

Farmers Plant Pasture Grass

Several farmers are now planting pasture grasses as a step toward carrying out the soil conservation plans which they have developed recently with the Gray County Soil Conservation District, according to Winton H. Pittman, Work Unit Conservationist.

Bruce Bull, of LaFors, is planting 80 acres of grass and clover this week. This is being planted with the special grass seed drill which was secured recently for him.

The most desirable method of planting pasture grasses is to plant on land which has been in cultivation, where there is a poor stubble from a previous crop of sudan or sorghum. Use of the special grass drill insures planting the seed at a depth that is most likely to germinate, and also distributes it over the ground much more evenly than if it were broadcast or planted by some other method.

Other cooperators who have already planted a total of approximately 60 acres are: Henry Roll, Homer Abbott, Homer Wilson, J. B. Jackson, E. B. Kinard, T. A. Massay, W. H. Roberts, G. E. Castleberry and Paul Bruce. These cooperators have a total of 3610 acres. Five applications for assistance also were approved.

The Board developed plans for using the grass seed drill which was purchased with funds advanced by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, with the money to be repaid as soon as possible from rentals charged for use of the drill, which is to be made available to district cooperators. The rate will be 50 cents per acre, with a minimum charge of $5.00 if the drill has to be moved over two miles.

PRESIDENT

He would work closely with the secretary of state. The President would have differences.

The 16 European nations, who want American help to become strong enough to stay outside Russia's iron curtain, would have to sign an agreement on terms with this country. Also they would have to agree to help each other. These 16 nations are Britain, France, Italy, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Portugal, Switzerland, Iceland, Greece, Turkey, Eire, Denmark and Austria.

But the door would stay open for Russia on her satellites to come into an economic recovery program if they, too, ever agree to cooperate on the right terms.

In addition, the House held out an invitation to Spain to join in. It riveted down its decision on Spain by a 188 to 104 vote just before passing the foreign aid bill.

But that is one point on which the Senate may refuse to go along. The Truman administration is strongly opposed.

Before that, he said, the Armed Forces' chiefs had said they would need at least $6,000,000,000 to reach the minimum strength needed at the outset of a war.

Texas Today

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD, Associated Press Staff

The details of every serious traffic accident pleaded eloquently for caution on the highways.

But such details seldom are printed. The limitations of time and newspaper space do not permit.

For example: Pittsboro, Tex., yesterday on this 42-word story:

"Three persons were critically injured at Waco March 25 in the collision of an automobile and a truck. The injured were George Edward Lincecum, 35, and Murray Elby Boyd, 32, both of Snyder, Tex., and Wanda Baird Brooks, about 30, of Abilene."

That is the impersonal news story of an accident. Here are the details:

At 8:30 a. m. the morning of March 25, a coupe occupied by Lincecum, Boyd and Miss Brooks crashed into the side of a truck at the intersection of Highway 9 and Franklin Avenue in Waco.

Three minutes later, Waco Patrolman J. L. Baskin, a 32-year-old 205-pounder was parking his motorcycle at a Waco service station when the call came over his radio. Baskin told us:

"I got there ahead of the ambulance. The front of the car was bashed back into the passenger compartment, the motor was torn out, the front wheels were practically off."

"Mr. Boyd and Miss Brooks had been thrown out of the car. They were unconscious on the side of the road. Their faces were so covered with blood and gravel that you couldn't have recognized them if you had known them. There was so much blood in the lady's hair I couldn't tell what color it was."

"Mr. Lincecum was caught in the front seat. He had so much twisted steel pinning him down that I thought it was going to take a blowtorch to get him out. He was unconscious. We went to work to drag him out of there and I guess it took 10 minutes."

"I don't see how any of them got out of that wreck alive."

The truck driver, Doyle Cook, of Bellmead, Tex., was not seriously injured. He had a broken rib and was taken with the others to Hillcrest Hospital, Waco.

Lincecum, Boyd and Miss Brooks were wheeled into an operating room of the hospital. A physician came in and checked them carefully. All three remained unconscious.

"I'll be surprised if any of them live," the physician said. Their condition was so grave that they were left in the operating room until 5 p. m.—doctors were afraid that to move them at all might be fatal.

