JFK's Mom Resents Wisecracks About 'Political Dynasties'

She Will Help Ted Campaign For Senator

EDITOR'S NOTE: President Kennedy's mother, who is acting as official White House hostess, has granted United Press International one of her rare interviews. Following is an account of the interview, on a wide range of subjects close to her heart.

By HELEN THOMAS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's mother, Rose, who resents wisecracks about political dynasties, said today she would campaign to help her youngest son, Ted, win a Senate seat in Massachusetts.

The 72-year-old Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy granted an interview to United Press International at the White House where she is acting as official hostess in the absence of the President's vacationing wife.

Mrs. Kennedy poured out her views on political clans, Teddy's chances, the White House changes, the "wonderful" job the First Lady is doing, and her "unspoiled" granddaughter Caroline.

"Oh, certainly," said the vivacious Mrs. Kennedy when asked if she thought Ted would win a Senate seat.

Mrs. Kennedy said her son had "invited" her to campaign for him in Massachusetts. "I expect I will," she said.

She said she wanted to help Ted be her third son to hold national office, "even though I'm past retirement age." She explained her husband, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, had "urged him" to seek political office.

Political Dynasties Discussed
Mrs. Kennedy said the subject of political dynasties had come up in toasts at the White House lunch for President Carlos Julio Arseno of Ecuador. Arseno's father also had been president of his country.

Senora Arseno confided to her hostess that her 10-year-old son, Carlos Julio Jr., who also made the state visit to Washington, had made up his mind to be a "soldier."

The Ecuadorian first lady explained to Mrs. Kennedy that her son didn't want to be president because he had heard "so many cracks about a family dynasty."

The president's mother, who has heard the same jibes at her family's political aspirations, spoke out with some feeling and with some exasperation.

"I think it's wonderful if people want to serve their country. I think it's a great thing," she said.

Comments on President
Frank and in a gay mood, she made these other comments on subjects close to her heart.

President Kennedy — "I think he's wonderful. He looks very well. He seems to enjoy it and responds to all the challenges. It is a terrific responsibility... so much depends on his judgment."

Jacqueline Kennedy — "I think she's doing a wonderful job. Everyone all over the world admires her. So many people say... I know she enjoys it... She's young..."

Her husband, who suffered a stroke last December — "He's better now, but he's not himself."

Gromyko Says Reds Will Test 'Newest Types Of A-Weapons'

'Nyets' International Test Ban Controls

By WELLINGTON LONG
United Press International

GENEVA (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the 17-nation disarmament conference today Russia plans to test "the newest types of nuclear weapons" in its forthcoming test series.

At the same time, he made it clear the Soviets will accept no international control of a test ban treaty and said "there will be no agreement" on a general disarmament treaty unless the West agrees to scrap its foreign bases in the first stage of the disarmament process.

In particular, he said, the Soviets will not accept an American plan for "zonal" inspection of the disarmament process, which he claimed was an American attempt at "legalized espionage."

"You will not persuade us to disclose the system of defenses of the Soviet Union in exchange for information on the defense system of the United States," he said, looking directly at U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

No Warlike Aim

"We do not need such information for we have no intention of attacking the United States," he said, Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said the spread of nuclear weapons would increase "instability" on India's borders.

Without mentioning Communist China by name or going into details of India's border dispute with it, Krishna Menon told the conference there were factors promoting instability on the borders. The further spread of nuclear weapons, even if not used, would contribute to this instability, he said.

Rusk Talk Delayed

Rusk had reserved the opening time for himself. But he disliked the speech prepared for him and so decided to cede the opening to Krishna Menon. The Indian took full advantage of his opportunity, speaking for almost an hour without notes.

Gromyko heard Krishna Menon deplore continued nuclear weapons testing in general and say specifically India deeply regretted the Soviet decision of two days ago to resume nuclear tests.

To avoid participating in the disarmament session, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville returned to Paris Monday immediately after signing the Laos neutrality declaration and participating in a lunch celebrating the event.

Rusk and his staff worked late Monday night on his speech. American sources said he remained of the opinion he held in March that the conference should

Pampans Get Industrial Project Review; Talk By Congressman

Members of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce were treated to an address by Congressman Walter Rogers and a discussion of proposed plans to promote Pampa as an industrial site at their monthly noon meeting yesterday in the Coronado Inn.

Johnny Watson, chairman of the CoC's Industrial Committee, had charge of the first segment of the program and presented a three-part report on recent and current activities of the committee.

Crawford Atkinson, committee member, appealed for a positive approach to business by Pampans and gave figures indicating that what has been termed a nationwide "recession" has not adversely affected the local economy. He cited figures based on utility service units in support of his appeal which show that Pampa has maintained a healthy growth since the 1960 census.

Chamber Manager E. O. "Red" Wedgworth had the next segment of the program and explained to the membership the cost of the currently planned campaign of advertising boosting Pampa as a location for industry. Advertising slated includes a full-page ad in the Texas Parade, official magazine of Texas, and a series starting in September in the East and Midwest editions of the "Wall Street Journal."

Wedgworth, supported in talks from the floor by Paul Crossman, George Scott and Fred Neslage, asked that local businessmen contribute to the campaign financially as a large amount of money which will not be available from any other source will be needed to "do a good job" in the advertising promotion.

Jack Vaughn, another committee member, emphasized the remarks of Atkinson and Wedgworth and urged immediate and enthusiastic support of the project.

The program was then turned over to Congressman Rogers, who was received with a standing ovation.

Interspersing his remarks with barbs of humor, Congressman Rogers threw his support behind the current CoC project of promoting Pampa as a site for new industry and encouraged the membership to work to make sure that the community gets its share of the coming economic and industrial expansion of the nation.

Rogers said this country was never stronger because of its talent in the fields of agriculture, manufacture and "salesmanship."

"It is going ahead and going to stay ahead," he said.

He decried the notion that the nation may be "slipping back" and pointed to recent achievements in the rocket and missile fields.

JFK Indicates In News Conference That...

US May Test After Russians

By ALVIN SPIVAK
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has raised the possibility that the United States might conduct another nuclear test series if forthcoming Soviet tests "present a further risk to our security."

The President discussed the nuclear arms race, Berlin, the balance of payments, taxes, his legislative program and other subjects in a historic news conference televised live to Europe via the Telstar satellite.

About five minutes of the President's 30-minute meeting with 372 newsmen was telecast. But it gave him an opportunity to speak directly to the European people on Russia's decision to resume nuclear testing.

The telecast started during Kennedy's reply to a question on Berlin, covered his statements on nuclear tests and Congress, and ended during his remarks on the balance of payments.

The President, whose television audience was estimated at up to 100 million persons, said the United States would be reluctant to carry out another series of nuclear tests.

He said the current U.S. tests were due to Russia's breach of the moratorium last fall and said the new Soviet tests would have to be analyzed to see if they were a threat to U.S. security.

