Neutralist Warns Laotian Crisis Could Start War

Diplomats Call For Leaders To Settle Disputes

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Neutralist leader Prince Souvanna Phouma warned today the tense Laotian crisis could touch off an international war.

"If war should start, it will not be just a civil war," Souvanna told newsmen here.

Souvanna, who is to become premier of a yet-to-be-formed coalition government, said: "I am still pursuing my efforts to avoid a rupture."

The ex-premier of Laos and his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the Communist-backed Pathet Lao guerrillas, flew here Wednesday from the rebel-held Plaine des Jarres for a conference which the West had hoped would ease the Laotian crisis.

But the rebel leaders were rebuffed by pro-Western Premier

IT'S AN ILL WIND — A swarm of locusts darkens the sky over Karachi, Pakistan, but to the city's youth the destructive horde is manna from heaven. They collect the insects, deep-fry them and . . . yum, yum. This particular swarm was 15 miles wide, 50 miles long.

2 Pampa Women Are Jailed On Check Charges

Two Pampa women, charged with going on a Christmas shopping spree in downtown stores and using worthless checks for money, ran afoul of the law when a bank employee became suspicious as the checks turned up for clearance Wednesday.

The two women, Mrs. Donald R. Thomas and Mrs. Floyd D. Bell, both of 712 Locust St., had issued some 20 to 25 checks.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan, who arrested Mrs. Thomas Wednesday afternoon and Mrs. Bell this morning, said the pair had made purchases with the checks amounting to some $250 in ten or 12 Pampa stores.

The sheriff said most of the checks were passed last Saturday, but that two or three had been passed Tuesday.

According to the sheriff the checks written by Mrs. Thomas were drawn on the Citizens Bank and Trust Co. and checks issued by Mrs. Bell were drawn on the First National Bank.

When arraigned in Judge William Craig's County court this forenoon, Mrs. Thomas pleaded guilty to a charge of swindling with a worthless check. She was fined $5 and costs, a total of $37.20, and sentenced to 90 days in county jail.

Mrs. Bell entered a plea of not guilty and was held for trial under $1,000 bond. Both women still were in jail this afternoon, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Jordan said the arrests of the pair came after an employee at the Citizens bank called the sheriff's office when several of the checks turned up for clearance and there were no funds on deposit to cover them.

Heart Operation Awaited By Girl

BETHESDA, Md. (UPI)—Anita Najera, a 14-year-old San Antonio, Tex., girl, is under "observation and treatment" at the National Institute of Health with an unusual heart disease.

She was flown to the National Institute Nov. 9 where doctors planned to perform rare, newly developed surgery on her heart to remove a diseased valve and replace it with a permanent artificial valve.

Physicians have not performed surgery yet on Anita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Najera of San Antonio.

Anita has a heart condition diagnosed as severe aortic valve disease with bacterial infection in the blood stream, localized in the lining of the heart. Anita was born with an abnormal heart.

Split Tax Bill Payments Due, Collector Says

City taxpayers have only one more day to make payment without penalty if they wish to split their 1961 tax bill in half.

Tax Collector Aubrey Jones said today that persons desiring to pay half of their 1961 tax bill must do so before the city tax office in City Hall closes at 5 p.m. tomorrow if they wish to avoid the 8 per cent penalty.

Those wishing to pay only half of their bill after Dec. 31 may do so, but the 8 per cent penalty will be added.

Jan. 31 is deadline for paying taxes.

The entire tax bill, Jones stated, can be paid any time before Jan. 31 without any penalty.

"The 5 per cent deadline tomorrow," he said, "affects only those who wish to pay half of the bill at this time."

Jones stated that up until this morning the city tax office had collected some 61.66 per cent of the entire amount due.

The 1961 tax levy totals $634,515.07 and as of early today, $391,223.44 of that amount had been collected, the tax collector said.

Although the deadline for paying half tax without penalty is Dec. 31, the tax office will close at 5 p.m. tomorrow and will not reopen until Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Former Lubbock Aide Ends Life

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Raymond Lee Oldham, 53, former director of public works for the city of Lubbock, hanged himself by a belt from cell bars at the Lubbock County jail Wednesday.

Oldham was arrested Tuesday when he was brought to the jail by a taxi driver. He had been scheduled to appear in court on charges of drunkenness. A justice of the peace returned a verdict of suicide.

Louisiana Solon Indicted By Jury

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — State Sen. Wendell P. Harris, indicted with two other Baton Rouge men on wiretap charges, said today he was the victim of politically motivated persecution.

A federal grand jury in New Orleans Wednesday charged Harris and businessman Leon M. Patterson and private investigator Lawrence W. Hall with involvement in tapping telephone conversations of Baton Rouge religious leaders who signed a pro-integration statement.

Refugee Warns Pampans Of 'Creeping Socialism'

"The United States is in danger of going the way of socialism if it continues to follow the liberal leadership of the country," Dr. John Alpar, Hungarian refugee and practicing Amarillo physician, told the Pampa Rotary club yesterday.

Tracing the history of the rise of socialism in Hungary prior to its domination by Soviet Russia, Dr. Alpar said this situation made it just that much easier for the Soviets to integrate their programs of domination over Hungarians. "The only good thing to come out of Soviet mastery," the speaker stated, "was that it became so oppressive that the people arose in 1956 in a bloody revolt against the Communists."

All steps whereby government expands its control over the people governed are steps to socialism, the speaker said. Dr. Alpar quoted Khrushchev as saying, just three months before visiting the United States, "We cannot expect the Americans to jump from capitalism to communism, but we can assist their elected leaders in giving Americans small doses of socialism, until they suddenly awake to find they have communism." This, according to the speaker, is just what is happening.

The doctor spoke of his personal experiences as a physician, trying to practice under the Hungarian Communists. The leaders of organized labor were those

Ban On Tarzan Books Draws Sharp Protest

TARZANA, Calif. (UPI) — Reports that a Downey, Calif., elementary school banned Tarzan books from its library drew sharp criticism today from publishers and sent members of a local service club scurrying to the book stores.

The board of education at the Downey Unified School District ordered an investigation when they were told Tarzan and Zane Grey books were banned in one of the schools.

Grey's books "contained obscene words . . . and some thought there was no indication that Tarzan and his mate (Jane) were married," according to reports received by board member Robert Ryan, Ryan told the board the books were removed from library shelves when some parents objected to the literature.

Strong objections were voiced by Ralph Rothmund, general manager of Edsar Rice Burroughs, Inc., the firm established

New York Facing Transit Walkout

NEW YORK (UPI) — Transit workers booted down a 15-cent hourly wage increase Wednesday night and voted to tie up all public transportation in New York City on New Year's Day.

While Transport Workers Union (TWU) president Michael Quill warned that the men who operate the city's buses and subways might jump the gun and stage a wildcat walkout before the contract deadline, there were indications a settlement might be in the making.

Talks were to resume today at City Hall, close by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who stands to suffer loss of political prestige if the present 15-cent fare is raised to pay for the settlement or if 8 million daily riders have their commuting tied into knots.

The 15-cent hourly offer, which would be divided equally over a two-year contract, would have let the union decide whether it wanted the money all in cash or partially in fringe benefits.

Matthew Guinan, president of TWU Local 100, declared the offer "completely unacceptable" at a mass meeting of more than 4,000 transit workers, who waved picket line placards and alternately booed, cheered and called "strike, strike."

Nehru Defends Taking Of Goa

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said defiantly today he never doubted that he had "full justification" for using armed force to capture the Portuguese enclaves on India's west coast.

"Nothing in the 14 years of independence has excited and thrilled the people in India as the liberation of Goa," Nehru told a news conference.

AF Limits Food For Overweights

IPSWICH, England (UPI) — Officers at the U. S. Air Force's Bentwaters base put bread, potatoes and candy off limits for overweight air crewmen today, and warned them they will be grounded unless they reduce.

The maximums, for airmen between 21 and 25 years of age, include 180 pounds for a 5-foot, 8-inch-tall man, 184 for a 5-10 airman and 191 for a six-footer.

Kuwait Row Now Seems Less Tense

LONDON (UPI)—British troops, planes and warships converged on the tense Middle East today, but the government refused to say whether the armed forces were being sent to protect the oil-rich sheikhdom of Kuwait.

The movement of 3,000 men, an aircraft carrier, two frigates and a tank-landing ship from England and Kenya responded to a Christmas alert of units of Britain's Strategic Reserve—a highly mobile trouble-shooting outfit.

Observers noted that the small armada began steaming toward the Middle East after Iraqi Premier Abdul Karim Kassem repeated his demands that Kuwait, which is located on the Persian Gulf south of Iraq, belongs to his country.

Kuwait won its independence from Britain last June. Two weeks later, British troops rushed in when Kassem threatened to invade and take over the tiny country, which is about the size of Connecticut. However, the British force has been replaced since then by Arab League troops.

British newspapers reported signs of an Iraqi troop movement toward Kuwait, but said they doubted a second "Kuwait crisis" was imminent.

This belief was reinforced by a British Defense Ministry statement that the situation did not call "for further action, at this stage as sufficient had been done to raise the level of preparedness of the Middle East command to meet any emergency."

Arrest Prompts UN Apology To Katangese Aide

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — The United Nations today apologized for the arrest of Katangese Justice Minister Valentin Ilunga in Elisabethville by a Swedish U. N. patrol.

Ilunga was released after civilian U. N. officials intervened with the Swedish troops in his behalf, an official statement said.

Brian Urquhart, U. N. representative in Elisabethville, said the incident Wednesday night was due to "a misunderstanding which the United Nations deeply regrets."

The statement was issued after Ilunga at a news conference showed cuts he allegedly received at the hands of the Swedes.

Ilunga told newsmen in Elisabethville that he had been arrested despite having identified himself clearly. He was taken at gunpoint to Swedish headquarters, he said, and a revolver found in his briefcase was confiscated.

At the same time, the U. N. here announced that its representatives were negotiating with Katangese officials for the release of four Swedish soldiers, who were seized by the Katangese at the railroad station in Elisabethville. Katanga officials said seven Swedes had been taken into custody.

The release of Ilunga came as additional Katanga delegates headed here for constitutional talks aimed at bringing secessionist Katanga back into the Congo—at least in a federation or a confederation.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe alleged that Ilunga had been "thrown into a U. N. truck like a sack of potatoes." He also said that 30 Katangese policemen had been arrested by U. N. patrols. This incident was confirmed by the United Nations.

Urquhart expressed surprise today at allegations that Ilunga had been mistreated.

"Ilunga dined with me after his release and made no mention of mistreatment," he said.

A nine-man parliamentary delegation was flown here Wednesday from the Katangese capital of Elisabethville aboard a United Nations DC8 for the important conference on reunifying the Congo.

The Katanga delegates planned to join central Congolese officials on a revision of the fundamental Congo law, possibly framing "along federal lines to give the provinces more autonomy — but not independence."

The delegates who traveled under U. N. guarantees of person safety and with the right to go home any time they wanted included three senators, three deputies and three secretaries of states. They were escorted from their airport by Nigerian U. N. soldiers to U. N. headquarters here.

Jealous Georgia Youth Kills Two, Wounds Another

CONYERS, Ga. (UPI) — Two teen-age brothers were shot to death and another youth was badly wounded in a bizarre jealousy killing by a 20-year-old youth late Wednesday night, officers said.

Rockdale County Sheriff W. T. Wallace said the brothers were blasted from short range and their mangled bodies dumped down an abandoned well adjacent to a religious camp site a few miles from here.

Wallace said the two bodies were thrown in the well by the 20-year-old youth, his 15-year-old girl friend and his 15-year-old brother.

The injured boy crawled from the death scene while the bodies were being dragged to the well, staggered out of the woods to a farm house and summoned help.

Wallace said he jailed Charles Byrd and said the youth would be charged with the double murder. Byrd's younger brother, and the girl were also jailed, but no charges were placed against the two juveniles.

The slain brothers were identified as Thomas Henderson 15, and Donald Wayne Henderson, 16, both of near Covington.

The wounded youth, J. Michael Flanagan, 16, told officers he crawled to safety while Byrd, his brother and the girl dragged the bodies of his companions to the well.

Officers said Byrd fired three blasts, two of which killed the Henderson brothers. The third blast tore off Flanagan's ear and wounded him in the shoulder. He was treated at a local hospital and then transferred to one in Atlanta, about 28 miles from here. His condition was listed as fair.

"I think the motive for the killing was jealousy," Wallace said.

Captain Seeking To Save Dredge

BOSTON (UPI)—The skipper of a Canadian tugboat fought the sea today for a $4 million prize—the drifting dredge Cartagena abandoned by her crew in a fierce Atlantic gale.

