Nixon Faces 1st Test Since 1960 Campaign Today

By United Press International
Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's first political bid since his futile race for the White House highlighted primary elections in five states today.

Nixon was an odds-on favorite to win the Republican nomination for governor of California. Other primaries were being held in Mississippi, Idaho, Montana and South Dakota.

In the week's first primary, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper won the GOP renomination in Iowa Monday, defeating Herbert Franks, Jr. Hoover, a distant relative of the former president.

Iowa's Republican governor, Norman A. Erbe, defeated former Lt. Gov. William H. Nicholas, who was making his fifth try for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. Erbe will face state Commerce Commission Chairman Harold Huges in November. Hickenlooper's Democratic opponent will be Prof. E. B. Smith of Iowa State University.

Nixon, who lost a close race to President Kennedy in 1960, faced conservative State Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell of Los Angeles. If Nixon wins he will face Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown in November.

Should Shell, a wealthy young oilman who has been Republican leader of the legislature's lower house for three years, upset him, it would virtually end the 48-year-old Nixon's career.

Brown had only token opposition on the Democratic ticket from three little-known candidates.

In the California senatorial races, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel was expected to win renomination on the Republican ticket over three opponents, State Sen. Richard Richards, whom Kuchel beat in 1956, was expected to win the Democratic primary again.

Other primaries:

Mississippi: One congressman had to lose. The state lost a House seat in the 1960 census, and the legislature put Reps. Frank E. Smith and Jamie L. Whitten into the same district.

Idaho: Sen. Frank Church was unopposed in the Democratic primary. On the GOP side, Jack Hawley faced George V. Hansen, GOP Gov. Robert E. Smylie was running for re-nomination for a third term against two opponents. There were six candidates lined up in the Democratic primary for governor.

Montana: Reps. Arnold Olsen, Democrat, and James I. Battin, Republican, were unopposed in the primaries.

South Dakota: Sen. Francis Case had one opponent to defeat in order to win the Republican renomination. George McGovern, a former congressman and most recently President Kennedy's Food for Peace director, was unopposed in the Democratic senatorial primary. Republican Gov. Archie Duff and former Democratic Gov. Ralph Sorenson were unopposed in their gubernatorial primaries.

Variety Of Weather In State Rainfall Spotted Here Yesterday; More Today

Rainfall amounts in the Pampa area yesterday ranged from approximately .40 inch to over .80 inch, according to reports received at The News this morning.

BULLETIN
A severe thunderstorm alert has been placed on most of the Texas Panhandle, starting at 4 p.m. today and ending at 10 p.m., and including the Pampa area.

The rain came about mid-afternoon yesterday and was apparently spotted in that heavier amounts fell in some parts of town and lighter amounts in others.

In other areas of the state, the weather varied from calm to violent.

Tornadoes, hurricane-force winds, hard rains, hail, damaging lightning, a waterspout, and the hottest temperature in the nation provided Texans a variety of weather Monday from the Panhandle to the gulf coast.

Conditions favoring another round of storms built up in the state again early today. Forecasters called for thundershowers and thunderstorms in all sections of Texas, mostly this afternoon and tonight.

Skies were mostly cloudy across the state today except in the far west and the Panhandle. There was some early morning clearing, but clouds were expected to return during the afternoon. Overnight low temperatures ranged from 55 degrees at Daltart to 79 at Corpus Christi.

A weak cool front was moving into the state from the west, causing the recurring storms. Forecasters said the front will hold temperatures down in Northwest Texas during the next two days.

At least three tornadoes skipped across open rangeland in the Panhandle Monday near Paducah, Dickens and Seymour. Severe thunderstorms raked the area.

Hurricane-force winds of 75 miles an hour whipped the Houston area. Water flooded in streets for a short time playing havoc with rush-hour traffic.

Lightning, striking from a sky so black that drivers had to use headlights, hit three 1,000-gallon oil tanks in North Houston.

Commissioner Cites Industry Need Here

Stocks Show Rally As Tax Cuts Are Promised

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rallied sharply during the second hour of trading today, as Wall Street's assessment of administration plans for a "top-to-bottom" tax cut apparently hardened sentiment and triggered a fresh wave of buying.

The trading pace quickened as prices rose, causing a lag of 24 minutes on the ticker tape shortly after the noon hour. Flash prices — transmitted to show the current status of some leading issues — put some of the blue chips up as much as $2.

The turn started in the second hour, after the market had shown an early disposition to continue the sharp break which dropped the Dow-Jones industrial average Monday by more than 17 points.

At the noon reading, the DJ showed industrials up 2.78 at 596.46. The more inclusive Standard & Poor's 500-stock index stood at 57.51 up 0.24.

Volume at the close of the second hour amounted to 2,310,000 shares, compared with 1,940,000 at the same time Monday.

Some of the recently hard hit stocks were among those to register the widest gains. International Business Machines was up around $9. Zenith ahead better than $2 and American Home Products up nearly $3.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon, in an address Monday night to the New York Financial Writers Association, said President Kennedy plans to present to Congress next January a broad plan of "top-to-bottom reduction in the rates of income tax."

Dillon spoke after a day which saw traders drop more than $11 billion in paper value of stocks, continuing the downward trend of last Friday. The slump brought the stock market to a point halfway from that reached May 28, when the market posted losses almost equal to the crash year of 1929.

Dillon told the financial writers the administration had made "no decisions" on any of the details of the proposed tax cuts. He also did not specify whether the proposal would include both corporate and individual taxes.

The Treasury secretary said last week's trading on the nation's exchanges was a case in point.

Dr. Will Graham, newly-elected city commissioner in Ward 2, took the oath of office at today's meeting of the City Commission and came up with some observations and suggestions, not only for other members of the commission, but for Pampa citizens in general and the community as a whole.

Dr. Graham told a newsman following the meeting that he had other suggestions in mind for Pampa and that he hoped his election to the post would enable him to be of service to all of the people.

Following a discussion, led by Mayor E. C. Sidwell, concerning rising cost of city operations year after year and the need for approximately $3-million in bond issues to cover improvements in the next five to ten years, Dr. Graham said:

"It seems to me Pampa's prime problem is to attract new industry and hold on to what we have. If we don't we're going to find one day that Pampa has turned into a beautiful corpse."

"We had better start right now running scared on this problem of getting new industry in Pampa. We need to have a tax climate that will encourage new industry, and I also know that we need to have a tax climate that will support needed services in our community."

Mayor Sidwell, speaking in the same vein, pointed out major expenditures facing the city including such things as the Canadian River Water Project, filtration plant, a sanitation plant, and a sewage and drainage program already outlined.

"I would like to see this commission take a double good look at what we are up against in the way of expenditures," the mayor said.

"We have many major problems."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Astronaut Scott Carpenter visited President Kennedy at the White House today and later explained why he overshot his recovery area target by about 250 miles after his triple orbit of the earth on May 24.

Accompanied by his wife Rene and his four children, Carpenter spent about 20 minutes with the President and then took off for New York for a lunch honoring him.

Talking with newsmen at National Airport just before leaving, the astronaut said the space agency in a report just completed attributed his overshoot in landing to several reasons.

First, he said, there was an error "in yaw and attitude" of the Aurora 7 spacecraft as it neared reentry into the atmosphere.

There also was slightly less thrust than expected from the retro, or braking, rockets when he fired them to slow his speed for reentry, he said.

