Thirteen Hurt In Perryton Area 'Twisters' Yesterday

Homes And Farms Severely Damaged

Heavy property damage and 13 injuries were reported this morning in the wake of one and possibly more tornadoes which slammed Ochiltree and Lipscomb Counties late yesterday.

Hardest hit in the area was the McMillen Community, 17 miles southwest of Perryton.

Damage here started on the Tom Swink farm, and swung off in a northeasterly direction destroying outbuildings and barns on the Glen Tarbox farm, then hitting the Fred Tarbox farm where it ripped the roof off the house and caused extensive damage. Here, Danny Tarbox is credited with helping to keep the storm from severely injuring his father. Danny grabbed his father by the leg, keeping him from being sucked into the air by the swirling winds. A dresser had fallen on the boy, helping to hold him down. Damage to the home, valued at $50,000, was extensive.

Next the funnel hit the Tom Slack farm, where it demolished a stucco house. The Slacks barely beat the storm to their basement and were uninjured.

Lester Barnes' J. L. Egg farm was hit then, and three of four 350 foot by 40 foot chicken houses disappeared.

The roof of a newly-completed home was partially blown off at the Bob Urban farm, shortly after he had taken refuge in his storm cellar.

Harvey Urban, 60, suffered a crushed chest and back when the storm struck his farm. A Mexican laborer, Jesse Montaya, was also injured here. Both are in Sanford Hospital in Perryton where the extent of their injuries is unknown but both were said in "good" condition this morning by a hospital official. Urban's brick home was destroyed.

Also damaged was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Judice, who huddled in a closet while the winds blew brick around inside their $50,000 house, heavily damaging it. They also lost approximately $10,000 worth of farm equipment, a hay barn, garage, TV tower, windmill and a combine was dropped a mile east of the house.

The funnel then hit the J. W. Jines home, where G. E. McCaskill, golf pro at the Perryton Golf Course, was injured. The Jines home was destroyed. The McCaskills were caring for the Robert Holland baby of Perryton. Mattresses were piled on top of the child, who was uninjured when the house collapsed. McCaskill suffered deep face lacerations but his condition is reported as good. He was taken to Sanford Hospital in Perryton.

The home on the Leonard Littau farm was unroofed and the Perry Yates house, 13 miles south of Perryton, was damaged heavily. Tornadoes also bracketed Booker, 12 miles northeast of Perryton, one hitting 1 1/2 miles north and the other a mile south of the city. (See TORNADOES, Page 3)

City's Swimming Pools Will Open On Memorial Day

Pampa's two city-operated swimming pools will be opened to the public Memorial Day, it was announced today by R. B. Cooke, public works director.

E. S. Lowry, city water superintendent, said the Municipal pool at Kentucky and Sloane Sts. and the Marcus-Sanders Memorial pool, 438 Crawford St., will be ready for use Wednesday.

Hours at both pools seven days a week will be from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. Each pool will close for one hour between 6 and 7 p.m.

Morgan Edwards will be the manager of the Municipal pool and Jessie Austin will manage the Marcus-Sanders pool. Life guards at the Municipal pool will be Harold Thrasher, Bill Snider, Bryan Martin and Ronald Woodard. Guards at Sanders pool will be Everett Morgan and Nathaniel Buntin.

Pool fees at Municipal will be 35 cents for children under 12 and 50 cents over 12. The fee at Marcus-Sanders pool will be 15 cents for children under 12 and 35 cents for those over 12.

City Drive To Kill Insects Starts Soon

The annual drive to rid Pampa of mosquitoes and flies will get into full swing just as soon as the current city-wide cleanup drive is finished.

R. B. Cooke, public works director, said the attack on insects will be two-fold. The city will cut weeds in streets and alleys and then implement the mosquito control by day and night spraying of insecticides in all areas of the city.

Cooke said the city cleanup was winding up in Ward 3 today and will move into Ward 4 tomorrow. The cleanup drive will move through Ward 4 Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Monday. The cleanup crews will not work on Memorial Day or Saturday and Sunday.

The works director said so far the city has removed approximately 300 loads of trash and rubbish from Pampa streets and alleys since the cleanup drive started May 14.

Housing Found For 'Dragon' Cast

Housing accommodations for all members of the cast of "The Dragon," to be presented here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, were completed today, according to an announcement by officials of sponsoring organizations.

The play, written by Nationalist Chinese students as part of a world-wide anti-Communist Moral Re-Armament movement, will be staged at 8 p.m. each of three nights in Pampa Junior High School auditorium.

Tickets are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce and several downtown business places at $1.50 for the first floor and $1 for balcony seats.

