Top O' Texas Is Soaked By Rain

Rain, wind, hail and lightning raked the Top O' Texas yesterday and last night and more of the same is forecast for today and Tuesday.

The rain gauge atop The News building registered 1.08 inches of rain for last night's activity but reports ranged up to 2.45 inches in the Pampa area.

There was some small hail in Pampa, accompanied by gusty

A flash of lightning caused light damage and burned out the wiring in the home of Donald Riley, 312 S. Barnes, Sunday night, according to the Pampa Fire Department.

The bolt of lightning came through the TV antenna and burned out wiring throughout the house, causing some light damage as well as extensive smoke damage to the interior of the house, according to a fire department spokesman.

There were no injuries reported.

winds but there were no reports of wind or hail damage in the city.

Lefors reported 2.45 inches of rain with light hail and McLean received .40 inch. Employees at the Warner Petroleum Plant, 15 miles northeast of McLean, reported a "heavy pounding hail" which damaged automobiles parked nearby. There was an unconfirmed twister sighted aloft by a farmer approximately 15 miles south of Laketon.

Canadian reported .50 inch of rain with no damaging wind or hail.

Panhandle reported 3.55 inches of rain in town and 4.50 inches three miles northeast of the city. In Conway, nine miles south of Panhandle, 2.55 inches was reported with marble-size hail accompanied by high winds. Highway 15, three miles south of Panhandle, was closed for several hours yesterday afternoon due to high water.

Baseball-size hail hit the Groom area, accompanied by high winds and 1.10 inches of rain. The hail damaged automobiles and rooftops. Gene Quirk, who resides 10 miles north of Groom, reported five inches of rain.

The Skellytown-White Deer area reported only .70 inch of rain with some small hail and gusty winds.

The flood gates at Lake McClellan, south of Pampa, were opened at 10:30 p.m. yesterday but the lake was reported rising at the rate of two feet an hour since about 2:30 a.m. today and the water was expected to reach the

Talkathon Is Expected In Senate Over Communications Satellite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., planned to begin at least a week of debate on an administration bill to establish a communications satellite corporation.

The Senate appeared headed into another one of its talkathons, though this one is not expected to last as long as a recent three-week Southern effort.

Long, and a number of other Senate Democrats, are aligned against a House-passed measure that would establish a private corporation to run a satellite communications network. Opponents contend that it amounts to a giveaway of government-developed resources to such private companies as American Telephone and Telegraph.

Long has said he thought debate on the bill would last "at least" all week. That could create a difficult situation for Senate leaders anxious to speed action on key legislation, including some money measures that must be disposed of before the start of the fiscal year on July 1.

Other Congressional News: SUGAR—Democratic farm leaders expected to ram through the House a bill that would force the government for the next five years to pay premium prices to foreign suppliers of sugar. The bill is opposed by President Kennedy who had urged that the price mark-ups on foreign sugar be channeled into the Treasury spillway late this morning. Widely scattered late afternoon and evening thundershowers were forecast for today by the U.S. Weather Bureau in Amarillo.

Flash floods stranded about 400 motorists east of Amarillo Sunday night.

Hail inflicted heavy damage on roofs and automobiles throughout the Texas Panhandle.

The Department of Public Safety estimated the rainfall in the area east of Amarillo at more than six inches. The Amarillo weather station measured only an (See WEATHER, Page 3)

Probers Studying Surplus Material Disposal Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators sought today to thread their way through a "barn full of red tape" blocking disposal of surplus materials from the national strategic stockpile.

Sen. Stuart Symington's armed services subcommittee called witnesses from the General Services Administration and the Office of Emergency Planning to discuss proposals for expediting surplus sales.

Despite streamlined disposal procedures issued by the Kennedy administration April 25, sales from the stockpile this year will amount to only a small fraction of the $3.4 billion worth of surpluses on hand.

Under law proposed sales of all except obsolete stockpile materials require specific approval by Congress. Even then, sales cannot begin until six months after the details are published in the federal register.

A joint Senate-House resolution approved by Symington's subcommittee last week would authorize selling $60 million worth of materials over the next five years. But the amount to be sold under the resolution represents less than 5 per cent of existing surpluses. Plans to dispose of an additional $600 to $800 million worth are being drafted by the administration.

Witnesses before the subcommittee have indicated that it would take decades to sell the most heavily overbought metals and minerals. One official said the 78-million-pound cobalt surplus could not be moved in less than 20 years without disrupting producers' markets.

Convicts Put Prison To Torch

MONTREAL (UPI) — Hundreds of convicts at a Canadian Alcatraz tried to burn the sprawling island fortress to the ground Sunday at the conclusion of an inmates' baseball game. It took police, the army and militiamen to put down the riot.

Thirty persons, three of them guards at the St. Vincent De Paul Federal Penitentiary, were wounded in the seven-hour holocaust on the prison complex 20 miles from downtown Montreal.

Five were listed in serious condition and two others were critical. The wounded guards were treated and released. All were taken to the federal government Queen Mary Veterans Hospital here. The facility was placed under heavy guard.

OAS Calls For End To Terror In Algeria; Curfew Hours Eased

No Violence Reports 12 Hours After Order

By ALAIN RAYMOND
United Press International

ALGIERS (UPI) — The Secret Army Organization (OAS) lived up to its cease-fire pledge here today and authorities eased curfew restrictions in the Algiers area which had been the main target of the terrorist's murder and sabotage campaign.

