Baptists Rap School Dances, Liquor Ads

Resolution Assails Criticism Of Religion By Teachers SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 16 (AP)—"Open criticism" of religion by teachers in state schools and the practice of school boards of sponsoring dances in Texas cities and larger towns was assailed in a resolution read from the floor of the Baptist General Convention of Texas here today.

The report deplored war as a monster that leaves tragedy and death in its pathway, gambling as an obsession, Sabbath desecration as a growing modern tendency, the motion picture industry as failing to do all it could "to uplift our people," divorce as a menace to civilization and "desecration of womanhood" as one of the leading evils of the day.

The report was prepared by a committee under the chairmanship of the Rev. Julian Atwood of Texarkana. The Rev. Struggle With Fate Portrayed In Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, Next Release In Herald's Music Offer

"Immortal Beloved," the woman of mystery in the annals of musical romance, to whom Beethoven wrote a number of passionate love letters. With all due respect for the eminent compiler, scholar and student, it seems to me we will be on much sadder ground if we think of the "Fifth Symphony" not so much as the direct musical portrayal of a specific experience but rather of the larger issue, of certain spiritual and emotional states of which the experience was the result. What I mean is that Beethoven's music (especially this music of the "Fifth") tells us more of his reactions and thoughts and feelings than any other music we know.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys see Nature's chief way of taking poisons and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 4 pints a day.

If the 16 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start backache, rheumatism, throat pain, leg pain, loss of sleep and energy, getting up often, swelling, puffiness about the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent uric acid passages with stinging and burning sometimes show these things wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait until you are crippled by kidney pain. Buy Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People today. They give happy relief and will help the kidneys do their duty. They are the most powerful blood purifier from the Great East River.

ARGUMENT AT STILL RESULTS IN DEATH OF TWO MEN

CROCKETT, Nov. 16 (AP)—An argument of a nearby whiskey still was blamed today for the deaths of two men.

Charges were filed against William Wolf, 38, after he reported the deaths to Justice William Rikard of Austin. The dead men were Bryant Christian, 25, and Burkett Smith, 25, whose bodies were found at the still yesterday.

Wolf told Rikard he killed Christian in self defense after Christian had shot Smith. Wolf's account of the slaying said he took Smith to the still with him because he feared Christian, with whom he had quarreled over the latter's effort to buy his (Wolf's) share in the still.

Wolf told Rikard Christian shot Smith during an argument and threatened to kill him. Wolf said he killed Christian to save his own life.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN ON HOOKWORMS

DALLAS, Nov. 16 (AP)—Federal agencies will launch a campaign against hookworm infestation in East Texas and eastern Oklahoma.

C. M. Evans, regional Farm Security director, said the plans called for improving sanitary conditions about the dwellings of low income farmers. He said the work would be done in cooperation with the WPA and the National Youth Administration.

With $240,000 already allocated the FSA for the work, plans have been drawn which it is believed will provide $1,000,000 worth of construction for the project, Evans said.

A survey which disclosed hookworm infestation averaging well above 50 per cent of the population led to the campaign, Evans said not more than $100 could be allotted any one family and that the money could be spent only for materials.

Says Trade Treaty With Argentina Hurts Farmer

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 16 (AP)—Fred Breckenman, Washington legislative representative of the National Grange, told the organization's 73rd annual convention today "it looks as if we were going to buy Argentina's friendship at the cost of the American farmer."

Discussing the pending reciprocal trade treaty with Argentina Breckenman contended there was no sound economic reason for reducing tariffs on products coming into the United States from the South American nation.

Breckenman, speaking to Grange delegates representing more than 800,000 farm folk, declared a diplomatic or political motive lay behind the treaty.

"Argentina has been traditionally the attitude of this country that it is the guardian of western hemisphere under the Monroe Doctrine," he said. "In order to maintain the policy which makes us the protector of the two Americas and the democratic form of government, it is desirable that we should have the support and friendship of the Argentine."

"Under the Argentine agreement, it inevitably follows that the American farmer will to an increasing extent lose the domestic market and will be compelled to accept lower prices for the products involved."

GOV. JAMES GIVEN SUPPORT IF HE WANTS PRESIDENCY

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 16 (AP)—Two potent Pennsylvania republicans put their support today behind Gov. Arthur H. James as a candidate for the presidency—if he seeks it.

"He'll have my support if he runs," said Joseph R. Grundy, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association.

"I'm for James for president 100 per cent and I'm going to use all my efforts to further his candidacy—if he'll take it," declared State Sen. G. Mason Owlett, a national republican committeeman.

The governor, while commenting that no one would turn down the presidential nomination, has said he will make no move to push himself. He is heading now for a 10-day vacation at Col. Carl L. Estes' summer home near Mineola, Texas. Estes, who has spent most of his time in Pennsylvania since James' inauguration last January, also has advanced the governor as a republican hope for 1940.

WAR NO HELP TO COTTON PRICES, SAYS AAA CHIEF

TEMPLE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Those who expect the European war to bring an increase in cotton prices are doomed to disappointment, in the belief of E. N. Holmgreen, state AAA administrator.

Holmgreen yesterday addressed agricultural workers from 19 counties here to study the government's farm program. Asserting cotton was not a war material, Holmgreen said the conflict would reduce cotton consumption in Britain and France, while the blockade of Germany in all probability would eliminate that country as a market.

"The government, while commenting that no one would turn down the presidential nomination, has said he will make no move to push himself. He is heading now for a 10-day vacation at Col. Carl L. Estes' summer home near Mineola, Texas. Estes, who has spent most of his time in Pennsylvania since James' inauguration last January, also has advanced the governor as a republican hope for 1940."

Dairying in Texas

There is still an element of truth in the saying that Texas has more cows and less milk than any other state in the union. For while about 1,500,000 cows are milked daily in Texas, putting the state in fourth rank on this point, Texas is down in forty-second place in the amount of milk obtained per cow. In recent years, however, much has been done toward remedying this situation.

Spurred by the state's agricultural leaders, Texas farmers are beginning to pay more attention to the quality of their dairy animals. They can improve the productiveness of their herds in a few years by obtaining high-grade bulls. As John M. Hendrix points out in a recent issue of East Texas, "If the Texas farmer and dairymen will give only a fraction of the attention to herd improvement that the Texas cattleman has, the results will be much quicker and more profitable."

In addition to obtaining cows of higher grade, there is need for more general use of silos in which feed can be preserved for winter use. Not all farmers can afford upright silos that tower as high as their windmills, but everyone can build and maintain trench silos at little cost other than his own work. This provision for the storage of cheaply grown feed goes far in reducing the expense of dairying.

The recent establishment of many new condensed milk, butter and cheese plants in Northeast Texas has given new incentive to dairying. This is especially true where farmers can have their milk and cream picked up daily and avoid having to haul it to market. Though there is still need for large commercial dairies, like the one near Irving that milks a thousand cows daily, the main need is for a few good cows on every Texas farm. This development will add much to the prosperity of Texas farmers, and their added income will help the whole state.—Dallas Morning News.

