LONESOME CANINES — These pooches are two of ten dogs which are being held in the City Dog Pound today. City Dog Warden "Euster" Collins said that a close city-wide "look-out" for stray dogs is now in force. A determined campaign to keep stray dogs off Pampa streets was started yesterday by city officials, City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones said this morning that dog owners are starting to heed the ordinance which requires licensing of dogs as 10 dog licenses and tags were issued by noon today. Previously, only 30 tags and licenses had been issued this year. Jones reminded dog owners that when they apply for a dog license, they must present a vaccination for rabies certificate. ## Mansfield Says JFK's Bill On Voting Rights In Danger This Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's voting rights bill, granted a temporary reprieve by the Senate, today appeared headed for the junk pile barring a big shift in legislative sentiment. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., who has led the administration's fight in the two-week-old controversy, said he would favor dropping the issue for this year unless a second attempt to limit debate picks up considerably more support by voting time Monday. There were no immediate indications that it would. The next—and probably final—test for the bill will come Monday on Mansfield's second motion to invoke cloture and curb a Southern talkathon against the measure. "If we fail on Monday—and fail badly," he told the Senate late Wednesday it would be better to move on to other matters long delayed by the civil rights fight. The bill is aimed at barring discrimination against Negro voters through state literacy tests. It would make a sixth-grade education proof of literacy for voting in federal elections. Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday he could not agree with arguments that the bill was unconstitutional. But he conceded the fight for the bill would be fruitless unless cloture could be imposed and the measure brought to a vote.

Opponents of the bill, led by a hard-core bloc of 19 Southerners, trounced Mansfield's first cloture move by a 53-43 vote Wednesday. This was 21 votes short of the two-thirds needed for cloture, and left the issue still before the Senate for continued debate. But the Senate then refused to table—and thus kill—the measure by a 64-33 vote. Mansfield made the tabling motion, and voted against it, in order to test Senate sentiment on the bill itself. Mansfield then filed his second cloture petition, which will not come to a vote until Monday. Thirty Democrats, mostly Westerners and Southerners, teamed with 23 Republicans to defeat the cloture move Wednesday. It was supported by 30 Democrats and 13 Republicans. "The tabling motion was defeated by a combination of 39 Democrats and 25 Republicans and supported by only 23 Democrats and 10 Republicans. Informed sources said the Southern group might be weaker Monday because of absentees. But they did not believe the result would materially change. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chief strategist of the Southern forces, was jubilant over Wednesday's decisive vote against cloture and told the Senate his group was prepared to continue the debate for weeks.

School Board Sets Dates For The Opening Of Summer Sessions Here

Pampa's summer school schedule will open Monday, June 4, and run through Friday, July 27. The Pampa school board set the dates at its regular monthly meeting in Pampa Junior High School today. The eight-week session was recommended by Supt. Jack Edmondson. Classes for three academic subjects including mathematics, history and English will be held. Edmondson said consideration also is being given to requests for a typing course if enough requests are received to warrant hiring of an instructor. Four classes in driver education also will be available during the summer school session, Edmondson said. Summer school teachers appointed today were Mack Choate, B. G. Gordon, Howard Graham, Bill Haynes, Otis Holaday, Ansel Joyner, Harold Moore, Aubra Noncaster, Perry Sikes and Roy J. Woldt. The board also approved monthly bills for April for a total of $15,170.44. Payment of $500 to the Pampa Youth and Community Center to help defray expenses incurred by the schools through use of the center for physical education classes also was approved. "A group hospitalization plan recommended by the Teachers Welfare Committee of Pampa schools was tabled for further study. Also tabled for further study was a request of Civil Defense Director Bill Leonard for the use of six of Pampa's public school buildings for fallout shelters. The request set forth the need for storage space for supplies for 50 persons in each of the school buildings. Another request for fire-proofing certain school buildings at a cost of $15,000 was tabled. Officials said there was no money available in the current school budget. Following the routine business meeting, the board adjourned and went into executive session.

Pampa Shriners To Take Part In Big Convention

A delegation of 100 Pampa Shriners and their wives will go to Amarillo tomorrow to attend the Friday and Saturday events scheduled during the annual three-day convention of the Texas Shrine Association. The convention, which opened this afternoon, will be one of the largest ever held in the Texas Panhandle. One of the highlights of interest to the public, and especially to children, will be the gigantic Shrine parade at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow through downtown Amarillo. The parade will wind up at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo where a historical pageant will be staged at 8 p.m. The pageant, according to Shrine officials, will be of interest not only to some 19,000 Master Masons in the 58-county jurisdiction of Khiva Temple, but also to the general public, which is invited to attend. There will be no admission charge. Pampa's Shrine Club is one of 14 in the Khiva Temple area. Local officers are Waldon E. Moore, president; William Henderson, first vice president; Fred Van Shoubrouck, second vice president, and Ham Luna, secretary-treasurer. Today's program consisted mostly of registration at the Herring Hotel, this afternoon and a meeting tonight of judges and captains of all competing units, patrols and drum corps. Pampa's delegation will attend the buffet supper to be held at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow for nobles, novices and their wives to be held in the Exhibits Bldg. at the Amarillo Fairgrounds. They will take part in the 6:30 p.m. parade and attend the 8 p.m. pageant in Dick Bivins Stadium. On Saturday, the Pampans will participate in the conferring of the Shrine K. O. B., Yellow Dog and Camel Herders' degrees in (See SHRINERS, Page 4)

Can You Buy Votes In New Mexico Elections?

SANTA FE (UPI) — Are votes bought in New Mexico? A Santa Fe newspaperman says he was kept so busy collecting from campaign workers during Tuesday's primary that he never got around to casting a vote — honest or otherwise. He said his "take" was $14.50. Charges of phoney balloting, peculiar vote-counting and out-and-out vote buying are made in New Mexico as regularly as elections are held. The Santa Fe New Mexican, the state capital's only daily news paper, decided that in this primary it would again get the goods on campaign workers who solicit votes with cold cash. The New Mexican had published pictures of money changing hands at the polls two years ago. Managing editor Tony Hillerman, knowing any regular member of his news staff carrying a camera would get nothing but the fish-eye at the polls, assigned circulation department employe Phil DeBaca to the story. DeBaca was given a miniature camera, no bigger than a cigarette lighter, and told to look for dirty work in Precinct 4, where past experience indicated he would not have to look too long. DeBaca said he arrived at the polling place and "asked a man by the door how to pick up some money by voting right and he referred me to a lady in a red dress standing outside." The lady, and a girl companion DeBaca identified as a city employe, had two sets of voting guides. One had no price on it. The longer one — indicating which levers to throw on the voting machine for a whole list of state and county candidates — was marked "$5."

US Attempt To Launch Blinking Satellite Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The United States attempted to put a blinking beacon satellite into an earth orbit today but the scientific project failed when the carrier rocket's second stage failed to fire. It was the fourth failure in three days at the missile test center here. Tuesday a new Atlas Centaur rocket exploded less than a minute after liftoff and Wednesday the Army's Pershing missile blew up after launch and the Navy's Polaris failed to complete a test flight. None of the difficulties reflected, however, on the Atlas rocket expected to put astronaut Scott Carpenter into a three orbit trip around the earth next week and the manshot still is scheduled for a week from today. Scientists from all over the world had hoped to photograph Anna's flashing beacon against the background of the stars to help pinpoint more precisely any spot on earth. The need for such exact data was established by early Vanguard satellites, which indicated the earth was more pear-shaped than round. Other experiments disclosed that various islands — among them Bermuda — were several hundred feet from where they were thought to be. The United States has refined its knowledge of geography, vital in this age of ICBM's when missiles must be able to pinpoint their targets with deadly accuracy, with its transit satellites. Anna's blinking beacons were expected to help refine that knowledge even more. Anna is roughly the size of a large aluminum beach ball, 36 inches in diameter and wearing a six-inch thick belt of solar cells around her waist.

Ex-President Says Congress Used 'Greater Speed' During His Tenure

By BERNARD BRENNER United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said today that he and Republican congressional leaders could find no enthusiasm or sense of priority in the Kennedy administration's various investigations of the Billie Sol Estes grain storage scandal. He told a capitol hill news conference that, during his administration, Democratic Congresses seemed to conduct investigations of the executive branch with greater speed. The former chief executive made the statement following a conference with Republican leaders of the House and Senate on various legislative and political issues. It had been made clear in advance that they would discuss the administration's investigations in regard to Estes. It was reported meantime that the Texas financier rushed here from Texas last Oct. 18 to try to halt an Agriculture Department crackdown on his cotton planting allotment deals by threatening to publicly embarrass the Kennedy administration. Estes was said by a department source to have threatened to buy newspaper advertising here and to go on New York television to charge that the administration was ruining an honest business man. Eisenhower, in discussing the Estes case, recalled that in the Teapot Dome oil scandal, then President Calvin Coolidge called in "two or three Democrats and said the whole record of the government is open to you."

Eisenhower said he thought this is what should be done now. The Agriculture Department Wednesday, ordered Estes, a former member of its cotton advisory board, to pay a $554,162 fine for violating cotton planting regulations by allegedly purchasing acreage allotments illegally. Estes, now under indictment in Texas on fraud charges, has a right to appeal to a Texas farmer review committee and to the state and federal courts. It was learned today that an Agriculture Department official involved in handling Estes' grain storage business with the government soon may be transferred. However, there was no suggestion of wrongdoing on the part of the official. The possible transfer arose after top department officials reviewed the handling of a financial report Estes presented in early 1961. The report was designed to show that the department should not increase the $700,000 bond it required on Estes' grain warehouses because he had an alleged net worth of about $12 million. The bond was left at $700,000. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said at a news conference this week that the man who passed on the matter was not a certified accountant and "we should have a CPA in that job."

In another development in the Estes case, Assistant Labor Secretary Jerry R. Holleman said he approached Estes and several other "Texas friends" thinking they might want to help Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg give a dinner last January for Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. But Holleman, former president of the Texas AFL-CIO, said in his statement that Goldberg was never told about the approach and said he learned later that Goldberg insisted on paying the costs of the Johnson party. "Consequently, I did not pursue the matter further," Holleman said. "Thus, Mr. Estes in no way contributed a single penny to the secretary's party." The department, in levying the fine, accused Estes of illegally getting cotton planting allotments under a complicated sale and lease-back deal with farmers whose cotton farms had been taken by the government under eminent domain proceedings. The department said it gave Estes an opportunity to file certificates stating that the land sales were bona fide and not a cover for improper transfers, but it said no certificates were filed. COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — The state committee of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service Wednesday suspended W. M. Mattox, vice chairman of a committee at Pecos that helps set crop allotments, for accepting favors from indicted farm tycoon Billie Sol Estes. Louis David, executive director of the state ASCS committee, said Mattox was suspended because he accepted from Estes a plane trip to Washington and hotel expenses while he was there. "The matter of accepting gratuities in the form of plane travel and hotel accommodations by Mr. W. P. Mattox as reported in the newspapers was discussed with Washington office representatives," David said in a statement. "As a result of the inference which would naturally be drawn because of these newspaper articles, it was felt advisable to suspend Mr. Mattox as vice chairman of the Reeves County ASC Committee. "This action will provide for a complete hearing in order that the full facts of the case may be made available to the state ASC committee. "The suspension action is self explanatory and does not constitute removal from the county committee until all hearings have been held and complete information is made available. David said a hearing for Mattox probably would be held in College Station and probably completed in 10 days. AMARILLO (UPI) — Three finance companies have filed 52 suits in U. S. district court within the past two days seeking in excess of $5.5 million from a company and individuals involved in leasing fertilizer equipment to farm magnate Billie Sol Estes. The suits all named Superior Manufacturing Co. of Amarillo as defendant along with 52 individuals which the firms claim have defaulted on lease agreement payments. The Walter E. Heller & Co., of Chicago filed 32 suits asking for (See EISENHOWER, Page 4)

OAS Singles Out Moslem Women

ALGIERS (UPI) — Secret Army Organization gunmen today singled out Moslem women in terrorist attacks here and in the western part of Oran. Nine women were among 20 persons killed in scattered incidents. Nine persons were wounded. The attacks raised the casualty toll since Jan. 1, 4,442 killed and 8,833 wounded.

