Nixon Will Visit Moscow May 22

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will leave May 22 for Moscow to hold summit talks with Soviet leaders, the White House announced today.

Mrs. Nixon will accompany the President as she did when her husband, then vice president in the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, first visited Moscow.

It was on that trip that Nixon engaged in his historic "kitchen debate" with then Soviet Premier, the late Nikita Khrushchev.

The brief statement announcing the departure date said:

As had been announced previously, Nixon's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers will accompany him on the trip.

Nixon, the White House said, will discuss with the Soviets "all major issues with a view toward further improving bilateral relations and enhancing the prospects for world peace."

The White House statement was issued simultaneously here and in Moscow.

Nixon said last Oct. 12 he would go to Moscow after his historic trip last month to mainland China.

The White House gave no indication as to the length of Nixon's stay in the Russian capital. However, it is expected the duration will be about the same as it was in China—one week.

Grand Jury Returns 13 Indictments

In a marathon session yesterday the Gray County grand jury returned 13 indictments against 15 persons. Offences dated from June, 1971 to the current month.

Jerome and Charles Bradshaw, acting together, were indicted for armed robbery by assault in which some $370 was taken from James W. Spencer.

Tom Bachelor and Mide DeWitt were named in three counts charging them with the theft of a total of 24 hogs during November, 1971.

There were five separate counts of possession of drugs, namely marijuana, placed against Ronnie Blair Campbell, David Michael Whiteley, Paul Jean LaChapelle, Robert Scott Edminster and Peter J. McMahan Jr.

G.T. "Red" Sparks was named in the theft of a saddle from John T. Sims Jr. in December, 1971, while Robert Lewis Sheppard, also known as Lewis Dunbar was indicted for burglary of Property belonging to Harold Burreis in November, 1971.

Jack Edward Milkut faces a count of removing mortgaged property from the state.

William Jackson Densmore was indicted for indecent exposure to a child.

The grand jury completed its work in one day.

5 Pampa School Delegates Attend TSTA Convention

Five members of the Pampa school system are in San Antonio today through Saturday for the ninety-third annual convention of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Mrs. Karen Slate, president of the Pampa segment of TSTA and Judy Dennis are delegates to the convocation while Mrs. Helen Warner, Bill Potts and Dr. James Malone, superintendent are attending.

They are a part of the ten thousand Texas educators expected in the Alamo city for the convocation.

Some 1,400 of these are delegates who will conduct business sessions Friday night and Saturday morning.

A highlight of tonight's opening general session will be presentation of TSTA's 1972 "School Bell" awards to 23 Texas newspapers, radio and television stations.

President To Discuss Bus On TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today President Nixon will go on radio and television at 9 p.m. CST today to outline his recommendations on the school busing issue.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon will speak for about 10 minutes to outline recommendations which will be contained in a formal message to be sent to the Congress Friday.

The White House said earlier Nixon would not go on public television or make any speech on his recommendations. Ziegler said the President changed his mind after finalizing details of his recommendation at Camp David, Md.

Ziegler said results of Tuesday's Florida primary election in which voters overwhelmingly endorsed a constitutional amendment against busing and in which antibusing candidate George Wallace won the Democratic preferential voting had nothing to do with the President's decision to make a television speech on busing.

Nixon went to his Camp David retreat Tuesday night to work on details of the legislative package which he will propose to Congress Friday and a general statement on his position on busing. He conferred there with top level domestic advisers.

Ziegler said Nixon would return to the White House this afternoon to put finishing touches on his speech and to broadcast from the White House.

Nixon has said on several occasions that he is opposed in principle to the use of massive busing for the sake of achieving racial balance in public schools.

Ziegler said Nixon was using an address to the nation "to put into perspective the complexities of a problem that the President feels is a major problem."

Concert Membership Campaign Successful

Officials of the Pampa Community Concert Association today expressed appreciation to the people of Pampa for the quick response to this year's membership campaign which came to a close yesterday afternoon.

The drive ended several days ahead of schedule. The 1500-seat capacity of the city's new civic auditorium had been completely sold out at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Association officials in charge of the campaign headquarters office in Coronado Inn had to notify drive workers to accept no more membership applications. Refunds of membership fees for the 1972-73 season had to be made in many instances because of the sell-out.

A waiting list has been set up for persons whose applications had to be turned down.

Names on the list will be eligible to obtain memberships relinquished because of holders moving from the city or other reasons.

Mrs. Raymond Harrah, association president, has called a meeting of the concert board for 5 p.m. Friday in the Chamber of Commerce conference room, Hughes Bldg.

Mrs. Marguerite Maddox, New York representative of Columbia Artists, Inc., will meet with the board to assist in selection of a fourth concert attraction for the coming season. Three concerts already have been booked.

Mutscher, Two Aides Given 5-Year Probated Sentences

Prices Opposes Plan To Raise Debt Limits

WASHINGTON — In remarks prepared for the House of Representatives today, Congressman Bob Price of Pampa called for the defeat of legislation to increase the public debt limit.

Price pointed out that since 1964, the Congress has raised the debt limit 21 times from a total of $275 billion to the current figure of $430 billion.

"In just the past 10 years alone," Price said, "our federal government will have spent $150 billion that it has had to borrow, and this increase will cost us nearly $8 billion annually in additional interest payments."

Congressman Price emphasized that continuous government deficit spending amounts to little more than a hidden tax on all Americans due to an erosion of the purchasing power of the dollar.

"When our federal government continually spends more than it collects in revenue, these deficits inescapably generate inflation. We are only kidding ourselves if we think we can get away without paying the price for deficit financing—inflation has been termed the cruellest form of taxation because it falls hardest on those least able to pay, and there is no escape for them," he said.

Blaming government deficit financing, Price stated that consumer prices have risen an average of 5 per cent annually over the past four years, which has had the same effect as a hidden 5 per cent national sales tax.

Price warned that unchecked government deficits erode the confidence of our people in their elected leaders, and that the nation "cannot continue an infinitum on this irresponsible tax."

First Baptist Pastor Resigns

Members of the First Baptist Church, in regular business session, accepted the resignation of the Rev. Dan Cameron as pastor.

Rev. Cameron had been minister at the church for about six years. He had been quite active throughout his career as an evangelist. He was, in fact, on a three-week leave of absence for a series of meetings when he tendered his resignation to the board of deacons Monday. That panel recommended to the membership at the regular business meeting Wednesday night that the resignation be accepted.

The Rev. C. Gordon Bayless, a veteran retired minister and former pastor of the church was scheduled to preach in Cameron's absence. While no official action was taken, it is believed he will be named interim pastor until a pulp committee can be formed to seek a new minister for the congregation.

After the first feelings of shock gradually wore off, officials, legislators and would-be legislators began to think of the future and what could be done to prevent future scandals.

STOP AND THINK—A wheelchair can be a lonely place, as it looks here in the foyer of Pampa High School while students are in class. Put in its place by a group of students, the wheelchair has a sign reading, "The wheelchair looks nice now but... how would you like to spend the rest of your life in it? Give to Muscular Dystrophy." The students hope to make true the sign above the door, "Best in the West," as they seek to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Fund from concerned people. (Staff Photo By John Ebling)

Mutscher Conviction Sends Shock Waves Across State

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) Scandal rocked the old pink granite Capitol Wednesday and the echoes were felt everywhere along the political campaign trail.

"It's a sad day. It hurts," said a women state employe, near tears.

"A disgrace and humiliation to the people of Texas," said Rep. Price Daniel Jr., Liberty, of the Abilene convictions of Speaker Gus Mutscher and two top legislative aides for conspiracy to accept a bribe.

"That jury decision just the same as makes anyone seeking reelection who voted for the banking bills a part of the conspiracy," said one Capitol official, anonymously.

"The unsavory smell of corruption hangs like a rancid blanket over Texas," said Mrs. Frances Farenthold, Democratic candidate for governor and a political foe of Mutscher frequently in the 1971 legislature.

