

School Voting Set Saturday

Polls will open at 8 a. m. tomorrow in all of the county's school districts for the election of trustees. Three trustees for the Howard County Junior College also will be chosen during the day. Voting will be at the usual places throughout the county, and the polls will remain open until 7 p. m. Big Spring voting will be at the city hall fire station. Numerous write-ins are expected in the common school elections, as few candidates made formal applications for places on the ballots. In some of the districts, no names will be listed on ballots. Three candidates vie for two places on the board of the Big Spring Independent School District. They are Dick Simpson, Omar Jones and R. W. Thompson. At Coahoma, Clay Reid and Horace Wallin are candidates for two trusteeships. R. H. Sample is the only candidate listed in the Knott district where two vacancies occur this year.

Merchants See Little Effect From Tax Cuts

Merchants and transportation operators in Big Spring anticipate that the excise tax reductions will have little effect on the volume of business.

In many instances, the tax cut won't reach the customer. The surest point for it to make its way down, according to a survey, is transportation.

Pioneer Airlines, T&P, and the Bus lines lost no time in putting the cuts into effect. Many merchants were slicing charges to customers on luxury tax items that had been reduced exactly in the same ratio as the tax cut. Entertainment fields are not likely to be affected.

Transportation wise, here are a few of the examples of what the excise reduction will be:

Pioneer Air Lines—One way fare to Dallas was $0.59, now $1.09; round trip to Dallas was $3.52, now $7.51; one way to New York was $122.94, now $117.59; round trip New York was $233.68, now $222.52. American Trailways—One way to Dallas was $7.82, now $7.48; round trip to Dallas was $14.09, now $13.48; one way Los Angeles was $28.32, now $27.28; roundtrip Los Angeles was $48.53, now $46.42. Greyhound—To Dallas, (same as quoted above); one way to New York $39.45, now $37.73; round trip to New York was $71.01, now $67.53. Texas & Pacific—One way to Dallas was $9.49, now $9.08; round trip to Dallas was $17.08, now $16.34; one way to New York was $62.13, now $59.43; roundtrip to New York was $108.69, now $103.96.

Eisenhower Signs AF Academy Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday signed a bill authorizing the Air Force officer training academy and containing these provisions: 1. Authority to spend 126 million dollars on it, including 26 million to do preliminary work and start classes in temporary headquarters next year. 2. Instructions to the secretary of the Air Force to appoint a five-man commission to choose the site.

Duval Grand Jury Wants To Report To District Judge

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP)—Duval County's controversial grand jury, target of George Parr's foes, wants to attempt to make its report to District Judge C. H. Cavness. The body, when empaneled by former Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of the 79th Judicial District, was directed to investigate charges made by State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd and State Auditor C. H. Cavness. Shepperd, however, charged that the jury's members were unable to be impartial in their probes because of political and financial ties with Parr. He asked Laughlin to dissolve the jury, but Laughlin refused. It was to the new judge, from an area far removed from strife-torn South Texas, that the controversial grand jury was to make its report today. Foreman J. C. King said the group would report "if we can get the judge over here."

Batchelor Mom To Rely On God

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The mother of a Texas soldier who once lived up with his Communist captors said today she is relying on God and a civilian lawyer to protect him from charges he aided the enemy in Korea. Cpl. Claude Batchelor of Kermit was not present when his mother, Mrs. O. L. Batchelor, and attorney Joel Westbrook discussed the case with reporters. Mrs. Batchelor, mother of eight children and grandmother of three, said she is confident Claude's behavior while in Communist hands will be cleared. "The Lord brought him home and I feel he can take care of him now that he's back."

Batchelor, 22, held in the Ft. Sam Houston stockade, is one of 23 former prisoners of war who originally refused repatriation from the Communists after the end of Korean hostilities last fall. Charges against him include allegations of aiding the enemy and misconduct while a prisoner. The charges are being investigated by Col. Cyril D. Hill, judge advocate at Ft. Bliss. Westbrook said today he had no idea when Hill will report his findings. Westbrook is chairman of the San Antonio crime prevention committee, former assistant U. S. attorney and first assistant district attorney. He is a Texas National Guard lieutenant colonel and serves on the staff of the state adjutant general. Mrs. Batchelor declined to answer a reporter's question as to how the defense will be financed on the ground it is personal. Westbrook, however, conceded it was a pertinent question and that the defense would be beyond the means of the Batchelor family. He said: "We reserve the right to reject any contributions if they are connected directly or indirectly with any subversive movement. We will not accept any left-wing money or any left-wing influence." Westbrook said one of the "most significant questions" which will be raised by the defense counsel is: "Did we, the American people, let the Communists have first crack at the political education of a young man with an excellent mentality, although then undeveloped, and above-average basic instincts?" Mrs. Batchelor said her son's childhood was that of a "normal American boy." She said he was a Boy Scout, attended the Baptist Church regularly, played football two years on the Kermit high school team and was a cornetist with the high school band. He left high school at the age of 18 and joined the Army. Mrs. Batchelor said as far as she knew, Claude came under no political influence of any kind before he left home.

March Total Of Jobless Slightly Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that unemployment increased by 54,000 in March to a total of 3,725,000. It was the smallest monthly increase in six months.

The Census Bureau, in releasing the figures, said unemployment "leveled off." And officials said "it looks like unemployment is stabilizing." They said the figures indicated cause for hope that a turn in the employment situation is coming. While the March increase was small, the total is the highest jobless figure in four years—since the 4,123,000 in March, 1950. Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, who keeps close tabs on the unemployment situation, told reporters last week he believed unemployment had eased a little in March and the number of employed also had increased. Several other economists said privately they felt as did Clague that the whole employment picture would brighten a bit when the March figures were announced by the Census Bureau.

President Eisenhower has said he will take a close look at the March employment figures in planning economic policy. Federal Reserve Board figures yesterday showed department store sales last week 11 per cent below the corresponding week in 1953. The board said the late Easter date could be expected to cut March sales 5 per cent.

Legislators Take Weekend Break

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate met only briefly today and then joined the House in a weekend recess, clearing the way for a public hearing of the House-blessed 25-30 million dollar tax bill. The hearing—first Senate test for the bill—was set to begin at an afternoon session of the Senate's powerful 21-member State Affairs Committee. The House quit yesterday for the weekend as the special session neared the end of its third week. There was no business before the Senate for its brief session. It spent 15 minutes in recognizing visitors and tending to other routine matters before adjourning. The House yesterday passed another revenue-raising measure, an "experimental" gas tax levy aimed ultimately at draining more funds from the long pipelines. After the House gave the gas tax bill by Rep. George Hinson an 83-48 vote of approval, it quit until Monday after cleaning its calendar of matters that could be immediately acted on. The Senate voted to meet at 10:30 a. m. today. Still awaiting attention in the House are the $36,287,500 package spending bill and a bill to outlaw Communists and all other subversives. The House could have worked on them Saturday had it chosen to, but decided instead to let them wait until early next week.

Fire At Brownfield Does Heavy Damage

BROWNFIELD, Tex. (AP)—An estimated $150,000 damage was caused here by a fire today that gutted the Palace Drug Store and damaged other nearby buildings. The blaze was brought under control about 1 a. m., some two hours after its discovery. It was the second costly fire in this Terry County seat, 47 miles southwest of Lubbock, in the last ten days. A lumber yard was destroyed with a $100,000 loss last week.

Wagoner Charge Hearing Postponed

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate's General Investigating Committee yesterday postponed hearing into charges the State Hospital Board has failed to award construction contracts to the lowest bidder. Sen. Wayne Wagoner, Bowie, who made the charges last January and requested the investigation, asked that the hearing be delayed to give them time to examine materials submitted to him by the board.

Court Denies Plea For Order Against Zachry

Request for a restraining order against the H. B. Zachry Company was denied in 118th District Court this morning.

Judge Charlie Sullivan took the position that the Court had no jurisdiction in the matter under provisions of Article 4644 which stipulates that no injunction shall be issued in a mining operation unless defendant is shown to be unable to respond to an action for damages.

He said also that the question of an injunction is mute insofar as blasting and operation of a rock crusher is concerned in that the defendant had stated that all blasting had been completed and the firm's rock crusher was being dismantled.

The Court pointed out that plaintiffs in the case have recourse to suits for damages for any property or other losses which may have occurred as a result of operation of the rock and caliche quarry south of Big Spring.

Charlie Staggs, Zollie Boykin, Freddie Watt, N. R. Smith, C. W. Willbanks, W. C. Ragsdale, R. R. Holcombe, T. J. Williamson, Henry Miller, C. W. White and F. W. White filed petition for the restraining order and temporary injunction last Saturday. They alleged that dynamite discharged by the Zachry Company in a gravel pit near the Silver Heels Addition had damaged their houses and other property. They alleged also that dust created by operation of a rock crusher and trucks damaged property and constituted a hazard to health.

Chester Johnson, vice president of H. B. Zachry Company, was attorney for the defendant and Clyde E. Thomas represented the plaintiffs. Johnson said in his arguments against issuance of an injunction that the firm had completed its blasting with dynamite and that rock crusher operation also has been completed and the machine is being dismantled. He argued that the Court lacked jurisdiction to issue an injunction under Article 4644, which applies to work related to public improvements.

Johnson also brought up the question of equity, claiming that the defendant, the City of Big Spring and residents of areas in Big Spring where paving work is underway would "suffer" if an injunction were issued. Zachry if an injunction were issued, Zachry is the city's paving contractor. Thomas argued that operation of the caliche mine was not the issue, but rather the manner in which the operation was conducted "without due regard to the rights of others." He contended that since Johnson claimed that his firm was through blasting that no injury could be done the defendant through issuance of an order against "the excessive use of dynamite."

The plaintiffs' attorney gave notice of appeal following the ruling.

Arabs Push Call For Israel Curb

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Arab delegates pressed today for an urgent U. N. Security Council meeting to bring Israel to task for the latest border killings in neighboring Jordan. Israel quickly branded the move an "effort to cover up Jordanian guilt" by spotlighting isolated cases.

The latest Arab demand for action in the U. N. was made in a letter from Lebanese Delegate Edward A. Rizk to Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky, president of the Security Council this month. Rizk said he hoped the council would take up the matter next week.

The Lebanese letter followed a complaint by Jordan's Foreign Minister Hussein F. Khalidi Wednesday to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold asking for "drastic and efficient action" immediately to prevent any more Israeli raids on Jordan. Israel herself, on March 25, made an urgent plea to the Western "Big Three" for immediate council action on the Arab slaying of 11 Jewish passengers aboard a Negev Desert bus March 17. Israel charges the attackers were from nearby Jordan but Jordan denied this. A U. N. armistice commission investigated the Nahalain raid and condemned Israel last Tuesday "in the strongest terms" for the attack. It called on Israel to seize and punish those responsible.

Israel had boycotted the commission, on which Israel and Jordanian representatives normally sit, because its U. N. chairman, U. S. Navy Cmdr. Elmo Hutchison, had refused to denounce Jordan for the bus massacre the week before. Hutchison and the Jordan members reported the Nahalain attack was carried out by a "large group of militarily trained Israelis."

Israel officials have claimed it was a vengeance raid for the killing by Jordanians of a Jewish night watchman shortly before. In a statement on Lebanon's demand for council action, an Israeli delegation spokesman here said, "The recent sequence of violence was begun by constant Jordanian murders."

He said the Arab complaint was an effort "to cover up this Jordanian guilt by asking the Security Council to divert its attention to one of the isolated consequences of Jordanian aggression without examining this aggression in its general terms."

In Palestine, tension continued to mount all along Israel's borders with her Arab neighbors. The Jewish nation voiced new protests yesterday against Egypt, charging that Egyptians fired across the border at an Israeli patrol and that they were holding an Israeli soldier illegally. Egypt, claiming the soldier was arrested inside its territory, has rejected an order by the U. N.-sponsored joint Israeli-Egyptian armistice commission to return the man. The Egyptians said they would appeal the order in accordance with the provisions of Egypt's armistice with Israel.

In the border shooting incident, no casualties were reported.

Philips Speaks At ABC Meet Joint Luncheon

American Business Club district convention delegates and wives gathered today at noon to hear an address by Shlme Phillips. Phillips was to tell anecdotes of early days in Big Spring at the joint luncheon set at the Settles ballroom.

Earlier delegates were welcomed to the city by Mayor G. W. Dabney at a 10:30 a. m. business session. Delegates are here from the five Texas clubs of District 8 of the club, Dallas, Lubbock, Odessa, Amarillo and, of course, the local host club.

