Spacecraft's Solar Batteries Dead

Ranger Moon Shot Is $8-Million US Miscue

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—An $8 million power failure has ruined a U.S. attempt to send a Ranger-5 spacecraft on a collision course to the moon to get the world's first close-up lunar snapshots.

The 755-pound probe, hurled away from earth by a 10-story Atlas-Agena rocket Thursday, is expected to miss the moon by about 300 miles and then swing into orbit around the sun around midday Sunday.

Ranger-5 failed to get solar power and its own batteries ran down—and, like its four Ranger predecessors and six earlier U.S. moonshots, it is a failure. The moon remains America's most elusive target in space.

Slight Dip In Nation's Economy Is Predicted

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI)—A "great majority" of the nation's top business consultants predicted today that there would be a slight dip in the nation's economy in the first half of 1963.

Kappel said consumer prices are expected to increase against next year, averaging about one per cent higher than in 1962. This would be in line with increases the past few years.

The United States, still desperately short of the vital lunar exploration information needed to plan manned flights to the moon later this decade, won't get another moonshot opportunity until early 1963.

The prediction, which differed from that of government economists, was made public by Frederick R. Kappel, board chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., at the opening session of the Business Council.

The business council is a group of 175 businessmen, many of them chiefs of the country's biggest corporations. Once an advisory arm of the Commerce Department, the council declared it self independent in 1961 in a disagreement with Hodges.

The gold - and - chrome - plated Ranger-5 that scientists painstakingly built at a cost of $8 million on the ground was turned into a worthless chunk of space debris shortly after it had leaped from earth on the start of a 70-hour, 231,500 - mile flight toward the moon.

The council, made up of the nation's top corporation officials, began a three-day work and play meeting here today.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife were guests of the council for the weekend. He is scheduled to address the council members and their wives Saturday night.

Ranger-5's electronic death was spelled out in its failure at that point to "lock on" to the sun—a maneuver to keep its huge solar panels in the right position to pick up electricity-producing solar energy.

Kappel said most of the council's 20 technical consultants expect economic activity "to peak out by year-end and turn down in the first quarter of 1963."

The decision to bar the press was made by the board of directors of the Schenectady County Bar Association before a dinner meeting at the Mohawk Country Club. A spokesman said the group did not want to become involved in the present political campaign.

Without solar help the spacecraft was left powerless when its short-lived batteries wore out. The result was revealed by a terse line in a federal space agency announcement 10 hours after blast-off.

Administration officials in Washington are forecasting either continued small gains for the economy or a leveling off on a high plateau. Neither group expects substantial pickup before the second half of 1963.

Hurricane Ella's Winds Increasing

Kappel said the decline in the nation's business activity in the early part of next year is expected to be less than $2 billion. Government economists feel a dip of that size in a $560 billion economy is really no dip at all.

WILMINGTON, N. C. (UPI)—Hurricane Ella increased its high winds from 90 to 100 miles an hour today and started moving slowly away from the mainland.

The high winds menaced shipping in the area and whipped seas to a frenzy virtually the length of the Atlantic seaboard.

As is customary, newsmen were barred from the council's meeting. Kappel made available a synopsis of his presentation even before he finished speaking.

At 11 a. m. EST the storm was centered at 31.0 north latitude, 75.5 west longitude or about 315 miles south-southeast of Cape Hatteras, N. C., the Weather Bureau said.

The President was accompanied by his staff of political advisers and three Democratic members of Congress from Ohio—Sen. Stephen M. Young and Reps. Michael A. Feighan and Charles A. Vanik.

He reported the council's consultants expect the gross national product—the total of all business activity—to reach a record annual rate of $560 billion in the fourth quarter of 1962. This would represent a small gain of $4.5 billion from the preceding quarter.

Farther off Cape
The new fix put the storm 25 miles farther off Hatteras than just three hours previously.

Kennedy was occupied until a late hour Thursday night with developments on the Soviet front.

Rogers Says Reds Want Cuba Attack

Rep. Walter Rogers declared in a speech in Pampa last night that the Communists want the United States to commit an act of aggression against Cuba so the Reds can have an excuse to offer aid to the Cubans by promising a lot of things they would never get.

Forecasters said the storm was moving on an east - northeast course at about 5 mph, which also represented a change in status. Ella had remained stationary during the night and early morning.

The Chief Executive conferred late Thursday for two hours and 15 minutes with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. The Russian left the White House for a so - called "working dinner" with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and during the long evening, Kennedy was in touch with his advisers.

Rogers said credit unions offer an opportunity for people to help each other and stated that they find they can do more working together.

About Same Size
Weather officials said no important change in size and little further intensification was indicated.

Kept Up To Date
While flying from state to state for the next two days, the President will be kept closely informed on international developments as relayed to him by Rusk and other officials.

"Never before," Rogers said, "has there been a greater need for staying together."

Waves 10 to 12 feet tall were rolling in against North Carolina's famed Outer Banks, but weatherwise residents of the islands went about their business as usual.

The President had at least three speeches on tap today—at Cleveland, Springfield, Ill., and Chicago. He was due in Cleveland at 11:45 a.m. EDT and planned to motor from the airport to the huge public square in the center of the city for a speech to a Democratic rally.

The speaker declared that Cuba is one of this nation's big challenges today.

Their chief concern was for the erosion that the storm would cause to the vacation beaches. The area was hard hit by a northeaster that raked the seaboard last March 7.

Members of the mission and their families became suspicious," according to mission spokesman Milo Vejvoda, "because his wife had not been seen all morning. When she did not answer the telephone or knocking on the door, the members broke the door down by force."

"But, cutting back," he said, "would hit a lot of pocketbooks because 80 per cent of the money spent on foreign aid is spent in the United States."

The apparently crazed Czech caused consternation among fellow diplomats when the body of his wife Vera, 40, clad in a nightgown, was found sprawled on the floor of their apartment at the mission in New York.

Entrance Granted
Though the mission is protected by diplomatic immunity and technically Czech property, entrance was granted to Inspector George Gallagher of Manhattan's Fourth Detective Division, Chief

Lengthy Talks Held With Red Minister

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk failed to crack the Berlin deadlock in marathon talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko which lasted until early today.

Kennedy and Gromyko talked for two hours and fifteen minutes at the White House Thursday evening. The Soviet official and Rusk continued the discussions at the State Department until 12:15 a.m. EDT without producing any softening of the stern Soviet demands for Allied evacuation of West Berlin.

A State Department spokesman said early this morning that Rusk and Gromyko, during their "working dinner" which lasted for four hours and 15 minutes, talked "solely on Berlin" and there was "no perceptible progress." Diplomatic sources said the earlier meeting at the White House, which touched on Berlin and other subjects, was equally unproductive.

The talks, officials said, provided no clue as to whether Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is actually planning a trip to the United States, which would give him an opportunity to confer with Kennedy.

Gromyko told newsmen as he left the State Department that it was important for both countries to work for "improved relations between them." But he made it clear that the Soviet Union was still insisting on solving the Berlin problem on its own terms.

Officials said Kennedy and Rusk repeated their refusal to accept these terms and emphasized the Western determination to fight if necessary to stay in Berlin and keep open the access routes to the city across Communist East Germany. The United States and its Allies insist they cannot pull out of West Berlin until there is a final German settlement based on reunification of the country under free elections—a proposal the Russians reject.

The expectation here was that Khrushchev, who is known to be inclined to visit the United Nations in New York in late November and create the opportunity for a talk with Kennedy, would come to some definite decision after receiving Gromyko's report on the grueling total of six and one-half hours' talk with Kennedy and Rusk.

Gromyko headed back to New York this morning and said he planned to leave Sunday for Moscow. He told newsmen at the White House he could not talk about the possibility of a Khrushchev visit "at this moment," which implied there might be some Soviet announcement forthcoming later.

Police investigated three prowler reports last night, one of which they suspected could be a figment of the imagination on the part of a teenage girl.

Police said the girl's father was not sympathetic with the daughter. Investigating officers found no footprints in the soft earth beneath the window.

"She could be watching too much television," investigating officers said the father told them. Bobby Reynolds, 815 Campbell St., told police his wife called him at work late last night and said she thought someone had been trying to open a window of the Reynolds home.

Investigation revealed footprints, apparently those of a youngster, under the window. Police theorized that the youth may have been after some pop bottles sitting on the window sill.

Bill Kirkham, 1912 Coffee, telephoned police at 11:34 p.m. that his dog had attacked a man in the yard of his home. Kirkham said he thought the dog bit the man because he heard a scream. He said apparently the prowler kicked the dog because it was limping after the incident.

Police summoned to the scene searched the neighborhood but could find no trace of anyone.

JFK On Barnstorming Tour For Demo Candidates; Seven-State Tour Slated

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy left today on a barnstorming tour for Democratic candidates but made arrangements to keep fully informed of all international developments.