"In this constant pursuit, every one desires to be last," Kennedy said. "Of course, it increases the danger for the human race. We are very reluctant to test."

"We will not test again unless we are forced to or unless our security is threatened, or because as a result of new Soviet tests we find ourselves unable to meet our commitments to our own people and those who are allied with us."

On other subjects Kennedy made these points:

Telstar — The communications satellite is "another indication of the extraordinary world in which we live." Understanding which will come from the speedier communications "is bound to increase the well-being and security of all people."

Berlin — "We have made no progress recently on a Berlin settlement." Secretary of State Dean Rusk will stay in Geneva to confer with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko "if a useful purpose could be served."

Balance of Payments — The United States is not going to devalue the dollar. He expects this country to be able to bring its balance of payments into line by next year.

Taxes — He will decide after he gets economic reports for July whether to ask for an income tax cut to stimulate the economy. Reports thus far have been "a mixed bag" showing some good and some disappointing signs.

Legislation — The American voters will decide in November whether they want to "put anchor down or to sail" under his program. He said they have a clear choice between electing Republicans who oppose his proposals and Democrats who support them.

Strikes — He does not see any need at this time for additional labor-management legislation to cope with strikes.

Approval For $4.6 Billion Aid Program Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House today was expected to approve President Kennedy's $4.6 billion foreign aid program, with strenuous objections from Rep. H. R. Gross.

Gross, who slipped an amendment past the House earlier to prohibit U.S. participation in a United Nations bond program only to have the amendment cut out later, said he would seek a roll-call vote.

But Gross conceded there was little chance of preventing the bill from going to the White House. It already has Senate approval. Administration forces said the legislation represents a major victory for Kennedy. A conference committee killed Gross' amendment and a Senate amendment that would have banned aid to Poland and Yugoslavia.

The bill sets the spending limit for foreign aid during the current year. The actual money must be appropriated in separate legislation.

Other congressional news.

Estes — The House government operations subcommittee recalled officials of the Agriculture Department's Internal Audit Division to ask again why they didn't finish their investigation of Billie Sol Estes before he was arrested. Committee Chairman L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., said the case could have been broken months earlier if the auditors had pressed the inquiry.

Taxes — Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., confirmed that he would lead a fight to cut a $1.1 billion tax reform bill. Byrd said he wants to drop the revenue-losing measure in order to balance the bill's money-losing provisions with its money-making provisions.

Nuclear Test Is Cancelled In Pacific

By CHARLES BERNARD
United Press International
HONOLULU (UPI) — The United States today called off its scheduled nuclear test over Johnston Island in the South Pacific. The test was rescheduled for 10 p.m. HST tonight (3 a.m. Wednesday EST).

The official Joint Task Force 8 announcement said the test was postponed because of unfavorable weather. The shot was delayed for five hours before it was finally scrubbed.

No Bodies Found In Bomber's Wreckage

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UPI) — Rescue workers at the scene of the crash of a B47 jet bomber in southwestern Montana reported this morning they were unable immediately to find any bodies in the smoldering wreckage.

The plane crashed in a ball of flame at the 8,500 foot level of Emigrant Mountain 35 miles south of here Monday night.

Park County Sheriff Albert Nickelson radioed from the crash site that an unopened parachute pack was among the items found in the still smoking chunks of twisted metal.

The U.S. Forest Service said there was a possibility that some or all of the four member crew ejected before the four engine bomber plowed into the mountain. It was also possible the men were burned up in the flaming wreckage, the Forest Service said.

The plane was positively identified as an Air Force B47. The wreckage was strewn over the side of a cliff. Positive identification came from part of a wing and a 25-foot section of the tail.

The wreckage of the plane was first reached by two Forest Service employees at 2:30 a.m. (MST). It was burning fiercely and they were unable to get close enough to conduct a thorough search.

The plane plunged into the

Algeria In Hands Of Ben Bella

ALGIERS (UPI) — Four Europeans were slain Monday night in a gunbattle which erupted in Algiers following virtual capitulation of the Algerian Provisional Government (GPRA) to dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

Police could not determine immediately what caused the shooting — the city's first major violence in three weeks — but it appeared to reflect the tension that has been building up in the power struggle between Ben Bella and Provisional Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

Informed sources said the GPRA had agreed to go along with Ben Bella's seven-member political bureau if the National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA) ratifies it.

Ratification was a foregone conclusion. The CNRA had been prepared to go it last May but the GPRA members prevented a vote by walking out of the meeting.

Just when the 72-member CNRA would meet was not certain but it was clear that Ben Bella had seized the initiative and was rapidly gaining political support.

GPRA Minister of State Rabah Bitat became the latest to defect from Ben Khedda's ranks. He left Algiers Monday for Tiemcen to assume his appointment to the political bureau along with Ben Bella and two others already in Tiemcen.

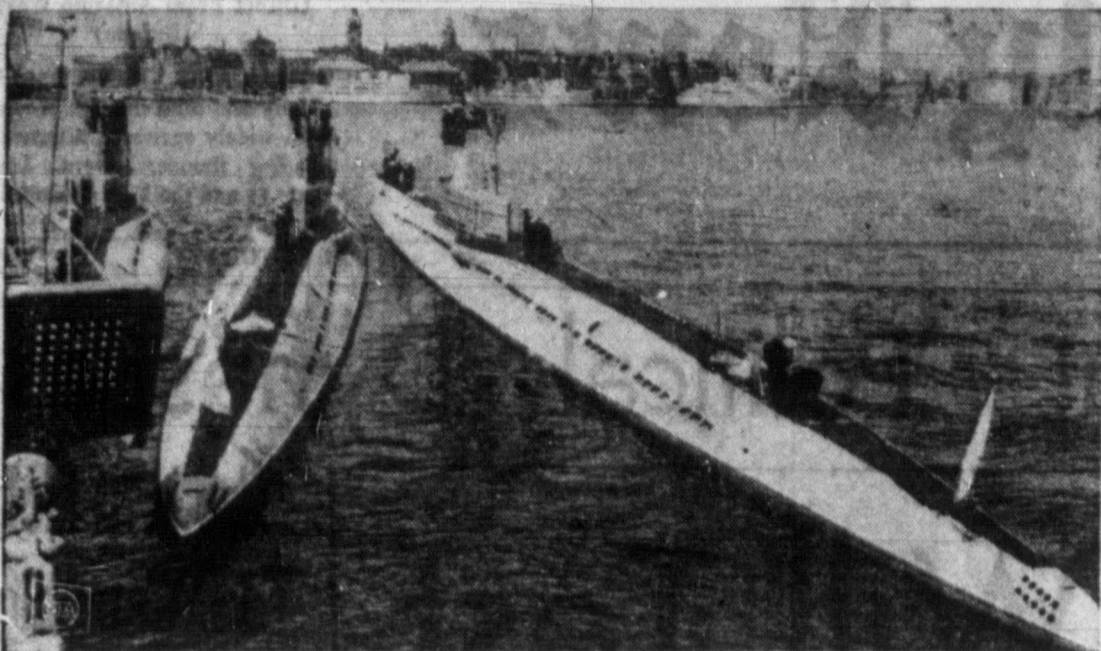

The GPRA was further weakened by the resignation of its foreign minister, Saad Dahlab, who said the confused political situation prevented him from serving his country.