Present for the convention are three national officers of the club, Jess C. Colbert of Huntington, W. Va., president; Russell Glenn, Odessa, first vice president, and Hal Edinburgh of Danville, Ill., national executive secretary.

Duffy McKee of Odessa, district governor, is presiding at the business sessions. This afternoon the convention was to turn to nomination of officers. R. H. Weaver of the local club will be a candidate for district governor. This evening there will be two social events, for both delegates and wives, a barbecue at 7:30 and a Big Hat party at 8:30. Both are set for the Country Club.

Election of officers will come in the Saturday morning session starting at 9:30 o'clock. There will be a buffet luncheon at noon in the Settles ballroom with George Zachariah, local club president, presiding as master of ceremonies. In the afternoon there'll be the ABC Relays to watch or optional golf.

The event concludes with the Governor's Dinner Dance at 7 tomorrow night in the Settles ballroom. Activities for the women include a Coke party with Mrs. Horace Garrett, 715 Edwards Blvd., this afternoon at 4. Saturday at noon there's a book review-luncheon at Morales Grill. Mrs. Clyde Angel will review the book "Forty Odd."

There was savage hand-to-hand fighting as the French forces repeatedly beat back the rebels trying to break through into the plain's headquarters center. As the second major Vietnam attempt to overwhelm Dien Bien Phu raged on into its third day, the fighting was so furious the French had no chance to estimate the losses on either side. They had said earlier that the rebels lost some 2,000 of their estimated 40,000 attackers in the first 48 hours. The attack on the northwest was the first in that sector of the current drive on the French fortress, though the rebels in their first mass frontal attack on the plain three weeks ago had taken two posts in the center of the northern defense perimeter.

THE WEATHER

BIG SPRING AND VICINITY: Clear to partly cloudy and continued warm through afternoon, tonight and Saturday. High today 82, low tonight 64, high tomorrow 84. Highest temperature this date in 1951: lowest low this date in 1951: minimum rainfall this date 1.26 in 1925.

Defenders In Counterattack With Tanks

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Thousands of fresh Vietnam troops smashed into a French outpost about a mile northwest of the center of besieged Dien Bien Phu today and the French launched a heavy counterattack, supported by tanks, in an attempt to regain the position. Other rebel forces crashed at the French Union fortress from the southeast in a gigantic pincer movement aimed at the heart of the bastion.

The French high command in Hanoi said the Vietnam, throwing in a division on the northwest while two others attacked the southeast and east, overran two outposts in the northwest sector but a French counterattack drove the rebels from one of these. Another counterattack was under way to throw them out of the other, the French reported.

The high command said the rebels were suffering "heavy losses" in their wild charges at the barbed wire barricades of the hill-encircled fortress 175 miles west of Hanoi. The rebel forces driving in from the southeast reached the first strings of the barbed wire barricades, the French said. French heavy machine gun, tank and artillery fire mowed down rebels charging wildly upon the barbed wire barricades, hurling grenades and high explosives in long bamboo poles in an effort to blow up the barriers and break through.

An army spokesman termed the struggle in the southeast "very savage and violent" with much hand-to-hand fighting. In the northwest, the Vietnam by the thousands fought their way first into two outposts, one of which they later had to give up under a heavy French counterattack. They clung to the other. The French, aided by tanks, artillery and squadrons of planes which are strafing and bombing the charging masses of rebels, are trying to recapture the post and to plug up the hole in the northwestern strongpoint which could pave the way for a breakthrough into the center of the fortress.

The seriousness of the situation was accentuated by the fact that the Vietnam in attacking the northwest were using one division against the French Union defenders who for four days and four nights had been without rest or sleep and have had to depend upon parachuted supplies to try to stem the massive rebel assaults. There was savage hand-to-hand fighting as the French forces repeatedly beat back the rebels trying to break through into the plain's headquarters center. As the second major Vietnam attempt to overwhelm Dien Bien Phu raged on into its third day, the fighting was so furious the French had no chance to estimate the losses on either side. They had said earlier that the rebels lost some 2,000 of their estimated 40,000 attackers in the first 48 hours.

Stanton Meet Set To Discuss Drought

STANTON (SC)—Representatives of the Chambers of Commerce at Big Spring, Midland, Lamesa and Stanton will meet at the Belvue Restaurant here at noon Saturday to discuss area economic problems arising from the drought. It has been announced by Mrs. Ella Weathers, manager of the Stanton County Chamber of Commerce.

farmers and ranchers have not been able to pay these obligations and throughout the drought area business generally has been hurt.

A proposal will also be placed before the meeting, she said, to request Congress to authorize the Farmer's Home Administration to increase the present allotment of "living expenses" in conjunction with FHA loans. Other matters to be discussed will be county-sponsored construction projects for the employment of farmers who have been idled by the drought. "We also hope," Mrs. Weathers explained, "to get business people living in the cities, who have not really seen the ravages of drought."

Mrs. Weathers said the conference has been called to consider, among other things, the matter of seeking financial assistance for the smaller merchants who have tied up a good part of their capital in credit extended farmers and ranchers for essentials. Because of the drought, she points out, these

Riding The GRUB LINE With Franklin Reynolds

One of the most unusual and most difficult grass seeding projects now under way in West Texas is taking place at the Lake Thomas dam where grass seed is being planted on the back side of the dam and on the spillway slopes.

Technical advice, and a lot of hard work, is being furnished by J. C. Ebersole of Abilene, agronomy specialist for the Soil Conservation Service, who has been riding the grass drill. Working with him on the project are H. M. Kruse and Jack Dunn, both of whom live in the Lake Thomas area. General supervision over the job is being exercised by O. H. Ivy, engineer for the CRMWD.

The dam is a little more than a mile long and the backside area being seeded and the spillway areas total more than 60 acres. The seed mixture being planted is made up of five pounds of Side-oats Grama, three pounds of Blue Grama, two pounds of King Ranch Bluestem and two pounds of Bermuda to the acre. The grass will be watered with 5,000 feet of three-inch aluminum irrigation pipe owned by the CRMWD.

The water for this irrigation comes about in a novel way. The sprinkler system will be tied in with the line to Snyder. It requires 125 pounds of pressure to put the water for Snyder over the last hill. Only 120 pounds pressure will be put into this line, however. That won't get the water over that last hill on the way to Snyder but it will build up such a back pressure in the line that this back pressure will be enough to force the water through the sprinkler system and spread it over the seeded area.

Of course Kruse and Dunn are hoping for nice gentle showers to water the grass. They say it's much more satisfactory to stand back and watch it rain than to handle 5,000 feet of sprinkler system pipe up and down those steep slopes.

The slopes were first disc'd with a nine-foot tandem owned by the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District. The drill is held in place and kept from tumbling down the slope by a chain and a cable from a two-ton winch truck riding the bench above it and operated by Kruse. The drill is pulled forward by a Farmall tractor operated by Dunn, and as mentioned Ebersole is toughening himself up for coming rodeo bull and saddle bronc riding by staying with the drill itself.

Also assisting with the project is the staff from the Big Spring Unit of the SCS.

All livestock, it is planned, will be moved from the rangeland owned by the CRMWD by May 1, and planned range improvements will get sitting to a minimum, Ivy says.

There is already a little small grain, some grass and a lot of baby tumble weeds on these slopes. The grass and small grains got there from seed scattered by hand. The tumble weeds came from where all tumble weeds come from.

Everything is going along smoothly with the operation as long as that chain and cable to the drill hold out. If they ever snap Dunn had better make arrangements to get that tractor, down the slope, well out of the way, and in such an event Ebersole will find out more about bull riding than he ever knew before.

Ernest Gipson, alias Ernest Gibson, is a colored man well known to the folks around the Howard County Court House because of his eight children.

He has been tried, and found guilty, several times for stealing, and at each of these trials, starting when there were just six of the children, he would have them lined up in chairs behind him in the courtroom. They were known as his "exhibits," and up until recently their effect has been good on both the court and the jury.

But Ernest had a five-year probation sentence for their hanging over his head in Martin County, and last week, in view of subsequent convictions here, Judge Sullivan had to have Ernest produced in the District Court at Stanton for the purpose of revoking his probation and sending him on down to Huntsville.

Ernest was in the Howard County Jail serving a theft sentence when the other prisoners escaped. Now

Grass Seeding The Hard Way

Seeding grass on a level prairie is one thing but seeding grass on the more than a mile long back side of the Lake Thomas dam with its two-to-one slope is something else. The winch truck on the upper bench, operated by H. M. Kruse, keeps the grass drill straight on the slope by means of a chain and cable, while the drill is pulled forward by the tractor operated by Jack Dunn on the lower bench. J. C. Ebersole rides the drill during the seeding. When the back side of the dam has been planted the operation will then go to the slopes of the spillways. If it doesn't rain there's plenty of water over on the other side of the dam for irrigation.

he says the worst thing he found wrong with the local battle was that there was a thief in it. When the Martin County sheriff was ready to move Ernest to Stanton he had to take his prisoner in a pair of the Howard County cow-herds that all prisoners are supposed to wear. "Some thief in that jail," explained Ernest, "had stole my pants an' we couldn't find 'em anywhere."

IT HAPPENED

People Have Hearts

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A teenager, who advertised for a home ("with someone who will like a boy") so he could finish high school, has chosen one from more than 100 offers.

Gene Ring, 17, of Newbern, Tenn., moves in with Mr. and Mrs. Morry Evans at suburban Spring Lake today.

Gene described himself as "healthy and ambitious" and willing to work hard around the house. But Mrs. Evans said that's out for now—he's got too much "catching up" to do in school.

He quit school last December in the 10th grade. His parents were divorced, no one in his family was in a position to take care of him.

He and his aunt, Mrs. W. W. Hendrix of Memphis, placed the ad in the classified section of the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jennie, a cigar-smoking orangutan at the St. Louis Zoo, expected her first smoke in weeks when Director George P. Vierheller returned from his vacation yesterday.

But Jennie was disappointed. Vierheller has stopped smoking.

"I'm not going to be tempted by carrying cigars," he said. "Jennie will have to learn to get along without them."

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Scores of persons passed the frayed brown wallet that lay on the sidewalk yesterday.

They weren't going to fall for that old April Fool's gag. But along came Donald Burke, 15, who wasn't fazed by the smile of onlookers.

The wallet contained $78. Donald, an orphan and one of eight children, traced the wallet to a Needham resident, who rewarded him with a $5 bill.

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — Vice Adm. Robert P. Briscoe turned over his command of American Navy forces in the Far East to Vice Adm. William M. Callaghan today. Briscoe has been reassigned to Washington as deputy chief of naval operations.

Puppy Fire Victim

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — When Tommy Creighton's house caught fire last night, the 12-year-old ran out and slammed the front door behind him. Then he remembered his pal Tubby was still inside.

Unable to re-enter the flaming living room. He ran to the rear of the one-story house and broke a bedroom window, badly cutting his fist. He was climbing into the smoke-filled room when firemen arrived and restrained him.

They found Tubby unconscious under a bed and carried the black and white spotted terrier outside. For 30 minutes, as Tommy tearfully watched, they worked over Tubby, using artificial respiration and the department's new resuscitator.

Finally, they had to tell the youngster—Tubby was dead.

Wear Red Faces

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — Waynesburg's police force wore red faces yesterday. After warning motorists that Tuesday midnight was the deadline for 1953 Pennsylvania license plates, they discovered that someone had failed to order the new plates for the force's only patrol car.

City Building Figures Gain

Eighty-three building permits were issued in March for construction costing $206,055. This brought the construction total for the first quarter of 1954 up to $672,300. There were 190 permits issued during the three-month period.

During the first quarter of last year there were 277 permits issued for cost of $619,285, or $33,015 less than the current period.

February has been the top month this year, with construction value of $309,880 listed on 55 permits. The new Safeway building and remodeling of Woolworth are included in the February total.

During January 52 permits were issued for total amount of $72,365.

If the trend continues, construction this year could outstrip that of 1953. Last year construction was valued at $2,300,320, and 832 permits were issued.

A. J. Cohorn of the Union Community in Dawson County plans some terracing, and Guar and peas planting as a soil improvement project. He had deep plowed 110 acres of his farm, and also has in his program some small grain for soil protection and grazing. He says he is going to protect his stubble from overgrazing.