But at 5 p. m. they were moved to rooms on the third floor. Boyd and Lincecum were put in one room and Miss Brooks in another. The three were still unconscious. At this time, Miss Brooks had been only tentatively identified.

That night, at 11:30 p. m., we went to the third-floor of the hospital. The door to Miss Brooks' room was closed. She had not regained consciousness.

The door of the other room was open. Boyd and Lincecum were heavily bandaged. They were unconscious. Boyd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Boyd, and his brother, Marshall Boyd, 39, had just arrived from Snyder.

They had not heard of the accident until noon of that day. No relatives of the other two victims had yet appeared.

Boyd's mother stood at his bedside holding one of his hands. She was a little woman, bent by the years. Boyd's head was bandaged. "A fractured skull," a nurse said. Boyd's breathing was shallow. Now and then he groaned fitfully. When he did this, Mrs. Boyd would stroke his hand. The room was dimly lighted by desk lamps pressed almost against the wall.

plaster walls. It gave the room an eerie aim there and the threat of death was there.

Oxygen tanks were at both of the beds, with rubber oxygen masks, ready for use, on top of the tanks.

The breathing of Lincecum was very rapid and strained. His face was scarred.

The grey-haired father of Boyd sat in a chair in the room, his hands clasped in his lap. His eyes watched the ashen face of his son. "We got here quick as we could," the elderly Boyd said. "It's an awful thing this had to happen."

The condition of the three wreck victims Monday night remained critical.

which was sprung on the western powers with less than 24 hours' notice.

The position of the western powers was one of waiting for the Russians to their protest notes. These notes, delivered last night, rejected the Russian measures as unacceptable and a violation of allied agreements.

The issue was the latest to arise between Russia and the western allies in the four-power control of Germany.

(In Moscow, Yuri Korolov wrote in the Communist newspaper Pravda, "the partition of Germany has become a completed fact." He said the control council "has factually ceased to exist as the supreme four-power authority for Germany.")

The Russians demanded yesterday that, starting at midnight, all passengers and freight entering their zone be subjected to inspection at the border control point.

British and American authorities ordered their train commanders not to yield to this demand. The result was that four passenger trains were stopped at Marienborn. Soviet check point some five miles east of the border with the British zone.

Two American trains returned to Helmstedt to the west in the British zone. Clay said they would go on back to Frankfurt and the passengers would be brought to Berlin by air. Two British trains stayed at Marienborn. The British arranged to send a dining car from Hannover to feed the stranded passengers and crew.

American officials said they will stand with the U. S. and Britain in opposition to the Soviet restrictions.

The French permitted their incoming train from Paris to submit to Soviet border inspection today, but this was believed due to the fact orders had not yet gone out to train commanders to refuse Soviet attempts to come aboard.

The Russians this morning also began to place restrictions on the transit of allied personnel through their zone by automobile along the International Highway. Only those Americans were let through who wore military uniforms.

It was indicated that if such incidents increased, formal protests would be made to the Russians.

The Russians were not stopping German trains coming across their occupation zone to Berlin with food and coal for the City's German population.

There are about 10,000 American nationals in Berlin. Generally, they remained calm. U. S. officials said sufficient stocks of most supplies are on hand and will last for a "considerable time."

The first malleable iron fell from the sky as meteorites which primitive man regarded as gifts of the gods.

Jester Asks for Restudy of Dams

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas has called for a federal restudy in Texas interests of the proposed Rio Grande floodway, Chamita Dam and Chiflo Dam projects in New Mexico.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester wrote Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug and Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall that Texas desires "much less reservoir capacity and far greater improved channel capacity" in the projects.

"It appears to Texas interests that reservoir capacity has been unduly stressed and channel capacity not fully exploited," the governor wrote.

"Future events might lead to a reallocation of storage behind the dams, thereby placing in the hands of others not now responsible for their operation the ability to withhold water due Texas, regardless of the provisions of the tri-state Rio Grande compact, or might induce an attempt to revise the compact to provide water now due Texas for expansion of New Mexico irrigated lands in-adequately improved for that purpose," he said.

The governor's objection to the project followed reports to him by Texas' official water agencies and their consulting engineers.