Kennedy's Air Force jet left for Cleveland, Ohio, where he will begin a seven-state tour ending Sunday in Seattle, Wash. He planned to be back at the White House late Sunday night.

The President was accompanied by his staff of political advisers and three Democratic members of Congress from Ohio—Sen. Stephen M. Young and Reps. Michael A. Feighan and Charles A. Vanik.

Kennedy was occupied until a late hour Thursday night with developments on the Soviet front.

The Chief Executive conferred late Thursday for two hours and 15 minutes with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. The Russian left the White House for a so - called "working dinner" with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and during the long evening, Kennedy was in touch with his advisers.

His primary political purpose in Ohio, his third visit to the state this year, was the re-election of Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, plus other members of the state ticket.

Largely to help Democratic Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., in his fight to unseat veteran Republican Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Kennedy moved from Ohio into Illinois during the afternoon.

To Visit Lincoln Tomb
The President planned to spend an hour and 25 minutes in Springfield, visiting the tomb of Abraham Lincoln and addressing a rally at the state fair grounds. Leaving Springfield at 4:45 p.m. EDT, Kennedy was scheduled to fly to Chicago for a 50-minute stop.

Czech Diplomat Dies Of Self-Inflicted Wounds

By THOMAS J. MCINTYRE
BETHLEHEM, Pa. (UPI)—A Czech United Nations diplomat who killed his wife and then led police on a chase through three states, died today from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Karel Zizka shot himself in the head Thursday at the end of a wild 25-mile chase at speeds up to 110 m.p.h. The attack was speeding from the Czech U. N. mission in New York, where he had killed his wife earlier in the day, when his automobile careened off the highway near Easton, Pa.

low diplomats when the body of his wife Vera, 40, clad in a nightgown, was found sprawled on the floor of their apartment at the mission in New York.

In her head was a bullet fired from the same German pistol Zizka later pointed at a Pennsylvania state trooper in Easton and then discharged into his own temple. Also found in the disheveled apartment was a note indicating his intention of committing suicide.

Fled In Car
It read, in part, "I think I am crazy."
The slaying, police said, took place about 6:30 a.m. EDT. Zizka terrible state — it was demolished," he said. Smashed wine and liquor bottles were found in the kitchenette.

Not until late afternoon did details of the slaying become public, hours after the capture of Zizka. This was when United Nations officials called police asking how to get a death certificate for a dead woman in the Czech mission.

Medical Examiner Dr. Milton Heipern, and other officials. Diplomatic immunity would preclude prosecution of Zizka in this country for the slaying. But Czech officials said his recovery would mean return to Czechoslovakia and a trial there for the crime.

Only diplomatic immunity prevented the apprehension of the attack on a Manhattan street minutes after his flight began. Driving the sedan, with diplomatic license plate DPL-41, he collided with another automobile blocked from the mission. Zizka did not stop.

A police cruiser caught up with him a few blocks further north. The Cadillac careened around the police vehicle and struck another car before stopping. When Zizka produced diplomatic credentials, the officer was obligated to let him go.

Raced Toward Bridge
The next official brush with the car was on Route 22 in Clinton, N.J., where a state policeman gave chase when it sped by. As two other New Jersey cruisers joined the pursuit, the powerful sedan raced toward the Delaware bridge.

Cubans Landed Guerrilla Arms

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
UPI Latin American Editor

Six young Cubans who attacked and sank a Castro gunboat early Saturday a mile off Cuba's northern coastline were disclosed today to have landed badly needed arms and munitions there for the underground resistance movement.

Informed source said the young "freedom fighters" who used a second-hand World War II PT-boat for their daring exploit, plotted the raid in exile for more than four months.

They had the financial and moral aid of a group of about 50 persons, one of whom lost his hair from nervous tension.

Although the prior planning for the raid was carried out in the Miami area, the attack itself was launched from a secret Caribbean headquarters. Two boats, one a converted pleasure craft, were involved in the gun-running expedition.

Led by frogman

The six men—"Skipper" Manola Quiza, a former frogman in Cuba; Edy Mor, 22, a former Cuban air force lieutenant; Juan Espinosa, 21; Roberto Parson, 20; Manuel Casanova, 33; and Jorge Rodriguez 23—sailed the PT boat.

The guns for anti-Castro guerrilla fighters in the Cuban hills ranging from bazookas to mortars and light and heavy machineguns, went in the second boat.

The group landed at an undisclosed coastal point in Cuba shortly after dusk. They camouflaged their boat with underbrush. They hid for four days because of rough seas. For two of those days, they had no food.

They had a contact ashore who was to feed them but he said he himself was "hungry" the government takes everything for itself. A friendly fisherman not only "spotted" for them but fed them.

Refinery Target

With clearing weather, the six men set out to accomplish their original objective—the destruction by shellfire from the sea of the former privately owned Arcebelita refinery on the shores of Cardenas Bay.

Although they had seen and heard Castro patrols ashore and at sea throughout their enforced wait, it was not until a scant few minutes of running time from their target area that they literally "ran into" a Castro gunboat.

Parson, the son of an English businessman married to a Cuban woman, and a former Havana police lieutenant, shouted in the darkness: "Halt, throw your guns into the sea."

The gunboat opened fire with light machine guns. The exile raiders returned the fire using 20mm and 45 and 30-caliber weapons.

Victory at Sea
The gunboat sank rapidly. Two of its four-man militia crew jumped into the sea and started swimming ashore. Two other crewmen, later found to be wounded, splashed their way in the darkness to the side of the PT-boat and begged to be taken aboard.

The action ran the raiders' gasoline supply low and they headed for the nearest non-Castro land, the British-owned Salt Key about 45 miles away.

The British asked patrolling U. S. Coast Guard vessels to take off the raiders. They were landed in Key West, Fla., and subsequently detained at the Opa-Locka immigration station outside Miami until their release late Wednesday, when it was established they had not sailed on their war mission from the United States.

Pampa Woman Is On Demo Party's State Committee

AUSTIN, Tex. (Sp) — Carl Hill Jr., of Amarillo, and Mrs. A. C. Wilkinson of Pampa have been named members of the Steering Committee for the State Democratic campaign.

Their appointment was announced by Eugene M. Locke, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee. Both are members of the SDEC, representing the 16-county 31st Senatorial District.

The 31st District is comprised of Carson, Dallam, Gray, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman and Wheeler counties.

Duties of the two committee members will include coordinating the statewide campaign in behalf of all the Democratic Party nominees in cooperation with the state campaign offices of John Connally and other Democratic candidates.

They will also work with the various managers and coordinators of Democratic candidates in an effort to turn out a large vote for their party's nominees Nov. 6.

Hill, a farm equipment wholesaler, has been active in politics for several years, serving as Potter County Democratic Chairman and as executive committeeman from his district. He attended Texas A&M College and is a member of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Wilkinson has previously been a precinct chairman in Gray County and has served as a member of the SDEC for several years. She attended Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth and the Horner Conservatory in Kansas City, Mo.

Be Sure To Vote For Candidate Of Your Choice

Absentee voting started in Pampa yesterday and will continue through Friday, November 2. All persons who will be out of town on November 6, election day, may go to the county clerk's office in the absentee period.

The ballots for the November 6 the court house and vote during election contain the nominees of the three Texas parties — Democrats, Republicans, Constitution, plus a column for any "Independents" and another for "Writers."

When voting for a candidate, election officials explain, the voter must cross out the names of all other candidates for that post, leaving a ballot that contains only the name of the voter's choice.

Here are other rules to follow in casting a valid ballot: To vote a "straight ticket," marked a line through the other party nominees. To "split ticket," cross out the names of all candidates except those for whom you wish to vote.

A common error made in the Texas voting booth is to consider only the two major parties—Democrats and Republicans—as being on the ballot. The Constitution Party, and the two columns for "independents" and "write-ins" are disregarded. But these three columns must also be marked out by voters choosing one of the other party nominees, or those "splitting tickets."

Another point to remember is that regardless of whether a person voted in the Democrat pri-

In other words, the fact that he voted in the Democrat or Republican primary does not compel him to vote only for Democrat or Republican candidates in the general election.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Last March 13, observing the first anniversary of his $20 billion Alliance for Progress program, President Kennedy declared that the goal of welfare and equality for peoples and nations is "within our grasp."

But for those Latin Americans who might oppose his program for reasons of privilege, the President had a warning.

"Those," he said, "who make peaceful revolution impossible, will make violent revolution inevitable."

This week in Mexico City, United States and Latin economists have been studying results to date. The results were disappointing.

The economists found that not only had most Latin American nations failed to achieve the 2.5 per cent increase in per capita income sought annually by the alliance, a number either had stood still or actually had suffered an economic decline.

Many had failed to submit detailed plans for projects under the alliance.