George Tucker Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Leland Hayward, the agent, says it happens about once a year on Broadway that some unknown, playing a comparatively minor stage role, hitches the eyes out of the movie scouts and gets the big companies bidding against themselves. If that's true, it's already happened for this season. The rest of the young hopefuls might as well fold their tents.

Charles Lang, a young baseball player with two strikes on him; an actor in spite of the fact that he didn't want to be; a lad who got his first reading on a fluke and then actually fell into his job—a minor role in an unsuccessful play—is going to Hollywood for big money. Charlie, who reminds one a little of Henry Fonda, comes from Three Bridges, N. J. (Pop. 308), and his first Broadway role was that of a lovestick young rustic in "Pastoral," which probably has come by the boards now because the critics kicked it all over the place.

Drifting through a dozen jobs, like any young man who's not quite sure where he's going, Charlie got as far as the bench of the Brooklyn Dodgers, but never to the pitcher's mound. He found semi-pro night baseball more profitable and was at that when he accompanied a friend one day to the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. He was merely amused when a staff veteran there insisted that he had seen possibilities. He says it was just luck of sales resistance that resulted in his taking a term course. Acting bored him, he says, but he kept on for awhile mainly because of his friend and because it did not interfere with his baseball.

It was the same friend who applied to Miss Helen Bentley and George Sommes, the producers, for the job in "Pastoral." Charlie accompanied him, was seated in the audience when Sommes walked out, snatched him up and said: "Let's go over to the theatre. I want you to read a part."

Lang protests that he wasn't even looking for a job, and that he was on the stage, reading before he had time to think.

"Come here," called Sommes, from a seat in the orchestra. Charlie took him seriously, stepped over the apron onto a tall grill-work that covers the Henry Miller theatre orchestra pit, crashed through in the pit's cement floor.

"When I came to," Charlie says, "I was signing a contract."

That's about all, except that "Pastoral" opened. Gladly busy tearing it to pieces, the critics paid no attention to Lang. But the talent scouts did. At last reports, offers had reached $25,000 a year and two studios still were bidding. Who gets him for what is up to Hayward.

Charlie just shrugs, looks puzzled, and says: "I don't understand it. Guess I'm just too far away from Three Bridges."

How To Torture Your Husband

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

Chapter 33 THE CREEPING MAN "Duncan couldn't possibly be guilty of anything very bad," Tuck went on. "You can see that in his face, Michael. He's got an awfully nice, clean look."

"Soap," Michael muttered, but subsided hastily. Finally he came to a stop. He leaned against the wall. "All right, I'll talk sense," he said. "Real sense. First, I'll say this—the worst criminal I ever saw, who had committed unspeakably rotten crimes, had a face like an angel."

"Duncan doesn't look like an angel," Tuck cried. "He looks like a man."

Michael disregarded her. He talked straight at Bunny. "This isn't a romance we're living in, Bunny. It may not even come all right in the end, the way romances do. I want you to understand that, if it were a romance, we shouldn't quite rightfully suspect Duncan about this time, knowing in our instinct hearts that the hero can't do no wrong, and is in all probability suffering for another's crime, suffering in silence. Later on, of course, it would all be cleared up. I'm not so sure that this will come out that way."

"You're a real absent-minded," Michael's enemy said, hesitating. "Probably I'm just stating facts, that's all," he panted. "Really now, Duncan's little story explained a lot of things very nicely. Didn't it? About the reasons for his brother's disappearance. But why didn't he tell it to the Commissioner long ago? As far as that goes, why did the wife, knowing that her husband was deserting her, go to the police at all? If Miss Leroy was right," he said quietly, "Duncan was probably far more anxious to get these letters this afternoon than he was the day before. However," he said grimly, "he didn't get them all. We kept one to identify the handwriting by when the time comes."

"Michael—why should he want the letters?" Tuck asked. "He did not answer. He was looking at Bunny. She stood with lifted chin staring out into the wood. "Bunny," he said after a moment. "I want to ask you a favor. It is for your own good, I want to ask you not to see Duncan or have anything to do with him again until this matter is cleared up. Will you promise that?"

She considered. "No, I don't think I will, Michael," she said after a moment. "I am sure he is innocent. Why should I treat him like a criminal?"

"Do you believe me to be a truthful person, Bunny?" "Yes."

"Do you think I would make an accusation against anyone if I were not a absolutely sure of my grounds?" "No, Michael."

"Then, I will say this. Remember, I have chosen my words. I know exactly what I'm saying. Bunny—if I told you all I know about this case, all I am absolutely sure of, you would just dream of speaking to Duncan Murchison. You would avoid him like the plague. Your own feelings would not allow you to associate with him. Do I make myself plain?"

"Duncan?" "She did not speak for a long minute. "Thank you, Michael," she said at last, very quietly but her hands were locked tightly together.

Michael went back to Tuck. "Is there more tea?" he asked in his natural tone. Tuck poured a cup with shaking hands. Michael bent swiftly and kissed her as he took his cup. She bit her lip to keep the tears back. Bunny turned round. Her voice was firm and controlled. "There is something I am sure I had better tell you," she said. "I promised Duncan I would say nothing, but now I feel that that promise can be broken."

Michael waited. "The other evening," she went on almost immediately, "I went for a walk with Duncan. It was just at dusk—you and Tuck went for a drive, perhaps you remember. We went out along the river bank to look at the last of the sunset. It was very quiet and calm out there, and we sat down on a log to look out over the river. We stayed there quite a while, not talking much, just enjoying the evening and the quiet."

"It was nearly dark," she went on, "when the thing I want to tell you about happened. Remember we were sitting there perhaps twenty feet back from the edge of the bank, just under the overhang of the trees. You know the place—there is a sheer drop of rock from the edge of the bank to the river below; it must be thirty feet down. No one could possibly climb up there."

"Bunny, just a minute," Michael said quietly. "Was this just the side of the first big ravine?" "Yes."

"Go on."

"Well, we were just going to get up and come home—when, as true as I am sitting here, Michael, there was a man creeping along the ground between us and the edge of the cliff. He couldn't have come up over the cliff, he couldn't—I don't see how he possibly could have come all the way along the ground from the ravine. We were looking directly toward the ravine all the time. I was just stiff with fright. It was terrifying to see him creeping along there in the dark, like an animal almost. . . . we could only see him against the shimmering of the water, you see. And I was going to jump up or say something—but Duncan saw him first. He put his hand over my mouth, and held me there as if he were made of steel. And after a while the man got to the edge of the trees away to our right, and disappeared among them."

"He was coming this way, wasn't he?" "Yes."

"Along the bank, yes."

"Did you see who he was?" "Impossible."

