County 4-H clubs and FFA chapters divided honors during the steer and lamb judging Wednesday at the 17th Annual Howard County Fat Stock Show. Delbert Davidson, a 4-H clubber, is the proud feeder of the top steer, while Clarence Birkhead of the Coahoma FFA had the champ lamb. (Other pictures, Pg. 3).

Auction Sale To Conclude Stock Show Here Tonight

The auction at 7:30 p.m. today, with Col. Walter Britten of College Station calling for bids, will ring down the final curtain on the 17th annual Howard County FFA and 4-H Club Fat Stock Show, described as the biggest and best of them all.

To be sold are steers, lambs and capons, with the exhibitors restricted to the sale of one entry in each division.

All day the animals and poultry have been on exhibit at the Fair Association Barns in the southwest part of town, near the Rodeo Bowl, where they will remain until after tonight's sale.

The judging was concluded yesterday afternoon when Dub Day, county agent at Rankin, and Calvin Holcomb, county agent at Tullis, finally selected the grand and reserve champion lambs and steers.

Two heavyweight Hereford steers (only Herefords were shown) shown by Delbert Davidson and James Cauble, were named, in that order, as the grand and reserve champions.

The show's grand champion lamb was a Southdown entry of Tommy Birkhead, member of the Coahoma Chapter of the Future Farmers of America, while the second place Southdown, shown by Clarence Thompson, of the Big Spring FFA Chapter, was declared the show's reserve champion. There was but one class of Southdown lambs.

Winners in the steer classes were: Heavyweight: Delbert Davidson, 4-H 1st (grand champion); James Cauble, 4-H 2nd (reserve champion); Joyce Robinson, 4-H 3rd; James Suggs, Big Spring FFA, 4-H 4th; Loren McDowell, 4-H 5th; James Shortes, 4-H 6th; Sue White, 4-H 7th, and Freddie White, 4-H 8th.

Medium weight: Martha Robinson, 4-H 1st; Sonny Choate, 4-H 2nd; Delroy Buchanan, 4-H 3rd; Ronnie Davidson, 4-H 4th; Dickie Shortes, 4-H 5th, and John Damron, Big Spring FFA, 4-H 6th.

holder, Coahoma FFA, 5th; Arlton DeVaney, Coahoma FFA, 6th; Johnny Burns, Big Spring FFA, 7th; Bobby Suggs, Big Spring FFA, 8th; Kenneth Scott, Big Spring FFA, 9th; and Ben Faulkner, Big Spring FFA, 10th. There were 37 lambs in the class.

Southdown lambs: Tommy Birkhead, Coahoma FFA, 1st (grand champion lamb of the show); Clarence Thompson, Big Spring FFA, 2nd, (reserve champion lamb of the show); Beverly Ann Baker, 4-H, 3rd; Bill Tindall, Coahoma FFA, 4th; John Damron, Big Spring FFA, 5th; Tommy Birkhead, Coahoma FFA, 6th; Joe Spinks, Big Spring FFA, 7th; Edgar Phillips, Big Spring FFA, 8th; Johnny Burns, Big Spring FFA, 9th, and Melvin Daniels, Big Spring FFA, 10th.

Sheep showmanship awards: George Rackley, Big Spring FFA, 1st; Johnny Burns, Big Spring FFA, 2nd, and Sue Garrett, 4-H, 3rd.

Marvin Sewell of the Big Spring Wholesale Meat Company, has announced through the Chamber of Commerce, a resale price of 21 cents and up on the lambs and 24 cents and up on the steers passing through the auction ring tonight.

Two representatives of the firm said the issue would be handled at a cost of $3.30 per $1,000 bond issued.

Commissioners are considering an issue for the purpose of securing right-of-way for widening Highway 90 to freeway proportions across Howard County.

They said this morning an effort will be made to secure an accurate estimate of the cost of such a project before taking any action toward calling a bond election. Preliminary cost estimates have ranged from $300,000 to $350,000. C. M. Smith and James H. Kerley Jr. of First Southwest Company this morning showed commissioners estimates on the cost of financing the issue of bonds.

A $300,000 issue retired in 10 years would require $36,892.50 per year and would call for a tax of 10 cents per $100 property valuation on the present tax roll of $36,378,786. Redemption of the same amount in bonds over a 15-year period would require $28,349 per year, equalling a tax levy of eight cents, the bond company representatives said.

Sen. George (D-Ga.) senior Democrat on the tax-writing Finance Committee, said in an interview he expects the Senate to pass the House bill with little or no change.

Several Republicans on the committee said they would go along with the excise reductions.

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) of the Finance Committee declined to disclose his position. But he said he would call his group together promptly, perhaps tomorrow, to start work on the bill, against the approaching expiration date.

There were indications today that the administration, which had hoped to slash about 25 federal excise taxes by $12 million dollars has won overwhelming House passage and today appeared likely to get swift Senate approval too.

The House speeded the measure to the Senate yesterday by a 411-3 vote despite opposition from the Eisenhower administration.

The cuts, representing the first major downward revision of the excises or sales taxes in 20 years, would add almost a billion dollars to a deficit already forecast by the President at $2,900,000,000 for the year starting July 1.

The bill also includes something the administration wants and has figured into its budget for fiscal 1955—extension of some steeper excises voted after the Korean War began. The Treasury would lose another $1,070,000,000 in revenue if these were to expire April 1 as scheduled.

Sen. George (D-Ga.) senior Democrat on the tax-writing Finance Committee, said in an interview he expects the Senate to pass the House bill with little or no change.

Hendrix Given Five-Year Term On Guilty Plea

Randall Hendrix entered a plea of guilty at noon today to the offense of murder without malice after a jury failed to decide his fate at the conclusion of a trial.

District Judge Charlie Sullivan sentenced the defendant to five years in the penitentiary. This was the maximum sentence he could have received if the jury had found him guilty on the charge over which they were deadlocked—the same charge to which he pleaded guilty.

The jury deliberated nearly eight hours in the case Wednesday and this morning, finally reporting at 8:55 a.m. that it was "hopelessly deadlocked." The foreman, J. E. Underwood, said in a note to Judge Sullivan that the jurors were divided with 11 in favor of conviction of murder without malice and one holding out for a conviction of negligent homicide.

Following a conference between District Attorney Elton Gilliland and Hendrix' attorney, Charles Griggs of Sweetwater, it was announced that the defendant would plead guilty to the charge of murder without malice.

Hendrix had gone on trial under an indictment alleging murder with malice. Testimony was heard Tuesday and Wednesday morning, and the jury started debating the case at 11:18 a.m. Wednesday.

Hendrix was charged in connection with the death of his 14-year-old wife, Patricia Hendrix, who died of gunshot wounds last Oct. 2. The state contended that the shooting was malicious and the defendant maintained that the shot that killed the girl was accidental.

Hendrix already was under sentence of 12 years in the penitentiary on plea of guilty to burglary charges when he went on trial for murder. Coleman Awhon, who also pleaded guilty to various burglary charges, was brought from prison to testify in the trial.

Cool Front Is On Way

A late winter heat wave continued over most of Texas Thursday but a mild cool front entering the Panhandle was expected to moderate temperatures slightly.

The cool front, blowing off a Colorado snowfall, was also expected to bring showers to the drought-parched state. The State Water Board indicated Wednesday Texas could use any moisture available.

The board said drought conditions appeared more severe now than a year ago after February rainfall average less than one-fifth of normal.

The cooling front and its welcome showers were expected to enter Central Texas early Friday. No severe temperatures were foreseen and the Weather Bureau indicated the area's record-breaking heat would continue another 24 hours at least.

The Weather Bureau said blasts of hot, dry air off the Mexican desert caused the unseasonable warmth and kicked up local dust from Brownsville to El Paso and Abilene.

At least five heat records for the date fell before the summery winds Wednesday. They were at Laredo, 99 degrees; Del Rio 98, San Antonio 95, Dallas 93, and Wichita Falls 88. Other unusual, late winter readings for the day included Junction 95, Cotulla 96, Alice 95, Fort Worth 93, Waco 94, and Abilene 91.

KNOW WHERE WILD GESE GO

RAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Washington County residents reported today a flock of wild geese heading north into a snowstorm over central Maryland, turned around and headed back south again.

The unexpected storm dumped from 1 to 2 inches of snow over Maryland. It started early today.

Hooser To Leave Post With County

County Attorney Hartman Hooser resigned his post this morning, saying he will return to the private practice of law.

The County Commissioners Court accepted the resignation "with regret" and set next Monday for appointment of a successor. The court said it will receive applications for the position between now and Monday.

Hooser, in his letter to the commissioners, said he has an opportunity to improve his economic position in the private practice of law. He made no further announcement as to his plans for the future.

The county attorney said he also is withdrawing his candidacy for reelection, which he had announced a few weeks ago.

Commissioners said they regretted to receive Hooser's resignation, and added that "we wish you well in your new venture."

Brief announcement of the resignation was as follows: "Please accept my resignation as county attorney. An opportunity has presented itself for me to improve my economic position in the private practice of law. I feel that my first duty is to my family and I am resigning as county attorney."

Rep. Bentley Goes Under Knife Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich.), seriously wounded when Puerto Rican fanatics shot up the House March 1, underwent surgery again last night.

The emergency operation, performed about 10 p.m., was to close a wound in the abdominal wall that had come apart, the congressman's aide, Elwood Brake, said today.

Brake quoted Dr. Joseph Young, casualty hospital chief of staff, as saying that Bentley's condition suffered a "slight setback" as a result of the operation.

Four Brothers Die In Georgia Flames

BARNESVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Four brothers burned to death, three of them trying frantically to escape the flames that destroyed their home last night.

The youths, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Donovan Moore, were: Richard, 17, Julian, 16; Winston, 13; and Larry, 10.

Mrs. Moore was sitting up with an ill neighbor and the father was at work when the blaze broke out.

Rep. Bristow Leaves To See Sick Relative

Rep. J. Gordon (Obie) Bristow left Friday morning to be at the bedside of his seriously ill brother-in-law, W. E. N. Phillips, Fayetteville, Ark.

However, he said that he would be in Austin Monday noon when the governor will convene a special session of the legislature.

Rep. Bristow received his official notification of the special call by telegram from Howard Carnoy, secretary of state.

Navy Secretary Nominee Picked; He's Californian

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles Sparks Thomas of Los Angeles, now an assistant secretary of defense, was nominated by President Eisenhower today to be secretary of the Navy.

Thomas would succeed Robert B. Anderson of Texas, who has been nominated to be deputy secretary of defense in place of Roger Kyes who is leaving the Pentagon May 1 to return to private business.

No successor to Thomas in his present job has yet been chosen. He is the assistant secretary of defense for supply and logistics.

Thomas, 56, is a native of former President Truman's home town of Independence, Mo., but has been a resident of California since 1911. He served in naval aviation in the first World War, then went into an investment house in Los Angeles and later became president of a chain of west coast retail clothing stores.

In World War II he was a special assistant to Artemus Gates, then assistant secretary of the Navy for air, and later was special assistant to the late James Forrestal who was then secretary of the Navy.

During this period of his government service, Thomas set up a Navy inventory control program and the Navy's first contract negotiation section.

Panel Democrat To File Dissent

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican majority of a Senate investigating committee recommended today that the seat held by Sen. Chavez (D-NM) be declared vacant because of "irregularities" in the 1952 election.

The report said the election, in which Chavez was opposed by Republican candidate Patrick Hurley, should be voided.

Sens. Barrett (R-Wyo) and Potter (R-Mich) signed the report.

The third member of the committee, Sen. Hennings (D-Mo), was preparing a minority, dissenting report.

The Barrett-Potter recommendations culminate a one-year investigation of fraud charges made by Hurley.

The three-man group is a subcommittee of the Senate Rules and Administration Committee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.). Barrett and Potter gave their report to Jenner.

Jenner told reporters the rules committee plans to act on it Tuesday.

He said Sen. Hennings had advised he would oppose the recommendations of Republican members in a minority report.

Jenner and Barrett said a resolution declaring there was no legal senatorial election in New Mexico in 1952 will be offered to the Senate if the Rules and Administration Committee adopts the subcommittee report.

They said they believed Senate approval of such a resolution by a majority vote would have the immediate effect of unseating Chavez and the New Mexico governor would appoint a senator to serve until the next regular election.

Gov. Edwin L. Mechem of New Mexico is a Republican and presumably would appoint a Republican to the seat.

Such an event would make the Senate line-up 48 Republicans to 47 Democrats. Democrats now have a 48-47 edge. Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) is the 89th senator.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, told the reporters that if the rules committee does send the Chavez-Hurley contest to the Senate floor, he will call it up for debate next week "without delay."

Accidents Here Bring Injuries

Officers and passers-by beat the brush along both sides of Highway 80 east of Coahoma last night, attempting to find the wife of a man injured in an accident.

Mrs. Hubert Olin Williams, Colorado City, couldn't be found in the vicinity of the wreck and officers concluded that Williams was not conscious of what was saying as he kept asking about the condition of his wife.

Williams and Eddie Toler Jr., also of Colorado City, were injured when their car overturned on a curve 5.2 miles east of Coahoma, Highway Patrol officers said.

Toler, a passenger in the 1948 Chevrolet which was driven by Williams, suffered possibly serious chest injuries. Williams wasn't hurt as seriously, officers said.

The two men were brought to Big Spring Hospital in Nalley ambulances following the accident Wednesday. Doctors were engaged in surgery all morning and could not be contacted for a report on their condition or extent of injuries.

The car, traveling east on Highway 80, overturned on the curve approaching the railway overpass near the Mitchell-Howard line.

Following the wreck, Williams asked about his wife and said she had been a passenger in the car. Toler said Mrs. Williams hadn't been in the car, however, and officers were unable to locate the woman in the area.

A wreck in Big Spring also caused an injury Wednesday.

Mrs. Luther Baker, 1113 North Golladay, was hospitalized for treatment of a fractured arm following an automobile accident at NW 12th and Gregg about 2 p.m.

Mrs. Baker was a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. B. D. Day of Knott. The Day car was in collision with another vehicle operated by E. E. Ellis. Snyder. Both automobiles were taken to garages for repairs.

Mrs. Day was taken to Cooper Hospital with Mrs. Baker, but she was released after receiving first aid treatment.

An accident was reported in the 900 block of Northwest 4th Street about 9:15 p.m. Wednesday, but investigating officers said there apparently were no injuries. Drivers involved were Oscar Foster, 900 NW 4th, and Perfito Gomez Franco, 504 East 6th.

Teachers Due Here Tomorrow

More than 3,500 teachers in West Texas will have a look at 100 years of progress in Texas education here Friday.

This is the minimum number from classrooms and supervisory posts expected here for the 19th annual West Texas Teachers Association. Because this is the centennial of the Texas public school system, their programs will deal in a large measure with a progress of re-education.

Pre-registration Thursday morning was 3,158, said W. C. Blankenship, superintendent of Big Spring schools. More were expected in the mail during the day. Blankenship thought that a total attendance of 4,000 was possible for the one-day party.

House of delegates will convene at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Settles Ballroom, to attend to convention business. Around 200 are anticipated for this pre-session, Blankenship and Walker Bailey, county superintendent and immediate past president of the association, estimated.

In two general sessions Friday—one at 10 a.m. and the other at 7:30 p.m., convention delegates will hear two featured speakers, Bill Davis, Springfield, Mo., will tell how she was "a hobo kid" and how schools gave her new hope and new opportunity. Robert Ve-geler will describe "17 Months of Despair" as a Communist prisoner.

O. W. Marcom, Levelland, president of the association, is to preside at the house of delegates and at the general sessions.

In the morning program the Big Spring High School band is to begin a concert at 9:15 a.m. in the gymnasium with a series of marches and overtures. Dr. P. D.

PLANS TALK TONIGHT

McCarthy Steals Spotlight Again With Broadcast Plan

By JACK BELL. WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), nailing down the chance to make tonight the first broadcast reply to Adlai E. Stevenson, got the jump on an administration drive to lure the spotlight away from him.

The senator, still insisting he is entitled to free television and radio time over the networks which carried Stevenson's party speech last Saturday, announced he will make a "partial" reply tonight (7 p.m. EST) on the Mutual radio network.

That will be two days before the official GOP reply by Vice President Nixon.

McCarthy will appear on the 15-minute show of commentator Fulton Lewis Jr. McCarthy said it would be a "question and answer—mostly answer" affair. He said it would touch on criticism of him by both Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1952, and by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.).