A third factor, Carpenter reported, was that the retro rockets fired a few seconds later than planned.

All factors were "insignificant" compared with the yaw, or side-to-side motion, of the space capsule as it neared atmospheric reentry, the astronaut said.

This was the chief reason he landed so far down range from his scheduled impact spot in the Atlantic, he said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said today government censors are overdoing it when they chop up statements by military leaders to be given in secret to congressional committees.

The chairman of the special Senate subcommittee investigating military censorship said "it's just irritation to see some of these statements with words crossed out."

"A public statement is a different matter," he said.

He made the comments after his group finished its 34th hearing in the inquiry into speech review policies of the defense and state departments.

Stennis told Undersecretary of State George W. Ball he would make a strong recommendation to the full armed services committee that there be no censorship of statements to be made in executive sessions of congressional panels. Pentagon witnesses are free to answer questions without restraint at such sessions, but their prepared statements are subject to review.

Other congressional news:

Taxes: The Senate Finance Committee resumed work on President Kennedy's 240-page tax bill. Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon was summoned to a closed session to outline administration revisions in the sections dealing with foreign taxes.

Aid: Sen. John M. Sparkman, D-Ala., opened debate on the administration foreign aid bill by calling it a "realistic approach to United States interests abroad."

The acting chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which approved the bill, said it would also be a needed buffer to "the pressure of Communist imperialism."

Yarborough Says Connolly Winner
AUSTIN (UPI) — Don Yarborough conceded his gubernatorial bid to John Connolly Monday, saying he had never seen such devotion as his supporters showed.

"The decision was a narrow one and my supporters waged an unbelievable courageous fight," he said. "I shall be forever proud that I had the opportunity to be their standard bearer in this great undertaking."

"My wife, Kay, and I shall never forget these sacrifices made on behalf of a new day for all Texans," Yarborough said.

Final returns from the Texas Election Bureau showed Yarborough trailed Connolly by 25,904 votes.

Circular Ordinance Is Being Enforced

City ordinances prohibiting the distribution of circulars or advertising matter of any kind on streets, alleys and sidewalks within the city limits were being enforced today by city police officers.

Police Chief Jim Conner said Ordinance No. 96 makes it unlawful to tack circulars or advertising matter on utility poles or to place circulars in or on parked automobiles within the city limits.

Conner said the ordinance did not prohibit the delivering of advertisements to private residences, as reported yesterday.

Move Integrates Satellite States In Red Economy

By K. C. THALER
United Press International
LONDON (UPI) — Russia, alarmed at the prospect of a widening West European community, is out to meet the challenge with a Red "Common Market."

The summit meeting of Communist leaders in Moscow Wednesday is to deal with this problem, as one of the most acute on a wide agenda of topics.

The Kremlin apparently wants to put teeth into its economic alignment with the satellite states in East Europe which thus far have escaped total integration into Soviet economic plans.

The growth of the European Common Market, Britain's current efforts to join it and American plans for a subsequent wider Atlantic alignment have galvanized Premier Nikita Khrushchev into a major counter-campaign.

Last week he served notice he intends to mobilize the United Nations against the alleged threat from the West European economic alignments. He wants a world trade conference to try and break up Western cooperation.

But, the Soviet leader — who has already started to enlist African support for his campaign — is taking no chances.

The Red alignment already is in existence. It was set up as the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance (COMECON) in January, 1949, as a counter to the Marshall Plan which Russia rejected.

Its aim was defined in these terms: "To strengthen the economic collaboration of the socialist countries and to co-ordinate their economic development on the basis of equal rights of all member states by organizing the exchange of economic and technical experience and rendering mutual aid in raw materials, food and equipment."

The Kremlin's suspected real aim has been to get control over the satellites economies and to make them dependent on Russia beyond the hope of their turning to the West.

The Kremlin leaders, plagued by agricultural and other economic problems, cannot have failed to notice the marked progress in the Western economic communities.

The signs are that considerable adjustments will be needed in the Red bloc, including one in the system of pricing which has been out of touch with reality. Russia's latest modification in essential food prices and Khrushchev's frank explanation have showed that evidently a review is in order of the inadequacy of trade, and aid — and over-all economic patterns which are frozen into uneasy equilibrium by Soviet dominance.

All this is part of the race for a Red common market.

French In Drive On Leaders Of OAS As Four-Day-Old Truce Is Ended

ALGIERS (UPI) — A 5,000-man French force moved into the port city of Mostaganem today in an apparent drive on leaders of the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS).

News of the operation followed an OAS announcement that its four-day truce with the Moslems was ended. The announcement aroused fears that a new round of terrorism would begin. Two Moslems were killed here early today.

Reliable sources said the OAS is believed to have its headquarters in Mostaganem. They said the sudden movement of troops and gendarmes into the area at dawn indicated French authorities may have received information of the whereabouts of some of the OAS leaders still at large.

All telephone and telegraph communications in the port were cut.

The OAS proclaimed the truce last week in hopes of contacting leaders of the Moslem Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN). It sought guarantees to continue as a political force after Algeria becomes independent.

Observers believed the OAS failed to get what it wanted from either the FLN or the provisional executive, which is ruling Algeria until the territory achieves full independence.

In a pirate broadcast announcing the end of the truce Monday night, an OAS announcer said the terrorist organization would continue its "scorched earth" policy unless the FLN comes to an agreement on the future.

The OAS opposes Algerian independence under domination of the Moslems, who outnumber the Europeans nine to one. It has been conducting a campaign of terrorism to sabotage the peace accords which ended the seven-and-a-half-year Algerian war.

Algeria votes July 1 in a self-determination referendum which is expected to result in overwhelming approval of independence.

Independence Day Plans Made Here

Plans are underway for Pampa's Fourth Annual Independence Day program scheduled at Recreation Park on the evening of July 4th, at which time a brief patriotic program lasting about ten minutes will be held to be followed by a giant fireworks display by the Burnett Fireworks Company of Okla.

The brief program will consist of presentation of The Colors, Pledge to the Flag, The National Anthem, Invocation, and reading of the Declaration of Independence. Kay Fancher will serve as master of ceremonies and Cameron Marsh will read The Declaration.

The fireworks display will last approximately thirty-five minutes and will be fired by a professional fireworks company to insure safety. Ground pieces will be featured at the beginning and at the end of the display but most of the fireworks will be aerial rockets and bombs.

Last year, an estimated crowd of 16,000 people watched the show. (See INDEPENDENCE, Page 3)

1st Red Chinese Refugees Arrive In US

CHICAGO (UPI) — The first refugee family from Red China to be admitted to the United States under the President's emergency program arrived smiling and happy early today at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

Despite their 20-hour flight from Hong Kong by way of Japan, and a 5-hour delay in Anchorage, Alaska, Eng Se-suey, 45, his wife, Eng Yuk Ping, their daughters, Mee Han, 16, and Mee Won, 12, and son, Leng Hun, 9, showed no signs of weariness.

"We are glad to be here so that now we may be able to help others do the same. We are happy that Mr. (President) Kennedy has seen fit to allow us to come here. We hope many more can come," Eng said through an interpreter, his cousin, Hung Eng of Park Ridge, Ill.

Eng and his family were admitted under a speeded-up procedure because his father, Frank, 69, a suburban Park Ridge restaurant owner, is seriously ill with cancer of the liver. The elder Eng remained at home.

