US Aerial Might In South Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The North American Air Defense Command acknowledged today that there has been a considerable buildup in jet fighter strength and radar surveillance in the South-eastern states since the Cuban crisis began Oct. 22.

A NORAD news service bulletin said "Continental Air Defense deployed some of its tactical units to Southeastern U. S. bases to strengthen air defense there, and increased radar surveillance to the South."

The bulletin, published at Colorado Springs, Colo., added that "many jet fighters were dispersed to small bases, including municipal airports, to lessen the danger of an entire force being knocked out with one blow in event of an attack."

Some details of the Southern buildup, including emplacement of anti-aircraft missiles and additional radar, have been reported from observation. But the Pentagon has kept a tight lid on official news concerning combat and surveillance unit movements since the outbreak of the crisis.

The bulletin also listed several hundred planes and missiles, and 30 radar squadrons, which were available to protect the South before the buildup began.

These forces now are in the spotlight because of the 39 IL28 bombers the Soviets are known to have delivered to Cuba. Premier Fidel Castro claims that unlike the missiles which were removed, the bombers belong to Cuba.

The bulletin said Gen. John K. Gerhart, North American air defense commander, has sent an all-command message especially praising units that are "under the gun" in the 32nd region, which includes 13 states from New Mexico to South Carolina.

TFB Nixes Referendum

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — For the first time in the 29 years of the Texas Farm Bureau, the organization voted Wednesday night to oppose a referendum on a government commodity program.

The TFB voted to try to defeat any referendums called on a certificate plan for wheat.

No spokesman among the 761 voting delegates favored the Kennedy administration's wheat plan for 1964 which Congress passed.

Delegates elected C. H. DeVaney of Coahoma the new president of the 8,600-member TFB. DeVaney succeeds J. H. West of Bishop, J. T. Woodson of Guber was elected vice president and Edwin Sanderson Jr. of Paris was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Six men whose terms had expired as members of the board received votes of approval for a new term. They were DeVaney, Woodson, Sidney Dean of Victoria, H. L. King of Brownfield and C. B. Kendrue of Martin. West also was named to a new term.

Indian Troops Launch Strongest Attack Yet

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Indian troops have launched their strongest attack against the Communist Chinese since the Reds started their invasion in force on Oct. 20, it was announced officially today.

An Indian spokesman said the attack was made by a "strong patrol" against a Chinese position northwest of Walong in the eastern portion of the North East Frontier Agency near the Burma border.

He said the fighting still was going on when latest reports were received Wednesday night.

"In the Lohit division of the NEFA, our troops Wednesday launched an attack on one of the Chinese-held positions a few miles northwest of Walong," the spokesman said. "When reports last came in, fighting was still going on."

In the western portion of the NEFA near Chinese-held Towang, the spokesman said that a small Indian patrol raided a village held by the Chinese aggressors a few miles from Jang village and, in a clash, killed some Chinese soldiers and returned to base without loss to themselves.

Earlier this week Premier Minister Jawaharlal Nehru disclosed that the Russians had given assurances they would carry out agreements to supply India with MIG jet fighters and a plant to make them.

Nehru told parliament Wednesday that the Soviet attitude has been "consistently friendly."

"They have been put in a difficult position because they are an ally of (Red) China," Nehru said. "We don't expect them to break that alliance. But we have their good wishes, even recently, and that is a consolation to us."

Turkey is the only other non-Communist nation to maintain a consulate in the Soviet Union. It is located at Batumi on the Black Sea.

Stern Warning Given To Reds About Jet Bombers

Freighter Is Abandoned In Atlantic After Blaze

NEW YORK (UPI) — The captain and 24-man crew of the SS Captain George abandoned ship today in the stormy Atlantic after the explosives-laden Greek freighter caught fire.

The Coast Guard here said the Liberian tanker Virginia radioed that it was alongside the Captain George and would take the crew aboard.

The Coast Guard said the seas at the scene 300 miles northeast of Bermuda were running up to 30 feet and that gale force winds, 40-50 miles per hour, hampered the operation.

Another in Trouble — The Coast Guard also reported that the cutter Mendota was speeding to aid another ship, the 65-foot schooner Curlew, 90 miles northwest of Bermuda, after the Curlew reported it was taking on water. The Curlew radioed that the six persons on board were "temporarily abandoning" in a 20-man life raft.

Explosive Cargo — The Captain George, bearing an arsenal of explosives, sent out a distress call Wednesday night after being rocked by a fire-igniting explosion.

The freighter was bound for Port Said in the United-Arab Republic.

In addition to a cargo of highly volatile sulphur taken on at New Orleans, the Coast Guard said the ship also had picked up a low grade explosive, nitro-carbon nitrate, at the Louisiana port and

Senator Speaks At Meeting Of Knife, Fork Club

The Hon. Gale McGee, U.S. senator from Wyoming, spoke at the Top O' Texas Knife and Fork Club dinner in Robert E. Lee Junior High School Cafeteria Tuesday night.

The heart of the senator's speech on foreign affairs dealt with some of the considerations in dealing with foreign countries.

He explained how some of the foreign countries differ in their thinking, customs, and economical status from the United States.

Dr. McGee, who has spoken to 104 cities in Texas during his career, is scheduled to leave for the Far East this Sunday. He will go to many of the trouble spots in the world such as Guam, Laos, and other Asian countries.

The senator returned from Cuba recently.

As a member of the Senate appropriations committee, Dr. McGee checks into how our money is spent for military defense and on other phases of government spending.

Senator McGee enjoys the reputation as being one of the best versed men in Washington on current problems in Asia, Europe, Africa and South America.

The senator, known in Washington circles as a "trouble shooter" for the nation, and right-hand man for the administration, was introduced to dinner guests by County Attorney Don Cain.

Recognized as an outstanding speaker, Dr. McGee proved to be popular with the Pampanos because of his analytical and practical approach to foreign affairs.

Drawing from his rich background of history and his visits to Russia as well as to other foreign countries, Dr. McGee gave a penetrating "down-to-earth" appraisal of Russia's international policy and its impact on our standards of living.

Born in Nebraska, the senator and former educator received his degrees from Nebraska State Teachers' College, the University of Colorado, and the University of Chicago. He was Assistant Professor of History at the University of Wyoming and held this position when he was elected to the United States Senate.

biotic program when it was inaugurated.

Some officials thought Kennedy ruled out consideration of Shriver because of his concern over possible charges of nepotism. Other sources said, however, that Shriver wanted to stay with the Peace Corps for at least another year and then get into politics in his home state of Illinois.

DisSalle Not Considered — The administration obviously owes political favors to some lame ducks from the recent elections who might conceivably be considered for the post. One of these is Michael V. DiSalle, who was defeated in his bid for reelection as governor of Ohio. But so far as could be determined today he was not being considered. The general impression in offi-

Oil Allowable At 8 Days For December

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Railroad Commission set Texas to a record low of oil production today for the year today, keeping December oil allowable on an eight-day production pattern.

On an eight-day pattern, Texas' estimated production would amount to 2,717,834 barrels daily for December, down 49,156 barrels from the November allowable because of the change from a 30 to a 31-day month.

The eight-day production for December will make a total of $1 producing days in Texas for the year, the lowest on record. The previous low was 181 days in 1961.

The eight-day pattern agreed with a majority of oil producers who made nominations at today's hearing. Eight producers asked for the eight-day allowable and three requested a seven-day production pattern.

The commission was at full strength for the first time in months today with the return of commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, one of the outstanding men of Texas' oil history.

Direct communications between Washington and Moscow were undertaken to reinforce the position being taken by U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson in his talks in New York with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov, officials said.

Diplomatic sources said Kennedy told West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer during their talks here Wednesday on the Cuban situation that he was hopeful Khrushchev soon would agree to take the bombers out of Cuba but had no firm assurance as yet.

Sources Confirm Response — This also was the response early today from government sources when asked about a report that Kennedy had received a message from Khrushchev defining (See AIRCRAFT, Page 3)

Those who can locate their permanent record cards will simply present them to be marked and returned to them when taking Type II vaccine, according to Melvin Jayroe, chairman of the project for the Jaycees. Others should fill out a "pre-registration" form, available at local stores, before going to one of the "vaccine stations."

The sponsors of the Sabin oral polio vaccine emphasize that there will be no makeup for those missing the second part of the inoculation.

Part III of the Sabin polio vaccine project will be held in January.

A small donation is needed to make the project a success. The Sabin vaccine costs approximately 25 cents a dosage to administer. Type II vaccine will be given.

Several local volunteers are slated to give help to the project. The volunteers helping with the Part I were doctors, pharmacists, nurses, student nurses, Boy Scouts, Pampa Police Dept., Gray Ladies, Jaycees, Jaycee - Eltes and others.

President Optimistic On Early Removal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy was reported today to be somewhat optimistic that his stern warnings to Moscow would lead to early removal of Soviet IL28 jet bombers from Cuba.

Administration officials said there were indications Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was convinced of the President's firmness on the issue. They said, however, that no definite assurances had yet been received from Khrushchev on the removal.

Kennedy was understood within the past 48 hours to have sent word to the Soviet leader that the plane issue could not be permitted to drag on indefinitely.

He told Khrushchev that until Russia agreed to remove the approximately 30 nuclear-capable bombers, there could be no consideration of easing the American quarantine or giving any assurances against a U.S. invasion of Cuba.

No Deadlines Given — According to government sources, Kennedy did not give Khrushchev any specific deadline for pulling out the bombers but made it clear the United States would not permit the Kremlin to stall too long before firmer measures were taken.

Implication in the U.S. warning, although not actually put in the form of a threat, was the intention to tighten the blockade unless the issue is resolved. Officials said one step would be cutting off petroleum supplies to the Castro regime.

Highly reliable sources said, however, that the proposals do exist in detailed form.

They said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov and Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga brought them in written form to Thant during their first joint conference with him Tuesday.

While they would disclose no particulars, these sources said the proposals comprised several pages and set out details of the Communist plan for ending the crisis.

The mystery was why the Cubans and Russians asked Thant not to relay the proposals to the United States or why Kuznetsov did not give them to U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and his aides in a long conference at the U.S. mission Tuesday night.

Type II Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine To Be Given During Project Sunday

Pampa and Gray County residents will receive the second inoculation of the Sabin oral polio vaccine this Sunday between the hours of 12 noon and 6 p. m. No makeup date is anticipated for those who miss their second dosage.

Nearly 20,000 Gray County residents participated in the first part of the Sabin oral polio vaccine project held on Oct. 7.

The locations for receiving the dosage will be the same for Sunday's Part Two program as were used in Part One. The locations are the following schools in Pampa — Horace Mann, Stephen F. Austin, Carver, Lamar, William B. Travis, and Baker. Inoculation centers will also be set up in Lefors and McLean.

A small donation is needed to make the project a success. The Sabin vaccine costs approximately 25 cents a dosage to administer. Type II vaccine will be given.

JFK To Name New Foreign Aid Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials said today they expected President Kennedy to name a successor to Fowler Hamilton as head of the foreign aid agency within the next few days, probably this weekend.

The President is under some pressure to make an early selection because Hamilton, whose resignation was officially announced Tuesday, is extremely anxious to be relieved of his duties as soon as possible.

Speculation in administration circles concerning Hamilton's successor so far has centered chiefly on two men. These are Budget Director David Bell and Disarmament Agency Director William C. Foster.

Gaud Considered Likely — If the President should decide to select the new head of the Agency for International Development (AID) from among those already in the organization, the most likely choice was considered to be William S. Gaud, assistant administrator for Near Eastern and South Asian regions. Gaud stands in well at the White House and is said to be a particular friend of the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The White House has denied reports that the President's brother-in-law Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, was being considered to head the AID agency.

Shriver had appeared to be a logical choice to many in official circles because of his success in handling the Peace Corps, which had been considered a rather du-

Deep Secrecy Surrounds Joint Red Proposals

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Deep secrecy today surrounded joint proposals by Cuba and Russia submitted to Acting Secretary General Thant for ending the Cuban crisis.