Peanut Butter Is Protein Ace

Give each child his own jar for protein-rich cookies.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Peanuts and peanut butter are sources of good protein. With the price of meat so high, many homemakers are using more peanuts in recipes to get protein in their menus without breaking the family bank.

Make peanut butter cookies often. Give each child his "own name" cookie jar. Let him go to it for his after-school snack with a glass of milk (a fine source of protein).

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

(Makes 4 dozen cookies)
One-half cup butter, 1/2 cup peanut butter, 3/4 cup sugar, 1 egg, beaten, 2 cups flour, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Cream together butter and peanut butter. Add sugar and continue creaming until blended. Add egg and mix in thoroughly. Mix and sift remaining ingredients and add. Chill dough if it is too soft to handle. Roll 1/4-inch thick and cut with cookie cutter. Sprinkle tops with chopped peanuts. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.).

MOLASSES MINT TAFFY

(Makes 70-80 Pieces)
Two cups light molasses, 2 teaspoons vinegar, 1 1/2 tablespoons shortening, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 7 drops oil of peppermint.

Cook molasses and vinegar, stirring constantly, to 260 degrees F. or until a little of the syrup dropped in cold water becomes brittle. Remove from heat and add shortening, salt and baking soda. Stir until mixture ceases to foam, then pour into a greased or oiled pan. When cool enough to pull, drop peppermint on it. Then pull the candy until it is light in color, and begins to harden. Pull into two long strips and cut with scissors into 1-inch pieces.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Canned and blended grapefruit and orange juice, oatmeal, raisin toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, creamed flaked fish and vegetables on toast, soft rolls, molasses mint taffy, tea, milk.

DINNER: Frankfurters, sauerkraut with apple, mashed potatoes, prepared mustard, rye bread, butter or fortified margarine, ginger pears, peanut butter cookies, coffee, milk.

Williams-Wylie Rites Are Read

Captain Betty Williams and Curtis Ray Wylie were united in marriage Monday night, March 22, at The Salvation Army Officers Quarters by Rev. Elbert Labenske who read the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Labenske played the accompaniment while the bride and bridegroom marched into the living room together.

Major Bernice Lyons was the maid of honor and Joe Stone was best man. After the ceremony the wedding party had dinner at Six's where a lovely table was decorated with a bowl of flowers and gifts for the bride.

The bride has been with the local Salvation Army since last June where she has accomplished some very fine work.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Pampa High School and formerly worked for the Plains

Guest Speaker Tells Young People About Missionary in Cuba

Miss Lyndell Smith, president of Jaxie Short YWA of the First Baptist Church, was in charge of the program presented in the church Tuesday evening. The program featured Mrs. O. B. Woolrum who is Young People's Secretary and Counselor of the Southside Baptist Church of Abilene. Mrs. Woolrum gave a review of the book, "Amazing Grace," a biography of Dr. N. M. McCall who headed the Southern Baptist Convention work in Cuba for 42 years.

In her talk Mrs. Woolrum reviewed the growth of the Baptist missions since the beginning in the early part of this century and told of the enlistment of many native Cubans, who were receiving training and carrying on mission work among their own people. She also enumerated various lines of Christian work open to young people wishing to go into full time religious work. Some of these lines are teaching, music, publishing, and medicine.

The formal program was divided into two parts between which a dinner was served to the members of the YWA and representatives of three invited groups, the GA, the Intermediate GA, and the W.M.U. At the dinner, the guest speaker was presented with a gift as a token of the organization's appreciation of her contribution to the local program of the young people's church activities.

LESS DIRTY WORK FOR GALS

BERLIN—(AP)—More than two and one-half years after Berlin's capitulation, 21,000 women are still engaged in picking up the city's bomb and shell rubble. However, efforts to relieve the women of this long-term job have shown results. At the end of 1946 there were 40,000 women in the rubble brigades.

Amarillo Boy Wins Match

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — The Southeastern AAU District today had a championship team trophy to show for its first try in a National Boxing Tournament.

The Southern last night captured the club banner in the National Junior AAU Boxing Championships with a performance that won the admiration of the 2,500 fans who turned out for the show.

Edward Birdwell, 160-pounder from Nashville, Tenn., won the middleweight honors in an old-time slugging bee with Earle Keel of Oklahoma City.