Eng, who has made his living in Hong Kong since 1953 by operating a mail order import-export business, and his family were nattily dressed in Occidental-style clothing. They carried luggage and a number of packages and parcels. The children looked a bit apprehensive, but Eng and his wife appeared very happy.

Eng said he would look for a place to live for his family and then go to work in his father's restaurant. All five of the Eng's will have to learn English.

Among those present to welcome the Engs was Mayor John Overbeck of Park Ridge. Overbeck said "Frank Eng and his family have lived in the upper middle class suburb for more than 30 years and he was sure the new family "will be a welcome addition to the Park Ridge community."

Others among the welcoming party included Frank Sia, Chinese Nationalist consul general, who greeted the arrivals "on behalf of the Chinese community of Chicago."

David Lee, treasurer of the newly formed Chinese Refugee Relief Organization, presented a telegram of greeting to the Engs from Mrs. Claire L. Chennault, widow of the late U. S. Air Force general and World War II chief of the Flying Tigers, a group of U.S. volunteers who flew fighter planes for the Chinese Nationalist air force.

New Development In 'Suicide' Investigation

FRANKLIN, Tex. (UPI)—A state grand jury trying to decide if Henry H. Marshall was murdered or killed himself was in recess today with another mysterious aspect of the case to ponder when it reconvenes Wednesday.

The Robertson County grand jury scheduled its next meeting for 9 a.m. Wednesday. Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ said the recess was called because several jury members had "pressing business."

Texas Ranger Capt. Clint Peoples disclosed Monday that the Department of Public Safety laboratory has found two specks of nitrates, or gunpowder residue, on the back of the shirt Marshall wore when he was shot.

"There is a mystery about how they got there," Peoples said. "There is no correlation at this point between those specks and anything else. They were not too close to the bullet hole in the back of the shirt."

Marshall was the first federal agriculture agent to investigate the cotton allotment manipulations of Billie Sol Estes.

He was found shot to death on his farm near Franklin June 3, 1961. He had been shot five times with a bolt-action rifle. A justice of the peace ruled Marshall killed himself.

The case was reopened three weeks ago after evidence turned up tying Marshall closely with the Estes scandal. Houston pathologist J. A. Jachimczyk, who performed an autopsy on Marshall's exhumed body, said Marshall probably was murdered. He was performing additional tests on the contents of Marshall's stomach for a report to the grand jury.

lems," he said. "We are going to quit talking about them and start doing something. We need the help of everyone to understand these problems and assist in reaching the solutions."

In his discussion of attracting new industry to Pampa, Commissioner Graham said he was assuming that the Chamber of Commerce was going all out to get results in that direction.

Then summing up, Graham said: "Pampa seems to be suffering from a general lack of wisdom. I do not mean this to apply to any one group—but to a general cross-section."

The new commissioner indicated that he felt all groups need to go into action in a unified effort if Pampa is to go ahead and not die on the vine.

In other action today: After hearing from a number of residents in the colored section of Ward 4, the commission adopted a resolution providing for the appointment of a four-member Advisory Board to represent the entire citizenry of Pampa's colored population in making recommendations to the City Commission with respect to improvement of sanitation, streets and buildings and safety and police problems in their particular area. These four members would be elected by the citizens of the colored community. It was pointed out that this would not preclude the appearance of any citizens before the City Commission.

The commission also agreed to study the request of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association for changes in the lease contract between the City and the Association concerning insurance on buildings and equipment at City Recreation Park fairgrounds and rodeo arena.

A resolution was adopted setting up the following official holidays to be observed by the City: New Year's Day, Memorial Day, July Fourth, Labor Day, Veteran's Day Nov. 11, Thanksgiving Day (last Thursday in November), and Christmas Day.

Bids were opened and contract let to Continental Oil Co., low bidder, to supply gasoline and oil for city vehicles. The contract price was $15,983.

Official action was taken to change next week's regular meeting from Tuesday to 7 p.m. Thursday in order to permit City Manager Harold Schmitzer to attend a meeting of the Texas City Managers Association in Abilene June 10-12.

An easement was granted to Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for $20 on a 4-foot wide strip of land including the east 60-ft. of Sec. 109, southwest of the city.

The commission canvassed the May 29 commissioner election in Ward 2 and Dr. Will Graham was declared elected and officially sworn in.

Salary changes authorized by a prior commission to take effect since April 1, 1962, were approved. Bills were paid covering $953.32 to Continental Oil Co., and $102 to nine election officials who worked in the May 29 special election.

Police said they received a report late yesterday afternoon from P. C. Hammons, 228 N. Craven, that he had loaned a neighbor his 1954 International pick-up truck, to pick up some laundry. Hammons said after three hours, the neighbor did not return and when he checked his home, the house was empty.

Upon investigation officers said the man and his family had moved from their residence yesterday afternoon. The pick-up truck is carrying Texas license number 8-E5109.

Preston Cox, 509 Powell, reported to police yesterday afternoon that sometime between 9:30 a.m. and 12 noon Sunday, someone entered his home and stole $30 in cash. The money was looted from a jewelry box in a dresser drawer while the family was attending church services. Nothing else was reported missing.

Police received a report yesterday from Raymond Bryant, 525

S. Gray, that sometime between 6 p.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. yesterday, someone stole a brown leather tool pouch containing several tools from his pick-up truck parked in the driveway of his home.

Bryant said the pouch contained a pair of seven inch pliers, four or five screw drivers, meter wrench, set of allen wrenches, Phillips screw driver, and a six foot wood rule. Total value of the pouch and tools was estimated at $50.

Richard York, 109 N. Nelson, and Virgil Pool, who resides north of the city, both reported to police yesterday that a pair of hub caps had been stolen from their automobiles over the weekend while they were parked in the downtown business district.

'Reverse Rider' Held On Charge Of Carrying Gun

HYANNIS, Mass. (UPI)—A Negro sent North by segregationists in the "reverse, freedom rider" movement was held by police today on a gun-carrying charge.

Police Chief Albert L. Hinckley identified the suspect as Edward Burton, formerly of Little Rock, Ark. Hinckley would furnish no further details but said Burton would appear in court later today.

Meanwhile, town officials planned to huddle with a state military leader to see if new homes can be found for those Negroes who have found no place to live.

The officials and Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Donnelly, adjutant general of the Massachusetts National Guard, will investigate the possibility of housing the 42 Negroes at nearby Otis Air Force Base.

The Negroes would be housed in unused buildings at Camp Edwards, part of the air base. The camp is now operated by the National Guard.

The Negroes were among 54 sent north on buses from Alabama, Arkansas and Georgia. Twelve have left to look for work elsewhere.

The 33 adults and nine children still here have been living in a dormitory at the Cape Cod community college. The college opens a summer session July 2 and officials need two weeks to get ready for students.

which "all vestiges of reason were temporarily pushed aside." He predicted the United States can look forward to continued economic progress which "should also bring with it a rise in corporate profits."

Dillon's remarks appeared aimed at settling the nerves of jittery traders and to boost confidence in the nation's economic future.

Volume Monday was 3,380,000 shares, compared with 3,760,000 on Friday and a 3,350,000 turnover a week ago Monday.

The Standard and Poor's index of 500 stocks was off 2.11 to 57.28, and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 17 points to 593.68.

Dillon referred to last week's frenetic activity on Wall Street as "a phenomenon that should give us all pause."

