Iran Earthquake Toll May Reach 20,000; 13,600 Square Miles In Devastated Area

Entire Village Said To Be Buried Alive

By JOSEPH MAZANDI
United Press International

TEHRAN (UPI) — A saddened and weeping prime minister Assadollah Alam inspected sections of Iran's earthquake area today and was informed that the death toll had passed 10,000 and might go higher than 20,000.

Officials with his party said after he returned from the six hour, 200 mile trip into the devastated area that he was told:

"Many more than 10,000 have died. Maybe 20,000, maybe more."

U.S. Ambassador Julius Holmes announced no Americans were injured or U.S. property damaged in the quakes. He donated $10,000 to the mayor of Tehran for relief.

Staggered By Destruction

Alam and his aides were staggered by the amount of destruction caused by the series of tremors which first struck a 13,600-square-mile area Saturday night.

"This is a very bad situation. We can only beg God to help us in this calamity," the premier said back in the capital.

Reports from outlying areas said whole villages in the stricken area were destroyed.

At one point on his tour—in a village near Gharvin — Alam buried his head in his hands and wept openly.

Everywhere the party went they saw mounds of crumbled and broken mud bricks that had once been the homes of villagers.

Dr. Hossein Khatibi, head of the Red Lion and Sun Society—Iran's Red Cross — said there were strong fears that the toll would continue to climb because of the inaccessibility of some of the stricken mountainous areas.

The quake area lies to the west and southwest of this capital of 2 million inhabitants.

Tehranis felt the first shocks Saturday night but there were no injuries nor reports of property damage in the city.

Villages In Shambles

All of the small villages around Gharvin, which is 80 miles west of Tehran, were in shambles.

The young prime minister's party was met everywhere by weeping, bewildered peasants.

In the village of Boen, southeast of Gharvin, there was not one mud-brick house standing.

Everywhere, troops and civilian volunteer rescue workers dug through the rubble in the hope of finding some villagers still living.

At Daranisfahan, about 150 miles west of Tehran, rescue officials said they believed 300 persons still were trapped under the debris.

Radio Tehran said Sunday the town's entire population of 3,000 had been buried alive.

Reports of hunger and thirst among the survivors began to come in today.

Fear Water Contamination

"We have no water for the survivors," one official in the premier's party said.

Alam ordered water tank trucks sent to the areas because of fear the water supply in the villages had been contaminated.

The gendarmerie commander at Gharvin said 4,000 burial certificates had been issued.

"This is the worst possible national disaster I could imagine," Alam said.

SEES GOP VICTORY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., said Sunday there was no question that the Republicans would win control of the House in the fall elections.

Halleck, who appeared on a television program with Rep. Harold C. Ostertag, R-N.Y., said the election of more Republicans to Congress would "get this country going again."

Human Misery And Destruction Are 'Unequaled'

EDITOR'S NOTE: When Premier Assadollah Alam toured earthquake-shattered sections of Iran today, United Press International reporter Joseph Mazandi was in the party. Here is his personal report of what they found.

By JOSEPH MAZANDI
TEHRAN (UPI) — Never have I seen so much destruction and death and human misery as exist today in the earthquake-splintered villages of Iran.

For some six hours I joined Premier Assadollah Alam in an inspection of the stricken area near and around the ancient city of Gharvin (also spelled Kazvin or Qazvin) 80 miles west of Tehran.

In dozens of small villages through which we passed there was scarcely a building intact. Most of the village buildings were built of mud bricks and they collapsed in the earth shocks, burying men, women and children as they slept.

All Buildings Leveled

In some of the villages not a building was standing. Survivors, many of them dirty and with their clothes in tatters after either being temporarily buried, or scrambling to reach loved ones under the mud heaps, wept and wailed as we approached.

Mixed with the weeping and cries of sorrow were the moans of injured and dying.

Some survivors simply wandered dazed, glassy-eyed through ruins, apparently too shocked to understand the immensity of what had happened.

In Boen, a village southeast of Gharvin, the devastation seemed complete. I could not see a single hut standing.

At one collapsed hut a group of villagers clustered around an old, white-bearded man squatting on a mound of dirt that once had been his home.

His face was a mask of shock, and he said nothing.

"He has lost everything," one official in the premier's party said.

.10 Inch Of Rain Here

An unofficial .10 inch of rain fell in Pampa and vicinity yesterday in a series of drizzles.

A cool front which moved into the Panhandle Saturday is expected to hang on for at least 48 more hours, according to weather predictions.

Forecasters called for slightly warmer temperatures today with a high of 85 expected. Tomorrow calls for cooler temperatures with a high of 75.

Widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers are in the forecast for today.

Russians Defy Request; Enter US Berlin Sector

BERLIN (UPI)—The Russians today defied a Western request to avoid the American sector and sent their armored cars through the U. S. Army Checkpoint Charlie.

American military police escorted the three heavy armored cars carrying guards to the Russian war memorial in the British sector and made no move to interfere with it.

The Russians Sunday were asked to take a direct route through the British sector to the monument, but Western officials said the armored cars would not be banned immediately.

They said the Russians would be given a brief time to answer a Western note.

A U.S. Army spokesman said a deadline has been given the Russians but the deadline has not yet been reached.

Just when the armored cars would be banned from passing through Checkpoint Charlie at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point on the East-West Berlin border was not disclosed.

The armored cars, escorted by a Russian sedan, were held up only a minute today at the American checkpoint and then allowed to proceed.

The Russian convoy was escorted by two American military police sedans. One rode in front of the convoy and the other behind it.

The Russians Sunday were told to use another border crossing point after an armored car rammed an American MP sedan escorting the Russian convoy.

The Soviet convoys take changes of guards to the war memorial. Until last month, the guards traveled in autos or buses. The armored cars were introduced when a West Berlin mob, furious over the Communist killing of an East German fleeing to the West, stoned a bus.

Prowler Calls Continue

Negro Held At Gun Point When Seen In Yard Here

A 22-year-old Amarillo Air Force Base soldier was nabbed at gun point shortly after 1 a.m. Sunday by a Neel Rd. man who said he caught the Negro youth in his yard.

C. M. Brown, 1053 Neel Rd., told police he heard a noise outside and first saw the man walking away from the house toward the front sidewalk.

Brown called the man to stop and then held him at gun point while Billy Daniels, a neighbor at 1052 Neel Rd., called police.

Three squad cars arrived on the scene and the youth was taken into custody. He gave his name as Miles L. McCrory and said his home was in Georgia.

McCrory also told police he thought he was in Tennessee and that he was hunting for his grandmother's home.

He was taken to central jail, booked on an intoxication charge and later released on $25 bond.

Brown told police that so far as he knew the youth had not tried to enter the house.

J. O. Dumas, assistant police chief, checked with the commander of the Amarillo Air Force Base and learned McCrory had left there at 1:30 p.m. on a 72-hour leave. Dumas said he learned that McCrory had been stationed in Amarillo only one month and told local police he had never before been in Pampa.

Three other prowler reports were listed with police over the week end.

Police could find no trace of anyone when they went to investigate a report from Wesley McGinley, 632 N. Davis, that someone was trying to get into the house shortly after 2 a.m. Sunday.

Jerry Mitchell, 1039 S. Hobart, reported at 12:18 a.m. Sunday that someone was "going from one window to another" at his home.

"Get away from there or I'll blow your head off" apparently was enough warning for a prowler at the home of Mrs. J. M. Kirby, 1225 E. Francis, shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Kirby told police she heard someone trying to open a bedroom window on the east side of the house. When she shouted the warning the noise stopped, she stated.

Mrs. J. H. Hayes, 1245 S. Hobart, called police at 10:30 p.m. Sunday and said she heard a noise outside in her yard while she was talking on the telephone. Later, she stated, she heard the noise again. This time she turned on the flood light in the yard. She said seconds later she saw a car pull away and speed down the street.

Soviet Union Openly Committed To Beefing Cuban War Machine

By EUGENE MCLOUGHLIN
United Press International

The Soviet Union was openly committed today to building up the war machine of Fidel Castro's Cuba just 90 miles from the coast of the United States.

A joint Soviet-Cuban communique issued in Moscow Sunday said Russia would provide Cuba with "arms deliveries" to help meet "threats of aggressive-imperialist elements."

The Soviets also agreed to help build an iron and steel plant and expand three others in an effort to triple present production of 110,000 tons annually.

Washington officials viewed the announcement as a logical step in the Soviet campaign to prop up Castro's faltering regime and tie it more closely to the Communist world.

Nothing New

"The announcement doesn't seem to represent anything new," a State Department official said. "We've been saying right along that the Soviet Union has been sending military equipment and technicians to Cuba."

Washington officials said military supplies which were reported being unloaded at Cuban docks during late July and early August now are being deployed throughout the island.

They estimated that from 3,000 to 5,000 Russian technicians already have arrived in Cuba and Sunday's communique said Moscow would send more.

Maj. Raul Castro, brother of Fidel and Minister of the armed forces, announced that 48 hours of artillery practice would be held along Cuba's northern coast facing Florida beginning Tuesday.

Charge Air Violations

In recent days the Cubans have issued almost daily charges that planes from the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo are "violating" Cuban air space and territorial waters.

Holiday Traffic Record

By 12:30 p.m. EDT, United Press International had counted 382 persons dead in traffic since the 78-hour holiday began at 6 p.m. Friday.

The breakdown: Traffic, 382; Drowning, 50; Planes, 6; Miscellaneous, 50; Total, 491.

Dove Hunters Killed In Attack On Officer

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI) — Sheriff's deputy Dale Wantland answered what he thought to be a routine trouble-call Saturday involving two dove hunters shooting on private property.

Moments later the hunters were dead.

Wantland, a father of five and veteran of 12 years with the sheriff's department arrived at the S. A. Irvine ranch and found the two men shooting doves in the trees near the ranch house.

Wantland politely asked the hunters, John Elbert Sackett, 49, and his son, Bobbi J. Sackett, 29, to move off the property because the wife of Irvine's foreman had just suffered a heart attack recently and was recuperating in the ranch house.