'We Can Only Assume It Was A Bomb'

Explosion In Airplane's Tail Section Killed 45

By GEORGE B. BROWN
United Press International
CENTERVILLE, Iowa (UPI)—Explosion of a dynamite-like substance in a rear washroom caused last week's jet airliner crash which killed 45 persons, the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) disclosed Sunday night.

Murder-Suicide Pact?
Reports mounted today that FBI men and other investigators were looking into the possibility of a suicide-murder pact between a man and a woman who had booked passage on the plane from Chicago to Kansas City.

The "murder-suicide" theory was linked to unconfirmed reports that someone on the plane had taken out $225,000 in air travel insurance.

One official at the scene said, "As practical people we can only assume it was a bomb."

The Continental Airlines Boeing 707 plunged 39,000 feet into a shallow gulley near Unionville, Mo., 20 miles south of here, Tuesday night.

CAB crash investigators, reconstructing the tail section of the stricken plane, learned late Sunday that the blast occurred in a washroom under the vertical fin of the aircraft. The washroom, on the right side of the plane, behind a coat rack which was directly back of the galley, was used by both men and women passengers and crew.

John Pahl, engineering division chief of the CAB's Bureau of Safety, said the blast was caused by a "high velocity explosive" similar to dynamite, but he could not yet say that dynamite was used.

However, Pahl said that dynamite was the "most convenient type" of explosive which would cause a blast of the intensity of that which destroyed the airliner and ended Continental's record of 28 years without a passenger fatality.

Pahl said the explosive substance blew a hole the height of the entire rear portion of the plane's fuselage and immediately severed the tail section, although the tail assembly might have remained attached by control cables for a few seconds or minutes after the crash.

Skin scrapings of victims were under analysis at the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in Washington, D. C., in an effort to determine the type of explosive used.

Pahl said that present laboratory techniques are so fine that if enough residue from the explosive is found, not only the type but the manufacturer of the substance can be determined.

Earlier Sunday the Federal Bureau of Investigation took possession of a briefcase bearing the initials "T. C. D." from Centerville police.

The briefcase was found Sunday by Gabe Rackie on his farm a mile east of Centerville, Iowa, 12 miles north of Unionville, Mo., and eight miles south of here.

The passenger and crew list released by Continental Airlines after the crash contained no person with the three initials on the briefcase.

Insurance companies which write in-flight policies began over the weekend to process their records and determine the amount of coverage of persons aboard the plane.

FBI agents in Chicago were attempting to trace the travel patterns of the 37 passengers who boarded the plane at O'Hare International Airport for the flight to Los Angeles, by way of Kansas City, Mo.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Agriculture Department official told House investigators today there is reason to believe that Billie Sol Estes is guilty of a criminal violation in his grain storage dealings with the government.

In making the first such public charge against the Texas financier, the official said information on the matter had been turned over to the FBI and the Justice Department. He said the alleged violation involved false financial statements and carried up to a five-year prison term on conviction.

Sgt. York Is 'Acutely Ill'

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (UPI) — Sgt. Alvin B. York, a red-haired giant from the Tennessee hills whose skill with a rifle made him a one-man army in World War I, is "acutely ill" at a hospital here.

The 74-year-old Medal of Honor winner, bedridden since 1954, was taken to Fentress County General Hospital last Saturday. Dr. Guy C. Pinkley, who has cared for him for the past 25 years, said York apparently had suffered a gastro-intestinal hemorrhage.

Pinkley said he saw no immediate cause for "too much alarm." He said Sunday night the bleeding had been checked.

Since 1942 York has fought off lobar pneumonia, heart trouble, high blood pressure, a hemorrhage in his right eye and a stroke that left him partially paralyzed. He lives in a "ferris wheel" bed that lets him shift his position by himself and sit up to watch television.

LAREDO (UPI) — More than 60,000 persons lined up Sunday for a mass inoculation against polio. They took the serum orally.

It was believed to be the first mass inoculation in the state using the oral medicine Sabin. Twenty-five stations were set up to handle the crowd.

Laredo has had seven paralytic polio cases this year.

Western, Commie Cops In Gunfight

BERLIN (UPI) — Western and Communist police fought a gun duel across a border canal within sight of afternoon strollers Sunday after the Reds shot down a fleeing refugee.

None of the policemen was hurt in the exchange of 60 shots, but East German officials reported the refugee died of his wounds in a hospital.

Laos Rebels' Offensive Is Broken Off

VIETIANE, Laos (UPI) — Pro-Communist Laotian rebels, possibly aided by North Vietnamese troops, were reported today to have broken off a new offensive after capturing a royal government outpost near Houei Sai.

Radio messages received from American military advisers in the Mekong River border village said the rebel drive stopped just before dark Sunday.

