Colombian Earthquake Fatal To 35 In Worst Catastrophe In 10 Years

300 Are Feared Injured In Bogota

By CARLOS J. VILLAR BORDA
United Press International

BOGOTA (UPI) — Colombia's worst earthquake in 10 years demolished a shirt factory with 200 women in it Monday and spread death, injury and destruction over 400,000 square miles.

Government officials said at least 35 persons were killed and 300 injured. The toll was certain to mount as reports were received from isolated areas.

For two dreadful minutes at mid-afternoon, the earth heaved and shook, causing panic that spread far beyond the area of major damage. Minor earth shocks were reported at about the same time in nearby Venezuela, but there was no report of casualties or serious damage there.

In Colombia, the heaviest toll was reported in the city of Pereira, about 100 miles west of here, where eyewitnesses said a three-story shirt factory employing about 200 women "folded up like an accordion."

Early reports said at least eight of the factory workers were killed and many more trapped in the ruins of the factory. Rescue crews were combing the rubble for survivors.

Other casualties in Pereira increased the known toll there to 11 dead and 126 injured seriously enough to require hospitalization. Another 50 persons received first-aid treatment.

The west tower of the great Gothic cathedral in Manizales, Colombia's biggest church, tumbled in ruins, and a convent in that city was ruled unsafe for habitation Monday night.

The earthquake also wrecked an aqueduct in Manizales, a provincial capital with a population of 200,000 about 100 miles north-west of here, leaving the city without water. Its electric power system was largely knocked out by the quake.

In Cali, a provincial capital 125 miles south of Manizales, five women were killed and five persons were injured in the collapse of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

Similar reports of death and devastation came in from cities, towns and villages throughout western Colombia.

Kennedy Calls Meeting On Nuclear Bans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has called another meeting of his top advisers before he decides whether to make a softer approach to Russia on a nuclear test ban.

Kennedy met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, disarmament negotiator Arthur H. Dean and other disarmament advisers for nearly two hours Monday.

He scheduled another session with them for Wednesday. Dean is expected to return to Geneva negotiations later this week with Kennedy's final decision.

Asked if Wednesday's session meant that no final decision had been reached yet on possible new proposals, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said "that's correct."

Although the White House gave no details of Monday's talks, it was apparent they centered around the recent advances in means of detecting underground blasts. These advances could allow the United States to ease its demands for machinery to guard a test ban treaty.

Dean was called back from Geneva last week after the President had already conferred with his aides on the results of the Project Vela underground atomic tests in Nevada.

Celebrezze Is Sworn Into Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze was sworn in today as President Kennedy's new secretary of health, education and welfare. He said the job "is a tremendous challenge and we accept that challenge."

The ceremony—which saw the first replacement in the Cabinet since Kennedy took office—was held on the White House lawn outside the President's office.

Celebrezze's wife, three children and other relatives and friends watched proudly as the new secretary was praised by the President.

Kennedy told Celebrezze that his Cabinet post represents "the most responsible assignment" he has faced in his political career as an Ohio legislator and five-term mayor of Cleveland.

Celebrezze responded that it was his ambition to "fully fulfill the great confidence" that Kennedy was placing in him.

"It is my desire, as I know it is your desire, to be of service to the people of America," Celebrezze told the President.

Re-Zoning Ordinance In Works For 3 Separate Areas Of Pampa

Vote Scheduled For Friday

Re-Zoning Ordinance In Works For 3 Separate Areas Of Pampa

City Attorney Bob Gordon is drawing up an ordinance today, re-zoning three separate areas of the city from their present "Dwelling" and "Commercial" status to "A-Dwelling," as a result of this morning's meeting of the city commission.

Multiple family dwellings and all except "customary home occupations" are eliminated in "A-Dwelling" areas, the highest strictly residential zoning available.

The first reading of the ordinance will be voted on at a meeting of the City Commission at 7 p.m. Friday.

Included in the ordinance is one area in north Pampa along 22nd Street, east to Alameda Park, a short "jag" south and then east on Linda Drive, south on Mary Ellen, west on 21st and north on Russell.

The other area in north Pampa, to the immediate south and west of High School, is bounded on the west by Hamilton Street; then the boundary line is Worrell east to Russell, south to Decatur, east to Charles, south to Harvester, east to Duncan, south to Georgia, west on Georgia to Hamilton.

