GAME IS BOOKED WITH STRONG BROWNWOOD LIONS East Will Produce Many Candidates For All-American Grid Honors

SPOFFARD, L. KELLEY, MEYER BID

Boys Bid For Fame In Football's Big Hall Of Glory

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The East, long a producer of all-Americans, comes forth again not lacking in lads who will bid for lasting fame in the football hall of glory.

ONLY THREE teams—two in the east and one in the south—have schedules which don't include at least one game with members of the present select group.

HERE'S HOW the situation shapes up by sections, as analyzed by Henry Super, United Press sports writer:

EAST—Syracuse and N. Y. U. are the only ones which don't face teams in the present select circle.

MID-WEST—The best the mid-west can do is to have three teams with perfect records.

SOUTH—Only undefeated team below the Mason-Dixon line is North Carolina State.

SOUTHWEST—Chances are great that the southwest, which now has there, won't have a single undefeated, united team at the end of the season.

PACIFIC COAST—The issue will be settled on the coast this Saturday with the only two undefeated eleven on the western slope.

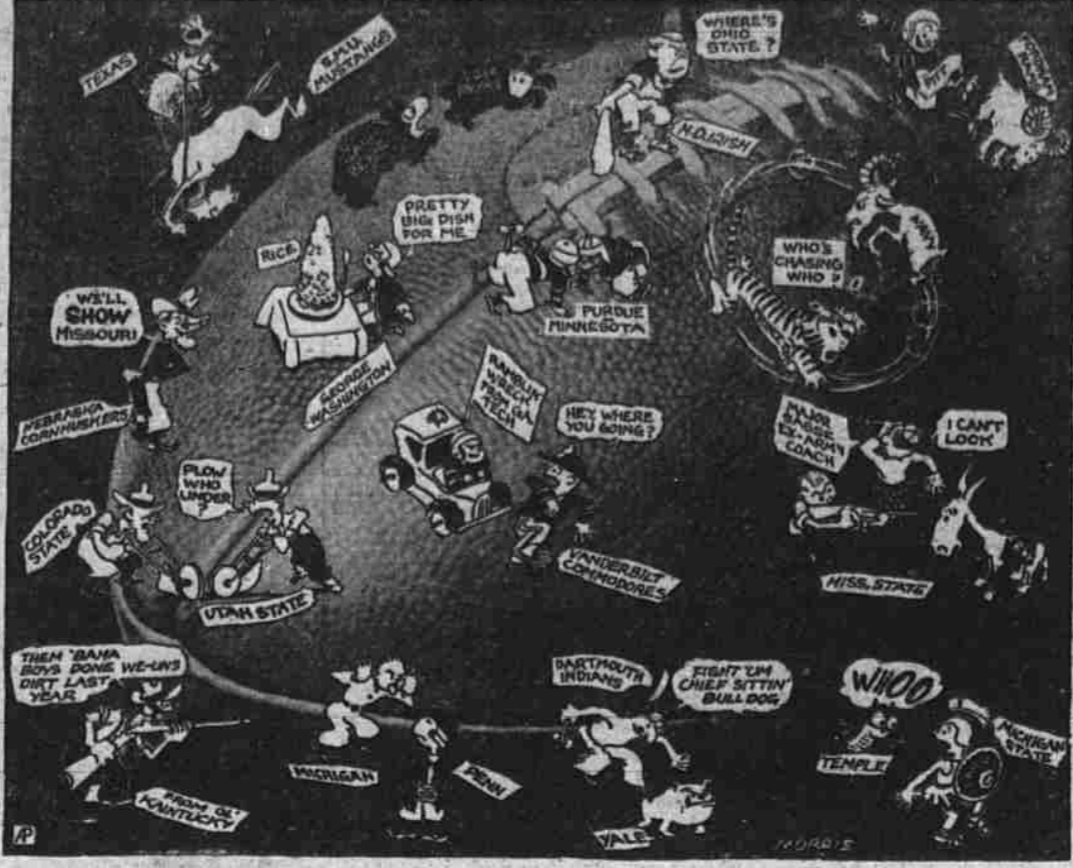

SEATING CAPACITY at Steer stadium for the Anglos game will be about 5,500.