NBC and CBS, which carried Stevenson's speech from Miami, Fla., have granted free time to the Republican National Committee for reply. The committee, which beat McCarthy to the draw in requesting it, chose Nixon as the GOP speaker.

President Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he regarded the networks' decision as a fair arrangement. He said he heartily concurred in selection of Nixon. High GOP sources earlier had said the President hand-picked Nixon.

Eisenhower also said, in commenting on Flanders' Senate criticism of McCarthy, that there is danger in "magnifying certain items of procedure and right and personal aggrandizement . . . to the point where we are endangering the program of action that all the leadership is agreed upon . . ."

The White House granted permission to quote the President directly. News conference remarks normally may not be so quoted.

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, said in an interview today he interpreted the President's words as indicating concern that his legislative program might be lost sight of in wrangling over McCarthy and his controversial investigations.

Ferguson said he regards the communism-in-government issue, which McCarthy has stressed, as "largely a problem of the past," and he added:

"Unlike the Democrats who had a vested interest in retaining suspected employees because it would be embarrassing to fire them after so long a time, the men in government now have no political reason not to clean them out and they are doing that."

McCarthy, perhaps taking the line he may employ in any reply he makes tonight to Flanders, told newsmen:

"There's a tremendous, concerted effort to cut down the investigation of Communists. A very few Republicans are joining in it. It's so easy for a Republican to be a hero in the eyes of the left wing press by interlining in the investigation of communists—I'm happy they are so few."

Asked to list the "few Republicans" he had in mind, McCarthy grinned and said "no comment."

He described Flanders as "one of the finest old gentlemen I know." McCarthy and Eisenhower met

Newswoman Who Lost Legs In Auto Crash Remains Cheerful

Editor's Note - This is a story of a woman's great courage. It is written by Betty Gilmore, who is known to the readers of the Herald as the author of the "Betty Gilmore" column. She is a newspaper editor, and she is a very interesting person. She is a very interesting person. She is a very interesting person.

By EDDY GILMORE
WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Rebecca Gross, the valiant lady editor who lost both legs in an automobile accident, said she's sending for her passport.
"But Becky," I gasped, "surely you can't be thinking of traveling yet."
"Oh, no," she laughed, "not quite yet. I just wanted to find out how tall I was. Your passport is about the only document I know of that shows it."
That remark, that attitude, is so characteristic of the Lock Haven, Pa., newspaperwoman, who simply refuses to be sorry for herself, or to treat herself any way but normally.
"You see," she explained in her bright, quick way, "I've got to begin thinking about how tall I want to be."
I still didn't quite understand. "I'm ordering my artificial legs soon," she said, "and I've simply got to decide how tall I want to be."
She laughed.
"At first," she said, "I thought I might like to up myself five inches so I could see over the heads of the crowds at parades. But then I decided that would offer a real problem. I'd have to get an entirely new wardrobe, one to fit a 5-foot-10 gal. I used to be about 5 feet 5 I suppose, but I'll have to read my passport to find out for sure."
What do you say to a person like that? If you don't have a hole in your head you don't say anything. You just listen in unashamed admiration to a very wonderful human being, making her way back to normalcy with dignity and a sense of humor.
Rebecca Gross lost her legs about 5 p.m. on New Year's Eve. She was driving her car through Williamsport, Pa., on the way to the airport to meet her sister, when, wham! There it was. Two cars collided at an intersection and pinned Becky against a telephone pole.
The left leg was amputated below the knee, the right leg just above the knee.
But save your sympathy for someone who needs it. Becky has no use for it.
She looked out of a huge window at some rolling meadows that showed a faint suggestion of spring. The last time I had sat and talked with her was when she had been in my apartment in Moscow. Not a day ago.
"You know," she said, "you must have had a real tough time over there. Over in Russia with your Russian wife and children when they couldn't get out. You really—"
"Stop it, Becky," I interrupted. "I'm damned if I've come over here to receive your sympathy and commiseration!"
She didn't say it but she gave me a look that said she hoped I hadn't come over there to give her my sympathy and commiseration. I hadn't.
People were all around us. People with one leg. People with no legs. People with one arm. And people with no arms. People who with the help of Dr. Henry Kessler, I looked at these people. A young girl. An elderly man. A man in the 40s. About 12 of them. No one appeared self-conscious.
"I imagine I know what you're thinking," said Becky. "No, none of us is self-conscious. That's part of the battle, you see."
We told a joke. Becky laughed again.
"What are you going to do when you get through here?"
"Go back home," she said, "and try to lead just as normal a life as possible."
"How long is it going to take?"
"I thought about three months, but I heard it'll probably take longer," she explained. "I'll learn to walk on one artificial leg first. With crutches. And then I'll learn to walk on both legs."
"Becky," I said, "you are splendid. People used to ask me at Moscow parties how I was able to smile and laugh all the time when it looked as if I was stuck there for life. I never told them, but I used to have my private hell about 6 o'clock in the morning when I couldn't sleep and all I could do was think."
"Mine comes at 3 a.m.," said Becky, very quietly and without a trace of emotion.
"Look," she said, changing the subject, "did you know people with no legs can have toe pains?" She explained. With a laugh. As usual.
"Eddy," she said, "I'm getting real strong. I did 10 pushups with my hands today. Why, before my accident, all I ever got up for was to go get a drink of water. And sometimes that was an effort. Now look at me. It's easy."
She was conducting a safety campaign for her paper when she had her accident. Commenting on it, she said:
"The place where your accident is going to happen looks like any other spot you have passed in safety a thousand times.

"I suppose I shall never drive up to an intersection again, or approach a sharp curve in the road, without thinking. This is the place where I may have an accident."
Despite her trouble, she doesn't preach. But she thinks that is something every American should remember—that the place where your accident is going to happen looks like any other spot you have passed in safety a thousand times.
I thought she had had enough bad breaks, but I discovered something else, something that perhaps isn't known at all, as we sat there talking, looking out over the hills and meadows.
"Your insurance, Becky," I said, "it must cover all of this."
She laughed.
"Do you know," she said, "I let my accident insurance run out. I said, oh, nothing of that sort is ever going to happen to me."
I rose to go.
"Come to see us in London."
"Yes, I will. And I'll climb your stairs too."
She will. I never felt surer of anything in life.

Crosby Says He Might Retire After Several More Pictures

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For many months, friends have been saying that Bing Crosby plans to ease into retirement. Today he gives some support to those statements.
"I have about five or six more pictures to make for Paramount," he says, adding with a laugh, "That should be about enough for me."
You can't always cite a trend by a Crosby remark. He tosses 'em off with the greatest of ease and declines to be pinned down on anything. But he left no doubt that he favors a slackening of pace.
"I've always said that my favorite kind of picture would be one that opened with a shot of me sitting in a rocking chair on a front porch," he chuckles. "The rest of the picture would be what I saw."
His current film is his biggest dramatic challenge to date, but he said it is also one of his easiest chores. He is acting in the film version of the Clifford Odets play "The Country Girl." Bing does the role created by Paul Kelly on Broadway and portrayed by Robert Young on the road. The part is that of a faded, alcoholic stage star who has a last chance to regain theatrical fame.
Grace Kelly plays his suffering wife, and William Holden is the stage director who tries to mold him back into shape.
"They have to do most of the work," Bing said. "I'm the one they're always talking about."
There had been reports of protests of the casting of Crosby as a drunk in the film. "There's just one scene in which I'm supposed to get a little tipsy," he assured. "The rest of the time it is merely inferred."
Perhaps it was the prospect of leading a slower life. At any rate, I found Bing more relaxed and happy than I have ever seen him. He went through a scene with Miss Kelly and a boy actor who was portraying his son. The boy gave out with a few extra lines and Bing convulsed the set by cracking: "This kid pads his part worse than Hope."
Afterwards, he sat on a stool and chatted volubly, gossiping about the Academy Awards and other matters. I asked him if there were any pictures he would like to do.
"Not right now," he replied. "Three years ago, I wanted the studio to get 'Guys and Dolls' for me and Hope. Paramount owned part of it, but sold out for $65,000. Now I read the asking price is up to $750,000! (Sam Goldwyn bought it for a million.) I wish we could have done it here."
"I don't know if Hope and I will do a 'Road to the Moon.' We should have done it a couple of years ago. Since then Abbott and Costello have done a space picture, and Martin and Lewis will probably get in the act too. Who knows?"
"I've always wanted to do a picture with Judy Garland. We've done a lot of radio programs and Army shows together, and I think she's the greatest female talent in town. As a matter of fact, I think she's the greatest talent, male or female."

Bing said he still keeps up his recording schedule. On his lunch hour, he slips over to Decca and knocks off a side or two. The disc company is only a half block from Paramount, and it's very likely that it was so situated for Bing's convenience.
His radio show is up in the air right now. "There doesn't seem to be much money left in radio," he says. He has finished his second TV film and he may do more. But, as with everything else these days, he's in no great rush. He will hit the half-century mark May 2. Part of his slowdown may be due to his physical shape. He admits he has a kidney condition, but he has no plans for an operation, as has been rumored.

ON RED CHARGES

Ousted Houston Teacher To Sue Administrators

HOUSTON (AP)—Atty. Bernard A. Golding says a suspended young school teacher will sue two schoolmen who called the teacher a Communist and "un-American."
Golding said last night that "anybody else who called him that" will be called for an accounting by his client, 30-year-old Peter Jaeger, former English instructor at John Reagan High School.
Said the attorney:
"My client told me Webb and Williams called him a Communist and also called him un-American and said he was a Communist because he read D. H. Lawrence's book to the students." He was referring to Asst. School Supt. J. O. Webb and Reagan principal R. H. Williams.
"The facts will be thoroughly canvassed," Golding said, "and appropriate action will be taken. This young teacher and all other teachers must be vindicated."
Jaeger was sent home from school Tuesday and later delivered a letter to Supt. W. E. Moreland in which he gave his side of the story.
The letter said that after a first interview Williams recalled him to his office within 15 minutes "to make it clear he was not accusing me of Communism."
"In front of his secretary, he made a statement to the effect he wanted to make it clear he was not accusing me of Communism—that I might be as loyal as he is for all he knew," the letter said.
Webb, however, told reporters that nothing was said about Communism during the interview in which Jaeger was fired.
Jaeger told newsmen he was fired because he read excerpts from works of Lawrence and Philip Wylie to his 10th grade English composition classes.
Jaeger said the complaints were lodged against him four months ago but no action was taken until he refused to sign a faculty petition opposing a recent NEA probe.
The special committee of the National Education Association has been investigating alleged unrest in the Houston public school system.
Williams said there were no trumped up charges as Jaeger claimed and that the teacher's dismissal had nothing to do with the NEA probe.
Webb said Jaeger was "reading the vilest kind of literature to his students."
"We don't think the average good home would have this kind of literature around, and we don't propose to let it be disseminated in the schools where we are dealing with other people's children."
Jaeger is a native of New Jersey and a graduate of Mexico City University and the University of Houston. He joined the high school faculty here last September.

County Schools To Elect 13 Trustees In 1954 Elections

Thirteen trustees will be chosen for the six common school districts and the Howard County School Board in elections April 3. County school board members will be selected in Precincts 3 and 4, and one at-large member will be elected.
Bob Asbury is the Precinct 3 trustee whose term is expiring this year, and L. L. Underwood's term as Precinct 4 trustee ends. H. T. Hale is the at-large board member whose place is to be filled.
The following are trustees of the various common school districts whose terms are completed this year:
Carl Lockhart and Virgil Little, Gay Hill; Ralph J. Neill, Center Point; Owen C. Johnston, Marion; A. Lilly and Theo. Earnest, Midway; E. B. Low and Ernest Box, Elbow; Cecil R. Long, Lomas; and Jasper Cline, Vealmoor.
Candidates for the school board seats must file with the county judge at least 10 days before the election, Walker Bailey, county superintendent, said.

Hunter Is Charged In Shooting Death

GILMER, Tex. (AP)—Leslie Webb, 29, was under a murder charge today in the shooting of a farmer whose body was found ablaze in a field where he had been burning brush.
The body of Jim Robinson, 72, Upshur County farmer, was found Feb. 26, a 22 bullet wound in his head. Webb was charged yesterday.
In a written statement to County Atty. F. L. Garrison, Webb said he was shooting doves in the area. He said he fired several times and heard a man scream. He said he ran to where the sound came from and saw Robinson's body on the ground.
"I was scared and I ran all the way home," Webb told a Gilmer Mirror reporter.

Pro American Group Asserts President Breaks His Pledges

FORT WORTH (AP)—National directors of Pro America have accused President Eisenhower of breaking campaign pledges.
In a resolution passed here yesterday the group said promises to "change the moral and political climate in government by replacing entrenched bureaucrats with persons of integrity have not been fulfilled."
The directors resolved further "that the National Association of Pro America urge that all policymaking personnel of the Truman administration be promptly replaced."
Last night the association brought the second day of its three-day meeting to a close with a speech by Frank E. Holman of Seattle. Holman, former president of the American Bar Association, said a new concept of international law is making a bid to destroy America's bill of rights.
This new concept, Holman said, would let international law and treaties govern domestic affairs.

Valley Told Falcon Dam Not Enough

HARLINGEN (AP)—The new Falcon Dam reservoir is an insufficient water supply for all Rio Grande Valley water diversions and will continue to be, the U.S. Reclamation Bureau commissioner says.
Commissioner Wilbur A. Dextelmeier said, "you may believe that Falcon reservoir insures a river of plenty ready for your diversion to your lands, at your will."
"I wish this was true," he added in an address last night. "If, in the performance of its functions, it could insure all needed diversions between the dam and the Gulf, we would indeed have Utopia in this lower Rio Grande Valley."
"But this is not the case. We know Falcon reservoir cannot supply even all present diversions," Dextelmeier said the valley should think seriously about importing water through canals from rivers flowing into the Gulf.
Dextelmeier came here to talk water problems just a day after officials of the State Board of Water Engineers and the International Boundary and Water Commission predicted a serious water shortage in the next 60 days.

Dallas And Houston Medical Societies Still Balk On Tests

By The Associated Press
Dallas and Harris County medical societies held off from approval of the Salk vaccine for polio treatment Thursday despite reassurances from the medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.
Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, the foundation's top physician, said the vaccine has been proved safe in tests and all information is in the hands of state health officers.
Dallas and Harris county medical societies said Wednesday they lacked enough scientific information to decide whether the vaccine, to be administered in many cities this year, is safe.
Dr. Van Riper said every state health officer has received information on "minimum specifications, plus all safety tests" and other scientific information necessary to judge whether the vaccine is safe.
In Austin, state health director George Cox said he believed the vaccine was safe and several other county medical societies pledged full cooperation in the tests scheduled this spring.

Gov. Shivers Makes Formal Session Call

AUSTIN (U)—Gov. Allan Shivers today issued his formal call convening the Legislature in special session Monday, listing four specific topics for it to consider.

- They were:
1. To finance and make such appropriations as the Legislature may deem necessary to provide a new minimum salary schedule for school teachers.
 2. To finance such appropriations as the Legislature may deem necessary to make to adjust state employees' salaries.
 3. To finance appropriations for a Southwestern Medical School at Dallas, the University of Texas Dental School at Houston, the school for the deaf at Austin, the Eastham prison farm unit.
 4. To outlaw the Communist party in Texas and make provisions for the enforcement of any such act.

Shivers then added: "To consider and act on subjects and questions as the governor may submit from time to time."

That left the door open for a wide variety of work, presumably after the basic demands have been disposed of.

The call did not go into specific details as to what the governor would recommend the Legislature do about raising money, or how severe it should make penalties under any tightened Communist control law it might pass.

The governor has promised to outline his fiscal recommendations at a news conference tomorrow afternoon. He has been holding a series of meetings with business men, teachers, and legislators this week.

The major task facing the lawmakers is finding sources of revenue for increased appropriations. Beer and natural gas taxes have already been proposed and several legislators are ready to introduce revenue measures early in the session.

Shivers' formal call was relayed by telegram from Secy. of State Howard Carney to each legislator this morning. Many of them were already in Austin.

With both the House and Senate already organized under the framework set up during the last regular session, a year ago, it was expected the lawmakers could get down to work very early in the extraordinary session, the second in recent years.

Daniels says he was injured when a heavy piece of material slipped and fell across his body.

The suit was filed against Texas Employers Insurance Association.

U. S. And Mexico Ink Pact On Recruiting Of Braceros

WASHINGTON (U)—The United States and Mexico now have a new agreement on recruitment of Mexican farm workers, designed to settle the differences that briefly threatened good neighborly relations.