Spanish Students Demonstrate

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — An estimated 1,500 students demonstrated on the campus of the University of Madrid today to protest the arrest and fining of other students last week end in support of striking miners of northern Spain. Both were rescued by police. Neither was injured. The students told the newsmen they did not want publicity abroad for what was a purely Spanish problem. The new demonstration came as the Spanish cabinet was reported ready to approve a general wage increase for most major industries in an effort to end the country's labor crisis which started with the miners' strike last month.

where militant communism was met head-on and decisively defeated," Franco said. Reviewing the events leading to the current labor turbulence, this correspondent was told that when the miners asked a pay increase through their "sindicatos," which in Spain are in effect production unions, it was obviously necessary to increase the price of coal as an immediate result. The coal is low-grade and the mines generally such poor producers that governmental subsidies already are necessary to keep most of them operating. These mines, this correspondent learned, will probably be the first casualties if Spain is admitted to the European Common Market, which will make it necessary to relocate the workers. "There was general agreement that an increase in pay for the miners was indicated by the nation's improved standard of living, but the complexities of setting a higher price for coal had to take into consideration also the effect upon related and interdependent industries including gas and cement," General Franco said. A formula was eventually evolved and the pay increases approved. Before they could go into effect, however, a syndicate of metallurgical workers was given a raise as a result of entirely separate negotiations. This raise for the steel and other workers was a simpler proposition because the steel mills have been modernized and production per man in-

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW United Press International MADRID (UPI) — Francisco Franco of Spain today discussed with this correspondent the current labor flareups across the nation and pinned responsibility for direction of the miners' strike directly on continuous Communist broadcasts in the Spanish language by Radio Prague. Spain's chief of state, uniformed as captain general of the army, received me at the Pardo Palace, seven miles from Madrid. The effort to perpetuate the strikes in the coal mines of Asturias consists of specific instructions by the Red radio, he said, adding that the flareups also are a rallying point for opportunistic factions opposed to the regime. The Red effort, he said, is an attempt to prevent the miners in this curiously confused and disorganized strike from realizing that the mine owners already had agreed to the pay increases and the government had agreed to a compensatory increase in the price of coal. The Communist effort, this correspondent was told, is to convince the workers that pay improvements can only come by direct action, turmoil and strikes. A pattern would thus be set in other industries across the nation to "spread the infection," and to demonstrate that raises can only be had by the use of force. The chief of state was apparently in good health and spirits despite rumors to the contrary. "Communism has Spain as its special target because my country is the only one in the world

Women Are Still Top Holders Of AT&T Stock

By JESSE BOGUE, UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The corporation with more stockholders than any other in the nation has issued its annual report on who owns it, and in the Mr. and Mrs. Breakdown, the list of ladies is twice as long as that of the men.

But the lead is shrinking. In 1945, last of the war years, women made up 55 per cent of the stockholders, against 27 per cent for the men. In 1961, they made up 41 per cent, against 20 per cent. The big rise over that 15 year period was in accounts held in the names of men and women together. Fiduciary and Institutional accounts also grew.

As to numbers of shares, said the latest report on ownership of American Telephone and Telegraph, nearly 80 million shares were held by women in 1961; about 44 million by men; about the same number in accounts listed for both men and women, and nearly 60 million by fiduciary accounts and institutions.

Total shares outstanding at the end of the year were 235,900,000. The corporation issued 12,400,000 shares during 1961, which was the year that it passed the two million mark in numbers of stockholders.

At the time that mark was passed, AT&T recalled that only 10 years earlier, it had been at the million mark; but it took 71 years to reach the point of a million stockholders, if the count were made from 1880, when the predecessor to AT&T, the American Bell Telephone Co., was organized.

In piling up this total, the communications giant has amassed a list of stockholders that is larger than the combined total of the next three largest: General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and General Electric.

W. O. Pruitt Rites Friday

Services for William O. Pruitt, 53, of Borger will be held at 3 p.m. Friday in the First Christian Church in Borger.

Mr. Pruitt, a former Pampa resident, died at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday in the North Plains Hospital in Borger from a heart attack. He had been in ill health since April 11.

He had been an employee of the Humble Pipeline Co. for 33 years and for the past 15 years had been district gauger in the Borger area.

Mr. Pruitt was an active worker in the Boy Scout organization. He was on the board of directors for the Adobe Walls Council and served as committeeman for Boy Scout Troop 91, sponsored by the Borger First Christian Church. He served as an elder in the Borger church and was a former member of the First Christian Church in Pampa. He also was a member of the Isom Masonic Lodge 1242 in Borger.

Survivors are his wife, Ruth of the home; one son, Gene of Houston; one daughter, Wilma of Dallas.

Interment will be in Memory Gardens in Pampa.

The body will lie in state until 2 p.m. Friday in the Simpson Funeral Home in Borger; the casket will not be opened at the church.

'63 Convention Of Odd Fellows Due In Pampa

Pampa has been selected as the 1963 convention scene for the Panhandle Association of Odd Fellows. The selection was made at the recent Odd Fellows convention in Dalhart.

The official invitation was presented to the lodge members at Dalhart by Vernon Hall and John Killian of the local Odd Fellows and Mrs. T. A. Mastin of the Pampa Rebekahs lodge.

The convention will be held here April 26-28 in 1963 and is expected to attract some 300 visitors.

'62 City Directory To Be Released In Pampa Soon

Chamber of Commerce officials announced today that Pampa's new 1962 city directory will be ready for delivery within the next few days.

The directory is being published by the Hudspeth Directory Co. of Dallas and El Paso, publishers of the Pampa directory for the past 20 years.

A reminder also was issued to Pampans that the Chamber of Commerce maintains a directory of all major cities. The directories are available to the public.

Three Fires Are Reported Here

Fire caused light damage to two buildings Wednesday and to wiring in a late model car.

About 11:25 a.m., the wiring under the hood of a 1960 Ford owned by John White caught fire. It was caused by carburetor flooding.

The incident occurred in the 400 block of S. Russell.

About 1:30 p.m., a wash house, owned by H. E. Kennedy, 527 S. Barnes, caught fire. It was caused by gas too close to a hot water tank in the building.

Only light damage was reported to the wash house.

About 3:28 p.m., a kerosene tank fire destroyed a fence at the Windsor Well Servicing Company. Only light damage was reported. Owner of the company is Elmer Wilson.

Mother's Day Program Slated

A special Mother's Day program will be held Friday at 7 p.m. in the American Legion hall. It was announced today by C. W. Huffines, commander of World War I Veterans, Barracks Number 1952.

A covered dish dinner will be served by the women's auxiliary.

Airline Merger Hearing Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) opens hearings today on the biggest merger in airline history—the proposed "marriage" of American and Eastern airlines.

On the outcome may hinge the future course of U.S. commercial aviation. If the CAB eventually approves the merger of the nation's second and fourth largest air carriers, other airlines have warned they may be forced to follow the same consolidation route.

$3,556,791.01. He'llier & Co., charged breach of guaranty by superior.

CIT Corp. of New York filed suit against Gerron S. (Mutt) Wheeler of Hereford, Tex., for $137,610.52, claiming Wheeler defaulted on payments for anhydrous ammonia fertilizer equipment.

Pacific Finance Co., of Los Angeles filed 19 suits seeking foreclosure of chattel mortgage liens and damages totaling $1,982,369.08 including $1,486,088 in alleged defaulted installment payments on anhydrous ammonia equipment.

The Pacific Finance suits also named as defendants Superior Manufacturing president Harold E. Orr and his wife, Barbara J. Orr, and Superior secretary-treasurer Ruel Alexander and his wife, Gloria.

Pacific Finance said in the suits that Estes and Coleman D. McSpadden of Lubbock, whom it had filed suit against earlier, were not named as defendants in the new suits because of U. S. district court stay orders prohibiting suits against the two.

Pacific Finance sued Estes and McSpadden, who was indicted along with Estes on federal fraud charges earlier this year, for $4.3 million on March 30. Superior Manufacturing was also a party to the earlier suits.

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI)—U. S. Rep. Robert Dole, R-Kan., charged Wednesday night he has information that five million bushels of wheat was sent from Kansas to elevators in Texas owned by Billie Sol Estes.

The storage charge per year on the wheat would be about $670,000.

"This refutes the story of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and of Hilary Moseley, Dallas commodity office director who claimed recently in a Texas speech that he had sole charge of Estes' grain storage," Dole said.

"This is another payoff to Estes with the responsibility sitting squarely on the Department of Agriculture and high-up officials who were charged with considerable responsibility."

Dole said the Kansas grain was shipped across commodity office lines and hence could only have been shipped out on the direction of somebody in Washington.

But news that Kansas grain was being shifted from this state to Texas brought no exclamations of surprise from Kansas grain storage people.

Only the charge that some of it ended up in Estes' warehouses sparked interest among the dealers and officials.

"We have a terrific storage problem in Kansas in recent years which brought on the general movement of grain to Texas," Wendell Becraft, director of the Kansas Agricultural Stabilization Committee, said.

DPS Wants Reports On All Accidents

Safety Patrolman C. L. McNeil of the Department of Public Safety said yesterday that 13 per cent of the rural accidents in Gray County last year were not investigated by any law enforcement agency.

In making an appeal to county residents to be sure to report accidents, no matter how minor, to some law enforcement agency, McNeil said the information gathered in such investigations is helpful in the department's educational, engineering and enforcement programs.

McNeil said that, among many other reasons, some of the unreported accidents occur when people have minor accidents and do not call for a law enforcement agency investigation. They later fill out a report and mail it to the department's headquarters in Austin on advice of counsel or to protect an insurance claim.

The Department of Public Safety, McNeil said, wants these accidents investigated so the information gathered can be included in the department's continuous studies to eliminate accident causes.

There were 198 rural accidents in the county last year, he said. Of these, the highway patrol investigated 162, 11 were investigated by agencies other than the DPS, and 25 were reported but not investigated.

Child Dies After Car Fire

DALLAS (UPI)—Bill Sigle, 4, one of three young McAllen children burned when the family car caught fire as they sat in it waiting for their mother to buy groceries, died today in a Dallas hospital.

The boy died in Parkland Hospital. A border patrol plane flew him and his sisters, Patricia, 5, and Nanette, 3, to Dallas Wednesday night. Border patrolman Robert Walker piloted the mercy flight, which also brought Mrs. Rose Sigle and a nurse.

Bill underwent an operation Wednesday night.

Patricia was in extremely critical condition.

Miss Florence Douglas, director of the hospital children's isolation ward, said Patricia suffered third-degree burns over 70 per cent of her body. She underwent a throat operation to help her breathe and was reported conscious.

"All three children inhaled a lot of smoke which hurt their lungs," Miss Douglas said.

Nanette was in less serious condition.

"Nanette enjoyed her breakfast," Miss Douglas said, "and looks good."

Nanette had second- and third-degree burns over about 15 per cent of her body.

Firemen said the cause of the fire was not officially determined but one fireman said a pack of burned matches was found in the back seat of the old model car. He thought the children set the upholstery of the car on fire while playing with the matches.

The children were waiting in the car while their mother was in a store in a McAllen shopping center.

The children's screams attracted other shoppers.

Pampan injured In Car Accident

A Pampa man escaped serious injury early today when the automobile he was driving rained into the rear of a truck parked in the 1700 block of N. Hobart St.

Investigating officers said the vehicle was driven by John William Chisholm, 1200 Christine, who told officers he had fallen asleep.

The truck, owned by E. C. Shirley, 1807 N. Russell, was a beer distributing truck parked on the side of the street at 12:20 a.m. when the accident occurred.

Chisholm was taken to Highland General Hospital where he was treated for a cut on his head and released.

Police said damage to the Chisholm automobile was approximately $1,600. Damage to the truck was estimated at $250.

No citations were issued by investigating officers at the scene.

a blind voter out of a car and into the polling place. Then he approached a man a bystander had pointed out as the payoff man for another major candidate.

"I told him I had delivered three votes for his slate. But he told me the only one he could credit me with was the blind man he had seen me helping.

"He peeled three one-dollar bills off a roll and told me to keep one and give two to the voter."

DeBaca was emboldened.

"This time I walked up to a man who seemed to know what was going on, told him this was my first time to vote and I didn't know how to work the voting machines. He directed me back to the woman in the red dress.

"I walked up and said 'one more.' And she sent me back to the man I met the first time. He asked me how many times I expected to get paid and I told him this time it was for my own vote.

"So he sent me back to the lady in the red dress and she gave me three dollars."

Amarillo Man Is Hurt In Wreck Here

An Amarillo man, Paul Foster, 1611 Monroe St., was taken to Highland General Hospital with injuries he received in a truck-car accident on Price Rd. at 12:45 p.m. yesterday.