Commission To Meet Tomorrow

Pampa's City Commission will consider hiring the firm of Forrest and Cotten, consulting engineers of Dallas, to make an extensive study of the city's water and sewer needs in relation to the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority at its weekly meeting tomorrow night in City Hall.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer said today that the commission will also hear a report by Howard W. Kenyon of the Texas Municipal Bond Company on a proposed bond issue which would help finance highway improvements in the south and east portions of the city.

The meeting is scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Fx-Iranian Premier Had Plenty Enemies

By MICHAEL CLAFFEY
United Press International
Dr. Ali Amiri, who quit as Iranian premier last week with a blast at U.S. aid policies, apparently made too many enemies in his losing battle to wipe out corruption and inefficiency in Iran.

Amiri's ambitious program, ranging from tax reforms to redistribution of land to peasants, drew bitter attacks from both right and left.

The ex-premier battled back. He fought the despotic landowners, the army, the outlawed Tudeh (Communist party) and the left-wing nationalist followers of former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

He apparently even antagonized Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi himself.

At the same time Amiri, a former ambassador to Washington who was considered pro-American, came under near constant fire of Moscow Radio because of his pro-Western policies.

"Dr. Amiri" never had a chance," one Iranian source said. "The only thing he could have done to set the country straight was to shoot everybody in power and then start with a clean slate."

See It As Game
There was some speculation, however, that Amiri's dramatic resignation may have been part of a desperate game aiming for stronger support.

According to his line of thought he may have hoped that by creating a crisis he could convince the United States and the Shah that he was the only man capable of running the country and solving its problems.

On Thursday the Shah, in what some regarded as a temporizing move, appointed a close friend of Amiri, 43-year-old Assadollah Alam, as premier-designate to succeed him.

Amiri came into power in May, 1961, promising reforms to end monumental corruption and pledging support for the West. He was vigorous and quick of step, and his puckish grin gave confidence to many who had doubted anything could be done with the ancient kingdom.

Hits At U.S.
He resigned Wednesday complaining of "broken health and lashing at the United States. He charged the United States had undermined his position by cutting down military aid to Iran, a country that has a common border with Russia for more than 1,000 miles.

At this point, it appears that Amiri resigned because he found too many people against him and not enough with him. His term in office also undoubtedly taught him that the most drastic measures are needed to pull Iran out of its lethargy.

Amiri took over from Dr. Sharif Emami, whose government fell because of blatant election frauds, with a massive reform program. Amiri put into effect a land redistribution plan, immediately alienating the rich land owners.

He had the Shah dissolve the Majlis (parliament) and this set off in full cry the nationalist elements which rally around the name of former Premier Mossadegh. The Tudeh party, working underground and from bases in Russia and Communist East Germany, joined the nationalists.

Demand Elections
They protested the suspension of the Majlis and Amiri's failure to hold elections. The Western-educated lawyer and economist said no elections would be held until a new election law, which would make it impossible to cheat, was drafted. He held firm on this point.

His fall hurts the West. Iran is a key member of the Central Treaty Organization. Its ancient enemy — Russia — is poised on the other side of a long border, growing stronger by the month.

Government trouble in Iran means a general dislocation in the Western defense posture in the Middle East. Prolongation of the crisis in Iran would serve the purposes of the Soviet Union.

The pack would operate with hydrogen peroxide jets and is designed to position and stabilize a crewman or astronaut during operations outside a spaceship. Handwriting On Wall For Pompeii Kilroys

POMPEII, Italy (UPI) — Judging from the number of writings found scratched into the plaster of houses still being uncovered in the ancient city of Pompeii, the city must have been one of frustrated writers as well as of pleasure, wine and dalliance.

But authorities don't want any more modern Kilroys adding to the ancient wall scribbles. So a new notice has gone out to visitors that the practice is forbidden.

Most of the writings put on the walls before that July morning in 79 A.D. when Vesuvius blew its top and wrapped the city in deadly smoke and ashes were of an amorous nature, true to the fame of the town.

But not all the writers in the old days were impressed with what Pompeii had to offer. A group of young Romans who traveled all the way from the capital to taste some of Pompeii's pleasures did not hesitate to scribble their disappointment on a wall. Wrote they: "Venimus Hic Cupido Multo Magis, Ire Cupimus Ut Liceat Nostros Visere Romae Lares" ("We came here full of desire. Much more we now desire to go back where we can see our homes in Rome.")

Not all of the lost city has been dug out and many things remain to be uncovered, but on one thing archeologists are agreed — many more amorous writings will be found.

The infection of wall scribbling spread as the years went by. Some of the newer inscriptions have become "antiques" in their own right. One is on a wall along the road leading to the Forum and is dated 1810. "Open your door, Rosanna," it says. "My heart burns and I will destroy the world as Vesuvius did Pompeii."

Rosanna must have opened the door, for the world is still with us. While it is strictly forbidden to add current sentiments to those scratched 2,000 years ago by the old Pompeians and their guests, there just aren't enough guards on hand to keep an eye on all that goes on in every street of the dead city.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Word that the United States had invited Japanese industry to establish plants in the United States created both surprise and mild amusement along the Japanese.

The invitation, of course, was not confined to the Japanese but has been extended to European industry as well, and is part of a U. S. campaign to reverse a trend which sees more dollars leave the country each year than come in.

Japanese reaction sprang both from the fact that Japan herself think of the United States in terms of needing help, and also from the fact that Japan herself is worried about a similar problem.

There also is the question of the type of Japanese industry that could be established profitably in the United States.

Textiles certainly would not be among them, nor would most others that come immediately to mind.

Reserves Go Down
Meanwhile, Japan's own foreign exchange reserves have been falling dangerously; from more than $2 billion at the start of 1961 to $1.5 billion by September.

Furthermore, in trade between the United States and Japan, Japan comes out on the losing side.

In 1961, U. S. exports to Japan were estimated at more than $1.7 billion. U. S. imports from Japan at the same time came to less than $1.1 billion, or to a deficit of more than $700 million.

Of major United States exports to Japan in 1961, shipments of wheat alone declined.

Up, some more than 50 per cent, were sales of raw cotton, iron and steel scrap, industrial machinery, soybeans, coal and petroleum. Iron and steel scrap sales leaped 72 per cent to $201 million.

In the same year, most categories of Japanese exports to the United States declined—clothing, iron and steel, toys, plywood, pottery and carpets. Sales of radio receivers advanced by 1.4 per cent to $48 million.

Reason for Imports
Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's plan to double Japan's national product during the 1960s is based upon a tripling of imports from the United States. So, U. S. exports of machinery and vehicles went up from $85 million in 1956 to $204 million in 1960.

