To Curb Talkathon

'Cloture' Vote Is Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Opposing orators squared off today with last hour arguments before a Senate showdown on curbing the two-week-old Southern talkathon against voting rights legislation. The test will come Wednesday on a cloture petition to curb debate. The White House was backing efforts by leaders of both parties to scrape up the two-thirds margin needed to gag the talkfest and assure a vote on the administration's bill. But the odds were against them. The debate revolves around a proposal to outlaw discriminatory state literacy tests and make a sixth-grade education proof of literacy for voting in federal elections. In a speech prepared for use today, Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Min., said "There can be no real argument about the need for legislation." Humphrey said the administration bill, sponsored by both Democratic and GOP leaders, would only "take a useful and effective step toward assuring all Americans the right to vote." But Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., said the administration was asking Congress to "pin a badge of legality on a completely illegal and unconstitutional" bill. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the 19-member Southern bloc fighting the bill, called a meeting of his forces late Monday. Russell said he was "reasonably confident" the cloture move would fail. But he admitted that the measure's backers "may get a small majority" if they do not obtain the two-thirds. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., introduced the cloture petition Monday with the full backing of GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill. It had 29 original signers—19 Democrats and 10 Republicans. The Senate let two more Democrats sign later for a total of 31. This was far more than the needed 16, but still no clue to the outcome on the showdown vote. If the cloture move fails to get the two-thirds approval, but draws a majority of the senators voting, Mansfield will move to table the bill and then vote against his own motion. Mansfield's strategy would bring an immediate test of Senate sentiment on the bill because a tabling motion is not debatable. If the Senate vote is "preponderantly" against tabling, Mansfield said, the debate will continue with a second cloture try later.

Laos Battalions May Be Trapped By Communists

VIENTIANE (UPI)—Two Royal Laotian army battalions may have been trapped when Communist rebel forces overran the provincial capital town of Nam Tha, a senior American military adviser said today. The American identified the battalions as the 28th and 30th. Shattered elements of the Laotian forces attempted to regroup about 40 miles southwest of Nam Tha. Pilots flying reconnaissance missions and supply drops over the Nam Tha area Monday reported that only 1,000 to 3,000 members of the 5,000-man government garrison there had been regrouped to the south. Incoming stragglers were expected to increase the size of this force, but by just how much still was unclear. The Reds drove the Royal Army forces out of Nam Tha, near the Communist Chinese border and about 225 miles northwest of the administrative capital of Vientiane, following a thunderous artillery barrage Sunday. The fall of Nam Tha, which with Luang Prabang and Houei Sai, formed the apex of a government defense triangle near the Red Chinese border, was a bitter blow to the royal government headed by Prince Boun Oum. It followed the fall of the city of Muong Sing earlier last week and marked what the United States and Britain considered a gross violation of the year-old cease-fire which had prevailed in Laos.

Hearing On 'Stockpiling' Is Resumed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A GOP senator said today that correspondence from congressmen trying to influence stockpile policies should be put into the record of the special subcommittee investigating the stockpile. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., said "I'm not making any charges or imputations." Beall, a member of the subcommittee, said he wanted to bring out any conflicting pressures taken into account by officials responsible for managing the overflowing stockpiles. The subcommittee resumed hearings today into policies governing the stockpiling of quartz crystal and industrial diamonds. Previous testimony has claimed that quartz crystals, a component for communications equipment, are among the most overstocked items in the strategic stockpile, exceeding the estimated maximum needs for a three-year war by more than 800 per cent.

Pampa May Have A New City Manager Soon; Judge Resigns

Commission Pays Its Part Of Paving Bill

Pampa may have a new city manager within the next week. Mayor E. C. Sidwell announced at today's meeting of the City Commission that he had been authorized by the other three commissioners to meet in Dallas tomorrow and negotiate with a prime prospect for the post. "We hope to have the situation resolved within a week," the mayor said. The mayor and commissioners also indicated today that a review of Pampa's overall municipal picture is awaiting the hiring of a new city manager. Officials indicated there are a number of matters being held up until they can be gone into with the new head of city government. The Commission today accepted the resignation of City Recorder Bill Waggoner, who had been named on a temporary basis, and appointed Homer Hollar, a former department manager, to act as corporation court judge until a permanent appointment is made after the new city manager's arrival. Authorization also was made by the commission today for payment of the city's share of approximately $18,000 for the paving of some 17 or 18 blocks in N. Hobart, W. 25th, W. Decatur, N. Faulkner, E. and W. Harvester, S. Barnes, W. Buckler, S. Dwight and E. Allen Sts. Total amount due the contractor, Ray Boswell, is approximately $89,000, the balance being due from property owners on the streets. Plans for overhauling the Palm Room of City Hall for city commission meetings, including air conditioning and new furniture, at a cost of approximately $7,000, were tabled. Mayor Sidwell announced that Acting City Manager R. B. Cooke had reviewed city operations and had submitted suggestions whereby the city could save $50,000 a year on operating costs without decreasing efficiency. Cooke was asked to submit a copy of his recommendations to other members of the commission. Mayor Sidwell also announced at today's commission session that Atty. Clayton Heare of Amarillo today formally filed with the 7th District Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo the appeal from a 21st District Court decision of Judge Lewis M. Goodrich in which a recall election was ordered on City Commissioners Lloyd Simpson, Newt Secrest, Leon Holmes and L. P. Fort. Commissioner Secrest has since resigned. A recall on Mayor E. C. Sidwell recently was turned down in a city-wide recall election April 17. Commissioners heard a complaint from Don Ashley that stray dogs were running at large in his neighborhood on the South Side. He asked that a city ordinance be enforced requiring dogs to be fenced-in or kept on a leash. City Manager Cooke reported that he had not yet completed an investigation of a complaint that a 61-year-old Pampa barber had been unnecessarily manhandled by a police officer. Another Pam-

GOP Intensifies Its Demand For Probe On Estes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republicans stepped up their demands for an investigation of the Billie Sol Estes case today with charges the Agriculture Department is trying to whitewash it. Sen. John J. Williams, R-DeI., made public a letter Monday from Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson to Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman. The letter said that Estes, under indictment in Texas for fraud, maintained a "close relationship" with Agriculture Department officials. Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee, joined the clamor for an investigation. He charged that "a Democratic-controlled Congress, dominated by an all-powerful executive, is dragging its feet and Secretary Freeman is not helping by his efforts to whitewash his department's role in it." The congressman said that "despite Freeman's claims that Billie Sol Estes received no special treatment from the Agriculture Department, the fact remains that he received a lot of special consideration." Shortly before Williams revealed the letter concerning Estes, Freeman said he would hold a public hearing May 23 so that some 564 creditors could present evidence to firm up their claims against Estes. The lawyers told the federal judge that Estes has assets of $34,148,000 and liabilities of $17,771,000—but that does not include the money he owes on contracts for anhydrous ammonia (liquid fertilizer) tanks. man told a news conference there was no evidence his department showed favoritism toward the Texas financier. Freeman said three department officials may have taken favor from Estes, but he said two are no longer with the department and the FBI was investigating the third. Williams, however, said he could not reconcile Freeman's statement at the news conference with the letter from the Texas attorney general.