Capt. James Shear of the 800-ton tug Foundation Vigilant vowed to stand by the powerless dredge, wallowing in huge swells, until "it sinks or I put across a line."

Strange Appearance In The Sky Proves Mystery To Two Pampans

Claude Ferrel, 1913 North Sumner, awoke this morning and "for some strange reason" looked out his bedroom window. He was surprised to see an object a block or two long, shining brightly in the sky, with an arrow-like ray pointing a thousand feet or more upward.

Ferrel gazed at the object for a few moments and went back into the room. But he returned to look at the strange appearing spectacle in the sky, far in the west but about 4:30 o'clock above the horizon. Meantime he had awakened Mrs. Ferrel and both looked at it.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferrel kept taking occasional looks at the object until 6:30 o'clock in the morning when it began to fade away. About 7 o'clock it had virtually disappeared.

This morning Ferrel went to his office at the Culbertson Chevrolet Co. and mentioned it to a fellow salesman, Dean Munday, 1913 N. Banks, near the Ferrel home. To his surprise Munday had seen the same object in the sky.

Both men were naturally curious and called the Pampa Daily News.

Calls to airline centers in the surrounding area disclosed that no early morning plane pilots had seen the object and no airports had reported anything unusual in the sky.

A call to the weather bureau obtained a possible explanation. There was some high scattered cloudiness in the area. Reflective lights from oil fields, or towns or airport signals, sometimes do strange things to the clouds in the sky, it was explained.

Since no planes or airports had reported anything unusual the Weather Bureau surmised it must have been a cloud-effect.

Surplus Property Sale Scheduled At Pantex Plant

Obsolete and used property is being offered for sale by Pantex Ordnance Plant, according to an announcement by Lt. Col. Marvin J. Bruedigam, commanding officer. Items to be sold are no longer needed by the federal government, and consist of used and unused miscellaneous items — Monarch lathe; Bus, 29 passenger; Reo tractor truck, International cab over truck, 1952; 125,000 gallon capacity steel tank; Gerlinger Straddle Carrier, 1950; steam radiators; automobile parts; tools, banders, stretchers, nuts, bolts, washers, rivets, miscellaneous hardware, etc. Estimated acquisition cost of property is $95,000.00. Invitation to Bid No. 31 describes the items to be sold and contains complete instructions for submitting sealed bids, which will be publicly opened at 2 p.m., CST, Jan. 30, 1962. Awards will be made to the highest responsible bidder in line with the terms of the invitation.

Pantex Ordnance Plant is located on U.S. Highway 60, 25 miles northeast of Amarillo. The property to be sold may be inspected by prospective bidders at the plant, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., through Jan. 29, 1962, except Saturdays and Sundays. All bids must be received prior to the time and date of opening. Successful bidders will be informed of the results of their bids at the earliest possible date.

Union Seeks New Hearing In Case Won By Workers

STINNETT, Tex. (UPI)— Both the local and International Union of Operating Engineers have filed motions in 84th District court at Stinnett asking for a new trial in a $1,185,578 judgment recently returned against the unions. Dist. Judge Max Boyer on Dec. 15 ordered the local and international unions to pay $1,186,578 in damages to 28 former employees of Phillips Petroleum Co. They charged that they lost their jobs because they followed union orders in a strike against the firm. The local, No. 351, and the international union now have 20 days in which to amend their motions for retrial. Should Boyer overrule the motions, the unions indicated they would appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals at Amarillo.

Wide Authority Given To Envoys In Berlin Talks

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic reports said today the U. S. and British envoys in Moscow have been given wide latitude to negotiate a "preliminary Berlin accord" with Russia. U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Britain's Sir Frank Roberts were expected to seek their first interview with Soviet leaders later this week. The envoys have been instructed to stand firm on three vital points in any talks they can arrange with Premier Nikita Khrushchev or Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko: 1. Western access rights to West Berlin must be fully maintained and guaranteed. 2. Western forces must remain in the city. 3. West Berlin's survival must be safeguarded through continued unimpeded contacts with the Allies and West Germany. Diplomatic sources hinted that

Stamps Program Helping Schools, U.S. Agency Told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of West Virginia school principals reports that the Kennedy administration's experimental food stamp program has improved the health and morale of their pupils.

The principals enthusiastically endorsed the project in letters forwarded to the Agriculture Department by Superintendent George W. Ryson of the McDowell County, W. Va., schools.

They reported the pupils were dressed better, appeared better fed, and missed fewer school days since their families began receiving stamps from the government which can be traded in at groceries for food.

The letters said some youngsters previously stayed home because they were ashamed of the contents in the lunch-boxes—free surplus commodities.

Some did not come to school because they could not afford lunches at all.

McDowell County is one of the eight sites where the experimental food stamp program has been tried out for the past six months. The other test areas are in Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico and Pennsylvania.

The pilot projects replace the old system of direct handouts of such surplus commodities as fried milk, flour, cornmeal and dried beans.

The Kennedy administration currently is considering proposals for extending the program to cover by 1967 all the needy persons in the nation's economically depressed areas.

Superintendent Bryson wrote that he had requested his principals to comment on the effect the program had on their pupils. He said that 28 principals—or about one-third of the total—sent in letters. All but one praised the food stamp idea.

One principal wrote that an eighth grader expressed his appreciation with these words: "My wrists were this big (illustrating a small circle with his fingers). Now look at me!"

The principal added, "He had gained weight as had many others during the fall and summer."

The one adverse letter said, "The same children who came to school dirty, ill-fed, and ill-clad before the program was initiated, come to school in like manner now."

Sorghum Harvest Almost Complete

AUSTIN (UPI)—The dry, open weather of the past week let Texas farmers clear their sorghum harvest and move ahead with cotton harvesting, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

Only a scattering of sorghum harvest remains in Texas. The state's cotton harvest moved to the 85 per cent point as cotton bolls buzzed throughout the state during the week. Although holiday activities slowed harvest at the end of last week, all available workers in the cotton fields were put to use gathering storm-blown bolls.

The harvest is expected to wind up shortly after the new year starts. Texas vegetable areas had good harvest weather all week, but holidays kept harvest and field work to a moderate pace, the USDA said. A freeze pushed southward to Eagle Pass and Carrizo Springs in the Winter Garden Dec. 20, 23 and 24.

In the Lower Valley, planting tomatoes for early spring harvest was active during the week and most early planted tomatoes were up to a good stand. Supplies of lettuce were increasing. Carrots, cabbage, and green pepper harvests moved forward.

Texas stockmen continued to feed supplements to their cattle to keep them in good condition.

Bureau Reports Heavy Migration Of Negroes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly 1.5 million Negroes left the South between 1950 and 1960, the Census Bureau reported today.

The bureau said about two-thirds of them went in nearly equal numbers to the northeast and north-central states. The rest moved further west.

Mississippi led in the loss of Negro population, the report said, with a decline during the decade due to migration of 323,000. Mississippi was one of four states which lost population during the ten-year span.

The bureau's report used the term "non-whites." Officials said that for the South and most other states the non-white population is almost entirely Negro. In a few states, there are sizeable numbers of American Indians and Orientals.

More Negroes and non-whites, 354,000 of them, moved to California than any other state. New York was second with 282,000.

Other southern states from which more than 100,000 non-whites moved during the 1950's were Alabama, 224,000; South Carolina, 218,000; North Carolina, 207,000; Georgia, 204,000, and Arkansas, 150,000.

Louisiana lost 92,000 non-whites by migration, Virginia 70,000; Tennessee 57,000; Hawaii 52,000; West Virginia 40,000; Texas 27,000; Oklahoma 26,000; Kentucky 15,000; Arizona 10,000, and South Dakota 5,000.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Hon. Timothy Tugbuton is an old friend of my father's who calls on me occasionally to complain about the way the President is running the country. Any president.

Tugbuton has not had a satisfactory president since Grover Cleveland. A Roosevelt almost made it with Tugbuton. Not THE Roosevelt, but Teddy. Except for Cleveland and TR, Tugbuton holds that he and the nation would have been a and would be better off with a Chinaman in the White House.

"Any Chinaman," the old man will tell you. "Any Chinaman at all. Did you ever hear of a Chinaman spending every year more than his laundry took in? Not Chinamen ain't made that way. Maybe so they don't have adding and subtracting machines and have to toss up accounts with their fingers. But they know when they are out of money and they don't go spending money they don't have.

"Ever hear of a Chinaman going bankrupt? Nope you didn't." Old Tugbuton was singing that song the last time I saw him but when he came into the office today there was no song. Just anger. He swept through the door brandishing his cane, a heavy, blackthorn weapon. He banged the newsdesk, swept two coffee cartons to the floor, spilling most of the coffee on the dress of Miss Obliger, the office beauty.

"Look at this," Tugbuton shouted. He was waving now a rolled copy of the local paper. "Just look at this. Thirty-two thousand and five hundred dollars."

The Hon. Timothy rolled the numbers off his tongue with an angry cadence.

"Thirty-two thousand and five hundred dollars," the old man was ending with a scream—"for congressmen!"

"They ain't worth it," he boomed. "I've knowed congressmen all my life going way back to Knute Nelson in Kansas. Wasn't one of 'em worth thirty-two hundred leave alone thirty-two thousand. It's a public outrage, that's what it is, a gouge."

Tugbuton beat another cane tattoo on the news desk.

"What's this young fellow think he's doing, anyway," this young fellow in the White House? We just ain't got that kind of money, me and you ain't got it, that is, and who's gonna pay these salaries? You and me, that's who. Who do you suppose put that young fellow up to proposing a $10,000 a year hike for congressmen. The feller who done that is the feller in the woodpile. A congressman, no doubt.

"And $35,000 a year for Cabinet members. What about that? I've knowed a lot of Cabinet members over the years, by their first names, too. They ain't worth it. Not to me, they ain't."

Kennedy And Freeman Talk 1962 Farm Plan

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President Kennedy plans to push such controversial legislation as medical care for the aged despite the prospect of explosive fights in Congress next year, close associates of the President said today.

Strategy for relations between the White House and Congress was a continuing subject of discussion here at the holiday White House this week.

Today the accent was on next year's farm program. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman was due for a late afternoon conference with the President on farm recommendations in his State of the Union Message.

The Kennedy legislative program for next year is well established as far as general outline

Barnett Rites Set Tomorrow

Funeral services for Fuller Leroy Barnett of Bethany, Okla., a former resident in Pampa, will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the Merritt Chapel in Bethany. A graveside service will be conducted at 4 p.m. in Fairview Cemetery in Pampa with J. M. Gilpatrick, minister of the Central Church of Christ, officiating.

Mr. Barnett, a civil service employe, was injured in an automobile accident at approximately 6 p.m. on Dec. 23, as he was returning home from work at the Will Rogers Air Base in Oklahoma City. He died from the injuries incurred in the accident at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Baptist Memorial Hospital in Oklahoma City.

He was born April 23, 1932 in Pampa; attended schools here and was graduated from Pampa High School, On Dec. 21, 1950, he was married to Joyce Haggard.

Survivors are his wife, Joyce; one daughter, Romona, 6; one son, Steve, 9; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Barnett, 902 Jordan, one sister, Mrs. Anna McBride of Oklahoma City and his grandmother, Mrs. Dread Lee of White Deer.

and basic content is concerned. The processes of Palm Beach are those of refinement. The final form of the 1962 budget was approved Wednesday.

Kennedy's associates realize there will be a thumping congressional fight over his impending efforts to liberalize the reciprocal trade program through authority to lower tariffs. But the inner circle expects the roughest, toughest battle to involve the administration plan for financing medical care for the aged through the Social Security system.

Perryton Youth Held For Thefts

A Perryton youth, 19-year-old Ernest Ray Brooks, was being held in Gray County jail today awaiting grand jury action on a charge of burglary of an automobile.

Brooks was arraigned in Justice of the Peace J. W. Graham's court this forenoon and bond was set at $1,000.

Police Chief Jim Conner said today Brooks was picked up in Perryton and returned to Pampa Wednesday in connection with the thefts of radios from automobiles on two Pampa used car lots last September.

Chief Conner said that Brooks, when questioned, admitted taking two radios from cars on Boyd's Used Car lot, Alcock St., and two more radios from cars on Taylor's Used Car lot, Amarillo Hwy.

Police said another youth implicated in the thefts still is being sought.

Hydraulic Jack Reported Stolen

Thieves stole a hydraulic jack from the rear of a pickup truck on the Santa Fe parking lot, W. Atchison St., Wednesday.

Gene Lewis, owner, reported to police the theft occurred sometime between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Top of Texas Order of the DeMolay will hold its regular meeting tonight.

The next meeting for the order will be on Jan. 11.

Randy Carver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carver, Hereford, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wilbur, Canadian, received his Eagle Scout Award recently in ceremonies held in the First Baptist Church in Hereford. Randy is a student at Missouri Military Academy.