After the first feelings of shock gradually wore off, officials, legislators and would-be legislators began to think of the future and what could be done to prevent future scandals.

Old timers recall that similar reform plans were made after the veterans land and the insurance company scandals of the mid-1950s and the legislative bribery conviction of 1959.

Despite these spectacular trials and probes Texas still does not have a strict code of ethics or financial disclosure law that makes state officials, employes and legislators tell where and how they get their money.

Gov. Preston Smith led the reaction comment Wednesday with a simple statement that "all of us in state government must now put our shoulders to the wheel and push harder to find solutions to the pressing problems facing our state in the coming special session and the months ahead."

Smith has said he would make a strong code of ethics bill a subject for the next special legislative session.

Mrs. Farenthold called on Smith to call an immediate special session so the House could reorganize itself, so the Texas senate could make a full study of the senate's handling of the banking bills and so legislators could consider "a strong credible code of ethics including full financial disclosure."

Rep. Menton Murray, Harlingen, chairman of the House

General Investigating Committee, said his group would report to the special session, when it is called, on its probe of the Sharpstown scandal.

Rep. Tom Moore, Waco, said the Abilene convictions would have "a salutary effect on the next legislature... It will give impetus to those who are now running on the basis of changing the House rules. When you give that much power to one man (as speaker) you are just asking for corruption, the temptation is so great."

"Now that it is a matter of record that a violation of law and a disregard for ethics were involved in the Sharpstown scandals, we must hold the entire leadership responsible for failing to maintain the proper checks and balances essential to a democracy," said Dolph Briscoe, Democratic candidate for governor.

Rep. DeWitt Hale, Corpus Christi, a friend of the speaker, said Mutscher's conviction "adds a new sense of urgency" to efforts to name a speaker for the special session who will not be a candidate for speaker at the 1973 regular session. Hale has been mentioned as a possible interim speaker.

Leading contenders for the 1973 speakership are Reps. Daniel and Rayford Price of Palestine.

State Republican Chairman George Willeford of Austin said the convictions "are really an indictment and conviction of the one-party system. One party states end up in corruption, no matter how good or bad the people involved are."

Bill Hobby of Houston, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, said the damage to the political image of the state is already done.

Twenty-five or more floats, a dozen bands or so, drill teams by the score and various marching units and bands are expected to highlight the hour-long parade at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Other events include the Old Fiddlers' Reunion and the Donegal Beard Contest.

Defense Lawyers Say They Will File Appeal

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Court Judge J. Neil Daniel sentenced House Speaker Gus Mutscher and his two aides to five years probated sentences in the state penitentiary.

The defense had asked that the jury be dismissed and that the judge assess punishment for Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Mutscher administrative aide Rush McGinty.

Chief Prosecutor Bob Smith said he would have no objection in view of the fact that a "coconspirator" in the case, Houston promoter Frank Sharp, had been given a probated sentence in Houston on two minor banking violation charges.

"Certainly his (Sharp's) character is no better than the character of these defendants," Smith said.

"The interest of justice will be served if these defendants are given probated sentences."

Sharp was given a probated sentence and a $3,000 fine in exchange for immunity from prosecution in the stock fraud scandal and for his testimony for the prosecution.

Mutscher was asked if he would resign his office as speaker.

"I have a high regard for the office. I'll have an announcement to make in the next few days," Mutscher said.

Mutscher's attorney, Frank Maloney, said a few minutes later that all of the defendants would hold a news conference this morning.

Approximately 50 character witnesses for the defense were in the courtroom, including about 30 state legislators.

Their testimony was not required in view of the state's failure to object to the defense request for probation. Lawyers for all three defendants said they will still appeal the verdict.

Judge Daniel asked the defendants to stand, and said:

The court assesses your punishment at five years in the state penitentiary." He then probated the sentences.

"I think you deserve the same consideration as any other defendant," the judge said.

Defense lawyer Richard Haynes told the judge before sentence was passed that probation should be granted because "the purpose of confinement is to punish the accused and to prevent someone who might be a danger to society" from remaining free.

Haynes indicated the defendants already had been punished by the guilty verdict.

Defense lawyer A. L. "Dusty" Rhodes representing McGinty, described his client as "a young man from Abilene who has lived a very clean and illustrious life."

The convictions come right in the middle of the political season and are expected to have considerable impact on several statewide and legislative races, particularly those in which nonoffice holders hold themselves out as so-called reform candidates.

Mutscher's head swayed slightly as the guilty verdict was read. A few minutes later, he said one word: "Unbelievable," and sat down on a front row bench in the courtroom and cried.

His wife, Donna, Miss America of 1964, stood beside him, her hand on his shoulder and then she too sat down and sobbed.

Mutscher's father, Gus F. Mutscher Sr. and Mrs. Shannon also cried on the same bench.

Shannon put his arm around his wife to comfort her. He remained dry-eyed.

McGinty quickly left the courthouse after the verdict and told newsmen outside in a loud voice: "I am not guilty."

Asked for comment immediately after the verdict, Shannon's lawyer, Joe Shannon (no relation), said: "I don't have a Goddamned word to say. Nothing."

His wife turned and glowered at newsmen. "I just want to stand right here and watch the vultures, this bunch of lying newspapermen," she said.

Speaker Declares He Is Innocent Of Conspiracy

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Speaker Gus Mutscher, flanked by his wife and his attorneys, declared Thursday he is innocent of bribery conspiracy and "in time will be completely vindicated."

Mutscher emerged from the courtroom after he and two aides were assessed probated five-year sentences.

"God knows I am innocent," he read from a prepared statement. "I have lived my life dedicated to the proposition that ours is a government of law and not of men."

"I am disappointed and distressed at the verdict of the jury, but I have not lost faith in our system."

The speaker said he understands how the jury was persuaded that the verdict was right, adding: "They, like many good citizens of our state, have been subjected to an incessant deluge of publicity, for the most part adverse and critical."

He continued, "I want to publicly thank the thousands of people of every walk of life from every part of Texas who have called and written offering their help and sympathy and their understanding. God bless all of them."

Mutscher, with his wife the former Donna Axum, a Miss America, strode from the courtroom saying, "I am innocent and in time will be completely vindicated." State Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth said he will be "eventually vindicated," following the assessment of a five-year probated sentence against him, Speaker Gus Mutscher and Mutscher aide Rush McGinty today.

Mutscher was to hold a news conference shortly after Dist. Court Judge J. Neil Daniel passed sentence. The defense asked that the judge pass sentence instead of the jury. The prosecution did not object.

"I can say this—I appreciate the court's action," Shannon said. "I certainly believe in our court system. I do disagree with the jury's verdict because I am innocent. I think I will be eventually vindicated."

McGinty's blond wife said there was "no doubt in my mind that this is going to be reversed. There have been lots of errors...a reversal in this case is the only justice."

"Everybody in the house knows that Gus wouldn't do anything wrong. Nor would Rush or Tommy," she said.

Asked what his immediate plans are concerning his legislative post, Shannon replied:

"I just need to stop and think...I've got too many things on my mind...so many decisions...I'm sorry I can't say any more than that."

Oil Executive Calls For Policies To Deal With Emergy Problems

DALLAS (AP) — The nations of the world must learn to use shrinking energy supplies more efficiently and adopt workable national and regional policies that embrace all energy sources, J. K. Jamieson, chief executive of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), said here Wednesday.

Addressing a luncheon of the Southwest Legal Foundation, Jamieson said that such policies must "deal with oil, gas, coal, hydro-nuclear energy, synthetics and all energy sources as part of the same equation."

Essential components of this policy, he said, are: the compromises required for economic growth, security of supply and a healthy environment; coordinating with related issues such as land use, transportation and others important to energy production and consumption; international aspects of national decisions; and a cooperative effort among government, industry and consumers to reach equitable solutions of major problems.

"Energy is becoming more and more indivisible in every sense of the word," he said. "It makes little sense to formulate policies that draw sharp distinctions between oil, coal and other energy sources, since all are part of the same energy equation. It makes equally little sense to view the domestic industry as insulated from the rest of the world."