There were no reports of terrorism in the 12 hours following the OAS call for the end of the campaign at midnight.

But there was still no immediate assurance that European extremists in Oran would agree to the truce terms worked out with the Moslem leaders. There were, however, no reports of OAS activities there.

An armed gang of seven Europeans held up an Algiers bank this morning and escaped with $40,000 in new francs. But authorities expressed doubt that the OAS was involved. The OAS has disclaimed responsibility for the rash of holdups and even has threatened to hunt down and kill the culprits.

The OAS called off its terrorist campaigns in exchange for a pledge for a general amnesty and representation in the post-independence security forces.

At noon, the Algiers police prefecture announced that the curfew would be cut by one hour in Algiers, Guyotville, Maison Carre and Fort de l'Eau for both pedestrians and motorists. The new curfew hours were set from midnight to 5 a.m. The old curfew ended at 6 a.m.

In Algeria's fortified Rocher Noir administrative headquarters, Dr. Chawki Mostefai, the Moslem rebel government representative on the provisional executive, conferred with other members of the executive. Mostefai played a leading role in working out the agreement with the OAS.

There was mixed reaction both by Europeans and Moslems to the OAS truce call and Mostefai's broadcast appeal which offered Europeans a place in an independent Algeria.

Reports from Tunis, headquarters of the rebel government, said there were indications of a split among the leaders over the agreement.

Vice Premier Mohammed Ben Bella told newsmen there: "I have never agreed to negotiations with the handful of criminal adventurers in the OAS. Furthermore, the Algerian provisional government at the end of May categorically rejected the idea of any negotiations with this gang."

But Belkacem Krim, also a vice premier and the man favored to head the first government of an independent Algeria, was said to favor the agreement.

European residents who have been fleeing to France at the rate of 10,000 a day were torn between hopes the peace would last and fears that it would collapse.

Some canceled their air or ship reservations this morning but others decided to go anyway.

Police Capture 2 Fugitives From Eastland County Jail

DE LEON, Tex. (UPI)—Police captured two fugitives from the Eastland county jail late Sunday night. The men had held a knife against a jailer's throat, stole his keys, and escaped in his automobile.

When the other prisoners refused to leave, the jailbreakers locked the 10 men inmates inside two cells built to accommodate one prisoner each. The 11th prisoner, a woman, was left in her cell.

Police said Davis and Bridges escaped with the jailer's pistol. No one was harmed. The other prisoners yelled out of windows until a boy outside heard them and reported the escape to police.

Goldberg, Management, Union Talk Strike Threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg called union and management officials together today in a last-ditch effort to avert a flight engineers' strike against Trans World Airlines Tuesday.

Goldberg invited representatives of TWA, the Flight Engineers Union and the Air Line Pilots Union, to a 9 a.m. EDT meeting. He acted after the engineers announced they would strike at 2 p.m. EDT Tuesday against TWA.

A walkout by its 615 flight engineers presumably would halt operations of TWA, which is the nation's fourth largest domestic carrier and employs 20,000 persons.

The Engineer's union said it would not strike against Eastern Air Lines of Pan American World Airways, which also are involved in the dispute, unless they engaged in "an illegal lockout."

In scheduling the strike against only one airline, the union said it shared Kennedy's concern over the economic effect that a full-scale walkout might have. Kennedy said last week that a strike against the three airlines would deal the economy a severe blow.

Conferring with Goldberg were H. S. Dietrich, chairman of the union's TWA chapter; Capt. Russ

Wagon Train Forming For Trip To Canadian

It's "wagons, ho!" Sunday, July 1, at 7 a.m. for the Top O' Texas Wagon Train, as it heads toward Canadian for the annual rodeo and celebration there July 3 and 4.

Wagonmaster is C. O. (Otto) Mangold, who announces his assistants for the three day journey will be David Richardson, assistant wagonmaster; Jimmy Bean and Bill McIntire, scouts; and Elmo Wheeler, mule skinner.

The old fashioned wagon train will leave Recreation Park with five or six wagons and about 30 persons. The Pampa Leather and Lace Club will also ride with the troop.

Mangold announced the following schedule has been set up for the trip:

Sunday, July 1 — 7 a.m., leave Recreation Park; 11 a.m., arrive 13 miles east on Highway 60 for a picnic lunch; 2 p.m., leave lunch area; 5:30 p.m., arrive in Miami and camp at Wallace Locke Pens, where watermelon for the wagon train will be served by the Miami service clubs.

Monday, July 2 — 7 a.m., leave Miami; 11 a.m., arrive at seven-mile park, north side, for a cook-out; 2 p.m., leave park; 5:30 p.m., arrive at "Y" seven miles south of Canadian for cook-out and camp-out.

Tuesday, July 3 — 7 a.m., leave for Canadian where lunch will be served by Dr. Hennard and Reid Ering, business men in Canadian. At 2 p.m. the wagon train will participate in the parade through the downtown district.

The persons in the wagon train will disperse and return to Pampa immediately following the parade, Mangold said.

Rules for the trip are: each wagon boss will be responsible for his group. Each group must furnish its own cooking utensils, food and water. Each rider must join with a wagon and must furnish his own bedroll, tiarope and horse feed. All wagons must be pulled by animals. Any persons under the age of 18 must have a parent or guardian accompany (See TRAIN, Page 3)

Administration Is 'To Blame' For Estes, Says RFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Sunday the administration has to take responsibility for the Billie Sol Estes case because some of the officials involved were appointed by it.