Men Become Argumentative

The deputy said the men became argumentative and asked, "What authority do you have to tell us to move off?"

Wantland said he pointed to badge and again asked them to leave.

He said the elder Sackett then moved around in back of him and pressed his shotgun into the deputy's back. The younger man pointed his shotgun at him from the front.

Wantland said the men then shouted, "Get him."

The deputy said he pushed the younger man's gun barrel aside and whirled on the elder Sackett, drawing his gun and firing. As the older man dropped he turned

Pampa Is Quiet On Labor Day

Most stores and business places in Pampa were closed today in observance of the Labor Day holiday.

According to local law enforcement agencies, only a few minor accidents were reported in the Pampa area by noon today.

Highway Patrol officers said the light drizzle and cool temperatures in the Panhandle area may have cut down on the traffic this week end.

City, county and state offices were also closed.

The post office was open for rent box holders, but the postal windows were closed. There was no regular mail delivery.

Dollar day, usually observed on the first Monday of each month, has been moved to Tuesday, due to the holiday.

Mariner-2 Facing 'Showdown' Maneuver

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — A spectacular United States space triumph over Russia and the possibility of discovering life on Venus could be decided today in a faithful "showdown" maneuver by Mariner-2, now a million and a half miles from Earth.

Sometime within a few hours after 7 p.m. EDT scientists at Cal Tech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) will flash a solitary signal to the spacecraft in a scant 7 seconds, ordering its robot "electronic brain" to execute a crucial "midcourse maneuver."

The Mariner's midcourse motor and other guidance devices must perform a perfect change-of-course to successfully swing the 447-pound spacecraft within the 10,000-mile exploration range of the mysterious cloud-veiled planet by early December.

Prepare For Maneuver

The final move in preparing the Mariner for the maneuver was successfully completed Sunday night. The process, called earth acquisition, was designed to stabilize the craft's attitude so a high gain directional antenna would be permanently "fixed" on the earth.

Previously the Mariner-2 was in communication with the earth through an omni-antenna which is only effective for 8 million miles.

Since the distance to Venus will be about 36 million miles, the directional antenna, capable of transmitting over 84 million miles, had to be brought into position and "fixed" upon the earth.

A Prestige Comeback

JPL scientists said the slightest failure in the critical midcourse maneuver could doom the space probe to pass Venus at too great a distance to peer with an "electronic eye" at ageless secrets hidden beneath its strange wreath of perpetual clouds.

But a successful maneuver, which scientists confidently expected, could score a major prestige comeback for the United States over the Soviets who recently startled the world by maneuvering two manned spaceships to a near rendezvous in orbit.

Russia has tried and failed twice, once only 9 days ago, to send a spacecraft to Venus.

The first attempt was in early 1961, but the Soviets lost contact with their vehicle shortly after launch and it came only within 62,000 miles of Venus, the Earth's closest planetary neighbor.

Red Shot Fails

The second attempt was made Aug. 25 — 48 hours before the United States successfully launched Mariner-2 on a 180-million mile journey to Venus from Cape Canaveral, Fla. But this Soviet Venus shot broke apart in flight and fragments of the space vehicle scattered into orbit around the Earth.

The launching of the U.S. and Russian Venus-bound spacecraft within only hours of each other signified perhaps the most dramatic competition yet between the two powers in their race into space.

Prime objective of Mariner-2 is to determine whether any kind of life exists on the mystery planet which has haunted the imagination of mankind for centuries.

This could be learned through the spacecraft's exploration of the Venetian surface environment and atmosphere by its highly sensitive devices.

The $18.5 million space venture also is aimed at studying the constant layer of clouds that obscure the planet.

TRYSTING PLACE—Only Airport in Paris provides the best meeting place, comparable to New York's under-the-clock in Grand Central. It's a huge revolving light which proclaims "rendezvous" to one and all arriving.

On (Maybe) Italian Peace Corps

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House appropriations subcommittee has just published some testimony given at its hearings on the Peace Corps budget.

I was about midway through the volume when my thoughts suddenly snapped their anchor chain and began to drift off in another direction.

If the Peace Corps is a good thing for the United States, I asked myself, why wouldn't it be a good thing for other countries to have one as well?

I mean, wouldn't it be nice if other countries began sending us teachers and technicians to help us out in matters in which we are deficient?

Offhand I can think of a number of ways that this would work to our advantage. Someone like Sargent Shriver undoubtedly could think of a good many more.

Suppose, for instance, that Italy had a Peace Corps. It could send a delegation to America to help us improve our pizza pies.

There is no denying that we are backward in the pizza field. The ones I have been served would make good auto hubcaps, but as comestibles leave much to be desired.

Then consider that we now have to import our Scotch whiskey. If Scotland would send a few Peace Corpsmen into the hills of Kentucky, I dare say they could soon have our monshiners turning out a domestic blend that would pass for the real thing.

U.S. taxi drivers are another group that could use some foreign assistance. Their horn honking technique can only be described as primitive when compared to that heard in many European cities.

If France formed a Peace Corps and recruited a few Paris cab drivers for duty in the United States, I am confident they could increase our decibel count almost overnight.

We likewise are still one of the underdeveloped nations in the use of small foreign-built cars. They are used here primarily as a means of transportation, which is an outmoded concept.

Peace Corps instructors from Hong Kong or Rome or Rio de Janeiro could quickly teach us that these cars can be employed to better advantage in chasing pedestrians off the streets, and sometimes off the sidewalks.

It is to be hoped that other freedom-loving countries will recognize that we are an emerging nation in these fields and will get their Peace Corpsmen to us right away.

Otherwise, Russia undoubtedly will move in with a Peace Corps of caviar experts.

Money... Chief Cause Of Quarrels Between Men And Their Wives

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ask any marriage counselor and he'll tell you that money is the chief cause of quarrels between husbands and wives.

The argument is either about the lack of money or how it is spent.

Dr. Edward A. Stecker, former president of the American Psychiatric Association, reports that nine times out of ten, money is the subject of the newlywed's first quarrel.

Is there a cure for this? Well—maybe not, since it's hard to find two people who see eye-to-eye on how they should handle their money. On the other hand, there's a way to prevent such arguments from becoming constant irritations between the heads of the family.

The first thing to do is to recognize that marriage itself is a 50-50 partnership. If you agree, then the next step is to put this partnership to work on somewhat of a business basis. The solution is a joint checking account, one of man's greatest inventions to control impulse buying—a prime cause of marital conflict.

Through a joint account, both husband and wife make deposits and withdrawals. Each has a personal checkbook, yet both are responsible for the single combined balance.

The very idea of a joint account encourages teamwork and a spirit of togetherness. Each must keep the other posted on each check written so that the balance is not overdrawn. This knowledge, shared together, makes both partners think twice before spending any money unwisely.

When it comes to making large purchases, the joint checking system actually encourages the two to sit down and discuss the matter before the check is written.

Of course, there may be difficulties with a joint account—like lack of privacy. What do you do, for example, when you want to buy your wife a birthday present and keep her from finding out the cost?

FLU SHOTS URGED

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Public Health Service has urged all Americans to get vaccinations this month to avoid widespread influenza outbreaks this winter.

Surgeon General Luther L. Terry said that recent and past patterns of incidence indicated that many outbreaks of Asian flu will occur during the winter season.

AIR AGE FIRST—First express shipment in history by airplane took place on Nov. 7, 1910 when Phillip O. Parmelee, shown in old photograph above, flew a 60-pound bolt of silk in a Wright biplane from Dayton to Columbus, Ohio. On Sept. 1, 1927 the first fleet of airplanes began regularly scheduled air cargo service—now known as REA Express. U.S. airlines are observing the 35th anniversary of that event by designating September as "Air Express Month."

CRASH KILLS FIVE

BELGRADE (UPI) — Five persons were killed in the Montenegrin Mountains Sunday when a bus carrying 32 passengers plunged 500 feet down an embankment.

Authorities said all the remaining passengers were injured. They said the accident occurred when the bus steering wheel broke.

Oregon Town Patrolled After Students' Riot

SEASIDE, Ore. (UPI)—Helmeted soldiers patrolled the streets of this riot-torn town Sunday night while hundreds of students danced the twist on the beach sand in the moonlight.

The weird contrast marked the tension that has taken over this town of 3,900 since some 1,000 students rioted Saturday night.

A rumor circulated that a new outbreak was brewing.

National Guardsmen, armed with ax handles, paced the nearly deserted streets in pairs, watched quietly from windows, and waited on rooftops. Some 70 state and city policemen patrolled the town.

Few students were on the streets. They were gathered on the sand in front of an ocean-side teen-age club where they danced the twist to the music of a small combo.

They writhed eerily in the soft moonlight and the light of a few bonfires. Single men were observed moving among the dancing couples.

Later, police halted the music and the students slowly began to disperse. Authorities were hopeful the belligerence in this resort, a favorite spot for students at the end of the summer, was subsiding. They said it appeared small groups of agitators were unsuccessful in trying to incite another outburst.

The police and guard patrols continued.

The uneasy lull, came after rioting Sunday afternoon and evening. The students spent the day milling on the beach, then suddenly charged at riot squads on the other side of the seawall at the end of the main street. They were repulsed with ax handles and tear gas.

Some 60 of the young men were under arrest. About 40 remained in jail, overflowing the city jail into the county jail.

Three more persons were hospitalized Sunday, bringing the total to six. Many others were treated for minor injuries.

100 Are Arrested
In Resort Town

HAMPTON BEACH, N. H. (UPI)—More than 100 persons were arrested in a series of disturbances Sunday night in this New England resort town.

Authorities said college age youths were responsible for the incidents.

State police in Concord, N.H., said the disturbances started on Sunday evening with fires in mail boxes, a rash of false alarms, a fire-burning in the street and youths lying in the street to prevent fire trucks from passing.

Then a crowd of 15,000 people was reported gathered in front of the Hampton Beach Casino in a potentially riotous situation.

All available state and local police in Rockingham County were called to the scene, in addition to members of the shore patrol regularly assigned to the area. About 150 police, backed up by fire trucks, dispersed the crowd.

Early today, the beach was closed off to all incoming traffic by police. Only vehicles leaving Hampton Beach were allowed to move.