They said there had been no further contact since the rebels captured the government outpost about nine miles from the village on the road leading to Nam Tha.

Ambitious New Trip To End In Pacific

penier and John H. Glenn Jr. flights had confirmed the basic soundness of the Mercury spacecraft and demonstrated that two men of relatively different makeup could take 4 1/2-hour periods of weightlessness in stride.

Disclosure of the prospective step-up in American space exploration came after Carpenter delivered what he called a "working astronaut's" report to the people who paid for his trip, the taxpayers, and declared: "I'm ready for two weeks in orbit."

He described himself as "uneasy" in the spotlight of public acclaim. But he delivered his report at a televised news conference Sunday in the matter-of-fact, assured manner of a veteran engineering test pilot who had his troubles on a tough mission but did not let them obscure the solid results.

"In many respects this was as easy as a bus ride," he said of the flight.

He acknowledged he made mistakes, especially in allowing the fuel supply for his control jets to run critically low. He "apologized" for the concern he caused when his spacecraft overshoot its landing target and his whereabouts were unknown while he bobbed in the Atlantic in a life raft for 40 minutes.

Back on Grand Turk Island, where he underwent medical and engineering examinations after the flight, he had admitted to some concern during entry into the atmosphere with his fuel gone and his craft oscillating. But that apprehension had disappeared by

Sunday as he thought back on the episode and he said "I was not" concerned. "My status was good throughout."

As for his observations on the triple-orbit flight itself, the 37-year-old Navy officer said weightlessness was an agreeable state that relieved his cumbersome space suit of its restrictive nature and made him more comfortable than when lying in bed.

He described sunrise and sunset as the "most magnificent sight I will ever see" and told of very successfully photographing it. He said he thought that from the moon, with the sun below the horizon, the "new earth" would appear as a bright blue ring in the sky.

Seven-Orbit Astronaut Adventure Expected Next

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY
United Press International
CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) —

The flight of Soot Carpenter, who found space travel "as easy as a bus ride", almost certainly set the stage for America's next Mercury launch to be a seven-orbit adventure with a landing in the Pacific instead of the Atlantic.

Space officials said today that on the strength of Carpenter's successful three-orbit of earth last Thursday they expected the ambitious new space voyage to be scheduled for next fall. The trip would take more than 10 hours and the astronaut would be recovered near Midway Island.

Further triple orbits would be dispensed with, these sources believed, pointing out that the Carpentier and John H. Glenn Jr. flights had confirmed the basic soundness of the Mercury spacecraft and demonstrated that two men of relatively different makeup could take 4 1/2-hour periods of weightlessness in stride.

Disclosure of the prospective step-up in American space exploration came after Carpenter delivered what he called a "working astronaut's" report to the people who paid for his trip, the taxpayers, and declared: "I'm ready for two weeks in orbit."

Glenn on the nature of the "fireflies" both saw during their orbital flights. Glenn thought they originated outside the capsule and were luminous. Carpenter thought they came from frost that collected on the capsule and broke off when he banged the walls from the inside.

Depth perception and visual acuity, he said, were the same as on earth. He said he was able to make out four cloud layers at one time.

He told of an unaccountable bit of "smoke" in his spacecraft which he thought amounted to "two pounds" and smelled like hot copper as it floated over his shoulder and then disappeared.

Of the food he ate, he said, "the cookies crumbled and the candy melted."

Senior Center Corner

Senior Citizens Center

Mrs. Lizzie Collins enjoyed a fishing trip to Lake Texhoma, while visiting her son, R. C. Collins and family in Ardmore, Okla. recently and really had something to brag about. She caught a BIG FISH.

Sorry to hear that Mrs. Joe Mullins is ill and in Worley Hospital. N. H. Shireman was ill at home and unable to come to the Center Thursday. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

Was nice to see Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chamberlin out Thursday and to hear Georgia's contagious laugh. Was also good to have Mrs. Romidea Nolen with us. She has not been coming often since her illness in the winter.

Mrs. Cora Yates reports a lovely visit with her son, Frankie Yates and family in Cheyenne, Wyo., over Mother's Day. She did not get to make the usual fishing trip with her son this time. Mrs. Yates got home in time to attend a big meeting of the WWI Barracks and Auxiliary in Childress on the 26th with about 30 other women from Pampa.

Mrs. W. J. Cornelson enjoyed a two weeks' visit with relatives in Colcord, Okla. and Huntsville, Ark. She had the misfortune to trip over a small dog and fall off the porch. She was still carrying a few bruises, but got home in time to be with us on Thursday.