Highway Patrol officers who investigated the accident said a 37 Chevrolet driven by Ronnie Waldo Gallodoy, 1906 Cherry St., Amarillo, was in collision with a pick-up truck driven by Troy Stanton of Lefors, at a private driveway one mile west of the city.

The injured man was a passenger in the Gallodoy vehicle. He was taken to the hospital where he was released today after treatment for lacerations.

Officers said the Stanton pick-up was pulling out of a private driveway onto the highway when the accident occurred. The Gallodoy vehicle was traveling north at the time of the accident.

Slight damage was reported to both vehicles and the drivers were not injured.

Public's Interest In Conservative Senator Grows, But Politicians Raise Old Doubts

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ruggedly handsome Barry Goldwater, tireless preacher of conservatism, hot pilot, gadget fancier, appears more esteemed by Republicans and interested young people today than during his phenomenal 1961 effort, when he banged out 230 speeches in towns and schools coast to coast.

In 1962's first two months the 53-year-old senator from Arizona spoke 48 times. Definitely carded for the year are 140 more appearances, with others sure to be added.

A March conservative rally in New York's Madison Square Garden at which he was the star attraction pulled in more than 18,000. Goldwater overloads the halls wherever he goes.

And yet what can only be called "The Goldwater Paradox" is as marked in 1962 as it was in 1960 and '61, according to cross-section interviews with key Republicans. With few exceptions, national leaders and tough professionals in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and California doubt Goldwater will be his party's 1964 presidential choice.

Their reason? They don't believe he could win the urbanized big states considered essential to election.

They have said this before. But time, new events and new faces, like George Romney's in Michigan, appear to have reinforced their judgments.

Says an Illinois politician: "Barry has reached his apex and is edging off."

A New Yorker not allied with rival Gov. Nelson Rockefeller adds: "Barry's been standing still for the past five months."

From Michigan, a professional's word is: "We have a hard enough time in Detroit with more moderate candidates."

ON THE ROAD — Goldwater addresses students at the University of Buffalo. Some of his most devoted supporters are young conservatives.

Goldwater himself performs as if all such comments were in another world. Daily he reaffirms his intent not to be a candidate now or later. A professional who believes him comments:

The opposite view, from a seasoned Eastern politician:

Hammond Organ Workshop To Be Held Here Friday

A Hammond Organ Teacher Workshop will be held at The Coronado Inn at 9:30 a.m., Friday, according to an announcement made today by Buz Tarpley of Tarpley Music Co.

In the expanding home music field, teaching the organ represents the greatest single opportunity. The Workshop Program is designed to familiarize everyone with Hammond Organ teaching methods, and is open to all musicians, including piano and organ teachers, and church organists.

The informal Workshop program will be conducted by Milton Page, one of America's finest organists and teachers. Page is a graduate of the University of Texas, where he majored in musical theory and composition under Dr. William Doty, Dean of the Music School. While still an undergraduate, he was appointed staff organist for the Texas State Network, a system of twenty-six affiliated radio stations.

Upon graduation, he went to New York, where his skill in playing and teaching the Hammond Organ was immediately recognized. He became an editor and arranger for the Ethel Smith Music Corporation. His services were in great demand in radio and television work with both CBS and NBC. Page was also organist at Radio City Music-Hall and the Roxy Theater over a period of four years.

Milton Page is best known as a teacher of the Hammond Organ. In recognition of his teaching abilities and the education material he has written, the Southern College of Fine Arts, Houston, conferred upon him a Doctorate of Music in 1949.

Anyone interested in attending the Hammond Organ Teacher Workshop program should call MO 4-4251 for reservations.

Communications

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18th DISTRICT:

The House of Representatives has passed three bills this session that will have a revolutionary effect on communications, not only in this country but throughout the world. The effect in this country will not be a broad overall effect, but can go into each and every community. The first bill that was passed was the Educational-TV Bill, designed to implement the television channels reserved in the public spectrum for educational broadcasting.

Subsequently, and in fact last week, a second bill was passed that will permit the full use of a part of the spectrum that has been virtually untapped. This is called the All Channel Television Receivers Bill. The goal of this bill is to provide a television system which will serve all the people, encourage local outlets, foster competition — particularly in the larger markets — and meet educational needs. There were many suggestions as to how this could or should be done. After extensive hearings on all suggestions, it was concluded by the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce that the best approach was to authorize the Federal Communications Commission to require that all television receivers shipped in interstate commerce or imported into the United States for sale or resale be equipped at the time of manufacture to receive all television channels; that is, the 70 channels in the UHF portion of the radio spectrum, as well as the VHF portion.

The difference between VHF and UHF can be likened to the difference between a small pie (UHF) and a large pie (VHF). Due to the wide range of VHF, the license holders were quick to grab up all available frequencies, because it gave them a larger market and an opportunity to have a larger business and to make more money. As a result, UHF licenses went begging. The FCC has allocated space in the radio spectrum sufficient for a total of 2,225 stations — 1,544 UHF stations and 681 VHF stations. Five hundred of the VHF stations are already on the air.

However, only 103, or about 7 per cent of the VHF stations are actually on the air. If the American people are to enjoy the fullest benefits of television service, a major portion of the unsigned UHF channels must be put into operation. It was this problem that prompted the All Channels Television Receivers legislation.

There are approximately 55 million television receivers in the hands of the public; however, only about 9 million, or about 16 per cent, are capable of receiving UHF signals. The overwhelming bulk of television set production is limited to VHF receivers, and the situation is growing steadily worse. In 1953, more than 1.5 of the television receivers were equipped to receive UHF. In 1961, only about 1-20 were so equipped. The absence of sets equipped for UHF reception simply made impossible the profitable operation of a UHF broadcasting station. In fact, 100 UHF licensees have had to go out of business. This situation was fast developing into a most serious concentration of power in all economic fields associated with television. The proper administration of this new legislation will result in the opening of many possibilities for new business and new and expanded television reception, without endangering or interfering with present reception or receivers. In fact, it will solve the problem in a much better manner than was being pursued by the FCC. Existing television sets will not be affected in any manner. I am advised by manufacturers that a converter can be attached to an existing set for a relative-small cost to enable reception of all channels. If a person does not desire to receive UHF broadcasts, nothing need be done. He can continue to receive the present stations without interruption. The method being pursued by the FCC would have been to separate different geographical areas so that one area would be all VHF and another would be all UHF. Had this proposal been followed through, those who found themselves in an all UHF area would have had to buy a converter or a new all-channel receiver. It would also have brought much confusion and economic injury to present VHF station owners. The third bill referred to in the communications field is probably one of the most important to pass the House of Representatives in its history. This is the Communications Satellite Act of 1962. This act not only opens the door for this country to lead the way in using outer space for communications purposes, but it does so on the free enterprise philosophy. The corporation to be created under this act will be one in which the public will have the right and privilege to purchase stock. It will be run like any other private free enterprise corporation in the communications carrier field. It will not be government owned or dominated. It will have the authority to create, maintain and operate communications satellite systems that will make possible the transmittal of information from this country to any portion of the world in almost the flash of an eye. It will permit us to break through Iron or Bamboo Curtains with truthful and honest information without delay. This means of communications can provide an avenue for the greatest possible service to mankind throughout the world. Proceeding to the full utilization of this new medium, by and through the application of our basic free enterprise philosophy, will give added luster to the freedom and dignity of man as recognized under our system.

New Power System In McAllen Draws Interest

By PRESTON MCGRAW DALLAS (UPI) — Workmen in McAllen are building an ultra-modern, $2.5 million high school that will have electric lights, central heat and air conditioning but will not be connected to the local power system.

It will not need to be. The school will generate its own electric power from a natural gas turbine. The heat generated in the process will be used to air condition the building when the weather is hot and heat it when the weather is cool. The natural gas turbine is one of the developments Lester T. Potter, president of Lone Star Gas Co., of Dallas, expects to help the gas business stay at least abreast of the electric power industry.

Electric power companies are the bitterest business rivals of the gas companies, at the consumer level. So Potter's engineers have been working closely with the builders of the McAllen school.

Potter, in an interview, said gas and electricity are not rivals beyond the consumer level. Electric power generating plants are the best customers Lone Star Gas has.

"People refer to us as a monopoly and say, 'I wish we didn't have competition,'" Potter said. "They have just never been in the gas business if they say we don't have competition."

"We are in a scientific explosion that has gained momentum in the past 10 years. There have been many developments in the gas business and there are going to be more and I don't doubt that this is true in the electric business. As a matter of fact, a business that doesn't keep up with changes may find itself out of business."

Potter is nationally known in his business. He is the immediate past president of the American Gas Association, a trade organization of 8,000 U. S. gas companies.

The gas turbine, such as the one that will enable the school to dispense with an outside power source, is not for the average home. But there are revolutionary gas-operated devices that will be.

One device operates on the principle that when heat is applied to dissimilar metals, they react differently and produce electricity. Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing is working on a thermo-electric device for Lone Star and other companies.

Potter expects to have a demonstration model within a year that will generate enough electricity on a gas central heating system to operate the blower that distributes hot air over a house.

Gas heating systems will not then require an outside electrical supply. A third development that probably has a greater potential than the other two is the fuel cell. Potter thinks it is further away from practical development than the other two, although Allis-Chalmers has a working model.

The fuel cell takes a hydrocarbon fuel and through chemical action aided by catalyses, converts the fuel to electric power. There are no moving parts, Potter thinks a unit perhaps as big as a suitcase one day will generate enough power for a bio home.

Potter is 56. He was born in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas, where he still lives and started work for Lone Star on June 7, 1928, the day after he was graduated from Texas A&M with a degree in mechanical engineering.

His company produces, gathers and distributes gas. Its pipeline system traverses 94 counties in Texas and 19 in Oklahoma. It supplies gas to 3.5 million persons in 467 towns and cities through 8,888 miles of pipeline.

Potter believes that the easy availability of gas as a fuel has been one factor responsible for the phenomenal industrial growth of the Southwest.

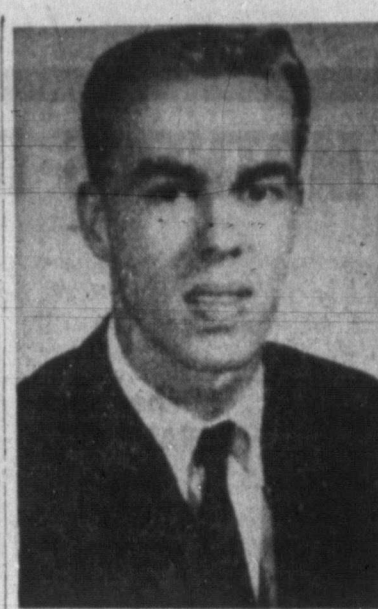

But he said industries look for two factors ahead of easy availability of a fuel. One factor is availability of a market and the second is a favorable business climate—a climate in which industry feels welcome and in which it will not be taken advantage of.

Business in the Southwest is good and Potter thinks it will remain good. He expects the gas selling business to remain good along with general business.

But, at the same time, Potter said, the production end of the gas business is affected by the general poor health of the oil business. Gas production and oil are closely related.

Potter blames the depression in the petroleum industry on imports and too many domestic wells. He doubts that imports, being involved in politics, will be cut off.

But he does think something can be done about domestic over-production. For one thing, he said, wells can be more widely spaced and fewer drilled.

TERRY JONES ... seeks Master's Degree

Pampan To Do Graduate Study Work

WEATHERFORD, Okla. — Terry Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jones, Pampa, a graduating senior at Southwestern Oklahoma State College, has been accepted for graduate study next year. His father is assistant principal of Robert E. Lee Junior High School in Pampa.

He will attend Oklahoma State University for a 12 month period beginning June 11 to work toward a master's degree in biology.

Jones will be one of only six graduate students in this field at OSU without teaching experience to participate in the Seventh Academic Year for prospective high school mathematics and biology teachers, a program under the National Science Foundation.

Under the academic year program, Jones will be a full-time student without teaching, or other duties. He will receive a stipend of $1,800 for the 12 months, a $75 allowance for books, tuition costs and travel expense. All this income will be tax free.

Jones will do his graduate study in bacteriology, planning to complete master of science requirements by May 31, 1963.

"This will be what I hope is my next step in my long-range plan to earn a doctor of philosophy degree in biological sciences," he said.

Congress In Rejection Of Tax Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress laid to rest without ceremony Wednesday President Kennedy's request for standby authority to cut income taxes. Not even a hearing was planned.