Press Officer Lincoln White said in Washington that the State Department knew of no Cuban-Soviet proposals submitted for ending the crisis. U.S. delegation spokesmen here were similarly in the dark.

A U.N. spokesman said Thant was "not authorized" to transmit the proposals to the United States "at this time."

Highly reliable sources said, however, that the proposals do exist in detailed form.

They said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov and Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga brought them in written form to Thant during their first joint conference with him Tuesday.

Celanese

(Continued From Page 1) marking its tenth anniversary of operation and also celebrating the fact that on Oct. 3 this year, the plant reached 3-million man hours without a lost time injury among its employes.

Herschel V. Wilks, plant manager, points out that this represents a work period of more than five years or approximately 1,800 days that not a single employe suffered a disabling injury.

During that period of time, Wilson Puryear, chief safety and fire inspector, has been involved on a day-to-day basis with the protection of personnel and plant facilities.

Celanese came to Pampa in 1932 and at the opening had 153 employes and two products. Today Celanese has more than 250 employes and turns out more than a dozen chemical products which go to all parts of the world.

The Pampa plant, incidentally, is the world's largest producer of acetic acid, as well as one of the largest producers of acrylate esters.

In connection with the safety record established by Celanese employes and the firm's 10th anniversary observance, all employes will have an opportunity to show the plant to their families on Saturday of this week between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Coffee, soft drinks and cookies will be served to the guests in Pamel Hall at the plant. Each employe will be permitted to bring school age children to the plant and for those with children from three to six years old, color cartoons will be shown in the Hall while the older members of the family are taking the tour.

Banquet

Farm-City Week observance this year has reversed the tables. For many years in the past the farmers and ranchers have been guests of various civic clubs at an annual get-together.

"It was decided this year that the farmers and ranchers would do the hosting," Carruth said.

Officials said the Russians now admit that the bombers are still under their control and have not, as Cuban authorities claim, already been transferred to Fidel Castro's regime.

These officials indicated that there had been reassurances on this point in Khrushchev's replies to the White House, along with promises that the bombers would not be put into operation while negotiations were being held.

Officials said U.S. air reconnaissance showed that a number of the bombers were still in their crates and none had yet been fully assembled to the point where it quickly could become operational.

One Of The Tragedies Of American Politics

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is a theory around the White House that the technique of using recorded calls of distressed birds to frighten away starlings might be adapted to politics.

Explorers of this idea reason that a recording of Richard M. Nixon's recent farewell to politics in which he pictured reporters and newspapers so blackly should be required listening for all who may be thinking of running for high office.

When a major league candidate loses twice in a row, he invariably sends out distress calls of the most heart-rending nature. Such cries have been known to last for years.

A beating at the polls does something to the judgment of even the most sure-footed office-seeker. For example, in the drubbing he took at the hands of Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952, Adlai E. Stevenson spoke darkly of being opposed by the "one-party" press.

Stevenson wasn't particularly grumpy about it, but still he drew a picture of being virtually alone in the frightening world of printed media. The reporters liked him, but their editors didn't.

In the space of comparatively few years, former Vice President Nixon would have us believe that the entire scene has shifted and the newspapers with very few exceptions are all on the other side of the political fence.

Exceedingly few newspapers have changed their basic editorial stance on politics since 1952. Understandably, it seems otherwise to a defeated candidate.

Understandably, too, a winning candidate, no matter how grievously gored by the press during a campaign, seldom raises his voice in public complaint once he sees himself counted into the victory column.

For example, after the 1952 and 1956 campaigns in which Nixon as vice presidential nominee shared the victory with Eisenhower, there may have been some sotto voce grumbling about the press. Outwardly, however, the world couldn't have been brighter for Nixon.

Certainly no figure in politics during the Eisenhower years received more glamorous and heroic reporting than Nixon when he toured Russia and South America. Yet, the bountiful harvest of glowing clippings from those years withered and yellowed in the unkindly light of 1950 and 1952.

This is one of the tragedies of American politics. Men chase a golden gleam and when it eludes them, their discontent beclouds their eyes with murky anger which sometimes takes years to clear.

DETROIT — Poet Robert Frost commenting on his recent conversation with Soviet Premier Khrushchev:

"I got in a lot of trouble for calling him a ruffian. Maybe I should have said he's rough and ready. But I think he's in a coming mood. He's inclined our way. We ought to take advantage of it down there in Washington."

LIFESAVER—If this revolutionary idea proves successful, there need never be another great sea disaster like the sinking of the Titanic. Coast Guard divers in Chesapeake Bay test a new lifesaving device which combines a catalyst and a resin in a portable generator to form urethane foam. Shot into a cloth form, the foam expands 30 times into airtight bubbles which quickly solidify into a rigid structure. A proposed use is to create large rescue platforms in the water alongside a sinking ship, to support survivors.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Up The Hill And Down:

Western diplomats in Paris do not believe Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will stage a major crisis over Berlin in the near future. They argue that his retreat from Cuba indicates he is not ready for a thermonuclear showdown with the United States and that there would be no sense in his going to the brink and having to retreat again.

Political Winds:

French Information Minister Christian Fouchet is tipped as France's next prime minister if Georges Pompidou fails to make Fouchet highly regarded by President Charles de Gaulle and increased his standing considerably as French high commissioner in Algeria just before independence.

Out Of Touch:

The West German government sent a memorandum to Moscow last February but still has not received a reply. Since that time diplomatic contact between the two countries has been nonexistent. The Germans now are expected to press for a reopening of diplomatic exchanges on the German issue. Man entrusted with the job is Bonn's new ambassador to the Soviet Union, host Groeper, who will see Khrushchev in the near future.

Tiger Back To His Den:

Reliable sources in Tokyo say American diplomatic officials have convinced South Korean military rulers that it would be a good idea for them to permit the return of former President Syngman Rhee. They have pointed out that it would be a good public relations move so far as American public opinion is concerned because Rhee still is remembered by many Americans more for his strong anti-Communist stand than for his misrule. They have pointed out also that Rhee is so feeble he scarcely could cause any trouble. The key men in the military junta in Seoul apparently touched by the aged Rhee's remark that "even a tiger wants to return to his den to die"—are said to feel now that Rhee should be permitted to return if he is up to making the long trip from Honolulu.

Stuck In The Mud:

The slow pace of Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal's five-year economic program is threatening to take the bloom off his personal popularity, which still remains high as he rounds out his first year in office. The program is much needed but the administration has seemed slow to spell out hard, detailed projects acceptable to international financial institutions. The Philippines failed to take advantage of any of the $50 million made available to it for 1962 by the U. S. Agency for International Development.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—L.O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. says that the recent recovery has been sparked by professionals and the speculative public — not by the conservative investors.

The institutional people now are much more interested in buying, but they would like to buy on a setback. It is too early to do much guessing about the new "vogue" but it is improbable that they will be a carbon copy of the old ones, Hooper believes.

Thus far, there seems to be more willingness to speculate, but this may reflect the acknowledged fact that most of the institutions and quasi-institutions completely "missed the market" on this rally.

The market's recovery has been sharp, violent and professional in character and is still subject to rapid change on news developments, says the Alexander Hamilton Institute, The institute warns it would be very cautious in making new commitments.

Martin Gilbert, of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. says it seems likely that an upward penetration will be witnessed which will carry the Dow-Jones industrial average to approximately the 640 area of this index.

Blind optimism is as wrong now as excessive pessimism was in May and June. Realism justifies a liberally invested position in seasoned securities rather than untested glamour stocks or new issues, says International Statistical Bureau, Inc.

Investors Research Co., the West Coast advisory service, insists that the strength in this November market is real and that the recovery has been a mass movement in the whole market and not strictly centered on speculative favorites.

Walt McKibben, editor of Investographs Stock Survey, says that on a technical basis there are no clear stock market signals and little basis for definite advice — but from a fundamental viewpoint he continues to believe that the market as a whole is cheap.

Prepare Now For Turkey Dinner

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Allow plenty of time to check out the details of Thanksgiving dinner, especially if this is the first gala feast of the season at your house. You may be out of practice after a long summer lay-off and last-minute emergencies can ruin a hostess' clam.

I mention this with conviction, having made most of the mistakes possible from miscalculating how long it takes to roast a turkey to having more guests than chairs!

Review table appointments at least a week in advance. Party table cloths and napkins may need pressing or they may need laundering. Holiday platters and serving dishes may need to be washed or polished.

Are there enough plates, cups and saucers and glasses or will replacements be required? Will you need any special dishes, such as sherbet glasses, which you don't have? Pretty and inexpensive sherbet glasses or glass dessert plates (to piece out china place settings) are easy to find but not on Thanksgiving morning.

Do you have small ash trays for the table? Can you put your hands on the extra leaves for the dining table? Count up the chairs you'll need and if some must be rented or borrowed, make arrangements.

The cost of a holiday dinner is less of a jolt to the budget if the fancy foods are purchased a few at a time. Slowly, I build up the stock of nuts, olives, pickles and candies I expect to use. Because I'm apt to forget to put all the goodies on the table, a detailed menu posted within sight (on the refrigerator door for example) is a helpful reminder.

Most of us like to arrange the decorations. Assemble the materials beforehand and plan something simple. A colorful, appropriate centerpiece is the one shown on the table in the photograph. A small pumpkin is halved out and a glass of water set inside to hold bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and trailing green ivy. The cloth is green linen.

Picking up autumnal colors and foliage pattern is the random design of realistic gold oak, maple, and ash leaves on the water goblets and glasses.

The hostess should ask a male guest to be the "mixmaster," if the man of the house is not present.

Traditional Thanksgiving dinner deserves a festive table setting such as this one, bright with autumn colors: Orange pumpkin filled with chrysanthemums, golden foliage on glassware and ivory china set against a soft green cloth.

Hearty Food For Lusty Appetites

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Our Scandinavian friends across the sea have lusty appetites. On a recent visit to that hospitable part of the world we enjoyed these two meat dishes. But in translating them into American "convenience foods" easy recipes, we are using a new hearty beef soup mix which we enjoyed in Zurich, Switzerland.

BEEF RAGOUT
(Makes 6 servings)
2 pounds beef top round steak
3 tablespoons margarine
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 envelope hearty beef soup mix
2 cups water

Bring to boil; reduce heat, add meat and simmer 5 minutes.

BEEF CAKES WITH ONIONS
(Makes 6 servings)
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
2 tablespoons corn oil
2 medium onions, sliced
1 envelope hearty beef soup mix
2 cups water

Shape beef into 6 patties. Heat corn oil in skillet; add meat and cook over medium heat, turning once, until browned on both sides. Remove meat from skillet and keep warm. Add onions to oil mixture in skillet and cook over low heat, turning frequently, until golden. Mix in soup mix then water. Bring to boil; reduce heat, add meat and simmer 5 minutes.

TROPICAL STUFFING
(Makes about 3 cups stuffing)
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
3/4 cups soft bread crumbs, firmly packed
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 1/2 cups diced bananas
(3 large or 6 medium bananas)
1/2 cup butter or margarine (melted)

Mix together lightly: onion, bread crumbs, salt, poultry seasoning and diced bananas. Add melted butter or margarine. Mix thoroughly.

Bird Yields Encores

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A large-breasted 15-pound or more turkey is an economical buy for the family Thanksgiving dinner. There are bound to be some delicious nuggets of meat left for the second or third day after the feast of thanks.

Served cold in tempting slices, cubed in well-seasoned casseroles or used in elegant club sandwiches together with ham and cheese, the Thanksgiving bird can give several delicious encores.

Note: There is an excellent new canned condensed turkey and vegetable soup on the market. Just heat and add diced or minced pieces of leftover turkey for extra enjoyment.

THANKSGIVING bird can provide a number of delicious encores such as these club sandwiches with ham and cheese.