The result of this full-throttle buildup has led to Japan's present balance of payments difficulties.

Japan is one of those countries to whom "export or die" is a painful truth. Japanese industrialists feel that with voluntary restrictions already in effect on more than 50 categories of its shipments to the United States, they already have done more than their share.

Grain Pipelines
CHICAGO (UPI) — Grain piped from the plains to the big cities? It's a transportation possibility, along with the piping of citrus juice, dairy products, even coal.

Long-haul piping of chemicals, coal, paper pulp, poultry feed and food products — already handled in bulk by pipe for short distances — is made possible by advances in pipe material, and installation methods during recent years, according to the Tube Turns Division of Chemetron Corporation.

Fancy Working On The Railroad

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (UPI) — A "home away from home" is no idle boast of a railroad signal of this midwestern city. Crew members are luxuriating in such innovations to usual bunk car living as forced air heating, and electric blankets, shower facilities and aluminum windows. With screens and storm windows. Tapping off the honey comforts of the completely refurbished bunk car is a recreation room at one end, complete with lounge chairs, television set and writing desks.

In line with its policy of providing comfortable quarters for its much-traveled signal forces, the railroad is equipping other erstwhile Pullman cars with similar conveniences for all crews.

Giant Firms On Way Out, Says Corporation's Adviser

By FREDERICK H. TREESH
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — The trend in American business this decade undoubtedly will be the breakup of the biggest corporations, according to Jackson Martindell, adviser to corporate management.

That appraisal is based on Martindell's belief that most of the biggest companies are too large to be managed effectively.

"Big business, big unions and big government are ruining this country," said Martindell, chairman of the board of the American Institute of Management.

"Bigness results in inefficiency and corruption, like in some of our city administrations. Size is destroying some of our cities."

Martindell said he believes a breakup of some of America's biggest businesses would be in the best interest of management, employees, stockholders and the public.

When does a corporation become too big?

"Certainly it is too big when it has too many employees, too many products, seeks too much political power and is dishonestly run," Martindell said.

"When you have a company that produces 200,000 different items, you've got a situation where the president couldn't possibly know what all he produces. If he doesn't know that, what could he know?"

Martindell said that as a rule of thumb no corporation should be more than a $500 million operation. That, he said, is the level when a company starts to fall apart.

"What has been the result of too much bigness?"

"Businesses become poorer managed every day," said Martindell, whose management institute has analyzed management techniques and trends for 14 years. "The men running industry today are old, tired, rich and lazy."

Martindell said the American Institute of Management undertook in 1948 to study 30,000 businesses to find out which were excellently managed. He said it found a great deal of interest in management, a great awareness of the need for effective management and a large supply of real ability among managers.

"But," he said, "all three have diminished in the last 14 years."

"People are not becoming more stupid, nor are they becoming less well-trained. They have become less honest, less aggressive, less industrious and less willing to assume leadership."

As a result, Martindell said, companies which 14 years ago had anywhere from three to 10 men who could assume to leadership now are lucky to have one.

He enumerated bigness, a growing gap in liaison and understanding between top management and lower-level employees and a lack of adversity as the biggest cause of declining management capabilities.

Martindell said inflation, which permeates an outward appearance of prosperity, glosses over

Area Resident Is Elected To Post

PANHANDLE (SpI) — Mrs. R. F. Chisolm, Norman, Okla., the former Mildred York of Panhandle, has been elected to a three-year term on the University of Oklahoma Senate, as a representative from the College of Education.

The Senate is composed of representatives from all of the Colleges in the University, and serves as a policy making and advisory group for the president of the University.

Mrs. Chisolm, the daughter of the late Dr. Orphus York and Mrs. York, is an Assistant Professor of Education, teaching history and journalism in the Laboratory School and is supervisor of student teachers in Social Studies. She has been with the University since 1945.

Mrs. Chisolm is a graduate of the normal character - building adversity in business. He classifies such adversity as "business belly aches."

In the last 30 years, few businessmen have had anything to make men out of them," Martindell said. "They have no chance to get the kind of experience which is character - building. Adversity makes men out of boys."

Panhandle High School and received her bachelor's degree from Central College, Mt. Pleasant, Mich. She received her master's degree from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich. She had taught in Mt. Pleasant and in Paul's Valley, Okla., previous to going to the University.

Grid Player Stunned — Joe Casas, an all-star football player from Dumas, jumped on a tractor during a thunderstorm just seconds before a bolt of lightning hit. He was stunned and hospitalized.

Traffic Group Gets Reports

Highlight of the Pampa City Traffic Commission meeting held yesterday in the Coronado Inn was a report from E. E. Shelhamer, education chairman, on a recent meeting of several civic clubs to consider possibilities of promoting safer driving through education of children on bicycles as well as teenagers and adults.

Shelhamer reported that future meetings will be held with any civic groups interested in the safety program.

Bob Hudson, president, presided at the meeting. He announced the following civic groups have shown their interest in the safety program: Kiwanis, Rotary, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Altrusa Club.

Economy Expansion Is Still At Slow Pace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has reported that the nation's economy expanded in April, May and June at virtually the same disappointingly slow pace posted in the first three months of the year.

The Council of Economic Advisers reported that the gross national product—the sum of all business activities—rose by $7 billion in the spring quarter to a record high annual rate of $352 billion.

The gain, however, was not markedly better than the $6.4 billion increase in the first quarter, a pace which the administration had hoped was merely a slow start.

The figures released today confirmed that the business picture is far from buoyant. Many economists in government and elsewhere fear it is running out of steam, or may even have done so in June. Production, employment and income figures reported by the government in the past few days indicated that business in June stayed essentially at May levels.

Speculation has arisen whether the economy is merely going through a slight pause to be followed by a renewed upturn or whether a fifth post-war recession is beginning.

The three-man council has been advising President Kennedy to seek an immediate tax cut to give consumers and business new purchasing power and thereby stimulate the economy. But the treasury and the President are not yet persuaded that the situation warrants such action.

Average income for every man, woman and child continued its long-term upward trend. The April-May-June gain was $25 per person, lifting the yearly total to $2,049. But allowing for price increases, the gain for the quarter was cut to $15 per person.

Early-American Goes Well Among Dealers

By IRENE MACPHERSON United Press International
Dallas (UPI)—Your dealer is betting your new furniture will be early American.

And the "parlor" is back. Early-American is what buyers from all over the country ordered up last week at the Dallas market center, the booming home furnishings mart of the Southwest.

Some 1,700 manufacturers jammed three hotel-sized buildings to the skylights with everything a housewife could possibly spend her budget money on. And 3,500 buyers swarmed over the exhibits, taking notes and enjoying the hospitality of their market center hosts.

Next to early American in popularity among buyers was Danish modern. The highly-touted high-style Spanish and Italian influence spread through the manufacturers' displays. Many buyers praised the new designs but took a wait-and-see attitude. They liked them, but don't know whether you would.