But Kennedy said the administration must also be given credit for taking the lead in the investigation of Estes and his financial empire.

tor of federal penitentiaries, were unable to explain the cause of the uprising.

Surprenant, who rushed here from Chicago where he had been attending a convention, said: "I don't think we can give any specific reasons for the riot. It was probably started by one small group. You know how these things spread."

Allen MacLeod, commissioner for penitentiaries, flew in from Ottawa, the Canadian capital, to take charge of the investigation. "It certainly seems to us there must have been some advance planning," he said today.

Clouds of dense smoke still rose from nine smoldering buildings put to the torch by the rioters as prison officials held a pre-dawn news conference.

The 13-building prison, located on a half-mile square area of 16

Fires were touched off at six buildings and prison officials sent out a province-wide alarm for help. Local police, off-duty guards, militiamen, Royal Canadian Mounted Police and 150 army troops from the Royal 22nd Regiment rushed to the prison.

The police, troops and steel-helmeted mounties were able to restore order about 10 p.m. by herding the rioters into a corner of the compound.

About 700 prisoners spent the night in tents set up in the open yard by army troops. They were closely guarded by prison guards, the soldiers and local police.

The warden said he was unable to give a damage estimate but predicted it would run into the millions of dollars. In Ottawa, Justice Department officials ordered a full investigation.

Dear Abby....

It's A Myth, Honey! He's Overbearing, Too!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I heard somewhere that if you throw a cat up in the air it will always land on its feet. Well, something went wrong because I threw our cat up in the air and she landed on her head! She just laid there like she was dead, and I thought she was for a minute, but then she got up and ran off. Will you please tell me who started that lie about cats? I thank you.

JANIE JUNE, (age 9)
DEAR JANIE: I don't know who started it, but I hope nobody else believes it. And if you hear that one about cats having nine lives, please don't try to prove it on your cat.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a young aspiring business executive with a large well-known firm. We would like to establish good relations with his co-workers and bosses, but what is proper? We have recently been transferred to a new community and are much younger than most of the executives and their wives. Should I invite his bosses to dinner? Or would a Sunday brunch be in order? How about a dessert and coffee evening? I don't want to appear pushy but I'd like to help my husband advance in his business by helping him socially.

YOUNG WIFE
DEAR WIFE: You would be wise to sit back and wait for the wives of his co-workers to invite you first. Then, return their invitations with similar ones. Don't initiate social contacts with the "bosses" or you'll be labeled "eager beavers" — and that's fatal, both in business and the social swim.

DEAR ABBY: What has happened to the manners of our young people? I have seen unbelievable rudeness displayed by children in the presence of their parents, and not one word of reproach is said. When I was a child, all my parents had to do was give me a certain look and I shut up and acted right, or I caught it.

MITCH
DEAR MITCH: Perhaps our young people aren't able to see the "looks" of their disapproving parents. Blame it on poor vision — probably the result of too much television.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOYCE:
Don't buy that story. "Where there is smoke there is NOT always fire." There could possibly be just someone with a burning desire to start trouble.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Mrs. Smith Illustrates Talk For Altrusa Dinner Meeting

Mrs. Irl Smith, chairman of the Pampa Altrusa Club's information committee, used a watch to illustrate her talk before the club at a dinner meeting held at 7 p.m. Monday in Coronado Inn.

In the illustration, Mrs. Smith compared the watch to the Altrusa Club. She said the stem could be Altrusa International; the mainspring, the local club; the watch's face, the face the club presents to the public; the watch case, the club's motto of efficiency, patriotism and service; the officers and club members were compared to the watch's hands and the watch wheels to the club committees.

Miss Rosemary Lawlor and Mrs. Mary Wilson entertained the club by singing the official Altrusa song, "Into the Light," by Gena Branscombe. They were accompanied by Mrs. Fidelia Yoder.

Mrs. Clyde Vanderberg gave the international news flash: "The economy of Germany is improving as gauged by the height of the heels on the women's heels."

Mrs. Eli Ethridge won the door prize, a binder for Altrusa magazines. It was reported that Mrs. Lorene Locke represented Altrusa at the City Traffic Commission meeting Tuesday.

Plate favors served to the members were small doll mirrors with a verse attached. "Mirror, mirror, tell me true. As our programs we review, does the reflection you reveal show Altrusa's 'ideal' made 'Real'?"

Algiers

(Continued From Page 1) Oran said Sunday night that a decision on whether to follow the cease-fire ordered by the OAS command in Algiers would be announced sometime today.

The truce formally went into effect at midnight and by dawn there had been no OAS command raids in either Algiers or Oran.

The last known plastic bomb explosions went off in Philippeville at 4:35 p.m. Sunday.

Two weeks of intensive negotiations between Moslem and European leaders came to a dramatic climax Sunday with separate announcements by each side.

The National Liberation Front, (FLN) destined to be the dominant force after the July 1 independence referendum, announced a general amnesty for Europeans and a promise that Europeans would be included in the future Algerian police forces.

The Europeans promised to cease their "scorched earth" demolitions and attacks which have killed and wounded thousands of Moslems since the beginning of the year and to work for the success of an Algerian future.