Keel, one of the pre-meet favorites to win a title and runner-up last year, was lucky to survive the first round, then won the sportsmanship award for his great comeback against the rugged Tennessee boy.

The apple-cart upsetter in the finals, however, was rough Curt Kennedy, a 20-year-old Wichita, Kans., lad who serves as a "bummer" in his own right club.

The unheralded Wichita boy soundly beat favored Vince Donnelly, Minneapolis, Minn., high schooler, for the heavyweight championship.

The other champions included: 118 pounds—Lou Palacio, Amarillo, Tex., outpointed Roland Conway, Dallas, Tex.

Fieldhouse for Girl Cagers Is Planned in '49

HILLSBORO — (AP) — A fieldhouse that will handle 7,000 fans for the Texas High School Girls Basketball Tournament is planned by State Director L. C. McKemie in 1949.

Doughty Hall here, where the state tournament is held, can not hold half the fans who want to see the games.

McKemie will leave shortly for Washington to obtain a government fieldhouse. The structure will be moved to Hillsboro.

Increasing popularity of girls' basketball and the possibility of a national playoff in the near future prompted McKemie's decision to build a permanent home for the league and its state tourney.

The Iowa High School Girls Athletic Union already has started plans for a nation-wide playoff in 1949.

Organized in 1939 by McKemie and other school men with 80 charter members, the Texas League has grown to 287. Sixty-five other schools made application too late for 1948 membership. An additional hundred schools sponsored girls' basketball this year, but did not enter championship competition.

Director McKemie predicts the league will have 400 members in 1949.

The state director said the fieldhouse will be owned and operated by the league. Various events would be staged in the structure the year-around to pay maintenance costs.

Phillips Oilers Rule as Kings of Amateur Cagers

NEW YORK — (AP) — Fourteen basketball players, probably the greatest collection of amateur cagers in the world, were named today to the squad which will represent the United States in the coming Olympic Games.

The Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., who defeated the University of Kentucky, 53-49, in the finals of the Olympic tryouts last night, landed five men on the squad, as did the defeated collegians.

Phillips players selected by the 13-man Olympic basketball committee are: Bob Kurland and Jesse Renick, both of whom played their college basketball at Oklahoma A. & M.; Gordon Carpenter and R. C. Pitts, both from the University of Arkansas, and Lew Beck, from Oregon State.

The Kentucky players selected: Alex Groza of Martins Ferry, Ohio, Wallace Jones of Harlan, Ky., Cliff Barker of Yorktown, Ind., Ken Rollins of Wickliffe, Ky., and Ralph Beard of Louisville.

Other places went to Don Barksdale of the Oakland Bitters, Vince Boyla of the Denver Nuggets, Jackie Robinson of Baylor and Ray Lump of New York University.

Alternates include Gerald Tucker, Martin Nash and Ed Beiser of the Oilers; Joe Holland, Jim Line and Dale Barnstable of Kentucky; Ray Lipscomb and Jim Darden of the Denver Nuggets; Les O'Gara and Warren Taubee of the Bitters; Jim Owens and Bill Johnson of Baylor and Adolph

Badminton Is Order of Day

WACO — (AP) — Shuttlecocks were in for a three-day heating today as the American Badminton Association championships opened here.

An estimated 160 experts from every section of the United States were on hand for the three-day event. Twelve-hour sessions are scheduled for today, tomorrow and the Saturday finals.

Champions of six divisions will be crowned.

Dr. David Freeman of Pasadena, Calif., is favored to capture his sixth straight men's singles title. Carl Loveday of Montclair, N. J., finalist with Freeman five years in a row, is on hand for another try at the championship.

Other highly rated contenders are George Harman, Oklahoma champion from Ponca City, and Eugene Tenney of Baylor, Southwest singles king.

Janet Wright of San Francisco is expected to give Ethel Marshall of Buffalo, N. Y., her toughest competition in defense of her women's singles title.

President Warren Wheary and Secretary Rufus D. Beach were on hand to assist Lloyd Russell, Baylor University physical education director, in running the tournament. Both are from Chicago.

Wheary said that the men's singles and doubles champions would head a squad representing the United States and Canada, Europe and the Pacific Zone in competition for the Thomas cup, symbol of world badminton supremacy.