"Did Duncan offer any explanation?" "None. He said—he told me not to breathe what I had seen to anyone. He said it was dangerous."

The next morning added another paragraph to the queer and mysterious story unfolding before their eyes. Bunny and Tuck, contrary to Michael's express orders, had been for a walk in the woods. As they came back and entered the study, Charlotte Jean burst into the room breathlessly. "It's a good thing I haven't back, Mrs. Forrester. I haven't known what to do. I locked her in your bedroom!"

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—Undoubtedly the toughest, most depressing and disappointing of all diplomatic posts is that of Ambassador Steinhardt in Moscow, but expert opinion is that his trouble over the City of Flint was no greater than that confronting earlier diplomats. The subject was more important, and for that reason there is random talk that he may be called back for "consultation" as a means of expressing U. S. displeasure at the cavalier Soviet manner.

Publicly, the state department exhibited its displeasure at the refusal of the Soviet government to permit Ambassador Steinhardt to talk to Captain Brinard of the City of Flint while it was at Murmansk. Privately, it was recognized in some quarters that the incident was only an addition—even if a large one—to a series of vexing incidents that have characterized Russia's relations with foreign governments.

KEEPS INFORMATION TO HERSELF To begin with, Russia has adopted a policy of letting outside governments know just as little as possible of what is going on in the huge expanse of territory with its 150,000,000 or more people. She has minimized the importance of foreign missions in Moscow, hamstringing their activities and kept them as dependent as she could upon the Soviet's own pipe lines of information. This government has been no worse treated than any other, perhaps a shade better than some.

The U. S. embassy, along with other foreign embassies, is strictly limited, as to the space it may occupy in Moscow. It can't "shop around" for additional or different quarters. It takes what the government allows. In Washington an embassy can rent or buy what and where it pleases.

LIMITED LIVING QUARTERS The U. S. embassy is quartered in a fairly good seven-story building where all but one or two of the 31 employees of the embassy not only work, but live. The building is only two rooms deep, front to back, and contains 81 rooms. For upper floors are living quarters. Three lower floors are offices. The ambassador has a residence elsewhere in the city. It is considered the best of any ambassador in Moscow.

So crowded are living quarters for the staff that few but bachelors are assigned to the U. S. embassy. Married couples are transferred if babies come.

Permission must be obtained for long distance telephone calls. Diplomats get permission readily except in such instances as the Flint, where delays seemed endless. Steinhardt finally got calls through to Murmansk but could not talk to the Flint's captain.

Sometimes a call from Moscow to Paris can be put through in 20 minutes. Secretary Hull once said it might take most of a day to get through to Moscow from Washington. Non-official callers must tell the subject of calls before they are put through. Soviet police listen in on such a large percentage of telephone calls that nobody with good sense transmits other than routine messages that way.

Lack of facilities is considered to be at least half to blame for delays. Red tape in handling calls explains much of the rest.

CONSULATES CLOSED Only a few months ago, foreign governments were ordered to close consular posts in all Russian cities except Moscow. Russia continues to operate hers in the U. S. and in other countries, but wants no leaks of information out of her own interior cities, Japan, China and Turkey alone were allowed to keep certain consular posts.

Diplomats here say that few Soviet officials will give out information. One diplomat observed that it was "crude" to consult those who would talk, for if their statements differed with those officially given out, they would face frightful punishment.

It tries the soul of foreign service employees to work under such conditions, but it is the Russian way.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—Group of local lawyers, organized to protect legal profession's interest in screen delineations, is latest about to beef on our "Mr. Smith." Reason: The crooked senator (Claude Rains) in the film was an attorney by trade, ergo and therefore, the legal profession is maligned.

If this comes to pass, the possibilities for future protest are unlimited.

Next logical step would be an outraged uproar from the girl stenographers and secretaries of the land, because Mr. Smith's office girl (Jean Arthur) was an out-and-out bribe-taker until she saw the light of love. This obviously makes all office helpers crooks and flingers.

Then would come the senate page boys, who were deliberately shown wavering in their faith, and, of course, the governors, who should take action in their next meeting on the libel of Guy Kibbee's portrayal.

The reporters (typified by Thomas Mitchell as amiable tipping, good-hearted guys) are accustomed to their movie prototypes and shouldn't mind any more.

The press, and newspaper people, are being spotlighted again at the same studio wherein "Mr. Smith" was fabricated. One of the first realistic melodramas of the newspaper world, "The Front Page," is well along in its second screen telling.

Oddly at first glance, Rosalind Russell is in the role Pat O'Brien had in the first talkie of the Hecht-McArthur play, and Ralph Bellamy is cast in the Mary Brian part. This mixing of the dramatic gender is deliberate: the title is now "The Girl Friday," and Hilda (Miss Russell) is a nickname for Hildy-garde, crack femme reporter. Cary Grant is that tough managing editor, Walter Burns (Adolphe Menjou, in the previous film), and he's in love with Hildy this time, so... you can see it's scarcely the same story any more, although it's the same general idea.

Howard Hawks, the director, picked up a copy of "The Front Page" from his desk one day, began reading it again, and got the notion for his present turn-about experiment.

The production will mark a return to the frenzied fast-talk school of the earlier talkies, a school which sprang from this and similar plays. The talk will continue, as before, to the very end, which was, in stage play and screen, a line by the managing editor, bent on intercepting his escaping star reporter, to the effect that the soundie stops his watch.

Just how they'll tag the piece this time is a mystery, but the latest dope is that Hildy will have something to say about horses, which will be plenty applicable if they do it—and get by with it, which I doubt.

This was a tough problem in the first talkie, which wound up with the classic line.

The solution here was one of those minor accidents which keep picture-making fascinating. Menjou, rehearsing, was leaning against a typewriter and accidentally touched off the carriage, ringing the bell which "covered up" the objectionable word.

That's how they shot it, saving the day for freedom—short or long—of speech and the proprietors.

CORNERSTONE LAID FOR A SHRINE TO THOS. JEFFERSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt laid the cornerstone Wednesday for a $3,000,000 marble shrine to Thomas Jefferson and asserted in a brief address the people of the United States today "are more than ever satisfied with the republican form of government."

The president stood beside the memorial rising to honor the author of the Declaration of Independence to declare the cornerstone was being laid in recognition of the "ever present vitality" of Jefferson's type of Americanism.

FREIGHT RATE ORDER IN EFFECT MONDAY

ASILENE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Refusal of the state railroad commission to vacate or postpone the effective date of its recent order abolishing freight rate differentials in Texas drew applause today from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and its affiliate, the Freight Rate Equality Federation.

The differential abolishing order was issued Oct. 16. Last week 25 rail lines operating in Texas asked that it be laid aside for 90 days to allow time for further study of inequalities which, according to the carriers, will ensue under the order. Yesterday the commission rejected the petition and gave notice that its differential order will be effective as of next Monday.

