I'm not so lucky to be one of those who benefit."

Titans Sign Up Four Gridders

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Titans of the American Football League Saturday announced the signing of veteran flanker Don Maynard, tackles Jack Klotz and Gene Cockrell and rookie guard Arnold Branch.

The 26-year-old Maynard, a product of Texas Western, will be starting his third season with the Titans.

"With Maynard back, and other key veterans signing, as well as highly-regarded recruits," said coach Bulldog Turner, "the team is taking shape much more rapidly than I had hoped for. I am delighted."

Yankees Will Take Care Of Arroyo As NY Scout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heard in the dugouts:

The Yankees will "take care" of Luis Arroyo if they find he's no longer able to pitch when he comes off the disabled list later this month.

Arroyo, a 15-game winner last year, will be assigned to scout in his native Puerto Rico and will continue to draw his full 1962 salary.

The Yankees are pretty good, that way. Had Bob Turley's arm failed to come around recently, they were all ready to make him a coach for the rest of the year. Turley would have earned his keep, too. He's one of the best in the business at "reading" opposing pitchers.

Somebody goofed on Rich Rollins, Minnesota's new third base sensation.

When the Twins sought to option him to Syracuse of the International League last August, they were curtly informed: "Keep him. We don't want any busher."

The Chiefs aren't the only ones with red faces, though. Former Minnesota manager Cookie Lavagetto couldn't see Rollins, either. Said he was too slow and not good enough in the field.

National League pitchers claim it's impossible to intimidate Dick Stuart at the plate. The Pirate first baseman is absolutely fearless, they say, and even urges them to throw at him at times.

Casey Stengel is ready to do business with the Yankees again. Any time the Yankees are ready to dispose of rookie shortstop Phil Linz, the Mets would be mighty interested.

The best fastball on the San Francisco Giants, according to the hitters, belongs to seldom-used Bob Bolin.

And in the clutch, the pitchers say, Willie McCovey and Jim Davenport frequently are more dangerous than Willie Mays.

Tony Kubek, still in the Army, rarely throws his weight around, but he has let it be known that he'd much prefer his old shortstop job rather than left field when he returns to the Yankees. What happens then to rookie shortstop Tom Tresh?

Joe Cunningham of the White Sox has the distinction of having the shortest crew-cut in the majors.

First baseman Vic Power of the Senators catches everything with one hand. Yet, anytime youngsters ask him, he instructs them to use both hands. A clear case of do as I say, not as I do.

Shortstop Maury Wills is possibly the finest good-will ambassador the Los Angeles Dodgers have. Everyone who meets him automatically likes him. Commenting on his spectacular baserunning, modest Maury says, "it compensates for all the other things I can't do."

The nub of John Demerit's sudden retirement was the curve ball. He insisted he could hit it successfully in the majors; the Mets said he couldn't.

Now that Billy Loe is gone, the new champion nail-chewer of the majors is Johnny Blanchard of the Yankees.

Some of the top names in baseball are cutting down heavily on their smoking, but ask the fact not be publicized since it can cost them fat endorsement fees from the cigarette companies.

The Milwaukee Braves have been experiencing their troubles but it is not the fault of veteran shortstop Roy McMillan. "He's still magnificent," marvels manager Birdie Tebbets.

Managers To Pick Squads

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—The 18-man teams for the Texas League's 1962 all-star game at Tulsa July 17 will be picked by committees made up of managers of the North and South divisions, President Dick Butler said Saturday.

The managers of Albuquerque, the North team and those of Austin, San Antonio and El Paso the South squad with Tulsa skipper Whitey Kurovski and San Antonio manager Walt Dixon serving as the chairmen.

Kurovski, as host, will serve as the manager of the North team, while the South team manager will be the one whose team is highest in the standings after games of July 4.

The players will be picked by July 8 and the makeup of the teams will be announced later—the North squad in morning papers of July 10 and the South squad in afternoon papers of July 11.

Five infielders, four outfielders, two catchers and six pitchers will be named to each team with the committee having the discretion of adding one more player at any position desired.

If weather interferes with the original date, the game will be played the following night, July 18.

Bellaire Places Four On Diamond Tournament Team

AUSTIN (UPI)—Class AAAA champion Houston Bellaire placed four men and AAA winner El Campo five players on the state schoolboy baseball all-tournament team, it announced Saturday.

The all-star teams were selected by sports writers covering the two-day tournament last week.

Bellaire players were pitcher Billy Crain, third baseman Doug Nicholson, left fielder Bill Sullivan and shortstop Don Looper. Lufkin placed a pair of sophomores on the team. They were pitcher Rocky Thompson and center fielder David Brevell. First baseman Mike Seago of Lufkin also won a spot. Others named were right fielder Jerry Holderman and second baseman Abe Scott of Odessa and catcher John Moffett of Corpus Christi Carroll.

Catcher Donald Shult, pitcher Kenny Kram, first baseman Randy Sparkman, third baseman Ellwood Hermansen and center fielder Richard Hermansen were the El Campo players named to the AAA team. Pitcher Tom Cunningham and right fielder Frank Bice, both of Seminole, shortstop Bill Bain and leftfielder Terry Burke, both of Richardson, and second baseman Jim Messer of San Antonio Lee rounded out the squad.

Mets Have Reached New Low Water Mark In NL

NEW YORK (UPI)—What the owners of the New York Mets described in public gratitude as "the new miracle of Coogan's Bluff" appeared today to gradually be turning into a nightmare. The Mets now have dropped 17 in a row, breaking the New York record for consecutive collapses held by the 1944 Dodgers. Throughout this snakepit inaugural season the Mets had clung grimly to the fact that they had never been shut out.

So the lowly Phillies took care of that and it may have been the straw that broke all four of the camel's ankles.

When they lost nine in a row to open the season, the creaking legions of Casey Stengel became known as the "Amazing" Mets. This well may have been due to the fact that they showed up each time as scheduled. But it was a term with a connotation of fondness.

But such is the complexity of the English language that it also is a word which denotes frenzy, madness, bewilderment, perplexity, consternation and terror.

And all of these could be setting in now to their complete and utter "amazement." Because the tolerant scribes who used to get up and cheer when they scored a run are starting to take pot shots at the organization.

The chief target is General Manager George Weiss. Much of this may be due to the fact that Weiss normally was a cold potato back in the days when he was calling the shots with polite frigidity for the New York Yankees. There also is a feeling that he made a mistake by loading the new Mets with old talent in hopes of getting one more good season all at once with a fast National League getaway.