Cantata Presented in Lefors Church

LEFORS (SPL) — Christmas Cantata was presented by the choir of the First Methodist Church for the observance of the Christmas Season, Sunday night.

Mrs. Jerry Jacobs directed the choir with Mrs. Joe Watson at the organ and Mrs. Carl Nunn at the piano.

The pre-school children opened the program with "Silent Night." Rev. Carl Nunn, pastor of the church read an appropriate scripture, depicting Christmas scenes. During the social hour which followed, gifts were exchanged by the children in the primary group. Gifts were presented by the congregation to the Rev. Carl Nunn and family. Gifts were also presented by the choir to Mrs. Jacobs and Mrs. Watson.

Santa Fe Income Boost Reported

GALVESTON (UPI)—The Santa Fe Railroad today reported net income of $5,387,940 for November.

Railroad president Ernest S. Marsh said the November total brought to $42,503,208 net income for the first 11 months of 1961, an increase of nearly $2 million over the same period last year.

Holiday Death Toll Continues Climb In State

A United Press International survey for the period which started at 6 p.m. last Friday showed at least 114 persons died violently in the state, 53 of them in traffic accidents, 17 in fires and 44 in miscellaneous accidents.

Among the latest were Aubrey Teal, 43, of Humble, Tex.; Mrs. Concepcion Ramos de Casares, 54, of San Benito and Millie Clydene Hendricks, 6, of Mexico.

Teal died in Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio today of burns suffered Christmas Day when the oil well he was working on at Yorktown, Tex., caught fire.

The Hendricks girl died in Mexico today of burns suffered Wednesday. Her clothing caught fire when she stood too near a gas heater in her home.

Mrs. Casares was fatally burned in her home today. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

One person died in traffic in Texas Wednesday. He was Elmer J. Vandevanter, 62, of Liberty, ranch foreman for Gov. Price Daniel. He died in a car-train crash three miles northwest of Liberty.

In other violent deaths across Texas Wednesday:

Two boys drowned in Lake Sabine about a mile from the city of Port Arthur when their 16-foot sailboat capsized in heavy winds. They were identified as Glenn Williams and Benny Murphy, both 16, of Port Arthur.

An explosion in a grain elevator at Seagraves killed Ferrill Flynn of Ralls, Tex. He was cutting or welding a leg of the elevator.

Two teen-aged boys found the charred body of Edward J. Maier, 36, a carpenter, in a junked car behind his home at Flour Bluff, near Corpus Christi. Police said the fire occurred Christmas Eve.

A Houston man, Rubin Sanders, shot himself to death with a pistol after shooting and wounding a woman checker at a Houston grocery.

W. H. Strane, 27, a union checker at Houston, fell beneath the wheels of a truck and was indicating a favorable start to the talks.

But reports from Elisabethville and Paris foreshadowed troubles ahead. Before leaving Wednesday, one Katangese delegate told newsmen that the Katangese plan to "strangle" on the central Congo fundamental law, which provides for a central government superior to provincial bodies.

"With the will of the people we are going to amend the ridiculous fundamental law," said Deputy Sylvester Zongwe. "We are showing our last good will."

(In Paris, touring Katanga Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba denied that the Kitona agreement, which President Moise Tshombe signed with Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula, bound Katanga to end its 19-month secession. Kimba said the agreement still must be ratified by Katanga's parliament.

(Kimba said Katanga would never remain "under the yoke," even if it were defeated by force. "With Elisabethville beaten," he said, "the battle will follow in the bush. But Katanga, I affirm, will never surrender.")

Youth Fined $25 On Driving Count

Diamond Dewayne Jones, 18, 723 E. Frederic, was fined $25 and costs today when he pleaded guilty before County Judge William J. Craig on a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

Jones was arrested Tuesday by city police after he was stopped for routine questioning.

crushed to death. The accident occurred as longshoremen were unloading pipe from a freighter, Archie Willingham, about 60, a retired stock farmer from Sweetwater, was found dead of gunshot wounds in his garage.

A man whose body was found in a burned-out cottage on Bolivar Peninsula on Christmas Eve was identified Wednesday as Horace Wade Laughlin, 46.

The UPI holiday death count began six hours before the Department of Public Safety started its survey. Both counts will continue through midnight, Jan. 1.

The DPS estimated that 88 persons would be killed on the state's highways and streets before the survey's end.

Soviet Controls American Reds, Hoover Declares

WASHINGTON (UPI)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today the U.S. Communist party is an inseparable arm of the Moscow-directed international conspiracy against "God and freedom."

American Communists are completely subservient to their Soviet masters, Hoover said in a year-end FBI report. He said the U.S. remains primary target for Soviet-bloc intelligence operatives.

The FBI director said the actions of the U.S. Red delegation to the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress this fall were particularly significant. He said:

"Not only did the American delegates pledge full support to (Soviet Premier) Nikita Khrushchev in the disagreement between the Russians and their Chinese and Albanian comrades, but three of them appeared on a Moscow television program to give the Soviet people a distorted impression of conditions in the United States."

The Communist party, U.S.A., was indicted earlier this month for failing to register with the Justice Department as an agent of Russia.

Hoover credited the FBI with these 1961 accomplishments:

—More than 12,400 criminal convictions compared with 12,021 in 1960.

—The capture of nearly 10,700 fugitives compared with 9,739 last year.

—Fines, savings and property recoveries totaling $150 million—a figure far exceeding what it cost to operate the FBI.

—Location of nearly 19,000 stolen cars, an all-time high.

Houston To Get Downtown Mall

HOUSTON (UPI)—Owners of the present Humble Oil and Refining Co. building today revealed plans for Houston's first downtown enclosed and air-conditioned retail shopping mall.

The downtown block bounded by Main, Dallas, Travis and Polk will be renovated to provide for a landscaped plaza area at Main and Dallas. The ground and recessed floor areas of the present Humble complex also will be converted into a shopping area that will face in on a mall and two concourses.

Humble has a new 44-story office building under construction in downtown Houston and plans to move all its operations into the building when it is completed this coming summer.

'Neat' Job Done By Store Burglar

MULESHOE, Tex. (UPI)—The burglar did his work so well it almost went unnoticed.

A side door was open when John Smith, owner of the Corner Drug Store, and Mrs. Lola Dearman, a cashier, came to work Wednesday but after an inspection of the store they found nothing out of place.

Several hours later a businessman came in and asked for some change. Mrs. Dearman got a key to the company safe, an old padlock model. It was still locked, but when she opened it, she found no change and no money.

Smith said about $380 was missing.

Riding Equipment Taken From Truck

R. L. Pugh, 602 N. West St., reported to police today that thieves stole several items from a pickup truck parked in his driveway some time Christmas night.

Included in the stolen articles were a saddle blanket, riding bridle, set of spurs and two spare tires.

Baptist Primary Group Has Party

LEFORS (SPL) — The Primary department of the First Baptist Church met recently for their annual holiday party with sixty-five persons in attendance including parents, workers, teachers, and children. The event took place in the fellowship hall.

Mrs. R. N. Cybert welcomed the parents.

Mrs. J. V. Guthrie gave a reading, "When is Christmas," and Joe Wallis led in prayer.

Teachers and officers presented each primary child with a gift.

Barbara Halley, pianist, played carols softly on the piano throughout the evening. She was accompanied by a guest, Bill Rash.

Mrs. Howard Marlar is superintendent of the six-year old primary group, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wallis, Mrs. R. N. Cybert is superintendent of the 7-year old primary group, assisted by Mr. L. N. Howell, Mmes. Alba Shores, Bud Whitley, and Jesse Broome. Mrs. J. V. Guthrie is in charge of the 8 year old primary group, with Mmes. J. D. Halley, Carol Prestidge, Walter Jackson, and Miss Barbara Halley as workers.

Eighty-five of the 106 counties in Kansas have been producers of oil or gas.

To Face 1962 Well Fortified
Start Off With Hot Toddy Soup

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
For a New Year's Eve party that stays happy all the way home, try serving a large tureen of steaming hot punch made with canned soups spiced with sweet pickle juice just before guests hit the road. Tastes great. Better serve hot hero sandwiches with it. Then all can face 1962 well fortified.

MIDNIGHT TODDY
(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

- 1 can (10½-ounces) condensed beef broth
- 1 can (10½-ounces) condensed tomato soup
- ½ cup sweet pickle liquid
- 4 cups water
- 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
- ¼ teaspoon tabasco
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- ¼ cup sweet pickle relish, well-drained
- Lengthwise sweet gherkin slices
- Combine condensed beef broth, condensed tomato soup, pickle liquid, water, horseradish and tabasco; mix well. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until serving temperature is reached. Turn into punch bowl. Fold pickle relish into whipped cream. Top punch with cream mixture. Serve in punch cups or mugs garnished with sweet gherkin slices on wooden skewers.

HOT AND HEARTY
HERO SANDWICHES
(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

- 1½ cups diced cooked chicken
- 1 can (4½-ounces) deviled ham
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1 cup grated Swiss cheese (about 4-ounces)

- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup chopped dill pickles
- 1 15-inch loaf French bread
- Dill pickle strips
- Canned pimento strips
- Combine chicken, ham, mayonnaise, cheese, pepper and ½ cup chopped dill pickles; mix well. Cut bread in half lengthwise. Spread pickle mixture on cut surfaces of bread. Top with pickle strips and pimento strips. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Cut into serving pieces.

Cranberry Crunch
For Festive Party

Cranberry Crunch Squares, a dessert described by Reba Staggs, well-known home economist, fills the sweet-tooth hunger. A topping of ice cream makes it extra special, fit for a party meal.

- CRANBERRY CRUNCH SQUARES
- 1 cup quick cooking oats
 - 2-3 cup brown sugar
 - ½ cup sifted enriched flour
 - ½ cup coconut
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - 1-3 cup lard
 - 1 can (16 ounces) whole cranberry sauce
 - 1 tablespoon orange juice
 - 2 teaspoons orange rind
 - Mix oats, sugar, flour and coconut together. Cut lard into dry ingredients. Place half the crumb mixture in an 8x8x2-inch greased baking dish. Combine cranberry sauce, orange juice, and rind. Spread evenly over the crumb mixture. Top with remaining crumb mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 3 to 35 minutes. Cut while warm into 9 squares. Serve with ice cream or whipped cream, if desired. Yield: 9 squares.

New Year's Day Calls
For Distinctive Meal

A large family dinner, featuring a beef standing rib roast, is a natural for New Year's Day dinner. A special day calls for a distinctive meal, and what an elegant treat you'll have with a standing rib occupying the honor spot!

Proper cooking methods are most important for the roast to be deliciously juicy and tender when brought to the table. Place the roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. The meat may be seasoned either before or after roasting. Do not add water or cover the roast, since roasting is a dry heat method of cookery.

Liver Excels In Flavor, Nutrition

The preparation of this French-Style Liver recipe is very easy. You've no doubt, prepared fried liver and bacon. . . this is very similar. A coating of French dressing makes the difference.

- French-Style Liver
- 1 pound sliced liver
 - 1-3 cup French dressing
 - 2-3 cup enriched flour
 - ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - ¼ teaspoon pepper
 - 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
 - Dip liver slices in French dressing. Combine flour, garlic salt, salt and pepper. Dredge liver in seasoned flour. Cook slowly in lard or drippings until well browned. Turn and brown on second

A meat thermometer is handy to help you achieve just the degree of doneness you desire. Insert the thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the roast, making sure it does not rest in fat or on bone.

A low oven temperature is essential in creating a tender, juicy roast; 300 degrees F. is recommended. When the meat thermometer registers 140 degrees F. the roast will be cooked to the rare stage. If you desire a medium-done roast, remove it at 160 degrees F. The internal temperature of a well done roast is 170 degrees F.

You can estimate the cooking time by allowing 18 to 20 minutes per pound for cooking a rare roast; 22 to 25 for medium; 27 to 30 for well - done. If you time the cooking so that the roast comes out of the oven ½ hour before serving, it will be much easier to carve. It won't cool in this time, because a roast continues to cook even after it is removed from the oven.

Another little trick that makes for easier carving is to have your meat retailer 'loosen or remove the chine bone and feather bones. If these bones are loosened they can be removed after the roast comes from the oven. Remember to carve the beef across the grain.

DELICIOUS ENDING

The finishing touch for your New Year dinner is a new kind of pie. It combines a filling that is so popular this time of year - mincemeat - with cherries. By using lard, you can trust the pie crust to be the tenderest and flakiest you've ever tasted.