The area in south Pampa is bounded on the west by Somerville, north by Albert, east by Clark and south by Crawford. The proposal is to change this area from "Industrial" to "A-Dwelling."

The other two are currently zoned "Dwelling" and will be zoned "A-Dwelling" if the ordinance passes.

The public hearing on the proposed re-zoning, which opened at 10 a.m. today, will be taken up again at the Friday night meeting of the commission, to allow objections. There were no objections to the proposed re-zoning expressed at today's meeting. However, M. E. Lamb, 1128 Christine, expressed the thought that perhaps more information should have been given the public in advance of today's meeting on what the re-zoning constitutes in limitations on the property owner.

It was pointed out that such businesses as beauty shops, eating establishments (where more than four are fed), etc., are eliminated in the new "A-Dwelling" zone.

In other action, the commission delayed bid - letting on the proposed air conditioning of the Palm Room in City Hall until its Friday night meeting to allow the city manager to study the bids opened this morning.

Low bidder of five on the project was Malcolm Hinkle, Inc., with a bid of $3,307. Others were L. H. Sullins Plumbing Company, $3,815; Panhandle Plumbing Company, $4,250; Trail Electric, Ray Browning, $3,995; and H. Guy Kerbow Co., $4,857, with the firm to do some additional work.

The commission awarded a contract to Kenneth Beavers for removal of wet garbage for $200 a month for two years starting December 16, 1962.

Three bills were paid including one from Continental Oil Company for $948.71 before discount; one from Builders Plumbing Co. for $801.00 before discount; and one from the Fire Department for $62.44 for expenses in attending Firemen's School at Texas A&M recently.

The possibility of changing commission meetings to night sessions was discussed at the meeting with the matter ordered placed on the agenda for next week's meeting.

In other action, the commission heard the report that the city's paving project was meeting with little response on the part of local property owners; made a public suggestion that persons who wish should call for a re-reading on their water meters if they doubt that the meter was read accurately on any current month's billing; took no action on a report an oil company was burning a slush pit within the city limits; suggested immediate action one way or the other on a request that parking meters in front of Carrutti Karredi, 220 N. Somerville, be taken out; and announced that an interview would be conducted at the Friday night meeting with George Green of Lubbock, consulting engineer, concerning possible engineering work to be done on the city's water and sewer systems.

Pampa Receives .98 Of Moisture Monday

Heavy thunderstorms and severe lightning swept across Pampa and the surrounding area last night, dumping up to two and one half inches of rain four miles north of Panhandle.

Pampa received .98 inch of rain accompanied by high winds. No damage was reported in the area.

Panhandle reported that small hail fell during the night. They received 1.45 inches of rain within a two hour period.

Other communities around the area reporting rainfall were McLean, with .15 inch; Skellytown, one and one tenth rain with high winds, which blew limbs from trees and Miami, .20 inch.

Amarillo got nearly an inch of rain between midnight and 6 a.m. The Weather Bureau said thunderstorms will hit the western and northern portions of North-western Texas, with scattered afternoon and nighttime thundershowers in extreme Southwestern Texas.

Little change was expected through Wednesday.

A weak cool front lay stationary along a line from near Wichita Falls to Midland and was blamed for the rain. Skies in other parts of the state were fair, except for some patches of low clouds and ground fog in the area along the coast.

During the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m., Amarillo had 1.22 inches of rain, .93 of an inch coming after midnight. Dalhart had a 24-hour total of .73 of an inch, .37 of it after midnight.

Overnight low temperatures early today ranged from 62 at Dalhart to 80 at Corpus Christi.

Many sections of the state remained tinder dry. San Antonio,

Pampa Youth Has Wreck With Bike

A five year-old Pampa boy escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding collided with an automobile in the 2100 block of N. Dwight.

Larry Wayne Wayt, won of Mr. and Mrs. Eber S. Wayt, 2112 N. Dwight, was struck by an automobile driven by J. W. Baldrige, 1104 Terry Rd., at 7:14 p.m. yesterday when he rode his bicycle from a driveway into the path of the auto, according to the investigating officers report.

Officers said the Baldrige vehicle was traveling north on Dwight when the accident occurred. Baldrige told officers he did not see the boy until he was in front of the car.