The State Department said the diplomatic formalities were concluded last night in Mexico City and the new agreement will run up until Dec. 31, 1955.

For a time early this year Mexico officially closed its borders to its citizens who wanted to contract for jobs on U.S. farms. That was after the former labor agreement expired and negotiations to renew it broke down. The United States briefly conducted its own recruitment program at the border, but gave up that plan and returned to negotiations.

The State Department said the new agreement clears up what it termed an earlier misunderstanding on wages. The Mexican government had insisted the U.S. secretary of labor fix wages paid Mexican farm laborers, while the United States held out for payment at the prevailing rate for the given area. The new document specifies the wages will not be less than those paid domestic laborers "as determined by the United States secretary of labor."

Mexico also is guaranteed the right to make a case if it thinks and cost of diets approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for persons doing heavy work is insufficient.

Mexico obtained a provision for compulsory non-occupational, as well as the previously-agreed occupational insurance protection to be taken out by American employers for Mexican workers.

Blacklisting of areas for Mexican workers because of discrimination against the Mexicans is regulated under the agreement. Entire counties may not be blacklisted. Communities, specific areas and individual employers may be blacklisted where discrimination has been determined jointly by the two governments to exist.

Indicted Houston D.A. Posts Bond

HOUSTON (U)—Dist. Atty. William H. Scott, under indictment for operating a house of prostitution, held on to his job today.

Scott said the indictment returned yesterday by the Harris County grand jury was just politics. He posted $1,000 bond.

He was elected to office in 1952 on a crusade-against-crime platform. He had said last Feb. 12 that he was "seriously considering" resigning, but on Feb. 15 said he would not resign under fire.

Named in similar indictments yesterday were a former client of Scott, Lorraine Ayers, 28, and her brother, Curley Meyers, 25.

Scott was the Ayres woman's attorney in 1951 when she was sentenced to 20 days in jail and fined $200 after pleading guilty to a charge of operating a bawdy house.

Indiana Fire Kills Seven Of Family

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (U)—Fire roared through a two-story farm home at nearby Hibbard early today and killed seven of the 12 members of a South Bend factory worker's family.

Mrs. Bessie Carmen Kovacs, 48, who was sleeping on the first floor, ran outside when the flames awakened her and then ran back inside to help those trapped on the second floor. She died in the flames with them.

The others who were killed were her three sons, Donald, 23; Carl, 18; Frank, 18; Donald's wife, Elizabeth, 36, and her two children by a former marriage, Michael Quackenbush, 2, and Jeanette Quackenbush, 5.

Fire Chief Dave Burns said he was unable to determine the cause of the fire.

Hearing Today On Supplemental Paving Project

A public hearing on a 23 1/2-block supplemental paving program was to have started today at 2:30 p.m. in the city commission room at the city hall.

Purpose of the hearing is to determine if property adjacent to streets included in the proposed program will be benefited by paving. Property owners are given an opportunity in the hearing to voice any objections they might have to paving.

Approximate cost to the city, not including assessments against property owners, will be approximately $15,000. Money will be used out of the city's engineering refund and caliche royalties from the present paving program.

The supplemental program, along with that portion of the present 183 block program which can be signed, will constitute the extent of the current paving effort.

Streets included in the program for which the public hearing has been called include:

Defense To Ask Instructed Verdict On Bank Charges

HOUSTON (U)—Defense attorneys were expected to ask for an instructed verdict today in the trial of three men charged in a faked New Year's eve bank robbery here.

The lawyers for the trio, James D. Mitchell, Johnny G. Navarro, and Nick Mitchell, said they would base their instructed verdict plea on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Seven defense witnesses were expected to be called if Federal Judge T. M. Kennedy refuses the request.

James D. Mitchell and Navarro are charged with conspiracy and embezzlement in the disappearance of $37,721 from the Houston National Bank. Nick Mitchell is charged with conspiracy.

Donny W. Allen, an employee of the bank at the time of the heist, held up, pleaded guilty and is not on trial.

Allen said in a signed statement to the FBI that he turned the money over to James D. Mitchell in a rest room at the bank.

Now That The Gravity Has Passed, Solons Dust Off Sense Of Humor

Rep. Bentley (R-Mich.), most seriously injured of the five congressmen shot when Puerto Rican anarchists opened fire on the House, underwent a second operation this week to help him on the road to recovery. His chance for complete recovery was considered so good that members of the House for the first time, started openly to kid each other for their reactions at the moment of danger. They had refrained out of respect to Bentley's condition; it's pretty hard to joke when a victim of the joke might lose his life.

But House levity was not to be denied indefinitely. Sample: Rep. Vinson, senior Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee, who wasn't present during the shooting, suggested legislation to set up three types of pay for members who were present. 1. Combat pay — For those who stood up under fire; 2. Flight pay — For those who fled the chamber; 3. Submarine pay — For those who dived under their seats.

Squeaking Shoes Once Were The Marks Of Social Distinction

Changing Times, the Kiplinger magazine, recently advised a reader how to stop shoes from squeaking. The procedure advised by Kiplinger—unfortunately we missed it—did not satisfy a couple of other readers, who submitted suggestions of their own. A man in Virginia said the best way was to drill three or four small holes in the sole behind the ball. A reader in Memphis, Tenn., prefers to let squeaking shoes stand in a pan of water so deep overnight, whereupon "the squeaks are gone forever."

Squeaky shoes are not so familiar in this country as they were half a century ago. In those days certain elements of the population, including us, looked upon a squeaky pair of shoes as something to cultivate and cherish. The logic of this attitude was as follows: Squeaky shoes imply newness; new shoes imply a certain amount of wealth; wealth implies social distinction; so, why be ashamed of squeaky shoes?

Army Shouldn't Harass Schine For Helping McCarthy's Group

I was thumbing through an issue of "Life" magazine to look at the pictures and there big as a skyscraper was a picture of David Schine, riding most of the page, all stiff and stern like a Coldstream Guard on parade. Schine is a plain G. I. without frills, learning to be a military cop, doing a 16-week period of basic training, his nose rubbed in the mud just to show him that all men are equal in the Army, except those who are coddled, and he is not being coddled. At Fort Dix, he was made into a celebrity by the Army cooperating with left-wing journalists; at Camp Gordon, at any rate, he is in a proper military atmosphere.

modelling. There is a pointed harassment in all this that seems unfair. What does one have to do to be protected these days, join the Communist Party? Schine was yanked into the Army while he was actually engaged in an investigation of the Army. Schine was not given time to complete his work. An investigation might be made to find out how many young men at this particular time were given delays for one reason or another. The Senate Committee made arrangements with the Army for a member of its staff to visit Schine off hours to go over matters which Schine was handling and he was given some weekends to complete the job.

David Schine was conscripted into the Army at the age of 26. He is a Harvard graduate, an executive of a large hotel and movie house corporation. He had served a year overseas in the Army Transport Service. He has had a long experience as chief consultant for the McCarthy Committee without salary. He initiated and carried through the successful Voice of America investigation and he started the Fort Monmouth investigation. His career on the record makes him definite officer material.

Had Schine not worked on the McCarthy Committee, had he stayed quietly in the hotel business, the likelihood is that nobody would have yanked him into the Army at this time when there is no war and foot-soldiers are mostly an expense. Be that as it may, the reason that he has become a subject for notoriety is that the left-wing press reporters in Washington, devoting themselves to splitting the Republican party, scare the wit out of Army officials. The impression ever goes the rounds that Schine was a hostage to keep McCarthy in line.

McCarthy did not respond to that and Schine got a rough deal with no privileges, no exceptions, not even an acknowledgement of his education, experience and undoubted abilities. This is written to keep the record straight, although there is more to tell.

HERITAGE DAYS

By MILLARD COPE

The Republic of Texas provisional government began to function on March 11, 1836, as Sam Houston reached Gonzales to form the first regiment of the republic's army.

Harrisburg and Anahuac, with two from Matamoros. Both Houston and Santa Anna, therefore, began their San Jacinto campaign on the same day.

GONZALES was the point at which Sam Houston took command of the Texan army and organized its first unit 118 years ago today. Also, it was from here that he began the retreat that ended in victory at San Jacinto. Earlier, on Oct. 2, 1835, at Gonzales, the first shot was fired in the Texas revolution. Texans defied Mexican troops, a sign above a little cannon challenging "Come and Take It." The above monument to the town's historic part in the revolution is on the site where the cannon blasted out its defiance.

Initial enthusiasm that greeted Houston faded with arrival of Alselmo Borgarra and another Mexican with sad word of the Alamo's fate. Privately, confiding in truth of the message, Houston moved to avert panic by pretending to disbelieve that Texans in the Alamo had fallen to the last man. To support his bold front, Houston ordered the arrest of the two message bearers, on the pretense they were spies.

Quickly, the commander-in-chief formed regiment with Edward Burleson as colonel, Sidney Sherman as lieutenant colonel, and Alexander Somervell as major. With equal alertness, Houston dispatched an express to Col. Fannin, countermarching his previous order. He instructed Fannin "as soon as practicable," to fall back to Victoria, "with such artillery as can be brought with expedition. The remainder will be sunk in the river . . . Previous to abandoning Goliad, you will take the necessary measures to blow up that fortress."

At Washington - on the - Brazos, H. S. Kimble, secretary of the convention, appeared before the General Council to request archives by authority of the convention, the papers were delivered, and Texas government began its functions. In the Mexican camp, Santa Anna dispatched Gen. Ramirez y Sesma and Adrian Will, with 725 men, to San Felipe and thence to

'New Army' Can Handle Many Tough Situations

By RELMAN MORIN (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—We were having dinner in the general's mess in Korea the other night, and looking at the faces around the table, a thought suddenly struck me—"The people at home don't have to worry about America's interests out here. . . . They're in good hands."

The staff officers sitting there looked like the department heads of some hot-shot American corporation. They were all youngish, lean, incisive, alert. There wasn't an over-stuffed colonel in the lot. In the buzz of conversation, drifting through the room, there was some shop talk, naturally. But they also were talking politics, the Berlin conference, economic conditions at home, and a whole range of subjects outside the immediate purview of the 8th Army and its officers in Korea. This, of course, is the "New Army."

It is bringing along a group of sharp young officers with brains, background and the ability to handle problems the old Army never confronted. They are technicians and specialists in the various phases of warfare, to be sure. But they also have to be diplomats, administrators and executives in the plain business sense of the word. They may be occupied with a battalion front but they also are aware of military budgets, the relations between the Army and Congress, and the shifting strategies of the global war. Nobody typifies these men better than the commander of the 8th Army, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor. Taylor is 52. He is Ipan, sleeky and looks like a college athlete.

Spry West Virginia Woman Is 107 Today

CUMBERLAND W. Va. (AP)—A quiet birthday party—her 107th—will be held here today for spry Mrs. Susan May. She was born March 11, 1847, in Pendleton County, Va., which has since become part of West Virginia. Recalling her long life yesterday, she said two of her brothers fought on opposite sides in the Civil War. As for the more recent part, she remembered that she had an appendectomy two years ago when she was "only 105."

Sidelights Were Important On Wood-Gathering Expeditions

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

"Gas has got it" when it comes to cooking and heating, and I'd a darn sight rather turn a valve and strike a match than chop an armload of firewood. But I think I'd like to make another one of those trips to the woods for a load of fuel. Pop nearly always took me along when he went for a load of wood, and I looked forward to those days for more reasons than one. In the first place, it was fun to prowl around in the brush and post oak, while Dad looked for a likely tree to bust into firewood. Just any old tree wouldn't do. It had to be dead, but not rotten, because decayed wood wouldn't last until you got it home, much less into the stove. Some trees were rejected because they were too hard, also. A well-seasoned, twisted old liveoak, even if it was dead, would be more durable than iron, and tougher than axes and wedges. We used a sledge hammer and wedges to break the trunks into chunks small enough to haul, so pop always picked one with straight grain and a little softer than spring steel. Otherwise, it would take dynamite to split the thing up. Another reason I liked the wood-hauling jaunts was getting out of school. Wood getting was one of the few occasions I was permitted to skip classes, probably because Pop found it pretty lonesome in the woods all day by himself. I'm sure I wasn't much help otherwise. The woods we went to were three or four miles from home and the wagon and team was the only means of transportation we had in those days. So we got started early, in time to get there, find our load and get back home before dark. Daddy always taught "school" on the way to the woods, and on the return if he wasn't too tired. His "classes" didn't deal with arithmetic or English, but things he believed in—God, being neighborly, and clean politics. Probably what I'd like to return to for awhile is just those wagon rides, and the opportunity to get nearly lost in the woods again. I really never did like to bust logs or swing an axe. —WAYLAND YATES

Baltimore Book Dealer Fed Up With Indifference To Wares

Siegfried Weisberger's decision is final. In the course of the next few weeks, the books he handled with loving care at his famous Peabody Bookshop in Baltimore—beerstube in the rear—will be packed off to Gimbel's, New York, for a grand finale. And so will vanish one of Baltimore's great traditions—all because Weisberger considers this the "age of the boob, big business, technology, and the death of the humanities." His proof: For more than a year he tried to sell to a kindred bookish spirit. But nobody would buy.

would try to avoid. He is yielding to the "Prejudices" his friend Mencken wrote six volumes of. He's reflecting the ideas of Sinclair Lewis in Babbalanja. Several years ago, the late Paul K. Hatt, a professor of sociology at Northwestern University, made a survey to determine how Americans feel about other Americans. He gave the various professions and occupations prestige ratings. Had Hatt lived, he might have been able to say to Weisberger, "Don't give up the shop."

Business men who looked the place over liked the atmosphere, but were overwhelmed by the books—100,000 of them. "If they'd been all one title, I'd have sold," said Weisberger. "That's what modern Americans want—assembly-line sales. But 100,000 different titles. That was too much." So off the books, prints and etchings go to Gimbel's. Weisberger, who looks and talks like Groucho Marx and who is a long-time friend of H. L. Mencken, is disappointed in America. He came here in 1912 from Austria, bringing with him a love of art, civility, intellectual pleasure, and beer. He made a lucrative business of culture, but now he finds that Americans "no longer respect the doctor, the lawyer, the professor. Today they all idolize—look up to—the business man." For Weisberger, that's the end, the bitter end. Weisberger, it seems to me, has done what the business man he doesn't respect

Justices of the Supreme Court took first place with a score of 96. (The President wasn't rated.) Next came physicians with a score of 93. They ranked on a par with State Governors and a point above members of the President's Cabinet. Scientists, college professors and Congressmen scored 89. Now comes the first business man—a banker. He rates 88, a point higher than the minister. A member of a board of directors and a lawyer rate 85, and an artist 83, along with an airline pilot. Then come the factory owner—business proprietor. But the business man is rated above the author. Is that because Americans don't appreciate books or because they do? Weisberger is only 58. He's still young, virile, and talkative enough to carry on. But he refuses to continue to be a business man. Why? "I want to write books." He wants to do a book about Mencken, another about Baltimore, and yet one about the dead and gone humanities. That, in a world that won't buy books.

Indecision By Party Leaders Can Dim President's Prestige

WASHINGTON — For Democrats these days — the shoe is on the other foot. And it's a "hot foot."

scrap in that it takes no time on the floor—at least not so far—yet it can have an effect there later if, and when, important

They're sitting on the sidelines watching the Republican party "hot foot" itself, cut itself up. For that is what is going on, despite all the nice assurances from Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall that "we are not a divided party." Democrats can remember when they were in the middle of the ring and slugging at one another in a civil war of their own. South against North and everybody else, while Republicans relaxed and enjoyed it. As was remarked quaveringly by Senator Jackson (Wash.), a Democratic member of Senator McCarthy's investigating committee, the tiff between President Eisenhower and the Wisconsin Senator is "a Republican family quarrel" about which Democrats can do nothing. But shrewd, political-wise Democrats are coming to believe that they may get a great deal out of it by default—possibly an election victory this fall. That is, if it keeps up and frankly nobody around here, including Republicans, can see much chance of it slackening up.

measures of the Eisenhower program get there. That is, if Senator McCarthy decides to maneuver his block of extreme right wing votes against the Administration. His open defiance of the President indicates he may be working himself around to such a mood. Non of this contributes, of course, to advancement of the Eisenhower program—and the President thinks such may be needed in the election. Furthermore, if the feuding between Senator McCarthy and the White House, State Department, Army, et al, goes on, and there is every indication that it will, and Senate party leaders are unable to do anything about it, or unwilling to, the public is likely to get a picture of confusion here that will not inspire confidence. For the ultimate test of a political party is whether it can govern. Republicans in the Senate—and that includes the leaders—are reminiscent figuratively of spectators at a tennis match. They jerk their heads now toward Senator McCarthy, now toward the White House, trying to decide which is more important for the Congressional elections. The guess of an outsider is that the President would be. But if the indecision persists among the party leaders, and they keep kow-towing to Senator McCarthy and tolerating his attacks on the President and the Administration, they won't have to make a decision. For, by permitting the McCarthy assaults to continue against their own Administration, they will help to dim the President's prestige and thus diminish his usefulness as a campaign symbol, as well as tarnishing themselves. No strong leader has risen in the Senate to pull the party together. The supposed leaders are a confused jumble. Maybe Democratic optimism is well founded.