His haunted heroes of the moment supposedly were the toast of the town a little more than a week ago. The tenor was that their fans gave "a heart warming demonstration of loyalty and affection" in finally showing up for series with Los Angeles and San Francisco. That's what the owners said in their paid advertisement—the latter being a sensational item amounting almost to baseball heresy. Imagine a ball club taking a quarter page ad.

Seemingly overlooked was that the visitors were the old favorites once known as the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants. Until their appearance, the Mets had drawn an average of 10,000 per game. For the five Dodger-Giant dates the gates averaged almost 40,000. Who drew what is obvious.

Instead of a "new breed" of fans, as advertised, this was the "old breed" making a nostalgic visit into the past.

It's baseball history that losers simply don't draw. And the Mets are going at it in record-breaking fashion. Yet they still have a piece to go to top the records in reverse.

Back in the not-so-gay baseball 90's, Cleveland lost 24 in a row. The Mets also can thank the Phils of last year, who disgustingly made it to 23.

Their 17 ties them with Washington of 1894 and Boston of 1926. Eighteen would match the 1920 A's and 1948 Senators. Nineteen gets them desperately even with

Epperson Has Winning Bird

Thirty-two racing pigeons were released from the Houston Municipal Airport last Saturday with their destination, Pampa, some 528 air miles away. Before their flight was through, they had to encounter rain, hail, and high winds throughout the state.

The weather took its toll as only two birds made it home in the regulation three day limit. Other birds have returned home since then and word was received from Wichita Falls that one of the birds was found there injured and unable to fly on home.

First place was won by a blue bar cock number AU60T0122 with an average speed of 370.16 yards per minute. Second place was won by a blue check cock number AU59T01497 with an average speed of 376.12 yards per minute. Both of these birds belong to Buddy Epperson of Pampa.

A special one bird derby was flown from Houston last Sunday with five members of the Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club sending one bird each. Bill Dycus won 50 pounds of pigeon feed as his bird, a grizzle hen number AU59T0112, won first. W. H. Thoms of White Deer won second place and 30 pounds of feed.

Saturday, the club flew its last race of the 1962 old bird season, again from Houston.

the 1906 Braves and 1914 Reds. If they make 20, it matches the 1906 Red Sox, 1916 A's and 1943 A's.

Twenty-five? Don't mention it. Stengel, who had some miserable no-talent managerial ventures before he hit it big with the Yankees, must feel like this is where he came in. Right now it figures as the toughest of his seventy-one summers.

Chisox Are In Dilemma

NEW YORK (UPI)—Senior Al Lopez, the cagey Castilian who directs the field fortunes of the Chicago White Sox, has to be wondering today about the best laid plans of men, and you can have the mice.

Four years ago, the White Sox won the American League pennant on gill-edged pitching, speed and defense. Then, they reasoned, they'd best get in the power race and proceeded to finish third and then fourth.

So there has to be a pinch of pondering about just how "fat" they would be if they had held on to the pitching they swapped away.

Guys like Dick Donovan, Billy Pierce, Don Larsen and Bob Shaw—who as of the moment have a combined record of 25 victories against a mere five defeats.

To add to this molar-grinding reflection, the White Sox hitters haven't threatened to replace Murderers' Row and the pitchers who arrived with them are a mere 7-6 in the won-lost department.

All of which, considering that the White Sox still aren't too far off the pace, has to be some sort of a compliment to the good senior's managerial ability.

But what if... Donovan was still on hand... and Pierce... and Larsen... and Shaw.

Because Donovan, who was let go a year back for the $75,000 price requested in stocking the brand new Washington Senators, has won eight against two losses for the Cleveland Indians. He was 10-10 at Washington last season but lost more close ones than a jawwalker.

Pierce, traded with Larsen to the San Francisco Giants, has won eight games and still hasn't tasted defeat. Larsen is 3-1 as a reliever, and a good one, having strolled from the bullpen to save six other contests.

Shaw, traded off to Milwaukee, has compiled six triumphs against two defeats.

MAN ABOARD—Tuxedo Hill has heart and endurance but lacks one important ingredient—a rider—as he thunders through the Aqueduct stretch with winner Volstead Act, right, Johnny Rotz up. Tuxedo Hill dumped Con Errico at the start. Statesmanship, Larry Adams up, is second.

Oilers Will Hold Special Camp For 33 Rookies On July 11

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Oilers will hold a special one-week training camp in July for 33 rookies who will be trying to break in with the two-time American Football League champions.

Five of the rookies have been invited to play in college all-star games at Buffalo and Chicago during the summer. The Oilers camp will open July 11, a week before the veterans report to the Ellington Air Force Base camp near Houston.

Also in the field will be former Mississippi State linemen Tom Goode and Walter Suggs, the Oilers' second and third draft choice in 1961. Both quit pre-season training suddenly last summer but decided to return this year.

Heading the rookie list will be the Oilers' No. 1 draft choice, Ray Jacobs, tackle from Howard Payne College.

Tackle Bill Rice of Alabama, fourth draft choice, may be missing from the camp because of a recent knee operation.

ANOTHER INCREASE
FORT WORTH (UPI)—Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament officials announced Saturday the 1963 tournament purse would be upped to $50,000, marking the fourth increase in five years.

The action by the club's board of governors came a bit less than a month after conclusion of the $40,000 1962 event won by Arnold Palmer in a playoff with Johnny Pott.

Dates for the 1963 affair have been set for May 9-12 with a pro-amateur scheduled for May 8.

Golf Can Be Played By Any Size Enthusiasts

SPORTS FOR SUNDAY
CLIFTON, N.J. (UPI)—The fantastic boom in golf, baffling to officials in certain other hard-pressed sports, actually is easy to explain.

A look at the blue-ribbon field competing in this week's $100,000 Thunderbird Invitational—richest tournament of the year—at least provides one answer: Golf is a game you can play well no matter what your size, shape or age.

These are the best out here at the Upper Montclair Country Club. Some are giants, who, in their younger days, held their own or better on a football field. And yet the two current national titleholders—Jerry Barber and Gene Littler—are little leaguers in size though big league in talent.

Sam Snead, aged 50, is here ready, willin' and able to pick up the $25,000 top money. So is 23-year-old Jack Nicklaus, eighth best money winner of the year with close to $20,000 already banked.

Barber, 45, is the smallest of the brigade at 5-5 and 137 but he's the reigning PGA champion. U.S. Open titleholder Littler is a shade over 5-9 and weighs 165.