OAS Gunmen Stalk Streets Of Algiers Killing Moslems; 16 Reported Dead

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Gunmen of the terrorist Secret Army Organization (OAS) stalked the streets of Algiers today, shooting down Moslems in indiscriminate attacks. By noon, European terrorists had slain 16 persons in Algiers and four others elsewhere in Algeria and wounded at least 18 others. Most of the victims were Moslems. It brought the year's terrorist toll to 4,362 dead and 8,777 injured. The terrorists apparently were pressing their attacks in an attempt to goad the Moslems into massive reprisals against Europeans in the hope that such retaliation would force French Army intervention and wreck Algerian independence plans. Security forces were carrying out systematic searches of Algiers and Oran for OAS terrorists and arms. It was announced that 50 OAS suspects were arrested in Oran during the past two days. French security officials took measures to keep a tight rein on Moslems here to prevent them from striking back at Europeans in reprisal for terrorist attacks by the OAS. The OAS, which opposes the French government's policy for an independent Algeria, is trying to provoke the Moslems into indiscriminate attacks on Europeans. This could nullify the March 18 Franco-Moslem cease-fire, the first step toward an independent Algeria. Moslem resentment against the Europeans has intensified as the OAS attacks increased, particularly because of their latest victims—Moslem women. Terrorist attacks Monday claimed 30 lives and wounded 35 others. Most of the victims were Moslems. The fears of French officials were confirmed Monday when Moslems counter-attacked en masse for the first time since the cease-fire. Heavily-armed security forces Monday battled with more than 300 angry Moslems who tried to storm from their Casbah Quarter after an OAS barrage of plastic bombs. A European youth was beaten to death before the Moslems were dispersed.

Orbital Flight Is Pushed Back At Least Two Days

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The timetable for astronaut Scott Carpenter's orbital flight has been pushed back at least two days by difficulties in his Atlas booster rocket, according to informed sources. The exact nature of the problem was not disclosed, but it was learned Monday night that the trouble already has been corrected—in somewhat less time than anticipated. The kinks in the rocket were discovered when technicians made a close study of a final practice mission run last Friday by the Navy lieutenant commander and the Project Mercury launch crew. Originally, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) was reported to be shooting for America's second man-in-orbit on May 15. But engineers told NASA it might take anywhere from a few extra hours to two days to track down and fix the trouble, sources said. NASA then decided on a two-day slip in the schedule, delaying the shot to May 17 at the earliest and possibly to May 22, barring further complications, according to those close to the project. More checks were being made today on the Atlas 107D and the bell-shaped Mercury capsule which Carpenter will ride into space on a flight much like that of Lt. Col. John Glenn Jr. Monday, crews fitted a 16-foot safety escape tower on top of the silvery Atlas and the capsule. The addition of the safety tower completed the major assembly of the space vehicle.

Gen. Clay Leaves Berlin; Says U.S. Will Defend City

BERLIN (UPI)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, sent here eight months ago as President Kennedy's personal representative to implement the "get tough" policy on Berlin, left today with a pledge that the United States will defend the divided city "at any price." In a brief farewell speech at West Berlin's Tempelhof Airport, the veteran of Berlin crises said Berlin "is the keystone of freedom in the Free World and if the city of Berlin is lost, freedom of the world will be lost. Approximately 1,000 West Berliners gathered outside the airport, the main airlift base of the 1948-49 blockade, to give Clay a send-off. Clay, who directed the Allied airlift that saved the city during the 1948-49 Soviet blockade, was called back to Berlin after the East German Communists scaled off their sector with the anti-refugee wall Aug. 13. Although the wall remains, the United States has won its point that its officials have freedom of access in all parts of Berlin and that Western communications lines to the city by air and land are not to be tampered with by the Communists. Clay hammered home this point in a series of swift moves every time the Communists tried to limit Allied rights. He now is known to feel that his immediate task here is finished. But in dozens of statements in recent days, he left no doubt he is ready to return if Berlin needs him again. Clay leaves Berlin at a different stage of the U.-S.-Soviet dispute over the city than when he arrived. Now, talks are in progress to find a way of ensuring Allied access to the city. Clay has made no comment on the U. S. plan for international supervision of the access routes, but West Berlin Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Monday called it "unworkable."

JFK Asks Union Help In Holding Wage-Price Line, Electing Demos

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—President Kennedy told organized labor today it shares with management equal responsibility for avoiding inflationary wage-price increases. The Chief Executive, speaking at the annual convention of AFL-CIO United Auto Workers (UAW), also appealed for union help in electing Democrats to Congress this fall. "I speak with a single voice to the men on both sides of the nation's bargaining tables when I say that your sense of responsibility—the responsibility of both labor and management—to the general public—is the foundation on which our hopes must build for the survival and success of the free enterprise system," Kennedy said. "The Chief Executive praised the UAW for having contributed to price stability in its 1951 contract with the automobile industry. "The same responsibility for non-inflationary and peaceful settlement applies both to you as management in your forthcoming negotiations in the aircraft and missile industry," he added. "I am confident you will meet that obligation, exercising the (See KENNEDY, Page 3)

"Where Can I Find An Honest Real Estate Dealer?"

Billie Sol Estes-Super Salesman

EDITORS NOTE: In another of a series of dispatches on the rise of Billie Sol Estes, UPI National Reporter Harry Ferguson explores the troubles that now beset his business empire. By HARRY FERGUSON United Press International Pecos, Tex. (UPI)—When Texans want to express their admiration for a bold, spectacular business man, they say: "He's a wheeler dealer." Billie Sol Estes, now under federal indictment in connection with the collapse of his $150 million business empire, was a wheeler-dealer, junior grade. He never was rich in the sense that such Texas tycoons as H. L. Hunt and Clint Murchison are rich. Their annual incomes probably exceed Estes' gross assets in his best years. But he was a towering man in west Texas and the town of Pecos, population 15,000, is the little pond in which he grew to be such a big frog. Estes arrived here 12 years ago with one suitcase, a battered brief case and a question: "Where can I find an honest real estate dealer?" He found one and started raising cotton. He was 25 years old then, and five years later he had made his first million. He is 37 years old today. Before the roof fell in he controlled or had an interest in 40 companies, had a fleet of Cadillacs (even the servants used one) and owned two private airplanes. In 1953 the Junior Chamber of Commerce voted him one of the nation's 10 outstanding young men. "I have been close to Billie Sol for 10 years," said a Pecos businessman, "and I still can't explain what makes him tick." Everybody is in agreement that he is a high-pressure, hypnotic salesman. This correspondent had a personal demonstration of it Monday when he rang the door bell at Estes' $150,000 ranch house. Mrs. Estes answered the door, and went into another part of the house to summon her husband. Promptly there appeared a short, stocky man wearing a blue sports shirt and black slacks and bulging under what could become a sizeable paunch. The eyes gleamed alertly behind glasses as this correspondent explained he had come to Pecos to get the Estes side of the story and would like to have an interview. He said he could make no comment, and then launched his sales talk. "I can see you are an intelligent man. I know you are going to do a good job on this because I am sure you always do a good job. I wish in my heart I could help you. But all I can do is wish you good luck and thank you for coming to our great state of Texas." It was corn as high as an elephant's eye, but delivered with such fervor and surface sincerity that this correspondent departed with an exaggerated opinion of himself. It is easy to understand how Estes could persuade men to sign on the dotted line, sometimes without reading what they were signing. From his early youth, Estes' reading centered on the collected works of Horatio Alger Jr. and the Bible. But he did more than read Alger. He became an Alger hero himself at the age of 12 by going into business. As he tells it, his parents gave him a ewe lamb for Christmas, and he sold its wool for enough money to buy another lamb. Then another until, when he was 15, he had a flock of 100. And then — and this was to be the shape of things to come — he diversified his interests and invested some money in pigs. By the time he was 18 he is said to have been worth $38,000 and adults were offering to invest money in his agricultural enterprises. Billie Sol was off on a 20-year career during which he would build a pyramid worth $150 million. Estes has said he owes all his success to an application of the teachings of the Bible to business. "There are two things Billie Sol can do real fast," said a Pecos business man. "He can quote the Bible and he can whip a financial statement out of his pocket with the speed of lightning. Several months ago he took a piece of paper out of his pocket and asked me: 'Would you like (See TEXAN, Page 3)

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel Co. says that a narrow market is likely to be the dominating pattern until the current fear complex is eliminated and optimism restored.