Mrs. Maggie Deal with 30 other Rebekahs of Pampa, enjoyed a salad supper and fine program in honor of Mrs. Leona Shepherd of Denton, who is the state president of the Texas Rebekah Assembly and with Mrs. Ellen Kretzmeier of Pampa, who is the state vice president. The supper was held in the Skellevtown Rebekah Lodge.

Several of us were late at the Center on Thursday due to the excitement and suspense of Astronaut Scott Carpenter's three orbits around the earth. As one commentator stated: "all we could do was watch and pray for his safe return." Only after he was safely in his life raft could we leave to enjoy the afternoon. We watched his being picked up later in the evening on our TV. A thrilling climax!

The American Legion Auxiliary headed by Mrs. L. K. Stout was hostess for the afternoon and served ice cream, the most delicious homemade cakes and coffee.

Door prizes were won by Yours Truly and Jay Evans. Mrs. Libby Shotwell, executive Red Cross secretary, took time off to come down and help. She is a member and past president of the American Legion Auxiliary; as well as being a member of the Altruza Club, which sponsors the weekly meetings at the Center. It was good to see her; she is always so full of vim and good will!

Dear Abby.... Husband Needs "Retail" Doctor

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a man I've been married to for 22 years. No matter what we need, he knows someone who can get it for him wholesale. I am not opposed to saving money, but we're stuck with so much stuff because of his "wholesale connections" it is ridiculous. Six cases of sour, pitted cherries. Two cases of mustard. A fur coat that smells like a cat when it's wet, and boxes of cosmetics all dried out. Our carpeting came in the wrong color and they refused to take it back. How can I convince him it is cheaper to buy things retail like everybody else?

SICK OF WHOLESALE

DEAR SICK: Your husband is a little "sick," too. He's allergic to the retailer's profit, insensitive to being skinned, and deaf to your common sense. Get him to a "retail" doctor, but fast!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a woman who asks a man for his financial statement after four dates?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Before a proposal, I think that's a good way to lose a man without even trying.

DEAR ABBY: My parents decided to make a cello player out of my older bother. He hated it and wouldn't practice. He was so bad his teacher said he wouldn't teach him for a million dollars. Well, we had this old cello laying around the house, so my parents are forcing ME to take cello. I hate it. I love music and want to take up the clarinet or some wind instrument so I can play in the school band. They refuse to invest in another musical instrument. Is this fair?

STUCK WITH A CELLO

DEAR STUCK: No, it is not fair. Suggest that they SELL the cello (place an ad in our newspaper) and buy a clarinet with the money.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TRYING TO HELP": Sorry, but I do not write to people with advice at the suggestion of a "friend." If the party you are attempting to "help" is ready to take advice from me, let him ask for it.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped, envelope to ABBY, in care of this paper.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Roy Tinsley, Mrs. Lester Reynolds was voted club representative to council as a possible delegate to the state meeting.

Plans were approved to meet at 9:10 a.m. throughout the summer. The next meeting is to be with Mrs. N. L. Welton, southeast of the city on June 1.

Demos Seek Vote On Public Works Project

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic leaders were hopeful the Senate would vote today on an administration-supported public works program and that the vote would be a favorable one.

The leadership was confident of passage. It was a little less confident of a vote before nightfall, though the measure was called up under an agreement limiting debate on it.

The first test was expected to come on a vote on a rival Republican sponsored proposal limiting the program to a $500 million loan-and-grant plan.

The administration bill would authorize a $750 million public works program to start July 1 to provide jobs in economically depressed areas. It would also provide another $750 million in "standby" authority for works projects to be used in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1963.

But this would be triggered only if national unemployment rose by 1 per cent and if the jobless rate already was at least 5 per cent.

The compromise Democratic plan represented a strategic retreat from the $2.6 billion program of massive public works spending originally cleared by the public works committee.

Other congressional news: Postal: The Senate Postal Committee will hear editors and publishers on a proposal to raise rates for second-class mail. Many magazines and newspapers are opposing the proposed increase.

Power: The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said today there was no need for Congress to appropriate $500,000 to plan a federal transmission system from the Bonneville power administration in Washington state to California markets because private companies have already offered to build the facilities.

50 Gas Wells, 245 Oil Wells Are Brought In

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas drillers brought in 245 oil wells and 50 gas wells during the past week, the Texas Railroad Commission said Saturday.

The completions brought the year's oil well total to 4,083 completions and gas wells to 1,368, compared with 3,782 and 1,167, respectively, to date last year.

Wildcaters brought in 16 oil and 13 gas wells in the week. The year's wildcat completions rose to 189 oil and 518 gas wells, compared with 188 oil and 294 gas wells to date in 1961.

The Texas average daily oil allowable rose by 8,598 barrels daily to 2,751,826 barrels during the week, the Commission said. Texas oil flowed from 204,022 wells in 7,411 fields. A week ago, there were 203,910 oil wells.