The principle figures in the negotiations were Jean - Jacques Susini, 28-year-old intellectual who is an avowed fascist and one of the most dedicated men of the OAS, and Dr. Chawki Mostefai, FLN representative on the Provisional Executive which currently is running Algeria.

Graham Ends Crusade With A Warning

CHICAGO (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham Sunday ended his 18-day crusade in the "town that Billy Sunday couldn't close down" with a rally which attracted 116,000 persons in 95-degree heat. It was believed the largest religious revival meeting in U.S. history. The crowd, which filled the 92,000 permanent seats at giant Soldier Field and left other thousands standing inside and outside the U-shaped arena, boosted the 18-day attendance figure to 703,000.

More than 200 persons were overcome by the heat and Graham's aides sent out a special plea for doctors and nurses to care for them.

Some 2,300 marched forward at Graham's invitation to make "decisions for Christ," bringing the total for the crusade to 17,130.

Graham appealed to the assembled thousands to "keep burning in your hearts the spiritual fire my Chicago revival has ignited. Today should not be thought of as the end of the crusade, but only the beginning."

He warned Americans that they are "not right with God" and foresaw a Rome-like decline for the nation if its citizens fail to repent and reform.

"The signs that we must make a choice are all about us. The historian Gibbon said Rome fell because of its high divorce rate and its taxes. You know about America's divorce problem, about the movie stars who seem to believe that the more husbands or wives they have the more of a box office attraction they will be," he said.

Graham said that a nation "never falls until it starts to decay at the center, at the home, the very core of our society."

He warned that churches "must repent of their faithlessness, their strife, their worldliness, their bickering, pride, malice, backbiting and their intolerance of each other."

Graham spoke out against high taxation. "The average American is now so used to deficit spending He cannot possibly realize what is happening."

Dial THE miles through the Magic of DIRECT DISTANCE DIALING ...coming to Pampa on JULY 23! DIRECT Distance Dialing will be introduced to telephone users in Pampa on July 23. At that time, you will be able to dial your calls to other cities direct, through the magic of Direct Distance Dialing, known as "DDD." Fast - Convenient - Easy DDD is fast, convenient, easy to use. To make a DDD call, just dial "1," then a 3-figure area code number for the city you are calling, then the telephone number... that's all. For example, suppose you want to call Capitol 7-3744 in Houston. You'll find Houston listed in the front of your telephone directory with the area code number 713. So you'll dial: 1...7-1-3...C-A-7-3-7-4-4 "Long Distance" Area Code Telephone Number ...and you will then hear the Houston telephone ring, almost instantly! For technical reasons, DDD will be available only to customers here with one and two-party telephones. PAMPA will be one of the first cities in West Texas to get DDD, and we are glad to bring this new service here. It is an important step in our continuing program to make your telephone service faster, more efficient, and more enjoyable than ever. GEORGE NEWBERRY, Manager

Nicklaus Wins Playoff Over Palmer For Title

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, a surprise winner over Arnold Palmer in a tense playoff for the U.S. Open golf championship today set his sights on the British Open.

First, though, he is going to go fishing for a week.

"I'm tired, awfully tired," said the 22-year-old blond better from Ohio after he beat the favored Palmer by three strokes over the rugged acres of the Oakmont Country Club Course Sunday.

"I'll play in the Western Open after that week's rest and then go to Britain for their Open. Just what I'll do after that, I don't know, but I do know that I'm going back to Ohio State next fall," added Nicklaus, who has two quarters to go for his business administration degree.

If he doesn't return to the tournament trail for a long time it will be all right with his fellow golfers for they have a strong feeling that Nicklaus is going to become the new scourge of the fairways.

He is only 22 and probably will be a good bet to win the U.S. Open for years to come.

The way he closed out Palmer on a hot, sunny day before a gallery in excess of 10,000 showed he has the talents to dominate the game just as did such immortals as Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead—and in recent years—Palmer.

He beat Palmer by three shots when Arnie's putter, which had stuttered throughout the tournament, failed him again.

"I just wasn't putting, that's all there was to it," Palmer said after he lost out in his bid for a new golfing grand slam. He had won the Masters in April, and was gunning to add the U.S. and British Open and PGA titles to that one.

But it wasn't in the cards—for this year at least.

"I keep trying, though, so long as I play the game," Palmer prosed.

For a time Sunday, it looked like the golden boy from Pennsylvania was going to put on one of his patented finishes.

Tyrling from the start, he was four strokes behind at one time. But with birdies on the ninth, 11th and 12th holes, he closed the gap to two strokes. Then he bogeyed the 13th hole and never got back into the running.

Nicklaus shot an even par 71, within 35 and 38, while Palmer had nines of 38 and 36 for a 144-hole total for the 6,964-yard course is 36-35-71.

Palmer, with a trio of three-putts, had a total of 36 putts in the playoff round. In all, he had 11 three-putts during the tournament and for the five rounds had a total of 174 putts.

Nicklaus, on the other hand, putted brilliantly.

"I missed only one putt within five feet," he said. He had no three-putts in the playoff round.

Nicklaus, whom Palmer affectionately calls "the big dude," outscored the long hitting Palmer on 9 of the 14 long holes in the playoff, hitting the rough only twice while Palmer caught it five times. And when you hit the rough at Oakmont, you are in trouble.

Nicklaus, the youngest golfer to win the Open since Jones did it at the age of 21 in 1923, went ahead on the very first hole when Palmer missed his approach shot and wound up with a bogey.