Cherry-Mince Pie (Cherry-Mince Filling)

- 1 can (1 pound) sour cherries, drained
- ½ cup sugar

Sauce May Well
Be A Tradition

Eggnog-Mallow Sauce may well become a holiday tradition in your family. The commercial eggnog mixture so readily available in grocery stores this time of year is combined with marshmallows

- to form the base. Pumpkin pie spice and lemon peel add piquancy. And California Muscatel wine, with its wonderfully fruity flavor, blends and mellows the whole. Serve the sauce on steamed or baked puddings, and accompany them with small glasses of Cream Sherry, Port or the Muscatel used in the recipe.
- EGGNOG-MALLOW SAUCE
(Makes about 1½ cups)
- 2 cups marshmallow pieces
 - 1 cup commercial eggnog
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - ½ teaspoon dry lemon peel
 - ½ teaspoon pumpkin pie spice or, ground cinnamon
 - 1-3 cup California Muscatel
 - Combine marshmallows, eggnog, salt, lemon peel and spice in top of double boiler. Place over hot water and cook, stirring now and then, until marshmallows are melted. Remove from heat and slowly beat in Muscatel. Chill rapidly over ice water until mixture begins to thicken; stir frequently. Serve over steamed or baked puddings.

Lentils At Midnight On New Year's Eve
Will Bring Good Fortune During 1962

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
According to a cherished old European custom, you'll have good luck and plenty of money during the coming year if you eat lentils at midnight on New Year's Eve.

Therefore, a wise hostess will feature this Old-Fashioned Lentil Casserole just as the clock strikes 12.

OLD-FASHIONED LENTIL CASSEROLE
(Serves a party crowd of 24 for dinner, 10 to 12 large servings)

- 2 cups (1 pound) dried lentils
- 3 quarts cold water
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 clove garlic, finely minced OR
- 2 teaspoons garlic juice
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon crumbled oregano leaves
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 (6-ounce) bag potato chips, crushed

Wash lentils and drain. If quick-cooking lentils are used, simmer until almost tender; otherwise, cover lentils with cold water and soak overnight, then simmer in large kettle for about 2½ hours. Add bay leaf, garlic, salt, oregano, black pepper and dry mustard to simmering water. Drain.

Place lentils in slightly oiled (2 to 2½-quart) casserole; cover with crushed potato chips. Bake in moderate (350-degree F.) oven for about 30 minutes.

NOTE: Casserole may be prepared ahead of serving time, and baked before serving. If a ham bone is at hand, simmer together with lentils and remove before draining.

Variations: Top lentil casserole with contents of 1 (3-ounce) can sliced mushrooms, OR 1 (4-ounce) can pimentos, finely chopped, OR 1 (4-ounce) can small sausages, finely sliced, before adding the crushed potato chips.

JFK Soon To Submit First Budget Offer

Soon after January 10, 1962, the President of the United States will submit his annual Budget Message to the Congress. This will be the first official Budget Message to be submitted to the Congress by President John F. Kennedy. The Budget Message for Fiscal Year 1962 was submitted to the Congress on January 16, 1962, by President Eisenhower, having been prepared by his Bureau of the Budget and other departments of the government. Fiscal Year 1962 began on July 1, 1961 and continues through June 30, 1962. The total budget request was $50.9 billion. The estimated income or receipts during the period were $52.3 billion. The word "estimated" is used because it is impossible to tell just what the actual receipts will be, since these depend upon economic growth and many other factors.

It is not unusual for Presidents to present a budget which reflects that there will be a surplus. For instance, in 1958 the President's Budget Message made this statement: "The President's Budget proposes that the Federal government spend $1.8 billion less than its estimated revenue in Fiscal Year 1958... The Budget receipts from taxes and other sources are estimated to be $73.6 billion in the next Fiscal Year. From this income, the 1958 Budget provides for expenditures totaling $71.8 billion." When the smoke had all cleared away and actual figures could be found, there was a deficit in the year 1958 of $2,819 million. This was so because the income of the government was not $73.6 billion, as estimated, but was only $69.1 billion.

In 1959, the Budget Message indicated that the budget receipts would be $74.4 billion and that expenditures would be $73.9 billion, leaving a surplus of $500 million. However, in September of 1958 the President's office issued another Budget Message on the 1959 proposals, which was termed "The Mid-Year Review", in which it was stated: "A substantial deficit is now in prospect for Fiscal Year 1959." When the smoke had cleared and actual figures were available, the budget expenditures had amounted to $80.7 billion as against the original estimate of $73.9 billion.

The income had amounted to $68.3 billion as against the previous estimate of $74.4 billion. Hence, instead of a surplus of $500 million, the result was the largest deficit in peacetime history, to-wit: $12.4 billion.

In the year 1953, the budget report indicated an estimate of $71 billion in income. Actual income amounted to $64.8 billion. In 1954, the estimated income was $68.7 billion. The actual income was $64.6 billion. In 1955, the estimated income was $62.7 billion. The actual income was $50.4 billion. In 1956 it was estimated that the income of the government would be $60 billion and that the expenditures would be $62.4 billion, leaving a deficit of $2.4 billion. However, the guess was wrong again, both as to receipts and expenditures. The actual receipts were $68.1 billion, while the expenditures were $66.5 billion. The unexpected receipts should have resulted in a surplus of some $6 billion, but the overall result was a surplus of only $1.6 billion. In 1957 it was estimated that the income would be $66 billion, but when the year was over it had amounted to $71 billion, an increase of $5 billion. However, instead of a $5 billion surplus, it was discovered that the expenditures had been over-estimated and the taxpayers ended up with only a $1.3 billion surplus instead of the $5 billion. But, as you will see in the first part of this newsletter, this surplus was completely obliterated in 1958 because of a $2.8 billion deficit. So it goes; it seems that the Bureau of the Budget, which is part of the President's official office, is not very good at guessing.

The 1962 Budget Message, which came to the Congress on January 16, 1961, contained this statement: "Money which has been borrowed by the Treasury and not yet repaid is called the public debt. Most borrowing is from the public, but the Treasury also borrows from the larger trust funds which have authority to invest in Government securities. The principal factor which determines the amount by which the public debt increases or decreases from year to year is the budget surplus or deficit." Hence, from reading above, you will no doubt surmise that the public debt has been increased. In Fiscal Year 1963 the public debt was $268 billion. The debt had a few ups and downs, but in 1960 it reached a figure of $284.9 billion. The estimates were that it would be reduced in 1961 and 1962, but it would appear from present information that the bad guessers are still at work.

Here is where the tax dollar comes from:
55 cents Individual Income Taxes; 25 cents Corporation Income Taxes; 12 cents Excise Taxes; 8 cents All Other Receipts. Here is where it goes:

57 cents Major National Security; 11 cents Interest; 6 cents Veterans; 6 cents Agriculture; 6 cents Labor and Welfare; 4 cents Commerce, Housing, Space Technology; 3 cents International; 3 cents Natural Resources; 2 cents General Government; 2 cents Debt Retirement.
Until the budget is balanced, there cannot be a decrease in the public debt or a decrease in taxes. This must be accomplished.

Alien Investors Declared Looking Toward America

By GABE KAIMOWITZ

NEW YORK (NEA) — Memo: To Berwick, Pa., and other communities seeking new industry — there's gold in the Western European hills for you and your friends.

It can be put to work in your own back yard in the form of foreign investments in factories, machinery and other production materials. Some of the wealth accumulated particularly in the European Common Market nations can be lured here to increase production and reduce unemployment.

"At least that's a theory held now by both government and private business interests dealing in international trade. To back up their point, they already can show nearly $7 billion invested by foreign interests directly in U.S. production facilities. There is $11.5 billion more invested in stocks, bonds, insurance, etc.

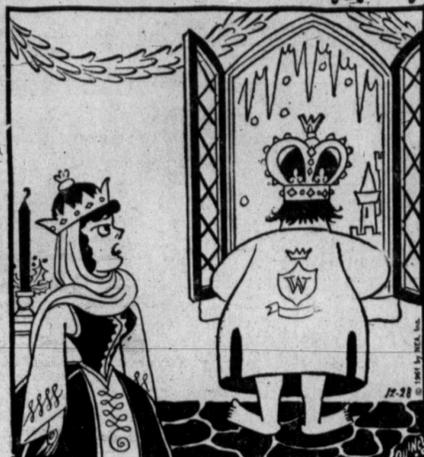

To further attract foreign investment, a bureau recently was set up under the Department of Commerce Bureau of International Business Operations with Frank W. Shaeffer as acting director.

Among recent European enterprises in the States: Good Humor (ice cream) Corp., purchased by English-Dutch interests for $8 million; a $10 million plastics plant in Neal, W. Va., set up by an Italian company; a $36.4 million paper mill being built in Catawba, S.C., by a British firm.

Meanwhile a publication called Business Europe now reports abroad on the attractions of all 50 states here.

Business Europe is published by Business International of New York, a publishing and service organization providing information to U.S. international-minded corporations. Business Europe is its counterpart for West European businesses.

OUR ANCESTORS by Quincy

"Wenceslas, stop looking out on that frosty morning before you catch your death of cold!"

B.I. executive vice president Elliott Haynes in New York has other ideas about attracting foreign investment here. "The Netherlands, then Belgium and now India have come to the U.S. with-trade and investment centers to attract U.S. business abroad. The Dutch succeeded in getting 100 new American industries.

"Why can't we do the same in London, Paris, Stuttgart?" A government spokesman believes that may be possible in the future but right now, he says, American interests are too diversified to try to foster particular industries at trade and investment centers.

"The countries advertising here knew what industries they wanted to concentrate on. We just can't do that," the spokesman said.

On most points, however, Haynes and the government agree about foreign investments here. For instance, both worry that Americans fail to understand that the European Economic Community already is a serious competitor, having grown far beyond its World War II, have-not, handout status.

Today, some European nations have gold surpluses and labor shortages — conditions that make it ideal for Europeans to invest abroad, the government man said.

"The pot of gold is there," he said. "All we have to do is reach out and ask for it." That is being done to some extent. Business Europe reported that a 65-member mission from New Jersey went to Sweden recently to promote that state's attractions for new industry.

For us or the European Economic Community to really reach that economic pot of gold, unfettered free trade is the answer as far as Haynes is concerned.

But a barrier of special interests here is keeping us from that pot, Haynes suggests.

Folk-Singers Causing Musical Stir In N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Ireland is a land filled with music and song," says Tommy Makem in blithing brouge-rich tones that sound almost reverential.

And with that pleasant warning of what's to come, "The Clancy Brothers & Tommy Makem" proceed to fill the night club air with a refreshing array of Irish folk songs, ranging from modern drinking ditties that can be heard in any Dublin pub, to ancient Gaelic lyrics that have filtered down through the centuries.

Comparative newcomers to folk-singing groups, "The Clancy Brothers & Tommy Makem" already have caused a stir in a field that has brought new vitality to musical entertainment in this country.

Musically, they never leave the "auld sod." They have refused to add to their repertoire songs stemming from other cultures and traditions because of a firm conviction that the folk music of their native land is rich enough and universal enough to appeal to every one, even the English who, quite predictably, are raked over the coals in many of their songs.

"It's the Irish songs that we know best and it's the Irish songs that most people expect to hear when they come to see us," Tom Clancy said. "Besides, there's the slight problem of the accent. Do you really think an Irish-brouge treatment of 'Matilda' or 'Blue Tail Fly' would be worthwhile?"

Tom Clancy said the group also has to say "no" to the frequent requests "we get for stuff like 'McNamara's Band' or 'Wearing of the Green'."

"We don't want to sing songs that were trite in this country years before we came here," he port four times as much as we import in this field? "Discouraging foreign imports will cause other nations to think twice about accepting our exports in abundance or investing in our rich market in any way."

said. "If we ever become that commercial, we might as well quit."

The three Clancy brothers, Pat, Tom and Liam, and Tommy Makem emigrated separately to this country in the early 1950's and each began pursuing a different career.

"I didn't even know what a 'folk' song was," recalled Mekem. "Occasionally at parties I would sing a bit and people would come up to me and say 'those are fine folk-songs you've been singing, lad.' It was all very puzzling. They were just songs to me."

In 1956, the four began gathering at various taverns in the Greenwich Village section of New York City and singing "just for the fun of it." Friends urged them to try their voices on a professional level and at this point, Pat Clancy, who then had a flourishing record company, decided to record the group. At first their career progressed slowly. For the next three years or so they were virtually unknown outside the Village, where the cult of folk-singing exists on an extremely high plane of enthusiasm, and all four were reluctant to abandon their other commitments and devote their time exclusively to a singing career.

The big decision to work solely as a singing group was made last February following an audition at New York's Blue Angel which was warmly reviewed by the critics. Since then, they have enjoyed highly successful appearances at clubs and concert halls in Chicago, San Francisco and Minneapolis as well as New York.