Young Wayt was taken to Highland General Hospital by his parents where he was kept overnight for observation and released early today. He suffered only minor cuts and bruises. The automobile was slightly damaged and the bicycle was demolished.

Ex-Union President Denies Strike Pay Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former union local president has denied that he asked to be paid for withdrawing his opposition to a proposed settlement of the strike that stopped nuclear submarine construction at Groton, Conn.

Arthur Vars, former president of Local 614 of the Boilermakers' Union, issued the denial after the Senate investigations subcommittee heard conflicting reports Monday of a meeting held prior to a July 18 vote in which 11 striking unions rejected a settlement formula.

Members of the unions vote again today on a new settlement formula—the third in the controversy — reached last week in Washington. The strike has idled 8,700 workers at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp.

It stopped work on 11 submarines, including seven of the Polaris missile-firing type.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said after a day-long session that the strike should be stopped by any means, including a Taft-Hartley injunction, if the workers reject the settlement today.

McClellan said seven or eight witnesses who testified in closed session Monday were being asked to swear to their statements.

The statements, he said, centered on a July 17 meeting, the day before the unions rejected a settlement and decided to strike on July 19.

McClellan said one of those present at the July 17 meeting was Vars, who opposed final settlement terms in 1960 and had been expelled from both the union and the presidency when the contract came up for renewal this year.

Also on hand, McClellan said, was Homer Parrish, an international representative of the union. With Vars, he said, was Terrence Hogan, a member of the union representing guards at the shipyard, and Parrish was accompanied by Edward Rice from Teamsters Local 493.

Payoff Discussion
McClellan said they all agreed that there was discussion of a proposal under which Vars was to get $5,000, his back pay as local president, and his expenses and attorneys' fees in a federal court action by which he is seeking reinstatement.

The local was to be taken out from under an international union trusteeship and Vars was to be reinstated, McClellan said.

Under the agreement Vars was to stop the court action, stop opposing the proposed strike settlement, and resign the local presidency after reinstatement, to allow the way for a new election.

McClellan told reporters that at Monday's hearing, Parrish, Rice and Hogan agreed that Vars set up the meeting and made the proposition. But Vars contended that Parrish made the proposition to him.

Senate Leaders Aim Motion At Space Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate leaders, hoping desperately for some compromise, aimed a gag motion today at Democratic liberals filibustering against the administration's space communications bill.

Acting Democratic Leader George A. Smathers of Florida said the bipartisan cloture petition would be filed this afternoon. The Senate was being called back into session at 10 a.m. EDT.

Filing of the cloture petition today would produce a showdown vote Thursday on limiting debate. If adopted, it would allow each senator to speak one hour on the motion to call up the communications satellite bill. A two-thirds vote of those present is needed for adoption.

Treasury Agents Seize Bogus Money

HOUSTON (UPI) — Secret Service agents said they seized $28,670 in freshly made bogus money Monday because a member of the counterfeiting ring did not have a safety inspection sticker on his car.

Vance McLain Turner, who was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Ralph Fowler on a charge of making and possessing counterfeit money, told police: "I didn't have the money to get one (a safety sticker)." He was held in $7,500 bond.

In Dallas, secret service agents arrested Gloria Ann Shaeffer, 29, also on charges of making and possessing counterfeit money. U.S. Commissioner William Madden Hill said Miss Shaeffer was held in $7,500 bond.

The bogus money was found in two cardboard boxes at Turner's residence. Police said the huge pile of fake money was printed over the weekend. Lane Bertram, special agent in charge of the Houston secret service office in Houston, said none of the bills had been passed.

Police said they arrested Turner because a sticker was not on his car and found $36 in counterfeit money in his pockets.

Faubus Bidding For Fifth Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Orval E. Faubus, the segregationist symbol of 1957 who has become the dean of the nation's governors, today bids for a fifth term — unprecedented in Arkansas history.

The major question in today's Democratic primary was not whether Faubus could be defeated, but whether he could be forced into a runoff primary Aug. 14.

None of his five opponents, including Faubus' political teacher and one of the governor's prize pupils, has predicted a victory today, but all have said they can push him into a runoff.

Voters also will decide whether Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., will receive a fourth term over Winston Chandler, Little Rock Conservative. It is Fulbright's first primary opposition since 1944.

Nomination in the Democratic primary is tantamount to election in Arkansas.