He went two strokes ahead on the 544-yard par five fourth when he put his wedge third four feet from the cup and sank the putt while Palmer parred the hole.

It looked like it was going to be a runaway when Nicklaus birdied the 183-yard par three sixth while Palmer bogeyed. Nicklaus put his six iron tee shot six feet from the cup and ran down the putt. Palmer three-putted from 30 feet.

Palmer got one of those strokes back when he sank a three foot putt for a birdie on the long par five ninth. He got another stroke back when he put his seven iron second seven feet from the cup on the par four 372-yard 11th and sank the putt.

Another birdie on the 596-yard par five 12th left him only one shot back. On this hole he wedged his third shot two feet from the pin and rapped in the putt.

Nicklaus went two strokes up again on the par three 161-yard 13th when Palmer three putted from 40 feet.

South Golf Meet Will Start Today

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—A field of 182 golfers, including some of the South's finest, was scheduled to tee off today on a windy, ocean-bounded course in the 58th annual Southern Amateur golf tournament.

The golfers, including several former Walker Cup players, will play this year's tourney on the Ellinor Village Country Club course, often swept by stiff winds from the Atlantic Ocean which flanks it.

The field will be headed by defending champion Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C., who recently won the North-South Amateur championship.

A former Walker Cup player, Patton won last year at the Holston Hills Country Club in Knoxville, Tenn., and has shown equally good form so far this year.

Dale Morey, another Walker Cup player from Morganton, is also registered for this year's tourney. He has Western and Southern titles under his belt and was runner-up in a U.S. Open.

Other top players registered for the tournament include Dudley Wyson, last year's U.S. Amateur runner-up from Tyler, Tex., and former Walker Cup player Charlie Smith of Gastonia, N.C., a previous winner in the Southern and North-South tourneys.

Indians Are Still On Warpath In AL

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians may not have the New York Yankees "on the run" but even Manager Ralph Houk admits "it's a slow retreat."

It could turn out to be an understatement of the year because Sunday was perhaps the greatest baseball day in Cleveland since World War II. It was the day on which the Indians completed a four-game sweep of the Yankees with 6-1 and 6-3 victories, surged two games ahead in the American League race and proved they're solid pennant contenders.

"If we get some consistency in our pitching, we'll be tough all the way," said Manager Mel McGaha. "This team will score runs and it's also a good defensive team."

Dick Donovan and Pedro Ramos both acquitted in trades, treated 70,918 fans at Cleveland—the largest major league turnout of the season—to a day that warmed the hearts of millions of "Yankee haters." Donovan, aided by consecutive second-inning homers by Jerry Kindall, Bubba Phillips and Jim Mahoney, went 6 1-3 innings to raise his record to 10-2, and then Ramos, helped by Willie Kirkland's two-run homer, went 6 2-3 innings for his fourth victory.

The Kansas City Athletics downed the Minnesota Twins, 10-6; the Los Angeles Angels scored 5-3 and 6-3 victories over the Chicago White Sox; the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Washington Senators, 4-3, and the Boston Red Sox won, 5-0, after an 8-5 loss to the Detroit Tigers in the other American League Sunday action.

The Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Houston Colts, 6-2; the San Francisco Giants defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Milwaukee Braves, 7-3; the Philadelphia Phillies rapped the Cincinnati Reds, 7-2, and the Chicago Cubs swept the New York Mets, 8-7 and 4-3 in National League games.

Norm Siebern hit two homers and drove in three runs to lead a 12-hit Kansas City attack that Harmon Killebrew and Lenny brought Dave Wickersham his eighth win against two defeats, including by Bo Belinsky and Jack Green homered for Minnesota.

Leon Wagner's 17th and 18th homers and excellent relief pitching enabled the Angels to break a four-game losing streak. Joe Horlen and Johnny Buschard suffered the losses.

Jerry Adair, hitting only 213 at game-time, had three singles and knocked in three runs for the Orioles to offset homers by Joe Hicks and Chuck Hinton. Hoyt Wilhelm stopped the Senators on one hit for the last three innings to win his third game and Bennie Daniels suffered his eighth loss.

Rookie Purnal Goldy hit two homers as the Tigers snapped a seven-game losing streak but the Red Sox bounced back for a split behind the seven-hit pitching of Ike Delock. Ed Bressoud's two-run triple and homers by Pete Runnels and Frank Malzone were the big blows for the Red Sox.

Tom Davis' three-run homer capped a five-run sixth-inning rally that brought the Dodgers from behind and snapped their three-game losing streak. Ed Roubicek shut out the Colts for 3 1-3 innings to win his fourth game without a loss.

WRESTLER DIES

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI)—Johnny Demchuck, a Los Angeles wrestler well known throughout the Pacific Northwest, died during the weekend, following a match with Oliver Winrush. Demchuck, 48, succumbed, apparently from a heart seizure, while grappling with Winrush Saturday night. He was rushed to a hospital but was dead on arrival.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Individual Responsibility

The great moral advantage of a philosophy of freedom resides in the fact that when men are free, responsibility rests where it should.

By nature, each man controls his own energy. Hence, by nature, each man is responsible for his own thoughts and actions. When freedom is the watchword in any country and when the watchword is more than an empty symbol based on a great prior heritage, responsibility descends upon each man for all that he does, whether good or bad.

The man who is constructive and productive, who governs himself and provides useful goods or services, is a man who is hailed with joy and who receives the credit that is his due.