The disturbances broke out as nearly 100,000 vacationers thronged to this southern New Hampshire beach area.

Algeria's Feuding Faction Leaders Appear To Be Near Peace Talks

By PAUL CHWAT

United Press International ALGIERS (UPI)—Algeria's feuding faction leaders appeared near peace talks today despite violence in Algiers' Casbah and the announced readiness of Ben Bellist troops to march on Algiers.

Ahmed Ben Bella, the strongman vice premier who leads the civil faction in its power struggle with military leaders, scheduled a press conference in Oran. He is expected to touch, at least, on the possibility of talks.

Vice Premier Belkacem Krim, premier Youssef Ben Khedda, three willaya (military-zone) leaders and civilian opinion all support immediate talks.

These factors led to widespread belief that a peaceful solution would pull the infant nation from the brink of civil war.

But heavily armed units of the National Liberation Army (ALN) were reported still on the outskirts of Willaya 4 territory. They are under orders from Ben Bella to march on Algiers "to restore order."

Willaya 4 is one of the country's six autonomous military zones. It covers Algiers and the region extending about 150 miles east and 80 miles south.

The Willaya's opposition to Ben Bella and his civilian Political Bureau, which virtually replaced Ben Khedda's government, forced postponement of the country's first general elections, scheduled for Sunday, and brought the crisis to a head.

Florida Area

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Pinellas County officials worked at full speed today in an attempt to eliminate encephalitis which is believed to have caused 14 deaths.

Civic groups sent members door to door asking people to clean up areas around their houses where disease carrying mosquitoes might breed.

Residents in the area—where bird feeding is popular—have been asked to stop the practice in hopes birds carrying the sleeping sickness virus will move on to less populous areas.

Encephalitis is transmitted to man from mosquitoes which get the virus from birds. Pinellas County has long been a bird sanctuary and retirement site for retired and elderly persons.

The latest victim doctors believed died from the disease was a 26-year-old Gainesville, Fla., woman who had recently visited Pinellas County. At least 120 of the 139 suspected cases of the disease have occurred in the county.

Jerry Bray Visits With His Parents

Jerry Bray has returned to Pampa from St. Louis, Mo., for a two weeks' visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Gilbert, 716 E. Browning.

Bray is on vacation from the Gradwohl School of Laboratory Technique where he is head medical technologist for the school and chemist for the school's laboratory reagent department. After his graduation in 1954, Bray served an internship at the Worley Hospital here, then was chief medical technologist for several years in a pediatrics clinic in St. Louis.

He has done postgraduate work at the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in Washington, D.C., and while in the U.S. Air Force served in pulmonary disease research and tumor research.

Bray also serves as the school's representative at many mid-western college and career days, counseling high school seniors interested in careers in the laboratory field.

Acklam Rites Scheduled
Wednesday

Graveside rites will be held for Mrs. Lottie Acklam, 88, of Kerrville at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Fairview Cemetery with the Rev. Glyn B. Adsit, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating.

Mrs. Acklam, a former Pampa resident, died at 7:30 a.m. Saturday in Kerrville.

She moved from Pampa to Corpus Christi in 1944 and for the past three years had been living in Kerrville.

Her husband, Charlie, preceded her in death 25 years ago in Pampa.

She is survived by one son, Raymond of Kerrville; two grandsons, Charles also of Kerrville; Russell of Gardena, Calif.; one daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Acklam Harvey of Pampa.

Pallbearers will be Grover Heiskell, Claude Heiskell, Dailey Hawkins, Lawrence Barber, Billy Hawkins and T. G. Green.

and opened fire on the son. Both men were killed.

Ruled Self Defense

A coroner's jury assembled later at the scene of the killing ruled Wantland had fired in self defense.

Sheriff Lee Echols said: "It was an unfortunate thing but we feel the deputy was completely justified. The coroner and witnesses agreed that he would not have lived if he had done anything else."

Echols said it appeared that both the victims had been drinking. He said a blood alcohol test showed the elder Sackett with a .240 alcohol blood count, and his son with a .248 reading. Echols explained that .150 is considered legally intoxicated under Arizona law.

Investigation showed that both victims' shotguns were loaded and the father's was cocked.

'Wanda' Death Count Climbs

HONG KONG (UPI)—The death toll from Typhoon Wanda rose steeply today, as police and rescue workers dragged more bodies from the rubble of buildings in the hard-hit New Territories district.

A government spokesman placed the total number of known and presumed dead at 128.

Of these victims, 100 were killed in the New Territories, where the fishing villages of Shatin, Taipoo, and Shataukok were hit by tidal waves at the height of the typhoon Saturday.

Another 14 persons are missing.

Federal Civilian
Payroll In Record

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., reported today that the federal civilian payroll for the year ended June 30 totaled a record $14.3 billion plus $314 million for foreign nationals not on regular rolls.

Byrd, chairman of the congressional committee on reduction of nonessential federal expenditures said employment by the federal agencies averaged 2,443,808 compared with an average of 2,372,445 in the previous year.

Theft Is Cleared;
One Gets Away

Theft of a radio aerial from an automobile several nights ago was cleared up over the week end by Patrolman Don Aycock.

Aycock reported that two juveniles confessed the theft of the aerial from a car belonging to Floyd Loury, 506 Elm St.

The boys were turned over to juvenile authorities and later released to their parents.

A ten-year-old boy, charged with shop-lifting a 49-cent piece of cheese and 15 cents worth of cheese crackers from a S. Cuyler St. store, was caught in the act by J. C. Strickland Saturday.

Strickland said the youth jerked away from him, dropped the cheese, and ran out with the cheese crackers. The youth had not been apprehended today.

ALONE IN A CROWD—Surrounded by a flock of pigeons in an otherwise deserted square in Padua, Italy, a solitary little girl in a gingham dress scatters feed for her little friends. This pastime had much more appeal than "Rest Time" at the nursery school.

CRIB THEATER—Capuchin monk Father Odorich, 84, gazes reverently at this colorful ancient Christmas-crib of Polish origin in Menich, West Germany. The "Szopka," or crib theater, uses the costumed dolls hanging along the upper section for the "cast" in the marionette Christmas plays. It was displayed at International Christmas Crib Exhibition.

HANDS AND FEET—In this photo anyway, Big Ben in London has feet as well as a face. The famous clock's big hands indicate mid-afternoon, just the right time for this slumbering Englishman in Westminster to enjoy his nap. Until quitting time, of course, in time to eat.

RED EAR ON SPACE—Rising to eavesdrop on the universe, these towers supporting curved trusses are just part of the world's largest radio telescope, under construction near Moscow. It is designed to receive radio signals from cosmic radiation as far as several million light years away.

WHEN THE BOUGH BREAKS—One of approximately 1,200 paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division made his jump at Ft. Jackson, S. C., to the tune of a lullaby. The trooper had his feet tangled in his chute lines and did a Rock-A-Bye-Baby. Sure enough, he landed in the tree tops. He didn't think the trip was very restful, but he fell for the gag.

GRASS ROOTS CAMPAIGN—Unrolled like paper toweling, a new "instant grass" carpet was installed along U. S. Highway 90, near Mentor, Ohio. The 1,000-foot-long, 4½-foot-wide carpet, a mat impregnated with grass seed and fertilizer, took just two weeks to produce grass at half the cost and time of conventional methods. The mat construction allowed the "gardener" to install the carpet on slopes of up to 85 degrees without danger of washout or erosion.

He Will Get To Know Khrushchev Well

Personality Spotlight
By United Press International
FOY D. KOHLER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — One day late in September a small and wiry diplomat named Foy D. Kohler will take up the delicate job of being this country's ambassador to the Soviet Union. Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will not be on hand at the airport to greet Kohler, but the two men soon will know each other well, because this 54-year-old career State Department officer must serve as the main information link between the high command in Washington and its counterpart in Moscow.

It is no job for a cookie pusher or for a courtly gentleman of the old diplomatic school. It is an assignment for rugged experts such as George Kennan, Charles A. (Chip) Bohlen, Llewellyn Thompson, and it will test the mettle of Ohio-born Foy David Kohler.

He goes to Moscow "with a complete knowledge of government policy," President Kennedy has said, as well as with "my complete confidence." Both are vital qualifications.

Expert On Berlin
Probably Kohler's first business in Moscow will be to discuss Berlin with Khrushchev. It is no coincidence that Kohler knows this subject well.

Throughout the last several years, since Khrushchev flared Berlin into a crisis, Kohler has been deeply involved in U.S. strategy. Although his formal title has been assistant secretary of state for European affairs, he has spent much time directing a special task force that has formulated U.S. policy on Berlin.

Thus under both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations he has had access to the innermost secrets of cold war diplomacy. Now he has reached the climax of a diplomat's career despite a setback 10 years ago that could have cut it short.

On Saturday, Dec. 6, 1952, Kohler and his wife were involved in an automobile accident when the car she was driving hit a telephone pole on Old Dominion Drive in the Virginia suburb of Arlington. They were returning home from a late party.

Police Make Arrest
Kohler was arrested by Arlington police and charged with public drunkenness. He forfeited $8.75 collateral.

But there was something else: He was carrying in the car some State Department documents classified "secret," dealing with political situations in the Near East. Kohler told the police the papers should not be left unguarded, and called the State Department to have someone go to the car and pick them up.

To have the papers with him was a violation of State Department security rules. The department immediately suspended him for a month without pay and afterwards shipped him off, to be counselor in the U.S. Embassy at Ankara, Turkey.

At that time he was a senior Foreign Service officer with 21 years of experience. Seven years later he was back in Washington in the State Department's high command. His title: Acting Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs. On Dec. 11, 1959, President Eisenhower appointed him assistant secretary of state.

Asked About Incident
The Arlington incident was recalled on Aug. 15 when Kohler appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for his confirmation hearings as an ambassadorial appointee.