Democrats regard the open and widening schism in the Republican party as a potent issue in itself, perhaps more potent ultimately than any other that has developed so far, including farm discontent and unemployment. For the split cripples the party and weakens its ability to meet those problems and in otherwise making a record for itself. Take a look back and then around at where Congress is today. From the still powerful nationalist wing of the Republican party came the first big break in ranks and the first major assault early in the session. That was over the Bricker amendment to which President Eisenhower was so strongly opposed. The other end of that issue tied up the Senate for weeks so that it did not get to a lick of work on the President's legislative program about which he is concerned, even if no one else is bothering much about it. Senator John W. Bricker (R., O.) was the rebel leader, and he really did stir up a rebellion, in fact still is at his bushwhacking.

For, while Chairman Hall was doing out his soothing syrup in New York, down at the other end of the luncheon club circuit in Atlanta, Ga., Senator Bricker was charging defeat of his amendment to "furious lobbying" by White House and State Department aides, and booming that "the fight has only just begun." After the Bricker bout came the McCarthy bombardment of the Army and the White House. While this is an offside

Giant Apples Grown

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Ever seen an apple weighing two pounds? In a few years it may be a familiar sight in the Swedish fruitmarkets. After 17 years of experimenting, Swedish Scientist Emil Johansson has succeeded in doubling the chromosomes of diploid apples and produced a tetraploid one—a giant, high quality apple weighing nearly two pounds. He has been able for some time to grow big apples, but the quality was poor. Now he has solved the problem of combinatorial size and quality.

Chicago Jail Riot Comes To End Without Sheriff Making 'Deal'

CHICAGO (U)—Nineteen prisoners in Cook County's overcrowded jail rioted for more than seven hours yesterday before they surrendered after a barrage of tear gas shells and streams of water from high-pressure fire hoses.

The disheveled prisoners, soaking, shivering and gasping, stumbled out of a cell-block dayroom on the jail's third floor after a final hour of defiance late last night.

Three of the 19 suffered injuries in the stormy battle the inmates had waged with guards, police and firemen. Four guards also were injured, none seriously.

The thwarting of a jail break was blamed by Sheriff John E. Babb for touching off the siege by the prisoners. All were confined to the maximum security section of the jail and were considered dangerous. The ringleaders were described by officials as a condemned murderer and a bank robber.

Babb, who was overcome by tear gas fumes in leading the assault against the prisoners, had steadfastly refused to bargain with the rioters.

"They will get a diet of tear gas—no food," he said.

Another jail official said overcrowding of the jail, which houses nearly 2,000 inmates, contributed to the riot. The jail was built to accommodate 1,305 prisoners.

More than 52 tear gas shells were fired into the dayroom, which measures 30 by 100 feet. Firemen poured water in through broken windows and through ports inside the building.

Chief Patrick Tuohy of the sheriff's police finally yelled to the rioters: "All right, any of you that want to come out, walk out backward one at a time."

Tuohy said after a long pause one of the prisoners shouted: "All right, we give up. We're coming out."

Earlier the prisoners had cursed and shouted at guards and police who had attempted to persuade them to return to their cells.

And each time the officers attempted to storm the door of the dayroom they were met with a jagged piece of porcelain broken from toilet fixtures. When gas shells were fired the prisoners would cover themselves with wet blankets.

The prelude to the riot occurred when guards discovered a 2½ by 5-foot panel removed from the ceiling of one prisoner's cell. The 28 inmates in tier G3 were searched and ordered to their cells. Only seven complied. Two others, at their own request, were removed to other tiers.

The remaining 19 barricaded themselves in the dayroom and refused to come out unless they were guaranteed no punishment and would not be blamed for an attempted jail break.

Warden M. Philip Scanlan told the prisoners there would be "no deals."

There were none and it was more than seven hours later before the siege ended.

Benny Eats Cake At Wedding

Jack Benny, who spent an estimated $25,000 in giving his daughter one of the most fabulous weddings in Hollywood's history, gets the first bite of the 200-pound, 5-tiered wedding cake at the Beverly Hills reception. The bride, Joan, 19, and Seth Baker, 26, a New York stock broker, are at right. Two hundred celebrities attended the wedding ceremony, and an estimated six hundred drank champagne at the Beverly Hills Hotel reception. (AP Wirephoto).

Temperatures Too Hot For Handling

SEATTLE (U)—Fifteen students returning to a local grade school after short absences underwent a routine check of their temperatures. For all fifteen, the thermometer registered 102-3.4 degrees above normal.

They were sent back home.

Then one mother, who could find no fever in her youngster at home, decided to investigate. Inquiry disclosed that an inexperienced aide had not shaken the thermometer between each temperature check, believing that the cool antiseptic solution in which it was dipped was enough to send the mercury down.

Ohio Students Astir Over Fired Teachers

FRONTON, Ohio (U)—Students at South Point High School didn't take kindly to the dropping of football coach Jack Dick and English instructor John Ayers after their contracts expired last Friday.

Yesterday nearly half of the school's 405 students staged a walk-out, parading in the school yard, chanting and carrying banners reading "We want 'em back."

The school board did not say why Dick and Ayers were not rehired.

Youth Draws Life In Killing Of His Aunt

LOUISA, Ky. (U)—Fifteen-year-old Walter Lowe must pay with a life prison sentence for killing his 14-year-old aunt, Susie Mae Edwards, on a dare last Dec. 10.

The youth, who was 14 at the time of the slaying, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court yesterday.

Coroner L. Byron Young said witnesses told him Lowe was holding a loaded shotgun and the girl told him he was "afraid" to fire the weapon at her. He pulled the trigger, then ran.

Men Never Learn

DALLAS (U)—District Clerk Bill Shaw yesterday received this letter from a Sherman resident:

"About 10 or 12 years ago, while in a weak frame of mind, I met a woman named — — — and she left me a few days thereafter and went to Dallas and advised me she secured a divorce and remarried her former husband.

"Would you kindly advise me if she secured a divorce in Dallas County and what would you charge me for a letter certifying the divorce was granted, in order that I may be in a position to commit the same mistake again if ever I am caught napping."

The reply:

"She did. Please remit $1.50."

The board's letter reminded him that the law requires a discharged serviceman to register with the draft board within 30 days of his discharge.

Jimmy is a little confused about the whole thing. He's only 8.

His father, a postman, had a little advice. "Ask about your state bonus check," he suggested. "After all, you're a veteran now."

AUSTIN, Tex. (U)—Bill Harding, Sunday School teacher here at the University Presbyterian Church, was stumped when a high schooler asked about the Bible phrase, "the quick and the dead."

But the pastor, the Rev. William M. Logan, came to Harding's aid quickly.

"There are just two classes of pedestrians," Logan said, "the quick and the dead."

Schoolboys' 'Gag' Not Taken As Joke

BOSTON (U)—Two youths sitting on the roof's edge of an 11-story office building on busy Park Square brought rush-hour traffic to a standstill and attracted hundreds of terrified onlookers last night.

Police cleared the area beneath the youths and firefighters worked frantically to set up life nets.

Meanwhile, two policemen ascended to the roof and pulled the boys back to safety.

The youths were identified as Michael A. Sabla of Winthrop and Walter T. Rich of Wellesley, both 16 and both students at exclusive St. Sebastian's Country Day School Newton.

"There was nothing to get excited about," they said later. "We did it just as a gag. The boys at the school dared us."

Ancient Oklahoma Bootleg Is Found

OKLAHOMA CITY (U)—A long-forgotten cache of bootleg whisky was uncovered yesterday under the floor of a downtown landmark being razed for a parking lot.

Some of the whisky carried labels bearing a 1918 date. A stack of money also was found but most of it was shredded badly, apparently by rats. Several $5 and $10 bills were still intact, however.

Bar Given Bounce

DETROIT (U)—Sam's Bar got the old heave-ho as quickly as a noisy drunk Tuesday. A Detroit constable's crew was the bouncer.

Within three hours, the whole shebang was out in the streets—chairs, tables, coolers, beverages and all. The building had been condemned to make way for a civic center.

"Thrown out like a dog," owner Sam Schwartz muttered as the potato chip rack was carted out.

Schwartz said he thought the city had given him another two weeks in which to move. But the city said that he had made a mistake.

He was ordered to vacate. And when he didn't, the bar got the bounce.

Bird Has Its Number

LONDON (U)—One week ago a parakeet landed on the shoulders of bricklayer Frank Whittingham as he was walking to his home in suburban Southfields.

Yesterday the bird, breaking a seven-day silence, uttered the words "Renown 2961."

That's a telephone number. Whittingham dialed it and got Mrs. Kathleen Meyers.

"That's my Joey," said she. "Smart, isn't he? He knows lots of other words."

The Look of Tomorrow is in every '54 BUICK Today
With completely new "years-ony" styling—inspired by the dream-car design of the postwar sweep-back windshield.

Take it Easy
you don't have to prove a thing!

LET's be sensible about this subject of horsepower.

An all-American tackle doesn't go around tackling people in everyday life.

A world-record sprinter doesn't have to demonstrate his prowess on city sidewalks.

The better you are, the less you have to prove it.

And that's how it is with a Buick CENTURY.

Of course it's a spectacular performer—a car with instantly responsive action. It has to be, for it combines a high-compression 200-horsepower V8 engine with a nimble weight of only 3866 pounds as it comes off the assembly line.

That's a power-to-weight ratio that chalks up a new record—a ratio that no other Buick has ever reached before.

It can spin your wheels on a dry pavement if you give it the gun, but why waste rubber? If some show-off wants to get the jump on you at a traffic light, why not let him have fun? He isn't kidding anyone but himself, when the name on your car is CENTURY.

The real pride of owning such a car is simply this: You know so well what it can do that you never have to prove it.

That lets you enjoy the tireless ease of its gait in ordinary driving, when only a fraction of its eager power is working. It gives you a quick reserve for breasting a hill—and the happy knowledge that there's still more to come in a sudden emergency.

Sure, this is more power than most people really have to have. But you can hardly call it extravagant, when you are buying more horsepower per dollar in a CENTURY than you get in any other car in America.

No other car gives you all this

Carpets Cut To Rugs Show Off Your Floors

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP-News Service Writer

People are showing off their floors these days. So if your wall-to-wall carpeting is worn or moth-damaged, why not cut it down to rug size or make a series of scatter rugs? Frame them against highly polished floors and you'll be delighted with the results.

It's easy to cut the carpet, say the experts. Just equip yourself with strong, sharp shears, a sharp knife or single-edged razor blade, and light weight scissors for snipping yarns or thread.

Cut the carpet with the pile face down. Use the razor blade if you don't have a regular carpet-cutting tool. A yardstick should be used to measure a straight line.

Cut edges must be bound. Equip yourself with strong darning needles (2 1/4 to 3 inches long), coarse embroidery needles (sizes 3-5) or large-eyed sewing needles and a thimble.

Linon carpet thread available by spool or skein, at rug or upholstery shops or in art and notion departments is the strong thread needed for the job. You will also need trilled carpet binding (not ordinary twilled tape) about 1 1/4 inches wide for binding rug edges.

To bind the carpet lay the right side of the binding on the right side of the carpet, the edge of the binding even with the trimmed edge of the carpet. Allow 1 1/2 inches of binding to turn under at each end. Sew the binding with the heavy darning needle and carpet thread, using a thimble to push the needle through. Fasten the thread at the rug selvage (edge) with a few short stitches, one on top of the other. From the wrong side of the carpet, stick the needle through to the right side on a slant so that it goes in about 1/4 to 1/2 inch from the raw edge—and comes out through carpet and binding about 1/4 inch from the edge.

Guide the binding along the edge of the carpet by holding it between thumb and forefinger. Make the stitches about 1/2 inch apart.

When the binding is sewed on, fasten the thread by making two or three stitches backward to form an "X" over the edge. On the last stitch throw the thread around the needle and draw it up tight to secure the binding so that it won't rip. Fold the 1 1/4 inches of binding left at the end to the wrong side, on a diagonal, so the corner won't show when the binding is turned over the raw edge of the carpet to the under side.

Draw your binding down smoothly, but be careful not to draw it so tightly that it slips up over the raw edge of the carpet. Fasten the end of the binding securely with small stitches through the selvage of the carpet and fold of the binding. Sew the loose edge of the binding to the carpet back, catching only a few yarns of the carpet and about 1/4 inch of the binding. Make these stitches about one inch apart.

If this is done properly only a narrow edge of binding will show and on the wrong side there will be an inch or more to protect the edge of the carpet, say the experts.

Keep your floors waxed if you'd show them off to their best advantage with your new scatter rugs.

"Be Yourself," She Says

Nina Foch, popular motion picture, stage and television actress soon to be seen in MGM's "Executive Suite," stresses the importance of playing up your individuality and cautions against trying to copy someone else. She also talks about the importance of perfume.

Take A Trial, Says Nina On What's Best Perfume

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Nina Foch is an individualist of the first rank. She traveled extensively in Europe and studied with a tutor while most Americans her age were settled in a routine of living in one house and having the same friends.

"This kind of life," Nina told me on a recent visit to Hollywood, "has its advantages and disadvantages. You never have time to take root anywhere so you don't run a risk of being dull. But because of constant change you lack an emotional security and because of this I was very unsure of myself when I first came to Hollywood."

"Instead of developing my own type I tried to pattern myself after Lana Turner, who was the reigning queen at that time. No girl can of the helpless variety. You know the type of girl who would never dream of lighting her own cigarette, or no matter how exhausted her date may be after a hard day's work, there she sits in the car waiting for him to walk around and open the door."

I told Nina that she was beautifully perfumed—not too much but enough to be as pleasant as a fragrant bouquet.

"European women are much more aware of perfume than we are here," she confided. "Even when they have to budget their clothes they include perfume as a necessity. I remember one model who went without lunch in order to save to buy her favorite scent."

"But you have to learn about perfume, discover which ones will last on you, and how much you can put on so that your fragrance will linger and you still won't be offensive when you first start out," Nina added.

"How would you suggest learning?" I asked.

"There is only one way," Nina concluded, "and that is by trial and error."

be really impressive if she is copying someone else," Nina explained. "I didn't get ahead until I gave up all those foolish ideas and expressed myself. You have no idea what a sense of achievement I had when I read a radio script recently which said, 'the girl is a Nina Foch type.'"

Nina is outspoken, a person of marked likes and dislikes, so I was prepared for anything when I asked: "What type are you?"

"It would be silly for me to try to tell you," she replied, "but one thing for sure, I'll never be the type which over accents femininity

Mary Margaret McBRIDE SAYS

We were talking about humans and their relationship to animals. "One day I just walked into a cage with seven lions," casually remarked small blonde Julie Field (her husband is Henry Field, architect, and of that fabulous Field merchant dynasty.)

Since she lived to tell the tale and face many lions later, it is obvious that the beasts must return at least in part the curious emotion that Julie tells me she has always felt for cat animals.

"Though I'd never really been face to face with a lion before, I wasn't afraid then and I'm not afraid now of being hurt," she insists. "My animals know I have a special feeling for them and they don't want to harm me."

Just to be near her lions—and tigers and panthers—Julie Field has a job as curator of a zoo down in Florida. Such people as Mrs. Field and Len Howard, a remarkable Englishwoman whose home is strictly for the birds, possess, I am convinced, a mysterious knowledge and understanding of animals that I and many like me completely lack.

The cottage in a Sussex village which houses Len Howard and her timble is arranged with far more thought for the comfort of the bird occupants than the human one. In her parlor, instead of pictures, she hangs cereal and shoe boxes in which her feathered friends may roost comfortably. As many as 17 of them at a time take advantage of this hospitality.

Len is never surprised if at five in the morning a male timblee making small cries of distress sails in through the never-closed bedroom window and tugs at her blanket or pecks gently at her face.