And the man who is destructive and slothful, who refuses to govern himself, but permits his energies to be wasted or channeled into harmful pursuits, has only himself to blame and the blame descends upon him, as it should.

In a very real sense, the erosion of freedom we have experienced in this country has, more than any other thing, destroyed the natural fact of individual responsibility.

The man who, with genius, makes great achievement and hence, should be the recipient of large gains, is the victim of abuse and of robbery. He becomes the villain and what he has rightfully gained is taken from him for the reward of others.

There can be no possible result from his kind of thing other than the result we are experiencing. Men are fearful of displaying genius. To draw attention to themselves by virtue of unusual success is to draw attention from the looters who will victimize them and leave them ravaged and ruined.

Conversely, the man who elects to make little effort, if any, is construed to be a victim, not of his own failures, but of "society." It will be charged that the only reason he is not receiving all the goodies others have produced is because they have wrongfully deprived him of what is rightfully his.

What will the result of this kind of sophistry be? It will be such that men will be attracted to non-production and to a life of consumption and useless waste of time and potential. Why not? Thru this questionable doorway lie the rewards to be had. At the base of this whole philosophy is a false sense of altruism.

We imagine that by making things easier for the ne'er-do-anythings, we are being kind. Essentially, we are being cruel. We are removing the natural incentives which inspire men to make maximum effort. We are replacing these incentives with a false logic that society owes everyone a living simply because everyone is a human being.

There is probably no better way to reduce values in human life than this false placement of false values upon human life. If there is one thing of which we have a surplus in this great land, it is a surplus in non-productive human beings. We're going to have to learn before it is too late that whatever our feelings of sympathy may be, a human being who is a burden upon society and upon himself is NOT deserving of the best that can be had.