Wildcat oil completions included seven in the Refugio district, three in the Midland district, two in the Abilene district, and one each in the San Antonio, Houston, San Angelo and Wichita Falls districts. Wildcat gas completions included 10 in the Midland district and three in the Refugio district.

Farmhand Kills Five Members Of Family

By JOHN W. McCORMICK
United Press International
UNIONVILLE, Iowa (UPI) — A quiet, methodical farmhand and expert hunter who stalked and killed five members of his family was believed cornered today in a maze of brush and timber-choked gulches near here.

A heavily armed posse ringed the five-square-mile area where Gayno Gilbert Smith, 24, was thought to be lurking, still armed with the "over-and-under" shot-gun-rifle combination used to kill his aunt and uncle and their three children at their rural Hayesville, Iowa, farm home.

Smith was accused of killing farmer Andrew McBeth, the latter's wife, Dora Mae, 42, and their children, Amos and Anna, 15-year-old twins, and Mrs. Donna Jean McBeth-Kellogg, 17. Donna Jean was a divorcee.

A fourth child, Patsy McBeth, 15, was wounded in the shoulder during the "motiveless" mass slaughter Saturday night and early Sunday.

The search for Smith shifted from Hayesville, 40 miles southeast, to Unionville when Smith's abandoned car was found on a country road 2½ miles west of this community of 175 persons.

The manhunt began about 2 a.m. Sunday when Patsy, sobbing with fright and pain, stumbled into a neighbor's home and screamed, "Gayno shot us. I know mother and dad are dead. I know they're all dead. I don't know why he did it. I don't know why he did it."

Authorities said Smith took the McBeth children to a dance in Brighton, Iowa, Saturday night and then slipped away from the dance and returned to the farm to kill the farmer and his wife, firing four shots through a living room window from the weapon, consisting of a 410-gauge shotgun barrel over a 22-caliber rifle barrel.

Smith dragged the bodies to a nearby garage, wiped up the blood in the living room and removed fuses, leaving the house in darkness, authorities said.

Then he returned to the dance, picked up his four cousins, took them to Hedrick, Iowa, for soft drinks and sandwiches and brought them back to the farm, Patsy said.

When they arrived at the farm Amos became suspicious because of the darkened house and began a search. He found the bodies of his parents, the survivor said.

Patsy said Smith ran to the car, grabbed the gun and "just started shooting." Anna was shot in the back and fell to the living room floor. The others scattered, and Smith, an expert hunter, began stalking them, firing at sounds and silhouettes.

Mrs. Kellogg was hit in the chest and head and her body fell across the bed where her son, Perry, 6 months, lay sleeping and unharmed.

OAS Launches Attack On New Moslem Force

United Press International
ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—The Secret-Army Organization (OAS) today launched its first concerted machine-gun attack on the new Moslem auxiliary police force, sparking a waterfront battle that lasted two hours.

At least one Moslem longshoreman was killed and two Moslem policemen wounded. Elsewhere in the city OAS attacks killed nine others.

French security forces moved in armored cars to support the policemen, who were pinned down by fire from balconies and an automobile.

The 350-man Moslem force was put in charge of waterfront protection last week. As a result, hundreds of longshoremen began drifting back to work for the first time in three weeks. They had refused to work following an OAS bombing May 2 which killed 63 dockworkers and wounded 110.

Over the weekend OAS raiders started fires at two district city halls, two tax offices, other public buildings and at least 20 primary schools in its campaign to block Algeria's independence.

The new OAS policy was believed designed to destroy Algerian civil progress and thus make it more difficult to achieve a smooth running of the territory when independence comes.

French authorities were mystified as to what the OAS meant when it threatened over the weekend to use a new "weapon which no army in the world has ever used."

The statement was made in a pirate radio broadcast and did not elaborate.

Terrorists Sunday killed 22 persons and wounded 53, bringing the year's totals to 5,212 dead and 9,076 wounded across Algeria.

Diversification Draws Attention Of Government

By Jesse Bogue
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The industrialist considering diversification today may find that the federal government has a close interest in his actions under the Clayton (merger) act, a National Industrial Conference Board study disclosed.

The study, made public today, covered merger cases filed between 1951-62, and found that 42 of the 96 merger cases involved more than one acquisition by a single acquiring agency.

"Cases of this kind have been increasing in frequency," said the study, called "Mergers and Markets."

Reviewing the actions in this field by the Federal Trade Commission and by the Department of Justice, the NICB found 11 of the 42 cases covered acquisitions of chains by chains in the grocery, milk and baking industries and in the automobile rental and LP gas distribution markets.