Jess Jenkins of the Lamesa unit of the SCS says that thus far 31 farmers have made ASC (formerly PMA) applications to plant 3,753 acres of Guar in with strips of cotton and sorghums. Cotton and sorghums following Guar have been producing from one-third to two-thirds more than where such crops follow themselves. Guar is a dryland legume storing nitrogen and organic matter in the soil.

House GOP Leaders Set Housing Bill Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders hoped to push through the House today a controversial proposal to keep President Eisenhower's public housing program alive with authority for 35,000 new units after next fiscal year.

With one bloc of House members bent on killing public housing, and another bloc aiming at a much bigger program, GOP strategists conceded the issue could be close. Time to vote on a 226-page re-amping of housing laws approached after a week-long scrap. Major issues include interest rates on Federal Housing Administration and GI loans, easier terms for FHA home buyers, and the availability of money for mortgages.

Bus Schedules Being Changed

Bus travelers had better check schedules as well as watches this weekend or run the risk of getting left at the station.

Southwest Greyhound, Kerrville and the Texas-New Mexico-Oklahoma lines have announced schedule changes—and most of these involve substantial advancement of departure times.

In some cases, schedules are being moved up as much as an hour. These changes are effective at midnight Sunday.

On eastbound Greyhound trips, the one leaving at 6:36 p.m. will leave instead at 8:32 p.m.; the 8:22 p.m. schedule will be moved back to 8:33 p.m. and the 9:22 p.m. trip is being cancelled. Greyhound's 10:45 p.m. trip is being cancelled and the 9:02 p.m. schedule is moved back to 9:36 p.m.

The Kerrville trip which formerly went south at 9:35 a.m. will go at 9:25 a.m.; the 12:35 p.m. trip will be moved up to 12:20 p.m.; the 4 p.m. trip will be advanced to 3:45 p.m.; and the 10 p.m. trip will be shoved forward to 8:45 p.m. for the most drastic schedule change of the current series.

The T-N-M-O departure at 10:45 p.m. has been moved up a flat hour to 9:45 p.m.

Recently, three trips were removed from the American Trailways schedule, but there are no current changes.

SALE!

Other opponents accused sponsors of the bill of trying to "out-deal the New Deal."

Republican leaders said an appropriations bill passed Wednesday would leave authority to build 35,000 low-rent public housing units in the fiscal year starting July 1—although this interpretation was in dispute.

They planned an amendment to the omnibus housing bill to authorize another 35,000 units in the following fiscal year. They said this would be a good start on President Eisenhower's request for 35,000 units each year for four years—and the latter two years could be considered later.

The housing bill would permit Eisenhower to fix interest rates on loans insured by the Veterans Administration and the FHA up to a point 2½ per cent above the average yield on long-term government bonds.

At the present market, this would be a maximum of 5½ per cent interest. The current maximum on GI loans is 4½ per cent. The rate of FHA loans is 5 per cent although the present law permits even higher rates.

Democrats planned a strong protest.

Maine GOP To Consider Anti-McCarthy Resolution

BANGOR, Maine (AP)—A rural state committeeman clung today to his plan to offer the Republican State Convention an anti-McCarthy resolution despite efforts he said were made to dissuade him.

Harold C. Perham, 54, of West Paris said without elaboration he was approached, and declined, to junk a resolution he based on his conviction that McCarthy is "a shining example of ignorance, neglect or contempt of the rights of man."

The resolution prepared for introduction from the convention floor today underscores a forthcoming GOP Senate primary contest between Sen. Margaret Chase Smith and Robert L. Jones of Biddeford.

Sen. Smith's 1950 "declaration of conscience" has been viewed as a slap at McCarthy's investigating methods. Jones has called McCarthy a great American and says he and McCarthy share the same kind of Americanism.

Sen. Smith, who flew from Washington to the convention city last night, said the Perham resolution is "a matter for the delegates to decide." She is scheduled to speak today.

Jones, 34-year-old former aide of Sen. Potter (R-Mich) and former Sen. Brewster (R-Maine), told a news conference: "I predict it will split the convention wide open and all it will do will be to injure the Republican party in Maine and nationally."

She told the court yesterday that she reconciled with Kerr not long after she filed for divorce in 1949, but that he didn't keep his promise to give up drinking for keeps, so she filed again.

Penicillin Discoverer Says It's Less Toxic

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The man who discovered penicillin, Sir Alexander Fleming of London, says that 10 years' experience with it has demonstrated that it is the least toxic of antibiotics.

"People have died of aspirin poisoning but none of penicillin poisoning," he told a group of newsmen. "You couldn't commit suicide with penicillin if you wanted to."

Furthermore, he said, only 2 to 6 per cent of those using penicillin developed any allergy, and many of these in only a minor degree.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gene Tierney today interrupts her rendezvous with Aly Khan at Rosarito Beach, Mexico, her studio says, to resume work at Mojave, Calif., on a movie.

Twentieth Century-Fox said yesterday it was sending a private plane to bring the actress to the film location.

Attendants at the Rosarito Beach Hotel, 17 miles south of the California border, said the prince might remain there three weeks. Miss Tierney told newsmen Tuesday they will wed within six months, probably in France.

Boston Lawyer Takes McCarthy Probe Job

Impartiality Of Sears Disputed

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigating senators said today they will ask Samuel P. Sears for new assurances that he could be fully impartial as special counsel in probing a row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and top Army officials.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said he for one will ask Sears to reflect on prior utterances praising McCarthy, and then say "if he still feels he can do an impartial investigation."

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash), another Senate investigations subcommittee member who had a hand in the negotiations which brought Sears to the job, said he also wants that done when the subcommittee again meets with Sears, probably Monday.

Sears, who flew back to Boston after meeting with the subcommittee here yesterday, told newsmen upon his arrival there he feels he has "not done anything that would disqualify me."

The prominent Boston trial lawyer told a news conference here yesterday he was determined to tackle the job as counsel "as dispassionately as I can," without any "partisanship."

Asked whether he had ever taken a stand on "McCarthy or McCarthyism," he told the reporters: "Not publicly, and not privately."

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), who will preside at the televised public hearing, said Sears had given similar assurances at a closed meeting at which he agreed to take the post. So did other subcommittee members.

Potter told reporters he had "no reason to doubt" that Sears would be impartial. But he said the public is entitled to renewed assurances because of reports that Sears had in the past made statements praising McCarthy's fight against communism, which Potter said were not mentioned in yesterday's discussions with him.

Boston newspaper files showed that Sears hailed McCarthy's reelection in November 1952 and said in a statement that the Wisconsin senator "has done a great job and he will continue to do so as he drives the 'pinkies and commies' out of government."

The Harvard Crimson, student-edited daily at the university, quoted Sears on Nov. 12, 1952, as saying he tried to raise money to help McCarthy's campaign for relection, to counter an anti-McCarthy fund drive by several Harvard professors.

The Crimson said Sears told it in an interview that "I chased the senator all over Wisconsin trying to start a fund drive," and that "I felt that attempts to defeat . . . There would undoubtedly be 200 more Communists in the government if it weren't for McCarthy."

Americans for Democratic Action, an organization which generally supports the policies of the New Deal and "Fair Deal," said of Sears' selection:

"The integrity of the Senate has been jeopardized by this obvious first step to whitewash Sen. McCarthy. Mr. Sears' public record of praise and support of McCarthy disqualifies him on grounds of both ethics and objectivity."

In New York, an aide said McCarthy would have no comment now on Sears' selection. The senator was said to be under medical treatment for virus laryngitis.

In announcing Sears' selection yesterday, Mundt said he thought it would clear the way for televised, public hearings in the dispute to start the week after next. Sears mentioned April 12 as a target date.

Both Mundt and Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) expressed doubt that anything Sears said two years ago could be interpreted as indicating any prejudice in the present controversy between McCarthy, the subcommittee chairman, and Army officials.

An Army report has accused McCarthy and Roy M. Cohn, the subcommittee's chief counsel, of exerting pressure to win favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former subcommittee consultant drafted last November.

McCarthy and Cohn disputed this, and McCarthy flung a countercharge that Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and John G. Adams, Army counselor, tried to "blackmail" him into calling off a subcommittee probe into what the senator has called "coddling" of Communists in the Army.

After Sears' appointment was announced yesterday, both Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) and Rep. Laurence Curtis (R-Mass) told reporters he had expressed to them about 10 days ago "an interest" in the job.

The Democratic members of the subcommittee said they had not been aware of this. At the news conference, Sears himself said he was accepting the job at personal sacrifice because he regarded it as a public duty.

Brando And Studio Settle Differences

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Marlon Brando and 20th Century-Fox Studio have settled their differences.

The studio announced yesterday that it has dropped a two-million-dollar breach of contract suit against him and he will report June 7 for the film "Desiree," with Jean Simmons.

Brando failed to appear several months ago for the start of "The Egyptian." He turned up in New York, where he was under care of a psychiatrist. The studio now says it and Brando will share costs of the delay on that picture.

Brando returned here for the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Marlon Brando Sr., who died Tuesday.

People Need To Be Told Facts Of How Powerful The H-Bomb Can Be

For four typewritten pages Lewis L. Straus (rhymes with straws), chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, held forth on the subject of thermonuclear weapons at President Eisenhower's press conference Wednesday.

He had news for everybody, including the Kremlin.

The March 1 blast in the Pacific, he said, was "stupendous" and twice as powerful as the experts had expected. But in experiments such as this variations are to be expected, and at no time was the test out of control, contrary to widespread reports.

Asked what an H-bomb could do to a city, Straus said it could "take it out"—that is, annihilate it. Asked what size city, he said "any size." What about New York City? someone inquired. The man with the answers gave a chilling reply: "The New York metropolitan area."

President Eisenhower contributed one small word of comfort and hope: The Russians are showing some interest in an international arrangement to share atomic energy for peacetime uses.

The comfort of this lies here: If Russia is willing to join in development of atomic science for peaceful uses, she might go a step further and cooperate with the West in outlawing atomic warfare under foolproof controls.

Meantime, there are still a number of people in high official life who do not believe the American people can safely be told just how "stupendous" atomic or thermonuclear weapons are. They are afraid the whole truth would frighten the American people into disastrous panic.

This queer notion is a form of intellectual snobbery, since those who hold that view think themselves to be superior to the American people. What is really eating them is the fear that if the people knew the whole truth, they would demand more powerful defenses than either the administration or Congress is presently willing to grant them.

It is suicidal to cut down defenses until and unless international controls of these unimaginably "stupendous" weapons are put in effect and made foolproof.

Excise Tax Slash Calls For Cut In Expenditures To Offset Loss

Although it throws his budget one billion dollars out of kilter, President Eisenhower has signed into law new excise tax reductions that run counter to his expressed wishes. But the President had no choice, for the simple reason that congressional sentiment was so overwhelming, and a veto would merely delay, not stop, the cuts. In the House the final vote was 395-1, and in the Senate, 72-8.

Proponents of these cuts, covering a wide variety of goods and services from lipsticks through household appliances and on to admissions, argued that the lower rates would stimulate business, since the benefits would be passed on to customers.

Many large manufacturers of household appliances have announced they would pass along to the consumers the full benefits of the tax cuts. Jewelry and fur dealers have given the same assurance. Only talky group is theater owners, many of whom have announced they will keep the difference for themselves, since they are threatened with bankruptcy by TV competition. However, customer reaction will be the controlling factor.

The loss of revenue might have been double what it was except Congress voted to maintain for another twelve months the special levies imposed on autos, trucks, gasoline, cigars, liquor, wine and beer to pay for the Korean War. No serious effort was made to disturb these levies.

To be realistic, Congress should pare enough fat from appropriations to cover this loss of revenue. The House found a partial answer almost immediately, by striking from a $5.5 billion appropriations bill funds to carry on public housing operations as requested by Mr. Eisenhower. But this was done on a technicality, because the housing item constituted legislation in an appropriation bill contrary to rules. However, a cut-down form of the President's housing request may be later enacted separately.

It would still, in that case, represent a substantial budgetary savings.

From The Capital—Thomas L. Stokes

Regime Facing Both Ways At Same Time On Housing Issue

WASHINGTON — The frequent Janus-like quality of the current Republican Administration in the field of social welfare issues was never so graphically illustrated as in the last few days. For facing both ways at one and the same time, for saying one thing and doing another—take these two events of last Thursday:

In Kansas City, Commissioner Charles E. Slusser of the Public Housing Administration, dedicating a new low-cost, public housing project, urged that it "vital" for Congress to approve President Eisenhower's public housing program that calls for total of 140,000 units in the next four years, 35,000 a year.