CLUB SANDWICH
(Makes 1 sandwich)
3 slices buttered toast
2 thin slices turkey
1 slice crisp-cooked bacon
Crisp shredded lettuce
Mayonnaise
1 thin slice Swiss cheese
Prepared mustard
2 slices tomato
Radish rose

Between 2 slices of toast, tuck turkey, bacon, lettuce and mayonnaise. Top this sandwich with ham and cheese, spread with tart. Cap with third piece of bread. Cut off crusts. Cut 2-layered sandwich into 4 small triangles. Hold each together with a wooden pick. Arrange on serving plate. Garnish with tomato slices, olives and a radish rose.

TURKEY SCALLOP
(4 servings)
1 cup diced celery
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
3/4 cups of 1/2-inch toasted bread cubes
1 envelope white sauce mix
1 cup milk
1 cup leftover turkey gravy
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 cups diced cooked turkey

Cook celery and onions in water about 10 minutes. Toss bread cubes in melted butter. Prepare white sauce as directed on envelope, using the cup of milk. Combine sauce with turkey gravy, poultry seasoning, cooked celery-onion mixture, and turkey. Arrange half the cubes in bottom of an oiled 1 1/2-quart casserole. Add turkey mixture. Sprinkle remaining cubes over top. Bake in a 350 degrees F. oven about 30 minutes.

Eat Nutritious Peanut Butter

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My children eat lots of peanut butter. Has it any important food value?

A—Yes. Peanut butter is highly nutritious. The U.S. Department of Agriculture in its analysis of 751 commonly consumed foods ranks peanut butter near the top of all foods in at least six nutritional categories: food energy, fats necessary to maintain body balance, phosphorus, thiamine, niacin and especially protein. It is over 26 per cent protein.

Q—Will a low-salt diet help me lose weight?

A—No. There are no calories in salt. However, a decrease in use of salt often results in a loss of body weight, but only because less water will be retained in the body tissues. But that has nothing to do with losing body fat.

Water Rights II

The conflicts between Federal and State sovereignty over water rights in the Western States have in recent years grown more frequent and more serious. A few weeks ago I commenced a discussion in the newsletter of the nature and background of these troubles. This week I would like to mention briefly some of the legislative and judicial actions which have led up to and created the problems.

In the 19th century several Federal statutes in connection with the disposition of portions of public lands made it appear that the United States had permanently transferred control over water rights to the States. Particularly, the Congress provided in the Act of July 26, 1866 for upholding existing water rights and that all patents to the public lands were to be subject to vested water rights; also, the Desert Land Act of 1877 provided that water rights were to depend on prior application and that surplus waters of the public lands were to be free for appropriation and use by the public, subject to existing rights. Additionally, in legislation admitting certain States to the Union, Congress accepted the State constitutions, which included provisions recognizing and confirming existing water rights — in some instances specifically declaring State ownership or control of waters arising or flowing within the States concerned. The Federal Reclamation Act includes express provisions implying a recognition of State sovereignty over the use of water for irrigation in the Western States.

Again, in the Federal Power Act of 1920, Congress stated that the Act was not to be construed as affecting or intending to affect or in any way interfere with the laws of the respective States relating to the control, appropriation, use, or distribution of water used in irrigation or for municipal or other uses. Thus the use of water in the West developed and there seemed to be a good basis for believing that water rights acquired under State laws were secure.

However, none of the legislative acts just mentioned in any way changed Federal responsibilities in the field of commerce, and made no reference to their effect on Federal responsibilities in the fields of national defense, general welfare, or on the treaty-making clauses of the Constitution. In fact, Congress has on several occasions reaffirmed by statute the Federal sovereignty with respect to navigation.

Cases such as U.S. v. Rio Grande Dam and Irrigation Co. in 1890 and Winters v. U.S. in 1908 made it clear that the sovereignty of the United States over waters needed under the commerce and treaty-making clauses had not been broadly relinquished by any statutory enactments. In 1940 the New River case broadened the definition of navigable waters in the Federal Power Act by stating that the tributaries of navigable streams also come under the Commerce power. The congressional declaration of policy on flood control further expanded Federal activity in the field of water resources.

The potential conflicts having become apparent, Congress declared in the 1944 Flood Control Act its policy to recognize the interests and rights of the States in determining the development of the watersheds within their borders and provided that the use of works authorized for navigation shall be only such use as does not conflict with any beneficial consumptive use of water in the Western States. These provisions have been reiterated since, but the constitutional issue has not been finally settled in connection with these projects because it is a fact that one Congress cannot bind future Congresses; thus, the waiver of navigation rights could be repealed at some future date.

Two other decisions have increased concern among western water users. First Iowa Electric Cooperative v. Federal Power Commission made it clear that State laws governing the use of control of water of navigable streams were not applicable when they trespassed in a field also covered by Federal law. The Pelton case in 1935 affirmed the supremacy of Federal jurisdiction over unappropriated, non-navigable waters arising from or flowing over reserved lands. Soon, pleadings in various pending suits in the West asserted paramount rights to water under the so-called "reservation doctrine" and led many westerners to fear that the U.S. proposed to take away, without compensation, existing water rights acquired under State law. Questions remain as to which water rights have been acquired under State law in such manner that there is no future question as to the existence of a valid property right. Even before the Pelton case, attempts were made to have the Congress decide the issue through enactment of legislation assuring the supremacy of State water laws. As Chairman of the Subcommittee on Irrigation and Reclamation, I was very closely involved in hearings on the several proposals advanced as solutions to the problem. In a future newsletter, I will report on these in more detail.

It's Not So Important To Be Shoved Into Bobby Kennedy's Swimming Pool Now

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Being shoved into Bobby Kennedy's swimming pool used to be worth a full four points on the status scale used in Washington to determine who's really in.

Today's it's barely worth a point, even if you ruin a Givenchy original. "THE pool" has been downgraded as a status symbol because too many social climbers have leaped in without a bona-fide shove.

Touch football also is passe. Since President Kennedy developed back trouble, there is less emphasis on "sweatshirt vigor" as a sign of fitness for the New Frontier. It has even become "permissible to be frail occasionally."

But it's still important to "keep down with the Joneses" by driving a Porsche or Volkswagen instead of a Cadillac. And women continue to rate two points for achieving a "Sealyham hair effect."

These observations of the changing Washington scene are recorded in Merriman Smith's "The Good New Days" (Bobbs-Merrill, $5) a hilariously irreverent report on the "new people" who have taken over the nation's capital "since Ike and Mamie moved to the farm."

Long Hours Too Much
Merriman Smith has been White House correspondent for United Press International since 1941. Apparently the long hours have been too much for him, for in this book he has risen in revolt against an entire city, and has managed to insult everyone from the bartenders at the Statler Hotel to the "untouchables" of the press corps who can be quite nasty and vindictive "when their superb qualities are overlooked."

If you want to know what life in Washington is really like, with out any of the phony glamor that outside writers spray over the subject, Smith is prepared to tell you the awful truth.

His description of Georgetown houses, for example, should bring down the inflated prices of that legendary real estate by at least 50 per cent. To Smith, there is nothing quaint or charming about houses which are so narrow that fat people get stuck in the hallways. The one good thing to be said about "the genteelly ratty traps of Georgetown" is that they make a good backdrop for "an ugly wife who's a bit on the horse side."

Can Write Discerningly
Smith proved in four previous books, including "Thank You, Mr. President," that he can write discerningly about serious subjects, such as politics and international affairs. But in "The Good New Days" he is not concerned with appraising the impact of the Kennedy administration on history. His sole purpose is to provide a "baleful Baedeker" for the stranger to Washington who wants uninhibited answers to such important questions as, "How can I crash a big cocktail party?" and "How do you tell the phonies from the Truly Important People?"

The answer to the first question is simple. There are so many cocktail parties in Washington, and the doors are so poorly guarded, that "a man with a clean shirt and halfway presentable suit can remain well-fed and moderately drunk six nights a week at the better hotels."

In differentiating "TIP's" from phonies, Smith explains the Washington "point system" for status rating. Under the present, or New Frontier, ground rules, you get positive points for an Ivy League accent if you're male, but it takes a "deep and throaty" voice to score points if you're female. A license plate with a number below 1,000 is always good for a point or two, but a chauffeured limousine doesn't necessarily mean a thing, since any old body can hire one.

No Points for Hiking
Hiking the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal with Justice William O. Douglas was once a good source of points, but has become too commonplace. It's far more chic today to have been photographed by the justice's talented wife, Mercedes. Although active participation in sports is no longer as vital as it once was, you can still pick up points by water-skiing.

Not all of Smith's satire is directed at those who are, or would like to be thought, high and mighty. He also deals devastatingly with the Virginia lady who "can ride well enough to talk fluster horse;" the minor embassy functionaries who take ruthless advantage of their diplomatic license tags to park illegally across other people's driveways; the news correspondents who view themselves as "television personalities" since White House press conferences have been on live TV; and the ambitious but futile women-in-politics whom he compares to beginning marksmen: "They can't shoot worth a damn but they like to hear the gun go off."

Smith hopes this book will enjoy a good sale. He would like to build up his Estate before the lynch parties reach his door.

JFK Donates All Of Salary To Charity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has donated to charity every penny of his salary while in the White House and in Congress, it was disclosed.

White House sources said the President would turn over his entire $100,000 salary this year to charitable purposes, following a practice he began in 1947 when he became a member of the House of Representatives.

Last year, the President's salary of $94,600—short of the annual pay of $100,000 because he did not take office until Jan. 20—went to six charities, informants said in confirming a dispatch by Fletcher Knebel of the Cowles newspapers.

Kennedy's salary when he first went on the federal civilian payroll as a congressman from Massachusetts was $15,000 a year. The scale was raised subsequently to $22,500.

During Kennedy's six years as a congressman, eight years as a senator and nearly two years as President, the total of his salary given to charity will approach half a million dollars.

The President is also allowed a $50,000 expense fund. This he uses to finance the varied responsibilities of his office.

Sammy Davis Jr. And His Wife, May Britt, Adopt A Negro Child

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sammy Davis Jr. says he and his wife, actress May Britt, plan to adopt two or three more Negro children in the future.

Legal adoption proceedings were completed this week with the Los Angeles County adoption agency for custody of 2½-year-old Mark Sidney Davis.

"I adopted him to be a big brother for our own little girl, Tracey," Davis said. "Even before May and I got married, we thought it would be nice to have a son first. But it didn't work out that way so we adopted one."

"His middle name, Sidney, is for my good friend, Sidney Poitier."

Plan For Seven
The song and dance man added that he and his blonde, Swedish-born wife plan to have seven children.

"We are going to alternate between having them ourselves and adopting them," said Davis, who married Miss Britt two years ago. "All you have to do is visit an orphanage to see how much you can do for a homeless child."

"May and I are so much in love there is plenty left over for lots of children."

Davis went on to say that all the couples' adopted children would be Negro.

"Minority ethnic groups are the least to get adopted," he ex-

Enlarges Home

Davis said that he is adding a third story to his large home above the Sunset Strip which, he said, will be called "the happiness wing" for the children.

"Young Mark is really something," Davis said. "He has made himself at home and calls me Daddy. He talks a mile a minute to little Tracy (16-months). You can understand only a few words and the rest of it sounds like a Jerry Lewis impersonation."

Next April Miss Britt will take both Mark and Tracey to visit her parents in Sweden and will meet Davis later in London where he will be appearing at the Palladium.

"We don't want a year to go by without having all the grandparents see the children," Davis said.

"It may mean a lot of traveling, but it will be worth it. In seven years we hope to have seven little Davises making the trip."

Feed Grain Supports Unchanged

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has set the total price support rates for the 1963 feed grain crops at the same level which prevailed in 1962 except in the case of grain sorghum.

The grain sorghum total support rate for 1963 is two cents per hundred weight under the 1962 rate.

The 1963 total rates established are: corn $1.20 per bushel, 73 per cent of the November parity price; barley, 93 cents per bushel, 73 per cent of parity; grain sorghum, $1.91 per hundredweight, 76 per cent of parity; oats, 62 cents per bushel, 73 per cent of parity; and rye $1.02, 70 per cent of parity.