He emphasized that the era of cheap energy is coming to a close. Shrinking domestic supplies, higher payments obtained by producing nations, greater expenses incurred in searching for new oil offshore and in such areas as the Arctic, and environmental demands have all contributed to the demise of low-cost energy.

"If you combine higher costs with growing dependence on foreign supplies, you have a good summation of this nation's central energy problem," Jamieson commented.

As a result, he added, the major tasks facing U.S. industry are to increase domestic reserves, protect energy sources abroad and work with government and consumers to establish a workable energy policy in an international framework.

"I think the oil industry should support policies which encourage a more efficient use of energy, even though this might seem to be against our interests," he said. "The need to improve our transportation system is more and more evident, for instance, and this is one of the reasons my company recently changed its position on the use of highway tax revenues."

New Jersey previously supported the principle that these revenues should be used only for highway-related expenditures. "We now support the view that the nation needs a more coordinated approach to planning and financing. Planning should incorporate all forms of passenger transportation, including highways, railroads and airways. We believe that changes should be made at both federal and state levels in transportation funding to allow the states and cities a more reasonable choice among the alternatives."

Turning to the international situation, he said the recent settlements worked out with OPEC countries were expensive and added: "As I'm sure most of you have noted from the press, we are now approaching a new phase in which negotiations will be conducted to provide 20 per cent participation in the producing operations by those countries which so elect."

Man Attempting To Commit Suicide Out Of Hospital

Police were called to a local Hotel last night where a patron of some three weeks had cut his wrist in an apparent suicide attempt.

According to the police report, the 28-year old man was dependent over unemployment and domestic problems. He was taken to Highland General Hospital where he was treated and released.

Later in the evening officers responded to a call from a woman who said a man was trying to "hot wire" her car and drive it away. The man was the earlier attempted suicide and the woman was his wife. She had refused to allow him to drive her car in a drunken state and he was trying to get it without the keys.

No charges were pressed in the incident.

"The course is strictly non-partisan," Lane said, "and deals with the basic fundamentals of America's political system."

Purpose of the class, he added, will be to impart to those attending knowledge on how the government and political systems function.

Girl Scouts To Sell Cookies To Raise Funds For Project

"Tents-more tents-and water, too, for Camp Cibola in '72" is the campaign slogan for the 12th annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale in Quivira Council," according to Executive Director Celia Fowler of Pampa.

"New tents and the drilling of a water well at unit site areas of Camp Cibola will be paid for with the profits of this year's Girl Scout Cookie Sale," said Miss Fowler.

Cookies go on sale at 4 p.m., Friday, and will feature a new family-size box of cookies selling for one dollar per box. Quivira Girl Scout Council's goal is to sell 28,000 boxes of cookies in the council's 10-county jurisdiction.

The cookies for this sale will again be supplied by Southern Biscuit Company of Richmond, Virginia. The varieties will include chocolate mint, vanilla and chocolate sandwich, butter flavored, peanut butter and pecanette.

"I Did It" patches will be awarded to all Brownies selling 6 boxes of cookies, and all Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors selling 24 boxes of cookies.

The patch features a covered wagon, the tent frame and design chosen by the Camp Development and Camping Committees to be used on a unit site at Camp Cibola.

Girl Scouts selling over three cases of cookies can earn credit on Established Camp fees. The exact scale of cookies sold and credit toward camp fees is provided for leaders of Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors along with the permission slip and important dates and procedures for the sale.

Ten years of cookie money was used to buy Camp Cibola, Quivira Council's Established Camp, north of Clarendon, in 1970. In 1971, a successful cookie sale paid for the filtering of the swimming pool at Camp Cibola.

"Cookie Sale proceeds directly benefit the 1700 Girl Scouts through improved camping opportunities," said Pat Rion, camping committee chairman. "Community support of the cookie sale will make these plans for better opportunities in camping become a reality," he said.

Woman Suffers Minor Injuries In Auto Mishap

A Pampa woman suffered minor injuries in an auto accident at Harvester and Dogwood Streets yesterday.

Carol Frye Ziegelgruber, 21, 1517 Dogwood, was travelling east on Harvester when she attempted a left turn onto Dogwood and struck a car driven by William Rex Britton, 39, 1229 Darby St.

Mrs. Ziegelgruber was cited by the investigating officer for failure to yield the right of way to an oncoming vehicle.

According to the police report she did not require hospitalization for her injuries.

Police Investigate Vandalism Report

Police investigated an act of vandalism at Central Baptist Church, Browning at Starkweather Streets, yesterday—the second in the past several days.

Windows had been broken out at ground level on the east side of the educational building. This part of the building faces an alley and children have been observed playing in the alley but have done so some time without any damage.

Apparently nothing was amiss on the inside of the building according to the police report.

Psychiatrist Says Adolescents In U.S. Becoming Old Younger

CHICAGO (AP) — A psychiatrist says adolescents are becoming old younger. He advises parents of teen-agers to "get off their backs."

"If you haven't got inside your children in the first 12 or 13 years of life, you never will," says Dr. E. James Anthony, a St. Louis psychoanalyst.

Parental pushing—especially in the middle class—to have children achieve more and more at younger and younger ages is responsible in part for the psychological exhaustion of adolescents, making them depressed and bored, he said.

Anthony, a native of London, holds faculty appointments at Washington University at St. Louis, the Institute for Psychoanalysis in Chicago and the University of Chicago.

The adolescent, Anthony said in an interview expanding on a formal report, "feels not only that he carries his own problems, but the aspirations and ambitions of his parents also."

Hughes Still In Vancouver, Says His Aide

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A spokesman for Howard Hughes said today the billionaire recluse is still in Vancouver, despite a flurry of rumors that he had returned to the United States.

Richard Hannah made the comment in Los Angeles in response to reports that Hughes had left his hideaway on the top floor of Vancouver's plush Bayshore Inn.

Canadian officials confirmed Wednesday that Hughes had entered Canada at Vancouver International Airport on Tuesday in a Hughes Tool Co., executive jet.

John Jackson, Canadian customs official who checked Hughes in at the airport, said he had no trouble recognizing the billionaire.

"The only change since his last picture is that he is 20 years older," Jackson said.

"His hair style is still the same, but a little thinner and flecked with gray, a pepper and salt coloring. He was clean shaven, except for a light mustache. It was so thin it just looked as if he had missed shaving."

Jackson's description indicated an overnight change in Hughes' appearance, based on an earlier description offered by Turner B. Shelton, U.S. ambassador to Nicaragua.

Shelton and Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza met with Hughes aboard the executive jet at Managua on Monday night just before it departed for Vancouver, with an apparent refueling stop in the Los Angeles area.

Shelton said Hughes was wearing his hair short, but that he had a thin beard.

Circus Set For Pampa On April 13

The all-new edition of the Carson & Barnes Five-Ring Wild Animal Circus is coming to Pampa April 13, it was announced today by Philip Kimbley, president of the Pampa Jaycees.

"Our organization is bringing America's largest wild animal circus here to enable the children of the community to enjoy a traditionally wholesome form of unique entertainment," Kimbley said. "Profits derived from sponsoring the circus will go toward our new community park and youth activities."

"Our Jaycee fund will benefit most from the sale of advance tickets. We receive up to 50 per cent of the proceeds and feel certain Pampans will back us in the project," he added.

Hailed as bigger and better than ever, the Carson & Barnes circus will feature scores of imported and domestic circus acts, traditional circus spectacles, performing wild animals and other breath-taking acts climaxed by the renowned Carson & Barnes performing elephants—all under the Big Top.

Performances on circus day will be at 4:30 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. with the doors open earlier to allow time for viewing the wild animals before entering the Big Top.

British Army Experts Blown Up By Bomb

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two British army experts were blown up Wednesday night as they tried to defuse a bomb planted in a parked car in a Roman Catholic district of Belfast.

Sgts. Christopher R. Cracknell and Arthur Butcher died in a sheet of flame as a third exploded in their faces.