Capone

handed to federal convicts upon discharge.

He had been taken into the prison through the main entrance but when he left it was, probably, by another gate—and still in the company of federal officers. For Warden Henry C. Hill, Dr. George Hess, chief medical officer at Terminal Island, and another official left with him.

The former gangster, who had served time for income tax law violations was guarded for his own protection, although Bennett said he had not requested the escort.

Bennett said there would be some watch of Capone's condition, but declined to say how long he would be given this attention. Bennett said he probably would make that public next week.

The director declined to say what his condition was. Earlier Bennett had announced the release. He said:

"Capone was transferred today from the federal correctional institution near Los Angeles to Lewisburg.

"The decision to discharge him today was based on a petition filed by attorneys requesting credit for three days he spent in federal custody between October 24, 1931 to October 27, 1931, the date on which the United States circuit court of appeals suspended execution of judgment under which he was originally sentenced on October 24, 1931.

"Capone began service of a 10-year penitentiary sentence for evasion of income taxes May 4, 1933 and completed this portion of his sentence on Jan. 19, 1939 upon which date he began service of the sentence of one year for failure to file his income tax return.

"With allowances for good behavior and credit for three days spent in jail in October, 1931, Capone's sentence expired Nov. 16, 1939."

Bennett's announcement did not say what relatives were on hand to welcome the one-time racketeer as he left the penitentiary, a free man.

Even as Capone was released, Captain Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's police in Chicago said of the recent assassination of Turfman Edward J. O'Haire:

"There's no longer any doubt about it being a Capone job."

By a "Capone job," Gilbert said he meant to lay the killing at the door of what is left of the gangster organization Al Capone once ruled.

Butler practiced law at St. Paul until appointed to the court in 1923 by President Harding, a republican.

Because he had been attorney for several railroads and many corporations, several midwestern progressives fought his confirmation.

Physically he was a large man with piercing blue eyes, a round face and curling hair.

Away from his judicial duties, he was a genial story teller. Genealogically he was thoroughly Irish. He and his father, whose name was Patrick, both were born on St. Patrick's Day.

Butler wrote the 1936 opinion holding unconstitutional a New York law fixing minimum wages for women. It was reversed a few months later.

The justice asserted that such legislation was "repugnant to the due process clause of the fourth amendment" in that it deprived women of the right to contract.

He also wrote a dissent to the majority opinion holding constitutional the unemployment insurance provisions of the social security act. He contended that "the statutory scheme is repugnant to the tenth (state rights) amendment."

Butler had not participated in recent decisions of the court.

SUCCESSOR? WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—A list of names which might serve as a "who's who" of the judicial world was put forward today in speculation over a supreme court successor to Justice Pierce Butler.

High on the roster were such administration stalwarts as Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson of New York, who has argued many new deal cases before the high tribunal; Attorney General Frank Murphy of Michigan, and Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.).

Those who believed the appointment should go to the west, mentioned among others Thurman Arnold of Wyoming, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the anti-trust division; Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington, and Judge Harold Stephens of Utah, a member of the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia.

Advocates of the nomination of a woman advanced the name of Florence E. Allen of Cleveland, a member of the sixth federal circuit court of appeals.

Mahon Will Be Honored At Banquet

Rep. George Mahon, who spent the night here Wednesday, will be honored at a postmasters and postal employes banquet here Nov. 25, it was announced Thursday.

The congressman, recently returned from the special session at Washington, came here Wednesday afternoon to attend to some business matters. He left Thursday morning for Lamesa and Andrews and was to appear at the Seagraves chamber of commerce banquet Thursday night.

Nat Shick, local postmaster and in charge of arrangement of the affair for Mahon, said that 125 or 150 would be expected to attend from the postoffices of the 19th congressional district. Plans are to have a high ranking official from the postal department here for the occasion, which will be held in the Settles ballroom.

This will mark the third year that an annual dinner has been given by postmasters and the postal employes of the district for Mahon. The first was held in Lubbock and last year's meeting was at Lamesa.

CHRYSLER STRIKE MAY SET A RECORD

DETROIT, Nov. 16 (AP)—Entering its forty-second day, the dispute between the CIO United Automobile Workers and Chrysler Corporation today seemed likely to become the longest major quarrel in the history of the automotive industry.

By tomorrow it will have equaled the record span of the General Motors sit-down strike of 1937, and indications that it would continue for at least a few days more. Negotiators continued discussions of disputed points in their efforts to frame a new union contract, but several major issues remained to be settled.

MOVES TO BIG SPRING

Beethoven

about life than it does about any actual facts of his existence.

At the same time the very intensity of these thoughts and reactions and feelings resulted in music which is more real and direct than any preconceived tonal portraits could ever be. Rather than any immediate "portrait," therefore, we can accept the idea of the "fate motive" being personified in this great composition. For between Beethoven in different works tells us of his struggle with this "blind and purposeless and destructive force." And in his later works he accepts it with resignation and surmounts it by transcendence. Not so in the "Fifth Symphony," which he wrote in his 30s.

The sketches for this work appear in Beethoven's 31st year, when he needed all of his courage to face the near certainty of eventual and permanent deafness, for a musical genius the most tragic affliction imaginable. And he then considered fate as an enemy, not merely as an impersonal force. It is the gigantic struggle with this enemy, more than any romantic love affair, which seems to me to be the possible, even probable, basis of this most famous of all symphonies. The very opening bars prove the challenge of battle. Again breaks into the initial awareness the second movement; it infers the inner anxiety of the scherzo its defiant energy. And it is ended at last (after the marvelous tempo of the mysterious tempo) passage at the end of the scherzo by the triumphant and victorious spirit of the finale.

OIL 'SHANTY TOWN' CAN'T BE REBUILT

CARACAS, Venezuela, Nov. 16 (AP)—Informed quarters said today the Venezuelan government would forbid reconstruction of the still-supported shanty town of Lagunillas on Lake Maracaibo, which was destroyed Monday night by a disastrous fire. The village long had been considered a firetrap, it was said, but efforts to remove the inhabitants to new homes on the shore of the lake had proved futile. Exact figures on the number of dead remained unavailable as authorities continued the search for the bodies. The Maracaibo press estimated that 300 had perished, but the government press office indicated the actual number might be less.

IOOF Lodge Adopts Resolutions For Deceased Members

Resolutions of respect for the memory of two members of the lodge—Tom Scroggins and Albert Shortes—have been adopted by the Knott L.O.O.F. lodge No. 10. A copy of the resolution follows:

On Oct. 26th, 1939, Brother Tom Scroggins passed away at his home in the Fairview Community; and on Nov. 5th, 1939, Brother Albert Shortes passed away at his home in the Brown Community.

WHEREAS: The all wise Father has seen fit to call these Brothers from our midst, it is our duty to bow submissively to His will. Yet the dead are beyond our help. Beyond the power of human tears and it is therefore fitting that we extend the helping hand to the living in the maternal spirit that would receive endorsement from those whom we pay honor tonight.