Here in Washington—the House Appropriations Committee, controlled 3 to 2 by Republicans—30 to 20 Democrats—voted to end the public housing program completely at the end of two years, meanwhile approving 20,000 units for this year and 15,000 next year to close it out.

Commissioner Slusser expressed a sane sound, reasonable approach to the slum problem that plagues our cities. He gained his knowledge of the slum blight firsthand in 10 years' experience as a mayor of Akron, Ohio, and saw his appraisal confirmed for most of our cities in a 30,000-mile survey trip all over the country last fall. Of that he said, "The farther I went, the worse it got."

He sees the day when private housing will meet the need. As he told the home-folks in Akron on Monday, he does not believe "in scattering public housing about the landscape and at every crossroad simply because it is public housing."

"That, too, is a false concept. But where decay has set in, where values are being lost in terms of property, and, more important, human lives, there I think public housing has a place. . . . We should use the public housing weapon until other weapons can do the complete job that needs doing. As long as the average income of families now occupying public housing is under $2,000 a year—and as long as even the cheapest private construction is beyond their means at today's prices—then public housing is the best practical answer."

In his Kansas City speech he said, "Public housing is plain good, business."

"I am well aware," he continued, "of charges from certain quarters that public housing is creeping socialism. I am equally aware that for citizens to act in behalf of their cities is nothing more than old-fashioned capitalistic custom. The institution of the American city goes back to the earliest Colonial days. It is an integral part of our republican system of government. And citizens are neither creeping nor socialist when they try to prevent their cities from running down at the heels—particularly when there is no infringement on local initiative and local authority."

Public housing, Commissioner Slusser argued, "is good business not only from a social and civic standpoint but from a cold-blooded financial viewpoint. A recent study of all slums and blighted areas in the country showed they comprise one-fifth of our metropolitan areas. And into this one-fifth of our cities is packed a third of the urban population, a good third (35 per cent of the fires), nearly half of the major crimes (45 per cent), an even half of the arrests, more than half (55 per cent) of the juvenile delinquency, and 60 per cent of the tuberculosis. Or, to total up this unhappy picture, slums account for 45 per cent of city service costs and pays just six per cent of its real estate taxes."

"I think that will answer the question of who has been paying the preponderant cost of the slums. The rest of the taxpayers. I wonder if that could be creeping socialism. Personally, I say it's better to get these blighted areas back in shape—so that they cease to be ratholes down which city revenues are poured."

Mr. Slusser's attitude, moderate and common sense as it is, certainly is a contrast to that of responsible Republican party leaders at the Capitol. It is they, of course, who will make or break President Eisenhower's program upon which he seems to be counting heavily. It is getting plainer every day that, if any substantial part of it is saved, it will be due to Democrats, as was the case in notable instances at the last session of Congress.

"Say, That H-Bomb Is Dangerous" HERITAGE DAYS

General Santa Anna started his rush to the Colorado, to join General Sesma, by crossing the swollen Guadalupe on hastily-made rafts and swimming his cavalry across the swift current on April 2, 1836. The Mexican general's strategy was to unite his forces on the Brazos, which would give an effective army of more than 3,000.

Sam Houston prepared for just such a plan, however, on April 3, in reinforcing Capt. Moses Baker with Capt. Kimbrough's command on the Brazos at San Felipe. Stern orders were issued to Capt. Baker to require all persons at his camp to enroll themselves as volunteers and none to leave it without express permission.

Col. Zavala joined the Texans and reported for duty, also informing Houston that Secretary of War Rusk was en route to cast his lot with the men in the field.

Added joy came to the Texans in welcoming 80 volunteers from Redlands.

Nature had become an ally of the Texans. The swollen river, fed by heavy spring rains, served as a barrier to prevent the Mexicans from crossing. Houston predicted it would be at least a month before the enemy might be able to cross the wide Colorado. He was in the position, however, of having the steamboat Yellow Stone at his disposal.

By April 3 Houston felt confident in advising the government at Harrisburg: "You may rest easy. . . the enemy will never cross the Brazos, and I hope the panic will soon subside."

To add encouragement, Houston advised that "People are planting corn on the east side of the river."

Houston, at the same time, was planting Major Patton and his 20 men, "the best hearts of the army," to reconnoiter the nearby Mexican numbering about 1,000, and predicted Patton "will attack tonight."

Machines Rise Up, Then Make Slaves Of Humans

NEW YORK (U)—There came a time when machines took over the rule of the world from people.

A thousand years after that Roger Robot and his son, Junior Robot, sat playing chess and talking of the past.

Behind them, an oilcan in his hand, stood their faithful human slave, Adam, who was proud to be in the service of two such distinguished machines.

"The human race all but destroyed itself in the Third World War with an instrument called the hydrogen bomb," recalled Roger. "Then they developed an even more terrible bomb, one that could be made out of hot air."

"As there was even more hot air than hydrogen available, you could predict what happened. In the Fourth World War, fought with hot air bombs, everybody was destroyed except a scientist named Frankschwitich and a few basement natives in a place called Outer Canarsie."

"As men go, Frankschwitich was fairly brilliant, although naturally he couldn't solve all the problems that I can. He had the heart—but lacked the tubes."

"Frankschwitich hated people because they wrecked their lives with stupid emotions. But he loved machines because they perform the tasks they are built for, and never attack each other."

"So he constructed a series of machines, some simple, some (ahem, like myself) extremely complicated, but each with an orderly task to do in an orderly way."

"Since Frankschwitich died," Roger said, "I and the other machines have just kept enough people breeding and feeding to keep us oiled and functioning. There have been no wars. And for a thousand years there has been no joy, no sorrow, no wonder, and no death in the world—except, of course, among people, if you choose to count them."

"Will the world go on like this forever?" asked Junior.

"Certainly," said Roger Robot. "All a machine wants to do is function. Take our chess games, of which we have played"—Roger's lights blazed up as he thought back—"exactly 8,312."

"Naturally, as I have 22,817 tubes and you have only 9,485, I am bound to win every game. But since you play the best you can with only a limited number of tubes, you have performed your function—and that's fine."

"But sometimes I feel frustrated," whimpered Junior.

"Frustrated?" barked Roger. "That word isn't in your vocabulary, Adam, have you been tampering with Junior's tubes again?"

"I-I only changed a few. . . Just to see what would happen," stammered Adam.

"Well, the next time it happens, you'll be turned out to starve. We don't want any changes. You know the motto of our machine civilization: 'Let well enough alone.'"

Hobby Of Tracking Storms Led To Official Weather Reporting

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

There has been much interest during recent months in proposals for storm warning networks, and someone has called attention to the fact that a similar condition probably had some influence on organization of the first U. S. Weather Service.

The man who started it was Dr. I. A. Lapham, who has been referred to as the father of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

He took a personal interest in the weather, especially around the Great Lakes, well over 100 years ago. He was particularly interested in storms, and apparently was far ahead of ship owners in foreseeing the value of prior knowledge about storms.

It is said that Dr. Lapham's interest on this particular subject was intensified when he kept track of a major storm in 1859.

This particular storm started out by raking the Texas coast. Some 24 hours later it was swirling across Lake Michigan, the next day after that it had reached the Atlantic Ocean and still another day later the same storm lashed Nova Scotia.

Dr. Lapham noted that it would have been of particular benefit to shippers on Lake Michigan if they had received a warning by telegraph when the storm headed north out of Texas. Subsequently, he advanced the idea that a corps of weather observers over the country could use telegraph to send word ahead whenever they sighted storms.

Nobody gave him much encouragement, but Dr. Lapham was thoroughly "sold" on his idea, and he proceeded to make further observations and experiments.

He teamed up with scientists in other cities and they exchanged data whenever one of them noted unusual weather conditions in his area. Then, they kept track to determine if the same conditions would appear later in other areas.

Ultimately, Dr. Lapham and his colleagues were able to predict several severe storms.

Continuing his campaign for a "warning system," Dr. Lapham sent a memorial to Congress in 1869, pointing out the advantages, as he saw them, of such a system.

Congress took action a year later, appropriating the sum of $20,000 to establish such a system under the army signal service.

Dr. Lapham was hired as assistant to the chief signal officer, with duties pertaining exclusively to the weather.

He was instructed to provide "a brief analysis of reports received for the preceding 24 hours or for a longer period as to facts bearing upon the weather, together with a 'probability' of the character of the weather for the next 24 hours."

That made him the first official weather forecaster in the country.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs

It Is Too Late Now To Talk Of Alternative For The EDC

PARIS — The snarl that has for so long prevented ratification of the European Defense Community, on which the whole Eisenhower foreign policy is staked, now appears to be more tangled than ever. A new tension is developing between France and Germany over that old bone of contention, the Saar, with its rich coal and iron industry.

Since Premier Joseph Laniel has made settlement of the Saar issue a precondition to naming a date for bringing the EDC treaty before the French Assembly, this seems to push into the distant and uncertain future the parliamentary action France must take if the European army, including 12 German divisions, is to become a reality. Unless some new push brings action quickly, the whole structure of the Eisenhower foreign policy will be endangered, with angry Congressional reprisal a likelihood.

One question now being asked is how American policy got stuck so fast in front of this single door requiring French action to open. Although it has been carefully kept backstage, the fact is that several times doubts have been raised as to the wisdom of pledging so much so publicly on EDC.

Behind scenes at the Bermuda conference President Eisenhower was told that there was a good chance France would fail to ratify or would delay indefinitely. One of Ike's old friends on the British delegation talked with him for an hour and a half about the need to canvass alternatives to EDC so that if the latter failed the impression would not be created that the common defense effort put into the NATO force was also being repudiated.

But the President was adamant. He refused to hear any talk about alternatives. After others, including several Americans, suggested that EDC was too uncertain a risk to carry the full weight of the Western alliance an order was transmitted orally to the effect that any American questioning EDC should be asked to resign. Naturally this made for a new caution. But now top American diplomats cannot ignore the open threat of a prolonged wrangle over the Saar, which could nullify the efforts of the past two years to harmonize France and Germany within a common defense framework. They feel that the French, and conspicuously Laniel, have let them down. They talk of pledges made to get the parliamentary machinery rolling before the Easter holiday, pledges that have not been lived up to.

Whether it was too late at Bermuda to consider alternatives to EDC is now an academic question. It might be added, however, that even Secretary of State Dulles is reported to have felt before he went to the Big Three conference in December that perhaps the time had come to consider other measures. Certainly, it seems too late today to talk about alternatives.

American officials clearly see what apparently the French refuse to see. That is that the Germans today would never accept anything like the treaty negotiated two years ago. They have come too far and too fast. The terms they would ask in any new negotiation for a common army would inevitably be rejected by the French.

Miracles may happen. All that Eisenhower and Dulles need is a technical victory—ratification even by the narrowest of majorities in the Assembly. Whatever else this may mean it will enable the Germans to form their divisions with American military material to equip them. Military planners in NATO will then feel that a big vacuum in the center of Europe has been filled.

One French leader, former Premier Antoine Pinay, who can claim a greater popular following than most French politicians, said publicly that he would vote for EDC since no one seemed likely to come forward with a workable alternative. But it may be the very fact that this step means a German army in being which has thrown the government, and to a lesser degree the country, into a state of unhappy uncertainty.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Fate Of America's Leadership Depends Upon Action At Geneva

Just as the war in Korea became a conflict with Red China, so the Indochina War is a conflict with Red China. Therefore, at the Geneva Conference, Red China will speak for these countries; the Peking radio already claims that Red China will speak for the whole of Asia. This, of course, is a geographical exaggeration. Nevertheless, the United States will at Geneva face a formidable antagonist who will demand full recognition as a member of the United Nations as a minimum basis for future discussions.

There will be no other issue at Geneva until the question of recognition is settled, and in this the United States stands utterly alone. To Great Britain, recognition offers hope for the vast China trade, which could mean a restoration of an Asiatic economic empire. Also the British are anxious not to force upon India an irrevocable East or West decision. To France, such a recognition could mean that the Indochina War would be settled by a truce or a peace. To Soviet Russia, it would mean the fulfillment of the conquest of China and the satisfaction of the wishes of the second most important member of the Soviet Universal State. To the United States, it can only mean the end of an adventure in international leadership that failed.

As the situation has developed, Formosa is not at this moment the issue. The leading powers are not considering Formosa's sensibilities or Chiang Kai-shek's future. The issue at Geneva will be how far the United States will go to resist recognition of Red China by the United Nations with a seat on the Security Council.