Removal of their shattered bodies was delayed by sniper fire, the army reported.

Cracknell and Butcher were the 10th and 11th soldiers killed this year of the 15,000-man British force in Northern Ireland. The total recorded death toll in the 31-month upheaval now is 275.

Expectations continued of Protestant retaliation against the guerrilla war being waged by the Roman Catholics of the Irish Republican Army.

Wallace Asks Support For Delegate Candidates

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Back in Alabama after his overwhelming victory in the Florida Democratic presidential primary, Gov. George C. Wallace reminded well wishers that he has a slate of delegates up for election in the state's May 2 primary.

Wallace appealed Wednesday for support for his delegate candidates. "The leaders of the national party are trying to beat me in Alabama," he said, "but don't you let them do it."

He immediately set his sights on the April 4 primary in Wisconsin, but declined to predict how well he will run there. "We know that the average citizen in Wisconsin and other states, in my judgement, feels just like they do in Florida."

In the Florida race, Wallace outdistanced the other 10 Democratic candidates, taking 42 per cent of the votes cast and winning 75 of the state's 81 convention delegates. He campaigned strongly against forced busing of school children to achieve racial balance. Busing was the main issue in the Florida primary.

The 51-year-old governor, who returned home aboard a rented jet, told newcomers his Florida victory was a turning point in political history and sign of hope for the average citizen.

Police estimated the welcome-home crowd at more than 500, while others said it was considerably larger.

Wallace said the political leadership initially established Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine—who ran fourth in Florida—as the front runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"But what we find," he said, "is that the people are tired of this leadership that has brought all of the trouble on us."

"It means also that the party is going to have to have a platform that gives the government back to the people or it can't win," he added.

Hardy-Austin
Vows Read
In Sunray

WHEELER (Spl.) —Miss Deanna Sue Hardy and Harold Lynn Austin, both of Amarillo, were united in marriage at a recent ceremony read in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hardy of Sunray. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Neal Austin of Wheeler.

Rev. Ivan Allen, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Sunray, read the double-ring rite, recited beneath an archway entwined with greenery and tied with large satin bows that secured garlands of forget-me-nots.

Presented for marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of white lace over cotton, styled with a raised waistline. A wedding band collar and wrist-length Juliet sleeves. A shoulder-length veil of tiered illusion was secured to the headpiece. The bride's bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white carnations, tied with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Larry Collier of Sunray was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a pink knit dress and a white carnation corsage. Michael Harvey of Goodwell, Okla. was best man. Steven Hardy, brother of the bride, was candlelighter.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the bride's home. The serving table was draped with a white lace cloth over pink. A tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink flowers and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom was served by Mrs. Bobby Miller, sister of the bride, and Miss Debbie Miller.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hardy wore a blue and white dress with black patent accessories. Mrs. Austin chose a brown suit ensemble with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

Following their marriage, the couple is at home at 834-B S. Carolina in Amarillo. The bridegroom, a graduate of Kelton High School, attends a vocational welding school in Amarillo. Mrs. Austin graduated from Sunray High School in 1968 and is employed by Southwestern Investment Company in Amarillo.

Polly's Pointers

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with airports and airlines. They charge hundreds of dollars for their tickets and then will not let you use their restrooms without paying. I do not mind the 10 cents they cost as much as the fact that I never seem to have a dime in change. Often there is not time enough between planes to go out and look for a place to get change.—T. D.S.

DEAR POLLY—Sharon wrote that her dark suede coat leaves lint on her clothes. If there was not a small foam brush in the pocket of the coat she bought, I suggest that she lay the coat on her ironing board and use a piece of terry cloth (washcloth or small towel) to brush against the nap and then back with the nap to straighten it. An added protection is wearing a scarf with the coat.—SHIRL

DEAR POLLY—My hands are sore and warped from arthritis so I do crochet to keep my joints from getting so stiff and have made caps, sweaters, purses and bedroom slippers for gifts. To make the crochet needle easier to hold without so much pain, I bought a 10-cent plastic fishing cork, about the size of a nickel in diameter, put my needle through the center and glued it at the large part of the needle. After having fixed my needle this way so I can continue with the crocheting, I pass the time very pleasantly instead of sitting feeling sorry for myself. I hope this helps someone else in a similar condition. Do keep up your good work.—MRS. H. E. S.

DEAR POLLY—I always keep an ice teaspoon in my baking cupboard to have ready for getting to the bottom of tall boxes, such as cornstarch, baking powder and cocoa, which are hard to get to with a measuring spoon.

Man can live without food for as long as five weeks but only four or five days without water, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

VINEGAR FOR SPARKLE
For the shine and sparkle that looks so good on your hair, wash your hair as usual then give yourself a vinegar rinse.

Antique Show Is Scheduled

Pampans are reminded of the annual antique show, being sponsored by the Twentieth Century Cottillion Club, to be held March 24-26 at the Coronado Inn.

Proceeds from the sale will go to the West Texas State University Opportunity Plan to aid college students. Tickets are now being sold by members of the club.

Antique dealers from several states will be participating in the event, including Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Wisconsin.

Texas-Teen Ager Pageant Still Open

Applications are still being accepted for the Miss Texas-Teen Ager Pageant to be held at the St. Anthony Hotel in San Antonio on July 28 and 29, 1972. In order to be eligible, girls must be residents of the state of Texas, ages 13-17, and must still be 17 on Sept. 1, 1972, and they also must be U.S. citizens. Judging is based on scholastic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality, and appearance. Talent or bathing suit competition is not involved.

STEEL FOR GOLD
Some people who are allergic to fake gold jewelry are still able to wear costume jewelry. Stainless steel can be a good substitute.

FRIDAY, MARCH 17
Your birthday today:
Opens a year of average progress, in which not so much depends on what you do but the methods you use. Healthy wishes attract sound answers, reasonable fulfillment, occasional moments of drama. Much of the emphasis is on material considerations, setting aside reserves for future uses. Today's natives make many friends and many enemies, leave few people lukewarm or undecided.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: There's enough dividing the world already without your haste and brashness adding to it. Pray for peace and patience among people.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: So much can be said so quickly in so few words it is important to think twice. Distant people continue to disturb your world.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: A bright moment in a secret venture arrives so maintain surface calm. Travels are emphasized according to your individual life.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Put all resources on the line early, get as much done as you can, then be patient with the inevitable slowdown of later hours.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Personal concerns get in the way of business. Take the day off if you can. You will have to go over the day's doings later.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Self-expression, creative urges upset schedules a bit. Reconcile the discrepancies where you can, favoring the new over the old.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: It's a great day for troubleshooting, but not for policy-making or firm declarations of intent. Practicality may be beyond easy reach.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Be cooperative, but let others supply the energy to turn the wheels of social doings. Little is gained by adding extra details to your work.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Family pride is due for an uplift. Take a holiday from your long-set personal habits; try getting out of old pathways if you travel.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Pay close attention to family affairs; diverse emotions need understanding. Work routines are slightly above normal.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Strangers offer suggestions which relate to their welfare, not yours. Home arrangements are up for revision—be fluent in changes.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: As long as you realize that seemingly permanent settlements made today are unlikely to work out, you are in good order.

First Girl Scout Handbook Re-Issued For Anniversary

In Girl Scouting the past, present, and future intersect in many areas. A case in point is the first Girl Scout Handbook, published in 1913, which is being re-issued with a new introduction to commemorate the 60th Anniversary of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

Adapted from the British manual brought from England by Juliette Low, who founded Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., March 12, 1912 in Savannah, Georgia, the 144-page bound handbook was written by a prominent Southern naturalist, Walter John Hoxie.

The handbook, entitled How Girls Can Help Their Country is of interest not only because it pictures life in those days but because it incorporates so much of what is considered new these days. Although the 1913 semantics were different, the guide instructs girls on ecology, organic foods, organic cosmetics, physical fitness, pollution problems, and respect and understanding of others.