Faubus, 52, has been governor since 1954 and has been known internationally since the 1957 Little Rock High School integration crisis. His opposition to integration made him the first Arkansas governor to serve three straight terms and subsequently four.

Faubus' longevity in office, rather than integration, was the main issue of the campaign.

Major opposition came from former Gov. Sid McMath, who found Faubus a weekly newspaper publisher and left him an accomplished politician; and from Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., who rode in as a staunch segregationist on the shirrtaills of Faubus' third-term sweep in 1958.

Alford, first elected as a write-in against then Congressman Brooks Hays, was re-elected in 1960—again as a supporter of Faubus.

STUDY NEW SEAWAY LINK—The United States and Canada have agreed to study the possibility of improving inland water routes between New York City and Montreal to permit the passage of seagoing vessels. A link between the St. Lawrence and Hudson Rivers through Lake Champlain would reduce to about 450 miles the present 1,800-mile distance along the Atlantic coasts of both countries. The route is currently open to barge traffic.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

A side pastime of Western delegates attending the Geneva conference on Laos has been to watch closely the relationship between the Russians and Red Chinese.

They report no signs that the rift between the two has been patched up.

At Geneva each of the Communist partners is represented by a deputy foreign minister. Thus the conduct of the two is considered a fair barometer of the political atmosphere in Moscow and Peiping.

Two weeks ago Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev announced he would assist Peiping against an "imperialist" attack. It was felt he meant primarily to warn the United States against allowing any move by Chiang Kai-shek against the Chinese mainland.

Slow Reaction
At first the Soviet move brought no reaction from the Chinese at Geneva. Later, presumably on word from Peiping, they described it as "good."

They qualified even that mild response with the explanation that the Russians simply were living up to a long-standing agreement on mutual defense.

Peiping's Deputy Foreign Minister Chang Fan Fu met with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Pushkin when Chang arrived from Peiping last month. Ask the Chinese whether the two have met since then, and the reply is, "They may have."

In contrast, they publicize other Chang meetings, notably those with Laotian neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Chinese and Russian delegates and officials rarely, if ever, are seen in public together outside the conference room.

Even their newsmen keep apart, seeking contact with Western newsmen rather than with their Communist colleagues.

Chinese Tougher
At the conference table, the Communist Chinese have taken an unmistakably tougher line than their Russian allies.

The Russians have sought a settlement, while the Chinese have pushed an aggressive anti-Western line.

Khrushchev's warning that he would assist Peiping in case of attack was his first conciliatory gesture toward Red China in many months.

Both deny the existence of a split, and the Chinese especially resent any reference to it.

But the attitudes at Geneva illustrate that it is there, and that the Chinese more and more are pushing their own policies.

THE OLD DAYS [3]

In the old days, a "super" market was any store that stocked what you needed. Store at left stocked such staples as gingham, coal oil, and buggy whips. At one time, the grocer dipped preserves to order from crocks, shown being weighed, center, in packing plant by a beauty of the era. At right, bins in front of counter were for coffee, tea. Glass cover over cheese wheel lowered to keep flies and picky fingers away. Many still remember these stores. (Photos from Agriculture Department's centennial booklet, "Way Back When.")

Construction in Texas Zooms

AUSTIN (UPI) — Construction business in Texas has zoomed 18 per cent above last year for the first six months of 1962, the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas reports. The bureau said June volume reached an all-time single month high to spur the large gain. The June index was 32 per cent above the same month last year. For the six-month period, total dollar authorizations reached $803,603,000. Nonresidential construction permits in the six-month period tallied over $295 million, a gain of 12 per cent from the comparable 1961 period. Residential construction was up 26 per cent, slightly below the residential boom of 1959. A booming expansion in apartment residences combined with an improved new-home market pushed the June residential construction index to 123.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American people are losing their pride in themselves, in their country and in their way of life, or so say the prophets of doom. These prophets are fellow citizens, a dismal chorus. They view with alarm. They claim that in much that is good and useful and necessary the United States has fallen behind and continues to do so. They yap of gaps.

Most particularly these prophets are hard at it to convince the American people that the Soviet Union is running away from the United States in the contest for which Americans are best fitted—production. Production of almost anything. You name it; and the United States can make or grow it. More recently Germany, France and Japan have been added to the frontrunners who make the United States look bad. There was a pretty good test in World War II of what Germany, the Vichy regime in France and Japan could produce as against the basic production of the other side.