Hubbing her eyes, she follows the suppliant outside to find a magpie heckling the timblee young of a cat lurking too close.

In her book, "Birds as Individuals," Mrs. Howard maintains that birds are as individualistic as human beings, sad and gay by turns, players of jokes and possessors of a fine sense of humor. She tells about a mischievous timblee that diverted her attention at table one evening by imitating another species and while she was trying to locate the sound, made off with a quarter of her weekly meat ration.

The birds unravel bits from her rug and sweaters, even rob her work basket, to get nest-building material. She doesn't mind a bit. Curley, a spoiled darling, on occasion deliberately tears up the window curtains when he is hungry and feels he isn't being served quickly enough.

The friend of the timblee has observed at least one female that died of thwarted love and several that succored young orphans. She says birds sing differently in sunlight than in storm and has a theory that some of them are affected sensibly by being near their favorite flowers.

An electrician who called at the Howard cottage on business stopped in amazement before the doorway, watching countless birds fly down from the trees to perch on Mrs. Howard. "How wonderful!" he murmured. Then: "But why shouldn't it be like that? It OUGHT to be like that."

And so it ought, I echo, humbly awe-struck at a wisdom I cannot explain.

A POUND OF LIVER! WHO'S GONNA EAT THAT STUFF?

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Often we read that the spice trade had a great deal to do with the first voyage of Columbus. That statement is true as far as it goes, but we must remember also the silk cloth and jewels which India and other parts of the Orient offered Europe.

A trade with southern Asia was carried on long before the time of Columbus, but part of the journey was made by land. There was danger from robbers (especially from bands of Seljuk Turks) during the overland journey. For this reason, Columbus wanted to find an all-water route to India by sailing westward around the globe.

In a small way, the spice known as cinnamon played a part in bringing about the first voyage of Columbus. Then, as now the best cinnamon came from Ceylon, an island near India.

Cinnamon is a product of evergreen trees and shrubs. The central part of the bark is taken out in layers and dried. From this comes stick cinnamon. In addition, the cinnamon bark is pounded and otherwise treated to obtain a valuable oil. Of yellow color, the oil is sharp to the taste.

Oil of cinnamon is important as a flavoring. In addition, it is used in making several kinds of medicine.

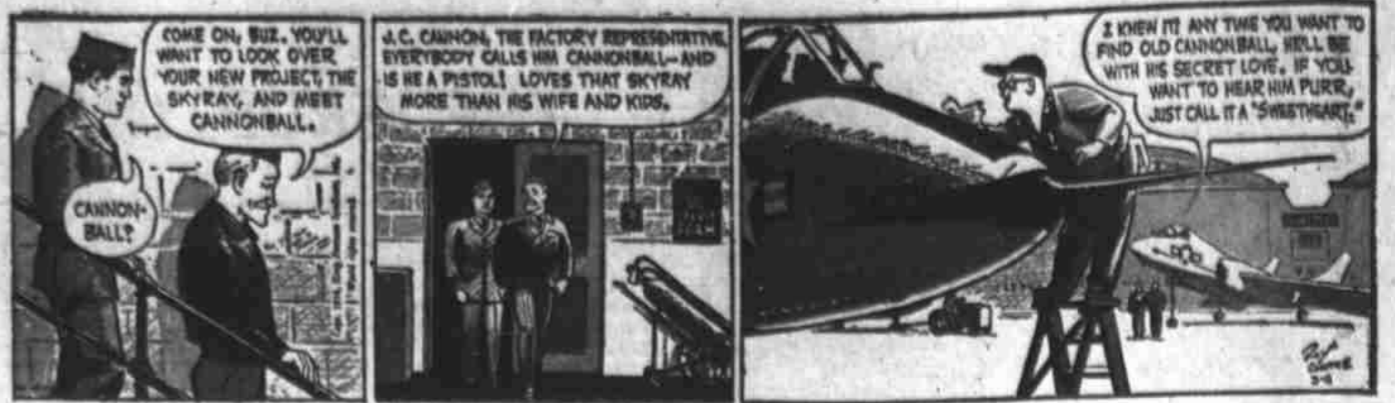

Columbus failed to find any cinnamon in the West Indies, but he would have better fortune if he could go there today. Cinnamon trees and shrubs of the same general type as those of Ceylon are grown on some of the islands of the West Indies. In addition they have been planted in Brazil—also in Egypt and on the thickly-settled island of Java.

China seems to have had a kind of cinnamon as long as Ceylon, perhaps longer. Chinese cinnamon, however, comes from a somewhat different kind of plant, the cassia. It is cheaper than Ceylon cinnamon, and is less in favor with chefs who know the difference.

Cinnamon was used by white persons, including the Jews of Palestine, during ancient times. Besides being employed as a spice, it was placed in some perfumes by people of long ago.

Consumer Boss, Commerce Department Tells Business

By BRUCE HENDERSON

Thinking of starting your own small business—flower shop, shoe store, diaper service?

Fine, says the U.S. Department of Commerce—but if you think you will be entirely your own boss, you're wrong.

"You must satisfy your customers. Your creditors and your competitors will dictate to you. Health authorities and insurance people will see that you follow certain rules and regulations. You will have to abide by wage and hour laws and keep records. . . . This advice is in 'Establishing and Operating Your Own Business,' one of many booklets put out by the USDC giving pointers on how to plan and run just about every type of small enterprise. The booklets are available at USDC field offices. In Texas, these are at Dallas, Houston and El Paso.

George Malherbe, business specialist in the Dallas office, thinks people too often fail to do enough planning before opening their own business. He says the booklets give valuable advice.

They are designed to help you think through such problems as: Do I have what it takes to be a successful businessman? What business should I choose? How much capital will I need and how do I get it? What would be an ideal site?

You can get at nominal cost: "Some Observations on Establishing an Antique Shop," "Selecting a Men's Apparel Store Location," "Remodeling Reminders," "Operating a Drug Store," "Some Ways of Reducing Lumber Yard Expenses" and a host of others, including "A Survey of Diaper Service Practices."

Malherbe says Texas is a good place to go into business. He points out that its population is growing and industry expanding.

What are your chances of success?

According to the USDC, there are many factors—the nation's economy, relocations of highways, sudden changes in style, the replacement of existing products by new ones, labor situations.

But the most important is you. "Will your management be competent?" asks "Establishing and Operating."

"Will you be able to judge, and then satisfy, your customers' wants? Can you do this so accurately, and quickly, that risks due to factors beyond your control will be more than compensated for?"

It advises thinking twice before you make the plunge.

Aussie Tot Grets Queen With Kiss Not On Schedule

BRISBANE, Australia (P)—Queen Elizabeth II has shared the platform with a raft of kiddies in her world travels, but 4-year-old Narelle Dick is way ahead of the rest.

And Narelle's co-starring was strictly unscheduled.

During the Queen's visit to the Brisbane exhibition ground yesterday, the little girl left her mother in the grandstand sidled slowly down to the dais where the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh sat.

Smiling serenely and ignoring officials' clutching hands, she crossed the red carpet, climbed into Elizabeth's lap threw her arms around the royal neck and tried to kiss her.

The startled monarch held the tot for an instant, then gently pushed her away and kept smiling as the crowd of thousands gasped.

Narelle struggled and kicked as Police Inspector T. J. Clark carried her back to her mother.

C-City Citizens Study UF Here

Colorado City citizens are exploring the feasibility of the establishment of an organization to coordinate the community's welfare fund drives.

They are looking at, among other organizations in the area, Big Spring's United Fund, which last year was highly successful in its first campaign to handle financing for nine local welfare and service agencies.

A Colorado City committee interested in this work is in Big Spring this week for an extensive conference with Jimmy Beale, who headed the United Fund campaign here in 1953. Those here were Kenn E. Eastin, cashier of the City National Bank; John D. Harvey, automobile dealer; and Gale G. Billings, division manager at Colorado City for Shell Pipeline Company.

Bonds Are Set For Suspects In Theft

Bail of $2,000 each was set for William McNew and Wayne Myrick who with James William Wren are charged in Justice Court with theft.

A Colorado City committee interested in this work is in Big Spring this week for an extensive conference with Jimmy Beale, who headed the United Fund campaign here in 1953. Those here were Kenn E. The three men charged with theft were arrested by city police at noon Monday. Charges were filed and the bonds set Wednesday.

Comic Books Get Blame For Death

WESTVILLE, N. S. (P)—Stewart Wright, 13, told a coroner's jury yesterday how he shot his 14-year-old pal to death March 2 while they listened to a "shooting" radio program and read comic books about the Two-Gun Kid.

Stewart said his chum, Roland Muir, suggested they play with two rifles kept behind the kitchen door. Roland put six shells in one rifle. Stewart said he thought Roland ejected all of them from the magazine.

"Just in fun I said to Roland 'Hands up,'" Stewart went on. Stewart pointed the rifle at Roland and squeezed the trigger. The gun fired, sending a bullet through Roland's forehead.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death and recommended that comic books "of the type found at the scene" be banned.

Mack Sennett, Once Hollywood Comedy King, Honored By TV

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (U.S.) — Mack Sennett, once Hollywood's king of comedy, took a sentimental journey into the past last night as his stars of yesterday gathered for a reunion at his old studio.
The creator of the Keystone Kops and the Mack Sennett bathing beauties was the subject of the TV show "This Is Your Life." Emcee Ralph Edwards assembled many of the old Sennett troupes for dinner and drinks at the site of the old Keystone studio in the Edendale district of Los Angeles. The place is now used by a trucking firm, and the company erected an obelisk in honor of the studio for the occasion.
The 68-year-old Canadian-born producer was taken completely by surprise. He was induced to attend the program by Cameron Shipp, with whom he is writing his memoirs. He was supposed to be appearing on a show called "So You Want to Write a Book," and a phony script was even concocted.
"How am I going to live up to 'the King of Comedy,'" Sennett remarked afterward, referring to his billing on the show. "I wish I had gotten more laughs."
There were many laughs and much sentiment at the after-show party. Edwards had assembled many figures from Sennett's past, among them his boyhood sweetheart from Northampton, Mass., Mrs. Rose Clark, whom he hadn't seen in many decades. Also, Fritzi Scheff, star of "Mademoiselle Modiste," in which Sennett played a chorus boy 59 years ago.
The dwindling ranks of the Keystone Kops included Hank Mann, Chester and Helen Conklin and Andy Clyde.
Other Sennett stars present included Sally Eilers, Phyllis Haver, Louise Fazenda, Jack Mulhall, Franklin Pangborn, Minta Durfee Arbuckle and Alberta Vaughn.
Harold Lloyd was there and recalled working three or four months as a juvenile for Sennett at $50 a week before moving on to greater fame. Sennett, who also started such stars as Charlie Chaplin, Bing Crosby, W. C. Fields, Carole Lombard and Gloria Swanson, has been in semi-retirement since 1935. He leads an active life, remaining in touch with the show world and playing golf daily.

The only disappointment of the evening was dessert. Custard pie was not served.

MORE THAN LIP SERVICE

Billy de Wolfe Worried About Mustache's Loss

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (U.S.) — Billy de Wolfe this town's new gag chief, is faced with a problem in recognition bordering on the hair line.
Billy's mustache is missing. It was just a trifling brush, about one-half by two inches, but it was as important to Billy—a trademark and a bathing suit in its own right—as the hair line.
For a dozen years or so Billy, a man with an antic gleam in his eye, has been wandering in and out of movies as a funny man. He has traveled the show road through night clubs, variety and even TV.
It was, however, only a few weeks ago that he first trod the boards of New York's legitimate theater, appearing in John Murray Anderson's "Almanac" at the Imperial and emerging with rave notices as the funniest man around these parts in quite a spell.
But it was a victory won without the presence of his mustache. Now his problem is to obtain a recognition which is more than just lip service.
"There's more talk in New York right now about that mustache than the Chinese Communists," is De Wolfe's restrained summation. "Just now even a taxi driver looked at me and said 'Put it on!'"
"Out front at matinees I can hear little old ladies whispering to each other. Minutes after my first entrance they decide it's me and start applauding."
"Or someone comes up to me on the street, or at a party. They all start the same: 'You know, I didn't recognize you without...'" the De Wolfe eyes close.
The mustache has been in and out of Billy's professional life like a yo-yo.
He got it in his first movie, "Dixie," when he played a river gambler and it seemed appropriate. During wartime service in the Navy, it was shaved off, then put back for a morale (this, presumably) tour.

HARMLESS ON MONKEYS

Virus Expert Reports Moves Toward New Vaccine In Polio

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Albert B. Sabin, Cincinnati virus expert, today reported big steps toward a new kind of polio vaccine which might give lifelong protection. He announced finding "tame" living polio viruses which have been used successfully in vaccine tests on monkeys.

Although still alive, these viruses are harmless "eustains" of regular polio virus, and don't cause sickness. Because they are alive, they presumably would be far more powerful in creating protective antibodies than killed viruses, such as used in the Salk vaccine. The antibodies created by living virus could last for years even perhaps a lifetime.

Much more work needs to be done on this type of vaccine. Dr. Sabin, of the University of Cincinnati Medical College, told the Michigan Foundation for Medical and Health Education.

He expressed opinion there are still some unanswered technical questions about the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh.

A main question is how effective killed viruses are in creating antibodies, and how long such antibodies last, he said.

Another is how many thousands or millions of killed viruses are needed for one vaccination. If the number is too high, it may be impossible to vaccinate enough virus to vaccinate millions of children and young adults, Dr. Sabin said.

McCARTHY (Continued From Page 1) Last night at a dinner honoring Senate Republican leaders and Sen. Bridges (R-NH) reported, shook hands "in a friendly fashion." Other senators who attended said the two greeted one another cordially.

When the party broke up, McCarthy stayed behind with GOP members of his investigating subcommittee and with Knowland and Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio). There was no indication what they discussed at an hour-long tussle.

Flanders, who told his Senate colleagues Tuesday that McCarthy was "doing his best to shatter" the GOP, got what he termed a "nice letter" from Eisenhower, but declined to make it public. At his news conference, Eisenhower voiced endorsement of key portion of Flanders' speech.

The virus for vaccines now is grown only in monkey kidney tissue, he explained, and there is a limit to its availability. Dr. Salk is expected to report new findings on just such questions at a meeting tonight in New Orleans.

Dr. Sabin's prepared paper did not imply that the Salk vaccine is not safe. He said the final answer whether any vaccine actually gives protection can come only from carefully controlled experiments on hundreds of thousands of children.

Such tests of the Salk vaccine are scheduled soon, with support of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The foundation supports the studies of both Salk and Sabin.

The "tame" viruses appeared when huge numbers of dangerous virus were being grown on kidney tissue. By special methods, Dr. Sabin and co-workers found that some had changed or mutated—become genetically different—so they lost their polio punch, and these strains were separated and continued.

The studies must continue to learn whether there is any chance these viruses could change back again to become dangerous. Also, a search is being made to learn if nature already has created, in humans, any better strains of tame virus.

Defendants Win Judgment In Suit A summary judgment in favor of the defendants was ordered in 118th District Court this morning in the case of V. T. Anderson and others versus Clyde E. Thomas and others.

The judgment was on motion of the defendants. The Anderson suit had asked for an order for specific performance on alleged contract in which Clyde E. Thomas offered to sell his and George T. Thomas' interest in the Big State Broadcasting Company, or to purchase the interest of V. T. Anderson and others in the company.

The suit also asked for damages. Big State Broadcasting Company operates Radio Station KTXC, Big Spring.

A wildcat location was spotted in Mitchell County approximately a mile and a half north of Westbrook. It is Graham No. 1 M. Van Horn, slated for depth of 3,500 feet.

Borden Seaboard No. 1-A Zant, 2,308.9 from south and 330 from west lines, 19-33-3n, T&P survey, is being reared for additional tests today following recovery of 68.43 barrels of oil on a 12-hour swabbing operation. There was no water on recovery. Total depth at the project, which is about three quarters of a mile north of the Howard County line on the north side of the Oceanic Field, is 6,118 feet.

Just across the Borden County line in Scurry County, another Fluvanna Field try was reported at 422 feet in redbeds. It is Superior No. 1-599 Jones.

Clarification Of Lease Is Sought Nicholas H. Reed and others have filed a petition in District Court here for a declaratory judgment constraining terms of an oil and gas lease executed with the Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil Company in 1948.

The lease covered Sections 20, 21, 22 and 23, of Block 25, Houston and Texas Central Railway Survey in northeastern Howard County. Plaintiff's petition says a settlement has been agreed to as far as Sections 22 and 23 are concerned, however.