This included everything from a patio dance and theater parties to tiny-waisted cuties in bright green tights serving coffee, soft drinks and doughnuts to the customers.

Chair Goes Begging
Carrying out the early American trend was an authentic Texas-style captain's chair — six feet high and five feet wide. It cost the manufacturers $300 to make it, but they promised it free to the first man who could fill it. So far — no takers. Even in Texas.

But orders came in fast during the week-long show for other early American and colonial styles. Some manufacturers backed up 80 per cent of their sales in these lines.

Among the new touches are children's bunk beds with pull-down desks built into the footboard — handy for crowded rooms. Dining tables with pedestal bases are outselling the square style with four legs.

Another new element is the addition of handpainted tiles showing scenes of early-American life set on colonial hutches, cocktail tables and lowboys.

Return to Yesterday
But colored crown glass in hutch doors and little bright brass rails in open shelves provide a flight into the past.

Whatever style you decide on, you'll probably use it to furnish the parlor as elegantly as the budget will allow.

Space Research Dazzles Airmen

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Anyone who has ever looked at an exploding flash bulb and then tried to read his watch can sympathize with four U.S. Air Force volunteers helping in space flight research.

They participated in initial experiments by eye specialists at the U.S. Air Force Aerospace Medical Center to determine how long it takes for a space pilot to read his controls after being temporarily blinded by the sun.

Capt. Sanford L. Severin of the ophthalmology branch at Brooks Air Force Base tested four volunteers by dazzling them with a flash of light.

It then took the volunteers six to 30 seconds to regain sufficient vision to see small blinking lights on a testing machine. There were variations according to the intensity of the flash and the brightness of the test lights.

Severin's report said astronauts and pilots face many situations where they have to discriminate details of a dimly illuminated object shortly after exposure to a more highly illuminated field.

"The pilot of a high performance jet bomber must be able to read his instrument panel, even if exposed to the flash of a small atomic weapon," he said. "And an astronaut who is dazzled as his space craft enters the bright portion of the orbit must retain visual discrimination."

Severin warned "if instruments cannot be read during a critical phase of the mission, the results may be disastrous."

He said the experiments on two flight surgeons, a pilot and a staff ophthalmologist prove the reliability of testing equipment. Results also proved that recovery from dazzle is consistent and repetitive.

Severin said more experiments are needed to clearly define the ability of a person to recover from a dazzling flash.

Peaches Into Filters
NEW YORK (UPI)—A 48-pound bushel of peaches could supply enough cellulose to make the basic filter material for 3,800 cigarettes, according to the Brown & Williamson Corp., which introduced the vegetable compound filter in one of its brands (Viceroy) just 10 years ago.

The basic substance of this material, now used in virtually all major filter cigarette brands, is found in all forms of plant life.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — President Kennedy put to immediate political use Monday the momentous first formal exchange of live television between the United States and Europe.

When he told 100 million European viewers Russia was to blame for the nuclear test impasse, the use of instantaneous global video to win men's minds began—with America's technical head start enabling it to take the offensive.

Although some Europeans are understood to feel the President's televised news conference should not have injected the cold war into Monday's festive occasion, it was bound to happen sooner or later. It goes without question that Russia will employ this massive new communications weapon to wage its ideological battles.

The Soviet Union, which could have participated in Monday's Telstar extravaganza, decided against it because it would have had no control over such incoming matters as the President's comments.

Marks Great Day
In all, Monday's achievement marked television's greatest day—with both brief shows properly stressing international understanding, and with an estimated 100 million American viewers sitting in on an exhilarating tour of this nation and Europe.

America's broadcast to Europe came first. As our opening shot of the Statue of Liberty came in clear to Europe, Richard Dimbleby of the British Broadcasting Corp. shouted: "Go, America, go!"

There followed shots of the New York skyline; the Golden Gate bridge in San Francisco; America's borders with Canada and Mexico, emphasizing friendship; a Chicago Cubs-Philadelphia Phillies baseball game; the Seattle World's Fair; the wide open West with horsemen and an Indian, and the Mormon Tabernacle Choir singing at Mt. Rushmore.

In addition to Kennedy, Europeans also saw and heard astronauts John Glenn and Wally Schirra from Cape Canaveral, where they expressed America's wish to share space information with the world.

United Nations Show
There were also shots of the United Nations; the French-Canadian city of Quebec, and a rehearsal of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" from Stratford in Ontario, Canada. At Mt. Rushmore, where the heads of four presidents are carved, Chet Huntley quoted one of them, Abraham Lincoln: "As our case is new, so we must think anew."

Three hours later, Howard K. Smith, who co-hosted with Huntley and Walter Cronkite, said "Go, Europe, Go!" And in return we got a look at the Champs Elysees and Louvre in Paris; a West German steel mill; the Vatican's Sistine Chapel, the Colosseum and an open air opera in Italy; a waving crowd in Communist Yugoslavia, and other sights. Enormous is the word for the production. It gave one hope that,

A Fable To Wring The Heart

The Lighter Side
By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Any similarity between a congressional press release and an Aesop fable usually is only coincidental.

Many of the statements made by congressmen may sound like fables, but this is because they are swaddled in political circumlocutions.

Seldom do you find a member of Congress who deliberately and openly engages in allegorical composition.

One such rarity has just turned up in the person of Rep. Frank Thompson, a New Jersey Democrat and nonconformist.

Wishing to apprise his constituents of his views on the dust-up between President Kennedy and certain business leaders, Thompson did not content himself with the ordinary type of declaration.

Spake A Parable
Instead, he reared back and spake a parable, the text of which was duly transcribed and forwarded to news-media in the capital.

I am not qualified to say whether Thompson's "ling" as a fabulist illuminates the issues in the tradition of Aesop, but I certainly can vouch for its novelty.

Following is a condensed version.

To Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, Pampa, on the birth of a boy at 5:57 p.m. weighing 6 lbs. 2 oz.

"There came a time in the jungle when the friendly old lion that had reigned in harmony with all the animals retired to a comfortable old farm. A bitter fight took place over who would succeed him, but a slim majority of the animals finally chose a young lion with a very bushy mane.

"Now, because of their size, some of the larger beasts tried to convince the lion that what was good for them was good for the jungle. This made the lion angry.

"My father told me that many big animals were sorry, old beasts," he roared.

Strange Thing Happened
"Then a strange thing happened. Through that mysterious process of communications in the jungle, the word was passed that the lion was unfriendly to big beastness.

"The Jungle Chamber of Elephants said, 'We have lost confidence in the lion.' The National Association of Rhinoceroses said, 'The lion has created a bad climate for us.'

"The pitiful cries of 'unfriendly' and 'no confidence' affected the lion deeply. He said, 'There must be something we can do to show them how much we love them and to make them feel confident in us.'

"So the lion set about soothing the larger animals. He invited some of them to lunch, and said he would try to have taxes cut.

"Now you are getting the COMPUTER ACCURACY IS A MUST...