Smaller than Littler but bigger than Barber is South Africa's Gary Player, last year's money winning leader, at 5-7 and 150 pounds. But don't let Gary's size fool you. He's the longest-hitting small star since Bantam Ben Hogan.

Even the top man of the hour, Arnold Palmer, isn't exactly a behemoth. Arnie comes in just over 5-10 and weighs 175 but he has the heart of a fighter and a bulging checkbook to prove it.

Joe Campbell (5-8), Billy Maxwell (5-7½), Jackie Burke (5-9) and Jackie Cupit (5-9) and Butch Baird (5-8) get along pretty darned well.

Among the ex-footballers are Mike Souchak (5-11, 200 pounds) and George Bayer (6-1, 240).

Jim Ferrier, ex-PGA champ, is football-size, too, though he didn't play the "down under" version much in his native Australia. Jim is 6-4, weighs 190. Bill Collins is 6-4 and weighs 205.

There's another group that never would be mistaken for prize-winning athletes unless you were in the know. Included are portly Bob Rosburg, Bill Casper and Lionel Hebert but that trio owns two PGA titles and one U.S. Open crown among the past performers.

The stringbeans include Art Wall (6 ft, 167), Gardner Dickinson (5-10, 130) and Al Geiberger (6-3, 160).

Put 'em all together and Palmer would be about the average.

There ought to be a mural in these somewhere, since Arnie already has won six tournaments out of 15 tries so far this year and had won nearly $60,000.

But the point is, the others also can make a handsome living in a sport that has few restrictions on size, age or shape.

That holds for the weekend golfer, too, and he's the guy who pays the freight for a sport that's booming beyond the wildest dreams of its pioneers.

READY FOR ACTION—With a bumper wheat crop in prospect for Kansas, there will be plenty of combines available for the harvest. WONDER WHY??? ... wonder why Carol Burnett tugs at her left ear lobe with her left hand at the end of the Gary Moore television show on Tuesday night? ... she has been doing it for several weeks after every show ... we're dying of curiosity ... it's probably a showmanship signal of some kind ... or maybe, it's just to make curious people more curious!

There are two ways to interest a man or arouse his curiosity. One is to tell him something that he didn't know. The other is to remind him of something he has forgotten. —A. E. N. Gray.

IMPRESSIONS OF THE first week of summer vacation ... wonderful to be able to sleep just a little later than usual every morning ... companionable to have the children and all their friends around and to see and feel their bubbly enthusiasm ... nice not to have such a tight meal schedule ... luxurious to have a LITTLE help with the dishes, carrying out trash ... someone to send on errands ... relief not to have to issue constant reminders to do homework ... reminders to get ready for dancing, piano lessons or scout meetings ... or having to go to PTA meetings ... exciting to think of the long-anticipated vacation trip drawing nearer and nearer ... and we expect this idyllic state to continue for a couple of more weeks ... maybe, even a month ... but watch for a later bulletin on summer vacations!

If all of us could become what we were at 14, what a different place this world would be. —Albert Schweitzer.

SAW HUGH BURDETTE renegeing the other noon ... you know, he is probably the championship walker of this fair city ... in hot, muggy summer or in wind-lashing winter, nearly everyday throughout the year ... will find him taking long strides from his home on Mary Ellen to his downtown Cabot offices in the Hughes Building ... BUT the other noon, we saw a friend dropping him off on Duncan Street for the brief walk to his home at 1616 Mary Ellen ... saw another Cabot exec walking toward his home on North Frost ... at the noon hour walking toward his home on North Frost ... you know, we walked once!

PERHAPS THE observation about a carefree summer is a bit too general ... for there are two mothers we know (and, we also know, there are a lot more) ... who are working this week at the Girl Scout Camp at Mel Davis ... up with the sun and out in it for most of the day are Rachel Brumley, whom we saw the other day looking like a most chic Girl Scout adult worker in a blue sailor outfit ... and Glennale Miller has also answered the call of the out-of-doors and the need of the Girl Scouts by assisting with the Day Camp, which is in progress now and for the next two weeks at Mel Davis ... she and her husband, Jack, just returned a few weeks ago from a vacation in Mexico ... that's a switch in scenery isn't it? ... from exotic Alcapulco to Camp Mel Davis!

OUR IMAGINATION has been caught by the series of rush parties, which are in full swing in the feminine teenage set each week, the invitations seem to get cleverer and more ingenious ... Sub Debs entertained with a "Roaring Twenties" party this week and sent out paper replicas of Model-T's decorated with glitter to invite rushes to their party ... it was planned for the evening that an ugly cloud came out of the southwest ... and the winds played havoc with the decorations in the backyard of the Dwayne Kentz home on Williston ... but resourceful teenagers that they are ... and not to be done out of a party by mere weather ... Sub Debs just transferred party decorations and refreshments to the Pamp-Cel Hall ... then the Las Cressas Club had a Chuck Wagon Party ... planned around the musical comedy "Oklahoma" ... long, weenie-shaped invitations decorated like a cowboy with a handle-bar mustache, bid guests to wear western clothes and drop around to the Bar LCC ... temporarily set up at the home of Martha Price on Hobart ... catching the mood of the party, one of the rushees borrowed her father's pickup ... rounded up a group of friends and arrived at the party in true "ranch" style ... and those were adorable dancing paper-doll invitations, which the Kit Kat Klub members must have spent hours on, to invite guests to their "Kid Party" ... the dolls were at least fifteen inches high ... and when they were unfolded all of the party information was written on the skirts of the dolls ... those Kit Kats are dolls to think up such an idea!

For children, there is neither past nor future and what so rarely happens to us ... they take pleasure in the present. —La Bruyere.

JUST HERE AND THERE ... Ruth Nienstiel had her three handsome grandsons, Jim, Johnny and Joey Ikard ... who live in Las Cruces, N. M. ... out for a swim (or was it the other way around?) in the Country Club pool the other day ... swimming and sunning was temporarily interrupted for luscious hamburgers on the pool patio ... these lively youngsters are visiting with their grandparents, Ruth and Harvey, while their parents, Donna and John are vacationing in Mexico ... Loyal and Leone Davies are back from a fabulous trip to the World's Fair, where they marveled at the science exhibits, the architectural designs, sculpturing and landscaping of the fairgrounds ... they took side-trips to Victoria and Vancouver, where Loyal put Pampa on the Rotary map in Vancouver by attending a "make-up" meeting there ... down the coastline to Sacramento, where they visited with friends ... golfed in the Redwoods ... saw Danny Thomas in a show at the Harrah Club, which is located on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe ... and Joey Bishop in a floor-show at the Desert Inn ... in just a few short weeks, Raymond Nance, who is president of the Key Club and Don Sears, who is lieutenant governor of the district, will be taking off for a Key Club International conference in Long Beach, Calif. ... and the Seattle World's Fair ... there are some other Key Clubs going too, but Raymond and Don are the elected delegates.