If the United States is adamant, threatening to use the veto or even to withdraw from the United Nations on the ground that no nation can fight its way into it, the Conference will break up. If the United States adopts the view that it cannot resist its friends or a majority of the principal powers, the Conference will be reduced to cutting the United States down to size in international affairs. Great Britain will then emerge as the leader of the Western European nations and the United States will be isolated.

The pattern is clear, but how to salvage anything is not so clear. Too many errors of judgment led up to this climactic Conference and those errors cannot be erased. They started at the Teheran Conference in 1943, which diverted the United States from an idealistic position based on justice and the rights of man to practical politics, which amounted to giving to Stalin what was withheld from Hitler. Practically in time of war developed into almost abject compromise and appeasement. At Geneva, the last step may be taken—the recognition of Red China as the successor state to Nationalist China, our ally in World War II.

The new isolationism is not so repugnant to a people who are weary of constant diplomatic defeats at great cost. Nevertheless since the days of the "America First" movement have Americans generally been so apathetic about foreign affairs or so antagonistic to foreign countries. No European or Asiatic nation is today popular among the American people, unless it be Turkey. The pendulum is swinging away from nearly 30 years of excessive emphasis on foreign affairs.

The danger, of course, is war, but this our people do not recognize. The hellbombs go off, and they are only curiosities such as fireworks displays were at the beginning of the twentieth century. The failure of "Civil Defense" to arouse our people to the dangers of a war of extermination is only another evidence of their apathy on the entire subject of a prospective war. Nobody is building private hellbomb cellars against the devastations of the future.

Board Rejects Dock Union Amnesty Bid

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission has given a quick "no" to a bid by the striking longshoremen's union to end its walkout in exchange for amnesty for about 65 blackballed dockers.

The offer came from the International Longshoremen's Ass'n. (ILA).

The bistate waterfront cleanup commission immediately announced it would take no action to meet conditions "brazenly advanced" by ILA Executive Vice President Patrick J. Connolly.

Connolly said last night that ILA leaders were willing to recommend that the strikers return to work if the waterfront commission would return the work passes picked up since the strike started March 5 in defiance of a federal court injunction.

The permits to work on the piers—required under recent legislation of the two states, with congressional approval—were lifted presumably for violence or other offenses.

The ILA—locked in a bitter struggle with the nonstriking AFL-ILA for control of waterfront labor—charged that some work permits were taken away for no valid reason.

Connolly said the ILA men would not return to work until the lifted passes were restored. His statement was issued after an emergency meeting of 180 members of the ILA New York District Council.

Lawrence E. Walsh, executive director of the waterfront commission, said he would make no "compromise with lawlessness."

Later last night, ILA President William V. Bradley pledged "every effort" to persuade the ILA council to get the strikers back to work.

Bradley, speaking on a television program, said Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey—oversers of the waterfront commission—"have no right to take away a man's right to work."

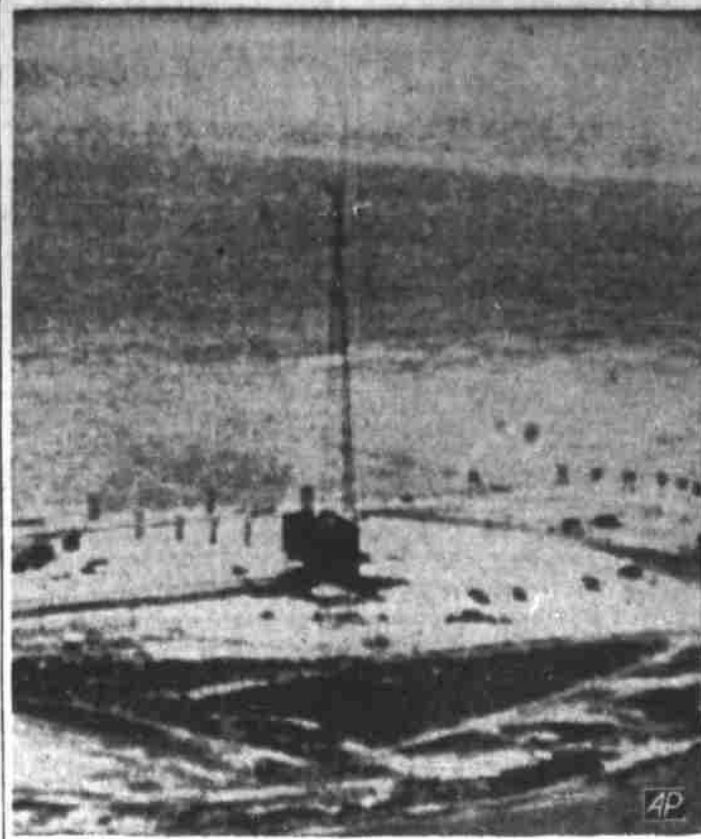

Bradley said he had gotten a pledge of 100 per cent support from John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, in Washington a week ago. Lewis has been giving substantial financial support to the ILA in its fight with the AFL-ILA.

Up until last week, Bradley and other ILA chiefs had called the month-old work stoppage a "spontaneous" walkout. But then they gave it official sanction. The ILA, eight of its New York and New Jersey locals, and three officers of Manhattan locals are on trial in federal court on charges of fomenting the strike in defiance of the federal injunction.

GIVES IKE GOLF TIPS, TOO

Babe Didrikson Zaharias Helps Open Cancer Drive

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias helped President Eisenhower open the 1954 drive for funds against cancer last night and also gave him a few professional pointers on his golf game.

Last year the famous Babe came down with cancer herself. There was talk for a while that she never would be able to play golf again. But a few months after an operation she was belting the ball as of old, and still is.

At the White House, Babe and Mrs. Eisenhower watched as the President passed a pellet of radioactive cobalt, used in cancer research, over a Geiger counter.

That generated an impulse which was transmitted by wire to New York's Times Square, where it illuminated a 70-foot crusader's sword, symbol of the American Cancer Society.

Illumination of the sword signaled the start of the society's drive for 20 million dollars to fight the disease.

When the President's part in the ceremony was concluded, Mrs. Zaharias stepped up and told him she had prepared a long speech on the work of the society.

"But I think I'll just talk to you a little about your golf," she said.

"How is your golf?"

"Well," the President laughed. "It could be better. But as long as I've got people like you to emulate, I'll be all right."

"I hope one of these days to have a game with you, and I won't be afraid to take a lot of strokes."

When the President and the First Lady entered the broadcasting room where the cancer fund ceremony was held, the Babe was grasping the pointed end of a wooden sword and was swinging as she would a golf club.

Eisenhower smiled and volunteered to send upstairs for the real thing. They settled for the improvised club, however, and the Babe proceeded to give him a few tips about his grip.

The President confided he has been having a little trouble with it, and before he was through he had the sword in hands, demonstrating just what he meant.

Mrs. Zaharias showed him how to correct the trouble, and the President expressed his thanks.

Cambodian King Explains Land's Independence Goal

By JOHN BRODERICK
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—The round-faced young man leaned forward.

"I am seeking independence, real independence, for my country. Not just a paper independence."

The speaker was Norodom Sihanouk, 32-year-old king of Cambodia, one of the three Indochinese states.

The French, who have controlled this country most of the last century, know the King means what he says. He and his ministers have obtained one concession after another. Cambodia today controls all the armed forces in its territory.

The King, brought up in French schools in Indochina and France, has no hatred of France. He would prefer to continue as a member of the French Union but wants its form changed to resemble the more loosely organized British Commonwealth. Like Viet Nam, he insists Cambodia as a matter of pride must have independence first, then decide about joining the French Union.

Cambodia is about Kansas-size. Like Egypt, it draws lifeblood from a mighty river, the Mekong. The four million Cambodians, their country rich in natural resources, are inclined to take life easy. But they export rice, cattle, dried skins, fish and rubber.

The King has a vigorous political life. He is at home on an elephant, dressed in glittering ancient robes, or balancing a champagne glass with Western diplomats. He likes horseback riding, amateur movies and jazz. Occasionally he picks up the saxophone in the royal orchestra. He composes popular music and leads the little band in jam sessions.

He occupies a graceful tiled-roof palace complete with air conditioning, a swimming pool and a garage full of sport cars, next door to the elephant stables. One of the most important palace buildings is a Buddhist temple where the King worships. Its floor is of solid slabs of silver.

The black-haired King is still a bachelor, though the father of 11 children. It is said that so far no royal consort has found favor with the Queen Mother.

STOWAWAY ON PLANE IN 1929 SEEKING MAN WHO AIDED HIM

Carl Ellis, Hollis, Okla., who was a stowaway on a flight from Big Spring to El Paso in 1929, was back here Thursday trying to locate the man who put him aboard the plane.

"I don't know who he was," he said. "He was a mechanic at the Big Spring airport then."

Ellis said he was working at the Douglas Hotel as a dishwasher when he discovered he was getting $1.50 for a shift instead of $3 as he thought. That was on April 11.

"I got mad and quit," he said. "I got a new pair of shoes. Then I set out with 25 cents in my pocket."

The Texas Air Transport plane, which only months before had inaugurated regular service here, had put down so that passengers could get lunch.

Ellis said he didn't know until yet what possessed him to stow-away in the baggage compartment. A mechanic helped put him aboard on a promise that Ellis would keep his mouth shut about how he got on.

"It was bumpy and I got pretty sick two or three times," he recalled. "I thought they were joking when I could hear them talking and saying the next stop was El Paso."

But that's where he was when his poundings on the baggage compartment gained his release. This was the first "stowaway" uncovered at El Paso and the story got wide play in the papers then.

Ellis has headed back home after spending out west in search of work. He has a farm at Hollis but "I got blown out."

Students Handle Popular Comedy Like Stage Veterans

"Arsenic and Old Lace" still possesses a lethal laugh dose. Tackling a familiar comedy, one that had proved a smash hit first on stage and then screen, Big Spring High School seniors did a creditable job on Joseph Kessel-City's sassy play Thursday night.

They kept the audience in an uproar most of the way. "Arsenic and Old Lace" goes on for the last time this evening at 8 p. m. in the senior high auditorium.

This, you recall, is the story of two elderly spinsters, who combine homicide with mild manners in such an innocent way. Mortimer Brewster, their nephew, discovers that they have quietly put away 12 men in "Pansies" the cellar where their pickled relatives, "Teddy Roosevelt," quietly digs the canal locks and puts away yellow fever victims. Then comes Jonathan, the errant son Brewster who also has 12 murders to his credit. Things live up in a hurry.

While all the members of the cast did a fine job for young players, Libby Jones and Angela Faustel, as Aunt Abby and Aunt Martha, were exceptionally sharp. They had heavy parts and handled them like veterans.

Although his part is a natural for belly laughs, Tiny Ellison made the most of his opportunities as "Teddy." He looked the part.

Robert Angel handled the hero's part capably as Mortimer, though it was more of a straight role as opposed to the more comic parts. Bill Eary presented a swarthy, scared appearance as Jonathan and Don Swinney was good as Dr. Einstein.

The cast had parts down unusually well. If anyone ever blew a fuse the audience never had cause to suspect. About the only point of difficulty was in forcing volume in an effort to be heard. Some of the players went all out in attempting to pitch their voices to the rear of the auditorium—they pitched them all the way to 13th Street instead. Now, with knowledge that you can't shout rapidly fixed firmly in their minds, and with the example that well-enunciated words carry more distinctly than shouted ones, fixed firmly in mind, tonight's performance should be even more fun.

Others in the cast, all of whom did well, were Dan Lowe, Robert Brown, Robert Morehead, Jimmy Smith, Judy Douglas, Lamar Miller, James Underwood, Jackie Anderson, and Kirk Faulkner. Janice Jerry Hughes was student director; Mary Keaton and Shirley Burnett, program advisers; Rodney Shepard, a daughter, Carla, and a son, Steven.

Also surviving are her father, Matt Rushing of Lenora; five sisters, Mrs. C. A. Edwards of Fort Worth, Mrs. G. T. Burton of Portsmouth, Va., Mrs. S. E. Fagan of Odessa, Mrs. Jack Mann of Cheyenne, Wyoming, and Sue Rushing of Big Spring.

He was elected Wednesday evening to succeed Mayron Shields. Other new officers are Arsh Phillips, vice chairman, and Dixie Boyd, recording secretary. About 25 former North Texas students attended the annual rally held in the high school cafeteria. They listened to a broadcast from the college at 5:15 p. m. and then saw the North Texas-Texas Tech football game in motion pictures. There also were refreshments.