Survives Blow
Expulsion of the Teamsters was a serious blow and Hoffa knew it. He probably would go back into the AFL-CIO tomorrow if he could get the right terms. But events were to prove that Hoffa could survive almost anything. He came up for re-election as president of the Teamsters in 1961, again at Miami Beach. Result: Hoffa, 1,875; Milton J. Liss, 15.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the committee, told Kohler that "I have a letter from Sen. Harry Byrd (D-Va.), asking me to comment on an editorial referring to an incident that occurred that you are thoroughly familiar with. I feel it is my duty to ask you to comment on it, as to the significance of it."

Kohler replied: "It is a matter that is on the record, Mr. Chairman. It was well publicized at the time. It was an unfortunate and regrettable incident for which I accept full responsibility. I appeared before the Board of Foreign Service and was appropriately disciplined for violating the rules of proper behavior and carrying classified documents with me."

"The (State) Department was good enough to point out in its statement at that time that no such incident had occurred before, and I believe the record of the past 10 years shows that I don't make such mistakes a second time."

Wins Quick Approval
The committee quickly gave Kohler its approval. One Republican member, George Aiken of Vermont, commented that "Mr. Kohler's record of 31 years is available to this committee, and I don't know why we should take up time asking questions."

On Aug. 17 the Senate confirmed him by voice vote.

The record Aiken referred to began Dec. 17, 1931, when Kohler entered the Foreign Service after graduating from Ohio State. (He was born in Oakwood, Ohio, Feb. 15, 1908, the son of a state hospital employee).

He was sent first to Windsor, Ontario, where he stamped visas. From there he went to Bucharest, Belgrade, Athens and Cairo and became in the process an expert on Eastern European and Near Eastern affairs.

In January, 1947, he went to Moscow for the first time as counselor of embassy, and stayed there — rising to the rank of minister — until 1948. It was during this time that Stalin clamped down the Berlin blockade, the beginnings of Kohler's now-intimate acquaintance with the problem of Berlin versus the Russians.

Learns Russian
While there he also learned Russian. He's a bit rusty at it now he has said, but is practicing up before leaving for Moscow. (He told the foreign relations committee that his wife, North Carolina-born Pam, speaks it better than he does).

From 1948 on, Kohler has been at the State Department, mostly as assistant secretary or European affairs.

He took time out from Berlin problems to accompany Vice President Richard M. Nixon to Moscow, and he did much of the spadework in preparing for Khrushchev's visit to the United States in 1959.

Farquhar Still Setting The Pace In ToT's 25th Golf Tournament

Maxwell In Lead At Dallas Open

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Short-iron specialist Billy Maxwell capitalized on his specialty in forging the four-stroke lead which he carried into the final round of the $35,000 Dallas Open golf tournament today.

The chunky Texan, who registers out of Las Vegas, Nev., had one stretch of four holes on the front nine Sunday when he averaged less than three strokes per hole in fashioning the two-under-par 32-36-68 which gave him a 206 for 54 holes.

Maxwell used up but 11 strokes from the second through fifth holes with his chain of birdies that pushed him four strokes out in front of former champion Johnny Pott, who shot an even par 35-35-70 Sunday to leave him even par for three rounds at 210. Maxwell and Pott have been by far the most consistent contenders over the hilly, Oak Cliff Country Club's 6,716-yard layout. Maxwell has posted rounds of 68-70-68 and Potts 66-71-70.

Ken Hubbs' Magic Number Now 65 For All-Time Mark

By GENE BLUDEAU
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — The magic number for Ken Hubbs is now 65. That's the number of consecutive games without error needed by the Chicago Cubs' rookie second baseman to win official recognition as the smoothest-fielding infielder in major league records.

Hubbs, an off-season resident of Colton, Calif., who won't be 21 until late December, set a new major league record for his position Sunday when he completed his 74th game in a row without a boot.

It topped the previous high of 73 established by Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox in 1948.

The best run of flawless fielding for all infielders regardless of position was put into the book by Frank McCormick, a first baseman for Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies who went 138 games straight without a miscue.

Hubbs needs 64 more errorless games to tie that mark and 65 to top it. Since the Cubs have only 26 games left this season, Hubbs, like McCormick, will need two seasons to turn the trick.

McCormick played seven games in a row without error in 1945 and 131 in 1946.

Hubbs started his streak on June 14 with a makeshift glove that he has learned to love and still using. It's a battered and torn Jerry Lumpe model hustled into service when the Chuck Cottier he ordered failed to arrive in time from the sporting goods firm.

"The Cottier model came about

'Double Header' In Tennis Meet

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Harried tournament officials scheduled a Labor Day "double header" for the U.S. tennis singles championships — two days of action for the price of one — because of Sunday's rain-out.

All but 14 of the 118 survivors in the men's and women's sections were down for second-round court duty today with Australians Rod Laver and Roy Emerson leading the pack and America's Chuck McKinley and Karen Hantze Susman right behind.

The only competitors with a holiday lay-off were 14 girls in the first and fourth quarters of the draw, who drew byes at the start and were a round ahead anyway.

Clearing weather was forecast and officials hoped to complete six matches called because of darkness Saturday, 32 men's matches that normally would have been spread over Sunday and Monday and the 16 women's matches originally scheduled for Sunday.

two weeks later," he said. "I'd been doing so well with this one that I never used it. In fact, it's still in the box."

Hubbs, who was signed by the Cubs in 1961 and switched from shortstop to second base, has committed nine errors. This is four more than has been charged to Frank Bolling who works that post for the Milwaukee Braves. But Bolling has missed a good part of the season because of injury.

Major League Roundup

Yanks, Bums Virtually 'In'

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

The question no longer is who's going to win, but rather how are the Yankees ever going to flag down Don Drysdale and Maury Wills in the same World Series.

As far as the two pennant races are concerned, both the Yankees and Dodgers are virtually "out-prices."

That means the odds-makers consider them as good as "in," and so does most everyone else.

The Yankees came up to today's Labor Day milestone with a four-game lead in the American League while Drysdale and Wills helped the Dodgers retain a 3½ game margin in the National League.

Drysdale Gets 23rd
Drysdale turned in his 23rd victory of the season Sunday and became the NL's biggest winner since Don Newcombe won 27 in 1956. Drysdale pitched a five-hit, 8-0, triumph over the Milwaukee Braves.

The hard-throwing Dodger right-hander helped his own cause by driving in two runs off loser Bob Shaw while battery-mate John Roseboro accounted for three more with a double and two sacrifice flies.

Wills continued to go unchecked on the base paths, stealing two more bases for a total of 76 so far. He now is only four shy of the NL record of 80 set by Cincinnati's Bob Bescher in 1911.

SMU Team Will Be Pallbearers At Kelsey Rites

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—The entire Southern Methodist University football team and coaching staff will be honorary pallbearers today at the funeral of teammate Mike Kelsey.

He died Sunday, a day after collapsing from apparent heat stroke during the team's first practice session.

Kelsey, 20, a 6-foot 187-pound letterman, was the first team center. Coach Hayden Fry said he was one of the best conditioned athletes on the squad.

Kelsey had passed a physical examination Thursday, but fell unconscious at the first practice Saturday.

Funeral services were to be held at 3 p.m. at the Highland Park Methodist Church on the corner of the SMU campus.

Kelsey's was the first football death in the history of the South-west Conference. Five other conference football players were also hospitalized over the weekend from heat stroke or heat exhaustion.

Texas League To Finish Play
By United Press International

A red-hot race for third place in the Texas League between Albuquerque and Austin will be decided in tonight's final games.

Albuquerque plays at El Paso, San Antonio is at Austin and Amarillo at Tulsa.

El Paso and Tulsa have already sewed up the first two spots, but a single game ahead of fourth-place Albuquerque is only a single game ahead of fourth-place Austin.

San Antonio and Amarillo round out the six-team league standings.

In Sunday night's game, Austin beat San Antonio 6-2, Tulsa trimmed Amarillo 8-2 and Albuquerque defeated El Paso 6-3.

The first four teams will engage in playoffs to determine the champion.

Stan Continues Batting Assault

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Stan Musial continued his assault on major league batting marks by blasting the 3,516th hit of his long career Sunday to raise him to second in that department among major league players.

Musial, who Saturday night tied Tris Speaker for second among the all-time hit makers, needed only one try to move ahead. Appearing as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning of Sunday's 4-3 defeat by the New York Mets, Musial victimized lefty Al Jackson with a single.

The safety paly the St. Louis Cardinal ace second only to Ty Cobb for hits during a career. Cobb amassed the amazing total of 4,191 during his span in the major leagues.

Major League Roundup

The Dodgers open a four-game series with the second-place San Francisco Giants today, secure in the knowledge that even a split would leave them in good shape.

The Yankees are even better off. They completed a three-game sweep against the Kansas City A's with a 2-1 victory Sunday, scoring their first run on Orlando Pena's walk with the bases full in the sixth and the winning marker on Bobby Richardson's ninth inning double. Reliever Bud Daley was the winner.

The Yanks play a doubleheader with the third-place Los Angeles Angels today as part of a four-game set.

Twins, Angels Win
In other AL games Sunday, Minnesota's second-place Twins beat the Boston Red Sox, 5-2, the Angels defeated the Washington Senators, 4-2, the Chicago White Sox outlasted the Detroit Tigers, 10-8, and the Baltimore Orioles swept a pair from the Cleveland Indians, 4-1 and 2-1.

In Sunday's NL activity, the Giants beat the Cincinnati Reds, 6-4, the Houston Colts dented the Chicago Cubs, 3-1, and the New York Mets edged the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3. Rain washed out the Philadelphia-Pittsburgh game.

Jim Kaat won his 15th game for the Twins, who scored three runs in the ninth to break a 2-2 tie with the Red Sox. Kaat beat out a punt and then scored the tie-breaking run on Rich Rollins' sacrifice fly, after which Harmon Killebrew doubled in two more runs.

Rookie Leo Burke, just brought up from the minors, socked a three-run homer for the Angels in their victory over the Senators. Eli Grba allowed six hits through the first 8 2-3 innings to gain his seventh victory with Tom Morgan's aid.

Felipe Alou's two-run homer off Jim Brosnan in the ninth inning broke a 4-4 tie between the Giants and Reds. Alou's homer was his 22nd. Willie Mays hit his 41st and Jose Pagan his fifth to help Billy O'Dell register his 16th victory against 12 defeats.