NEWS OF other young people ... Shane Wilbanks and Gary Shultz have been initiated in to the Sigma Phi Epsilon honorary fraternity at North Texas State University, where both are attending summer sessions ... they're doing very well, too ... both have B plus averages ... Shane is majoring in law with a minor in business, while Gary is majoring in business ... and isn't it wonderful to hear the marvelous mark that Pat Jones is making in her career? ... she was graduated this June cum laude from Rice University where she was named one of the ten outstanding members of her class ... she was also named The College Women's Club scholar and will have an assistantship in the French Department at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga. next year, where she will work on her master's degree ... and not to fritter away and waste any hours, she is drama coach at Arrowhead Camp in Hunt this summer ... imagine the summer weeks can't pass quickly enough for Elmer and Laraine Fite, so that they can move into the lovely, brick home they are building on Grape just across the street from Floy and Mark Heath.

WINDSHIELD WIPERS, which have been idle this Spring, have really gotten a workout in the past few days, haven't they? ... wish we could capture the fragrance of fresh rain on dry soil and bottle it ... but it would probably lose something in translation, wouldn't it? ... Love 'n kisses, Peg.

Caldwell-Logan United In Candlelight Service

The nuptial service for Miss Patricia Ann Caldwell and Don F. Logan was solemnized on Saturday night at eight o'clock in the Hiland Pentecostal Holiness Church by the father of the bride, the Rev. J. B. Caldwell, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Clifford Roth, uncle of the bride.

Miss Caldwell is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Caldwell. Mr. Logan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Logan of Garfield, N.M. Double-ring vows were exchanged in a nuptial setting flanked with large white lace umbrellas in the background flanked by tiered seven-branched candelabra holding orchid tapers. Floor baskets filled with white gladioli flanked the prayer bench. Pews of honor were marked with large orchid satin bows centered with small net umbrellas.

BRIDE
Escorted down a white cloth-covered aisle and given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in floor-length Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The rounded, scalloped neckline and long, tapered sleeves, which ended in petal points over the hands, were enhanced by a molded bodice, which flowed into a bouffant skirt of tiered tulle and Chantilly lace. A cascading Cathedral veil of bridal illusion was held to a Crown of sparkling rhinestones.

She carried a prayer Bible opened to the Twenty-Third Psalms with a bouquet of white roses arranged with stephanotis and showered with satin streamers tied in love knots. At the end of the ceremony, the bridegroom placed a single red rose in the center of the bride's bouquet.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Mickey Caldwell of Oklahoma City, sister-in-law of the bride, attended as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sherry Henderson, Miss Sandra Baker of McLean and Miss Judy Posey of Stinnett.

They were dressed identically in orchid frocks designed with three-quarter length sleeves, rounded necklines, full skirts accented with roses at the back waistline and hem. Each wore orchid hats with rose accents and matching slippers.

The feminine attendants carried white lace parasols with orchid stock and pompoms draping over the sides.

Jerry Berridge of Garfield, N.M. was best man. Ushers were Doyce Schaffer, Pampa, Mickey Caldwell of Oklahoma City, Larry Meeks of Clovis, N.M.

Judy Kay Meeks and Gary Barker lighted the candles. Sonja Jean Meeks was flower girl and Billy Crain carried the rings to the bridal pair.

Mrs. Joyce Hatchett, organist, played the traditional wedding music and served as accompanist for Miss Nadine Slater as she sang "Because of You," and "Whither Thou Goest."

For the wedding, Mrs. Caldwell, mother of the bride, wore a rose beige lace dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Logan, mother of the bridegroom, chose a navy blue dress with white accessories. Their corsages were fashioned from pink feathered carnations.

RECEPTION
Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the City Club Room. The bride's table was appointed with a white net cloth accented with orchid bows over an orchid cloth centered with the bride's parasol.

Miss Carolyn Lewis presided at the punch service and Miss Charlotte Andrews served from the tiered cake, which was decorated with orchid roses and topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Other members of the house-party were Mmes. J. A. Meeks, Harold Myers, Walter Hyatt, Tom Barker, Bill Crain, J. G. Shelton and Doyce Schaffer.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride traveled in an orchid brocade sheath topped with a jacket complemented with white accessories. She wore a white rose corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School and is employed by Tarpley's Music Store. The bridegroom was graduated from Hatch High School; attended New Mexico University and served two years with the United States Army.

The couple will make their home in Pampa.

Rogers-Hatton United In Houston Chapel Service

St. Luke's Methodist Chapel in Houston was the nuptial scene for the marriage of Miss Joan Rogers to Dr. Richard F. Hatton on June 2 at High Noon.

The Rev. Guy E. Pry, pastor, officiated for the exchange of double-ring vows repeated in a setting of a sunburst altar arrangement of white gladioli and majestic Daisies flanked by two pair of candelabra of graduated size holding white tapers and entwined with English Ivy.

Miss Roger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Rogers, 2239 N. Russell. Dr. Hatton parent's are Mrs. Harry P. Hatton of Delphi, Ind. and the late Mr. Hatton.

BRIDE

Dear Abby....

Just Keep Your Eyes Open, Lady!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks after we were married my husband joined the Air Force. He was sent overseas almost immediately and will be gone a year. Before he left he asked his brother to look after me so I wouldn't be lonely. The brother is two years older than my husband and looks and acts enough like him to pass for his twin. I find myself thinking romantically about my brother-in-law. I love my husband and don't want to hurt him. I could close my eyes and think his brother was my husband. What should I do?

ONLY HUMAN
DEAR ONLY: Keep your eyes open. Wide open.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister, who lives in Germany, sent him a violin in 1914. It belonged to his grandfather, who got it from his father, so we know it has been in the family for over 100 years. When it came it was battered, but we had it refinished and it looks like new. We wrote to different people asking where to take it to have the value assessed and nobody answered. A friend of ours, who played with the Detroit Symphony, saw it and played it and said it had a marvelous tone. He wanted to buy it but we didn't want it to go out of our family for sentimental reasons. Inside the violin, printed on a piece of paper, not the wood itself, is:

"ANTONIOUS STRADIVARIUS CREMONENSIS. FACIEBAT ANNO 1732"

Is this worth anything?
MRS. M. M.
DEAR MRS. M.: Run, don't walk, to your telephone directory and look in the yellow pages for dealers in antique violins. Take your violin to several and you will soon find out if yours is a genuine Stradivarius. If it is, you have a real treasure. And no fiddling around.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and his young wife have a four-month-old son. They also have a female cat. This animal is allowed the freedom of the house. She is on the chairs, sofa, tables, and even jumps into the baby's crib and sleeps with him at night. I worry that the cat might suffocate the baby. Is there any truth to that? Both parents have had ringworm from this cat.