Two holders of world records will be among those competing. Gene Bellbarz of Los Angeles, Calif., and Arthur Payne of Berkeley, Calif., hold the three thread record with 100 pound catches.

Training Camp Roundup

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — Two mainstays of the New York Giant mound staff, Southpaw Dave Kooso and relief Pitcher Ken Trinkle, are slated for their first appearance of the season today.

Kooso and Trinkle, along with Ray Foot, have been selected by Manager Mel Ott to work three innings apiece against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

VERO BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — Jack Banta, hard-throwing rookie right-hander of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has an excellent chance of sticking with the Brooks.

Banta, who led the International League in shutouts and strikeouts last year, blanked his former Montreal teammates without a hit for seven innings yesterday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — Manager Bucky Harris of the New York Yankees is looking for another starting pitcher now that Bill Bevens is on the shelf indefinitely.

Bevens' arm went sour against the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday.

TUCSON, Ariz. — (AP) — Bill Wright and Roman Brunswick were chosen to share the pitching chores for the Chicago White Sox today in the opener of a two-day series with the Cleveland Indians.

EL PASO — (AP) — Manager Charlie Grimm hoped to confine the Chicago Cubs' pitching duties to Don Carlson and Bob Rush today as the Chicagoans opened series with the St. Louis Browns. The big leaguers intended to stage the first game at Juarez, Mexico, across the river from here, but reserved the right to change their minds if the Juarez diamond was not what major leaguers have reason to expect.

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — The Detroit Tigers took a day off today following their arrival here yesterday after breaking camp at Lakeland, Fla. The Bengals will play the New Orleans Pelicans

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, R. NEW YORK — (AP) — From now until the 15th of May, a lot of baseball managers and club owners will be nursing a headache spelled "b-o-u-u-e". That is to say they're just discovering what the bonus rule means. The rule says that a player who has received more than a certain amount in bonuses for signing can't be optioned out to the minors, without waivers, once he is brought up to the big leagues. The object, apparently, was to curb the custom of handing out huge amounts to youngsters by clubs which had happened to be in the chips. All it accomplished was to keep these youngsters, many of whom need seasoning, sitting on benches in major league parks. Clark Griffith already has voiced the suspicion that some clubs have been covering up bonus players and it looks like a safe bet there'll be more of that unless the rule is repealed.

HARD LUCK TALES — Burt Shipley, U. of Maryland baseball coach, is moaning the loss for the season of his best pitcher, Boots Panella. Boots tore a knee cartilage roller skating. Chuck Drzenovich, Penn State blocking back, turned out for boozing this winter for the first time and won the Eastern heavyweight title without even being bruised by an opponent's glove. Then he went back for spring football practice and acquired a beautiful "mouse" under his eye when he was hit during the first scrimmage. A few hours before he was due to start south with the Michigan State College baseball team, drummer Nick Kerhawy received a warning that flood waters of the Red Cedar River were getting close to his house in East Lansing. Nick enlisted such strong-armed coaches as Biggie Munn and John Kobs and managed to rescue the furniture. And the only sympathy he got was a remark from a rival tub-thumper: "They got the stuff out but forgot to drop Nick in."

THE RIGHT SLANT — Between halves of one of the Olympic trial basketball games the other night, members of the Olympic fencing team put on an exhibition with electrical spears. These swords have a device which here Friday night.

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Walters, veteran Cincinnati right-hander, believes aspirin may help him pitch winning ball this season. Walters says he took five tablets yesterday and then pitched 30 minutes of batting practice without suffering "any pain at all" in the right flipper, which usually pains after a few minutes of steady heaving.

Earthquake Believed in Dalhart-Amarillo Area

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — The Texas Panhandle earthquake of March 11, which occurred at 10:31 p. m. (CST) was felt by many persons over portions of five states, announced Dr. Stuart A. Northrop, University of New Mexico.

Early press reports suggested that the epicenter of the quake was located in northeastern New Mexico, somewhere in the vicinity of Clayton. Prof. Northrop, of the University of New Mexico geology department, who is the New Mexico collaborator in seismology for the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, began his investigation of the shock by setting up a questionnaire-card net.

As reports came in, it became apparent that the quake was of somewhat greater intensity in the Texas Panhandle, especially in the Dalhart-Amarillo region. It was felt anywhere in New Mexico, reported Dr. Northrop.