A computer denotes accuracy. But a correct answer is produced only through proper management of this highly effective machine. It's the same in the natural gas business. The correct answers are accurate forecasts of our customers' needs. At NGPL, we arrive at these answers through expert management and supervision of a multimillion dollar gas transmission system.

Computer accuracy is a must because it helps us keep gas rates reasonable and our facilities in condition to meet ever-increasing demands.

Autumn Finds Hemlines Drop With Gentle Thud

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press International
PARIS (UPI)—Hemlines, sleeveless and suit jackets dropped around the world. Designer Jacques Esterel's curtain-raising of Paris' fall and winter exhibited less of the females than last year.

Some of his black crepe cock dresses gave a peep of the leg's knee as she stepped through the Esterel salon jammed with fashion reporters and buyers all over the world. Out the daytime tweeds and slung as much as an inch over the knee. It was not a stic drop that could ruin your wardrobe, but enough of a nge to be noticeable. Women weary of chilly arms note that nearly all of erel's suit and coat sleeves e snug around the wrist.

to bring the waistline back in view again. Pierre Cardin is another important designer showing later today. But before he even unveiled his clothes for the season a large portion of Paris' womanhood was up in arms about it. Advance whispers that Cardin had lowered his skirts to the top of the calf—along with some other top stylists—raised a cry among the couturiers' "subjects" in Paris. Whether women will obey the inch-longer, knee-covering skirts reportedly planned by several designers, was a hotly disputed point. On Paris newspaper interviewed Parisiennes, from shoppings to movie queens, and 75 per cent stuck up for short, knee length skirts.

ASK THE DESIGNER by gaile dugas

Dear Gaile: I am 13 years old, and have blonde hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion. In August, I am going to a wedding. I would like some advice on what to wear. Should I wear a white dress? If so, what kind? What type dress would be appropriate? Also, what color? I am planning on wearing two-inch heels.—J.S.

Dear J.S.: Since you do not know if it is to be a daytime or evening wedding; we'll have to assume that it is a daytime church wedding. Advice on what wear comes from designer Adina Rosenberg of The Look. She says:

appropriate? Or black net? And what color would you suggest? Also, I am wearing baby pearls.—P.J.

Dear P.J.: I talked your fashion problem over with Mr. Fred of John Fredericks and this is what he advises:

"First, I'd rule out black. You are wearing a black dress and pearls; you should have one flash of color in your hat. Let the hat be light and lovely and summery in a sheer organza, organza or sheer horsehair (if it's a garden wedding).

"Whatever you choose, the hat should be light enough in material to allow the light to come through and create a lovely look! If you should decide to switch to champagne gloves, then I'd suggest a hat in champagne tulle or a hat in a high color such as emerald green.

"In this case, change the pearls to an emerald-green jewel and wear black gloves. Or you might have a sheer hat in peach, pale pink, coral or pale yellow. Any one of these would be suitable for a wedding. It's always wise to avoid too much black when you are going to be a wedding guest."

Please send your fashion problems to Gaile Dugas in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Dear Abby... Male Wedding Ring Can Injure Or Kill

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please say something in your column about how dangerous it is for a man who works around machinery to wear a ring. I was one of those foolish wives who insisted that her husband wear his wedding ring at all times. Tonight he is in the hospital minus one finger. (The one with his wedding ring.) I was told he was lucky it didn't cost him his life. People believe what they read. Please warn them before it's too late.

foolish because I think maybe mine should be closed, too. Is there any rule about this?
OPEN EYES
DEAR OPEN EYES: There is no rule — but I think that's the time a girl should keep her eyes open.

THE GUILTY ONE
DEAR GUILTY: Your letter is ample warning. And while we're on the subject, I'll add another bit of helpful testimony along the same line:

DEAR ABBY: I have an adorable little neighbor. She visits me frequently and I love to have her, but here's my problem: She never rings or knocks, she just pops in. I don't latch my doors because the children are constantly running in and out. This neighbor has frightened me half to death several times by her unannounced appearances. How can I tell her to ring the bell or knock, without having her think I'm snooty?

DEAR ABBY: Here is how an electrician's wife lost her husband. His wedding ring wore a tiny hole through his insulated glove. The fatal contact was made and he died instantly. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a small burn where his wedding ring encircled his finger. So if an electrician's wife wants to become an electrician's widow, she should put a wedding ring on her husband's finger and insist that he wear it to work.

NOT SNOOTY
DEAR NOT: Clip this item, underline the "adorable" and send it to her with a few freshly baked cookies. If she's truly adorable and has a sense of humor, she'll not take offense. (That's usually the way the cookie crumbles.)

WITNESS!
DEAR ABBY: Does it mean anything special when a fellow closes his eyes while he is kissing you? I keep mine open, and when I see his closed I feel sort of

55TH YEAR TUESDAY, JULY 24, 1962 11

O'Toole Comes Close To Fame

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Jim O'Toole shrugged off his near miss of the first perfect game in modern National League history with the quip that coming close only counts in pitching horseshoes.

Even so, the 25-year-old Cincinnati southpaw said he was "perfectly happy" to settle for his one-hit 3-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday night.

O'Toole pitched perfect ball for 7 1/3 innings before Bob Skinner lined a double to right centerfield to break the spell. The only other Pirate to reach base was Bill Virdon, who walked with two out in the ninth.

After O'Toole got past the first six innings, the partisan crowd of 11,168 at Crosley Field cheered every strike he threw.

"I felt I could pitch forever with the fans behind me like that," O'Toole laughed later.

They cheered even more as he struck out Dick Stuart to lead off the eighth, only to groan in mass dismay as Skinner broke it up after the count on him had gone to two balls and one strike.

Pattern Was Changed

With a 1-and-1 count on Skinner, O'Toole came in with a pitch he thought was a strike; plate umpire Ed Sudol called it a ball, however.

"That changed my pattern on Skinner," O'Toole said. "It was a close pitch and I thought I had it. But when it was called a ball, I came back again with a low pitch and that's the one Skinner hit. Had the one before been called a strike, I would have made the next pitch high."

The closest any modern NL pitcher came to a perfect game previously was Harvey Haddix, who hurled 12 perfect innings for the Pirates against Milwaukee in 1959 but lost the game in 13 innings.

O'Toole registered his ninth victory and third shutout. He struck out six and only seven balls were hit to the outfield off him.

The Reds scored their runs, all charged to loser Bob Friend (10-10), in the sixth inning when they put together six singles for their sixth straight triumph.

Dodgers Down Cards

The Los Angeles Dodgers remained two games in front with a 9-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, San Francisco defeated Houston, 6-5, in 14 innings, and the Philadelphia Phillies clipped the Chicago Cubs, 5-3, in the only other NL games scheduled.

Only two were on tap in the American League where the Los Angeles Angels licked the Baltimore Orioles, 6-5, in 14 innings, and the Minnesota Twins downed the Detroit Tigers, 8-1.