"I can't conceive of Congress ever agreeing to such a plan," said Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del. "I think it's fantastic."

In a letter to House and Senate leaders late Tuesday Kennedy said he needed the standby tax-cutting power as a weapon to fight recession and promote employment.

The letter, and an accompanying legislative draft, came as a follow-up to the President's announcement early this year that he would seek the tax cut authority and parallel standby power to spend up to $2 billion in anti-recession public works projects.

The public works request, although approved by the Senate Public Works Committee, also is in trouble. A move will be made, possibly this week, to submit the proposal to further study by the banking committee.

Kennedy also asked for an immediate $600 million public works program, and sentiment in House and Senate appeared to be building for giving him this much or more in the way of an immediate program as a substitute for the standby request.

As for the President's proposal to let him call signals on a temporary tax cut of up to $10 billion, no congressional sources ever have given that a ghost of a chance.

Kennedy was understood to have been told the bad news about this request by his congressional leaders some time ago. Presumably, however, he felt it was necessary to go through the motions of formally submitting his bill.

PR Man For Circus Succeeded In Getting Midget In J. P. Morgan's Lap

By LYLE C. WILSON WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is not necessary to have been around long enough to remember Peary at the pole, or the demolition of Fatty Arbuckle in Hollywood, to know the UPI miscalled Frank Braden the other day when he died in a Providence, R. I., hospital.

I am partial to the news reports of my employer, United Press International. But I am no bigot in that respect in the sense of being obstinate or irrational. So it was that I winced on reading last week that Frank Braden was the man who convinced the people that the circus was the greatest show on earth.

That simply is not so. I call on my fellow old timers to rise up with me to identify the man who made the circus what it never was. Man named Dexter Fel-lows, if memory serves. And I think it does. Old timers country-wide will agree on that.

Old old timers may sputter that the man who really did the job was P. T. Barnum, but I wasn't around when Barnum was doing his stuff. But I met Dexter Fellows personally in the city room of the Oklahoma City Times and years later in the news room of United Press in the World Building on Park Row. The old old timers may have Barnum if they want him. I'll take Fellows.

Pegler, Runyon, Frank Adams and other hot shots of the 1920s practically got a day off from column writing when Fellows came to town. Two days off, in fact. One day would produce a column of what Fellows said was new under the big top. The second day's column would be about Fellows himself, and why he was the greatest circus press agent ever which, indeed, he was. So much for Frank Braden. No offense meant, of course, because Braden was a good man, too.

Our UPI piece about Braden related that one his most celebrated publicity stunts for Ringling Bros. & Barnum and Bailey was when he somehow managed to maneuver a midget in the lap of J. P. Morgan during a Senate committee hearing in 1933. Our UPI piece added: "No one ever knew how Braden pulled it off, but the picture of Morgan and the midget made front pages that day throughout the world."

"No one every knew how Braden pulled it off?"

For gosh sakes, UPI, I know about that because I was there. And Ray Tucker knows about it because it was Tucker who put Braden up to the gag. Ray is a columnist now out of Washington but then was doing honest work for the New York World Telegram. Ray had a pixie sense of humor.

The key to this mystery, if any, is that this was a girl midget. She was a cute little trick, about 30 years old, but with the height and shape and complexion of a second grader. When she was quietly prodded forward toward Morgan by plotters Tucker and Braden, she arrived at the financier's knee, lifted her pudgy little arms, waggled her little hat and smiled.

J. P. Morgan looked down his enormous nose at the winsome little lady, stretched out his own arms and, boom, she was in his lap. The photographers had been tipped that it was coming and the flash lights flashed. They were good pictures. I have one on my wall at home.

I'll say this for J. P. Morgan. He didn't put in a beef against Tucker and Braden. I think he enjoyed the whole thing.

TOO RICH FOR HIM
 JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Rep. W. C. Butler complained about the length and cost of the 1962 legislature and indicated Tuesday he considered it no honor to belong to what he called Mississippi's first "million-dollar legislature."
 "I don't feel we are worth that much," he said.
 North America has more than 400 species of mammals, of which about one-fourth are mice.

The Switch To Medics On TV

By DICK WEST
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — I had lunch this week with Joseph McCaffrey, a television commentator, and we fell into a discussion about the new programs coming on the air next fall.

"It's going to be a big season for the medics," McCaffrey said. "The networks have lined up a bunch of shows to follow in the trail blazed by Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare."

"A program that doesn't have a doctor on it simply won't be in the swim of things. I'm thinking of hiring a physician to assist me on my show."

"I'll comment on the news and then let him come on and perform a tonsillectomy."

I asked McCaffrey what effects the spate of doctor shows would have on established programs, such as westerns and private investigators.

"They'll be facing stiff competition," he said. "No question about it. Some of them will have to make adjustments to stay on the air."

"What sort of adjustments?" I asked.

"Well, take a program like 'Gunsmoke,'" he replied. "With just a slight alteration, it could be made to fit right in with the new wave."

"It already has a minor character called 'Doc.' The producers could subtly shift the emphasis away from Marshal Dillon and let Doc gradually take over as the hero.

"The longbranch Saloon, where most of the action takes place, could be converted into a hospital and 'Miss Kitty,' the saloon girl, could become a nurse. The bartender, naturally, would be the anesthesiologist."

"I see," I said. "What would happen to Chester, the marshal's sidekick?"

"I think it would be appropriate to have Chester start taking medical training under Doc," McCaffrey said. "That would give the program a Kildare-Gillespie relationship."

"It seems to me the program would soon get monotonous," I said. "All they would be treating would be bullet wounds."

"Not necessarily," he said. "They could take on cases of tick fever, and foot-and-mouth disease and things like that. It would help retain the western flavor."

"You seem to have covered all

Quotes In News

By United Press International
 WASHINGTON — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., on reaction of Congress to President Kennedy's request for standby authority to cut income taxes:

"I can't conceive of Congress ever agreeing to such a plan. I think it's fantastic."

VIENTIANE, Laos—An American enlisted man, complaining about the situation on the Laotian front:

"Why am I supposed to help these people fight if the other side is supposed to win?"

CHICAGO—Vice President Lyndon Johnson, in a Jefferson-Jackson Day fund-raising speech:

"The nation no longer is faced with only two possible choices—holocaust or surrender. Today we have new alternatives. We modernize and diversify our defense forces both in nuclear and conventional fields, to cope with 'brushfire' and other critical situations."

Needn't Show That You're Growing Older

The older a woman gets, the more important it is for her to remember that: Immaculate grooming can't make a woman beautiful, but it can make her pleasant to look at. You may bore others when you talk, but you never bore anyone while listening. Keeping busy may not make a woman happy, but it will keep her from being miserable. If you must give others advice, at least don't feel hurt when it isn't followed. The woman who wants age to soften her face should be careful not to harbor too many hard thoughts about others. While it is good to have friends who are younger than you are, it is also good to have friends of your own age and friends who are older. Nothing will make you seem older than being overly critical of the young. No fashion makes a woman look older than one that is too young for her. Leaning on others before you have to is the biggest mistake you can make. The more you can find to laugh about, the better company you will be. The more charitable you are toward others, the more allowances they will make for you. If you want to look forward to tomorrow, be sure to have some plans for the day. Don't make comfort your only concern in life unless you are willing to give up all hope of adventure. Don't let your friendships dwindle in the belief that only old friends are worth having. New friends are important, too. Ideas galore: Ruth Millett's booklet, "Happier Wives (hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, c/o The Pampa Daily News, P.O. ### The Hermesmeyers Honored At Party

GROOM (Spl) — A pinophile party was given recently honoring Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hermesmeier on their 20th wedding anniversary in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Homer. Others attending were Messrs. and Mrs. Jim Hermesmeier; John Homer; Ray Britten, John Quirk; Mike Homer; Norbert Britten; Bill West; Alfred Homer; Dr. and Mrs. Bob Clayton; Norbert Homer and Martin Hermesmeier. High score for men went to Charley Hermesmeier, and low score to John Quirk; high for the ladies was won by Mrs. Norbert Britten and low by Mrs. Paul Homer.

Low-cost amethyst glass dessert service and lace scarves set the scene for dessert-and-coffee table on a protected terrace. They blend well with silver flatware, fine china linens napkins in light lavender.

CHAIRS IN DIFFERENT SIZES
A really comfortable, lived-in living room needs chairs that fit the varying requirements of different people. Not everyone wants to sprawl in a lounge chair, nor do all of us want to sit up stiff and straight. Looking around a seemingly comfortable living room, one member of the family said: "There isn't a chair in this room with a back high enough to lean my head against. Everyone of them stops right in the middle of my back." This is true of many homes.

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Mother's Day reminds us that this begins a season when we will have older kin and special friends to entertain. The hazardous weather is over so grandmothers, older aunts, godmothers are encouraged to come for a visit, to attend a graduation or a wedding. A young homemaker I know is giving a tea for two older women who were "perfectly marvelous" helping her plan her wedding. Another woman whose mother has moved from a distant city wants to entertain to introduce her to new friends. In these circumstances the casual, off-the-cuff party doesn't seem to fit; something informal but dignified would fill the bill. I was musing about my own plans for entertaining an elderly aunt when I remembered the table setting pictured with this article. A delightful dessert and coffee on the terrace, as feminine a setting as old-lace and lavender, only in this case it's new lace and amethyst. Given a sunny day and a protected terrace, outdoor service would be plausible in most parts of the country, although it would be easy enough to duplicate on any table indoors, too. The menu is fresh and simple: fresh fruit compote, a regal cake and tea or coffee or both. Instead of the more formal lace tablecloth, lace scarves are used in a new way. This type of scarf or runner has been used for years on dressers and bedroom chests. Now, styled in Dacron-cotton drip-dry lace in the traditional Alencon lace pattern, these scarves are used as you see them in asymmetric arrangement on a table or horizontally down each side. They are usually about 18 inches wide and 36 to 63 inches long. One drawback to teatime entertaining is assembling enough of an appropriate service. I know from my own experience that one doesn't always have enough tea and/or coffee cups, dessert plates or fancy dessert bowls. To go out and buy fine china to fill out the gaps is usually out of the question. You may be fortunate in having friends from whom you can borrow. Another alternative is to take a close look, as I did, at some of the new American-made glassware — the kind that is sold in hardware and variety stores as well as in many of the specialty shops. This year amethyst is a new color and appears in several versions: Octagonal shaped plates, saucers, bowls and cups are available. The richness of color and the simplicity of design let this china hold its own with what china or silver one does have. Emerald green is another stunning color in this year's glass luncheon and dessert services.

ASK THE DESIGNER by gaile dugas

Dear Gaile: I am 11 years old and would like to know what to wear to camp this summer. It will be in June. Please tell me what to wear on the bus (as that's what I will be riding on). I will be there five days.—P. B.

Dear P. B.: First of all, most camps have regulations about what you should wear. So you had better ask mother to write to the camp counselor to see what she suggests you bring along. Now, more advice comes from designer Helen Lee of Alyssa, who says:

"For camp, you will probably need shorts and shirts or knit tops, pajamas and robe and sneakers. As for the bus trip pick a dress you can wear both coming and going. A dark green or navy in a mixture of dacron and cotton would be nice and would stay fresh. By all means, take a sweater along. Either wear it or have it handy in a small bag."

Dear Gaile: Last year, I bought a dark blue dress, an eyelet baste. I was so fond of it that I have ordered another one in black. Should the slip I wear with it match or may I wear a light slip? Last year, I wore a slip to match but I have seen both types of slip worn here in Philadelphia.—L. M.

Dear L. M.: I talked to Jenn Hall, designer for Munsingwear, about your particular fashion question. She suggests: "Try a clear yellow under that black eyelet; I think you'll like the effect very much. Actually, you're correct in thinking that you can wear a black slip if you like. But never wear white with such a dress. Experiment a bit, wear the dress when you go to buy the slip and try on some bright prints. Print slips in clear colors are new and fresh and I think you might like this look under a dark eyelet dress."

Dear Gaile: Recently, I started wearing muu-muus. I would like some advice on when and where they should be worn. Also, what type of shoes should be worn with them? I appreciate any help that you can give me.—M. W. D.

Dear M. W. D.: Since you live in Florida, the muu-muu can be worn both around the house or on the patio. It may even be worn as swimsuit cover-up on the beach. It's an informal, easy way to dress. Advice as to the shoes to be worn with it comes from designer Maureen Spindit of Bernardo. She says:

"The thong sandal, flat slipper or flat, open sandal are all correct with the muu-muu. A textured leather would be pretty and, for patio wear, you might consider the thong sandal in gold leather."