Let us bring sunshine and gladness to the hearts immured in gloom, wipe away the tears of the stricken widow and extend protection and succor to the orphan.

Their toils are past, their work is done. And they are fully blest. They fought the fight, the victory won. And entered into rest.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord Of love that binds the heart. 'Tis harder still to speak the word Must we forever part.

Dear Brothers, we have placed The peaceful graves embrace But thy memory will be cherished Till in Heaven we see thy face.

Therefore, be it resolved that we extend condolence and tenderest care to their families; and be it further resolved that we attach a copy of this resolution to our minutes and send a copy to the families and also furnish our reporter a copy to be published.

Lovingly submitted: T. H. Hughes, W. G. Thomas, Resolution Committee.

Jerry Lee Tallant, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tallant, 211 North Second street, underwent an operation for acute appendicitis at the Big Spring hospital Wednesday evening. His condition was satisfactory late Thursday afternoon.

Reuben Hall of Ackerly, who underwent major eye surgery at the Malone & Hogan Clinic Hospital several days ago, was dismissed from the hospital Thursday morning.

Air Corps Applicants To Be Examined At Lubbock Saturday

LUBBOCK, Nov. 16—Young men interested in the air corps will have an opportunity of making application and taking the necessary examination without traveling several hundred miles to appear before the examining body.

Army air corps officers will be in Lubbock, Texas, Saturday to sit as an examining board for prospective applicants for training at Randolph Field, Lt. G. P. Overing announced Monday.

The examining board will include Lt. Col. Armin F. Herold, Capt. Burt Held, Lt. A. C. Agan and three enlisted men. Arrangements for their work are being made by the professor of military science and tactics, Texas Tech.

Lieutenant Overing will meet prospective candidates at the military science department, Texas Tech, every day this week to answer any questions they might have in regard to the flight training offered by the United States army air corps.

Lieutenant Overing said the air corps is interested particularly in college seniors, as these men will have finished their college work before time for them to report for training in July. The chief of the air corps, Lieutenant Overing pointed out, wishes to impress candidates with the fact that it is "not intended or desired to enroll candidates as flying cadets prior to the completion of their college careers, since college graduates have a much better opportunity to secure permanent commissions in the regular army."

High-Test Oxydol can offer astonishing results because it is a revolutionary "new-type" soap—containing a remarkable new ingredient. An ingredient that combines white-washing power with SAFETY in a way that scientists have sought for years.

Fortified by this new ingredient, High-Test Oxydol does these amazing things, compared to less efficient soaps tested.

First: It gets white clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter than other bar and package soaps lacking its new ingredient. Actual Timonox shades, as shown by our laboratory tests.

Second: Cup for cup, it gives up to three times the suds—and stands up 2 to 3 times longer.

Third: Yet is SAFE for washable colors, fabrics, hands. So safe, that even cotton prints give the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—came out looking bright and fresh as new.

In tub washing—new High-Test Oxydol soaks dirt loose in 10 minutes. No scrubbing, no boiling. Even grimy spots come clean with a few quick rubs. Thus ends the time-wasting, back-breaking drudgery of washboard scrubbing. And clothes last 2 to 3 times longer, from the standpoint of washday wear and tear.

In washing machines—High-Test Oxydol's efficiency is so remarkable that leading washing machine makers say switching to it—as the soap they recommend for solving brighter washes in washers old or new. It soaks out dirt while the washer runs—gives double-action wash.

High-Test Oxydol is economical, too. Each cup of it goes up to 3/4 again as far as less efficient soaps tested.

Don't Delay—Offer Limited

So, no matter what soap you've been using, try new High-Test Oxydol. Get a Giant-Size package today—while you can get a Medium-10¢-size package for only 1¢. Pouch & Gable.

LONGHORNS IRON OUT ROUGH SPOTS FOR FRIDAY BATTLE

RESERVES USE EAGLE PLAYS SUCCESSFULLY

The reds and the whites went at it Wednesday afternoon in Big Spring high school grid practice at the Highland Park stadium as Coach Pat Murphy sought to iron out the rough spots in his eleven before the Bovines invade Abilene Friday for their encounter with Dewey Mayhew's Eagles.

The reds represented the reserves, the whites the varsity squad. Led by Bobby Martin, the crimson shirted youngsters employed Abilene plays with varying success against the regulars but had some difficulty in topping the first stringers once they lost possession of the ball.

Only change in the regular line-up was at right guard where Frank Barton was employed in the absence of Hal Battle, who was missing from practice. Battle is expected to be ready to start against the Eagles but Barton, who saw plenty of action against San Angelo when Bill Fletcher was injured, may get in the game.

Murphy had the regulars stopping the reds' overhead game, indicating that he expected the Abileneans to toss plenty of passes against the Bovines.

Denny Shute Here Monday

Denny Shute, one of the nation's foremost golfers, will make a personal appearance here Monday under auspices of Montgomery Ward.

He is scheduled to appear at the local store from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. at which time he invites anyone interested in the game to drop in and meet him. He will dedicate part of the allotted time toward giving free tips on the game.

The former P.G.A. champion will demonstrate the game that led him to the heights in a 16-hole four-ball at 2 p. m. at the country club. Pairing with Harold Akey, Shute will contest Shirley Robbins, country club manager, and Obie Britton in a low ball match.

There will be no gallery fee. All members of the Big Spring Golf association are urged to attend. Shute won the British Open in 1933; held the United States PGA title in 1936-37 and has captured honors in many other tournaments. He finished in a triple tie with Byron Nelson and Craig Wood for first place in the National Open last summer but lost in the playoff.

EARTHQUAKE A HELP

SEATTLE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Paul Gulden counts an earthquake a blessing and a money saver. Three doors in his house were sticking, and he was going to call a carpenter. A slight earthquake settled the house in another direction, and now the doors fit perfectly.

The Sports Parade

BY HANK HART

Melvin J. Wise, local minister, related to your correspondent recently that the Big Spring Ex-Students association of Abilene Christian college might make a united effort to bring an ACC game here next fall, that A. C. "Bugs" Morris, Wildcat mentor, was still interested in playing one game before Big Spring fans.

Morris collaborated in trying to bring the ACC-Sul Ross battle here last September but the plan fell through when B. C. Graves, Sul Ross mentor, refused to accept the proffered terms.

Since Daniel Baker college, Brownwood, is scheduled to play in Abilene next fall, it is possible that Baker officials might agree to switch that game here with the possibility of an attractive "gate". It is believed that any kind of a college game would be popular here.

Local fans would well relish a battle between ACC and Howard Payne, Brownwood's other college. The Wildcats are scheduled to play in Brownwood in 1940, however, and officials probably will desire that game on the home field.

Good Graves, a Big Spring youth, will be back with Howard Payne's team in 1940.