36-Hole Finals Are In Progress At PCC

The "Pride of Amarillo," John Farquhar, is still setting the pace in the Silver Anniversary Top O' Texas Golf Tournament today after yesterday's 18-hole second round at Pampa Country Club.

Farquhar shot a 70 to go with his first round score of 65 to card a 36-hole score of 135 in the tournament. Close behind is Don Kaplan of Childress, a former champion here when he was golfing out of Borger. Kaplan stands two strokes back at 137 with Charles Coody of Stamford breathing down his neck at 138.

Jim Hardy, Dave Houck and John Paul Cain are bunched next with 139 scores. Next in order come Dick Cannon, the medalist in Friday's qualifying, D. L. Robbette, and H. Cogburn with 140s; Malcolm Douglas, J. Williams and B. Carter with 141s; J. Foster, Max Hickey and J. Hatcher with 142s; Jim Smith, G. Heiskell and J. WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Monroe Doctrine has something in common with the weather. It is plain, ordinary weather. It is this: Everybody is talking about the Monroe Doctrine but nobody is doing anything about it. Cuba has made the doctrine a sticky topic. There is reason why nobody is doing anything about the Monroe Doctrine in relation to Cuba. That reason is this: The Monroe Doctrine was and is a preventive doctrine. It was designed to persuade certain European powers not to do certain things in the Western Hemisphere. The doctrine in most cases could persuade and prevent only when supported by strong—very strong—threats of hard-nosed war if the European powers persisted.

Device of Statecraft
More simply: Mr. Monroe's doctrine was a device of statecraft intended to help keep the United States out of war by preventing the development of a situation in which the national interest would compel the United States to undertake a war.

The essential points that bear on the deplorable situation which the Eisenhower administration allowed to develop in Cuba are these:

The Monroe Doctrine was intended to prevent:

Any attempt by the European powers to extend their political system to any portion of this hemisphere, or to any part of either continent.

Any interposition, by any European power, for the purpose of oppressing or controlling in any other manner the destinies of the Latin American governments who have declared their independence and maintained it.

These are two of five basic points certified by the late J. Reuben Clark who, in 1928, wrote for the State Department a memo on the Monroe Doctrine. Clark was undersecretary of state.

Clark's scholarly analysis clearly shows that in purpose and in application, Mr. Monroe's doctrine was a preventive measure, like wearing rubbers against the threat of heavy rain. As wearing rubbers would serve not much purpose after the feet were wet, so the Monroe Doctrine is not likely to be of much use after the fact of old world intrusion into the new world—as Communism has intruded in Cuba.

Stated in 1823

The doctrine was stated in 1823. Cuba has figured since in a dozen developments which could be considered as coming within area of the principles underlying the Monroe Doctrine. More often than not over the years, the Doctrine was the basis of sturdy U.S. diplomacy to prevent Great Britain from seizing Cuba from Spanish control.

The United States was ever eager and anxious to prevent a great naval power (Great Britain) from controlling the strategic Cuban harbors and bases and, thereby, the naval situation in the Caribbean. This was true in August, 1849, when Spain was believed to be negotiating cession of Cuba to the British.

Abraham Lincoln is credited with originating the phrase "Don't swap horses in mid-stream" in 1864.

Lovely new Fall Cottons in Dress and Sportswear Fabrics. New dark tones. Drip-Dry finishes.

Most teen-agers are beauty-conscious. The girl who can't style her own hair and apply make-up skillfully has a hard time keeping up with her friends. Experimenting with new hairstyles can be fun. This girl (left) tries a hairdo inspired by a newspaper photo. She precedes the styling session by a shampoo to make her hair manageable. She tries out different lipsticks (center) until she finds those she likes best. Cold cream, tissues, soapsuds and a sponge remove each experiment. Her lovely glow (right) is a result of trim neatness, plus practice in light and artistic use of cosmetics.

Teenagers Are Experts In Beauty Department

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The girls who can't set a chic hair style, use light make-up and select smart, trim clothes by the time she reaches her middle-teens, just can't meet the competition.

Before the fall semester gets under way, why not take a look at how well you're doing in the beauty department? If you find a few weak spots, it's not too late to start a crash program so that you'll sparkle right along with your classmates. Once you attain your beauty potential, adherence to a good grooming schedule will help you maintain your good looks.

A clear skin not only makes you look prettier, but enhances the total effect of your appearance. If you have acne, don't try to take care of it yourself. See a doctor for professional advice. Otherwise, the best care for teenage complexions is soap and water. Oily skin fosters blemishes, so wash your face several times a day to cleanse the pores of dirt and stale cosmetics.

Learn to apply make-up expertly and with assurance, and apply it so that it looks natural and not like a mask.

Skill in drawing flattering eyebrow and lip lines may require some experimenting. One method is to make your face a "blank canvas" by covering your brows and lips with foundation. Then draw various shapes with lipstick and eyebrow pencil.

Try one silhouette, sponge it away with soapsuds, and continue to try others until you find the outlines which are most becoming. Tissue off your last endeavor with cream to prevent drying.

Chances are, you'll find that you prefer to follow the outline of your own lips, but your brows may offer countless possibilities.

Ice Cream Party Fetes Houseguests

Ruth Millett Kind Remarks Make Brighter Moments

Among life's brighter moments for a woman are:

- Having guests ask her for the recipe of a dish she has served, and being able to say proudly that it is her own invention.
- Being told she doesn't look a day over any age that happens to be 10 years younger than she actually is.
- Having someone ask the name of her decorator when she has a "done" her house without anybody's help.
- Finding when she does buy a dress that she can wear a size smaller than she has been wearing.
- Having a child who has been in the "Oh, Mother-er" stage for a long time begin to show respect for mom's opinions and suggestions.
- Having a baby sitter tell her what well-behaved children she has.
- Finally getting up the nerve to change her hair color and feeling like a different person every time she looks in a mirror.

Finding the dress she thought she couldn't afford on sale for half price.

Feeling well-dressed in an outfit she has made herself.

Finding exactly the right gift for someone usually hard to buy for.

Having guests call up the day after a party to assure her it was a wonderful evening.

Making something with her own hands that adds a nice touch to her home.

Finishing the seasonal job of housecleaning and looking around with well-earned satisfaction at the results.

Small things? Of course! But they're bright moments just the same.

Another of life's brighter moments: Ruth Millett's booklet, "Tips on Teen-Agers," Mail 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, in care of The Pampa Daily News, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

Mrs. Irvine Honored With Pink-Blue Fete

CANADIAN (Spl) — A pink and blue shower honoring Mrs. Dick Irvine of College Station was held at Briscoe School last Wednesday.

Hostesses were Mmes. Grady Dodd, Claude Barker, Jack Meek, Lafayette and Duane Hays.

The honoree received a number of beautiful gifts from those present and from friends in Odessa, Wheeler, Canadian, Happy and Barstow, California.

Formal Fall Rush Of Sororities Set For Texas Tech College Campus

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech will on a new look Saturday (Sept. 2) when rushers arrive on campus for the formal fall rush of 12 nationally affiliated social sororities. Rush Week activities begin Saturday with registration of the girls from 1 to 6 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. An open invitation to explain rush rules and regulations will be held at 7 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Parties will be divided into four groups, with pledge bids to be announced at 5 p.m. Saturday (Sept. 15) in the central rushing room in Drane Hall.

The coeds will be staying in the freshman dormitories from Sept. 8 to 15.

Period I will be Monday, with open house on campus. Period II will be Tuesday and Wednesday. Period III, Thursday; and Period IV, Friday. Parties from Period II through IV will be held in the homes of alumnae.

Officers of the Tech Panhellenic Council, who will serve as counselors during the week, are Kaye Edwards, Lubbock, president; Sue Welles, Cortez, Colo., vice president; Pat Purcell, Houston (7027 Otridge), secretary.

Others are Mary Kay Pearce of Lubbock, treasurer; Betty McFerrer, Cleburne, social activities chairman; Gay Vanderburg, Pampa, scholarship chairman; and Kaye Edwards, Lubbock, junior Panhellenic executive.

Miss Maryann Reid, assistant dean of women, is the college Panhellenic advisor.

Sororities participating in Tech Rush Week are Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Phi, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Gamma, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Mu, Pi Beta Phi, Sigma Kappa, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Some 625 rushers will participate in Rush Week.

Dear Abby.... Divorcee Told "Not All Men Are Octopi"

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is a divorced woman supposed to sit home unless she is willing to go as far as her date expects her to? I have been going with a divorced man who behaved like a perfect gentleman the first two dates. But in spite of my efforts to keep him in line I finally had to fight him off. I told him not to, call me again if that was the way he was going to act. When he called me again and asked me to go out I assumed he was coming back on my terms. Instead, after another wrestling match, he asked me why I accepted another date with him if I hadn't changed my mind. Does this mean if I want to be myself I have to sit home? Please answer as this is getting to be the story of my life.

DISILLUSIONED
DEAR DISILLUSIONED: Don't judge ALL men by the octopus you describe. Once you have told an aggressive date your limits and rules, ASK him if he is willing to stay within them — otherwise no date.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't send the man with the butterfly net after me when you read this. My husband and I have been married eight heavenly years. We have five lovely children. Our marriage is solid as a rock. We eloped and had no wedding to remember. I have always envied brides who had white church weddings and a honeymoon. Could I possibly do this now? All I want is to walk down the aisle in a wedding gown and veil, be married by a preacher, have pictures taken and go on a honeymoon. (Of course we'd take the children.) Please don't throw this away and call me silly.

STILL ON A PINK CLOUD

DEAR STILL: Why not? Do it on your anniversary. But don't wear white. Make it pale pink to match those clouds.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is impossible to live with. He's a heavy drinker, a poor provider and selfish on top of it. Don't say go to a priest. I have been to seven. And don't tell me to get him to join A.A., as he has joined eight times.

P.S. He says that people who write to you are nuts.

HAD IT
DEAR HAD IT: There is NO help for a man who refuses to help himself. And, unfortunately, it is the woman who has promised to take him for better or worse who gets the worst of it.