WORRIED GRAM
DEAR WORRIED: Advise your son to ask his doctor about cats sleeping with babies. Especially a cat which has given both him and his wife "ringworm." If your son doesn't follow through, YOU do it. Your son and his wife appear as though they should be raising cats, not children.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GENE'S WIFE": Don't try to change the spots on a 66-year-old leopard.

Extravagant Wife

"Spends" Her Husband

Many a wife who wouldn't think of being extravagant with her husband's money doesn't think anything at all about being selfishly extravagant with his time and energy.

Such a wife accepts invitations that bore him keeps him up too late after a hard day's work, makes plans for him to do things for or with the children when he needs rest, or volunteers his services as chauffeur, handyman, or errand boy.

And while she is pushing her husband beyond the limits of his strength with her promises of what he will do, she is patting herself on the back for managing him so well.

When she says "we would love to come" to a party that will bore and tire her husband (without even giving him a chance to put his foot down), she tells herself that she is keeping up their social contacts.

When she dreams up an endless number of things for him to do with or for the children, she tells herself that she is encouraging him to be a good father.

When she volunteers his services to neighbors, friends, and relatives, "George will be glad to do it for you" — she gets the glow of satisfaction that comes from doing a good turn. Only George has to do the good turn, whether he wants to or not.

So poor George is always tired, always doing something his wife has planned for him to do, seldom having any leisure time to call his own.

All because he has an extravagant wife — not extravagant with money but much too generous with her husband's time, strength and patience.

Sinclair Safety Record Is Good

TULSA, Okla. — Sinclair Oil & Gas Company has 387 employees who have completed 25 years of more without a disabling accident during 1961. Hadley H. Myers, manager of safety, said.

Thirty-three men have worked 40 or more years without a disabling injury; 101 have worked 35 to 39 years; 164 for 30 to 34 years, and 89 have worked 25 to 29 years without disabling injuries.

TO SEPARATE THE OIL FROM THE GAS — These six skid-mounted vessels will be used to separate the gas from the oil in the Colombia Cities Service-operated Payoa field of Colombia, South America. Two each are for high pressure separation, two for low-pressure separation and two for individual well testing purposes. Fabricated in the United States, they are being shipped by rail, ship barge, narrow-gauge rail and truck to the fast developing Payoa field 180 miles north of Bogota.

Cities Service Is Shipping Crude Separation Complex To Colombia

A made-in-the-U.S. crude separation complex capable of handling up to 28,000 barrels of crude oil daily is being shipped from Tulsa to the Colombia Cities Service-operated Payoa field of Colombia, South America.

Firm To Start Expansion This Summer

CHICAGO — Construction on Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America's expansion program — designed to increase its daily system sales capacity by 90 million cubic feet — is expected to begin this summer.

Approval for the 26 1/2 million dollar project — which will enable the Company to meet increased demands of customer companies in Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana during the 1962-63 winter heating season — was granted by the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C., May 18.

The expansion will enable the Company to increase its daily deliverability to 1 billion, 689 million cubic feet.

Facilities include 224 miles of large-diameter "loop" pipeline, about 16 1/2 miles of lateral pipeline, two booster stations, one new compressor station, and appurtenant measurement facilities.

About 16 1/2 miles of the new "loop" pipeline — 36-inch diameter — would parallel portions of the Company's existing 26- and 30-inch pipeline facilities on the Gulf Coast system in Liberty, San Jacinto, and Panola Counties, Tex.; Hempstead, Nevada, Clark, Grant, Saline, and Pulaski Counties, Ark.; Butler and Stoddard Counties, Mo.; and Perry, Washington, Marion, and Livingston Counties, Ill.

About 57 miles of 36-inch "loop" line would be laid parallel to existing 24- and 26-inch pipeline on the Texas Panhandle — to Chicago system in Lincoln County, Kan.; Cass County, Neb.; Washington, Louisiana, and Muscatine Counties, Ia.; and Grundy, Will, and Kendall Counties, Ill. In addition, nearly 5 1/2 miles of 36-inch "loop" line would be laid in Hutchinson County, Tex.

Also included in the project is a 600-horsepower compressor station to be built near Joliet, Ill. In the vicinity of the Company's regulator station, a 950-horsepower booster station to be constructed in Polk County, Tex., and a 660-horsepower booster station in Stephens County, Okla.

The Company also will lay 15 miles of six-inch lateral pipeline in Jim Hogg and Zapata Counties, Tex., to connect with the new gas wells.

Plans for the project were filed with the FPC last Nov. 14.

terior, where it will be shipped inland to location via narrow gauge railroad and truck transport. The width of the skids was determined by the railroad right-of-way in Colombia. All vessels were mounted horizontally in order to cut down on overall height.

The oil processing complex was engineered by Cities Service Petroleum and National Tank company personnel, and fabricated at National Tank's Tulsa shops.

The Payoa field of Colombia is located 180 miles north of Bogota on the east edge of a 75,000-acre block which comprises part of a two million acre exploration concession held by Ecopetrol (the Colombian government oil company), Richfield Oil Corp., Pan American International Oil Corp. and Colombia-Cities Service Petroleum Corp. Colombia - Cities Service is operator.

The first well on the concession was the Payoa No. 1, completed as a dual producer for an initial of 3,887 barrels of oil daily.

Sale of crude from the field is scheduled by mid-1962, upon completion of a pipeline by the group that will extend to Barrancabermeja, Colombia. The oil can be refined at this point or shipped via connecting pipeline to the coast.

Let's Not Have A War

If there is one thing more than any other that appalls us, it is the tendency of so many people today to seek simple, effortless solutions to world-shaking problems. And the malady is currently best exemplified in the trend toward favoring a war with Russia as a means to solve all the problems in existence.

Such an approach is only possible among people who have stopped thinking and who insist on "taking action" even if they don't consider the effects of the actions they advocate.