In a curious way it presages women's lib, despite the emphasis throughout on proper preparation and training for "housewifery." Girls are advised that "really well-educated women can make a good income," as architects, doctors, aviators, accountants, scientists, and the author even cites one woman who became a successful Fire Commissioner.

On New Year's Eve, Chinese traditionally pay all debts incurred during the year.

Dear Abby
 Twin calves not the same as girls

By Abigail Van Buren
 (© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)
 DEAR ABBY: I work on a farm on weekends, and the other day at work I was told that when a cow gives birth to twins, if one is a male and the other a female, both calves stand a 99 per cent chance of being sterile. But if both twins are males or females, they are okay.
 Abby, I am a 16-year-old boy and my girl friend is 17. She has a twin brother, and when I told her what I had heard about cows she broke into tears for fear she may be sterile.
 Could you please do a little research for us and find out if what applies to twin cows also applies to human twins? Thank you.
 HOPING AGAINST IT

DEAR HOPING: When a cow gives birth to twin calves, one male and one female, in slightly less than 15 per cent of the cases, the female twin is a "free-martin," meaning her reproductive organs will not develop. Tell your girl friend she has nothing to worry about. Cows are cows and humans are humans, and never the twin shall meet.

DEAR ABBY: Why would a person laugh at his own jokes?
 CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Maybe he just wants to make sure somebody laughs.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure Mrs. Enduring is just as unhappy with her life style as Mr. Enduring. If she could put her feelings into words she might tell us that Mr. Enduring showed very little interest in her personally until it was time for bed, secondly that his technique became more adventurous over the years but something was missing, such as love and affection, thirdly that the life of a wife with three children, who is cook, laundress, housekeeper, and chief decision maker is not exactly a life filled with erotic stimuli and that it takes a bit of doing to turn into something besides a drudge and it is not accomplished by slipping out of your apron.

Many husbands tire of coaxing their wives and find themselves a willing partner elsewhere, usually someone who is not tied to the responsibilities of a house and family. Then the energy these eager men display is unbelievable: there are phone calls in the morning to see how the dear lady slept, phone calls at noon for an intimate lunch in a candlelit restaurant and thoughtful little tokens. Now really, how many wives wouldn't respond to this subtle courting? How many mistresses would be so generous with themselves if all the man did was be physically there? Try it, you'll like it!

Now, you are going to say, "Tell HIM, not ME!" But if you have to tell someone that you would like a few expressions of love and affection it loses all meaning.

I am not Mrs. Enduring, but I would love to know how many wives feel as I do. Or am I expecting too much of marriage?
 STILL HOPING

CONFIDENTIAL TO A. J. IN ATLANTA: Don't mail the earrings back to the gentleman's wife without first asking the gentleman. [Maybe the lady who left them wasn't his wife.]

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009.

Lobbyist A Major Force In U.S. Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Countless strings entwine Washington lobbyists with the federal government, but none more compellingly than campaign money, which the lobbyist often has and elected officials generally need.

For Dita Beard, celebrated Washington lobbyist of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., the sum was $400,000 reportedly pledged by an ITT subsidiary toward financing the 1972 Republican National Convention.

The question now being raised in Senate Judiciary Committee hearings is whether there was a connection between the alleged pledge and a subsequent Justice Department decision to abandon prosecution of three antitrust cases against ITT.

For Harold O. Lovre, the American Trucking Association lobbyist, it was $4,500 for the 1970 re-election of Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the House Republican leader. In this case, said Lovre, a former South Dakota congressman, it was personal, "we came down to Congress together. He's a friend."

If they didn't help fill campaign purses, said Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., "the power of lobbyists would be practically nil."

The lobbyist is a major force in the U.S. government. As an ambassador to Washington from an interest group or business, he also is an accepted fixture along the corridors of power, and generally an honorable one. Yet nagging questions remain about the campaign dollars at his command.

Where, asks Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., does the legislator draw the line in dealing with lobbyists?

"Do you or don't you accept what purports to be a campaign contribution, or what purports to be a fee for a speech plus expenses?" Bolling asked. "What is its real meaning?"

"We are not talking about bribery. We are talking about influence that is almost subliminal. You don't know you are being influenced."

There are citizens today who associate lobbyists with bribes, high living and nefarious ways. In fact, all but a handful of the several thousand Washington lobbyists are regarded by the men who deal with them as honest, hardworking proponents of a cause or interest.

"Lobbying is a much misunderstood process, sometimes abused and often carrying bad connotations," said Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., former chairman of a House Select Committee on Ethics.

"Lobbying is nonetheless a vital part of the daily interchange between the people and their government."

"Put simply, it is the representation of a group's interests before governmental bodies, and it is not, of course, for anything that is other than good for the public."

Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., values lobbyists for their expertise.

These lobbyist-educators, as Teague views them, include lawyers, businessmen, public relations men, former government officials, and former senators and congressmen.

Some 1,200 are registered with Congress. They represent the interests of unions and corporations, local governments and trade associations, causes as various as world peace and population control.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Dr. Kirkpatrick's anecdote about the little boy and the cross-eyed bear, shows the literalism of children. You parents of a new baby must be on guard lest you unwittingly prejudice your older youngsters against the newcomer. Remember, kiddies live with giants!

CASE T-529: Dr. John M. Kirkpatrick is the famous pastor of Richmond Central Church in the home city of Earlham College.

His church NEWSLETTER is titled "The Lamplighter," based on the theme:

"It is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness."

In a recent issue, Dr. Kirkpatrick described a little boy who adamantly refused to go to Sunday School.

This disturbed his parents, for he had previously enjoyed his weekly visit to that Sunday School class.

So they asked him why he no longer wished to attend.

"There's a bear down there!" he replied.

"And it is a cross-eyed bear, too!"

This didn't seem reasonable to his worried father and mother, so they checked with the little boy's teacher.

She informed them that on the previous Sunday, the children had been asked to sing the hymn entitled, "Gladly, the Cross I'd Bear."

From which this little boy derived his idea of the "Cross-eyed Bear!"

Such literalism is very common among children.

Once when I was asked to serve as referee between a couple of brothers, the younger tearfully informed me his daddy loved the older boy more than the younger.

"Why do you say that?" I asked.

"Because," whimpered the younger, "when daddy spanked us, he hit Jimmy only 3 times but he hit me 4 times!"

Many parents thus fail to realize the psychic trauma they may inflict on their older kiddies when a new baby arrives.

For Mamma automatically must devote more time to the newcomer.

But the older kiddies then compare the attention which they receive, with that of the new arrival.

"Mother spends more time with it," they will grumble, "so that means she loves it more than she does us!"

Yet Mamma may never dream of this hostile reaction to the new baby which she unwittingly is building up.

So be sure you try to include your older children in the care of the new arrival!

Even as you stand at its crib, admiringly, casually drop your arms around the older youngsters.

Thus, they feel you still love them, despite the fanfare and spotlight focused on the newcomer.

"But I TELL the older children I love them," you may protest.

However, children need more than words, for they measure your true feelings by the time and attention devoted to each.

We adults have thus forgotten many childhood attitudes toward life!

For example, as toddlers, we were literally living in a world of giants.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The president of the Alaska State Medical Association has endorsed a California campaign to remove most criminal penalties from the use of marijuana.

"I'd like to see it become a controlled substance like alcohol, a recreational-type thing," Dr. J. Ray Langsdon, a 47-year-old Anchorage psychiatrist, told newsmen at the office of California Marijuana Initiative. The organization is trying to collect 326,000 signatures to place the question of legalizing marijuana before the state's voters in November.

DETROIT (AP) — Cars carrying more than one person will be under space reserved for them under a plan to go into effect April 3 at a Wayne State University parking structure.

The computerized car-pool system—Eco Parking—is designed to reduce the number of cars coming to the urban campus daily.

Drivers with passengers in their cars will be allowed to enter two of five gates at the structure. Cars with drivers only will be directed to other entrances, and spaces for cars with more than one passenger will be reserved "as long as practicable."