Mix Time-Saver In Brunch Bread

Biscuit mix adds a time-saving element to handsome Coco-Nut Brunch Bread. The simple coffee cake combines the goodness of whole-bran cereal and raisins beneath a novel topping of flaked coconut and almonds. COCO-NUT BRUNCH BREAD
1 cup flaked coconut
1/4 cup slivered, blanched almonds
2 cups packaged biscuit mix
1 cup whole-bran cereal
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup seedless raisins
Mix together coconut and almonds; set aside for topping.
Combine biscuit mix, whole-bran cereal, sugar and cinnamon. Add egg, butter, milk and raisins; beat well. Spread in greased 8 1/2-inch baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle with coconut and almond topping. Return to oven and bake about 5 minutes longer. Cut into squares and serve immediately.

Dear Abby... Husband Is Over ... "Twisting" It

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a 6'4", 220-pound husband who loves to "twist" at every party we attend. For the short time he has been "twisting," he has already torn to shreds one white dress shirt, one pair of dress slacks and three pairs of shorts. Have you any solution, Abby?

ALEXANDRIA

DEAR ALEXANDRIA: Your husband is putting too much enthusiasm into "the dance." He needs a sedative.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady with Claude for 6 months. I am 17 and he is 19. He started college (in this city where we live) but quit because he couldn't see any future in it. His mother blames me. She told him if he didn't stop seeing me she would take his car away. He works as a painter and that is good enough for him, but his mother thinks he should go back to college. I think he should do what he wants to do. His mother has called me and told me to leave him alone. Abby, I love him and don't intend to leave him alone. We can't afford to get married yet. What should I do?

HEAVY HEART

DEAR HEAVY: Claude's mother knows her son better than you do. If you can't encourage him to continue his education while he is young and able to, do him a favor and leave him alone.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married soon and the question of who should give me showers has come up. Someone told me showers shouldn't be given by a relative — only by a friend. My problem is, I don't have any friends. All I have is relatives. Now, who gives me the showers?

SUMMER BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: A shower should not be given by a CLOSE relative (a mother or sister). But a cousin may give one.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. J. H.: Why don't you tell Jimmy the truth. From the questions he has been asking, I think he would be able to understand perfectly.

How's the world-treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

A spicy fragrance is as much a part of spring and summer as the sunshine and flowers. This girl has chosen a scent inspired by the beauty of French lace.

Light And Spicy Scent Ideal For Long And Lazy Summertime Days

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Everything you wear for spring and summer will be fresh and flattering. And this should also be true of your most dynamic accessory — your fragrance.

A flower garden of fashion colors will make you feel gay. A new sailor, roller or breton will give you a young look. But the right scent is the thing that will create the mood and feeling.

A light, spicy fragrance is ideal for this time of year. It will influence others to say nice things about you.

One such fragrance, inspired by the beauty of French lace, is a mellow mingling of moss and spice that is at once fresh and completely feminine in nature.

Choosing a fragrance is a matter of instinct. It's designed to give pleasure. So when you find one you like, wear it within reasonable limits of suitability.

Learn to get the most from it. Spray it on all the pulse points. Try a little on the hem of your dress so that you'll walk in a trail of scent. Spray the bow on your hair, the handkerchief you tuck in your bra. Saturate cotton with your favorite scent and tuck it in your bra. Use it in the last rinse when you shampoo your hair.

You'll get more sheer enjoyment from your fragrance than from any other accessory. So use it liberally.

Even though the bride-to-be has selected tableware patterns, it isn't necessary to give her any of those things.

Take It From Kathy

Dear Kathy: I've had lots of dates but most of them have been for a movie or a dance and a hamburger afterwards. Last week I was invited to dinner at a fabulous restaurant for the first time. It was as if I had been living in a different world because I was lost from the beginning. I could tell by the way my date was acting that I was making mistakes but I didn't even know what was wrong. He hardly talked, took me right home and hasn't called since. I'm miserable. I know I can't change that evening but I wouldn't even know how to make a better impression the next time.

Dear Char: Check yourself in case some of these very annoying things have become habits: chewing with mouth open, talking with mouth full, making loud noises when chewing or sipping a liquid, washing down bites with a gulf of water, gesturing with a fork, leaving spoons in cups, making lakes and rivers in mashed potatoes with gravy, holding silverware with a shovel-like grip, tackling a whole slice of bread rather than breaking off bite-size pieces, cutting all the meat in assembly line fashion before starting to eat, planting elbows on the table and resting your head on your hands. When you arrive at a restaurant with an escort, wait at the entrance until the captain or the hostess leads you to a table. The girl precedes the boy and is seated first. After inspecting the menu, tell your date what you would like so he can give the order to the waiter.

A waiter passing a relish tray usually expects you to mention the things you would like so he can serve them. If you are expected to serve yourself, put the things to be eaten with the meat on your dinner plate and those to be used on bread on the bread and butter plate.

Teen-agers: Please send your personal problems to Kathy Peterson in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Space Age Seen As Coal Industry Booster

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Marling J. Ankeny, head of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, said this week the space age may help revitalize the coal industry.

Ankeny, in a speech before 2,500 delegates to the 1962 Coal Convention of the American Mining Congress, said intensive research is proving coal derivatives are useful in a number of fields, including rocketry.

The mines chief said coal may have special value as a source of rocket fuel because many of its chemical derivatives pack a vast amount of energy in each pound. He said this would mean a lighter load for a rocket.

He said petroleum products share many of coal's advantages as a source of fuel for rockets, but he was pessimistic about research giving coal the advantage.

Ankeny also said coal derivatives are being used in drugs, plastics and explosives.

He said research is moving forward, aimed at making atomic energy the handmaiden of coal.

"At Morgantown (W. Va.) we have a research project in cooperation with the Atomic Energy Commission for harnessing the atom for improved use of coal," Ankeny said. "Nuclear heat may provide a means for producing chemically-useful gases from coal on a commercial scale."

The mines chief said the future of the coal industry is "brightening rapidly" because of new developments in transporting coal. He cited pipelines and the new system of "unitrains" as advances which will cut transportation costs for the industry.

Ankeny said transport rates were bad for both the coal industry and the railroads.

"On the average, railroad freight charges add over 72 per cent to the mine price of coal," he said. "This reduces the ability of the coal industry to compete with other fuels, especially for distant markets. Losses in coal production have meant corresponding losses in railroad freight revenue and employment."

Sen. Gordon L. Allott, R-Colo., also appeared before the convention. He was critical of the pipeline idea for transporting coal because of the costs involved. He said he doubted if moving coal via pipeline would be economical. Put-in-Bay, in Lake Erie, is rated as the third best fresh-water fishing area in the United States.

What the Common Market Means to You (5) Future of the Market

A United States of Europe, talked about for generations, may be in the making through the Common Market. Embryo organs are already in operation: councils of ministers, 142-member parliament, various supranational commissions (such as Coal and Steel, Atomic Energy) and, most recently, a common agricultural policy.

Close political co-operation—an "Atlantic Community"—between Europe and America is urged by many.

NEXT MAJOR STEPS
A common European currency.

Popularly elected international officials and representatives.

SOME OBJECTIONS TO THE MARKET:

- By concentrating on trade among themselves, the Market nations may shut out non-Market customers in many instances.
- The example of the Market may encourage the setting up of numerous trading blocks, lead to trade wars.

Market members discount these fears, maintaining that a strong Market will increase trade, raise living standards and benefit everyone.

What effect the Market will have on the world depends in large measure on what the United States does.

SWC Officials Discuss Fixing

WACO, Tex. (UPI)— Southwest Conference athletic directors and head basketball coaches met behind closed doors today to discuss recent allegations that some basketball referees were involved in game-fixing.

The allegations, first made by a New York sports columnist, are being investigated by the Department of Public Safety and the House General Investigating Committee.

Twenty-two conference basketball officials voluntarily took lie detector tests administered by the DPS. Southwest Conference authorities notified 20 of the referees that the tests cleared them of allegations.

The meeting of the coaches and athletic directors is a prelude to the annual Southwest Conference track and field meet and the golf and tennis tournaments.

"We hope that constructive suggestions for the faculty representatives will come from the meeting," Howard Grubbs, SWC executive secretary, said. "Among the topics to be discussed are qualification standards of game officials, means of improving crowd behavior and the possibility of Saturday afternoon scheduling for television purposes."

The faculty representatives, the conference's governing body, will meet Friday and Saturday.

Conference officials will discuss proposals concerning the sale of radio and television rights for basketball games. Football rights have again been sold to Humble Oil and Refining Co.

A detailed report on an investigation of rules violations will be made to faculty representatives by a special investigator and regulations and agreements relative to football recruiting will be reviewed.

Amendments of sections of the conference by-laws also will be considered. One proposed change pertains to clarification of regulations of official visits to campuses by prospective athletes, while other proposals are designed to bring conference by-laws into agreement with NCAA regulations.

The pre-enrollment application plan, effective since Feb. 1, 1961, will be reviewed.

ONE MORE — ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Just one more hit and Stan Musial will tie Honus Wagner's all-time National League record for most hits during a career.

The great St. Louis Cardinal star singled in his first two trips to the plate against the San Francisco Giants Wednesday night to increase his lifetime hit total to 3,429.

Wagner set the NL mark at 3,430 during his long career with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Purkey Is 'Stopper' For Reds In Big National League Run

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The man who threw the pitch that started the Cincinnati Reds to their World Series downfall is firing the ones that are keeping the National League champions "in the league" this season.

He's tough, hard-bitten Bob Purkey and he's the new strong man of a Cincinnati pitching staff that has been hobbled by the slow starts of nominal ace Joey Jay and Jim O'Toole. Jay stands 3-3 and O'Toole is 2-4 but Purkey has reeled off five straight victories in which he has allowed a total of 14 runs.

Purkey, whose nine-inning go-pitch to Roger Maris gave the New York Yankees a 3-2 win in the third game of the 1961 World Series and was called the turning point of the classic, survived five errors Wednesday night to beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-4. As the new "stopper" of the Cincinnati staff, Purkey has ended losing streaks of two, three and four games this year.

The win lifted the Reds' season record to 13-13 — placing them in a position to overtake several of the teams bunched closely together behind the first-place San Francisco Giants.

The St. Louis Cardinals chopped the Giants' lead to three games with a 7-3 win, the Milwaukee Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, and the Los Angeles Dodgers routed the Houston Colts, 6-2, in other NL games.

The New York Yankees' late-inning "lightning" topped the Boston Red Sox, 4-1, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Kansas City A's, 6-3, the Minnesota Twins shated the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, the Chicago White Sox scored a 7-6 decision after losing, 9-3, to the Washington Senators, and the Detroit Tigers whipped the Los Angeles Angels, 6-3, in American League action.

The Reds backed Purkey with a 15-hit attack that included three singles by Frank Robinson and Wally Pate's seventh homer. Eddie Kasko and Johnny Edwards also had three hits each for Cincinnati and Wes Covington homered for the Phillies.

Curt Simmons, only 9-10 last season, pitched his fifth straight complete-game victory of the season with a nine-hit effort against the Giants. Carl Sawatski drove in four runs with a homer and two singles. Curt Flood weighed in with a triple and two singles and Stan Musial had two singles in the Cardinals' 12-hit attack. Musial's hits raised his lifetime total to 3,429 — one behind Hans Wagner's all-time NL lifetime record.

Joe Adcock's fifth homer and a single knocked in two runs as Ron Fliche won his second game for the Braves. Bob Friend, routed in 4 2/3 innings, suffered his second defeat for the Pirates against four victories.

Johnny Podres' eight-hit pitching behind a 16-hit attack enabled the Dodgers to hand Houston's Dean Stone his second defeat. Jim Gilliam and Wally Moon had three hits each for the Dodgers and Merritt Ranew had three for the Colts.

Elston Howard's bases-filled double was the big blow of a four-run seventh inning after Boston's Bill Monbouquette held the Yankees hitless for 6 1/3 innings. Whitey Ford went the distance for the Yankees, yielding seven hits and striking out seven for his third win.

Milt Pappas struck out 13 and pitched a five-hitter for the Orioles, who routed Ed Rakow with six runs in the second inning. Big blow of the frame was a grand slam homer by Brooks Robinson — his second in as many games.