A "committee of nine" set up last February to keep tabs on progress found a lack of understanding of alliance goals among the general public and strong opposition to it by "powerful political and economic interests," from the Castro-Communist left to the entrenched wealth of the right.

In short, the Alliance for Progress program—designed to lift the living standard of 200 million Latin Americans—was in a state of "crisis."

Columbia and Venezuela had gone the farthest toward carrying out the self-help demanded by the alliance and in pressing agricultural and educational reforms.

But it was especially ironic that Venezuela also was in deep trouble.

Under the determined leadership of President Romulo Betancourt, Venezuela had distributed more than 3.5 million acres of land to 55,000 families. New schools enabled the country to cut drastically its illiteracy rate.

Opposition to Betancourt's determined program of economic and social reform followed the classic pattern.

On the far right were those who saw a threat to privileged positions. On the left were those who opposed U. S. participation in Latin American development and presented the Alliance for Progress as a U. S. political maneuver.

From both sides came violence—a bomb attack on Caracas' riots, assassination attempts and Tamanao hotel, street riots, assassination attempts and guerrilla raids on small villages.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The new entertainment series offered this season by the three networks comprise a vast intellectual slum. There is not a single new series of real stature. Last year there was "The Defenders," which, while not always consistent, was at least a welcome addition to such lively drama offerings as "Naked City."

To show you the difference, perhaps the best of the new series is a half-hour comedy that started slow but came along fast—"I'm Dickens, He's Fenster," about a couple of any carpenters. But it is not so much an achievement of television's unique art as the fact that the two fellows, John Astin and Marty Ingels, seem to have hit it off right.

This is the "go slow and careful" year in the television business as a result of the well-publicized attacks of Newton W. Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission. But that is really only a partial excuse and cover-up. It is not fear of one thing, it is fear of another. Normally fear is associated with such things as war and death, but at the networks it is linked to sponsors and the like, which gives you an idea of the stature of those who decide.

It is also important not to discount basic ignorance. To put on good shows requires showmanship. Outside of a bare few, the fact is that most of the decisions simply don't know what is good and bad. The solution is to copy other successes or appeal to primitive instincts.

Outside of "I'm Dickens, He's Fenster," which offers Ingels and Astin in fine form in their outing tonight, here are some of the other better bets among the new series, not in any particular order.

—"True." Jack Webb has a lot to do with this half-hour anthology of true stories, and his sure video touch helps bring them off.

—"McHale's Navy." This half-hour comedy, with Ernest Borgnine as a PT-boat skipper, has some funny crew members, but will need top writing throughout.

—"It's a Man's World." The normal adventures of four boys who live on a houseboat produces a wistful midwestern naturalness.

—"Our Man Higgins." A routine family comedy that benefits from the adult warmth of Stanley Holloway as an imported English butler.

—"Fair Exchange." Two families in New York and London exchange teen-aged daughters for a year. If the writers hold out, it's a winner. Eddie Foy Jr. has few peers at being droll.

—"Going My Way." If Gene Kelly and Leo G. Carroll don't get too sticky as priests, it could be a lighthearted "Naked City."

Television is a great deal more technically slick than it was years ago; but the new season indicates that the hucksters have ground ideas standards, craftsmanship and excellence — all signs of a superior society — into virtual oblivion with their grubby approach. If you watch the informational shows and nothing else, you have seen almost everything worthwhile on the networks.

The best advice about the new season is: Don't get your hopes up too high, and you'll probably still be disappointed.

The Channel Swim: Eddie Fisher is scheduled to visit NBC-TV's "Tonight" show Tuesday. Carol Burnett guests on CBS-TV's Garry Moore program Oct. 30. She also plays "Jane" to Jack Benny's "Tarzan" on the comedian's weekly outing for the same network Nov. 13.

George Burns appears on NBC-TV's Jack Paar show Nov. 2. Richard Boone has already finished all of this season's episodes of "Have Gun, Will Travel," and says he won't continue with the CBS-TV program beyond this year. Kathy Jurado guests on NBC-TV's "The Eleventh Hour" Oct. 31.

Dr. Frances R. Horwich, the "Miss Frances" of television's "Ding Dong School" for children for many years, is the new director of youngsters' activities of the Curtis Publishing Co. Danny GROUNDED—Britain's Lord Slim, now a resident of Kenya, displays flamingo chick which is unable to walk or fly because soda from the water of Lake Magadi has collected and dried on its legs. A massive operation was begun to wash the feet of some 300,000 chicks with piped water. Certain death awaited those which could not be freed.

"I am not happy about the situation. It is embarrassing to me and I do not feel it is proper for me to speak without the press being invited, especially in view of the fact that the speech has already been issued."

Javits later told newsmen he decided to attend the meeting, just briefly, because he did not want to be discourteous to members of his own profession although he was "incensed" by the whole thing. He said it was unnecessary and foolish to ban the newsmen.

ware River toll bridge between Phillipsburg, N.J. and Easton, Pa.

The big car smashed through an unused toll gate and across the bridge, and Pennsylvania troopers took up the chase, reaching speeds of 110 m.p.h.

Finally, near Easton, the hurtling sedan bounced off an abutment, went through a guard rail, and plunged down a 40 foot embankment. The smoking and crumpled wreck came to rest upside down, almost 25 miles from the start of the pursuit.

Cpl. John E. Euditis, a Pennsylvania state trooper, approached the car with pistol drawn after other officers reported the fugitive was inside loading a weapon. Sprawled inside was Zizka, quietly smoking a cigarette and staring at him.

Ignored Orders
Zizka's right hand was concealed under his body. Silently, he ignored the trooper's orders to reveal it, then suddenly brought out the pistol and pointed it at Euditis. The trooper fired once, striking the attache in the left shoulder.

Then another shot was heard, as Zizka put a shot in his brain. He was rushed to an Easton hospital and then to St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem for brain surgery.

Inside the car, officers said, were two smashed bottles of Russian-made vodka, a "large roll" of U.S. currency and more than 160 bullets for Zizka's pistol.

Zizka and his wife, married for 19 years, were the parents of an 18 year old daughter and a 15 year old son, both of whom are in Czechoslovakia. At the mission, Vojvoda said their married life was considered a "quiet and happy one."

"This tragic event," the Czech spokesman said, "can be explained only by a sudden mental breakdown."

Dear Abby....

Is This Poor Taste? Evidently Not!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last January a friend of mine invited me to a rather "sudden" church wedding for her 18-year-old daughter who married a 19-year-old boy. Just as I had suspected, six months later they were sending out "Baby has arrived" announcements. But get this—enclosed was a photostatic copy of a marriage certificate showing the couple was married by a Justice of the Peace, October 10th, 1961! Isn't that the poorest taste you ever heard of?

A FRIEND DEAR FRIEND: Taste, shmaste. The woman knows her friends better than you do.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "I CRIED A RIVER" reminded me of my own experience. I divorced my husband and after being apart for 14 months, we remarried. We now have a solid marriage. We had two little girls when we separated, who were too young at the time to know what was going on. Now they are 16 and 14. They don't know that their Dad and I were divorced and remarried. Do you think there is any point in telling them? My mother-in-law says we should tell them before someone else does.

DEBATING DEAR DEBATING: Maybe no one will tell them. It's worth the pastor of the Mexican Baptist Church in Amarillo.

Approximately 45 members and guests attended the meeting.

gambie. Keep it under your hat.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell your readers to go to a lawyer and draw up their wills while they are healthy? I am the loser because I got all the money and now I can't live with myself. My father was honest and trusting. When he was very ill, my mother got him to sign a will which she composed herself. He thought he was leaving half of his estate to his daughter, my stepister. Actually, he left everything to mother and me. My stepister knew something was wrong, but she remained silent. I kept telling myself that I would make it up to her, but I never got around to it. Now it's too late because she died four months ago. I used to be afraid I'd run into her. Now I have a picture of her which never leaves my mind. Maybe this will help others to be more honest. The money has made me miserable. I'd sign my name but I am...

TOO ASHAMED DEAR ASHAMED: It is not too late to give your sister's rightful share to her immediate family if you are sincerely contrite.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M. J. G.: You don't have to be a doctor to know that the most sensitive nerve in the human body is the nerve that pinches the pocketbook. Take your business across the street!

Harvest Feast's Setting

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
And what is the state of your social "credit" and "debit" list? Now, I know as well as you that it is not considered sophisticated to entertain on the "I-owe-you" and "you-owe-me" basis. At any rate we don't with close friends.

But returning the hospitality of casual acquaintances is, I think, a courtesy which may lead to a mutually enjoyable friendship.

This time of year favors the hostess. As a rule social calendars aren't crowded. Mutual interests in local activities, such as high school football games, can be a focal point of easy conversation. Suddenly, crisp weather accents the cozy and companionable indoors. The harvest still stocks the table.