Reports are still coming in, but those received to date indicate that this earthquake was felt throughout an area of about 50,000 square miles. The felt area is bounded roughly by Tucuman, Shomaker, Cimarron, and Raton, New Mexico; La Junta and Lamar, Colorado; Johnson, Kans.; Gaymon, Okla.; Spearman, Clarendon, Memphis, and Canyon, Tex.

In the Dalhart-Amarillo region, the quake had an intensity of 5 on the Mercalli Scale, classed as a moderately strong shock. Beyond the area in which it was felt by human beings it was recorded on seismographs, such as those at El Paso and Denver.

The same general region has experienced quakes in 1907, 1917, 1925, and 1936, or approximately one every eight to twelve years. The March 11 quake covered a greater area (50,000 square miles) than the 1936 quake, which covered only 40,000 square miles, but did not approach the 1925 quake which was felt over an area of 200,000 square miles.

Beneath the level High Plains surface of the Texas Panhandle is a buried mountain range. The Amarillo Mountains, trending east-west just north of Amarillo. This ancient mountain range has steeply dipping flanks on which younger sediments were deposited. It is thought likely, explained Dr. Northrop, that these younger sediments are undergoing compaction, thus setting up strains which are relieved by slight slips from time to time. Enough energy is released at the time of these adjustments to cause the earth tremors.

Inhabitants of the region may take comfort in the fact that seismologists believe that these shocks of slight to moderate intensity act as a sort of safety valve, thus preventing long-time accumulation of strains which in other parts of the world sometimes result in disastrous shocks with much loss of life and property.

State Pensioners Ask Jester's Aid

AUSTIN — (AP) — Texas old-age pensioners added their plea to the growing cries for a special session.

Eyrett H. O'Dowd, Waco attorney, wrote Gov. Beauford H. Jester that he had been authorized to request a special session for adequate laws to provide "a just-old age assistance grant."

"Under the present economic conditions, it is impossible for the old people to meet their needs," O'Dowd wrote.

"Since the teachers are demanding a special session, and since the Democratic Party believes that a special session is necessary, they believe that justice would be done to all parties, if you, as governor called a special session to meet the present emergency," O'Dowd said.

O'Dowd invited the Governor to attend the Texas Pension Association's convention in Waco April 17. He offered broadcast facilities for the Governor's speech if he attends.

The typewriter was patented in 1847 by C. Latham Sholes.

Texas Farm Work Being Stepped Up Conservation Plan Set Up

AUSTIN—(AP)—Farm work in Texas was stepped up last week as fields became drier and the ground more workable.

Field work was still delayed in some parts of East Texas by too much moisture and in West Texas because of too little moisture. Some Edwards Plateau and Trans-Pecos counties continued to be very dry, and rain is needed in the south to help damaged crops recover. Western pastures continue to need rain.

On the whole, the United States Department of Agriculture said in its weekly crop and weather bulletin, progress was made in farm work.

Wheat was doing well; some badly damaged oats was being plowed up; corn planting was underway; cotton planting and replanting continued in southern counties; large quantities of sweet potatoes were being bedded in the important East Texas area.

Planting and replanting of commercial vegetables was active as growers struggled to replace losses suffered in the mid-March freeze. A limited harvest of early onions in the Laredo area started.

Little Chance Seen For Big Wheat Crop

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Bread belt farmers and those on the Great Plains to the Southwest have their fingers crossed this Spring as the new crop growing season begins.

Most wheat farmers feel there is little chance of another bumper crop like last year's.

For seven years now they have had bumper crops in the hard wheat country, the heart of which lies in Kansas, Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

The weather and the law of averages are against a repeat performance. Yet there is a touch of optimism in the talk at the crossroads as the countryside begins to green up.

The corn outlook is better but Missouri is about the only state among those of the south-central and southwestern group that can be considered much of a corn country.

Oats, like wheat, got caught by the weather. Wheat hit a dry spell shortly after planting time and last fall and oats ran into a wet Spring which kept farmers out of fields for the most part.

The farmer's lot has improved somewhat from the labor, storage and machinery standpoint—enough so that he probably can slip through the growing season and harvest without too much trouble.