Doom Prophets

All of that is now forgotten by the doom prophets. Ours, the American, is the stumble-bum economy of the modern industrial world. This story has been told so much for so long by so many that the citizens are beginning to believe it. The American market for pride is strictly a bear market.

Colin Clark is a British subject, a specialist on the statistics of the Soviet Union. The Senate internal security subcommittee will vouch for him as an esteemed economist and an authority in his field. Clark has a piece in the current, July 31, issue of "National Review," a periodical. His piece reviews a book by G. Warren Nutter, "The Growth of Industrial Production in the Soviet Union," Princeton Press, $15. Clark and Nutter agree that the American prophets of doom talk nonsense, when they claim the Soviet Union is running away from the United States in rate of production. Reading Clark's review tends to restore in an American his pride in being an American.

Clark wrote that the mere flimsy evidence supports the view that the Soviet Union production rate is increasing much faster than that of the United States. He explains: Recovering from Invasion "Much of the evidence is based on the period 1948-53, when the Soviet Union was recovering from the effects of the German invasion. A seriously ill child will show a substantial weight loss. When the illness is over, weight increases at more than the usual rate until the child regains normal weight for age, whereafter the usual rate of weight gain continues.

"What would we think of a doctor who measured a child's weight, during such a recovery period, made a statistical diagram, and then predicted from this diagram that the child would go on growing at this rate, and that at the end of the year it would weigh more than its father?"

"Many economists do this sort of thing and get away with it." And so do many politicians. It is possible that the economists and politicians have been bamboozling the citizens. The citizens wouldn't like that if they caught on.

Mother In Seclusion On Abortion Case

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — A mother thwarted in her attempt to obtain legal sanction for an abortion because she fears her baby may be deformed, was in seclusion today trying to decide what her next step will be.

A judge Monday dismissed a suit intended to assure Mrs. Sherri Finkbine freedom from criminal prosecution under Arizona law.

Several alternatives faced the 30-year-old local television personality who took the drug thalidomide which has been blamed for thousands of malformed babies born in Europe and other countries.

And time was not on Mrs. Finkbine's side. Doctors who recommended the abortion say the operation must be performed within two weeks or they will have to resort to a caesarian section.

Must Make Decision
The mother of four other children and her husband, Robert, must decide whether to have the abortion here and face possible criminal charges, or file another suit that would mean more legal red tape—and more time.

Another alternative for the Finkbines would be to go to another state — or another country — to have the abortion performed. Mrs. Finkbine told her husband earlier she "couldn't go on living if she had to wake up every morning thinking of having a baby without arms and legs."

In dismissing the action, Judge Yale McFate said the court has no jurisdiction to give advice and interpret the law for the Finkbines and the Good Samaritan Hospital, co-plaintiffs in the suit. He said there are no true defendants and the court could not decide whether it is morally right or wrong for Mrs. Finkbine to terminate her pregnancy.

Finkbine, a high school teacher, said late Monday they would consult their lawyers and doctors and try to reevaluate the situation.

No Plans Yet
"But we have no plans yet," he said, adding that his wife was "just fine. She is disappointed, but has her chin up."

Walter Cheititz, attorney for the couple, moved immediately after the court decision to amend the action and was given 10 days to do so.

But Finkbine, who attended the session Monday without his wife, said that because of the time factor involved, they may not be able to wait for another decision from the court.

In Arizona, an abortion can be performed legally only if the mother's life is in danger. Finkbine said he understood laws in other states were more liberal and said there is also a possibility the operation could be performed in such countries as Japan or Sweden, where abortions are legal.

WASHINGTON—Rep. Katharine St. George, R-N.Y., arguing in favor of a bill which would require equal pay for comparable work regardless of the employee's sex.

"I do not see how anyone can dare be against it. It would be like being against motherhood."

Three Thefts Are Reported In Pampa

Police received reports of three thefts and a lost billfold during the past 24 hours.

Melvin Dennis, 1707 Aspen, reported that sometime between 9 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. Sunday, someone stole two hub caps from his car while it was parked in the driveway of his home.

The hub caps were valued at $16.90.

Officers received a report from Ellis Tribble, Pampa, who said sometime last week, someone stole a pair of sun glasses, valued at $32.50; tan sports shirt, $8.95; and some valuable personal papers from his car while it was parked on Foster Street.