Wayne State estimates 99 per cent of its 36,765 students commute.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It would be legal to swear in front of a woman under a bill introduced in the state Assembly.

Assemblyman Jim Keysor, who authored the bill, said a state law making swearing in the presence of women a misdemeanor is "demeaning to women." He added, "In the groups I travel around in everyone uses expressive language."

THE CRIPPLE AT BETHESDA

In Jerusalem there was a pool known for its healing properties. This place was called Bethesda, which meant House of Grace. One man had been there for years and a cripple for at least 38 years.

He told Jesus he had no one to put him into the water, so there he lay on his bed of infirmity. Jesus neither touched him nor helped him into the water. He said, "Get up." And the man got up, took his bed, and walked away. Jesus broke the cripple's dependency upon others as well as his established pattern of pool gazing. Christ offered one the power to break out of old habits and excuses. He still does. Healing takes many forms, but it begins with the desire to get well.

Pat Nixon Turns 60

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pat Nixon, who will be 60 today, said Wednesday "age doesn't make any difference, it's how you feel—and I still feel spry."

The First Lady told reporters asking how she feels at this milestone birthday: "You know I joined the 39er club a long time ago and I still belong."

When asked for the secret of her youthful appearance, Mrs. Nixon said, "Come on." She added: "I'm just too busy to grow old. I hope that will be the case forever."

U.S. Senate Kills Registration Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today voted to bypass and kill a measure that would set up a national system to allow all eligible voters to register by post card.

The action came as the Senate agreed, 46 to 42, to table the bill on a motion by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala.

The Playoffs-- And A Dream

(Last of a Series.)
By DAVID WOLF

(From "Foul! The Connie Hawkins Story," by David Wolf. Copyright © 1972 by David Wolf. Published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc., New York.)

The physical and emotional strain on an athlete during the NBA playoffs is among the most intense in all sports. The regular season is just a prelude—champions are crowned in the playoffs.

For Hawkins, there was an additional challenge. The Suns were matched against the powerful Los Angeles Lakers, with veteran superstars Jerry West, Elgin Baylor — and Wilt Chamberlain.

Although Chamberlain has played on only one NBA championship team, the most prolific scorer in pro-basketball history is venerated throughout the league, especially by black players.

"He's admired because more than anyone else he's his own man," says Hawkins. "A lot of players would like to be able to say the things he says, to knock their coaches or call the NBA 'bush league.' But they're afraid. Dipper isn't — and he gets away with it."

"They also envy him because of his wealth and fame," Connie adds. "And there's his body; he's a giant even to us. Dipper is way over 7-2, he's near 300 pounds — and he's still quick."

To many black athletes, Wilt seems the embodiment of their dreams and ambitions. He has reached almost all of the goals — and has almost all the possessions — considered important when one grows up poor.

For Hawkins, the playoffs were added proof of his stature within the league. Connie played superbly—averaging 25 points, 14 rebounds, and 6 assists — and almost led Phoenix to an astonishing upset. Phoenix was just not yet in the Lakers' class.

Several Phoenix players sit in the locker room at practice, discussing their opponents. The Suns' tone was almost disdainful. "They've got all kinds of personality problems on that team. Elgin really hates Wilt," noted Goodrich, who had played for the Lakers. "He always has. And Wilt hates him. When Chamberlain sets up on the same side as Elgin, Baylor hasn't got any room to drive. It ruins his game and he's always mad about it. Wilt knows. That makes him mad."

"Dipper doesn't like West either — and the feeling is mutual," said Jerry Chambers, another ex-Laker. They all pretty much dislike each other. But, the one nobody likes is Happy Hairston."

"How come?" asked Connie. "The man plays good, but all you hear is that he's a bad dude."

"They say Happy talks behind people's backs," said Jim Fox.

"I know this," Silas added. "West acts like he digs everybody, but he don't dig Hairston. After I had that fight with him the other night, West comes over to me and says, 'I wish you'd busted his ass!' ..."

Paul Silas nodded toward the fatigued Hawkins, leaning against a wall, towering above a knot of reporters, after the last game. "That dude, he's the biggest reason for everything we accomplished. What he did this year was amazing. Man, his whole life is amazing. When I try and imagine what he's gone through — a proud man like Hawk, being an outcast, playing with the Globetrotters! — I feel I'm gonna break down and cry. I don't know how Hawk kept his sanity. But he did — and now he's proved he's as great as they say."

Hawkins was silent. He watched a police car roar down Lafayette Avenue, its red light whirling, its siren crying out in the night. Then Connie spoke, the words came slowly, chosen with care: "It was worth it. The NBA was my lifelong dream. After all those years—all the work people did to clear my name. I know some people think I've slipped, that I'm not the Connie Hawkins they used to know. Well, next season, I'm gonna prove them wrong."

Connie was still just 28 years old. But 1970-71 was his 10th season as a professional. "He's played so many games," said trainer Joe Proski that winter, "they have to take a toll. He never had any 25-game college seasons — was playing 250 a year with the Globetrotters. All that pounding up and down on concrete in the playgrounds, all the traveling in the bushes with the lousy food and the injuries that never got treated right — Hawk is a very old 28."

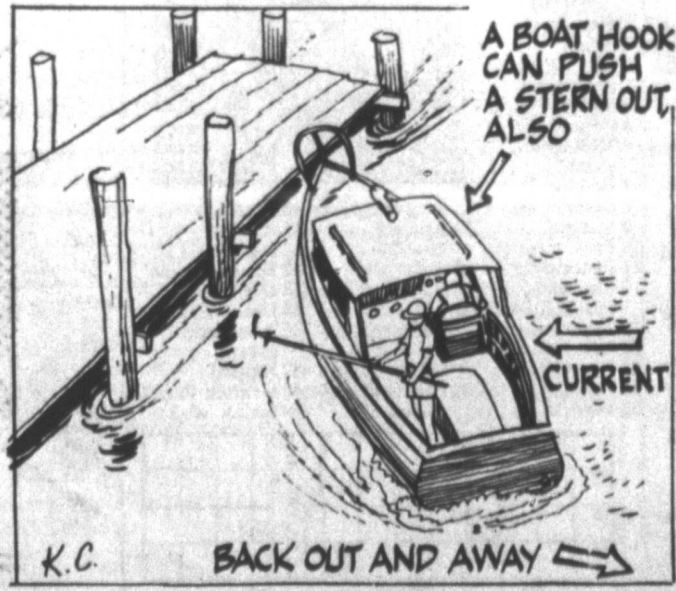

For the first time, Connie was forced to consider the possibility that his greatest games might already be behind him—lost in the obscurity of glass-strewn Brooklyn schoolyards or empty Minnesota arenas.

After that season, Hawk visited me in New York City. One evening we borrowed a friend's car and drove to Bedford-Stuyvesant. The temperature was in the 90s. The sidewalks and stoops were crowded. Soul and gospel blared from open windows. Beneath the pale glow of the street lights men clustered, shooting craps. Down the block from Connie's old apartment on Lexington Avenue, two blond-wigged prostitutes, their legs toothpick-thin, leaned against a building. At a stoplight, Hawk stared at a heavy-set junkie who sat on a stoop, his head rolling unevenly from side to side. "That guy used to be one of the quickest, toughest guards that ever

To get under way safely, and with style, you must take the wind and current into consideration. If they are pushing you away from the dock, let them help you. If they are pushing you up against the dock, you must push off hard and turn sharply out into the channel. Sometimes, if the wind or current is very strong, it is necessary to push your stern well off and back away from the dock. Don't forget about wind and current when you are returning to the dock, either.

AP Announces Staubach Signs Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton, UCLA's lantern-jawed tower of strength, and Dwight Lamar, the nation's leading scorer from Southwestern Louisiana, were named today to the Associated Press' 1971-72 All-American basketball team.

The two stars, both dominating forces in their regions, were joined by Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State, Jim Chones of Marquette's and Tom Riker of South Carolina.