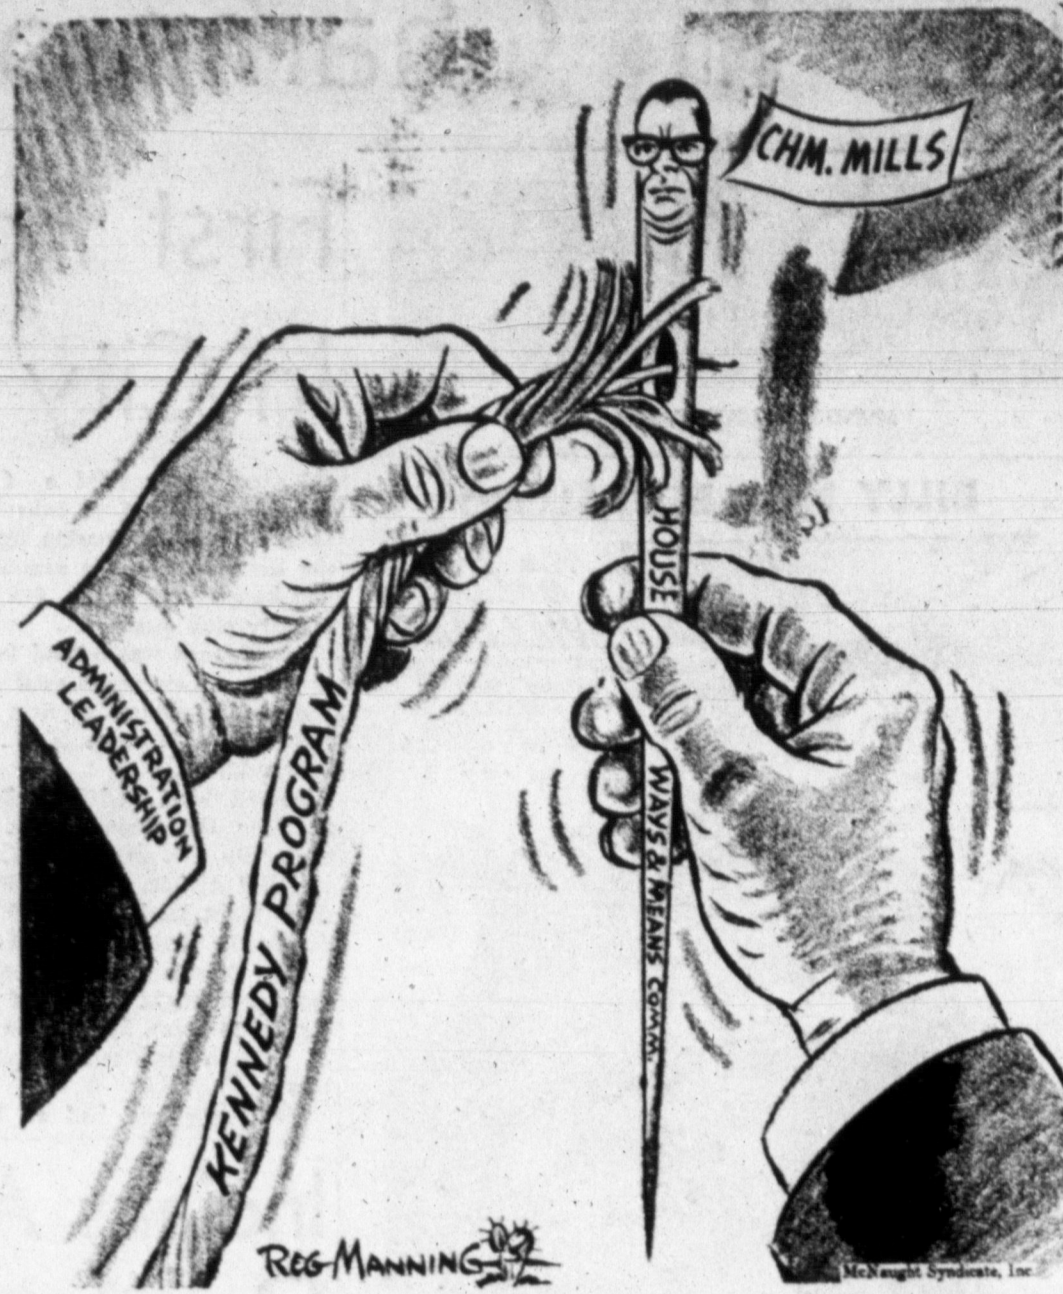

Such a man is without merit. He merely occupies space and does his bit to consume what others have produced. He is a parasite, despite his humanoid appearance.

But what we do when we encourage him by unearned gratuities is to make him feel that he is justified in his attitude of non-productivity. And in this we injure him virtually beyond repair. It is not just that we injure the productive by direct appropriation of their wealth and their talents. We injure the recipients of these same things by making them dependent, not on their own energies, but on the energies of others.

And this, whatever it is called, is not a kindness. The fact is that Russia, in the zeal of Lenin, attempted to install a full - scaled socialist program of sharing. Within two years the program was abandoned. Today, in Russia, the people are WORKING. The government had to go about-face and provide a system of artificial incentives. It had to create a kind of responsibility, artificial and cumbersome to it may be.

The Russian government abandoned both socialism and communism and adopted an imperialistic state capitalism. But in this country we are still toying with Marx's dictum: "from each according to ability; to each according to his need."

Top Level Policy Dispute Vigorous Over Overseas Control of Tactical Atomic Weapons

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — A sharp nuclear policy dispute has developed within the Kennedy Administration over how far to go in furnishing U.S. ground forces with tactical atomic weapons.

A powerful group of State and Defense Department officials, headed by Dr. Walt Rostow, chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Council, are urging the President to tighten his control over these weapons by keeping their nuclear warheads in the U.S. except in case of war.

They take the position that these tactical A-weapons, because of their growing destructive power, would provoke a general nuclear war if used in limited hostilities with the Sino-Soviet bloc.

To bar this possibility of nuclear escalation, they want these A-weapons kept out of the hands of U.S. military commanders overseas. Eventually, the Rostow group would like to see the U.S. nuclear arsenal limited to only the larger, strategic nuclear weapons.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, headed by General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, are vigorously opposing placing these new restrictions on the military services' possession of tax money coming into it at all costs. It will have to refund more money. And, in order that it will not have to fire thousands of utterly useless bureaucrats, it will undoubtedly have to borrow more money.

Borrowing money is the normal way a government embarks upon a course of spiraling inflation. So, as a result of Mr. Kennedy's rash statements concerning business, even the people who sold out their stocks to retrieve their fortunes in cash, will have little comfort.

For the dollars they got for their stock will purchase far less in a short while, if the government continues on its present "bit in the teeth" course.

The entire matter could be cured if the government would begin the long overdue overhauling of its monstrous operations with the view of reducing its powers and its ability to enlarge. Since this is unlikely, one can anticipate that increased taxation and/or increased borrowing by government will trigger a further reaction in the general market place.

Firms which might have made dividends may not make enough profits to pay dividends. Firms which were planning further expansion so that new jobs would have been provided will now quite likely retrench and view their own operations in a further light of skepticism.

If this reaction proceeds any further there may be a decline in employment, with additional taxes called for to meet new welfare payments. And so it goes.

Mr. Kennedy's brash behavior is the worst thing that has happened to America since the Truman administration's policing adventure in Korea.

Senator Henry Jackson, D-Wash., a ranking committee member, has asked Defense, State, and Atomic Energy officials to brief the committee on this administration's policy in the use, development, and handling of these tactical weapons.

Members of the Joint Chiefs will be invited to testify in private session.

Note: President Kennedy ruled out the shipment of tactical atomic weapons to U.S. forces stationed in Thailand.

SOCIAL WHIRL — The First Lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, are moving closer to the White House. Having sold their large Virginia estate, Merrywood, on the Potomac Palisades, they have bought a four-story red-brick mansion for $160,000 in historic Georgetown — only a few blocks from where the President and his wife lived when he was a Senator.

The Auchincloss' new home was erected in 1874 by the late Dr. Armistead Peter, grandson of the husband of George Washington's stepdaughter Nelli Custis. This year's birthday party for Queen Elizabeth, given annually by the British Ambassador, was perfect in every respect. The weather was ideal, one of Washington's rare bright, crisp and sparkling days; the traditional giant strawberries and thick whipped cream were ecstatic, the champagne was vintage, and just about everybody who was anybody showed up. It was outstandingly the most successful Queen's birthday celebration in years.

Bipartisanship has made its way into the social arena. To celebrate the 35th anniversary of the Capitol Radio Engineering Institute, its founder, Eugene Reitzke, gave a dinner party in honor of the Senate's two floor leaders — Senators Mike Mansfield, R-Mont., and Everett Dirksen, R-Ill. Also on hand was Vice President Lyndon Johnson, who was so besieged by admirers that he was kept rooted to one spot during most of his stay.