"Despite the fact that over the postwar period the share of profits in the sales dollar has declined," he declared, "there is general agreement among business forecasters that total pre-tax corporate profits for 1962 are breaking out of the narrow range in which they have moved for the past three years and will reach a new record high, well above $50 billion."

Dillon said last year's bull market stemmed from a belief that "inflation was just around the corner." He said the fears have "been pretty well dispelled. And that is the basic reason behind the decline in stock prices over the past few months."

Two of the nation's top stocks from the standpoint of number of general stockholders lost ground Monday, American Telephone and Telegraph was 10 1/2% off $4.88 for the day. Standard Oil of New Jersey was 4 1/4% off $1.38.

Dear Abby...

Love Is For Anyone
Able To Enjoy It!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was never in love when I was a girl. I married a man my parents thought would be good for me. I am 49, a widow and the grandmother of seven. I met a man last summer and have fallen in love with him. He is 36, single and says he is in love with me, too. We are getting married soon. So many of my friends tell me that people our age marry only for "companionship" or convenience, but we are too old for love. His relatives tell him he is in his second childhood. Is love only for the young, Abby?

YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR YOUNG: "Love" is for anybody with the emotional capacity to enjoy it. Age means nothing.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about these women who get all dolled up and go to hospitals and make a wreck of the patients? Last week my married daughter went to the hospital for a major operation. The families on both sides agreed that no one except her husband should visit her because they wanted her to get plenty of rest. They even put a NO VISITORS sign on her door. The mother of a friend of hers barged in to "cheer her up." She brought her all the bad news and gossip in town. She carried a big box of pictures of her whole family and talked on and on. She stayed two hours and my daughter was nearly in hysterics by the time this woman left. How can a helpless patient protect herself against such "do-gooders"?

SICK GIRL'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Unless the patient has the courage to point out the NO VISITORS sign she is indeed helpless. Most hospitals have rigid regulations about who shall visit and how long they may stay. And those that don't should.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old, and the most miserable girl alive. I've been told that I have a very pretty face. I am five feet three and weigh 225 pounds. My parents took me to a doctor four months ago, and he put me on 900 calories a day. I lost 18 pounds, but then I started eating things that weren't on my diet, and I put it all back again. I gain an average of 20 pounds a year, Abby. I want to die. I look at myself, and I am disgusted. I cry a lot. But I cry and eat. Now I am crying, but just got through stuffing my face. Please tell me how to stick to a diet once and for all.

HOPELESS

DEAR HOPELESS: Who said you were hopeless? I don't believe it. (1) Buy yourself the size dress you want to be, and try to put it on every night. (2) Paste a picture of a beautifully proportioned girl on your bathroom mirror. (3) Put a sign on the refrigerator door, "IT'S NOT WORTH IT!" (4) Exercise everything but your jaws. (5) Pray!

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Capelets High Style This Spring

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A little cape to match a dress adds smartness to a costume that is both distinctive and practical. A black or navy dress with a white satin capelet can be lined with the fabric of the dress, or a matching capelet lined in satin is both fashionable and functional. Or, if you have a print dress, buy enough plain color, to match a color in the print for the cape, and line the cape with the print. If the cape has a collar, use a presson stiffener on the lining, so the collar will hold its shape and the edges will be true. If you choose chiffon fabric, catch the neckline of the cape in a seam made on the raw edges of the chiffon. Stitch edges to-

Smart dress-matching cape.

Separate the pieces enough to give 1 to 2 inches extra width for each slash.

Use a fitted facing at the armholes if you make a sleeveless dress.

This basic dress pattern can be used for any firmly woven fabric that will hold its shape and tailor nicely.

Remember: the plainer the costume, the more perfect workmanship must be.

Dear Mrs. Picken: I have a black velvet cape with pearls on the front. How could I make this over to get wear out of it?—I. M.

Dear I. M.: If the pearls are no longer attractive, why not make a band of satin and use it as a fold up each side of the front. This could be as wide as you would need to cover where the pearls were. Just cut away that part and fold the satin over. You would need to measure from the top of the cape to the bottom and buy that much of at least a 42-inch wide satin. I think this might do the job nicely for you. Capes are very good, and a black velvet one should be useful.

If you'd like to make the garments illustrated with this story, write to me for the pattern as follows:

20-30 Club Has Final Meeting

LEFORS (Sp1) — The 20-30 Club held its final meeting of the year recently in Pampa with Mrs. Billy Washington as hostess.

A salad supper was followed by election of new officers who will be installed in a Sept. ceremony.

Mrs. Bill Kindle was elected president; Mrs. Jack Clarke, vice president; Mrs. Tony Timmons, secretary; Mrs. Bill Washington, treasurer; Mrs. H. L. Teel, reporter.

The club is planning a family night for June 22 in Leforia Park, with a picnic supper and ice cream.

Two guests were present, Mrs. Joe Wallis and Mrs. Dennis Taylor. Members present were Mmes. Billy Washington, Scoot Teel, Robert Parson, J. M. McPhearson, Tony Timmons, Billy Joe Cox, Bill Kindle, Leonard Cain, Joe Archer, Ray Dickerson, Christine Dunn, Wayne Sims, and Jack Clarke, and three children Wanda Wallis, Connie Teel and Le Ann Timmons.

gether, front neck to selvage. Loop at the center front can be used to fasten cape so that it can be thrown back as a scarf.

If square corners are used, as the illustration shows, clip across the seam corner to avoid bulk. Notch the seam every few inches all the way so it cannot be tied when cape is turned right side out.

When stitching two thickness of fabric together, be sure to baste. Use pins to lay fabric over tissue; take every precaution so one thickness of fabric will not slip and wrinkle. All edges should blend together perfectly.

For warmth, underline the cape, interlining of light-weight fabric and sew it to the inside seams so it is smooth and not bulky in anyway.

The dress illustrated may be made without darts and a string belt used, or it can be made with darts as illustrated.

If you desire more skirt fullness than pattern allows, slash pattern from the bottom to the waistline.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER
Senior Citizens Center

I played "hooky" from the Center on Thursday and I want to thank Mrs. Louise Sewell, Altrusa Club Senior Center chairman and Mrs. H. M. Norris, the originator of this column, for collecting some information for today's news.

Mrs. Lillian Brunelle, who is visiting in Massachusetts, wrote Mrs. Sewell a nice letter, which she read to Seniors on Thursday. Mrs. Brunelle reported that she is having a lovely visit and had visited a Senior Center out there. "The set-up is very different from the plan we have here" and she likes the plan the Altrusans have here.

Last summer when visiting my daughter in Ventura, Calif., Yours Truly went down to the Senior Center there and talked with the center manager. I much prefer the plan used here, too. The Center in Ventura is open everyday in the week to Seniors, but they have to provide their own groups for games. So we, too, vote the Altrusans' plan in Pampa as the best ever.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Frasier attended the graduation of their grandson, Lloyd Balch from Pampa High School and then went to Amarillo on Wednesday night to attend the graduation of another grandson, Eddie Raymond Boudreau from Amarillo High School. Mr. F. M. Heaston was reported quite ill in Worley Hospital. The Seniors and all his many friends are praying for a speedy recovery.

Uncle Billy Frost was missed from the Center on Thursday, too. He said he was just too tired to make the effort. Uncle Billy is always missed when absent; he is one of the staunchest supporters of the Center.

Mrs. Mollie Hethcock is another who seldom misses a week at the Center. At the present time, she is visiting a niece, Mrs. Leon Morrison in Liberal, Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Shireman were welcomed back on Thursday. Everyone was glad to see Mr. Shireman back out again after his illness.