Having given myself the appropriate pep talk, I mix the newcomers and the old-timers in a 50-50 proportion. With a limit of six to eight guests, I make sure the menu is tasty but simple enough not to take me away from the gathering for long periods of time.

Harvest time menus are particularly good: the roast game birds, squash, corn pudding, mulled wine or cider, fresh cold grapes and apples. Autumnal colors in flowers and leaves such

Wesleyan Service Guild Meets

With Mmes. Frankie White and Diamia Woods as hostesses, the Wesleyan Service Guild continued their study of the book "Dimensions of Prayer" by Douglas V. Steere. Miss Ila Pool is director of this study.

Mrs. Rachael Jones opened the Meditations with the Hymn "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" then took the text of her theme from Ephesians 6:8-16, emphasizing the following statements: "Prayer experiments can be made anywhere, while walking, while talking, while performing any daily task; Prayer holds people and Christ together. Pray on awakening, Pray when asleep."

In a round table discussion with Miss Alma Wilson as moderator Mrs. Diamia Wood discussed "What do you do when you pray?" She brought the thought, "There is more power in christian faith than we realize." Mrs. Grace Boston told how to focus our attention on God and Mrs. Gladys Turner in telling "How to practice power and contemplation," stated when you are ready for contemplation God will lead you into it. Mrs. Frankie White in summing up the above discussion said "Meditation is the coming into contact with God and after meditation Pray." Our wandering thoughts can be disciplined, stated Miss Inez Clubb. Even tho' our minds do wander bring them back. Let us meditate, contemplate then lastly pray.

During the social hour refreshments were served to the following members: Grace Boston, Inez Clubb, Mildred Cook, Ivo Denson, Mattie Fountain, Lillie Fowler, Rachael Jones, Laura Penick, Ila Pool, Irene Smith, Maggie Smith, Gladys Turner, Maaret Wells, Frankie White, Laler Wilkerson, Alma Wilson, Margaret Wilkerson, and Diamia Wood. CHRISTMAS STAMP
... on sale Nov. 1

Christmas Stamp To Go On Sale November 1st

The Post Office Department has announced that the 4-cent Christmas stamp will be first placed on sale at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 1, 1962, in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States, according to O. K. Gaylor, Pampa postmaster.

The new stamp, intended for use on season's greeting cards, depicts the traditional holiday symbols - burning tapers and an evergreen wreath adorned with a red bow. Lettering is Old English. It will be green and red on white paper.

The stamp is intended for general postal use and it will remain on sale at post offices through December 31. It will be available indefinitely at the Philatelic Sales Agency, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D. C., for the benefit of collectors. Plans are to re-issue a Christmas stamp during future holiday seasons.

Jim Crawford, a Post Office Department artist, designed the Christmas stamp. It will measure 0.75 by 0.87 of an inch, will be printed on the Giori presses and issued in panes of 100, with a printing of 500,000,000.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the Christmas stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Pittsburgh 19, Pennsylvania. Each envelope must be marked, in pencil, in the upper right corner indicating the number of stamps to be affixed. An enclosure of medium weight should be placed in each envelope and the flap either turned in or sealed. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Christmas Stamp."

Collectors are cautioned that orders for first day covers must not include requests for uncanceled stamps. Cover requests must be postmarked not later than November 1, 1962.

The Post Office Department also announced the designs of two new stamps for use when the rates increase next January 7.

A 5-cent George Washington stamp, based on a bust sculptured in 1785 by French artist Jean Houdon, will be the new regular first-class stamp. It will be printed in blue.

The new 8-cent Air Mail stamp, designed by New York City artist Henry K. Bencsath, shows a plane soaring past the dome of the Nation's Capitol. It is conventional red in color.

Details with regard to the dates and places of first day sale will be announced later.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The most that can be said for recent stock market action is that a potential base formation is being constructed in the 570-85 zone of the industrial average, says Richard T. Teahy of J. W. Sparks & Co.

However, the analyst adds, the lack of interest in the market as evidenced by consistently dwindling volume suggests that it may be some time before an upside penetration of any magnitude takes place.

The Dow Theory Trader says he would guess that the market will see something on the upside very soon, possibly before October is out, and then a strong, active bull market in November, this year end, and well into 1963.

International Statistical Bureau says the current market is in a waiting period, uncertain as to the major move. "The etn.hms next major move. "There is more pessimism regarding the over-all economy and the market as a whole than justified on the basis of current and indicated tendencies."

Shockers Belted By Lubbock 'B'

The first-half jinx plagued the Pampa "B" team for the second consecutive week as the Cowhands from Lubbock High brandied a 20-2 score on the Shockers, scoring all their points in the first half.

The game, played at Harvester field yesterday afternoon, started with a quick exchange of touchdowns called back on rules violations.

Jerry Garrison scampered 38 yards for the lone time in the game when the Shockers crossed the opponents' goal line only to have the run nullified by a backfield in motion violation.

The Cowhands were offside nullifying a would-be TD moments after Pampa's TD was called back as Johnny Barnett raced 38 yards to pay dirt. The Lubbock team bounced back scoring on the very next play from the 43 on a pass from Danny Nowak to Barnett. Tommy Jenkins ran over the two points making the score 8-0.

The Shockers marched the kickoff from their own 15 to the 44 yard line before fumbling the ball over to Lubbock.

The visitors quickly put four first downs together and marched 58 yards for their second TD. Nowak scored from 10 yards out on a keeper. The Shockers nailed Weldon Heatherly as he attempted to convert the extra points.

The final TD of the evening came late in the second quarter on a pass from Nowak to Norvel O'Brien for 34 yards and the score. A Harvester defender, San Williams, slapped the ball trying to bat it down but it trickled into the receiver's hands.

The second half belonged to Pampa, but the Shockers managed only a safety for their efforts.

The safety came midway in the fourth quarter when Shocker tacklers stopped Nowak in his own end zone.

The Cowhands used the spread offense similar to the professionals in order to complete 5 of 7 passes for 110 yards the first half.

Keith Griffith gained 83 yards in the game for Pampa.

Pampa out rushed the visitors gaining 199 yards to 132 but the Cowhands gained 135 yards via the air lanes to Pampa's 18. The teams tied in first downs with 13 apiece.

The Shockers are now 2-4 for the season.

Texas, Razorbacks Top SWC Game

By United Press International — Southwest Conference teams zipped through light workouts Thursday in preparation for all-league action this weekend.

At Fayetteville, University of Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said his Razorbacks were ready mentally for their joust with the nation's No. 1 ranked football team—Texas—at Austin Saturday night.

Broyles said he actually had little to do with getting the sixth-ranked Hogs ready for Texas. "Not with a game like this," he said.

He said his team looked good in a 90-minute workout in shorts. Quarterbacks Billy Moore, Freddy Marshall and Bill Gray all looked good, he said. Fullback Billy Joe Moody, the "monster man" on defense, will not play because of an injury.

Texas Under Lights — Texas worked out without pads under the lights at Memorial Stadium. Coach Darrell Royal put the Longhorns through a running exercise and stressed the kicking game.

Members of the coaching staff attended funeral services for the mother of defensive backfield coach T. Jones at Gatesville.

Rebs' 9th Graders Slaughter Berger

The ninth graders of Robert E. Lee turned the tables on Sam Houston Jr. High at Berger, 36-0, handing the Berger team its first loss and revenging last year's 34-16 loss.

Coach Don Myers' charges raced to a 14-0 half time score and added 22 more points the second half.

Scoring plays for the Rebels in the first half were: Gary Crossland ran 55 yards for the first TD. Crossland took a pitch out from Larry Daniels and scampered 45 more yards for another TD. Lewis Meers added the extra points.

In the second half, Joey Roden took the opening kickoff 70 yards for another Rebel TD. Daniels added the extra points. Roden scored again from 12 yards out. Roden ran the extra points.

Paul Burnett ran 32 yards on a trap play for the last TD. The try for extra points was no good.

Coach Myers cited the whole team for its outstanding defensive work. "It was the best team effort of the whole year. We were real proud of our kids effort."

He singled out Wayne Hill and Daniels for intercepting passes and Jerry Wright and Gregg Locke for recovering fumbles on defense.

Lions, New York In NFL Action

By United Press International — Milt Plum, who has gained new fame with the Detroit Lions, returns Sunday to the ballpark where he experienced some of his most embarrassing moments in the National Football League.

The park is Yankee Stadium and the opponents are the New York Giants, whose rugged defenders harried Plum more than any other team in the league during the five seasons he played for the Cleveland Browns.

For the past four seasons, while Plum held the Cleveland quarterback job on a regular basis—with sideline help from coach Paul Brown, he won only one game and tied one in nine meetings with the Giants.

Plum now has left Brown's strict aegis and has been thriving under the greater freedom given him by George Wilson of the Lions. Under Plum's direction, the Lions have posted a 4-11 record for a contending position behind the Green Bay Packers in the Western Division.