According to the Value Line Investment Survey, 1962 promises to be a bright year for the airline industry. Jet deliveries are tapering off, the rise in depreciation and interest charges should level out by mid-year, and revenues are running ahead of year-earlier levels by as much as 10 per cent.

Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton Co. says that stocks, which look especially attractive from a technical standpoint now include the cement group. He says this group has been neglected by the market for some time and the yields are all rather high—the market now becoming especially yield-conscious.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. believes that the recent heavy selloff has been climactic in nature.

He notes that when a decline occurs on a news item, such as the grand jury's indictment of four steel companies for price fixing, the action can be readily appraised. Gilbert sees a moderate near-term selling but is inclined to believe that strong price betterment is in the offing.

James Dines of A. M. Kiddler & Co. says since he adheres to a strict policy of restricting trading declines to 10-20 per cent "Prudence now demands that we hedge against the possibility that there will be no near-term rally." He says he is dropping a number of stocks and retaining the proceeds, placing stop-loss points under the remainder and waiting for the market to reveal "long, long overdue" rallying tendencies.

QUEEN MOTHER ILL
LONDON (UPI)—Queen Mother Elizabeth was reported slightly improved Sunday but still running a temperature because of an attack of laryngitis.

HIGH JUMPER—Mrs. Susan Pol, 24, of Tracy, Calif., holds a picture of herself taken during one of her sky dives from an airplane to illustrate the point that she just unofficially broke the women's parachute record. Using a modified chute, special oxygen tanks and special clothing, Mrs. Pol jumped from 19,800 feet to beat the old record, held by a Czechoslovakian woman, by more than 6,000 feet. Because a recording device didn't work, she'll have to jump again to make the record official under international rules.

He's A Song Writer Now

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) —Last week I had occasion to write something about the peculiarities of elevator service in the new Senate Office Building.

My frame of reference was the special buttons provided for senators so that they can summon an elevator without waiting for it to discharge the other passengers.

I pointed out that if a person boarded an elevator when senatorial traffic was heavy, he might be taken past his floor several times before he got a chance to get off.

A colleague who rides the elevators daily told me that he sometimes begins to wonder whether he will ever be able to get off at all.

He suggested that a situation could arise similar to that related in a folk song that became popular a couple of years ago.

In the song, he recalled, a subway fare increase caused a passenger to be stranded aboard a train so that he "rode forever beneath the streets of Boston."

Well, sir, before you could say "Kingston Trio" I had hauled out my mandolin and was whomping up a folk song of my own. I call it "Poor Old Pater," and if any record company is interested after seeing the lyrics, I'm available.

Verse:
Oh, what a miserable morning;

Oh, what a terrible day—
The day that we lost poor old pater

In a most unusual way,
It happened in the early spring
Of nineteen sixty-one

When pater took a little trip
To see the sights in Washington,
He had a jolly time there.

He saw sights by the score
Until the day he tried to see
His home state U.S. senator.

He never should have done it;
He should have stood in bed,
What happened to poor old pater
Shouldn't happen to a Red.

He got into the public lift
And asked for number three
But a senator's call for number five

Was given priority.
Chorus:
So, he never came back.
No, he never came back.

No, he never came back.
He was heard from never more.
Poor old pater's in the elevator
Still waiting for his floor.

Over-All, Liberals Had Tough Time In State Representative Elections

By PATRICK CONWAY
United Press International

Three long-time state senators fell victim to grassroots issues on the sales tax, a Fort Worth brewery, and a local bill on boat pilot fees in the biggest surprises of the primary elections.

A United Press International vote tabulation also showed that liberals had a tough time in the primary elections for the House. The most stunning upset in Saturday's democratic primary came in deep Texas. Jack Strong of Longview, a political unknown, defeated Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center, sponsor of the Texas sales tax.

Lane, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee and a member of former Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey's team, carried only his home county.

Although House incumbents fared a bit better, June 2 runoff and a raft of Republican opposition in the Nov. 6 general elections makes it hard to estimate the philosophical political breakdown of the lower chamber in the 58th Legislature.

Incumbents won re-election in Harris, Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar, Potter, Grayson, Jefferson, Smith, Neches, Cameron, and Tom Green counties in contested races.

A battle of liberals for the Tarrant County place in the Senate saw Rep. Don Kennard unseat Sen. Doyle Willis. The big issue was Willis' opposition to a bill to permit Carling's to build a brewery in Fort Worth.

Sen. Jep Fuller of Port Arthur ran into local trouble three years ago over a bill to increase Sabine river pilots' fees. He ran third in Saturday's balloting behind Reps. W. T. Oliver of Port Neches and W. T. Harrington, of Port Arthur, who will meet in a runoff.

Other Senate runoffs will pit Sen. A. R. Schwartz against Rep. Maco Stewart for the Galveston seat. Both are liberals.

Moderate newcomer Walter Richter of Gonzales meets Rep. R. A. Bartram of New Braunfels for the seat vacated by Sen. Rudolph Weinert of Seguin, dean of the upper chamber. Richter led the first ballot.

Conservatives—Ben Sudderth of Comanche and J. P. Word of Meridian are in the runoff for Sen. Crawford Martin's seat. Martin resigned to run for lieutenant governor. Word led the primary.

Sen. David Ratliff, a Stamford conservative, was pushed into a strait and responsibility which will in the end reward you as it rewards the country."

Kennedy and UAW president Walter Reuther appeared to be taking extensive steps to avoid any appearance of conflict between the union and the White House over the degree to which wage raises should be limited by gains in productivity.

In fact, Kennedy and Reuther used almost identical words in describing the proper approach to wage policy.

In his prepared text, Kennedy said:

"While individual adjustments may have to be made to fit the previous patterns in individual industries, in general, a wage policy which seeks its gains out of the fruits of technology instead of the pockets of the consumer is the one basic approach that can help every segment of our economy."

"The UAW resolutions committee, prior to availability of the President's text, approved a policy statement saying pay hikes should exceed, and not be limited by, normal gains in productivity to stimulate the economy and offset a lag in so-called real wages of recent years."

With this seeming to be in conflict with the President's known stand, Reuther called a special press conference here Monday night to say his union agreed "wholeheartedly" with Kennedy's efforts to achieve price stability.

runoff by Rep. Truitt Latimer of Abilene, who is also conservative. Sens. William Moore of Bryan, Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, George Parkhouse of Dallas, Grady Hazelwood of Amarillo, George Moffett of Chillicothe and Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo were all re-nominated. Moore is the only one regarded as liberal. Liberal former Rep. Jim Bates of Edinburg defeated moderate Rep. Raul Longoria of Pharr for the nomination to Sen. Hubert Hudson's seat. He will face Republican opposition.

Ralph Hall of Rockwall, a conservative, upset liberal Rep. Charles Hughes of Sherman for Sen. Ray Roberts' place. Roberts is now a U. S. representative. Former Rep. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock, a conservative, won handily in a far West Texas district place vacated by lieutenant governor candidate Sen. Preston Smith.