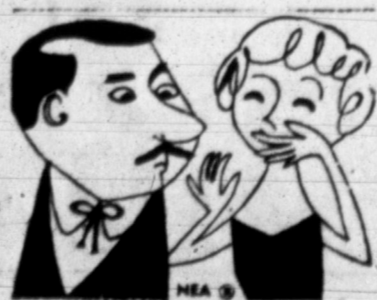

Mrs. Elma Bailey returned home last Sunday from Rule, where she attended the wedding of her granddaughter, Miss Pamela Bailett to Glen Schenertadt. The wedding was solemnized in the First Baptist Church there. Pamela is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bailey, former residents of Pampa.

Was good to hear that Mrs. Joe Mullin is home from the hospital and will soon be back with her friends at the Center.

Here is a poem, copied from the back of a business card of S. Richardson of Laurel, Miss., son of Mrs. H. M. Norris, which I think all you will enjoy, as we did, titled, "It's All The State Of Mind" (author unknown): "If you think you are beaten, you are;

Gray County Council Names Delegates To Attend State THDA In September

The Gray County Council of the Texas Home Demonstration Association elected three delegates and two alternates to attend the state meeting in Dallas Sept. 19-20 at a meeting held Monday in the Courthouse Annex.

Delegates were elected following the recent May council meeting of representatives of the Home Demonstration Clubs in the Courthouse Annex. Mrs. D. W. Swain, chairman, presided.

The state representatives are Mmes. V. Smith, Lester Reynolds, A. P. Coombes, with Mrs. A. J. Rollins, first alternate, and Mrs. Glenn Newman, second alternate.

During the council meeting, Mrs. Roy Tinsley, gave the recreation report and announced that Miss Lou Ella Patterson would conduct the next salad luncheon program in September on "Starting the Family Tree."

Miss Patterson announced that Miss Bonnie Cox of the extension Service will meet July 8 with Mrs. T. D. Anderwald, the THDA chairman, the council chairman and the yearbook committee.

"Each club is to prepare a program for the 1963 yearbook before the August council and all committees will meet in October," she said.

The council adopted three committee recommendations. Mrs. Glenn Newman read the yearbook recommendations. Mrs. Dewey Lunsford, re-book committee recommendations, Mrs. Dewey Lunsford, reporter committee, and Mrs. A. J. Rollins, family life committee. Council representatives attending were Mmes. Swain, Tinsley, Anderwald, Newman, Lunsford, Rollins, Marvin Rowan, Varde-man Smith, Francis Cox, Douglas Flynn and Miss Patterson, home demonstration agent.

Security Agency Is Headed For Another Shakeup

By ROBERT S. ALLEN And PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The super-secret National Security Agency is headed for another shakeup.

Its boss, Vice Admiral Laurance Frost, is being shifted to a new job.

Frost has headed the highly secret intelligence agency since 1960 when it was convulsed by the defection of two cryptographers to Russia. During Frost's tenure, he has ousted more than 30 "security risks," and sweepingly reorganized NAS procedures and functioning.

Insiders attribute Frost's impending "reassignment" to alleged complaints that he is staffing the agency with too many military intelligence officers.

Assistant Defense Secretary John Rubel, Frost's immediate superior, is credited with holding this view. Rubel is said to feel that more civilians, particularly from academic circles, should be employed by NSA.

A 50-year-old Arkansan, Frost is a graduate of the Naval Academy, and in World War II, was decorated several times for conspicuous courage in combat. He commanded warships in battle in both the Pacific and Atlantic. In 1956, he was appointed Assistant Chief of Naval Operations for Intelligence, and is rated as one of the ablest intelligence officers in the U.S. military.

Defense Secretary McNamara is being urged by General Curtis LeMay, Air Force Chief of Staff, to pick Frost's successor from that service.

Sessions On Aquatics Set

The Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council will conduct two, one week sessions of all the phases of aquatics, at their Council Camp Kiowa, near Canadian.

The first session will start July 8, and will run through noon July 17. The second session will be from July 15 through the 28th. This will be a one week training course in swimming, life saving, boating, canoeing, life guarding, and instructing for Boy Scouts of the 15 County area of the Council.

Scouts with varying ability and rank will attend, but the minimum requirement is that a Scout must be a First Class swimmer. Those completing aquatic merit badges and Red Cross courses will receive certification. One of the highlights of the camp will be the Mile Swim award that each Scout may try for while in camp.

Participants will be under the leadership of the Camp Staff, Jay Leath, Pampa, Aquatic Director, and adult leaders are not required to attend with their boys. Registration will be limited, so Scouts interested in attending one of these sessions are urged to make reservations now. The total fee for the week is $15. Reservations can be made by sending $5.00 of this fee to the Council office, P.O. Box 2479, Pampa. Additional information will be sent Scouts registering. As of today, there is room for additional registrations in either session.

The Lighter Side

On Stock Market And Children

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the ordeals that all parents must go through comes when their children begin asking questions about the stock market.

Many parents are embarrassed by the experience and are reluctant to be drawn into such a discussion.

Fathers will try to change the subject and mothers will pretend that something is burning in the oven.

Child psychologists tell us, however, that it is wrong to be evasive. The books say it is perfectly natural for children to become curious about stocks when they reach a certain age.

—It is a normal outgrowth of their earlier experience with piggy banks, and if handled properly they will grow up with a wholesome attitude toward the market.

When such questions arise, parents should answer them in a frank, straightforward manner.

Otherwise, the child will hear about it from his or her playmates and may be exposed to misinformation that will prove harmful in later life.

Knowing the right way to approach the problem does not make the task any easier, however, as I found out last week.

My daughter happened to notice the newspaper headlines about the wild market fluctuations. It was her first awareness, or awakening of interest, in stocks and she cornered me for clarification.

With the simple directness that makes children such a joy, she went right to the heart of the matter.

"Where do dividends come from, big daddy?" she asked.

At first I was too shocked to reply. But I realize that if I chickened out, she would never again feel free to talk things over with me.

To help put us both at ease, I went out and hired a midget to sit on my lap while I explained it to her.

"As you grow older," I said, "you will begin to feel an urge to invest. This is a normal feeling and is nothing to be ashamed of. It is merely mother nature's way of telling us that we are ready to produce capital gains.

"It is important, however, that you control the urge until the right broker comes along."

To my relief, she accepted the explanation without further inquiry and went happily off to play jackstraws. But I'm dreading the day when she asks about the Securities — Exchange Commission.

'Instant' Info On Permian Basin Wells Is Planned

By ALEX ADWAN

TULSA (UPI) — Electronic computers and company cooperation may soon combine to provide instant well information for oil companies in the Permian Basin area.

Eighteen companies are participating in a study of a proposed master computer system that would record and produce quickly information about any well or field in the area.

Individual companies have moved into computer data recording to some extent. The cooperative effort would have the advantage of using information from all sources and providing it on request to any participating oil operator.

Cooperating companies have contributed $1,000 apiece for the final study of the Permian Basin proposal. A decision will be made soon on whether to spend $630,000 to launch the project.

Preliminary studies are being made on similar proposals for the Gulf Coast and Mid-Continent areas.

Electronic brains are taking over other jobs in the oil industry, too.

Schlumberger Well Servicing Corp. has started a service that uses computers to extract every possible bit of useful information from well logs. To date, this chore has been the task of humans only. And humans sometimes overlook information that might be worth money.