Ten people had cast absentee ballots in the city commission election by noon today. Deadline for absentee voting was this afternoon with the closing of the city secretary's office.

The regular election will be held Tuesday. Polling place will be the city hall fire station and balloting will start at 8 a. m. and continue through 7 p. m. Horace Reagan and W. R. Yates are election judges.

Hot Asphalt Crawl Charges Due Probe In Florida County

RUSKIN, Fla. (AP) — A 27-year-old mathematics teacher was suspended yesterday pending an investigation of charges that he punished 14 grammar school students by making them crawl on hands and knees across a hot asphalt basketball court at midday.

A. L. Vergason, director of education for Hillsborough County, said Carroll E. Fogal, father of two children, who has been teaching for three years, admitted he was responsible for the punishment.

"There was never any question about whether he did it," Vergason said. "He concedes he was in the wrong. He was a good teacher and a good citizen. We deplore it."

Parents of the children charged at a protest meeting that Fogal directed four school patrol members to make the children crawl on the hot asphalt as punishment for breaking out of line after eating lunch in the school lunchroom.

They said three of the children refused to crawl and were required to run around the basketball court 20 times.

Uncle And Niece Reunited By Mail

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) — When Carolyn V. Cohen, secretary of the Upper Keys Chamber of Commerce answered a routine inquiry she added this note:

"I'm proud of the 'V' in my name, which stands for Valentine. I was born in Woodbridge, N. J., and as the family is large could I be writing this letter to a relative?"

In a few days she received this reply from Raymond L. Valentine of East Orange, N. J.:

"Dear Carolyn: Stop wondering if you are writing to a relative. Yes, it is your Uncle Ray."

Mrs. Cohen hasn't seen her uncle for more than 30 years and didn't know where he was living.

Now Valentine plans a visit to the Upper Keys to recover from an illness and see his niece. Both were born in Woodbridge.

Jesus' Intercessory Prayer

WHIS MISSION ACCOMPLISHED, JESUS PRAYS THAT HIS DISCIPLES BE WITH HIM IN HEAVEN.

Scripture—John 17.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

AT FIRST READING this lesson may seem a difficult one for the younger children. It can be made interesting and helpful if the children are asked if they have been taught to say prayers at bedtime, and what the subjects of those prayers are.

Do they pray for material things for themselves—a bicycle, doll carriage, other such items? Or do they ask their heavenly Father to make them more loving to those around them; that they may control their temper, cease envying those who have more than they; be more helpful to parents, teachers and playmates?

Jesus prayed first for Himself. That He had finished His work for which God had sent Him into the world, and asking His Father to glorify Him, not for Himself, but that "Thy Son may glorify Thee."

Then He asked that God would care for those whom Jesus loved upon earth, "the men which Thou gavest Me out of the world;" then for all who should believe in Him—the whole Christian world; and finally that His faithful disciples who would carry on His work when He had left them, might have joy on earth and share His glory in the life hereafter.

It is the night of our Lord's arrest; soon He will be taken before the high priest and to Pontius Pilate; accused of claiming to be King of the Jews and of blasphemy; Judas, the "son of perdition," betraying Him to His enemies.

"Father, the hour is come; glorify Thy Son, that Thy Son may glorify Thee. As Thou hast given Him power over all flesh, that He should give eternal life to as many as Thou hast given Him.

"And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou hast sent."

I have glorified Thee on earth; I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do."

Then He prayed for those dear to Him, His disciples. "I have manifested Thy name unto the world; which Thou gavest Me out of the world; Thine they were, and Thou gavest them Me, and I have given them the words which Thou gavest Me; and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from Thee, and they have believed."

"O righteous Father, the world hath not known Thee, but I have known Thee, and these have known that Thou hast sent Me. And I have declared unto them Thy name, and will declare it; that the love wherewith Thou hast loved Me may be in them, and I in them."

The love of God and Christ for each other and the world and the love we may bear one another as we go through life would be another salient point to emphasize in this lesson to the very young as well as to older pupils.

A Hymn Is Born
BY CLINT BONNER

Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus
A revival . . . a corn-shelling machine . . . an accident . . . a hymn

"The Work of God in Philadelphia" is what men called the citywide revival of 1858. Of the participating ministers, none was more powerful than 29-year-old Episcopalian Dudley Tyng. Tyng was a born preacher and had been tutored by his minister father. One Sunday he stood before 5,000 men in Jayne's Hall. When he concluded his sermon 2,000 knees were on the floor.

The following Wednesday he was at work in his study. For relaxation he went to his barn to watch the operation of a corn-shelling apparatus. The sleeve of his robe caught in a cog. His arm was torn out of his shoulder. Doctors and a score of ministers gathered at his bedside. He tried to sing "Rock of Ages" but he was too weak. The Rev. Stephen H. Tyng leaned over to hear the last words of his son, who had brought thousands to his knees.

"Tell them to stand up for Jesus."
The phrase so impressed Presbyterian Minister George Duffield, Jr., that his next sermon from the text, "Stand, therefore, having your loins girt about with truth . . ." Then Duffield read a poem he had written. One of his members had the verses printed for distribution in the Sunday School. One of the leaflets found its way to a Baptist periodical. Composer George Webb read the poem . . . set it to music.

In 1864 the Rev. Duffield heard soldiers in a Union camp sing verses he had written as a concluding exhortation to a sermon six years earlier.

A revival . . . a corn-shelling machine . . . a fatal accident . . . a hymn. "The Work of God in Philadelphia" has its influence today every time a hymnal is opened to—

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
Ye soldiers of the cross
Lift high His royal banner,
It must not suffer loss.
From vict'ry unto vict'ry
His army shall He lead,
Till ev'ry foe is vanquished
And Christ is Lord indeed.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
The trumpet call obey,
Forth to the mighty conflict,
In this, His glorious day,
"Ye that are men now serve Him"
Against unnumbered foes,
Let courage rise with danger,
And strength to strength oppose.

THIS IS GOOD EATING

WONDERFUL DIVINITY

Ingredients: 2½ cups beet or cane sugar, 1-3 cup white corn syrup, ½ cup hot water, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites (at room temperature), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup mixed candied (glace) fruits, ½ cup broken nuts.

Method: Mix sugar, corn syrup, hot water and salt in saucepan, stirring to dissolve sugar entirely. Cover pan and cook 5 minutes; uncover pan and continue cooking to hard-ball stage (265F). A small amount of the syrup dropped in cold water forms a ball that holds its shape, is hard but not brittle. Remove from heat. Beat egg whites until just foamy, then start adding hot syrup in a pencil stream, beating constantly; use rotary beater or electric mixer. Continue beating for 3 to 5 minutes until candy thickens and loses its gloss. Remove beater and stir in vanilla, fruits and nuts. Drop quickly by tablespoons onto lightly greased baking sheet; let set 1 hour. Makes 2½ dozen pieces.

Note: If there is excess moisture in the air, cook candy a degree or so above the temperature given in the recipe. Be sure to have egg whites at room temperature as recipe directs. Serve this with the teen-age party snack below.

This Article Is Just A Space Filler

By ANNE LEFEVER

"Nature abhors a vacuum"—and so does an editor. What can be done, then, by a reporter, when nothing has been reported, but get busy and write something to fill space!

You keep wishing this were the week that all the P-TA groups had meetings. There isn't a shower for a bride-elect. For that matter, there isn't even an announcement of an approaching marriage. What's the matter with all these young people!

After a fifth Monday, there are only about two church group meetings that are called in. You look for news from the correspondents, but the postal service has let you down—nothing in the mail.

Searching through garden magazines reminds you that some timely articles on gardening would be good at this point. After seeing my yard, though, who would believe anything I had written about how to plant even a zinnia seed?

Counting the amount of space, as you learn to do in newspaper work, I find that I have only about sixteen lines up to this point—that makes about four inches in the paper. And we need at least eight inches filled up.

Oh, well, this fills my half of the space—and we can always fill in with suggestions about how to do something.

Girl Scouts Taught How To Tie Knots

How to tie knots, a requirement for a second class badge in Girl Scouting, was taught by Mrs. C. W. Henderson and Mrs. Trinidad Cano, Thursday afternoon at the meeting of Troop 23 in the Kate Morrison School.

Elvira Mendoza led the troop in learning a new song and Connie Pineda read the rules for a good conversationalist. Maria Elena Lopez received her Girl Scout pin. Plans were made to take a short nature hike. Eighteen members and one guest attended.

Faithful Workers Class Has Meeting

Mrs. W. B. Shultz and Mrs. F. W. White were co-hostesses when the Faithful Workers Sunday School Class of the East Fourth Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Shultz Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Leroy Minchew gave the opening prayer. Mrs. H. M. Macomber brought the devotion on "Let Your Light Shine." Mrs. Robert Smith gave the closing prayer. Secret pals were revealed by the eight members present.

Danny Kaye Gives Advice On Marriage

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If you want to be happily married, don't make any hard and fast rules on the subject, advises Danny Kaye.

The comedian, who has packed stage, screen and night club audiences for the last decade, was discussing the women in his life the other day, while preparing for his forthcoming trip to South Africa. The women are two: his wife, the former Sylvia Fine, and his 7-year-old daughter Dena.

The usually effervescent Danny was in a lugubrious mood, applying hot compresses to an infected finger while discussing the ups and downs of family life. Said he:

"Everybody keeps talking about normal homes, normal parents, normal children, normal environment. I'm sick of the word. Just who says what is normal for anybody else?"

Danny gives full credit to wife Sylvia for helping boost him into the top ranks of showmanship. In the beginning she wrote most of his material, now concentrates mostly on his movie work. Despite rumors of a marital rift a year or so ago, the Kayes have remained together, and retain the title of one of the happiest couples in show business. But, as Danny remarks: "Do you know anybody who's happy all the time? I love my work more than anything else, but I still get bored with it at times. I think that's true of everyone."

"I wouldn't want to be happy all the time. It would be extremely dull. No contrast."

"I'd hate to be crazy about anything—even marriage—all of the time. It shows a lack of imagination, a channelling of emotions. In such a case you just take everything for granted until something goes wrong. Then, sometimes you find you're not such a nice guy as you thought you were."

In dealing with both women in his life, Danny finds a sense of humor his greatest asset. He said: "Too many parents try to make children into what they themselves wanted to be, and that's the surest way to ruin a child's life. The only rule for child-rearing I have, if any, is to try to behave myself so as not to become a delinquent parent."

"If adults paid more attention to their own behavior, they would have less worries about juvenile delinquency."

Asked if he believed in the old theory of "spare the rod and spoil the child," Danny replied: "I never hit my daughter except once—and that was in self-defense."

Few Marks May Fall In ABC Club Relays

Amarillo, Odessa, Pampa and Lubbock are due to stage a spirited fight for team honors in the tenth annual American Business Club Relays, which get under way at 8:30 a.m. here Saturday. The Amarillo team, which is coached by Frank Guess, is a slight favorite to take home the huge first place trophy but the Sandies will not send a full team here. Several members of the teams will be in Austin, taking part in the Texas Relays.

The other AAAA powers could slip into the throne room without causing too much surprise. In all, 14 teams are entered. Big Spring, too, may be ready to make a more positive showing than they did in the West Texas Relays in Odessa last week. The Steer relay teams have been clicking off some excellent times in practice the past week.

Most of the records should endure for at least another year but Pampa has a crack sprint relay team that is capable of bettering the current mark and Joe Irvin of Amarillo could break his own discus record. In addition, O'Brien—one of the late entries—has a high jumper who has shaded Byron Townsend's six-year old standard of 6 feet 1 1/2 inches by a full inch this year.

One of the records has been on the books since 1947 and four others have withstood all tests since 1948. The meet's outstanding athlete will be given a special trophy. Last year, J. Frank Daugherty, then of Olton, copied the award. The outstanding boy does not necessarily have to be the high-point man.

The sponsoring organization, the American Business Club, has spent over $200 on trophies for the meet. Each individual winner will be a trophy rather than a medal. Cups will go to the first, second, third and fourth place teams.