The total rates include payment-in-kind rates of 18 cents a bushel for corn, 14 cents per bushel for barley, and 29 cents per hundredweight for grain sorghum.

In order to be eligible to receive the total support rates for corn, barley, and grain sorghum, farmers must participate in the voluntary acreage reduction program. There is no acreage reduction program for oats and rye.

By participating, farmers will receive diversion payments, price support payments, and be eligible to take part in the price support loan program.

Professor Cites Mass Slaying By Red Police

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—An American professor who was once a member of the Polish underground has accused the Soviet secret police of slaying 15,000 Polish soldiers in a mass execution in Katyn Forest early in World War II.

J. K. Zawodny, associate professor of political science at the University of Pennsylvania, charges in a new book that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill suppressed the story of the massacre to keep the Russians as allies.

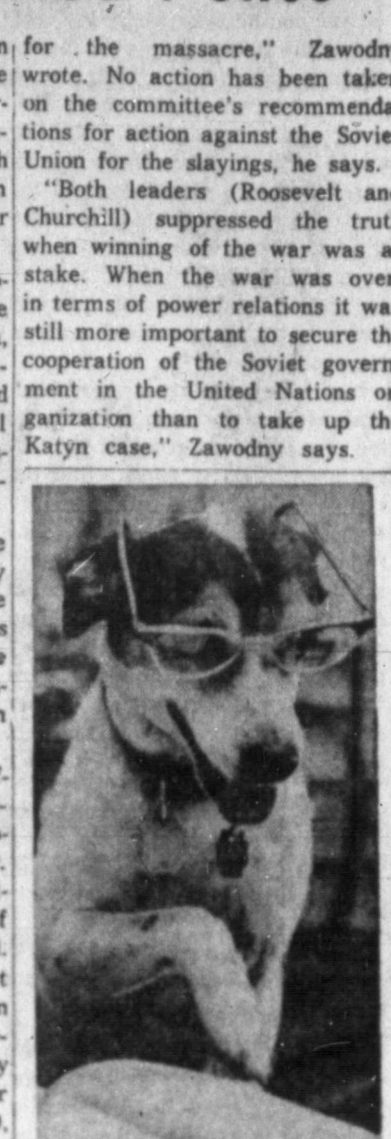

Zawodny's book, "Death in the Forest," published this week by the University of Notre Dame Press, describes the massacre as a step towards destroying the core of opposition the Communists knew they would face in Poland after the war.

Zawodny says 15,000 Polish officers and enlisted men disappeared after the Russians captured 250,000 Poles late in 1939. When the Russians joined the Allies, the professor says, most of the other prisoners were released.

The massacre in Katyn Forest first came to public attention in 1943, Zawodny writes. The Germans were blamed but Zawodny maintains that the mass murder took place in April - May 1940, when the forest was still in Soviet control.

He says the State Department knew about the massacre as early as the winter of 1942, but the American government and Churchill attempted to suppress information concerning it because they "believed victory to be the overriding consideration."

In 1951 a special congressional committee held hearings on the massacre and "unanimously concluded that the security police of the Soviet Union were responsible

Court Will Hear Bad Check Case

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Supreme Court has agreed to hear arguments Dec. 19 over whether a Valley livestock yards should have to pay on a bad check for a herd of cattle.

Dan W. Kinsel Jr. of Cottle, a cattle raiser, made an oral sale of his cattle worth $10,965 to a man identified as Will Ed Wiley. He said he got a check from Wiley. Wiley delivered the cattle to the Valley Stockyard Co. of Mercedes for them to sell. Then the bank returned the check as worthless.

Kinsel sued the stockyard, contending it is the agent for Wiley, for recovery of the $10,965. But the stockyard said Kinsel's acceptance of the check vested title in the cattle in Wiley.

Kinsel contended he had yet to give title to Wiley when the check proved worthless.

The trial court agreed with Kinsel and the civil appeals court affirmed the judgment. But the stockyard appealed to the Supreme Court on grounds Kinsel's acceptance of the check was not conditioned on its being honored by the bank.

The court agreed to hear arguments on those points.

COUNCIL ROUGHS IT

POMPEY, N.Y. (UPI)— The town council will consider a proposal Nov. 26 to spend $13,200 to buy a 10-year-old abandoned gas station for use as the town hall.

Town Supervisor Richard F. Long said the gas station was better equipped than the present town hall because it has running water, toilet facilities and adequate heating.

Soviet Horse Racing, Betting Flourishing

By JAY AXELBANK

United Press International
MOSCOW (UPI) — The Russian who puts a ruble on a horse at the third race at the Moscow Hippodrome is not very popular with the comrades of the Communist party.

While horse racing is a greatly flourishing enterprise in the Soviet Union, betting at the track has never found official favor.

"It's basically an evil thing," a Soviet racing official told United Press International. "In 20 years we hope to eliminate it when we achieve a perfect Communist society."

Evgeny N. Dolmatov, director of Moscow's only race track, admitted that about two-thirds of the turf fans who show up for trot and racing meetings lay wagers in spite of frequent attacks on the practice of betting in the Soviet press.

Dolmatov said the reason why Soviet authorities did not put a ban on betting is that "we prefer to change evil ways through education, not decree."

"We know betting is bad," he added in an interview, "but like the vodka drinking problem, it takes time to change these things."

"Besides," he said, "if we were to officially stop betting, we would probably have a rash of illegal bookmakers operating in Moscow."

Dolmatov, interviewed at the Hippodrome track, said trot racing went on all year even in below-zero cold.

"They still come no matter how cold it is," he said. "In winter we run on snow and the horses are given special shoes of rubber to provide traction."

The ordinary racing season lasts from May to August.

On Sundays, former jockey Dolmatov said, the average attendance is 10,000 to 12,000. And there are 12 to 14 races.

Dolmatov said the trot race course was one mile and that betting was very much the same as at American race tracks. He said that on all bets the track's take was 25 per cent.

Proof of the popularity of horse racing in the Soviet Union, Dolmatov added, was that there are 92 race tracks in the country and 120 stud farms.

"Horse racing is one of our most ancient pastimes," he said.

How Can You Help Child At Arithmetic?

You, Your Child And School
By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The many new approaches to teaching arithmetic confuse some parents. How can they help their children? The language and methods are quite different from the way parents were taught.

The basic aim of the new approaches is to develop greater understanding of arithmetic processes. Addition, subtraction, division, and multiplication can be taught mechanically. This involves memorizing steps, tables, and facts. The limitation of this method is that an individual does not develop a full understanding of the reasoning behind each of the mechanical steps.

The new arithmetic approaches attempt to teach a knowledge of how our number system works. Recognizing that a number symbol (1,2,3,4, etc.) has different meanings, depending upon its placement, is an example of understanding. 2 means two units; 20 means two tens; 200 means two hundreds; 32 means three tens and two units. A full understanding of this idea leads to a clear understanding of addition and subtraction.

Modern methods of teaching arithmetic include such terms as groups, sets and numeration. You would need a special course in order to learn the new teaching methods. This does not mean that you cannot help your child. Since the understanding and methods are different from your knowledge, you will need to use a new approach to giving help.

Perhaps your child can teach you as he learns. His explanations will help him to organize his knowledge. As you raise questions, he will uncover gaps in his understanding. Either you or he can then contact the teacher for further assistance.

Familiarize yourself with your child's textbooks and workbooks. This may help clarify some problems, but many schools don't follow any one book. One book often does not completely satisfy the needs of the curriculum. Teachers may use several books, their own work sheets (mimeographed), and of course classroom instruction.

Memorization of the facts of addition, multiplication, subtraction, and division are important. Do not hesitate to give your child practice in these. Flash cards are helpful but can be boring. A little creativity on your part can find some interesting methods for practice. A child will often enjoy checking bills or playing number games.

A conference with the teacher is important. She can indicate your child's problem. She can then suggest ways in which you can help with his individual difficulty.

You and other parents might approach the principal. He probably will be able to arrange a study group or a PTA meeting devoted to explaining the new arithmetic methods and the way in which parents can assist their children.

Above all, remember that your help is needed in many instances. Do not hesitate to find the answers you need in order to give aid. The close cooperation be-

Mrs. Lee Harrah has hosted recently for the business meeting of the Pampa Garden Club. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. H. A. Hanks, president. It was decided, due to several scheduled programs and projects, there would not be a Christmas placement show.

The program, "Tricks With Sticks" was presented by Mrs. Tom Price. She told the club members how to finish sticks and wood, how to anchor them securely, when making an arrangement and then proceeded to make 18 beautiful arrangements to demonstrate her lecture. It was a most informative and enjoyable program.

Mrs. Joe Shelton was co-hostess and coffee and rolls were served on arrival.

'Sound Of Music' Is Reviewed For Houston PTA

Mrs. Otis Holladay was guest speaker at the Nov. 8 meeting of Sam Houston P-TA held in the school auditorium at 2:10 p.m. Mrs. Chris Walsh, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Holladay, a newcomer to Pampa and told of several interesting and talented facets of her personality. Mrs. Holladay held the audience spell-bound from the moment she opened the stage curtain and described Maria, the gay, high spirited, main character of the "Sound of Music," musical, originally played by Mary Martin, until she concluded the final scene depicting the escape of the von Trapp family, over the towering Alps to Switzerland.

Mrs. Kenneth Royce, unit president, presided at the business meeting which opened with the salute to the flag led by Mrs. Jo Plunk, followed by the devotional given by Mrs. Hershall Wilks.

Mrs. H. B. Taylor read the minutes of the previous meeting and presented the recommendation from the executive board that the P-TA project for the year be the purchase of new choir robes for the school choir. The P-TA voted to accept this recommendation and to contribute money in the amount of $75 toward the purchase of material for new robes.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $704. Mrs. Doty Warner, hospitality chairman, reported an attendance of 660 people at "Family Night" and stated that $320 had been cleared.

Mrs. Royce gave a short report on the P-TA Citizenship workshop held in Canadian, Oct. 24. The school sent three representatives, Mrs. Royce, Mrs. Warren Jackson, study course chairman and L. C. Davis, school principal.

The door prize, a chocolate cake, baked by Mrs. S. E. Senter, was won by Mrs. Hulsey.

Mrs. Stowell's fourth grade won the room count with the greatest number of mothers present.

Mrs. Royce concluded the meeting with this thought from the yearbook: "God gave each of us a special talent, whether large or small use it for the good of all, not for ourselves and family."

Ruth Millett Should Cigars Be Only For Men?

It was a perfectly ordinary evening. He was in his easy chair, puffing on a stout cigar, reading the evening paper and she was thumbing through magazines in the vain hope that she would find the good word that skirt lengths would remain "unchanged."

All of a sudden she looked up and said: "Now that I've stopped smoking cigarettes, what would you think if I took up cigars?"

With that he came out from behind his paper, almost swallowed his cigar, looked at her fearfully as though she had suddenly lost her mind and dully asked: "What did you say?"

In one of her magazines she showed him the picture of a glamorous young woman, kneeling in a heavily brocaded robe, her lips obviously puckered just enough to blow out the faintest whiff of smoke, and holding a big, fat cigar in her jeweled hand. Then she read aloud: "Ways to see yourself this autumn—at home, in for the evening, wearing a long Prince Albert smoking coat with a white stock folded in the neckline. The cigar? ... medical experts will tell you it's one of the less unwholesome ways to take tobacco."

For a moment he stared at the picture in disbelief and then read the message for himself to make sure he had heard it right. "What do you think?" she demanded, and she finally got her answer.

"I hope you noticed one thing," he said. "They've picked an excitingly beautiful young model to pose with that cigar. They're giving her a fancy hairdo and a real glamour job to wear and they've posed her seductively. But even then they didn't dare put that cigar in her mouth for fear she'd look like Groucho Marx. Does that answer your question?"

"Yes," she said meekly and went back to looking for a comforting word about hemlines.