P.S. If people who write to me are "nuts," it's people like your husband who drive them there.

GRIP TIP
Screws will have a firmer hold in the wood if you dip them in paint or glue before you use them.

UNLOAD YOUR PROBLEM ON ABBY.
For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

FALL WHITE
There will be lots of white around for fall and winter, strange as it may sound. But it isn't the true white of summer; it's off-white, a slightly creamy shade.

LIGHT AND WARM
The bulkier and shaggier that wool coats get for fall, the less they weigh. Try on one and see. You'll be pleased. Light and warm.

Center Attendance Increases Weekly

Seventy-five Senior Citizens, visitors and four new members attended the weekly meeting of Senior Citizens on Thursday afternoon in Lovett Memorial Library.

Altrusa Club members, Mmes. F. A. Hukill, V. L. Hobbs, Louise Sewell, Evelyn Mason, Mary Martin, Jack P. Foster and Jay Flanagan, served as hostesses for the afternoon of table games and visiting.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Barbara Roop, Mrs. Ida Faulconer and Mr. P. G. Turner.

During the refreshment period, apple pie with cheese was served with coffee.

Red Cross Gray Ladies providing transportation of Senior guests to and from the Center were Mmes. A. D. Hills, Stanley Brandt, O. F. Kreimeyer.

Jay Flanagan, Altrusa Club Senior Center chairman, announces that the Sept. 6 meeting will be a party for all Citizens having birthdays during the month of September. "All Senior Citizens of the community are invited to attend," she announced.

Altar Society To Sponsor Artist In One-Woman Version Of "Camelot"

The Altar Society of St. Vincent dePaul Church will present Mollie Lee Beresford of Denver, Colo. in the musical review, "Camelot," on Friday, Sept. 14 at 8 p.m. in St. Vincent's auditorium.

Mrs. Beresford will present the Broadway musical in its original script. She will be assisted by her husband, Howard Beresford. Their major aim is to acquaint their listeners with the chief characters of the play because they are thoroughly aware they could not possibly supplant the people required for the major Broadway staging.

"Camelot" is the name of King Arthur's castle; the main characters, are King Arthur; his Queen, Guinevere and the lover and knight from France, Lancelot, who falls in love with the queen.

Reviews of Mrs. Beresford's performance report "Mollie Lee's rare skill at being many different people in the course of her play review and her singing as well as her reading, immediately enlists the imagination of her listeners so that they have their own image of the people in the play."

Members of St. Vincent's Altar Society announce that tickets are now on sale for $1.25, which is

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — At last count, the mailman had delivered 150 letters in response to two columns in which this viewer said Dick Clark's daily ABC-TV dance show deserved something less than admiration.

The majority, of course, came from the angry teen-age lobby, with a few pro-Clark parents thrown in. The anti-Clark minority included some teen-agers, parents, editors and other professional persons. In Cincinnati, the public schools' supervisor of radio-television asked for a summary of the composition of the epistles for an educational video series to help improve letter-writing.

SURVIVAL TRICK—An aquatic trick that could save your life is demonstrated by John G. Coe of Westfield, N.J. He leaps into pool, left, with trousers knotted at the cuffs held over his head. Trousers capture enough air to act as water wings and keep the swimmer afloat. Coe and other Peace Corpsmen, right, were taking Red Cross survival training near Washington, D.C., before leaving for Ethiopia duty.

In response to a number of requests, therefore, we offer, today and Tuesday, a sampling of the pro and con sentiment:

One young lady, Diane Schiager, Cheswick, Pa., ventured: "He (Clark) has faith in the teen-agers of America... he cares about them and values their opinion."

Seen As Supervisor
 A 16-year-old bride, Mrs. Wanda Sidener, Las Vegas, Nev., wrote: "Mr. Clark being intelligent knows that someone needs to supervise and advise teen-agers throughout these difficult years of life."

Terry Liberman, St. Louis, messaged: "Dick Clark has given himself to us teens... Dick is and always will be immortal because he's for us."

On the other hand, Christina Leustig, Willoughby, Ohio, wrote: "I am a teen-ager too but my time is far too valuable to spend watching such an idiotic show with such vulgar music."

Melanie Ruth Johnson, 17, of Jacksonville, Fla., said: "I don't believe for one minute that this accent or sex (in the music) isn't harmful... (those) who produce and promote this junk are playing with a deadly weapon."

And Evelyn Pellegrino, also 17, Albany, N.Y., said: "I am thoroughly disgusted with Dick Clark and all that he stands for. If he is the model my generation has picked... I am ashamed."

Could Do Worse
 As noted in a previous column, many teen-agers warned that if Clark were not on the air to distract them, they might be roaming the streets and committing heaven-knows-what evil.

Typical was Bob Specker, St. Louis: "He (Clark) helps keep kids off the street for one hour a day, but on the street they could cause trouble."

Added Linda Castro, San Francisco: "Wouldn't you rather see teen-agers dancing and having a good time than beating up and killing people?"

One newspaper which carries this column (The Tucson Daily Citizen), in an editorial, branded this type of argument by the youngsters "The 'Give Us Something To Keep Us Good' Game." And some teen-agers agreed.

Burford Taylor, Phoenix, wrote that he and his pals "do not watch the Dick Clark show... yet you will find very few of us committing acts of hooliganism." Patricia Ann Bowen, 18, Delanco, N.J., added:

"Even though I don't watch Dick Clark, I am not a juvenile delinquent, nor have I any plans to become one."

One letter worried me. Mary Ann Murray and Pat Hollenkamp, Elmhurst, Ill., warned that I had become "an enemy of Chicago-land teens." And you know how they take care of enemies in Chicago.

The Channel Swim: Jerry Lewis and Jayne Mansfield guest on the premiere of CBS-TV's "Stump The Stars" Sept. 17; regular panelists of the quiz show are Sabastian Cabot, Diana Dors, Beverly Garland, Ross Martin, Frank Gorshin and Jan Clayton; Pat Harrington Jr. is host.

ABC-TV's Vincent (Ben Casey) Edwards may make his Las Vegas debut in December or January... NBC-TV's "Show Of The Week" offers a program about the New York Fire Department's trouble shooters Sept. 30... 20th Century-Fox sold more than 600 movies to Australian television. Carol Burnett signed an exclusive long-term contract with CBS-TV, with a weekly series of possibility... Same network's "Pat and Gladys" will be rerun in daytime... CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan signed his first writer — to his performers who do not have their own acts.

MIGHTY NIAGARA—Spectacular aerial photo captures the ageless beauty of the mighty cataracts of internationally famous Niagara Falls, which continues to attract great numbers of visitors each year. New 300-foot Seagram Tower, at right rear near Horseshoe Falls, rises some 500 feet above the gorge. Visible from its observation deck on a clear day are the entire length of Niagara River, Lakes Erie and Ontario and cities of Buffalo, N.Y., and Toronto, Ont.

On The Space Language

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Not only are we behind the Russians in space travel but, it would appear, in space language as well.

Our astronauts apparently do not have the same gift for soaring dialogue that the Soviet cosmonauts have demonstrated.

Remember how amazed people were when Yuri Gagarin, the first Soviet spaceman, went into orbit? It wasn't the flight that amazed them so much as it was Gagarin's gabble.

"I am eagle, I am eagle," the cosmonaut chortled. It had an electrifying effect.

"Imagine that!" people exclaimed. "The Russians have a talking eagle."

There were, however, some skeptics. "It's not really a talking eagle," they scoffed. "Khrushchev is a ventriloquist."

Language Gap Widened

The language gap was further widened this month when cosmonauts Pavel Popovich and Andrian Nikolayev went aloft for their spectacular tandem flight.

"I am golden eagle calling falcon," Popovich prattled in the first communication ever established between two space vehicles.

Church Attendance Is Still 'Consistent' In US

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International—The belief that modern Americans do not attend church as regularly as their ancestors was challenged this week in a paper presented at the 57th annual meeting of the American Sociological Association.

Bernard Lazewitz of the University of Illinois presented a paper on "sociology of religion" at the meeting. He based his conclusions on two national surveys conducted by the survey research center of the University of Michigan.

He reported these conclusions: —Among white Protestants, third generation Americans consistently rank highest on regularity of church attendance when compared with first and second generations. There also was a tendency for the second generation to outrank the first in this respect, he said.

Differences between generations was not as important as other variables, such as church affiliation, sex and social status, in influencing church attendance.

A group of Jesuit editors has warned "our Jewish friends" that pressure to promote a favorable reaction to the Supreme Court's recent prayer ruling is leading to increased anti-Semitism in this country.

The Jesuits issued the warning in an editorial in the national Catholic weekly review, "America."

"We wonder . . . whether it is not time for provident leaders of American Judaism to ask their more militant colleagues whether what is gained through the courts by such victories is worth the breakdown of community relations which will inevitably follow them," the editorial said.

"What will have been accomplished if our Jewish friends win all the legal immunities they seek, but thereby paint themselves into a corner of social and cultural alienation?"

"The time has come for these fellow citizens of ours to decide . . . what bargain they are willing to strike as one of the minorities in a pluralistic society."

Quaker leaders have left no doubt that they would not consider it a compliment to have a new atomic missile-equipped submarine named after William Penn, according to the Christian Century.

The undenominational weekly said 12 Quaker leaders, acting on a rumor that such action might be taken, pointed out to the Pentagon that Penn's "deterrent" policy was reliance not on arms but on "good will, respect and fair dealing."

United Press International LONDON (UPI)—The Kremlin apparently continues to maintain firm control over Communist action in Berlin—while officially renouncing responsibility for the city.

Whatever the tactical moves against the West, Moscow is keeping a solid grip on East German Communist Party boss Walter Ulbricht and his aides.

The signs are that Premier Nikita Khrushchev does not want to give Ulbricht a free hand for action that could spark off a military clash with the West and erupt into World War III.

May Go To Brink

Khrushchev, the best available assessments say, may go to the brink, but he is afraid of a war which would destroy much of what Russia has achieved and possibly even communism itself.

The heightened tension in Berlin has all the markings of a major Communist probing operation into Allied strength.