Jack Krackich went 7 1/3 innings to win his second game for the Twins who scored both their runs against Gary Bell in the first inning. Key blow of the rally was a run-producing double by Zoilo Versalles. Johnny Romano homered for Cleveland.

Don Rudolph pitched an eight-hitter to win the first game for the Senators but Al Smith's three hits and two blows by Joe Cunningham enabled the White Sox to win the nightcap for Ray Herbert's second triumph. Jim Landis hit his eighth homer for the White Sox in the opener but it wasn't enough to prevent "Yankee killer" John Buzhardt from suffering the loss.

Al Kaline's ninth homer and a bases-filled triple by Rocky Colavito paved the way for Detroit's Jim Bunning to win his fourth game although he needed late-inning relief by Hank Aguirre.

Steers Can Sew Up Diamond Title

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)— The University of Texas, long a power in Southwest Conference baseball, can sew up another championship today with a victory over Texas A&M.

Texas moved into the conference leadership Wednesday, nipping the Aggies, 4-3, on shortstop Bill Bethea's double with two out in the eighth inning. The victory moved Texas a half-game ahead of the Aggies. A&M could clinch a tie for the crown by beating Texas today. The Longhorns would then have to play Southern Methodist in a make-up game.

Texas stands 11-2. A&M is 11-3. Tom Belcher went the distance for Texas, winning his 10th game against one loss.

Texas scored once in the second and the Cadets tied it up in the third inning. The Aggies moved to a 3-1 in the fifth on a homer by third baseman Bill Hancock.

The Longhorns bounced back with two runs in the fifth on a single by Ed Kasper, a double by David Skinner, an error and a sacrifice fly by John Pinckney.

Epperson Is Winner Of Pigeon Race

A blue bar cock No. TOT-122-66 owned by Buddy Epperson won first place in the Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club's 300 mile race from Dallas, Saturday. The two-year-old cock, seemingly inspired by his mate and two eggs in the nest, out flew his nearest competitor by almost thirty minutes with an average speed of 134.43 yards per minute.

The final results of Saturday's race are: 1st — Buddy Epperson, 134.43 ypm; 2nd — Bazel Pettit, 1279.83 ypm; 3rd — Petit, 1278.70 ypm; 4th — Walter Thoms, 1273.46 ypm; 5th — Thoms, 1255.60 ypm; 6th — Keith Alley, 1000.80 ypm; 7th — Jim Cantrell, 962.22 ypm; 8th — Bill Dycus, 791.57 ypm; 9th — Delbert Thurman, 496.73 ypm.

Saturday the club flies a race from Houston that is a distance of approximately 525 air miles. This race is a supreme test of a bird's desire, strength and endurance.

Bunt Breaks Up No Hit Contest

NEW YORK (UPI)—There goes the no-hitter, there goes the pitcher, and there goes the ball game. That's one of baseball's saddest refrains, and it never applied more perfectly than it did Wednesday to dispirited Bill Monbouquette and the Boston Red Sox.

"Imagine breaking up a no-hitter with a bunt" muttered Monbouquette, who held the New York Yankees hitless for 6 1/3 innings, then fell victim to four unearned runs that cost him the ball game, 4-1.

a chance for a double play that never materialized. The Boston centerfielder had no excuses for his miscue on Maris' wicked line drive.

"I saw the ball all right," he owned up. "It sunk a little, hit the heel of my glove and then hit me in the stomach. I can't remember that ever happening to me before."

Red Sox manager Mike Higgins possibly summed it up best. "Make one mistake against them—the Yankees—and it's fatal," he said.

Simpson Signs To Play With West Texas

Gail Simpson, all-state guard from Borger high school, has signed an athletic contract to attend West Texas State college in Canyon on scholarship.

Simpson was one of the main cogs in the Bulldogs attack last season in their battle with Monterey for title-honors in District 3-AAAA cage play.

Simpson, who averaged 16 points per game, was a first team choice for both all-district and all-state honors.

FIVE TO PLAY
DALLAS (UPI)—Five Texas High School football players were named today to play in the national high school All American Football Classic in the Cotton Bowl May 19.

They are J. W. Tuttle, Tulia center; Ray Dudley, Jacksonville, tackle; Floyd Permenter, Beckville end; Robert McNeill, Beaumont halfback; and Don Amos Petty, Longview fullback.

They will play on the south team coached by Sammy Baugh.

Decidedly Will Have Chore Convincing All Racing Fans

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two results of the Kentucky Derby are clear today, namely that Decidedly is going to have to convince the doubters all over again in the Preakness and that the long freeze thawed out Bill Hartack.

Considering first the case of Decidedly, he has a new-won respect but he'll have to turn back some promising added starters when they hit the stretch Saturday a week at old Pimlico. He still doesn't figure as an odds-on favorite.

But, in that latter department, the odds show signs of narrowing for Hartack.

Both Decidedly and Hartack entered the Derby more or less in the same class. Nobody but groomers bother to talk to horses. Few people but the trainers for whom he was riding bothered to talk to Hartack.

Little Bill brought it on himself. There are those who contend that he was spoiled by sudden success, though it is a well-proved fact that the horse does the running. Even Hartack would have to admit that there were times when he was a bit difficult to get on with.

One instance was when he won the second of his three Derbies and coldly inspected his triumph as "a good race to win, but all races are good ones to win."

Then he vocally blasted one who called him "Willie," a generally accepted nickname at that time although, to him, quite obviously, a mark of disrespect to such a worthy champion.

When he went on up to the Preakness it was announced in the press box that, if the winner, he would not be interviewed because the track would not submit its guests to such indignities.

Hartack feuded for some time with Eddie Arcaro because of something he thought Arcaro said about him. It was another, however. But this was not an isolated instance, because Hartack feuded with trainers and took it upon himself to scratch one of his mounts. The upshot was that so many rocks were thrown at him from so many directions that this year Arcaro took it upon himself, with Hartack going poorly, to ask people to get off the little man's back.

And, after he won the Derby with a fine riding performance, Hartack displayed that he was ready to come back to the crowd. They didn't type him as the utter soul of conviviality but he didn't rise up as before and "refuse to answer stupid questions." Suffice it to say that his public relations have improved immeasurably.

Still, he'll have to keep proving himself. Which is exactly the case with Decidedly.

The son of Determine, who also won the Derby, now is being hailed as an overlay who was bred for distance. But when they drop down from the Derby's mile and a quarter to the mile and three-sixteenths of the Preakness, there still will be a question as to his championship qualities.

There also will be some new challengers ready to go at it with him who didn't make the trip to Kentucky. Three of these, Jaipur, Nassau Hall and Vimy Ridge, are being tendered the most intent inspection.

Jaipur has won five of eight races with three seconds and $242,684. If you believe in money, those are hot qualifications. Nassau Hall, who will tackle Jaipur in the Withers mile this Saturday at Aqueduct, has won five and finished second once in six starts. Vimy Ridge is two for two this year and set an American record for a mile on the turf at Laurel.

Guglielmi Traded Off For Triplett In NFL Exchange

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League announced today a trade with the New York Giants, giving up quarterback Ralph Guglielmi for rookie fullback Bill Triplett, younger brother of Mel Triplett, long-time Giant standout now with the Minnesota Vikings.

The trade was considered the first big deal under new coach Wally Lemm, ex-Houston American Football League coach, and new Cardinal owners William and Charles Bidwill.

A source here said the Giants had been seeking a veteran quarterback because of Charlie Conerly's retirement.

Lemm said he had decided to go with two quarterbacks in 1962—Sam Etcheberry and Charles Johnson.

"We felt that it was better to make the deal now than to wait until the training season began," Lemm said.

Lemm described the 26-year Triplett as "strong and fast and highly regarded by Cardinal scouts."

"He not only is an outstanding fullback prospect, but is a fine defensive player," Lemm added.

Wright Favored In Women's Golf Meet

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—An elusive victory, just beyond her grasp in 10 tries, beckoned Mickey Wright here today for the first rounds of the 34th annual Women's Western Golf Open.

Miss Wright, a 27-year-old golfer with a drive like Arnold Palmer, is favored to win in her bid for the $7,500 crown in the Western which makes its second trip in five years to Montgomery Country Club.

Although Miss Wright, a Dallas resident, has never won the Western, last year she tied for third with Louise Suggs behind Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga. Miss Suggs is entered in the tournament, but may miss because of illness.

Recognized as the current queen of the Ladies Professional Golf Association, Miss Wright has captured six tournaments this year, including the Titleholders at Augusta, Ga. Last year she won 10 of 23 tournaments and finished in the first five in 18 events.

Expected to be right behind Miss Wright in the bid for the title is Patty Berg of Chicago, dean of the women pros. Miss Berg banged in an eagle three on the 18th hole five years ago to take the top money out of the "Anyone who hits the ball short and finds the rough," according to Horner, "is dead."

Miss Faulk, who took last year's Western at Nashville, Tenn., with a whirlwind finish of 10-under par, copped the Betsy Rawls Peach Blossom Open at Spartanburg, S.C., Sunday.

Other former winners ready to play are Joyce Ziske, Beverly Hanson, Betty Jameson, Marlene Baur Hagge, Marilyn Smith, Kathy Cornelius and Barbara Romack.

Among the amateur hopefuls are Polly Riley, a veteran open competitor from Texas, and Clifford Ann Creed, the 25-year-old Louisiana school teacher who recently won the North-South amateur title at Pinehurst, N.C.

Hands of Wiffi Smith, waiting confidently at the trophy table. Patty has won six Westerns.

Both Miss Berg and Miss Wright hit the ball hard, a must for the 6,500-yard par 72 course. Club pro Scudday Horner says the fairways are lush and the ball will not roll.

Exes, Future Harvesters In Cage Battle

It'll be basketball in May Friday night at the Harvester fieldhouse when the Exes battle the Future Harvesters at 8 p.m.

Due to a lack of too few graduating seniors, a few former players will be brought in to take up the slack.

Next year's Shocker hopefuls will tangle in the 6:15 contest.

The game Friday night will mark the final appearance of the Harvesters big guns from last season's team—Bob Neslage, Lloyd Balch and Mike Stewart—playing for the Exes while on the Future Harvester squad will be such stalwarts as Wayne Kreis, Randy Matson, Gordon Balch, Keith Swanson and a host of other cage stars.

Admission is free.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Newspaperman Has A Stern Duty

Editor's note: The following editorial was printed recently in the Valley Evening Monitor of McAllen, Tex., a sister publication of the Pampa News. Because it discusses a portion of the philosophy of R. C. Hoiles of Santa Ana, the president of Freedom Newspapers, which publishes The Pampa News, we are reprinting it:

A newspaperman is a fellow who speaks expertly on every subject except newspapers. This flaw in our character is one we point out to each other on such occasion as the one now in progress in Harlingen, the annual meeting of the Texas Daily News-Presser Assn.

We, of course, extend a Valley welcome to the TDNA members and hope they will return to their less fortunately endowed areas of the state as card-carrying members of the Loyal & Intelligent Order of Aficionados of the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

It would be presumptuous of us to try to talk newspaper to this assembly, and we won't take the liberty of passing along for their consideration the ideas of the senior member of our partnership, R. C. Hoiles, who looks at the newspaper business from the vantage point of 50 years in its service.

R. C. Hoiles is a successful newspaperman — that, none can doubt. He is a controversial one, a non-conformist among men, who pride themselves on non-conformity. If the newspaper industry were a man, R. C. would be his hair shirt. And without additional preface, herewith some of the ideas of R. C. Hoiles on the subject of newspapers:

What this country needs as much as anything else are newspapers that believe in moral principle and have enough courage to express these principles and point out practices and beliefs that violate them. A newspaper that tries only to run editorials, columnists and news items that are popular is of mighty little value to its readers.

A newspaper that does that is not worth its salt. It encourages errors, it is not a clearing house for opinions. It neglects to do its duty for fear it might lose subscribers and profits. A newspaper that can be intimidated in its editorial policy can also be intimidated in its news columns. And what good is a newspaper that is afraid to offend?

A newspaper has a responsibility because it is the most economical method of exchanging ideas. A newspaper that is afraid to discuss things that are "sacred cows" to the majority will be afraid to handle news stories that might cost it advertising or subscriptions. A newspaper that hides behind its columns and will not answer all questions about its policy is not a real newspaper and is of little value to its readers.

A newspaper should shed light on moral, political or economic questions. If it has light, it will do this. If it only pretends to throw light, but has no light, it will have to hide behind its editorial chair.