Taped native music and native delicacies featured the Malayan embassy's garden party for the King's birthday. Both the music and food were exotic, but everyone seemed to enjoy them.

Mrs. Robert McNamara, wife of the bustling Defense Secretary, displayed an unknown talent at a dinner-dance by Deputy Defense Secretary and Mrs. Roswell Gilpatrick. Mrs. McNamara danced a solo hula. While she didn't wear a hula skirt, her performance was quite professional and was exuberantly applauded.

Turkish Ambassador Usakligil, who is being shifted to Paris, gave a farewell party with a difference. Instead of the usual solemn and formal affair, his farewell was lively and gay, with a dance orchestra, much jesting and singing.

This year's annual ball of Washington's Opera Society took place in an unusual setting — the beautiful new embassy of Iran. Starting at 10:30, some 400 members and guests dined and danced until the early hours to the music of a New York orchestra. Champagne flowed freely and a rollicking time was had by all.

Mrs. Gwen Cafritz, irrepressible "society queen," appeared at a reception attired in a deep rose and pink watered silk print by Balmain, with a matching coat. To startled guests, the ambitious hostess beamingly explained she was going to several other parties and wouldn't have time to rush home to change.

PROTESTANT CHURCH-RELATED SCHOOL ENROLLMENT ACCELERATED (Christian School Life)

During the first half century of our nation's history there were no public schools. The Constitution of the U.S.A. pre-supposed a private school system. It was not until Horace Mann introduced the Prussian system of education some fifty years after the founding of our country, that the private school system began to yield ground to State supported schools.

A public school implies a public school state tax. The first tax-supported state school appeared in 1839 in the State of Massachusetts. That was more than fifty years after the founding of our country. It was not until about the middle of the Eighteenth century that the public schools began to replace the private school. In the beginning of the present century the public schools were high monopolized the educational scene.

In 1920, only 7 pupils of every 100 went to a non-public school. In 1946 — 26 years later — 10 pupils of every 100 went to non-public schools.

In 1950, 13 pupils out of every 100 went to a non-public school. In 1960, 16 pupils of every 100 went to non-public schools.

According to the UPI (United Press International) the recent increase in school enrollment was particularly evident in Protestant schools. The per cent increase during the period 1945 to 1960 was as follows: In these 15 years the public schools increased 68 per cent; the Roman Catholics increased 110 per cent; while the Protestant increase was 600 per cent.

was above 16 per cent of the total in elementary schools and 11.8 per cent in secondary schools. Included in these percentages are church-related and other non-public schools. This is to say that 84 per cent of elementary school pupils are enrolled in public schools and 16 per cent in private schools. On the secondary school level approximately 88 per cent of the pupils are in public schools and approximately 12 per cent are in private schools.

These figures show a remarkable increase in private school interest in our country. For many decades the nonpublic school enrollment was only 8 or 9 per cent. It was not until the last couple decades that a marked increase in private school enrollment took place. During these last two decades the Supreme Court of our country has repeatedly passed laws which denied the teaching of religion in the public schools.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It took television five years to finally air Sunday night's "Show of the Week." An H. H. Wells fantasy about a race of isolated, blind people who distrust those with vision. It was worth waiting for.

Entitled "The Richest Man in Bogota," and starring Lee Marvin, it is rewarding not only as an exciting horror tale, but as a love story and a uniquely timely commentary on societies which maintain fear and hatred by preventing contact with the outside world.

Sunday night's offering, from a short story which Wells called "The Country of the Blind," was turned down by a car sponsor more than five years ago. But producer-director Ralph Nelson, who also guided Rod Sterling's memorable teleplay "Requiem For A Heavyweight," saved the Frank Gabrielson script.

And NBC-TV and DuPont, the sponsor, finally okayed it after the title change was made so it would be more palatable after a Father's Day dinner. The plot is a good adventure story in itself: A South American prospector (Marvin), armed with a geiger counter, sets out from Bogota, Columbia, in search of uranium in the mountains near his home. In a spectacular avalanche scene that seemed to burst through the small television screen, he is swept away to the hidden "Valley of the Damned," where the eyeless people discover him.

He is considered a strange and wild creature by the sightless ones, who believe there is no other world but their own. He is threatened with death unless he conforms to their beliefs and promises to respect the mountain boundaries as the limits of all being. To survive, he conforms but plans to escape.

A native girl, beautifully played by Miriam Colon, falls in love with him and begins to believe his tales of the outside world are not so wild. She yearns to see for the first time. They run away, and she is killed by a native. He escapes. In a surprise ending, he is shown years later as a wealthy man in Bogota who has devoted his life to helping those in the isolated valley and has become blind himself.

Beyond the adventure level, the plot had overtones of George Orwell's futuristic horror story of a closed, brainwashed society, "1984." The natives do not understand such words as "light," "see" and "out." A history written by their ancestors is useless because they cannot read.

The way to cure Marvin, they believe, is to blind him also. They have, in other words, made their defect into a self-righteous belief.

In a classically staged escape scene, a native leader says: "Sound the call for silence." If everyone else is silent, those who protest can be heard easily and singled out.

Marvin was a powerful representation of the universal hero: The man who fights to maintain his sanity amid a blindly herded populace, who conforms only by choice. The drama, impressively produced and using a thin latex material to cover the actors' eyes was an uplifting plea for the power of personal courage, faith and love.