Maury Wills, Frank Howard and Jim Gilliam hammered homers in the Dodgers' victory over the Cardinals. Southpaw Johnny Podres spaced nine hits and didn't walk a batter in winning his sixth game. Ray Sadecki was the losing pitcher.

Fastballer Bob Bolin, something of a forgotten figure during the early part of the season, won his sixth straight for the Giants without a loss in holding the Colts to seven hits.

Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda made it easy for Bolin. Willie socked his 19th homer in the seventh after driving in a previous run with a double, and Cepeda had two doubles and a single to account for two more runs. The loss was charged to Hal Woodeshick.

Phils Rally For Win

Held scoreless for six innings by rookie Cal Koonce, the Phillies rallied for all their runs in the last three innings to beat the Cubs. Pinch hitter Billy Klaus' sacrifice fly in the eighth drove in what proved to be the winning run and brought Jack Baldschun his sixth win. Don Demeter hit his 15th homer. Reliever Don Elston was the loser.

Part of the game was transmitted to Europe via Telstar, marking the first time a major league game was seen there on "live" television.

Local Nine Wins 19-0 In Finale

Pampa's Northern league all-stars unleashed a vicious 15-hit attack Monday night to slaughter the Childress All-Stars, 19-0 and win the area little league baseball tournament at the Optimist Park.

The Northern all-stars earned the right to meet Hereford at 8 p.m. Thursday in the first round of the district tournament. The Carson county all-stars will meet the winner of area 1 in the other contest Thursday.

Phil Benton was the winning pitcher for Pampa Monday night, striking out 8 and walking 6. He gave up four hits. Dobbs was the losing pitcher.

Leading Pampa with the timber were Mike Pursley, with two home runs and a single and Marsh and Young, each of whom picked up three hits in four trips to the plate.

The Northern all-stars won the right to meet Childress with a narrow 8-7 win over the Western all-stars Saturday night.

Childress shutout the Memphis all-stars, 3-0 to reach the finals of the three-day tournament.

The winners of the two games Thursday night will meet Friday night for the district championship.

Colts Slam Borger, 10-4

Pampa's Colts bombed Borger, 10-4 Monday night in a Tri-State league contest at the Optimist park.

Walker was the winning pitcher for the Colts, walking 12 and striking out 8. Gariepy was the losing pitcher.

Leading the Colts with the timber were Schreiner, three for five, including a double; and Nutt and R. Stephens, each of whom picked up a pair of hits. One of Stephens' hits was a double.

The Colts scored three runs in the fourth and six more in the fifth inning to sew it up.

Pampa Wins Softball Tournament

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — Pampa's women's softball team won the Skellytown softball tournament Sunday with a crushing 14-7 victory over Stinnett in Skellytown.

Pampa had reached the finals in the two-day tourney by massacring Borger, 32-3 and Skellytown, 29-2 in Saturday's contests.

Anita Roe was the winning pitcher for Pampa in all three games.

Tonight the Pampa team hosts Panhandle at 8 p.m. at the Hobart street park.

Sports In Brief

AMERICANS SINK AUSTRIANS
VIENNA (UPI) — Brigham Young University's touring track team won seven of 10 events Monday in an international meet with Austria. A crowd of 3,000 watched the Americans win every event except the 200 and 800-meter runs and the 100-meter relay.

KALINE IS REACTIVATED
DETROIT (UPI) — Outfielder Al Kaline, sidelined since May 26 with a broken collarbone, and shortstop Don Buddin, recently obtained from Houston, have been placed on the Detroit Tigers active roster.

To make room for them, pitcher Jerry Casale and outfielder Purnal Goldy were optioned to Denver of the American Association.

Four Are Inducted Into Diamond Shrine

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (UPI) — Things were back to normal in this normally peaceful upstate New York community today, but the memory of misty-eyed and emotion-laden speeches by baseball's newest Hall of Famers will remain as long as the game can still lay claim as America's greatest pastime.

This tiny birthplace of baseball Monday was swelled by a crowd of more than 4,000 who watched Commissioner Ford Frick formally induct Jackie Robinson, Bob Feller, Bill McKechnie and Edd Roush into the Hall of Fame—the game's greatest tribute to its own stars.

Robinson, the first Negro to play in the major leagues and the first of his race to become a member of the Hall of Fame, was the most eloquent of the four newest inductees, all of whom made an attempt to express their thanks.

"I feel inadequate, but everything now seems complete," said the grey-haired 43-year-old former Brooklyn Dodger infielder, while fighting a growing lump in his throat.

"It could not have happened without the guidance of three of the most wonderful people I know, all of them are here today. One is a man whom I consider like a father, Branch Rickey," Jackie continued. "Then there is my mother, who taught me so many things, and my wife, Rachael, who has been such a wonderful inspiration to me."

Roush, former Cincinnati Reds and New York Giants outfielder who compiled a .323 lifetime batting average in 18 major league seasons, preceded Robinson, briefly thanking the (old timers) committee "that voted me in and I'm glad I'm in there along with the rest of the fellows."

McKechnie Seems Overcome

McKechnie, the only National League manager to lead three different teams to pennants, was third in line and appeared to be the most overcome with emotion.

"Anything I have contributed to baseball I've been repaid seven times seven," he said.

Feller, the former Cleveland Indians fireballer and the only pitcher to hurl three no-hit, no-run games in the post 1900-era, added a note of levity to the festivities, but there was a feeling among many who knew him best that he was merely trying to mask his emotions.

"Some of the records I hold are not listed on this plaque and some are in jeopardy," said the former Iowa farmboy. "But two records which are not (in jeopardy) are those for most bases on balls in one season and for a career."

An exhibition game scheduled between the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves at Abner Doubleday Field was washed out.

WESTBURY, N.Y. (UPI) — Mon Poulot, rated the top trotter in Belgium's history, has become the fourth entrant for the Roosevelt International trot at Roosevelt Raceway Aug. 18. The 6-year-old stallion joins Su Mac Lad of the United States, Eidelstetter of Germany and Nicias Granchamp of France.

Robinson Fights Lump

YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI) — Henry T. Adios has been assigned the No. 5 post position for Thursday night's $35,000 Empire Pace at Yonkers Raceway. Stanley Dancer will drive Henry T. Adios, who is rated an even-money choice to win the 1 1/4 mile event.

BELGIAN HORSE ENTERED

WESTBURY, N.Y. (UPI) — Mon Poulot, rated the top trotter in Belgium's history, has become the fourth entrant for the Roosevelt International trot at Roosevelt Raceway Aug. 18. The 6-year-old stallion joins Su Mac Lad of the United States, Eidelstetter of Germany and Nicias Granchamp of France.

McKinley Will Lead US Into Mexico Net Matches

CHICAGO (UPI)—Young Chuck McKinley prepared today to lead the U.S. Davis Cup team into its Mexico matches after having swept through the National Clay Courts championships at River Forest.

McKinley completed his mastery in men's singles Monday by defeating the top foreign seed, Fred Stolle of Australia, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4.