The plaintiffs allege that the lease was to cover only a 1/4 interest in full fee simple title, but not the additional 1/4 interest in the reversionary estate also owned by Reed.

The petition sets out that a question has arisen as to meaning of the lease and asks for the declaratory judgment.

Firemen Called To Blaze At Luther A trailer house parked near Luther was badly damaged by smoke Wednesday afternoon when two mattresses caught fire as a result of a cigarette.

Big Spring firemen were called to the fire and they said the mattresses were completely destroyed. The alarm went off at 4:30 p.m., and the fire truck did not return to town until 5:30.

The trailer house belonged to C. E. Luckhart, who works for one of the drillstem companies, sinking a well in the Luther area.

WISH TO DIE IS FULFILLED FOR CHILD, 5

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — John Anthony Dillon was 5 years old and he had a cat he loved very much. She was Grey Lady, a birthday present when he was 4. They played hide-and-seek together. The cat slept on his bed at night.

Last Thursday a car swerved into the yard and hit the cat. It didn't stop. Grey Lady crawled to Tony and died in his arms. They buried Grey Lady, but Tony couldn't give her up. Saturday he opened up the grave and cradled her in his arms.

After they buried the cat again, Tony told his mother, "I want to go just like Grey Lady did."

He did. He was killed by a motorcycle yesterday as he and his mother, brother and sister crossed a highway on their way home.

Haiti Supports Anti-Red Plan; Favor Assured

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Haiti today endorsed the United States plan to combat Communist infiltration in the Americas, virtually assuring its approval at the 10th Inter-American conference.

Ten of the 19 Latin-American nations attending the parley were now gone on record in favor of the U.S. plan, which calls for joint action should Communists seize control of any Western hemisphere nation, and for measures to check activities of Communist agents.

Conference observers predicted the plan would gain final approval with only minor amendments. Mexico and Uruguay have urged that the program include action against "any totalitarianism," but U.S. spokesmen feel this would scatter the fire of their anti-Communist attack.

Haitian Foreign Minister Pierre Lajlaud told the conference's political committee: "The U.S. proposal is not only acceptable, but desirable. Our heritage of freedom in America is too precious to allow us to risk its loss to communism."

The chief opponent of the plan, Guatemalan Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello, was scheduled to speak before the committee later today. He told newsmen he would present a proposal bearing a "certain relationship" to the anti-Communist resolution under debate. U.S. officials have charged that Communists occupy many positions of power in Guatemala.

The Latin-American representatives pitched into their work with the first following a bid by the United States yesterday for talks soon on the pressing economic problems of their countries.

U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Samuel C. Waugh brought cheers from most of the delegates when he invited them to meet in Washington to discuss their specific economic problems. Most republics south of the Rio Grande have been willing to go along with the U.S. anti-Communist position in general.

Police arrested a man in connection with a theft reported at Newsum's Grocery, and he was fined $25 in City Court this morning. The man pleaded guilty to taking a box of cheese and a can of sardines.

Police said this morning that a juke box repair kit had been found in the 100 block of East 6th. R. L. Andrews, 1421 Tucson, reported to police that the seat covers on his automobile cushions were slashed while he was attending a movie Wednesday evening.

Also taken from the car, which was parked in the 400 block of Main, was a camera. Ann Steck, 1512 11th Place, told police someone stole a tricycle belonging to her child sometime Sunday. The tricycle was red and yellow, about two years old, she said.

Police also arrested a Negro who had five cans of paint which had been reported stolen. He was released after he told police that the paint had been given to him by two other men as payment for a night's lodging.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Offhand, I can't recall any golfer who has made as suspicious a debut in the professional ranks as Big Spring's Billy Maxwell did in the Houston Open last week.

A partisan press made much of the fact that Gene Littler won a tournament at San Diego recently, at the expense of some of the brightest names in golf and hailed him as a bright new star among the mashie wielding set, but Littler was playing his home course.

Billy did well enough at Houston to have won $1,000 had he been eligible to accept any prize money. (Newly-turned pros must wait six months before accepting prize money.) You'd think the pressure would be on a youngster operating in such select company for the first time, but Billy finished with a brilliant 68.

In time, he could take the play away from the Middlecocks and the Palmers.

Pro golf is in need of a 'take charge' fellow again and Maxwell could be just the party to fill the bill.

Incidentally, Billy's brother, W. O. Jr.—pro of the Mury Course here—was in Houston to watch Billy and his fellow pros go through their paces.

Still on the subject of golf, did you know they're applying aerodynamic principles to make golf drives fly farther?

One golf ball manufacturer has just come out with a "diamond" cover marking, which applies the aerodynamic principles to get greater lift and carry.

Tests show the new cover design makes the ball stay in the air almost a quarter of a second longer.

Pepper Martin almost danced in glee when he acquired Tony Martinez from Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls reluctantly gave him up because the opinion there seems to be the time is not ripe for the home use of Negro players. True, the color line has been broken in most Texas baseball cities and Negroes have played in Wichita Falls but not for Wichita Falls teams.

Martin feels local fans have long since accepted the fact that Negro players belong in organized baseball, if they can make the ripple.

Martinez is supposed to be jet-propelled and very powerful. If he lives up to expectations, he'll solve the club's first base problems.

Harold Lee Plumley, voice teacher at the local high school, says James (Tiny) Ellison would have developed into one of the best second tenors in his classes, if he had continued with his studies.

Ellison is the golliath who has played a fine guard for the Big Spring footballers for the past four seasons.

C. J. Lamb of Our Town and Milburn (Catfish) Smith, who departed the head coaching job at East Texas State College for a similar post at Longview High, went through grade school and high school together at Winfield.

Lamb says Catfish wasn't such-a-much as a football player but was a fine basketball player.

LOCAL VOLLEY BALL TEAM WINS 15TH DECISION IN 16 STARTS

Big Spring and Lamesa have again emerged as the top teams in the district girls' volleyball race.

The resident Steerettes thrashed Midland there Wednesday night for their second conference win of the campaign and equal Lamesa's output of wins in league competition.

Big Spring's margin of victory was 31-13. Jan Burns, given a big boost of Bernia Bice at the net, emerged as the leading scorer with 12 points.

The Steerettes led at half time, 13-5. The Big Spring reserves made a Steerette sweep by winning a 27-5 decision over the Midland Bees in a preliminary contest.

Alice Ann Martin scored 18 points for Big Spring. Jane Watson was at the net at the time.

In that one, Big Spring let at half time, 22-5. The Phillips team next sees action at 5:30 p.m. here Monday, at which time it hosts Midland in a return game.

Last night's win was the 15th in 16 starts for Big Spring.

Jacksonville 5 In Toughie

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—One of two favorites in the National Junior College Basketball Tournament was put on the skids last night.

The other faces highly-regarded Benton Harbor, Mich., tonight.

Northeast Mississippi, which had been given the greatest edge by tournament followers, was tagged with a 69-72 loss by Snow College of Ephraim, Utah. That didn't kill Northeast's hopes, since the tournament is a double-elimination affair—two losses before you're out—but it certainly dimmed the prospects for the Mississippians.

Co-favorite Lon Morris of Jacksonville, Tex., faces Benton Harbor in the last of six games this afternoon and night. Both teams were idle yesterday after Lon Morris disposed of Fairbury, Neb., 52-58, and Benton Harbor defeated Eastern Arizona A&M, 57-71, Tuesday.

Today's pairings (all times Central Standard): Loser's bracket: 12:00—Connors A&M (Warner, Okla.) vs. Ft. Lewis A&M (Hesperus, Colo.)

1:45—Centralia (Ill.) vs. Trenton (N.J.)

3:30—Arkansas City (Kan.) vs. Northeast Mississippi (Booneville, Miss.)

6:00—Fairbury (Neb.) vs. Eastern Arizona.

Winners' bracket: 7:45—Moberly (Mo.) vs. Campbell (Tulsa, Okla., N.C.)

9:30—Lon Morris (Jacksonville, Tex.) vs. Benton Harbor (Mich.)

TEE TOPICS

The equipment for watering the fairways at the Big Spring Country Club has been ordered and will be installed in the next few days.

This is part of a plan to improve the C-C, so as to make it more enjoyable to the entire membership.

Congratulations are in order for Billy Maxwell for the fine showing of the ex-Big Spring (and one-time BS Invitational champion) made in the Houston Open.

C. A. Dewees, Country Club pro, attended a meeting of the West Texas Pro-Am Association Tuesday and there were some changes made in regard to the pro-am this year.

It was agreed to play all pro-am's in West Texas under the point system rather than the low-ball system.

A pro-am took place at the Lubbock Country Club before the meeting of the association, the first played under the new system, and most of the players seemed to like it because it was something different.

The opinion was general that the higher handicap players would take more interest in future pro-am's.

The system worked as follows: Bogie, 1 point; par, 2 points; birdie, 3 points; eagle, 4 points and hole-in-one, 10 points. This way, all players are a very important part of the teams because all shots count toward their teams' totals.

There were 35 pros at the meeting and most of them had the interest of the lady golfers in mind when they voted to use the new system.

There were 16 ladies in the Tuesday pro-am, compared to six that played last year on the low-ball system.

Under this set-up, the ladies will play with handicaps.

The Big Spring Country Club will stage the West Texas pro-am June 24 and again Sept. 3.

Because of the springing of clubs represented at Lubbock, there was quite a scramble for dates for this year's pro-am's.

There is lots of talk at the Country Club about the new plans for improving the club, passed at the last stockholders' meeting.

If the plans are carried out, Big Spring will have a club that will be enjoyed by everyone who plays golf, swims, dances or plays bridge, etc. The children of members will have a chance to enjoy use of the facilities, too.

Trinity Noses Out Baylor Net Team

SAN ANTONIO (SP)—Trinity University defeated Baylor, 4-3, in a golf match yesterday.

Rookie Signed By Bob Martin

The signed contract of Johnny O'Neil, a rookie outfielder, has been received by Bob Martin, owner-manager of the Big Spring Braves.

O'Neil was offered a contract on the recommendation of a supervisor of a Florida Baseball school. The youngster lives in West Virginia.

Addition of O'Neil to the squad brings to 12 the number now under contract to Big Spring.

Martin said Wednesday the Braves will launch spring workouts on Wednesday, March 31, rather than the following day.

Only boys who played Pony League and Little League baseball and last year High School players are eligible to attend the special screening of two movies in the High School Cafeteria at 5 p.m. Monday, it has been announced.

However, everyone can attend the Monday night double-feature, which will be held at the Settles Hotel, starting at 7:30 p.m.

The movies are "The World Series of 1953" and "Building Big Leaguers," both official productions of the major leagues.

The Monday evening convalescence marks the first time this year Martin has tried to get local fans together for the purpose of discussing plans for the 1954 season.

At that time, Longhorn League President Harry James will be here to talk about league policies.

Martin announced this morning the club now had permanent offices in the lobby of the Douglass Hotel and he could usually be reached by dialing the Douglass telephone number.

The Brone manager planned to go to Midland and Odessa today for the purpose of arranging possible trades and arranging on exhibition dates with both clubs.

He expects to return home late today.

S'Final Games In NIT On Tap

NEW YORK (SP)—The National Invitation Tournament takes the center of the stage in college basketball's biggest week of the year today as the 16 teams remaining in the National Collegiate Championships awaited their next games.

Semi-finals were on tap in the NIT with top-seeded Duquesne favored over fourth-seeded Niagara and second-seeded Western Kentucky expected to topple third-seeded Holy Cross. The final, and a consolation final for tonight's losers, is scheduled Saturday.

Some of the NCAA entries headed for the four regional tourney sites — Philadelphia, Iowa City, Stillwater, Okla., and Corvallis, Ore.—and those already on hand got in their final practice ricks.

Here's how they'll line up for the NCAA title tomorrow night: At Philadelphia—NAVY vs. Cornell and La Salle vs. North Carolina State.

At Iowa City—Penn State vs. Louisiana State and Notre Dame vs. Indiana.

At Stillwater—Bradley vs. Colorado and Rice vs. Oklahoma A&M. At Corvallis—Southern California vs. Idaho State and Santa Clara vs. Colorado A&M.

The week-long NIT Tournament for smaller schools enters the quarter-final round with Springfield (Mo.) State, the defending champions, still in the running.

The NIT is running true to form for the first time in years. That, plus the fact Duquesne already has beaten Niagara twice, albeit with difficulty both times, makes the Dukes favored in their game. Western Kentucky figures to have too much height and speed for the slick Crusaders of Holy Cross.

Bevo Francis, Rio Grande's sensational scorer, made only 27 points as his team was upset by Southeastern Louisiana College, 78-65, in a second round game last night.

The NCAA field finally was completed yesterday with the selection of Colorado to represent the Big Seven Conference. The Buffaloes gained a tie with Kansas in the conference race when the Jayhawkers were upset by Missouri, then won the berth on a lucky draw by Conference Commissioner Beaves Peters. Kansas won the NCAA title in 1952, and lost out in the finals to Indiana last year, 69-68.

Indiana, which has a better ranking in the Associated Press poll than any team in the NCAA, may have their toughest struggle in their tourney bow this time. The Hoosiers, ranked second nationally go against Notre Dame's 5th-ranked team, which has rolled to 17 consecutive victories. Indiana beat the Irish, 66-63, back in December and also eliminated Notre Dame in last year's NCAA tournament.

Vic Raschi Says He Should Be Big Help To Red Birds

By The Associated Press

Chalk one up for Vic Raschi today—and the St. Louis Cardinals too.

"I think I can help them a lot," Raschi repeatedly has said since the Red Birds purchased him from the New York Yankees.

Yesterday, he showed he wasn't kidding. Making his debut for the National Leaguers, the 35-year-old right-hander limited the Chicago White Sox to two hits in the four innings he worked as the Cardinals' ace.

Raschi repeatedly has said since the Red Birds purchased him from the New York Yankees.

Using his fast ball sparingly, but effectively mixing up curves and changes of pace, he gave up a home run to Eddie Stewart in the first inning, then held the Chisox lifeless in the next three frames.

"I'm myself again for the first time in four years," he said afterwards. "I feel I can work more often than I did last season."

Because Raschi needs four and sometimes five days rest between starts in 1953, many observers felt that the Cardinals paid too much (reportedly $80,000) for a "once a week" pitcher.

Plagued by an ailing knee, he won only 13 games for the Yankees last year after compiling 18 victories in 1952 and 21 in '51.

Bobby Shantz, another question mark pitcher, also made his spring debut, but he wasn't nearly so successful as Raschi.

Sidelined most of last season with a sore arm, the pint-sized Philadelphia Athletics' left-hander gave up three Cincinnati runs in three innings. He was touched for a home run by third baseman Charley Harmon, a double by Ted Kluszewski and singles by Grady Hatton, Bob Borkowski and Roy McMillan. Philadelphia won the game, 4-3, on a ninth-inning squeeze bunt by rookie Forrest Jacobs.

At Sarasota, Fla., pinch-hitter Billy Goodman's single in the seventh drove in two runs as the Boston Red Sox topped the Milwaukee Braves, 3-2, for the fourth straight triumph. Henry Aaron walked a home run for the Braves.

Midland Girls Win Over Local Netters

MIDLAND (SC)—The Big Spring High School girls' tennis team absorbed its first defeat of the season here Wednesday but might have fared better had Betty Anderson been feeling up to snuff.

Despite a slight illness, Betty took the court against Wanda Murray and lost after winning the first set. Final tally was 3-6, 7-5, 7-5.

Midland's margin of victory was 4 and 3.

Midland's number one doubles team, composed of Ellen de Chichis and Joanna Murray, defeated the Big Spring duo, Clara Freeman and Nanette Freeman, 6-0, 6-1.

Dixie Faulkner, playing number two singles for the Big Springers, rallied to edge Fifi Pryor, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

Nancy Smith and Peggy Hogan, Big Spring's number two doubles team, lost to Midland's Mary Johnson and Jennifer Holt, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

In other matches, Janice Rome, Big Spring, was over Sara Maycrick, 6-1, 6-2; Sandra Fox and Claudine Butler, Big Spring, outlasted Sandia McMath and Janice Robertson, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2; and Sue Barnes and Jacqueline Smith, Big Spring, lost to Sally Hughton and Skippy Clement, 6-3, 6-3.

Big Spring will next see action at home at 9 a.m. Friday, at which time the Steerettes play Lubbock.

Francis' Club Suffers Loss

KANSAS CITY (SP)—The tournament-wise Springfield (Mo) State Beers jumped into the favorite's spot today in the National Intercollegiate Basketball meet, replacing Bevo Francis and his Rio Grande College Club.