THE BOWLING alleys will be open for business in another week or two.

RALPH LALONDE and Fred Savage write a critical letter. They wrote, in part: "We have read of a controversy in regard to the Big Spring high school football team."

Board Offers Argument For School Bonds

Coahoma Group Issues Letter Concerning Saturday Election

The Herald has received, with request for publication, a copy of a letter from the Coahoma school board to school patrons and voters of the Coahoma independent school district, citing reasons for support of a proposed bond issue which comes before the voters of the district Saturday.

The board's letter, sent through Supt. George M. Boswell, points out the need of additional housing for the school; the opportunity to get federal aid on the proposed improvement of the school building; and presents the district's financial position with reference to ability to pay for the bond issue.

The letter, addressed to patrons of the Coahoma school, follows:

Before casting your ballot in the school bond election next Saturday, Nov. 2, we should like to have you weigh carefully the following considerations:

Housing Needs

1. The need for additional housing in our school.

As a result of a 15 per cent increase in enrollment this year over that of last year, we have an extremely congested condition in our school, even after we have utilized all available space. For example, we have been forced to convert our book room and auditorium stage into class rooms. These places, of course, are improperly lighted and ventilated for class room work.

In addition to these congested conditions we are at the present time housing some 70 students in the old building. To be sure these children are not receiving the advantages in the way of material equipment that are justly theirs as members of this school. With the building in the condition that it is now in, it is impossible to either heat it, light it, or ventilate it properly. Furthermore, the building was several years ago condemned against further use for school purposes. Yet we continue to demand that our boys and girls use it for want of better facilities. Can we afford to take this kind of a chance with the physical and intellectual welfare of the boys and girls of this community?

Federal Aid

2. The proposal of the United States government.

The government proposes to bear 45 per cent, or $21,272.00, of the total cost of the project, provided the school district will assume the other 55 per cent, or $26,000.00 in the form of a government loan. The patrons of this school district have never before had, and in all probability will never again have, such a proposition as this placed before them.

The $26,000.00 loan is to be secured by a bond issue at 4 per cent interest for 30 years. No part of the $21,272.00 grant is to ever be returned to the government by the school district.

3. The ability of the district to meet the issue.

In regard to the school's district's

Joe Guffey, Senate 'Freshman' Faces A Big Election-Year Task

By HERBERT FLUMMER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Senator Joe Robinson, Democratic leader of the senate, forgot all about that cherished prerogative of senators called seniority when he picked "Freshman" Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania to be chairman of the party's senatorial campaign committee for the '36 elections.

Senator Joseph Guffey... he remembers when 31 Guffeys, all Democrats voted in the same precinct.

Out of the 32 senators up for reelection next year, 19 of them are Democrats. Guffey's feat in getting himself elected in 1934 as the first Democratic senator from Pennsylvania in 50 years was recommendation enough for Robinson.

At that the plump, jovial, gray-haired Pennsylvania will have a mark to shoot at. The retiring chairman of the committee, "Jim Ham" Lewis of Illinois, wrestled nine seats from the Republicans during his tenure of office. Because Lewis himself is up for reelection next year he was forced to relinquish the chairmanship.

Charged with the duty of seeing that not only the 19 Democratic senators are returned next year but also of unseating as many of the 13 Republicans as possible, those who know Guffey expect innovations under his chairmanship.

The Guffey Method

The Guffey method is what many politicians of today regard as old-fashioned. Party organization, not policies or political realignments of any sort, is the favorite Guffey mechanism.

He is a hardboiled analyst and never permits sentiment to interfere with his conception of politics as a practical game. In that respect he is much like his distinguished Republican predecessor as the senatorial political impresario of Pennsylvania, the late Boise Penrose.