And now the Clancy Brothers are entangled in the most challenging venture of their career. This month they launched a nationwide tour that will take them to dozens of previously unvisited cities and towns.

"The Clancy Brothers & Tommy Makem" give the distinct impression that they would rather sing than do anything else. Whether they are singing the poignant ballad, "Young Roddy McCorley"

MERRY SPIN FOR CAB METER — To make sure they wouldn't miss sailing aboard their cruise ship, these three Californians hired a taxi in Indianapolis, Ind., and ran up a $337 fare getting to New York. The trio, left to right, Mrs. Anita Demos of Santa Cruz, Lloyd Pepper and Mrs. Hazel Fearon, both of Aptos, called the cab when their jet airliner was grounded by bad weather en route to New York.

SS Class Holds Holiday Party

LEFORS (Sp) — The beginner Sunday School class of the Church of Christ were entertained with a holiday party in the home of one of their teachers, Mrs. Gladys Martin, and Mrs. James Means recently.

Children and parents present were Mrs. Charles Roberts, Jannis, Richard and Morris; Kenneth Brown, Brenda, Linda and Becky; Alton Finchum, Matthew and Carolyn; James Means, James Garland, and Christine; Jim Pennington, Stevie and Renae; J. B. Martin, Ruthie and Darlene; Gene Robertson and Ricky; Earl Lane and Paul Singleton; and Miss Tammie Brunley.

When the State was admitted to the Union in 1803, Chillicothe was the capital of Ohio.

British Claim New Foods Dehydration Process Ready

LONDON (UPI) — A new dehydration process that may knock frozen foods out of grocery stores

— the tale of a youth who was hanged by the English and pre-faced by the explanation that "Irish history is scarred by rebellion" — or the rowdy drinking song, "Reilly's Daughter" — which, it was noted, "was taught to us by the Christian Brothers . . . not the fellows who make the wine, though" — the group emanates a robust joy that seems to infect the audience and induce it to join in the hearty choruses.

Is there any concern about running out of fresh material? "Not at all," said Tom Clancy. "Every few months or so we go back to Ireland and pick up a few more songs. It's a bottomless well."

"So far, we haven't had to search much farther than my own mother," chimed in Tommy Makem. "She's already given us a basket - full of songs and there are plenty more where they came from," he said with a laugh.

and supermarkets is about ready for marketing, a London newspaper said today.

The Daily Express said the new process—called accelerated freeze dried (AFD)—can be applied to anything from vegetables to fish and enables housewives to keep the food for as long as a year without spoiling.

The Express said the dehydrated food retains its flavor, does not have to be put into a refrigerator and regains its original size and shape when dipped in water.

The newspaper said almost all major British food firms have been working on the process for the past year. It quoted one firm's spokesman as saying:

"Frozen food will soon be a thing of the past. AFD is revolutionary and, at the moment, expensive. But it is bound to be a household name very soon."

Limited Space No Alibi For Not Giving Party

Bright colors, modern tableware and furniture add sparkle to this tiny model dining area setting. Yellow shade cloth is shaped, fringed and draped canopy-fashion over a Scandinavian table set with blue and yellow linens, silver flatware and Argenta-patterned china. The smorgasbord tidbits are served from wood platters and a silver chafing dish.

Just as party foods strain the caloric limits of the modern diet, so do sizable parties strain the limits of the modern home. The trick, to my way of thinking, is to plan the best use of the space, according to the type of party.

If you are giving a cocktail party, for example, lack of space is no hindrance. In fact, the sure road to success is to invite three guests for each square foot of floor space. On the other hand, this same formula spells disaster at a buffet supper, especially if you include growing children.

When planning a buffet for a sizable group, successful hostesses I know anticipate the traffic pattern as a key to placement of serving tables.

They can safely predict that at least one guest will buttonhole another guest for a long conversation squarely in front of the table.

If a table is set at one end of a small room, two or three talkative guests can effectively block the others from dipping into the goodies. For this reason, some hostesses prefer to place the serving table against a long wall between dining and living rooms.

Another party-giver points to the advantages of dividing the serving of edibles where a floor plan is chopped into small rooms (as hers is).

At her annual smorgasbord, guests pick up a plate, napkin and fork and the hot tidbits at a table in the dining room; at another table in the parlor, other varieties of tempting open sandwiches.

Potables are dispensed in a third place, a tiny den.

This arrangement keeps people circulating and avoids a traffic jam in any one room, she says.

More people can sit down to dinner more comfortably if the table is not crowded with serving dishes. Set up the food on an adjacent table or buffet and serve from here, letting guests carry their plates to the dinner table.

For many of us the most satisfactory solution is to entertain small groups of two, three, or four at more frequent intervals. Even the tiniest dining area looks gay and festive, when we set out the best tableware and add a dash of color.

Dear Abby.... Not All Hostesses Are High Flyers!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently completed my training and am now an airline hostess. My boy friend keeps threatening to break off with me if I stick with this job. He thinks it offers too many opportunities to meet other men. I love my boy friend, but I also love my job and I'm tired of fighting with him about it. How can I convince my boy friend that flying is no threat to our love? So far, all I've met on this job are tired old married men.

IN THE AIR
DEAR IN: If you need my help in persuading your boy friend that not all airline hostesses are high flyers, you'd better forget him. A jealous "earth man" is no match for a girl with wings.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter in your column from the little girl who claimed to be only seven years old. I am not doubting your word, or the little girl's, but this is the first time I ever heard of a seven-year-old who could write. Even if she can, I wonder what she is doing reading an advice column.

DOUBTING THOMAS
Dear Tom: The seven-year-old girl printed her letter. Nor is she my youngest correspondent.

have received letters from a few six-year-olds.

DEAR ABBY: I suppose this is a rather silly question, but I want to know how soon a person should go dancing after his mother's or father's death. Some say you should wait three months. Others say it doesn't make any difference.

JUST CURIOUS
DEAR CURIOUS: Go dancing when you "feel like it." (But most people don't "feel like it" for quite a while.)

DEAR ABBY: I had the same problem as "MUST KNOW." I was dating a man who claimed to be single, but I became suspicious when he wouldn't give me his phone number or address. He saw me two nights a week, but he was never available on weekends.

I made a note of his license plates and had a tag check run on him. In this way I found out what his home address was. From that I learned that he was married, had two children and his wife was expecting another. It was a terrible mess, but I was glad I found out. Pass this on to those dopes who believe everything they're told and call it "faith."

ALMOST A DOPE

Are things rugged? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and don't forget a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Outwit Pets With New Closely Woven Covers

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Animal-sheltering households have to adopt a philosophic attitude towards their home furnishings' life expectancy. If you add children to the animals or vice versa even greater calm is required to deal with the wear and tear these conditions impose on upholstered furniture.

Let us grant there are extraordinary, homes where damask and velvet upholsteries are combined successfully with growing children and loving animals.

I would even grant that homemakers who say their dogs and cats are trained to stay off the furniture sincerely believe this. It's my private guess the beasties stay off when the mistress' eye is on them.

Animals are persistent. For nine long years I've booted off the black and white terrier off the sofa and for nine long years he's hopped back up again as soon as my back was turned. As the children point out with reasonable patience he's more comfortable on the sofa.

Cats show more enterprise in their determination to settle down in the house. They curl up in the best chair to sleep. A nice fuzzy or tweed upholstery, preferably new, is just the thing for sharpening claws. Our cat tried the grass cloth wallpaper as a substitute, but soon returned to the lounge chair.

A linen cupboard door open a crack is an invitation to a tired tabby to stretch out on the towels. I don't condone any of this; I'm resigned to it.

If this sounds a little too much like home, perhaps you'll be interested in a couple of ideas to put these four-footed obdurers in their places. A homemaker whose cat had been using her modern tweed upholstered sofa as a scratching post made two discoveries when she decided to slip cover the damaged upholstery.

Contemporary furniture padded and cushioned with foam rubber has slim straight lines and, usually, loose cushions which are particularly easy for a beginner to slip cover. She did a creditable job following instructions in a pamphlet obtained from a sewing center.

The fabric is a closely woven, smooth-polished cotton. Although her family and friends like the new covers, her cat didn't. No place to sink a claw. We discovered that the cats won't bother tightly woven nylon, either.

Every Woman Should Be Pretty In Morning

Woman's World

DORIS E. WILSON
women's page editor

MARY BROOKS-PICKEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Every woman should look her prettiest in the mornings. Her family will then remember her all day that way.

Perky cotton or nylon dresses, gay smocks and neat aprons—all cost so little in fabric, take relatively little time to make and take care of, and they help you of look crisp and fresh.

Your gay spirits can direct that of your entire family the whole day through. So make it easy to act your part by looking your best.

Here are two patterns that I particularly like.

Make the No. 1 design smock of a flattering drip-dry or nylon fabric. You can slip it over your head in a jiffy.

It is as easy to make and to keep looking lovely as most any smock you can find. Buy pretty, becoming fabrics that require the minimum of care. Pattern provides for a tie belt.

The No. 2 design is made in size 32 and on up, so you see it is right for many sizes. Make this of nylon polka dot, or drip-dry and see how pretty it can be. Use matching plastic buttons.

Make your buttonholes by machine—all so easy and so quick to do.

This you could rinse out every night and have it fresh and young-looking very morning.

Dear Mrs. Picken: Do you think one can get by without ironing drip dry fabrics?—V. M.

Dear V. M.: Yes, without ironing, but all need a little pressing, especially collars, pockets. To explain, you press hard to IRON table linen—you smooth lightly when you PRESS.

Dear Mrs. Picken: A friend and I argued the other day about mending. My friend said it does not pay to mend a tender fabric especially dish towels. What do you say?—G. S.

Dear G. S.: I would mend anything that, by so doing, would prolong the use of an article a worth while length of time.

You ask about dish towels. When they are tender, I fold them in three, stitch all around the outside edges, and have a very good cleaning rag, ideal for washing window sills, bathroom fixtures, etc.

If a hole is burned in a good towel—or if it is snagged in some way—I put a sturdy piece of fabric over the hole and stitch back and forth until the patch is secure.

There is nothing more true than a "stitch in time." Mend at the outset before the hole gets beyond repair. Fabric has integrity and needs our protection as we use it.

Do you have a sewing problem? Send it to Mary Brooks Picken, care of this newspaper. While Mrs. Picken cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in the column.

Texas To Start Unique Medical Care Plan Soon

By PATRICK CONWAY
AUSTIN (UPI)—When 1961 gives way to the new year, Texas will start making history with a unique medical care plan for more than 200,000 needy state pensioners.

On an average of three out of every 100 Texans 65 or older will be eligible for hospitalization benefits under a contract with Blue Cross.

Designed to combat socialized medicine, the contract allows freedom of choice of doctors and hospitals and direct payments by the non-profit insurance company to them for their services.

Blue Cross will be paid $8.68 per month for each person on the Texas old age assistance rolls. The total amount is expected to be $23 million in 1962.

The state government will pay 25 per cent of the cost and 75 per cent will be paid by the federal government under the Kerr-Mills bill passed by Congress.

The Texas Legislature adopted the program in its regular session last spring. The history-making contract with Blue Cross, the first of its kind in the nation, will run from Jan. 1, 1962 until Aug. 31, 1963.

Nursing home care is also provided under the state legislation. The 1962 state-federal appropriations total $12 a month per person on the assistance rolls.

After $8.68 a month is earmarked for Blue Cross, there will be up to $3.25 a month per person left for nursing home care for those who do not need hospitalization.

"This is Texas answer to the advocates of federal socialized medicine under the social security program," said W. Kendall Baker of Houston, a member of the three-man board of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Baker said it is his belief the Blue Cross contract "will go a long way toward combatting the trend toward socialized medicine."

The Texas legislation was sponsored by Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro, who was chairman of the Texas Committee to the White House Conference on aging.

50,000 U.S. Collectors Ready To Start Income Tax Harvest

By LOUIS CASSELS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Archaeologists digging in the ruins of an ancient Sumerian city unearthed recently a 4,000-year-old tablet on which were inscribed these words:

"You may have a lord,
"You may have a king,
"But the man to fear,
"Is the tax-collector."

Mortimer M. Caplin keeps a reproduction of this venerable verse on his desk to remind him that tax collectors have always had a public relations problem.

As U.S. commissioner of internal revenue, Caplin is the world's champion tax collector, supervising the extraction of more than $90 billion a year from upwards of 60 million American taxpayers.

He would like to believe that most of this money is forked over cheerfully by citizens who agree with the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes that "taxes are the price we pay for civilization."

But it is brought home to him, from time to time, that there are still a few people, at least, whose sentiments toward tax collectors are approximately the same as those expressed by the Sumerian tablet-chiseler. One such taxpayer told Caplin in a testy letter recently that "there is one difference between a tax collector and a taxidermist. The taxidermist leaves the hide."