Out of its review of various cases, the NICB reported that generally the FTC and the courts have found four ways in which competition might be lessened through a merger action. They were:

Casper Wins "500" Golf Tournament

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Billy Casper played heedlessly until the chips were down, but when he found out what he needed to win he did just that to pick up first prize of $9,000 in the "500" Festival golf tournament.

"There were so many fellows so close," he said, "that I decided I wouldn't pay any attention to what they were doing. But when I got to the 18th, the suspense was too much. I just had to ask."

"When my caddie told me I needed a birdie to win, I almost fell over."

Casper played safe to insure the triumph. He used a four iron to play short of the green, putted safely on his first try and then knocked in a four-footer for his birdie and triumph with a closing round 64, two strokes off the course record, and a 72-hole total of 264, six strokes better than the previous record for the Speedway course set by Doug Ford two years ago.

Casper needed his phenomenal finish, in which he tied the course record with a 30 for the last nine holes, to supplant George Bayer and Jerry Steelsmith and win the crown. Both Bayer, with a 20-foot putt, and Steelsmith, with a three-footer, had eagled the 18th to go 19 strokes under par and put the pressure on Casper.

But the Apple Valley, Calif., pro didn't yield to their pressure. He birdied the 17th to make it possible for him to tie with a par on the final hole and then won with another bird.

It was his third tournament win this year, following victories at Greensboro and Miami, and the pay check gave him earnings for the year of $41,208, almost as much as he won in the entire 1961 season, $41,323. But he still trails money winning leader Arnold Palmer by $18,000 this year.

Casper's total score was the best on the tourney tour this year since he finished 20 under par and the best previous tally was 18 under par by Doug Sanders in winning at Pensacola.

Bayer and Steelsmith, finishing with 265, each won $3,800. Bruce Crampton of Australia and Bill Collins had 268 to win $2,450 apiece. Dave Ragan took sixth money of $2,100 with 269, and Gary Player, Don Fairfield and Joe Campbell shared seventh place to win $1,733 each at 270.

Baseball Games Are Continuing To Drag

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball is showing new concern today over the manner in which its games are dragging, a condition which has forced the fans to acquire the physical endurance of flagpole sitters.

There was a time if you were a big eater you took along a sandwich in a paper sack. In this era it's no novelty to see groups toting lunch baskets and thermos bottles.

If you don't, and insist on seeing in all the "action," you're likely to starve before you get that ninth inning parole.

There have been many ideas as to why baseball has become a marathon. One of the best bets is the lively ball. It provides excessive hitting with an increase in base running and scoring and the accompanying parade of pitchers and managerial conferences and masterminding.

Whatever the reason, the three-hour game is far from unusual and it often goes well beyond those extreme boundaries.

A survey of the situation shows that the Los Angeles Angels of the American League and the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League are the drag-it-out champions. The following figures are for nine inning games only.

Los Angeles already this season has played a three-hour and 26-minute game with Minnesota; took 3:29 for an eight and one-half inning fray with Detroit; and had two games of 3:19 and 3:16 with the Chicago White Sox.

The Phillies had a three hour and 33 minute contest with the Reds; 3:27 with the Mets in a sheer case of double frustration; 3:21 with Milwaukee; 3:17 with Cincinnati; 3:16 against the Cubs and 3:10 for eight and one-half innings against Chicago.

Just to illustrate that this isn't a condition confined to one club, the Mets had a three hour and 34 minute game with Milwaukee the Dodgers and Giants needed 3:31 for eight and one-half innings, and the Giants played the Reds a three hour and 28 minute setto.

It is a trend which obviously extends even down into the minor leagues, where it is more understandable because the players supposedly are not of such outstanding proficiency as their major league brothers.

But the New York-Pennsylvania League finally has issued a bulletin to all managers and umpires intended to speed up its games. The announcement speaks for itself.

"Manager to mound: The manager may go to the mound only during an inning to confer with the same pitcher. Upon his second trip either he or that pitcher must leave the game."

"Infielders and catchers should be discouraged from going to the mound at all times. The ball should be thrown to the pitcher. The need to hand him the ball is unnecessary, time wasting and dull to the fans."

And now, if they'll take some of the kangaroo out of the missile they are using, they may solve the whole boring situation.

Jessen Cops Civitan Golf In Second Extra Hole

DALLAS (UPI) — Ruth Jessen, who is proving her unorthodox spread-eagle putting stance can pay dividends, headed for the Babe Zaharias Open today with a sudden-death playoff victory over Mary Lena Faulk for the Dallas Civitan Women's Open crown to her credit.