There is no argument that should do as much to get the American people to understand the ideologies set forth in the Declaration of Independence and the Commandments, and to return to these ideologies, as American newspapers.

A newspaper that is afraid of losing subscribers because of principles is of little value to itself or anyone else. It might make dollars, but its publisher loses his own self-respect — his own soul.

When I was working on a newspaper that I did not control, I used to wish that I was in another line of business. I thought it was much more important to be manufacturing something of a national nature than producing a local newspaper. The newspaper I was connected with at that time did not particularly stand for any principle, so it was difficult to be enthusiastic about the newspaper business. Now, I believe that the newspaper business is one of the most important of all businesses. It is a business that can do a lot of good or a lot of harm. It cannot do very much good unless it is consistent and stands for principles that are in harmony with natural moral law.

Whether a controversial editorial is good or bad — that is, useful or harmful to readers — depends upon whether or not the newspaper publishing that editorial will give space to those who believe the position taken by the newspaper is harmful; in other words, whether the newspaper is willing to defend its position by answering questions and defining terms.

A controversial editorial of this kind is certainly useful to the community, and to the nation. It is useful because it tends to cause people to use their mental faculties. And anything that does that, benefits everyone.

It is hard to conceive of anyone — an editor, a preacher, a teacher or a politician — can develop his faculties if he is so arbitrary that he makes statements that he cannot defend in open discussion. It is a recognized fact that truth can always defend itself in open discussion.

It seems that years ago men were more willing to attempt publicly to defend their position than they are today. And this might be largely the cause of the confusion we are in today.

There were more crusading newspapers in years gone by than there are today. Today too many newspapers are afraid of offending somebody and losing a dollar by taking an unpopular position. The result is that they cease to develop, cease to be of much use in their community as far as getting people to better understand human relations that will promote good will, peace and prosperity.

A newspaper should be a place where local, state and national and international questions can be thoroughly discussed. They are not thoroughly discussed in colleges, or churches, or by radio commentators or by those holding or seeking office. A newspaper that carries controversial editorials and will permit its readers to challenge its policies not only benefits the editor and the publisher, but it benefits those who do the challenging. It whets their mental faculties. It tends to cause them to reason closely. It tends to eliminate their contradictions. It also helps the readers gain understanding.

I believe it was Ben Franklin who said he always wanted something in his newspaper that was useful to his readers or entertaining. And it is hard to think of anything more useful to the readers than to get them to be able to recognize a contradiction and to think in harmony with eternal principles.

The kind of a newspaper a man takes has a lot to do with the kind of a man he becomes.

Where's Your Dog?

Pampa dog owners are being appealed to by city officials to come to their aid in a campaign to eliminate the stray/animal menace.

Officials have no quarrel with that. However, dogs and cats — if allowed to run wild — can become a nuisance and a danger to the community's health. So, officials do have a quarrel with dog owners who do not assume the responsibility of their animals.

Pull Up A Chair

By Neal O'Hara

We Americans lead all nations in per capita consumption of tobacco, with 8.6 pounds annually. After us, the 10 foreign countries at the top of the list are Canada, 7.2 pounds per capita per year; The Netherlands, 6; Belgium, 5.8; Australia, 5.5; Switzerland, 5.3; Denmark, 5.2; Iceland, 5.1; United Kingdom, 4.9; New Zealand, 4.8; West Germany, 3.9. After research, a team of New York medics report that women are entirely justified in wearing fairly scant clothes during winter — because the fair sex actually feels less cold in chilly temperatures than men. And it's all based on the scientific fact the closer one's skin temperature is to the weather temperature, the less one feels the cold or the heat. . . . Headline in the Houston Post: "Pure Official Here To Get API Citation." . . . Exploring a new field of merchandising, the A & P chain is to open a general merchandise store at Coraopolis, Pa., adjacent to its supermarket there. . . . The good old days: At the New York Orchid Show of 1928 — the year before the big market crash — a price of $10,000 was placed on a hybrid moth orchid plant that had only two blooms. . . . Today's favorite gag: Mrs. Newlyrich was discussing with an artist the portrait of herself she had commissioned him to paint.

"Do you want me to paint you in evening dress?" the artist inquired. "Oh, no; don't bother," she said. "Just wear your usual artist's smock." . . . They sure have a way with them: Three of the first four Presidents of the U.S. married widows — Washington, Jefferson and Madison. . . . Candy and chemistry: Many soft-centered chocolates are made with enzymes. They're filled with solid sugar which is easily coated with chocolate; the enzymes in the center then digest the hard center to simpler liquid molecules.

Thoughts while shaving: I. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., former Harvard professor and now a presidential adviser, strongly favors unrehearsed presidential press conferences because the qualities of a chief executive on display at his press conference are in keeping with his ability to govern a country. . . . 2. When an editor asked what it is that "makes us think extemporaneous speaking is a talisman to make a man fit for the presidency," Mr. Schlesinger replied that every man who has been able to speak unhesitatingly has been a great President, adding that "communication and education are qualities organically related to the position of President." (So there you are). . . . 3. Many a present-day multi-millionaire should wince at the news that in the year 1939, when income taxes were relatively light, the then dynamic president of the American Tobacco Co., George Washington Hill, received $2,200,000 in salary, bonuses and gratis stock allotments. . . . 4. The president of a company for teaching the writing of more effective business letters Charles Binger, makes the point that a writer who must emphasize every noun with an adjective makes one suspect that his nouns don't carry enough weight.

An excessive display of adjectives, like an excessive flexing of muscles, usually indicates some inner doubt of strength.

Country editor speaking: "Cockroaches wired to give off electro-physical signals may be rocketed into space. We'd be willing to send 'em all, wired or not."

Responsibilities that go along with owning a pet. They are asking that dogs be vaccinated regularly, be kept in enclosures or on a leash, and be licensed as required by city ordinance.

There probably are several thousand dogs in Pampa. Less than 50 of them have been licensed so far this year.

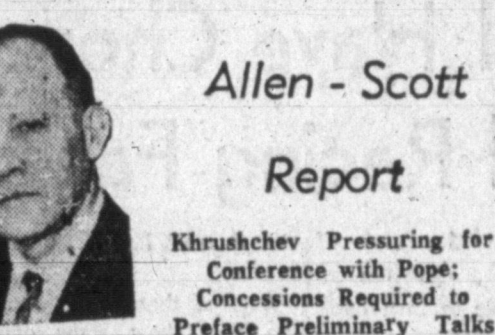

Residents have complained of packs of stray dogs running together in various sections of the city. They destroy flowers and become a nuisance from the noise standpoint.

City officials indicate that unless they get proper cooperation from dog owners, more drastic steps will be taken to rid Pampa of the growing menace.

This could include wholesale destruction of stray dogs after impounding, and fines up to $100 for the owners where convictions are obtained for violation of the city's dog ordinance.

Also, he was told that Khrushchev had just named Sergey Mikheylov, the Soviet's top expert on the Catholic Church, head of the Soviet Institute for Latin American Research in Moscow.

Khrushchev Pressuring for Conference with Pope; Concessions Required to Preface Preliminary Talks

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Soviet Premier Khrushchev is putting on the diplomatic pressure for a meeting with Pope John XXIII.

He has sent instructions to his ambassadors in Rome, Paris and Washington to pull every diplomatic string available to arrange for a meeting with the spiritual leader of the Catholic Church.

Significantly, Khrushchev is seeking the meeting with the Roman Catholic Pontiff before the Second Vatican Council convenes in October.

Already, the Kremlin's Communist ruler has used these diplomatic channels to ask Italian Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani to intervene in his behalf. Khrushchev urged him to arrange the conference with Pope John to coincide with his visit to Italy later this year.

The final details of the Soviet leader's visit to Rome are now being negotiated by officials of the two governments. Announcement of the date and length of Khrushchev's stay is expected with the ending of the government's election crisis.

A Khrushchev-Pope John meeting is something else. Vatican officials are making it clear that Khrushchev would have to come up with some dramatic concessions before such a meeting could even be considered.

One suggestion passed to the Kremlin was that Khrushchev could show his good faith by agreeing to negotiate a state-church accord permitting the reopening of additional Catholic churches and allowing Catholic missionaries to enter Russia.

So far as can be determined here, Khrushchev, a confirmed atheist, has not responded to the Vatican's far-reaching counterproposal.

Country editor speaking: TROJAN HORSE — Premier Khrushchev's determined surprise bid for a meeting with Pope John is part of the "peaceful co-existence" offensive he is pushing in Europe.

According to U.S. Intelligence estimates, this campaign will reach its climax in July with a big rally in Moscow. It is designed to (1) force the West to make new concessions on West Berlin and disarmament, and (2) divert attention from new Soviet-directed Communist moves in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

This is the report that Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York, carried to Rome, where he is attending sessions of the Central Preparatory Commission for the Ecumenical Council.

Cardinal Spellman, who is opposing any meeting between Pope John and Khrushchev, was briefed on these Khrushchev maneuvers by a high U.S. official during his stop-over in Washington last week.

Mikheylov's unannounced appointment presages an all-out attack on the Catholic Church in Latin America. He is familiar with the Church's organization and doctrine, and during a tour in the Soviet embassy in Rome Mikheylov negotiated with the Vatican concerning church-state relations in the Communist European satellites.

WESTERN SPLIT — A sharp policy dispute has developed within the Western Big Four over whether to permit Soviet troops to be stationed in West Berlin in exchange for new Soviet guarantees of Western access routes to that beleaguered city.

This major argument has been going on among the U.S., Great Britain, France and West Germany ever since Secretary of State Rusk suggested the move as a major concession to the Russians.

Secretary Rusk holds that Soviet Premier Khrushchev would drop his demand to oust all Western forces from West Berlin if they would permit a Russian military garrison to enter the city.

He takes the position that such a major concession is worth granting to get Khrushchev to agree to put the access route "guarantees" in writing. Rusk is being supported by the British.

West Germany and France, however, oppose making this concession on the grounds that permitting Soviet troops in West Berlin would be a major blow to the city's morale and could eventually lead to a Russian take-over.

They charge that Rusk's proposal is similar to the one made last year by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in an effort to make West Berlin an international city.

RED YOUTH DRIVE — An all-out Communist campaign to infiltrate youth groups throughout the world can be expected. Vladimir Semichastay, former head of the All-Union Komsomol in the Soviet Union, has been named head of the Soviet MGB, the civilian security and intelligence organ of the Russian government.

Before taking over his present position, Semichastay traveled extensively to visit various youth congresses and conferences within the Soviet bloc, Asia, Africa and Latin America. . . . The publication in the Soviet New Times of an unknown letter Lenin wrote in 1922 to launch the Soviet's first co-existence drive has caused a major stir among U.S. experts on Russia. The letter reveals the existence of a Second-and-a-Half International. Writing to an Australian Communist, Lenin stated: "We Communists have our own Communist program, the Third International; nevertheless, we consider it our duty as merchants to support (even if there is only a 1-10,000 chance) the pacifists in the other bourgeois camps in which we include the Second and the Second-and-a-Half Internationals."

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Heart Condition or No? Try Family Doctor First

Q — I was trained as a nurse's aide so every once in a while I take my 10-year-old daughter's pulse. Usually it is very rapid, over 80 and sometimes over 90. Even after she has rested. Sometimes, it is quite irregular.

On our charts, I remember, the line was drawn at 72 and we were told to report if the pulse was faster or slower. I want to take her to a heart specialist but my husband won't let me. He reads your column and I am sure I could persuade him if you said I was right.

A — Oh dear! You have put me on the hot seat. Certainly it is safer for her than examined by your family doctor and get his opinion before you go to a cardiologist. And if the little girl is anything other than healthy, happy and vigorous, I'm sure both you and your doctor and I would agree to the need for consultation.

If she's healthy, happy and vigorous, I'd be inclined to agree with your husband. For, you see, that 72 on the charting sheet represents an AVERAGE, not necessarily the NORMAL. Indeed the range of normality may extend from 60 to 90. Children are especially apt to be in the higher ranges so your daughter's rate of 80 to 90 may be (and probably is) normal FOR HER.

The irregularity you note also may be normal since most youngsters slow down when they breathe in and speed up a bit when they exhale. That's called a sinus arrhythmia and it's a sign of health rather than disease.

Q — My wife's blood pressure is over 200 at times. Our doctor is a great friend of mine and he tells me how high her pressure is but he won't let her. He says I will only make her more nervous and send it higher. I think she should know so she will take better care of herself. What do you think?