Rep. Murray Watson of Mart, a moderate, defeated conservative Rep. Frank McGregor of Waco for the place vacated by Sen. Jarrard Secrest, who also ran for lieutenant governor.

Rep. Criss Cole of Houston, a moderate, won the place vacated by Sen. Bob Baker, who ran for lieutenant governor.

Sen. Frank Owen of El Paso, Rep. Pete Snelson of Midland and former Rep. Andy Anderson of Midland remained in a three-way dogfight for runoff spots. Uncounted votes will determine which two will be in the June 2 balloting.

The political makeup of the Senate will depend a lot upon the runoff in the lieutenant governor's race. Speaker James Turman, a moderate, led the primary and will face conservative Smith in the runoff.

In house races pitting two incumbents against each other because of redistricting, Bob Bass of DeKalb, Bob Fairchild of Center and Wayne Gibbens of Big Spring were winners. All are conservative.

In Wichita Falls, liberal Rep. Vernon Stewart was re-elected, while conservative Rep. Jack Connell was pushed into a runoff by former University of Texas all-America football player Maurice Duke.

Rep. Ben Glusing of Kingsville, a conservative, and a candidate for speaker, was forced into a runoff by moderate Lindsey Rodriguez of Hidalgo.

Incumbents that appeared to be in runoffs included Reps. Sam Preston of Paris, Bill Walker of Preston of Paris, Bill Walker of Cleveland, Virginia Duff of Ferris, Obie Jones of Austin, Charles Sandahl of Austin, Mauro Rosas of El Paso, Ned Blaine of El Paso.

Apparent winners, based upon late but incomplete tabulations, included Felix McDonald of Edinburg, Billy Coughran of McAllen, Sam Wolfe Jr. of Sherman, Rep. Don Hefton of Sherman, Rep. Wilson Foreman of Austin, Jack Ritter of Austin, Tony Fenoglio of Montague, Rep. Terry Townsend of Brady, Rep. George Cook of Odessa, Rep. Carl Wheatley of Haskell, Rep. H. G. Wells of Tulia, Paul Gaither of Amarillo.

Boxcar-Barn Is Damaged In Fire

A boxcar being used for a barn was burned extensively this morning about 5:15 a.m.

The boxcar, located eight miles northwest of town, was owned by Skeet Roberts. Roberts said the fire was caused from a cutting torch used on the boxcar.

Merger Of 2 Rail Firms Is Expected

By GEORGE C. HARLAN
United Press International

Overwhelming approval of the proposed merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads was virtually assured today at separate stockholder meetings. The action would leave only one remaining obstacle to the biggest corporate merger in the history of American industry.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) still must approve the creation of a $5 billion, 22,000-mile railroad colossus that would be known as the Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Co.

Pennsylvania shareholders will vote in Philadelphia, and Central shareholders in Albany. The Pennsylvania and the Central are the No. 1 and No. 2 roads in the nation.

The Pennsy-Central marriage plan is part of a grand design to create three balanced and competitive rail systems in the eastern part of the nation. The others would be built around the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Norfolk & Western.

to know how much money I made last month?"

Estes is a deacon and a lay preacher in the Church of Christ. It is an austere church and Billie Sol carries its teachings to the point that he segregates the sexes in his big swimming pool. Children are welcome to use it but boys and girls must swim at separate times. He has five children, four girls and a boy ranging down from 14 years, but they are not allowed to wear shorts.

He does not drink or smoke and before he retired behind the closed doors of his ranch-house, he frequently startled the residents of Pecos by leaving all the Cadillac in the carport and traveling to his office on a bicycle. People here say he is a sharp, ruthless man in a business deal, that he has driven small competitors out of business and will sit up half the night figuring how to cut a corner.

But there are hundreds of poor people in this vicinity who have received loans of $100 from him to buy groceries. He never expected the loans to be repaid. He has an over-riding fear of communism and believes Moscow will capture the poor people unless he helps them personally.

Estes seems to believe that the deity is looking over his shoulder all the time and checking up on him.

"If God can watch the falling of every sparrow," he once said, "He certainly has time to keep an eye on business men."

There was a time when Estes was less reticent about publicity. In the past two years he has been interviewed by many Texas papers and they were collected in a pamphlet published by Billie Sol Estes Enterprises.

The title of the pamphlet is "Success." It contains a full page picture of Estes looking at a globe much the same way as Alexander the Great once looked at a map and sighed because there were no more worlds to conquer. The caption on the picture is from the Book of Proverbs: "Where there is no vision the people perish."

Women Know How To Butter Bread

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently had the privilege of taking a nice young lady to dinner, and was very much surprised when she asked if she could butter my bread. I let her do it, since she seemed so sincere in her offer, and I must say the world would be much better off if little courtesies like this were shown more often. I am a Yankee and this lady was from the South. Is this a Southern custom?

phoning first. THAT is honest-to-goodness hospitality.

"LIKES COMPANY"
DEAR ABBY: Just had to tell you I'm with you 100 per cent when it comes to people who just "drop in" to visit. I like company — but only when I invite them.

"ORGANIZED"
DEAR ABBY: You recently said you were violently opposed to the practice of dropping in on people unexpectedly. Does this apply to clergymen?

DEAR E. A.: Especially clergymen! Those who prefer a little advance warning to get their houses in order would be doubly embarrassed by a surprise visit from their clergymen.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Mrs. Tibbets Hostess
To Wednesday Club

LEFORS (Sp) — Mrs. Marvin Tibbets was hostess recently to the Wednesday Sewing Club. An afternoon was spent crocheting, piecing quilts, sewing, and visitation. Refreshments were served. Attending were Meses B. D. Vaughn, H. D. Cox, Irene Auldridge, A. T. Cobb, A. M. Dickerson, Walter Morris, John Lantz, W. R. Combs and the hostess.

YANKEE
DEAR YANKEE: No, it's a universal custom with all young women who know on which side their bread is buttered.

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school and would like your opinion about a ridiculous rule at our school. All the girls must shower together after each gym class. In order to receive credit, you must call the gym teacher over and show her the SOAP on your body! Now I am going to be 18 soon and I know when I have enough soap on me to be clean. If you refuse to follow this rule, you get a "D" in gym and an "Unsatisfactory" in work habits. What do you think of this?

HUMILIATED
DEAR HUMILIATED: I think this "soap survey" is a dirty trick.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please discontinue your battle against the "nervy, drop-in type visitors." I feel complimented when someone drops in to visit me. I let people know they are always welcome to come to my home, without tele-

Gardening is a delightful pastime, but the wise gardener takes the precaution of protecting her looks while she works. This woman shampoos her hair after a session of working in the soil and sun (left), for she knows that the exercise induces perspiration. Although she wears gloves while gardening, she scrubs the last bit of soil from her knuckles with a well-lathered loofah (center) and never neglects her weekly manicure. She wears a broad-brimmed gardening hat (right) to protect her hair and complexion from the sun. Her work clothes can be sudsed clean after every wearing.

Wise Gardeners Aid Beauty While Working

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The woman who likes to garden can reap not only lovely flowers but all the beautifying benefits of exercise and fresh air. Yet there are pitfalls to be avoided. Often, working with plants and the good earth can be such sheer pleasure that there is a temptation to neglect yourself and your appearance in the process. If you concentrate solely on planting and pruning, your looks can suffer.

Rule No. 1 for outdoor work is to wear gloves. Your hands will not be soft and pretty if soil is imbedded beneath your nails and brambles have scratched the skin. To protect your eyes from glare and to prevent the squint lines so often induced by bright sunlight, wear sunglasses.