The Oil and Gas Journal says the Schlumberger system can spot such facts as the direction of sedimentation, lensing of beds and changes in compaction.

The computer can handle an average 3,000-foot log in 30 minutes. The system utilizes an instrument panel to record on magnetic tape the measurements made by the logging instrument. An optical record is produced at the same time.

Despite the sharp decline, says the International Statistical Bureau, the internal position of the market shows signs of improvement. "Those who are underinvested should choose purchases from recommendations which have been liquidated below justifiable levels."

Thomson & McKinnon says the decline in the Dow averages is rapidly bringing about more sensible and realistic price relationships to earnings. It says should the current correction ultimately sag to 550 in the industrial average, the ratio of market prices to estimated 1962 profits would be only 15.3.

Arthur Wiesenberger says any change in stock prices of 10 per cent or more directly influences investor and business sentiment. Therefore, he says "our guess is that the initial step (to bolster sentiment) might be a reduction of margin requirements from the present 70 to 50 per cent."

Former Champ Says Patterson Will Win

TAFTON, Pa. (UPI) — Former middleweight champion Billy Soose, the poet of the Poconos, predicted today that Floyd Patterson would knock out Sonny Liston to retain the world heavyweight championship "in a fight that should never have been."

Soose, who could not shake Gene Tunney, defied the 7 to 5 odds favoring the challenger and picked Patterson "because of his dedication, condition and boxing skill."

"Boxing is dead enough now," said Soose, one of the few college graduates ever to win world title. "Television has it leaning over the coffin and if a man of Liston's background should win and fail to walk with extreme caution, that might be the coup de grace."

The one-time Penn State athlete, who won 34 bouts and the middleweight crown against six losses in little more than four years as a professional, said that his selection of Patterson was "more than wishful thinking."

"I'll take a boxer over a puncher anytime," Soose asserted. "Besides, Liston hasn't proved himself. Patterson, on the other hand, is always in condition and is a more dedicated man."

Admitting that Liston has a killing punch, and that Patterson has shown a certain wedgedwood quality in the region of the chin, Soose pointed out that while Patterson has been knocked down in almost every one of his bouts he always has been able to get right back up.

"That Ingemar Johansson was supposed to be a great puncher," said Soose, who 20 years after winning the title scales only 12 pounds more than he did in his last bout. "He knocked Patterson down seven times but still couldn't keep him there."

Billy, who owns a 465-acre lodge with scenic Lake Wallenpaupack in its front yard, scored knockouts in six of his first 10 pro fights. Then he broke his hand and turned boxer, still going on to beat Ken Overlin for the title in 1941.

"I couldn't punch after I broke that hand," he said, "but I want to tell you, if I put a man down three times he wasn't going to get up. Johansson did it seven and couldn't keep Patterson down."

That, he analyzed, may be attributed as much to Patterson's courage as to Johansson's ineptitude.

"Maybe you can knock some of Patterson's opponents," Soose held, "but you can't question his courage. I think he's making a mistake by meeting Liston, simply because they could have elevated boxing by waiting until Liston proved himself as having been rehabilitated. Yet it is typical of Patterson's character that he wants to face this challenge."

"They were starting to do a good job in cleaning up boxing," continued the outspoken Soose, who at 44 shows only a little gray at the temples. "They got rid of Frankie Carlo and had the underdog guys on the run. Which is one reason I hope Patterson wins before they kill it off completely."

Soose, whose career came to an early end when he went into the Navy early in 1942 and stayed for the duration, thinks that the only way to bring boxing back is to "keep it off television."

"That's the only way the little clubs can get back into operation and build more boxers," he insisted. "It takes a long while to make a good fighter and television gobbles them up too fast. The way things are going now, they'll soon have to use kangaroos."

Which they might, at that.

Veck Slams Yanks For Running Loop

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bill Veck, known as the "P.T. Barnum of Baseball," blasted Del Webb and the New York Yankees today for "booting me out of baseball" and for "messing up the American League."

The charges, and several others, are made in a copyrighted article in the latest issue of Look magazine entitled, "How They Booted Me Out Of Baseball."

Veck, the colorful former boss of the old St. Louis Browns, the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, charged that Webb, co-owner of the Yankees, "messed up the American League and turned it into the secondary league it has now undoubtedly become."

Veck accused the Yankees of running the American League to suit their own aims.

He is quoted in the magazine article as saying that Webb's primary interest during baseball's decade of expansion has been "in getting the contracts to build the new parks." Webb is one of the nation's leading building contractors.

Veck charged that the Yankees "drummed me out of baseball" in 1952, when he was president of the Browns. The man responsible, he said, was "Webb with some aid from his fellow predators."

The reasons, Veck said, were that he proposed an unrestricted draft program to strengthen the weaker clubs, and that he proposed to cut visiting teams in on the television receipts of the home club.

Veck wrote that the Yankees' lucrative television income, estimated at $1,750,000 a year, enabled them to maintain their dominant position in baseball.

Estimating the new Washington Senators' TV revenue as $150,000 a year, Veck asked: "Now, how in the world can the Washington club, with every other conceivable disadvantage, possibly compete effectively when the Yankees start at least $1,500,000 ahead of them every year on a purely subsidiary right?"

Veck pointed out that a team, at home or on the road, makes more money from night games than from day games. In the case of a game at Yankee Stadium, it is worth $30,000 more at night to the visiting club.

Veck charged that the Yankees awarded extra night games "to their friends and withheld it from any operator who did not take kindly to their whip."

"When other American League clubs tried to discipline Veck by not awarding any night games to his Browns, he felt he had a cut-and-dried case of conspiracy against every team in the league."

"Being fond of wasting time," Veck wrote, "I appealed to Commissioner Ford Frick. The commissioner took the bull by the horns and ruled that it was none of his business."

Top Golfers Out For Qualification

By United Press International

Sam Snead and a host of the nation's leading golfers set out to top the score of little Fred (Butch) Baird of Galveston, Tex., today when the qualifying competition for the U. S. Open championship winds up at seven different sites.

Baird, a red-haired, 5-foot-8, 150-pounder who is playing only his third year on the pro circuit, had the best 36-hole qualifying score of Monday's competition at six different sites. Baird's 68-69 for a three-under-par 137 topped a crack field playing at Memphis.

During these final two days of sectional qualifying, a field of 497 golfers will be reduced to 131 for the National Open championship, to be played at Oakmont, Pa. June 14-16. Nineteen exempt players, including defending champion Arnold Palmer, will set the Open field at an even 150.

Memphis was the site for the toughest qualifying competition Monday because many of the leading pros had played there during the past weekend in the Memphis Open tournament. A total of 61 golfers played there for 27 berths in the Open.

Don January of Dallas, Don Whit of San Diego, Calif., and Dave Ragan of Sun City, Fla., were tied for second among the Memphis qualifiers with 138 totals.

Among the golfers who qualified there were: Dr. Cary Middlecoff, a former Open champion; Lionel Hebert, winner of the Memphis Open, and his brother, Jay; Art Wall, Mason Rudolph, Tony Lema, Jack Burke, Al Balding, George Bayer and Australia's Bruce Crampton, Frank Phillips, Bruce Devlin and Bill Dunk.