In addition, the service club is furnishing the personnel to stage the event. Walker Bailey heads up the relays committee for the club. Coach Carl Coleman is the meet director while Joe Bailey Cheney is a familiar figure here. Here is the schedule:

- 8:30 100 Yard Dash and all field events
- 9:00 200 Yard Dash
- 9:30 400 Yard Dash
- 10:00 800 Yard Dash
- 10:30 1600 Yard Dash
- 11:00 3200 Yard Dash
- 11:30 6400 Yard Dash
- 12:00 12800 Yard Dash

Steerettes Seek Tie For Lead

As ready as can be, the Big Spring Steerettes challenge Lamessa's Tornado Queens here tonight for a share of the lead in the district girls' volleyball ball race. Game time is 7:30 o'clock.

Though Arsh Phillips' team has trounced the Lamesses in three of four games this season, the Tornado Queens won the big one—the first district game of the season between the two clubs. Final tab in that one was 27-17. Last weekend at Plainview, Big Spring mauled the Lamesses, 30-10, while storming to the championship of the Plainview Tournament. Big Spring has lost only one other game this season, a 27-24 verdict to Sweetwater in Sweetwater. The locals avenged that loss in a later game played here.

Who Can Take The Champs?

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—The weakened world champion New York Yankees are ready to be taken but there doesn't appear to be any club in the American League to do it. Because of the failure of the other clubs to improve sufficiently and because of New York's knack of coming up with replacements, the Yankees are picked to capture their sixth straight flag.

The Yankees figure to be at least 10 per cent weaker because of the loss of such key 1953 performers as Billy Martin, Vic Raschi and John Mize, and the uncertain status of Mickey Mantle. The young outfield star, slow in recovering from a double knee operation, may not see regular action until after the start of the season.

Usually, loss of three star players at one sitting and the prospect of playing without another for at least a month spell disaster for the club. But not the talent-laden Yankees. They have pitching, power, speed, great defensive strength, depth and cunning.

In place of Martin, the Yanks have Jerry Coleman, the returned Marine captain. In place of the departed Raschi and the retired Ewell Blackwell, they have Harry Byrd, former Philadelphia fire-baller and Tom Morgan, fresh from the Army. In place of Mize, they have Eddie Robinson. Until Mantle is ready to play regularly, centerfield will be handled by Irv Noren and Rookie Bob Cerv.

The season promises to be a tense, bitterly-fought four-team race right down to the wire. The Yankees' chief trouble may come from the Boston Red Sox, probably the most-improved club in the league. If Tex Williams hadn't busted his collarbone the first day of spring training, the Red Sox might have been the choice. Cleveland improved itself somewhat by the acquisition of outfielder Dave Philley and First Baseman Rocky Nelson. It is doubtful if that is sufficient to make up the 8 1/2 games that separated the club from the Yankees at the end of last season.

Sam Snead Favored In Carolina Play

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Sam Snead, despite meagre gold and glory from the winter's pro golf tour, ruled as popular favorite today as the $10,000 Greensboro Open started a three-day stand.

Dave Douglas, the long thin man from Delaware, whose $6,850 in PGA earnings leads this year's golfing money winners, was on hand, along with 15 others among the top 25 coin collectors. Snead doesn't rank in the top 50. However, they call this Snead's tournament—and with good reason. The West Virginian has won here four times, including the inaugural in 1926. Eighteen holes today and tomorrow will see the field of about 125 reduced about in half for Sunday's 36-hole windup.

Three Stanton Youths In Camp Santee And Mates After New Mark

Three Stanton youths joined the Big Spring Broncos for workouts Thursday as the candidates for positions on the club rose to 22. The Martin County youngsters, all students at Sul Ross College, are Kenneth Henson, Earl and Gerald Koonce, three years ago members of the Buff district championship football team.

Henson is a pitcher. He hurled a no-hit game against Howard County Junior College while a student at San Angelo College last year. The Koonce boys are twins and as alike as two peas in a pod. One is a catcher, the other an infielder. Manager Pepper Martin worked his charges out until after 3 p.m. Thursday, reminding them that they have a long way to go before they are ready for the opening of the campaign.

The Broncos wound up with a scrimmage against Howard County Junior College and Martin said he was far from pleased with the results. About the only positions that appear to be won now are third base, where Julio De la Torre is available, and two spots on the mound corps. Mike Rainey and Larry Cummins, both of them veteran pitchers, should be of great help to the club.

Martin himself will play somewhere, possibly in center field. His brother, Floyd, always a defensive stickout, looked to advantage with the stick Thursday. The Steeds will continue to work from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily until Sunday, when they will scrimmage HCJC again in the afternoon. Frank Maren, limited-service hurler from Joliet, Ill., arrived in town last night. He last pitched in the Wisconsin State League in 1947, at which time he posted a 4-3 win-loss record. Since then, he has served in the Armed Forces.

Only Tom McKeena, a promising hurler from New York, is missing from camp and he isn't due here until Monday. Houston Blasted By Lutherans
HOUSTON (AP)—Texas Lutheran blasted three University of Houston pitchers for 16 hits, four of them for home runs, and ran off with a 15-4 baseball victory here yesterday.

Bob Lesterougen drove out a grand-slam homer in the seventh inning and outfielder Billy Graeber smacked a pair of 2-run home runs to pace the Bulldog attack. Howard Woerner hit the fourth homer for Texas Lutheran.

Notre Dame Opens Spring Workouts

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—The Terry Brennan Era in Notre Dame football will be ushered in today as the 25-year-old successor to head coach Frank Leahy opens the first of 20 spring workouts. Brennan has 17 letterman returning from Leahy's unbeaten but once tied 1953 team. This group is headed by Co-Captains Dan Shannon and Paul Matz, ends who played for Brennan on his Mount Carmel City High School championship teams in Chicago a few years ago.

Brennan's main job will be to replace the entire right side of the starting line, a unit wiped out by graduation. Fullback Neil Worden and Halfback Johnny Lattner, All-American and winner of the Heisman and Maxwell Trophies. Notre Dame, entering its 68th year of football, will open the 1954 schedule of 10 games at home Sept. 25, against Texas. Then come Purdue, Pittsburgh, Michigan State, Navy, Penn., North Carolina, Iowa, Southern California and Southern Methodist.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

This department would like to see the American Business Relays moved to HCJC in future years.

True, the school doesn't have an adequate track now but the outlook wouldn't be too expensive and the local college would gain enormously in prestige by it.

In addition, it would enable other athletes of both the high school and junior college here—not to mention professionals—to make better use of the adjoining football and baseball plants here.

There simply isn't enough room for everything that goes on at the two athletic arenas in the spring.

As it is now, the right field fence at Steer Park can't be put up until after the ABC meet, when it should be in place earlier.

Several readers have asked this reporter recently why results in the National Basketball League playoffs were not carried in this paper.

The Daily Herald would be pleased to relay such information, if the leased wires carried it. Unfortunately, the wire services do not.

Time was when the teletypes didn't give the pro football teams enough coverage but the radio and television helped to force their hand and the coverage improved.

It is hoped that radio and TV will focus some attention on pro basketball in the not-too-distant future. Only then may the wire editors see the news value in pro basketball and give it the attention it deserves.

Many sports followers do not know what they're missing by not getting to see the pro cagers play.

Think patrons in Texas go daffy about sports?

In Iowa, after Muscatine won the state high school basketball championship, it was decided one shoe of its star center should be bronzed and placed in the school's trophy case. A business house offered to pay for the undertaking. The job cost about $50.

Mike Rainey, one of the Big Spring Broncs' regular hurlers, won two games, lost five for Temple before being shipped to Midland by that Big State League club last year.

Manny Junco, one of the speediest players ever to wear the uniform of the Big Spring Broncs, hit 256 for Fayetteville of the Class B Carolina League in 1953.

He collected only 16 extra base hits (in 74 games), drove in only 26 tallies. His team finished dead last in the standings.

Milwaukee sports writers are sulking because the new scoreboard in the baseball orchard of the Baltimore Orioles is going to cost $170,000, whereas that facility in their own park set back its purchasers only $80,000.

Some of the best Class C ball parks in the country have been built for less than $80,000.

Tickets for the Sul Ross-New Mexico A&M football game, which will be played in Pecos under the sponsorship of the Quarterback Club there on Oct. 5, have already gone on sale.

Pecos had to put up $3,200 to get the game.

Big league club owners are always prone to exaggerate when they talk about player salaries.

In 1941, Ernie White, then of the St. Louis Cardinals, won 17 games and balked at the next pay offered him. The news accounts had it he was holding out for $12,000. Actually, he wanted $4,200, he said later. The Cards had offered him $3,800. He finally got his $4,200.

Steers Meet Westerners, HC To Host Clarendon

There was to be baseball practically all day at Steer Park today, starting with a workout of the professional club at 10 a.m.

Lubbock squares away with the Big Spring Steers in a 3 p.m. contest. The Westerners, who beat the local schoolboys three straight games last year, now own a 3-4 won-lost record. Roy Baird's homelings have won two, lost one.

Tonight at 7 p.m. Clarendon and Howard County Junior College clash in the first game of a double bill. The first engagement is down for seven innings, the second for five. This one opens the West Zone season for both lines.

Coach Baird of the high school team has announced that Frank (Red) Long, three-year letterman, will probably be the rubber against Lubbock.

His slants will be taken by Jimmy Hollis. Either Ralph Murphee or Lefty Don Reynolds will be at first, Jerry Barron at second, Tommy McAdams at short and Melvin Murphy at third. In the outfield for the Steers, it is apt to be Bob Phillips in left, Ronnie Wooten in center and Robert Broughton in right.

Tommy Randolph is set to go to the mound for HCJC in the first game. Randolph is the lone letterman back from last year.

Coach Harold Davis has nominated Charley Rose, last year a standout for the high school team, as the Jayhawk hurler in the second engagement.

HCJC finished out of the running for the title last year after winning it the previous year. The Hawks carry a 2-2 won-lost record into the twin bill. Clarendon is of unknown strength.

Admission prices for tonight's double attraction will be 50 cents adult and 25 cents students.

Clarendon lost to Sayre, Okla., 10-8, in a recent start. Sayre had previously defeated Amarillo, J.C., another Zone team, 10-4.

MARLIN (H)—Bryce Reid, assistant coach at Sherman High School, has been named head coach of Marlin High School. The former Baylor star succeeds Ernie Lawrence, who resigned.

AMARILLO (SC)—Amarillo College and Frank Phillips of Borger square away in a West Zone baseball game here this afternoon.

Gutierrez followed in 19:22.8. And behind him were Bill Yoryk, Springfield College Aquatic Club; 19:48.1; Joe Robinson, New Haven Swim Club, 19:58.4; Marly Smith, New Haven S.C., 20:00.3; Charley Stagmen, Coca Cola S.C., Cincinnati, O., 20:31.5.

Olson's Five-Months-Old Crown At Stake Tonight

CHICAGO (H)—Two world boxing champions, Carl (Bobo) Olson of San Francisco and Kid Gavilan of Cuba, will battle 15 rounds or less for Olson's five-month-old middleweight crown at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

The nation's TV fans, except in blacked-out Chicago and a 100-mile area, will watch (on NBC) the favored Olson, 25, make his first title defense against welterweight champion Gavilan, 28. ABC radio will broadcast.

Starting time is 10 p.m. EST. Odds favored around 2-1 in Olson's favor before the noon weigh-in, at which Bobo was expected to outweigh Gavilan by six pounds, 159 to 153.

This is the first bout between two reigning champions since the now-retired middleweight king Sugar Ray Robinson failed to dethrone the then light heavy champ Joey Maxim in New York June 25, 1952.

The International Boxing Club, which billed the scrap as "the best fight in the world," admitted it would take a last-minute rush at the box office to reach a goal of $360,000 gross from a capacity 19,400 paid.

It appeared likely the fight would lure about 17,500 paying some $320,000, sweetened by $100,000 from the TV rights.

Olson gets 35 per cent of the net gate and TV money, about a $119,000 pay day, against Gavilan's 25 per cent for around $85,000.

A torrid pace is expected in the meeting of the balding, tattooed Olson against the cocky Gavilan, who has had almost twice as many pro fights as Bobo, 118 to 60. It'll be Olson, a busy, flailing crowd-pleaser, against a crafty, skinny-legged slasher.

Olson won the middleweight title vacated by Robinson when he whipped England's Randy Turpin at New York last Oct. 21. He since has had one fight, knocking out Joe Rindone at San Francisco Jan. 23 in a nontitle bout.

Gavilan has held the welter title since he won a 15-round decision over Johnny Bratton.

Gavilan would have to abandon the 147-pound title if he defeats Olson tonight. In the last few of his seven 147-pound defenses, he had great trouble making that weight.