There is irony in the fact that Caplin now finds himself serving as a sort of human lightning rod for public resentment against high tax rates. As professor of tax law at the University of Virginia prior to his appointment as internal revenue commissioner last February, he argued eloquently before congressional committees for lower tax rates.

He said then—and still believes—that substantial rate reductions could be made, without loss of total revenue, if the tax bases were broadened by reducing or eliminating the special allowances credits and deductions which are now granted for certain types of income.

The Kennedy administration has submitted legislative proposals which look in this direction, but Congress so far has shown no disposition to act on them.

Caplin and his 50,000 associates in the Internal Revenue Service are now preparing to send out their annual post-Christmas greetings to the public. You can expect to receive your forms in the mail any day now, and you have until April 15 to fill out your return.

You will find some changes in the grimly familiar packet. Every new commissioner of internal revenue seems to regard the "simplification" of Form 1040 as a personal challenge, and Caplin acknowledged in an interview that he, too, has been tampering with the blamed thing.

"We have made several improvements this year," he said. "All of the tax computation has been moved into one place on page 1. Plain language has been substituted for technical terms in several places. And we're using a better quality of paper."

When you make out your own return, you engage in what Caplin and other tax scholars call "self-assessment." The whole U.S. tax system—and the financial salivency of the government—depend on most taxpayers being relatively honest and accurate in determining how much they owe.

A taxpayer has two incentives for telling the truth on his return: his conscience, and the knowledge that he may incur very tough penalties if he's caught cheating.

For one reason or the other, most Americans apparently do a pretty strict job of "self-assessment." Caplin estimates that if the government received every penny due it under the tax laws, its annual revenue would be about $4 billion greater than it actually is. Turn this statistic around, and it means that American taxpayers are shelling out about 95 per cent as much as they should.

"That's a remarkably good record," said Caplin. "In some countries, more than 50 per cent of the potential revenue is lost through tax evasion."

Caplin resembles a pugilist rather more than a college professor, and inquiry disclosed that he came by the resemblance honestly. As an undergraduate at the University of Virginia, he was intercollegiate boxing champion.

Along with the cuts and bruises incident to this pastime, he acquired a Phi Beta Kappa key, and went on to the University of Virginia Law School from which he graduated at the head of his class in 1940.

He served in the Navy during World War II, winning the two full stripes of a lieutenant as a beachmaster for the Normandy invasion.

After the war, he joined the distinguished New York law firm of Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison, where he remained until the University of Virginia lured him back to its beautiful campus at Charlottesville, as professor of tax law, in 1950.

One of the law students who took Caplin's course—and, fortunately, passed it—was a young Bostonian named Robert F. Kennedy. When President Kennedy began looking for someone to head the Internal Revenue Service, Robert Kennedy was one of several who suggested Caplin. So Prof. Caplin came to Washington in the earliest days of the New Frontier.

Caplin, is 45, which used to be considered young in Washington, but is now about par for high office. He lives with his wife, Ruth and their five children, ranging in age from 4 to 15, in a two-story brick house in northwest Washington.

"It doesn't have enough bedrooms," said Caplin, "but there's a swimming pool in the backyard."

Aside from splashing around in the pool occasionally last summer Caplin hasn't had much opportunity for physical workouts since he came to Washington. He now weighs in about 10 pounds above his fighting weight of 165, and he probably couldn't go more than four or five rounds with an irate taxpayer without getting winded.

This takes time initially, but it will save you both time and worry in the long run.

In this vein, steel industry sources issued a booklet to refute assertions of union leaders that technological developments have increased unemployment in the steel industry; it said unemployment came mostly from lack of steel orders and technological change has brought better as well as more jobs.

Arthur J. Goldberg, Secretary of Labor, wrote in Popular Mechanics magazine that the "implications of technological changes...present us with some of the knottiest problems of unemployment today. And they foreshadow major problems for the immediate future as well.

Goldberg noted that "there is nothing new about automation except the word itself," as man always has been seeking ways to replace human effort with mechanical or other forms of energy and control.

Looking ahead, Goldberg wrote that the outlook for the skilled worker, the craftsman, in this decade "looks wonderful from the individual craftsman's point of view. The need for craftsmen is expected to rise about 25 per cent, despite all the automation we can expect in the next 10 years...we will actually need to train an additional five million skilled workers by 1970."

The Kennedy administration has submitted legislative proposals which look in this direction, but Congress so far has shown no disposition to act on them.

Back in pioneer times our forefathers found they could keep track of the family history pretty well with a few notations on the flyleaf of the family Bible. But life's not quite that simple any more. Great-grandpa wasn't covered by social security or workmen's compensation. He didn't have a bank account or safe deposit box, a car and a dozen home appliances being bought on time payment, or a half-dozen insurance policies. We have taxes great-grandpa never heard of and wouldn't have believed if he had. And had you asked him for a certificate to prove his birth, he'd have thought you'd taken leave of your senses.

The point of this is that the average American today has a good many important papers to keep track of. There are birth certificates, receipts, copies of tax returns, sales contracts, and a host of other papers. With a little tidy record-keeping, you can make life easier for yourself and your family when you are gone.

So, why not make a New Year's Resolution to follow these suggestions:

1. Get a heavily bound notebook folder or file folder as a central collecting point for all the records of your affairs.

2. Put your specially important papers in your safe deposit box, but make a list of those papers and a brief summary of their contents to put in your home file.

3. Get for your files copies of birth certificates for all members of the family, and add them to the file. Add your marriage license or at least a statement as to when and where you were married and by whom.

4. Insert your will or a copy of it. If your will is kept elsewhere, include a note telling where it may be found.

5. During the year, put into the file your income tax withholding statements and receipts for expenditures which may be deductible. Then keep a copy of each year's tax return in the file.

6. Make a list of all the stocks and bonds you own and where they are.

7. List all the places you have

UPI Writer Picks Texas Over Mississippi

Harvesters Are Working Hard For Tournament

Pampa's Harvesters went through a long brisk workout Wednesday in preparation for the forthcoming Top O' Texas basketball tournament to be unreeled in the Harvester Fieldhouse Friday and Saturday night.

The Harvesters will be the host team in the tourney with Dumas, Elk City and Lawton also participating. Pampa won the last Top O' Texas tourney back in 1957.

Coach Terry Cully will be seeking sweet revenge in the two day meet against a couple of old foes, Dumas and Elk City. Dumas

Evansville Given Top Small College Rating

NEW YORK (UPI)—Evansville College of Indiana, with only a loss to major power Purdue to mar an otherwise perfect record, replaced Grambling of Louisiana today as the nation's No. 1 small college basketball team in the United Press International Board of Coaches ratings.

The Purple Aces this week were the top pick of 10 of the 35 coaches who make up the UPI rating board. Grambling was supported by 11 coaches for the No. 1 spot this week compared to 20 first-place votes last week.

Lucas Leads Ohio In Win

United Press International

There's nothing like a little tournament pressure to bring out the best in All-America Jerry Lucas and the top-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes.

Lucas, on display in Los Angeles, gave West Coast basketball fans something to buzz about Wednesday night with one of his patented performances in leading the Buckeyes to a 59-49 win over Washington in a first round game of the Los Angeles Classic.

It was the eighth straight victory for unbeaten Ohio State and provided part of a general form-fitting pattern in which third-ranked Kansas State, fourth-ranked Southern California and fifth-ranked Wichita all came through with tournament triumphs.

Ring Bouts On Tonight

Pampa's Optimist club boxers square off against the Amarillo Dec's boxing club here Thursday night at 8 p.m. in what promises to be an exciting evening of pugilism.

Headlining the card will be the rematch between Pampa's Gary Wilhelm and Amarillo's Cowboy Willamore. Both boys will be fighting in the 155-pound open class and are expected to give the crowd a real treat before the night is over.

Wilhelm won the last meeting between the two fighters on a split decision here in Pampa and Willamore will be out for revenge.

Willamore, on the other hand, has won numerous state championships in Idaho and other western states.

Admission is $1.00 for adults, 75 cents for students and fifty cents for children.

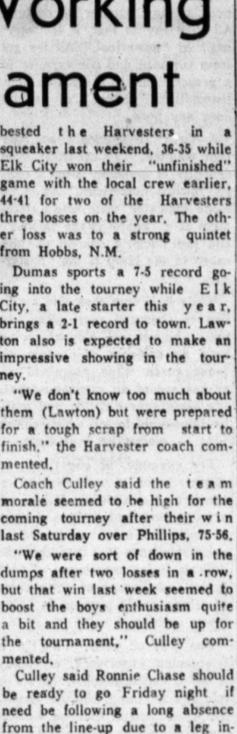

Thursday night's pairings:

- 60 - Mike Robbins, vs. Mike Clemente, and Andy Grim vs. Johnny Cameron.
- 75 - D. D. Lofton, vs. Howard Clements.
- 80 - Alfred Brown, vs. Jerry McClure.
- 95 - Phillip Long, vs. Robert Cameron.
- 109 - Keith Jones, vs. Johnny Profanick.
- 105 - Pete Pettit, vs. Don Clements.
- 126 - Jesse Reed, vs. Mike Slattery.
- 147 - Ronnie Fletcher, vs. Billy Profanick.

Open Class

- 130 - Johnny Ironmonger, Pampa vs. David McKay.
- 147 - Pat McDonald, Pampa vs. Kenneth Cameron.
- 155 - Wilhelm, Pampa vs. Willamore.

Al Sherman Wins Honor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Al Sherman, the young man for whom many felt sorry the day he inherited the New York Giants 12 months ago, today was named the United Press International "Coach of the Year" for the 1951 National Football League season.

Sherman took over a third-place team believed to be slipping, collaborated, with general manager Wellington Mara in refurbishing it and guided the Giants to the Eastern Division championship.

The cheerful, 18-year-old rookie coach now can realize his fondest dreams by beating the Green Bay Packers next Sunday for the world pro football championship.

Sherman won the Coach of the Year honor in a close three-man vote over Norm Van Brocklin of the Minnesota Vikings and Vince Lombardi of the Packers. In the poll of 42 regular NFL writers—three from each league city—Sherman received 15 votes, Van Brocklin 14 and Lombardi 11.

Nick Skorich of the Philadelphia Eagles and Red Hickey of the San Francisco Forty Niners each had one vote.

Giants May Attempt Sneaker Play Sunday

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Giants will bring their sneakers and gloves to Green Bay for the National Football League championship game next Sunday, and chances are they won't mind it a bit if the day comes up snow and ice.

In fact, one of the Giants' most memorable championships was won in the famous "sneaker game" of 1934 over the Chicago Bears. And Charlie Conerly wore gloves while passing them in the 1956 title, also against the Bears.

On a field with poor footing, the passing team rates an edge over the club that depends more on a running game.

Obviously, it's tough for backs like the Packers' Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor to be fast or shifty on slippery or heavy underfooting.

The passer, on the other hand, gets a dry ball to throw. And his receivers have an advantage in that they know exactly how they plan to maneuver while the defender often reacts a step slower on a bad field.

The Packers are acknowledged to be the superior rushing team. Y. A. Tittle, Charlie Conerly and their fleet pass receivers should make the Giants stronger through the air.

The day the Giants won the 1934 championship in sneakers, the temperature in the Polo Grounds at New York was 9 degrees and the field was a sheet of ice. The Giants, trailing 13-3 at halftime, donned sneakers for the second half. They scored 27 points in the final period and beat the Bears, 30-13.

Rebels Flying To Dallas For Cotton Tilt

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi's football squad, minus one important cog, will break camp here Friday and fly to Dallas for a New Year's Day date with Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

Coach Johnny Vaught said the 38-member traveling squad would leave immediately after practice Friday.

Fullback Billy Ray Adams will be left behind in a hospital bed at Memphis. The team's leading ground gainer, Adams was injured in an automobile accident Dec. 5 and will watch the game by television.

Vaught believes that Texas, with its "flip-flop" offense and All-America halfback Jimmy Saxton, is the toughest bowl foe Mississippi has ever faced.

Over the past seven years that would include teams such as LSU, Rice, Florida, Texas Christian and Texas, a 39-7 victim of the Rebels in the 1958 Sugar Bowl. Mississippi will be gunning for its fifth consecutive bowl victory in as many years.

Vaught cautioned his Rebels about the speed of the lighter Texas team and said the Longhorns move the ball "as well as any team we have ever faced."

Saxton was fifth in the nation in rushing with 246 yards even though he was used sparingly to reduce the chance of injury.

Green Bay Grid Crew Improving

GREEN BAY (UPI)—A nearly healthy Jim Taylor and a Paul Hornung whose loss of weight has been compensated for by added speed greeted Green Bay Packer coach Vince Lombardi as the countdown neared for Sunday's National Football League championship game here.