The Giants still feel they have Plum's number, but the odds-makers think otherwise. They have made the Lions three-point favorites Sunday.

In other Sunday games, the Packers are nine-point favorites to roll to their sixth straight victory, against the San Francisco Forty Niners at Milwaukee; the Los Angeles Rams are picked by 10 at home against the Minnesota Vikings in a battle of the two NFL teams that have not yet won a game.

The Washington Redskins, Eastern division leaders with a 3-2 record, are three-point underdogs against the disension-ridden Eagles at Philadelphia; the Browns are favored by three points over the Cardinals at St. Louis; the Pittsburgh Steelers are picked by seven at home over the Dallas Cowboys, and the Bears and Baltimore Colts are rated even at Chicago.

Five of the NFL's teams have 3-2 records which rate them as division contenders and thus must win Sunday to keep from falling too far out of the race. The Bears-Colts battle pits two of these against one another. The others are the Giants, Steelers and Forty Niners.

Old Ref Calls 'Em

The Old Ref called quite a few of 'em, right last week (14 of 17), but he admits he got the breaks of the game and the wind at his back most of the time. He fumbled the ball predicting Pampa over Monterey, Wheeler over McLean, and Penn State over Army.

The Old Ref doggedly insists that Pampa is on the way up and predicts the Harvesters over the Sandies.

Official Predictions

- PAMPA over AMARILLO—The Harvesters are on the way up. Go. Go. Go.
- BORGER over PLAINVIEW — Ho. . . Hum. . . Watch the Bulldogs growl.
- TASCOSA over LUBBOCK—The Rebels are better shots than the Westerners.
- PALO DURO over LUBBOCK MONTEREY — Beware of the head linesman.
- DALHART over WHITE DEER — Sorry, Bucks, this isn't your week to win.
- LEFORS over CANADIAN—Going to be close, but the Pirates have a treasure chest of surprises.
- MIAMI over MOBEETIE—Too bad about Homecoming.
- PANHANDLE over SANFORD-FRITCH — Watch the Panthers leap back.
- MCLEAN over CLARENDON—Don't underestimate McLean.
- WHEELER over FOLLETT — Wheeler wants to win this one.
- TEXAS over ARKANSAS — The Longhorns want that SWC crown by themselves this time around.
- TEXAS CHRISTIAN over TEXAS A&M — Gibbs will find his pass receivers.
- SMU over RICE — Yes, that's right, SMU over Rice.
- TEXAS TECH over BAYLOR — Red Raiders and SMU are going to pull upsets.
- ALABAMA over TENNESSEE — Bear Bryant's cubs have learned to growl.
- OHIO STATE over NORTH-WESTERN — The Buckeyes know how to win.
- NAVY over BOSTON COLLEGE — Watch the cruisers bruise.
- MICHIGAN STATE over NOTRE DAME — Another victory for the Big Ten.
- OKLAHOMA over KANSAS — Bud's Texans will get the job done.

Houston Plays Denver In AFL

By United Press International — Even the odds-makers can't tell the difference when quarterbacks with a total of 27 years professional experience engage in this week's American Football League feature.

The professional waging men who are right more often than not, called the Sunday Houston Oilers game at Denver an exact tossup, apparently basing their judgments on Houston's George Blanda and Denver's Frank Tripucka, with 13 and 14 years experience respectively.

Since Houston's 3-1 record tops the Eastern Division standing by a full game and because Denver leads Dallas in the Western section by a victory has to be the weekend's feature.

Running a close second, however, is tonight's San Diego at Boston game wherein the Chargers must win to avoid Western Division elimination and the Patriots need a victory to stay in the Eastern race. The host Patriots, defeated for the second time last weekend, were three point choices over the Chargers and Buffalo is a 3½ point favorite while entertaining the Oakland Raiders Saturday night.

In the other AFL game this weekend, the Texans are 12 point favorites while entertaining the New York Titans at Dallas in a game on Sunday.

The Oilers, who have twice won the Eastern Division crown and beaten San Diego in the AFL championship playoff, have taken over the leadership of most of the league's important statistical departments. In addition, they announced Thursday the return to regular service of ace halfback Billy Cannon, the circuit's most dangerous runner.

GAME CAPTAINS — Randy Matson, Keith Riemer, and Ricky Goodwin will serve as game captains against the Amarillo Sandies in tonight's game. Game time is 7:30 p.m. in Dick Bivins Stadium.

Pampa Harvesters Take On Amarillo

Two hard running football teams will be cast together tonight in one of the oldest rivalries in the Panhandle as the Pampa Harvesters attempt to make it two in a row over the Amarillo Sandies.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. in Dick Bivins Stadium, Amarillo. Pampa is 0-2 in District 3-AAAA action and Amarillo 1-1.

The Sandies of Amarillo are still smoldering over last year's upset victory turned in by a determined Harvester team, 15-14.

Pampa's Kenney Hebert, stole the show last year as he dazzled the crowd and the bewildered Sandies with an 80-yard kickoff return with a minute left in the contest. The Harvesters iced the upset with a pass completion from Hebert to Butch Crossland for the winning two points.

The Harvesters were treated to a big bonfire, pep rally last night in preparation for the "big" game on the team's schedule.

Pampa's opponent, Amarillo High, is defense-minded and loves to play defense. The Sandies have dished out a scant 30 points in four games, including 20 points to mighty Wichita Falls. The Coyotes held Amarillo scoreless and Ft. Worth Paschal edged the Sandies, 10-8. Amarillo has downed Odessa, 6-0, and Plainview, 48-0.

3-Game Losing Streak

The Harvesters will be out to shake off a three game losing streak after winning the first two. Pampa stopped El Paso Bel Aire, 19-7, and Phillips, 12-0, before being bowled over by Dumas, 40-8, Tascosa, 26-6, and last week Monterey of Lubbock, 35-13.

Coach Otis Holladay plans to start the same backfield as he did against Monterey - Don Ayres, quarterback; Randy Matson, fullback; Kenney Hebert, tailback; and Jerry Glover, wingback.

Up front the same lineup will be intact except for Doug Locke's guard spot. Locke has a knee injury and will miss the game. Ricky Stewart and Howard Reed, ends; tackles Shaun Hills and Dee Wright; guards Glenn McCathern and Carl Clark; and John Brown at center compose the starting forward wall.

Amarillo High's backfield is powerful but not exceptionally speedy. Expected starters in the Sandies backfield are Gilbert Coates or Mike Mullins at quarterback; John Vachon and Jimmy Dean at halfbacks; and fullback Charles Ansley.

Burl Bartlett, head coach at Dumas last year, is the head mentor at Amarillo this season. The Harvesters will be idle next week with an open date and play Palo Duro the following Friday in Pampa.

Moon Or Snider To Be Released

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Duke Snider and Wally Moon, who led the Los Angeles Dodgers to previous World Series triumphs, found themselves listed as "expendables" today in the team's quest for a National League pennant in 1963.

But B. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, general manager and vice president, said it was likely one or the other would be with the club on opening day next year. He would not say which stood the better chance.

"Either Snider or Moon probably will go, but it will take the right deal," he said. Neither man played much in 1962, giving way to younger players such as Frank Howard, Willie Davis and Ron Fairly.

One player—Daryl Spencer who incurred the wrath of the management for remarks after the final game as well as a disappointing performance in the field—definitely is out of the Dodger plans, said Bavasi. Catcher John Roseboro could go if the bait were good enough, and Andy Carey will be released—with an invitation to try again at camp in the spring because of his outstanding attitude.

Infielders Larry Burright and Tim Harkness, a pair of good-field, no-hit players, along with promising pitchers Jack Smith and Pete Richert also could be bought, if the offer were good enough.

The Dodgers want a second or third baseman who can hit and a right-hand pitcher. Jerry Lumpe, of Kansas City, is one possibility for an infielder, although Bavasi says nothing is set at all on that score.

Lefors Edges Pampa In Optimist Matches

The Pampa Optimist's Boxing Club squared off last night with Lefors in the first of the organizations' "Thursday night fights" before a large crowd in the Boys Club Building.

The Optimist boxers will fight again next week hosting Borger and Lefors. Lefors proved a strong team to contend with, winning seven bouts to Pampa's five in bouts matching boys from the two teams. Several other bouts were fought pitting home town boys against each other.

Top Bouts

Two of the top bouts of the night were Tommy Clinton (Pampa) against James Coleman (Lefors) and Jessie Valsquez (Pampa) against Dwayne Steel (Lefors). Coleman defeated Clinton in the 151 pound tussle and Valsquez decided Steel in the 126 pound division. Other fights won by Pampa over Lefors were Steve Pennington over David Prestige; Mike Jones over Hubert Simms; Andy Grim over Mike Robbins; and Joe Roth over Glen Cunningham.