There were casualties among the big-name golfers, too. Among those who failed to make the grade at Memphis were: Ken Venturi, Johnny Cupit, Jim Freese, Fred Haas, Tony Pena, Howie Johnson, Jimmy Clark, Bill Collins, Kel Nagle of Australia and Harold Henning of South Africa.

The biggest field in today's sectional qualifying was entered at

Omaha In Tie For Top Spot

By United Press International

The Omaha Dodgers Monday moved into a first place tie in the American Association with a 2-1 victory over Louisville. Omaha and Indianapolis have identical 28-19 records.

In the nights only other league game, last-place Oklahoma City downed Indianapolis, 5-3.

Omaha, won the game in the first inning when the Dodgers scored a pair of unearned runs. Scott Breedren, the winning pitcher, and Tom Newton, the loser, each gave up nine hits, each struck out two batters and walked two men apiece. However, Newton's teammates hurt him with two errors.

Oklahoma City scored one run each in the third through seventh inning to break a nine-game losing streak. Indianapolis took a 2-0 lead in the second inning. Tom Borland was the winning hurler and Alan Brice the loser.

In an exhibition tilt at Denver Monday night the Bears of the association bowed to the Chicago White Sox of the American League, 9-5. Denver out-hit Chicago, 11-7, but a walk with the bases loaded in the third inning and two more passes combined with hits and sacrifices in the seventh spelled defeat for the hosts. Wyman Carey was charged with the loss.

Earlier Monday at Denver, Nick Willhite, 21, a left handed pitcher for Omaha was voted the outstanding Association player for the month of May.

Willhite won five and lost two games during the month to bring his season's mark to 8-2. On May 29 he struck out seven consecutive Denver batters to tie a league record and finished the game with 13 strikeouts.

Tonight's league schedule has Oklahoma City at Indianapolis, Louisville at Omaha and Dallas-Fort Worth at Denver.

Omaha and Indianapolis have identical 28-19 records. In the nights only other league game, last-place Oklahoma City downed Indianapolis, 5-3.

Dodgers Win Behind Koufax

By NORMAN MILLER
UPI Sports Writer

Twice during his career Sandy Koufax strained his manager's patience to the breaking point, and now for his forbearance skipper Walt Alton of the Los Angeles Dodgers is being rewarded with the best National League strikeout pitching since Dazzy Vance.

Koufax struck out 13 batters Monday night in pitching the Dodgers to a three-hit, 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. It was the only game played in the major leagues and it moved the Dodgers to within two games of the first-place San Francisco Giants.

This was the fourth straight game in which Koufax struck out 10 or more batters and it raised his season total to 123 whiffs. At this rate, the 26-year-old left-hander could surpass Vance's 262 strikeouts in 1924 and the league record of 267 set by Christy Mathewson in 1903.

All this fine flinging makes Koufax mighty popular with Alton these days, but it wasn't always thus.

As late as 1960, when Koufax had an 8-12 record, Alton was beginning to wonder if he'd ever learn how to control his blazing fastball.

"Koufax is a mystery," Alton lamented. "He can't throw anything but one kind of ball — a high one."

"Still, you can't give up on him," Alton never lost his faith in Koufax' pitching, but there was an incident in the Dodgers' 1961 spring training camp that severely taxed Alton's patient soul.

Koufax and his pitching buddy, Larry Sherry, came in a little late one night and carried on rather noisily in their room. When Alton knocked on the door, they wouldn't let him in. Alton became so enraged, he pounded hard enough to break the band on his World Series ring.

He read the riot act to the two pitchers the next day and let them know who was boss. Koufax's control, of his fastball and his evening hours, have improved noticeably since that time.

Monday night's triumph, made easier by the homers by Wally Moon and John Roseboro, was Koufax' eighth against two de-

Harvey Refuses Hockey Contract

MONTREAL (UPI) — Home-sick Doug Harvey, highest paid coach in National Hockey League history, has turned his back on a $25,000 New York Ranger salary to stay home in Montreal.

Harvey, New York president Bill Jennings and general manager Muzz Patrick jointly announced the brilliant defenseman's decision late Monday night at the conclusion of the first day of the three-day NHL meeting.

The 37-year-old Montreal native and one of the NHL's great all-time stars, said the decision was final, but the Rangers left the door open.

"We won't make a decision on naming a replacement for 45, 50 or 60 days," Patrick said. "We'll protect him tomorrow (in the league draft) and we still hope he may change his mind."

And Jennings added: "I still wouldn't be surprised to see him around New York next fall."

Patrick, who said he still hadn't given up hope of persuading Harvey to change his mind as of two days ago, said that Emile (Cat) Francis and George (Red) Sullivan were the leading candidates for the job.

Harvey had advised the Rangers of his decision to quit after completing his first season on a three-year contract a few months ago. He had written them a letter advising them of his decision but hadn't mailed it. He wrote a second letter dated May 31 which said "just about the same thing."

"I guess my roots are planted too deeply here in Montreal," it read in part, "what with my business, friends and home all being here."

Rawls, Cornelius Declared Babe Zaharias Co-Champs

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI) — Two days of rain left Betsy Rawls and Kathy Cornelius co-champions Tuesday of the abbreviated Babe Zaharias Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Tournament officials and the Ladies Professional Golfers' Association agreed to end the event at the end of 36 holes instead of the scheduled 54 after rain first postponed Sunday's play and then forced cancellation Monday.

Miss Rawls and Miss Cornelius were tied for the lead with even par 146s, four strokes ahead of the field. Miss Rawls shot a 72 Friday and a 74 Saturday, while Miss Cornelius had two 73s. Each won $1,075 as her share of first-place money.

It was the first victory of the season for both Miss Rawls, who moved from ninth to sixth among the season's money winners with $3,800 earned, and Miss Cornelius, who advanced from 15th to 12th with a $2,400 total.

Three golfers tied for third place in the Beaumont tournament honoring the late Babe Zaharias of that city. All winning $625 with 150 totals were Ruth Jessen, Sandra Haynie and Betty Jameson.

Ohio Attorney Plans To Have Cincinnati Reds Open Books

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy plans to ask the courts this week to order the Cincinnati Baseball Club Co. to open its books to a group of prospective buyers.

The Crosley Foundation sold the Cincinnati Reds to general manager William O. (Bill) DeWitt for $4,625,000 on March 23. The foundation received a major share of stock in the club following the death last year of long-time Reds owner Powell Crosley Jr.

Shortly after the sale to DeWitt was announced, a syndicate headed by Cincinnati real estate developer Joseph F. Rippe said it offered $5.5 million for the club.

However, the foundation said Rippe never made a formal offer.

McElroy questioned the sale. He said state law made him legally responsible for the operation of the charitable trusts, of which the Crosley Foundation is one.

Last week he requested the foundation to voluntarily open the books to Rippe but the foundation refused.

McElroy's chief assistant, Theodore Saker, said Monday he would ask the First District Court of Appeals in Cincinnati to order the foundation to agree to the attorney general's request.

Saker said it did not make "the slightest difference" that DeWitt had pledged to keep the Reds in Cincinnati, or that the foundation had given $700,000 to the University of Cincinnati end $300,000 to the Cincinnati YMCA.

He said these actions did not alter the legal rights of the Rippe group, "or any other group" interested in buying the club, from inspecting its books.

McElroy has indicated that if the Rippe group, after looking at the books and agreeing to certain conditions, made a higher and better offer for the Reds, he would ask the foundation to void the sale to DeWitt.