Taylor, whose recuperation from a badly bruised hip has been slowed by cold weather, was running at nearly full speed in practice Wednesday. He and defensive halfback Johnny Symank are the only Packers still on the injured list for Sunday's game against the Eastern Division champion New York Giants.

Symank's injury also has been slow in responding, but he was expected to be ready for the title game.

Hornung, whose weight dropped nearly 20 pounds after his induction into the Army last November, seemed faster and shifter than ever in both his running and pass receiving Wednesday.

This is the first week in which the National Football League's top scorer has worked out with the team in seven weeks.

Near zero temperatures chilled the Packers' most spirited drill in recent weeks Wednesday. Temperatures were scheduled to be even colder when they headed for the field today. The thermometer registered a low 2 above at the start of Wednesday's practice and after 90 minutes had risen just one degree.

Using scarfs, sweaters, towels, gloves, practice jerseys and jackets to protect against the cold, the team drilled first on calisthenics. They then ran dummy plays against a New York defense and with the versatile Lew Carpenter filling the quarterback role of Y. A. Tittle and Charley Conerly, gave the defense a workout against Giant plays.

Faison Named Top Rookie In AFL Loop

DALLAS (UPI)—Earl Faison, San Diego's bone-crushing, mountain defensive end, has won the American Football League's Rookie-of-the-Year honor.

Faison, 6-5, 256-pound lineman from Indiana, was selected by the AFL's eight head coaches. He won votes of five coaches. Buffalo fullback Art Baker, Houston end Bob McLeod and San Diego linebacker Chuck Allen won the other ballots.

Offensive coach Joe Madro of the Chargers said Faison "must have tipped or batted down 25 passes during the season."

Faison said Houston's Rich Michael gave him more trouble than anyone else during the season.

In speaking of Michael's pass blocking, Faison said, "he's unorthodox. He gives you dead, and you think you have him beat but somehow he steers you so you don't get to (George) Blanda."

Houston, Eastern Division champions, defeated San Diego, Western Division winners, in the AFL title game last Sunday at San Diego, 10-3.

Shockers Tangle With Clarendon In Tilt Tonight

Pampa's Shockers resume cage action tonight when they host Clarendon in the Harvester fieldhouse at 7 p.m.

The Shockers, who are 10-1 on the year will battle the Clarendon varsity in what should be a tough game for both teams.

Clarendon has been picked to finish second in their district this year and will be out to help prime themselves for the district opener with a victory over the local quintet.

Pro Bowling Loop To Remain Intact

DALLAS (UPI)—National Bowling League Commissioner Dick Charles said Wednesday the league is "very much in existence" and the seven remaining teams plan to continue the rest of the season.

"We have every confidence that the league will continue," Charles said after a day-long meeting of league franchise owners. "Most of the day was spent resolving problems involved with Kansas City dropping from the league."

UCLA To Lose To Minnesota, Fraley Asserts

By OSCAR FRALEY

MIAMI (UPI)—The final edition of Fraley's football follies and the bowl game "winners" — or how to use up all that money left over from Christmas without breaking your arches looking for bargains.

In a nutshell:

- Rose Bowl—Minnesota minus eight over UCLA.
- Sugar Bowl—Arkansas plus 12½ over Alabama.
- Cotton Bowl—Texas plus three over Mississippi.
- Orange Bowl—LSU minus 13 over Colorado.
- Gator Bowl—Georgia Tech minus three over Penn State.
- Sun Bowl—Villanova over Wichita.

Is Bigness Evil

We hear so much from people who claim to be "conservative" about how small businesses are necessary but how big business is an abomination, that we get a little tired of it. If people who oppose "big" business because of its bigness really were consistent in their beliefs, they would stop patronizing big business and in consequence there wouldn't be much in the way of big business.

Let's just see what would happen. Presumably the critic of "big" business lives in a house or apartment. Who made the house? Big business.

The lumber came as a result of huge lumber companies owning and maintaining huge tracts of land which make the cutting of trees, the sawing and milling of lumber, not only possible but inexpensive.

Anyone who wishes not to buy lumber for his home may purchase his own tract, install his own machinery and make his own lumber.

The cement came from big business. So did the electric wiring, the furnace, the furniture and all the household appliances.

Who would have an electric refrigerator today if it weren't for big business? Who would have dishes, made by giant companies? Or silverware? Or tablecloths turned out by giant looms?

And take the clothing worn by most of us. Anyone who wishes to do so may install his own hand loom, raise his own wool on his own sheep or plant flax if he lives in a territory where flax may be grown. He can also grow his own cotton, get his own small cotton gin, spin his own yarn, make his own thread, provide his own needle and otherwise patronize small business if he chooses.

But today few of us have clothes especially made for us by small business. Most of us benefit by the LOWER prices and the fine workmanship of factory-produced goods. Our clothes are superior to all others on earth, largely because they are produced by big business. And they come ready-made in a vast variety of choices.

Death And Dollars

War is not a means to riches. It is the avenue to spoliation, inflation and privation. Only death, dollars and tyranny are increased during a shooting conflict.

'Unearned Increment'

One of the things which used to send Karl Marx and his cohorts into spasms of hair-snatching rage was what socialists have been calling for years, "unearned increment."

Translated into understandable English it means simply this: A man buys a tract of land, paying a low price. Other persons buy land in the vicinity. Buildings start going up. Perhaps oil or minerals or other natural resources are discovered.

The first man to buy in the vicinity will find that the market value of his land has increased, perhaps enormously. But he has done nothing himself to spur that increase. He has built no buildings, found no oil or minerals. Thru the efforts of others he is now in a position to sell what he originally bought, at perhaps ten times what he paid for it.

Marx, who looked at profits with surly visage, recoiled at this practice. This is "unearned increment," he would storm.

With customary lack of discernment, Marx failed to see the "other side" of the investment. He failed to take into account the conditions which might have arisen had these fortunate circumstances not occurred. Let us suppose that the same man bought the same tract. He did nothing with it. But business or residential development did not come. Instead it went somewhere else and his investment went down in market value.

Or take soap. Supposedly, anti-capitalists who hate big business use it. Soap companies are gigantic. They employ thousands of people.

Nearly every family in America has an automobile. No one is compelled to have one. Horses and carts can still be purchased. How would you go about making an automobile in a small firm? Only mass production in incredibly large businesses makes the purchase of automobiles possible for the millions who own them.

And what of the gasoline, the oil, the anti-freeze? Big business is responsible for all of it.

And where do you purchase your groceries? Most people patronize super-markets where a staggering array of foodstuffs is available, brightly packaged, attractive, clean, cheap.

Or take your ability to buy an airplane ticket or a bus ticket or a train ticket. Would you prefer small companies in these cases, or a large company, handling many stopover points?

Americans have learned, and demonstrated for the whole world, the efficacy of BIG business. But no business got started big. Each business was once small. But it grew to its present size because it provided things many people wanted at a price people could and would pay.

If it didn't, it didn't grow big. Or take the telephone, by means of which a person can express his anathema to bigness. A. T. & T. has made it possible and it is a gargantuan.

Or take radio or television or the moving picture industry. In these businesses as in most others, you grow to satisfy thousands or you starve.

Bigness means success to some degree. Do Americans hate success? One would think so.

Instead of lashing out against bigness, we should strive to be worthy of bigness.

We promise to have full respect for the individual who refuses utterly to patronize a single big business firm and who lives accordingly. Each person has a right to his likes and dislikes.

But actions speak louder than words.

or non-existent. This is certainly a fine service.

Let us suppose that market values go down. Very well. He took his chances, as any speculator must, and lost. But the loss is his. Meanwhile, the man who sold the land to him got "out from under." The seller was benefited and the buyer lost.

But let us suppose that the market value increased. Prices rise. Finally, the speculator decides it is time to sell. He does so at great profit to himself. But has he injured anyone by his process?

No, he has not. For if prices have risen there has been a tendency for a scarcity of land in that particular vicinity to appear. The speculator sells when there is a scarcity of things for others to buy. He thus provides something which is of great value, hence his higher price. He gains but so does the public and the market.

In other words, whatever happens to the speculator, whether he wins or loses, the market and the public benefit. The speculator takes his chances hoping to win. If he does, all have benefited. If he loses, only he experiences the loss, for even then the public and the market have gained.

"Unearned increment" is a scare term which has no relation to market place fact. Actually, the speculator did EARN his reward, whatever it was. His investment may not have consisted of improvements, but his foresight made investments in improvements by others more feasible.

Only socialists believe in the term. It has no relation to fact.

THE WASHINGTON BOOM (Industrial News Review)

There's at least one place where a super-boom is underway. It's in the federal government. Unfortunately, it's a boom that the taxpayers — including taxpayers-to-be, not yet born—will have to pay.

Since January something like 100,000 additional civilian employees have been put on the federal payroll. Federal spending for the next year will pass $90 billion—a new peacetime record. And authoritative estimates say that next year's budget deficit will exceed $5 billion at the very least. Some think it may run close to twice that figure. It certainly will — if the next Congress approves any substantial number of the spending bills that will go into the hopper — bills which have nothing whatever to do with our military strength.

We're supposed to be prepared to make sacrifices in the name of national defense — and of national survival. When will Washington provide even a minor example? Not until the people vote no to candidates and public officials who promote higher taxes by advocating give-away programs financed by taxpayer dollars.

JETS FOR TITO (CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE)

Some Senators are saying that it is little short of treason that the United States government should have provided Dictator Tito of communist Yugoslavia with 135 Sabre jet fighter planes at a knock-down price of $10,000 apiece and then opened air force training fields to Tito's pilots so they could learn to fly them.

The deal was approved a few days before the Eisenhower administration went out of office, but was confirmed and consummated by the Kennedy administration. It is argued that the planes are obsolescent and would add little to soviet air strength, if Tito, in a showier, threw in his lot openly with Khrushchev.

That may be, but the planes again implied Washington's approval of a communist tyrant upon whom it has already lavished about 2 billion dollars in foreign aid, despite the fact that he supports Moscow on every occasion in which the United States is on the other side.

For a government which is always professing, as ours does, that it has the greatest sympathy and compassion for peoples who are compelled to live under communist repression, it is not service to liberty to make donations to the Communists who are keeping them down. The subject peoples are bound to ask, "If America likes Tito, then doesn't it also like Khrushchev, Gomulka, Ulbricht, Kadar, and the rest of our masters?" And Yugoslavs who may harbor hopes of some dispensation different from that of communism will be tempted to say to themselves, "What's the use? The Americans back our bosses."

We do not think that the plane deal is reasonable. We think it is idiotic, as so much that is done by Washington is. Our peerless leaders can't even tell friends from enemies.

or non-existent. This is certainly a fine service.

Let us suppose that market values go down. Very well. He took his chances, as any speculator must, and lost. But the loss is his. Meanwhile, the man who sold the land to him got "out from under." The seller was benefited and the buyer lost.

But let us suppose that the market value increased. Prices rise. Finally, the speculator decides it is time to sell. He does so at great profit to himself. But has he injured anyone by his process?

No, he has not. For if prices have risen there has been a tendency for a scarcity of land in that particular vicinity to appear. Red China Massing Leaders Of Indo-China Campaign For New Offensive Against South Vietnam

WASHINGTON — Red China is reacting quickly and forebodingly to this country's increased military assistance to Communist-pledged South Vietnam.

The Red Chinese general who drove the French out of Indo-China almost a decade ago has arrived in Hanoi, capital of North Vietnam, and is directing preparations for a large-scale offensive against South Vietnam.

He is Soviet-trained Marshal Yeh Chien-ying, rated by Pentagon Intelligence as the "best staff officer" in the Red China army.

With Yeh is a group of other high-ranking veterans of the successful Indo-China campaigns. Foremost among them are General Liu Ya-lou, deputy chief of the Red China airforce, and General Yang Cheng-wu, deputy chief of the Communist army's political branch.

Other officers, with Yeh are General Huang Jung-sheng, Lieutenant General Hsiao Hsiang-jung, Major General Lei Ying-fu, Vice Admiral Wu Sui-lin, and Senior Colonel Liu Chung-kuei.

Significantly, these Red Chinese commanders are working in conjunction with General Nguyen Giap, commander of North Vietnamese forces.

Giap met Yeh and his group when they arrived at Hanoi's Giam Airport. During the warring against the French, Diap was the field commander while Yeh had charge of strategy and logistic support.

All indications are the same arrangement is to be employed against South Vietnam.

Latest Intelligence reports to the Joint Chiefs of Staff also warn of the strong likelihood Red Chinese forces will be used in the impending offensive. Large numbers of these troops are concentrated on North Vietnam's borders, from where they can be readily shuttled to combat areas.