The ex-students' association of the Abilene school is one of the largest in these parts, incidentally, boasting around 30 members.

W. C. Blankenship, local school superintendent, reports that, contrary to all reports, there will be no special train to the Big Spring-Abilene clash Friday.

Local school officials tried earlier in the week to have the Abilene-Big Spring grid game moved from Abilene to the local field but Abilene leaders refused despite the fact that interest in the game has dwindled badly there. It seems that Abilene fans will not support a loser, whether it be baseball or football.

It was reported from reliable sources that hardly enough fans attended the Abilene-Arlington Heights (Fort Worth) game last week to pay the officials.

The game would have drawn well here. The Bovines have played before approximately 20,000 paid admissions this year, including the 4,800 "gate" at Odessa and the 4,500 that witnessed the Midland game here.

If the situation at Abilene continues, Dewey Mayhew might well introduce the six-man game at the school.

Expenses for an abbreviated team are much cheaper. Jack Crain, Texas university's gridiron flier, was stopped cold by the Baylor Bears last week, but is still the Southwest conference's

Win Four Games In Second Year Play; Lettermen Named

GARDEN CITY, Nov. 16 (AP)—Herschel Wheeler's Garden City Bearcats have rounded out their football season with four victories, three defeats and one tie in eight starts.

The six-man game was inaugurated at the school last fall. This is the first season, however, that the Bearcats have played under supervision of the Texas interscholastic league.

Next season the Kats will be playing without the services of Swindall and Daves, ends, Hardy, center, and Medlin, back.

F. Cox, Alsup, Baker, Bedell and Hobbs will return for backfield duty. Baker did not see much service this year due to an injured ankle. He is considered one of the classiest performers in District 12.

Eligible for line work again, will be E. Cook, T. Cook, Chancy, Holcombe, Woods, Woods, Cunningham, Shafer and B. Cox.

Coach Wheeler has announced that Swindall, Daves, Chancy, Hardy, E. Cook, F. Cox, Medlin and Alsup earned letters.

Season's record: Garden City 45, Water Valley 8, Garden City 0, Courtney 14, Garden City 19, Coahoma 14, Garden City 28, Sterling City 20, Garden City 8, Courtney 22, Garden City 26, Water Valley 14, Garden City 6, Sterling City 24, Garden City 32, Foran 20.

Total Garden City—170, opponents—150.

Women Slay First Deer

KERRVILLE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Snappy weather opened the deer and turkey season in the hazy purple-clad hills country today, testing the skin or possibly 10,000 huntmen and women who tumbled out of cedar brake camps at dawn.

For the first time in many years, the honor of bringing in the first bucks in Kerrville and Mason, strongholds of the deer-shooting area, went to women instead of men.

The first buck, an eight-point, to appear in Kerrville was shot by Mrs. V. B. Hodges or Gregerton, about five miles northwest of the city. The 19-year-old bunsle, who bagged her quarry at 100 yards, slatedly announced it was her first.

At Mason, the laurels went to Mrs. M. E. Carter of Brownwood, who hot a six-pointer on a ranch south of the city.

Norman Bodet was reported to have shot the first deer in the San Antonio district, a fat eight-pointer. Warden Arthur Hitzfelder of the Alamo city beat other wardens to the draw by making the first deer season arrest at about 3 a. m.

The offender paid a $36 fine for headlighting.

A dispute over who brought in the first buck developed at Comert where four huntmen appeared almost simultaneously with bucks strapped to automobile fenders. Rudy Doersler, who shot an eight-pointer at 125 yards, claimed the price of two quarts of whiskey, offered by a merchant.

MIDWAY QUINT WINS, 11 TO 7

ELBOW, Nov. 16—Garland Hannaford's Midway junior boys' basketball team decisively defeated Elbow, 11-7, here Wednesday afternoon.

E. Tom's six points set the pace for the victors while Lujan was outstanding for Elbow with two field goals.

The Midway quint held the lead throughout except for a brief time in the third quarter.

With Williamson and Roberts starring, the Elbow junior girls defeated Midway's fems, 21-0, however. Williamson had 20 points while Roberts scored the remainder of the Elbow total.

The Midway teams will play Vincent at Midway Friday afternoon.

FIVE OF UNBEATEN, UNTIED TEAMS TO SWING INTO ACTION THIS WEEKEND

BUTLER GETS CHANCE TO PROVE WORTH SATURDAY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 16 (AP)—Opportunity will come a-knocking at the footsteps of Little Johnny Butler Saturday when Vanderbilt's "aerial circus" moves into town to see what it can do about checking Tennessee's second successive unbeaten and untied football season—and a choice bowl assignment.

The 100-pound mercury-headed sophomore halfback, who left some 25,000 fans spellbound and an Alabama team shell-shocked with a dazzling 50-yard touchdown gallop, will get his chance to prove that historic journey was no flash-in-the-pan.

Butler, a home-town prodigy, moved into the driver's seat of the nation's No. 1 machine when George (Red News) Cafego, spearhead of the Vol attack, was struck down with a knee injury in the break with the Citadel last week.

Butler's task is a shakable one, for Cafego has been one of the south's standouts backs for three years; but those who have seen the shifty little fellow truck an average of 7.5 yards per try in 49 sprints from scrimmage are prone to believe he is equal to it.

6-Man Parley Is Planned For Friday Night

An executive meeting of District 12 six-man football league, will be held Friday evening, 7 o'clock, at the Settles hotel, N. P. Taylor, district chairman, has advised The Herald.

Taylor, indicating that some very important business remained to be disposed of, urged that all schools have delegates in attendance.

Member schools of the league are Westbrook, Courtney, Foran, Gardner, Garden City, Sterling City, Coahoma and Water Valley.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDWIS BHEITZ
NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Teams likely to show a lot of dope around this week are Syracuse, Wisconsin and Yale... Frankie Frisch and Bill Bonawager of the Pirates have been in a huddle here for three days... Vanderbilt is getting set to throw a new three-year contract at Coach Ray Morrison.

Today's guest star: Lynn C. Doyle, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "Look at Army and Navy—they've been razed, dazed and frazzled, yet for them the football season is yet to be."

The Feb. 22 Garcia-Armstrong fight at Los Angeles is definitely off... Eddie Mead decided it would not be wise to test the legality of the contract Mike Jacobs has on Armstrong's service...

Rebbling it in: It wasn't enough for the Paris Junior college to beat Cornell Prep of Dulles 34-0 the other day... Paris had to add insult to injury and send in Miss Juanita McHenry, an eye-filling co-ed, to kick one of the extra points.

Dick Fullerton, Pitt center, in a hospital here with a brain concussion since the Fordham game, is out of danger... Van Mungo, his broken foot o.k. again, is hunting elk in Virginia... Arkansas plays two Thanksgiving day games next year, one with Fordham Nov. 21 and another with Tulsa Nov. 28... And The Citadel has two this year, against Erskine Nov. 23 and Wofford a week later.