Kermit Hartley, 317 Oake, reported to officers that sometime over the week end, someone stole four flipper hub caps from his car while it was parked in the driveway of his home. Hartley said the front window glass was also broken, but nothing was missing from inside the car. The hub caps were valued at $32.50.

Mrs. Roger Mabra, 1000 Varon Drive, reported to officers yesterday that while she was downtown shopping Saturday afternoon she lost her billfold containing $9.50 in cash and several credit cards.

Leaders indicated they were confident they could get the two-thirds vote to gag the talkathon. Several Southern senators normally opposed to cutting off debate were reported ready to support the move.

Searched For Compromise
Faced with a party-damaging situation in which normally loyal Kennedy supporters are battling the administration, Senate Democrats searched for a last-minute compromise.

One opponent of the bill said he was working to get an agreement under which the measure would go to the Foreign Relations Committee for two weeks' study, and then return for floor consideration.

But Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has served notice he would make no such agreement if it provided for bringing out the bill before the November elections.

8 Home Foreclosures Per Day In Texas

PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press International
LAS (UPI)— Every day, 8 homes are foreclosed by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration have to sell an average of 18 foreclosed mortgages on homes in Texas.

The trend has been upward for the past four months. And if it is true that the FHA and VA are to spoil every average American's dream of owning a free and clear, forget it.

The FHA and VA do not want the homes. They have to repair or redecorate most of them to make them marketable and the market for used homes is poor right now.

The two government agencies are victims of unemployment, military cutbacks, reductions in oil operations, divorces and people who have no more principle than to take advantage of easy credit.

Midland has one of the worst foreclosure situations — perhaps the worst — in the state. The FHA has had to pay off mortgages or foreclose on 451 homes in Midland and the VA on about as many.

The chief reason in Midland is reduction in the oil allowable. Foreclosures have depressed real estate so badly in Midland that a brick, air-conditioned, three bedroom home can be bought in a good neighborhood for about $10,000.

The FHA on Feb. 28 held 4,119 foreclosed properties in Texas. On June 30, it held 6,243. The Veterans Administration held 2,170 foreclosed properties on Feb. 28 and 2,282 June 30.

This meant that in the four months, the foreclosures held by the two agencies increased a total of 2,236 homes — 559 a month, or about 18 a day.

By FHA districts, the figures on foreclosure holdings for Feb. 28 and June 30, with the Feb. 28 figure first were: Dallas 550 and 681; Fort Worth, 1,356 and 1,267; Lubbock, 848 and 1,144 and San Antonio, 341 and 883.

VA districts are not exactly the same. But VA foreclosure holdings for the same dates, with the Feb. 28 figure first were: Dallas district (including Fort Worth), 317 and 387; Houston, 670 and 564;

Lubbock, 518 and 620, and San Antonio, 665 and 711.

Edward J. Dees, FHA director for the Dallas district, said an increasing lack of responsibility toward debts plays a big part in foreclosures.

Some persons are so calloused as to move out and let the FHA or VA repossess a home when it needs painting or repairing. James H. Fields, director of collectors and foreclosures for Southern Trust & Mortgage Co. of Dallas, calls such persons "tenants with title."

"Tenants with title" ruin their chances of getting another FHA guaranteed loan, of course, when they abandon a house. But it is comparatively easy to get a home in better condition than the one they left without a credit check.

All a tenant looking for a title needs to do is buy, for a few hundred dollars, an equity in another home with a government-guaranteed mortgage. Under Texas law, a credit check is not required.

The gimmick that allowed the tenant with itchy feet and a little moral responsibility to get a home in the first place was a 3 per cent down payment.

This allows him to live in a house until it is not fit to live in for less than rent. When the FHA buys the mortgages on a repossessed home, it pays for repairing the house and tries to sell it, the government cannot get a comparable deal.

The government has to pay a real estate agent 5 to 6 per cent of the selling price to peddle a house.

Dees said that, with the house market glutted, it becomes difficult for a transferred employee of a corporation to sell a house. Before World War II, people who worked for big corporations and who were frequently transferred, always rented.

After the war, they started buying because housing was short, inflation was increasing and it was possible easily to sell a house and frequently to make a profit. That is not the case.

FHA charges .5 per cent of the amount of a mortgage a year to insure the mortgage.