NFL Releases 36-Game Pre-Season Pro Slate

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League today announced a 36-game pre-season schedule that includes a twinnight exhibition doubleheader at Cleveland Aug. 18.

The pre-season slate, spread over a six-week period, opens Aug. 3 and closes Sept. 9. The regular season begins a week later.

Starting times for the unique NFL twinnight will be 6:30 p.m., when the Detroit Lions meet the Dallas Cowboys, and 9:30 p.m., when the host Cleveland Browns face the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said he was particularly pleased with the schedule the clubs have worked out this year.

"It includes the first game sponsored by the new Professional Football Hall of Fame," Rozelle said, "a game at the Seattle World's Fair and the first pro game ever played at Princeton University."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Out into the wasteland Monday night. Vast? You never saw anything like it.

7:30 p.m., EDT: "To Tell the Truth." Top cultural event of the night on television. Four intelligent people sit around trying to figure out which contestants are liars. Kind of like a day at the office.

"Cheyenne." A repeat. Efrim Zimbalist Jr. plays actor Edwin Booth. He and Bronco Layne keep the South in line by squashing a rebellion. Uh huh.

8 p.m.:

"National Velvet"—Repeat. "Pete and Gladys." Gladys hires a gardener. A million laughs. So funny that CBS-TV cancelled the series.

8:30 p.m.:

"Father Knows Best"—Repeat. "The Price is Right." or "How to Earn Lots of Prizes Without Really Knowing Much About Anything." Shows you don't need education to get by. Just know the prices. Uplifting.

"The Rifleman"—Repeat. Mark Twain shows up on the old homestead and isn't very nice to a child star. Good old Mark. He once said: "Faith is believing what you 'know ain't so.' He should have seen 'The Rifleman.'"

9 p.m.:

"The Danny Thomas Show." A repeat.

"87th Precinct"—Repeat. A teen-aged youth dominated by his mother is suspected of murdering a pretty girl. Also education: The girl went to college. In our house, we worried if mother didn't dominate. Times change.

"Surfside 6." Chad Everett guests as Bongo Macklin, a former fight champion who needs protection against underworld managers. Chad? Somebody must be kidding. Maybe it's Bongo Macklin as Chad Everett. That must be it. It's not the underworld managers you need protection against, kid.

9:30 p.m.:

"The Andy Griffith Show"—Repeat.

10 p.m. ET:

"Hennessey"—Repeat. "Thriller"—Repeat. "Ben Casey"—Repeat. Casey contracts a dread disease and is in jeopardy. Well, maybe a happy ending to a bad night. But he pulled through.

10:30 p.m.:

"I've got a Secret." More culture. Four persons sit around trying to figure out somebody else's secret. Kind of like a day at the office.

And that, friends, is the sum total of what the three major television networks of the United States offered viewers in their prime night-time hours Monday night.

Research Speeded In Bomb Coating Project

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) has ordered stepped-up research into the possibility of coating all explosives manufactured in this country with a harmless radioactive material that could spot hidden bombs, it was learned recently.

The program, being conducted with the cooperation of the Atomic Energy Commission and the airlines, is aimed at developing a substance that could be detected by geiger counters at airports.

The FAA and AEC actually began work on the project more than two years ago with experiments on various materials. The FAA put the wheels in motion for expanded research even before the May 22 bombing of a Continental Airlines jet which cost 45 lives. It has allocated $250,000 for the program over the next two fiscal years.

An FAA spokesman said the choice of a satisfactory material was only one aspect of the work to be done. It also must be determined how much it would cost to manufacture on a mass basis, and how much training would be required for airport personnel.

"Training would be important," the FAA official explained, "because obviously you can't assign a nuclear physicist to every airport baggage scale."

The spokesman emphasized that the proposal is no panacea for the bombing problem. He pointed out that FAA, other federal agencies and the airlines themselves are reviewing all other possible bomb detection methods.

QUICK DIP—This is the new "instant swimsuit" there has been so much talk about in feminine circles. Of nylon tricot, it dries quickly and can be packed in the small container in model's hand. It was shown in New York.

PARIS — Rafael Garcia, eyewitness to the crash of a jetliner which killed 130 persons, on the sound of death:

"You get used to the sound of the engines as the planes take off. When I heard this one coming along the runway I knew there was something wrong by the sound of the engine. The jet engine was making that noise of desperation."

Walter Rogers Reports

Refugees Or Spies

Those who advocate opening our shores to refugees from Red China are no doubt prompted by the precepts of the Christian religion in which they were reared. Their attempts to adhere to the Golden Rule are commendable, but could prove very dangerous if followed. Let me say, in the first instance, that I would VIGOROUSLY AND UNEQUIVOCALLY OPPOSE any attempt to admit Red Chinese into this Country for any purpose. The Red Chinese are not Christians. If they follow the teachings of Marxism, they have no religion other than the Communist doctrine. They do not understand the Christian principles by which we live, hence would suffer no remorse of conscience in using our charity to help defeat us. In fact the evidence is overwhelming that the Communist world has followed a definite pattern for several years to employ our Constitution, our laws and our moral code as weapons against us. There are several excellent examples. They have widely used, in fact abused, the guarantees of the Constitution in the exercise of freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom of religion. One of the best examples is their open and defiant use of the Fifth Amendment, both in the courts and before Congressional Committees. These actions, although perhaps within the letter of the law, have certainly not been within the spirit. The exercise of these freedoms by the Communists and the use of the Fifth Amendment as a protective measure have not been for the purpose of preserving individual rights as was intended by the framers of the Constitution, but on the contrary, for the purpose of promoting and augmenting an ideology diametrically opposed to government by law. These people have long realized that the American concept of fairness presupposes the good faith of the individual. This creates an open invitation to any society that is devoid of a moral code or any group that subscribes to the policy that the "end justifies the means." This has been proven by the actions of the Communist Party members in this Country since the decision of the Supreme Court decision. On December 1, 1961 the Party as an organization was indicted on twelve counts charging failure to register with the Attorney General as a Communist action organization. The members of the Party also refused and failed to register and ceased to be identified with the Communist Party. However, the Attorney General this week filed petitions against ten persons labeling them as Communists and ordering them to register under the 1950 Internal Security Act. Identified in separate petitions are:

William L. Patterson of Brooklyn, Chairman of the Party's New York District.
Betty Gannet Tormey and William Albertson, New York Party Committee and Board Members.
Arnold Samuel Johnson, national legislative director.
Miriam Friedlander and Louis Weinstein, Committee members of New York.
Albert J. Lima, of Oakland, California.
Roscoe Quincy Proctor, of Berkeley, California.
Dorothy Healey, Southern California District Chairman of Los Angeles, and Burt Gale Nelson, of Seattle, Washington.
Communists are against our form of government. Whether they be white, black, yellow, tan or green, they are still Communists. If starvation reduces them to beggars, it does not change their basic principles. There are no doubt many among the 676 million peoples in Communist China, who would repudiate Communism, but how are these to be screened, and who is to do the screening? How are we to know the difference between a bona-fide refugee and a Communist spy? Who is to say that the Chinese Communists have not created the refugee problem, well knowing the charitable instincts of the American people, with premeditated design to create an avenue through which infiltration could be practiced. There is an old Chinese proverb "when you bow, bow low." It would be well for those in the Western world to study this proverb in the light of history. It might cause them to hesitate before being so free in offering the material wealth of others and risking the freedom of all in an attempt to solve a problem not of our creation.