That is ominously similar to what happened in Korea and Indo-China.

In anticipation of intensified Communist activity, U.S. helicopter crews have been directed to shoot back if fired on.

Pentagon authorities expect some American casualties as a result of our expanded military aid to South Vietnam. That is being stepped up from around 780 million a year to $150 million, with personnel increased from slightly over 2,000 to approximately 5,000.

In addition to aircraft, the U.S. is providing South Vietnam with new-type plastic landing craft designed especially for use in the shallow waterways infested by Communist guerrillas. Heavier steel vessels previously sent proved useless.

FOREIGN FLASHES — Timor Island, off the north coast of Australia, is the most likely area Indonesia will try to capture first if peace efforts fail. Indonesia occupies the western part of the island, and claims all of it.

Japan's Nissan Motor Company has signed a 10-year contract with India's Defense Department for "technical assistance" in the construction of thousands of small patrol jeeps. India will pay Nissan 4 per cent of the price of the cars as a royalty and technical assistance fee. Mexico's President Lopez Mateos has named seven former Presidents to government posts. Strongly pro-Western former President Miguel Alemán, was named head of the Council for Tourism. Leftist ex-President Lazaro Cardenas was made a member of the Rio Balsas Commission, a conservation project.

ON WAY OUT — Salvatore Bontempo, head of the State Department's Bureau of Security & Consular Affairs, is getting his wish — in reverse.

Recently, the former New Jersey Commissioner of Conservation & Economic Development, whose appointment to the State Department was hotly challenged in Congress, advocated that his agency be abolished.

It isn't going to be. He is leaving instead.

Bontempo has notified the White House he is resigning next month. He was not urged to change his mind.

His departure may spare him a clash with Representative Francis Walter, D. Pa., chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, who angrily assailed Bontempo's appointment. Walter charged Bontempo has sharply reduced the State Department's security staff, and proposed to grill him about that when Congress reconvenes.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Q—What is "lump in the throat"? My wife complains of it frequently and sometimes for weeks and even months. We have been to any number of doctors. All they say is that it is "nervous" or "hysterical." All we get from our visit and our expense is a prescription for a sedative or a tranquilizer, neither of which does any good.

A—Dear "Disgusted," as you sign yourself. The condition you describe is probably what's called "globus hystericus." As the name indicates, your wife's statement of a "lump" is the "globus" and the doctor's opinion of the cause of the lump is the "hystericus."

While it is true that this condition is observed most often in tense, high-strung women who have no evidence of organic disease (even when examined after passage of an esophagoscope), it's sometimes difficult and may be impossible to tell which comes first — globus or hystericus.

For example, at one time or another, each of us suffers discomfort on swallowing. Maybe we ate dry food, bolted down a lump of unchewed meat, swallowed a crisp substance that scratched the delicate lining membrane of the gullet (esophagus) or got a mess of sticky candy plugged in the lower opening.

One way or other, that's a frightening experience, especially if we're cancer-minded. If we're told it's a "lump" in the throat, the word "lump" that we associate with cancer may add to our "hystericus."

So we make multiple visits to multiple doctors and have multiple examinations until a minor annoyance becomes a major disturbance. Then, when the annoyance persists despite medication, we begin to think of the possibility that the doctors "missed something." That something being, of course, a cancer.

I may be wrong but the tone of your letter suggests you're annoyed with your wife, and she's probably annoyed with the globus, herself, you, doctors and her medications.

So how's about what the diplomats call a disengagement? A truce: A cessation of hostilities? For, if the globus was due to a malignancy, your wife wouldn't be around to notice it.

Since it's "one of those things" we doctors can't explain and can't relieve, how about dropping it from the family agenda?

Perhaps your wife will refer not to complain about it or refer to it if you agree not to inquire about it and ignore her obvious discomfort when it occurs at meals. You can't tell. It just might work.

Q—I am writing in behalf of a neighbor whose husband died at the hospital two weeks ago. After the services, she was rebuked by her sister-in-law for giving permission for an autopsy which an attendant of the funeral parlor said had been performed.

When my neighbor denied having given permission or even knowing that an autopsy had been performed, the sister-in-law took her to the attendant who said that hospitals often performed autopsies without permission.

He went on to say that hospitals must perform 100 autopsies a year in order to keep their accredited rating. And since physicians often cannot get permission from families, many autopsies are done without the knowledge of the family.

Is there any truth in this attendant's statements? A—Except when legally constituted authorities perform a post-mortem examination for good and sufficient reasons, having to do with crime detection or the public welfare, written permission for an autopsy is required by hospital authorities and by members of the staff whose duty it is to perform the examination. This permission may be given during life by the individual or after death by the nearest of kin. The statements made by the attendant of the funeral parlor are, in my opinion, criminally malicious.

There is no truth in the allegation that hospitals must perform 100 autopsies a year to remain accredited.

And if the particular autopsy to which the attendant referred was performed without legal permission, both the hospital and those who performed the examination exposed themselves to social, ethical, civil and even criminal penalties.

This would seem wholly unlikely since, as you say later in your letter, the cause of death was an obvious malignancy.

Reactions Vary To 'Uncle's' Largest For Fringe Reds

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Just before Christmas, Uncle Sugar played Santa Claus and dished out over $300 million to several international bad boys in an apparent effort to make them be good.

To President Tito's Yugoslavia, 500,000 tons of wheat and 50,000 tons of edible oils valued at over $5 million.

To Chairman Wladyslaw Gomułka's Poland, $44 million worth of agricultural commodities, including transportation.

These latest deals with Yugoslavia and Poland give them only half of what they asked for. So to that extent, Uncle Santa Claus held back a little and didn't empty the bag.

But to President Kwame Nkrumah's Ghana we gave $133 million for half the cost of the Volta River water power and aluminum plant project.

Tito and Nkrumah claim to be neutralists, or "unaligned," as they prefer to be called. Gomułka will never be anything but an all-out captive Communist in a Russian satellite state.

But the thought seems to be that all three of these countries can be wooed if not wooed away from their leaders by United States surpluses in their bad years.

Last April the United States let Yugoslavia have $64 million worth of surplus crops. In July 1960, the U.S. let Poland have $130 million worth. Both countries pay for these "purchases" in local currency, but 75 per cent is loaned back for investment.

The Ghana loans will be repayable in 30 years.

Total United States aid to the three countries from July 1, 1945 through June 30, 1961 has been $2.8 billion to Yugoslavia, $514 million to Poland and $6.6 million to Ghana.

The question raised is whether this is good business and good diplomacy to boot. To the extent that food loans keep people from going hungry, they are humanitarian and in keeping with the Food for Peace Program, intended to build good will.

To the extent that the food loans help the United States get rid of other wise unmarketable crop surpluses, storage costs in this country are reduced. But there is unquestionably an element of subsidy here for which the U.S. taxpayer foots the bill.

As for winning political allies, these three latest deals are of questionable value. Neither Yugoslavia nor Poland nor Ghana has given any support to the United States at the U.N. or in any other international dealings. Tito and Nkrumah were of no help at the conference of unaligned countries in Belgrade earlier this year.

And yet, officials of the State Department, Agency for International Development, World Bank, Export-Import bank and International Development Assn. argue that sound loans and grants made to these neutral countries can do good.

Though dissents will be loud at mention of the names, Nasser of United Arab Republic and Nehru of India are pointed to as prime examples, in spite of all the headaches they have caused. The U.S. has given over $3 billion in aid to India and $486 million to the UAR since the end of World War II.

The argument seems to be that if no help had been given them, they would have fallen completely into the hands of the Communists and things would be a lot worse than they are.

Nasser started out that way after the late John Foster Dulles turned down Egypt's request, for financing the Aswan dam. Russia picked up the tab for that with a $100 million credit. Nasser subsequently took $788 million in Red bloc arms aid.

But in the three years since then Nasser has learned how difficult it is to do business with the Communists. Food shortages, a disastrous cotton crop this year and withdrawal of Syria from the UAR have made Nasser much more interested in getting help from the United States and western Europe.

What India's take-over of Goa and other Portuguese colonies in India will do to Nehru's unpopularity in the West is increase it. But westerners working in India now consider it the hope of the future for South and Southeast Asia. Let India go down the drain and the whole continent would be lost.

STATUTES OF LIMITATIONS VARY ON UNPAID BILLS

By FAYE HENLE

Q — Is there any legal time beyond which I cannot hope to collect on bills owed me by patients? —Dr. J. M.

Dear Dr. J. M.: Statutes of limitations vary by state, ranging from 3 to 8 years for oral agreements and 5 to 20 years for written agreements.

Determine what statute of limitations rules in your state and feel free to press for payment during the period.

You can also extend the legal time limit by getting written confirmation that your patient will pay up, since the legal period will begin upon the date he repudges payment. In some states when a patient leaves the state, later to return, years away do not count under the state's statutory limitation period.

Q — Which is the best way to write a will to insure members of the family get an equal share without too much federal taxes? —M. W.

A — Dear M. W.: There is only one way of reducing the federal estate tax: reduce the size of the estate before death. You can do this by making gifts. Under the law you are permitted to make a once-in-a-lifetime gift of $30,000, or $60,000 if you are married, and your spouse agrees.

You can also make as many annual gifts of $3,000, or $6,000 jointly as you desire, without having to pay gift taxes. Willing precious items such as paintings to an institution removes them from the estate tax.

Estate taxes can also be avoided by setting up an irrevocable trust. If you give away principal plus income during your lifetime this money would not form part of your estate and thus would not be taxable.

Writer Reviews Odd-Ball Crimes During The Year

By MEADER G. PATTINGTON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It was a confusing year of international crisis — 1961. It was also a year when odd-ball crimes cropped up like crazy dreams.

Take the case of the stolen lake in Grimsby, England. The owner complained that five acres of water had disappeared. The local River Board admitted the theft, claiming they accidentally drained it while pumping water to factories.

And here's a poser: Who stole a 7x30-foot baseball backstop fence in Tucson, Ariz.?

Syracuse, N.Y., police arrested a disgruntled car thief who complained that he never would have been caught if the auto's clutch hadn't burned out.

In Duluth, Minn., police handed out a parking ticket to an Oriental jirikisha. The owners had been promoting a Chinese dinner.

An Ottawa, Ont., robber made a daring entrance into a bank, vaulted neatly over a teller's counter — and accidentally shot himself.

Manhattan, N.Y., police are still looking for the thieves who invaded their lockers at headquarters. Loot: two revolvers, two gun belts and two pairs of hand-cuffs.

And in Ringgold, Ga., desperados broke INTO jail, making off with four dozen eggs, three pounds of sausage, four loaves of bread and an electric food mixer.

An Illinois tobacco store owner was arrested. His offense: adding gunpowder to the free pipe tobacco he kept on his counter.

When business was slow, a Nevada car radiator repairman made his own by hiring youths to punch holes in the radiators of parked autos.

Suspicion of assault was the charge against a California man found in the front row of a burlesque house armed with a slingshot and metal staples.

An Oregon man complained that he handed over $1,000 to two strangers after he was hypnotized with gusts of cigar smoke.

And a husband in Idaho pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing his wife's false teeth.

"Alibi of the year award goes to a Detroit, Mich., man who was arrested while looting a cash register in an empty store. His excuse: while leaning against the store window, it broke. He crawled through the opening to leave his name and address. He was delving into the register because, "I was looking for a pencil."

Grievance Committee
And a San Francisco man who slugged three women strikers on a picket line had a reason, too: "I don't like unions," he said when arrested.

Manhattan police were looking for a couple of peppery bandits after a $10,000 jewelry store robbery. They made their escape after throwing pepper in the eyes of the clerk.

A youthful driver in Genoa, Italy, protested to the policeman who stopped him that he was driving carefully, obeying all laws and held a valid operator's license. The only trouble, it seems, is that he was driving the policeman's own car, stolen earlier.

A group of students were arrested in Poole, England, for throwing a grand piano over a cliff. The fine: $2.80 for depositing trash in a public place.

And 1961 was the end of a happy era for a store owner in Sparta, Wis. For seven years he had been leaving a dollar bill in the windshield of his parked car to prove that folks were honest. The dishonest man finally came along.

Jewels, Reported Missing, Found By Dallas Resident

DALLAS (UPI)—Mrs. Joe Callihan solved her $15,000 jewel mystery all by herself.

Last Saturday night, the Callihans reported the jewelry missing from their ranch-style home (on Collins Road) in eastern Dallas County.

Police turned out in force, remembering a wave of jewel thefts that has plagued the Dallas area in recent months.

All through Christmas weekend, Mrs. Callihan worried about the missing jewels.

This morning, she started to search the house from top to bottom. Her husband called police with the good news: She found them.

She had hidden them so well she had forgotten where they were.