Southeastern Louisiana College knocked Rio Grande out of the tournament, 78-65 last night in second-round play. The Louisiana team wasn't even listed among the eight seeded squads.

Bevo, who entered the meet with a 50.4 per game average, was held to 27 points. In a first-round game Monday he was limited to 28.

Quarterfinal games are scheduled tonight, with Springfield State playing East Texas State in the feature. East Texas State was a semi-finalist last year.

Springfield knows tournament play. It has won the past two National Intercollegiate and now has a record of 12 successive victories in the three tournaments.

A field of 32 of the nation's finest small college teams entered the tournament. The finals will be played Saturday night.

Tonight's schedule (times Central Standard): 6:00—Arkansas Tech vs. St. Peter's.

7:30—Springfield State vs. East Texas State.

8:00—Western Illinois vs. Southeastern Louisiana.

10:30—Pasadena College vs. St. Benedict's.

Social Science Courses To Be Featured In Display At School

Social science in the curriculum will be shown in a series of displays arranged especially for the West Texas Teachers Association meeting here Friday.

Elementary teachers in Big Spring have pooled their efforts to reflect the approach to this field of study.

In turn, those in junior high have developed their own project, and both will be on display at Washington Place School.

Perhaps the most elaborate and detailed of them will be the elementary display. It has been developed with a circle establishing the general theme by concentric circles on different planes.

Touching this are six other circles for the six grade levels. The first is a display of how the home and school fit into the scheme of things. Community living is stressed in the second (grade) circle, showing that living is a common experience and a common problem for all mankind.

In the third the idea of the expanded community is developed around a farm scene to show that cooperation in all fields is a high-way which leads to a better world. All people everywhere are interdependent, according to the fourth circle which shows neighbors around the world. In the fifth circle is a map to show that the economic aspects of life are of vital concern to men everywhere. The sixth circle shows how various parts of the world have contributed to the American dream and had brought fruit in American democracy.

The various units also point out that there are varied ways of living in the world, and that they are not odd but reasonable; that conservation of natural resources is

Special Services Are Set At Church

Services directed especially to young people are to be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the First Baptist Church by Dr. Chester Swor who is holding Religious Emphasis Week services here this week.

A service for adults only also has been set, for 3 p.m. Sunday, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor, has announced. The minister said pastors of other churches, as well as laymen of all churches, are being invited to the Sunday afternoon service which will be non-denominational.

No children will be permitted to attend the Sunday afternoon meeting.

The Saturday night service is to be directed to persons from the ages of 13 to 24. Young people also will be in charge of the song service.

Regular Sunday morning and evening services will be conducted on the last day of the revival, starting at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. an obligation of art; that man lives in a changing world; that geography and history of the world are closely related; that government is of critical importance in the lives of all men.

Because development of the idea as the main object of the elementary displays, teachers have done all the preparation.

Century Of Progress

Pupils have contributed all the parts and have done much of the work on the junior high school display which reflects a "Century of Progress."

One display depicts this progress in government. It is charted in detail from the governor on down. Similarly, another shows how Texas education (this is the centennial of the Texas public school system) has flourished in the 100 years since its establishment.

Transportation from the crude and almost primitive means of a century ago is brought into the age of the Diesel train, automobile and airplane.

World history over the past century is shown graphically in a pictorial review.

Dean Bennett, supervisor of elementary education, and Truett Johnson, junior high principal, have urged the public to inspect the displays at Washington Place school.

They will be used until about 4:30 p.m., but from that time until 6 p.m. the rooms will be kept open if patrons care to inspect the displays.

Special Exhibit Is Scheduled At Kate Morrison

One of two special exhibits in connection with sectional programs of the West Texas Teachers Association meeting here Friday will be at Kate Morrison school.

Teachers in Latin-American schools all over the area will gather here at 3:15 p.m. Dorothy Davis, principal of the school and hostess for this section, said that a short program would be presented by the children at the opening of the session.

Mary Lou Garcia will play a medley of piano selections. Richard Marquez, Margarita Arista, Ray Marquez, and Rosalinda Zubiate will do "Las Chiapanecas." Carmen De Leon will be presented in "Fado Blanco." while the "Jarabe Tapatio" will be done by Ray Marquez, Rosalinda Zubiate, Christina and Andrews Dominguez. The finale will be "Oh Johnny" with the group composed of Ismael Valdez, Maria Elena Corrales, Ismael Rubio, Lupe Corrales, Ernest Maconsuelo Hinojosa, Joe Arispe and Marg Ita Valdez.

John Prude, principal of Millam elementary school in Odessa, is to report on a special questionnaire sent out to schools in the district. Cecile Grubbs, Odessa, will discuss social studies for Latin-Americans; Mrs. Mary McCoy, Odessa, will outline remedial methods for Latin-Americans.

One of the highlights will be a panel discussion . . . "Pre-First or Not Pre-First." Members of the panel are Mrs. Jack Washburn, Midland, Mrs. Vera Ingram, Odessa, Mrs. Eloise Baird, Big Spring.

Open house will be observed afterwards with displays in each classroom. The Kate Morrison Parent-Teachers Association will be hostesses for serving of refreshments.

The program, enlarged with more numbers, will be presented again Monday at 8 p.m. for patrons of the school. It will be followed by open house and inspection of all the displays. Faculty of the school will be hostesses as refreshments are served.

Cincinnati Names Texan As Manager

CINCINNATI (AP)—Charles A. Harrell, 60, chairman of the industrial economics department of the Southwest Research Institute at San Antonio has been elected city manager of Cincinnati.

Harrell was named to the $25,000 job yesterday. He succeeds W. R. Kellogg, resigned.

Value Of Public School To Transients Will Be Cited

How schools and teachers helped transform a young girl "hobo" into a class leader and useful citizen will be the highlight of the first general session of the West Texas Teachers Association here Friday morning.

Today Billie Davis is the field representative for the Assemblies of God at Springfield, Mo. Not so many years ago she was, with other members of her family, an itinerant farm worker.

For the transition from a nomadic existence to one of greater stability and responsibility Miss Davis gives credit to the public schools of the country. Recently she wrote an article, "I Was a Hobo Kid," which appeared in Saturday Evening Post and was condensed by Readers Digest. The story has been object of much comment.

An eloquent and dynamic speaker, Miss Davis will have the featured spot on the general session which starts at 10 a.m. in the gymnasium, O. W. Marcom, Levelland, president of the association announced.

"A vagabond people, they sometimes picked cotton or fruit, sometimes shucked corn. But mostly they travelled from town to town, peddling novelties, trading horses, sharpening scissors, making keys. Mine was a 'rustic furniture' family . . . This is the way Miss Davis describes her background.

"Mornings I would get off to peddle the small willow baskets, complete with crepe-paper roses . . . The children who lived in houses looked so clean and cared for . . . I wanted to be like the children who played in the pretty yards . . . School! Was that the secret?"

One of her important discoveries, once in school, was that behind a desk and with a pencil a pupil's standing was determined by ability and application.

"Some of the clean, smooth children did not do so well as I in school. Next time they called me a dirty gypsy it would not hurt so."

Wherever she went she found a warmth, a welcome and concern on the part of school teachers and administrators. Once, in California, where she enrolled first in high school, she found teachers understanding enough that she got to take history, dramatics, English and Spanish instead of the special fare found more practical for the average transient student. She was on her way to graduation. Her story, she said, was a tribute she felt she owed the schools and teachers of America.

Great Books Class To Meet Tomorrow

Time for the Great Books class has been changed. Instead of meeting a week from Friday, the class will meet this Friday at the usual time of 8 p.m. in the HCJC library. After that, the regular two-week schedule will be resumed with the next meeting to come March 26.

The change was made since Bill Thompson, HCJC faculty member who is discussion leader for the class, will be out of town at the regular meeting date.

Topic for discussion at tomorrow's meeting will be Plato's Republic, Books I and II.

Porridge Or Premiums

You get both when you buy breakfast cereals. Mrs. C. M. Boles debates whether to get a package with a clown cutout or to settle on one with a space helmet coupon. The range of choice is without limit.

Breakfast Cereal Prizes Go From Nylons To China

By JOE PICKLE

When a colleague volunteered that he almost broke a tooth on a marble in his breakfast food, an investigation was in order.

He might as well have choked on nylon hosiery — or plastic aprons — or space helmets.

You can get all of them in or with cereal packages. You also can get a wide variety of silverware, plastic salad bowls, china ware, cups and saucers, color prints, bathroom scales, masks, games, magic secrets, finger puppets, stationery, license plates, comic books and 3-D pictures.

And that isn't all. You can pick up a collection of trading cards, a red hot treasure map, portraits of famous circus clowns, toy tigers, a ring that makes faces, sports car cutouts, mystic strato-viewer, glassware, monogrammed pencils, airline stickers, cowboy action pictures, decorative buttons, discounts and even cold cash.

Incidentally, you can get an amazing variety of cereals, too. Eating a box of everything on the breakfast foodshelf of a modern supermarket would be like trying to take every course on the college curriculum. A good look at the cereal section is almost as enlightening as a perusal of the college catalog.

You'll find the old standbys such as rolled oats, ground cooked wheat, shredded wheat, corn flakes and bran flakes, puffed wheat and rice, and others. From there the list is virtually limitless.

Wheat germ comes in a glass jar but you also can obtain this vitamin laden product in flakes as well. Sugar Smacks and Sugar Krinkles don't even require sweetening. So far no one has come up with a package with the milk already added, although one manufacturer has individual packages which can be used as cereal bowls.

Among the cooked variety (a minority to be sure) the fare centers mostly around Cream of Wheat, oats (Mothers, Quakers, National, to mention a few), Malt-O-Meal. If you are adventuresome, you can try raisin oats, or barley, or rice.

Big names along the dry cereal division are Kellogg, Post, Quaker, Ralston, and Nabisco. Among the varieties are Pep, raisin-bran, all-bran, 40 per cent bran, 100 per cent whole wheat bran, shredded wheat, corn flakes and Post Toasties, Rice Crispies, Wheaties, Frosted Flakes, Cheerios, puffed wheat and rice, Kix, Rice Chex, raisin wheat, Grape-nuts, Cornflakes, Corn-soya, Grape-nut flakes, muffins. By this time, if you haven't found what your gastronomical heart desires, page the stockroom.

A coupon from a box of oats, plus 75 cents will get you a $1.50 pair of nylon hosiery. Twenty-five cents and a box top will get you an outer space helmet had a mystic strato-viewer. Any number of cereals have coupons, either inside or on the box, which will

Odessa Man Seeks Tots

DETROIT (AP)—A father today sought custody of his three children—two of whom he'd never seen until Tuesday.

He is Arthur Laclair, with General Motors in Odessa, Tex. The children have been living with sisters of their mother since her death last month.

Laclair explained to Circuit Judge Carl M. Weideman he left his family while in the World War II Army after an argument with his wife, Edna.

Eight months later, he said, twins were born, then his wife divorced him in 1946. The twins he hadn't seen until yesterday are Gale and Dale, 8. The other child is Shirley, 11.

Laclair remarried in 1947. He said he hadn't heard of his first wife's death until a short time ago.

"I feel the children belong to me and to no one else," he said.

His claim is disputed by the two aunts with whom the children are living. Dale is living with Mrs. Cora Mae Smith and Shirley and Gale with Mrs. Eva Friga, who have been appointed guardians for them. The Detroit woman said they intended to adopt the children.

Judge Weideman has continued the case until March 16.

Congressional Panels Okay Pantex Titles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate and House Armed Services Committees Tuesday approved real estate transactions between Texas Tech College and the Army involving 16,000 acres of land at the Pantex Ordnance plant near Amarillo.

Under the arrangement, the Army now has clear title to 10,000 acres and improvements and Tech has clear title to the remaining 6,000 acres. The college is required to use the property only for educational purposes.

earn you silverware. This is available plain, initialed or in place settings.

For $1 and a box top, you can get a 27-inch inflatable toy tiger or other animals. One box top will get you $2 off on a $6.95 set of bathroom scales. Another deal is a big cook book for a coupon. Similarly, a $3 salad set is marked down to $1.25 when accompanied by a certain box top. A dozen box lids and $1.95 will bring you five pieces of Revereware. One cereal offers a plastic apron for the housewife, absolutely free. There's no cash involved, either for Currier & Ives color prints, or for the marble, or for samples of other cereals.

All this premium pushing has led to some crass commercialization. One brand advertises that its box top is worth 10 cents on another product, which by odd coincidence, is made by the same company. Another proclaims that whatever the price is marked on the box, you get three cents off. The penultimate, however, is the variety package which contains a coupon. Save three of these and you get 35 cents in cold cash, brother.

Do premiums — the foreign license plates, space ships, magic tips, 3-D cut-out circus and the like help sell cereal?

Bob Spears answered that question for all grocerymen with a question.

"Do kids usually get what they want at your house?"

Ah, breathes there a man with soul so dead, who ne'er hath his stomach fed with breakfast food both strange and new 'til Junior's spaceship phase is through?

North Texas Exes Slate Meetings

Ex-students of North Texas State College throughout the state will join with Big Spring and area exes to observe the sixth annual North Texas Day on March 31.

Thousands of former students of the college will hold meetings and have get-togethers and socials on the afternoon and evening of North Texas Day, when they will hear a special radio broadcast from the school.

In Big Spring, Mayron Shields is chairman for the ex-student group. Radio Station KBST will carry the broadcast of the NTSC North Texas Day Program and Big Spring ex-students will have an informal meeting at 5 p.m. at the senior high school.

Flood Control Hearings Are Synchronized

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Senate and House appropriations committees have synchronized their hearing on flood control and coming from Texas and other distant states won't have to make two trips to Washington on the same matter.

In recent days delegations from Galveston, Victoria and Corpus Christi have testified in support of requests for federal funds.

Until this year the Senate usually conducted its hearing a month or so after the House.

Galveston County Judge T. R. Robinson headed the group from the Island City, seeking $5,300,000 for completion of a three-mile seawall extension.

He pointed out that under the 1950 act authorizing the extension, the federal government was to put up the amount and the people of Galveston would raise $2,870,000. Galvestonians raised their part and built 5,440 feet of new seawall. The government has "a moral obligation if not a legal obligation" to come across with the rest, he said.

County Commissioner D. J. Termini told of the need for the extension, to the west of the city proper, saying that was the only direction in which Galveston could grow. Rep. Clark Thompson (D-Tex.) and Robert Nesbitt, representing the Galveston Chamber of Commerce, also appeared.

Byrd Harris, director of the Port of Corpus Christi, and Duane Orr, engineer for the Nueces County navigation district, testified in support of a $300,000 budget bureau recommendation to start work on dredging a 5-mile-34-foot deep ship channel from Corpus Christi to Tule Lake. The project would give a deep water outlet to oil refineries and other industries.

Walton To Head 'Ham' League

H. T. Walton has been selected to set up an organization of local amateur radio operators prepared to furnish organized emergency communication in time of disaster. It was announced today by Communications Manager F. E. Handy of the American Radio Relay League, national association of radio amateurs.

Walton's assignment, which carries the title of Emergency Coordinator, is to band together members of the amateur radio service in this community to perfect arrangements for emergency radio communication by hams in the event of natural disasters or other emergencies. In addition to use of normal station equipment working from commercial power, amateur stations using self-powered radio transmitting and receiving equipment are needed. Walton, as ARRL Emergency Coordinator, will call local meetings of amateurs, establish common operating procedures, and arrange regular drill periods when the hams' personal stations may be mobilized under simulated emergency conditions. His duties also include liaison planning with the local chapter of the American Red Cross and other relief agencies, as suggested in the working understanding the ARRL Emergency Corps has with the national headquarters of the American Red Cross and other agencies. Liaison will be established also with local protective services, such as fire and police departments and civil defense communications which receive much attention.

Here's A Cheese And Rice Treat

Good casseroles always are a treat, so here are several to serve from now to Easter and on through the summer.

CHEESE-RICE SOUFFLE

- 3/4 cup uncooked white rice
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 pound Cheddar cheese, grated
- 1 tablespoon prepared yellow mustard
- 1 teaspoon parsley flakes
- 4 eggs, separated

Cook rice in boiling, salted water until tender. Melt butter in top of double boiler. Blend in flour, salt and cayenne. Stir in milk and cook until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add grated cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Add mustard and parsley flakes.