"I grew up in politics," he says. "There was a time when there were 31 Guffeys of voting age. They were all Democrats and all ability to take care of the issue, we should like to present to you the following figures and estimates:

The assessed valuations of the district for the past three years were, 1933-34, $1,128,000; 1934-35, $1,155,869; 1935-36, $1,200,604.

This year's increase over last year was $44,735, while this year's increase over 1933-34 was $72,604.

During the past two years, up to Sept. 1, 1935, after all obligations had been met, we had an accumulated surplus of $4,403.23, or an average for the two years of $2,201.61. At present we have a delinquent tax roll of $2,557.49.

But forgetting the fact that we have been during the past two years accumulating sufficient surplus to more than take care of the additional bond that we are requesting, forgetting the fact also that the delinquent tax roll has been growing during this time let us look at our further ability to meet the issue without an increase in taxation. This year's increase of $44,735.00 in assessed valuation over that of last year will yield an additional $447.35. We have added 21 more sections of land to the district, which if assessed at $3 per acre will bring in $63.00. Our scholastic increase over that of last year is 53. At $17.50 each these will bring into the district an additional $927.50. We expect a minimum of 20 high school transfers into the district next year if the bond issue carries—we had 11 such transfers this year. Last year we were granted $7.50 each per month for 6-12 months on these students. If we get 20 students at $7 per month for six months they will bring us $840. The sum of these figures gives us a total additional income of $2,621.05. The cost of the bond for the first year will be about $1,540. This leaves a balance of $1,081.05.

On the basis of these figures, we feel that we are safe in expecting to carry this additional bond without any increase in taxation.

Matinee Set For Tonight

Road Show Attraction Is Feature Of Halloween Celebration

Halloween will be celebrated "in a big way" at the Ritz theater tonight, with a matinee presentation of a road-show attraction, "Hands Across the Table." Advertisers as a frolic of fun, 19 of the festivities will start at 11:30.

In addition to the matinee showing, "Hands Across the Table," which features Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray, will be offered at the Ritz Friday and Saturday.

Ralph Bellamy plays a prominent part in the picture. "Hands Across the Table" is an amusing romance drama of two young people, one a pretty, ambitious manicurist, the other a penniless, socialite playboy, both determined to marry for money rather than for love. Many laughable situations occur as they try to carry out their plans.

Rules Modified On Student Aid

AUSTIN, Oct. 31.—Modification of federal regulations, to permit needy students, as well as those on the rolls of the Texas Relief commission, to participate in the high school aid program, has been announced by Lyndon B. Johnson, state director of the National Youth administration.

Heretofore only students whose families were on relief in May, 1935, were eligible for certification for the $6 a month job appointments. The $6 for which the students perform various duties assigned to them by school officials is to provide carfare, lunch money, funds for supplies and incidental expenses.

The order in which students may now be selected for high school aid is as follows:

First, students whose families were on relief in May, 1935.

Second, students whose families are now on relief or families whose heads are employed by the Works Progress administration.

Third, students members of rural rehabilitation families.

Fourth, students who are needy. They need not be certified for relief, but must be unable to attend high school if they do not receive one of the jobs provided under the high school program.