Let's say it right out and be done with it. A war with Russia would not "solve" the problem posed by communism, nor would it "solve" any other problem. What it would do would be to take our minds off our problems by giving us a major military objective. It would cost the world, not just the U.S., thousands of billions of dollars. It is predictable that it would cost the world hundreds of millions of lives.

But, principally, it would cost us what intellectual advantages we have by an indefinite postponement of the thinking processes. In the end, it would promote communism, regardless of which side "won" the contest, even assuming that a "victory" would be possible.

But let's be practical. Let's suppose that the war-promoters carry the day and finally manage to get their hearts' desire, and the strains of martial music and much political flag-waving mark the imposition of a massive draft order against all Americans, the imposing of war-time controls on the total economy, the mobilization of all manpower with men, women and children being shunted about the country and the world to fulfill the military objective. Then what?

We would see the war conducted under the aegis of the United Nations, of which we are a full dues-paying (and then some) member. It is too much to expect that Russia, which has a permanent member on the military staff of the U.N., would be ousted. The purpose of the war (it would be explained) would be to make Russia into a proper, law-abiding member of the U.N. Therefore, we wouldn't want to oust Russia, we would want to reform her.

Next, it would be folly to suppose that our foreign aid program would be abandoned. On the contrary, it would be multiplied many-fold in order to pay the military dues of our "allies" who might be cozened or bullied into joining with us to take on the Russian Bear.

Certainly, it would be claimed and proclaimed endlessly that this was a war to protect freedom. But how in the name of all that is rational do we "protect freedom" by creating a monstrous military mechanism, putting all citizens and all property under its control? There is no question but that this would be the first step in any kind of all-out military effort. Is freedom to be won by inflicting personal slavery upon 150 million American people?

What is communism? It is a collectivist dream which envisages and promotes total political and military dominance of the people of the world. Will we be "fighting communism" if we assist in the process by enslaving the American people and making them impotent in any kind of thought or action which could result in their freedom?

And let us suppose that we won the war, which would be a likely outcome in view of our present vastly superior economic advantages, what then?

Are we of such short memory that we do not know that our first act would be to harness what was left of our industry into producing for the defeated?

We would be hitched to a Russian welfare program for a century at least, after the holocaust. We would, as we have done in the past, be required to enslave ourselves, our children, their children, and their children, in a mammoth procedure destined to level all standards in the world so that the losers in the conflict could yet survive. And this would defeat communism?

On the contrary, this would be communism, administered by American communists who would claim to be the great exponents of democracy in a new world order. War is the natural tool of communism. Must we use communism's tool? Political control is the natural tool of communism. Do we fight communism by employing its methods, its tools, its policies?

Those who really believe in freedom are going to have to stop champing at the bit for "just a bit" of communism so that communism can be defeated.

We have thought our way, scientifically, into the fourth dimension. We can do a better job of thinking than advocacy for war suggests, if we try.

Estes—A Symbol Of Evil

We have been watching the Billie Sol Estes scandal as one finding after another reverberated across the land. It is time to comment, although there is a great deal about the affair that is not known now, and it is entirely possible that all of the details will never be known in spite of honest assertions that a full-fledged investigation will occur.

The young wheeler and dealer from Pecos, Texas, is actually a tragic figure and, of course, wholly to blame for his own actions. But in a larger sense, Estes is a symbol which fits the current American scene like a tight glove.

A parallel could be aptly drawn between Estes' maneuverings with government subsidy, farmers' private credit, grain storage and ammonium tanks; and the federal government's own maneuvering in Laos, Cuba, the near East, Berlin, and elsewhere.

The pattern followed by Estes on the one hand and Uncle Sam on the other are cut from the same bolt of cloth.

Estes had a dream, an overweening ambition to get rich. And, following the current Keynesian concepts that you can get rich by spending, if only you spend enough, young Estes cut a wide swath with borrowed money, seeking always to do favors to politically placed persons of influence. The degree of this favor seeking and getting will probably be blanketed somewhere between the Agriculture Department and President Kennedy, himself.

At the moment, one should note that President Kennedy has already made himself suspect by his irrational and immature defense of Agriculture Secretary Freeman, whose department made the whole thing possible, and who obviously had some knowledge of what was going on before the storm broke.

But this is old stuff to the American federal bureaucracy itself. Our own fulminators in Washington also have had a dream—that of world leader. And in like manner the American government has cut a wide swath through the world, and on borrowed money. Our so-called "foreign aid" program is precisely the kind of thing Billy Sol did on a much smaller scale. It is a program of buying political favor from those in positions of influence.

And it has been financed by the same people who were rooked in both cases. The American taxpayers, hard-pressed, slaving away from dawn to dark and then on into the night, have been lured to provide the dollars which Billy Sol and Uncle Sam both have dispensed with lavish hand. Nor has the looting been on a

New 'Revolution' In U.S. Troubles To Be Doubled

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Projections that the U.S. population will double by the year 2000—less than 40 years from now—are the cause for more long range thinking in Washington than any other one problem. What this is taken to mean is that there will have to be twice as many jobs for people to work at, twice as much food for them to eat.

First effects of these coming changes are discernible in many of the programs which President Kennedy has presented to Congress for the promotion of economic growth, creation of full employment, help for depressed areas and reduction of the impact of periods of economic recession.

All these, however, are taken as short term measures to meet existing problems. Far greater in scope are problems of adjustment which may have to be solved to take care of the population growth in the next four decades.

The total impact of the changes which may have to be made are described by some planners as the equivalent to a revolution in American life which few people realize.

What is foreseen is the equivalent of a second industrial revolution, a technological revolution, an economic revolution, a revolution caused by growth.

The reasoning behind this is simply that the problems of 360 million people 40 years from now cannot be handled in the same ways that they were, say—during the Coolidge era of 40 years ago, when U.S. population was only 105 million, compared with today's 180 million.

U.S. Department of Agriculture experts anticipate there will be as much progress in farm technology in the years ahead as there has been in the years behind.

There is no question that U.S. agriculture will be able to produce enough food for 360 million people. But the prediction is that it will be produced on fewer acres by fewer men using new machines and new methods.

A new department of labor research study indicates that technological advances of the farm-industrial automation, to use the ugly phrase for it—will result in a loss of 200,000 jobs a year over the next decade.

These are just two measures of expected evolution. The revolutionary aspects of such progress come from a belief by far-sighted men that the bad effects of such changes can be corrected while they are happening.

The unskilled common laborer in America is therefore seen as on his way towards oblivion. People will be educated and trained for jobs requiring higher skills. Second-class citizens will be seen as liabilities. Efforts will be made to concert them into economic assets, producing and consuming their share of the economy.