The gardener who has sensitive skin should have a wide-brimmed garden hat to keep the sun off her face and neck. The hat will also protect her hair from the drying effects of the sun.

Knees need a bit of pampering, too. Do your kneeling on a soft pad instead of the earth, or wear knee pads. With the popular short skirts, bruised knees are hard to hide.

After gardening, just as after any other exercise, you'll feel fresher if you pop into the bathtub. A relaxing soak will relieve the strain from unaccustomed exercise. While bathing, scrub your legs, knees and heels with a brush or loofah to remove all the soil. Shampoo your hair often during gardening season. Perspiration will make it stringy and limp. Do an extra thorough job once in a while by gently scrubbing your hairline with a well-lathered brush. The stimulation, plus the beneficial effects of outdoor work, will add greatly to the health of your scalp.

Right after you've washed your hair is a good time for your weekly manicure. The shampoo will have softened your hands, preparing them for the windup steps of cuticle care and polishing.

Give equal time to your grooming and gardening, and you'll achieve beauty while your plants flourish.

Nurse-Hospital Week Being Observed Locally

Throughout the United States during this week of May 6 through May 12, attention is being called to the usually unheralded work of hospitals and nurses. In recognition of their dedication to the prevention of disease and maintenance of health, this week has been set aside as National Hospital Week and Texas Nurse Week as a token of honor to these worthy professions.

In a proclamation signed by E. C. Sidwell, mayor of Pampa, it has been proclaimed that "WHEREAS: The United States of America are irrevocably committed to a position of world leadership in order to insure peace, prosperity and happiness; WHEREAS: The leadership effectiveness of the United States is determined by its strength; WHEREAS: The strength of the nation is determined by the physical, mental, moral and social health of its constituents; WHEREAS: The hospital is the community institution dedicated to the prevention of disease and maintenance of health of the individual; WHEREAS: Nursing is an honored profession, which is devoted to assisting the medical profession in maintaining health and well-being; THEREFORE: I hereby proclaim May 6 through May 12 TEXAS NURSE WEEK and join the nation in also observing NATIONAL HOSPITAL WEEK. (Signed) E. C. Sidwell, Mayor."

As medicine has taken its "giant steps" during the past half century, hospitals have been faced with the growing problem of preparing their personnel to keep pace with the many advances in patient care. To help solve the problems, the Worley and Highland General Hospitals have developed an Inservice Education program.

Inservice education is as old as man's earliest desire to know more in order to perform tasks better; but it is as new a technique as the latest teaching tool for employee-preparation in a nuclear-powered plant.

Inservice education is the intentional fulfilling of an employee's natural desire to learn as much as possible about assigned functions and to find a place in the working environment. It is simply a planned way of meeting such needs as those voiced when an employee asks: "Is there a better way?" and "Do I know enough to do my job properly?"

Inservice education for hospital nursing staffs in Pampa are developed around four areas of personnel needs: 1) their need for an introduction to their jobs; 2) for training in both manual and behavioral skills associated with their jobs; 3) for development of leadership and management abilities.

Miss Peggy Stewart, CRNA, at Worley Hospital has just completed a course in "Leadership Roles in Nursing" for Registered Nurses and Mrs. Marjorie Penn, RN, at Highland General is in the process of instruction a 40-hour course on Basic Nursing for Aides with 45 aides registered for the class.

As automation and technology progress, it may be felt that machines are taking over and man is fading into the background. But there is still one place where personal attention will be received... in the hospital.

Additionally, patients have specific needs that can be met only by watchful human beings. Machines cannot replace the nurse who notes an alteration in a patient's coloring. Thus the human factor remains a major one in the provision of hospital care. This week America's hospitals are celebrating National Hospital Week. This Week, as well as throughout the year, we would like to salute the scientists and technologists who help produce the advances in medical science and the thousands who work in hospitals... ever watching and ever caring for the patients.

Lefors Home Demonstration Club Has Program Topic On Recreation

LEFORS (Spl) — Lefors Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. B. D. Vaughn for a program on "Recreation" presented by Mrs. O. O. Bishop.

In opening remarks, Mrs. Bishop said, "It is not only the children who need play or other relaxation to keep them physically and mentally fit. Grown people, those who give up most of their time to work, are no less dependent upon some form of recreation. The man, whose work is monotonous and deadening, needs play to invigorate his mind; the student or the man of large affairs needs it as a mental rest, as a let-down to a mind too tensely keyed."

"The man, who devises a popular amusement, has found a sure way of attracting money to his pockets, for the majority of people are willing to spend more money for their recreation than for any other purpose," the speaker stated.

Mrs. Cedar Torres taught the group a new song entitled "Skunk." Mrs. F. M. Cox taught the group a new game, "Battle-ship."

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. B. D. Vaughn, president, the resignation of Mrs. Charles Roberts as treasurer was accepted with regret. Mrs. R. W. Beck was elected to fill that office; Mrs. Bishop resigned as secretary with Mrs. Torres named to that office.

TOM ROSE MOTORS, 121 N. BALLARD

THE LONGEST DAY—Re-enactment of D-Day—June 6, 1944—takes place in all its tumultuous fury on the beaches of France as Darryl Zanuck films "The Longest Day." Scenes comparable to the actual invasion photo, above, abound in the new movie starring Bob Mitchum, Eddie Albert and Jeffrey Hunter.

John Glenn Not Only Space Hero, He's A Tough Reporter As Well

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — John Glenn, spaceman, orator and educator in past television appearances. Sunday night also proved himself a tough reporter in an NBC-TV discussion with Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov.

With the utmost diplomatic cordiality, Glenn touched off the only sparks on the program, "The Nation's Future," by springing the big question—about Russia's space failures—and then tactfully, but doggedly, refused to let Titov off the hook.

Glenn discreetly prefaced his question by mentioning his near-mishap during re-entry, then said that we never hear about Soviet failures such as the ones we have had at Cape Canaveral.

Titov denied reports of deaths in Soviet space flights, but avoided mentioning non-manned efforts. Glenn suggested we were not only interested in total failures and that there must be mutual problems which we would like to share. He asked about specific problems.

Titov said his manned flight produced no major problems, but indicated questions about failures should be shared. When a reporter in the audience followed up by asking Titov about the number of failures, he replied that they are possible but that he was acquainted with spacemen—and that the question should be asked of Soviet rocket experts, who might tell.

In all fairness, Titov undoubtedly was not allowed to say more, but Glenn had delicately gone as far as he could properly and beneficially go, and had brought out again an unmistakable point: the fact of America's open tests and Russia's secret experiments.

The fascination of the hour came from the subtle political jockeying beneath all the good-fellowship. Titov was humorous with Glenn, his Washington host. But I'll bet the mouths of American political bosses were watering as they watched Glenn.

Playwright William Saroyan, still too busy enjoying life to join the weeping of our self-pitying young writers. Sunday night contributed to CBS-TV's "G.E. Theatre" a wild, goofy, illogical and wonderful comedy that made the world seem a better place for half an hour.

Entitled "The Unstoppable Gray Fox," it starred Lee J. Cobb as a philosophical fellow who simply won't be upset by his own dismissal from the State Department, his daughter's concern that her husband may be having an affair and his grandson's troubles with a school bully.

Naturally, everything works out all right.

It was a pleasure to enjoy a playwright who does not write in his own agony, still believes in man's dignity and has the maturity of acceptance.