"It is a national problem," Dees said. "But FHA has built up reserves and its a long way from being in the hole. If we ever get where it looks like we're going and complete. VA now spots mortgages on new homes until we disposed of the ones we have."

Dees and other FHA district directors in Texas think the peak may have been hit in foreclosures. FHA national headquarters in Washington feels the worst has passed.

One reason FHA headquarters in Washington expects a decline in foreclosures is a recent tightening in advance FHA commitments for speculative building of houses.

VA reported new efforts to make sure credit checks are accurate to be stuck, we'd stop insuring checks some credit reports by having second, independent investigations of prospective home buyers made.

VA guarantees 60 per cent of a loan up to a guaranteed sum of Radio observations at several different wave lengths establish beyond all reasonable doubt that the temperature of the surface of Venus is near 620 degrees F. The planet appears to be rotating in the same direction as the earth. There seems little question that the planet's surface has always been an arid, wind-swept oven, completely uninhabited.

had and to hold, and to cherish forever.

The papers ordinarily consist of old letters, scrapbooks, clippings and other miscellany that the donor, who hated to throw anything away, had been accumulating for several generations.

They are placed on file in the library, thereby enriching that institution's storehouse of trivia while at the same time providing the donor with a certain sense of immortality.

I am not certain as to the procedure used in these acquisitions. In other words, I do not know whether the library calls up someone and says "May we have your papers?" or whether someone calls up the library and says "Would you like to have these papers?"

Suspects Drop And Run
My guess is that in some cases the procedure has been for the donor to side up to the library under cover of darkness, deposit his papers on the doorstep, and run.

However that may be, I think that presenting one's personal papers to the library is a splendid thing to do. I certainly intend to see that the library gets my papers, and I suggest that you do likewise.

By shutting my eyes real tight, and putting my hands over my ears, I can already visualize what my "acquisition note" will look like.

On the day that it appears in the information bulletin: "Don Vest, who represents himself as a newspaperman, has presented to the Library of Congress a substantial bundle of his personal papers, loosely bound between covers of genuine cardboard."

Papers Not Catalogued
"Although they have been neither catalogued nor indexed, the papers appear to consist of material that Mr. Vest regarded as educational and had put aside for future reference.

"Among the documents in the collection are a clipping about a Kansas City drycleaner who owns a 100-year-old 'goffering iron'; "A report by the National Geographic Society disclosing that woodchucks can eat a ton of hay each year;

"An announcement that the Smithsonian Institution has discovered a frog with membranes between its toes, enabling it to 'parachute' from treetops to the ground;

"An account of a duel, in which the antagonists missed each other but hit the referee in both legs. "Applications to examine the papers should be addressed to the chief of the manuscript division, who asked not to be identified."

Weekly Report To Texans

By SEN. JOHN TOWER

Senator John Tower (R-Texas), in his weekly report to constituents, called for a return to fiscal responsibility and frugality, in order to restore "flagging confidence" in the United States. The text of his report:

The other day, President Kennedy, in a speech at Yale University, quoted Thomas Jefferson as saying "new circumstances under which we are placed call for new words, new phrases, and for the transfer of old words to new objects." I'm a longtime adherent to the philosophy of Thomas Jefferson's writings. I am in complete agreement with a recent comment by Senator Harry Byrd, of Virginia that the President used the quotation for purposes "foreign to the fundamental principles" of Jefferson.

The President, after carefully explaining he was not concerned with "political debate", spoke in detail concerning what he called, the "myth" of big government, the federal budget, federal deficits, and public confidence. Such talk, to me, is pure nonsense. Certainly, big government is not a myth; just as certainly, federal deficits exist for 25 of the past 31 years, and our national debt will climb to $308 billion this year. The statutory limit on our national debt was raised three times, for a total of $15 billion, in the fiscal year ending last June 30. The purchasing power of the dollar is just 46 cents today, as measured on the 1939 index. The free spending of the Kennedy Administration has given us a $6.3 billion deficit for our fiscal year just ended, and another deficit of several billion dollars is in prospect for this year.