Horace Mann Has PTA 'Open House'

The November meeting of Horace Mann P-TA was an annual "Open House" held Nov. 8 from 7 to 9 p.m. "Open House" was held in observance of American Education Week, Nov. 12 thru the 16.

Sam Begert, principal, stated that parents are showing more interest in the school and the school's activities this year than ever before. This interest resulted in a record attendance at open house. Seventy per cent of all the school parents visited their children's rooms with one room reporting one-hundred per cent visitation.

Each teacher remained in their rooms throughout the evening to visit with the parents, discuss their child's individual progress and explain any part of the school curriculum that they might have questions about. In addition to all the required teaching materials on display, there were many interesting teaching aids and student displays for the parents to view. In the upper grades, student served as hosts and hostesses to aid their teachers in registering the parents. All facets of their children's school life were viewed and enjoyed by Horace Mann parents.

The next P-TA meeting will be Dec. 13 at 2:15 preceded by the executive board meeting at 1:15 p.m.

Dear Abby...

Ridiculous, But — Room For Belief!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last night, while I had bridge club, my husband went to a drive-in movie. When he came home at 5 o'clock in the morning he said, "Now don't get mad at me. I fell asleep at the drive-in movie and nobody woke me up." Can this be true?

GRAND SLAM
DEAR GRAND: It is ridiculous enough to be true.

DEAR ABBY: I was told not to wear black to a wedding. I went out and bought a new dress, although I had a perfectly good (new) black one in my closet. When I got to the wedding, two out of five women were wearing black dresses. The wedding was at 7:00 p.m. Please answer in the paper. I want to settle this with someone.

ELKHART
DEAR ELKHART: If it gives you any satisfaction to know that YOU were more appropriately dressed than the women in black — here it is.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the 15-year-old girl who signed herself SLAVE because her mother asked her to do a few chores around the house.

I, too, felt that I was being imposed upon because my mother insisted that I help with the household. Now that I have a home of my own I am sorry I didn't learn more under my mother's supervision. Do you know how to mop and wax tile floors? And how to polish furniture properly? Can you wash and iron your husband's shirts? Do you know how to clean an oven? And defrost a refrigerator? Do you know what to do if a fuse blows? Can you buy groceries in the right amounts? Unless you can answer yes to all these questions, don't complain.

YOUNG WIFE
DEAR ABBY: I would like to know what you think about a 16-year-old girl buying her boyfriend a shirt that matches her blouse. He is 18 and we have been going together for about a year.

FAITHFUL READER
DEAR READER: Don't "surprise" him with it. Ask him first.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Beginning Drivers Need License, Too

What must a Texas teen-ager do to learn to drive?

Captain Sanford B. Lee, Driver's License Service supervisor for this region of the Texas Department of Public Safety, says if you want to learn to drive or need to practice before you take the driving test, you must make application and pass the vision, signs and rules test.

Then a license will be issued to permit the beginner to drive only when there is a licensed driver in the front seat with the driver. If the applicant is at least 16 years of age or has successfully completed the Driver Education "Behind the Wheel" training, the restriction will be removed from the license when the driver completes his test by passing the driving test.

LICENSE REQUIRED
Every resident of the state who drives a motor vehicle must have either a valid Texas operator's, commercial or chauffeur's license.

Lee says if a youth is under 16 years of age, his application for a license must be signed under oath by someone who is willing to assume responsibility for any negligence or misconduct on his part while driving.

If the father is living and has custody of a minor, he is required to sign the application, otherwise the application must be signed by the mother or guardian.

If neither, father, mother or guardian has custody of the minor, then the application must be signed by the employer or judge in the county in which he lives.

"It is unlawful for any person who has the custody of a minor to permit such minor to operate a motor vehicle without a valid license," Captain Lee said.

If a minor is under 16 years of age, he must meet one of three requirements before being examined for a license.

The Millers report the boy was hospitalized. The Millers trip was completed in Dallas where they visited Delores and her new husband.

Mr. and Mrs. John House are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McCarthy in Paris, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Thygeson went to Altus and Duke, Okla., last week-end to visit relatives.

The second house in the Phillips John Camp that belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Parker burned at 11:30 Thursday, apparently catching from a wall furnace and completely destroying everything.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wall returned Sunday from Abilene where they have been visiting their daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Guthrie during the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Dow Willis and children visited parents at Gould and Altus, Okla. during the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hughes, Mrs. W. W. Bratcher and Mrs. Alex Watkins enjoyed a week-end and two days at the Hughes cabin on Lake Kemp recently. The fishing was fine, they reported.

Mrs. O. O. Bishop recently returned from Okla., where her father is very seriously ill. On the way she stopped by Stillwater to visit her son Harold and family.

Tip to Parents
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Most parents used to ask little more of their children than that they be well-behaved. Today's parents must go beyond that, a University of Michigan sociologist says.

"If parents overestimate the child's ability," notes Prof. Robert O. Blood, Jr., "he will be satisfied with less than the best. If they underestimate it, he may not achieve even what he could since he knows they will still be disappointed."

ONE — he must present a certificate signed by a certified driver education instructor and the school superintendent or principal showing he has successfully passed an approved driver education course in the public school system.

TWO — the applicant must present an authorization from the Department of Public Safety showing an emergency necessity for driving.

THREE — the applicant may apply for a commercial operator's license restricted to motorcycle or motorbike only, not to exceed 5 brake horsepower.

NONE UNDER FOURTEEN
A person under fourteen years of age in Texas may not be licensed and must not drive.

Lee stressed that boys and girls driving motorcycles must have a license and obey traffic laws and signals just as a driver of an automobile. "This same rule applies to motorcycle drivers, that no one under fourteen years of age be allowed to drive them," Lee said.

"Motorcyclists must also be inspected and licensed annually just as an automobile," he added.

Some parents think it is permissible to let their children drive on dirt roads or county roads while they are learning. "This is not legal because these roads are the same as any other public highway that is open for use of the public and are controlled by Texas statutes," Lee said.

Everyone should know that ignorance is no excuse for disobeying the law, because a person can ask any officer what the correct procedure is on a beginner learning to drive or can obtain a digest of traffic rules or a driver's handbook from any DPS office.

55TH YEAR

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1962

13

When a person without a license drives the automobile of a friend, if stopped by an officer, the friend can be filed on in court for allowing an unauthorized minor to drive.

If a parent or guardian permits an unlicensed person to drive, they too can be filed on for permitting an unlicensed minor to drive.

Lee advised that both offenses are subject to $1 to $200 fines. The Driver's License Office in Pampa is located in County Court House, D.P.S. Office, and is open Mon. Tues. Fri., and a half day Saturday. Written examinations begin at 8:00 a.m. and at 1:00 p.m. and are followed by the driving test, Captain Lee concluded.

Bob Booser Paces Royals Past Syracuse In NBA

By United Press International
Teetotalin' Bob Booser may be the long drink of water the Cincinnati Royals have been looking for to challenge the Boston Celtics' domination of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The 6-8, 215-pound Booser, who has failed to live up to his high promise in two previous seasons with the Royals, scored 28 points and grabbed 19 rebounds in helping the Royals to a 125-120 victory over the Syracuse Nationals Wednesday night.

Oscar Robertson led Cincinnati with 33 points as the Royals knocked Syracuse out of first place and idle Boston moved into its familiar spot. Hal Greer scored 24 points to top the Nats.

In the NBA's only other game, the Detroit Pistons got back on the winning track on the combined efforts of Don Ohl, Bailey Howell, and Ray Scott. The Pistons defeated the faltering San Francisco Warriors, 123-115, despite 49 points by Wilt Chamberlain.

The victory was only the second against 10 losses for Detroit while San Francisco's record dropped to 7-5. Ohl scored 28 points, Howell 25 and Scott 24.

Dodgers' Drysdale Named Top Pitcher

BOSTON (UPI) — Fireballer Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers, whose 25 victories made him the National League's biggest winner since 1956, today was named winner of the Cy Young award as the major leagues' pitcher of the year.

The 26-year old right-hander, who never won more than 17 games in any previous big league season, received 14 of the votes cast by the 20-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Jack Sanford, 24-game winner for the San Francisco Giants, was second in the voting with four votes and one vote each went to 23-game winner Bob Purkey of the Cincinnati Reds and 16-game winner Billy Pierce of the Giants.

Not a single vote was cast for an American Leaguer despite the fact that Ralph Terry of the New York Yankees, Dick Donovan of the Cleveland Indians, Camilo Pascual of the Minnesota Twins and Ray Herbert of the Chicago White Sox were 20-game winners. The committee was composed of 10 National League and 10 American League writers.

The award, named for the Hall of Famer whose 511 victories are the all-time major league record,

Inside West Point

Paul Dietzel Makes Football Fun And May Never Have To Recruit

By BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WEST POINT, N. Y. (NEA)—The boys on Paul Dietzel's three teams call his grading system the lie detector. The Army coach didn't originate the method of rating teams in general and players in particular, but he certainly has perfected it.

The gradings are based on minute scrutiny by Dietzel and his staff of movies showing every move in regular games and some scrimmage plays. Just what mathematical formula is used is nobody's business but Dietzel's.

"I can tell you," he says, "we score more for execution than technique. Golly, I'd much rather have a boy who does everything wrong, but makes the play, than one who looks like a million dollars falling flat on his face."

"The camera eliminates personalities and you can't cheat it. I had a boy at another school who was so had on one play that he hid his head and covered his number with his arms as he fell to keep from being identified. He was uncovered by a process of elimination. We ran the film over and over until every other player on the field had been accounted for."

Dietzel takes full psychological advantage of the gradings. The locker room where they are displayed in living color is a sanctum sanctorum, ordinarily barred to all but the coaching staff and players, but Dietzel wants his boys to know the gradings.

"Let's them know where they're going — gives them a sense of direction," he says. "And, it stimulates competition."

For full impact, gradings on teams and players are grouped in five categories, each with its own designation and color. They are: 80 per cent or better, Championship, black. 70 to 80 per cent, Winner, gold. 60 to 70 per cent, Fair, gray. 50 to 60 per cent, Look Good Losing, white. Below 50 per cent, Our Opponents Should Letter You, sweet Alice blue.

"I think all this sort of help make football the fun game it should be," is Dietzel's opinion.

Associate coach George Terry, a College of the Ozarks graduate who came to West Point with Dietzel from Louisiana State, thinks the fact the boys are enjoying themselves is a prime reason the Regulars, Go Team and Chinese Bandits on Dietzel's three platoons have been running wild.

"Paul is a fine psychologist, natural, not cultivated," says the 25-year coaching veteran. "All these little things he does make the game enjoyable," not drudgery. The tough schedules up here keep the Cadets' noses pretty much to the grindstone, and they don't have the fun outlets there are at some other schools. I think the kids are taking to Dietzel's football as a relief from the monotony."

"Paul doesn't interfere with his coaching staff, but he's usually there when we're working with the players — just to let them know he's interested. And you know how he is during a game." (Dietzel charges up and down the sideline like a politician scrambling to get in a picture with the President.)

Dietzel stays with the team continuously on the road and takes them on personally conducted sightseeing tours. In Washington for the George Washington game, they visited Mt. Vernon and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. They took in the Statue of Liberty and the swankiest restaurant while in New York for Syracuse.

There's no use trying to quote players or other Cadets on the subject of Dietzel. Their adulation is so lavish it's unbelievable — unless you hear it personally from a sincere, dedicated young officer-to-be.

It has been insinuated—usually by rival coaches—that Dietzel recruits with undue vigor. At Army, the coach has even more leeway, although football scholarships are less plentiful and scholastic requirements are less strict. (See DIETZEL, Page 17)

PAUL DIETZEL AND FRIENDS "It's fun to win"

Red Raiders Looking Good, Longhorns Hunting Punter In SWC Drills Wednesday

United Press International
Texas Tech, Texas A&M and the University of Texas present some unusual circumstances in the Southwest Conference football picture today.

Tech's Red Raiders and the Aggies are looking good on offense in practices for Saturday's games. And Darrell Royal, coach of the fifth-ranked Texas Longhorns is scrounging around for a good kicking punter. All three circumstances are unusual, to say the least.