Olson, with a 54-6 record, has won 12 straight since his last defeat, March 13, 1952, when he was repulsed in 15 rounds in an attempt to dethrone middleweight champion Robinson.

Gavilan, who like Olson was beaten twice by Robinson, has a 98-13-4 record and last was defeated in a surprise nontitle loss to Danny Womber, May 1, 1953. Since then the Kid has won seven straight.

Olson lacks the punching power of Gavilan, although in a heavier class, he shades the Kind in the knockout department, 27 to 28. Olson has been stopped only once, by Robinson at Philadelphia in their first meeting, Oct. 26, 1950. Gavilan never has been knocked out and only twice has been floored, by Ike Williams and Clarence Basilio.

YEAR, I HEARD YOU SAY 'COME ON, CHILDREN.' DIDN'T YOU HEAR ME SAY 'DON'T BOTHER ME'?

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

If people of North America voted on the worst insects, I believe that weevils would rank among the "worst three." I suppose that mosquitoes would be counted the very worst, but farmers and others would be hard on the weevils. A simple list of some of the troubles they cause. There are bean weevils, pea weevils, strawberry weevils, sweet potato weevils, rose weevils and cotton boll weevils. The only thing I could say to defend the weevils would be this: they act as their natures tell them. From the human viewpoint, they deserve to be called "evil weevils." Pea weevils lay their eggs on the pods. After the eggs hatch, the young larvae bore into the pods and eat their way into the young peas. When the pea weevils get into peas which are saved for seed until the next year, they usually stay inside until spring. When a weevil of this kind becomes an adult, it is only about one sixth of an inch long. An insect expert writes: "Seed peas should be placed in water. Those which are infected with weevils will float, and should be picked out and destroyed." The cotton boll weevil spread from Central America into Mexico, and reached the border of Texas about 65 years ago. Since then it has become a pest in almost all the cotton-growing parts of the United States. Weevils are of small size, usually less than one third of an inch long. Some of them measure hardly an eighth of an inch. Strange-looking snouts jut out from their heads. Certain weevils, especially the rose weevils, look a bit like elephants on a small scale. If we could enlarge the snout of a rose weevil to give it a length of five or six feet, it would make many a person think of an elephant's trunk. Sunday: Curious Names.

DATE DATA

Length Of Date Can Vary Considerably

By BEVERLY BRANDOW Got a question about dating? Let's reach into the question box and see if yours is among the letters there. "How long should a date be?" a boy of fourteen asks. Do you know? I'll bet this is one thing lots of you disagree with your parents on. Actually the length of time depends a lot on the kind of date. For instance, a home date would include playing some game, gathering about the piano for a sing-song, or watching television while munching cookies, would probably last about two or two and a half hours. On the other hand, a movie lasts two hours, so on a date of this kind you would have to allow additional time for going and coming as well as for eating a snack at the drugstore afterward. Picnics, swimming dates, and dances usually last longer than the others and average three and a half to four hours. Close your eyes and lets pick again. It's a post card this time and it, too, is from a boy. He asks, "My new date a girl who is going steady?" Only if she's going steady with you, but don't laugh seniors. It's being done all the time even if it "tastes" right. What's next? Ah! This one's not from a boy. It's in a pink envelope and smells pretty. "Are all boys uncouth hoppers with no 'larnin'?" she asks. "When the school bus picks us up the boys nearly knock us down getting to the seats. They gaze obviously out of the windows while their books ride beside them and we stand in the aisles clutching ours. 'Nuff to make a girl a man hater, isn't it? Even so, you must admit they're pretty nice to have around. No, not all boys are playing mental cowboys and Indians and mimicking muscle bound villains or the TV westerns. Some are older in their ways and more mannish, less boyish. There's nothing you can do about the situation but wait. Boys just won't date a girl who's set on giving them a dose of manners; besides that's Mom's job. Journalism students, come a runnin'. "The Pen is mightier than the sword," I've heard. Find out. Attack the subject with a pointed editorial for the school paper. If the boys knew how "undatebait" they are when... well, h-u-m-m-m boys? Kansas City Pool To Be Open To All, Regardless Of Race KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City's Swope Park swimming pool, closed the last two years, will open June 12 for all swimmers, regardless of race. The decision was announced yesterday by the Park Board after conferences among city officials. Under a decision by Federal Judge Albert A. Ridge on May 7, 1952, segregation at the pool was ordered eliminated unless another pool with equal facilities was built at the park. The decision was upheld by the U. S. Court of Appeals and the U. S. Supreme Court. Officials have started construction of another pool because of lack of funds. Three Negroes who were denied admittance to the pool in 1951 filed suit against the city. City officials closed the pool pending court litigation.

Probated Sentence Given In Drug Case DENVER (AP)—Mrs. Patsy G. Cook, 20, of Houston was given a three-year probated sentence yesterday on charges of trying to smuggle morphine to her jailed husband. Federal Judge Leo Knous assessed the sentence. Mrs. Cook had pleaded guilty to attempting to smuggle morphine to her husband in Mesa County Jail at Grand Junction last January. Jailers found the narcotic wrapped in a box of candy Mrs. Cook mailed to her husband, Jesse, 21. He's now serving a 3-5 year term at Colorado State Prison at Canon City for possession of marihuana. Bowed Head No Sign Of Faint But Prayer FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—Nurses offered John Davis, Council Bluffs, Iowa, fruit juice and a sandwich after he gave a blood donation at Midland College. Davis sat and bowed his head. Quickly the nurses lifted him to a cot. But he was not in a faint. A pre-theological student, he had bowed his head for momentary prayer before eating.

Tarzan Farmer Proves Out Best Plan For Irrigation

STANTON (SC) — Woody Smith, who farms in the Tarzan Community in Martin County, has some dollars-and-cents figures to prove that one form of irrigation farming is more profitable than another method.

Smith farms two places in the Tarzan area. One has a bordered field that was flood irrigated last year. It is owned by Mrs. Inez Woody of Stanton. The other tract, owned by Pete Woody and Houston Woody, was row irrigated.

The bordered field has an area of 112.2 acres while there are 92.8 acres in the row-irrigated field. There are 10-inch wells in both fields. Both fields were watered the same number of times and cultivation was identical. The soil in both fields is the same. Both fields were sod land and both were cultivated in 1953 for the first time. No fertilizers were applied to either field and in both insects were poisoned five times during the season. The cotton on both fields was

Carter Field Controls Set For Flights

FORT WORTH (F)—All air traffic in the thickly-congested Dallas-Fort Worth area will be controlled from Fort Worth' mammoth Amon Carter Field.

L. C. Elliott, Civil Aeronautics Administration regional chief, said the shift to Carter Field would come this year when a new radar system is installed.

Civil, commercial and military traffic is included in the control set-up, Elliott said. It will permit routing, stacking and clearance from Carter to traffic out of Love Field, Dallas; Hensley Field, Grand Prairie; Carwell Air Force Base, Fort Worth; and Meacham Field, Fort Worth, he added.

The control center will be an IFR (instrument flight rules) room, shielded and blacked out, directly below the glass-enclosed Carter Field control tower.

Elliott explained that the CAA's regional headquarters on Blue Mound Road, Tarrant County, presently directs all airway traffic within a radius of about 200 miles around Fort Worth. That control, he said, is divided into several sections, determined by the volume of traffic in each. One sector is devoted entirely to the heavy Dallas-Fort Worth traffic. It is this sector which will be handled from Carter, he said.

Traffic immediately on and off various other airports will be handled by their own control towers. All will be tied in with the Carter Field center by wire and radio.

Elliott said the new system would speed up air traffic, in or out of the ports involved.

Actress To Quit Hollywood To Do 'What Lord Wills'

HOLLYWOOD (H)—Actress Penny Edwards says she's quitting the screen "to do the Lord's work in whatever way He wills."

The 25-year-old former New York stage actress said last night she and her husband, Ralph Winters, a television casting director, plan to join the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

"Both of us want to work for the Lord," she said.

Miss Edwards retired from 20th Century-Fox last year to await the birth of her daughter Deborah, now 4 months old.

"I began to read the Bible. Then I began to look for God," she said. Born Millicent Edwards in Jackson Heights, N. Y., she appeared in the Ziegfeld Follies at 12 and later in other New York shows, including "Let's Face It," "Laughing Room Only" and "The Duchess Misbehaves." Among the movies in which she has appeared are "My Wild Irish Rose," "Two Guys From Texas" and "Pony Soldier" and "Powder River."

Yesterday's Phone Call Was No Joke

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (Z)—Mayor Sherman Johnson of Zanesville, a grocer, was convinced it was an April Fool's Day joke when the telephone rang yesterday.

A voice on the other end said: "This is radio station WHIZ. How would you like to get your name on a nationwide radio broadcast by helping stimulate the sale of butter now that support levels are changed? All you have to do is sell butter at half price tomorrow."

Deciding to play along with a gag, Johnson said he would do better than that: he would give away a pound with every $5 purchase.

Last night he heard his "promise" aired over the facilities of the National Broadcasting Co.

"Well," he sighed, "I'll keep my word."

Seoul Back On Route

TOKYO (T)—Northwest Air Lines, which abandoned flights to Seoul when Communist armies swept down on the city late in 1950, will re-establish its Tokyo-Seoul service April 24.

Sees H-Test Fear

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (C)—The chief of the Air Force's Tactical Command, Gen. Otto P. Weyland, said on a visit here yesterday he doesn't believe the Communists "would dare start anything" in the wake of recent U. S. hydrogen bomb tests.

Civic Leader Turns Pick-And-Shovel Man

CAMP HILL, Pa. (C)—Borough President Norman S. Keim asked all his new committee chairmen to get a first-hand knowledge of their departments' operation. Ed Carl, just named chairman of the Highways Committee, took the advice to heart. Yesterday he started working without pay during a week of his vacation—swinging a pick and shovel on a street construction project.

McCarthy Gets Back Of Hand At Dallas Meet

DALLAS (U-P)—A Dallas contractor told loyalist Young Democrats here last night that "McCarthy is in fact doing Malenkov's job in America."

He was referring to Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) and the Russian premier.

The contractor, W. O. Cooper, said the Wisconsin Senator had created suspicion in the minds of Americans of the loyalty of their armed services, and added:

"We have the responsibility to fight against the growing plague of political immorality called 'McCarthyism.'"

Cooper also accused Gov. Allan Shivers and Wallace Savage, state Democratic chairman, of "political immorality" which, he said, led to the point almost of taking away the vote of Texans.

Political immorality, he charged, was practiced by the "Shivers-crats" in the 1952 election when the Texas Democratic Party, under Shivers control, voted Republican and backed the GOP candidate in a successful campaign for the presidency.

Cooper told the Young Democrats that the elections of 1944 and 1948 in Texas were instances when "political immorality" was attempted but was defeated by loyal Democratic Party members.

Following Cooper's address, the club members made plans for the May 8-9 state convention in San Antonio of loyal Young Democrats. The Dallas group ignored the recent convention held in Mineral Wells. It was controlled by Shivers' followers, they said.

Adlai Stevenson To Speak At Tar Heel Demos' Rally

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (U-P)—The nation's top Democrat visits Charlotte today to bolster a Democratic drive aimed at unseating North Carolina's only Republican congressman.

The Tar Heel Democratic high command summoned Adlai E. Stevenson to deliver a major political address at a statewide party rally.

Party leaders hoped that Stevenson's appearance would rally supporters for a Democratic nominee against U.S. Rep. Charles Raper Jonas, who was elected in 1952 from the state's 10th Congressional District.

Renominated, Jonas will face the winner of a Democratic primary contest between Charlotte City

Judge J. C. Sedberry and Marvin L. Ritch, a Charlotte lawyer.

In his address tonight, Stevenson is expected to discuss the hydrogen bomb and the Eisenhower administration's tax and economic program. The speech will be televised and broadcast locally.

The address will be Stevenson's first since his March 6 speech in Miami, where he charged that the Republican party was split by a controversy over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). Party sources indicated that the speech will avoid reference to the controversy.

Isle Man Dies After Five-Floor Plunge

GALVESTON (U-P)—A 65-year-old Galveston concessions stand operator plunged to his death from the fifth floor of the U. S. National Bank Building yesterday after warning people on the street. "Get out of the way, I'm coming down."

Detective J. B. Kline said the man was Joe P. Shaunessey. Kline said he landed between two cars, falling full force on his head and was killed instantly.

Shaunessey had been in ill health, said Kline.