The 24-year-old Seattle blonde, in her sixth season as a pro, fired an even-par 36-35-71 final round Sunday to erase a six-stroke deficit and tie the faultering Miss Faulk at 292.

She won the $1,500 top prize on the second extra hole with a par four to Miss Faulk's five, marking her first victory on this year's tour and pushing her into third place among the money winners with $5,420.

Miss Jessen's putting stance was the talk of the gallery as she spread her feet a full four feet apart and used her shoulders and arms instead of her wrists in stroking the ball.

"I copied it from Marlene Hagge (who was since quit using it) and started trying it three summers ago," Miss Jessen said. "I gradually spread my stance wider and now it's reached the limit."

"Short putts seem closer to the hole from that stance and I can't move off the ball," she added.

Jo Ann Prentice and Patty Berg also made runs at Miss Faulk's dwindling lead, but couldn't quite make it and finished third and fourth respectively.

Miss Prentice fired one of only three par rounds recorded Sunday to finish with a 293 worth $970, while Miss Berg's game collapsed on the back nine for a 36-39-75 and a 295 that paid $800.

Sandra Haynie, $2,960; Louise Suggs, $1,995; Jackie Pung, $1,455; Marlene Hagge, $1,349; Kathy Cornelius, $1,325; Muriel Lindstrom, $1,132; Carol Mann, $1,083; Gloria Pecht, $914; Beth Stone, $589; Gloria Armstrong, $553.

Giants, NY Mets Mix It Up On Diamond, But Frisco Wins Two

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants and New York Mets are embroiled in baseball's newest vendetta with the controversial "brush back" pitch the cause of all the excitement.

Tempers flared so hotly during Sunday's doubleheader in San Francisco that even Willie Mays—long noted as a "peacemaker"—became involved in the first fight of his career. Willie, who had been low-bridged twice by Roger Craig, wound up throwing Elio Chacon with a body-slam.

And in the confusion the National League leading San Franciscans tossed the last-place Mets for another couple of losses, 7-1 in a breeze for Jack Sanford and Stu Miller and 6-5 with a four-run eighth-inning rally.

The Giants thus retained their 1½-game lead in the NL, while the Cleveland Indians regained first place in the American League with a 5-3 win over the Washington Senators.

The Los Angeles Dodgers swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-2 and 2-1; the Cincinnati Reds downed the Chicago Cubs, 10-0; the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Houston Braves, 7-2, and the Milwaukee Colts shaded the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3, in other NL games.

The Minnesota Twins whipped the Chicago White Sox, 5-4 and 6-6; the Detroit Tigers scored a 5-1 victory after bowing to the New York Yankees, 4-1; the Los Angeles Angels dropped their opener, 3-2, but then beat the Kansas City A's, 6-3, and the Baltimore Orioles topped the Boston Red Sox, 4-2, in the other AL action.

Felipe Alou had three hits and Orlando Cepeda and Mays two each to lead the Giants' 10-hit attack in the first game. In the nightcap the Giants scored four runs in the eighth during which Alou hit a game-tying two-run single and catcher Harry Chitt's passed ball let in the "go-ahead" run.

Mays and Chacon became involved in their fist-swinging in the seventh inning of the opener. Roger Craig, who had dusted off Willie twice in the game, had just nicked Cepeda on the shoulder and made two futile pick-off attempts on Mays. After the second, Chacon suddenly started to pummel Willie and the Giant star tossed him to the ground with a body slam.

Homers by Tito Francona and Willie Kirkland were the big blows for the Indians who knocked out Bennie Daniels in the first inning with RBI-hits by Don Dillard and Chuck Essegian. Jim Perry yielded three runs and eight hits in seven innings to win his third game.

Frank Howard's four hits led the Dodgers' 11-hit opening-game attack and Los Angeles completed the sweep when Tim Lincecum snapped a 1-1 tie. Stan Williams raised his record to 4-1 in the opener and Don Drysdale won his seventh game in the nightcap.

Bob Purkey pitched a four-hitter for his eighth win against one loss as the Reds walloped the Cubs with a 14-hit attack. Vada Pinson hit his 13th homer and Gordie Coleman his sixth. Purkey struck out seven and walked only one.

Five Houston errors enabled the Pirates to score five unearned runs and made things easy for Vern Law to win his second game. Smokey Burgess had three hits and Dick Groat and Bob Skinner two each for the Pirates while Hal Smith had two hits for the Colts.

Bob Shaw pitched a six-hitter to win his fifth game for the Braves, who scored all their runs in the fifth inning against Bob Gibson. Ed Mathews and Hank Aaron each singled in a run and Mack Jones climaxed the rally with a two-run double.