Tech Coach J. T. King praised his squad Wednesday for showing "more fire than usual" on offense. Even a spark is unusual this year for winless Tech, which goes against equally downtrodden Colorado at Lubbock Saturday.

Aggie mentor Hank Foldberg saw halfbacks George Hargett and Travis Reagan go for long gains in a varsity drill against the freshman squad. Foldberg was pleased. Hard-nosed defense has been the key to the Aggies' play this year.

Borger, Demons Hold On To No. One UPI Spots

By United Press International
Texas schoolboy football's top-ranked powers held firmly to their positions this week with only minor changes noticeable among the lower rated teams in all four divisions of the United Press International rankings.

Borger in AAAA, Dumas in AAA, Denver City in AA and New London in A all tightened their grips on their respective No. 1 ratings last week and the top five order held firm in all four divisions.

One new team showed up in each of AAA, AAA and AAAA.

Otherwise the changes were confined to a rearrangement of the patterns.

Houston Austin climbed back into the AAAA ranks as Baytown dropped out again on its upset loss to Galveston. Perfect record Silsbee made it into the AAA ratings for the first time this season as San Marcos fell out after only a one week stay. Ballinger made it into the AA ranks for the first time as the Bearcats knocked Stamford out of the ratings 8-0.

Bay City Advances
The only change in AAAA saw San Antonio Jefferson move up one notch to ninth to make room for Houston Austin. The same was true in AAA where Bay City edged up to ninth to create the vacancy filled by Silsbee. In AA, Ballinger replaced Stamford as the No. 6 club with all other positions holding firm. In A, Albany moved from 10th to seventh in a swap on positions with Petersburg.

The four top-ranked clubs face easy going this week; but there's potential trouble aplenty ahead for some of the others as the AA and A divisions and some AAA districts wind up their schedules.

In AAAA, for example, Spring Branch plays Aldine (6-3), Dallas Samuell meets Dallas Kimball (7-2) and Irving faces Grand Prairie (4-3-1).

Beutler Bros. To Furnish Rodeo Stock

DENVER (SpI) — Results from one of the nation's most often elections will send fifty-sever hairy nominees from the tri-state area of Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, trucking down to Los Angeles late this month.

Elected for their animosity toward the human race, the furry band are outlaw broncs and bulls for pro rodeo's championship title playoffs, the National Finals slated December 4-9 in the west coast city's Sports Arena.

The contingent of curmudgeons from the western cow country are part and parcel of a total 225 head gathering for the Finals from Canada to Florida.

They are the high-flying beasts from rodeo strings owned by Lynn and Jake Beutler, Elk City, Okla. Tommy Steiner, Austin, Texas. Elra and Jiggs Beutler, also of Elk City, Bobby Estes, Baird, Texas. Walt Thedford, Enid, Okla. Ben Bogan, Beaumont, Texas. Jim Shoulders, of Henryetta, Okla. Mesquite Rodeo Company, Mesquite, Texas, and Ralph Collier, of Austin, Texas.

The outlaw roster ranges from the sky-diving, Sand Hills, to an equally irritable bareback bronc Snappy John; to bovine delinquents like Old Speck, Tornade Hurricane, and Mohammed — all names calculated to hike the adrenalin count in any rodeo hand.

Their election is the result of a year-round scouting system, carefully kept records on ability of fatten a cowboy, conducted by the NFR Commission through network of inspectors. More than 4,000 broncs and bulls are screened up the process.

Tackling these prima donna with the bone-busting beat, will be the season's forty-five high money winners in the game's rising events. At stake in the Finals to determine 1962's Champions, $65,500 prize money.

match, said it is doubtful that either Ernie Koy Jr., or Bobby Nunis will be able to play in the Fort Worth game. Koy, the Steers' top punter "can just barely walk," Royal said. Nunis, also an excellent punter, and Koy were injured against Southern Methodist.

And little-known Rice senior quarterback John Eskridge brought soft but audible groans from the Owl coaching staff as he whipped through the defense on running plays. The Owls play A&M Saturday at Houston. The reason for the groans lay in the fact that Eskridge was acting out the part of Aggie quarterback Jim Keller.

The TCU Horned Frogs ran through a tough offense-minded workout centered around giant quarterback Sonny Gibbs, whose passing looked sharp.

Arkansas coach Frank Broyles had one of his rare moments of good feeling in a football practice and cut the Razorback workout short because the "boys were working well." The high-powered Porks play Southern Methodist before a sellout crowd at Little Rock Saturday.

Lefors, McLean Top Area Battle

The big game in area football circles matches Lefors against McLean in a game that will decide district 2-A. The Pirates, with a win, will definitely be on their way to the playoffs. The game is slated for Friday night in McLean.

The Pirates routed Memphis, 57-14, in last week's action. McLean also won last week, halting Canadian, 21-7, in a fourth quarter surge of 15 points.

Buccaneer fans will keep a sharp eye pointed toward Panhandle as Panhandle and Sunray battle Friday night for the 1-A district championship.

The winners of Dist. 1-A and 2-A will play in a semi-district contest in the first round of the playoffs.

Wheeler, after edging Groom 6-0 last week, plays host to Claude this Friday night in a crucial 5-B contest.

Groom, in another 5-B game, travels to play Texline Friday night. The Tigers are favored to win this contest.

The Perryton Rangers, breaking a 15-year jinx cast on them by the Phillips Blackhawks, try another Dist. 1-AAA opponent, Levelland, in Perryton Friday night.

Canadian, after losing to McLean last week, will try to get on the winning path as they travel to Wellington to play a potent Skyrocket eleven Friday night.

Mobeetie and White Deer have already finished their seasons.

Houston Closer To New Stadium

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Commissioners Court of Harris County Wednesday eked out another step in the long pull to build an all-weather, domed sports stadium in Houston.

The court agreed to pay $1,647,890 to the Houston Sports Association, owner of the Houston Colts baseball team, for improvements and land.

The agreement will be voided, however, if the county does not let a firm contract by July 1, 1963, for construction of the stadium.

The commissioners will take bids on the air-conditioned structure Nov. 29.

Booker Wins District 3-B

The District 3-B 8-man football race is over and the Booker Kiowas are the Champions. Booker claimed the district crown with a 38-14 win over Miami. The Warriors had a 2-1 in district action.

The other three teams in the league were Mobeetie, Lakeview and Darrouzett. Coach Paul Morris of Mobeetie is proud of his junior quarterback Roy Corcoran who scored 10 touchdowns in 5 games. Senior guard Charlie Risner was praised for his work as defensive line backer. Mobeetie finished with 1-3 mark in district play.

Lakeview was on the bottom rung of the leagues' ladder with an 9-4 conference mark. Coach Leon Van Alstine cites halfback Mike Neighbors and fullback Mike Weaver as his best offensive powers and freshman Rodney San as outstanding from the middle linebacker slot.

Darrouzett, under coach J. Weinette, compiled a 4-2 district mark good for third place.

Booker will meet either Thruway or Gale for the regional title.

Old Ref

Calls 'Em

The Old Ref had a rough week last week trying to predict the winners in the world of football. His predictions went awoul on eight of 22 attempts.

This week, the Old Ref has decided to play it a little more cautious and not attempt to predict so many upsets. However, he has chosen one upset for high school, Southwest Conference, and the Big Ten as well as disagrees with the oddsmakers on the Oklahoma-Missouri game.

His upset in high school ranks is Panhandle over Sunray. He believes Worst can be stopped. If, by chance, Worst gets by the Panthers, he feels that Lefors will contain him in bi-district play.

He's going to go with Texas Christian upsetting Texas, even though he earlier predicted Texas to run the gamut of SWC schools without tasting defeat.

The Big Ten upset, according to the Old Ref, will be Michigan State adding insult to damage to the once proud Northwestern Wildcats.

The Old Ref was coddled into giving his predictions a day early this week due to space limitations on Friday.

In Heavyweight Fight

Clay Pits Youth Against Moore

By ALEX KAHN
UPI Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Cassius Clay takes the case for youth before a jury of 15,000 boxing fans tonight when he meets the aging but still agile Archie Moore in a 12-round heavyweight elimination bout.

Aside from the rich purses each will earn tonight — a minimum of $75,000 for Moore and $40,000 for Clay — the winner will rate consideration from Sonny Liston for a title bout. The bout also is being carried nationally on closed circuit television.

Liston flew here to take in the Sports Arena bout between the two contenders for his recently won crown and his advisor, Jack Nilon, indicated he was receptive to offers.

Clay 2-1 Favorite
Prior to the weighing in ceremony, the 20-year-old Clay was 2-1 favorite over Moore. The Louisville, Ky., youngster who rates also as a contender for the perpetual talking title, impressed observers with his speed and punching power in gymnasium workouts.

Clay, however, has engaged in only 15 pro fights, winning them all, but it is questionable if he has met anyone as versed in ring lore as Moore. But Clay from the first picked himself to win by a knockout in four rounds. And his declaration that he intends to "retire the old man" has affronted Moore.

The former Olympic light heavyweight champion moves his splendid physique around the ring like a lightweight and there was little question that he would try to outspeed Moore and find an opening for a knockout punch as he danced and jabbed his older opponent.

But Moore is by no means an over-the-hill fighter. Although his age variously is estimated from 45 to 49 years, the veteran appeared in the peak of condition for the fight.

Heavy KO Record
Moore is a phenomenal figure in boxing. He recorded his first pro bout in 1936 and has engaged in 219 fights in his recorded ring career, winning a record 136 by knockouts.

But Moore in the past has been his best against light heavyweights although he has met and beaten many heavyweights. He had two previous chances at the heavyweight crown but was knocked out by both Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson. Moore still is recognized by California as light heavyweight champion.