There is growing belief by economists that recessions in business and prolonged unemployment for labor are wasteful and unnecessary. Minor fluctuations may be inevitable in a free enterprise system, but their effects can be minimized to stabilize the economy.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Farm Workers Exposed To Hazards Absent In City

Having been city born and bred, I did not realize the hardships and risks of farm life until I moved to the country 15 years ago. I was particularly impressed with a recent article on occupational health in agriculture.

This article explores why so little attention has been given to the health of the farm worker. The farmer is an independent operator with a relatively small operation. His home and workshop are combined. Child labor laws do not apply. The work week is not limited. Because of work crises due to changes in rainfall, soil conditions, machinery breakdowns and seasonal demands, the work day may begin before dawn and go on into the night (especially since tractors and combines are electrically lighted). Safety equipment is not furnished nor are safety rules enforced as in supervised industries. Because of distances, first aid and other medical services are not readily available.

What makes the situation all the worse is the fact that farm accidents, in the home as well as in the field, rank in frequency only less than those that occur in mining and construction. When these accidents occur, it is often impossible for the farmer to leave what he is doing to seek competent medical and surgical care.

Sanitation cannot be as well supervised and controlled as in an urban community. In addition, the farmer's occupation exposes him and his family to greater risks from dusts and pollens that may produce hypersensitivity reactions (allergies); to chemicals such as insecticides, rat poisons (rodenticides), fumigants, pesticides, fertilizers, herbicides, etc.; and to diseases transmitted by animals (zoonoses). These include anthrax (malignant pustule), tetanus (lockjaw), brucellosis (Bang's disease), tuberculosis, the diarrheal disorders (salmonellosis, typhoid fever), streptococcal infections (cattle mastitis), worm infestations (trichinosis) and fungus diseases of the lungs ("farmer's lung").

While governmental agencies and farm co-operatives are striving with all the forces at their disposal to protect and care for the agriculturist, the small farmer and his wife, in particular, must be alerted to the risks that threaten them and their household and to the available agencies and means for protection and care that are at their personal disposal.

For a copy of Dr. Hyman's new leaflet "Lose Weight Healthfully," send 10 cents to Dr. Hyman, care of The Panna News, Box 489, Dept. B, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

North America, with about 20 per cent of the earth's cultivated area, has 7.5 per cent of the world's population.

Pull Up A Chair

By Neal O'Hara

The speed of major league pitching has been accurately recorded by electronic devices in the field of photography. A really fast ball travels close to 100 miles an hour, but a curve travels about half as fast. From the mound to the plate a fast ball consumes two-fifths of a second; a curve lasts four-fifths of a second. That's how swiftly a batter must react. . . . Memorable moments in radio: The first paid radio commercial was on Aug. 28, 1922, over a New York station. (It lasted 10 minutes.) The first radio address by a President was on June 21, 1923, by Warren G. Harding, only a few weeks before his death. The first broadcast of a prizefight was July 12, 1923, of Louis Firpo, the Argentine champ, vs. Jess Willard.

Civic note in the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune: "A bi-racial urban renewal committee agreed there will be little if any opposition to the slum clearance program at a picnic hearing. . . . That part of North America just west of the Great Lakes has such an invigorating climate that children reach their adolescence earliest in that sector. And livestock, particularly cattle and hogs, grow more rapidly there than in less stimulating climates.

Today's favorite gag: A young woman clambered aboard a crowded street car when the conductor said he could take on no more passengers. An older woman then shouted, "But my daughter just got on, and I have to go with her! You wouldn't part a mother from her daughter, would you?" "Certainly not!" the conductor said. "I did that once, long ago, and I've regretted it ever since. Climb in!"

Eugene O'Neill's plays run four to five hours, and are never cut. And so his latest biographer, Arthur Gelb, follows suit in his opus, simply titled "O'Neill," which runs more than 900 pages, and sells at $12.50.

Italy's latest streamlined contribution to shopping is a circular supermarket, operated by a staff of 120, all trained to be interchangeable in their jobs. The store issues quarterly catalogs, for easy telephone shopping. . . . Service: For any business executive or government brass who wishes to sneak an after-lunch snooze without anyone knowing of it, one Washington hotel offers a special service. For a fee of $2.50 any time early in the afternoon he will be given a quiet room in which to catch his 40 winks, have a shower if he wishes and then return to his desk without anyone being the wiser.

Recent litigation reveals that when Clark Gable's second wife, Carol Lombard, was killed in a tragic air crash in 1942, the movie star settled all claims against the airline for $10. He desired not to have to repeat his grief in court. . . . There is no specific relationship between cancer and the development of moles and warts, an A.M.A. monthly asserts. Moles and warts simply represent overgrowth of normal skin cells. . . . West coast chain of food stores displays perishable produce the first day under a sign reading "First - Morning Fresh." and whatever is left over is offered the next day under a placard reading "Second Day Produce" and is marked down accordingly.

Pegler Says:

Kennedy Had Wrong Dope On The Billie Sol Case

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

President Kennedy was misinformed when he said in a news conference: "The Billie Sol Estes case came to public attention when the Government indicted him on April 5."

The Dallas Morning News was on the story on March 27 and cracked it on March 28. The News got on it when it covered a secret meeting of creditors with Estes and attorneys in Dallas. Twelve finance companies were represented including the Pacific Finance Company, whose public relations man, Hardin Bishop, of Los Angeles, told the News reporter afterward that the case involved more than $22 million. The News ran a story on page one on March 28. Up to that time, Billie Sol Estes was very obscure and had given money to Senator Ralph Yarborough and Congressman Slick Rutherford, both of Texas, for their political purposes. They are Democrats of the special persuasion called radical or left wing.

The FBI pinched Estes on March 29, relying on a warrant, but the Dallas Morning News had been on the story prior to the creditors' meeting of March 27 because it had picked up a tip from a source in the Panhandle. Meanwhile three News men spent a whole afternoon at Estes' home in Pecos draining him of information. That was Billie Sol's last visit with reporters although his wife gave a marshmallow interview later.

Ever since the creditors' meeting the Morning News has been all over the story and all over the State of Texas, which is a roomy spread. It is impossible for any one reporter or even a pair of reporters to tag all bases. I checked in at Lubbock, on April 19 and barnstormed to Pecos, La Mesa, Odessa, Midland, Van Horn and El Paso for 13 days. New York and Washington papers were ignoring a news story with the political qualities and size of a Teapot Dome. The first New York reporter I saw was Clyde Farnsworth, of the Times, whom I encountered in the office of the Pecos Independent on Sunday, April 29, as I was pulling out. He told me Earl Mazo, of the New York Herald Tribune, had put down over in Dallas. They both gave it their all, but the Times seemed apathetic whereas Jock Whitney, now operating the Herald Tribune, has whooped it up like a carnival pitchman.