Combine cooked rice and cheese sauce. Beat egg yolks until thick. Slowly add hot cheese sauce mixture to beaten yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff. Carefully fold cheese mixture into beaten egg whites and fold until there are no large areas of whites. Turn mixture into a 1 1/2 quart ungreased casserole. Place casserole in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes. Makes four servings.

About Pork Chops, Rice And Blondes

If the old saying "Gentlemen prefer blondes," holds any water at all, G. G. Green is the living, breathing example. Mrs. Green, who is giving the recipe-for-the-day, is a perfect blonde and so are their two high-school-age daughters.

Mrs. Green is constantly on the go, taking Mary Ann and Barbara to basketball and volleyball tournaments in which they participate. They attend Forsan High School. But somehow she squeezes in the time to be a really good cook.

Although her recipe for today is pork chops in rice for National Rice Week, her true love is making pies. Those lucky Greens! Friends say her apple pie is out of this world.

Her skills don't stop with cooking. She sews beautifully for the girls, and making good-looking hammered aluminum trays is a hobby.

Mrs. Green is a native Oklahoman and when you ask her where she lives she has to hesitate a minute—she still gets east and west, north and south mixed up out here in West Texas. When she gets straightened out it's "four miles west of Forsan." Mr. Green is connected with the Felgoust Oil Co., formerly American Maratoba.

Now, here's that mouth-watering recipe.

PORK CHOPS EN RICE CASSEROLE

Ingredients: Pork chops (as many servings as desired)

- 1 tablespoon rice for each chop
- Onions, chopped
- Salt and pepper
- 1 can of tomatoes

Method: Brown pork chops in a small amount of fat. Place in casserole and put a tablespoon of uncooked rice on each chop. Place chopped onion on top of rice and cover all with the tomatoes. Cover and cook at 300 degrees until rice is tender. Water or tomato juice may be added in order to keep the food moist.

Cake Mix Can Be Used For Cookies

The simplest way to utilize packaged cake mix is to make cookies. Most of the batters can be mixed according to directions or with slightly less liquid in order to make drop cookies.

The cookies can be made in the various flavors of the mixes and can also be decorated with fruit and coconut.

Hot Soup Is Distinctive March Day Luncheon Menu

Crackling windy March days call for hot nourishing luncheons for all the family. If you're looking for a new dish that's packed full of both good flavor and nourishment, try this extra-hearty soup-and-crackers combination that makes a real meal in itself. The toasted crispy crackers, buttered and topped with grated onion, and the floating bacon bits, give the tomato and pea soup mixture a distinctive and delicious taste all its own. Served with additional crackers, here's a meal that's "just right" for wintry weather, and quick and easy to prepare.

HEARTY LUNCHEON SOUP

- 3 strips bacon
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon grated onion
- 8 crispy crackers
- 1 (10 1/2 oz.) can tomato soup
- 1 (10 1/2 oz.) can pea soup

1 can water
1 can milk
Fry bacon until crisp. Drain on paper toweling. Crumble into pieces. Work butter or margarine until softened. Mix in onion. Spread on crispy crackers. Mix tomato and pea soup. Gradually stir in the water and milk. Heat, stirring constantly, until soup comes to a boil. Place crispy crackers under broiler and toast until lightly browned. Four soup into 4 soup bowls. Place 2 crackers on top of each bowl. Sprinkle crumbled bacon over top of each bowl. Makes 4 servings.

SERVING BIG SPRING

SHAMROCK DESSERT

Sure, And 'Tis A Shamrock Dessert

Put green groceries on your market list for St. Patrick's Day, March 17, is the family celebrating at suppertime? Then start with green split pea soup and tiny buttered croutons. Go on to a boneless smoked pork shoulder butt or half-ham; accompany the meat with chutney — just for a different touch. Serve parsley potatoes, too, and a green vegetable such as creamed spinach or broccoli. Tossed greens will make a crisp and crunchy salad course. Then bring on the crowning glory — a molded dessert, as green as lime-flavored gelatin will make it!

This dessert is a little different because coconut, as well as dates and oranges, is used. The Coconut gives it good flavor and interesting texture. But one tip: be sure to chop the coconut in short lengths, as the recipe directs, before adding it to the gelatin. This way the dessert will be easier to cut into portions than if you leave the coconut in long shreds. Here's the recipe:

LIME COCONUT FRUIT MOLD
Ingredients:
2 packages lime-flavored gelatin
2 cups very hot water
1 cup cold water
1 cup orange juice
2 oranges
20 pitted dates
1 1/2 cups shredded coconut
Cream
Toasted coconut

Method:
Add gelatin to very hot water and stir until dissolved. Stir in cold water and orange juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Meanwhile peel oranges, removing white membrane; dice. Slice dates. Chop coconut into short lengths. Fold oranges, dates and coconut into slightly thickened gelatin. Turn into shamrock mold or 8 by 8 by 3-inch pan; chill until firm. Unmold. Whip cream and spread over top of gelatin dessert; sprinkle with toasted coconut. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Note: To toast coconut, spread thin in shallow baking pan. Place in moderate (350°F) oven; toast evenly; remove from oven when it is a delicate brown.

If friends are expected in the afternoon or evening on St. Patrick's Day, here are snack suggestions.

Sandwich rolls, filled with water-cress or canned drained green asparagus will make good tasting and attractive offerings. Butter the bread well and spread it with mayonnaise before rolling around the filling.

Any small fry or teen-agers among the guests? Then make them a St. Pat's Cooler by mixing grapefruit juice with carbonated water; tint a pale green and sweeten to taste. Garnish the Coolers with green maraschino cherries, if they are available. Youngsters love them!

Use your favorite sugar-cookie recipe, rolling the dough very thin; cut into shamrock shapes with a floured cutter and bake as usual. Spread half the cooled cookies with frosting tinted green and top with the remaining cookies.

If layer cake is planned, you can make it up from a white or yellow cake mix. Put the layers together with a pineapple filling and frost with cream that's tinted pale green, whipped and sweetened.

Carrot Garnish
Grated or shredded raw carrot makes a quick and easy "eye appeal" garnish for all manner of dishes according to a recent university survey. They tried them on recipes from soups and sandwiches to custards and puddings. School children going down the cafeteria line invariably choose the carrot garnished foods in preference to other dishes.

Pass The Irish Spuds On St. Patrick's Day

The Irish potato may not be a native of the Emerald Isle, but because it's been living there happily since the 16th Century, we think our special treatment of the spud is fair fare on St. Patrick's Day.

Our Baked Potatoes, wearing a pretty fresh parsley stuffing, will taste mighty good with golden broiled fish filets on March 17. Mustard pickles, hot rolls and a savory cole slaw are good go-alongs.

Take advantage of our present heavy supply of Irish potatoes; they are a thrifty energy food. When eaten daily, they can supply important amounts of vitamin C; they also furnish some B vitamins, iron and other minerals. A medium-sized potato contains no more calories than a large apple or banana — a point weight-watchers might remember.

When you're buying potatoes look for those that are smooth, clean in appearance and firm-textured. Choose those that have shallow "eyes." Once you get them home, keep potatoes in the dark. Light may cause green spots that should not be eaten, so keep your potatoes covered.

So many good Irish dishes we've eaten with potatoes! Colcannon for one. Want to try it? First steam and mash your potatoes. Then shred green cabbage and cook with a slice or two of bacon until very tender; force through a strainer or food mill. Mix potatoes and cabbage with a little butter or margarine and cream, a suspicion of minced onion, salt and freshly-ground pepper. There you have something wonderfully satisfying.

We're also partial to another Irish combination — mashed potatoes and turnips. This first heard about it, but once tasted we became enthusiastic. Of course the addition of a good lump of butter or margarine, salt and freshly-ground pepper doesn't hurt this dish.

PARSLEY STUFFED BAKED POTATOES
Ingredients:
4 large baking potatoes (about 1/2 pound each)
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup milk
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
3 tablespoons minced onion
Parsley sprigs

Method:
Scrub potatoes, bake in a very hot (450°F) oven until tender when pierced with a fork—about 15 minutes. As soon as the potatoes are baked, cut a slice from the top of each; scoop out potato, being careful not to break the skin. Mash potatoes until there are no lumps, or put through a ricer. Add butter, milk, salt, pepper, minced parsley and onion; mix well. Pile mixture into potato shells, rounding the top. Bake in shallow baking pan in very hot (450°F) oven until lightly browned—5 to 10 minutes. (If potatoes are stuffed and then refrigerated, allow more time for reheating.) Garnish with parsley sprigs and serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Note: If the oven needs to be set lower than 450°F for another dish, the potatoes may be baked at this lower temperature until they are tender; they also may be reheated at a lower temperature.

Nut Know-How
A pound of walnuts in the shell usually makes about 1 2/3 cups nutmeats; a pound of almonds in the shell makes about 1 1/2 cups nutmeats; a pound of filberts in the shell makes about 1 1/2 cups nutmeats.

Party Treat
For a winter party, serve Coconut Snowballs. To make them prepare a package of angel-food mix. Spread two-inch squares of the angel cake with boiled frosting and roll in coconut.

Beef Curry Is Exotic Dish For Which India Is Famous

In India, curry is eaten every day, and by many, it is eaten twice a day. The curry may be chicken curry, a vegetable, a beef or some other meat curry—but always that exotic "salt of the Far East"—curry powder, is the touch which makes this dish mysteriously exciting eating.

And always, bowls of fluffy, tender white rice are served so that heaps of rice may be placed on the eaters plate and then topped with curry—whatever kind it may be.

You can add variety and taste appeal to the meals you serve your family by having this beef curry. Your "party food" will be a long remembered "event" when you plan to serve this most popular of Indian dishes. The accompaniments add great excitement and will make this "no trouble at all" dish a Conversation Piece.

Turkey Creole Dish
In a large saucepan place 2 cups water, a No. 2 can of tomatoes, 1 1/2 cups chopped green pepper, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 bay leaf, 2-3 cup uncooked rice and 2 cups diced cooked turkey. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan and cook over this low heat for 20 minutes, or until the rice is tender and most of the liquid absorbed. Remove the bay leaf. Serve hot. This recipe makes 8 servings.

Stuffed Peppers
Remove seeds and membranes from 5 green peppers. Cook in boiling water 10 minutes or until tender. Mix together 2 cups cooked rice, 1 cup grated American cheese, 1/2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, some chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon grated onion, and 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento. Stuff into the peppers and place in a shallow baking dish. Pour 1-2 cups can tomato sauce over and around the peppers. Bake at 350 degrees F. 15 minutes or until heated through.

Life Underwriter Group Head Says Texas Laws Worst

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The president of the National Association of Life Underwriters says Texas has the "worst insurance laws in the United States."

Robert C. Gilmore Jr., of Bridgeport, Conn., told Knoxville life underwriters yesterday that health and accident insurance firms that "sell contracts containing 'gimmicks' and tricky provisions should be outlawed."

Such firms, Gilmore added, are "huddled in Texas, and other states that have lax insurance laws. They can't operate in states that have strict, sound laws."

"The public should know that Texas has the worst insurance laws in the United States. We've been yelling about it; we know it unfortunately reflects on all insurance. We've been working with the insurance department of Texas through our own legal department to outlaw this evil."

Gilmore said the "great majority of firms and insurance agents" are honest.

CHIEF E. W. YORK
... Ready For FBI School

York Is First From Here In FBI School

E. W. York, chief of police here, will be the first Big Spring law enforcement official ever to attend the Federal Bureau of Investigation police school in Washington.

He received a letter signed by FBI director J. Edgar Hoover last month stating that he had been accepted for the school, which will last three months.

The city commission has already approved York's enrollment in the course, and the police chief plans to leave Big Spring in time to meet opening classes in Washington on March 22.

J. K. Mumford, special agent in charge of the FBI at Dallas, said that York was accepted for enrollment in the school only after a thorough background investigation. York passed the check with flying colors, according to the agent, and he is also in excellent physical condition — another requirement.

York, who has been heading up the Big Spring police force since April 1, 1952, is 37 years old. He is the type that "speaks softly while carrying a big stick," inconspicuous and quiet spoken but quick of action.

A tall man, York gives the impression of being one in authority. Although slightly stoop shouldered, he is well-built and resembles an athlete.

From what Mumford and FBI agent Ed Dorras of San Angelo say, York will need all his athletic prowess when he attends the Washington school. The federal boys guarantee a stiff workout.

In addition to attending daily classes and doing home assignments, those who are selected to attend the school must also become proficient in the arts of self defense and firearms use. Approximately two weeks of the school time is spent on the FBI firing range at Quantico, Virginia.

York is no stranger to hard work, however. He has mastered every phase of operation in the local police department, coming up through the ranks.

He started working on the Big Spring police force back in 1943 when Jake Bruton was chief, serving as radio operator and patrolman. His stay was short, however, as he soon went into the Marine Corps and was sent to the South Pacific.

Although Chief York won't say much about his military service, his associates say he served with honor on two Jims during the fierce fighting there. Going over as an infantryman, he was placed in the artillery. He was a buck private.

Following three months occupation duty in Japan immediately following the war, York came back to Big Spring and the police department. This was in February, 1946.

Although starting in as a patrolman again, he was promoted to captain in 1947. Then he was made chief in 1952, exactly 10 years and one month after he first started wearing the b'dge.

York was born in Purdon, close to Corsicans, on Jan. 29, 1917. He graduated from high school at Purdon and farmed until coming to Big Spring in 1940.

After arrival here, he worked for K. H. McGibbon at Phillips Petroleum Company and then for Kyle Gray. During his police years, he served under chiefs Jake Bruton, A. G. Mitchell and Pete Green.

He is married to the former Juanell Rountree, and they reside at 1512 Sunset with their three children.

FBI agent Mumford said that York is the first man from Big Spring to attend the school, which has been operating since 1935. Originally there were three sections per year, but about two years ago the FBI cut it down to two sections a year.

The courses are open only to police officials, and the classes are designed so that those attending can return to their cities and in turn teach their men the techniques they have learned.

THE SPRINGBOARD
News From Webb Air Force Base
By A-1c FERD BORSCH

DRILL TEAM
One of Webb's biggest drawing cards is back in circulation. That drawing card is the precision drill team.

However, it's no longer the base drill team composed of enlisted personnel but rather the cadet drill team.

Last year a base drill team was organized from the enlisted ranks and proved to be an immediate success at civic functions. However, because of personnel shortages, it was soon disbanded.

A month ago the cadets picked up the ball, and in a very short time a new drill team came into being.

Now numbering 20 cadets, the drill team is composed of volunteers. Class 54-F has been the main spark in the re-organizing of the colorful unit.

MEDICAL TECHNICIAN
A medical technician with two years of laboratory experience is needed at Webb, according to W. A. Farrow, civilian personnel officer.

The opening is for a GS-4 with an annual salary of $3,175.

Qualified persons interested in the opening should see civilian personnel officials at their office in Building T-48 at Webb.

EX-POW SPEAKS
Lt. Col. Thomas Harrison, former POW of the Communists in Korea whose prison camp story appeared in Collier's magazine several months ago, was a guest of Webb last week. He was invited here by Maj. Rieken B. Wall, Flying Section IV commander, to address a Pilot Training Group dinner and the aviation cadets.

GYM FLOOR
Bids will soon be advertised to replace the gymnasium floor now in use in Building 67, which serves as a temporary base gym. It was announced by Maj. Ernst Heister, Installations officer.

TELEVISION
Webb's television show, "Silver Wings", has received a new night and a new time over station KMID-TV. The new night is Tuesday and the new time is 10:30 p.m.

RELIGIOUS ATTENDANCE
Attendance at Protestant services on the base has increased from 4 to 7 1/2 per cent, it was revealed in a survey conducted recently by the wing chaplain's office.

Catholic services continue to maintain a 44 per cent attendance. Jewish services, held in town, have a 34 per cent representation from the base.

PERSONNEL OFFICER
Lt. Col. Raymond L. Morris has assumed duties as wing personnel officer at Webb. He succeeds Lt. Col. William S. Smallwood, who has been re-assigned to duty in Korea.

Col. Morris has just completed a tour of duty in the Far East for the 61st Air Base Wing in Japan.

SPORTS
Student Squadron and Field Maintenance will battle for the Squadron Basketball League Championship at the base gym tonight in a playoff game. Game time is 7 o'clock. The students and FM were deadlocked for the loop lead at the end of the regular campaign with 13 wins and one loss each.

Pennant winning Medical Group closed out with a comfortable seven game lead when the final curtain fell on the Squadron Bowling League. Student Squadron No. 2 nailed down second place. The Turkeys trimmed the Red