Optimist Boxers Host Borger, Lefors Teams

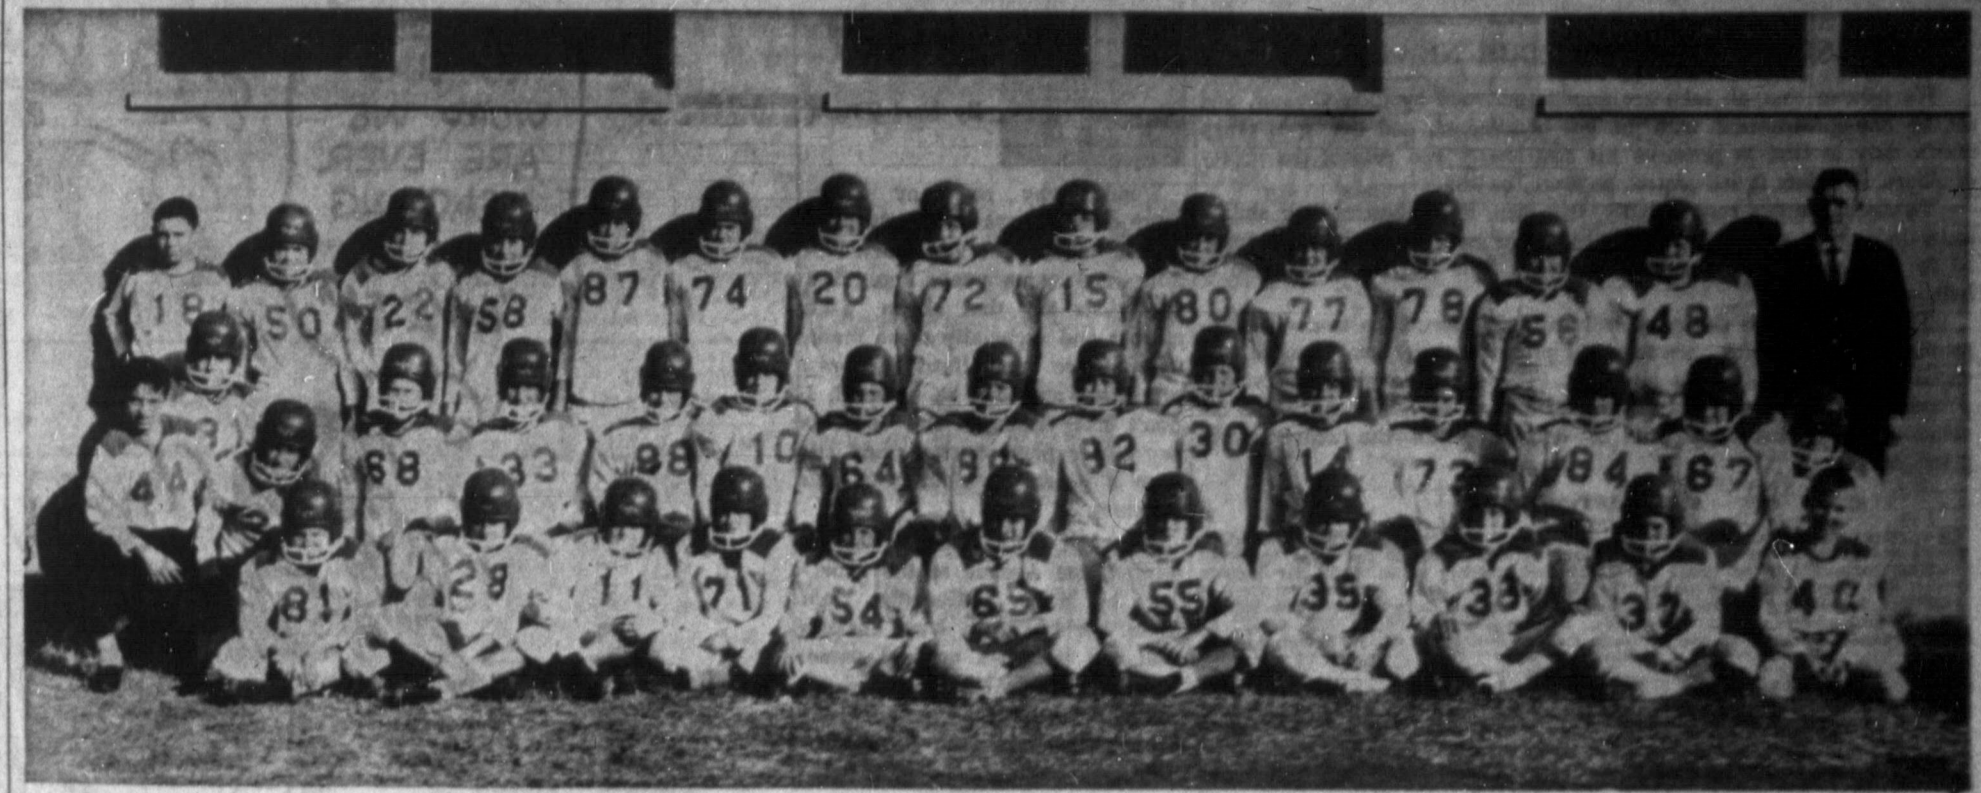

After sponsoring one of the most successful fight nights of the season last Saturday night, the Pampa Optimist Boxers move the "Thursday night fights" back to the regular night as they host Lefors and Borger tonight.

Bell time is set for 7:30 in the Optimist Boys' Club Building. Prices for the bouts are adults 75 cents, students 50 cents, and children 25 cents.

Several fighters have been tentatively matched for tonight with other bouts to be made at weigh in time, according to Cliff Dunham, director of the Optimists' boxing program.

The Borger club is bringing more boys than it did a couple of weeks ago, especially in the heavier weight classes. Some of the bigger boys from Borger are inexperienced colored fighters that are expected to dish out plenty of "hay makers."

With the Pampa fighter mention-

Rams' New Coach Svare Is Young Man On The Spot

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
LOS ANGELES (NEA) — The trend in professional football is toward the young coach. Like Harland Svare, the Norwegian they call Swede, which is no more mixed up than the team he just took over. The Los Angeles Rams' Swede, who came from the Giants as defensive coach, is young (32), handsome, eligible and intense.

"He didn't get more than 20 minutes sleep since last Tuesday," said Jack Teele, the Rams' publicity man. This was on Sunday, after the Rams had blown their first game under Svare (not particularly unique, since they've also blown seven others for the most disastrous season in Rams' history).

"I'm glad they got off their seats and put in a quarterback who wanted to play ball," said Ed Pauley, one of the owners.

After a cascade of boos, the Rams had switched from veteran Steve Bratkowski to Ron Miller in the fourth quarter. Svare claimed he never heard the boos. But then he's the defensive as well as head coach and determined not to interfere with Hamp Pool, in the pattern of divided authority he first learned under Jim Lee Howell, of the Giants.

Svare, an academic type who can tell you what unobtrusive means, has picked up the coaching lingo real quick.

"When you don't go in from the one-yard line," he shrugged in his first post-game interview, "you can't win. I thought we played very hard. We played it to the end. I enjoyed it. I'd like to have won it, but I was encouraged."

No young coach has ever been thrown on a tougher spot. An hour and 20 minutes before game time, Svare had taken a solitary seat on the Ram bench, surrounded by 100,000 empty pews in the Coliseum. No lions.

"I was thinking of everything," he said softly. "The job, the game—everything."

They say he just can't win, and he probably won't. He's an interim coach.

"It's too late to tinker with personnel," he admitted. "You do that in training camp. We still have a very young team and can get execution."

So the Rams will now practice on Tuesdays and they'll work harder and longer trying to make veterans out of youngsters in five weeks.

It'll make Svare a lot older, too, in the process.

Picks of the week:

Baltimore 24, Green Bay 17.

Colts out to upset Packers.

San Francisco 17, Los Angeles 14. The Rams keep losing—change and all.

Dallas 21, Chicago 27. Cowboys stoke up offense again.

Detroit 25, Minnesota 14. Lions stay on heels of packers.

Cleveland 24, St. Louis 18. Browns playing only for salaries.

New York 28, Philadelphia 18. Giants smell payoff money.

Pittsburgh 17 Washington 14. Steelers too rugged for Skins.

American League picks:

Houston 28, Boston 24. Patriots due for a tumble.

Buffalo 42, Oakland 18. Bills keep piling up score.

Dallas 21, Denver 18. Battle for Western lead.

Don't 'Mess' With The News

The Kennedy administration is now picking its way out of a mess of its own making on the handling of news about the Russian missile bases in Cuba and the blockade.

At President Kennedy's first news conference, Jan. 23, 1961, he declared that he and the press must work out a new plan for the flow of government information to the public when the security of the United States was involved.

Three months later in a speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the President declared that the press should impose voluntary restraints on itself so that the public wouldn't be given news that it shouldn't have.

This was just 10 days after a complete foul-up in the administration on handling news of the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion by Cuban rebels.

Anyway, a committee of distinguished editors met with the president a couple of weeks later to hear these ideas in the back of his mind on control of the news in a cold war.

Nothing came of it. In the absence of any officially declared national emergency, the editors refused to consider any kind of even voluntarily imposed censorship.

The government has of course had stand-by plans for setting up wartime censorship, ever since the Truman administration. There is an "Executive Reserve" of censorship officials who can be quickly mobilized if an emergency requires it.

William P. Stevens, Houston Chronicle editor and a member of the World War II Office of Censorship staff was called to Washington recently to review the old plans and make sure they're still good. But there is no known plan to operate them now.

The triumvirate that now directs the flow of national security news for the President, the secretaries of state and defense are White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, Assistant Secretary Arthur Sylvester at the Pentagon, Robert Manning at State.

They confer frequently by phone or in person but deny that their operations are in any way related to censorship.

One-In-A-Million Risk

Warnings, from official sources, against adult use of one type of oral polio vaccine must be taken seriously. But, at the same time, the situation should be placed in perspective.

The Portland Oregonian has done that. In this country it says there have been 11 reported cases of polio among 13 million doses—"A million-to-one risk is almost too small to be of concern, it would seem. Health authorities concede the danger in smallpox vaccinations, which doesn't worry anybody, is at least this great. A more appropriate calculation, one would think, would consider the number of adults who by now might have sickened and died of polio had those 13 million doses of Type III Sabin vaccine not been administered."

Partner With Agriculture

The farmer looks to the oil industry to provide the fuel and lubricants for an almost endless variety of farm equipment. But oil's importance to agriculture does not end there.

The industry also provides materials for fertilizers and insecticides, for soil fumigants and plant hormones, and for weed killers and defoliants.

New and valuable products, developed from oil, are constantly being researched and produced. A very recent one is a liquid mulch which promises major increases in crop yields. It is not yet available commercially, but may be on the market within the near future. Successful tests have been conducted in many parts of the world.

A dramatic possibility is that an

All are former newspapermen and good ones. If they were still plying their old trade, they would probably be in the front ranks of reporters criticizing government bureaucrats for any dumb handling of the news. But they're bureaucrats themselves, now, controlling the flow of news, if not its writing.

They are on the pan for the way news was released on the Russian build-up of long range missile bases on Cuba and the President's imposition of a blockade of the island.

Sylvester and Manning have issued orders that officers and civilian officials talking to newsmen must now report whom they talked to and what subjects were discussed, even on a background basis. This has caused many legitimate news sources to clam up and refuse to see reporters, which creates frustration.

Secondly, correspondents were denied access to Guantanamo, the aircraft carrier, cruisers and destroyers on blockade patrol. The reasons given are that the government did not want to create a big news flow out of Guantanamo and that the blockade was organized so rapidly that the Navy did not feel it was logistically able to fly reporters around by helicopter or to handle their dispatches on limited communications facilities.

It was felt that reporters scattered on destroyers in the Caribbean might get no news or would be unable to report back what news they got as fast as newsmen sitting in the Pentagon, getting official communiques as they were handed out.

Finally, even Sylvester would probably admit now in private that he said a lot of things he should not have said about the government generating news, managing the news and controlling the news on Cuba as a part of weaponry to create a certain image or favorable impression on the public.

He knows better than that. Any time government officials try to manipulate the news for propaganda purposes instead of giving it out straight when and as they get it, they get in trouble.

Pull Up A Chair

Wonder why so many ladies wear dark glasses on cloudy days and at night. The fad started in Hollywood some years ago. Eye specialists say that cheap sun glasses and especially those made with plastic lens afford little ray protection and can be harmful. I don't like clip-ons. The doctors say better play it smart and secure a prescription for your sun cheaters.

Although Sixth Avenue was renamed The Avenue of the Americas by Mayor LaGuardia right after World War II, New Yorkers still call it by its original name. New York taxicab drivers and policemen never refer to it by any other name but Sixth Avenue.

Thoughts while shaving: 1. "Bad cess to you" is a common expression in England and Ireland. The word "cess" is probably a contraction of "success," and in the expression is the equivalent of saying, "Bad luck to you." Rarely, however, is heard the expression, "Good cess to you." It's almost always bad luck that's wished. 2. Often you hear a person announce his candidacy for public office by saying, "My hat's in the ring." Teddy Roosevelt popularized that expression in 1912 when he decided to make the presidential race a three-man affair and run against William Howard Taft and Woodrow Wilson.

Teddy, at the time of this announcement, explained that throwing one's hat in the ring was a traditional way of our rough-and-ready forebears signifying they were willing to fight. So T. R. figuratively tossing his sombrero in the ring, formed his Bull Moose party. 4. That was a lively campaign in 1912. President Taft, running for re-election, received a pitiful total of eight electoral votes, and Teddy gathered in 11 times as many—88. That enabled Wilson to walk in, with 435 electoral votes, and become the first Democratic President in 20 years.

My favorite time for writing is late at night. When there is no one around I can concentrate. By that time I have read the papers, listened to the late radio news and scammed magazine articles, previously marked, and glanced over my clips and notes, jotted down during the day. Then into bed with a book and lights out at midnight.

Yardley, the famous editorial cartoonist of the Baltimore Sun, was the first one to show President Kennedy with eyeglasses. The cartoon pictured the President nibbling on the right earpiece not wearing the specs. Yardley, widely reprinted throughout the world, has a unique style and his work is spiced with originality and humor.