BEESTEAK: BOSTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—The army traditionally has had beans for mess, but now it is to be beefsteak, instead.

The quartermaster corps says the energy units in a truckload of beefsteak are equal to two truckloads of beans.

One Is In Line For All-Conference Berth

DALLAS, Nov. 16 (AP)—Two rugged gentlemen who have lifted a rather boring position in football smack into the headlines are hereby nominated as a couple of the best football players in your South-west conference:

Blocking backs Jim Thomason of Texas A. and M. and Will Mullenwig of Southern Methodist.

Sad, indeed, that both should come along at the same time. One of the two is going to be done an injustice when the foolishness of naming all-conference and all-America teams starts.

Now since the days that Harrison Stafford made his crunching blocks felt up in section G, row 48, has the league had such a pair of manhandlers. Saturday after Saturday these lads perform in such astounding manner they overshadow the ball carrier.

Thomason, a 198-pound Brownwood boy who wears a cowboy hat and boots, is terrific. He is the blocker who makes a team like the unbeaten Texas Aggies unbeaten. He's downright vicious when backing up the line. And you can quote Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist on that point. He had his arms around Mustangs all afternoon in last Saturday's mud at College Station.

Runs Occasionally: Not only that, he can kick, and kick well. Once in a great while he runs. Shortly before the S.M.U. game last week, down in the dressing room, Thomason peered out at the rain and quipped:

"Gee, this weather certainly will wreck my ball carrying today!"

Strangely, they called the big blocker on a sneak and he tore 17 yards. That was his day's offensive work. Once, against Santa Clara, he sneaked downhill and caught a pass—a little tricklet that just beat Santa Clara, 7-3.

Mullenwig, a Houston boy who wears an iron mask to protect his splattered nose, met Thomason on the same field last Saturday and the duo was a sight. He tore up and down behind the Mustang line, jolting Aggie ball carriers on every other run. He was everywhere. Finally, they took him out.

Why? He works too hard. He must have rest. The first replacement behind him is injured, and out for the season. It's Mullenwig or else.

But he was back in there after a breathing spell, just as good as new. Methodist followers believe Notre Dame would have gone down kicking if Mullenwig had been in good condition for that one.

A trifle underweight from overwork, Mullenwig is still dynamic. And, like Thomason, he is a nifty pass receiver.

Coach Bell, who can be an authority on blocking backs after seeing Dick Favara, the Oklahoma rocker, and Steve Sitko, Notre Dame's fine blocker, opines that the two Texas boys are just as rough as he cares to see.

TYLER TUSSLE WITH WACO IS TOP BATTLE

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Staff

Texas schoolboy football fans will know tomorrow night whether those glowing stories told about Tyler's football team were the all wool and a yard wide or, if in their enthusiasm for a winner, local followers overlooked defects in the fabric.

That is the time when Tyler plays mighty Waco. The games with downtrodden Greenville and twice-beaten Longview have sliced away some of the Lions' prestige but Tyler still re-

Wheeler can put a team composed of boys six feet in height or taller for the first time in the history of the school.

The Kats will open their season's play in the Rankin Invitational tournament December 6-7.

WOLVES BOAST BETTER ATTACK THAN EAGLES

Westbrook's Wolves will pit a powerful running game against a strong defense when they tangle with the Courtney Eagles for the District 12 six-man grid title in Colorado City Saturday night.

BH Fletcher's boys have won most of their games this season simply by strong rallies that have produced late scores.

Faced by Junior Oglesby, one of the circuit's leading scorers, the Westbrook secondary also boasts good backs in Bud Clanton, son yasser, and Red Davenport.

The Westbrook line has not been outstanding but has accomplished its share of the work.

The Courtney team has relied more on defense than offense to win its games but also boasts fine backs. Bill Pinkston has been particularly outstanding this year while Bud Henshale has figured prominently of late in Courtney's

SMU-ARKANSAS GRID TILT TO BE ON AIR

The Southwest conference football weekend begins early this week, with the important conference game between Southern Methodist university and the University of Arkansas scheduled for Friday at Little Rock, Ark. This game will be broadcast over a network of Texas stations by the Humble Oil & Refining company, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

The Humble company is sending Eddie Dunn and Harfield Woodin to Little Rock to describe the game for Texas listeners. Dunn, popular radio personality regularly heard over Station WFAA, Dallas, will describe the play; Woodin, of Station KTRH, Houston, will handle color and statistics. Listeners can hear the broadcast over KTRH, Dallas; Port World, KXTX, Houston; KABC, San Antonio,

WATER VALLEY TO BE SEEKING FIRST VICTORY

Foran's Buffaloes will close out their season's play in a game with the Water Valley gridlers in Foran Friday afternoon.

The Buffs started well this season, defeating the powerful Westbrook team among others but have faded badly during the past month.

Tommy McDonald, star back, will seek to shake the team out of its doldrums against the Valley, a team that hasn't won a game to date but one that is rated dangerous.

The Buffs are in good shape for the encounter, having emerged from the tussle with Garden City last week in fine shape.

The Buffs finished in second place in District 12 standings, having lost encounters in Westbrook and Garner.

Hinton and E. Jones are the Water Valley threats.

DICK CASSIANO IN FINAL SHOW AT PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 16 (AP)—"Dandy Dick" Cassiano, the Albany, N. Y., speedster they could not keep out of Pitt's famous "dream backfield," ends his stadium career this week amid a flurry of all-America speculation.

An outstanding star since the Saturday in 1937 when he piloted "Mad Marshall" Goldberg and scored four touchdowns against Ohio Wesleyan, then tossed a pass for another, Cassiano makes his final home showing against Nebraska Saturday.

POLICE GIVEN CHASE BEFORE DRIVER IS TAKEN IN CUSTODY

It was Harold Gage's turn to worry Thursday.

State highway patrolmen said they worried plenty before they finally took him into custody Wednesday afternoon and charged him with driving while intoxicated.

Thursday Gage, a resident of Sudan, Tex., waived examining trial and had bond set at $1,000 by Justice of Peace J. H. Hefley.

Patrolmen said they first sighted their suspect in the downtown area, but that he evaded them. They took him into custody a few minutes later just north of the state hospital where a truck had been struck, a mail box and tree mowed down and a car was reported moving in circles over the highway.

Here's what a good back-seat driver does not do:

1—In an emergency, she does not scream or distract the driver's attention.

2—Above all, she does not nag the driver, or get him emotionally upset with "I told you so's."

There you are, ladies, recognition at last!

NEGRO TEACHER'S SALARY DIFFERENCE ISSUE IN COURT

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (AP)—A negro school principal's claim he received less pay than white teachers in comparable jobs because of "racial discrimination," left in federal court today a constitutional issue which may affect thousands of negro teachers throughout the nation.