Walton, a 6-foot-11 center and the only sophomore on the first team, has been compared favorably to Kareem Abdul Jabbar (nee Lew Alcindor) and Bill Russell in their college days.

"I've never seen a player who makes the outlet pass and starts the fast break as well," said UCLA Coach John Wooden, who coached Jabbar and saw Russell play at San Francisco.

Lamar, one of the best shooters in the country in recent history, could become the only player to win the scoring title in both the college and university divisions. The 6-foot-1 ace was the college division leader last season when the Ragin' Cajuns were in that class and appears well on his way this year now that they've stepped up to major college status. He's averaging 36.7 a game in his junior year.

Ratleff, a junior guard who averaged almost 22 points a game this year, also was one of the team's toughest rebounders. Strong and quick at 6-6, Ratleff has been described as the best college guard in America since the day of Oscar Robertson and Jerry West.

The 6-11 Chones was Marquette's big strength before signing with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association late in the season. Before leaving college, he scored almost 21 points and averaged 12 rebounds in 21 games of his junior season.

The 6-10 Riker, the only senior on the big team, was an outstanding forward in clutch situations. He averaged nearly 20 points and 10 rebounds a game.

"He's the best pro prospect in the country," said South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire of the beefy Riker.

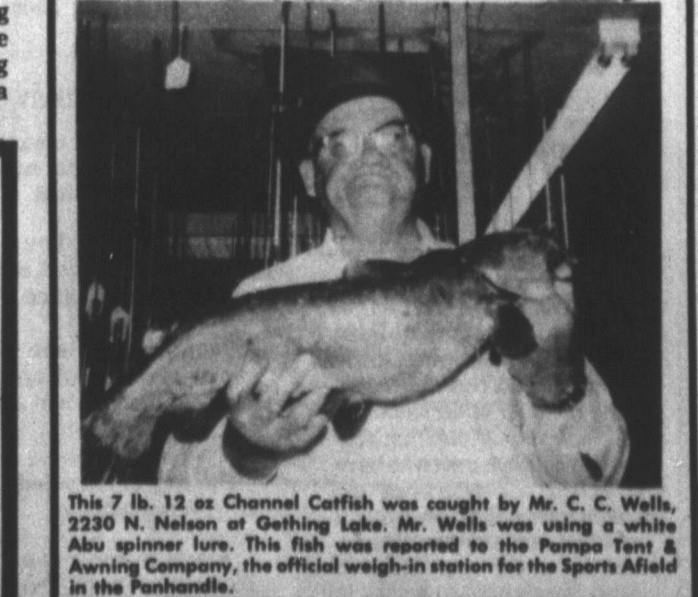

Based on votes from sports writers and broadcasters around the nation, the second team All-American included Barry Parkhill of Virginia, Dwight Davis of Houston, Jim Price of Louisville, Henry Bibby of UCLA and Robert McAdoo of North Carolina.

Wells Catches 7 Lb. Catfish

This 7 lb. 12 oz Channel Catfish was caught by Mr. C. C. Wells, 2230 N. Nelson at Gething Lake. Mr. Wells was using a white Abu spinner lure. This fish was reported to the Pampa Tent & Avining Company, the official weigh-in station for the Sports Afield in the Panhandle.

Top Player Praises Team

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Bill, The Associated Press just named you Player of the Year in college basketball. An ear-jarring shriek jolted the carpeted UCLA locker room but the tall, youthful lad covered with soap in the shower merely displayed a wide grin and said softly, "Wow, that's great."

Bill Walton, UCLA's 6-foot-11 19-year-old sophomore, is a rare breed who thinks almost more of his teammates and their feelings than he does of himself. And Tommy Curtis' raucous reaction to Walton's receiving the AP's highest individual college basketball honor is typical of his teammates' feeling for him.

In the pressure cooker world of college basketball, Walton is an anomaly. He's been called the most dominating influence in the game since Lew Alcindor, now Kareem Jabar, yet he plays the game with a grin and chuckle.

"If you ask him how he feels about being named the nation's best player," said UCLA coach John Wooden, "he'll probably tell you he owes it all to his teammates. And those are his true feelings. He's very concerned that his teammates won't get the recognition they deserve because of him."

Asked his reaction to being named the nation's best, Walton said: "It's a great honor but my teammates made it possible."

Walton is shy. He smiles readily yet is reluctant to talk to reporters with his teammates around. His words are carefully chosen.

But why does he grin and laugh so much on the court, in the heat of action? "Why not? It's only a game and games are supposed to be fun, so we go out there to have fun. "I enjoy the game. If I didn't, I wouldn't play at all."

Ervin's Noble Try

Sam Ervin Jr., the 75-year-old erudite senator from North Carolina, once spoke up against the pending women's liberation amendment. Shortly thereafter a delegation from the National Women's Party asked him for an audience to point out the error of his ways.

Ervin recounted that "they were very charming ladies of about my vintage, and they asked what objections I had to the amendment."

"One objection," he replied, "is this: It would prohibit every legal distinction between men and women. Therefore, under this amendment Congress couldn't draft men without drafting women for military service."

"Oh, but we want to be drafted," the visitors responded.

The venerable senator looked his guests over and retorted, "Now, ladies, I have always made it a practice to try to be a gallant gentleman insofar as making references to the age of a lady is concerned, but I'm going to vary my practice on this occasion, because I am compelled to infer that notwithstanding your youthful appearances you are probably a few months above the draft age. And if you want to convince me that women want to be drafted, you are going to have to send some sweet young things within the draft age up here to do it."

Of course, the chivalrous and distinguished gentleman from North Carolina did not win the argument, but you must concede that he gave a collegiate effort.

Union Irresponsibility

Hope ran high when General Motors established a new plant at Lordstown, Ohio, to produce compact Vega automobiles at prices competitive with foreign imports.

The intent was to establish an assembly line procedure that would employ the best of American technology and utilize the full productivity of labor to restore American leadership in this important automotive field.

The dream now has taken on all of the qualities of a nightmare. Production innovations have been cancelled by slow-downs and shoddy workmanship. When GM insisted on high but equitable working conditions and productivity, the United Auto Workers Union authorized a strike. In the ensuing three months of strife the firm has been subjected to vandalism, sabotage and periodic shutdowns of the assembly line.

The labor intransigence inevitably will be reflected in rising prices for the Vega and perhaps burial of the dream that American technology, in cooperation with enlightened labor can compete successfully with the cheaper labor abroad.

The dream is further shattered by the recent decision of Ford Motor Co. to compete with rising importations of foreign "mini" pickup trucks. Ford will import mini pickups that are made in Japan because they would be too expensive to make in the United States. GM and perhaps others plan to meet the mini-truck competition in the same manner.

Is it any wonder that the United States' share of world automobile production has dropped from 76 per cent in 1950 to about 33 per cent today?

The real irony is that the Lordstown-type of irresponsible labor practices do not shut down American motor manufacturers. GM, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors will import the foreign models. American people will buy them, and the firms will profit or they will not stay in business.

The losers will be the same labor unions that are insisting they would rather have a few dollars in higher wages now than a job next year.

The Model Candidate

Paul Harvey News Nonwhite Immigration Is Causing Problems

By PAUL HARVEY
More Americans employed and, at the same time, more Americans unemployed: The explanation, of course, is "more Americans."

And most are sneaking in through the window.

America is changing color. It's most conspicuous in New York City where, in 10 years, 1 million blacks and Puerto Ricans have moved in and 1 million whites have moved out.

Ghettos in Brooklyn, the Bronx and Queens have doubled, tripled in size.

Much of New York City's changing complexion is a matter of reshuffling, but there and elsewhere the substantial increase in nonwhite immigration is increasingly apparent.

New Jersey Rep. Peter

H.L. Hunt Writes

A CHANGE IN ATTITUDE

One of the leading contenders for his party's nomination as candidate for President showed a remarkably new face the other day in a speech to civic groups. A heretofore avowed believer in big government, the candidate declared: "I don't want a government that does everything for me, because if it does everything for me it can do anything to me." This was an old liberal talking. How times have changed. He even went on to say that school busing of children is not the ways to solve race relations.