Weekly Report To Texans

By SEN. JOHN TOWER

On Farm Program

Senator John Tower (R-Texas) in his weekly report to Texas constituents continued his criticism of Department of Agriculture use of its Stabilization and Conservation Committeemen to propagandize farmers and to pressure Senators and Congressmen for the sake of the Administration's program. Senator Tower said that President Kennedy himself pointed out to an assemblage of such committeemen gathered in Washington at Government expense that they are prohibited by law from lobbying but in almost the next breath urged them to see and visit Members of Congress and Senators on behalf of the Farm Program. Senator Tower said he resented this effort of the Administration to use Government program administrators to exercise pressures in this way. Text of his comment follows:

Last week I was discussing with you the Administration's 1962 Farm Program, with its many shortcomings, and pointed out that my rather heavy volume of mail almost unanimously objected to the proposals of Secretary of Agriculture Freeman. I pointed out that the Department of Agriculture has rather obviously inspired its Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committeemen to propagandize farmers and pressure Senators and Congressmen for the sake of this program.

I mentioned that the President at a meeting in Washington at taxpayer expense told a group of these committeemen that they in large measure were responsible for the great productivity of American farms without a word about the ingenuity and hard work of our farmers, and the free enterprise system that provides the incentives for their work. This is contrary to my own fundamental and basic approach to the farm problem, which is premised on my confidence that the hope and goal of the American farmer is to restore agriculture to a market-controlled or free economy.

The President's expressed assumption that the Farm Program and its Federal administrators are the sole cause of progress in American agriculture reflects to me an unbelievable lack of understanding. The President went on to warn the group, and I quote "While you are prohibited by custom and law quite rightly from involving yourselves in any particular program or recommending it, or lobbying it, nevertheless, we do value very highly the communication which goes from here to you, because you are our most direct link with the farmers themselves. The President soon forgot his warning, and said again, and I quote, "We hope you will also see the Members of Congress and acquaint them and the Senators. We don't want them to be as the Secretary said 'lonesome.'"

I can only read this to mean that the President told the committeemen it was unlawful for them to lobby the Congress, and then told them to go ahead and do it anyhow. I, for one, resent this effort of the Administration to use Government program administrators, brought to Washington on Government expense vouchers, and brainwashed by Secretary Freeman, to bring pressure upon Members of Congress. If this effort to influence Congress by using Government agencies should go on un-noted and unprotected, is there any limitation upon the President to use other agencies to accomplish other legislative objectives. I am also concerned about the effect of the use of Government resources of manpower and money upon private organizations created by farmers and financed by farmers to present views of their respective membership. This should concern all farm organizations, both those for the Freeman program and those that are against the Freeman program.

The money and manpower available to private organizations is negligible, compared with the money and manpower available to the vast Department of Agriculture. The voice of free organizations could be deluged by the propaganda from the Government. Government propagandizing their welfare and that the Secretary of Agriculture represents the farmers in this Administration.

Here, my friends, in all its nakedness is a directive from the highest executive of the United States Government to administrators of a Government program, to go home and use their agencies to propagandize the programs of Secretary Freeman. The President noted that it would be unlawful for the State Committeemen to lobby Congress. Yet, many of them did so. I can hardly believe they were brought to Washington at this particular time for any other purpose. I don't know whether or not the President was correct in asserting it was unlawful for the committeemen to lobby Congress, but if it was, then it would appear that this is a matter that should properly concern the Controller General of the United States. If it was an unlawful practice, it would appear that the question of payment of salaries and expenses of those engaged in this unlawful practice ought to be investigated.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
 United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Marriage has broken up many a pleasant relationship, and it was the device, CBS-TV used Monday night to terminate new episodes of the "Hennessey" series after three years.

C-Star Abby Dalton finally was married on screen to the Navy's Dr. Hennessey (Jackie Cooper), whose status as a television physician is roughly equal to that of "You're Dr. Malone."

Cooper, who was dissected in the "Ben Casey" series, apparently is unhappy that only reruns starting next week and syndication come fall are in the future for "Hennessey."

Personally, despite his natural desire for more shekels, I think he should be thankful he came along in such a thin period of video-comedy, be grateful he ran as long as he did—and run like a thief with his money.

"Hennessey" never was anything to write home about. It was a slight, genial piece of nothing. Although Hennessey was a doctor, and in the Navy, I always had the strange feeling that I was watching an old Peter Lawford campus movie. Even the Navy chaplain looked like a handsome young leading man—and played golf, naturally.

In short, I cannot think of a single original idea—either in comedy or the realm of the mind—that Hennessey offered. The only person who showed any sense Monday night was the admiral, good old Roscoe Karns, whose first reaction upon hearing of the impending marriage was: "You're out of your minds."

Yet many persons will tell you "Hennessey" is good in comparison with other shows. That is true, and you have been brainwashed if you have been convinced you should be satisfied with such a low level of superlativity. It is a trick the network boys like to pull. They will tell you, "Well, yes, it's not a great show, but in relation to the other stuff, it's..." Well, who puts on the other stuff? They do, of course.

Shows, hopefully, are not made to be compared with others. They are made only to be good and must stand on their own legs. "Hennessey" may hold its own next to "Pete and Gladys," but alongside "The Twentieth Century" it pales into nothingness.

State Champs Are Numerous In Area

The Panhandle area during the past school year in the world of sports had one of their premium years as far as state titlists was concerned.

Last fall, Dumas copped the AAA title in football from Nederland, 6-0 with all - state quarterback Mike Boxwell leading the way. A AAAA selection on the first - team all - state squad was John LaGrone of Borger.

In basketball this past year, the Panhandle laid claim to two state titlists. Dumas made it two sports in a row when they copped the AAA title while White Deer won their first Class A title with another all-state performer, Carl McAdams, helping lead the way for the Bucks.

This spring, Pampa's two high schools, Pampa high and Carver high, had the unusual honor of having the state champions in both the shot put and the discus throw.

Randy Matson, who set two new standards in the shot and discus with distances of 64 feet 7 inches and 185 feet 9 3/4 inches, respectively, was joined by Joe Niblett of Carver, who also won the state title in both field events.

Niblett won the shot put with a toss of 56 feet 6 inches and the discus throw with a throw of 126 feet 6 inches. The Carver cinder star also finished second in the pole vault. Niblett also copped high point honors in the big state meet with 30 1/2 points.

Carver's 440 yard relay team also copped first place down at Prairie View. Members of the relay team included Tommy Murray, Charley Walger, James Mathis and Everett Morris.

To cap it off, Ronnie Morgan lightweight boxer from Amarillo and formerly of Pampa, advanced to the semi - final round of the National Golden Gloves tournament in Chicago last February before being defeated.

Morgan's achievements were more remarkable in that he advanced to the Nationals after going to Chicago as an alternate.

Owens Casts Pro Lot With Colts

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—R.C. (Alley Oop) Owens, one of the National Football League's leading ends, had his choice of playing with any of 31 professional clubs next season and he cast his lot with the Baltimore Colts.

Owens, dissatisfied with his salary arrangements with the San Francisco Forty Niners, played out his contractual option last season and became a free agent May 1. He had played five seasons with the Forty Niners.

The six-foot-three, 195-pound flanker-end might have signed with any club in the NFL, the American Football League or the Canadian League. The Oakland Raiders and the New York Titans of the AFL, as well as several Canadian teams, made overtures for his services.

But Owens chose to play for the Colts. He secretly came to town Monday and signed his contract. It was believed to call for less than the $25,000 he reportedly had demanded of the Forty Niners.

The addition of Owens gives the Colts and quarterback Johnny Unitas one of the most impressive pass-catching corps in the NFL. Three other standouts are Lenny Moore, Ray Berry and Jimmy Orr.