Provocations and trouble fomented at the wall and elsewhere seem to be part of a calculated strategy to determine just how much the West is prepared to take and whether it can be intimidated to withdraw.

According to dispatches from Moscow from Allied diplomats, the Kremlin has been devoting much time and thought in recent weeks to the Berlin situation and the over-all German problem.

Khrushchev is believed under pressure from his East German allies, and he stands committed to a Berlin settlement, having put off his deadline repeatedly in the face of Western determination to stand fast.

A decision now seems to be ripe, and current troubles are probably the prelude to new and more significant Kremlin moves.

Significantly, Khrushchev so far has left the door open for further talks with the West, notably with President Kennedy, before taking the threatened ultimate step of concluding a peace treaty with the East German regime. The Soviets have shown every sign that they are still anxious to maintain talking contacts with the U. S.

In the past, Khrushchev has often built up tension to promote such talks and to put the West under pressure in the hope of getting concessions.

He may be using the same technique presently, although he has been made aware by the Western Allies of the fact that they remain determined to stay in Berlin, no matter what comes.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — At last count, the mailman had delivered 150 letters in response to two columns in which this viewer said Dick Clark's daily ABC-TV dance show deserved something less than admiration.

The majority, of course, came from the angry teen-age lobby, with a few pro-Clark parents thrown in. The anti-Clark minority included some teen-agers, parents, editors and other professional persons. In Cincinnati, the public schools' supervisor of radio-television asked for a summary of the composition of the epistles for an educational video series to help improve letter-writing.

In response to a number of requests, therefore, we offer, today and Tuesday, a sampling of the pro and con sentiment:

One young lady, Diane Schlager, Cheswick, Pa., ventured: "He (Clark) has faith in the teen-agers of America!...he cares about them and values their opinion."

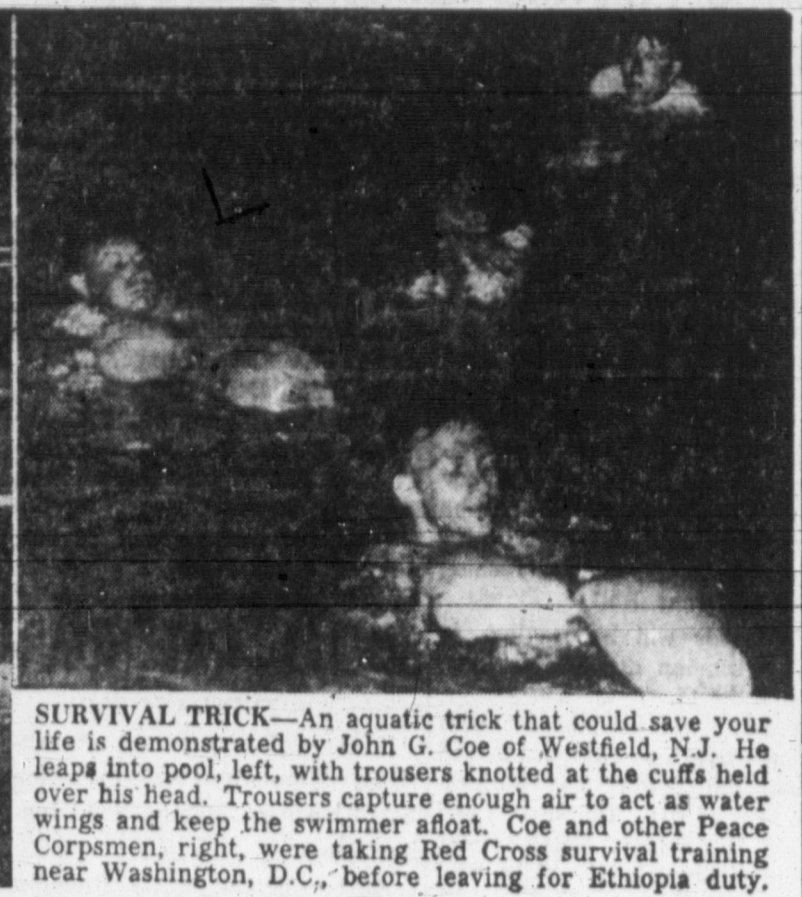

Seen As Supervisor
A 16-year-old bride, Mrs. Wanda Sidener, Las Vegas, Nev., wrote: "Mr. Clark being intelligent knows that someone needs to supervise and advise teen-agers throughout these difficult years of life."

Terry Liberman, St. Louis, messaged: "Dick Clark has given himself to us teens... Dick is and always will be immortal because he's for us."

On the other hand, Christina Leustig, Willoughby, Ohio, wrote: "I am a teen-ager too but my time is far too valuable to spend watching such an idiotic show with such vulgar music."

Melanie Ruth Johnson, 17, of Jacksonville, Fla., said: "I don't believe for one minute that this accent or sex (in the music) isn't harmful... (those) who produce and promote this junk are playing with a deadly weapon."

And Evelyn Pellegrino, also 17, Albany, N.Y., said: "I am thoroughly disgusted with Dick Clark and all that he stands for. If he is the model my

On The Space Language

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Not only are we behind the Russians in space travel but, it would appear, in space language as well.

Our astronauts apparently do not have the same gift for soaring dialogue that the Soviet cosmonauts have demonstrated.

Remember how amazed people were when Yuri Gagarin, the first Soviet spaceman, went into orbit? It wasn't the flight that amazed them so much as it was Gagarin's gabble.

"I am eagle, I am eagle," the cosmonaut chortled. It had an electrifying effect.

"Imagine that!" people exclaimed. "The Russians have a talking eagle."

There were, however, some skeptics. "It's not really a talking eagle," they scoffed. "Zhushev is a ventriloquist."

Language Gap Widened

The language gap was further widened this month when cosmonauts Pavel Popovich and Andrian Nikolayev went aloft for their spectacular tandem flight.

"I am golden eagle calling falcon," Popovich prattled in the first communication ever established between two space vehicles.

"I am falcon calling golden eagle," Nikolayev chattered.

It will be a long time before we have two astronauts who can top that exchange. Our guys seem wedded to "A-OK" and other such nonornithological terms.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Dishonest Bookkeeping

Dishonest bookkeeping is something you can expect from any agency of force. It has frequently been remarked how the government juggles the books on the various businesses it runs in such a way that it omits depreciation, interest payments and a few other items and thus makes things like the TVA look a lot better than they really are.

But when it comes to a real fast switcheroo in double-entry and double-cross, you've got to hand it to the United Nations.

This outfit can really play fast and loose with everybody's money in short order.

Remember not so long ago, President Kennedy, who seems to be quite adapted to all kinds of water sports rather than golf, got to pleading with all of us for a mere $100 million in bonds by means of which to bail the U.N. out of its own difficulties, self-created when it bit off more than it could chew in the Congo?

Someway, there was more resistance to this idea than the President had figured. So while that particular proposal was still causing some tempers to sizzle, he and his administration turned around and presented the U.N. with a paltry $215 million just to tide it over until the $100 million in bonds could be forthcoming.

But that item in the books of the U.N. caused some fancy footwork with the figures, according to the Chicago Tribune. For no sooner had this international blackmailing outfit got hold of the dollars than it turned around and cancelled some of the past - due accounts of a whole batch of small nations which hadn't been keeping up their payments.

So, the U.N. subsidized numerous members of its cartel with our money just to keep them in good standing. We learn that the bulk of those thus bailed out have a fairly consistent record of opposing our ideas in the U.N. and generally follow the world-encircling commitments of the world government king-makers in the glass menagerie.

"The total kickback," wrote the Tribune, "at the expense of the American taxpayer was $11,300,800. Thus, Castro's communist Cuba was provided with a gift of $140,800 at American expense; Poland, a Soviet satellite, with $512,000; communist Yugoslavia with $243,000; and 'neutralist' India with $140,800.

Apparently these admissions were made when Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international affairs, was asked some direct questions in the committee meeting and he unblushingly came forward with the details.

Now, the theory behind that $100 million worth of bonds is that the bonds will be redeemed by the member nations of the U.N. who, in deep gratitude for the advance made by the American taxpayers, will gird up their expense accounts and, in time, come forward with the dollars plus interest.

But what is to prevent the U.N. from voting to cancel the dues of these same nations later on? Not one thing. And the way events shape up along the East River you can fairly well count on this procedure in the future. In other words, when it came time to redeem the $100 million of bonds, it would be good old Uncle Sam who would come forward, pay the dues of the defaulting nations, thus keeping them in the menagerie, and by this process redeeming our own bonds.

Altho, this procedure may strike a few as odd, or even dishonest, we can assure our readers that it is quite ordinary. This is the precise procedure followed in this country in all government bond issues.

Money lent to our government is "secured" by what is called a bond. When the bond reaches maturity, the lender is paid back. But in the meanwhile, since the government has spent the money, it has no way of getting its hands on the dollars by means of which repayment can occur except by borrowing more money or by taxing the people.

Thus, the lender, who is himself a taxpayer, will find himself called upon to help redeem his own bonds.

It's a dandy system if you happen to be in the government. It's a type of fraud if you're not.

Federal Payola

Webster defines a bribe as a price, reward, gift or favor, bestowed or promised with a view to pervert the judgment or corrupt the conduct of a person in a position of trust. Also, bribe is defined as that which seduces, seduction; allurement.

There can be no doubt as to the fact that bribery has an unpleasant connotation. For example, we look at the now infamous Billie Sol Estes scandal and we ask ourselves just how much bribery, if any, occurred in the obtaining of so many favors by the young Texan, and in the implications of complicity stemming from this investigation.

This is the kind of thing we normally expect to find whenever the word bribery is mentioned. We expect to find instances wherein men outside of government purchase government favors in one way or another. And of necessity, we then expect to find persons in government who are susceptible to things of this sort.

Most of us have long considered the offering or the accepting of a bribe as equally culpable.

But there is a new kind of corruption notable these days and one does not know whether to call it bribery or not. In a sense it isn't bribery. Yet, in another sense it is.

This is the kind of event which results in the withholding of government favor until some person or group of persons does what the government tells it to do. Or, conversely, it is the granting of some kind of government favor or benefaction because some person or group does what the government wants done.