Other Lefors fighters winning were Joe Jernigan over Ricky Thomas; Freddy Romine over James Haynes; David White over games Holtman; Dennis Boyd over Gregg Dunham; Richard Harkman over Richard Hausman and Eddie Barnett over Phillip Long.

In other bouts David Fulton decided Jackie Fuqua on a TKO; Ricky West lost to Kirk Douglas; Jimmie White defeated Jay Roth; and Junior Jenkins lost to Dickie Lovinggood. Warren Pettit and Marshall Noblett fought an exhibition bout.

Buffaloes Meet New Mexico St. In Homecoming

CANYON, Tex. (SpI) — Off to its fastest start since 1956, West Texas State's football team will gun for its sixth straight win without defeat Saturday night against high-scoring New Mexico State. It will be Homecoming and kickoff time is 7:30.

The game will match two of the all-time great running backs in Southwest football history Pistol Pete Pedro of the Buffaloes and Preacher Pilot of the Aggies. Pedro leads the nation in rushing with 621 yards and Pilot is right on his heels just a few yards back. Last year, as sophomores these two speedsters engaged in a national dog-fight for top honors in two categories. Pilot was the nation's top rusher with Pedro second, and the finish was the same in total scoring. Pedro did have more touchdowns, however, with 22.

Unbeaten West Texas comes into the game fresh from an exhilarating 15-14 win over previously-undefeated Arizona State U. at Tempe. The Buffs did it on a 99-yard pass interception touchdown by Jerry Logan in the third quarter, and then controlled the ball nearly all the fourth period. The Buffs did it without the services of Pedro, who at the last minute was not allowed to play by coach Joe Kerbel. Pedro suffered a muscle strain in the first half of last week's Arlington State game, but played later, making a 65-yard touchdown scamper in the last half. It was believed all week that Pedro would be ready to go against Arizona State, but Coach Kerbel decided not to gamble on aggravating a slow-healing injury. As it turned out, the All-American candidate was not needed for the win.

After the Arizona State win, the Buffs still look awesome in the national statistics race. They lead the nation in scoring with a 40.8 average, and still rank high in team rushing with an average of 316 yards per outing. Halfback Jerry Logan added nine points to his total last week and still tops the nation in that department with 81.

There will be added interest in the Homecoming attraction because Bob Creamer of Sports Illustrated magazine will fly in from New York to do a special feature on the Pedro vs. Pilot duel. He was scheduled to arrive in Texas Wednesday.

Growing Pains Cost One Million

CHICAGO (UPI) — Commissioner Abe Saperstein estimates that last year's "growing pains" in his American Basketball League cost club owners about $1 million.

Prospects were brighter for the coming season, Saperstein predicted, when league members will play a 72-game schedule and wind up with a "Stanley Cup type" of playoff.

Saperstein's money-making Harlem Globetrotters will bolster at least five of the ABL games by joining in doubleheaders.

Saperstein said he's ready to step down as commissioner any time he can find someone else who wants the job — which pays $1 a year.

Official Memorandum

PRICE DANIEL
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN, TEXAS

GREETINGS:

October 20, 1962, has been designated as "National Newspaperboy Day" in tribute to the thousands of loyal, efficient American youths who serve the public early and late in the day delivering the newspapers upon which all of us depend.

The experience gained in serving customers on newspaper routes is beneficial to the boys of America who have the privilege of engaging in this work.

It was while serving in these honorable roles that thousands of our business, civic, professional and religious leaders received their first training in our American principles of free enterprise.

It is fitting that the citizens of Texas express their deep appreciation of the day-by-day service rendered by their friendly newspaper carrier salesmen and for the training these boys are receiving.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate October 20, 1962, as in Texas, and urge all the people they represent and the customers they serve so diligently to express their appreciation for these unfailing services.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 5th day of September 1962.

Robert E. Lee Trounces Houston's 8th Graders

Robert E. Lee's Rebels completely routed Sam Houston of Borger in an eighth grade contest by a score of 42-8.

Mack Choate's charges led 22-8 at half and roared back for 20 more points in the second half.

Scoring plays for the Rebels in the first quarter were a scamper by Smisson Goodlett for 30 yards and Myron Porter added the two extra points; Jack Thompson passed to Gary McCarroll from 15 yards out and Tommy McDonald added two more points on a quick pitch.

Scoring plays in the second quarter were a 20-yard reverse by McCarroll for Robert E. Lee and Sam Houston scored its TD on a one yard plunge.

The Rebels added two more TDs in the third quarter on quick opens by McCarroll for 65 yards and Thompson for 40 yards. In the final quarter McCarroll scored again returning a punt 40 yards and converted the extra points.

Defensive standouts for Lee Jr. High were David Smith and James Matnev at linebacker positions and tackles Doc Cornutt and Jack Williamson.

Offensive standouts were Thompson on passing; Myron Porter, Smisson Goodlett, Tommy McDonald, and David Smith on blocking; McCarroll and Goodlett in running with the ball.

"The kids gave 100 per cent except for four minutes in the second quarter. We were lazy on defense at that point," commented Coach Choate on the game. "I feel that this was one of our most aggressive football games."

Discussion On Unitarians Set Here Sunday

Munroe Husbands, continental Fellowship Director for the Unitarian Universalist Association, will give a public address on "Who Are These Unitarians and Universalists?" at 8:00 p.m. Sunday evening, October 21st, at the Coronado Inn.

An open discussion period will follow.

"Religion and science can work side by side in harmony," Husbands states, "but only when both are dedicated to a continuous search for truth. Should science declare that it had all truth, 'known or to be known,' its progress would abruptly stop. Nor can religion remain static in a changing world."

"Unitarians and Universalists comprise a Fellowship of seekers, frankly asserting that they do not have 'the' answers, yet welcoming all opinion and all help that will enable man better to understand himself and the envolving Universe. They are convinced that religious truth cannot be contrary to truth from any other source. Unitarianism and Universalism offer a program for people of all ages with an unqualified appeal to reason in religious thinking and with the primary emphasis upon working for the good life in the here and now.

In his talk Sunday night, Husbands will trace briefly the history of the Unitarian Universalist denomination, explain why it has insisted that no creedal test or statement be made for membership, point out the many humanitarian movements that have been instigated by religious liberals, and describe the religious education program for children. The Unitarian Universalist Association looks forward to the establishment of a Unitarian Universalist Fellowship in this community. All interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

Area Church To Observe Special Day

LEFORS (Sp) — The Lefors Methodist Church will observe Layman's Day, Sunday Oct. 21, at both morning and evening services, under the direction of Layman, L. D. McCauley, who will announce the speakers, and have charge of leading the service.

This day is observed by the connectional Church of Methodism throughout the land of America, and it is urged by the conferences that the same themes be used, with which the Lefors church complies.

Minister Gives Sermon Subject

The subject of the sermon by Dr. Joseph B. Hunter, ad interim minister, will be, "The Gospel of God," — the gospel Jesus preached before there was a Gospel of Christ, at Lamar Christian Church Sunday.

COME AWAY...

Many of God's greatest blessings are the portion of those who come away or apart from unusual conditions in order to be with the Lord or to learn from Him.

- I. Jesus set the pattern for us when He drew apart from the throng to pray. — Matthew 14:23
With conditions as they are in the world today, one great need among Christians is that they recognize their responsibility to worship and intercede.
- II. Jesus turned aside to reveal Himself to those who needed so badly to know Him — John 4: 1-23.
Those who know Christ must turn from many of the cares of the world that they might introduce men to the Christ, that they, through coming to know Him might be delivered from the curse of sin.
- III. Jesus turned aside to reveal great truths to His followers — Matthew 16:28 to 17:13. The great preacher, Peter said, "We have not followed cunningly devised fables when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."
- IV. Jesus turned aside to reveal the truth concerning His coming again to His true followers — Matthew 24:1.
We need to turn our hearts from the things of the world, and let this "Blessed Hope" anchor our lives, and possess our thinking that we might center our attention on things that are above, and not on things which are on earth.

'We'll Bury You!'

Too many of us have brushed off these words from the Kremlin as an empty if belligerent brag. And too many of us have been too sure it can't happen. Too many of us still think of Castro as the mangy master of Cuba when he is, in fact, but another slave of the Communist conspiracy—the tool that has opened the way for the first mass penetration of the Western Hemisphere by Red arms and troops.

What we need to know are the facts. And now we can, thanks to dedicated producers, researchers and writers at Columbia Pictures who have put together from a hundred sources—government and private, and many of them secret—what may well be for America the most important motion picture ever made.