A — I'm inclined to agree with your doctor. Obese, middle-aged women are particularly apt to register a high tension despite the fact that they have little arterial or kidney disease of any significance. This is called essential hypertension and, other than weight reduction and reassurance, needs little medical care.

Also, since persistence of essential hypertension produces none of the dreaded complications (strokes, coronary thrombosis, visual disturbances), it is often referred to as benign hypertension.

You are fortunate in having a doctor who is devoted to the treatment of your wife: instead of the blood pressure machine.

Better be guided by him even though this course involves serious responsibility. Were the situation reversed, I'm sure your wife would accept this same responsibility if she knew it was in the interests of your welfare.

Three Factors May Change Nation's Campaign Picture

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Drastic changes in the character of American political campaigning could be effected by three things which have happened here in quick succession.

1. Because of the high costs of air travel and nationwide broadcasts by presidential and vice-presidential candidates, the Commission on Campaign Costs has just recommended that the present $3 million limit on expenditures by any political committee and the $5,000 limit on political gifts by one person to any one candidate or organization be repealed.

To encourage more small political contributions, a $10 tax credit or a $1,000 tax deduction are recommended.

President Kennedy will propose legislation on these and other reforms.

2. Senate and House have passed and sent to the President for approval a bill authorizing $32 million government grants to promote educational television.

As public service enterprises, such stations would be required to carry programs giving both sides of political or other controversial issues.

3. A Senate Freedom of Communications Committee filed its final report after full investigation of the 1960 presidential campaign, recommending that the Federal Communications Commission issue new ground rules for all broadcasting stations that editorialize in favor of one candidate or party so that equal time will be given to the opposition.

To back up the FCC in this action, Subcommittee Chairman Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., intends to introduce a bill in the near future which would give the commission power to compel broadcasting stations to carry opposition programs in fairness cases where there has been editorializing.

Since the proposed campaign costs and contributions legislation would apply only to presidential elections, Congress will not have to act before next year to have the new financing provisions apply in 1964.

While it is doubtful that many new educational television stations could be put in operation under the new legislation this year, the mere licensing of more such stations would influence the programming of commercial radio and television broadcasters. The effect of a network of educational stations carrying political debate programs could be great.

The Yarborough Committee, whose other members are Senators Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., recommends that all broadcasting station licenses should be editorialized.

The committee also recommends that, "Equal opportunity to use the station's facilities to answer such editorials should accrue to the candidate or party against whom the editorial is directed."

If such a policy were included in FCC law or regulations, it would affect several classes of stations.

It would hit a large number of radio stations which now program only news bulletins and recorded music with commercials. No time is given to public service programs and not even paid political programs are accepted.

It would also hit at stations which give coverage to the candidates of only one party and partisan coverage of the issues, ignoring opposition candidates and their views.

Federal Communications Commission can change its regulations in accord with recommendations of the Yarborough Committee after hearings and due notice to the broadcasting industry. If this action could be completed by the end of this summer, any changes would apply in the final weeks of the 1962 campaign.

Some delay in the hearings may be necessary for a change in the FCC itself. The term of Commissioner John S. Cross expires June 30, and he intends to retire. This would give President Kennedy opportunity to appoint a new commissioner who would change the balance of power and give the FCC a majority favoring the reform policies of Chairman Newton N. Minow.

The Almanac

By United Press International.

Today is Thursday, May 10, the 130th day of the year with 235 to follow in 1962. This is Confederate Memorial Day, a legal holiday in North and South Carolina.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Venus.

On this day in history: In 177, Ethan Allen and his "Green Mountain Boys," the colonial militia of Vermont, stormed the British-held fortress at Ticonderoga, N.Y.

In 1865, Jefferson Davis, Confederate president, was captured and arrested as he was fleeing from Irwinville, Ga.

In 1940, 8½ divisions of the German army, moving by land, air, and water, led a surprise invasion of Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands.

In 1960, the nuclear-powered submarine Triton surfaced off the coast of Delaware after an 84-day world trip.

A thought for the day: American lawyer Robert Ingersoll said: "In nature there are neither rewards nor punishments . . . there are consequences."

Bid For A Smile

Flossie (aged six) — Mama, if I get married will I have to have a husband like pa? Mother (with a smile) — Yes, Flossie — And if I don't get married will I have to be an old maid like Aunt Kate? Mother — Yes, Flossie (after a pause) It's a tough world for us women, ain't it?

Bessie was just finishing her breakfast as her father stooped to kiss her before going down town.

The little one gravely took up her napkin and wiped her cheek. Father — What, Bessie? Wiping away father's kiss? Bessie (looking up with a smile) — Oh, No! I'm rubbing it in. God gives his very best to those who leave the decisions to Him.

Troy Donahue In Next Season's 'Hawaiian Eye'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The most breathtaking news in television is that Troy Donahue is going to join Connie Stevens in ABC's "Hawaiian Eye" series next season. Golly. Gee whiz. Wow.

What is really breathtaking is that this sophomore Wednesday night atrocity will be back at all.

Until "Hawaiian Eye" came along, I used to think that in Hollywood a horror film was one that didn't make money. Anyway, Wednesday night I put on my blue jeans, pinned on my Dick Clark button, sent out for a pizza and took another look.

Well, it was great stuff for all the teen-age fans. It was about a "jealous movie star (Bill Williams). He has a startlet girlfriend (Joan Staley). She smooches him in his room. Then she leaves and heads for another room. Another guy. Another smooch.

Anyway, it turns out that Williams' agent is trying to double-cross him, which is at least realism. The startlet isn't so bad after all. All she does is smooch.

Now, about Donahue. He will take the place of Anthony Eisley, who was on the show for several years, in case you didn't notice. Donahue is a refugee from a cancelled series called "Surfside 6," which made "Hawaiian Eye" look like "Ben-Hur."

Donahue and his costar-to-be both are products of Warner Bros., where I am held in low repute because I made the gross error one day of calling up to ask whether Connie Stevens was starring in "Susan Slade" or if it was the other way round. It's hard to keep up these days.

As for Wednesday night's effort by "Hawaiian Eye," it was juvenile and derailed. It almost always is.

"Revolutions," wrote George Bernard Shaw, "have never lightened the burden of tyranny; they have only shifted it to another shoulder."

Wednesday night, CBS-TV's Circle Theatre tackled this theme in "Anatomy of Betrayal: Dateline Cuba," the story of Castro's take over.

Once again, the Circle Theatre used its half-documentary, half-drama approach to tell its story. And once again, the result was only half and half. The necessity of integrating with the factual documentary material often makes the characters sound as if they are reciting slightly altered newspaper stories.

Wednesday night's drama centered around a newspaperman who returns to Cuba in hopes that Castro's revolution will bring the millennium but is later disillusioned.

The main weight of the story came from the sickening facts of the way dictators take over: the local vigilante organizations that spy, the indoctrination in schools.

At the end, there was a brief speech by Jose Miro Cardona, president of the Cuban Revolutionary Council and a former professor of Castro. He preached against Castro, but it would have also been enlightening if he had let us in on some stories about the Cuban leader as he knew him in student days.

One of these days, someone is going to find out how to lick that semi-documentary, semi-drama form. And then the Circle Theatre is going to be a heck of a show. It isn't now.

The Channel Swim: Jerry Lewis' May 29 special for ABC TV will be done live. Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov's taped appearance on ABC-TV's Ernie Ford Show was moved up from May 21 to May 14. Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary, guests on NBC-TV's "Tonight" program May 18.

CBS-TV gave John Glenn's parents the film of his return from Cape Canaveral after his space flight. Unknown James Drury stars in NBC-TV's new 30-minute series, "The Virginian," along with Lee J. Cobb, Roberta Shore, Pippa Scott and Doug McClure, formerly of "Checkmate."

ABC-TV says Dr. Edward Anis, a spokesman for the American Medical Association, withdrew from its May 27 "Issues And Answers" show because he did not want to be associated on any program with bills on medical care sponsored by two other guests, Sen. Jacob Javits and Rep. Frank Bow. Sen. John Tower replaces him.

Steve Allen In New Show Next Month

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Steve Allen is coming back on television next month in a new show he describes as "90 minutes of everything" including an occasional film-and-screwball, of which we have a variety.

Steve will do his 90 minute shows five nights a week starting June 25. The show, which airs at 11:15 p.m., is being sponsored by Westinghouse and replaces that company's "PM" program which featured Mike Wallace.

A regular night time chatter show is nothing new for Steve. The humorist, who also writes books, music and plays the piano, cut his video teeth on the old "Tonight" show, later hosted by Jack Paar.

"I'll do very much of what I did on the 'Tonight' show," Steve said. "We got out a couple of kinescopes of that show just to see what it was I did do. They were funny so I guess we'll do the same thing."

"It'll be essentially a comedy show with attention paid to good music. We haven't decided yet who'll be with us but I have a couple of writers lined up."

Steve will have guests discuss various subjects, but he objects to a running stream of name talent which just sits around looking pretty.

"We won't use too many guests," he said. "Recently I saw a show which had guests and it was ridiculous. There were about seven important people, and the man didn't have a chance to talk with all of them."

Allen's personal interests include a wide variety of subjects and he often talks on philosophy, religion, literature and politics.

He'll expound ideas over the air, something he's wanted to do for years.

"One of the reasons I decided to accept this offer from Westinghouse was because they said to me, 'would you mind doing something with a little meat on the bones,'" he said. "Boy was that wonderful to hear."

"Usually I would be saying that to sponsors and things didn't go too well. We see eye to eye that television has come of age. We hope to give people with various tastes something to grab on to."

Steve's show will not appear on a network. He'll be aired over the Westinghouse stations. The videotaped show will be offered to other telecasters, however.

"They're trying to cover the majority of the American people," Steve explained. "You can do that with about 15 stations."

His own department store in Phoenix, he smashed a record with 204 merchandise sales in a single day.

All his life he has moved in a gadget-cluttered world. At 12 he helped build the first Phoenix radio station. He still holds a "ham" operator's license. In his striking hilltop home outside Phoenix and in his Washington apartment, he has put hi-fi outlets everywhere but in the closets.

Goldwater contrived an electronic flagpole for his Arizona place. An electric eye triggered by the rising and setting sun raises and lowers both the flag and the pole.

"On days when it doesn't work well," he says, "I get complaints from neighbors about flying the flag at night."

Already well celebrated is his sleek black Thunderbird with some 17 special gauges and gadgets on or near the dashboard—the latest a "radar detector."

"There'll be more improvements soon," he asserts. "They all help the driving."

Goldwater can hunt, shoot, fish. He is a master of Indian lore and Arizona history, has a collection of 450 Kachina dolls, Hopi Indian creations of painted wood and feathers.

Once he taught himself to play the clarinet, the sax and the trombone. Dixieland music fits his mood often. Now and then weary of dictating letters onto disc recorders, he puts on 10 or 15 minutes of music for his own and a surprised secretary's pleasure.

Putting mechanical models together still intrigues him. Once his aides heard this appeal to a model maker on a disc otherwise loaded with senatorial business:

"Dear Sir: I have had a lot of fun putting your new model together. But somehow I can't find the little screw nut that goes in top. Can you please send me another?"

His models include, of course, the many jets Goldwater has flown as a reserve pilot. He began flying back in 1930.

Even those Republican leaders most skeptical of his 1964 presidential chances might wish he could win — just so they could see how Goldwater's gadgets would blend with Jacqueline Kennedy's antiques in the White House.

(Next: He'll have to move in November.)

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market has reversed its downward course, says Standard & Poor's Outlook.

S&P's weekly advisory service says "While the change in direction is technical in origin, growing out of excessive bearishness, it seems likely to develop into a worthwhile recovery."

The Labor Department's official release said, however, that the decline to 3.9 million was seasonal. The release, prepared by department experts, said there was "no significant change" in the jobless picture.

Goldberg reported that both total employment and non-farm employment increased last month to new April highs. Goldberg said this was "additional evidence we are continuing to emerge in a vigorous manner from the recession of a year ago."

The total number of jobholders rose by 711,000 to an April level of 67 million, highest ever for that month. Nearly two thirds of the gain came in non-farm industries, where employment set an April record of 62 million.

Reflecting the failure of unemployment to decline more than seasonally, the jobless rate held steady at 5.5 per cent of the labor force. That was the March reading. In February the rate was 5.6 per cent. In April, 1961 it was 6.9 per cent.

The April, 1962 rate meant that 55 of every 1,050 men and women in the labor force were out of work and looking for a job.