McKinley, 21, of St. Anne, Mo., had teamed with Dennis Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., last year to win the men's doubles in the National Clay Courts.

Marty Riessen, Big Ten collegiate champion whose father is coach at Northwestern, will join McKinley on the Davis Cup team.

He was named to replace top-ranked Whitney Reed, Alameda, Calif., who is in the midst of a poor season.

In the men's doubles finals, Riessen and Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif., defeated Stolle and Chris Crawford, Corpus Christi, Tex., 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Sunday, 1960 national collegiate champion Donna Floyd, 21, Arlington, Va., won the women's singles by defeating Carole Caldwell, of Santa Monica, 6-3, 6-1. Both were unseeded in the tourney.

MOVES TO FIFTH

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Gary Player's victory in the PGA golf tournament has moved him to fifth on the list on money winners for 1962. The top prize of $13,000 gave the South African a total of $41,513.34 for the year.

Arnold Palmer still leads the pack with $71,198.33 — $965 coming from the PGA tourney.

Koufax Is Out For Three Weeks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers pennant drive was dealt bad news Monday night by the club physician who confirmed that star southpaw Sandy Koufax would be lost for at least three and possibly six weeks because of a hand injury.

However, a club spokesman said Koufax would not be put on the 30-day disabled list or the possibility he might recover sooner than had been anticipated.

Dr. Robert Woods, the club physician, said an examination of Koufax indicated the hurler's left index finger was responding to treatment. He said an injury cut off the normal flow of blood to the finger.

In his last appearance, Koufax was forced to leave after only one inning because of the injury. He had a 14-5 record and had struck out more than 200 batters. Sandy appeared to be heading for his best season. Last year he posted an 18-13 mark and led the league with 209 strikeouts.

Gun Registration Law

It happens that we do not like guns. They are instruments designed for killing or for threatening. We do not happen to like either killing or threatening. But there is something far worse than guns. That is a registration law, such as the one proposed, which would require that all persons wishing to own a gun first register with the police department.

President Weighing Political Aspects Of Slowing Economy

PAUL SCOTT

It's Up To You

by HOWARD KERSHNER L. H. D.

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is carefully weighing political, as well as business, factors in determining the timing and nature of the tax cut he is preparing to submit to Congress. That is pointedly being made clear in his frequent White House "skull sessions" on this thorny decision.

Edson In Washington

JFK Economy Program Mangled By Congress

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Kennedy's program for economic growth is coming through the congressional wringer well mangled and of doubtful future value.

The new depreciation guidelines and rules — which were handled by Treasury administrative action, not by Congress — are greatly simplified and liberalized though still pretty complicated by anyone not a tax accountant.

They will save business an estimated $1.5 billion in taxes the first year, though this will be recovered by the government as new investments create new jobs and taxable income.

These are changes that business has been asking for since the last revision in 1942. On this point, Republican Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon, says the present Democratic administration yields second place to none in being pro-business.

But along with this, the President and Secretary Dillon emphasize there should be a special tax credit on new investments.

Here the Senate Finance Committee has just given its tentative approval to the 7 per cent credit in the House-passed tax bill.

The Senate Finance Committee has killed — subject to reversal on the Senate floor — the withholding tax on dividends and interest payments at the source.

Other parts of the Kennedy-Dillon tax program designed specifically to stimulate business and a higher economic growth rate are in trouble.

The President's request for authority to reduce taxes temporarily when unemployment rises 1 per cent in three to four months is given little chance for passage.

One trouble here is that this temporary cut idea conflicts with business and labor lobby drives for permanent tax cuts, effective as soon as possible.

The big question raised by this and other amendments to the House-passed tax bill which the Senate may adopt is whether the remaining bits and pieces of the Kennedy recovery and growth program will amount to enough to have any appreciable effect.

Major Kennedy programs which have to be considered in this respect include: Stand-by authority for the President to increase public works spending in periods of high unemployment and recession. This is closely coupled with the temporary tax cut proposal. It has passed the Senate, but not the House.

The Kennedy-Freeman farm program. It passed the Senate, was killed by the House, which is now considering a one-year extension of present programs.

The Kennedy trade expansion program. It has passed the House, will be taken up by the Senate Finance Committee if it completes action on the tax bill.

The only part of the President's program which has been passed by Congress and signed into law is the manpower retraining act.

Its purpose is to fit unemployed workers for new, higher skill jobs. It will take time to become fully operative and by itself it can't begin to overcome recession and promote growth, the main goal.

Thus, to prevent this reinfestation, the following measures must be adhered to: Because of the ease of drug treatment, administer drugs to all members of the household, provided your doctor agrees and makes appropriate changes in dosages for youngsters.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Spear & Staff's oil statistics bulletin says there is growing talk that investors are getting their confidence back and so may send stock prices a little higher.

"Maybe that's true, but we doubt it — and we certainly think it would be a mistake to start buying oils or any other stocks heavily on this premise." It adds that this is not the kind of action that spells an enduring advance — particularly with the latest batch of national economic indicators making for something less than bullish reading.

Harris, Upham & Co. says the sharp rise in the short interest may serve as a temporary spur to the market in the case of individual issues, but a more potent consideration would appear to be required to stimulate the general list for any length of time.

Thomson & McKinnon says the steel company half-year reports, just now beginning to come through, will be most significant to the market. "If they are mostly better than expected and if key outfits like Bethlehem and U.S. Steel pay their regular dividends, investors will be reassured — otherwise there will be little to cheer about."

The Worden Tape Reading Sheets say there is no doubt — "big money" is beginning to move into the steels. Last week it thought U.S. Steel and others looked better on the tape than they have in months.

Economist Eliot Janeway says the shrinkage in the economy has set a parallel trend in motion in the stock market and is creating a major, if highly selective, investment opportunity.

Contrariness Can Be A Wholesome Thing, Says Finance Letter Author

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Contrariness, said the publisher James L. Fraser, can be a wholesome thing when applied to the thinking processes. It sets up an early warning system.

This is the theory, he explained, that has made Humphrey B. Neill, sitting up in the state of Vermont where he emigrated from Wall Street, write a bi-weekly Fraser-Neill "Letter of Contrary Opinion" which has been going on for 13 years, covering matters of business, finance and socio-economics. In the 20s, Neill was "in" Wall Street. In a recent pamphlet, he explained:

"Quite frankly, the urge that first sent me on a quest that ended in the Neill theory of contrary opinions was the disappointment and disillusionment that come to everyone who seeks a method to beat the stock market."

On a recent visit here from Pawlet, Vt., where the letters are published, Fraser explained that Neill's theory, and his writings are not merely "agin" something or "cranky," but challenging; they call upon the reader to think for himself.

"Basically, a person who reads him may be interested in the market," explained Fraser, "but he has a liking for this letter as containing a viewpoint which he can not get elsewhere. Or, the person may have no market interest at all, but want something stimulating to thought in the general field of economics."