After a year and a half of combing the archives of the free world and the films of news services and private collectors, placing the historic bits and pieces in sequence with background narrative to identify the time, the places and the people, the grim story of the march of Marxism titled "We'll Bury You!" is here for all Americans to see and to ponder. The relentless, ruthless, unswerving rumble of the Red juggernaut that has flattened two thirds of the globe in half a century comes alive on the screen from the first Bolshevik blood to stain the snow of St. Petersburg down to Castro's rape of Cuba.

No fiction ever filmed could more than suggest the savagery of Stalin's brutal purges, the massacres of innocents—in which Khrushchev first came to fame—the bloody treachery that ended the heroic Hungarian uprising, Castro's wholesale murder in Cuba or the heart-breaking story of the East Germans who challenged death for freedom in Berlin—and lost. And no actors could portray, as do these original scoundrels—Lenin, Trotsky, Malenkov, Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung, Castro—the consistent use of murder, terror and deceit as implements of Communist policy—internally and externally.

This picture is a must. We hope it will be shown in Pampa. It will shake us up—as we need to be shaken. It will show us that our grave has already been dug—if we are obliging enough and unaware enough to roll into it. And if we do not, if we shove that threat: "We'll Bury You!" back down Khrushchev's throat, Columbia Pictures will be entitled to some of the credit.

Not Highest Good

A world which believes that the highest good is altruism, must always be a world which is dependent upon those few capable of performing altruistic chores. This would be a world of superiors and inferiors and is contrary to the nature of things as they are.

In A Word...

We have long been accused of taking shocking advantage of the language we inherited from our British forbears. No doubt we are guilty in many respects. As a simple example, we constantly bear and repeat the phrase, "like a you-know-what should"—when we mean "as". And the newest edition of our best-known dictionary calmly presents "ain't" as a word!

But, despite the abuse it has taken, the Anglo-Saxon tongue outshines all others in beauty and force and in the directness of its short, simple words that bite. Such words as: go, stop, love, have, fear, chop, hit, eat, drink, honor, death—and so on ad infinitum (that's Latin).

And our economy with words, exemplified by that railroad man's classic telegram: "Off again, on again, gone again. Finnegans," is often the despair of other nations. "Consider the variety of meanings—especially in these changing and critical times—of that single, short word "grow". To the farmer, it means one thing above others. To the youngster, it is the promise of the day when he can do as he pleases—he thinks. To grown-ups it is a warning that must continue to grow, intellectually and spiritually—or wither on the Vine of Life. And to business it is the command of that inexorable law—flourish or perish!

Back in Skokie, Ill., the International Minerals and Chemical Corporation, whose basic job is to make things grow so all of us can eat, has adopted that magic word as a credo. GROW symbolizes, at once, the company objective, the purpose of its products and the ambition of all who work there. Wherever they may be, in the plants, warehouses, loading docks or offices, IMC people are confronted by this verbal talisman—on the walls, on their benches and desks. One of them, we are told, took one of these signs home to hang on the times, we should ask for one to crib of his young son.

Perhaps, in these challenging times, we should ask for one to paste on our typewriter—and do it now!

With the lengthened major league baseball schedules, old and new records such as Babe Ruth's and Roger Maris' home runs in a season, and Ty Cobb's and Maury Wills' base running records must bear their asterisks. The same thing now threatens in another field of sport—horse racing. A chemical company has succeeded in developing a plastic coating for race tracks which will increase the horses' speed by 7 to 8 per cent.

Purely psychological: Research at several universities shows that in a blue room time tends to slip by faster than a person realizes. And green has also been found to have a similar effect in causing a person underestimate periods of time. Wedding item in the Boston Sunday Globe: "They wore moss green and gold pea de soie respectively." Today's favorite gag: TEACHER (trying to unfasten a coat for a little pupil)—"Did your mother hook this coat for you?" LITTLE GIRL—"No, ma'am: she bought it." We can't give you all the details, but a bowling alley for the blind has just been patented. In his weekly bulletin to his constituents, Rep. Carroll Kearns (R-Pa.) asserts the one-time popular song, "The moon belongs to everyone; the best things in life are free," has to undergo rewriting. Uncle Sam's new moon effort will cost at least $40 billion, he warns. This modern age: The cosmetics and toiletries industries now offer more than 125 products especially made for little girls to make them smell nice and look pretty. "Hey, Angus: The bagpipe wasn't originated by the Scots. The Greeks introduced it centuries before the kilties started blowing and pumping that instrument.

Thoughts while shaving: 1. There's the neighboring housewife who wishes we men would stop complaining about the price of haircuts. If, she points out, the sturdy sex only realized how little it costs to look like a man compared with what a woman spends trying to look beautiful. 2. Even the women who don't go to the beauty parlor every week or two weeks nevertheless spend far more just keeping themselves looking womanly than any man and his $2 haircuts she asserts. And, moneywise, she has us convinced. 3. It was some morose New Englander who once switched a classic poem and had it come out this way with relation to this time of year: The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year. A bit too soon for whiskey straight, a bit too late for beer. . . . They have disappeared from most of the American scene by now, but when that great boom to local transportation first came to our home town in the century's first decade, everyone called them the "electric cars."

Power Of Suggestion

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Should newspapers that want to help all the people by informing them of the truth, use their editorial columns to show and explain that there isn't a law which requires the union to represent, negotiate, bargain or be an agent for even its own members, let alone non-members?"

It is rather difficult to prove a negative, so it is difficult to say specifically that there is no law that does not require employers to let unions negotiate for all members as well as non-members.

The Wagner Law has been revised so often that it is a little difficult to tell what it does mean, but even with the Taft-Hartley Law, if the majority of members of a plant vote to have a certain union represent them, then the employer is obliged to negotiate with the union and make it an offer. If he doesn't do that, it would be regarded as unfair labor practice. Of course, the employer might insist on the union representing only those who belonged and insist on having the right to make an individual contract with any employee who wanted to make an individual contract or have a different agent represent him. He could also insist that no one need belong to the union, and that there be no seniority and no limiting of apprentices, and that the employer would be the sole judge of efficiency if a worker is to be employed by the employer. This is no more power than the employer has. He has a perfect right to be the sole judge as to whether he wants to continue on the job.

But it is doubtful whether any recognized labor union would ever sign a contract that did not give it the authority, the power, not the right, to bargain for all the people who worked at the plant in that division.

And when the employer refused to permit the union to represent those who did not want to be represented and insisted that they had a right to make an individual contract, of course there would be a strike. The unions recognize that they can't do very much in raising their own wages at the expense of other workers unless they can corral all people and have a monopoly of bargaining for those who do not want them to be their agent.

Certainly the newspaper should try to make this clear to the readers. It is doubtful, however, whether any newspaper that had a union contract with the printers or the guild or the stereotypers or the pressmen would dare, even rationally discuss the union question. That is one advantage of taking a newspaper that doesn't have a contract that gives the labor union a monopoly to bargain for the people who do not want to be represented.

Egyptian control of the Suez at the end of seven years.

A thought for the day—the German writer, Thomas A. Kempis, said: "Be not angry that you cannot make others as you wish them to be, since you cannot make yourself as you wish to be."

Allen-Scott Report

George Ball at Odds with Administration and Congressmen Over Cuba and Methods

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The way Undersecretary George Ball is proceeding, his tenure as the No. 2 official of the State Department is likely to be as short-lived as that of his predecessor—former Connecticut Governor Chester Bowles.

In high congressional and administration quarters, Ball is incurring increasing criticism and disapproval.

Congressional leaders are wroth because of his persistent soft-pedaling of the huge Russian military build-up in Cuba—despite the growing mass of indisputable evidence to the contrary.

Influential administration circles are souring on Ball because of his bossy and opinionated preachments and methods. This has caused sharp clashes between him and members of the White House staff, in one sizzling instance with Myer Feldman, Deputy special counsel to the President and one of his most trusted aides.

The last of Ball's wrangling with Congress over Cuba is far from over. So far this has been largely backstage, but the next round may be public fireworks.

Representative Paul Kitchin, D-N.C., chairman of a special committee investigating Soviet arms shipments to Cuba, plans to further interrogate Ball about that. At a previous meeting, his blandly soothing account of these massive shipments was caustically challenged, particularly by representative James Fulton, R-Pa., who had just returned from a first-hand trip to the Navy's big base at Guantanamo.

The Kitchin probes are assembling a large and detailed file on what the Communists are doing in Cuba, and Ball is slated to be grilled on that.

Heartily backing Kitchin are two of the most powerful leaders in Congress—Representative Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee that writes all revenue legislation, and Senator Harry Bird, D-Va., head of the Finance Committee that has jurisdiction in his chamber over these measures.

They sardonically refer to Ball as "the world's foreign trade ambassador with headquarters in Washington."

BULL'S-EYE—It was Ball's brusque meddling in a foreign trade bill overwhelmingly passed by Congress that caused the angry row between him and "Mike" Feldman, who was a member of the President's staff long before he went to the White House.