Argued before a U. S. judge for the first time, it raises the question whether separate wage scales for white and negro teachers violate the 14th amendment to the constitution.

Walter Mills, negro principal of Anlie Arundel county, Md., argued racial factors resulted in the county school board paying him $1,058 annually while Slater Bryant, Jr., white school principal with a comparable job, received $1,800.

Mills claimed that both men had the same qualifications and duties.

George Fox, county school superintendent, asserted the salary discrepancies were based on different teaching abilities of whites and negroes.

LOOK OUT BELOW!—Folled for a plunge into the waters off Old Point Comfort, Va., above 40-inch submarine mine was used for a recent demonstration of this type of defense weapon. Dedication Of Midland Port Set Saturday

MIDLAND, Nov. 16—Final arrangements have been completed and everything has been announced in perfect readiness for the formal opening and official dedication of the Midland municipal airport Saturday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock, officials in charge of the affair predicting that one of the largest crowds ever gathered here will be on hand for the occasion.

Congressman R. E. Thomsen of El Paso, principal speaker for the occasion, has advised chamber of commerce officials that he will arrive here early Saturday morning and will remain here through Sunday. Mayor M. C. Ulmer of Midland and other officials from over this section are also scheduled to appear on the program. E. M. Whitaker, president of the Midland chamber of commerce, will act as master of ceremonies. A concert by the Midland high school band, under the direction of M. A. Armstrong, will be given during the program.

R. L. Miller is general chairman in charge of arrangements.

A smoker at the Midland Country club and a banquet at Hotel Schaefer will feature the entertainment for the visiting pilots and army officers. A dance, open to the public, will be held in the large hangar at the airport Saturday evening under the sponsorship of the Midland Junior chamber of commerce.

On display at the field during the afternoon will be hundreds of planes, both army and commercial, which are expected to land prior to the dedicatory proceedings. A squadron of Texas national guard planes from Houston is scheduled to land at the field during the program.

Sponsored by the Midland chamber of commerce and city of Midland, the dedication will mark completion of the $125,000 purchase and expansion project of Midland municipal airport. The expansion and improvement project included the paving of two runways, each 4,500 feet long and 150 feet wide, erection of an observation tower atop the administration building, construction of additional quarters for army and installation of additional lighting facilities.

There were a total of 331 students from the enrollment of 623, named as honor students in one or more subjects. Heading the list, two made it in seven courses; eight in six subjects; 17 in five; and 30 in four.

To receive this "A" rating, the student must average 90 per cent or above in all work in the course. Local students listed on the roll were Barbara Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Collins, in four courses; Monroe Mansur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harl D. Mansur, in one course; and Edna Weed, daughter of Mrs. Edna Weed, of Knott, in two courses.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
More and more it looks as though Hitler's success or failure in this war will depend on how stout the hearts of his people are in enduring harsh privation.

He is drawing on their fortitude right at the outset of a life and death struggle when their morale—their will to do—should be stimulated to the highest degree. He is banking on the efficacy of the Nazi discipline which he has imposed.

I can't get out of my mind the brief Berlin announcement putting the general public on a strictly rigid rationing system, in addition to the food restrictions already existing.

This order limits men to one suit, one shirt and five pairs of socks annually. Women are permitted one suit, one morning dress and six pairs of stockings. Children's allowances correspond.

Maybe as a native of northern New England, where we eat steak and pie for breakfast and wear caps in winter, I place too much importance on food and clothing—but I don't think so, when it comes to the present situation. I saw civilians die of starvation in the last war, and was on the ground when Germany was beaten by hunger.

To me the question of supplies especially as relating to public morale, is the one on which Germany will stand or fall.

Be that as may be, the reich has piled up reserve supplies—just how many nobody except officialdom knows. It has been announced that there is more than a full year's reserve of wheat and rye on hand—8,600,000 tons.

Officials claim that so long as Germany has fairly good harvests and the Balkan granaries remain open, the grain reserve need not be touched. Indeed, they boast that they can defy the blockade.

Many neutral economic experts get a different slant on the situation. Germany has to import some 20 per cent of her food. The Balkans cannot supply this deficiency, although Russia possibly could if she would. There are vital raw materials which neither the Balkans nor Russia can produce—and the blockade cuts those off.

One of Germany's great difficulties is that she lacks cash with which to buy from those neutrals still open to her.

bling, her eyes black, was standing in front of the open window. Her hands were clasped tightly together.

Tuck surveyed her. "Good morning," she said weakly.

"Your servant is—a creature!"

"I've always rather liked her, myself."

Mrs. Murchison's voice shook. "I am looking for the bathroom," she said. "She asks me nothing. She turns the key and laughs. Laugh! At me!"

Tuck shook her head sympathetically. "That would have been terrible. Naturally, you couldn't have been expected to know that we've moved the bathroom since you lived here."

Behind her in the hall, Bunny choked. The angry woman at the window heard. She burst into a flood of Gallic tears, tears of rage and fear mingled. "It is terrible, what I am suffering," she sobbed. "They tell me my husband is dead. I know it is not so. I know he has left me for another woman. The shame—it is more than I can bear. It is awful. I cannot tell anyone. I cannot confess it to them. I come here to get the proof—the proof that he has done so. And this is how I am treated!"

"I'm sorry," said Tuck soberly. "We do know what you are going through, Mrs. Murchison. It must be dreadful. But what possible proof of your husband's action could you find in the bathroom?"

"That brought on another convulsion. When she was as intelligible, the woman said, 'It is not in the bathroom. I do not know where you have put it, but I want to seek in your bedroom for it.' She lifted her face. 'There!' she said defiantly. 'Now you know the truth. You are keeping something from me which should be mine, and I have a right to look for it. I have a right to look for it!'"

"I don't know what you mean, Mrs. Murchison."

"The black eyes stared, then the lids fell secretively. 'I think you do.'"

"Why do you think that?"

"She shrugged her shoulders. 'There is no use beating about so. No use at all. I know that you found what my husband had hidden in the house.'"

Tuck surveyed her levelly. "Why didn't you come and ask for it, Mrs. Murchison, if it was really something important to you?"

"You know what it was. You know why I do not come and ask. It is something to be ashamed of, my husband's love letters from another woman."

CUSTOMS DISTRICT ADDS MORE MEN

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 16 (AP)—Eight of six customs inspectors, additional guards and several border patrolmen to the personnel in the San Antonio customs district is announced by Harry P. Hornby, collector of customs in the district.

The guards will be stationed at Corpus Christi and three inspectors each will be assigned to the customs posts at Laredo and Brownsville. The customs patrol members will be stationed along the Rio Grande.

Due to an increase in Mexican travel and evidence of increased smuggling along the Rio Grande, the personnel in the San Antonio customs district is being increased, said Hornby.

A border patrol unit in Florida and Louisiana is being abandoned and members from the unit will be transferred to this district, he said.