The Twins moved to within a half game of the AL lead: Rookie George Banks' two-run homer was the decisive blow of the first game and Harmon Killebrew's three-run homer was the key hit of the nightcap. Jim Kaat won his third game and Ted Sadowski his first.

A crowd of 46,776, largest of the AL season, saw Bill Skowron's three-run ninth-inning homer win the first game for the Yankees. Paul Foytack struck out seven and stranded 11 Yankees in the second game. Chico Fernandez drove in three runs with two hits for Detroit in the second game. Dave Wickersham pitched a six-hitter to win his fifth game for Kansas City, but the Angels took the nightcap with the aid of homers by pitcher Eli Grba and Bill Moran. Manny Jimenez went 4-for-6 in the doubleheader to raise his major league leading average to .392.

Russ Snyder and Jim Gentile homered in the 11th inning to provide relief pitcher Wes Stock with his second victory for the Orioles. Robin Roberts, signed recently by Baltimore, yielded eight hits and two runs in 7 2-3 innings before being relieved. Gentile, Brooks Robinson and Jerry Adair had three hits each for the Orioles.

Expert Says Body Handles Heat Better Than It Deals With Cold

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hot weather has no special perils for people of good sense in the opinion of medical experts. As a matter of fact, said one expert, the human being "has to be classed as a tropical animal" because his body handles heat so much better than it deals with cold.

Summer heat is clamping down prematurely in some sections. "Heat stress" couldn't be a more timely subject. Only last Sunday some 600 persons became ill after an Army lunch at Ft. Jackson, S.C., while the temperature was around 100 degrees.

Medical experts queried by United Press International were unanimous in suspecting the lunch rather than the heat. The experts were assuming that that many persons wouldn't all eat too much too fast while ignoring the warning symptoms which impending heat injury gives to people.

The newest authoritative word on "heat stress" comes from Dr. Harwood S. Belding who has been involved in many physiological studies of heat reactions in people. When people collapse from heat it is almost always because they've ignored the danger signs, he said.

These signs are feelings of faintness, dizziness and fatigue. The good sense people can show for their own good is not to press on in the heat with whatever they're doing when they get the warning.

"In thousands of controlled physiologic studies on young men there have been no cases of collapse without warning," he said. "If, on very hot industrial jobs, workers are free to take a rest break when it is felt needed, they seldom incur heat injury."

Belding is a professor of environmental physiology at the University of Pittsburgh and once directed the Army's Climatic Research Laboratory. He was giving the medical profession a timely fill-in from his expertise in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Working in hot weather is no more hazardous to health than being inactive is, he said. To be sure, hot weather puts added strains on the heart and the arteries and on the body's water and salt balances and it is good sense to keep them in mind.

Sweating is the body's cooling protection against heat damage, and to produce sweat it must have salt. But people usually take in enough salt in their food to meet the requirement. Men who work hard for long periods in the heat would do well to salt their food liberally or add a teaspoon of salt to each gallon of their drinking water, he said.

And people who are active in the heat should drink water frequently and each time drink enough to quench thirst, he said.

When people are physically fit they become accustomed to heat. But they do it only by exerting themselves enough to raise body-core temperature daily for several days.

"Dramatic reduction in strain is achievable, as indicated by the fact that an exposure that is nearly intolerable on the first day may be rendered quite innocuous," he said.

However, in hot weather people should be especially careful in all situations involving the possibility of accidents. Heat stress, Belding said, seems to lessen general body tone, and this is reflected in decreased alertness and control of body movements.

Keeping your engine clean is the most important thing you can do to make it last longer and run more economically. But all raw petroleum, as it comes from the ground, contains harmful substances. If not removed, they can build damaging deposits in our modern high-speed engines. In carburetors, gummy deposits can clog tiny passages and cause delicate parts to stick. This can upset the correct fuel/air mixture your engine needs to run smoothly and efficiently. To bring you a "regular" gasoline that will keep your engine cleaner than ever before, Skelly takes 2 vitally important steps:

First, We Subtract... At the refinery, Skelly removes, reduces, and minimizes unwanted substances through its advanced "subtractive" process.

Then, We Add... At Skelly distribution centers, just before Skelly Regular Gasoline goes into tank trucks, Skelly injects detergent-action KT-3 to reduce deposits already in your carburetor and engine—and to keep new ones from forming. KT-3 does not, because it cannot, build excessive deposits.

Skelly Laboratory Tests Prove Startling Advantages:

In the box at left, see how KT-3 can keep your engine cleaner in 4 vital areas.

With the first few tankfuls of new Skelly Regular with KT-3, you'll notice faster starting, more pick-up and power, and increased gas mileage. Gone are needless repairs and tune-ups due to carbon and gum deposits.

So why take less, when Skelly Regular with KT-3 costs no more?