This measure places a tariff loophole under which British midweight bicycles are flooding the U.S. to the serious loss of domestic manufacturers, a number of them in the President's home state. Although the bill was enacted by Congress without a single dissenting vote, it had no sooner reached the White House than the State Department strongly recommended a veto. This was urged on the ground the legislation would hurt rela-

2-Way Red Asset In Cuba Fish Port

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Practically everyone agrees there is something fishy about Russia's plan to build a fishing port on Cuba's north shore to accommodate 130 ocean trawlers.

Whether it eventually becomes a naval base or a port for disguised spy boats operating off the American east coast, there is also a good chance it will be used for just what the Russians announced — for fishing. But this may precipitate another kind of economic warfare on the high seas.

American officials in charge of U.S. international fishing agreements — William C. Herrington of the State Dept. and William Terry of Interior — express no surprise at the Russian-Cuban agreement for the Russians have been greatly expanding their ocean fisheries in the last 10 years.

Russia is now a member of the northwest Atlantic Fishing Commission of the U.S., Canada and 11 European countries that do commercial fishing off the Georges and Grand Banks of Newfoundland and Nova Scotia. Russia is also a member of the Permanent Fishing Commission of Europe, set up in 1946 to regulate fishing in northeast Atlantic waters.

In the north Pacific the U.S., Canada, Japan and Russia have a fur-seal fishing agreement. On salmon fishing the U.S. and Canada fish the eastern Pacific while the Russians stick to their own rivers on the western Pacific. Japan fishes the high seas. The U.S. and Japan are holding a tuna fishing conference in Tokyo this month. Eventually, the Russians may want in that, too. They are now members in good standing of the 17-nation International Whaling Agreement. On all such matters they co-operate and keep their word, showing a real interest in conservation practices.

There are always a number of hassles over fishing gear, but this is common even between American sportsmen and commercial fisheries. Just recently Russians in the Gulf of Alaska, trolling on the bottom for ocean perch and sable fish, tangled lines with American crab fishermen using ing pots nearer the surface. A similar battle arose last summer in the north Atlantic. Americans troll for herring and the Russians go after them with gill nets. Naturally the gear fouled. Both conflicts will have to be negotiated before the catch begins again next spring.

There are several reasons why the Russians want a fishing base in Cuba. It's a long haul from Newfoundland back to Russia. Soviet trawlers take their catches to carrier ships which haul them back to Russia. Repairs have to be made at sea. It would be much easier to do both operations in port.

Cuba is a big consumer of salt cod because it's one of the few foods that will keep in the tropics without refrigeration. Canada recently has been Cuba's principal supplier. If the Cubans and Russians could meet the demand, it would save foreign exchange.

The main reasons for Russian interest in a Cuban fishing port are believed to be the menhaden catch off the U.S. Atlantic and Gulf coasts and the shrimp catch off the continental shelf in the Gulf and Caribbean waters. About half the U.S. east coast fish on a tonnage basis, is a menhaden which are processed for fish oil, stock feed and fertilizer. The Russians couldn't cross the ocean and catch either profitably. From Cuba they could.

The United States had three fishing agreements with Cuba before the Castro revolution. They covered shrimp fishing on the Gulf and Caribbean and a conservation commission which had one meeting. None is in effect now.

Russia is believed to have had from 100 to 150 trawlers in the north Atlantic this summer. The U.S. had only 50 comparable vessels in the Atlantic but smaller vessels number over 500. A Russian expansion of 130 ocean trawlers operating out of a Cuban harbor would double Soviet fishing operations in the western Atlantic as well as provide good cover for other operations.

Surgery Restores Eyesight Blurred by Cataracts

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Q—What causes cataracts? When should they be removed? How long would it be after operation before the eyes can be used again?

A—When the crystalline lens in the eyeball becomes cloudy, the condition is known as cataract. The commonest cause in an adult is advancing age and this type of cataract is found in an increasing portion of persons as age exceeds 50. Such cataracts usually affect both eyes but not necessarily to the same degree.

The development of cataracts is varied and unpredictable. Most of them start in the outer layer of the lens and the time required for one to reach the "ripe" stage varies from months to years. In some persons the process comes to a halt and the cataract never matures.

Anyone who has a developing cataract should have periodic examinations by an eye specialist. He alone can tell you when the cataract is ripe for operation. Removal of the lens at this stage is the only known means of relief.

Following operation both eyes are bandaged for three or four days then the eye that was not operated on may be allowed to see. When after seven to 10 days the other eye no longer needs to be bandaged, dark glasses should be worn for a while.

Because, when the lens is removed, the eye can no longer accommodate for near and distant vision, the two eyes will not work together as a team. This can be corrected with glasses about a month after the operation. After this the vision is usually good.

Q—During the seventh month of pregnancy I noticed the veins in my wrists and hands protruding. The condition has persisted and become worse. The veins do not protrude when my hands are not hanging at my side. Can you tell me what is causing this and if there is anything I can do for it? A—Although varicose veins are most commonly seen in the legs they may occur anywhere, and although varicose veins of the upper extremity are uncommon, that is most likely what you have. Since some form of operation is usually required, you should see your doctor if the condition is causing a lot of discomfort.

Q—I have had plantar warts for several years. I have had them removed but they come back again. What can I do to cure them? A—Plantar warts have a tendency to come back no matter what treatment is used. The hard outer surface should be cut away as a first step in any treatment. One of the best treatments is freezing with carbon dioxide snow. This treatment is usually available only from a skin specialist.

Several substances have been used to inject the base of the wart but the results seem to depend more on skillful injection (reaching the exact depth of the wart) than on the substance injected. The results are uncertain at best. The use of corn-plasters or liquid corn cures that contain salicylic acid is a slower but less painful method and in many persons gives excellent results.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne C. Brandstadt, M.D. in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. Adlai Stevenson commenting on Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos' speech before the General Assembly:

"If the Cuban regime wishes to establish normal friendly relations in this hemisphere, let it return to the concepts and obligations of the inter-American system. Let it cease its subservience to the Soviet Union. Let it cease to be an avenue of intervention which threatens fundamental principles and the peace and security of all its neighbors with an alien doctrine."

The Lighter Side On That Great Dish... Turnip Greens

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thus far in my lectures on "Great Dishes of the Western World" I have discussed the history and philosophy of blackeyed peas, hush puppies and scrapple.

I was in the process of preparing the fourth entry in this series when my attention was diverted by a "letter to the editor" written by Mrs. Edna B. Russell of Smyrna, Del.

Mrs. Russell took issue with my account of how the hush puppy was invented. I said it happened in Nova Scotia. Citing "authentic Georgia folklore," she said it happened "in the land of Magnolias and mockingbirds."

She agreed with me that the first hush puppy was improvised by ammunition to hurl at a howling hound. But she disagreed as to what happened after that.

Dog Swallows It
In my version, the hound swallowed the hush puppy and was silenced forever. In her version, it was intercepted by a little boy who exclaimed "Golly day, mammy! These ain't hound dog eating, they's for folks!"

I am willing to accept the quotation as genuine, magnolia-and-mockingbird dialect, but I contend it wasn't the boy who said it. It was the dog.

Be that as it may, what really shook me up was Mrs. Russell's jocular suggestion that I might next be guilty of writing that "turnip greens originated when a hungry Hawaiian dancer started eating her hula skirt."

Golly day, Mrs. Russell! You must be prescient! It so happens that turnip greens were what I was writing about when a copy of your letter reached me.

Fellows Similar Line
To make the coincidence even more coincidental, my research indicates that turnip greens originated very much in the manner that you described.

According to Hawaiian folklore, which may or may not be authentic, the first turnip seeds were taken to the islands by missionaries.

In that benevolent climate, tur-

Scientists Believe Life Exists On Mars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many scientists believe life flourishes on Mars.

But if that is so, how do the organisms—plant or animal—survive the extremely cold Martian nights?

One recently suggested answer is that the living things of Mars, like the radiators of cars on earth in winter, contain antifreeze.

Last spring in an article published by the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS), Dr. Frank Salisbury of Colorado State University said available evidence indicates that the life of Mars "is a very well-adapted and flourishing one."

Salisbury did not try to explain how this life can endure nightly subjection to temperatures as low as 212 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

May Encounter Surprise
He simply assumed "that the plants freeze every night and thaw out the next day and are not hurt by this."

"We should be prepared to encounter some interesting surprises in biochemistry," he said when spacecraft finally solve some of the Martian puzzles.

Among those stimulated by Salisbury's article was Dr. Norman D. Levine of the University of Illinois. In a letter to the AAAS publication, "Science," he suggested that the compound glycerol may play an important role in the life processes of Martian organisms.

Glycerol is a product of sugar processing and is formed in large amounts by certain organisms and some insects on earth, Levine said. It is known to protect cells and tissues against the effects of low temperatures. Scientists use
