Money Talks

but you must tell it what to say!

LET'S suppose that the dollars you spend were suddenly given minds of their own — and the job of deciding what to buy for you.

They'd have to learn their way around in a hurry. And one of the first things they'd do would be to study the newspapers — every advertisement that discusses something you'd be needing, or wanting. They'd get the latest facts on automatic refrigerators and sports shoes and tea and motor oil and all the rest. They'd make a business of knowing what, where and when to buy.

Are you less careful and less constant in your adreading than you should be? Do you have to depend on other people for facts that are clearly stated in the advertising pages of this newspaper?

Read advertising thoughtfully, consider all the ponts you find there on their merits. Find out in advance exactly what things will best serve your needsand why. After all, that's the only way to get your money's worth, every time.

The real reason for advertising is not to help some one sell something, but to help you buy what you wants