The weather, always "X" in the farm equation, has had a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde effect on the crops in these parts. It even went so far as to affect the tomato and onion crops in Texas.

Early tomato plants in East Texas were wiped out by the early March freeze. Rio Grande Valley plants were retarded. The onion crop wasn't hit so hard.

their mark. H. C. Winburn, Amarillo weatherman, says top soil is loose—and perfect for dust storms. He is hoping for a hard rain to repack the soil around the wheat roots.

On the plains south of the Texas Panhandle, they are expecting a harvest about one-fourth as big as last year's. The fall drought is the answer there, too, for the poor prospects.

Perhaps the brightest winter wheat spot is Missouri. A third again as much wheat has been sown in this state as was last year. The fall was ideal for planting and the wheat was away to a good start. The greatest snowfall in years added moisture and a warm covering against the winter winds.

Prospects for the 1948 corn crop in Missouri are most encouraging. That comes from Tom R. Douglass of the Missouri Department of Agriculture. He says richer fields on bottom land farms have been reserved this year for corn.

Oklahoma's corn crop likely will be a bit smaller but wet fields may lead farmers to put corn in instead of oats.

Soggy fields this Spring have dealt oats a tough blow. Many of them have been so wet that farmers couldn't get oats in. Now it is too late in many cases.

There has been little pasturing of livestock on the wheat this Spring because of its late start. Consequently most farmers are running low on feed.

New Mexico farmers and ranchers aren't predicting record crops or herds. But they are not complaining about the weather. With few exceptions, they are pleased with the moisture left by a wet winter.

On the eastern side of the state, ranchers say range prospects are the best in several years. In the northern part, melting snows have left them "muddied in" but happy. Wheat acreage is smaller than last year but what came up looks healthy enough.

Lack of water and electric power has retarded Arizona agriculture. Cotton planting is about done there. It is about the same as last year when a crop valued at $45,000,000 was harvested. This is about one-fourth of the state's agriculture income.

The drought is expected to hit the cattle business hard in Arizona. Lack of moisture last year in Southern Texas and Louisiana brought cattle from that section into the state. This year greatly restricted hay and alfalfa crops in Arizona is likely to cause the business of feeding cattle to drop off considerably.

Throughout Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona the labor situation appears to be easing. Some farming

W. G. Ehman has completed a conservation plan on his place. He plans to drain several small lakes in his wheat field, prepare some land for reseeded to grass; and use crop residue management on his farm land. Leaving a good part of the straw near or on the surface of the soil will help catch snow during the winter, build up the fertility of the soil by addition of organic matter and nitrogen, and will help prevent soil blowing. Also he will try experimental use of nitrogen and phosphate fertilizer—after a complete chemical analysis of the soil has been completed showing what will be needed. These soil samples will be taken as soon as possible and sent to Soil Conservation Service Regional Operations Laboratory at Fort Worth.

A good deal of work is being done on the flood control program on the Washita River. There are about 23 sections in Roberts County in this drainage. This gives a possibility of getting some large erosion control dams built, and a better chance of reseeded poor farmland to grass. Anyone interested in this work can obtain more information by contacting the local Soil Conservation Service technicians.

FERMENTED CINNAMON

Cinnamon is obtained by a process of fermentation. Bark is stripped from the cinnamon tree and allowed to ferment to loosen the inner bark, which is used as a spice.

homa's rich grainfields, farmers are saying the outlook is gloomy. Planting there was delayed four to eight weeks by last fall's drought. At best they expect only a normal crop.

Leslie Smith, a farmer of the Enid neighborhood, says "it looks like the boom days are over and it is time to get down to work again."

Chester V. Johnson, a Texoma editor of Oklahoma's Panhandle, is more optimistic. His county, Texas, was Oklahoma's No. 1 wheat producer last year.

"Forty-eight inches of winter snow," he said, "have changed the dismal Autumn wheat prospects in this section of Oklahoma Panhandle and the north part of the Texas Panhandle to a Spring outlook that is excellent."

C. F. Augustine, who runs livestock yards at Texoma and Lamar, Colo., agrees. Augustine is in touch with farmers and stockmen over much of Northern Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico and Eastern Colorado.