Whitney is a polo player like Averell Harriman. Whitney even threw in with the late Marshall Field, also a polo player, back in the New Deal as publisher of a cockeyed paper in New York which was called PM.

It is no coincidence that the Unseen Influence, which is now known as The Establishment, picked two polo players to be ambassadors—Harriman for Moscow, and Jock for London. Chester Bowles does not play polo, but he acts that way and he was ambassador to India.

The Dallas Morning News did great work. In the home office, William Rives, the assistant managing editor, scheduled and apportioned the assignments all the way from Washington to Pecos.

A thought for the day: Bishop Fulton J. Sheen said: "Baloney is flattery so thick it can't be true, and baloney is flattery so thin we like it."

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, June 10, the 161st day of the year with 204 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Mars and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus. On this day in history:

In 1776, the Continental Congress appointed a committee to draft a Declaration of Independence.

In 1898, U. S. Marines began the invasion of Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1931, Mrs. Ernest Simpson was presented at court in Buckingham Palace and met the Prince of Wales, whom she later married.

In 1940, Italian dictator Benito Mussolini declared war on France and Great Britain at a moment when France was almost prostrate.

A thought for the day: Bishop Fulton J. Sheen said: "Baloney is flattery so thick it can't be true, and baloney is flattery so thin we like it."

Fact

It used to be the custom of each village in many parts of England and Scotland to have an official sin eater. This was a man who for trifling payment was believed to take upon himself the sins of a deceased person. The sin eater would go to the house where the death had occurred and would eat a crust of bread and drink a bowl of ale, and so supposedly free the dead man of his sins.

In Address Before Kiwanis Club

Wheeler County Rancher Calls For Halt To Socialistic Trend

Appealing for a halt in the trend to socialism in domestic government, Tom Britt, Wheeler County rancher, sounded a call at Friday's meeting of the Pampa Kiwanis Club for Texans to be Americans first and Democrats or Republicans second.

"We are coming to an election in November," Britt said, "and we will have a choice between Democrats and Republicans."

The Wheeler rancher said the American people need to be independent in their thinking when they go to the polls.

"If we are to halt the current trend into socialism — and it has been going on in both Republican and Democratic administrations," he stated, "we need people who won't go down either party line all the time. We need people who will do their own thinking when they go to the polls."

"We need statesmen, not politicians, in our legislative halls. We should vote for men whom we believe will do what is best for us regardless of whether they are listed as Democrats or Republicans. There are good men in both parties and we should pick them out and support them."

The speaker said the people of America must turn more to self-reliance. There is abroad in the cities, town and small communities of the nation too much of an attitude of letting someone else solve the problems that face the country.

"We have gone a long way down the road to socialism," Britt said. "The President is taking on more and more powers that should belong to the Congress. If we are to halt this ever-growing trend, we are going to have to stop letting the people in Washington look after things. We have been doing that too long. It is time that we, as individuals, come awake and start telling them what we want and what we want them to do. We need to raise our voices in protest to the things we see going wrong."

Britt decried the move to make the United Nations the sole judge of world policy. It is a dangerous thing and folly, he stated, for the United States to place full confidence in the UN when there are so many small nations that now have the same voting power as the United States.

The speaker pointed out what he said was a little known fact today — that the United States is subsidizing, in one way or another, 96 of the 104 member nations in the United Nations.

"We just cannot afford to place our safety in a UN world police force when we also have the fact staring us in the face that we can be outvoted at anytime in the UN. There are too many people in high places in our government today who would create a situation that would unilaterally disarm us."

Britt said that a great deal of the things that are wrong with our country today can be placed on our own doorstep. He said he thought parents were not inculcating Americanism into their children as they should.

"We need to take the time to explain to our children what is happening today, and we need to do it now so that they can be prepared for the future — so they will understand what is building up to envelop them in the growing generation."

Britt explained that he was not talking politics.

"I am an independent. I vote for Democrats I think will do the best thing for our country and I vote for Republicans I think will do the right thing."

He said he thought the only way to stop the trend into socialism is for each individual to do his own thinking and cast out strict party lines.

Britt was introduced by Harry Wofford, Wheeler County clerk, and a past deputy district governor of Kiwanis Division Six.

Va., in his office in the Capitol in Washington. The two are winners of the Elks National Youth Leadership Contest. Each received a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond in recognition of their selection from more than 50,000 high school students as being representative of youth leadership in the nation.

Backstairs At The White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: It was supposed to be secret, but it has spread around town and there now seems to be little harm in discussing it—the new guidelines to conversation at White House parties.

Ladies of press, radio and television who cover the receptions and dinners given at the White House by President and Mrs. Kennedy were told recently, politely but firmly, that interviewing of guests at these affairs must stop. It was suggested to the ladies that their questions henceforth be confined to "are you having a lovely time?" if the reporters want to go beyond that, it must not take place beneath the President's roof.

It was suggested that an insatiably curious woman reporter might say, "I'd like to talk with you later—may I call you at your hotel?"

No fair person would dispute the right or propriety of the Kennedys not wanting their fancy soirees turned into floating press conferences. But quite frequently there are guests at these affairs who are not entirely opposed to personal publicity, or who downright want to converse uninhibitedly.

Thus, this next social season, some oddly interesting dialogue is in prospect beside the punch bowls of the state dining room.

Suppose, for example, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., attends a party given by the Kennedys and he spots Desiree Handcuff, noted society writer. Humphrey has been known to speak quite freely and this sort of thing might happen:

Sen. Humphrey: "How are you tonight, Desiree?"

Miss Handcuff: "Good evening, Senator. Are you having a lovely time?"

Sen. Humphrey: "Not really, Desiree. My feet hurt."

Miss Handcuff: "I'm sorry to hear that, Senator. Are you having a lovely time?"

Sen. Humphrey: "If we can get some of the Southern Democrats to stick together, I think we'll pass it next week."

Miss Handcuff: "How interesting, Senator. Are you having a lovely time?"

Sen. Humphrey: "I thought I answered that. My feet hurt. Why don't you ask me about Medicare?"

Miss Handcuff: "I'd love to, Senator, but there are rules, you know."

Sen. Humphrey: "Don't tell me about rules—toughest committee in Congress."