According to NFL rules, when a player chooses to sever his connections with a club, he can notify the management before the start of a season that he is playing out the one-year option in his contract. He must play that season at 90 per cent of his old salary and then is declared a free agent.

The 27-year-old Owens, nicknamed "Alley Oop" by San Francisco fans because of his spectacular pass-catching leaps, grabbed 85 passes for a total of 1,632 yards and 5 touchdowns last season.

During his five-year NFL career, Owens caught a total of 178 passes for 2,226 yards and 26 touchdowns.

He is a graduate of College of Idaho, where he once played football and basketball. He now lives in Belmont, Calif., with his wife and three-year-old daughter.

West Texas and the Panhandle area has always been known as a big football area, but this past year proved to be a banner year almost all the way around in the various divisions.

Palmer Again Choice In Colonial Golf

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Sports writers and sportscasters, who have failed to forecast the winner in all 16 previous Colonial National Invitation Golf tournaments, have put the finger on title-happy Arnold Palmer for this year's event.

It marked the third consecutive year they had picked the strong-armed Pennsylvanian to win the tournament, but Palmer has never managed to finish higher than a tie for sixth.

Palmer was not a lopsided favorite, however, for the tourney which gets under way Thursday over Colonial Country Club's rugged par 70 layout.

Palmer and Gary Player each received five first-place votes, while Gene Littler and Billy Casper each got four such ballots. But, Palmer was the choice of seven writers to finish second and of four to finish third to give him a total of 33 points.

Player had six votes for second and nine for third for 27 points; Littler four for second and two for third for 22 points, and Casper none for second and three for third for 15 points.

Ten other players were picked for one of the top three places, but only Dow Finsterwald (3), Jack Nicklaus (2) and Kel Nagle (1) got first-place votes.

Ben Hogan, who has won the Colonial crown five times, got no first place ballots but was picked for second by one writer and for third by another.

Score Starts Comeback Once Again

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Herb Score, back in the city where his promising but ill-starred pro baseball fortunes began 10 years ago, starts the third comeback of his career today with the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association.

The 29-year-old left-hander, once a million-dollar baseball property, was optioned to Indianapolis by the Chicago White Sox Monday, on the fifth anniversary of the tragic baseball accident which nearly lost him the sight of his right eye.

The White Sox said they sent him to the minors so that he might pitch regularly and work himself back to peak form, and manager Luke Appling of the Indians promptly nominated Score to start Wednesday night's game against the Louisville Colonels.

"It's no great tragedy," Score said. "I feel real good about my throwing this year and my arm feels fine. Al Lopez (White Sox manager) asked me if I wanted to go where I could get some work, and I said 'Sure.'"

"I feel I'll be back soon," Score added. "There is nothing wrong with me physically," continued the one-time southpaw strikeout king of the American League. "This is the best I have felt in three or four years."

"I'll have a chance to work on my curve ball here. My fast ball is fairly good now." Score never regained his early pitching effectiveness after being struck in the right eye by a line drive from the bat of Gil McDougald of the New York Yankees in a game at Cleveland on May 7, 1957.

A 20-game winner for Cleveland in 1956 and the American League strikeout champion with 263, Score was sidelined for the remainder of the 1957 season following his accident.

Colts To Workout Tonight At 6:30

Not Many Long Shots Given Chance In Open

NEW YORK (UPI)—A nag named Kadal Bey bounced down on top a year back at Laurel and paid $352 for every deuce on its lightly regarded nose but it can be said today that such shennanigans will not occur in the U.S. Open golf championship.

A field of 150 — survivors of an original sectional list of some 2,475 hopefuls — will tee off at Oakmont, Pa., near Pittsburgh, June 14 in the three-day chase for the top U.S. fairway prize. Most of them are just along for the ride.

Because in the last quarter-century there hasn't been a Kamal Bey on the premises. The nearest winners to a long-shot since golf moved into the big business brackets were such pros as Ed Furgol, Jack Fleck and Dick Mayer. But these were hard-working tournament-sharpened veterans who, although not as well known at the moment to some, were highly regarded by their fellow competitors.

"When you come up to a tournament like the Open, where your nerves have to be as sharp as your game," says Furgol, "there are no more than 25 players who have a chance of winning."

Some "outsider" may come close, yes. But no cigar. And, in carrying out the racing theme, as well as agreeing in effect with Furgol's analysis, Howard Gill of Golf Digest has come up with a "scratch sheet" for the Open which sets the odds for the most threatening 25.

At 6 to 1, the favorite as might be expected is none other than Arnold Palmer. Quoted at 7 to 1 are defending champion Gene Littler and ever-threatening Doug Sanders.

The rest of the "book" goes, like this: At 8 to 1: Tommy Bolt, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Bob Goalby. At 10 to 1: Jay Hebert, Bob Rosburg, Don January and young Phil Rodgers.

At 12 to 1: Bill Casper, Art Wall and Doug Ford. At 15 to 1: Mike Souchak, Joe Campbell, four-time winner Ben Hogan and four-time second Sam Snead.

At 17 to 1: Jerry Barber, Billy Maxwell, Johnny Pott and Jackie Cupit.

And, at 20 to 1: Don Fairfield, Gardner Dickinson and Dow Finsterwald.

Gold is a gambling game and, if the truth were known, probably gets more total wagering in the course of a year than any other competitive sport. The stakes in some foursomes are staggering and even the pros, all of them scratch players, are not adverse to giving each other "shots" when the situation arises.

Looking over Gill's top 25, you've got to think that the winner must come from this group. There isn't a one in there who can give shots to any of the others.

Palmer rules the favorite on a hot hand and, with the Masters in the bag, is driving all out for his "big slam" of the Open, British Open and PGA.

On a "finesse" course such as Oakmont, the biggest threats against him would seem to be Littler, Sanders, Player, Bolt, Hebert, Casper, Wall and Finsterwald. But you can take this 25 and give odds against the remaining 125 who will tee off against them.

Colts Sock Dodgers In Only Major Tilt

By NORMAN MILLER UPI Sports Writer

Paul Richards, one of baseball's better brains, moaned last October that he was being offered a lot of humpies for organizing his Houston Colts, but these same derelicts are making him and manager Harry Craft look like a pair of geniuses.

There were many experts who took Richards at his word and consigned the Colts to the National League cellar this season. It's still early, of course, but the Colts have looked mighty respectable so far, and projecting their present 10-13 record through a 162-game schedule, they would wind up with 70 victories.

Bob Aspromonte, John Weekly and Bob Tiefenauer, three of the Colts' maligned minions, produced like champions Monday night as Houston defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 9-6, in the major leagues' only game.

Aspromonte hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning to put the Colts ahead. Weekly connected in the eighth for an insurance run, and Tiefenauer pitched three shutout relief innings to receive credit for his first major league victory since 1955.

Aspromonte called his homer "the greatest thrill of my life." It had a special meaning because it was hit against the Dodgers, who had cast him adrift for one of the two new clubs to grab.

"This is the dream of every ballplayer, to get a hit like that against his old club," the 23-year-old third baseman beamed. "I never felt better in my life."

It's been a long time between major league victories for 32-year-old Tiefenauer. Although he first had a trial in the big show 10 years ago, that 1955 win was his only other triumph in the majors.

The Colts went ahead with five runs in the second inning, four of them unearned. The Dodgers committed two errors and their pitchers forced in two runs with walks.

Los Angeles moved ahead 6-5, in the sixth with three runs, knocking out Colts' starter Dave Giusti and his successor, Al Cicotte.