In my report to you last January 28, after the President submitted his budget of $92 billion plus, with 20 percent of the total for welfare spending and subsidies, I proposed a cut of $10 billion in wasteful, non-essential domestic spending. The need for such a budget reduction, to restore flagging confidence in the Administration, both at home and abroad, is more and more evident every day. Let me re-emphasize that confidence, not only a home, but confidence abroad, as well. It's very important that foreign investors, and foreign financiers and foreign interests who hold claims against the American dollar, who hold claims against the American gold reserve, have confidence in the value of the American dollar. If their confidence is lost, then they could precipitate a run on the American dollar that would deplete our gold reserves and weaken our currency, and that of other nations whose currencies are pegged to American dollars.

I would prefer to have our President use, and be guided by, another Jefferson quotation, "I am for government frugal and simple, applying all possible savings to the national debt. I am not for increasing — by every device — the public debt, on the principle of its being a public blessing."

Chuckles

By United Press International
DAVENPORT, Iowa (UPI) — Walter Feldrick, 47, president of the Iowa Blacksmiths and Welders Association, said Sunday that smiths would rather repair tractors than shoe horses.

Shoeing horses, he said, is too hard.

EXETER, England (UPI) — A passerby called the cops when he found three white rabbits tied to a "no waiting" sign in the center of town.

But the bunnies' owner arrived before police and explained he tied his pets there while he went shopping.

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (UPI) — "Look what the cat dragged in," squealed Mrs. Barbara Martin Sunday as she backed away cautiously.

When she convinced kitty to release the live baby alligator she returned it to the neighbors from whom it escaped Saturday.

HOLYOKE, Mass. (UPI) — Two icy-fingered University of Massachusetts students are the latest claimants to the ice cube tossing record.

Joseph Mayeski and Robert Foote said they tossed a regulation cube to an fro 5,228 times Sunday before it melted and said they had about 1,500 witnesses to a beach party to prove it.

Drug Industry Has Plan To Help Protect Public From Unsafe Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's prescription drug industry announced Saturday to safeguard the public from such unforeseen dangers exemplified by the malformation of infants caused by the German drug thalidomide.

He noted that although the federal Food & Drug Administration is responsible for determining a new product is safe for human use, U. S. manufacturers and the government cooperate "in efforts to keep unsafe drugs off the market."

Dr. Austin Smith, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, said that a new commission on drug safety has been authorized by his industry group. It will develop new, more intensive research projects to perfect test methods to prevent unanticipated toxic effects of drug products.

Retail Sales In Texas Increase

AUSTIN (UPI) — Retail sales in Texas for the first six months rose 10 per cent over the same period last year, the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas reports.

June sales were down 3 per cent from May but up 1 per cent after adjustment for seasonal variation.

Although economists believe business will remain "sluggish," it will rise throughout 1962 before a setback in 1963, the bureau said.

The stock market drop during the second quarter of 1962 affected sales of durable goods and luxury items.

Sales of durable goods, including automotive stores, furniture stores, lumber, building material and hardware stores, were estimated at $2,149.9 million in the first half of 1962, a 22 per cent rise over last year.

Automobile sales led the rise among durable goods with a 27 per cent increase over 1961. June sales were 1 per cent ahead of May.

Furniture sales fell 4 per cent in June from May, but the sales volume for the six-month period was up 10 per cent.

Building Items Gain
Lumber, building material and hardware sales were 14 per cent ahead of 1961 for the first three months and 10 per cent for the six months period.

Nondurable goods stores recorded sales gains of 3 per cent for the first three months of the year and 4 per cent for six months. Sales for the six-month period were estimated at $3,648 million. June sales were 4 per cent below May but up 2 per cent ahead of May after adjustment for seasonal variation.

June sales of apparel stores, seasonally expected to fall 18 per cent from May, fell only 13 per cent. Sales for the six-month period were 3 per cent above last year.

Food stores showed a 2 per cent gain for both three months and six-month periods. June sales were 3 per cent ahead of May.

Sales in drug stores fell 8 per cent in June from May, 3 per cent more than had been seasonally anticipated. However, drug stores sales for the six-month period were 2-per cent above 1961.

General Merchandise Down
General merchandise stores reported June sales down 14 per cent from May, the seasonally adjusted average. Volume for the first half of the year was 7 per cent above last year.

Eating and drinking places showed a 1 per cent increase from 1961 for the six month period. June volume was 3 per cent below May.

Gasoline and service stations recorded the expected 2 per cent rise in June from May. Volume for the six-month period was 5 per cent above last year.

Five per cent gains for the six-month period by other retail stores included florists, nurseries, jewelry, liquor, office and school supply.