It's a man's world, all right. Just look at the difference in these descriptive words and phrases: If a man doesn't marry, he's a "bachelor," glamorous word. If a woman doesn't marry, she's an "old maid." What she learns at the office is "news." What she learns at a bridge party is "gossip." If he is overly solicitous of her, he's a "devoted husband." If she's overly solicitous of him, he's "henpecked."

Origin: It was William Drennan, born in Belfast, Northern Ireland, who first called it the Emerald Isle in a poem entitled "Erin." Its fourth stanza is this: Arm of Erin prove strong, but be gentle as brave And, uplifting to strike, still be ready to save.

Not one feeling of vengeance presume to define The cause, or the men of the Emerald Isle.

Stage comedians to the contrary, we have never, in real life, heard an Irishman say "bedad" or "bejabbers," a Scotsman say "Hoot, mon," a Jewish person say "oi-oi," a Frenchman say "oo-lala," or an Englishman say "Cheers, old fruit."

Since 1938 medical progress has increased the average American lifespan by almost 10 years. Now many medical researchers are worried about the effects the recent thalidomide tragedy will have on their work. Will it slow down their operations is the big question. However, others feel that proper safeguards and new approaches will lead the way to some startling discoveries in cancer, heart, arthritis and other fields.

Anti-Gun Laws Would Leave People Helpless

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph.D.

I must preface this column with the firm statement that I do not, personally, believe we can get on the road to freedom by political action. If it is possible to accomplish anything by political action, this is the time when political office seekers must be most sensitive to the voice of the voters. After a candidate is elected, it's too late.

The talks on disarmament by the administration provide much food for thought; to be enslaved in a world government - socialist state, the people must first be disarmed. Totalitarian governments have made great strides towards this end result. The people of the communist countries have been disarmed, England only recently and every fascist government have already disarmed the population.

A tremendous number of anti-gun laws were tossed into the hoppers of State Legislatures earlier this year. Several anti-gun bills were tried out in the Congress of the United States. This is a good time for all concerned citizens to take another long, close look at the Constitution with particular attention to the right of Americans to bear arms for the defense of their lives and property.

What kind of anti-gun laws are enforced in your state, or county or city?

The ubiquitous whiner of the socialist conglomerate always hollers about this time, "But what about all the poor little kids who are killed or maimed or wounded because they thought the gun was empty?" We can brush this aside quickly. Shall we outlaw the automobile which kills more children in one year than accidents with firearms cause in 100 years?

I have three grandchildren who have been taught that all guns are loaded. They have also been taught respect for firearms, how to use them and when and why. They do not PLAY with firearms. This is simply a matter of a decent sense of responsibility on the part of parents, no more or less.

The American Way

THE LOBBYISTS

By Raymond C. Baker

Running true to form, die-hard liberals and their press, radio and television adherents are voicing their usual post-Congress denunciations of business and the professions for thwarting pet schemes to move the nation closer to a socialistic state.

Particularly rankled over defeat by the medical profession of the President's medicare bill which would have meant socialized medicine, these pseudo patriots are now crying "lobbyist!" as though it were a nasty word. They are referring of course to the profession and private citizens who appeared before Congressional committees at their own expense to testify against the measure, and to the thousands of citizens who wrote their Congressmen in opposition to medicare.

Administration Lobby But these liberals do not mention that the President's Department of Health, Education and Welfare organized one of the most vocal lobbies ever to invade the capital in an effort to force this legislation through Congress. With the liberals it's a matter of whose ox is being gored. If you are for them, you are a "legislative spokesman;" if you are for American enterprise, you are a "lobbyist."

Business is learning that if it is to win in Washington it must organize all of the tools at its disposal. Going it alone spells defeat. The Administration lobby alone is a powerhouse. When it combines with lobbies supported by labor, rural electrification co-operatives and many others dedicated to a socialistic America, it is an almost unbeatable team.

Two Examples But it can be defeated. Two outstanding examples of well-organized opposition demonstrate this. One is the fight sparked by the Magazine Publishers Association to prevent the Senate from adopting a House-passed postal rate bill which would have meant death for many newspapers and periodicals. MPA retained public relations counsel and developed a program which included all newspaper groups and allied industries. The result was a drastically modified rate law which preserves America's free press. The second was the program organized along almost identical lines by banks and investor groups to cause abandonment of the President's withholding tax on dividends and interest.

Both defeats brought cries of anguish from the liberals. In spite of these criticisms, Congress itself recognizes the important contributions lobbyists make to sound legislation. In many Washington quarters they are known affectionately as "the third House." There is sound reason for this. It would be impossible for Congressmen to be knowledgeable on every one of the 37,000 proposals in the legislative hopper, or to vote intelligently on the nearly 800 measures that become law without expert assistance.

Legitimate Expense The 87th Congress demonstrated that it does not consider "lobbyist" a nasty word by including in the tax law a provision permitting deductions of expenses incurred for lobbying. For 78 years the Regulation of Lobbying

Testimony Shows How Castro Was Helped

By ED DELANEY

The Castro regime in Cuba would not have been possible without the direct aid he received from our State Department in Washington. Proof of that is found in official communications of the State Department. A chronological report on United States and Cuban relations in the years 1957-62, supplied by Frederick G. Dutton, assistant secretary of state, June 20, 1962, notes that the U.S. government "suspended arms shipments to the Batista government which, in disregard to an agreement with the United States, used them to combat the revolutionary movement headed by Fidel Castro."

There was an agreement, it is stated, that arms from this country would not be used to check the communists, headed by Castro. Moreover, the same State Department chronology says: "When the Castro regime came to power in 1959, the United States looked upon it with sympathy, recognized it almost immediately."

That is of special significance. By contrast, when the anti-communist provisional government came to power in Hungary, Oct. 1956, the State Department sent a communication to Tito, in Belgrade, saying "we do not look with sympathy" on it. Official recognition was refused that anti-communist regime. What has already been revealed in connection with the Cuban situation is positive proof of pro-communist influence in the State Department and in other Washington bureaus.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and other proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: Can a National Guard which can be "federalized" provide protection against improper actions by a federal agency?

Answer: No! Q. Is it possible for a state to maintain a state militia, separate from the National Guard?

A. We believe that during time of war states have set up militia units as "home guards" after the National Guard has been federalized. We question if the federal government would permit a state to create its own militia otherwise, under the doctrine that the federal government has pre-empted the field.

Q. Can a state refuse to maintain and support a National Guard? A. We presume a state could refuse, but we rather suspect the federal government would quickly move in with its troops to be sure its supremacy was not questioned.

Act has prohibited such deductions. Congress recognizes the right of petition. It values knowledge thus obtained. Its acts are based on such information. Organized business can defeat the purveyors of socialism -- but only if it will act in concert in its own and its stockholders' best interest.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Guest Columnist Raymond C. Baker is a former newspaperman who writes widely on economic and industrial subjects.)

Some excerpts from the testimony of Earl E. T. Smith, former U.S. ambassador to Cuba, as released by the U.S. Senate subcommittee of the Committee on the Judiciary, Aug. 30, 1960, will dispel all doubts as to the State Department.

"I have been asked many times," said Smith, "what part if any the United States played in the Castro and communist rise to power in Cuba. The U.S. government agencies and the U.S. press played a major role in bringing Castro to power."

When asked by the committee counsel "what agencies of the U.S. government" had a part in that, Smith replied: "certain influential people in the State Department, in the lower echelons of the CIA and representatives of the majority of the U.S. government agencies having anything to do with the embassy." Smith said he was instructed by William Wieland of the State Department to get a "briefing" on Cuba from Herbert Matthews of the New York Times, before going to Cuba as ambassador. This also was approved by Roy Rubottom, then assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs.

Smith testified that, "three front page articles in the N.Y. Times, written by Matthews, served to inflate Castro to world recognition. Until that time he had been just another bandit in the mountains." Much of the American press, said Smith, began to picture Castro as a political Robin Hood. "Certain members of Congress picked up the torch for Castro," asserted Smith. He stressed the point that William Wieland seemed to concur entirely with Matthews. Wieland was formerly a newspaperman in Havana and known as Guillermo Arturo Montenegro.

But the pro-communists were not all in the Washington bureaus, according to Ambassador Smith. "In my own embassy there were ones of influence who were pro-Castro." He then mentioned "John Topping and the chief of the CIA section." Also "The No. 2 CIA man in the embassy had given unwarranted and undue encouragement to Castro's revolutionaries." What has been done to discipline the ones who helped bring Castro to power? Instead of discharging Rubottom, he has been named ambassador to Argentina. Wieland was promoted to a higher position in the State Department.

Roy Rubottom and Wieland, as well as others in the department had known for years that Castro was a communist. Yet they helped him to gain control of Cuba. The result of that in lives and material cost to the United States, is yet to be reckoned. If this record does not bring on a house-cleaning of the State Department -- then what will?

Study Armadillo NEW YORK (UPI) — One study of birth and pregnancy involves a closer look at the nine-banded armadillo, technically known as dasypus novemcinctus.

This native beast of Texas and of certain South American countries is being studied by Dr. Jurt Benirschke, professor of pathology at Dartmouth Medical College. The study is supported by a National Foundation grant.

FORT HOOD, Tex. (AHTNC) — Army Pfc. Maxey R. Doan, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Doan, 416 N. Zimmers, Pampa, recently completed two weeks of amphibious training with other members of the 2nd Armored Division at Little Creek, Va.

Doan was trained in all phases of modern amphibious warfare, including shipboard drills, an orientation to life aboard ship and a tactical landing exercise.

Doan, a driver in the division's 68th Armor which is regularly stationed at Fort Hood, entered the Army in May, 1961.

He attended Pampa High School.

VERONA, Italy (AHTNC) — Army Specialist Four Mickey D. Patterson, son of Mrs. Myrtle J. Patterson, 1029 Huff Rd., Pampa, recently participated in Fallex, a large-scale NATO exercise in Germany. The ten-day exercise ended late in September.

Fallex is an annual exercise designed to test the over-all combat readiness and effectiveness of NATO forces in Europe.

There'll Be Less Shivering Among Women This Winter

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — When the weather's frigid, we women who can't head for California, Florida or some other sunny place usually shiver.

But shivering, even in Maine, won't happen as much this winter as it did last — or so some fashion dictators.

Just in time for lowly temperatures is the dame's edict that spats for a dame are the highest of fashion. Ditto for high-top shoes — some reaching almost to the knees.

But what's most remarkable, the hat makers somehow struck the cover-up note at the same time. It's the greatest of contemporary fashion sense to wear a hat with its own smartly styled scarf to keep ears, neck and chin warm.

Sleeves Long
Shivers are banished further by the fur-lined coats — and it's so warming to note, most of the coats have full-length sleeves. You know, the old-fashioned kind that reach to the wrist.

Heaven knows when there will be a winter when it's so absolutely fashionably correct to face the cold weather perfectly dressed for it.

The sporty knitted hats and fur pull-downs made their debut a few years ago and are still popular for casual wear. (But when they made their debut, coat sleeves started crawling up the arm. Some didn't stop until just below the elbow.)

The dame says it's now also perfectly chic for dressier wear to be seen in the chic hats that keep ears toasty warm via a matched scarf or hood.

Attached Scarves
Most of the scarves, of jersey or lightweight wool, or even sueds are attached to the hat and tie under the chin into a tuck-on ascot or wrap completely around the neck.

Some come in the shape of hood, or baby caps, and the hat is put on over them.

An added attraction of the attached-scarf hats is that a big hat can be worn and cold gusts of wind won't blow it off.

Sombrenos, rollers, bretons, brimmed clouches and large berets in fur or felt come with matching attached scarves.

Satin and velvet evening hats offer graceful hoods to wear under or over the hat.

A few toques and pillboxes come with hoods or scarves that are tied over them, a la Yves St. Laurent.

If bundling has anything to do with fighting off colds, females, at least, will be reaching less frequently for the pill box this winter.