Aspromonte then hit his homer off rookie lefty Pete Richard, who was charged with the defeat. Tiefenauer gave up only one hit during the last three innings. Aspromonte, who had been in a slump, now has collected nine hits in Houston's last three games.

Be Somebody, Two-Year-Old Colt Just Might End Up Top Horse

By United Press International

Be Somebody, a promising 2-year-old colt, may be somebody special next year about this time. The chestnut colt, eligible for the 1963 Kentucky Derby, led all the way Monday in beating a field of six juvenile colts and geldings in the $22,500 Youthful Stakes at Aqueduct.

Some of the top horses of recent years have gone on to prominence after scoring their first stakes victory in the Youthful—among them Native Dancer, Bold Ruler, Summer Tan and the ill-fated Hal to Reason.

Be Somebody scored a 1 1/2-length triumph over You Rascal You in the five-furlong sprint, with Grand Stand finishing third in the field.

Johnny Rotz rode Be Somebody home in :59 3/5 to post his fourth victory of the day. Rotz, a 25-year-old native of Niantic, Ill., previously had scored on Rule of Law ($8,000) in the first race, My Nat. ($7,800) in the fifth and Shuette ($7,800) in the sixth.

Rotz tops the Aqueduct jockey standings with a total of 48 winners for the meeting. At Pimlico, apprentices jockey Ronnie Ferraro continued his brilliant riding by boosting home three winners, including Prince De Fer in the featured six-furlong event.

Ferraro, who ranks among the top riders in the country, also won with Prince Doreen ($14,400) in the fourth and Our Grand ($12,200) in the eighth. He rode Prince De Fer to a $31,600 payoff, beating Charles Center by half length.

An $823.40 daily double topped the action at Suffolk Downs, brought about when Corso ($41,400) won the opener and Whew ($42,500) captured the second. Devil's Disciple ($10,600) scored in the feature to chalk up his fifth triumph in six 1962 starts.

Louisville and Churchill Downs looked like a ghost town compared to Saturday's Kentucky Derby hoopla, but Bill Hartack, who piloted Decidedly to victory in the classic, scored a triple Monday — winning on Keeper's Choice ($6,400) in the third, Hark Hark ($7,400) in the fourth and Bexar County ($4,800) in the finale.

Fine Uncle paid $17,800 after finishing first in the Sportsman's Park feature. Demobilize finished second and Junior Foil was third.

Lane Now Pro Cage Executive

CHICAGO (UPI)—Frank C. Lane, one of baseball's greatest tradesmen, was breaking in on a new job today, how to dicker and deal in pro basketball.

Lane, general manager of four major league baseball clubs, signed Monday to run the Chicago Packers of the National Basketball Association for one year.

Indirectly, his contract was a greater benefit to Charles O. Finley than to Lane. Finley fired Lane last summer as general manager of his Kansas City Athletics, but under terms of his employment contract he has to pay Lane for several more years.

The amount that Lane is paid, undisclosed, for running the Packers will be deducted from the amount Finley owes, since no settlement was made on their contract.

Lane said his first job with the Packers would be to sign Walt Bellamy, the Packers' center who was the NBA "Rookie of the Year" last season, for his sophomore campaign.

"Then," he said, "I want to sign out major draft choices, Billy McGill, Terry Dischinger, Don Nelson and Cornell Green. We have some good holdover players, and we want to field the kind of team that will bring people out to pay my salary."

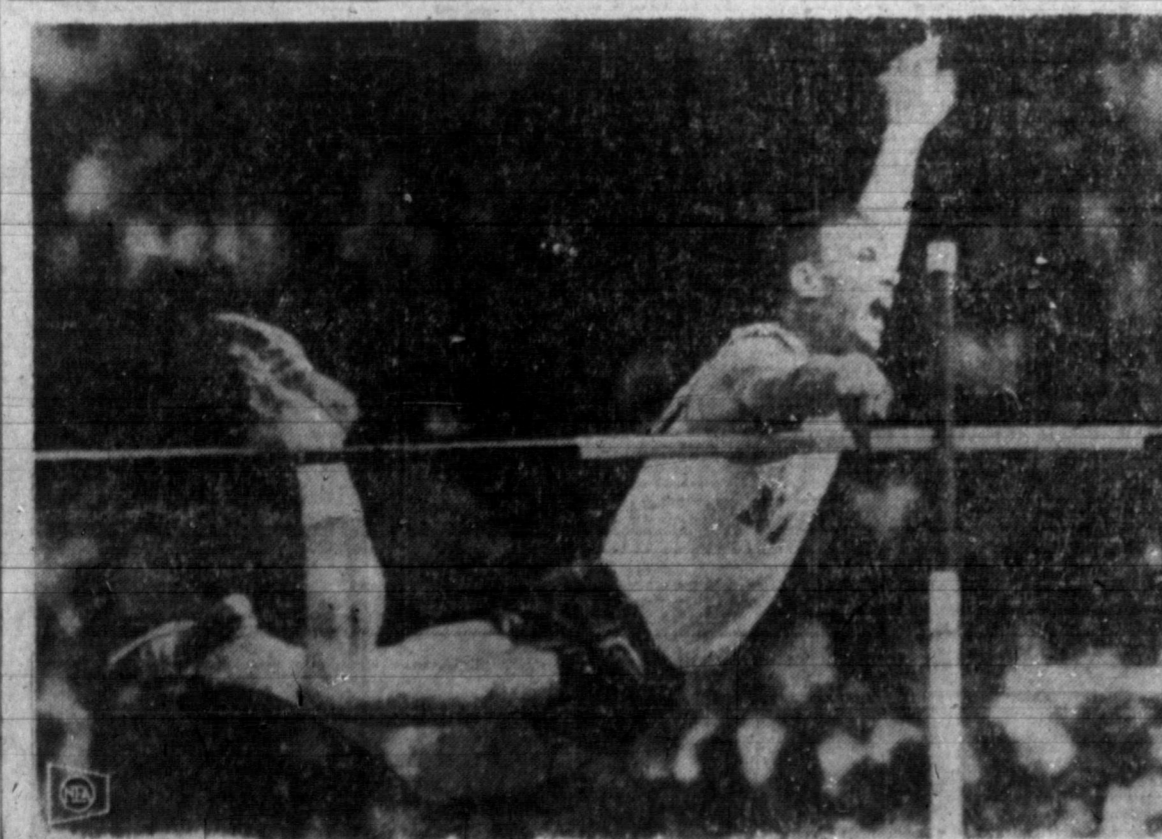

Lane did not think he would deal in basketball players as frequently as he did with baseball players when with the Chicago White Sox, where he made over 100 trades in four seasons.

"There are fewer players to move around," he said, "and the colleges are our minor leagues." He revealed that he had turned down an offer to become commissioner of the American Basketball League to take the Packers' job.

Packer owner Dave Trager said Lane had "carte blanche" to run the club, including the right to hire and fire.

However, it was unlikely that coach Jim Pollard would be bounced since Lane said he had told the Packers "any people you want to divorce, do it before you sign me."

"Thereafter," he said, "I'll be guided by my judgment." Lane, 66, once was president of the American Association before joining the White Sox. Later he was general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and Cleveland Indians before joining Kansas City. His only previous connection with basketball was as a Big Ten official prior to World War II.

HIGH, THERE! — Although Richard Nutt of Navy didn't break any records with his 14-foot pole vault in the Penn Relays at Franklin Field in Philadelphia, the midshipman obviously was exhilarated by his performance, good for college competition.