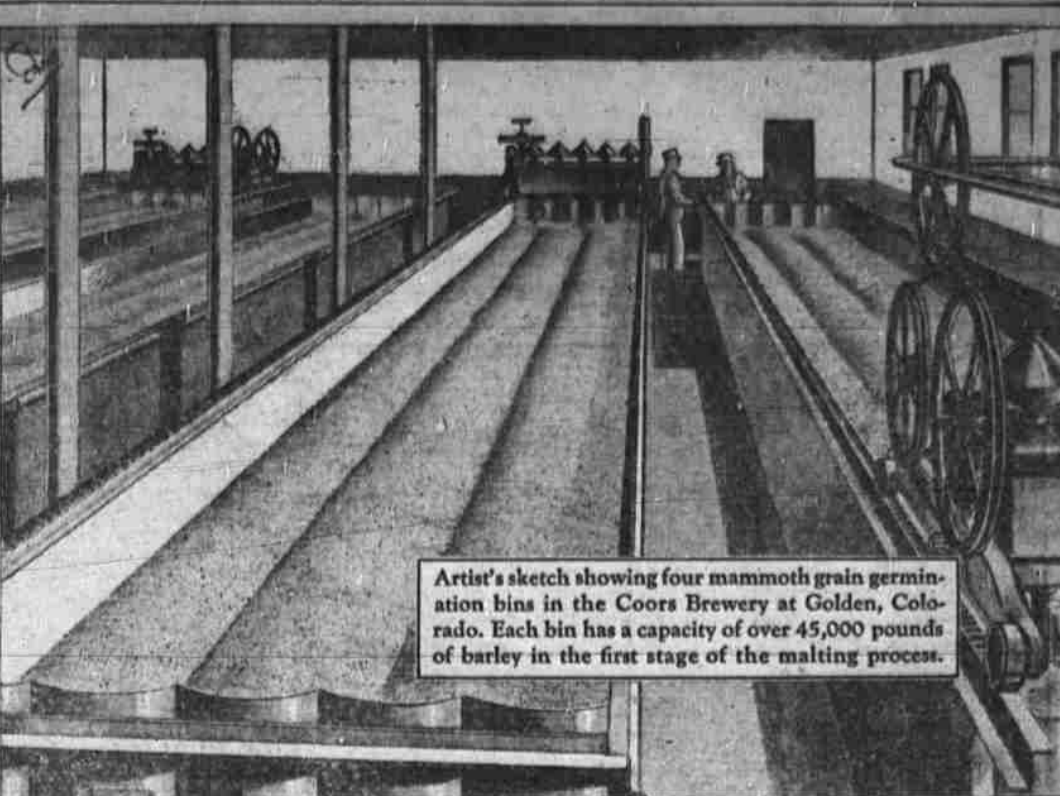

All students, no matter under which classification they fall, Johnson said, must be capable of doing high-grade academic work, and adjudged worthy of receiving assistance by the county placement committee.

Asks Facts On NRA Collapse

Survey Of Labor To Be Used In Considering New Regulation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Writing to 32,000 labor unions for "facts alone" on post-NRA code lengthening of work hours and reduction of wages, Recovery Coordinator George L. Berry emphasized the information could be furnished best by employees who were the "unwilling victims."

The search for facts on the breakdown of labor standards established under the new deal follows a canvass of industry and labor leaders to ascertain if they would cooperate in conference to determine what type of permanent legislation if any, is needed for industry regulation.

The next step will be a request to industry management groups for facts on departures from trade practice provisions since abolition of the codes. Although a committee was set up in the skeletonized NRA to collect both types of data, it was said Berry's research would supplement this work and embrace a much wider territory.

The committee on industrial cooperation is collecting statistics only from industries formerly covered by 44 codes, in 132 cities, on a quota basis, while the two requests from the coordinator's office seek to reach all possible sources in industry management and labor.

Hoovers Speech In New York Next Month To Be Watched For A Clue To His Plans In The 1936 Campaign

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Former President Herbert C. Hoover's strategy either to establish a controlling position in the 1936 Republican national convention or to win the party presidential nomination for himself will lead him to the political platform in New York City next month.

Friends revealed today that Mr. Hoover will speak Nov. 16 before the Ohio society in President Roosevelt's home state.

A national radio broadcast and possibly a far flung chain of Ohio society assemblies elsewhere in the country will provide a coast to coast forum for the Republican leader's first major eastern speech since the 1932 campaign.

Although Mr. Hoover's associates here refused to discuss the possible political significance of the New York speech, political observers view it as calculated further to test national Hoover sentiment preliminary to a free-for-all contest for the Republican nomination.

No Favorite
With eight months to go before convention, there is no outstanding favorite in the republican nomination. There has not been so open a race in the GOP since 1920 when Warren G. Harding emerged from stalemate to campaign from his front porch for certain victory.