This is not a case in which some person in government is corrupted by a bribe. It is a case in which the government, itself, exerts the pressure, and demands the performance, for a price.

Here's what we mean:

Recently Representative Samuel Stratton of Schenectady, who is running for the governorship of New York, said that the federal government ought to cancel any defense contracts scheduled for Albany, Georgia, until such time as that city accepted integration.

Not that it will be acted upon. But the suggestion follows the line of thought we have been considering.

How many times in the past has some contract gone to some company because the management of that company cooperated fully with some scheme the government wished to invoke?

And what does one call the recent instance where U. S. Steel decided to raise its prices and the President retaliated immediately by invoking an investigation and cancelling government orders, not only to U. S. Steel but to other steel firms which took the same position?

The suggestion has been made more than once that the entire welfare program in the United States is little more than public bribery. Recipients of "free" government handouts can be counted on (usually) to vote the way the party which granted them their goodies wants them to vote.

Is this bribery? Or do we need some other word to indicate the nature of this offense?

At the moment, Congress is considering a bill which would grant to the president of the United States a plenipotentiary authority

Flashback: Unostentatious and man-of-the-people that he was, Abraham Lincoln was the first President of the United States for whom a private railway car was built. It was bulletproof (prophetic?) and constructed with an unusually lofty ceiling to accommodate Abe's uncommon height. But he never used it during his lifetime. However, the private car conveyed his remains from Washington to the final resting place in Illinois.

A recent poll of around 100 top Washington newsmen found them unusually enthusiastic in designating Defense Secretary Robert McNamara as the "exceptional" Cabinet member, with 69 votes. Secretary of State Dean Rusk polled 35 "exceptional" ballots, and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy 29. As to President Kennedy himself, the score was: exceptional, 34; average, 23; fair, 24; poor, 6. He's regarded as lowly to most of us, but the common toad is worth its weight in gold for killing pests on farms.

The notion that vegetarians are less likely to develop cancer than meat eating persons has no supporting medical evidence, the A.M.A. Journal reports. to allot about $900 million of public works money wherever he thinks it should be allotted.

Is it possible that the president might, in a moment of pique, withhold this money from some area which had affronted him and bestow it openhandedly where a group of "yes-men" smiled and fawned on him?

And take the other equally odd proposal that the president ought to be given the power to raise or lower taxes on the basis of his own judgment in order to stimulate business. Do we honestly suppose that in such a case the president might lower the taxes of the drug industry, no matter how hard pressed it might be and then raise the taxes of those firms which have notoriously gone along with every federal program, suggestion or intimation?

If this isn't bribery, or a search for the power to legalize bribery, at least it is a gross instance of political favoritism.

And the temper of the American people seems to be such that instead of protesting this disregard for morality, it jockeys around in an effort to be cut in on the next slice of federal payola.

It's Up To You

by HOWARD KERSHNER L. H. D.

Four years after the close of World War II, we had $24.7 billion in gold. At that time, foreign claims against this gold amounted to only $7.5 billion.

During most of the fifties, our reserve was roughly about $22 billion. With the coming of the New Frontier, it declined rapidly and now stands at $16.2 billion. That would not be so bad if foreign claims against our gold had not gone up like a rocket to about $25 billion.

By law, $1.5 billion is required to protect our own currency. This leaves less than $5 billion with which to meet foreign claims, more than five times larger.

Stark tragedy is staring us in the face and not only us, but the whole free world. The dollar is the medium of world trade and if, at any time, we cannot meet our international dollar obligations in gold, chaos in the world's commerce and in the monetary systems of the free countries would inevitably result. Most nations carry a large part of their reserves in dollars. If gold is not available to them as needed, their monetary systems will collapse.

If our country is obliged to declare a moratorium on gold or if we devalue the dollar, the disastrous effect on our economy and our monetary system as well as of those of the other Western countries would be catastrophic.

Nevertheless, nothing of consequence is being done to avert this tragedy. A rise in interest rates attracting funds to our country would help, but the central fact in our continued loss of gold is our foreign aid program which for many years has been beyond our resources. Aside from the fact that much of this aid is going to our enemies, it is bringing us dangerously near to bankruptcy in an international sense with the incalculable loss in prestige and economic strength that would mean for ourselves and the whole free world.

The gold standard is the only known way of curbing the spending proclivities of a government. It is the one means that citizens of a self-governing country have of protecting themselves.

Gold is the one commodity that is acceptable everywhere in the world in payment of any claim. It is the only means any country has of maintaining its international solvency. To conserve it, accumulate it and produce more of it is a prime obligation, not only for maintaining our prestige and leadership throughout the world, but for increasing our ability to be economically helpful to the people of other countries. A bankrupt United States can do little for Latin America, Asia, Africa or Europe, but a strong America continuing to point the way to industrial expansion with a strong dollar which other countries can use with confidence for their reserves and invite into their country for the building up of local industry, is of inestimable value to free peoples everywhere. Electronic Jamming Equipment Arrives in Cuba Soviet Threat to Canal, Caribbean, Guantanamo?

WASHINGTON — Soviet technicians have begun installing "electronic counter equipment" in Cuba that can be used to interfere with U.S. missiles launched from our major test center at Cape Canaveral, Florida.

This new type of Russian equipment, capable of jamming or tracking rockets fired down the southern Atlantic ocean test range, arrived aboard 10 of the 26 Soviet ships that already have unloaded their military cargo at Cuban ports.

This ominous threat is the reason behind President Kennedy's decision to send General Maxwell Taylor, his chief military representative, on a special mission to the Caribbean.

General Taylor, the next chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is under direct orders from the President "to learn the full significance of these Soviet military shipments."

Also, he has been assigned to determine the immediate threat to U.S. security if this sensitive equipment is used against aircraft flying from our naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

One reliable intelligence estimate sent to the President indicates that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has given the green light to his military leaders to use Cuba as a testing ground for their newest jamming devices.

In effect, the Soviet leader is ready to risk U.S. counter measures by making the air and sea approaches to Cuba "another Spain."

This alarming possibility is based on information from refugees just out of Cuba. They report that the Soviets have sent more than ten times the "electronic counter equipment" needed for Cuba's defenses.

The most sensitive of this jamming equipment is expected to be used to disrupt our plans to beat the Soviets to the moon. This kind of interference is clearly possible since all major missile launchings for the moon project will be from Cape Canaveral.

Also, several hundred of the highly-trained Soviet bloc experts that landed with the equipment are building a satellite tracking station in Cuba.

This Soviet station—the first of its kind outside of Russia—is being designed to guide manned Soviet spacecraft as well as track U.S. missile and satellite launchings.

IMMEDIATE THREAT — The Joint Chiefs of Staff, while concerned about this potential missile interference, warn that the first operational use of the Soviet "ECE" will be an attempt to establish air control over the Caribbean for Castro's growing jet air force.

The jamming devices will be used to interfere with U.S. aircraft guidance control and, indeed, it is the best hope of those who languish behind the Iron Curtain that some day they too may be liberated from the Communist tyrants who exploit them.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If the situation in the Congo doesn't go from worse to terrible, it won't be the fault of the United States Agency for International Development. They're trying.

AID's international training division has brought 10 per cent of the Congolese parliament to this country for a three week's course in how (not) to run their government.

Things in Leopoldville, capital of the Congo central government, haven't been doing too well as you've probably read. Whether they're any better over here is debatable. Anyway, the eight Congolese senators and the 12 deputies are here to judge and to learn how to really gum up their government by practicing United States political tricks.

The schedule allows the Congolese parliamentarians one week in Washington, D.C., to learn how to run a national government. This should be ample to find out what's wrong.

The visitors will then be confused by jetting clear across the country to the other Washington, where Gov. Albert Rosellini will take a couple of hours off to explain how to run a state government.

After that, the party will spend a couple of days in Seattle, learning how to run a world's fair. You can't run a country successfully without a world's fair, of course.

Then the group will take a long ride on a train to Greeley, Colo., where they'll spend a weekend in American farm homes. And, if these good farmers don't tell the Congolese how Washington, D.C., is ruining the country, they won't be typical American citizens.

It is the Washington, D.C. part of this grand tour that will be of most interest to the Congo senators and deputies, learning how the United States Congress doesn't work.

Though this is near the end of the session and there's a lot of unfinished business, the House of Representatives has decided "To heck with it," and gone on a 10-day vacation to campaign for reelection.

This is the first lesson the Congolese must learn: Never put official business ahead of playing politics.

As for the Senate, it's too bad the filibuster against the communications satellite bill is over. It should have been extended another week just to show how lawmakers can stop progress without even going home.

The Congolese will no doubt observe that the Senate usually functions with only a handful of its members on the floor at a given time, and that nobody pays any attention to whom-ever is speaking. Developing countries have to learn how to do these things early, if they're to succeed.

The American system of political parties must also be mastered by the Congolese. They must learn the difference between the Ins and the Outs, the Democrats and the Republicans, the conservatives and the liberals, with some Democratic "Ins" being more conservative than most Republican "Outs," or vice versa as the case may be.

Fundamentally, the United States and the Congo aren't so different on this score. This country has its southern conservatives and the Congo has its southern conservatives in President

The Nation's Press

RED CHINA & THE U. N.

Lennox (S. D.) Independent

It is surprising how little publicity is afforded certain of today's significant happenings by the big daily press. We have in this country (and in South Dakota) chapters of an organization known as the American Association for the United Nations. Just what is their main function is questionable but it seems that they strive to build up the "image" of the UN as our "last great hope for peace," and convince us that any declaration by those supporting the UN and its policies is unquestionably right. Little space, however, was given to a recent report issued by the American Association for the United Nations calling for a UN seat for Red China, or the criticism of the report, by Senator George Smathers which followed. The report, was signed by Eleanor Roosevelt and U.S.-appointed UN official Frank P. Graham. It seems the liberal press found it less embarrassing to ignore the whole thing as much as possible than to pit Eleanor against the democratic senator from Florida on this point. We have a hunch the ex-first lady would come out second best in a public poll on this particular issue. Just who are these UN delegates of ours representing? Is it the United States—the American people, or some clique of their own?