Statements like these coming from liberals may be too late to have any beneficial effect on the course of our affairs, and they may be purely political. But it is to be hoped that those liberal spokesmen of years gone by have come to see the light, the light being that excessive government and immediate controls on the lives of the people have led us to the brink of disaster. The Republic would have been still paramount in world affairs, sanely balanced in fiscal matters at home, sound in balance of payments and free of street warfare and crime had men of vision taken the long and constructive look at things. Instead, too many of them sought the short course of political expediency and we are now suffering from this plague of myopia. Because of the fact that many of our politicians of power sought in vane to reach an accommodation with Soviet Russia and curtailed our defense efforts to enhance their personal motives we find ourselves falling rapidly into the status of a second rate power. If the trend is permitted to continue, we shall find ourselves tumbling into oblivion.

Our national pride must exert itself to the utmost in the months ahead November will bring the hour of decision. Let us look to statesmanship instead of those men who have preached and nourished the line of rationalization when it involved our enemies abroad. And let us turn our backs on those latecomers to sanity in

Your Health

Feeling too Warm or too Cold

Dear Dr. Lamb—Why is it that my daughter and I have such a time adjusting to the temperatures in the home? She is always cold and I am constantly complaining that the temperature that is satisfactory for her is much too warm for me? I am 63 years old and she is 19 years old.

DEAR READER—This is a common complaint. Actually, the sensation of being hot or cold has very little to do with whether the body is warm or not. We perceive the sense of being hot or cold from nerve fibers which are in the skin.

We do not have similar nerve fibers elsewhere in the body. Thus, when you burn your finger you feel heat and pain initially from fibers in the skin, but you may not feel any sensation of increased warmth in deeper tissues.

The skin is a human radiator. It has a lot to do with the cooling and temperature control of the body just as the car radiator does for your automobile. The hot blood inside the body is pumped through the skin where the heat is lost through the surface of the skin, just as the hot water from the car motor is circulated through the radiator to lose heat from the engine. Most of the heat from the body is lost through the skin either through direct transfer of heat to the environment around it or from the evaporation of water which may be a small amount so that it is not visible or it might be in large amounts with sweating.

The person who feels warm usually has a fairly marked increase in blood flow through the skin. These reactions, including sweating, are all controlled by a little heat center in the brain. Interestingly enough this center can be affected by emotions or by hot spicy foods. The thermostat or the heat center in the brain sends out a message which causes us to increase or decrease blood flow through the skin and increase and decrease the amount of evaporation from sweating or insensible loss of body water. The person who feels cold often doesn't have very marked blood flow through the skin and a good way to get rid of the sensation of coldness is to do something that will increase blood flow to the skin itself, like mild exercise. A good hot tub bath will almost always increase a person's temperature and sense of warmth. The hot tub bath will prevent the normal evaporation of body-cooling mechanisms as well as increase circulation through the skin.

The fact that we have a sense of warmth or coldness from the skin irrespective of body temperature is why people have such a difficult time in telling whether they have a fever or not unless they take their temperature.

Beware of those whose respect is based on fear. — A Quote

Inside Washington

Congress vs. the Busing Judges

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — One factor alone is at the bottom of the protracted delay by President Nixon and Congress in doing anything immediately effective to halt forced school busing.

This still-unsolved, brain-racking key dilemma is: how to strip Federal judges of the power to order busing solely to "achieve a racial balance."

Whether the President will come up with a practical answer in his long-awaited plan remains to be seen. There has been much conjecturing about it, but no real information.

In Congress, there have been tidal waves of rhetoric and some concrete action. But neither is any tangible consequence in dealing with the crucial problem.

Much of the talk is about a Constitutional amendment for the express purpose of prohibiting school busing as a means of furthering racial integration. Even at best, this is a laborious and time-consuming process. It requires a two-thirds vote in both the House and Senate to pass a Constitutional amendment, after which it would have to be considered by the state legislatures—which could take several years before such a Constitutional barrier would be erected.

That's too drawn-out and tortuous. Overwhelming public sentiment is torridly clamoring for anti-busing action now. The great mass of people, white and black, vehemently wants something done about it forthwith.

With Congress in an election year being especially sensitive to voter feelings, the House and Senate have reacted by voting so-called anti-busing provisions into the still-pending $20 billion higher education bill. There are four such amendments: one in the Senate, three in the House.

All have one thing in common.

None of them goes to the heart of the complex and explosive problem of how to prevent Federal judges from issuing sweeping edicts ordering school busing regardless of any other consideration except to "achieve racial balance."

Political Shams

Of these four amendments, the three decisively passed by the House go much further and are a lot tougher than the Senate's lone contribution.

The latter is largely political window-dressing; it makes some vague motions, but does virtually nothing. A compromise sponsored by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., and Republican Leader Hugh Scott, Pa., is little more than a face-saver and was cooked up primarily to end a three-week filibuster.

The Mansfield-Scott rider doesn't remotely grapple with the key problem of putting a quietus on busing-bent Federal judges.

In effect, all it actually does is bar the use of Federal funds to pay for court-ordered busing. That's all right as far as it goes, but that isn't what this widespread and furious struggle is all about.

On that--forced school busing--Mansfield-Scott is wholly beside the point. It's a hoax. It bypasses that crucial issue entirely.

One of the three stronger House amendments does strike a glancing blow at this problem.

Sponsored by Rep. William Broomfield, R-Mich., the provision prohibits a busing order by a Federal district judge being put into effect "until the appeals process has been exhausted." In other words, a judge might command that school children be bused, but he couldn't make that edict stick until every appeal possibility had been exhausted—which could require several years.

New Left and other ultra-liberal opponents heatedly contended Broomfield's amendment was "illegal" and would not stand up in the courts. That was just as vigorously denied. No one knows until and when it is decided by the courts.

The other two House amendments, by Reps. Edith Green, Ore., ranking Democratic member of the Education and Labor Committee, and John Ashbrook, Ohio, conservative aspirant for the Republican Presidential nomination, are aimed at curbing the use of Federal funds for busing.

Major difference between them and Mansfield-Scott is that they would do it more explicitly and forcefully. That is, these provisions really mean it and are not just grandstanding.

What Congress will finally wind up doing on these widely differing sets of amendments is highly conjectural.

As the House overwhelmingly demonstrated last week, it is in no mood to give ground to the Senate. Whether the Senate, narrowly split on the issue, will bow to the House is less certain.

The Florida primary could have telling impact on the Senate.

That chamber came within one vote of approving Republican Whip Robert Griffin's amendment directly barring Federal courts from ordering school busing on racial grounds. Even the Michigan legislator admitted his provision might be unconstitutional.

But until that is ruled, it would be law.

The outcome of the Florida primary may swing the votes necessary to win Senate approval of Griffin's much-needed forceful crackdown on Federal judges.

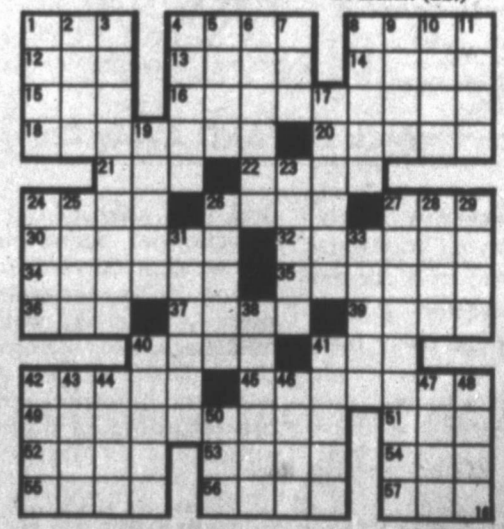

Expensive Housekeeping
It costs American taxpayers $21.6 million a year just to clean up and dispose of litter left by visitors in national parks and forests.

Rep. Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash., chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the budget of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, wants it to do something about drastically reducing that expensive chore.