Republican leaders are uncertain of Mr. Hoover's objective although many are becoming convinced the former president intends to seek vindication for the defeat of 1932 if popular response to his increasingly frequent public utterances warrants another test of personal popularity. But whether the former president seeks merely to exercise the compelling influence of an elder statesman when the Republicans meet in convention next June or desires the nomination for himself, his tactics at this state of the political maneuvering would be identical.

A group of politicians plotted last summer to make Mr. Hoover unpopular. Through some of his closest former associates of the White House they sought to put the direct question: "Do you intend to seek the 1936 nomination?"

Holds On To Power
That strategy has not revealed Mr. Hoover's purpose. Politicians believe that if Mr. Hoover were to announce he would not be a candidate next year his influence would diminish and his chances of writing the Hoover philosophy into the 1936 platform would disappear. Therefore, politicians do not now expect the former president will make a public statement of his political intentions, preferring rather to discharge responsibilities of titular leader of the party until the 1936 convention selects the man to lead the fight on the New Deal.

A speech before Ohioans, even though delivered in New York, cannot avoid a healthy political aroma. Ohio is one of the prizes of American politics. Fat and populous, it casts 26 votes in the electoral college, ranking next to New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois. Mr. Hoover lost Ohio in 1932 but by only 236,000 votes of 1,500,000 cast. Winning Ohio next year will be one of the major responsibilities of the Republican nominee whoever he may be.

Shipments Of Stock Lower

Large Total Of Last Year Due To Government Relief Buying

AUSTIN, Oct. 31.—Shipments of Texas livestock to Fort Worth stockyards and to interstate points during September were far below the corresponding month last year, reflecting the Government's drought relief program of a year ago, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"This year ranchmen and farmers obviously will utilize livestock to the fullest extent possible as a medium for marketing forage and feed crops, of which there is now an abundant supply in Texas," Dr. Buechel said. "It is a fair assumption, therefore, that while the number of livestock moving to market is radically smaller than it was a year ago, the disparity in tonnage may not be so great as the numbers would indicate, since it is probable that the weight per animal is averaging higher than it did last year. It also is safe to assume that the quality of livestock on the average is higher than it was last year, and that this will contribute toward the increase of demand.

"Forwardings for the month totaled 4,006 cars, against 9,386 cars during September last year, a decline of 48 per cent. The 3,402 cars of cattle represented a decline of 45 per cent from last year; calves, 828 cars, are down 48 per cent; hogs, 192 cars, show a decline of 37 per cent; and sheep, 466 cars, a drop of 63 per cent.

"The sharp decline in cattle forwardings to out-of-State points was confined to shipments to the leading markets for slaughter, such as Kansas City, East St. Louis, Oklahoma City, and Wichita, Kansas. There was an increase of both cattle and sheep to Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, California, and New Mexico.

"Receipts of Texas cattle and calves in the Fort Worth market showed only moderate decline from last year in spite of the enormous number of distress animals placed on that market a year ago. The drop in the number of hogs and sheep was much sharper."

New DeMille Spectacle To Show At Ritz

Historical Drama, 'The Crusades,' Starts Run On Sunday

History's greatest struggle, in which all the nations of Europe banded together for an inspired and unselfish cause, is the subject of Cecil E. DeMille's latest spectacle drama, Paramount, "The Crusades," which opens Sunday at the Ritz theatre.

Harold Lam, who wrote such books as "The Crusades," "Flame of Islam," "Iron Men and Saints," "Ghengis Kahn" and "Tamerlane," wrote the script for the DeMille picture.

"The Crusades," in which great and low, young and old, gladly give their lives for an ideal, brought chivalry to its height and shaped, by supreme effort and sacrifice, the beginnings of the modern world. The spectacle proportions and amount of research and preparation required for this production imposed months of study on DeMille and his large staff of assistants before a single camera turned. All properties had to be carefully checked for accuracy.