"Much of the wheat that had a chance to come up last fall," he reports, "looks awfully nice now. Wheat acreage drilled later is just now coming up and doesn't look too promising. I would say that 50 to 60 percent of the wheat acreage looks good and has a good chance."

Farmers in the Texas Panhandle are depending a great deal on volunteer stands. A dry fall prevented planting in much of the Panhandle. Volunteer stands make a good crop two or three times in 10 years.

The Texas Panhandle has plenty of moisture right now but the winter's harsh blizzards have left

But farmers always have been a hopeful lot—like C. A. Crumbaker, who farms some 1,000 acres along the Blue River in Central Kansas.

"I have one plot of wheat that I was going to plow up for Spring oats planting," he says, "but it has greened up so much in the last few days that I believe it will make a good crop."

Nowhere on the plains is there anything approaching unanimity on the crop's chances.

Texas City Blast Is Believed Gas Explosion

WASHINGTON (AP)—A preliminary explosion of gases touched off the main blast that became the Texas City disaster of last April, four Army chemists believe.

This theory is advanced in a government report offered for sale by the Commerce Department. It was written by four chemists of the Army Ordnance Department.

More than 500 persons were killed or missing when fertilizer-grade ammonium nitrate aboard the SS Grandcamp and SS High Flyer exploded at Texas City. The Grandcamp went off first—early in the morning. The High Flyer exploded early the next day.

The report said it was believed a fire in the hold of the Grandcamp produced the preliminary explosion and that when these gases exploded, the main blast was touched off.

The chemists, P. F. Macy, T. D. Duderar, E. F. Reese and L. H. Erikson, are attached to the Picatinny Arsenal. The ammonium nitrate aboard the ships was manufactured in Army arsenals.

The men said the ammonium nitrate was packed in 100-pound moisture proof, six-ply paper bags and stacked on wooden supports.

Witnesses have said the ammonium nitrate burned more than an hour before the explosion. The chemists advanced this theory, although acknowledged it "can never be proved."

The paper bagging or wooden supports were accidentally ignited. A slow combustion followed in which the ammonium nitrate rather than air supplied the necessary oxygen for the fire.

The heat melted additional ammonium nitrate, which was in nodules coated with 75 percent wax and 2.5 percent clay, causing the nitrate to react with the coating wax, paper, bagging and wood to produce a gaseous mixture.

This mixture was composed of carbon monoxide, nitrous oxide and heavy acid gases. It was heavier than air and displaced the air in the hold of the ship. After the hatch was battened down, the gas

Population at High School Age Due to Increase

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The population at high school age will increase one third in the next twelve years, the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company forecast. The present population is 14 to 17 years of age is estimated at 2,460,000, and is expected to rise to 3,370,000 by 1960.

This sharp upward trend in the high school population is a direct consequence of the almost uninterrupted rise in the birth rate since 1934, a rise which reached a climax in the war and postwar boom in births.

Elementary schools already are experiencing the effect of the wartime rise in births. The elementary school enrollment will continue to increase until about 1956, and the total at elementary and high school age will reach an all-time high of about 34,200,000 in 1958, the statisticians estimate.

"The educational system in our country obviously is faced with a critical situation," the statisticians comment. "Unless definite measures are taken immediately to provide additional teaching personnel and facilities, large numbers of American boys and girls will be deprived of an adequate education."

$200 Increase in Used Car Prices

prices in Texas have jumped $200 in recent weeks, with $100 of the increase coming since last Friday.

This was the report directors of the Texas Used Car Dealers Association made here.

President William Freeman of Amarillo, Lloyd Weaver, Fort Worth, and other dealers blamed curbed steel production because of the soft coal miners strike, reduction in new car production and the "state of international relations with Russia" for the increase in the hold (as witnesses indicated).

When the closely confined mixture "reached its lower limit of concentration of ignition" or was heated to its ignition point, it exploded. This preliminary explosion set off explosion of the melted and "probably" part of the hot but still solid ammonium nitrate.

The chemists based their analysis on experiments carried out at Picatinny Arsenal which "show that the combustion of nitrate and paper or wood can produce gaseous products which will explode."

They said it has long been known ammonium nitrate will explode when detonated by another high explosive, but they know of no instance in which fire or heat alone had exploded it.