More than 10,000 persons are in the cast, headed by Henry Wilcoxon as Richard the Lion-Heart and Loretta Young as Berengaria. A large list of important names are featured. Katherine DeMille, daughter of the producer, is seen as Princess Alice of France.

It's your money. You've earned it. It will be spent. For fuel, clothes, furniture, food, all sorts of necessities... and if there's any left, for luxuries.

The way to make that hard-earned money go farthest is to purchase products of certain value. Products backed by well-known manufacturers. Products that are widely bought and used, that are carefully and painstakingly kept to high standards of quality, and that have been found over and over again to give full worth. Advertised products!

When you buy a watch or a rake, a set of china or a radio set that is advertised in this paper, you are buying a product whose maker is willing to talk about it, tell about it, put what he knows about it in print and sign his name to it. When you buy advertised merchandise by name, you get the utmost of purchasing value from every dollar.

Musicians Must Stay Thin Or Quit
Orchestra Headed By Edith Lorand

NEW YORK (AP)—Edith Lorand, who is a Hungarian violinist and orchestra leader in spite of a Scotch grandmother, arrived the other day with her slim orchestra.

Miss Lorand has her own ideas about the makeup of an orchestra. She will employ only men, only rather handsome men, and only slender men.

Her first violinist, for example, is 40 pounds below the orchestra left Budapest for America. "The doctor was a little worried," admits Miss Lorand. "But in a small organization like mine the picture is so very important. Roly-poly men don't fit in."

Plays 'Dance' Music
 The leader is a violinist herself, she also is a devotee of Hungarian folk music, and plans to introduce much of it to America. She insists that her audiences understand that gypsy music is not necessarily Hungarian, and that much of what we call Hungarian music is really gypsy—as much Russian, for example, as Magyar.

Miss Lorand plays much dance music, but not for dancing. She plays such music as the Beethoven country dances, the Viennese waltzes, the Landler, and so forth. Many of the classic composers, Haydn for example, wrote much music for chamber orchestra, and that is what Miss Lorand's is.

Also A Tarogato
 She brought 15 men to America, and also a tarogato. This last is not a natural history specimen but an old Hungarian musical instrument, something like a clarinet, and although it was in use as early as the 17th century in Hungary, Miss Lorand does not believe it has been played in an American concert to date.

Hungarian musical fibre is tough, Miss Lorand's orchestra proves. All summer she rehearsed it, often as much as 12 hours a day. Incidentally, the curious little fringed cravat the men will wear on the stage, rather like an I.O.O.F. neckpiece tied up close to the Adam's apple, is not a piece of foppishness. It's a Hungarian institution, worn when one is putting one's best foot forward.

THE Referee
ON THE SPOT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One dizzy, unprecedented play stands out in the memory of Herb Dana, now commissioner of football officials for the Pacific Coast conference, as the toughest he ever was called upon to handle in his whistle-blowing days.

That play was the famous one which cost the University of California eleven an 8 to 7 loss to Georgia Tech in the Pasadena Rose Bowl game of 1929—Roy Riegels' backward run.

"It was so dizzy that it took me about five minutes to figure it all out," Dana laughs. "Things happened so fast."

Goal Line Conference
 The play is widely known because of its sensational nature and because it turned the tide of the game. Riegels, Bear center, picked up a loose ball and in the heat of the contest ran toward his own goal line.

Halifax, California halfback, pursued him.

"Lom caught him just after he had crossed his own goal line," Dana recalls. "They seemed to have a momentary conference, and Riegels started back the other way."

"Just a yard back onto the playing field, a Tech man tackled him. The ball squirted out of Riegels' hands and bounced across the goal line again. A Tech man fell on it and started to claim a touchdown. But it wasn't. I had to rule that the whistle had blown before the fumble."

There was no score on the play itself, but an attempt to kick out of danger was blocked and a safety scored for Georgia Tech.

That won the ball game for the southerners—the two points added to six by means of a touchdown beat the seven the Bears scored on a touchdown and point after.
